State Banking Department

TWENTIETH ANNUAL REPORT.

To His Excellency, EMANUEL L. PHILIPP,
Governor of Wisconsin.

Sir: I respectfully submit my annual report on banks of Wisconsin, as provided by section 2024—5 of the statutes, this being the twentieth annual report.

The compilation was made on the basis of the last call for statement, October 31, 1914, and exhibits the financial condition of six hundred and forty-eight state banks, five mutual savings banks, and fourteen trust companies doing business under our state laws on the date mentioned.

State banks and trust companies represent an aggregate capital investment of $21,819,950, and a gain during the twelve month period in capital invested amounting to $656,200. Their total resources are $238,561,733.03 which shows an increase in resources of $8,487,943.51.

My report includes itemized abstracts of the reports of each of the three groups of Wisconsin banking institutions, and in addition that of the national banks of the state.

GENERAL CONDITION.

An analysis of the statements of Wisconsin banks, and a résumé of the work of this department for the year 1914, gives evidence of the industrial depression incident to the European conflict, and the fact that our state banking system was given a severe test. Notwithstanding the unforeseen demands upon the resources of the banks during the latter half of the year, it is encouraging to note that the total resources for the year's period show an increase of $8,487,943.51; that capital investment shows an increase of $656,200, and total deposits a gain of $5,696,715.68.

The weight of the burden borne by the banks is shown in the increase in loans, amounting to $10,822,830.55. Rediscounts and bills payable showed an increase in accordance with the financial stringency, amounting to $1,171,139.46. That the state banks of Wisconsin could not be accused of hoarding their money is shown by the fact that the average reserve at the December 1, 1913, call was 21%, and on October 31, 1914, this average decreased to 19%. The normal average reserve of our state banks is 22%.

In general, it can be said that the state banks of Wisconsin met heavy demands upon their resources during the past year; that conscientious effort was made to take care of the needs of their customers, and that, with one exception, they had liquid assets to meet the situation.

NEW BANKS.

From December 1, 1913, to October 31, 1914, there were twenty-nine new banks authorized to commence business in Wisconsin, with an average capitalization of $16,965. It is significant to note in this connection that of the above number, twenty-three were banks in locations which previously had no home banking facilities.

The list follows:

No.	Location.	Name of Bank.	Capital.
1	Waldo	Waldo State Bank.....	$10,000.00

INCREASE IN CAPITAL.

The value of ample capital in a bank's statement is being recognized each year by a gratifying number of banks which file articles increasing capital stock. I warmly commend this procedure. It is a double addition to depositor's guaranty, an efficient means of inspiring public confidence, and one of the best evidences of the desire of a bank to safeguard the funds of its community. Capital stock has been increased to date of October 31, 1914, as follows:

Location.	Name of Bank.	From	To
Barneveld	Barneveld State Bank.....	$10,000.00	$15,000.00
Cassville	Cassville State Bank.....	10,000.00	20,000.00

CONSOLIDATION AND DISSOLUTION.

The State Bank of Fennimore, with a capital of $50,000, on March 2, 1914, took over the business of the Fennimore Bank. The latter was capitalized at $5,000, and the capital of the State Bank of Fennimore remained unchanged.

The Blanchardville State Bank, on August 31, 1914, filed an amendment to its articles of incorporation whereby its capital was increased from $50,000 to $55,000, and its name changed to Union State Bank. It absorbed the business of the Citizens State Bank of Blanchardville, capital $25,000.

The final dissolution of the Fidelity Trust Company, Milwaukee, capital $100,000, was made June 12, 1914.

NATIONALIZED.

Two state banks, during the past year, have entered the national system,—the Bank of Hudson, under the name of The National Bank of Hudson, capital $50,000,—and the Bank of Prescott, under the name of First National Bank, capital $25,000.

The following is a summary of gain and loss in capital of state banks and trust companies:

Capital, December 1, 1913	$21,163,750.00
Capital, 29 new banks	492,000.00
Capital, 22 banks increased	348,000.00
Capital, 3 banks increased previously, but paid in subsequent to Dec. 1, 1913	21,200.00
	$22,024,950.00
Less capital liquidated.....	$130,000.00
Less capital nationalized.....	75,000.00
	205,000.00
Total capital October 31st, 1914.....	$21,819,950.00

BANK OF CLEAR LAKE REOPENED.

On August 12, 1914, the Bank of Clear Lake resumed business, after being in the hands of this department for a term of three years and seven months.

The suspension of payments by this bank was due to slow assets, consisting of mortgages and of real estate acquired by the bank through foreclosures and in settlement of debts. The policy adopted by the state banking department and the special deputy in charge was constantly to endeavor to conserve the assets and keep the administrative expenses at as low a figure as possible consistent with efficient management.

The total expense of the receivership during this time, under Special Deputy Commissioner Ainsworth, amounted to but $4,812.03. This included the deputy's remuneration, as well as attorney's fees. The latter amounted to but two hundred dollars. There was placed to the credit of undivided profits during the receivership the sum of $9,152.95. Thus, the earnings of the bank from various sources more than paid the cost of administration.

The aggregate amount of proved claims at the time of suspension of payments by this bank amounted to $47,506.41. This figure was reduced to $27,386.10 by the time the bank resumed business.

COMMERCIAL AND SAVINGS BANK OF RACINE.

In Liquidation.

The Commercial and Savings Bank of Racine, now undergoing liquidation, was placed in the hands of this department September 17, 1914.

The suspension of the bank was occasioned by the fact that its assets contained certain pieces of slow and nonbankable paper, which, coincident with the prevailing unsettled industrial conditions, made it necessary to close its doors.

Service to an industrial community constituted the entire business of this bank, and under ordinary circumstances there would probably be no difficulty in liquidating the paper to meet the demands for cash. But with the industries of the community practically at a standstill, the consequent need of funds by the depositors, and inability of the manufacturing concerns to pay their obligations, the bank could not meet the unlooked for demand upon its resources.

It was the original intention of those interested in this institution and myself to reopen its doors. After considerable delay, an assessment of one hundred per cent on the stock was nearly completed. However, public confidence had begun to wane. There appeared to be no representative man available to head the project, and liquidation to meet the immediate needs of the community for funds became necessary.

Examiner A. C. Pond of this department has been appointed special deputy commissioner in charge of the liquidation. We will endeavor to pay a fifty per cent dividend at the expiration of the time for filing claims. The directors of the bank assert that enough good paper is contained in the assets to pay the depositors in full.

CITIZENS SAVINGS AND TRUST COMPANY OF MILWAUKEE.

Liquidation proceedings continue in the affairs of the Citizens Savings and Trust Company, Milwaukee, in charge of this department since October 2, 1913. We have been able to pay a twenty-five per cent dividend to depositors since that date. The assets of this company are slow in working out, and a further reduction of claims is not imminent.

Special Deputy Commissioner A. B. Geilfuss continues to conduct the work of liquidation, and every effort is being made to realize on the assets without sacrifice, as well as to minimize the expense.

DISAPPROVAL DECISION REVERSED.

Under date of March 4, 1914, an application was filed in this department for a second bank at Mosinee, Wisconsin. After a thorough investigation, as provided for in section 2024—6, W. S., I disapproved the application. My decision was based on the fact that Mosinee, with a population of twelve hundred, already had adequate banking facilities in a bank whose capital had increased to $30,000, surplus $15,600, and deposits which had not exceeded $150,000 during the past nine years. Thus, the depositors of this bank were protected in capital investment alone to nearly one-third of their total deposits. Further, it appeared that the new organization would have been dominated by outside interests, and from the information I secured regarding the project, I was convinced that it had all the indications of being a "spite bank," rather than a business proposition impelled by a genuine demand for additional banking facilities. Two of the largest subscribers were, in my opinion, unsafe parties to engage in the banking business, and two banks at Mosinee would obviously result in uneconomic competition.

An appeal was made in this matter, and the board of review, consisting of the governor, secretary of state, and attorney-general reversed my decision on two grounds: first, that it would be unconstitutional to delegate a legislative power to an administrative officer, and, second, that none of the three provisions of section 2024—6 had been violated by the applicants.

I respectfully take exception to this ruling in so far as it usurps the authority of a court of record in passing on the constitutionality of my interpretation of the statute, and depriving me of any discretion in withholding my approval of an application.

To refuse to grant a charter is practically impossible under this decision. In consequence of this action on the part of the board of review, I have considered it incumbent upon me to approve applications for bank charters at several locations where my investigations plainly brought forth the fact that a bank could not exist on a paying basis, and that its opening for business would mean an unsafe financial institution added to our state banking system.

The double liability on the holders of bank stock under section 2024—44 presents another problem to this department in this connection.

My only opportunity for determining whether the financial worth of the stockholders is ample to insure the possible need of collecting an assessment imposed by the above statute is at the time of the initial organization of a bank. Such organization, at least, should exhibit all stockholders to be financially equal to their liability. Subsequently, when the stock transfers take place, it is not possible for this department to prevent any one from holding bank stock. The stock being personal property, under the law the holder is free to transfer title to his shares at will. Therefore, I feel that the proper administration of such valuable provisions as are embodied in section 2024—44 demands that this department be given authority to refuse a bank charter, where it is plainly evident that the prospective stockholder of the bank is not able to meet his liability.

This is a matter which should engage the earnest attention of every adherent to safe banking practice. I am in hopes that the result will be a change in our laws, whereby the incorporation of unnecessary, and, obviously, unsafe banks can be prevented, and, further, that the board of review be composed of men whose offices are not elective.

It is not merely a desire for more authority that moves me to ask that a wider latitude be vested in this department in the matter of refusing bank charters. It is plainly evident to any one who has made a careful analysis of the banking business that there are frequent instances where an additional banking institution is destined to failure, either through the influence of natural surroundings or the type of men wishing to engage in that particular banking business.

LAND MORTGAGE ASSOCIATIONS.

One of the most significant features of the work of this department in 1914 has been the inception of the land mortgage associations, provided by chapter 666 of the statutes.

In my report of last year I outlined the plan of operation of these organizations, which offer a long-term loan made workable by bond issues, the bonds to act as intermediaries between the lender and borrower.

Two associations were given charters this year: The First Wisconsin Land Mortgage Association, Eau Claire, capital $10,000, on January 22nd, 1914, and the State Land Mortgage Association, Marinette, capital $25,000, on May 5th, 1914. Both have placed bond issues on the market, secured by an equal amount in real estate mortgages, deposited in trust with the state treasurer. Additional security is provided by the capital stock of the associations, on which the usual double liability of bank stock is imposed.

Especially promising for the new plan of agricultural credit is the fact that the bonds were sold at a low rate of interest, and were readily disposed of in the face of industrial depression and money stringency, occasioned by the European conflict. At a time when the bond market was practically at a standstill, the land mortgage bonds appeared and found a ready market.

Better credit facilities for the agricultural communities is a topic which is being given nation-wide attention. I believe that we have a practical solution of the question in our land mortgage association act. There remains but to exercise proper administration of the associations' affairs, and the plan inaugurated in Wisconsin will grow into a potent and highly satisfactory aid to the development of the agricultural resources of the state.

There is now invested in the capital stock of the associations the sum of $35,000, and such associations have land mortgage bonds outstanding in the amount of $66,000.

STATISTICAL.

Table B is a comparative abstract exhibiting a year's growth in our banking statements.

Table C presents the abstracts of statements made at annual periods since the creation of this department in 1903. The development of our state banking system during a period of twenty years detailed therein.

STATE BANKING DEPARTMENT.

Record of the activities and expense covering the period of twelve years, from 1903 to 1914, inclusive.

SCHEDULE,

SHOWING THE NUMBER OF BANKS, AND THE AGGREGATE ASSETS OF BANKS,
UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF THE STATE BANKING DEPARTMENT, YEAR
BY YEAR.

Year.	No. of Banks.	Total assets.
1903	347	$90,164,209.11
1904	372	90,459,989.31
1905	390	99,629,048.29
1906	406	114,308,381.52
1907	429	124,323,751.84
1908	450	124,845,425.46
1909	473	140,155,455.87
1910	510	162,125,649.30
1911	573	186,003,546.94
1912	607	209,037,498.52
1913	642	230,073,789.52
1914	667	238,561,733.03

The average size of a bank's business has considerably increased, and many examinations which in former years required but one day now require two or three days' work. This growth for the past five years is shown by the following figures:

Average bank deposits now	$310,371.48
Average bank deposits in 1909.....	251,888.93
Average increase	$58,482.55
Average bank capitalization now.....	$32,771.00
Average bank capitalization in 1909.....	29,501.00
Average increase	$3,270.00

The efforts of this department are directed along lines which will efficiently regulate and safeguard our state banking system, and the work represents a steadily increasing task.

There reflects in the growing demand for banking facilities the development of the wealth of our state. State banks in Wisconsin are increasing at the rate of thirty-five banks per year. There are between thirty and forty banks continually in the process of organization.

The activity of this department is confined solely to the work designated by our banking laws, and no untried and expensive schemes are propagated. Our methods of supervision are along lines similar to the supervision exercised by our federal banking system—methods which are the result of years of experience in the supervision of the banking business. Plainly evident in our work is the necessity for supervision which is free and unrestricted by political influence.

The scope of this department was increased by the passage of sections 2024—100-140, inclusive, in 1913, creating land mortgage associations. Two such corporations are now under this department, and others are in the process of organization. Their operations require further examinations, as well as an increasing amount of office supervision and clerical detail on our part, pertaining to their deposits of securities and bond issues. Outside of our departmental routine, we are required to investigate the financial standing of bondsmen who sign bonds guaranteeing the deposits of state funds in Wisconsin banks. About fifty lists of bondsmen of state depositories have been reported on by our examiners the past year.

The building and loan associations, also under the control of this department, now number seventy, and they are examined at least once a year. Such examinations, properly made, require considerable time, and the work of one examiner is devoted exclusively to those corporations. Their operations have been very successful in Wisconsin, due in part to the care which we exercise in supervising the conduct of their affairs.

The Mutual Building and Loan Association of Appleton, owing to the embezzlement by a former secretary, has been undergoing liquidation by this department since October 17, 1913. I feel certain that eventually its members will be paid in full. Aside from this proceeding, there has not been a failure of a building and loan association in Wisconsin in sixteen years.

The banking department represented a net cost of but $13,-184.22 to the state during 1914. This amount is but $37.62 in excess of the net cost the previous year. The total operating expense was $44,737.99, and the amount of $31,553.77 was borne by the banks through annual examination fees, filing fees, and miscellaneous sources of revenue. The average net cost annually of this department to the state for the past twelve years has been $11,855.91.

In order to retain competent men in the service of the department, I have found it necessary to make yearly increases in the salaries of examiners, salaries being graded according to term of service. There are two examiners being paid $2,400 annually, three at $2,200, three at $2,000, and one at $1,800.

Unsettled industrial conditions are quickly evident in our bank reports, and present conditions demand the utmost vigilance on the part of this department. I anticipate that the year 1915 will require additional examiners on our force in order that the work may not suffer by undue haste.
