ALBANY, N. Y.

April 6th, 1936.

THE HONORABLE PHILIP F. LA FOLLETTE,
Governor of Wisconsin,
Madison, Wisconsin.

Dear Sir: To improve the conditions of state banks, to give each community as adequate banking facilities as is practical, to consolidate banks if to the best interest of the depositors, and to obtain for each bank sufficient earnings to pay its overhead and build a reserve for possible losses has been the aim of the Banking Review Board in 1935.

Your Board worked with the members of the Banking Commission in drafting legislation which would achieve this goal, and that our plans met with the approval of the public is evidenced by the passage of most of the bills in their original forms by both houses of the Legislature.

In the discretion of the Banking Commission it was deemed necessary to further reduce the maximum interest rate payable on time deposits. On May 27, 1935 with the approval of this Board, an order was issued to each state bank, mutual savings bank and trust company bank notifying them of the uniform rule for a maximum rate of two per cent per annum on all time deposits after July 1, 1935. With reduced earnings on investments, a bank must be allowed a small percentage of margin for overhead.

There are many banks throughout the State which have already established reasonable service charges for the collection and handling of items and accounts. There are some banks which are reluctant to install charges for such services. The Banking Commission late in the year began a survey of costs for different classes of banks and recently submitted a report of their findings to this Board for our study and consideration.

On July 1, 1935 at the expiration of temporary permits for receiving stations and upon passage of a new law, we passed upon applications for continuance of stations already functioning together with a number of additional requests. During the period between July 1, 1935 and December 31, 1935 permits were granted for 57 paying and receiving stations. These stations afford banking conveniences to the public in communities in which a bank cannot operate profitably.

Extensive hearings were held in the matter of the appeal from the decision of the Banking Commission placing the Anchor State Bank of West Milwaukee in liquidation. The decision of this Board upholding the action of the Commission was appealed, but was affirmed by the Circuit Court.

Hearings were held under Section 221.205 of the statutes regarding the removal of bank officers and under Section 221.01 (6) relative to the granting of bank charters.

The Banking Review Board held 30 meetings during 1935 and is in close touch with the condition of the state banks of Wisconsin and with the liquidation of the assets in closed banks and segregated trusts.

With a reduced interest rate commensurate with the times, with nominal service charges, and with the close supervision that each bank and bank officer is accorded by the Banking Commission, the banks of the State should continue to reflect a healthy condition.

Respectfully submitted,

BANKING REVIEW BOARD,

H. A. VON OVEN,
Chairman.
