REVIEW OF AUGUST—COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL EVENTS.

In a large sense the two conspicuous events during August were unquestionably the action of the Federal Reserve Board at Washington in sanctioning an increase from 5% to 6% in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, and the Conference of the Great Powers at The Hague for action on the Young Plan for the settlement of German reparations payments as agreed upon by the Committee of Experts and signed on June 7. The increase in the rediscount rate, or rather the announcement that such an increase had been agreed upon, came after the close of business on Thursday, August 8, and was decidedly a surprise, by reason of which it proved vastly more disturbing than would otherwise have been the case. Indeed, there was no reason why it should have been disturbing at all, as calmer consideration quickly showed, inasmuch as marking up the rate meant nothing more than bringing it in line with conditions in the money market which had long prevailed but conformity to which was only now being made. It was not providing a new condition of tension in the money market or the credit situation, but recognizing a condition of extreme tension already existing and which the Reserve authorities themselves had been endeavoring to control, without success, by other means, hoping to avoid resort to this further increase in rediscount rates.

The day which brought news of this increase in the New York Reserve rediscount rate, really brought a double surprise to the banking and financial world. The Bank of England, which it was supposed would as an absolute certainty advance its rate on the day mentioned, raising it from 5½% to 6½%, as assumed, left its rate unaltered at the lower figure, while on the other hand the rediscount rate of the New York Reserve Bank, in which no change had been looked for anywhere, quite unexpectedly, as already stated, was marked up from 5% to 6%, the higher rate becoming effective the next day, Friday, August 10. It should be clearly understood that the reason why no rise in the rate of the New York Reserve Bank was expected was not that such action seemed unwarranted—quite the contrary, as already indicated—but because a belief had grown up that it was the settled policy of the Reserve Board at Washington not to permit the advance.

Only the previous May both the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago made repeated applications for permission to raise their rates, but the Reserve Board resolutely refused to grant the necessary permission. On May 21 even the Federal Advisory Council, which is supposed to act in an advisory capacity to the Reserve Board, had recommended an advance without success. In the interval subsequent to this, utterances in political circles supposed to be in close touch with Reserve officials and utterances of one kind or another from the Reserve authorities themselves had been so uniformly adverse to the proposal that belief that there would be no increase had grown into a positive conviction, it being felt that as a matter of general policy and for other reasons the Board was determined to hold the rate down to 5% no matter what happened.

So pronounced had this belief become that representatives of the press, always keen to watch for announcement of a change at the weekly meetings of the Directors of the New York Reserve Bank, held on Thursday afternoons, had ceased any longer to bother about the matter, and some of them were not even present or represented on the Thursday when the announcement of the advance finally came. Those that were present were incredulous and, being unwilling to trust their ears, asked that the announcement be repeated so as to guard against any mistake. They had been met week after week with such undeviating regularity by the laconic statement "no change" that they had given up thinking there would be or could be any change.

If local accounts are to be believed the directors of the New York Reserve Bank were as surprised as the rest of the banking and financial community that the Reserve Board should at last have permitted the increase, and the news came to them as unexpectedly as it did to every one else. A whimsical story in the "Evening World" for Aug. 7, tells in amusing language how surprised the New York Reserve directors were at the news. The story was reprinted in full in the "Financial Chronicle" for Aug. 24, page 1186, and there is room here only to quote the few sentences directly relating to what is supposed to have happened when word came that the advance desired could be made. The following gives the substance of the "Evening World's" story:

"Men close to the workings of the Federal Reserve are having a good, quiet laugh to-day as they tell how the rediscount rate was boosted here to 6% from 5%. And according to these stories the laugh is on the Directors of the local Federal Reserve Bank, mostly bankers.

"Now last week was not the first time the New York Reserve Bank had requested a 6% rate, pleading many dire evils if the rate were not increased. Previously it had been denied. The Board was against the boost. According to those who tell the story from an inside source, the Directors of the Reserve Bank here had no idea the request would be granted. But they sent it along as a matter of course to keep clear the record that they held a 6% rate was necessary. When the request was received again in Washington the members said in effect:

"Oh, here's that old request again. Well, why not let the New York Bank have a 6% rate? It can't do any harm, and, temporarily, it may do some good. Sure, let 'em have it, but they will have to go it alone."

"And so, suddenly, and without warning, immediately after the market closed the announcement was made, and, according to the views of those who tell the story:

"You could have knocked the Directors of the Reserve Bank here over with a feather. They were so surprised."

"It might be remarked also that 'you could have knocked many traders over with a feather,' too, and the next morning brokers' offices were piled high with orders to sell."

Before advertent to the effects, or rather the lack of effects (beyond the temporary break in the stock market), which attended the advance in the New York Reserve rediscount rate, it is essential to state that the action of the Reserve authorities was not limited to the single thing of this advance in the rediscount rate. The advance in the rate was accompanied by another and, in the long run, perhaps even more important step. Moved no doubt by a desire to aid the agricultural and the mercantile world, announcement came simultaneously that the Reserve Bank buying rate for acceptances would be reduced from $5\frac{1}{4}\%$ to $5\frac{1}{8}\%$. The significance of this twofold step of advancing the rediscount rate while lowering the rate at which the Reserve Banks would discount purchases of acceptances made in the open market was not generally perceived at the time. It meant, however, reverting back to the old policy of granting a preferential rate on acceptances and which policy had been abandoned with the opening of 1929, when the Reserve Banks all at once stopped giving support to the acceptance market and began reducing their acceptance holdings by the hundreds of millions. The extent to which the scaling down of acceptance holdings was carried will appear when we say that as against \$494,323,000 Dec. 12 1928, the total of the holdings of the 12 Reserve Banks July 10 1929 was down to \$65,976,000. When mention is made of the "buying" rate for acceptances being $5\frac{1}{8}\%$, this means that the Reserve Banks in their open market purchases stand ready to discount any acceptances at that rate of discount. Before the advance in the New York rediscount rate the buying rate for acceptances at $5\frac{1}{4}\%$ stood $\frac{1}{4}\%$ above the discount rate. Accordingly, there was no preference. On the other hand, with the Reserve discount rate up to 6% and the buying rate down to $5\frac{1}{8}\%$, a preference of $\frac{7}{8}$ of 1% in favor of acceptances was created. That was the significant, the important, point of the double-barreled action. Obviously the purpose was to accommodate trade at a lower rate than the charge made for rediscounting bills for the member banks, which discounts may be secured by the pledge of United States Government securities as well as of mercantile paper.

But as shown in our review of the money market for the month further along in this article, the scheme did not work out in quite the way intended, inasmuch as money on call on the Stock Exchange actually became easier following the twofold action of the Reserve Bank, thereby promoting Stock Exchange activities and furnishing the basis for the great further expansion in brokers' loans which occurred, while at the same time open market rates for acceptances, at least for the longer maturities, the latter part of the month, moved higher, notwithstanding the action of the Reserve authorities in reducing their buying rate for acceptances.

The Reserve authorities, however well intended their action, overlooked the important point that in buying acceptances, especially at reduced rates, the Reserve Banks are as surely assisting the diversion of credit into speculative channels as if they extended direct aid to the member banks for that very purpose. To the extent to which the member banks create additional acceptances (and preferential rates for acceptances encourages that very thing) and are able to dispose of them, member banks obtain a release of funds which would have been necessary to finance the mercantile and agricultural community in the ordinary way, and the funds thus released become available for other uses, which other uses in this instance unfortunately happened to be loaning on Stock Exchange collateral. In addition to all of which the Reserve Banks, in buying acceptances as in buying United States Government securities, are releasing Reserve credit, which latter itself is always an inflationary measure on which speculation of every character and description feeds. Of course the lowering of the buying rate for acceptances, implied that the Reserve Banks would resume the buying of acceptances—perhaps not in the free and open handed way in which they had done in the Autumn of 1928 and in previous years, when it was the policy to buy all the acceptances that might be offered to them, but at all events on a considerable scale. And that is precisely what happened. As already stated, the acceptance holdings of the 12 Reserve institutions were reduced from $494,323,000 December 12 1928 to $65,976,000 July 10 1929. From this last mentioned date there was an increase during July, that is to July 31, to $74,567,000, and during August there was a further increase to $156,514,000 August 28.

The acceptance market is discussed at length in the proper place in the latter part of this article, but it may be noted here that the outcome of the new policy (or rather the reversion to the former policy) was that given the opportunity to create acceptances at a lower rate, and with the Federal Reserve Banks once more a ready purchaser, the member banks did not fail to avail of the opportunity, and this had the effect of causing congestion in the acceptance market with the result that open market rates for acceptances of the longer maturities had to be raised to higher figures in order to tempt investment buying (the Federal Reserve Banks buying only acceptances of the shorter maturities, those running for 90 days or less), while, on the other hand, the member banks by creating acceptances obtained a release of the funds which would have been required to finance mercantile needs in the ordinary way. Quite evidently the funds so released could be employed either in reducing member bank discounts with the Reserve Banks, and this was done in a moderate way, or in extending new facilities for Stock Exchange borrowing. That this latter was done in no uncertain way appears from the further huge expansion in brokers' loans which occurred in the last two weeks of the month, as related in the proper place later on in this article, though it is also to be noted that the monthly review of the New York Federal Reserve Bank is authority for the statement that there was coincidentally "an inflow of more than $100,000,000 to New York from other districts." This statement is quoted more at length in our review of the money market on subsequent pages.

As to the omission of the Bank of England to raise its discount rate, the reason why an advance was especially looked for on the day when the Federal Reserve Bank of New York received authority to take the step narrated above, was that it seemed a point had been reached in the reduction of the gold holdings of the Bank where such action appeared inevitable. The Bank had in its statement for the previous week (of date July 31) shown a further loss of gold in amount of £8,089,914, reducing the total of its gold holdings to £142,610,244, whereas it had been generally assumed that £150,000,000 must be considered the minimum figure under ordinary circumstances, or at least the Cunliffe Committee had suggested this as a proper minimum. Another reason for thinking that there would be a rise in the Bank of England rate was that Montagu Norman, the Governor of the Bank of England, after a sojourn here of about a month, had the previous week taken passage for England, and it was recalled that his return after a visit here the previous February had been followed by an advance in the Bank of England rate from $4\frac{1}{2}\%$ to $5\frac{1}{2}\%$.

In these circumstances, with the Bank again suffering a heavy drain on its stock of gold, a similar step now in still further raising the rate seemed natural. It was known here early in the day of August 8 that the Bank of England rate had been left unaltered, notwithstanding the Bank's return for the week ending August 7 had shown a further loss in gold of £1,178,861, thereby pulling the gold holdings down to £141,431,583. The Reserve Board did not meet until the afternoon of that day, and therefore in sanctioning the rise in the New York Reserve rate acted with knowledge that the Bank of England rate was being maintained at $5\frac{1}{2}\%$.

With the New York Reserve rate raised to 6% the situation of the Bank of England became increasingly difficult, if it be assumed that the Federal Reserve discount rates play any part in influencing the international flow of funds which may well be doubted, seeing that these Reserve rates have been completely out of line with money market conditions for so long a time. With the Bank of England rate $5\frac{1}{2}\%$ and the Reserve discount rate only 5%, the former was $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1% higher, thereby favoring the flow of funds to London, whereas with the New York Reserve discount rate up to 6% and the Bank of England rate being maintained at $5\frac{1}{2}\%$, the rate at this end was $\frac{1}{2}\%$ higher, favoring the flow of funds this way, other things being the same. As a matter of fact, however, the Reserve Bank rate in this country does not carry the weight and significance that central bank rates do on the other side. In the United States it is the Stock Exchange call loan rate which attracts funds from Europe, and this call loan rate has for months been ruling all the way from 7% to 15%, and even 20%; in other words, far above central bank rates in both countries. Still, with the New York Reserve Bank rate up to 6%, it was now taken for granted that the Bank of England would be prompted to make an immediate advance in its own rate, perhaps the very next day (August 9) when the higher New York Reserve rate became effective. But, according to cable advices, Governor Norman went out of his way to announce on that day, Aug. 9, there would be no change, quite unexpectedly coming out to meet newspaper representatives and making to them a statement to that effect. Rumors now again gained currency that the Bank of England would obtain, or had obtained, a large credit from the Federal Reserve Banks, and a definite figure was now given of the amount of such credit, namely \$250,000,000. It was stated that this arrangement or understanding was in such shape that it could be closed on 24 hours' notice. The New York "Times," however, which had given currency to the rumor, quoted Governor Norman, in a cable dispatch from London, dated August 15, as denying any knowledge of any credit for £50,000,000 or any other amount, while the "Wall Street News" on August 16 published a dispatch from its Washington correspondent, dated August 15, even more emphatically denying the whole story, and saying: "There is absolutely no foundation for the report in to-day's papers that a fund of \$250,000,000 is on hand or will be made available for loans to the Bank of England, Governor Young of the Federal Reserve Board declared to-day, following conclusion of the meeting of the Board. The Governor said that, regularly, twice a week, he is forced to deny that any loan is contemplated to the Bank of England, and that such denial also has been made by the Secretary of the Treasury." It only remains to be added that the drain on the Bank of England continued and its stock of gold kept steadily diminishing week by week, and by August 28 was down to £137,633,677 without bringing any advance in the Bank's discount rate.

As to the conference at The Hague, Holland, this began on Tuesday, August 6, and was a momentous affair. It was called for the placing into effect of the new plan of German reparations payments as agreed upon by the Committee of Experts after long deliberation, and signed at Paris June 7. Originally it was supposed that this Conference of ten European countries, along with Germany, would be a mere perfunctory affair, simply registering approval of what the experts had done in preparing the Young Plan of German payments. It quickly appeared that this was a mistake, and especially that Great Britain, speaking through the new Labor Ministry, which took the seals of office on June 8, the day after the experts had signed their report, was not at all satisfied with the way in which Great Britain had been treated under the plan, and demanded rearrangement of the allocations to the different countries among which the reparations payments were to be made, so as to insure larger and more certain payments to Great Britain. This provoked a feeling of the greatest bitterness, and for a period of fully three weeks it seemed time and again as if the conference would break up without result. Only the conciliatory spirit and the masterful handling of the situation by M. Briand and the concessions he made on behalf of France prevented such a deplorable outcome. Concessions and sacrifices had also to be made by the other creditor countries, and likewise some concessions by Germany. The result was that Great Britain eventually got the greater part of its demands.

A session of the creditor powers that was destined to end in success was begun August 27, and it continued until the small hours of August 28. Final agreement among the creditor powers was reached at this meeting, but since some minor adjustments were included in the proposed settlement which required the consent of the German delegates, these also were called into the conference at 1 o'clock, August 28. At 1:20 A. M. an official British statement was issued to the effect that the other creditor powers had agreed that by adjustments within the Young Plan, subject to the consent of Germany, they would find for Britain 40,000,000 marks annually of the 48,000,000 marks additional demanded by Mr. Snowden. Of this amount 36,000,000 marks is to be guaranteed by the other creditor powers. "Mr. Snowden," it was remarked in a dispatch to the New York "Times," "thus receives more than 80% satisfaction, as compared with the 60% involved in the offer he rejected yesterday." On the unconditional annuities, this report continued, it was agreed Britain should receive 92,000,000 marks, whereas under the Young Plan she received practically no unconditional payments. This was made possible by rearrangement of the German payments. It was further announced that, in addition to an agreement that payments in kind were in no case to last more than ten years longer, the Italian State Railways agreed to buy 1,000,000 tons of coal annually from Britain for three years at the highest British export market prices. "The method by which the extra money is to be found to meet Mr. Snowden's demands is most simple," the "Times" dispatch said. "Germany will pay on the first of every month instead of the fifteenth. This will make the difference out of which the other creditor powers undertake the British shall get 40,000,000 marks more yearly." The meeting was adjourned at 2 o'clock on the morning of August 28, and at 2:30 the Germans announced that they would accept the sacrifices asked of them if the French would give satisfactory assurances of evacuation of the Rhine at a meeting to be held later the same morning. In return for moving up the payments under the Young Plan for fifteen days, Germany secured the satisfaction of paying only the Young Plan annuities as from September 1, although the plan will not be ready to operate in all respects on that date.

The trade situation in the United States continued in the highest degree favorable, and particularly was this true of the iron and steel trades. The seasonal recession customary during the Summer months was almost entirely absent. Some evidence of recession did appear during August, but hardly enough to count for much, and still leaving activity on a far greater scale than in the corresponding period of 1928. The "Iron Age," in its issue for August 29, stated that "reduced mill operations in rails, tin plate, merchant and alloy steel bars, and strip steel are offset to some extent by continued large output of other products, notably plates, structural material and sheets." It added that the larger producers, including the U. S. Steel Corporation, and at least two of the leading independents, having diversified lines, were still maintaining ingot output at 90 to 95% of capacity, while some of the smaller companies averaged about 85%. Automobile production in July did not prove as large as in the month immediately preceding, but the output of motor vehicles in the United States for the month, nevertheless, reached 500,331 against 392,086 in July last year. Indications were that the automobile output in August would be slightly larger than in July. Nevertheless, steel orders from the motor car builders increased very slowly during August. The "Iron Trade Review" of Cleveland, in its issue for August 29, said that steel was nearing the close of an unusually active mid-Summer season, with moderate declines in sales, production and shipments—a breathing space between the peaks attained a few weeks before and an Autumn revival, signs of which were beginning to appear. New business was declining slowly, while relatively high for the season and substantially above that of the same period in 1928. The "Iron Age" made the composite price of finished steel, August 27, 2.398c. a pound as compared with 2.41c. a month previously. The composite price of pig iron was $18.25 a gross ton, as compared with $18.38 a month previously. In its issue of September 5, the "Age" reported the make of iron for the month of August at 3,755,680 tons as against 3,136,570 tons in August 1928 and 2,947,276 tons in August 1927. Figures of steel production for August are not yet available, but for July the output of steel ingots in the United States aggregated 4,838,093 tons, against only 3,805,598 in July 1928.

In the case of the non-ferrous metals, a good demand for copper developed on both domestic and foreign account, and prices were well maintained. Lake copper ruling unchanged throughout the month at 18½c., and electrolytic copper at 17¾c. Nor was there any change in the price of lead at New York after the reduction during July from 6.90 to 6.75c. Tin at New York again ruled lower. The quotation August 1 and August 2 was 47½c., and from this there was an advance to 47¼c. on August 5, but by August 27 there had been a decline to 46½c.; the price August 31 was 46¼c. In the case of petroleum and its products, there were some unfavorable developments, all arising out of the excessive production of crude oil. On August 1 a general reduction of 25c. a barrel in all grades of Pennsylvania crude oil occurred. On August 16 a further cut of from 25 to 30c. a barrel was announced in several grades of Pennsylvania crude oil, and on August 30 reductions of from 1c. to 3c. were made in the price of gasoline in the New York area by the Standard Oil Co. of New York. The action of the Standard of New York followed a period of uncertainty in the trade with prices easy and buyers wary. The invasion of this territory by Shell Union and other producing units, as well as the volume of California gasoline which has been absorbed in the East Coast markets, served to bring about a highly competitive market. This cut is said to have been the biggest made by the Standard of New York in four years. The company ordinarily limits its cuts to 2c. a gallon. On August 7 the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio announced a reduction of 2c. a gallon in gasoline, service station, and a reduction of 1c. a gallon in tank wagon gasoline, both reductions effective in Montgomery County, including Dayton, and in Jefferson County, including Steubenville.

In the textile trades curtailment of production brought an improvement in those lines of cotton goods suffering from overproduction, besides which a rise in raw cotton strengthened the price situation, in addition to which the settlement of the great cotton goods strike at Lancashire, in Great Britain, proved a favoring element. Cable advices, August 15, announced that after sessions lasting all day the joint meeting of the representatives of employers and employees in the Manchester cotton industry an agreement had been reached late that night which would enable the mills to be started the following Monday, August 19. By the terms of the settlement the old wage was to be paid pending the decision of the arbitrators, by which both sides agreed to abide. Much of the credit for the settlement was given to Sir Horace Wilson, permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Labor, who had been working night and day steering the contending forces together. An interview which Prime Minister MacDonald had with representatives of the employers is also believed to have played an important part in bringing about a better atmosphere. It did not take the Arbitration Board long to reach a conclusion. The Board began its deliberations on August 21, and on August 23 Associated Press advices from Manchester stated that the Lancashire cotton-mill workers had been asked to accept a reduction of 6.41% in their wages. All the five members of the Board agreed that the cotton industry was in an exceedingly depressed condition, needing an immediate palliative, though they were not sure that a wage reduction was the proper cure for the depression. The employers had asked for a reduction of 25% on the standard piece price list, which would have meant 12½% on the current rates of wages paid to more than 500,000 workers. The Arbitration Board decided to award a 12½% reduction on the standard list, which is figured as being about 6.41% reduction in actual wages.

The price of cotton in this country fluctuated irregularly from day to day, due to the varying prospects regarding the growing cotton crop in the United States. During the first ten days of August the trend of prices was strongly downward, and it is to be noted that the Department of Agriculture at Washington, in its report issued August 8, estimated the probable yield of lint cotton at 15,543,000 500-lb. bales, as against an actual production in 1928 of 14,478,000 bales; in 1927 of 12,955,000 bales and in 1926 of 17,977,000 bales. This was in excess of current estimates, and accordingly the price of middling upland spot cotton in New York on August 10 was down to 17.95c. from 19.20c. on August 1. The latter part of the month, however, sharp recovery ensued and accordingly the spot price on August 31 was up to 19.35c. The indications seemed to point to serious deterioration of the growing crop, especially West of the Mississippi River, in Oklahoma and Texas, on account of continued drought, more particularly over the greater part of Texas. Plants were said to be wilting during the day, with much shedding and premature opening in the dryer areas, though the crop was thought to be making good progress in extreme Western and parts of Northwestern Texas. The United States Census Bureau in its monthly report, issued August 15, showed that cotton consumption in this country was being maintained at high figures. For the month of July the amount of cotton consumed in the United States was reported at 546,457 bales of lint and 79,297 bales of linters, as against 570,281 bales of lint and 78,154 bales of linters in June, but comparing with only 439,821 bales of lint and 65,279 bales of linters in July 1928. The Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York in its monthly report, made public August 8, showed that production during the four weeks of July had amounted to 234,439,000 yards, representing a decrease of more than 20% from the June production. Sales during July were 262,889,000 yards, equivalent to 112.1% of production. Shipments amounted to 252,779,000 yards, or 107.8% of production. Stocks on hand at the end of the month amounted to 382,920,000 yards, representing a decrease of 4.6% during the month. Unfilled orders on July 31 were 368,858,000 yards, representing an increase of 2.8% during the month. Stocks on hand July 31 1929 represented a decrease of 17.3% compared with the same date in 1928, while unfilled orders represented an increase of 35.5% compared with 1928. It was pointed out that on July 31 1928 stocks on hand exceeded unfilled orders by nearly three and one-half weeks' production, whereas on July 31 1929 this excess had been cut to one-quarter of a week's production at the current rate. Print cloths at Fall River for 28-inch 64x60 were further advanced on August 16 from 5½c. per yard to 5½c.

In the woolen goods trade the feature was the opening on August 26 by the American Woolen Co. of the Spring 1930 lines of men's wear suitings. Prices were about 2½ to 3% below those for the previous season. The reductions were considered moderate and in line with market opinion, said the New York "Journal of Commerce," the trade believing that the decline in raw wool values would not profitably permit markdowns of more than 3% on woolen and worsted fabrics. The majority of the worsted fabrics priced at $2.50 and up showed reductions ranging from 5c. to 7½c., and a few were marked down 10c. Worsteds at $2.50 and under for the most part were 5 to 7½c. under the previous season's quotations, while a few numbers were reduced 8c. Many of the woolen suitings and topcoatings showed reductions ranging from 3c. to 5c., but a number remained unchanged. Prices of silk goods were not altogether satisfactory, but curtailment of production was expected to help matters. It was estimated that a considerable percentage of the silk mills would shut down for more or less extended periods beginning with the Labor Day holiday. Buying of raw silk was on a hand-to-mouth basis the latter part of the month, but there was considerable activity earlier in the month with the effect of raising prices to a higher level. Japanese double extra 13-15 deniers were quoted at $5.10@5.15 August 31 against $4.90@4.95 July 31; $4.85@5 June 29; $4.75@4.80 May 31; $5.15@5.30 April 30; $5.05 March 31, and $5.10@5.15 February 28. In the 20-22 deniers Japanese crack double extra were $4.90@4.95 August 31, against $4.80 July 31; $4.75@4.80 June 29, and the same May 31; $5.15@5.20 April 30; $5.00@5.05 March 31, and $5.15@5.20 on February 28. Crude rubber again tended lower, though with some recovery at the close. Ribbed smoked sheets for spot delivery on the New York market were 20¼@20½c. August 31, against 21c.

bid and 21½c. asked July 31; 20%@20% June 29; 21½@21% May 31; 19%@19¼ April 30; 22%@23½ March 30; 26¼@26½ February 28; 22½@22%c. January 21, and 18@18¼c. on December 31 1928.

Grain prices suffered a sharp reduction during August, after the huge advances during June and July. This was not because of any improvement in the outlook for the growing crops, especially in the case of Spring wheat in the American Northwest and in Canada, but mainly because it was believed that the speculative rise had been overdone. In the case of Canada, too, the Bank of Montreal in its summary of business conditions, issued August 22, while stating that further deterioration of Prairie Province crops had occurred and that it was probable that the Canadian wheat yield would not greatly exceed 250,000,000 bushels or less than half the size of the 1928 crop, added the observation that there was a carryover from the Canadian crop of 1928 of 118,000,000 bushels of wheat. The United States Agricultural Bureau report on the condition of crops in this country, issued on August 9, bore out estimates of serious deterioration during the month in the case of both Winter wheat and Spring wheat. The probable production of Winter wheat was put at 568,233,000 bushels, according to the indications on August 1, which compared with the Department's estimate of 582,492,000 bushels a month earlier and with 622,148,000 bushels the estimate on June 1, and with 578,133,000 bushels harvested in 1928. The probable production of Spring wheat, other than durum, was put at only 156,389,000 bushels as against 231,288,000 bushels harvested the previous year and a five-year average of 200,423,000 bushels. Condition on August 1 was reported at only 56.2% of normal compared with 74.4% on July 1, and an average August 1 condition of 72.4%. The probable production of durum wheat was put at only 49,263,000 bushels against 92,770,000 bushels harvested in 1928. For durum wheat and other Spring wheat combined indications pointed to a crop of only 205,000,000 bushels, as against 324,000,000 bushels harvested in 1928. For Spring wheat and Winter wheat together the estimate was for a total crop in this country of 774,000,000 bushels, as against 902,000,000 bushels harvested in 1928. In the case of corn, the forecast was of a crop of 2,740,514,000 bushels the present year, against 2,835,678,000 bushels harvested in 1928, and the oats crop was estimated at 1,202,895,000 bushels, against 1,448,677,000 bushels.

While grain prices suffered sharp decline and the general trend was strongly downward, the fluctuations were wide and there were at times sharp upward reactions. Thus the September option for wheat in Chicago, after tumbling from $1.48¼ August 1 to $1.31¼ August 6, was back to $1.42½ August 17, only to suffer a renewed decline, which carried the price down to $1.29 August 29, with the close August 31 at $1.34. Similarly the December wheat option at Chicago fell from $1.55½ August 1 to $1.37½ August 14, but was back to $1.50½ August 19, after which there came a drop to $1.38¼ August 29, with the close August 31 at $1.43%. Corn and oats went through similar gyrations, though not quite so wide in extent. The September corn option in Chicago declined from $1.06¼ August 1 to 97½c. August 6, then recovered to $1.04½ August 9, dropped again to 97½c. August 13, was back to $1.05 August 17, touched 99½c. August 26, and closed at $1.03 August 31. The fluctuations in the December corn option were of similar character and the close August 31 was at $1.00½ as against $1.04¼ on August 1. The extremes for September oats in Chicago were 53c. August 1 and 45c. August 14, with the close August 31 at 48¼c. The extremes for December oats at Chicago were 57½c. August 1, and 49½c. August 14, with the close August 31, 53½c. There was no great change in coffee prices during August, and No. 7 Rio was quoted August 31 at 16¼@16½c. against 16@16¼c. July 31; 16¾c. Saturday, June 29; 16¼@17c. May 31; 17½c. April 30; 17¼c. March 30; 18¼@18½c. February 28, and the same at the end of January and the end of December.

Sugar showed no change during the month in the wholesale price of refined sugar at New York, all the leading refineries continuing to quote 5.50c., with the Spreckels Sugar Corp. reporting a range of 5.50@5.55c. Cuban raw sugar, however, was subject to considerable fluctuations. As against 2½c. July 31, the price declined to 2c. August 12, recovered to 2½c. August 16, was back to 2c. August 21, up again to 2 1/16c. August 27, back to 2c. August 28, with the last sale August 29 at 2 1/16c. It was reported on August 21 that the joint foreign sales syndicate formed several months ago to dispose of about 900,000 tons of Cuban sugar to markets other than the United States had been dissolved. Approximately 280,000 tons of sugar of the original allotment, it was stated, remained unsold. The New York "Times," in its issue of August 22, said that the dissolution of the syndicate had been expected by the sugar trade, following the recent decree of President Machado establishing a single selling agency to dispose of all Cuban sugar. The new agency is to become operative Sept. 1, and it was explained by sugar authorities that with its advent, the joint foreign syndicate would necessarily be obliged to wind up its affairs. According to the decree of President Machado, effective August 31, all unsold sugar out of the remainder of the old crop and sugars from coming crop must be handled by a selling agency created under said decree, nominally The Co-operative Export Agency.

NEW SECURITY ISSUES AND DIVIDENDS IN AUGUST.

Foreign government securities offered in the domestic market during August continued on a diminutive scale. The following table includes all of the foreign security issues brought out in this country during August.

THE STOCK MARKET DURING AUGUST 1929.

The stock market went through a remarkable experience during the month of August, an experience which has had few, if any, parallels in Stock Exchange history. The one great event of the month was the news which came after the close of business on Thursday, August 8, that the Federal Reserve Bank of New York had increased, or rather had been permitted to increase, its rediscount rate from 5% to 6%, the higher rate becoming effective the next day, Friday, August 9. This had as its first effect a complete undoing of the stock market, an avalanche of selling orders coming into the market from all over the country, and prices declining in most violent fashion. But the collapse lasted for only a single day. Then it began to be realized that the rise in the Reserve rediscount rate had no such significance as had been feared, and when that dawned upon the speculative community the whole course of the market changed and it entered upon a new bull movement which in its unrestrained buoyancy and continued upward surge, maintained day after day and week after week, must be considered as having never previously been surpassed even during the hectic period of rising prices which has marked the course of stock speculation in all recent years. Just previous to the advance in the Reserve Bank rate the course of the stock market was a little irregular, prices getting somewhat unsteady and the market becoming increasingly responsive to the oft recurring periods of high rates for call loans, which the bear contingent invariably availed of as expedients for making drives against the market, under the influence of which prices always yielded in larger or smaller degree. The rise in the Reserve rate came, as narrated elsewhere, unexpectedly without pre-announcement of any kind, and dealers therefore were wholly unprepared for it. Three or four months before it had been looked for, week after week, but now was no longer regarded as a probability. The matter had been completely dismissed from the mind of the ordinary trader, the whole thing being looked upon as a closed book. Nevertheless, tension in the money market was an element of great importance in Stock Exchange speculation, not so much the high call loan rates themselves as the fact that these high rates reflected the constantly growing demand for credit with which to continue the speculation, a fact also to which the prodigious expansion in brokers' loans on an ever increasing scale testified.

When, therefore, the news of the higher discount rate was received—and all the newspapers in the land proclaimed the fact the next morning—the disposition naturally was to interpret the step as meaning that new and greater tension was in prospect, with further difficulty in obtaining the additional credit required to continue the speculation, in addition to which it was only too well known that such an outcome was in harmony with the desires of the Reserve authorities. It was in this light that the action was viewed and considered a distinctly unfavorable move, and it was for that reason that the step served to deal such a severe blow to the market. But a little reflection quickly showed that whatever its intent, it could not be construed as meaning additional tension or additional difficulty in obtaining credit for the conduct of security speculation. The higher Reserve rate itself was not a matter of any consequence since much higher rates for collateral loans had already become an established fact, the call loan rate that very week having touched 12%, and the rate for time loans having long ruled at 8¼ to 9%. On the really important point as to whether there was to be a restriction of bank credit doubts were also speedily dissolved. The Federal Reserve Bank, besides advancing its rediscount rate, at the same time lowered its buying rate for bankers' acceptances. This was with a view to accommodating mercantile borrowers at a low and reduced rate. That, it soon appeared, could work out in only one way: it would induce the member banks to create an additional amount of acceptances because of the reduced rate at which these would be discounted by the Federal Reserve Banks. A twofold result followed: the member banks by putting out additional acceptances would to that extent obviate the need of financing the mercantile community in the ordinary way, thereby releasing a corresponding amount of funds for other uses, not excluding security collateral loans, while on the other hand the Federal Reserve Banks by buying the acceptances would be placing additional Reserve credit at the command of the community. Subsequent events confirmed the accuracy of this diagnosis. The call loan rate on the Stock Exchange actually eased off, never getting higher than 7%, for a period of two weeks following the event, and on several days dropping to 6%, while brokers' loans kept expanding at a perfectly prodigious rate without apparently producing any new tension.

With the situation unfolding itself in such an unexpected way, the speculation for higher prices gained new headway day by day and week after week, and advances of enormous proportions were recorded. Thus while in the first instance the news of the higher discount rate acted to the undoing of the market, the final result was its complete remaking and the giving of a new lease of life to the bullish proclivities which have so long dominated the course of the speculation.

It was stated above that prior to the great break in the market on Friday, August 9, precipitated by Federal Reserve action, unsteadiness had characterized the course of prices and that the high rates for money on call had begun to exert increasing influence. In the first few days of the month, the market showed a very strong tone, with the trend of prices upward. It may be recalled that during July the speculation suffered a setback the last week of the month, but with a sharp rally in the two closing days. This rally extended into the early days of August, the steel shares, led by U. S. Steel, playing a prominent part in it, owing to the remarkably favorable income statement for the June quarter and the first half of the year made by the U. S. Steel Corporation in the statements submitted after the close of business on Tuesday, July 30. High money rates were an adverse feature, the call loan rate on the Stock Exchange touching 12% on Thursday, August 1, and being quoted at 10% on Friday, August 2. But this had no influence at that time in deterring operations for a rise or in diminishing the renewed speculative enthusiasm which was developing. Realizing sales caused some reaction on Saturday, August 3, but, nevertheless, the market, while irregular, revealed some new instances of brisk advances. The following week the call loan situation continued an unfavorable feature, besides which a great break in the shares of the different Insull properties on the Chicago Stock Exchange (some of which also sell on the New York Curb Exchange) proved an unsettling influence. Call loans on the Stock Exchange on Monday, August 5, renewed at 10%, and then advanced to 12% in the case of new loans. On Tuesday, August 6, the renewal charge was 12%, but with a reduction to 8% in the rate for new loans by the close of the day. On Wednesday, August 7, from a renewal charge of 10%, there was a drop to 8%, and on Thursday, August 8, from a renewal charge of 8% there was a decline to 7%, while on Friday, August 9 (the day when the higher Reserve rate went into effect) the call loan rate on the New York Stock Exchange all day ruled at 8%. The following Monday, Aug. 12, call loans were again at 8%, but on Tuesday, Aug. 13, ranged down from 8% to 7%, and thereafter until August 27 the rate never got higher than 7%, and often dropped as low as 6%, as already stated.

As to the break in the Insull stocks this was, along with high money rates, a decidedly unsettling influence both on Monday, August 5, and on Tuesday, August 6. These Insull properties had suffered a bad break on Saturday, August 3, and they tumbled still further on August 5 and August 6 on selling pressure and bear attacks. As one illustration, Insull Utility Investments on the Curb Exchange here dropped from 160 on Saturday, August 3, to 93 on Friday, Aug. 9.

Public utilities have played such a prominent part in all of the recent advances in the stock market, particularly the high-priced ones, and had undergone such prodigious advances that the Chicago break in that class of properties naturally found reflection here, and for the first time in a long while the public utilities, which so long had been aggressive leaders on the bull side, manifested weakness and suffered severe declines, and these declines in the utilities served more or less to unsettle the whole market on the New York Stock Exchange. Besides this, emphasis was at this time laid on the supposed likelihood that the Bank of England would have to advance its discount rate. Before the close, however, of Tuesday, Aug. 6, the market turned sharply upward under the drop in the call loan rate on the Stock Exchange to 8%. Furthermore, Anaconda Copper developed aggressive strength. On Wednesday, August 7, the course of prices was again unsettled, notwithstanding a further easing of the tension in the money market. On Thursday, August 8, with apprehensions of an advance in the Bank of England discount rate removed and with the steel stocks, under the leadership of United States Steel, again manifesting great strength, the bear contingent beat a hasty retreat and then the market gave an impressive display of strength all around.

This was on the eve of the great break the next day (Friday, August 9) as the result of the action of the New York Federal Reserve Bank. As furnishing an idea of the extent of the break which occurred, American Tel. & Tel., which had closed on Thursday at 281, opened on Friday at 266; Del. & Hudson, which had closed at 215½, opened at 211; Allied Chemical & Dye, which had closed at 313, opened at 303; General Electric, which had closed at 385, opened at 371; American Can, which had closed at 167, opened at 162; Auburn Auto, which had closed at 409½, opened at 388; Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg., which had closed at 233¾, opened at 225½; U. S. Steel, which had closed at 220¾, opened at 216; Greene-Cananea, which had closed at 180½, opened at 172; U. S. Industrial Alcohol, which had closed at 182¾, opened at 175¾; N. Y. Central, which had closed at 233¾, opened at 228¾; Kennecott Copper, which had closed at 89¼, opened at 83¾; American & Foreign Power, which had closed at 141¼, opened at 129; National Biscuit, which had closed at 208, opened at 198½; Amer. Power & Light, which had closed at 147, opened at 137, and Anaconda, which had closed at 121½, opened at 114.

As already stated, recovery came the very next day. As a matter of fact, prices on Saturday, August 10, started at a sharp advance, and the market continued rising all through the day, the advances reaching all the way from 1½ to 20¼ points. Some of the stocks most conspicuous in that respect were Auburn Auto, which advanced 20¼ points; Commercial Solvents, which went up 8 points; Atchison, which gained 9¾ points, and National Biscuit, which rose 8 points. On Monday, August 12, there was a further large and general rise, and the upward movement continued almost without interruption throughout the whole of that week, led by U. S. Steel, which recorded new high figures for the year almost day after day. Then the public utilities were taken in hand, especially the high-priced ones, and huge advances in them were found easy. And so one class of stocks after another was made to do duty in promoting the rise. Low rates for call loans on the Stock Exchange served to stimulate speculative activity, the rate never getting above 7% on any day after Monday in that week. It happened, too, that as a result of the liquidation in the stock market caused by the great break the previous Friday, that the Federal Reserve statement, issued Thursday, August 15, showed a reduction in brokers' loans of $68,000,000, the one reduction of the month. This reduction, with the disclosure that the Reserve Banks had been adding to their acceptance holdings, gave new zest to the speculation and carried prices still higher.

The story for the last two weeks of the month is precisely the same. New high levels of prices were established day by day. U. S. Steel stock continued a foremost leader, though there were many others of the same kind in which the advances were of really phenomenal proportions. General Electric rose to above 400, Commercial Solvents to above 500, Allis Chalmers joined the 300 class, besides which numerous other instances of the same kind might be mentioned. The higher a stock sold the more buyers there appeared to be for it. But bullish manipulation was not confined to the high-priced stocks. All through the list one group of share properties after another was taken in hand and rapidly advanced. One day it would be the oil stocks, another day the motors, and the third day still other groups, while the steel shares, under the leadership of U. S. Steel, moved upward in a continuous procession. Easier call loan rates were a stimulating factor throughout. The Federal Reserve statement for the week ending August 21 showed an increase in brokers' loans in amount of $133,000,000, and that for the week ending August 28 a further increase of $132,000,000, making $265,000,000, but this made no difference to those engaged in buying stocks for a rise. They were no longer giving themselves the least concern about the money market. Nor was any notice taken of the marking up of the call loan rate on Tuesday, August 27, to 9%, which rate was maintained the rest of the month. This was attributed entirely to preparations for the end-of-the-month settlements and the 1st of September disbursements and was considered moderate withal. The latter part of the month the railroad stocks again came to the front, especially the high-priced class, like Atchison, Pennsylvania, New York Central, and many others, and these were whirled upward in the same sensational way as that to which the public has become accustomed in the case of the public utilities and industrial and other specialties. A stimulating agency here was the wonderfully good report of earnings for the month of July, made by such roads as the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, New Haven, Lackawanna and many others. The last few days of the month some apprehension appeared to be developing with reference to the possibility of a further pronounced increase in the aggregate of brokers' loans in the statement to be issued after the close of business on Thursday, August 29. The real extent of the increase was found to be $132,000,000, as already stated, and it followed $133,000,000 increase the week previous, as also already stated, making $265,000,000 for the two weeks combined. This certainly was staggering by reason of its magnitude. It was now supposed that the market would suffer a severe setback on Friday, August 30; instead, it plunged ahead in a display of great buoyancy and made the most violent advances of the whole week. On Saturday, August 31, the Exchange was closed, so as to give a three-day holiday in connection with the Labor Day holiday the following Monday, September 2.

As will have been gathered from what has been said above, trading was of a very large volume, the dealings on the New York Stock Exchange for the month aggregating 95,704,890 shares against 67,191,023 shares in August 1923; 51,205,812 in August 1927, and 44,491,344 shares in August 1926. The total is the largest ever recorded in the month of August, but is not the largest of any month in Stock Exchange history. The high record for any month was reached in November 1923, when the sales aggregated no less than 150,360,075 shares. On the New York Curb Exchange the sales aggregated 50,192,030 shares during August, which compares with 57,646,450 shares in July and 44,837,500 shares in June, but with only 10,130,006 shares in August 1923.

The New York "Times" publishes averages of prices for 50 selected stocks, 25 being railroads and 25 stocks of industrial corporations, and the combined averages for these 50 stocks shows an advance of 21.40 points in August, following 17.28 in July and 29.43 in June. Of course there are many stocks outside this list where the advances for the month have been much larger in extent and still more where the rise has been considerably smaller, and also not a few instances where new low prices for the year were reached instead of new high prices. We have room here to cite merely the more conspicuous instances of gains for the month. U. S. Steel advanced from 209½ August 1 to 260½ August 24, and closed August 30 at 256½; Bethlehem Steel rose from 118¾ August 9 to 140¾ August 24, with the close August 30 at 138¾; General Electric jumped from 365½ August 9 to 403 August 20, and closed August 30 at 395½; American Tel. & Tel. rose from 266 August 9 to 303½ August 26, and closed August 30 at 298¾; Int. Tel. & Tel. jumped from 108¾ August 1 to 148¾ August 26, and closed August 30 at 146; Auburn Automobile has a record surpassing all others, having risen from 383 August 9 to 500 August 30; Commercial Solvents B advanced from 451½ August 9 to 504 August 21, with the close August 30 at 495½; Allis Chalmers spurted from 268 August 6 to 330 August 20, with the close August 30 at 317 bid and 322½ asked; Western Union Telegraph rose from 205 August 9 to 238½ August 26, with the close August 30 at 233¾; American Can from 156½ August 9 to 184½ August 24, with the close August 30 at 178; American & Foreign Power from 129 August 9 to 164½ August 30; American International Corp. from 68 August 9 to 89½ August 30; Commercial Investment Trust from 164 August 10 to 209¾ August 23, with the close August 30 at 207; Consolidated Gas of N. Y. from 146¾ August 1 to 182 August 20, with the close August 30 at 180¾; Public Service Corp. of N. J. from 108 August 9 to 124¾ August 20, with the close August 30 at 122; Pacific Gas & Elec. from 68 August 1 to 97 August 26, with the close August 30 at 90½; Woolworth Company from 86½ August 9 to 100¾ August 26, with the close on August 30 at 99¼; U. S. Industrial Alcohol from 175 August 9 to 208¾ August 30; Union Carbide & Carbon from 112½ August 9 to 135½ August 24, with the close on August 30 at 134; Standard Gas & Elec. from 128¾ August 9 to 163½ August 30; International Harvester from 114¼ August 9 to 142 August 30; General Railway Signal from 108½ August 9 to 126½ August 26, with the close August 30 at 122¼; Corn Products Refining from 95½ August 9 to 111½ August 23, with the close August 30 at 110¾; American Water Works & Elec. from 131½ August 9 to 173½ August 30; American Tobacco from 176 August 5 to 205 August 30; Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. from 204¾ August 1 to 292½ August 23, with the close August 30 at 288.

The oil stocks also enjoyed some rise, notwithstanding the unsatisfactory condition of the oil trade, and Standard Oil of N. Y. advanced from 37¾ August 10 to 47 August 23, and closed August 30 at 44½, while Standard Oil of N. J. moved up from 56½ August 9 to 73½ August 23, with the close August 30 at 71½. Many stocks enjoyed sharp advances during the month without, however, having established new high records for the year. This is true of some of the copper stocks and also of some of the motor stocks. Anaconda Copper advanced from 114 August 9 to 129 August 30, but on March 22 last sold as high as 140; General Motors rose from 68½ August 9 to 75½ August 23, and closed August 30 at 72, but on March 21 last sold at 91½. As a group, the railroads probably have more new high records to their credit than any other group, and these are nearly all of substantial extent. Atchison sold up from 251½ August 1 to 298½ August 30; on March 26 this stock sold as low as 195½. New York Central rose from 226½ August 9 to 256½ August 30; on March 26 this stock sold at 178½. Pennsylvania RR., which is a half share stock, the par value of the shares being only $50, advanced from 90½ August 9 to 110 August 29, with the close August 30 at 109; Baltimore & Ohio moved up from 127½ August 9 to 141½ August 28, with the close August 30 at 140½; Union Pacific from 262 August 7 to 297½ August 29, with the close August 30 at 295; Southern Pacific from 136½ August 9 to 154 August 30; Reading (which is also a half share stock) from 116 August 9 to 133½ August 30; New Haven (which raised its dividend from 4% per annum to 5%) from 113½ August 1 to 126½ August 26, with the close August 30 at 124½; Erie from 80 August 9 to 91 August 29, with the close August 30 at 88½; Lackawanna (par $50) from 141 August 9 to 164½ August 29, with the close August 30 at 163½. Among the stocks which touched new low figures for the year during the month there are many which have special elements of weakness, like American Woolen common and preferred, or which are weak for other reasons peculiar to themselves.

THE MONEY MARKET DURING AUGUST 1929.

The chief event of the month in the money market was unquestionably the sudden and unexpected advance, after the close of business on August 8, of the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York from 5% to 6%. Curiously enough, this action was without influence upon the course of the money market, as far as it is possible to judge of money market conditions subsequent to the date of the announcement of the advance. And, as a matter of fact, there was really no reason why the action should have had much, if any, influence, inasmuch as the Federal Reserve rediscount rate had long been out of line with money market conditions generally. An advance in the Federal Reserve rediscount rate here in New York had long been urged upon the Reserve authorities. As is known, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York had many times in the immediate past asked permission to raise the rate from 5% to 6%, and the request had invariably been denied. The call loan rate had long been ruling far above 6%, and early in the week of the advance in the rediscount rate had touched as high as 12%, while time loans on security collateral were quoted at 8¼@9%, with very little time accommodations obtainable even at those figures. Manifestly, therefore, there was no reason why any one should be disturbed in the slightest degree by the moving up of the New York rediscount rate to 6%. In now permitting the advance in the rate the Federal Reserve Board at Washington was simply allowing the Reserve rate to express prevailing conditions of tension in the money market. The Federal Reserve Banks did not create this tension, but now recognized its existence. At all events, the fact deserves to be recorded here that the rise in the rediscount rate was without influence upon the course of the money market. Further tightening of the money market did not follow as the result.

If the rise had any effect at all it was to ease the call loan market, for the time being at least, which was the reverse of what the Reserve authorities presumably intended. The purpose obviously was to prevent the absorption of any more bank credit in security speculation. This purpose is plainly revealed in the further step taken (concurrently with the advance in the rediscount rate) of reducing the buying rate for acceptances by the Reserve Banks from 5¼% to 5½%. This last really had a double significance. By lowering the rate at which the Reserve institutions are ready to buy bank acceptances, the Reserve authorities indicated an intention to aid the mercantile community, and by, at the same time, advancing the rediscount rate they resumed their former policy, abandoned at the beginning of 1929, of establishing preferential rates in favor of acceptances on the theory that this, too, would be a step likely to redound to the advantage of the mercantile community. Of course such action also implied a return to the former practice of again buying acceptances in the open market, the practice of indulging in such purchases of acceptances having also been abandoned at the opening of 1929 after the Reserve Banks had become overloaded with acceptances in the closing months of 1928. All this evidenced a strong determination to come to the assistance of the mercantile community at the time of year when mercantile borrowers are mostly in need of accommodation at the banks, while the rise in the rediscount rate to 6% was just as plainly meant to discourage borrowing in aid of security speculation by making such borrowing more costly.

As it happened, the plan did not work out in precisely the way supposed, and thus the object held in view must be considered as having been defeated. At least borrowing on Stock Exchange account was facilitated by an easing of call loan rates instead of being rendered more difficult and more expensive. This phase of the matter has already been discussed in the earlier portions of this article, and need not again be rehearsed here. On the Stock Exchange the first effect of the rise in the rediscount rate was, as indicated in our review of the stock market further above, to produce a violent collapse in the stock market on Friday, August 9, with tremendous liquidation in the case of weakly held accounts. This liquidation had the effect of temporarily reducing Stock Exchange borrowing, but the break in the stock market lasted for only a single day. The very next day (Saturday, August 10) the stock market staged a most remarkable recovery, a very considerable portion of the previous day's losses being regained, while for the remainder of the month a rampant bull speculation again gained ascendancy on the Stock Exchange, under the influence of which stock values moved higher and still higher, and brokers' loans entered upon a new record of expansion more noteworthy than any that had preceded. In this state of things it would have been natural if call loan rates, reflecting what was going on, had risen to new high figures. Instead of that, Stock Exchange call loan rates actually declined. For a period of fully two weeks they ruled very little higher than the new rediscount rate, and at times were precisely the same as this rediscount rate—that is, were down to 6%. There appeared to be concert of action on the part of the Clearing House institutions to prevent any undue rise or any recurrence of the previous extreme figures, while the preferential rate in favor of acceptances was very helpful to that end, since it induced the member banks to indulge very freely in the issuance of acceptances inasmuch as the result of this operation was to release for other uses the funds which would have been required to finance mercantile borrowers in the ordinary way. It was not until the last week of the month, when preparations had to be made for the 1st of September interest, dividend and other disbursements that the Stock Exchange call loan rate once more advanced, though in the meantime brokers' loans on Stock Exchange collateral increased in amount between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000.

Dealing now with the daily fluctuations in the money market, the renewal rate for call loans on the Stock Exchange on Thursday, August 1, was the same as on closing days of July, namely, 10%, but from this there was an advance before the close of the day to 12% for new loans. On Friday, August 2, the rate fell back to 10%, all loans on that day being negotiated at that figure. The following Monday, August 5, the renewal rate was again 10%, but with an advance to 12% in the rate for new loans. On August 6, the renewal rate itself was 12%, but from this there was a decline to 8% in the rate for new loans. On August 7, the renewal rate was fixed at 10%, and from this figure there was again a drop to 8% in the rate charged for new loans. On Thursday, August 8, after the renewal rate had been marked down to 8%, the rate for new loans fell to 7%. It was after the close of business on that day that the news came that the Federal Reserve Bank of New York had been authorized to advance its rediscount rate from 5% to 6%. The effect of this on the call loan market the next day (Friday, August 9) was nil, all loans on that day being put through at 8%, including renewals. The following Monday, August 12, all loans were again at 8%. On August 13, the renewal charge was again fixed at 8%, but with a decline to 7% in the rate for new loans. Thereafter, up to and including August 26, the renewal rate was uniformly 7%, while on three of these days, mainly August 14, August 21, and August 22, the rate on new loans dropped as low as 6%, plainly showing important modification of the tension in the call loan branch of the money market. On Tuesday, August 27, after renewals had again been put through at 7%, the rate for new loans was marked up to 9%. This was on preparations for the 1st of September payments. On the remaining days of the month this rate of 9% ruled unchanged, all loans each day being at that figure, including renewals.

In the time loan branch of the market no effects of the advance in the Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate were discernible. Rates had stiffened further before the announcement of the advance, and there was no change in these time loan rates after the advance during the remainder of the month. It will be recalled that at the close of July rates for time loans were 8½@9% for loans running 30 to 90 days, and 8½@8¾% for loans of 4 to 6 months. During the first few days of August these quotations remained unchanged, but then time money stiffened and 8¾@9% became the rate for loans of all dates from 30 days to 6 months. This was before the advance in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The advance referred to, however, occasioned no change in the quotation for time loans, the rates remaining at 8¾@9% for each and every one of the remaining days of the month for all dates of maturity. As before, time loans were very hard to obtain, and very few trades in the same were put through. Nor was there any change during the month in the situation regarding commercial paper. Such paper continued very slow of sale, though the demand at times improved a trifle. But this was always merely momentary and followed by a quick relapse into dullness. Rates for names of choice character maturing in 4 to 6 months, which had been 6%, were quoted the last half of the month at a range of 6@6¼%, but quotations for names less well known remained unchanged at 6¼@6½%.

In the market for banks' and bankers' acceptances the advance in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York on August 9 was of course less important than the concurrent action of reducing the buying rate of acceptances by the Federal Reserve Banks from 5¼% to 5½%. And yet the two were intimately related events, both highly significant. A preliminary step in that direction had really been taken the previous month (in July) when the Federal Reserve Banks reduced their buying rate from 5½% to 5¼%. The Reserve discount rate then was 5%, and, therefore, the reduction to 5¼% did not count for much. Something more was needed to bring a return to the practice which had prevailed prior to January 1 1929 of granting a preferential rate to acceptances. With the advance in the rediscount rate to 6% and the reduction in the buying rate for acceptances to 5½%, a preferential of no less than ½ of 1% was established, which we believe is of very unusual extent. It cannot be said that this reduction in the buying rate for acceptances had any effect in relieving the market for acceptances. During July, it is well enough to recall, the acceptance market, after some improvement the early part of the month, had again become congested at the end of the month. The reduction which occurred in the market rates for acceptances during July was evidently made to accord with the reduction in the buying rate of the Reserve Banks from 5½% to 5¼%. The congestion of bills at the end of July extended into the early days of August. Market comment was invariably to the effect that there was an abundance of offering, with little buying.

This was the situation up to the time when (on August 9) the buying rate for acceptances was reduced to 5½% while the Federal Reserve rediscount rate was advanced to 6%, giving the large differential in favor of acceptances already noted. The Reserve Banks coincidentally began to enlarge their holdings of acceptances, thereby broadening the market for acceptances. The two circumstances combined ought to have had the effect of improving the condition of the acceptance market and for about 10 days the tone was better, offerings being reported as only slightly in excess of the demand. But on Wednesday, August 21, the market rate for acceptances again began to move upward—a strange response to the action of the Reserve Banks in lowering their buying rates for bills to 5½%. The advance in these market rates for acceptances did not extend to the shorter maturities, but was very substantial in the case of the longer maturities. The Federal Reserve Banks usually buy bills having a maturity of 90 days or less, and therefore acceptance dealers could not well advance the rates for the shorter maturities with the Federal Reserve Banks taking bills at a discount basis no higher than 5½%. In the case of bills of the longer maturities, no restraint of that kind existed, and accordingly quotations for such maturities were marked up several times during the latter part of the month.

In the case of bills running 30 days, 60 days, and 90 days no change whatever occurred in the posted rates of the American Acceptance Council, these remaining at 5¼% bid and 5½% asked. For bills running 120 days, however, where the rate had been 5½% bid and 5¾% asked, the asking rate was raised on August 21 to 5¼% (the bid rate being left unchanged at 5½%), while in the case of bills running for 150 days and 180 days, where the quotations had been 5½% bid and 5½% asked, the bid rate was raised on August 21 ½%, to 5½%, and the asked rate advanced ¼%, to 5½%. This was followed by another advance on Monday, August 26, on which day the American Acceptance Council raised both its bid and its asked rate a further ½ of 1% in the case of bills running 150 days and also those running 180 days. This made the new rates for 150 days and 180 days 5½% bid and 5½% asked, as compared with 5½% bid and 5½% asked at the opening of the month, thus presenting the anomaly of the Federal Reserve Bank reducing their acceptance rates, while market rates for acceptances were beginning to soar upward.

The explanation, however, is not far to seek. With the Reserve Banks resuming their policy of taking acceptances at a preferential rate, and the differential being unusually large at that, the member banks, as already noted, began creating acceptances upon a large scale. A congestion of bills naturally followed, and, in order to move the bills, rates were advanced so as to make them more attractive from an investment standpoint. It has already been pointed out that the Federal Reserve Banks have been gradually enlarging their holdings of acceptances. They have been doing this ever since July 10, at first in a very moderate way, but during August on a more extensive scale. On July 10 the acceptance holdings of the 12 Reserve institutions were down to $65,976,000; by July 31, the amount had been increased to $74,567,000; by August 23 the aggregate was up to $156,514,000. In the seven weeks, therefore, the Reserve Banks have added no less than $90,538,000 to their holdings of these acceptances. Their holdings for foreign correspondents have varied somewhat during this period, but the amount for August 28 is somewhat larger than it was July 10, at which date the total stood at $440,592,000. From the latter figure there was an increase to $462,606,000 August 7, then there came a drop to $441,924,000 August 14, followed by an increase again to $447,997,000 August 28.

It is too early yet to have statistics regarding the volume of acceptances outstanding at the end of August, but from the compilations of the American Acceptance Council for the month of July it appears that the volume of bankers' acceptances outstanding on July 31 was larger by $13,649,559 than on June 30. The results of the monthly survey, announced August 19, by the American Acceptance Council, put the total July 31 at $1,126,698,805 against $1,113,049,246 June 29 and comparing with only $977,863,926 on July 31 1928, thus showing an increase for the 12 months of $148,834,879, while as compared with the corresponding date two years ago, on July 31 1927, the increase is no less than $385,000,000. As to the volume of ordinary commercial paper outstanding this continues to shrink. The monthly review of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for September 1 remarks that "commercial and industrial concerns have continued to finance their requirements principally by direct borrowing at their banks, and as a result the volume of open market commercial paper outstanding through 23 firms declined 3% further in July. At $265,000,000 on July 31, a decrease of 45% from a year ago was indicated in commercial paper outstanding."

The only change during the month in the rediscount rates of any of the Federal Reserve Banks was the increase from 5% to 6% authorized by August 8, and effective August 9, in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. At the 11 other Reserve banks the 5% rate was allowed to remain unaltered.

THE RETURNS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE AND MEMBER BANKS
—BROKER'S LOANS.

The expansion in brokers' loans on the security of stock and bond collateral, not only continued during August, but the further increases now were of appalling magnitude. At the end of July the loans, on securities, to brokers and dealers by the reporting member banks in New York City as reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York were close to the $6,000,000,000 mark, being given as $5,960,000,000, a new high record up to that time, and comparing with $5,284,000,000 on June 12. On August 7 the total went above six billion being reported at $6,020,000,000. On August 14, following the liquidation in the stock market the previous Friday, precipitated by the advance in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate, the total dropped back to $5,952,000,000, but this was followed the very next week by an increase of no less than $133,000,000, and by a further increase of $132,000,000 the succeeding week, making a new addition for these last two weeks combined of $265,000,000, and bringing the grand total Aug. 28 up to $6,217,000,000, at which figure comparison is with $4,235,000,000 August 29 1928, showing an expansion for the 12 months of but little less than $2,000,000,000. Most unfortunate of all, the further addition during the four weeks of August was in the category of the loans denominated "for account of others," the total of the loans in this category having risen indeed from $3,058,000,000 July 31 to $3,468,000,000 August 28. Loans for account of out-of-town banks were also somewhat larger at $1,756,000,000 August 28 against $1,696,000,000 July 31. On the other hand, loans made by the reporting member banks for their own account were down to $992,000,000 Aug. 28, against $1,205,000,000 July 31.

The monthly statement of the Stock Exchange affords even more emphatic testimony to the way expansion in these brokers' loans has been proceeding. The Stock Exchange figures being on a more comprehensive basis than the Federal Reserve figures, and covering the whole field of Stock Exchange borrowing, the totals are of even larger proportions than those just cited, and the additions from month to month correspondingly greater. For the month of August the new increase reaches $407,825,132, and this follows $402,573,019 increase during July and $406,083,350 increase in June, making the expansion for the three months combined in excess of $1,200,000,000, the exact amount being $1,216,481,501. On June 30 the Stock Exchange total for the first time ran in excess of seven billion dollars, reaching $7,071,221,275; for July 31 the total moved up to $7,473,794,294, and for August 31 the amount is now shown to be $7,881,619,426. On August 31 1928 the amount was $5,051,437,405; on August 31 1927 it was no more than $3,673,891,333, and on August 31 1926 only $3,142,148,068.

The feature of the Federal Reserve statements during August, aside from the continued growth of brokers' loans, was the increase in the holdings of acceptances. The establishment of a preferential rate for acceptances in the way indicated above (the buying rate for acceptances by the Reserve Banks being reduced to 5½%, while the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York was raised to 6%) afforded a clear idea of the policy the Reserve Banks meant to pursue in that respect. In the four weeks from July 31 to August 28 the acceptance holdings of the 12 Reserve institutions increased from $74,567,000 to $156,514,000. In the interval, however, the acceptance holdings purchased for foreign correspondents was slightly reduced, being reported at $447,997,000 August 28 as against $453,477,000 July 31. The action of the Reserve Board in approving an advance in the New York rediscount rate, while at the same time marking down the buying rate for acceptances, was to discourage direct borrowing by the member banks at the Reserve institution, and obviously putting out acceptances, instead of financing the mercantile needs of the community in the ordinary way, was calculated to release funds which otherwise would have been needed for the accommodation of the industrial and agricultural communities. Nevertheless the discount holding of the 12 Reserve institutions, representing direct borrowing by the member banks, while being reduced were reduced to only a comparatively slight extent, and far less than what might have been expected and far less also, no doubt, than the Federal Reserve authorities hoped would be the case. As against $1,075,714,000 July 31, the total of these discounts dropped to $973,627,000 Aug. 28. The holdings of United States securities were also slightly reduced, though in the first week of August they showed a substantial increase. The amount August 28 was 145,321,000, as against $147,283,000 July 31. The effect altogether—that is, the lowering of the discount holdings and of United States Government securities, with the increase in the holdings of acceptances—was to leave the volume of Reserve credit outstanding substantially unchanged, the total of the bill and security holdings August 28 being $1,291,562,000 as against $1,308,014,000 July 31. It remains to add that while the total of the discounts of the 12 Reserve institutions was reduced during the four weeks by $102,087,000 (the amount having fallen from $1,075,714,000 July 31 to $973,627,000 August 28), the reduction in the discount holdings of the Reserve Bank of

New York reached no less than $145,102,000, the total having been reduced from $385,949,000 July 31 to $240,847,000 August 28. This would seem to indicate that part of the borrowing at New York had been transferred to other Reserve districts, though we notice that the monthly review of the New York Reserve Bank says that "an important factor in this reduction in both indebtedness and in security loans of New York City member banks was an inflow of more than 100 million dollars to New York from other districts," and then adds: "This movement of funds to New York appears to have represented transfers by corporations and individuals rather than by banks for their own account, as loans placed in New York for out-of-town banks showed a small decline, while loans for 'others' showed a large increase."

COURSE OF STERLING EXCHANGE DURING AUGUST.

In the foreign exchanges, the advance in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York had little, if any, effect. This is not strange, seeing that it is not the Reserve rate which is attracting funds to New York from all parts of the world, but the high money rates away above the Reserve rate, especially in the case of loans on security collateral. However, the foreign exchanges nearly all were weak for the very reason that money rates were ruling so high here in New York. This is true particularly of the rate of sterling bills on London. All through the month the Bank of England kept losing gold in such large amounts by takings for account of France and Germany, and its total gold holdings reached so low a figure that a further marking up of the Bank of England rate of discount appeared inevitable, and yet the action was deferred. An advance in the rate was looked for at the very commencement of the month and indeed (as related at the beginning of this article) the failure of the Governors of the Bank to raise the rate at their meeting on August 8 was as much a surprise as the action of the Federal Reserve Board in granting permission on that day to the New York Federal Reserve Bank to put into effect its higher rediscount rate of 6%. The Bank, after showing a decrease of £8,089,914 in its gold holdings for the week ending July 31, reported a further decrease of £1,178,861 in the week ending August 7, of £743,648 in the week ending August 14, or £2,485,931 in the week ending August 21, and of £568,327 in the week ending August 28. And this reduced the total of its gold holdings to £137,633,677, whereas the Cunliffe Committee some years ago had suggested £150,000,000 as the minimum under ordinary conditions. Perhaps, however, conditions at the present time cannot be considered ordinary. At all events, the Bank allowed the shrinkage to go on without any endeavor to deal with it through an advance in its discount rate.

The monthly review of the New York Federal Reserve Bank estimates that France took slightly over £6,000,000 in London in August, practically all from the Bank of England, while Germany acquired some £1,900,000, of which about £1,100,000 came from the Bank of England (the rest being purchased in the open market), and £1,125,000 was withdrawn from the Bank for the United States, while £500,000 was taken in the market by an undisclosed buyer. The bulletin estimates that in this movement, which began about the middle of June, France has taken altogether £17,000,000 of gold in London, Germany about £14,000,000, and the United States £5,000,000. The gold shipments to New York were arrested later in the month, though exchange rates here on London continued to hover around the point at which gold could be imported at a profit all through the month.

Sterling exchange may be said to have been under pressure the entire month, August being the time for the customary seasonal pressure—tourist requirements falling off, while bills, against commodity imports into England begin to appear in steadily increasing amounts. The cessation of gold engagements for the United States the latter part of the month appeared to be due more to reluctance on the part of banking and financial interests here to embarrass the Bank of England by further takings of gold than to any change in the conditions governing gold importations. There were reports and rumors that the New York Federal Reserve Bank was co-operating with the Bank of England in holding the rate for sterling just above the gold import point and buying bills on London with that purpose in mind, but there seemed to be nothing to support these stories. Cable transfers on London declined from 4.85 5/16 August 2 to 4.84 21/32 August 30, with the range August 31 4.84 11/16 @ 4.84%. After August 8, when an advance in the Bank of England rate had been most strongly expected, sterling rates fluctuated within exceedingly narrow limits, ruling most of the time at 4.84% or a trifle above or below that figure, which is somewhat below the theoretic gold import point. The New York Federal Reserve Bank, in discussing the gold movement into and out of this country, says that shipments from Argentina, totaling $3,500,000, and from England of $5,000,000, made up practically all the gold imported into the United States during August. Exports were negligible. Preliminary figures show, the Bank says, aggregate gold imports for the month of $14,043,000 and aggregate exports of $592,000. As there was an increase of $1,000,000 in the gold held under earmark for foreign account, a net gain to the country of $12,500,000 is estimated.

THE CONTINENTAL AND OTHER FOREIGN EXCHANGES.

The general tendency of rates on the Continental centers of Europe was towards lower figures, influenced by high money rates at New York, and to some extent also by seasonal pressure, and in some measure likewise as a result of the sympathetic relation of the Continental exchanges with sterling in the international markets. The Continental exchanges were also adversely affected by apprehensions regarding the outcome of the conference at The Hague for consideration of the Young Plan of German reparations payments, very gloomy reports coming from the Conference day after day, until towards the very close of the month, when an agreement was finally patched up for meeting the insistent demands of Great Britain while leaving the Young Plan intact. Reichmarks were decidedly weak nearly all through the month without any especial reason being assigned for the weakness, aside from the general influences affecting all the Continental exchanges. As against 23.84 August 2, cable transfers on Berlin were down to 23.80@23.81 on August 31. The Bank of Germany, however, kept enlarging its gold holdings. After reporting a trifling decrease (15,000 marks) the first week of the month, it showed 1,946,000 marks increase the second week; 26,758,000 marks the third week, and 6,418,000 marks the fourth week. The note circulation of the Bank of Germany followed the usual course in showing decreases the first three weeks of the month and a large increase the fourth week of the month when preparations had to be made for the end of the month payments. The decrease the first week was 253,317,000 marks, the second week 180,406,000 marks, the third week 138,634,000 marks, and the increase the fourth week, 744,157,000 marks. French exchange also moved slightly lower, cable transfers on Paris declining from 3.92c. August 1 to 3.91@3.91 5/16c. August 31. As would be supposed from what has been said above, the Bank of France kept reporting large additions to its gold holdings week after week. For the week ending August 3 it showed an increase of 810,043,185 francs; for the week ending August 10 an increase of 363,000,000 francs; for the week ending August 17, an increase of 3,700,724 francs; for the week ending August 24, of 327,578,583 francs, and for the week ending August 31 of 127,000,000 francs. No great changes appeared in the Bank's foreign bill holdings and credit balances abroad, notwithstanding the withdrawals of gold from London. The credit balances held abroad stood at 7,248,597,530 francs August 31 against 7,325,293,083 francs on July 27, and the bills bought abroad, 18,543,096,507 francs August 31 against 18,478,532,307 francs July 27. The Bank of Belgium, as announced the previous month, advanced its discount rate from 4% to 5% on July 31 to become effective August 1. Italian exchange moved within narrow limits and as against 5.23c. on August 1 the quotation for cable transfers August 31 was 5.23@5.23½. Greek exchange rates remained practically unaltered.

In the exchanges on the countries neutral during the war, there were no special features or developments. The Dutch guilder was decidedly weak at times, but this appeared to be entirely due to a heavy movement of Dutch funds to Germany and other markets where money rates were more attractive and could be more profitably employed than at home. Cable transfers on Amsterdam declined from 40.07@40.09½ August 1 to 40.04@40.05 August 8, but recovered the latter part of the month and were quoted at 40.06½ on August 31. Exchange on Switzerland moved much in the same way as exchange on Amsterdam, being inclined to weakness the early part of the month, but enjoying recovery the latter part. As a result, cable transfers on Switzerland August 1 were 19.24@19.24½, and the same August 31. In the case of the Scandinavian exchanges there was a marked tendency towards lower rates all through the month. The Danish crown for cable transfer was 26.61½@26.62 August 31 against 26.65 August 1. The Swedish crown for cable transfers was 26.77½@26.78½ August 31 against 26.80½ August 1, and the Norwegian crown for cable transfers 26.62½@26.63 August 31 against 26.66 August 1. The Spanish peseta continued its upward course under the influence of the Foreign Exchange Committee at Madrid. On August 31 cable transfers on Spain were 14.72@14.74 against 14.62 August 1.

In the South American exchanges there were no special features and no very important fluctuations in rates. Argentina, as noted above, continued its large gold shipments to the United States without, however, improving exchange rates. The peso for cable transfers was 41.98@42.03 August 31 against 42.00@42.07 August 1. Labor troubles in Argentina were an adverse feature, interfering with export shipments. For instance, a cablegram from Rosario August 17 reported that labor union delegates at that port had voted a new general strike commencing Monday, August 19. It added that this new general strike would tie up port activities again, although the port workers had obtained a complete victory on all their demands in July. On August 21 another cablegram from Rosario stated that early on that day a city-wide walkout, called in sympathy with street car workers who went on strike in July, had sent 5,000 union men into the streets. On August 22 came another message from Rosario saying that all activity at that port and at Santa Fe had been halted that day, the second anniversary of the Sacco and Vanzetti execution in the United States, stevedores in both cities using the anniversary as a reason for 24-hour strikes. The Communist general strike, however, this cablegram stated, had collapsed "despite the feverish efforts of agitators, including recently arrived European Communists said to be in Russian pay." It was expected that most of the strikers would be working the next day, except the street car crews, whose difficulties were made the occasion for the general strike. The Brazilian milreis was not greatly changed, being quoted 11.87@11.89 August 31, against 11.87@11.88 on August 1. The Chilean peso also moved within narrow limits, and the same is true of the Uruguayan peso, which was quoted at 98¼@98.47 August 31, and at 98.87@99 on August 1.

The Far Eastern exchanges were likewise without special features. The Japanese yen the early part of August continued its upward course, which started the previous month with the announcement by the new Japanese finance minister of an intention to lift the embargo on gold exports at the earliest moment possible. From 46.50 August 1 the yen touched 47½ August 8, but the whole of the improvement was not maintained and the range August 31 was 46.65@46¾. There were no very important changes in the rates on the silver-using countries. The dollar on Hong-Kong for checks was quoted at 48½@48½ August 31 against 48¼@48 9/16 August 1, while tael on Shanghai for checks were 57 11/16@57¾ August 31 against 57½@58 August 1. Rupees on Bombay weakened in the middle of the month, but recovered the latter part so that the range August 31 was 36.10@36¼ in comparison with 36@36½ August 1. The price of silver in London remained on the whole quite steady, and the quotation August 31 was 24¼d. per ounce against 24 5/16d. August 1.

The tables on pages 15 to 36 furnish a complete record of the transactions on the New York Stock Exchange during August and the range since January 1. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. The black-faced letters in the column headed "Interest Period" indicate in each case the month when the bonds mature.

In accordance with the rule adopted by the New York Stock Exchange in 1909, all quotations for interest-paying bonds are at a price to which accrued interest must be added. The exceptions to the rule are income bonds and bonds on which interest is in default. A few other bonds, like the Holland-American Line 6s, for special reasons, are also quoted "flat," but where this is the case the quotation "flat" will be found against the name of the issue. This method of quoting bonds became effective Jan. 2 1909.

For footnotes to tables see last page of bonds and last page of stocks.

General Quotations

OF BONDS AND STOCKS

In the earlier part of this publication complete records of the dealings on the leading stock exchanges of the country, for the latest month and for the calendar year to date, are furnished. In this department of General Quotations we combine in one comprehensive whole, securities of all classes and descriptions, not only those dealt in on the exchanges but also leading unlisted and inactive securities. The following is an index to the different classes of securities quoted:

Quotations from all Stock Exchanges are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue. As the New York Stock Exchange began with Jan. 2 1909 to quote all bond prices "and interest," we have adopted the same method and no longer employ a designating mark to indicate the fact except where there is a deviation from this rule. The reader will understand, therefore, that unless the letter "f" is prefixed to the price, he must pay accrued interest in addition to the price. This, however, does not apply to income bonds or bonds in default, in which cases the price includes the interest, should there be any.

The letter "f" prefixed to bond prices denotes that the quotation is a flat price—that is, that the accrued interest forms part of the price, and therefore the purchaser does not have to provide for it separately in making payment. As already stated in the case of income bonds and bonds in default, the price is always "flat," and no designating mark is employed to indicate the fact.

Quotations for guaranteed stocks are "and dividend"; that is, the accrued dividend must be paid in addition to the price. Stock prices marked thus (d) are per share. All others are per cent except bank stock prices, which are quoted per share unless otherwise stated.

It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.

The following abbreviations are often used, viz.: "M" for mortgage, "g" for gold, "gu" for guaranteed, "end" for endorsed, "cons" for consolidated conv" for convertible, "s f" for sinking fund, "l g" for land grant, "op" for optional.

The black-faced type in the letters showing the interest period indicates the month when the bonds mature.

NOTICE.—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities

Under the heading "Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities" we include all issues which do not appear under the previous two headings, namely "Railroads (Steam)" and "Public Utilities." In the case of stocks, however, we put "Textile Manufacturing," "Insurance," "Mining," "Real Estate and Land," "Title Guarantee and Safe Deposit Companies" under separate heads, then follow with the rest of the "Industrial and Miscellaneous."

United States and Municipal Bonds

In reporting below prices for State and municipal securities, we give bid and asked quotations wherever they can be obtained. The custom, however, is to quote municipal securities on the basis of the return they yield per annum. Therefore in most cases it will be found that instead of actual prices we have inserted in the column headed "To Net" certain figures to indicate the interest rate at which business in the bonds is being done. Thus 4.35% means that the particular security can be bought or sold at a price that will yield the purchaser or seller 4.35% per annum to the maturity of the issue. Where two figures appear, as for instance "4.25% to 4.35%", the rate of return varies according to the maturity, the shorter maturities yielding the lowest rate, and the longer maturities yielding the highest return. Recently however, owing to the tension in the money market, it has happened in not a few instances that the shorter maturities have been yielding the highest rate of return and the longer maturities the lowest rate of return, and where that happens to be the case, the range has been reversed to read, say 4.35% to 4.25%.

In State and municipal bonds the custom has always been to quote them "and interest." That is, the accrued interest must in all cases be added on. There are a very few which form exceptions to the rule—that is, where the prices given are flat prices, the accrued interest having been taken into account in making them. These are indicated by a special mark, thus (f).

STATE AND NATIONAL BANK STATEMENTS

Quotations in this department are given per share, not per cent, except for stocks of Canadian Institutions, and are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding date of issue, though often are nominal. An asterisk (*) denotes sales.

Figures of deposits, capital and profits for the national banks are from the Comptroller's last call; for all other institutions they are the latest obtainable, direct returns being procured by us where no periodic statements are required. For the Clearing House banks of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, deposits are taken from the latest-weekly statement.
