REVIEW OF OCTOBER—COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL EVENTS

The new developments in the international situation, consisting primarily of Axis military and economic penetration in the Balkans, and the activities of Congress prior to its pre-election recesses, were overshadowed during the month under review by presidential politics and the draft. For the first time in some months the Nation's speculation on the next move in the European drama was temporarily superseded by speculation both on who would be chosen President at the Nov. 5 election and what number the various registrants under the Selective Service Act would draw in the lottery which was held in Washington on Oct. 29.

An element of uncertainty was injected into the presidential race on Oct. 25 when John L. Lewis, President of the Congress of Industrial Organizations and of the United Mine Workers of America, criticized President Roosevelt for his failure to keep his labor promises and openly declared himself in favor of the election of Mr. Willkie. The labor leader charged Mr. Roosevelt with seeking a dictatorship by asking for reelection to a third term. He made his appeal for the defeat of Mr. Roosevelt a personal one by declaring that he would resign his labor posts if Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, was not elected. The election on Nov. 5 resulted in the reelection of President Franklin D. Roosevelt for a third term for the first time in the history of the country.

Drawing of Draft Numbers Under Selective Service and Training Act

The 16,000,000 men between the ages of 21 and 36 who were compelled to register on Oct. 16 under the terms of the Selective Service and Training Act were enlightened last month as to the order in which they would be called for a year's military training at a salary of $21 a month. The determination of the order in which the registrants would be drafted was made on Oct. 29 when 9,000 numbered capsules were drawn out of the World War draft bowl. Secretary of War Stimson drew out the first number, 158, in the presence of President Roosevelt and other Government officials. Registrants holding this number or any of the other first 1,500 numbers to be drawn, officials said, will probably be called for service during the next 12 months. The President opened the lottery with a short address in which he said:

> Recent history proves all too clearly, I am sorry to say, that only the strong may continue to live in freedom and in peace. In the considered opinion of the Congress of the United States this selective service provides the most democratic as well as the most efficient means for the mustering of our man-power.

In an earlier speech, delivered early on Registration Day, Oct. 16, the President said that registration for military service was the "keystone in the arch of our national defense." He added that "the duty of this day has been imposed upon us from without" by "those who have dared to threaten the whole world with war." The draft will be under the direction of Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, President of the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Dykstra was nominated as director of the selective service by the President on Oct. 14 and the nomination was approved by the Senate on the following day.

Congress Observing Three-Day Recesses

The transition of Congress from a state of considerable activity to a state of virtual adjournment came about gradually during the middle of the month as the last items on the legislative agenda were put through for final action. Although the Administration desired Congress to adjourn in the real sense of the word and let the President handle the country's affairs between now and the time the new Congress assembles in January, the opposition of the right-wing Democrats and most of the Republicans prevented this desire from being fulfilled. Instead, first the House on Oct. 14 and then the Senate on the following day reached a gentlemen's agreement whereby their respective bodies would officially convene every third day and adjourn for three days without taking up any important business unless notice had been given to the members. (Neither House can recess for more than three days without the consent of the other.) This plan will hold good until about Nov. 18 so as to give the members an opportunity to campaign for reelection and at the same time be able to assemble in Washington at a moment's notice to consider any developments which may occur.

Defense Deficiency Appropriation Bill

Before assuming its technical adjournment status, Congress passed the final defense bill. This was the $1,482,000,000 Defense Deficiency Appropriation bill upon which congressional action was completed on Oct. 3. As signed by President Roosevelt on Oct. 8, this measure provides funds to pay, maintain and train National Guardsmen and men called under the Selective Service Act.

Action on Other Defense Measures—Airplanes Ordered by Sweden Requisitioned

Other defense measures were also passed in the early part of the month. One was a bill permitting the States to organize home-guard troops to replace the National Guard which has been called into Federal service and permitting the War Department to lend equipment to these units; action on this bill was completed by the House on Oct. 14 and the President signed it on Oct. 21.

Another defense bill was the measure authorizing the expenditure of $150,000,000 on new housing for workers in vital industries where such facilities are not now available; the Senate and House completed action on this measure on Oct. 8 and the President signed it on Oct. 14.

A third defense bill was the measure authorizing the President to requisition machine tools needed in national defense work which have been ordered by foreign purchasers but have not been exported; the House completed action on this measure on Oct. 2 and the President signed it on Oct. 10. Acting under the terms of the last-named bill, the President issued an executive order on Oct. 15 for a survey of equipment needed for the national defense to determine whether any material to be exported—but which has not yet been exported—should be requisitioned. Following this action the President on Oct. 22 requisitioned 110 airplanes which Sweden had ordered in the United States and which were awaiting shipment. These planes, the War Department explained, are needed for advanced training purposes.

Excess Profits Tax Bill

The "Second Revenue Act of 1940," known generally as the excess-profits tax—plant amortization bill, became a law on Oct. 8 when President signed the bill. The measure received final congressional approval on Oct. 1 when the Senate and the House adopted the compromise measure as drafted by its conferees. The House had adopted its version of the legislation on Aug. 29 while the Senate took similar action on Sept. 19. The new legislation, it is estimated, will yield $525,000,000 on 1940 income and approximately $1,000,000,000 annually thereafter. Under the new law a flat addition of 3.1% is added to the normal income tax rate for corporations earning more than $25,000, increasing the rate from 20.09% to 24%, and a graduated tax of from 25% to 50% is imposed on earnings defined as excess profits. This tax applies to all corporations, not specifically exempted, and it ranges from 25% on profits not exceeding $20,000 to 50% on all over $500,000. The new legislation permits corporations with earnings of less than $25,000 to carry over any unused portion of their credits for one year; grants all corporations a flat excess-profits tax exemption of $5,000; permits amortization over a five-year period of the entire cost of new facilities completed for defense purposes after June 10, 1940, and suspends operation of the profit limitation on ship and aircraft manufacture imposed by the Vinson-Trammell Act during the emergency.

Other important activities of Congress were:

Supplemental Civil Functions Appropriation Bill—Carries $228,132,013 in cash appropriations and $10,258,001 in contract authorizations, more than half of which goes to defense agencies. The President approved it on Oct. 9, after a conference report had been agreed upon on Oct. 4.

Bill for Labeling Woolen Products—Signed by the President on Oct. 14 after congressional action had been completed on Oct. 2. Its terms are to be enforced by the Federal Trade Commission.

Bill Extending Civil Service to 200,000 Workers—Still awaits final action as a result of the House's decision on Oct. 7 to return it to conference. The Senate approved the conference report on Oct. 3. The measure would permit the President to put about 200,000 employees of "temporary" Government agencies into the civil service if they passed non-competitive examinations.

Bill Establishing New Nationality Code—This bill which revises the nationality laws and makes them a more comprehensive code was signed by the President on Oct. 14 after it received final congressional endorsement on Oct. 4 when the Senate and House approved a conference report.

Bill to Permit Use of Government Contracts as Bank Collateral—This measure, which permits Government contractors to assign their claims against the Government to a bank or other lending institution as security for advances made for plant expansion and purchase of materials, received final congressional action on Oct. 3 when the House adopted minor Senate amendments. It was signed by the President on Oct. 9.

Bill Extending Sugar Act—A bill extending the Sugar Act of 1937 to Dec. 31, 1941, was signed by the President on Oct. 15. The measure, which reenacts restrictions on importations of refined sugar from Puerto Rico and Hawaii, was finally passed by the Senate on Oct. 4. It had been approved by the House on June 22.

Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940—President Roosevelt on Oct. 17 signed the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940 designed to assist conscripts and other members of the armed forces who may find themselves unable to pay rent, taxes, insurance promiums and other obligations. Congressional action was completed on Oct. 7 when both the Senate and the House approved a conference report. The Senate passed its bill on Sept. 30 and the House took similar action on Oct. 3.

Registration of Certain Organizations Active in United States—Legislation requiring the registration of certain organizations advocating the control by force or overthrow of the Government of the United States or any political subdivision thereof was signed by the President on Oct. 17. This bill passed the House on July 1 and the Senate, in amended form, on Sept. 30. The measure was sent to conference and the conference report was adopted by the Senate on Oct. 4 and by the House on Oct. 7.

United States Supreme Court Convenes for New Term

The United States Supreme Court reconvened on Oct. 7 after its summer recess. Although the cases before it are not so momentous as in previous years of the New Deal Administration, there is still some important legislation to be adjudicated, particularly as to the national defense program. The court will be called upon, for instance, to determine what is the fair profit for a manufacturer supplying the Government in time of war. Various tests of the National Labor Relations Act were presented to the court, but only one was granted a review; other cases seeking to have the Fair Labor Standards Act declared invalid were presented. The court was also asked to determine the constitutionality of laws giving the Federal Power Commission power over certain waterways. The court's initial meeting on Oct. 7 was brief, being concerned primarily with the admission of new lawyers.

The real business of the session began on Oct. 14 when the court made public its decisions regarding admission of cases to review. At that time the court granted what was called a "total victory" to the National Labor Relations Board by refusing to review four cases which the Board had won in the lower courts and by granting a review to one case which the Board had lost in the lower courts. The court on Oct. 14 also agreed to review a case challenging the constitutionality of the Wage-Hour Act. The Opp Cotton Mills, Inc., of Alabama, and other concerns are testing the validity of the Wage-Hour Administrator's order fixing a 32½c.-per-hour minimum wage for employees of the textile industry, which had been sustained by the Fifth Federal Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans. Two other important rulings were also handed down at this time. One granted a review on the Government's suit against the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co. concerning a profit of $20,000,000 on a $120,000,000 World War ship contract. The decision in this case is expected to have an important bearing on the Government's power under the Selective Service Act to requisition industrial plants which refuse to fill Government orders at "fair" prices. The other order was one declining a Government request to relax the court's strict ban on the use of wire-tapping evidence.

In a ruling on Oct. 21 the court refused to review a decision by a lower tribunal holding that State and local governments have the right to levy personal taxes against farm commodities held as security for advances made by the Commodity Credit Corporation under its current loan program. Efforts to have the court pass upon this question were made by Fresno County, Calif.

In an action on Oct. 28 the court refused to review the protest of Montgomery Ward & Co. against a blanket order of the Wage and Hour Division commanding production of payroll records of 2,000 employees at the Kansas City branch of the company. The company contended that in as much as specific complaints had not been made, it did not feel that it should submit to the unwarranted search the Wage-Hour Administration sought to make.

The court, also on Oct. 28, handed down two decisions affecting the National Labor Relations Act. It refused the request of the NLRB to compel a lower court to withdraw a Board order directing the Sterling Electric Motors, Inc., of California to withdraw recognition from an employees' association. In the other case a Labor Board order directing reinstatement of workers for the Continental Oil Corp. of Wyoming was upheld when the court declined to upset the verdict of the Tenth Circuit Court. The corporation had been commanded to reinstate men who had quit work because they were to be transferred to New Mexico.

President Roosevelt Issues Executive Order Requiring Priority of Army and Navy Contracts Over Deliveries for Private Account —Approves Priority Board and Administrator to Handle Matter

President Roosevelt issued on Oct. 22 an executive order approving the establishment of a Priorities Board by the Council of National Defense and the Board's designation of an Administrator of Priority; the President, also under the executive order, authorized the Board and the Administrator, in accordance with the Act of June 28, 1940, to grant priority for deliveries of all Army and Navy contracts and orders over all deliveries for private account and for export. The Board will consist of the following members of the National Defense Advisory Commission: William S. Knudsen, industrial production adviser, as Chairman; Edward R. Stettinius Jr., industrial matters adviser, and Leon Henderson, price stabilization adviser. Donald M. Nelson, the Commission's coordinator of purchases, has been named Administrator of Priorities.

In a statement on the objectives of the Board, Administrator Nelson on Oct. 23 said, in part:

> The immediate tasks of the Priorities Board and the Administrator of Priorities will be:
> 1. To establish policies governing operation of the priorities system.
> 2. To adjust differences that cannot be settled by contractors themselves dealing through procurement officers of the War and Navy Departments and the Priorities Committee of the Army and Navy Munitions Board.
> 3. To handle such priority problems as may arise outside the jurisdiction of the Priorities Committee of the Army and Navy Munitions Board.

President Roosevelt Extends Export Licensing System to Cover Military Equipment Containing Optical Elements

The White House announced on Oct. 1 that to further strengthen national defense, President Roosevelt, in a proclamation dated Sept. 30, has placed under the licensing system "fire control instruments, military searchlights, aerial cameras, and other types of military equipment containing optical elements." The statement added that "a study recently completed by the War and Navy Departments disclosed that the rapidly expanding national defense effort has made urgent the control of exports of these vital articles of equipment."

Navy Department Orders 35,091 Reservists to Active Duty—Brings Navy Personnel to Peace-Time Peak of 239,281

The Navy Department on Oct. 5 ordered the Organized Reserves of the Navy and Marine Corps into active service. These reserves consist of 35,091 officers and men, of whom about 7,500 of the fleet reserve are already on active duty. Their addition to active duty brings the Navy's strength to 239,281 officers and enlisted men, which is the highest since World War days. It was explained by the Navy Department that the men are needed to meet fleet requirements and to man the many auxiliary vessels now being acquired. The move parallels the action of the Army in mobilizing the National Guard and is a measure of increased preparedness.

Ruling of Attorney General on Labor Act Violators and Defense Contracts

In an informal opinion, made public on Oct. 3, Attorney General Jackson ruled that companies which in the opinion of the National Labor Relations Board are regarded as having violated the National Labor Relations Act or Wagner Act will be denied Government defense contracts. The Attorney General stipulated, however, that in cases where a conviction of the Labor Board was reversed by the courts, the ruling would not apply. Mr. Jackson's ruling was contained in a letter to Sidney Hillman, labor member of the National Defense Advisory Commission, who had asked the Attorney General for an opinion. Mr. Jackson, in appearing before the Committee of the House, on Oct. 8, undertook to clarify his opinion, saying that it was not intended to mean that companies found to have violated the Labor Act would be denied Government contracts. Attorney General Jackson informed the committee that there is nothing in the law which prevents the War and Navy Departments from negotiating contracts with Labor Act violators.

Federal Appeals Court Upholds Right of Ford Motor Co. to Give Employees Opinions on Unionization—"Intimidation" of Any Labor Group Is Prohibited

The Federal Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati on Oct. 8 handed down a decision sustaining the right of the Ford Motor Co. to distribute pamphlets among its employees giving the company's opinions on labor unions. At the same time the company lost other contentions in its dispute with the National Labor Relations Board over the alleged dismissal of 29 men from the Ford River Rouge plant.

In quoting from the decision, a Cincinnati dispatch of Oct. 8 to the Associated Press said, in part:

In a decision regarded as certain to be appealed to the United States Supreme Court by both sides, the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals set forth these judgments:

1. The Wagner Labor Relations Act does not "sanction an invasion of liberties guaranteed to all citizens by the First Amendment" of the United States Constitution, and set aside a provision of a board order forbidding "dissemination of propaganda" by the Ford Motor Co. among its employees.

2. The company was responsible for a riot at the River Rouge plant May 28, 1937, and the riot was an unfair labor practice.

3. Reinstatement is ordered of 22 workers alleged to have been discharged for activities with the United Automobile Workers of America. One Emil Tomkow is excepted. Five others have found other jobs or moved away and one is dead.

4. John Lindsay, trial examiner who heard the case, "overstepped the bounds of that judicial propriety which contestants have a right to expect," but "injudicious conduct reaches no such clearly prejudicial impropriety as was held to invalidate the decisions of the Board" in other cases.

Oregon Supreme Court Declares Invalid State Anti-Picketing Law

The Oregon Supreme Court on Oct. 22 declared unconstitutional Oregon's anti-picketing law. The decision reversed an earlier ruling of a three-judge Circuit Court in Portland, which held the low constitutional. The law had been approved by the voters of Oregon at the 1938 general elections and was regarded as one of the country's most stringent statutes for the regulation of union activities.

New York Trucking Strike Ended by Two-Year Pact

A trucking strike which began on Oct. 8 in the New York metropolitan area was settled on Oct. 9 through the efforts of Mayor LaGuardia of New York City. Under the terms of the new two-year contract negotiated by the Mayor for local trucks, 8,800 striking members of Local 807 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, American Federation of Labor, won their demand for one week's paid vacation. A similar clause was written into contracts signed Sept. 1, covering 5,000 members of Locals 282 and 816, which did not join the strike.

Newark, N. J., Truck Strike Ends

Short-haul trucks began moving in the Newark, N. J., area on Oct. 21 following settlement of a strike that had tied up local trucking company operations for 20 days. Short-haul companies agreed on Oct. 20 to terms of a settlement which previously had been ratified by long-haul owners and striking members of Local No. 478, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, American Federation of Labor. The settlement provides for a $2 weekly wage increase and two additional holidays a year for drivers, and the establishment of a three-man mediation board comprising union and operators' representatives and a neutral member. Twelve hundred members of the union, 500 long-haul drivers and 700 short-haul, originally went out on strike. The wage increase will be retroactive to Sept. 1.

Greyhound Bus Lines Strike Settled

Settlement of the strike of 250 drivers and ticket-takers of the Greyhound Bus Lines was announced on Nov. 1 by Charles Johnson Post, Commissioner of Conciliation for the Department of Labor. New York "World-Telegram" advices, Nov. 1, said Mr. Post said the union's demands had been met by the company. According to leaders of Local 1202, Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America (American Federation of Labor), the strike was caused by dissatisfaction of employees who were laid off when business was curtailed by coordination of Greyhound and New England Trailways services to New England.

T. H. Brown Resigns as Member of FCC—President Withdraws Nomination for Reappointment

Thad H. Brown, member of the Federal Communications Commission, asked President Roosevelt on Oct. 14 to withdraw his nomination for reappointment to the Commission, and the President on the same day acceded to the request "with reluctance and with very real regret." The appointment was terminated as of Oct. 14. Mr. Roosevelt reappointed Mr. Brown to the FCC on June 5, but the Senate never acted upon it.

Commander H. L. Vickery Made Member of Maritime Commission

The Senate on Sept. 24 confirmed the appointment of Commander Howard L. Vickery, United States Navy, to be a member of the United States Maritime Commission for the unexpired term of five years from April 16, 1937, succeeding Edward C. Moran Jr., resigned. President Roosevelt sent the nomination to the Senate earlier that same day shortly after approving a bill, passed by Congress, allowing Commander Vickery to serve in the civic post. Congressional authorization was necessary since the Commander is on the active list of the Navy.

American Defense and Foreign Policy

War developments in Europe and the Far East continued to throw into high relief, during October, the course adopted by the United States Government in preparing for the military defense of the country against any possible aggression from abroad. Debate also raged continually throughout the month regarding the foreign policy pursued by President Roosevelt and his New Deal advisers. In neither sphere can it be said that results of the Administration endeavors were viewed with any great and general satisfaction. Remarkably little actual progress toward real defense arrangements seems to have been made, but it is possible that the heat of the election campaign served to emphasize some of the delinquencies without weighting the strong naval force of the country. The foreign policy seemed to many close observers inclined more than ever toward involvement of the United States in the foreign conflicts. Strong assurances were held out by President Roosevelt, in the course of his third term electioneering effort, to the effect that American youths never will be called upon to serve in any foreign war, unless the country is attacked. The very fervor of the presidential assurances, however, only made it ever more manifest that the distrust aroused on the subject could not easily by allayed.

That the Nation earnestly desired every effort to be made for adequate defense, regardless of cost, was indicated in the early days of October by Congress, quite as it had been made plain during previous debates. The vast outlays for increased naval, land and aerial armaments were augmented still more early last month. An appropriation of $1,482,000,000 was voted by Congress to defray the initial costs of conscription, and Mr. Roosevelt signed the bill Oct. 8. On the following day the President signed the so-called excess profits tax bill, which adds still more to the overburdensome taxes on corporate profits and which is so complicated that eminent members of Congress apologized for their own lack of understanding of the bill which they approved. Immense contracts for the construction of new warships, airplanes and guns promptly were let, and by the end of October the governmental machinery was turning millions of dollars into the industrial stream for such purposes, most of the money necessarily representing an addition to the deficit financing which long has been a main reliance of the Roosevelt Administration. One curious circumstance of the defense program was the purchase by the Navy of a number of luxurious yachts from private owners, this action contrasting sharply with the recent transfer of 50 overage American destroyers to Great Britain, ostensibly because they were not necessary to American defense.

Conscription Begins

Perhaps the most prominent aspect of the defense arrangements of the last month was the formal start of conscription, effected through the registration of approximately 16,000,000 American men of ages from 21 to 35, inclusive, and the drawing of numbers which will determine in a national lottery the order of their appearance for one-year terms of training. The registration for "selective service" was accomplished quietly on Oct. 16, and President Roosevelt marked the occasion by a radio address in which he maintained that the day was one of "deep and purposeful meaning in the lives of all of us." Some 800,000 men are to be called into service in the first year of the draft, and about 1,000,000 men in every succeeding year, the President pointed out. "Those who have dared to threaten the whole world with war—those who have created the name and deed of total war—have imposed upon us and upon all free peoples the necessity of preparation for total defense," he said. To the 16,000,000 registrants the President extended assurances that they were acting in the cause of democracy and the cause of youth. The next step in the conscription plan was taken Oct. 31, when numbers were drawn from a bowl in Washington to determine the order of service of the registrants. Mr. Roosevelt once again spoke over the radio and referred to the sad events on other continents which have occasioned the conscription moves. He also asserted that the United States Government will devote all thought and energy to the maintenance of the dignity, the prosperity and the peace of our country.

Crises and Pledges

International crises followed each other with rapid succession in October, and each brought its peculiar reaction from the Roosevelt Administration in Washington. The exigencies of the election campaign occasioned still other declarations, all of them designed to emphasize peaceful intentions. The result of all these occurrences and declarations can only be described as thoroughly confusing. Steps along the road to war unquestionably were taken early in October, as in previous months. So ominous was the situation for a time that the gravest fears were entertained in all quarters of moves that might plunge the United States into the cauldron of war. The Berlin-Rome-Tokio pact of Sept. 27 made it evident that embroilment of the United States in any quarter of the globe promptly would mean involvement in all the wars currently in progress. It can be argued, indeed, that the totalitarians made their agreement out of fear that the United States soon would take warlike measures. No doubt existed in any mind that the Axis-Japanese pact was aimed at the United States, and all the evidence indicates that Mr. Roosevelt promptly took up the challenge. Fortunately, the decisions of the potential opponents of the United States were for peace.

The principal crisis involving the United States was created with respect to the Far East, and it is to be noted that Japanese spokesmen contributed a full share to the difficulties. War was said in Japan to be the inevitable end of further "challenging" by the United States of the Axis-Japanese dictators. These comments were made Oct. 5, and on the same day Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox stated in Washington that "if a fight is forced upon us we shall be ready." After obvious consultations between the British and United States Governments, Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced in the London House of Commons, Oct. 8, that the Burma Road would be reopened Oct. 18, after expiration of the existing Anglo-Japanese agreement to close the avenue of supply for China during a trial period of three months. The expectation that Japan would reach an agreement with China had been unfulfilled, Mr. Churchill said, and the road thus would be thrown open again. At the same moment when Mr. Churchill was making this momentous declaration in London, the State Department in Washington disclosed that advice had been given Americans in Japan, China and similar areas to return rapidly to the United States. Somewhat ostentatiously, Lord Lothian, the British Ambassador to Washington, indicated concurrently that he was delaying a vacation trip to London because "they think there may be a general crisis in the Far East." Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles conferred hastily with the Soviet Ambassador, Constantine Oumansky, giving rise to the assumption that improved relations with Russia were sought as an offset to possible involvement in the war. Secretary Knox disclosed on Oct. 9 that 4,200 recruits were being sent to the Pacific Coast to bring to full strength the Main Fleet, which remains in the Pacific. In London it was announced formally that conversations are in progress looking toward Anglo-American cooperation in the Pacific.

The impression in Tokio, frequently expressed by the Japanese press, was that American influence had induced London to reopen the Rurma Road, and a corresponding antipathy for the United States was aroused. The American embargo on the exportation of scrap iron and aviation gasoline, which was made progressively more effective and sweeping, confirmed the Japanese in their suspicions. It was also apparent, however, that the Japanese were far from anxious to take on the United States and Great Britain jointly, in addition to the Chinese. Reopening of the Burma Road, accordingly was permitted to pass by the Japanese without immediate repercussions. The aviators of the Island Empire promptly bombed the terminus of the road in China, and later on they bombed a number of bridges, all with the aim of rendering the supply line inadequate to the Chungking Nationalist Government of China. This brought about a modest decrease of the tension with respect to the Far East, but other moves were in store. British authorities on Oct. 22 warned their nationals in Japan and the Japanese-occupied areas of China to depart immediately. Jesse H. Jones, Federal Loan Administrator, made it known in Washington that fresh advances might soon be made to China, over and above the $85,000,000 previously pledged to that country. Parts for American submarines were reported on the way to Hongkong, and no denial was issued in Washington. Pressure obviously was brought to bear upon The Netherlands East Indies Government to prevent enlargement of the oil supply to Japan from that region, and Mexico canceled a contract to supply oil to Japan. But the Japanese authorities merely resumed their campaigning against the Chinese, and for the time being these incidents failed to involve the United States in conflict.

European war developments prompted actions by the Roosevelt Administration which also carried the seeds of conflict. The most indicative step was the dispatch of a note to the French Government at Vichy, Oct. 24, in which the United States was officially stated to have warned the French against military collaboration with the Rome-Berlin Axis. If such collaboration develops, it was indicated, the military occupation of Martinique, French Guiana and other French possessions in this hemisphere would follow. Such action, according to Secretary of State Cordell Hull, would be taken by the American republics as a group, operating under the Havana convention. Assurances promptly were extended by the French Government that no military collaboration was involved in conversations being conducted by French officials with the Rome-Berlin authorities. When German troops appeared in Rumania the Treasury Department in Washington on Oct. 10 ordered the "freezing" of about $100,000,000 of Rumanian funds in the United States. The Italian invasion of Greece on Oct. 28, however, failed to bring from the Administration an application of the Neutrality Act, and the Treasury Department refrained from "freezing" Greek balances. Italian airplanes bombed some American-owned oil properties in Saudi-Arabia, and the State Department immediately protested to Italy. Small steps, designed to irritate Germany, were announced from time to time. But it was widely rumored that the United States had released to Great Britain many of the so-called "flying fortresses" and also the famed American bomb-sight, and no denials were issued. Mr. Roosevelt entertained at Hyde Park, on Oct. 20, the Earl of Athlone, Governor General of Canada.

The apprehensions aroused by this obvious lack of genuine neutrality in Washington were augmented for a time by official statements which seemed to reflect a leaning toward Great Britain which might readily involve the United States in conflict. President Roosevelt asserted on Oct. 12 that the United States not only will continue to pile up armaments in its own behalf, but would "continue to help those who resist aggression, and who now hold the aggressors far from our shores." This statement of official policy gained additional emphasis when Mr. Roosevelt disclosed at Boston, Oct. 30, that British authorities already had contracted for 14,000 airplanes in the United States and were seeking priority for 12,000 additional airplanes. Mr. Roosevelt stated that he favored such prior deliveries to Great Britain. The Treasury Department in Washington revealed on Oct. 31 that conversations had been held with British agents for the construction in the United States of large numbers of standardized freight ships. These and other measures provoked repeated calls for clarification of the foreign policy being pursued by Mr. Roosevelt, but the demands for frank explanations were ignored in Washington. The result, however, was a decided general apprehension of war involvement, and in the electoral campaign Mr. Roosevelt finally took at least some note of the clamor.

The statements made by the President in the course of the electioneering were invariably general, and they failed to carry conviction to those best informed on the real significance of foreign events. That the intentions of the Roosevelt Administration are pacific was stated on Oct. 21 by William C. Bullitt, our Ambassador to France, and on Oct. 29 by Joseph P. Kennedy, our Ambassador to Great Britain. Both speeches were made in the United States, and both were simple election documents. The speech by Mr. Bullitt was disregarded as of no importance, but some attention was paid to Mr. Kennedy, who is highly regarded in some circles. Assurances were extended by the Bostonian that no commitments had been made regarding entry into the war. Mr. Roosevelt began a series of campaign speeches at Philadelphia, Oct. 23, and he declared at the outset that the Administration has no secret understandings with any foreign Power. This note was repeated again and again by the President in his subsequent campaign addresses, but it failed to carry conviction, since his performance with the exchange of 50 American destroyers for a number of British base sites in the Western Hemisphere has cast doubt upon any assurances of this nature by Mr. Roosevelt.

Latin America

Relations between the United States and the 20 Latin American republics remained highly amicable during October, with occasional indications available of Washington influence beyond anything common in recent years. The Mexican Government, for instance, cancelled an oil contract with Japan just when it seemed quite in accord with Washington policy to have the incident occur. There was no official connection, of course, but the inescapable inference was that Mexico was bowing to the wishes of the Roosevelt Administration. Whether any promise of a loan to Mexico from the $500,000,000 fund voted by Congress was involved is not yet clear. It is well known, however, that Mexico would like to receive some $50,000,000 of the money. Cuba is an aspirant for a like sum, and is officially on record as hoping that Uncle Sam will extend such a loan. The Argentine authorities were rumored to be in the market for a loan of $100,000,000 from the Export-Import Bank of Washington, which is the agency for extension of funds from the $500,000,000 fund. Only relatively small loans actually were made in October, however, with Brazil the recipient of a contract for $20,000,000 on Oct. 30, in addition to the $20,000,000 advance to that country announced in September, for construction of steel plants. Warren Lee Pierson, President of the Export-Import Bank, toured Latin America from Oct. 3 to 21, and announced on his return that he had found no desire on the part of responsible officials anywhere to incur unnecessary obligations. Military missions from almost all the 20 republics appeared in Washington during October, and after receptions by President Roosevelt they toured American armaments and other plants.

Aerial Blitzkrieg

Intensified fighting was continued throughout October by Great Britain and the Rome-Berlin Axis Powers, with aerial activity of first importance, while sea fighting and diplomatic activity ranked about equally after the struggle in the air for direct and immediate conquest. It cannot be said that anything like a decision was reached in the sky struggle, which was conducted principally over Great Britain, with fliers of the British air forces raiding German ports and industrial cities almost every day, and Italian points on occasion. Immense destruction was wrought, however, in London and other British cities by the German bombers, and in Berlin and German centers generally by the British fliers. Two incidents of major importance occurred, meanwhile, which may well exert a major influence upon the eventual outcome of the conflict. Rumania was placed completely under the heel of the German-Italian conquerors of the European Continent, and Greece was invaded by Italian forces. The apparent aim of these Nazi-Fascist maneuvers was to obtain supplies from all of the Bankan Peninsula and to drive the British fleet out of the Mediterranean. Success in such endeavors would mean, of course, that Berlin and Rome would have important objectives within their grasp, with British fighting rendered comparably more difficult. To all appearances, efforts were made by the Axis partners to enlist France and Spain in a campaign against Great Britain, of a like nature, but this aim was unrealized at the end of October.

The aerial activity represented a continuance of the bombing attacks that began on an "all-out" scale on Sept. 7, so far as the German bombing of Great Britain is concerned. British bombing of German centers was started several months earlier, and for a time the Berlin authorities endeavored to assert that mere "retaliation" was the aim in the bombing of London. But such contentions were abandoned as the German attack progressed. As in some of the September episodes, hundreds of German airplanes attacked the British Isles at times during October. The assaults were especially heavy whenever weather conditions were favorable, and it is unfortunately necessary to record that the weather did not interfere greatly with the lethal attacks during the early part of October. Late that month fogs spread a protecting blanket over England, and they diminished the German attacks at times. But such intermissions were only occasional. Day after day the dispatches, although highly censored, told of the dropping of explosive and incendiary bombs over much of the London area, and especially over the wharves in the great U-bend of the Thams River below the Tower Bridge. Immense fires resulted, and it is hardly to be doubted that destruction was widespread and costly. The warehouse fires at times lighted up all of London as though daylight had returned, and the glare made the targets of the German attackers easily visible. The Nazi fliers attacked in daylight early in the month, usually in great squadrons which the British fliers promptly attacked with their speedy Spitfire and Hurricane airplanes. Large numbers of German airplanes were shot down in this manner, and many others succumbed to intense anti-aircraft fire.

The methods of attack by the Germans began to vary, in mid-October, owing to the heavy losses experienced as a consequence of the able British defense. In place of the daylight squadrons, single airplanes or groups of twos and threes appeared over England while daylight lingered, and larger attacks then were made at night. The obvious aim was to keep Great Britain on edge, with continual air-raid warnings, and prevent production in factories from proceeding according to schedule. Varying their tactics continually, the Germans sometimes appeared over the British Isles in great force during daylight hours, even during the latter days of October. The greatest attacks, however, usually were made at night, and all accounts indicate that the dark hours were hideous throughout October. In the final week of that month the Germans began to attack Birmingham and the Midlands in force, and heavy bombing raids also were made against Liverpool and other ports. Wharves and warehouses were bombed repeatedly, with a view not only to terrorization of the populace, but curtailment of armaments and other production and the destruction of port facilities. The censors prevented any adequate accounts of the military and industrial damage from reaching the United States. They permitted long and detailed reports to go through, however, of the bombing of British churches, hospitals and historic buildings in the London area. The people of the great British metropolis found their living conditions increasingly more precarious, and the shallow air-raid shelters occasionally crashed into ruins as heavy bombs fell on the structures. Toward the end of October fears were entertained of epidemics, if prompt relief were not forthcoming. That the Germans were able to modify British airplane manufacture was admitted by the London authorities concerned with that phase of British defense. The Reich superiority of aircraft, in a numerical sense, was conceded even in London. During the early days of October each side continued to claim the downing of about three to four adversary fighters to every home airplane lost. But in the latter weeks of the month these disparities no longer were so great.

The British bombing airplanes flew over Nazi territory almost every night during October, operations being halted only when fog, snow or ice hampered the fliers. Great damage was caused to Berlin power plants and factories, according to the London authorities, who based their reports not only on the direct statements of their own fliers, but also on accounts received through neutral sources. Hamburg was bombed periodically, and the great shipbuilding works in the chief German ports suffered similarly. Ruhr industrial plants were attacked again and again, while some flights finally were made to the great synthetic oil works in East Prussia and even to the Skoda armaments plant at Pilsen, in Czechoslovakia. All raids of the long-distance variety were conducted at night by the British bombers, but some daylight activity was noted in the so-called "invasion ports" across the English Channel, where German barges and ships were reported concentrated for an eventual attack against British shores. The British fliers reported on a number of occasions that they had broken up concentrations of German forces which seemed to be preparing for an invasion effort. The London authorities affected to discern in certain reports, at one time, that the Germans had made an invasion effort on Sept. 16, but it was later admitted that nothing was known officially in London of any such Nazi attempt. British fliers dropped bombs occasionally upon Turin and other Italian towns, and at the start of November they reached Naples with a heavy cargo of bombing missiles. But the Italians late in October joined their German comrades in the aerial assault upon the United Kingdom, and all the indications pointed to ever greater raids of this dire nature.

Official accounts of the fighting were made available in October only from the British side. Prime Minister Winston Churchill reported to the House of Commons on military and diplomatic matters on Oct. 8 and again on Oct. 15. An account of a general nature was rendered by Mr. Churchill on Oct. 21, in the course of a radio broadcast to the French people. In his statement on Oct. 8 Mr. Churchill admitted that nearly 400 airplanes flew over British territory every day, on the average, but he affected to see a decided waning of the German attack. Although property losses in London had been huge, it would require 10 years of continual attack on the German scale to lay London waste, the Prime Minister declared. He emphasized the brilliant victories won by British fighter aircraft over the numerically superior German forces, and asserted that British fliers hold the mastery of the air over Great Britain. In his report of Oct. 15 Mr. Churchill was less explicit, possibly because German airplanes intensified their raids in the meanwhile. Pressed by a Member of Parliament to outline the British war aims, Mr. Churchill merely said that winning of the war is the first consideration and that other problems can well be deferred until that aim is accomplished. In his general appeal to the French people, Mr. Churchill urged them not to help Germany if they cannot aid England. After vilifying Herr Hitler roundly, Mr. Churchill declared that the British aim is to "beat the life and soul" out of the German leader. He claimed that England would be able to take the aerial superiority of the Germans away in 1941. This address followed conversations between Chancellor Adolf Hitler and Premier Benito Mussolini, which obviously concerned the next steps to be taken by the Axis dictators in the conduct of the war.

On the high seas the fighting began to reach an intensive stage late in October, owing to greatly increased submarine activity by the Germans. British spokesmen made it clear that ample food stocks are held in the United Kingdom, and that no danger exists of a real shortage. These assurances probably were intended to offset the growing discontent in England with the small available butter and bacon supplies, and to counter any fears of wharf destruction by the Germans on a scale that would make the discharge of ship cargoes almost impossible. The accuracy of the official British statements is hardly to be disputed, but a good deal of uneasiness prevailed, nevertheless, owing to the heightened German submarine activities of late October. In the single week ended Oct. 21 Great Britain admitted the sinking of no less than 32 British merchantmen totaling 146,528 tons, and 13 neutral and Allied ships also were lost, raising the total tonnage destruction to 198,030 tons. Berlin advanced the claim on Oct. 26 that the great British luxury liner Empress of Britain, of 42,348 tons, had gone down under aerial and submarine attacks, and London admitted this loss two days later. German aerial bombers were said in Berlin to have created havoc among British convoys, in the final days of October, and all the indications thus pointed to severe destruction of British shipping, which is vital to the continuance of the conflict by London. The British Government, on the other hand, now possesses 50 American "overage' destroyers which are said to be useful in convoy work, and it may be that German destructiveness will tell less against the English than might otherwise be the case.

France and Spain

That new arrangements were under consideration in Europe during October, with respect to the positions of France and Spain in the great conflict now raging, was made evident on Oct. 21 by Prime Minister Winston Churchill of England. The speech of the British official, designed especially to reach the French people, coincided with a sudden increase of diplomatic activity between the Berlin-Rome Axis authorities and the highest officials of the French and Spanish Governments. Mr. Churchill appealed to France at least to refrain from hindering England if she cannot help her. He declared that Chancellor Hitler has resolved on "nothing less than the complete wiping out of the French nation and the disintegration of its whole life and future." This address was the first formal intimation of extensive conferences which developed on the Continent, between German and Italian authorities on the one hand, and French and Spanish officials on the other. The precise nature of these discussions has not been disclosed, but it is easy to surmise that the Axis endeavored to persuade French and Spanish spokesmen to ally themselves with the Nazi-Fascist combination, with a view to action against the British Navy in the Western Mediterranean.

The subsequent march of the Italians against Greece appears to be aimed primarily against British naval strength in the Eastern Mediterranean, and that incident bolsters the initial impression spread in neutral circles by the talks in France.

Somewhere in France, according to the brief official announcements, Chancellor Hitler conferred on Oct. 22 with Pierre Laval, who is second in command to Marshal Philippe Henri Petain in the Vichy regime of France. This led to the assumption that Berlin was endeavoring to negotiate a complete French participation in the Axis war against England. Nor were the portents unfavorable to the German cause, for the British shelling of the French fleet at Oran and the Dakar incident of September had aroused a degree of French antagonism toward the former British ally of France. After the initial conversations between Herr Hitler and M. Laval, which subsequent disclosures indicated occurred at Paris, Marshal Petain met the German Fuehrer in person on Oct. 24. It was widely rumored that permanent peace terms were under discussion, and there is no reason to doubt these reports. It would seem, however, that any German overtures for full French participation in the war against England gained anything but a sympathetic hearing. Assurances were extended by French authorities that no such development was likely, and that the German-French conversations concerned matters of supply for "free" France. The German Foreign Minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, attended the Paris conferences, and M. Laval conferred also with the Italian Foreign Minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano. These talks occasioned an obvious conflict within the French Cabinet, for Foreign Minister Paul Baudoin resigned his post on Oct. 28, and M. Laval took over the Ministry. Benefits to French war prisoners, reduced army of occupation costs, and a return of the French Government to Paris finally were said to be the matters under discussion at Paris. But it is obvious that the talks far transcended these questions, important though they are.

The Spanish position in the war plainly was explored in the course of an official talk on the Franco-Spanish border, Oct. 23, between Chancellor Hitler and the Spanish Generalissimo, Francisco Franco. Herr von Ribbentrop attended Herr Hitler, while Foreign Minister Ramon Serrano Suner, the newly-appointed official of the Spanish regime, accompanies General Franco. Little was made known as to the course of this conversation, but the Spanish press speculated on the "great events' that were to follow. No such events actually occurred, leading to the surmise that the German and Spanish authorities either failed to see eye to eye, or else decided that the time is not yet ripe for Spanish action in the European war. In most informed circles the assumption was that General Franco was urged to undertake an attack against the British stronghold of Gibraltar, which the Spanish Government wishes to regain in any event. The subsequent Italian attack on Greece provides a virtual guaranty that such was the substance of the talks, but the Spanish hesitation introduces elements suggesting aloofness despite the debt that Fascist Spain unquestionably owes to Italy and the Reich. Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini met in Florence on Oct. 28, obviously for an exchange of views on the general situation, but nothing was made known of the discussion, other than the usual comment that it was "most cordial."

Balkan Peninsula

Rumania fell completely under German domination in October, and Italy began to war against the Grecians, indicating that the stalemate on the Western European battle-front finds no parallel in the highly important Balkan Peninsula, or in the equally significant Mediterranean region. That the Germans and Italians are making a dual thrust into the Eastern regions was evidenced by the events. There is no denying, moreover, that these measures contain drastic threats to the security and even the continuance of the British Empire. The Italian campaign against the British forces in Egypt was conducted in a desultory manner, last month, owing to the difficulties of transportation and the lack of water. But the Egyptians carefully refrained from declaring war against the Italians, which suggests a fear of the Rome-Berlin Axis which doubtless exists throughout the Near East. British airplanes bombed Italian positions from time to time, and Italian airmen retaliated. The aerial conflict was carried to Greece when that country finally was involved in the struggle, and from Grecian bases the British were able to bomb Naples. But this sort of activity is of relatively minor importance, as against the great and grave issues involved in the German-Italian diplomatic and military drive eastward.

The problem in the Mediterranean and the Near East is not only one of supply, but of diplomatic and military prestige and prowess. In the background stands the Soviet Union, of course, and the effect of recent moves upon Moscow is not to be discounted. The drive southward by the Axis partners probably convinces Russia that her own territory will not be threatened immediately, which means, in turn, that the Axis may well be left unhindered by the Russian power. If the apparent aim to gain control over the Mediterranean is realized by the Axis it will mean not only vastly improved communications for the Germans and Italians with African and Near East supply sources, but also a setback for Great Britain in the Far East from which the Empire would not readily recover. The peoples of Arabia, Mesopotamia, India and the warring Powers of China and Japan hardly could fail to note the transfer of power, and even portions of Africa might readily reflect any change. These matters suggest that a desperate game was started, for high stakes, when the Germans and Italians decided to challenge Great Britain in the Mediterranean. The assult was not immediately upon the British fleet, which still holds proud control of the Middle Sea, but rather upon countries that looked to England for protection.

Rumania fell under the Nazi sway early in October, in a manner that seems hardly reasonable, in view of the German insistence upon partition of the Balkan State. It was largely at Reich insistence that Rumania gave up Bessarabia to Russia, the southern Dobrudja to Bulgaria, and much of Transylvania to Hungary. Although Rumania thus was reduced virtually to pre-World War frontiers, the new regime headed by Premier Ion Antonescu decided on Oct. 5 to come out wholeheartedly as a fascist organization, allied with the Rome-Berlin Axis. Premier Antonescu donned the garb of the Rumanian Iron Guard, on that day, and thus indicated his allegiance to the fascist group in his own country. A German military contingent promptly began to move down the Danube, and British business men and oil experts literally were expelled from Rumania. First reports indicated that no less than 50,000 German military men were moving into Rumania, but it appeared subsequently that only relatively small groups of technicians actually were involved in the first troop transport. Late in October the German contingents reputedly were increased, in preparation for a march against Greece in the event that British troops were landed at Salonika, Greece. But no official reports were available.

The Italian military expedition against Greece began at dawn on Oct. 28, after pro-forma exchanges of notes and an Italian ultimatum. Attacks by Italian warships and airplanes against Grecian ships last summer robbed the latest move of any element of surprise, but it remained highly perturbing, owing to the implications. Reports suddenly emanated from Italy that Greek troops were moving over the frontier into Italian-occupied Albania. This was followed on Oct. 26 by the presentation of an Italian ultimatum to Greece, but just before the ultimatum expired, early on Oct. 28, the Italian mountain regiments swarmed over the border and started an invasion which may well have historic repercussions. Aided by airplanes, the Italians moved swiftly into Greek territory, at first, but more and more slowly as they encountered the opposition of the main body of Greek troops. A two-pronged invasion was attempted, one fork leading to the populous portions of southern Greece and the other straight eastward toward Salonika. It was indicated in Italian circles that no real desire to make war against Greece existed in Italy, the real aim being to defeat Great Britain in the Mediterranean. Broad hints were thrown out that matters might be adjusted if the Grecians dethroned King George II and replaced Premier John Metaxas, who are known to be friendly to Great Britain. Greece was accused by the Italians of having made bases available to England, and the impression was fostered that the Italian attack was designed to gain bases for an attack on the Mediterranean power of England. But the Grecians fought back valiantly, and at the end of October the signs pointed toward a full war between Italy and Greece, with German forces hovering to the north and the British fleet on the southern flank of the unfortunate Greeks.

The problem of aid to the Greeks arose immediately, for it was clear that Athens could not hope to resist the Rome-Berlin Axis indefinitely without ample aid. The Greek alliances with Great Britain and with Turkey presumably were invoked immediately. From London came the assurance of naval support, which promptly was implemented through mining of the waters around Hellas. Early in November the British were reported officially to be landing troops in Greece, but it appeared that the landings were on the island of Crete. The essential requirement, of course, is a strong British force at Salonika, for the Greeks could not hope otherwise to repulse a German thrust southward from Rumania and Bulgaria, but there were no indications of British aid to Greece in this sphere. The Turkish Government was subjected, according to all accounts, to immense diplomatic pressure from Berlin, and consultations were reported to be taking place between Ankara and Moscow. The immediate upshot was that Turkey decided not to take a hand in the conflict, although the alliance with Greece was specifically for the purpose of mutual action in the event of an Italian attack. Athens excused the Turkish attitude by claiming ability to meet the Italian attack unaided, but this declaration did not delude anyone. The fact appeared to be that Turkey withheld action because Great Britain failed to come to the full assistance of Greece, and the possibility thus arose of still another cheap victory by the German-Italian combination, in a sphere that must be regarded as vitally important.

Indian Nationalism

Some uncertainty began to exist in October regarding the attitude of the Indian Nationalists, headed by Mahatma Gandhi, to the European conflict and to the endless conversations between British authorities and Indian leaders regarding the status of India in the British Empire. During the early months of the current European war every effort was made by the adherents of Mohandas K. Gandhi to avoid needless friction with the London Government, which resolutely has refused to make concessions to the Indians. The British principle of avoiding discussions proved a workable one until October. The Nationalists indicated, indeed, that they might engage in a full-scale war support of England, in return for definite assurances of an early accession to full Dominion status. But the patience of the Indian Nationalists apparently wore thin, for on Sept. 17 Mr. Gandhi was placed in full charge of the Nationalist Congress, and a decided change in sentiment developed thereafter. A determined pacifict, Mr. Gandhi insisted that non-violent anti-war propaganda must increase, without carrying civil disobedience to the point where it might endanger the British war effort. This brought up the problem of freedom of speech, which Mr. Gandhi began to discuss with the Marquess of Linlithgow, Viceroy of India. Agreement proved impossible, for Lord Linlithgow insisted that anti-war agitation would not be tolerated. The venerable Indian leader thereupon permitted some of his associates to engage in such propaganda, and the agitators promptly were arrested by the British authorities. The strain in British-Indian relations waxed throughout October, with results that are beyond prediction.

Steel Trade—Non-Ferrous Metals

The steel trade reported that orders continue to accumulate in a volume much above shipments, with deliveries lengthening and backlogs increasing, steel production rising to the highest rate in over 11 years and scrap prices reaching new high levels for the current year. In its issue of Oct. 31 the "Iron Age" stated in part: "Announcement of a presidential decree setting up the machinery for a priority system over all private industry and the appointment of a Priorities Board of the National Defense Advisory Commission was immediately followed by a fresh rush of orders, particularly from those consumers and distributors who had not hitherto provided ample protection against the future possibility of restricted supplies for non-military purposes. Even though the voluntary system of preferential rating of defense orders has been working satisfactorily in the steel industry and may be continued for some time to come, the growth in the volume of business for national defense and the lengthening of deliveries of many steel products have given rise to greater concern over future supplies among commercial users of steel. October business has been the largest for any month this year. A few companies have doubled their September volume, while others gained from 15% to 30%. Some companies have thus far in 1940 booked as much business as in all of 1939, not forgetting the heavy ordering in September and October of last year. Most of the steel companies are not accepting any blanket commitments for the first quarter, insisting upon complete specifications and dates of shipments. Another important development was an advance in pig iron prices announced by the Pittsburgh Coke & Iron Co., applying only to Youngstown, Ohio, and Sharpsville, Pa., and amounting to $1.50 a ton on foundry, malleable and bessemer grades and $2 on basic grade. This was followed by the calling of conferences of producers with the price stabilization division of the National Defense Advisory Commission similar to those held recently in connection with scrap iron and steel. Nearly all major steel-using industries, with the exception of oil and can companies, are contributing heavily to current buying, the railroads buying steadily but not in heavy volume. Automobile production for the last week of October reached a new high for the year." The magazine "Steel" of Cleveland on Nov. 4 said, in part: "No signs of slackening demand, specifications or shipments in the steel industry for many weeks to come are yet visible, with evidences of still greater sales volume and more extended deliveries before the end of the year. Consumers, realizing the possible dangers ahead, are cooperating more closely with producers by anticipating needs more thoroughly, specifying on contracts more promptly and refraining from mere speculative buying. Consumers, too, wish the steel industry itself to ration steel without the issuance of priorities by Washington. Prices are the firmest in many years. October production of coke pig iron is estimated at 4,384,194 net tons, as against actual September output of 4,172,551 tons, or 141,426 tons daily compared with 139,085 tons daily for September, the latter having been a record for September since figures were compiled. A total of 196 stacks were in active service at Oct. 31, a gain of four over the close of the preceding month." The "Iron Age" composite price of steel scrap was increased from $20.29 a gross ton to $20.54 on Oct. 1, to $20.62 on Oct. 8, and to $20.67 on Oct. 15, the highest level since Oct. 31, 1939, and $1.83 below the 1939 high established early in October of that year. No change was reported in the "Iron Age" composite prices of finished steel and pig iron, which remained at 2.261c. a pound and $22.61 a gross ton, respectively.

The operating rate of steel companies having approximately 97% of the steel capacity of the industry, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute, was scheduled at 95.7% for the week beginning Oct. 28, 1940 (or at the highest level since June, 1929, when an identical rate was attained), and compares with 94.9% for the week beginning Oct. 21, 1940; 94.4% for the preceding seven-day period; 94.2% for the week beginning Oct. 7, 1940, and 92.6% for the week beginning Sept. 30, 1940. At the close of October, 1939, steel operations were reported to be at the rate of 91.0% of capacity; in the corresponding period of 1938 at 56.8%, and in the same week of 1937 at 52.1%.

As to non-ferrous metals, "Metal and Mineral Markets" during the month under review reported in substance as follows: Consumption of major non-ferrous metals continues on a high plane, with consumers still anxious for forward material because of the mounting volume of defense orders. Demand for copper was in good volume, sales for the week ended Oct. 29 amounting to 21,316 tons, as compared with 39,349 tons in the preceding week, 34,438 tons in the week ended Oct. 15, 17,764 tons in the week ended Oct. 8, and 19,239 tons in the week ended Oct. 1. Sales of domestic copper for the month to Oct. 29 totaled 117,828 tons, which compare with 254,976 tons for the full month of September, said to be the highest on record. The price of copper remained firm at 12.00c., Connecticut Valley basis. Demand for lead continued in good volume, sales for the week ended Oct. 30 totaling 10,598 tons, as against 14,964 tons in the preceding seven-day period, 10,882 tons in the week ended Oct. 16, 7,220 tons in the week ended Oct. 9, and 16,701 tons in the week ended Oct. 2. The domestic price of lead was increased from 5.00c., New York, to 5.25c., on Oct. 10, and further to 5.50c. on Oct. 16, or to the highest level since Jan. 27, when it was quoted on the same basis. Demand for zinc was fairly active, sales of common grades amounting to 10,671 tons for the week ended Oct. 26, as compared with 3,993 tons for the preceding week, 9,718 tons for the week ended Oct. 12, 11,463 tons for the week ended Oct. 5, and 9,180 tons for the week ended Sept. 28. Unfilled orders for zinc totaled 104,857 tons at Oct. 26, the quotation for that metal holding at 7.64c., New York, and 7.25c., St. Louis, throughout the month. Buying of tin was on a modest scale, with buyers showing virtually no interest at the close of the month, and the price situation underwent little change, closing at 51.25c., New York, on Oct. 31, as against 51.50c. at the end of September. The operating rate of the tin-plate industry rose from 40% to 44% of capacity.

Lumber Movement

According to reports to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association from regional associations covering the operations of hardwood and softwood mills, lumber production during the week ended Oct. 26, 1940, was 3% less, shipments 5% greater, and new business 10% greater than in the preceding week. Compared with the corresponding week of 1939, production, shipments and new business showed increases of 2%, 6% and 45%, respectively. The industry stood at 76% of the seasonal weekly average of 1929 production and 91% of average 1929 shipments.

Reported production, shipments and new business for the 43 weeks ended Oct. 26, 1940, were, respectively, 8%, 6% and 7% in excess of the same figures for the corresponding period of 1939. For the 43 weeks of 1940 new business and shipments were 9% and 5%, respectively, above output.

The ratio of unfilled orders to gross stocks was 32% on Oct. 26, 1940, compared with 25% a year previous. Unfilled orders were 23% greater than at the same time last year; gross stocks were 3% less.

During the week ended Oct. 26, 1940, a total of 499 mills produced 255,452,000 feet of softwoods and hardwoods combined, shipped 283,662,000 feet, and booked orders of 297,294,000 feet. Revised figures for the five preceding weeks follows:

Week Ended	No. of Mills	Production (Feet)	Shipments (Feet)	Orders Received (Feet)
Oct. 19, 1940	508	263,311,000	270,556,000	271,334,000
Oct. 12, 1940	510	259,072,000	279,474,000	298,978,000
Oct. 5, 1940	500	255,651,000	288,847,000	276,097,000
Sept. 28, 1940	506	269,542,000	294,690,000	295,116,000
Sept. 21, 1940	514	278,086,000	311,128,000	313,760,000

Hides, Leather and Footwear

The First National Bank of Boston, in its "New England Letter," under date of Oct. 30 comments upon these markets as follows:

"The fall shoe season has progressed favorably and output for the second half of the year is expected to be moderately above the first six months' total of 192,527,000 pairs. Although production in September declined more than seasonally below the peak output of August, some improvement is estimated to have taken place in October. Most of the distributor buying of fall and winter footwear has been completed, however, and so orders from now on will consist principally of fill-in requirements. Production, accordingly, is expected to decline seasonally in November.

"Prospects point to an early start on the spring shoe run. Retail sales of footwear for several months have compared favorably with production, notwithstanding an appreciable slackening in public buying during September. Stocks are in a healthy condition and thereby form a sound foundation for the spring season. The growing interest of many manufacturers in Government shoe orders and the strengthening tendency of footwear prices under the influence of rising hide and leather quotations accordingly may draw buyers into the market earlier than usual. Some mail order houses already have placed specifications for staple lines to be delivered late in the year, while other distributors aim to assure themselves of prompt deliveries by placing initial orders for spring in the next few weeks.

"Sole leather and all grades of upper leather have sold in good volume, with many buyers anticipating a substantial portion of their spring requirements. Prices have registered strong advances with side leather rising 25% over August. Calf leather is approximately at the peak level of last October. Patent leather is beginning to move about one month earlier than usual. Stocks of sole leather have benefited through important purchases by Russian interests. Tanning operations all along the line have increased seasonally and the industry is sold well ahead.

"The domestic hide market has continued the rise which began late in August. Quotations have advanced roughly 50% and in some cases are the best since last December. The hide futures market also has spurted after having lagged behind the spot market for several weeks. This more normal relationship between spots and futures has attracted traders to the Chicago packer market in competition with tanners, and substantial quantities of hides have changed hands.

"Buenos Aires steer prices have followed the domestic market with recent sales priced at 12⅞c. per pound as compared with 8½c. in August. During the summer the Argentine packers depended upon England and the United States for 90% of their hide exports, whereas those countries during the past 10 years accounted for an average of only 29%. While Russia has made small purchases recently in that market, it seems logical after so sharp a price rise to expect that the pressure of imports be felt in the domestic price structure so long as our trade channels with South America are kept open and the important European Continental market is closed by the British blockade."

Grains

Prices for wheat in domestic markets were again artificially firm during the past month as farmers continued to take advantage of Government offers by pledging their wheat for loans. There were, however, brief periods of easiness due to profit-taking. Aside from the Government loan there was little in the general news to account for the price movements. The Axis Powers' economic and political penetration in the Balkans will no doubt serve further to deplete European supplies of wheat, but in view of the current rigid blockade around the Continent, the European shortage, now estimated to amount to 20%, is not expected to have any influence on this country's statistical position. Instead, the almost exclusive factor bearing upon the domestic statistical situation is the crop loan program. If the present rate continues, upwards of 250,000,000 bushels of wheat will be put into loan before the privilege expires on Dec. 31. The reduction in the "free" supplies that this will make is already being reflected in the price increases, and in the tightening of supplies which mills in some sections of the country are experiencing. It was reported, for instance, that the pinch of a scarcity of "free" supplies forced some mills in the Northwest to purchase grain for shipment from terminal markets, while in sections of the Southwest mills were reported obliged to draw on their reserve stocks. How long this situation would continue was a matter of considerable speculation. Contrary to expectations, the amount of wheat going into loan increased as rapidly as did prices, and this despite the fact that current prices are well above the loan rate. It is now believed that prices will have to reach 90c. for ordinary quality No. 2 hard winter wheat before farmers can withdraw their pledged wheat, pay all costs, and still have a profit. Even should the price of 90c. be reached, it was pointed out that farmers might still defer withdrawing their wheat from the loan in the hope that the rearmament boom which now appears to be getting under way will result in still higher values. However, should the statistical position remain the sole price-making influence, it is very unlikely that this hope will materialize. The combined winter and spring wheat production as of Oct. 1 was estimated by the Department of Agriculture to be about 792,332,000 bushels. This would give the country total supplies of 1,076,000,000 bushels during the current season, of which 700,000,000 bushels are required for domestic needs. With exports expected to amount to about 16,000,000 bushels, there would be a surplus of approximately 360,000,000 bushels, or 76,000,000 bushels above the surplus of last year. The new winter wheat crop has been largely seeded, and according to reports the early planted grain is mostly up to good stands. Rainfall, however, is said to have been inadequate during recent weeks, with many sections of the belt in need of moisture.

Although corn followed the trend of wheat, it did not display the same strength at times because of the supply situation. "Free" supplies of corn were relatively more adequate than "free" supplies of wheat, not only because the old crop was being disposed of to make way for the new crop, but because corn farmers were more inclined to take advantage of higher prices by disposing of loan corn in the open market. Rye developed a downward tendency, while oats ruled comparatively firm. In Chicago the December wheat option closed on Oct. 31 at 84¼c. as against an opening of 83½c. on Oct. 1. At Winnipeg the October wheat option closed on Oct. 31 at 70⅝c. as compared with an opening of 71c. on Oct. 1. December corn in Chicago closed on Oct. 31 at 59⅜c. as compared with an opening of 58c. on Oct. 1. December oats closed at 34½c. compared with an opening of 31¾c. on Oct. 1. December rye closed at 43⅞c. as compared with an opening of 46⅛c. on Oct. 1.

Sugar

A generally firm undertone prevailed in the market for sugar "futures" during the past month. Expectations that the Senate would act favorably on the Cummings bill and that it would be signed by the President was the chief sustaining influence during the early part of the month. The Senate passed the bill, and it was signed by the President on Oct. 16. Thus sugar control for 1941 was assured. Sentiment among producers appeared to be more optimistic, and they were not pressing offerings, while an improved demand was noted for refined sugar. With the question of the Cummings bill settled, the election became one of the dominating factors in the market. No matter which candidate wins it was predicted that there will be an increased number of Republicans in Congress, and this was interpreted as meaning "improvement" in the next Sugar Act. Sales of Cuban raw sugars during the month consisted of the following, all exclusive of duty: On Oct. 3 October shipment at 1.88c.; on Oct. 8 October shipment at 1.85c.; on Oct. 24 prompt shipment at 1.95c., and on Oct. 29 November shipment at 1.97c. The wholesale price for refined, immediate delivery, was quoted at 4.35c. throughout the month.

Coffee

Aside from temporary reactions, the market for coffee "futures" ruled fairly steady during the past month. There was scattered speculative buying on anticipations of an agreement on quotas for producing countries at the conferences being held in Washington although nothing definite was expected until after election. Another factor which helped the market was talk of a curtailed Santos crop as a result of the recent drought. Roasters, however, continued to buy cautiously pending developments.

No. 7 Santo was quoted Oct. 31 at 6⅛c., the same as on Sept. 30, against 5⅞c.@6c. Aug. 30; 6¼c. on July 31, June 29, May 31 and April 30; 6½c. March 30; 6½c.@6⅝c. Feb. 29, the same as on Jan. 31, against 6½c.@6¾c. Dec. 29; 6⅝c.@6⅝c. Nov. 30, and 6¾c.@6⅞c. Oct. 31.

No. 7 Rio was quoted on Oct. 31 at 5⅛c., against 5c. Sept. 30; 5⅛c. Aug. 30; 5¼c. on July 31, June 29, May 31 and April 30; 5½c. March 30; 5⅝c. Feb. 29; 5¾c. Jan. 31; 5⅜c. Dec. 29; 5¼c. Nov. 30, the same as on Oct. 31.

Rubber

Crude rubber followed an upward trend during most of the month, and quotations at the end of the period, although somewhat below the highest point reached during the middle of the month, showed marked advances. Dominating factors were the continued purchases by the Rubber Reserve Co., and growing nervousness over a possible grave turn in the Far Eastern situation. The mild reaction during the second half of the month was due in part to increased production in Malaya, and more liberal shipment offerings, also to rumors that the meeting of the International Rubber Regulation Committee scheduled to take place in London, Nov. 19, would discuss steps calculated to accelerate deliveries of crude rubber to the United States. During the closing week of the month another rallying movement got under way, partly in sympathy with the friendlier reports from the security markets.

Ribbed smoked sheets for spot delivery were quoted at 20⅝c. asked Oct. 31, against 19¾c. asked Sept. 30; 19⅝c. asked Aug. 31; 21¼c. asked July 31; 21½c. asked June 30; 21¼c. asked May 31; 19¼c. asked April 30; 18⅝c. asked March 30; 18 9/16c. asked Feb. 29; 18⅞c. asked Jan. 31; 19¼c. asked Dec. 29; 20⅜c. asked Nov. 30, and 20¾c. asked Oct. 31.

Textiles

The textile trades continued their improvement during the past month, due in considerable measure to the further effects of governmental purchases in connection with the defense program. Retail business again gave a satisfactory account as improved employment conditions, notably in the industrial areas, caused consumers to adopt a more liberal attitude in covering their seasonal requirements. Unusually high temperatures prevailing during the middle of the month resulted in a mild setback, but subsequently sales again increased, especially in apparel lines, as the previous hesitancy engendered by the selective draft law showed signs of wearing off. Wholesale trade turned quite active during the first part of the month, and retail merchants fearful of threatening delivery difficulties due to the filling of defense requirements, displayed more willingness to anticipate future needs of staples, and place additional orders for holiday goods. Reflecting the mild letdown in retail trade, wholesale orders, too, slackened somewhat, but with the reappearance of cooler weather and a marked improvement in the security markets, business in some lines again expanded moderately, whereas other divisions remained neglected. Raw cotton in October continued to move within a narrow range. After early steadiness, prices sagged moderately, but late in the month, in sympathy with the upturn in security prices, a fair-sized rally got under way. Adverse factors, such as the continued extremely poor record of the export movement, and scattered Southern liquidation and hedge selling, were fully counteracted by increasingly favorable reports concerning the domestic cloth markets, the further operation of the Government loan program and, late in the month, by reports predicting substantial takings of the staple by both Russian and Japanese interests. The advance in the security markets taking place during the last week of the month, substantial purchases by Bombay interests, and scattered showers in the cotton belt which slowed down picking operations, also served to improve sentiment. Spot cotton here in New York was 9.69c. Oct. 1. After reaching a high of 9.75c. Oct. 5, the price receded to a low of 9.48c. Oct. 14, but subsequently rallied to 9.64c. Oct. 31. Business in the gray goods market was active during most of the month, and mills were able to add to their substantial backlog of orders assuring them sustained operations at current rates during the balance of the year. An accelerated movement of finished goods in distributive channels, but, most of all, the growing volume of Government buying for defense purposes, were the paramount factors in the market's activity. Prices for most constructions scored further moderate advances. Print cloths at Fall River for 28-inch 64x60's rose further from 3⅞c. Sept. 30 to 4⅛c. Oct. 31. The price of 27-inch cloths 60x64's advanced from 3¾c. to 4c., while Osnaburgs rose to 8⅜c. Oct. 31 as against 7⅝c. Sept. 30. The report of the Census Bureau, issued Oct. 14 and covering the month of September, while showing a smaller margin of advance over last year than during the two preceding months, nevertheless demonstrated that domestic consumption of the staple is continuing at a very active pace. The quantity consumed in September was given at 629,252 bales of lint and 94,395 bales of linters, against 654,503 bales of lint of 85,951 bales of linters in August, 1940, and 624,183 bales of lint and 81,709 bales of linters in September, 1939.

The woolen goods market turned increasingly strong and active, due again primarily to the growing effects of huge Government buying for the defense program. Pending further upward price adjustments, many producers withdrew from the market as existing order accumulations were said to be sufficiently large to absorb the output for a period extending well into next year. Women's wear fabrics shared in the activity, though to a lesser extent, as garment manufacturers showed some reluctance in following the rapid price advances.

Petroleum and Its Products

Highlight of the developments in the domestic petroleum industry during October was the winning of the first round in the fight by Midwest distributors to recover damages from oil companies convicted in the Madison, Wis., anti-trust trials by the oil companies. Second in interest to the industry was the bitter attack upon the Texas Railroad Commission at the annual convention of the Independent Petroleum Association held in Dallas late in the month.

The Pure Oil Co. was given a directed verdict by order of Federal District Court Judge G. H. Nordbye, in Minneapolis on Oct. 15, in the suit brought by the Twin Ports Oil Co. of Duluth in the first of the many actions scheduled in the Midwest courts against the oil companies convicted of anti-trust law violations. The suit asked for damages of $183,917 to the business of the company as a jobber during 1935 and 1936 because of the price-fixing "conspiracy" of the Pure Oil Co. and the other convicted companies. The suit originally named Standard of Indiana, Sinclair, Skelly, Shell, Phillips, Socony-Vacuum, Continental and Cities Service, but the action against all but Pure Oil was dismissed by the court on the first day on the motion of the defendant. Like all other suits pending against these companies, the Twin Ports action asked triple damages in line with the provisions of the Sherman Act.

Judge Nordbye, in granting the defense motion for a directed verdict, ruled that the Twin Ports Oil Co. had failed to prove actual pecuniary damages as a result of the "conspiracy." He pointed out in his decision that the margin between the jobbers' buying and selling prices had not been narrowed by reason of any increase in the tank car prices of gasoline set up by Pure Oil. Counsel for Twin Ports Oil had argued that the "conspiracy" had set up a differential of 2¼c. a gallon between tank car and retail prices, and that a floor was put under spot market prices compelling the plaintiff to pay an unreasonable amount for his gasoline. It was argued by Pure Oil counsel that the testimony during the trial showed that in the period of "conspiracy" retail prices accurately reflected tank car prices and did not permit the jury to determine whether or not the "conspiracy" had reduced margins to the extent of the damages asked in the suit.

The Twin Ports Oil Co. announced through Counsel Ernest Michel on the day following the court's action that it would appeal the directed verdict handed down by Federal Judge Nordbye. The companys announcement said that the appeal will contend that the United States Supreme Court in upholding the conviction of Pure Oil and the other oil companies at Madison, two years ago, said in effect that plaintiffs would not have to prove actual pecuniary damages since evidence of the price-fixing was sufficient to show that the plaintiff's margin between buying and selling prices was reduced. In ordering the directed verdict, Judge Nordbye ruled that proof of specific damages was necessary and that such proof was not offered. Since the Pure Oil-Twin Ports Oil action was the first case to come to trial in the expected widespread litigation, counsel for both sides were present in large numbers at the Minneapolis trial.

After a bitter struggle within the organization which almost precipitated a split within its ranks, the Independent Petroleum Association of America passed a resolution in the final day of its convention in Dallas charging the Texas Railroad Commission with flagrant abuse of the State's conservation laws, fostering of selective buying and condemning the Commission's policy of granting special allowables without public hearings. Members of the Association who fought against the resolution held that it was a tacit admission of the collapse of State oil control and placed invaluable ammunition in the hands of Government officials who have been seeking for some time to place the oil industry under Federal control. In addition, they argued that since the organization was national in scope and included members from other oil-producing States whose internal affairs were in worse order than Texas, that such members should not be allowed to publicly censure the Texas Railroad Commission. Proponents of the resolution argued that Texas overproduction was a vital influence upon the national price structure of crude oil and also that abuse of the conservation laws in Texas might spread to other States if left unchallenged.

Other action taken by the Independent Petroleum Association of America included passage of a five-point program for the coming year, asking the limiting of imports to 4.5% of the total current domestic demand, including ship supplies, and urging the balancing of supply with demand by the oil-producing States. It also asked for correction of inequities of present tax laws and the discontinuance of excessive drilling. The Association made known its determination to work for voluntary agreements within the industry, subject to the approval of the proper Federal agency. It denounced the Department of State for its continued refusal to make known its "determination" to present to American petroleum importing companies a 50% rebate on oil import levies." The Association demanded the return to Congress of the control over the import situation assumed by the Department of State.

Early in the convention delegates heard a forecast that the defense program will have increased demand for petroleum and its products by next spring to the point where it will take up most of the "slack" caused by the virtual "loss" of our export markets made by Dr. R. E. Wilson, petroleum adviser to the National Defense Advisory Commission. Dr. Wilson predicted that demand will reach levels hitherto unknown in the industry's history. He praised the fine work of the proration movement in the industry, pointing out that the producing end of the American oil industry was able to meet any demand that might be made upon it without useless drilling of thousands of new wells, thus taking steel and other products needed in the national defense program. "You may well guess," he continued, "that in locating new refineries or industries based upon petroleum, States with conservation programs will be favored over those which have squandered their assets, and have only a declining production to look forward to."

Delegates to the eleventh annual convention of the Association also heard an attack upon the movements of the Department of Justice in the recently-filed anti-trust suits. Russell B. Brown, general counsel of the Association, told the convention that various statements and reports from thet Department of Justice on the recently-entered anti-trust suits against the Nation's major oil companies showed a willingness to effect a philosophy of government through administrative powers rather than through a legislative program. "Surrounding the present suits, there has been so much publicity emanating from the Department of Justice that there seems to be a significance beyond that which might be inferred from the petitions filed in court," he pointed out. "If the various statements and reports which have been issued are given the credence which their authorship should deserve, then these indicate that there is here more than an effort to enforce the anti-trust laws."

Technological progress in every branch of the petroleum industry, future trends and problems, and economic and other factors affecting the oil industry will be discussed at the twenty-first annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute scheduled for Nov. 11 to 15 in the Stevens Hotel in Chicago. The preliminary program calls for two general sessions, eight group sessions, and nearly 100 committee meetings. Scheduled to speak at the two general meetings are Axtell J. Byles, President of the Institute; T. H. Barton, President of Lion Oil & Refining; W. J. Cameron of the Ford Motor Co.; Congressman Martin Dies of Texas, and H. A. Prentis Jr., President of the National Association of Manufacturers. Announcement was made in New York City of the appointment of J. E. Dyer of the New York office of Sinclair Refining Co., as Chairman of the Division of Marketing Nominating Committee which will nominate 20 members of the divisional general committee to serve in 1941, and to be elected at the November convention.

The American Petroleum Industry is both willing and capable of serving the national defense needs of the United States without compulsion, and the 12 points laid out for the industry by the National Defense Advisory Commission can, and will be met by the industry without any "control or compulsion," George A. Hill, Vice-President of the American Petroleum Institute, told oil men gathered at the meeting of the East Texas Chapter of the Institute's Division of Production in Kilgore on Oct. 9 at the ceremonies commemorating the discovery of the East Texas field.

Mr. Hill, who is President of the Houston Oil Co. of Houston, Tex., listed the 12 policies and principles laid down by the National Defense Advisory Commission and explained how the petroleum industry could adjust its operations to meet these requirements. Pointing out that the industry should carry on "operations as usual," Mr. Hill proposed that the American public and industry be supplied with petroleum products and services necessary to the maintenance of normal business; that employees temporarily in military service be readily reemployed upon their return; that payments of royalties and rentals to farms and landowners be continued; that the industry's price structure be neither increased nor distorted; and that the general contribution of the industry to the national income and prosperity be maintained. He also proposed that production of 100-octane gasoline be increased and provisions made for the satisfactory storage and delivery of all petroleum products required by the military machine. He recommended that the industry employ its research facilities and ingenuity to devise underground storage, aid in the manufacture of toluol and synthetic rubber, expand its transportation system, and so adjust the allocation of Government contracts that normal economic relationships and services shall not be disturbed. Promotion of a reasonable program of exploration for oil was suggested as a means of maintaining the undeground supply of proved petroleum reserves which now exceed 18,000,000,000 barrels.

Unless the industry is restrained it can continue its efficient operation at low cost under its present organization without divestiture of essential elements, Mr. Hill declared, adding that "the maximum of service to the national defense and to preparedness can be rendered without resort, at this time, to experimentation and to the development and employment of new controls." He explained that under the constitutional system there has been evolved a body of law which is in furtherance of conservation, elimination of waste and other desirable ends. "These laws and the cooperation of the industry," he continued, "have served to maintain the integrity, continuity and serviceability of this great, free American enterprise, which is susceptible of prompt, adequate and effective mobilization of all of the essential requirements of national defense without the necessity of the imposition of any authoritarian control. There is no phase of service, to the most exact requirements of national defense and national preparedness, useful for the quick, faithful, efficient and patriotic discharge of the highest obligations of citizenship that cannot be supplied through the voluntary service and cooperation of the oil industry under the leadership of the President of the United States and his National Defense Advisory Commission."

The United States Bureau of Mines on Oct. 18 released its November market demand forecast, placing the daily average domestic market demand at 3,570,000 barrels, which was 10,600 barrels under the October estimated market demand of 3,580,600 barrels, but was 3% above actual demand for crude oil in the home market last November. The Federal agency's estimate placed the export demand for November at 3,900,000 barrels, against 5,323,000 barrels a year ago. Forecasts from exporters, it was reported, indicated that off-shore shipments of American crude oil during November will be at the lowest point in years. Daily average output of crude oil for the week ended Oct. 26 of 3,640,300 barrels was 149,650 barrels below the Sept. 28 total of 3,799,950 barrels.

A comprehensive readjustment of crude oil prices in Louisiana and Arkansas was posted on Oct. 17, "on account of the very low gasoline price structure," by the Standard Oil Co. of Louisiana. The new schedule, which became effective immediately, raised prices for crude oil high in lubricating and fuel oil content and lowered prices for crude rich in gasoline content. Announcement of a State-wide tender system for Louisiana, to become effective Nov. 1, was made in Shreveport in mid-October by C. B. Smitherman, director of the North Louisiana Conservation Department. The system will be similar to that used in Texas and Arkansas.

Washington developments in which the industry was interested in addition to further developments in the Mexican-United States oil controversy included the renewed drive to obtain congressional approval of industry demands that confiscated American oil from Mexico be denied entry into the United States which are centered around a new bill introduced in the House and reported in mid-month by the House Judiciary Committee. The proposal, sponsored by Chairman Sumners (D.-Texas), is more stringent than the original bill which the House killed early in the month. The new Sumners bill, instead of leaving it to the discretion of the President to embargo imports of confiscated property, makes it mandatory than an embargo be imposed. Like the bill already rejected, however, the new measure is not limited to Mexico.

There were no further settlements of the expropriation problems arising out of the seizure of some $500,000,000 of American and British oil properties by the Cardenas Administration early in 1938 during the month. Washington gossip, however, reported during the month that only a face-saving agreement remains to be worked out with the new Administration coming in in Mexico at the turn of the year, and that exploitation rights will be returned to the companies which lost their properties in the expropriation seizures. Reports that a five-year lease on oil wells in Vera Cruz giving exploration rights to a Japanese-controlled company had been given by the Mexican Government were followed by reports that the contract had been held in "abeyance" and would be cancelled upon some technicality.

Representative price changes follow:

Oct. 17—Standard of Louisiana posted a readjustment of crude prices in Louisiana and Arkansas, cutting prices of high gasoline content crude as much as 11c. while lifting prices of high fuel oil content crude oil by as much as 9c. a barrel. Other companies followed.

Gasoline prices in major consuming areas throughout the country showed sectional changes, but there was no major alteration in the price structure during October. Contra-seasonal declines in stocks of finished and unfinished gasoline due to favorable weather conditions plus tightening of the tanker rate structure in the Gulf Coast-Atlantic Seaport market bolstered prices in the Eastern area.

Reflecting the pressure upon the Nation's gasoline price structure resulting from the top-heavy supply situation, average retail prices for gasoline in 50 cities throughout the country eased off during September. Reports compiled by the American Petroleum Institute disclosed that the Oct. 1 posting was 12.30c. a gallon, against 12.33c. a month earlier and 13.52c. a gallon on the comparable 1939 date. Including State and Federal taxes, the average price to the consumer was 18.10c. a gallon on Oct. 1, against 18.23c. on Sept. 1 and 18.94c. a gallon a year ago.

Domestic demand for motor fuel during November was placed at 49,900,000 barrels in the regular monthly market demand forecast of the United States Bureau of Mines made public in Washington in mid-October. This compared with the 53,000,000-barrel forecast for October. Slight improvement in the export picture was seen, with November export demand being placed at 1,700,000 barrels, against 1,600,000 barrels a month earlier. Stocks of finished and unfinished gasoline were 80,891,000 barrels on Oct. 26, off approximately 1,500,000 barrels from the total held on Sept. 28, the American Petroleum Institute figures disclosed.

Seasonal strength in kerosene prices developed during October, with the New England market moving up 0.3c. a gallon early in the month, some sections of New York State also being affected by this mark-up. Late in the month similar advances were made for New York City and throughout the State. Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey on Oct. 15 announced the 1941 price policy for bunker fuel oil, stating "the maximum price for bunker fuel oil at North Atlantic ports for the first six months of 1941 will be $1.25 a barrel. The top price for the second six months will be $1.35 a barrel. In addition to naming these very attractive prices for 1941, for the balance of this year the company is revising the maximum price to $1.15 a barrel. At the United States Gulf, the maximum price for bunker fuel oil for the first six months of 1941 will be $1 a barrel. For the second six months, the top will be $1.10 a barrel."

OCTOBER FINANCING OF THE UNITED STATES TREASURY

The Treasury deferred again in October the start on that large volume of defense financing that must be done before the armaments program is completed. The market continued firm to a marked degree, but the Treasury, perhaps for campaign reasons, chose to dip into its balance instead of applying to the market for new money. The demand for outstanding Treasury issues held up so well that the Federal Reserve banks found it necessary to liquidate $100,800,000 of securities from their portfolio to check a persistent effort of prices to rise into new record high ground. Of the sales out of the Federal open market account, $60,600,000 were Treasury bonds and $161,400,000 were Treasury notes.

Aside from the weekly rolling over of maturing discount bills, the only financing in October of the Treasury or the Government agencies was the offering by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. on Oct. 24, on behalf of the United States Housing Authority, of $100,000,000, or thereabouts, of one-year notes of the Authority. Designated ¼% notes of Series E, the obligations were dated Nov. 1, 1940, were to mature on Nov. 1, 1941, and were not subject to call for redemption prior to maturity. The notes are fully and unconditionally guaranteed by the United States as to the payment of both interest and principal. "If plans which the USHA are working on materialize, it is expected that private capital may be enlisted to provide permanent financing to local housing authorities of the whole cost of their projects. Consequently, the USHA may not need these funds for longer than one year to assist such projects, in which event the notes will be paid off in cash when they mature," said the announcement.

Subscription books were closed at the close of business on Oct. 24, the day of the offering. On Oct. 28 Mr. Morgenthau announced that subscriptions to the $100,000,000 USHA issue were more than 18½ times in excess of the offering. Subscriptions aggregated $1,859,727,000, while allotments were on a 6% basis.

In spite of sales by the Federal Reserve banks, Treasury bonds fluctuated only about ½ point for the long-term and ⅝ point for the intermediate-term obligations in October. A temporary setback took place around Oct. 11 as German troops moved into Rumania, but as the month closed the average yield on Treasury bonds not callable within 12 years was 2.18% as against 2.20% at the end of September. The average yield on three- to five-year Treasury notes closed at 0.40% compared with 0.45% at the end of September.

The Treasury bill market again was distorted by the development of a demand stronger than the supply. The discount bills dated Oct. 2 were all awarded on par bids, while on the four succeeding issues accepted bids were at prices slightly above par and at par. Subscriptions to the weekly bill offerings ran from about four to five times the amount available for purchase. A special report on the gross public debt as of Sept. 20, issued by the Treasury on Oct. 3, showed that there was $112,516,000 of Treasury bills outstanding on which interest had ceased. With new Treasury bills going at a par yield or better, there is a growing tendency to hold matured Treasury bills for use in personal property tax avoidance purposes or, with the cooperation of depositors, in the avoidance of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation assessments.

Secretary Morgenthau announced on Oct. 1 that reports from Federal Reserve banks indicated that $724,847,900 of Treasury notes of Series C-1940, maturing on Dec. 15, 1940, had been exchanged for the new 2% Treasury bonds of 1953-55. Thus $12,313,700 of the total note issue of $737,161,600 were left to be paid off in cash on Dec. 15.

Sales of United States savings bonds for the month to the 31st totaled $52,220,676 as against $49,831,656 in the corresponding period of 1939, while sales for the fiscal year to Oct. 30 amounted to $225,698,289 compared with $259,400,539. The Treasury's statement showed that for October the excess of expenditures was $536,982,427 as against $442,946,297 in October, 1939, and for the first four months of the fiscal year the excess of expenditures totaled $1,347,248,522 as against $1,419,006,599 in the previous year. Expenditures on the Navy for October totaled $149,924,377 as against $63,024,755, and for the fiscal year to Oct. 31 were $492,248,613 as against $254,924,080. Expenditures on the War Department for national defense were $133,931,587 for the month as against $52,097,088, and for the fiscal year to date were $386,582,741 compared with $191,443,881.

NEW SECURITY ISSUES IN OCTOBER

Total domestic corporate flotations in October were the largest on record for any month since June, 1937. Financing to meet the needs of refunding operations were mainly the reason for this rise in volume, while offerings undertaken for new capital purposes were substantially below the volume of the previous two months. Southern California Edison Co., Ltd., led the list as to size of issue with an offering of $108,000,000 1st & ref. mtge. bonds. Next in order was the $45,000,000 issue of 1st mtge. bonds of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. COURSE OF THE STOCK MARKET DURING OCTOBER

Up until the last day of the month the stock market was unexciting in October. Prices did go through a brief sinking spell in the second week when the regime of King Carol in Rumania was succeeded by one headed by his son, King Michael, and the Iron Guardist, Premier Ion Antonescu. But by the end of that week the market had regained its equilibrium and settled down anew to its now familiar dull plodding movement within a range of about one point. The long-awaited invasion of Greece by Italian armed forces on Oct. 28 gave the market scarcely a tremor. On the last three trading days the market generated considerable strength, enabling prices to rise 3.07 points above their mid-month low and to achieve, at 98.02 for the average of 50 stocks compiled by the New York "Times," the best closing level for any month since the previous April.

The briskest advances of the whole month came on the first and last days. Following an upturn of 1.34 points on the initial trading day of the month, prices on Oct. 3 worked up to the best level since the middle of last May. On the last day of the month the stock market came suddenly to life, with the advance amounting to 0.97 point and the turnover rising to 1,344,060 shares, marking the first time a day's transactions had climbed above the 1,000,000-share level since the first week of September.

Dealings on the New York Stock Exchange amounted to 14,489,085 shares in October compared with the September aggregate of 11,940,210 shares, and with the October, 1939, volume of 23,734,934 shares. It was the slackest October business in stocks since 1921, but it was, at the same time, the best month's turnover since June.

For all of the appearance of firmness which the stock market manifested in October the strength was by no means evenly distributed among the several groups of equities. Of the various influences having a direct bearing on the movement of stock prices during the month, the one which made definitely for inequality of strength among the stock groups was the excess profits tax bill, which was signed by President Roosevelt on Oct. 9. This measure, following the stepping up of the normal income tax rate earlier in the year, bore down less harshly on heavily capitalized companies whose business has not been good in recent years, such as the steel companies and the railroads. On the other hand, the new excess profits taxes, calculated to yield $500,000,000 in the current year and $1,000,000,000 in the next year, dealt a severe blow to those companies whose earnings have been reasonably stable, such as the store and food stocks. These two stock groups moved into lower ground during the month, but the steel shares were phenomenally strong. The advance in six steel stocks, according to one average, was 7.64 points, or 16%. It is estimated that earnings of United States Steel Corp. will have to exceed $10 a share on the common stock before the excess profits tax will begin to apply. Meanwhile, the steel companies are reported to have sufficient orders on their books to keep them working at capacity until well beyond the turn of the year. Other stock groups to give a good account of themselves in October included coppers, motors, aircrafts, utilities and oils.

Steel was the bellwether of all industry during the month. As the month closed steel operations, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute, were at 95.7% of theoretical capacity, the best rate since mid-1929. Production at that rate was in reality the greatest, tonnagewise, in the history of the country, owing to the substantial additions to basic capacity during the past decade. In various other directions the reports from industry bespoke a speeding up of activity as work progressed in the defense program. By Oct. 26 the rise in automobile production from the low point for the year had been in progress for 11 weeks, as against a comparable advance of seven weeks last year and of five weeks in the 1937 upturn. "Automotive News" estimated that October assemblies of cars and trucks would aggregate 519,472 units, the peak October in the industry's history. In the four weeks ended Oct. 26 loadings of merchandise and miscellaneous freight increased by more than the usual amount, with loadings for the final week of the period, at 837,651 cars, rising to the highest level since Oct. 21, 1939. The stock market was given a further fillip at the month-end, when it was announced that Great Britain had entered the market here for 12,000 more airplanes and a large number of cargo vessels. Commodity prices generally were firm with the Bureau of Labor Statistics daily index of 28 basic commodities rising 2½% during the month.

The bond business, as measured by dealings on the bond department of the New York Stock Exchange, improved along with that in stocks in October. Bond sales totaled $150,981,000 par value as against $125,965,000 in September and $170,089,000 in October, 1939. It was, incidentally, the smallest October volume in bonds since 1917. Bond prices held generally to a firmer course than did stocks, with United States Government issues consistently firm, high-grade corporate obligations at their best level on record, and the Baa grade obligations at their highest point since February, 1937. Best-grade municipal obligations extended their advance into new high ground. The sole departure from the pattern of rising bond prices came in foreign bonds, which sank afresh to new record low ground. The foreign bond average declined 1.78 points during the month, reaching a closing level of 38.04 and a new low, on Oct. 15, of 35.79.

As to the fluctuations in individual stocks, Allied Chemical & Dye opened on Oct. 1 at 164½, fell back to 161½ on Oct. 10, advanced perceptibly to 171⅛ on Oct. 18, and closed Oct. 31 at 171. American Tel. & Tel. opened at 163 on Oct. 1, declined to 160⅛ on Oct. 15, recovered to 165¾

Chesapeake & Ohio opened at 40 on Oct. 1, sold off fractionally to 39½ on Oct. 15, then moved forward to 42¾ Oct. 31, and closed fractionally lower at 42⅝ the same day. Delaware & Hudson touched its lowest point Oct. 8 at 12½ after opening the month on Oct. 1 at 13¾; its peak of the month was reached on Oct. 2 at 14⅛, and it closed Oct. 31 somewhat above its opening level at 13⅞. New York Central reached its top figure Oct. 3 at 15⅝, its low point of the month Oct. 9 at 14, and it closed on Oct. 31 at 15¼, improved from its opening sale of 14¾ on Oct. 1. Southern Pacific opened Oct. 1 at 9¼, advancing Oct. 3 to 9⅞, only to later react on Oct. 9 to 8½ and finish the month a trifle improved at 9⅛. Northern Pacific, after opening at 7⅞ on Oct. 1, reached its peak Oct. 2 at 7¾; it later declined to 6⅝ on Oct. 9, and closed higher at 7⅜ on Oct. 31. Union Pacific declined from 85⅞ Oct. 3 to 80¼ on Oct. 15, and then recovered to 82¼ at the close on Oct. 31.

THE MONEY MARKET DURING OCTOBER

Another large increase in excess member bank reserves, a substantial rise in commercial borrowings, and a sharp advance of loans and investments of weekly reporting banks beyond the previous high record of October, 1939, were the outstanding features of the money market during the past month. Excess member bank reserves, largely because of heavy Treasury disbursements and a further material accession to the gold stock, reached a new peak of close to $7,000,000,000, notwithstanding the persistent increase in currency circulation, and the continued upturn in foreign and other non-member deposits at the Reserve banks. The further rise in commercial borrowings was a result of improved business conditions in general and the growing effect of the national defense program in particular following the enactment of the Claims Assignment law making it possible to use assigned claims for Government contract payments as security for bank loans. Government financing included five weekly bill issues of $100,000,000 each, to replace maturities in similar amounts, and on Oct. 24 a heavily subscribed offering of $100,000,000 ¼% one-year notes of the United States Housing Authority. Gold imports, as reported by the Department of Commerce, totaled $307,600,000, of which sum $221,500,000 came from Canada, $17,800,000 from Portugal, $16,500,000 from Argentina, $14,900,000 from Japan, $14,800,000 from Australia, $5,700,000 from Russia and $5,000,000 from South Africa. After taking into account an increase of $115,000,000 in the amount of earmarked gold, the gold stock of the country rose about $255,000,000 to a new peak of approximately $21,500,000,000. Discount holdings of the 12 Reserve banks rose from $4,582,000 Sept. 25 to $7,885,000 Oct. 9, but subsequently declined to $3,999,000 Oct. 30. Total member bank reserves continued their steady rise, from $13,703,112,000 Sept. 25 to $14,176,535,000 Oct. 30. Money rates showed no important changes during the month, although yields on gilt-edge securities indicated a further moderate downward trend from the previous extremely low levels. On the Stock Exchange the rate for call money was unchanged at 1%.

Time loan rates on security collateral remained at the previous nominal figures of 1¼% for 90-day loans, and 1½% for loans running 180 days. With security trading remaining inactive during most of the month, little or no occasion for new accommodations existed and, as in previous months, transactions were largely confined to the renewal of older loans.

Commercial paper was in slightly increased supply, which, however, was promptly absorbed by the persistent active investment demand. The prevailing rate for average grade prime four- to six-month paper remained at the previous range of ⅝% to 1%, with especially choice names again being sold at ⅝%. Under date of Oct. 11 the Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced that returns received from commercial paper dealers showed a total of $250,700,000 of open market commercial paper outstanding at the end of September compared with $244,700,000 on Aug. 31 and $209,300,000 at the close of September, 1939.

Trading in bankers' acceptances continued inactive, mainly because of the reluctance on the part of accepting banks to release bills for the open market. Outstanding acceptances, according to the monthly survey of the Acceptance Analysis Unit of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, issued Oct. 10, totaled $176,614,000 Sept. 30 against $181,813,000 Aug. 31, and $215,882,000 Sept. 30, 1939. Import bills alone increased from $79,585,000 Aug. 31 to $80,361,000 Sept. 30, while export bills declined from $24,272,000 to $21,762,000; domestic warehouse credits from $29,262,000 to $26,249,000, and bills based on goods stored in or shipped between foreign countries from $28,907,000 to $28,430,000. Bills held by accepting banks amounted to $141,760,000, of which sum $100,031,000 were own bills and $41,729,000 bills of others. Rates for bankers' acceptances remained unchanged at ½% bid and 7/16% asked for 30-day, 60-day and 90-day bills, at 9/16% bid and ½% asked for 120-day bills, and at ⅝% bid and 9/16% asked for bills running 150 and 180 days. The New York Federal Reserve Bank in its "Monthly Review" discussed conditions in the market for bankers' acceptances as follows:

"The bill market remained very inactive, owing primarily to the tendency of acceptors to keep new bills for their own account. Dealers' quoted rates for bankers' acceptances held largely nominal at previously quoted levels. The total of bankers' acceptances outstanding on Sept. 30, at only $177,000,000—a new low for at least 20 years—was about 3% smaller than a month previous and 18% under the figure for a year ago. Decreases in outstanding bills drawn to finance exports and in those based on goods stored in or shipped between foreign countries accounted for the larger portion of the decline from a year ago."

RETURNS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS—BROKERS' LOANS IN NEW YORK CITY

The features of the month of October, so far as the banking position was concerned, were the rise in excess reserves to the highest level yet reached and the acceleration in the demand for commercial loans. Of somewhat lesser interest were the increases in currency circulation and gold to new high levels and substantial decline in the Government security holdings of the 12 Federal Reserve banks.

As for surplus reserves of all member banks, the increase in the five weeks from Sept. 25 to Oct. 30 amounted to $280,000,000, raising the total to $6,930,000,000. The record high of $6,940,000,000 for excess reserves was established on Oct. 23, the former high of $6,880,000,000 of last July finally being supplanted. The several sources from which member banks gained reserves during this five-week period included the following: the $416,825,000 reduction in the Treasury's deposit balance in the Reserve banks to a total of $375,707,000, the $111,000,000 decrease in Treasury cash to the $2,187,000,000 mark, the $333,000,000 expansion in the gold stock to a new record high at $21,499,000, and the $15,000,000 rise in Treasury currency to the $3,056,000,000 level. The factors which reduced the supply of bank reserves included the $91,000,000 decrease in Federal Reserve credit to a total of $2,381,000,000, the $175,000,000 rise in currency circulation to a record high of $8,265,000,000, and the $136,000,000 increase in non-member deposits and other Federal Reserve accounts to a total of $1,931,000,000. The net of all of these items was an increase of $473,423,000 in actual member bank reserves to a record high at $14,176,535,000.

Taking up certain of these items in more detail, one finds that the $333,000,000 rise in the gold stock was the smallest increase for a comparable period since March, that is, since before the German invasion of Denmark and Norway. The Treasury, however, deposited $436,999,000 more gold certificates with the Federal Reserve banks, indicating that it dipped into the free gold supply to the extent of $104,000,000. Treasury disbursements were in rising volume last month.

As for non-member deposits, foreign deposits increased $80,507,000 to a total of $1,091,831,000, and other deposits were $53,952,000 higher at a total of $567,597,000. Foreign deposits in the Federal Reserve banks were built up both by sales of gold to the Treasury and by transfer of funds from the market to the Reserve banks, as reflected in the decrease of $24,000,000 in foreign bank deposits of the reporting New York City banks. The $53,952,000 rise in other deposits was partly ascribable to cashier's check transactions by the Reserve banks, of the sort usually resorted to in connection with refunding operations.

Of the $91,000,000 reduction in Federal Reserve credit, $1,583,000 was attributable to a decrease in bills discounted for member banks, bringing the total down to $3,999,000. The reduction in Government security holdings of the Reserve banks amounted to $100,800,000, with Treasury bonds up $60,600,000 and Treasury notes lower by $222,600,000. The rise in Treasury bonds in the System's portfolio was due to conversion of December notes into new bonds in the exchange operation carried out by the Treasury.

In the matter of commercial loans, the weekly reporting banks in New York City showed an expansion in the four weeks to Oct. 30 of $74,000,000. On the latter date the total reached the $1,827,000,000 mark, a new high since Nov. 24, 1937. The rise in reporting New York City banks' loans to commerce, industry and agriculture had by the end of October extended over eight consecutive weeks, during which time the total was lifted $136,000,000. The loan volume was $119,000,000 below the 1937 peak.

Total loans and investments of the reporting New York City banks increased $82,000,000 to a total of $9,678,000,000 in the five weeks to Oct. 30, with loans up $61,000,000 and investments $21,000,000. The banks showed decreases of $51,000,000 in Treasury notes, $7,000,000 in Treasury bonds, and $31,000,000 in other securities, and increases of $40,000,000 in Treasury bills, and $70,000,000 in Government-guaranteed issues. Demand deposits—adjusted increased $346,000,000 to a new record high at $10,031,000,000, but time deposits were $11,000,000 lower at $710,000,000.

Weekly reporting banks in 101 cities showed an increase of $205,000,000 in total loans and investments in the five weeks from Sept. 25 to Oct. 30, with loans up $198,000,000 and investments up $7,000,000. Loans to commerce, industry and agriculture increased $168,000,000 to a total of $4,746,000,000—the best level in three years. Holdings of Treasury bills increased $29,000,000, Treasury bonds (reflecting the note conversion) were up $258,000,000, and Government-guaranteed securities increased $34,000,000, but Treasury notes and other securities declined $275,000,000 and $39,000,000, respectively. Demand deposits—adjusted were up $659,000,000 to a record high at $21,643,000,000.

Reporting New York City banks' loans to brokers and dealers in securities—the so-called brokers' loans—decreased $11,000,000 to a total of $290,000,000 in the five weeks from Sept. 25 to Oct. 30. Street loans, as compiled by the New York Stock Exchange, decreased $9,760,762 during October to $348,925,800 Oct. 31 from $358,686,562 Sept. 30. A year ago on Oct. 31, 1939, the amount of these loans outstanding was $534,228,504.

COURSE OF STERLING EXCHANGE DURING OCTOBER

The New York market for the pound sterling, both for "free" and official or registered sterling, became increasingly quiet during October, largely an extension of the market which prevailed during September. The New York market for free sterling seems to have virtually disappeared since Aug. 1 as the result of the progressive drying up of the supply of sterling balances which had been held in American accounts before the restrictive British regulations became effective on July 18. The dollar was in demand at a premium practically everywhere, and nowhere more in demand than in the countries in the sterling area.

The free pound-dollar rate, which had appreciated during August to parity with the rate of $4.03½, at which the British authorities made sterling available against dollars, advanced rather sharply during September to a high of $4.05. In view of the vanishing supply and demand during October the free pound became steadily easier, but was frequently on a parity with or even above the London official rate. The range for free sterling cable transfers during October was between $4.02¼ and $4.05.

Throughout the month the Bank of England's official rate continued at $4.02½ buying and $4.03½ selling. Official rates quoted by the Bank of England during October continued as follows: New York, $4.02½-$4.03½; Canada, $4.43-$4.47 (Canadian official, 90.09c.-90.91c. per United States dollar); Australia, 3.2150-3.2280; New Zealand, 3.2280-3.2442. American commercial bank rates for official sterling continued at $4.02 buying and $4.04 selling.

During October, as in September, exchange in London was not quoted on Germany, Italy, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, or France.

On Oct. 10 Rumanian exchange ceased to be quoted in New York, as the President had issued a freezing order with respect to Rumanian accounts here, a course which previously had been adopted with respect to accounts of all the invaded European countries. On Oct. 11 Great Britain likewise froze Rumanian accounts and thereafter the unit ceased to be quoted in London.

In New York during October, as in previous months, the German mark was nominally quoted around 40.05 for the so-called free or gold mark, and around 12.00 for the registered mark. The Italian lira, in a nominal market, continued to be quoted in New York at 5.05. There were no quotations in New York for the currencies of the countries invaded by Germany.

The foreign exchange market was on the whole so limited and the rates so firmly fixed by the sterling-dollar link that interest was centered chiefly on Great Britain's efforts to increase production and sustenance and to enlarge its overseas trade, and on the effects of these activities upon the solution of the country's vast and complex financial problems.

It was officially disclosed in October that Great Britain's national expenditure had reached the enormous sum of £9,000,000 a day, representing almost the peak of expenditures at the close of the World War in 1914-18. Approximately £7,500,000 of this daily outlay was for the fighting forces.

On Oct. 15 a supplementary vote of credit for £1,000,000,000 for British Government expenditures arising out of the war was made public. A vote of credit in a similar amount was approved by the House of Commons on July 9, while a previous credit of £7,000,000,000 was approved in March. British returns in early October showed that Great Britain had spent about £36,000,000 a day during the first six months of the fiscal year and had incurred a deficit of £4,822,304,000. It was shown on Oct. 15 that expenditures since April were listed as £1,681,125,532, while revenues for the same period were £457,549,328.

Despite the huge proportions of Great Britain's war effort, it was declared in mid-October that the country's resources were far from exhausted. It was asserted that its monetary position in the United States was acknowledged to be as good as, if not better than when the Empire entered the conflict. At the end of 1939 the United Kingdom was reported to have holdings of United States securities of £2,800,000,000, and according to informed circles this potential war chest had hardly been encroached upon.

This total was regarded as a minimum and did not take into account cash balances in the United States of the Dominions or United States securities held in Canada, South Africa, and Australia. Continual addition was being made to these British resources through the purchase by the United States of many strategic materials originating in British possessions or The Netherlands East Indies, since trade of the latter is being directed from London. Aside from the actual bank balances of Great Britain concentrated chiefly in the large New York banks, it was asserted that the largest share of the earmarked gold for account of foreign nations in the Federal Reserve Bank of New York was held for the British Treasury or the Bank of England. Earmarked gold in New York during October was about $1,750,000,000. An added source of replenishment for British funds was the Empire's gold output, most of which came from the mines of South Africa and Canada. The annual output of such gold is estimated to be $750,000,000 and is converted by Great Britain into further dollar balances, to meet war needs.

On Oct. 15 James W. Young, Director of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, was reported to have stated that "general business in Great Britain shows no material decline" despite the difficulties of the war. It was intimated that in his view neither the adverse trade balance nor the Government control necessitated by the war effort was likely to impede British trade development.

It was disclosed in October that Great Britain had concluded deals for the entire wool crop of Australia and for enormous supplies of leather, wheat, and grain from Argentina. The largest meat contract in the history of the Argentine packing industry was negotiated between Argentina and Great Britain, amounting to approximately $100,000,000 for one year.

A spokesman for the Argentine Embassy in London said that Great Britain was seeking to purchase approximately £40,000,000 of corn, wheat, butter, hides, and other staples, to be paid for with Argentine bonds held in England. Because of Argentina's pressing financial situation, it was understood, payment was preferred in this form rather than to have Argentina's trade balances in England blocked until the end of the war.

The new publication of the United States Department of Commerce, "Foreign Commerce Weekly," which appeared in October, showed that British-owned dollar balances at the end of May, 1940, aggregated $319,000,000, or approximately the same as at the beginning of the war. British investments of $2,803,000,000 constituted more than 40% of all European holdings in the United States at the end of 1939. Such European holdings had been then estimated at $6,698,000,000, about $700,000,000 more than the European holdings at the outbreak of the first World War. Of the total British investments here at the end of May, 1940, approximately $1,180,000,000 represented stocks and bonds and was, because of its ready marketability, an important part of potentially liquid dollar funds supporting the primary dollar assets which were already held in the form of bank balances.

On Oct. 7 the United States Senate passed a bill authorizing banks to deliver some $2,500,000,000 of foreign funds on deposit in this country to payees certified by accredited foreign representatives recognized by the United States State Department. The measure would bar recourse to the courts by persons seeking to contest the payments. Most of the foreign funds on deposit in the United States was recognized as for the account of banks in invaded European countries.

On Oct. 18 the New York Bankers Foreign Exchange Committee reported the receipt of advices from London to the effect that as of Oct. 15 London banks would not allow interest on registered sterling accounts. The ruling, it was said, was made pursuant to an agreement with the Bank of England entered into by the London banks.

The New York committee was also advised by the British authorities that banks in London must not do business in United States dollars with Brazil unless confirmation was first received from the Bank of Brazil by Brazilian importers of British goods that reimbursement in dollars would be forthcoming. In other words, Brazilian importers proposing to pay for British goods in United States dollars must have the sanction of the Brazilian central bank.

London was inclined to discover a source of satisfaction in repeated declines in the Bank of England's note circulation during October. This was regarded as a sign of the general confidence of the people. The Bank of England's note circulation had receded on Oct. 30 to £591,571,000, having declined from the August peak of £613,907,000.

Word was received in New York on Oct. 23 that the London authorities, as a precautionary measure, had taken steps to print a reserve of notes of small denominations. The smallest notes then currently in circulation were those of 10s., the "Bradburys," the fiduciary issue which was introduced during the World War of 1914-18. The new series was proposed to be for five shillings, or the "crown"; two shillings and six pence, or the "half-crown," and two shillings, or the "florin." There is no shortage of silver in England for minting the shilling or large silver pieces. The plan projected in October, it was understood, was intended to bring paper currency into more general use and may not be put into effect unless enemy action interrupts the minting of coins. During the last war a supply of small notes was printed as a precautionary measure, but it was not found necessary to issue them.

Throughout the month London open market maney rates continued easy, with call money against bills almost invariably in supply at ¾%, while two months' bills were 1 1/32%; three months' bills, 1 1/16%; four months' bills, 1 3/32%, and six months' bills, 1¼%.

Canadian exchange during October was marked by greater steadiness and there was a decline in the discount on the unit in the unofficial market. The discount had narrowed considerably after mid-September. Montreal funds during October ranged between a discount of 15½% and discount of 12¾%.

In commenting on the foreign exchange situation during October, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York said in its "Monthly Review" for Nov. 1:

"Possibly the most significant development in an otherwise very dull foreign exchange market during the past month was the movement of certain foreign funds from this country as a result of fears that the situation abroad, particularly in the Balkans, might lead to extension of the United States' "freezing" regulations to additional foreign accounts.

"Swiss exchange continued in demand during October, accompanying a further substantial repatriation of funds from this market to Switzerland. The rate for the Swiss franc was permitted to appreciate gradually from $0.2296 to $0.2323, a level 81 points above that prevailing in mid-June and the highest since March, 1938, prior to the German absorption of Austria. The free rate for the Argentine peso, after having reacted temporarily to $0.2285 during the previous month, recovered to as high as $0.2386 during the first half of October, reportedly stimulated by the transfer of European capital from New York to Argentina. By the end of the month, however, the rate had receded to $0.2320. The Mexican peso, which opened the month at about $0.2032, firmed to about $0.2062, and held near this level throughout the second half of the month. The strength in Mexican exchange is reported to have reflected primarily an improved outlook for political stability in Mexico. Among the other Latin American currencies, the discount on the Cuban peso narrowed to 7⅛% on Oct. 7, accompanying reports of negotiations for a sizable Export-Import Bank credit to the Cuban Republic, but subsequently widened to around 9% for the remainder of the month.

"The Chinese dollar advanced substantially against both the pound sterling and the United States dollar during October. While the announcement on Oct. 8 of the British intention to reopen the Burma Road apparently lent considerable strength to Chinese exchange, the accentuated Far Eastern tension may also have caused some accumulation of Chinese currency for fear that Chinese funds held abroad might become unavailable. The Shanghai dollar was quoted at slightly over 6c. at the end of the month, as against 5⅝c. a month earlier.

In desultory trading, little change occurred in the free rate for the pound, the fluctuations of which held within a narrow range of $4.02½-$4.04½. The unofficial discount on the Canadian dollar also showed relatively little fluctuation during October."

Details of the gold movement at the Port of New York during October were outlined as follows in the "Monthly Review" of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for Nov. 1:

"During October the volume of imports of gold into the United States declined further from the peak reached last June, and at the same time the amount of gold held under earmark at the Federal Reserve banks for foreign account increased about $115,000,000 to a total of approximately $1,775,000,000. Consequently, the increase of about $255,000,000 in the gold stock of the United States which occurred during the month was the smallest for any month since March of this year.

"Following imports of $78,400,000 in the week ended Sept. 25, of which $50,400,000 came from Canada, receipts during the four weeks ended Oct. 23, as reported by the Department of Commerce, totaled $307,600,000, of which $221,500,000 came from Canada, $17,800,000 from Portugal, $16,500,000 from Argentina, $14,900,000 from Japan, $14,800,000 from Australia, $5,700,000 from Russia, $5,000,000 from South Africa, $2,200,000 from the Philippines, $1,700,000 from Spain, $1,300,000 from the United Kingdom, and $1,100,000 from Peru."

CONTINENTAL AND OTHER FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Interest in the European exchanges was centered during October entirely on the steady advance and firmness in the Swiss franc, which had experienced some resumption of commercial demand since early in September. On Sept. 28 the Zurich authorities had found it necessary to raise the official rate for the Swiss franc in relation to the dollar from approximately 4.38 francs to 4.37 francs, equivalent to increasing the New York price for the Swiss unit from 22.83c. to 22.88¼c. No less than four other increases in the value of the franc were made by Zurich during October, bringing the dollar equivalent finally to 23.24c.

The parity of the Swiss franc was changed on Sept. 28, 1936, and no new value has since been determined. Just before the beginning of the war the Swiss unit was quoted at 22.59c. in the New York market.

The repatriation of Swiss deposits and the proceeds of sales of American securities by Swiss nationals continued with but slight interruption throughout the month. It was understood that operators in the Swiss franc were also withdrawing funds from the United States, to be sent to Buenos Aires and other Latin American centers, and it was believed that these operations were for account of other than Swiss nationals in Europe.

The fear that the United States might be forced into the war was to some extent responsible for this movement of Swiss funds, resulting in a further tightening or freezing of European funds in the United States. It was also asserted in banking circles that Switzerland is falling more and more completely under German domination and that in the event of a closer economic union between Germany and the Swiss cantons there might be a freezing of Swiss accounts here.

However, according to statistics of the United States Department of Commerce, Swiss accounts on this side are estimated at about $1,100,000,000. Accepting these figures and considering the comparatively light market for Swiss francs at all times, less than 1% of withdrawals of capital funds from this side could account for a sharp rise.

The Swiss National Bank was reportedly opposed to the advance of the franc in the dollar market and to the fluctuations resulting therefrom. The Swiss central bank, it was said, was progressively forcing Swiss investors to obtain less in terms of francs for their American balances, in order to retard the homeward trend of Swiss funds. Every time the Swiss central bank has to buy a large amount of dollars in exchange for Swiss francs the balances of Swiss nationals in the United States diminish, but the funds of the Swiss Government here increase, the operation amounting to an increase in Government dollar balances at the expense of private dollar balances.

The Swiss National Bank charter specifies what percentage of foreign exchange and gold coverage shall be maintained for note circulation. In September the Bank announced that it had ceased to buy gold because of its large gold stocks. It had also ceased to buy dollar notes for which there was a large market in the Swiss centers.

The hoarding of United States dollars was held accountable for the great increase in note circulation of the Federal Reserve Bank here. At the end of October total United States circulation was reported at $8,065,000,000. A very large part of these notes was held by hoarders in Europe, and they had been finding a ready market through the Swiss centers for months past.

Throughout October the Swedish krona, the only other free European unit, was held steady in nominal trading. Regarding the financial situation of the other Continental European countries, nothing of a reliable or helpful character occurred during October which might interest the market. The spread of German autarchy throughout the continent became more apparent.

The Swiss franc was quoted at 22.99½@23.05 on Oct. 1 and at 23.22½@23.23 on Oct. 31 for cable transfers. The Swedish krona, in limited trading, ruled around 23.85, with infrequent fluctuations and hardly changed from the previous month.

On Oct. 28, following the invasion of Greece by Italy, the United States Executive Department took under consideration the question of freezing Greek accounts in the United States, as had been done previously with the funds of other European countries invaded by Germany. No action had been decided upon when the month ended.

Exchange on the Latin American countries showed substantial fluctuations in the free markets during October, but this had been the case ever since the outbreak of the war on Sept. 3 a year ago. The failure of their European export markets was largely responsible for the South American situation. All these countries are undergoing exchange difficulties which have been kept within bounds only by the rigid control exercised by their central banks.

In October the United States Department of Commerce, in a survey of exchange control in Latin America, indicated that in some instances these hindrances might be multiplied. The Department pointed out that the pressure of dollar shortage was offering increasing obstacles to United States exporters.

The market continued to display great interest in what might be done by the increase of $500,000,000 in the lending power of the Export-Import Bank for the purpose of assisting Western Hemisphere countries.

A credit of $25,000,000 to the Bank of Brazil was announced by the Export-Import Bank at Washington on Oct. 30. On the same date the Venezuelan bolivar fell sharply and fluctuated widely in the New York market as the result of Venezuelan action tightening control of imports with relation to available foreign exchange.

It was suggested in October that the United States Treasury's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund, which had been virtually discontinued since the outbreak of the European war, when its normal transactions in European currencies were stopped, might be brought into play to prevent fluctuations in the dollar values of the South American currencies, but nothing had come of this in October.

The Argentine unofficial or free market peso was 23.00 on Oct. 1, and 23.30@23.35 on Oct. 31. Brazilian milreis were 5.02@5.15 on Oct. 1, and 5.02@5.15 on Oct. 31. Chilean exchange was 5.17 on Oct. 1, and 5.17 on Oct. 31. Peru was nominally quoted at 16.00 on Oct. 1, and at 16.00 on Oct. 31. The Mexican peso was 20.85 on Oct. 1, and 20.85 on Oct. 31.

Exchange on the Far Eastern countries continued to follow much the same course as during previous months. Neither the war in Europe nor advance of Japanese troops into French Indo-China, nor the closer Japanese alliance with the Axis Powers seem to have had any effect on these units. The Indian currencies were exceptionally steady owing to the firm London control. The Hongkong dollar and the Shanghai yuan fluctuated widely throughout the month as political events in the Far East and in Europe tended to restrict trade in these areas.

The London price for silver was 23 7/16d. on Oct. 1, and 23½d. on Oct. 31. The Hongkong dollar was 23.47@23.75 on Oct. 1, and 23.06@23.30 on Oct. 31. The Shanghai yuan was 5.38@5.62 on Oct. 1, and 5.91@6.25 on Oct. 31. Yen checks were 23.44@23.50 on Oct. 1, and 23.44@23.50 on Oct. 31.

NOTICE—Cash and deferred delivery sales are disregarded in the month's range unless they are the only transactions of the month, and when selling outside of the regular monthly range are shown in a footnote in the month in which they occur. No account is taken of such sales in computing the range for the year.

The tables on pages 19 to 40 furnish a complete record of the transactions on the New York Stock Exchange during October 1940, and the range for 1940. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. The italic letters in the column headed "Interest Period" indicate in each case the month when the bonds mature.

In accordance with the rule adopted by the New York Stock Exchange in 1909, all quotations for interest-paying bonds are at a price to which accrued interest must be added. The exceptions to the rule are income bonds and bonds on which interest is in default. This method of quoting bonds became effective Jan. 2, 1909. Quotations after decimal point represent one or more 32ds of a point.

General Quotations

OF BONDS AND STOCKS

In the earlier part of this publication complete records of the dealings on the leading stock exchanges of the country, for the latest month and for the calendar year to date, are furnished. In this department of General Quotations we combine in one comprehensive whole, securities of all classes and descriptions, not only those dealt in on the exchanges, but also leading unlisted and inactive securities. The following is an index to the different classes of securities quoted:

	Page		Page		Page
Exchange Seats	84	Joint Stock Land Bank Securities	84	Railroad Stocks	71
Federal Land Bank Bonds	92	Mining Stocks	85	Real Estate Bonds	101
Foreign Government Bonds	93	Municipal Bonds—Domestic	92	Real Estate Trust and Land Stocks	85
Industrial Bonds	81	Canadian	94	Textile Stocks	85
Industrial Stocks	85	Public Utility Bonds	73	Title Guarantee and Safe Deposit Stocks	85
Insurance Stocks	100	Public Utility Stocks	78	United States Government Securities	92
Investing Companies Securities	72	Railroad Bonds	67	United States Territorial Bonds	92

Quotations for all securities are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue.

The letter "f" prefixed to bond prices denotes that the quotation is a flat price—that is, that the accrued interest forms part of the price, and therefore the purchaser does not have to provide for it separately in making payment. In the case of income bonds and bonds in default, the price is always "flat," and no designating mark is employed to indicate the fact.

Quotations for equipment bonds are based on average maturities.

Quotations for guaranteed stocks are "and dividend" that is the accrued dividend must be paid in addition to the price.

It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.

The following abbreviations are often used, viz.: "M" for mortgage, "g" for gold, "gu" for guaranteed, "end" for endorsed, "cons" for consolidated "conv" for convertible, "s f" for sinking fund, "l g" for land grant, "opt" for optional.

The black-faced type in the letters showing the interest period indicates the month when the bonds mature.

NOTICE—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities

Under the heading "Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities" we include all issues which do not appear under the previous three headings, namely "Railroads" "Investing Companies" and "Public Utilities." In the case of stocks, however, we put "Textile Manufacturing," "Insurance," "Mining," "Real Estate and Land," "Title Guarantee and Safe Deposit Companies" under separate heads, then follow with the rest of the "Industrial and Miscellaneous."

NOTICE—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds

Quotations for all securities are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue

United States and Municipal Bonds

The custom in reporting prices for State and municipal securities is to quote them on the basis of the return the bonds yield per annum. Therefore, in furnishing the prices below, it will be found that for the single maturity bond a bid and asked quotation is published—either actual figures or on a percentage basis. In furnishing prices for the serial bonds, however, we endeavor to obtain the yield basis for the varying maturities. For instance, if a certain bond in our list matures from 1941 to 1951 and is quoted 0.50 to 3.00%—this would indicate that the earliest maturity yields 0.50% and the latter maturity is yielding 3.00%.

Therefore, in the following list, it must be remembered the word to indicates that the figures shown are the yield basis for various maturities: all other figures are bid and asked prices.

Quotations for all securities are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue

Banks & Trust Companies

STATE AND NATIONAL BANK STATEMENTS

Quotations in this department are given per share, not per cent, except for stocks of Canadian Institutions, and are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding date of issue, though often are nominal. An asterisk (*) denotes sales.

Figures of deposits, capital and profits for the National banks are from the Comptroller's last call; for all other institutions they are the latest obtainable, direct returns being procured by us where no periodic statements are required. For the Clearing House banks of New York, deposits are taken from the latest weekly statement.
