REVIEW OF JANUARY.

While our industries continued depressed during January, and there was little evidence of activity in any department of business, the outlook nevertheless improved in some important respects.

In the first place, irritating action in Congress with regard to matters affecting our foreign relations ceased in great measure. When Congress adjourned in December over the holiday recess the resolution, it will be remembered, of Senator Cameron, recognizing the independence of the "Republic of Cuba," had just been reported favorably by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, causing much uneasiness in business circles and leading to fears of a possible rupture of our friendly relations with Spain. In January the Cuban question no longer operated to disturb business, and the author of the resolution referred to did not even undertake to call it up.

Another event of an auspicious nature was the submission by President Cleveland on the 11th of a general arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain. The attitude of the Senate regarding the treaty was not altogether assuring. On the 30th the Committee on Foreign Relations decided to report it with some important amendments, but even then only by a vote of 6 to 4, thus showing strong opposition to the measure. The most noteworthy feature, however, in connection with the treaty was the great favor with which it was received by the public. Resolutions were adopted by mercantile associations, by religious societies and by other organized bodies in different parts of the country, urging its ratification, and in addition personal petitions in large number from prominent persons everywhere were sent to the Senate. These appeals served not only to show that arbitration as a means for settling disputes between nations is popular, but, more than that, that our people as a whole are opposed to war and will not support efforts tending to involve the country in trouble with other nations without clear cause. It should also be noted that last Saturday (January 30th) Secretary of State Olney and Sir Julian Pauncefote signed a treaty, which was sent by the President to the Senate on Monday, for the appointment of Commissioners to determine the Alaska boundary line, thus removing another possible source of international complications.

The National Monetary Conference was also a favorable event. The Conference met at Indianapolis on the 12th and 13th and was a wholly non-partisan gathering composed of representatives of commercial organizations throughout the country. The resolutions adopted were reported unanimously by the Committee having them in charge and were agreed to by the Convention with but a few dissenting votes. The Convention declared that the gold standard must be maintained, "that steps should be taken to ensure the ultimate retirement of all classes of United States notes by a gradual and steady process," and that a banking system must be provided "which shall furnish credit facilities to every portion of the country and a safe and elastic circulation," etc. Provision was also made for an executive committee whose duty it is to be to endeavor to procure at the extra session of Congress, which it is understood will be convened in March, legislation calling for the appointment of a Monetary Commission by the President, failing which the Committee itself is to name a commission to investigate our monetary affairs.

But perhaps the most important event of the month was the authorized announcement that the portfolio of the Treasury Department in the McKinley administration had been offered to Mr. Lyman J. Gage, President of the First National Bank of Chicago, and that that gentleman had decided to accept the position. Mr. Gage is regarded as pre-eminently fitted for the place, and his appointment was at once taken as proof that the policy of the new administration concerning the currency would be satisfactory and such as to promote confidence and business revival. Among the minor incidents of the month, we may mention that Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, visited several of the European capitals, with the concurrence, it is understood, of President-elect McKinley, to ascertain the views abroad with reference to the possibility of an international agreement for bimetalism; also that on the 29th of January the United States Senate passed a bill by a vote of 46 to 4, authorizing the President after March 4 1897 to call, in his discretion, an international conference for that purpose.

In the dry goods trade the large stocks of print cloths continued a depressing feature, though there was some slight improvement in that particular during the month. The price was 2½ cents per yard. A movement to curtail production and thus reduce stocks was proposed, but was not perfected until after the close of the month. Prices for certain makes of bleached cottons were reduced to the lowest figures on record. The price of raw cotton, however, improved a little, low middling uplands being quoted at 6 15-16 cents January 30th, against 6 11-16 cents on the 5th.

The price of the new United States 4s further advanced, they selling at 124 at the close of the month against 120½ on the 2d, and this furnishes the true index to the situation. The Treasury gold reserve kept gaining and was $144,800,493 January 30, against $137,316,544 December 31. In Europe money cheapened very materially, and the Bank of England reduced its minimum discount rate from 4 to 3½ per cent and the Bank of Germany lowered its rate from 5 per cent to 4 per cent.

The Delaware & Hudson reduced its dividend from 7 per cent to 5 per cent, and in Ohio the bituminous coal trade situation gave occasion for great anxiety. The Wheeling & Lake Erie and the Columbus Sandusky & Hocking passed into the hands of receivers, the latter property, however, being subsequently restored to its owners. At the close of the month an agreement had been nearly perfected among the Ohio coal roads for obtaining better rates and better prices. The House of Representatives on the 11th, by a vote of 168 to 102, rejected the bill for funding the debt of the Pacific railroads; within a few days thereafter the Government began foreclosure proceedings under its lien, after having first reached an agreement with the Reorganization Committee for a minimum bid of $45,754,000 for its interest, including the sinking fund. The Attorney-General of Pennsylvania rendered a decision sustaining the validity of the charter of the new Reading Company; the Atchison made arrangements with the bondholders of the Atlantic & Pacific for absorbing that road; and the Chicago St. Paul Minneapolis & Omaha announced its first dividend on the common stock. President Roberts of the Pennsylvania Railroad died on January 30.

The foreign exchange market was strong most of the time, with the tendency towards higher rates. Maturing sixty-day bills held by those who had purchased them for investment were offered in considerable amounts, but the sellers in many cases made new investment purchases, at least in the early part of the month, when the interest rates abroad were still high. There was also at this time some borrowing here for London account. Later, easier money abroad removed one of the principal supports to exchange, but rates declined very little, and appearances indicated some manipulation to maintain them—presumably by those who held bills soon to mature and which would show a loss if rates fell off. The following gives the quotations for sterling exchange for every day in which a change in any class of bills occurred.

In the money market, there was a further large accumulation of currency at this centre, and rates of interest declined to very low figures. This led to an agreement among the banks not to loan below 2 per cent, but while these institutions adhered to this agreement the trust companies loaned freely at 1½ per cent. Some of the Clearing House banks also gave notice to their interior correspondents that they would allow only 1½ per cent on interior balances after the 1st of February. The following shows the interest rates on the various classes of loans for each week of the month.

*The lower rate was at trust companies; banks did not lend at less than 2 per cent.

The stock market manifested considerable strength the first half of the month; subsequently, on the developments in connection with the Ohio bituminous coal roads and the anthracite properties, prices reacted and weakness ensued. The best issues of bonds were in good demand throughout the month, and the bond market steadily improved, besides showing considerable activity.

MONTHLY AND YEARLY RECORD.

The following tables furnish a complete record of the New York Stock Exchange transactions for the past month and for the year 1896. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security (excepting only State bonds) dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. As to prices the form is our own, and we think it will be found to contain just the facts desired by our readers and to present them in the most convenient way for study and reference.

For foot notes to tables see last page of Bonds and last page of Stocks.

GENERAL QUOTATIONS.

—OF— BONDS AND STOCKS.

1. In the following twenty-seven pages of tables quotations are given for all securities listed on any Stock Exchange in the United States; also for all leading unlisted and inactive securities for which we have been able to obtain reliable prices.
2. Quotations from all Stock Exchanges are as near as possible for the last day of January. Of course the coupon, if there be one, maturing between the date of quotation and the date of this publication, is not deducted from the price.
3. Bond prices marked thus (*) are flat prices—that is, the purchaser does not pay accrued interest in addition. Stock prices marked thus (†) are per share. All others are per cent except bank stock prices.
4. It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.
5. The following abbreviations are often used, viz.; "M.," for mortgage; "g.," for gold; "g.d.," for guaranteed; "end.," for endorsed; "cons.," for consolidated; "conv.," for convertible; "s. f.," for sinking fund; "l. g.," for land grant.

MUNICIPAL BONDS.

It should be borne in mind that municipal bonds are not subject to such decided fluctuations in value as are securities which form a basis for speculation.

Prices marked (*) are flat prices—that is, the purchaser does not pay accrued interest in addition.

The figures in the column "to net" indicate the basis on which the securities sell or the interest rate which the securities, if held to maturity, will net to the purchaser at the present market price.

Table of municipal bond quotations with columns for Bonds, Bid, Ask, To Net, and multiple columns for various bond categories including Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, and others.

QUOTATIONS OF BANK AND TRUST COMPANY STOCKS.

Prices are per share, not per cent, with the exception of New York City and Brooklyn bank stocks. Prices marked thus (*) are last sales.

The dagger (†) prefixed to a price indicates that the figures show the book value.

The double dagger (‡) prefixed to the capital stock indicates that only part is paid in.

The section mark (§) prefixed to surplus indicates that undivided profits are included.
