REVIEW OF FEBRUARY.

It is hardly needful to say that the influence of paramount importance during February was the train of events arising out of the sad disaster to the United States war ship Maine, which the previous month had been sent to Cuban waters and which on the night of Feb. 15 was blown up in the harbor of Havana by an explosion, causing the loss of over 250 of the men and crew of the vessel. All other influences were subordinate to this occurrence, and indeed after the middle of the month there were few developments of importance outside of those connected with the Cuban situation, so completely did Cuban affairs hold in abeyance action in other directions.

Even before the disaster to the Maine the Cuban situation developed some unpleasant and disturbing features. On the 8th the Cuban Junta made public a letter written last December by Senor Dupuy de Lome, the Spanish Minister at Washington, to Don Jose Canalejas, a representative of Spain, who at that time was on a special mission to America. The letter never reached Senor Canalejas, having been abstracted from the mails before it could be delivered to him. It was a private letter not intended for the public eye, least of all for perusal in the United States. Its importance lay in the fact that it contained sentiments and expressions reflecting offensively upon President McKinley, besides throwing discredit upon the sincerity of the efforts of the Spanish Government in seeking to establish closer commercial relations with the United States. Senor De Lome admitted the authenticity of the letter, and, seeing that its publication ended his usefulness here, immediately cabled his resignation to Madrid, which the Spanish Government promptly accepted. The incident led to the interchange of communications between Washington and Madrid, and the Spanish Government finally disavowed the sentiments to which De Lome had given utterance and at the same time expressed its regret at the occurrence.

Coincident with this event there was a new eruption of Congressional talk and resolutions regarding Cuban affairs. In the Senate no less than three resolutions were introduced in one day—the eighth. Senator Mason of Illinois offered a resolution that the President be requested to notify Spain that the war in Cuba must at once cease and be discontinued; Senator Cannon, Silver Republican from Utah, offered a resolution urging the President to notify Spain that if she should fail to recognize Cuban independence by the 4th of March the Government of the United States would on that day recognize the belligerency of the Cubans and ninety days thereafter assert the independence of Cuba; while Senator Allen, Populist from Nebraska, offered an amendment to the Diplomatic and Consular Appropriation Bill recognizing the belligerency of Cuba.

The De Lome incident had not yet been closed when the deplorable calamity on the Maine occurred. In other words, the explosion on the battleship took place on the 15th, while the Spanish Government's official disavowal of the words and sentiments of De Lome was not received by United States Minister Woodford, at Madrid, until the evening of the 16th. The cause of the explosion being unknown, it was natural that opinion should be divided as to whether it was due to an outside agency or must be classed as an accident. The temper of the American people was conciliatory under the circumstances, with no inclination to do anything rashly or to be hasty in forming conclusions pending the determination of the cause of the disaster. The Administration, too, acted with great deliberation and caution. Nor were the course and conduct of the Spanish Government and people less praiseworthy. Indeed there were many incidents connected with the tragedy that must, under ordinary circumstances, have tended to draw the two peoples closer together instead of widening the breach between them. At the time of the explosion, the Spanish cruiser Alfonso XII was lying close by, and her boats were sent to the rescue of the survivors of the Maine. Everything was done for the care of the wounded and to promote the comfort and convenience of those who escaped injury. The hospitality and consideration of the Spanish officials were such as to win the good-will of our people. The victims of the disaster were given a most imposing funeral in Havana—a really notable affair, attended by nearly everybody in the city, during which business was suspended. And the evidences of sorrow and mourning manifested on every side seemed to be genuine as well as noteworthy.

But the affair had too serious an aspect to be decided by considerations of this kind. The lives of many of our sailors and soldiers had been sacrificed in the disaster, and in view of the strained relations so long existing between the United States and Spain, by reason of the Cuban war, it became a matter of absolute necessity to determine whether the Spaniards had any connection with the explosion. A Naval Court of Inquiry was constituted, consisting of Captains William T. Sampson (President of the Court) and French E. Chadwick and Lieutenant-Commanders Potter and Adolph Marix, to make an investigation into the matter, the Government meanwhile reserving its decision. The Spanish Government asked for a joint commission of inquiry, but this our Government declined, though offering to assist Spain in any separate inquiry of its own that it might choose to make. The work of the Court of Inquiry was necessarily slow, especially as the wreck of the Maine had to be explored by divers, and at the close of the month its labors had not been concluded. In the meantime the strain in the public mind grew intense. It was recognized that the outcome of the matter might be serious; that war between the two countries was a possibility; that the least untoward event might in the existing situation bring on a conflict. The President, as in duty bound, took certain preliminary precautions to strengthen the naval and military defenses of the country, and this of course tended further to increase the popular strain. Some of the cheaper daily newspapers seemed intent on adding to the excitement by publishing garbled or untrue reports and by striving to inflame the public mind and force the Administration into overt action against Spain. The United States Senate, to its credit, acted with decorum and moderation; the Committee on Foreign Relations had by a unanimous vote reported adversely the amendment proposing to attach a rider to the Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation Bill recognizing the Cuban insurgents as belligerents, and on the 23d the proposition received only 5 affirmative votes against 51 negative votes. In accordance with previous arrangements, the Spanish warship Vizcaya paid a visit to New York and was received with all naval and official courtesies. Congress appropriated $200,000 for the recovery of the bodies from the Maine and what property could be saved.

The effects of the conditions here outlined were felt in all the financial markets—the stock market, the money market and the foreign exchange market—and naturally the effects became more and more pronounced as the situation became more and more acute. In the stock market a decided break in prices occurred. The market had been strong and active the early part of the month, and after the news of the Maine disaster it at first yielded only slowly. But later, as the possibilities of serious trouble dawned upon the minds of speculators, prices gave way in all directions. Weakly-margined accounts were of course closed out, and at the same time those who would ordinarily have come to the rescue were afraid to buy, in view of the uncertainties of the outcome. The latter part of the month Europe became a large buyer in this market, and then a sharp upward reaction occurred.

In foreign exchange the effect was no less marked. The disturbing events above narrated served to reveal the inherent weakness of the exchange market. For months there had been steady and large purchases of sterling bills for investment, induced by the low rates for money here, which made the operation profitable. But the Cuban imbroglio caused an advance in money rates, and this dislodged a part of these investment holdings of exchange. Contemporaneously there were offerings of exchange against purchases of stocks here for European account, and on the 24th and 25th rates became utterly demoralized, those for actual business dropping in the two days 1@1½ cents per pound sterling. The decline resulted in gold engagements in Europe on the 25th for the United States.

The following tables furnish a complete record of the New York Stock Exchange transactions for the past month and for the year 1898. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security (excepting only State bonds) dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. As to prices the form is our own, and we think it will be found to contain just the facts desired by our readers and to present them in the most convenient way for study and reference. All quotations in the column headed "Price about January 3, 1898," were made on that date except those in italics, which are the nearest in January, 1898.

BOSTON STOCK EXCHANGE.

MONTHLY AND YEARLY RECORD.

The following tables furnish a record of Boston Stock Exchange transactions in railroad securities for the past month and for the year 1898. Also a record of transactions in mining stocks for the past month and for the year 1898. The railroad securities which are active on the New York Stock Exchange are omitted from this list. We give the securities in alphabetical order under the three general headings, Railroad Bonds, Railroad Stocks and Mining Stocks.

In comparing New York and Boston prices, it should be noted that bond prices in New York are flat prices—that is, the price includes the accrued interest, while in Boston accrued interest must be paid in addition to price. It should also be remembered that New York stock prices are per cent while those in Boston are dollars per share.

GENERAL QUOTATIONS

—OF—

BONDS AND STOCKS.

1. In the following twenty-seven pages of tables quotations are given for all securities listed on any Stock Exchange in the United States; also for all leading unlisted and inactive securities for which we have been able to obtain reliable prices.

2. Quotations from all Stock Exchanges are as near as possible for the last day of February. Of course the coupon, if there be one, maturing between the date of quotation and the date of this publication, is not deducted from the price.

3. Bond prices marked thus (§) indicate that the purchaser must pay accrued interest in addition to the price given. The method of quoting on the New York Stock Exchange is to quote the prices flat (that is to include the accrued interest in the price), and hence in the tables below no mark is now affixed where this method of quoting is followed.

4. Stock prices marked thus (†) are per share. All others are per cent except bank stock prices.

5. It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.

6. The following abbreviations are often used, viz.: "M." for mortgage; "g." for gold; "g'd." for guaranteed; "end.," for endorsed; "cons.," for consolidated; "conv.," for convertible; "s. f.," for sinking fund; "l. g.," for land grant.

Notice Change.—We no longer affix a mark to prices quoted flat, but only to those which require payment of accrued interest in addition to the price. Designating mark in this instance is (§).

† Prices per share not per cent.

MUNICIPAL BONDS.

Prices marked (*) are flat prices—that is, the purchaser does not pay accrued interest in addition. In all other cases accrued interest must be added to the price.

The figures in the column "to net" indicate the basis on which the securities sell or the interest rate which the securities if held to maturity, will net to the purchaser at the present market price.

It should be borne in mind that municipal bonds are not subject to such decided fluctuations in value as are securities which form a basis for speculation.

Table of municipal bond quotations with columns for Bonds, Bid, Ask, To Net, and various bond descriptions. Includes sections for Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, and Denver.
