REVIEW OF FEBRUARY.

Legislation played an unusually prominent part in affairs during February. By this we mean that "trust" and financial questions occupied a large share of the attention of Congress and attracted a great deal of notice from the public. A number of bills relating to, or intended to affect, the so-called "trusts" became laws. Among these may be mentioned first of all the bill creating a new Department of Commerce and Labor, the Secretary of which is made a member of the President's Cabinet. This new department embraces a Bureau of Corporations, with a Commissioner who is given a certain jurisdiction over corporations. Mr. George B. Cortelyou, previously private secretary to both President Roosevelt and President McKinley, was made the first executive head of the new department, and Mr. James R. Garfield was made the first Commissioner of the Bureau of Corporations. The duties of the new Secretary and the new Commissioner of Corporations were outlined in our article on the Financial Situation in the issue of February 14.

Then a bill was passed whose purpose it is to permit suits brought under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act by the Government to be advanced on the court calendar. The Attorney-General took prompt advantage of this new enactment, and on the 28th sent to the Clerk of the U. S. Circuit Court for the Eighth Circuit the formal certificate to secure precedence and an early argument in the case of the Government against the Northern Securities Company. Then a third measure passed the gauntlet of both houses, namely the Act known as Senator Elkins's Rebate bill, and which is directed against the granting of rebates in transportation—in this sense being more in the nature of an amendment to the Inter-State Commerce Law. A much more drastic measure than any of these, the Littlefield bill, passed the House but made no headway in the Senate, as the leaders had evidently completed their program of trust legislation.

A financial measure which was watched with great anxiety was Senator Aldrich's bill for regulating the system of Government bank deposits. The leading features of this bill were that it extended the list of bonds which might be used as security for Government deposits in the national banks. Banks were to be allowed to use either United States bonds or State bonds or certain classes of municipal bonds and also the first mortgage bonds of railroad companies which had paid dividends of not less than 4 per cent per annum regularly on their stock for a period of ten years. The bill also contained a proviso requiring the payment of interest on Government deposits. Up to the last it was hoped that this necessary piece of financial legislation for the relief of business interests from the recurring periods of stringency might go through, but the measure never got out of the Senate by reason of obstructive tactics on the part of a faction in the Senate.

One of the events of the month was the adoption by the Clearing House Association, by a unanimous vote, of resolutions requiring trust companies to hold cash reserves against their deposits if they would continue to clear through members of the Association. The resolutions provide that every non-member institution (not a bank required by law to maintain a specified reserve), on and after June 1 1903 must keep a cash reserve equal to 5 per cent of its deposits; that on and after February 1 1904 such cash reserve must be not less than 7½ per cent of the deposits, and, beginning with June 1 1904, such cash reserve shall be such percentage as shall from time to time be fixed by the Clearing House Committee, but not less than 10 nor more than 15 per cent. Still another event was the appointment by the President of the American Bankers' Association of a committee to deal with the question of the reform of our currency.

The Anthracite Strike Commission appointed by President Roosevelt last October heard the closing arguments in the case before it, but had announced no conclusions by the end of the month. Judge Grosscup, in the United States Circuit Court, rendered a decision against the so-called beef trust overruling the demurrer of the packers and granting a temporary injunction. The New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals handed down a unanimous decision in the Hodge case against the United States Steel Corporation, sustaining the stock conversion scheme and new bond issue in every particular. The death of Conrad N. Jordan, United States Assistant Treasurer at this point, occurred on Thursday, February 26, and the news was everywhere received with expressions of regret.

The stock market did not show much strength during February, and in fact was inclined to weakness. The Venezuela controversy was satisfactorily adjusted the early part of the month, but this had no stimulating effect. There were various depressing circumstances tending to keep the market in a weak and unsettled condition. A sharp attack on Metropolitan Street Railway stock and also on the shares of the Metropolitan Securities Company following false rumors regarding the properties, was one of the happenings. Anxiety regarding the fate of the Aldrich Bill in the Senate also had an adverse effect, although this became a particularly depressing influence during the early days of March, when it was seen that the bill was doomed to failure. Certain classes of stocks were exceptions to the rule of decline for special reasons. The Wabash shares and debenture class B bonds belong in this category, both having enjoyed sharp advances on rumors that the company would be taken into the Missouri Pacific system, and also on suggestions of one kind or another of a possible settlement of differences with the Pennsylvania Railroad. St. Louis & San Francisco shares likewise moved up sharply, the stimulating cause in that case being pretty definite statements that the St. Louis & San Francisco was to be absorbed by the Rock Island.

The feature of the money market was the distinctly firm tone for money on time. Quotations for money on call remained low, even while rates on time were quoted higher, until towards the very close when even call-money rates rose to a higher level. There was a sharp expansion in the loans of the Clearing-House institutions, due it was claimed in large part to the paying off of foreign loans. The total of these Clearing-House loans increased from $904,510,700 on January 31 to $950,156,300 on February 28. Surplus reserves were reduced from $27,880,775 to $5,951,900.

The foreign exchange market was strong and higher, and sterling hovered in the neighborhood of the gold export point. No engagements for shipment to Europe occurred, however, and the only export was $750,000 sent to Argentina on the 26th. At the very close, the advance in money rates weakened exchange. The Bank of Germany reduced its discount rate from 4 to 3½ per cent on the 11th.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

MONTHLY AND YEARLY RECORD.

The following tables furnish a complete record of the New York Stock Exchange transactions for the past month and the year 1903. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security (excepting only State bonds) dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. As to prices the form is our own, and we think it will be found to contain just the facts desired by our readers and to present them in the most convenient way for study and reference. All quotations in the column headed "Prices about January 2, 1903," were made on that date, except those in italics, which are the nearest in January, 1903. The black-faced letters in the column headed "Interest Period" indicate in each case the month when the bonds mature.

For foot notes to tables see last page of Bonds and last page of Stocks.

GENERAL QUOTATIONS

BONDS AND STOCKS.

1. In the following twenty-eight pages of tables quotations are given for all securities listed on any Stock Exchange in the United States; also for all leading unlisted and inactive securities for which we have been able to obtain reliable prices

2. Quotations from all Stock Exchanges are as near as possible for the last day of February. Of course the coupon if there be one, maturing between the date of quotation and the date of this publication, is not deducted from the price.

3. Bond prices marked thus (§) indicate that the purchaser must pay accrued interest in addition to the price given. The method of quoting on the New York Stock Exchange is to quote the prices flat (that is to include the accrued interest in the price), and hence in the tables below no mark is now affixed where this method of quoting is followed.

4. Stock prices marked thus (†) are per share. All others are per cent except bank stock prices.

5. It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.

6. The following abbreviations are often used, viz.: "M." for mortgage; "g." for gold; "g'd." for guaranteed; "end." for endorsed; "cons." for consolidated; "conv." for convertible; "s. f." for sinking fund; "l. g." for land grant; "op." for optional

7. The black-faced type in the letters showing the interest periods indicates in each case the month when the bonds mature.

⚡ We no longer affix a mark to prices quoted flat, but only to those which require payment of accrued interest in addition to the price. Designating mark in this instance is (§).

STATE AND MUNICIPAL BONDS.

It is not the custom in quoting municipal bonds to include accrued interest in the price given. Hence this accrued interest must in all cases be added on. There are a very few instances which form exceptions to the rule—that is where the prices given are flat prices, the accrued interest having been taken into account in making them. These are indicated by a special mark, thus (*).

The figures in the column "to net" indicate the basis on which the securities sell or the interest rate which the securities, if held to maturity, will net to the purchaser at the present market price.

BANKS AND TRUST COMPANIES.

Quotations for the stocks of banks and trust companies are given per share, not per cent, with the exception of New York City, Brooklyn and Canadian bank stocks.

Prices marked thus (*) indicate sales. The dagger (†) prefixed to a price indicates that the figures show the book value.

Where names of the banks are printed in italics, fuller returns may be found in the advertising columns in the front part of the paper.
