REVIEW OF DECEMBER.

December was on the whole a quiet month, with some unfavorable, though no seriously disturbing, events. The breaking off of diplomatic relations with Nicaragua by our Government, while it excited wide comment, was not considered a matter having any importance in financial or commercial circles. The strike of the switchmen on the trans-continental lines running between St. Paul and Duluth and the North Pacific Coast, inaugurated on the evening of Nov. 30, threatened at the beginning of December seriously to interrupt business in the territory affected, but the interruption was not of long duration, as the roads had no difficulty in replacing the strikers with new men. The President's annual message to Congress was favorably viewed, inasmuch as it contained no disquieting features, though it omitted discussion of those controversial subjects, the amendment of the Railway Rate law and the Anti-Trust statute.

On the Stock Exchange, prices in December again showed recovery after the break the previous month on the decision declaring the Standard Oil Co. an illegal combination in restraint of trade under the Anti-Trust law of 1890. And this calls attention to the fact that the year 1909 was one of general improvement in values on the Stock Exchange. The improvement was the more noteworthy inasmuch as the advances of the previous year had been of very great extent. The further rise in 1909 of course simply reflected the great revival in trade, the wonderful activity of the iron and steel industry and the improvement in the condition of the roads themselves, as also of the various industrial properties which are dealt in on our Stock Exchanges. The railroads had a double advantage in the fact that their gross revenues increased by reason of the expansion in the volume of their traffic, while at the same time they were able to prevent that inordinate augmentation in their expenses which had marked the years of large growth in traffic prior to the panic of 1907. This is tantamount to saying that the managers succeeded once more in getting control of their expense accounts and in enforcing and maintaining discipline over their employees, which they had almost completely lost at one time in the past, and in that way found it possible to administer the properties with due economy and efficiency. For the ten months of the calendar year to Oct. 31, gross earnings for substantially the whole railroad mileage of the country show an increase of $222,648,326, and of this gain of $222,648,326 in the gross, $126,780,633 was saved for the net, the ratio of addition in this last instance being 21.40%. It is proper to state that in the early months of 1909 the gains in gross earnings represented merely part recovery of the tremendous losses which had been sustained in 1908. In the later months of the year, however, with a continued expansion in business, the gains in gross receipts far exceeded the 1908 losses.

The stock market did not wait for the full realization of all the bright hopes and promises for the future. The speculation for higher prices was most pronounced in the spring and summer, and steadily progressed even when many persons, on account of the tariff discussions, were skeptical as to whether any genuine and large revival in trade would come at all. As far as leading properties are concerned, very few new high records were made in the last two or three months of the year. In other words, when doubt as to the year's agricultural outturn was removed, when tariff legislation was completed and there was reasonable certainty as to the progress and continuance of trade revival, and when the immediate future of both railroad and industrial properties seemed assured, the stock market hesitated and halted. The high money rates which developed in the autumn may have had something to do with this hesitancy, but it is also in part explained by the great antecedent advance which had occurred. In other words, the market had discounted to a great extent the favorable things which came in such abundance in a material way in the closing months. As a radical instance of the rise in prices, the Steel shares may be cited. Steel common was at its lowest in February, at the time of the great cut in prices of iron and steel products. The common shares then sold at 41 $\frac{1}{4}$; on Oct. 4 they sold at 94 $\frac{7}{8}$. The extremes for Steel preferred were 107 in February and 131 Oct. 4.

Notwithstanding that the tendency of stock values was so strongly upward, there were many occasions during the year when there were violent breaks in prices, generally caused by special adverse circumstances, on which occasions the market at times appeared to be in a state of hopeless collapse. These breaks in prices stand as the noteworthy feature of the year by which it will probably long be remembered. But it is also to be observed that, after each downward plunge, there was quick recovery. At the very beginning of the year the market received a blow which sent it tottering in the U. S. Supreme Court decision compelling a trial of 80-cent gas in the case of the Consolidated Gas Co. of this city. In February the sudden and unexpected announcement that the United States Steel Corporation had abandoned its policy of maintaining prices occasioned a tremendous slump. In March there was sharp recovery and in April and May great buoyancy developed, the Supreme Court decision on the commodities clause of the Hepburn Act contributing to that end. In June President Taft's message regarding the tax on corporation incomes precipitated a violent break. In July, however, there was a renewal of buoyancy, and this was continued into August, carrying prices to the highest figures of the year in most cases. In the second half of the latter month there came the alarm regarding Mr. Harriman's condition, leading to tremendous liquidation and very striking declines in prices. Some recovery ensued before the close of August on a supposed improvement in Mr. Harriman's health, but renewed collapse came after Labor Day, when it was seen that Mr. Harriman was worse, and this continued until the time of his death, which occurred Sept. 9. After that the stock market once more resumed its upward course, and the buoyancy extended into the early part of October, a number of stocks making their high records for the year in this period. Then, however, the successive advances in European discount rates intervened, occasioning large liquidation by foreign holders, again giving a downward turn to prices. The latter part of November came the decision declaring the Standard Oil Co. combination in restraint of trade under the law of 1890, and large and general declines were once more the feature. December was a comparatively uneventful month, but with prices again tending higher. Under the repeated downward plunges, supplemented also in some instances by announcements of large new stock issues, it happens that some leading share properties do not, after all, show much appreciation in value for the twelve months. New York Central, indeed, with "rights" off, actually records a slight decline.

We show below the high and low points for the year and the opening and closing prices for each of a large number of stocks, arranged in groups. In the extended tables given on subsequent pages a range is furnished for every stock and bond in which any transactions occurred during the twelve months. These same tables also show the aggregate of the transactions in each issue for the twelve months—that is, the number of shares of stock or the number of bonds sold during the year.

Foreign exchange in December advanced to the highest level of the season, with a sharp downward reaction, however, after the sailing of the last mail steamer which could reach the other side before the close of the year. No gold was engaged for export to Europe, but over $8,000,000 more went to South America. Discounts at the leading European centers tended lower, and the Bank of England on Dec. 9 reduced its minimum from 5 to 4½%, notwithstanding the electoral campaign pending in Great Britain.

In the money market call loan rates did not get above 7%, while time money ruled easier, though the demand for this kind of accommodation was very restricted in the expectation that rates in the new year would be lower after the distribution of the large 1st of January interest and dividend disbursements. Surplus reserves of the Clearing House banks, however, Dec. 31 got down to only $3,489,100, paving the way for the sharp upward spurt in call loan rates which came with the opening of 1910.

CONDITION OF THE TRUST COMPANIES OF NEW YORK STATE.

We present below comparative statements showing the condition of the trust companies of New York State at the date of the last call and of various previous calls since August 1907. We give separately the totals for the Greater New York and those for the whole State. We also add tables to indicate the changes in deposits for all the separate companies in the different boroughs of the city.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MONTHLY AND YEARLY RECORD

The following tables furnish a complete record of the New York Stock Exchange transactions for the past month and the year 1909. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security (excepting only State bonds) dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. All quotations in the column headed "Price about January 2 1909" were made on that date, except those in italics, which are the nearest in January 1909. The black-faced letters in the column headed "Interest Period" indicate in each case the month when the bonds mature.

In accordance with the new rule adopted by the New York Stock Exchange, all quotations for interest-paying bonds are at a price to which accrued interest must be added. The exceptions to the rule are income bonds and bonds on which interest is in default. This method of quoting bonds became effective January 2 1909.

For foot notes to tables see last page of Bonds and last page of stocks.

GENERAL QUOTATIONS OF BONDS AND STOCKS.

1. In the following thirty pages of tables, quotations are given for all the more important securities listed on any Stock Exchange in the United States; also for leading unlisted and inactive securities.
2. Quotations from all Stock Exchanges are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue. As the New York Stock Exchange began with Jan. 2 1909 to quote all bond prices "and interest," we have adopted the same method, and no longer employ a designating mark to indicate the fact except where there is a deviation from this rule. The reader will understand, therefore, that unless the letter "f" is prefixed to the price, he must pay accrued interest in addition to the price. This, however, does not apply to income bonds or bonds in default, in which cases the price includes the interest, should there be any.
3. The letter "f" prefixed to bond prices denotes that the quotation is a flat price—that is, that the accrued interest forms part of the price, and therefore the purchaser does not have to provide for it separately in making payment. As already stated in the case of income bonds and bonds in default, the price is always "flat," and no designating mark is employed to indicate the fact.
4. Stock prices marked thus (d) are per share. All others are per cent except bank stock prices, which are quoted per share unless otherwise stated.
5. It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.
6. The following abbreviations are often used, viz.: "M" for mortgage, "g" for gold, "g'd" for guaranteed, "end" for endorsed, "cons" for consolidated, "conv" for convertible, "s f" for sinking fund, "l g" for land grant, "op" for optional.
7. The black-faced type in the letters showing the interest period indicates the month when the bonds mature.

NOTICE.—All bond prices are now "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

STREET AND ELECTRIC RAILWAYS

In quoting street and electric railway bonds, we employ the same method as in quoting the bonds of steam railroads. The great majority of issues being quoted "and interest," we use no designating mark whatever where that is the case. On the other hand, we prefix the letter "f" where there is a deviation from this rule; in such cases the interest forms part of the price. Unless, therefore, "f" appears against a quotation, the buyer will understand that the accrued interest is to be added on. This, however, does not apply to income bonds and bonds in default, in which cases the price takes account of the interest and no designating mark is employed.

NOTICE.—All bond prices are now "and interest" except where marked "f," and income and defaulted bonds.

STATE AND MUNICIPAL BONDS.

It is not the custom in quoting municipal bonds to include accrued interest in the price given. Hence this accrued interest must in all cases be added on. There are a very few instances which form exceptions to the rule—that is, where the prices given are flat prices, the accrued interest having been taken into account in making them. These are indicated by a special mark thus (f).

The figures in the column "to net" indicate the basis on which the securities sell or the interest rate which the securities, if held to maturity, will net to the purchaser at the present market price.

BANKS AND TRUST COMPANIES.

Quotations in this department are given per share, not per cent, except for stocks of New York City, Brooklyn and Canadian institutions, and are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue, though often are nominal. An asterisk (*) denotes sales. The letter (h) prefixed to a price indicates that the figures show the book value.

Figures of deposits, capital and profits for the national banks are from the Comptroller's last call; for all other institutions they are the latest obtainable, direct returns being procured by us where no periodic statements are required. For the Clearing-House banks of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, deposits are taken from the latest weekly statement.
