REVIEW OF MARCH.

Sentiment in financial and business circles was kept in a more or less confused state during March by a variety of developments the outcome of which could not be accurately foreshadowed. Some of these developments arose in the political world, some had to do with important labor controversies, still others concerned proposed legislation of a radical character which Congress has under consideration on the President's recommendations, besides which prominence was again given to the operation and bearing of certain existing statutes by arguments before the U. S. Supreme Court in cases of great moment which have been carried to that tribunal for final adjudication. In the week beginning March 14 the Supreme Court heard extended arguments on the Standard Oil case, involving the construction and application of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, and also on the Corporation Tax Law, which had been engrafted as a provision on the Tariff Act of the previous year. No inkling of course was obtained of the probable conclusions of the Court in these momentous cases, but the very fact that they were being considered by the country's highest judicial forum served to revive anxiety concerning the outcome. The sudden death by apoplexy on the night of March 28 of one of the Justices of the Supreme Court, namely David J. Brewer, served to involve the probable judgment of the Court in these cases in increased uncertainty. In addition to all this an element of doubt as to the monetary prospect was injected by the action of the Bank of England in advancing its rate of discount on March 17 a full one per cent—to 4%.

The labor situation in different parts of the country wore a rather ominous aspect on occasions during the month, but by the close reason for anxiety in that regard had been removed in all the leading cases except that involving the miners in the bituminous coal fields of Ohio, Indiana and Western Pennsylvania. The strike of the trolley employees of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. passed through several harassing stages of a very disturbing character, owing to sympathetic action in other trades with the view to bringing the Rapid Transit Co. to terms. On Saturday, March 5, a general labor strike was begun in Philadelphia in aid of the trolley employees. Considerable numbers of work-people, particularly in the textile trades, obeyed the order to quit work. When it appeared that this wholesale labor demonstration had proved ineffective to bring the Rapid Transit Co. to terms, the Central Labor Union the following Sunday, March 13, directed that the classes of employees previously excepted from the general strike order, namely the milkmen, the bakers, the grocery clerks and other dispensers of the necessaries of life, should also join in the movement and stop work. Notwithstanding this last step, Philadelphia did not have to endure any suffering for the lack of the necessary food supplies. One other step taken by the Central Labor Union at the same time partook of the farcical: a resolution was passed which "calls upon the workingmen and women of America and their sympathetic friends, as their first sympathetic act, to withdraw all their funds that they have on deposit with the banks, thereby teaching the bankers that without the money of the workers their institutions of finance must be a failure, as without the labor of the workers all industry must cease."

All these efforts proved unavailing. Early the next week Senator Penrose and other political leaders, who had previously held aloof, arranged a proposition of settlement with the Rapid Transit Co. in which the company appeared to be making really noteworthy concessions, but, fortunately for the company, this was rejected by the men on the advice of their leaders, who now talked of extending the general labor strike so as to make it cover the whole State of Pennsylvania. The refusal to accept this proposal of settlement alienated from the trolley employees what little public sympathy they still possessed. No State-wide strike developed and the general strike within the city of Philadelphia underwent rapid disintegration. On March 22 the executive board of the Textile Workers' Union of the northeastern section of the city adopted a resolution recommending the return to work of all the mill and factory operatives who had joined in the sympathetic strike. The employees in other trades quickly followed, and before the close of the month the sympathetic strike was a thing of the past and business resumed its normal aspect. The Rapid Transit Co. for itself all through the month had had little trouble in finding new men to fill the places of its striking employees.

A labor conflict on the roads in the western half of the United States was at one time threatened, but was finally averted. On Monday, March 14, at midnight, the unexpected announcement came through W. S. Carter, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, that a call had been issued to the firemen on the Western roads to stop work the following week. This would have involved locomotive firemen, wipers and all yard firemen, about 25,000 to 28,000 men altogether, on 49 Western roads, operating 120,000 miles of line, or half the railroad mileage of the country. The railroads were willing to leave to arbitration the demand for higher wages, but would not agree to the disposal of the other demands in the same way, particularly the demand of the union to represent the fireman after he had been promoted to be an engineman, and its demand to exercise authority in questions of seniority or the promotion of old employees. These, the railroad officials held, were questions of discipline on which it was impossible to yield. After the declaration in favor of a strike, the Managers' Committee of the roads invoked the aid of the Erdmann Act and asked the Chairman of the Inter-State Commerce Commission and the United States Commissioner of Labor to use their good offices and prevent a conflict. This intervention proved efficacious and the strike was averted.

In the political situation, one important development was the success of an attempt in the House of Representatives to curb the authority of Speaker Cannon in wielding arbitrary power in the matter of legislation in that branch of Congress. On Saturday, March 19, after a prolonged contest, the so-called "insurgent" Republicans, in combination with the solid Democratic vote, succeeded in passing a resolution providing for a new Committee on Rules, the members of which were to be selected by the House instead of being appointed, as heretofore, by the Speaker. Moreover, it was expressly provided that the Speaker should not be a member of the new committee. The opposition, however, of the insurgents ended with the adoption of this proposition for a new rules committee. On a motion to declare the Speakership vacant, which would have paved the way for the election of a new Speaker, the great bulk of the insurgents joined with the regular Republicans and voted the resolution down. While the contest against Mr. Cannon was in progress, there were suggestions that with the Speaker no longer dominating the action of the Rules Committee, obstacles might be thrown in the way of enacting legislative bills advocated by President Taft, it being well known that Mr. Taft was relying upon Speaker Cannon in the House and Mr. Aldrich in the Senate for the carrying out of the radis cal policies of the Administration. But the insurgent quickly disavowed any such intention.

Still another political event of the month may carry with it momentous consequences. We have reference to the outcome of the Congressional election in the Fourteenth Massachusetts district, a Republican stronghold. The election was to fill the vacancy caused by the death of W. C. Lovering. In 1908 Mr. Lovering had a plurality of 14,250 over his Democratic opponent. At this year's election Eugene N. Foss, a former Republican who had fallen out with his party on tariff matters, received 14,980 votes, running on the Democratic ticket, as against only 9,340 votes cast for William R. Buchanan, the Republican candidate. The contest was fought on national issues, Mr. Foss making a determined and clean-cut fight against a high tariff and in favor of reciprocity with Canada. It was assumed that this tremendous political upheaval meant popular dissatisfaction with the tariff policy of the Republican Party, and hence involved a possibility of a change in the political complexion of the House of Representatives at the Congressional elections to be held the coming autumn.

The distinctly favorable feature of the month was the increase in the dividend rate on New York Central stock and the favorable annual report submitted by the company for the calendar year. The quarterly dividend was raised from 1¼ to 1½%, placing the stock again on a 6% basis. The action followed the declaration of an extra dividend of 6% on the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern stock, the greater portion of which the Central owns, and also extra or increased distributions by other controlled and subsidiary properties of the New York Central system. Some favorable decisions by the U. S. Supreme Court on questions of far-reaching importance were also looked upon as very encouraging. Two of these decisions annulled orders of the Inter-State Commerce Commission. One was what is known as the Portland Gateway case.

The money market here for a time, about the middle of the month, showed much firmness, and rates for time loans and commercial paper were distinctly higher. The rise, however, was not long maintained, and the latter part of the month money ratesagain declined all around.

The stock market the early part of the month was comparatively active and the tendency upward, with the industrial stocks strong, led by U. S. Steel. A favorable influence was the increase in the dividend rate on New York Central shares from 5 to 6%, preceded by an extra dividend on Lake Shore stock and larger or new dividend distributions by some of the other properties in the Central system. After the first ten days, however, the course of the market changed and prices fell off. The market then became dull and narrow, with operations confined almost entirely to the professional traders. The latter part of the month pronounced weakness developed and large and general declines occurred.

Foreign exchange followed a somewhat erratic course. At the beginning of the month the market was very strong and sterling bills touched a new high level for the year (up to that time) at 4 8735 for demand and 4 8760 for cable transfers. The market would have gone still higher at that time except that certain influential bankers were evidently desirous of preventing gold exports and fed the market with liberal supplies of finance bills, notwithstanding that money rates abroad admitted of little profit from such operations. Somewhat later, however, the calculations of exchange operators were completely upset by a sharp break in rates and the abrupt withdrawal of inquiries for remittance. Within a few days the course of exchange was again sharply reversed; immediately that business began on Thursday, March 17, when the Bank of England raised its rate of discount from 3 to 4%, the foreign exchange market was thrown into a state of demoralization; demand sterling, which had closed the previous night at 4 86⅞, rushed up to 4 87¼, and there were fears that gold would have to be shipped forthwith. The rest of the month the market kept strong, with a further sharp advance at the close.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MONTHLY AND YEARLY RECORD

The following tables furnish a complete record of the New York Stock Exchange transactions for the past month and the year 1910. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security (excepting only State bonds) dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. All quotations in the column headed "Price about January 2 1910" were made on that date, except those in italics, which are the nearest in January 1910. The black-faced letters in the column headed "Interest Period" indicate in each case the month when the bonds mature.

In accordance with the new rule adopted by the New York Stock Exchange, all quotations for interest-paying bonds are at a price to which accrued interest must be added. The exceptions to the rule are income bonds and bonds on which interest is in default. This method of quoting bonds became effective January 2 1909.

BONDS AND STOCKS.

1. In the following thirty pages of tables, quotations are given for all the more important securities listed on any Stock Exchange in the United States; also for leading unlisted and inactive securities.

2. Quotations from all Stock Exchanges are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue. As the New York Stock Exchange began with Jan. 2 1909 to quote all bond prices "and interest," we have adopted the same method, and no longer employ a designating mark to indicate the fact except where there is a deviation from this rule. The reader will understand, therefore, that unless the letter "f" is prefixed to the price, he must pay accrued interest in addition to the price. This, however, does not apply to income bonds or bonds in default, in which cases the price includes the interest, should there be any.

3. The letter "f" prefixed to bond prices denotes that the quotation is a flat price—that is, that the accrued interest forms part of the price, and therefore the purchaser does not have to provide for it separately in making payment. As already stated in the case of income bonds and bonds in default, the price is always "flat," and no designating mark is employed to indicate the fact.

4. Stock prices marked thus (d) are per share. All others are per cent except bank stock prices, which are quoted per share unless otherwise stated.

5. It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.

6. The following abbreviations are often used, viz.: "M" for mortgage, "g" for gold, "g'd" for guaranteed, "end" for endorsed, "cons" for consolidated, "conv" for convertible, "s f" for sinking fund, "l g" for land grant, "op" for optional.

7. The black-faced type in the letters showing the interest period indicates the month when the bonds mature.

NOTICE.—All bond prices are now "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

STREET AND ELECTRIC RAILWAYS

In quoting street and electric railway bonds, we employ the same method as in quoting the bonds of steam railroads. The great majority of issues being quoted "and interest," we use no designating mark whatever where that is the case. On the other hand, we prefix the letter "f" where there is a deviation from this rule; in such cases the interest forms part of the price. Unless, therefore, "f" appears against a quotation, the buyer will understand that the accrued interest is to be added on. This, however, does not apply to income bonds and bonds in default, in which cases the price takes account of the interest and no designating mark is employed.

NOTICE.—All bond prices are now "and interest" except where marked "f," and income and defaulted bonds.

MISCELLANEOUS SECURITIES.

Quotations marked "f" indicate that accrued interest is included in the price. Prices not marked are "and interest" that is, purchaser has to pay accrued interest in addition to the price. This, however, does not apply to income bonds and bonds in default, in which cases the price takes account of the interest and no designating mark is employed.

NOTICE.—All bond prices are now "and interest" except where marked "f " and income and defaulted bonds.

STATE AND MUNICIPAL BONDS.

It is not the custom in quoting municipal bonds to include accrued interest in the price given. Hence this accrued interest must in all cases be added on. There are a very few instances which form exceptions to the rule—that is, where the prices given are flat prices, the accrued interest having been taken into account in making them. These are indicated by a special mark thus (f).

The figures in the column "to net" indicate the basis on which the securities sell or the interest rate which the securities, if held to maturity, will net to the purchaser at the present market price.

BANKS AND TRUST COMPANIES.

Quotations in this department are given per share, not per cent, except for stocks of New York City, Brooklyn and Canadian institutions, and are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue, though often are nominal. An asterisk (*) denotes sales. The letter (h) prefixed to a price indicates that the figures show the book value.

Figures of deposits, capital and profits for the national banks are from the Comptroller's last call; for all other institutions they are the latest obtainable, direct returns being procured by us where no periodic statements are required. For the Clearing-House banks of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, deposits are taken from the latest weekly statement.

Where Names are Printed in Italics Fuller Returns may be Found in the Advertising Columns
