REVIEW OF FEBRUARY.

Quiet conditions, on the whole, prevailed during February. The tone, however, was noticeably less hopeful than during January and the disposition to take optimistic views of the future was greatly modified. This was true both of the situation abroad and that in this country, but particularly the latter.

There was one development apparently of a highly favorable character, but it attracted little attention and was overshadowed by other developments of the opposite kind. We refer to the acceptance of the new banking and currency system by practically all the national banks in the country. The time limit within which the national banks had to signify if they would join the system and subscribe for the capital stock of the new Federal reserve banks expired February 23 and the announcement then given out showed that the national institutions had entered the new system with almost absolute unanimity. In other words, 7,465 out of a total of 7,493 national banks signified their acceptance of the provisions of the new Act, representing 99 $\frac{3}{4}$ % of the capital of the national institutions—the total capital stock of all national banks in the United States being \$1,057,093,534 and the aggregate capital of the banks accepting \$1,054,533,554. The importance of the event lay in the circumstance that it ensures the establishment of the new system under the most favorable auspices and with adequate capital.

On the other hand, increasing uneasiness developed with reference to the plight of the great railroad carrying industry by reason of the inability of the carriers to advance rates and thus offset in some measure the growth in operating cost. Many returns of earnings came to hand for the calendar year and also for January, the first month of the new year, and these were, with a comparatively few exceptions, all of the same tenor in making very unfavorable comparisons as regards net earnings. For January there were quite general losses in gross earnings, and a peculiarly distressing fact was that, with the gross revenues thus shrinking, expenses could not, as a rule, be reduced, but were actually further increased, thus working a double loss in net. It was quite noteworthy that, notwithstanding the great ease in money at this centre and notwithstanding an apparent redundancy of funds all over the country, banking interests evinced little inclination to bring out new loans to any great extent. There was a considerable amount of new financing in the way of the putting out of short-term notes with a view to taking care of other short-term obligations about to mature, but financing of a permanent character was not very much in evidence. Idle funds went quite freely into old, seasoned issues, especially bonds dealt in on the Stock Exchange, and there continued to be more or less over-the-counter bond business, though on a diminished scale. But it was made plain that bankers were not entirely satisfied with the outlook for new flotations and were awaiting the completion of the President's anti-trust program as well as the outcome of the hearing by the Inter-State Commerce Commission on the application of the Eastern Railroads for authority to increase the transportation charges for carrying freight about 5%.

It was with reference to this proposition to raise rates that greatest anxiety developed in view of the growing losses in net earnings. Certain incidents and circumstances raised grave doubts as to whether the railroads could count upon getting permission to make the desired advance. The Commission threw out intimations and suggestions that, even if it should be found that present revenues were inadequate, it might be possible to get added income in some other way than by an advance in rates. With that idea in mind the Commission took up for hearing the question of the propriety of making some charge for the free service which the carriers have been giving large industrial concerns. Hearings on this point were held on February 12, 13 and 14, and the carriers were asked to furnish answers to a list of fifteen queries propounded by the Commission with the view to obtaining information on the subject. On February 16 there came a wholly unexpected depressing event in an announcement that the Commission had suspended for a further period of six months, or from March 12 to September 12, the schedules advancing rates 5%. This action occasioned very gloomy forebodings and on February 18 rumor had it that President Wilson, taking cognizance of the uneasiness existing, had held a conference at the White House with E. C. Clark, the Chairman of the Commerce Commission.

Nothing was divulged as to the nature of the conference or its object, but Mr. Clark imparted the information that "the President never at any time has discussed with me the proposed rate advance and has not expressed to me any opinion he may entertain respecting it." Whether it was a mere coincidence or not, the fact remains that the next morning (Thursday Feb. 19) Commissioner Harlan issued an explanatory statement saying that the action of the Commission on Feb. 16 in further suspending until Sept. 12 the proposed increase in rates had been misunderstood and that the order entered by the Commission had no significance "beyond the fact that the case is not yet ready for decision." He added that, "recognizing the public importance of an early disposition of the problems before us here, the carriers, shippers and the Commission are using every effort to bring the inquiry to an early conclusion; and there is reason to think the record on the main issue in the case may be closed and the arguments had in time to enable the Commission to dispose of the questions before the summer recess." This summer recess, it is proper to state, is usually taken by the Commission about July 1.

Mr. Clark, at the same time, made further remarks calculated to show that the Commission would be active in its quest for other means of supplementing revenues than by higher rates. He referred again to the propriety of a charge by carriers for certain special services that are now being performed by them without charge, and announced that hearings would be held in Washington Feb. 27 and 28 to consider further the question of making a charge for spotting cars for loading and unloading on private spurs and side tracks, for the trap or ferry car service, and for the tunnel and lighterage services in Chicago. He also stated that separate hearings would be assigned later to consider lighterage and other special services at New York City and New York harbor and concerning reconsignments and diversions in transit and free storage.

Affairs in Mexico also furnished renewed occasion for apprehension. On February 3 President Wilson, by proclamation, removed the embargo on the exportation of arms and munitions of war to that country. The proclamation stated that the Executive order of March 14, 1912, under which the exportation of arms and ammunition into Mexico had been forbidden, was intended to discourage incipient revolts against the regularly constituted authorities of Mexico, but since then the circumstances of the case had undergone a radical change and there was now no constitutional government in Mexico. Accordingly, the existence of the embargo had hindered and delayed the very thing the Government of the United States was now insisting upon, namely that Mexico should be left free to settle her own affairs and as soon as possible put them upon a constitutional footing by her own force and counsel. But the gravest anxiety was occasioned by the killing of W. S. Benton, an English ranch owner in Mexico, who appears to have called upon General Villa, one of the rebel or Constitutionalist chiefs in Northern Mexico, to remonstrate with him with reference to the acts of the insurgent forces, and lost his life in so doing. Contradictory versions of the affair appeared in the public accounts and the general belief is that this British subject was put to death by Villa himself. In response, however, to our Government's peremptory request for an explanation, Villa denied that he had killed Benton, said that the ranch owner had, on the contrary, attacked him at headquarters, had thereupon been tried by a regular court-martial of Villa's officers, had been found guilty and had been shot under the decree of the military court. He would not, however, deliver up the body, but finally, on the demand of the U. S. Government, agreed to have the body exhumed for the purpose of examination by a commission composed of Englishmen and Americans. Early in March General Carranza interfered with this plan and stated that as the Supreme Chief of the Constitutionalist forces, appeal should first have been made to him and that he would now make an independent inquiry of his own. It was naturally feared that international complications might grow out of this outrage, but the British Government continued its friendly attitude towards the United States while insisting that reparation would be demanded of those guilty of the murder.

The foreign exchange market displayed considerable irregularity. At first there was a rise in rates, then a decline, then an advance again, and finally another reaction. Paris continued to purchase $2,000,000 gold here each week, making $8,000,000 altogether for the month, in addition to the $6,000,000 taken in January, but these purchases were in accordance with previous arrangements and had no reference to the course of exchange rates. There were expectations that there would be a further reduction in the Bank of England's rate of discount, but these expectations were abandoned when open market discounts in London stiffened and a demand for gold upon London sprang up, and the Bank of England holdings were gradually reduced from week to week, though by no very large amounts. The Continent continued to bid for the South African offerings of gold in London, paying a premium above the Mint price for the metal, and India was also a bidder. When exchange rates were at their lowest, New York bankers made arrangements to bring gold from London to New York, but the metal was promptly resold with the appearance of increased firmness in the London discount market. These higher discounts in London also brought an advance in exchange rates, which was, however, followed again, as already stated, by a decline in exchange at the very close of the month. The Bank of

of the month extreme dullness, almost to the point of stagnation, occurred, dealings being largely by the professional element. It seemed to be easy, though, to manipulate the prices of special stocks, and many of these were boosted to higher figures. The Steel shares were strong throughout, and General Motors common and preferred registered striking advances, based on the company's prosperity.

ACTUAL RATES—BANKERS' AND COMMERCIAL BILLS.

Table showing actual rates for Bankers' Bills and Commercial Bills. Includes columns for Bankers' Bills (Sight, Cable Transfers, On Banks) and Commercial Bills (Documents for Payment, Seven Days, Grains). Dates range from Feb. 1 to Feb. 27, 1914.

On the Stock Exchange, after the sharp advance of the previous month, a definite tendency to lower prices developed. The investment demand for bonds, which was such a pronounced feature in January, waned a good deal and the purchasing power for stocks appeared to be well nigh exhausted. The action of the Inter-State Commerce Commission in suspending for six months more the proposed advance in freight rates by Eastern roads had a distinctly depressing effect. Dealings, however, were very limited in character and the latter part

In our money market extreme ease prevailed and rates seemed to be a matter of negotiation, as the supply of funds was out of proportion to the demand.

RATES FOR MONEY IN NEW YORK WEEKLY.

GENERAL QUOTATIONS OF BONDS AND STOCKS

1. In the following thirty pages of tables, quotations are given for all the more important securities listed on any Stock Exchange in the United States; also for leading unlisted and inactive securities.

2. Quotations from all Stock Exchanges are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue. As the New York Stock Exchange began with Jan. 2 1909 to quote all bond prices "and interest," we have adopted the same method, and no longer employ a designating mark to indicate the fact except where there is a deviation from this rule. The reader will understand, therefore, that unless the letter "f" is prefixed to the price, he must pay accrued interest in addition to the price. This, however, does not apply to income bonds or bonds in default, in which cases the price includes the interest, should there be any.

3. The letter "f" prefixed to bond prices denotes that the quotation is a flat price—that is, that the accrued interest forms part of the price, and therefore the purchaser does not have to provide for it separately in making payment. As already stated in the case of income bonds and bonds in default, the price is always "flat," and no designating mark is employed to indicate the fact.

4. Stock prices marked thus (d) are per share. All others are per cent except bank stock prices, which are quoted per share unless otherwise stated.

5. It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.

6. The following abbreviations are often used, viz.: "M" for mortgage, "g" for gold, "g'd" for guaranteed, "end" for endorsed, "cons" for consolidated, "conv" for convertible, "s f" for sinking fund, "lg" for land grant, "op" for optional.

7. The black-faced type in the letters showing the interest period indicates the month when the bonds mature.

NOTICE—All bond prices are now "and interest" except where marked "f" and "d" and defaulted bonds.

Main table with columns for Bonds, Bid, Ask, To Net, and Bond details. Includes sections for NEBRASKA, NEVADA, NEW HAMPSHIRE, NEW JERSEY, MISSOURI, MONTANA, NEW MEXICO, and NEW YORK.

f Flat price. b Basis. n Nominal.

Table with columns: Bonds, Bid., Ask., To Net. (repeated 3 times). Contains detailed listings of municipal bonds from various cities like New York, Utica, and Dayton, including bond descriptions, dates, and interest rates.

Basis. d. Now part of New York City. f. Flat price. n. Nominal. Subject to taxation. By an amendment to the constitution of Ohio adopted Sept. 3 1913, bonds issued after Jan. 1 1913 by municipalities of that State are subject to taxation. Bonds issued prior to Jan. 1 1913 are exempt from taxation.

Main table with columns: Bonds, Bid, Ask, To Net. Multiple columns for different bond categories and sections.

/ Flat price. b Basis. d Stamped 2 1/2% until Dec. 1 1906. n Nominal.

BANKS AND TRUST COMPANIES.

Quotations in this department are given per share, not per cent, except for stocks of New York City, Brooklyn and Canadian institutions, and are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue, though often are nominal. An asterisk (*) denotes sales. The letter (h) prefixed to a price indicates that the figures show the book value.

Figures of deposits, capital and profits for the national banks are from the Comptroller's last call; for all other institutions they are the latest obtainable, direct returns being procured by us where no periodic statements are required. For the Clearing-House banks of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, deposits are taken from the latest weekly statement.
