REVIEW OF SEPTEMBER.

Great activity continued in all lines of trade during September, and on the Stock Exchange a spirit of unqualified buoyancy developed, with a tremendous rise in prices all around. The controlling considerations were the multiplying evidences that the war in Europe would be very much prolonged, and as a consequence the exceptional demands upon this country from the European belligerents for supplies of all kinds would remain unabated, and that, therefore, the trade reaction in this country which is expected to follow the conclusion of peace, would be correspondingly deferred.

The adjournment of Congress was also considered a propitious event, particularly after its abject surrender to the railway brotherhoods in passing a law which, if it is constitutional, will, after the coming 1st of January, give the railway train hands all over the United States ten hours pay for eight hours work. The brotherhood leaders promptly canceled the strike order, in fear of which Congress had acted, when it appeared that they would get the legislation sought. While relief was felt that a tie-up of the railway transportation system of the United States, with the industrial paralysis it was certain to have caused, had been averted, it was, nevertheless, considered that peace at such a price had been dearly purchased. The Republican Presidential candidate, Charles E. Hughes, at once took issue with President Wilson on this matter. He insisted that the demands of the railway brotherhoods should have been submitted to arbitration and he sharply challenged the President's action in surrendering the principle of arbitration. In view of Mr. Hughes's bold course in thus taking up the issue, the result of the Maine election, which had been looked forward to with no little interest, was regarded with much satisfaction, inasmuch as it seemed to foreshadow the defeat of President Wilson and his party at the coming Presidential election, and this, too, exerted a stimulus upon affairs. The vote showed a plurality of about 13,000 for the Republican gubernatorial candidate and indicated that the bulk of the Roosevelt Progressive vote was going to the Republicans rather than to the Wilson Democrats.

Another event of the month which exerted no little influence in stimulating and promoting the feeling of optimism, was the closing of an order for copper of unprecedented magnitude on behalf of the Entente countries. This occurred on Sept. 23, when John D. Ryan, President of the Anaconda Copper Co., and Joseph Clendenin, Manager of Sales for the American Smelting & Refining Co., acting as the representatives of the leading copper producers of the United States, made a contract with Great Britain and her allies, through the agency of J. P. Morgan & Company, for 200,000 gross tons of copper, or 448,000,000 pounds, of electrolytic copper to be delivered over the first six months of 1917 at prices supposed to be between 26c. and 27c. per pound. The transaction signified that the Allied Governments had agreed to take about one-third of our total production for six months, also that monthly exports probably would establish new records. In the first six months of 1916 the exports totaled 147,943 tons, of which the Entente Powers took 136,635 tons, and in the same period of 1915 the exports totaled 136,527 tons, of which the Entente Powers took 123,373 tons.

Continued large importations of gold occurred and an incident of the month, indicating how completely Europe was dependent upon the United States for credit, as for everything else, was the announcement on Sept. 27 that a syndicate headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., had underwritten a loan of $50,000,000 to the City of Paris. The loan, the first of its kind ever made by Paris outside of France, took the form of five-year bonds bearing 6% interest. The funds provided by the bond issue will be used to increase hospital facilities, build orphan asylums, to ease the lot of widows of soldiers and to maintain the unemployed. A part of the money will also be devoted to the welfare of the thousands of refugees who have flocked to the city. None of the proceeds are to be used for war purposes, and the loan is intended to reimburse the city of Paris for very heavy expenditures made by it for the alleviation of suffering caused by the war, and to provide for additional similar expenditures and for other municipal purposes. The principal and interest of the bonds are payable at the option of the holder either in United States gold coin in New York or in francs in Paris, at the fixed rate of 5.50 per dollar, thus giving to the holder the prospect of a very substantial profit in exchange, inasmuch as the normal rate of exchange before the war was about 5.18 francs per dollar. The Government of the French Republic undertakes to furnish, if necessary, to the City of Paris, gold in the amount needed to permit the payment of the principal and interest of the loan in New York.

The bonds were offered to the public on October 2 by the Kuhn, Loeb & Co. syndicate at 98¾, netting the investor about 6.30%, and were reported all sold the following morning, though the subscription books were not to have been closed until 3 p. m. Oct. 4. It is stated that subscribers got only 30% of the amount applied for.

In the European war fields the developments were of great importance. The conflict in all the different arenas was waged with greater violence than at any time during the period of more than two years since the outbreak of the war. With the entrance the previous month of Rumania into the war, fighting was carried on at a greatly increased number of points, the additions to the area being mainly in the Balkan regions. More and more the Teutonic Powers found themselves hemmed in on every side and had to repel well co-ordinated attacks from every direction on the part of the Entente Powers. On what is known as the Western front, namely in France and Belgium, the successes of the month were almost entirely with the English and the French. Indeed, considering the nature of the struggle in this area, where the warfare consists of the most desperate trench fighting and where the advances are by yards, so strongly is the German invader entrenched on French soil, the successes of the English and the French were really of sensational proportions, furnishing strong warrant for the confidently expressed hope of English and French Government officials that the Central Powers would, in the end, though not until after much further stubborn and desperate fighting, be vanquished. In the Balkan country, however, the fortunes of war seemed to vary greatly, with Germany and her allies not altogether on the defensive, but prosecuting an aggressive campaign, attended with a considerable measure of success.

On the western front the struggle kept going only one way; the Germans were gradually forced out of their entrenched positions. So relentless and overpowering were the attacks of the French and the English that towards the end of the month really rapid progress was made in pushing the Germans back. The French and the English reconquered many villages from the German foe. On Sept. 26 there occurred the fall of Combles, the pivotal point in the German lines guarding the approach to Bapaume on the north and Peronne on the south of the Somme front. This was followed by the fall of the hardly less important centre of Thiépval, at the northwestern end of the British lines.

A statement given out from the Grand Headquarters of the French Army on Sept. 30 stated that in the first thirteen weeks of the Somme offensive (since July 1) the French and British had captured more ground than had been taken by the Germans in more than six months of battling at Verdun. It was pointed out that the French and the British had reconquered 285 square kilometers of French territory (about 102 square miles), exceeding by 15 square kilometers the territory gained by the Germans at Verdun. Forty-five villages, the statement went on to say, each one organized into a veritable fortress by the Teutons, had fallen before the battering of French and British artillery. In every instance the German position was so strong, it was added, that it had to be broken down by shell fire before infantry could storm it. It was also claimed that a total of 62,000 prisoners, 285 cannon, half of which were heavy artillery pieces, and more than 1,000 machine guns had been captured. In an order of the day sent by General Joffre to the armies of the north under date of Friday, Sept. 29, the claims were not quite so extreme, though it referred evidently only to the French operations. The General Commander-in-Chief expressed great satisfaction to the troops who had been fighting unceasingly on the River Somme for nearly three months. After speaking of the valor and perseverance of the armies, he exclaimed: "Verdun relieved, 25 villages reconquered, more than 35,000 prisoners and 150 cannon taken, successive enemy lines broken through for a depth of 10 kilometers—such are the results already obtained." The British account of the operations (given out Oct. 4) was to the same effect and serves to supplement the French report. It said (in part):

"At the end of September the situation may be summarized as follows: Since the opening of the battle on July 1 we have taken 26,735 prisoners, and engaged 38 German divisions, of which 29 (about 350,000 men) have been withdrawn exhausted or broken. We hold the half-moon upland south of the Ancre, occupy every height of importance, and so have direct observation round to the east and northeast. The enemy has fallen back upon a fourth line behind a low ridge, just west of the Bapaume-Transloy road. The importance of the three months' offensive is not to be judged by the distance advanced or the number of enemy trench lines taken. It must be looked for in the effect upon the enemy's strength in numbers, material, and morale. The enemy has used up his reserves in repeated costly and unsuccessful counter-attacks without causing our allies or ourselves to relax our steady, methodical pressure."

These victories, however, for the British and the French were gained at a frightful loss of life. Statements from Berlin on Sept. 20 claimed that conservative estimates showed a loss of 350,000 men by the British up to Sept. 15, since the 1st of July, when the great Somme drive began, and said that with the French losses included, the total would be brought up to 500,000 men. Figures given out at London on Sept. 30 did not entirely confirm these extreme estimates, but showed, nevertheless, that the losses had been extremely heavy. For the month of September the British casualties on all fronts were reported at 114,110 men and 5,439 officers, making 119,549 together. This compared with 127,945 casualties in August and 59,675 for the month of July, giving for the three months a total of 307,169.

Great Britain indicated, however, that she was fully prepared to make these heavy sacrifices, since they are regarded as affording assurances of ultimate victory to achieve which no price is considered too high to pay. In an interview with David Lloyd George, the British Secretary for War, the latter declared that Britain had only begun to fight, and he indicated marked displeasure with suggestions that neutral countries might contemplate the idea of intervening, with a view to forcing peace proposals, or offering mediation to the belligerents. The British Empire, said Lloyd George, had invested thousands of its best lives to purchase future immunity for civilization. This investment was too great to be thrown away.

The German Government on its part seemed no less determined to continue the struggle rather than accept an inconclusive or ignominious peace. The German Reichstag convened in formal session on Sept. 28 and the Imperial Chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, delivered an address in which he referred to Great Britain as Germany's "most egotistical, fiercest and most obstinate enemy," and said the German nation firmly believed in the assurance of victory and was ready for any sacrifice. He concluded with the declaration that "Germany will not be permitted to think of peace while her house is burning. She must first extinguish the fire." He furthermore asserted that the year's harvests in Germany had been much better than those of 1915 and made Germany's position correspondingly more secure. It deserves to be noted, too, that earlier in the month Lord Derby, the British Under-Secretary for War, after a visit to the officers at the Western front, made the statement that the war could not possibly end within six months. It was cumulative evidence of this kind that formed the basis for the belief so widely entertained, as mentioned above, and which influenced all current operations in the United States, that the war had a long time yet to run.

In Rumania the German and Bulgarian troops continued their advance in the Dobrudja sector and two Rumanian fortresses, Tutrakan and Silistra, fell to the invaders early in the month. Wireless dispatches from Berlin on Sept. 7 stated that the Germans and the Bulgars had taken the strongly fortified town of Tutrakan by storm and that the count of prisoners already exceeded 20,000, among whom were two generals and over 400 other officers. It was also stated that more than 100 cannons had been captured. Kaiser Wilhelm sent a telegram of congratulation to the King of Bulgaria "on this brilliant feat of arms of thy brave soldiers, from which our new enemy may realize that we not only know how to defend ourselves, but may strike him even in his own country. May God help further." The invaders continued their advance and on Sept. 16 official dispatches from Berlin by way of London stated that Field Marshal von Mackensen had gained "a decisive victory" over the Rumanian and Russian troops in the Rumanian Province of Dobrudja and that German, Bulgarian and Turkish troops were pursuing them. Dispatches from Sofia, Bulgaria, added that the "enemy was completely destroyed." Sofia also reported that in the battles at the Tutrakan bridgehead, at Silistria, and at Dobric, 522 officers and 28,000 men had been captured, together with 132 guns and much war material. This was up to Sept. 12, it was stated.

Later, however, it appeared that the victory had not been altogether "decisive." The Rumanians were evidently strengthened by Russian reinforcements, and on Sept. 21 the Rumanian official statement, issued from Bucharest, stated that "the battle which began on the 15th, ended Wednesday (the 20th) with the defeat of the enemy composed of German, Bulgarian and Turkish troops, who retired southward, burning villages in their retreat." Still later, however (Sept. 22), the German army headquarters bulletin stated that by an encircling counter attack by German-Bulgarian-Turkish troops against the flank and rear of the Rumanians, the latter were being driven back and in disorder. At the beginning of October there came rumors which, however, proved unfounded, that Von Mackensen had ordered the evacuation of the fortresses of Tutrakan and Silistria in Dobrudja because the Rumanians had thrown a force across the Danube into Bulgaria and thus threatened to outflank him. It quickly appeared that this force had met with disaster. A Sofia dispatch Oct. 4 via London, Oct. 5, stated that from 12,000 to 16,000 Rumanian troops had crossed the Danube in the rear of the main battle line in Dobrudja, but had been scattered and virtually wiped out. Some accounts gave the number that crossed as high as 24,000. The Sofia statement said that 15 or 16 Rumanian battalions, without artillery, had crossed the Danube near Rahovo and occupied the villages of Siwopol Kajamhle, Boroissawo, Maolowranowo, Golemowrajowo and Breschlien. To repulse them the Bulgarians had sent two columns from Rustchuk and Turtukai, which on Oct. 3 attacked the Rumanians and forced them to seek refuge in the direction of their pontoon bridge which was destroyed by Austrian monitors. The Rumanians retreated eastward, it is stated, in disorder, thereupon meeting the Bulgarian troops advancing from Turtukai. The surrounded Rumanians then were scattered, it is claimed, in all directions.

In Transylvania the Rumanian forces also appear to have sustained an important defeat. Dispatches from Vienna and Berlin via London Oct. 1, stated that near Hermannstadt German and Austro-Hungarian forces under command of General von Falkenhayn, who had been removed as Chief of Staff of the German Army the previous month, had gained a complete victory. Four days before, by a wide encircling movement, a column of Bavarian troops had blocked the road through Rothenthurm Pass, in the enemy's rear. All the enemy's attempts to reopen the road were fruitless. Simultaneously Austro-Hungarian and German troops from the west, north and south had advanced against the Rumanian divisions operating south of Hermannstadt. The enemy fought desperately in the battle, which was of the most sanguinary character. Deprived of any practicable roads, the remnants of the Rumanian troops fled, it was stated, into the Fogaras Mountains. The number of prisoners it was stated was increasing hourly, while the amount of booty was enormous, as the enemy had to abandon a wagon park which he did not have time to destroy.

An offensive resumed on Sept. 28 by the Rumanians against the Transylvanian eastern front, it was declared, had not been able to alter the result of this battle, although north of Fogaras and near Szekely Udvarhely and Oderhellen advanced troops had to retire on the main forces. On the other hand, the Germans in a counter-attack south of Hendorf were said to have captured eleven Rumanian officers, 591 men, and three machine guns.

In Macedonia, however, the troops of the Entente Powers were generally successful in their operations and succeeded in pushing the Bulgarians back. French troops captured the town of Florina, Greece, from the Bulgarians, who then retired in the direction of Monastir; and at many other points the Entente forces made it uncomfortable for the Bulgarians, even where they did not succeed in driving them back. In Greece the situation became very much disturbed and the Ministry under Zaimas was forced to resign. A new Ministry was formed under Kalogeropoulos, but failed of recognition by the Entente Powers, because the latter viewed it with suspicion. By order of the Greek Government the Greeks, the early part of the month, surrendered to the Bulgarians the last of the forts defending the Greek seaport of Kavala on the Aegean Sea. The Fourth Greek Army Corps, which was in garrison, voluntarily surrendered when the forts were occupied. They were transported to Germany with their entire arms and equipment, but are to be treated as neutrals and enjoy the hospitality of Germany until Greece shall be free from Entente invasion. This caused great discontent on the part of the Greeks sympathizing with the Entente Powers and finally led to a revolutionary uprising, former Premier Venizelos going to join in the movement. Admiral Coundouriotis also joined in the movement. A proclamation was issued by these two, pointing out that civil war would ensue in the event that the Government failed to ally itself with the Entente Powers. The proclamation concluded with the statement that "It would be a happy event if at the eleventh hour the King should decide to take the lead of the national forces. In a contrary event it is our duty to do the needful to save the country from the threatening ruin. We are entering the struggle convinced that the nation, independently of the State, will accomplish the miracle and bring the country back to the status of eighteen months ago." At the close of the month it seemed likely that Greece might declare war on Bulgaria at any moment.

On the Stock Exchange the month will long remain memorable. Transactions were on a steadily rising scale and the feeling of optimism and buoyancy knew no bounds. Dealings aggregated in excess of 1,000,000 shares day after day, and finally, on one day, went above 2,000,000 shares. For the whole month the sales reached 29,992,582 shares, against 18,399,286 shares in September last year, which was also an active period, and the increase of over 11 million shares indicated by this comparison shows how much greater are the dimensions of the present upward movement than the similar movement of twelve months ago. The rise in prices has been commensurate with the magnitude of the dealings. At first the so-called war stocks were chiefly prominent in the speculation, then the copper stocks came to the front, and finally the railroad shares also developed considerable strength and moved upward along with the rest, though less rapidly and in more moderate degree. The first manifestation of reviving activity came on Tuesday, Sept. 5, the day after Labor Day, and following the passage by Congress of the Railway Eight-Hour Bill. A feature that day was a great rise in International Mercantile Marine shares on the announcement that such was the prosperity now enjoyed by this shipping combination that arrangements had been made for the early taking of the company out of the hands of the courts and the dissolution of the receivership. All the industrial stocks participated in the upward movement on that day. The railroad shares were laggards, but were finally carried along with the general current. Thereafter, new high records for the year by all classes of stocks were established day after day. On Sept. 6 Steel common touched 100 and that was considered remarkable at the time, but later in the month these same shares reached 120 5/8. The activity and advance continued week after week. On Monday, Sept. 25, following the announcement the previous Saturday of the conclusion of the large copper contract, still further activity developed, the copper shares being, of course, unusually prominent, and Anaconda shares rose to 102, against 84 on Sept. 1; in the afternoon of that day, however, a sharp and general slump in prices unexpectedly occurred. This reaction continued through the next day, but the market soon regained its tone and resumed its upward tendency, with the close Sept. 30 strong, though in a number of cases at some reaction from the best figures of the month.

VOLUME OF BUSINESS ON THE STOCK EXCHANGE. Table with columns for 1916, 1915, 1914, 1913. Rows include Stock sales, Bond sales, and Total bond sales for the month of September and Jan. 1 to Sept. 30.

In the money market there were no special features, continued ease being the dominant and the only characteristic.

RATES FOR MONEY IN NEW YORK, WEEKLY. Table with columns for week ending Sept. 1, Sept. 8, Sept. 15, Sept. 22, Sept. 29. Rows include Call Loans and Time Loans.

The foreign exchange market was absolutely devoid of feature as far as sterling exchange is concerned. Quotations remained under the complete control of the British Treasury and rates for the leading classes of bankers' bills were altogether unchanged day after day and week after week. In sixty day bills there was no change whatever from 4 7 1/2, while the range for sight bills was compassed within 4 75 11-16 @ 4 75 3/4, and that for cable transfers within 4 76 7-16 @ 4 76 1/2. In rates on the Continental centres the feature was further great weakness in reichsmarks, sight bills on Berlin Sept. 5 getting down to 68 7/8, but here there was marked recovery, the price Sept. 30 being 70 5/8. French exchange showed an improving tendency, as was natural, in view of the arrangement of new credits here and the placing in New York of the $50,000,000 loan to the city of Paris.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MONTHLY AND YEARLY RECORD

The following tables furnish a complete record of the New York Stock Exchange transactions for the past month and the year 1916. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security excepting only State bonds) dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. The black-faced letters in the column headed "Interest Period" indicate in each case the month when the bonds mature.

In accordance with the rule adopted by the New York Stock Exchange in 1909, all quotations for interest-paying bonds are at a price to which accrued interest must be added. The exceptions to the rule are income bonds and bonds on which interest is in default. This method of quoting bonds became effective January 2 1909.

For foot-notes to tables see last page of bonds and last page of stocks.

BONDS AND STOCKS.

1. In the following thirty pages of tables, quotations are given for all the more important securities listed on any Stock Exchange in the United States; also for leading unlisted and inactive securities.
2. Quotations from all Stock Exchanges are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue. As the New York Stock Exchange began with Jan. 2 1909 to quote all bond prices "and interest," we have adopted the same method, and no longer employ a designating mark to indicate the fact except where there is a deviation from this rule. The reader will understand, therefore, that unless the letter "f" is prefixed to the price, he must pay accrued interest in addition to the price. This, however, does not apply to income bonds or bonds in default, in which cases the price includes the interest, should there be any.
3. The letter "f" prefixed to bond prices denotes that the quotation is a flat price—that is, that the accrued interest forms part of the price, and therefore the purchaser does not have to provide for it separately in making payment. As already stated in the case of income bonds and bonds in default, the price is always "flat," and no designating mark is employed to indicate the fact.
4. Stock prices marked thus (d) are per share. All others are per cent except bank stock prices, which are quoted per share unless otherwise stated.
5. It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.
6. The following abbreviations are often used, viz.: "M" for mortgage, "g" for gold, "g'd" for guaranteed, "end" for endorsed, "cons" for consolidated, "conv" for convertible, "s f" for sinking fund, "l g" for land grant, "op" for optional.
7. The black-faced type in the letters showing the interest period indicates the month when the bonds mature.

NOTICE—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

PUBLIC UTILITIES

In the following rearrangement of our quotation lists we bring together under the general designation of "Public Utilities," all the different forms of such securities, thinking it easier for the reader to find any particular issue in a general list than when the securities are subdivided under separate heads and there is doubt as to what head to look under.

In quoting Public Utility bonds, we employ the same method as in quoting the bonds of steam railroads. The great majority of issues being quoted "and interest," we use no designating mark whatever where that is the case.

NOTICE.—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "I" and income and defaulted bonds.

Table with columns for Bonds, Bid., Ask., Bonds, Bid., Ask., Bonds, Bid., Ask. It lists various utility bonds such as Adirondack Elec Power Corp, Alabama Power, Albany Ry, etc., with their respective bid and ask prices.

INDUSTRIAL AND MISCELLANEOUS SECURITIES

In the rearrangement of our quotation lists we classify under the designation "Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities," all issues which do not appear under the previous two headings, namely "Railroads (Steam)" and "Public Utilities." In the case of stocks, however, we put "Textile Manufacturing," "Insurance," "Mining," "Real Estate and Land," "Title Guaranty and Safe Deposit Companies" under separate heads, then follow with the rest of the "Industrial and Miscellaneous."

NOTICE.—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.
