Mr. Valpey pointed out that the company is completing a large-scale corporate reorganization and consolidation program involving the reduction or discontinuing of operations at plants earning an inadequate return on investment.

As a result, sales for the first half declined to $16,673.187, compared with $19,937,956 a year ago, and sales for the second quarter were $9,809,898, also down from the preceding year's $11,606.825. However, Mr. Valpey said that the effect of a number of growth programs at several plants is now being felt, with sales increasing and volume estimated at $36,000,000 for the year ending next June 30 on the basis of current projections of new car production.—V. 194, p. 1429.

BUSINESS—The firm, is a Pennsylvania corporation founded in 1949 by Ira H. Gordon, its President. Its principal office is located near Pittsburgh, at 1 Chicago Avenue, Elizabeth, Pa. Swift and its subsidiaries are engaged in the manufacture, sale and financing of factory-built homes erected on the purchasers' building sites. Sales outlets are located in 15 states including most of the Mid-Atlantic and Central States. These outlets serve marketing areas in 21 states. During the company's last fiscal year its sales in Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Indiana accounted for approximately 80% of total sales, with Ohio and Pennsylvania accounting for approximately 39% and 21%, respectively, of total sales. The company believes that freight costs to areas more than 800 miles from its plants render competition in those areas difficult.

and Pennsylvania accounting for approximately 39% and 21%, respectively, of total sales. The company believes that freight costs to areas more than 800 miles from its plants render competition in those areas difficult.

The factory-built homes sold by the company are to be clearly distinguished from so-called "shell" homes. The shell home is generally an unfinished house; the shell house company generally furnishes no interior finish or equipment and finances only the shell. The shell purchaser is left to acquire and to finance separately and by other means the balance of the material and equipment necessary to complete the home. In contrast to this, the company's manufacturing and financing program permits a purchaser to acquire and to finance, in single transaction, the basic home and all the material and equipment necessary to complete the home, with wide variations in style, room arrangement and size according to his preference; and during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1961, approximately 95% of the purchasers of the company's homes acquired from the company and the company's dealers not only the basic home but most of the material and equipment necessary to complete the interior. Of these acquisitions, approximately 67.4% were financed for the customers by means of credit arranged for or provided by the company.

The prices of the company: basic homes, including the cost of erection, range from a minimum of approximately $3,000. The price of the material and equipment meessary to complete the interior of these homes ranges from a minimum of approximately $3,000. The price of the material and equipment most cases the necessary labor is arranged for by the company. The maximum sum which the company finances is $11.500. In practice, in approximately 90% of sales, the customer pays within the range of $7,000 and $9,000 for the basic home, its erection and certain other finishing work financed by the company. Of this, the company retains approximately $3,500 to $4,500; the balance represents labor charges pay S4,500; the balance represents labor charges payable to others than the company.

The company operates two manufacturing plants—one at Elizabeth and one at Belle Vernon, Pennsylvania, both in the Pittsburgh area. The Elizabeth plant produces "Swift Homes" by the "pre-cut" method. The pre-cut materials are numbered and packaged, along with roofing, window and door units, hardware, and other items required to complete the basic home. The Belle Vernon plant produces "Lincoln Homes" by the "prefabricated" method, exterior wall panels being completely assembled at the plant. In both cases, components are shipped by truck to the purchaser's building site, there to be erected by him or, if he desires, by an erection crew supplied by the company's local sales outlet and financed by the company along with then equipment, and interior wall finishing are either supplied by the company's local sales outlet and financed by the company along with the basic home, or purchased elsewhere, as desired by the customer. The management believes that the company is the only manufacturer which offers its customers both precut and pre-fabricated homes. Of the units sold by the company during the last fiscal year, approximately 33% represented pre-fabricated homes and approximately 64% represented pre-cut homes.

Record fourth-quarter sales raised Union Carbide's total sales for 1961 to an all-time high, but net income was below last year's, Morse G. Dial, chairman and chief executive officer, reported in a pre-liminary statement.

Sales in 1961 amounted to $1,563,358,000. This was a gain of 1% over total sales of $1,548,168,000 in 1960. Net income for 1961 was $142,298,000, or $4.73 a share. This was a decline of 10% from net income of $157,980,000, or $5.25 a share, earned in 1960.

Factors that had significant effect on 1961 earnings were price reductions in several areas of the corporation's business that were not offset by operating efficiencies and increased volume, and a substantial increase in charges for depreciation resulting from the high level of construction expenditures in recent years. A reduction in dividends received from overseas companies also adversely affected earnings.

On Feb. 7, 1962 it was reported that the Federal Communications commission had approved the company's plan to sell its international cable business.

However, the plan, which calls for the formation of a new publicly held company, Western Union International, Inc., to take over Western Union Telegraph's overseas communications business, still lacks a necessary agreement with British interests with whom Western Union Telegraph has long-term lease agreements on five transatlantic cables. The FCC approved nearly a year ago most of a proposed agreement between Western Union Telegraph and American Securities Corp., a New York investment banking concern. American Securities will arrange the financing for the transaction and will have a 25% interest in Western Union International. But the FCC, which first ordered the telegraph company to get rid of its cables in 1943, said at the time that several changes in the plan would have to be made.

Generally, these changes aimed at a more complete separation of the telegraph company and Western Union International than the original agreement provided. For example, the FCC refused to agree to the telegraph company's acquisition, as-patriot, the agreement, of an entire issue of Western Union International non-voting class B stock. The FCC also ruled that Western Union International could not cocupy office space in the telegraph company's New York headquarters and could not share the same telephone number.

On Nov. 6, 1961, the company filled a new agreement incorporating the changes suggested by the PCC, now the commission has issued an 'order approving the changes, and refusing a request by the American Communications Association, a labor union, to reopen the case for further consideration, The union questioned whether the new company would be strong enough to operate independently and wanted the FCC to make the sale agreement include certain employment security provisions for union members. An FCC official said in effect, however, that the commission's part in the case was finished.

Before the sale can be made, however, American Securities must still finish negotiations with Anglo-American Telegraph Co., the British owner of the five ocean-spanning cables. The agreement between American Securities and the telegraph company provides that Western Union Telegraph will put up $5 million and Western Union International will put up $2.5 million to have Anglo-American release Western Union Telegraph from its long-term lease of the cables and reduce the rental Western Union International will have to pay.

The British concern has not agreed to all of the proposed changes.

The British concern has not agreed to all of the proposed changes or has it agreed to accept the total $7.5 million.

As the agreement stands, Western Union International will have capitalization of about 533,333 class A common shares, none owned to the telegraph company, and $8.5 million of long-term debt. The ebt will consist of $4.5 million of 64%, 15-year notes that Prudenal Life Insurance Co. has agreed to purchase from Western Union iternational, and $8 million of subordinated dependences.

Of the 533,333 class A shares American Securities will have about

Of the 533,333 class A shares, American Securities will buy about, 133,333, or 25'¢ for $1.5 million. The remaining 400,000 shares, plusthe $4 million of subordinated debentures, will be issued to Western Union Telegraph, which is to offer the securities for sale to its stockholders in units of $100 of Western Union International debentures and 10 shares of class A stock, One unit will be offered for each 190 shares of telegraph company stock held.—V. 195, p. 263.
