REPORT OF THE COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY,
Washington, December 5, 1932.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following annual report in accordance with the provisions of section 333 of the United States Revised Statutes, covering the activities of the Currency Bureau, in the year ended October 31, 1932. This is the seventieth report made to the Congress since the organization of the bureau. The period up to and including September 20 embraces the administration of Hon. John W. Pole, who resigned the office of Comptroller of the Currency, effective on that date. The provisions of section 327 of United States Revised Statutes provides that during a vacancy in the office of Comptroller of the Currency the Deputy Comptroller therein provided for shall possess the power and perform the duties attached by law to that office. Such a vacancy thus existing, the duties of the office have devolved upon me as Acting Comptroller and in that capacity I submit this report.

The last three annual reports of the Comptroller of the Currency have contained recommendations at length for amendments to the national bank act. These recommendations and the statistical information compiled to illustrate and support them are so complete that there appears no necessity for me to discuss them further at this time. Legislation dealing with the subject matter of these recommendations has already been drafted by the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency and is now pending in Congress.

In the period embraced by this report the banking business continued to reflect the economic depression from which the country has suffered during the past three years. In the first two years of the depression the effect of these adverse conditions was more marked in industry and trade than in banking. During the past year, however, the banking situation became acute owing to heavy depreciation of all values, to large foreign withdrawals of gold, and a widespread movement toward the hoarding of currency.

Hoarding of currency on a large scale reflected primarily an impairment of confidence. The decline in business activity which started in 1929 was characterized in agricultural areas by a sharp decline in farm income and in urban areas by contraction in industry, trade, and employment, a stagnant market for real estate and a general decline in security values. All of these factors had unfavorable effects on the position of banks and there were many bank suspensions. Beginning with the autumn of 1930 these general unfavorable economic conditions were accentuated in their effect on banks by a demand for currency for hoarding purposes. This movement became even stronger in the autumn of 1931, with a rapid increase in bank suspensions. At its peak in the middle of July, 1932, the increase in currency hoarded in this country reached a total estimated to be in excess of $1,500,000,000.

While the initial cause of hoarding was in the suspension of a large number of individual banks rather than in a lack of normal liquidity or soundness in the banks as a whole, the hoarding movement in itself added to the strain on the banks. Withdrawals of deposits for the purpose of hoarding differ from withdrawal for ordinary business purposes in that the funds involved are not returned to the banks by the recipient of the funds. Currency that is withdrawn for hoarding does not shift resources from one bank to another, but causes a net loss in resources to all banks as a whole. Furthermore, this loss is of cash, which is reserve money and is replenished by the banking system largely through recourse to the Federal reserve banks.

By the autumn of 1931, when the rate of bank suspensions reached a maximum, the movement toward hoarding became a major factor in the banking situation. An important section of the public had become apprehensive over the safety of its deposits, so that many sound banks, in order to meet the withdrawals of cash and of gold for export were obliged to sell investments and dispose of other liquid assets under the most adverse conditions. As a result of this intensified liquidation, there was further sharp contraction in the volume of bank credit, and further severe declines in security prices and other values, which only complicated the difficulties with which banks as a group were confronted. To meet these conditions, the National Credit Corporation was organized to provide for mutual assistance among the banks and later the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was created to bring the national credit to the aid of our banking and other financial institutions.

The organization of these agencies had a reassuring effect, and their operation aided banks in meeting withdrawals by depositors without sacrificing sound assets or being obliged to suspend, and also of removing from the investment markets the pressure of forced sales of securities by banks. Bank suspensions in consequence greatly diminished in number and, with a return of confidence, the hoarding of currency decreased.

The easing of the strain on the banks of the United States during the past eight months has been reflected in an abatement in the number of bank suspensions. Failures of all banks in this country during the current report year dropped from 358 in December to 342 in January, 121 in February, 48 in March, 74 in April, 82 in May, 151 in June, 132 in July, 85 in August, 67 in September, and 97 in October.

However, gratifying as this improvement may be, we can not escape the fact that the year 1932 has been characterized by a continuation of an alarming number of bank failures, and we know that a continued improvement in business and support by credit agencies of the Government will not of themselves correct the defects existing in our banking structure or reach the root of so many bank failures.

During the past 12 years 10,484 banks, with deposit liabilities of $4,882,481,000, have failed in this country. Of this number, 1,571 were national banks, with deposits of $1,143,857,000, and 8,913 were banks other than national, with deposits of $3,738,624,000. Yet these figures do not reveal the whole of the damage done to our credit structure by bank failures, since they do not include the millions of dollars withdrawn from deposit in going banks or the amounts which failed to find their way into banks for deposit through fear engendered in the minds of depositors by bank failures and fanned by rumors, which in many instances were malicious in character.

The following table gives the total number of bank failures and their deposits, by years, from January 1, 1921, to October 31, 1932, and classifies the number and deposits as to national and banks other than national:

Bank suspensions by years, period 1921 through October, 1932, number of suspensions and deposit liabilities of suspended banks, classified according to national banks and State and private banks (banks closed to public on account of financial difficulties by order of supervisory authorities or directors of the bank)

<sup>1</sup> For 10 months of 1932, January through October. Figures for latest months of 1932 as to deposits are preliminary.

Those causes commonly referred to as being responsible for the serious maladjustment in our economic order brought to a head difficulties previously existing and causes already in operation, and therefore contributed the added strain which forced so many banks, already laboring against odds, to suspend.

Bank failures have been most numerous among the smaller institutions, and since these institutions have in a large measure been located in rural sections of the country, it naturally follows that in numbers the rate of mortality has been higher among the so-called country banks. Here credit conditions have been increasingly unfavorable since 1920. The combined effect of declining prices, and of heavy borrowing on real estate, livestock, and growing crops, together with operating losses, has been a drain upon many of those rural sections from which country banks have for years drawn a good percentage of their deposits. It follows, therefore, from these and other economic and social causes heretofore reviewed in the reports of the Comptroller of the Currency, that in certain mid-Western, Northwestern, and Southern States, predominantly agricultural, failures have been much more numerous than in those States less dependent upon agriculture.

In the case of failures among larger banks located in cities, the adverse economic conditions in recent years, coupled with mismanagement, accounted largely for their suspensions. Some of these institutions were involved to an excessive degree in loans depending directly upon real estate.

In considering those causes responsible for bank failures in this country, it is significant to note the rapid increase in the number of banks chartered during the 20-year period beginning June 30, 1900. On this date the total of all reporting banks was 10,382, while 20 years later, June 30, 1920, the total was 30,139, representing an increase of 19,757 chartered banks, or an average yearly increase of 988. While these figures are net and therefore short of the actual number of chartered banks by the number of suspensions, voluntary liquidations, consolidations, etc., they are, nevertheless, large enough to reveal the effects of the relaxation of requirements for organization and the favorable economic developments of the period.

Lax State laws and the passage by the Congress of the act of March 14, 1900, reducing the minimum capitalization of national banks from $50,000 to $25,000 facilitated the organization of thousands of small banks in small towns, particularly in agricultural sections throughout the country, while rising prices and increasing prosperity made it possible for these banks to thrive. But with the turn of the times, which set in with the beginning of the post-war period, we have come to realize the danger in permitting the organization of small undercapitalized institutions. These banks, many with incompetent management, have been forced to yield to the reverse of those economic conditions which made them prosperous. Failures among this type of bank have been at a rate almost as great as that at which they were organized. Of all suspended banks since 1920, 65.7 per cent have had capital of less than $50,000.

Responsible also, and to a greater extent than is generally recognized, for the unfavorable banking conditions in country bank territory have been fundamental economic and social changes which had their beginning early in the post-war period. Mergers, consolidations, concentrations into larger units, with branches, for purposes of economy in production and distribution and accelerated transportation have resulted in movements of capital and interests from the smaller towns to larger commercial centers. The country banker, therefore, finds his field for loans narrowed as to diversification and many of his former sizable and profitable balances dwindled to mere pay-roll balances.

Handicapped by the conditions referred to above, there is small wonder that so many banks, under incompetent management in many cases and with inadequate diversification, have not been able to withstand the drastic effects of a precipitous deflation. Moreover, we should not lose sight of the effect of the competition in laxity existing in the American banking system, consisting of 48 State systems in competition with one national system and with little or no correlation.

Increase in circulation of national-bank notes

The Congress in July passed the Federal home loan bank bill, which incorporated a provision permitting a substantial increase in the circulation of national-bank notes by extending for a period of three years the circulation privilege to all bonds of the United States Government bearing interest at 3% per cent or less. In affixing his signature to this measure, which in effect permitted an expansion in the volume of national-bank notes outstanding from about $700,000,000 to about $1,700,000,000, the President gave to the press the following opinion submitted to him by the Comptroller of the Currency on the practical effect of the measure:

This section of the bill runs counter to the general plan established through the Federal reserve act intended gradually to do away with an inflexible bond-secured currency and represents a backward step in currency and banking legislation, but in view of the fact that the provisions are limited to a 3-year period I do not feel justified in recommending that the bill be vetoed, more especially as it is a rider to an important and constructive piece of legislation to which it bears no relation.

In taking this adverse position on the merits of the measure, the Comptroller was moved not only by the fact that any backward step toward inelastic bond-secured currency was to be deplored, but also by the consideration that the measure offered little promise of help in the present emergency. Our chief currency difficulties during the past year have arisen not out of a lack of power to issue currency, but out of the hoarding of currency after it was issued. The power to issue additional national bank notes, furthermore, was not spread evenly over the country, but was concentrated largely in banks in metropolitan centers most of which had no need for additional currency, as they already held large excess reserves. The Comptroller also felt that the measure had possibilities of diminishing the effectiveness of the Federal reserve system, because national bank note issues, in the absence of demand for additional currency, result in a decline of Federal reserve notes in circulation and in a corresponding diminution in the assets of the reserve banks, thus decreasing their contact with and influence over credit conditions.

Issues of new national bank notes under the bill during the first three months have aggregated $125,000,000. These issues have not increased the total amount of currency outstanding, but have been more than offset by retirement during the same period of Federal reserve notes. This illustrates the elastic character of our Federal reserve currency, which expands when there is a demand for more currency and contracts when the demand diminishes for any reason, including the issuance of currency by another agency like the national banks. The principal effect of the measure on the currency to date, therefore, has been to substitute inelastic national bank currency for about $125,000,000 of elastic Federal reserve currency.

When the new national bank notes are retired in 1935, as they must be under the law, their place will once more be taken by Federal reserve notes, and the elasticity of the Federal reserve system is such that this retirement need have no adverse effects on general credit conditions. I recommend that no extension of this privilege be given.

NATIONAL BANK FAILURES

During the year ended October 31, 1932, 336 national banks suspended operations due to closing, while 54 closed national banks were restored to solvency or reorganized during a like period and either reopened or sold to other institutions. In the same period receivers were appointed for 380 national banks, of which total 47 appointments were made for the purpose of completing unfinished business or to enforce stock assessments the collection of which was necessary under contracts to succeeding institutions which purchased the assets of the banks under terms by which depositors were paid in full. Of the remaining 333 appointments for actual failures, 16 were terminated by restorations to solvency, leaving 317 to be liquidated by receivers. In addition to the 16 receivers' appointments during 1932 for actual failures later terminated by restorations to solvency, 9 insolvent national banks for which receivers were appointed in 1931 were also restored to solvency during the current year, making a total of 25 receiverships restored to solvency during the year 1932. These figures for the year 1932 may be compared with 339 receivers' appointments during the previous year for actual failures, 7 of which were restored to solvency with the appointment of receivers for 30 banks to complete unfinished business or to enforce stock assessments. In addition to the 25 receiverships restored to solvency during the year ended October 31, 1932, as mentioned above, there were during such period 26 additional suspended national banks restored to solvency without the appointment of receivers. The capitalization of the 380 banks for which receivers were appointed during the past year was $50,505,585, as compared with the capitalization of the 369 banks for which receivers were appointed during the previous year of $46,862,000.

While the year ended October 31, 1932, has proved to be a severe one with respect to national-bank suspensions, as evidenced by the 336 suspensions during such period compared with 386 suspensions during the year ended October 31, 1931, it is nevertheless found that the 100 suspensions of national banks during the month of October, 1931, still remain as a peak figure, with 74 national-bank suspensions in January being the nearest approach thereto during the year 1932. It may also be noted that the 100 national-bank suspensions in October, 1931, involved approximately $111,000,000 in deposits as against approximately half that amount or $63,500,000 of deposits in the 74 suspensions in January, 1932.

Suspensions by size of capital stock, 1932.—It will be found interesting to consider the character of the 336 suspensions during the year ended October 31, 1932. As indicated by figures compiled over prior years, all national-bank suspensions with capital of $25,000 or less amounted to 32.1 per cent of the total of such suspensions during the period 1921 to 1931, inclusive; 41.4 per cent were of capital from $25,000 to $100,000, but not including $100,000; 16.9 per cent were of capital from $100,000 to $200,000, but not including $200,000, with the remaining 9.6 per cent of capital of $200,000 or more.

National-bank suspensions during the current year appear to have departed somewhat from this capital stock set-up for prior years to the extent that only approximately 23.5 per cent of the 336 suspensions during the year ended October 31, 1932, had capital of $25,000 or less; 35.7 per cent capital of $25,000 to $100,000, but not including $100,000; 22 per cent capital of $100,000 to $200,000, but not including $200,000; and 18.8 per cent capital of $200,000 or more. However, these national-bank suspensions for the year 1932 still indicate the preponderance of insolvencies as generally in the smaller bank class, the total percentage of such failures with capital of less than $200,000 amounting to 81.2 per cent of total failures.

The following table indicates the comparative percentages by size of capital stock of national-bank suspensions for the year ended October 31, 1932, and for the period 1921 to 1931, inclusive, as well as of all bank suspensions for the period 1921 to 1931, inclusive:

Suspensions by size of town or city, 1932.—In a consideration of national-bank suspensions during the year ended October 31, 1932, with respect to the relative size of town or city in which located, it may first be noted that of all bank suspensions, both national and State for the period 1921 to 1931, inclusive, 56 per cent thereof were located in towns of 1,000 population or less, 19.4 per cent in towns of 1,000 to 2,500 population, 12.7 per cent in towns of 2,500 to 10,000 population, 4 per cent in cities of 10,000 to 25,000 population, and 7.9 per cent in cities with a population of 25,000 or more.

National-bank suspensions during the current year as compared to figures above for all bank suspensions, 1921 to 1931, show a tendency toward larger population centers to the extent that 20.2 per cent of such suspensions during the year ended October 31, 1932, occurred in towns of 1,000 population or less, 24.4 per cent in towns of 1,000 to 2,500 population, 28.6 per cent in towns of 2,500 to 10,000 population, 13.7 per cent in cities of 10,000 to 25,000 population, and the remaining 13.1 per cent in cities with a population of 25,000 or more. It would appear from this compilation of national-bank suspensions by size of town or city that the smaller towns and cities are, under the prevailing structures of our banking systems, particularly susceptible to bank suspensions. It should be noted, however, that the differences outlined above between the status of all bank suspensions, both State and national, 1921 to 1931 and national-bank suspensions for the year 1932, are accounted for to some extent by reason of the fact that State banks included in the first group had in a great many cases capital of less than $25,000, the minimum for national banks, and therefore, tend to make up the major portion of banks and bank failures in the towns of very small population.

Reorganizations

In addition to the 25 national-bank receiverships restored to solvency during the year ended October 31, 1932, as mentioned in a preceding paragraph, there were during such period 26 closed national banks restored to solvency without the intervening appointments of receivers and either reopened or sold to other institutions. With the above restorations may also be included three receiverships reorganized during the period. The combined total of 54 closed national banks thus reorganized or restored to solvency during the past year had assets at date of suspension aggregating approximately $110,851,769, with deposit liabilities of $54,660,261.

The reorganizations or restorations of these banks to a condition of solvency with the provision of prompt and much-needed relief to distressed depositors were, of course, due primarily to the initiative and enterprise of local interests, assisted in the majority of cases by the grants of loans for reorganization purposes by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. However, all assistance and cooperation possible were extended by this office to further the success of these reorganizations as well as other similar projects not finally successful.

Much time and effort have been spent in attempting reorganizations which this office has been unable to approve, due to their unsoundness. Some plans failed due to the inability to raise sufficient new capital funds in a community, but far too many reorganizations are promoted by groups with selfish motives who desire to effect reorganizations and thus escape some liability at the expense of the depositors of the bank.

There rests on the Comptroller of the Currency the duty to determine whether or not a reorganization plan is to the best interests of the creditors of the suspended banks involved and whether the adoption of such a plan will result in the reorganization of a bank on a sound basis. Even though all or substantially all of the creditors of suspended banks may indicate their desire for the adoption of a plan by executing a creditor's agreement to that effect, if the plan appears unsatisfactory or is not for the best interest of the general public, it follows that the Comptroller must disapprove. A bank reopened on an unsound basis merely lays a foundation for trouble in the future and a recurrence of our present difficulties.

Liquidation

Costs, economies, and personnel.—During the year ended October 31, 1932, this office has endeavored through its Insolvent National Bank Division to do everything possible toward the accomplishment of a rapid and efficient program of liquidation with as adequate and prompt relief to depositors as consistent with a proper disposition of the problems encountered. Attention is directed to data incorporated in a later paragraph of this report indicating that the entire cost of this great liquidating operation for the year ended October 31, 1932, was but 3.2 per cent of the total collections from all sources, including offsets allowed. This remarkably low proportion of cost to collections for the past year may be compared with a similar percentage of 3 per cent for the year 1931. It should be borne in mind, however, that these figures do not represent the final average cost on banks fully liquidated, since in the latter part of any receivership the prime assets have been collected and the cost of collection increases on the secondary or remaining assets.

Total collections from all sources by receivers of insolvent national banks during the past year amounted to approximately $234,150,000 and for the two years ended October 31, 1932, $352,000,000.

Due to the increase during the past year in the number of national-bank receiverships it has, of course, been necessary to select and appoint a certain number of new men to serve in the positions of national-bank receivers. These appointments have been made with great care and with a view to obtaining men of the caliber and ability to efficiently and economically direct the liquidation of our insolvent national banks. It has also been the policy of this office to consolidate where possible and advisable a number of national-bank receiverships under the administration of one receiver, thereby effecting considerable economies in the operation of small or inactive trusts without the sacrifice of essential results or efficiency in the way of liquidation obtained.

Expedition of liquidation.—In facilitating the prompt liquidation of national-bank receiverships with a view of affording early and substantial relief to the depositors and creditors thereof, recourse has been had in some 12 instances during the past year to the so-called Spokane plan of liquidation or variations thereof. This method of liquidation, first attempted to an appreciable extent in 1929, contemplates where possible, and as soon as possible after failure, the sale to local going institutions at par value and interest of such assets of the failed banks as are found acceptable to such purchasers. The proceeds of the assets thus sold are immediately paid out in dividends to the depositors of the closed banks, resulting in each case of this kind in prompt and substantial relief to the distressed depositors.

The 12 instances of this manner of liquidation during the year ended October 31, 1932, resulted in the immediate payment of dividends aggregating in all approximately $22,500,000, or an amount equivalent to some 20 per cent of all dividends paid in every manner during the year. As a typical example of this situation, one of the receiverships included in the 12 instances referred to above sold a large portion of its assets to a local going institution and was thereby able to pay a 50 per cent dividend of approximately $13,000,000 within three months after the date of failure. This plan of providing for an early payment of dividends has to some extent now been rendered obsolete through the availability of Reconstruction Finance loans for a like purpose, although in those cases where it can be most advantageously applied such plan nevertheless has certain advantages over the Reconstruction Finance loan proceedings.

Since the availability several months ago of loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to receivers of insolvent national banks for the payments of dividends to creditors thereof every effort has been made by this office to facilitate the application for these loans in all cases possible as well as the prompt distribution of the proceeds thereof in the form of dividends. In this connection it may be of interest to note that total loans received from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for this purpose to October 31, 1932, amounted to approximately $23,684,500. The general beneficial effect of these loans is evident from the fact that the proceeds thereof hastened and increased the payments of dividends to creditors of 405 insolvent national banks located in 37 of the 48 States of the United States. The average total of loans in each State to October 31, 1932, was approximately $640,000.

Time required for liquidation.—Relative to the length of time required to complete liquidation of closed national banks, a compilation has been made covering insolvent national banks finally closed, period November 1, 1921, to October 31, 1931, as well as for those receiverships finally closed during the year ended October 31, 1932. From data compiled it has been found that insolvent national banks finally closed during the year ended October 31, 1932, excluding those banks which were restored to solvency and those for which receivers were appointed for the purpose of levying and collecting stock assessments only, required an average period of five years and six months for complete liquidation, with a minimum period of 10 months. In connection with insolvent national banks the affairs of which were finally closed, period November 1, 1921, to October 31, 1931, excluding those suspensions later restored to solvency and banks for which receivers were appointed to levy and collect stock assessments only, the average period of liquidation is found to have been four years and seven months.

Of the 380 national banks for which receivers were appointed during the past year, 16 banks were restored to solvency and either reopened or sold to other institutions, leaving 364 banks to be administered by receivers. Of the 364 banks so administered by receivers, 47 appointments were made for the purpose of completing unfinished business or to enforce stock assessments, leaving 317 banks to be actually liquidated by receivers.

The capital of the 380 insolvent national banks was $50,505,585. The capital of the 16 banks restored to solvency was $2,060,000. The capital of the 47 banks for which receivers were appointed to complete unfinished business or to enforce stock assessments was $9,095,000 and the capital of the remaining 317 banks to be actually liquidated by receivers was $39,350,585.

The capital of the 364 banks administered by receivers was $48,445,585 and there had been levied by the Comptroller of the Currency to October 31, 1932, stock assessments against their shareholders in the amount of $42,915,585. Figures as to total assets for 20 of these banks are not as yet available due to insufficient time having elapsed since dates of the more recent failures to allow receivers to make proper audits and submit first reports of condition. However, the 344 banks with capital stock of $45,220,585 for which first reports of condition were available to October 31, 1932, had assets aggregating $406,606,401. Collections from these assets including offsets allowed and collections from stock assessments as reported by receivers to September 30, 1932, amounted to 25.87 per cent of such assets and stock assessments. These collections and the disposition thereof were as follows:

Collections:

Collections from assets, including offsets allowed.....	$108, 558, 497
Collections from stock assessments.....	8, 270, 919

Total.....	119, 820, 006

In addition to the above record, it is found that total secured and unsecured claims proved as reported by receivers to September 30, 1932, in connection with these banks aggregated $104,312,687. The outstanding circulation of the 364 receiverships at date of failure was $21,949,012, secured by United States bonds on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States of the par value of $22,407,000, while total deposits at date of failure amounted to $269,439,173.

Receiverships, 1865-1932

From the date of the first failure of a national bank in the year 1865 to October 31, 1932, 2,166 national banks have been placed in charge of receivers. Of this number, 109 have been restored to solvency and either reopened or sold to other institutions, leaving 2,057 to be administered by receivers. Of these so administered, 971 are still in process of liquidation and 1,086 have been entirely liquidated and the affairs thereof finally closed.

The capital of the 2,166 insolvent national banks at the date of failure was $249,443,005. The capital of the 109 banks that have been restored to solvency was $17,230,000. The capital of the 971 banks that are still in process of liquidation was $115,442,585, and the capital of the 1,086 banks that have been completely liquidated was $116,770,420.

The aggregate book value of the assets of the 2,057 administered receiverships, including assets acquired after suspension, was $1,846,-016,878, in addition to which there have been levied against shareholders assessments aggregating $185,868,325. Total collections from these assets as reported by receivers to September 30, 1932, including offsets allowed and collections from stock assessments, amounted to 47.51 per cent of the total of such assets and stock assessments. These collections and the disposition thereof were as follows:

Collections:

Collections from assets, including offsets allowed and for accounting purposes, dividends paid secured creditors of all trusts finally closed Oct. 1, 1924 to Oct. 31, 1929-----	$889, 422, 800

In addition to this record of distribution there have been returned to shareholders, through their duly elected agents, assets of a book value of $16,621,742. The outstanding circulation of these 2,057 receiverships at date of failure was $100,937,459, secured by United States bonds on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States of the par value of $105,058,920, while total deposits at date of failure amounted to $1,132,130,754.

Active receiverships as of October 31, 1932

The 971 banks that were, as of October 31, 1932, still in charge of receivers and in process of liquidation had assets, including assets acquired subsequent to their failure, aggregating $1,159,036,150. The capital of these banks was $115,442,585, and there had been levied by the Comptroller of the Currency to October 31, 1932, stock assessments against their shareholders in the amount of $106,972,585. The collections from these assets, including offsets allowed and collections from stock assessments, as reported by receivers to September 30, 1932, amounted to 40.76 per cent of such assets and stock assessments. These collections and the disposition thereof were as follows:

Collections:

Collections from assets, including offsets allowed-----	$478, 771, 807
Collections from stock assessments-----	37, 315, 909

Cash balances in hands of comptroller and receivers-----	48, 573, 629
Total-----	527, 748, 229

In addition to the above record, it is found that total secured and unsecured claims proved against these 971 receiverships as of September 30, 1932, aggregated $536,174,402. The outstanding circulation of the 971 receiverships at date of failure was $54,113,449, secured by United States bonds on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States of the par value of $54,841,260, while total deposits at date of failure amounted to $769,536,273.

Receiverships terminated, 1865-1932

From the date of the first failure of a national bank in 1865 to the close of business October 31, 1932, 1,195 receiverships have been liquidated and the trusts closed or the affairs thereof restored to solvency. Included in this number are the 109 banks restored to solvency (25 in 1932) and 97 the liquidation of which was completed during the year 1932. The 1,086 banks liquidated by receivers had assets, including assets acquired subsequent to their failure, aggregating $686,980,728. The capital of these 1,086 banks was $116,770,420, and there were levied by the Comptroller of the Currency stock assessments against their shareholders in the amount of $78,895,740. The collections from these assets, including offsets allowed and collections from stock assessments, as indicated by receivers' final reports, amounted to 58.65 per cent of such assets and stock assessments. These collections and the disposition thereof were as follows:

Collections:

Collections from assets, including offsets allowed and for accounting purposes, dividends paid secured creditors of all trusts finally closed October 1, 1924 to October 31, 1929--	$410, 650, 993
Collections from stock assessments-----	38, 552, 964
Total-----	449, 203, 957

Disposition of collections:

Dividends paid to secured and unsecured creditors, on total secured and unsecured claims proved in the aggregate amount of $376,178,147-----	252, 749, 801
Payments to secured and preferred creditors, including offsets allowed, disbursements for the protection of assets, and for all trusts finally closed Oct. 1, 1924 to Oct. 31, 1929, dividends paid secured creditors-----	161, 951, 436
Payment of receivers' salaries, legal and other expenses-----	29, 873, 090
Cash returned to shareholders-----	4, 629, 630
Total-----	449, 203, 957

In addition to this record of distribution, there were returned to shareholders, through their duly elected agents, assets of a book value of $16,621,742.

From the above it will be noted that the average percentage of all dividends paid on the aggregate of secured and unsecured claims proved against the 1,086 receiverships that have been finally closed, but not including the 109 restored to solvency which paid 100 per cent, was 67.19 per cent. If payments to secured and preferred creditors, offsets, and other disbursements, as indicated above, were included with the dividends paid in this calculation, the total disbursements to creditors would amount to $414,701,237 or 77.06 per cent of claims proved plus other liabilities paid but not included in the figure above of proved claims, or $538,129,583. In making the above calculations of percentages of payments to secured and preferred creditors no consideration has been given to those liabilities to creditors not claimed, as well as secured claims which were proved and upon which dividends were paid but which were subsequently eliminated from the total of claims proved by reason of having been paid in full out of the proceeds of collateral collections. The consideration of such unclaimed items, together with secured claims proved but not included in the total thereof set out in the table above, would reduce somewhat the percentages of payments to creditors as given.

Expenses incident to the administration of the 1,086 closed trusts, such as receivers' salaries, legal and other expenses, amounted to $29,873,090 or 3.90 per cent of the book value of the assets and stock assessments administered, or 6.65 per cent of collections from assets and stock assessments. The assessments against shareholders averaged 67.56 per cent of their holdings and the total collections from such assessments as were levied were 48.87 per cent of the amount assessed. The outstanding circulation of these 1,086 closed receiverships at date of failure was $46,824,010 secured by United States bonds on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States of the par value of $50,217,660, while total deposits at date of failure amounted to $362,594,481.

During the year ended October 31, 1932, 97 receiverships were liquidated and closed, in addition to which 25 receiverships were restored to solvency and either reopened or sold to other institutions. The 97 receiverships finally closed had assets, including assets acquired subsequent to their failure, aggregating $78,188,867. The capital of these 97 banks was $7,187,500 and assessments against shareholders levied by the Comptroller of the Currency aggregated $5,697,500. The collections from these assets, including offsets allowed and collections from stock assessments as indicated by receivers' final reports, amounted to 64.07 per cent of such assets and stock assessments. These collections and the disposition thereof were as follows:

Collections:

Collections from assets, including offsets allowed.....	$50, 707, 758
Collections from stock assessments.....	3, 039, 714
Total.....	53, 747, 472

Disposition of collections:

Dividends paid to unsecured creditors. (Unsecured liabilities at date of failure as reported by receivers aggregated $47,095,721).....	$31, 269, 436
Dividends paid to secured creditors. (Secured liabilities at date of failure as reported by receivers aggregated $14,155,403).....	1, 098, 247
Payments to secured and preferred creditors, other than through dividends.....	11, 795, 149
Offsets allowed and settled.....	4, 927, 529
Disbursements for the protection of assets.....	812, 574
Payment of receivers' salaries, legal and other expenses.....	3, 041, 623
Cash returned to shareholders.....	802, 914
Total.....	53, 747, 472

Total secured and unsecured claims proved against these 97 receiverships finally closed aggregated $47,072,174.

In addition to this record of distribution, there were returned to shareholders, through their duly elected agents, assets of a book value of $90,411.

From the above it will be noted that the average percentage of all dividends paid on the aggregate of secured and unsecured claims proved against the 97 receiverships that were finally closed during the year ended October 31, 1932, but not including the 25 banks restored to solvency which paid 100 per cent, was 68.76 per cent. If payments to secured and preferred creditors, offsets, and other disbursements, as indicated above, were included with the dividends paid in this calculation, the total disbursements to creditors would amount to $49,902,935, or 77.24 per cent of the total of claims proved plus other liabilities paid but not included in the figure above of proved claims, or $64,607,426.

It may also be of interest to note that the average percentage of dividends paid unsecured creditors, to unsecured liabilities at date of failure of the 97 receiverships that were finally closed during the year ended October 31, 1932, but not including the 25 banks restored to solvency which paid creditors 100 per cent, was 66.40 per cent. The average percentage of dividends paid secured creditors, to secured liabilities at date of failure of the 97 receiverships amounted to 7.76 per cent, while dividends, together with other payments to secured and preferred creditors, amounted to $12,893,396, or an average payment on secured and preferred liabilities at date of failure of 91.09 per cent. The inclusion of offsets allowed with dividends paid to unsecured creditors gives total payments of $36,196,965, or an average total return upon unsecured liabilities at date of failure of 76.86 per cent, while all payments to all creditors, consisting of offsets, dividends paid on both secured and unsecured liabilities, and other payments on secured and preferred liabilities amounted to $49,090,361, or an average total return of 80.15 per cent upon all liabilities at date of failure in the amount of $61,251,124. In making the above calculations no consideration has been given to additional secured and unsecured liabilities of the 97 receiverships established subsequent to failure, the inclusion of which would reduce somewhat the percentages given.

Expenses incident to the administration of these 97 trusts, such as receivers' salaries, legal and other expenses, amounted to $3,041,623, or 3.63 per cent of the book value of the assets and stock assessments administered, or 5.66 per cent of collections from assets and stock assessments. The assessments against shareholders averaged 79.27 per cent of their holdings and the total collections from such assessments as were levied were 53.35 per cent of the amount assessed. The outstanding circulation of the 97 receiverships at date of failure was $3,596,114, secured by United States bonds on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States, of a par value of $4,196,400, while total deposits at date of failure amounted to $47,739,776.

Summary

The financial operations of the division of insolvent national banks period October 1, 1931, to September 30, 1932, inclusive, were as follows:

In addition to national bank receiverships during the year ended October 31, 1932, receivers were appointed by this office for four suspended State banks located in the District of Columbia during such period. These four banks operated under charters from the State of Arizona and the appointments of receivers by this office were by virtue of existing legislation permitting banks with State charters to operate in the District of Columbia under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency. My recommendations for legislation upon this subject are incorporated in H. R. 6402 which has passed the House of Representatives and has been referred to the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia.

Total assets of these four State bank receiverships including assets acquired subsequent to their failure aggregated $4,156,580. The capital of these banks was $412,890 and assessments against shareholders levied by the Comptroller of the Currency aggregated $412,890. The collections from these assets including offsets allowed and collections from stock assessments as reported by receivers to September 30, 1932 amounted to 13.66 per cent of the total of such assets and stock assessments. These collections and the disposition thereof were as follows:

Collections:

Collections from assets, including offsets allowed	$624, 240
Collections from stock assessments	None.

Disposition of collections:

Dividends paid to unsecured creditors. (Unsecured liabilities at date of failure as reported by receivers aggregated $3,121,951).....	None.
Dividends paid to secured creditors. (Secured liabilities at date of failure as reported by receivers aggregated $398,986).....	None.
Payments to secured and preferred creditors other than through dividends.....	$155,711
Offsets allowed and settled.....	122,326
Disbursements for protection of assets.....	3,433
Payment of receivers' salaries, legal and other expenses.....	17,267
Cash returned to shareholders.....	None.
Cash balances in hands of comptroller and receivers Sept. 30, 1932.....	325,503
Total.....	624,240

In addition to the above record, it is found that total secured and unsecured claims proved against these four State bank receiverships as of September 30, 1932, aggregated $335,088, while total deposits at date of failure amounted to $3,121,067.

BANK SUSPENSIONS OTHER THAN NATIONAL

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1932, there were 1,972 suspensions of State and private banks in the several States of the country with deposits at date of suspension aggregating $1,279,673,000. In the previous year there were 1,326 suspensions with deposits of $855,799,000.

Tables showing the number, capital, and deposits of suspended and reopened banks other than national and national banks in each State for the 6-month periods ended December 31, 1931, and June 30, 1932, together with similar figures for the year ended June 30, 1932, are published in the appendix of this report. The appendix also includes a table showing the number, capital, and deposits of suspended and reopened State and national banks each of the years ended June 30, 1914 to 1932, inclusive.

ORGANIZATION AND LIQUIDATION OF NATIONAL BANKS

At the close of the current year, October 31, 1932, there were 6,104 national banking associations in existence, including inactive banks which had not gone into voluntary liquidation and suspended banks for which no receivers had been appointed. Such institutions are technically in existence. This represents a net loss since October 31, 1931, of 515 banks, or 7.78 per cent, and $14,940,321 in the authorized capital stock. During the current year 64 banks increased their capital by the aggregate sum of $49,346,064. Of this number, three banks effected the increase by stock dividends, the amount of such increase being $270,504.

During the entire period of national banking operations, up to and including October 31, 1932, there have been authorized to begin business 13,644 national banking associations. Of these, 5,483 have voluntarily closed, some of which discontinued business; others merged with other banks, both State and national; and some consolidated with other national banking associations under authority of the act of November 7, 1918. Exclusive of banks which failed but which were subsequently restored to solvency, the loss to the system throughout this entire period by the liquidation of banks through receiverships has been 2,057, the number of these receiverships being a fraction more than 15.07 per cent of the total number of banks organized.

During the year ended October 31, 1932, there were 236 national banks, with total capitalization of $97,340,300, which went into voluntary liquidation. Of this number 9, with capital of $800,000 and resources of $1,172,902, discontinued business; 146, with capital of $69,910,300 were acquired by other national banks; and 81, with capital of $26,630,000 and resources of $265,026,325, entered the State banking systems. The latter group included 6 banks of $500,000 capital or over, with aggregate capital of $21,100,000 and assets of $213,566,254.

November, 1914, marked the inauguration of the operation of the Federal reserve system. On that date there were in existence 7,578 national banks, with aggregate capital of $1,072,492,175, as compared with a total capitalization of $1,645,819,825 for the 6,104 national banks in existence on October 31, 1932, a net decrease of 1,474 in the number of banks, but an increase in capitalization of $573,327,650. During this 18-year period 2,992 national banks were chartered, with aggregate capital of $463,705,300 while 4,466 such associations were closed voluntarily or otherwise.

During the year ended October 31, 1932, there were received 116 applications to organize national banks and to convert State banks into national banking associations, with proposed capital stock of $93,819,225. Of these applications, 74 were approved, with proposed capital stock of $87,405,000; 15 were rejected, with proposed capital stock of $1,200,000; and the remainder were abandoned or no action was taken thereon. Of the 51 banks chartered, 21 were chartered to take over banks which were in weakened condition, while 20 others were organized to acquire the assets and assume the liabilities of 22 suspended national banks. Only 10 of this total number of applications were approved for the primary organization of new national banking associations.

In this same year 68 national banking associations, with capital of $87,145,000, were authorized to begin business, 1 of which was located in the New England States, 11 in the Eastern States, 24 in the Southern States, 21 in the Middle Western States, 8 in the Western States, and 3 in the Pacific States. The greatest activity, as indicated by the number of national banks organized, was evidenced in the following States: Texas, 11; Illinois, 10; Pennsylvania, 5; New York, 4; and Indiana, 4. In other States the number ranged from 1 to 3 banks.

It further appears that of the total number of charters issued within the year ended October 31, 1932, 7 with authorized capital of $75,500,000 and resources aggregating approximately $816,074,800, were the result of conversions of State banks, 10 with capital of $1,325,000 were reorganizations, and 51 with capital of $10,320,000 were primary organizations. The business of 87 State banks, with capital of $25,893,600 and assets aggregating approximately $280,581,744, was purchased by national banks.

During the year ended October 31, 1932, 52 national banking associations were consolidated into 26, under authority of the act of November 7, 1918, the capital of the consolidated banks being $14,258,000. In some instances there were reductions in capital and in others increases, the net result by reason of these consolidations being a reduction in capital stock of $3,110,000. During the same period there were 11 consolidations under the act of February 25, 1927, involving the merger of 12 State banks with national banks, through which additional assets of approximately $638,715,176 were brought into the national system.

BRANCHES

On February 25, 1927, the date of the passage of the so-called McFadden bill, there were in existence in the national system 372 branches as compared with a total of 1,314 branches in operation on October 31, 1932.

During the intervening period 1,374 branches have been added to the system, of which 557 were de novo branches, 307 were branches of State banks which converted into national associations, and 510 were brought into the national system through consolidations of State with national banks, while 432 branches were relinquished, of which latter number 259 went out of the system through the liquidation of the parent institutions, and the remainder, 173, were discontinued through consolidations and for various other reasons. The net result of these operations was a gain for the national system of 942 branches for the period under discussion.

In the year ended October 31, 1932, a net gain of 130 branches was recorded, 102 de novo branches being established, while 162 branches were brought into the system through the consolidation of State banks with national banks, a total of 264 branches.

One hundred and thirty-four branches were lost to the national system, 104 through liquidation of the parent bank and 30 through action of the directors and shareholders.

There follows a summary of branch-banking operations in the national system during the period discussed in the foregoing:

CREDIT UNIONS IN DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

On June 23, 1932, Congress passed an act known as the District of Columbia credit unions act, by which it authorized the organization of cooperative societies known as credit unions within the District of Columbia for the purpose of promoting thrift among their members and creating a source of credit for them for provident purposes.

The act required that each organization must receive the approval of the commissioners of the District of Columbia and the commissioners were authorized to refer the cases to the Comptroller of the Currency, who was to submit a report to the commissioners covering the following points:

1. The conformity of the organization certificate to the provisions of the act.
2. The general character and fitness of the subscribers.
3. The advisability of establishing a credit union in the proposed field of membership.

Prior to November 16, 1932, the following credit unions had been recommended for approval by this office and licensed by the District commissioners:

Railway Mail Service Credit Union of the District of Columbia.

Department of Commerce Credit Union of the District of Columbia.

Veterans Administration Employees Credit Union of the District of Columbia.

St. Anthony's Parish Credit Union of the District of Columbia.

In addition to the above, 10 applications have been received by this office on which final action has not yet been taken.

Of these cases, four have been recommended to the commissioners for approval and one for disapproval, which has been rejected by the commissioners, and action has been deferred on two cases. The examiners' reports have not been received for the remaining three cases.

NATIONAL BANKS IN THE TRUST FIELD

The trust activities of national banks had reached impressive proportions at the close of the fiscal year on June 30, 1932. The statistics reveal that 2,238 of these institutions had received authority to exercise trust powers, with a combined capital of $1,276,969,415 and banking resources of $18,568,074,484, which represented 36.4 per cent of the number, 81.4 per cent of the capital, and 83 per cent of the resources of all banks in the national banking system.

Trust departments were being operated by 1,774 of these banks and 104,288 trusts were being administered, with individual trust assets aggregating $4,642,065,371, while 775 banks were also acting as trustees for bond and note issues aggregating $9,497,246,609. A segregation of the number of fiduciary accounts in national banks revealed that 45,374, or 43.5 per cent, were those created under private or living trust agreements; 48,761, or 46.8 per cent, were trusts being administered under the jurisdiction of the courts, and the remaining 10,153, or 9.7 per cent, were trusteeships created under corporate bond or note issue indentures.

Private trust assets comprised $3,379,951,657, or 72.8 per cent of the total assets under administration, while the remaining $1,262,113,714, or 27.2 per cent, belonged to the court trusts. Invested trust funds aggregated $4,161,648,817, of which bonds constituted 37.6 per cent; real estate mortgages, 16.1 per cent; stocks, 30.9 per cent; and miscellaneous assets, 15.4 per cent.

The continued interest of the insuring public in naming the corporate fiduciary as conservator and administrator of policy proceeds is revealed by the fact that 219 national banks were acting as trustees under 572 agreements involving the administration of $25,573,433 in proceeds from life-insurance policies, while 736 national banks had been named to act in the future as trustees under 17,824 trust agreements supported by insurance policies not yet matured or operative with a face value of $732,497,977.

The progress being made by national banks in conveying information to the public about the services their trust departments have to offer is revealed by the fact that 512 banks spent $369,820 during the year for trust advertising; 49 banks employed full-time trust solicitors, and 93 banks utilized the services of part-time trust solicitors. National banks with authority to exercise trust powers have shown continued interest in the advertising value to their trust departments by amending their titles to include the words "trust company." While only 101 of these banks were operating with "trust" in their names in 1927, the number has increased to 349 since that time, and the value of utilizing this method of informing their commercial customers and the public of their authority to engage in trust functions is being increasingly recognized and adopted.

National bank branches numbering 222 on June 30, 1932, were actively engaged in administering 13,296 trusts, with individual trust assets aggregating $841,596,697, and were acting as trustees for outstanding bond and note issues amounting to $437,858,152.

The following tables show in detail the activities of national banks in the trust field, segregated, first, according to capital of the bank; second, according to the population of the place in which the bank is located; third, according to Federal reserve districts; fourth, analysis of the type of investments held in trust, with a supplemental table showing the extent to which branches of national banks are furnishing trust service to the communities in which they are located.

REDEMPTION OF NATIONAL AND FEDERAL RESERVE BANK CIRCULATION

During the year ended June 30, 1932, national-bank notes and Federal reserve notes aggregating $1,347,574,855.50 were redeemed in the United States Treasury at a total expense of $471,800.90.

Redemptions included Federal reserve notes amounting to $956,-031,635 and national-bank notes of $391,543,220.50, the latter amount including $37,252,130.50 redeemed on retirement account.

National-bank notes were redeemed at an average cost of $1.08 per $1,000; Federal reserve notes received from various sources 93 cents per 1,000 notes, and canceled and other Federal reserve notes received direct from Federal reserve banks and branches 45 cents per 1,000 notes redeemed.

Statements showing the amount of national-bank notes and Federal reserve notes received monthly for redemption in the year ended June 30, 1932, the source from which received, the rate per $1,000 of national-bank notes redeemed, and the rate per 1,000 notes of Federal reserve notes redeemed are published in the appendix of this report.

NATIONAL BANKS OF ISSUE

Of the 6,150 reporting national banks on June 30, 1932, there were 5,066 banks with capital of $1,185,450,000 issuing circulating notes, and on the same date the amount of notes outstanding aggregated $652,168,000. The 1,084 banks which did not exercise the circulation privilege had capital stock paid in amounting to $383,533,000.

A table disclosing, according to reserve cities and States, the number of national banks issuing circulation, their capital and amount of circulation outstanding, together with the number of associations not issuing circulation and their capital on June 30, 1932, is published in the appendix of this report.

There is also published in the appendix a table showing by months the profit on national bank circulation based upon a deposit of $100,000 Panama Canal 2 per cent bonds of 1916-1936 at the average net price during the year ended October 31, 1932. The table includes also like figures relative to $100,000 of United States 2 per cent consols of 1930 so far as may be computed. Due to the unknown date of maturity of the consols, however, it is impossible to determine the amount of sinking fund necessary to provide for liquidation of the premium paid for the bonds and this must be known to calculate the profit on circulation secured by an investment in consols. The tables mentioned are supplemented by others showing the investment value of circulation bonds quarterly and the monthly range of prices in New York in the year ended October 31, 1932.

With reference to the Federal home loan bank act approved July 22, 1932, section 29 of which extended the circulation privilege to national banks for a period of three years upon the deposit with the Treasurer of the United States bonds with interest not exceeding 3½ per cent heretofore issued or issued during the period, no calculation can be made of profit on circulation through bonds used for such purpose due to the indeterminate market value of the bonds at the end of the 3-year period.

CONDITION OF NATIONAL BANKS AT DATE OF EACH CALL DURING THE YEAR

Under authority of section 5211, United States Revised Statutes, as amended February 25, 1927, national banks were called upon to submit three reports of condition during the year ended October 31, 1932, as of various dates specified by the comptroller.

Summaries of resources and liabilities of reporting banks on the date of each call during the year, together with summary for September 29, 1931, are shown in the following statement:

Building and loan associations in the District of Columbia

The resources of the 26 building and loan associations operating in the District of Columbia under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency on June 30, 1932, totaled $84,991,000 and exceeded by $6,999,000 the resources of 24 associations on June 30 a year ago.

The loans, which aggregated $81,298,000, showed an increase in the year of $6,933,000. Installment payments on shares increased also from $70,244,000 to $76,773,000.

Twenty-one of the associations operated on the permanent plan and five on the serial plan. The total membership was 87,049, as compared to 79,222 members a year ago, and of the total in the current year the numbers borrowing and nonborrowing were 23,537 and 63,512, respectively.

The statement following discloses the number of building and loan associations in the District of Columbia, their aggregate loans, installments paid on shares, and total resources on June 30 of each year 1914-1932. (Summaries of the resources and liabilities of the individual associations as of June 30, 1932, together with consolidated statements of assets and liabilities and receipts and disbursements for the 6-month periods ended December 31, 1931, and June 30, 1932, are published in the appendix of this report.)

EXPENSES OF THE CURRENCY BUREAU

By reference to the table following, showing in detail expenses relating to the maintenance of the Currency Bureau for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1932, it will be noted that the aggregate expenses were $5,152,498.37, of which $737,849 was paid from appropriations and $4,414,649.37 reimbursements by the banks. The salary rolls aggregated $690,346.64, of which $261,794.62 was paid from appropriations and the remainder from funds reimbursed by the banks.

Taxes paid by national banks on circulating notes issued amounted to $3,175,189.24. Deducting from this amount the expenses of the bureau paid from congressional appropriations, $737,849, leaves the net income to the Government on account of the tax on circulation at $2,437,340.24.

NOTES

Act of February 25, 1863, provided for reports of condition on the first of each quarter, before commencement of business.

Act of June 3, 1864—First Monday of January, April, July, and October, before commencement of business, on form prescribed by comptroller (in addition to reports on first Tuesday of each month showing condition at commencement of business in respect to certain items; i. e., loans, specie, deposits, and circulation).

Act of March 3, 1869, not less than five reports per year, on form prescribed by comptroller, at close of business on any past date by him specified.

Act of December 28, 1922, minimum number of calls reduced from five to three per year.

Act of February 25, 1927, authorized a vice president or an assistant cashier designated by the board of directors to verify reports of condition in absence of president and cashier.

<sup>6</sup> Loans on farm land not reported separately in previous years, but included with loans on other real estate.

SHOWING STATEMENTS OF RESOURCES
AND LIABILITIES OF THE INDIVIDUAL NATIONAL BANKS
(States, Territories, and Towns Arranged Alphabetically)
AT CLOSE OF BUSINESS DECEMBER 31, 1932
IS OMITTED FROM THIS REPORT AND PUBLISHED AS A SEPARATE TABLE

NOTE.—In each of the years 1923 to 1929, inclusive, a table similar to table "J" mentioned above, showing statements of resources and liabilities of the individual national banks for one date in the year, was also issued as a supplement to the Comptroller's report, but in lieu of being designated as tables "A" to "G," inclusive, they were numbered 89, 93, 94, 98, 121, 97, and 103, respectively. Since 1930 the supplements are lettered alphabetically, beginning with the letter "H."
