GROSS NATIONAL PRODUCT OR EXPENDITURE

The gross national product rose almost $$ 5$ billion (seasonally adjusted annual rate) between the second and third quarters of 1956 to $$ 413.0$ billion. Both consumer and government expenditures increased. Private domestic investment was practically unchanged, with increases in fixed investment being offset by a drop in the rate of inventory accumulation.

${ }^{4}$ Annual total is the sum of seasonally unadjusted expenditures; it does not necessarily coincide with the average of seasonally adjusted figures, which include adjustments, when necessary, for systematic tendencies in anticipatory data.

Nore. -These figures do not agree with the totals included in the gross national product estimates of the Department of Commerce, principally because the latter cover agricultural investment and also certain equipment and construction outhays charged to current expense.

SALES AND INVENTORIES-MANUFACTURING AND TRADE

Manufacturers' new orders (seasonally adjusted) rose $$ 2.0$ billion in August and sales increased $$ 1.3$ billion, largely reflecting the settlement of the steel strike. Inventories of manufacturers rose by $$ 0.2$ billion during the period. Trade inventories remained unchanged, while sales advanced $$ 0.4$ billion. Preliminary estimates indicate that retail sales dropped in September, largely on account of reduced automotive sales.
