SECOND ANNUAL REPORT OF THE FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD ON THE OPERATIONS OF THE FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK SYSTEM FOR THE YEAR 1934

When the Federal Home Loan Bank System closed its 1933 operations December 31 it had 2,086 members, consisting mostly of building and loan, homestead associations, and cooperative banks who had subscribed for stock in the Corporation to the amount of $10,908,300. It had loans outstanding to its member corporations of $88,441,854.37, and the United States Treasury had subscribed and paid for $75,745,700 of stock in the Corporation, all of which will appear in the statements hereto appended.

The activities of the system were very largely affected by the fact that the Home Owners' Loan Corporation was loaning money to distressed home owners on very liberal terms, and, naturally, many people who otherwise would have been applying to the building and loan associations for advances applied to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and thereby reduced the activities of the building and loan associations and of the home loan banks during the year 1934.

Many of the Home Owners' Loan bonds were received by member associations and were used directly or indirectly in paying off their borrowings from the banks during the year, thereby directly reducing the business of the banks.

At the close of business December 31, 1934, the Home Loan Bank System had 3,068 members who had subscribed for stock to the dollar value of $22,661,400, of which $20,480,100 was fully paid, issued, and outstanding, and the stock subscribed by the Treasury and paid in up to that date was the sum of $81,645,700. Total loans outstanding as at December 31, 1934, equaled $87,258,312.53, of which loans to members equaled $86,651,236.38, loans to affiliated banks equaled $600,000, and loans made direct to home owners $7,076.15. Loans made during the year 1934 aggregated $39,879,886.12 and repayments amounted to $41,063,427.96, all of which will appear in the financial statement appended hereto.

AMENDMENTS TO THE LAW

During the year the Congress amended the law in a number of particulars which were designed to make more popular and workable the activities of the System. One amendment reduced the minimum amount of stock that an association could take in becoming a member from $1,500 to $500.

Another amendment to section 10 of the act liberalized the amount that could be loaned on amortized home mortgages which were used as collateral by increasing the amount which could be loaned on such mortgage from 60 to 65 percent on the unpaid principal, but in no case was the advance to exceed 50 percent of the value of the real estate securing the home-mortgage loan, where the loan was on a mortgage which was amortized according to the terms of the act.

If secured by a home mortgage not amortized under the terms of the act, the advance permitted was not in excess of 50 percent of the unpaid principal of the home-mortgage loan, and in no case should the amount exceed 40 percent of the value of the real estate securing the home mortgage. Whereas, in the former law it could not exceed 30 percent of the real estate securing the home-mortgage loan which was not amortized. These are the principal amendments liberalizing this particular act.

INSURANCE ACT

The insurance act was passed which is dealt with herein under the head of Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, which is embraced in this report.

INTEREST RATE

During the year it became necessary, in order that the member associations would be able to compete in their business, to give them the right to charge a rate of interest not less than 4 percent, nor more than 5 percent. Formerly it had been fixed at 5 percent except under very special circumstances.

With the liberalization that has come about, and with the right of insurance which has been imparted by the insurance act, it is confidently expected by the Board that the increase in business will be very marked during the coming year.

The banks have all but one reached the point where they choose their own directors, and they are paying promptly the assessments for their proportion of the expenses of the Board.

EARNINGS AND DIVIDENDS

The banks are all earning their expenses and ten of them are paying dividends on their stocks, both to their member associations and to the Treasury of the United States, as shown by the financial statement attached.

The Federal Government is already receiving a substantial return on its paid-in subscription of $81,645,700 for stock of the Federal home-loan banks, as shown by the announcement that dividend payments totalling $1,361,599.98 have been declared as of December 31, 1934, by 10 of the 12 regional Federal home-loan banks, 3 of which the banks of Boston, Winston-Salem, and Los Angeles, represent initial dividends, the other 7 banks having previously begun dividend payments. All dividends recently declared by these ten banks are at the rate of 2 percent annually, except for the dividend paid to member institutions of the Boston bank, which is at the rate of 1½ percent. The dividend declared by the Los Angeles bank is effective through December 31, 1933.

Total dividends paid by the Federal home-loan banks to date amount to $2,622,189.44, of which $2,144,108.34 has been or will be paid to the United States Government, and the balance of $478,081.10 to the members of the banks. Such members are private thrift and home-financing institutions, the present membership numbering 3,068 building and loan associations, mutual savings banks, and life insurance companies.

The following table shows the amount of dividends paid as of December 31, 1934, by each of the ten banks concerned. The Federal home-loan banks of Topeka and Portland, the only two regional institutions in the system in which dividends have not yet been declared, are nevertheless operating at a profit, which is being added to surplus pending dividend action.

SECOND ANNUAL REPORT OF THE HOME OWNERS' LOAN CORPORATION COVERING THE YEAR 1934

The Home Loan Bank Board hereby reports that the Home Owners' Loan Corporation closed its books on December 31, 1933, showing a balance of loans made of $103,257,858, the business had just begun to move, and on the 31st of December 1934 it reports that it has mortgage loans and interest earned totaling $2,393,925,686.57.

The work has been very vigorously pressed and has been very considerably facilitated by the fact that Congress passed a law guaranteeing the bonds which are used for the redemption of the mortgages on homes, as to principal as well as interest. The bonds that were issued prior to the act amending the law were guaranteed only as to interest and were not as well received as the Board hoped they would be; but before the amending act was passed, they had become much more acceptable to the public and about $700,000,000 worth of them had been used in exchange for home mortgages under the act.

The provision in the amended act of 1934 for guaranteeing bonds, principal and interest, made the bonds more acceptable, of course, as they were tantamount to United States bonds insofar as payment was concerned.

A provision was made for the exchange of the 4-percent bonds that had already been issued with the limited guarantee, for the bonds issued with a full guarantee if they were converted within 6 months of the passage of the act, which expired on October 27, 1934.

The 4-percent bonds outstanding were largely exchanged for 3 percent bonds, leaving $326,700,375 outstanding still of the 4-percent bonds, with the limited guarantee as to interest.

The Board deemed it wise, under the advice of the Secretary of the Treasury, to issue 3-percent bonds instead of 4-percent bonds with full guarantee and $1,093,625,000 of them were issued and used and are outstanding at 3 percent. After some time it was deemed wise to reduce the rate of interest to 2¼ percent and a new series of bonds of 2¼ percent were issued, and of them there have been $615,080,875 issued and are outstanding at the present time.

It should be stated that the holders of the 4-percent bonds were entitled, under the terms of the act, to exchange them for bonds carrying the rate of interest which the first issue of the fully guaranteed bonds bore which were issued after the passage of the act, and that fixes the bonds for which the 4-percent bonds could be exchanged at 3 percent; and such exchange was made in the 3 percent bonds.

PUERTO RICO, HAWAII, AND ALASKA

Since the beginning of this year, the Board has established an office in Puerto Rico which is just beginning to handle applications. The organization has been completed, and in accordance with the direction of Congress, the distressed home owners in Puerto Rico are to be relieved insofar as it can be done under the terms of the act. An office was also established in Hawaii, and arrangements made with the Seattle office to handle the applications from Alaska.

SUSPENSION OF APPLICATIONS

On November 16, 1934, the Board issued an order to receive no further applications. The loans applied for numbered 1,739,499 and amounted to $5,660,732,393, of which 458,588 were held subject to possible approval or rejection or had been withdrawn. (See exhibit A.) The Board had loaned nearly $2,000,000,000 and had less than $1,000,000,000 left that it could loan, and had already approved, insofar as eligibility was concerned, enough loans to exhaust the capital and credit entirely, and it was deemed necessary to suspend taking further applications and involving expense which could be of no useful purpose and would decrease the amount of money that the Board would have for the relief of the distressed. The Board limited the applications that could be considered from then on, to those applications in which the eligibility had been established and all preliminary work done with the exception of preparing the titles and closing the loans, as it was unnecessary to incur the expense of appraisals, etc., which would be necessary to deal with loan not having reached that point, and it was manifest that they could be not made with the funds and credit in sight for such purpose.

REGIONAL OFFICES

It seemed desirable for convenience of administration to decentralize the operations by establishing regional offices in convenient centers to administer the matter of making loans and servicing them, and eleven such offices have been set up in the places shown in the attached list, exhibit B, and they are all now in full operation.

OPERATING SPACE

The lack of room to carry on the operations was a great handicap from the start, and as it will be 15 years or more before the same can be concluded; the Board, under power conferred in the law, bought the building in Washington occupied and owned by the Acacia Insurance Co., and now has it in possession and use. It is confidently expected that when the loaning operations are completed it will house all the force that will be required in Washington. In the meanwhile, part of the force is housed in rented space and part in the New Post Office Building. The price paid for the Acacia Building was $1,060,000.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

There is attached a financial statement showing the financial condition of the Corporation as of December 31, 1934, marked "Exhibit C." At that date there have been home loans made of a dollar value of $2,442,769,622.24, and the repayments on such loans had reached the sum of $48,843,935.67, and the remittances were running at the rate of approximately $375,000 a day and were increasing from week to week. The percent of delinquencies is not such as to be cause for concern but the Board is taking steps to go after them in a vigorous but humane way.

PERSONNEL

The personnel of the Corporation has been classified as to the home office, and classification is proceeding rapidly as to the field forces, and as nearly as possible the ratings established by the Civil Service are being applied. At the close of business on December 29, which is the last weekly report for the year, the personnel was as follows:

RECONDITIONING

The act was so amended in 1934 as to allow the Corporation to loan home owners money to recondition the homes, in proper cases, beyond the mere necessary repairs, to make the same more comfortable and habitable under certain limitations. A reconditioning division was set up to handle that work. There were applications for reconditioning loans to the number of 464,836 filed up to December 27, 1934, amounting to $93,000,000. Only 3,077 were for loans on unencumbered property, all the balance being for improvements on property on which the Corporation already had loans, or had applications pending for such loans. Of the applications made since June 1, 1934, the contracts let up to December 27, numbered 185,229 of a dollar value of $32,709,701. Of these contracts $1,230,708 were for modernizing and remodeling; the balance was for repair work only. Contracts have been completed amounting to $20,602,324. This reconditioning financed by the Corporation places in good structural and livable condition properties on which the Corporation has mortgages valued at approximately $500,000,000.

Carpenters, painters, plumbers, and other building-industry craftsmen have benefited directly from this work. It is estimated that approximately $25,000,000 of the cost of this repair work has been paid to labor.

WHOLESALE OPERATIONS

Owing to the large number of banks and other financial institutions that were closed and were being liquidated, there was a tremendous volume of mortgages on homes that were subject to immediate foreclosure in all parts of the country. It was necessary to save the situation as to those cases, to establish what was termed the "wholesale operation."

The fact that a mortgage was held by a closed financial institution raised the presumption that they were subject to foreclosure and hence in distress under the terms of the act, and a separate organization was established to deal directly with that class of mortgages. It was managed by Mr. James Bruce, the financial adviser to the Board, and the organization was very speedily set up and refinanced mortgages to the number of 121,391, and of the dollar value of $344,317,360, and contributed directly to the relief of a very large block of depositors in said closed institutions which enabled them to pay dividends more promptly and relieved also the home owners who were subject to foreclosure and in very great distress.

This operation has been practically completed, there being only a few States now in which it is still in operation, but it did a very large volume of business while it was in operation and extended a very real relief in the situation.

REPORT OF THE FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD ON THE OPERATIONS OF THE FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN INSURANCE CORPORATION

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation was created under title IV of the National Housing Act approved on June 27, 1934. The Corporation is governed by a board of trustees, identical in membership with the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. It has a capital of $100,000,000, subscribed for by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, and paid in full by the transfer of $100,000,000 3-percent bonds of that Corporation. Upon this capital stock the Insurance Corporation is expected to pay a 3-percent dividend.

It is the function of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation to insure the accounts of solvent home financing institutions of the building and loan type, thereby making available to these institutions and their investors protection comparable to that offered commercial banks and their depositors through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, however, insures liquidity; the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation insures solvency. It has authority to insure the accounts of Federal savings and loan associations, and State chartered building and loan associations, savings and loan associations, homestead associations, and cooperative banks. Insurance is compulsory for all Federal savings and loan associations; optional for State chartered institutions.

Every investor, whether individual, partnership, association, or corporation holding a repurchasable (withdrawable) account in an insured institution is protected against the insolvency of the institution to the full repurchasable (withdrawable) value of his total investment up to a maximum amount of $5,000. In the event of the default of the insured institution, an insured member may elect either of two settlements: a new account in an insured institution not in default equal to the amount for which his account was insured, or, repayment of the amount of the insured account, 10 percent immediately in cash and 90 percent in negotiable non-interest-bearing debentures of the Corporation, one-half due in 1 year, and the remainder in 3 years.

The act provides for an annual premium of one-fourth of 1 percent of all accounts held by insured members plus the creditor obligations of the insured institution until such time as a reserve of 5 percent of those items is accumulated in the Corporation. The Corporation is given the power to make an additional assessment in the amount of its expenses and losses, but not to exceed one-fourth of 1 percent per annum. As soon as the 5 percent reserve is accumulated the annual payments will be limited by this latter provision. In short, the Insurance Corporation is a mutual institution, not intended to make a profit, and to which, after the essential reserves have been accumulated, an association will pay only the cost of the operation and maintenance of the common fund. The Corporation has announced that during the first year the payment required would be limited to the one-fourth of 1 percent, which may be paid one-half at the time the insurance is issued and one-half in 6 months.

Immediately after the act was passed, and pursuant to its terms, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board began to set up the organization required, and on July 16, 1934, it met as the trustees of the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation, adopted bylaws, and completed the regular organization of the Corporation. As Federal associations were required to apply, application forms were at once prepared and mailed to them without waiting for the completion of the rules and regulations. At the same time work upon the rules and regulations was begun. Suggestions were invited and received from experienced building and loan men in all parts of the country. These were all carefully considered, and, on September 6, 1934, after many conferences, the rules and regulations were finally adopted, and mailed to all eligible institutions in the United States. Temporary examining committees were set up to analyze the reports coming in, and on Saturday, the 29th day of September, the first 10 institutions were approved by the Board for insurance. In order to give the State-chartered associations a chance to get in applications, announcement of any insured institutions was withheld until October 25, 1934. Toward the end of November, to avoid duplication of effort and expense, the Board established a single examining division, directly under the Board, with a chief examiner in Washington, and a district examiner in each of the 12 regional banks to conduct the examining work of the several agencies under its control. It also gradually built up a single review committee to pass upon all applications for bank membership, Federal charter, or insurance, established similar standards for conversion and insurance, and later required that applications for insurance should be made at the same time as applications for charter or for conversion, and that applications for all three purposes could be made and passed through the committee and the Board at the same time. Because of this arrangement, a comparatively small staff located at Washington is sufficient to administer the affairs of the Insurance Corporation. The Insurance Corporation will, of course, share the expense of the examining division, the review committee and of the other officers or departments of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board whose services it employs. A list of the Corporation's trustees and officers is attached marked "Exhibit A."

OPERATIONS

By December 31, 1934, the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation had been actively approving applications for a period of 3½ months. During this period it received a total of 580 applications and acted upon 496 of them by finally approving for insurance 451, conditionally approving 15, and requiring further examination for 30. The total assets of all applicants was $247,167,352; the total assets of those insured $112,994,489; the insurance premiums for the first year, payable by institutions already insured $261,928; and the total number of accounts insured 200,952.

A statement of the operations of the Corporation, classified according to States and type of institution, whether a Federal savings and loan association, a State-chartered member of the Federal Home Loan Bank system, or a State-chartered nonmember institution, is attached marked "Exhibit B."

A list of the insured institutions by States appears in Exhibit C.

There are two reasons why most of the institutions insured to date are Federal savings and loan associations: First, the blanks were mailed out to the Federal associations before the rules and regulations were completed, and, since the insurance is compulsory for them, they applied immediately. Second, many of the Federal associations are small, all had been examined within a few months, and the process of examination for insurance was consequently much simpler. No preference whatever in examination is extended to Federal associations; all applications are taken up in order, but because of the varying nature and complexity of the problems presented all do not proceed with equal rapidity.

FINANCIAL

The total invested funds of the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation are in 3-percent series A bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. A financial statement as of December 31, 1934, which shows a net income of $1,568,733.27, and a cash balance of $1,130,147.82 is attached, marked "Exhibit D."

It should be noted from exhibit D that certain deductions in the way of charges covering the cost of the examining division, etc., due the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and a dividend to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation have not been made.

There is also attached an income and expense statement as of December 31, 1934, marked "Exhibit E."

PROSPECTS

The insurance of shares in building and loan associations is a novel undertaking. The trustees of the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation had no exact precedents to guide them. It has been their purpose to proceed cautiously in an effort to build a safe and sound institution, which will make secure the savings of the people in the building and loan associations, and by so doing retain and restore the people's confidence in all such thrift and cooperative home financing organizations. Since the institution and plan were new, it has been necessary for the trustees individually to spend much time and effort in explaining the act under which it operates, the work of the Corporation, and its purposes and policies. This educational work has progressed steadily, and the Corporation is now receiving an increasing number of applications. In addition to the 580 associations which had applied for insurance on December 31, 1934, over 200 State-chartered associations, with assets in excess of $220,000,000, had applied for conversion into Federal savings and loan associations. If approved for conversion, these State associations will also be immediately eligible for insurance.

Interest in the insurance of shares is increasing in all parts of the country, particularly where insured institutions are now beginning to operate. Although insurance of shares has been in effect only a little over 2 months, reports from the insured institutions everywhere testify to its immediate success in strengthening public confidence, and redirecting the flow of savings into these thrift institutions.

FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN SYSTEM

PURPOSE

The purpose of the Federal Savings and Loan System is to encourage individual thrift and facilitate home ownership by (1) helping local citizens to establish local, mutual thrift institutions, known as "Federal savings and loan associations", in which they may safely invest their money and from which they may obtain funds for home financing purposes, (2) enabling and assisting eligible State-chartered institutions to convert into Federal Savings and Loan Associations, and (3) regulating and supervising Federal Savings and Loan Associations after they are established.

STRUCTURE

The Federal Savings and Loan System was established by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board as authorized by Public, No. 43, Seventy-third Congress, approved June 13, 1933. Public, No. 178, Seventy-third Congress, approved April 17, 1934, enabled the Board to proceed more actively to extend and develop the system.

The Federal Savings and Loan System operates under the direction and supervision of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. It comprises: (1) The Federal Savings and Loan Division of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, consisting of (a) an office in Washington with 15 employees and (b) 31 field organizers (exhibit E); (2) 12 Federal home-loan banks, which, in addition to other functions, serve as agents of the Board in matters pertaining to the Federal Savings and Loan System; and (3) 639 Federal savings and loan associations (at Dec. 31, 1934) in 40 States and 1 Territory (exhibit D).

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Growth of the Federal Savings and Loan System is evidenced by exhibit A, attached hereto, showing the number of applications for charter and charters issued. Charters were issued to 580 Federal savings and loan associations in 1934, bringing the total number of charters in force at December 31, 1934, to 639. Of the 580 charters issued in 1934, 157 were to institutions converting from State to Federal charter and 423 were to groups organizing new associations in communities not adequately served by local thrift and home financing institutions. Of the total number of Federal savings and loan charters in force at December 31, 1934, 158 were issued to institutions converting from State to Federal jurisdiction and 481 were issued to newly organized associations.

There were 247 applications for charter pending at December 31, 1934. Of this number, 235 were applications from State-chartered institutions to convert into Federal Savings and Loan Associations, representing assets of $250,000,000, and 12 were applications from groups organizing new associations. In addition, permission to organize new associations had been officially granted to 160 groups in that many communities.

Of the 639 chartered Federal Savings and Loan Associations, 567 had completed organization or conversion and commenced business on or before December 31, 1934. A consolidated financial statement of these associations is appended hereto and marked "Exhibit C." The thrift and home financing activities of individual associations are shown in detail by exhibit D.

At December 31, 1934, the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States had subscribed and paid for shares of 313 Federal Savings and Loan Associations, as authorized by section 5 (j) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended. The total amount of such subscription was $10,725,400. Of that amount $635,300 was paid on account of subscriptions to preferred shares; the balance was invested in full-paid income shares.

The accomplishments of the Federal Savings and Loan System during the period covered by this report are measured not alone by the number of associations chartered nor by the current operations of those associations; the chief accomplishment is the benefit accruing to the public through the establishment of a permanent thrift and home financing institution. Federal Savings and Loan Associations are by nature self-perpetuating institutions. They provide local media through which citizens may continue to invest their savings and from which they may from time to time borrow funds for legitimate home financing purposes. Each Federal Savings and Loan Association extends and perpetuates the facilities for an individual approach to financial security and home ownership. The extension of these facilities, through establishment of Federal Savings and Loan Associations, is shown by the attached area map, marked "Exhibit B."

PROBLEMS AND DIFFICULTIES

One of the principal obstacles with which the Federal Savings and Loan System is confronted is the active opposition by the supervisory departments in some States and the lack of specific enabling legislation in others. In a number of States, which do not have legislation enabling eligible institutions to convert from State to Federal charter, the supervising agencies seem to be exerting themselves to block conversion or the establishment of new associations. Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Washington, and West Virginia have legislation under which conversion can go forward. Enabling legislation is now pending before the legislatures of all other States, excepting the New England States, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Virginia. Enactment of proper legislation in these States will greatly facilitate extension of the Federal Savings and Loan System.

Another difficulty is that of establishing Federal savings and loan associations in some communities that appear to be inadequately served by existing thrift and home-financing institutions. In States where supervising agencies actively oppose the Federal Savings and Loan System, this difficulty is frequently manifested in attempts by public officials and interested private individuals to show that no additional home-financing facilities are necessary. In States where supervising agencies do not actively oppose the Federal Savings and Loan System this difficulty often takes the form of local, private opposition, usually by those who are personally interested in an existing institution which, for one reason or another, cannot convert from State to Federal jurisdiction or does not desire to do so. Removal of legal obstacles, enabling eligible institutions to convert into Federal savings and loan associations, will undoubtedly do much to lessen this difficulty and help to solve many of the problems that emanate therefrom.

POLICY AND FUTURE PROGRAM

The policy and future program of the Federal Saving and Loan System are (1) to extend Federal savings and loan facilities to all communities that are not adequately served by domestic thrift and home-financing institutions of the Federal savings and loan type and (2) to so supervise and develop Federal savings and loan associations that they shall not merely function within the provisions of the statutes governing their operation, but that they shall also render adequate thrift and home-financing service.

Many counties in the United States are yet lacking in any sort of domestic home-financing institutions; others are inadequately served. A study is now being made of those counties to the end that Federal savings and loan associations may be established in all communities where there is a need for them and where local conditions are such as to give reasonable assurance that such associations will succeed.

At December 31, 1934, there were 2,528 State-chartered members of the Federal Home Loan Bank System, with combined resources of $3,146,000,000. Pursuant to section 5 (i) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended, and subject to rules and regulations prescribed by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, all of these institutions are eligible to convert into Federal savings and loan associations. Every effort will be made to expedite the conversion of such number of these eligible institutions as exercise their right to do so.
