FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD

THIS REPORT EMBRACES THE FOUR ACTIVITIES DIRECTED BY THE FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD

The economic crisis which began in 1929 resulted in the disclosure of certain inherent fundamental weaknesses in the Nation's home-financing structure. As a result of fear and reduced income the public ceased investing in home-financing institutions, and funds available for such financing almost disappeared. At the same time investors in these institutions, and in particular in those of the savings-and-loan type, withdrew, or endeavored to withdraw, their funds. As these thrift funds were invested in long-term home financing, the associations were unable to meet the demand. To relieve this situation and to prevent its recurrence in the future, Congress in 1932, by the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, created a reservoir of credit from which home-financing institutions might secure funds to meet the reasonable withdrawal requests of their investors and supplement the savings ordinarily received from individual citizens to meet the home-financing needs of their communities. The Federal Home Loan Bank System was thus designed to stabilize and strengthen the agencies promoting private thrift and individual home ownership. It is prepared to extend to private home-financing institutions the same type of credit upon essentially the same terms and conditions as those institutions extend to individual borrowers. The use of that credit as shown in detail in the later pages of this report has been gratifying.

Before the Federal Home Loan Bank System could be set up and begin to function, economic conditions had become such that direct relief for home owners became a necessity. Foreclosures reached unprecedented figures and millions of our citizens were threatened with the loss of their homes. Congress responded to this emergency, in the special session of 1933, by creating the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, with authority to exchange its bonds for the home mortgages of citizens in distress. The extent to which the Home Owners' Loan Corporation has achieved and is achieving the purposes of its creation is shown by the facts and figures presented later in this report.

Briefly, it has helped more than a million families to save their homes. It has contributed materially toward a reversal of the downward trend in real-estate values. It has added to the cash resources of thousands of banks and home-financing institutions by exchanging negotiable bonds for frozen mortgages, and it has helped to revive and strengthen the desire for home ownership throughout the country. In the process of collecting the money lent, a duty placed upon the Corporation by Congress, it has been compelled to foreclose... on many homes, but it must not be forgotten that all of those homes were either already lost under foreclosure or in imminent danger of foreclosure when the Corporation came to the relief of the home owner and gave him more time and opportunity to save his home if possible, and on easier terms than had ever before been available to him. Furthermore, as will appear later, the percentage of foreclosures, when one takes into consideration all the circumstances affecting the making of these loans, is surprisingly small.

When Congress, in 1933, came to consider measures for the relief of distressed home owners, it was also confronted with the almost equally urgent problem of devising ways and means of reviving and perpetuating private-home financing.

Life-insurance companies and savings banks had virtually ceased to make loans for home-financing purposes. Building and loan associations and other similar institutions were not only unable to meet any substantial demand for home-mortgage money, but, because of applications for withdrawal of capital by members and investors, were liquidating as rapidly as their borrowers could pay off their loans. It was obvious that if the American system of private home financing was to be revived as a truly effective instrument of individual home ownership, assistance beyond that afforded by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation must be given these institutions. There were, moreover, about 1,500 counties in the United States which, on June 13, 1933, had no local home-financing institutions whatever. The Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, therefore, authorized the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to organize, incorporate, regulate, and develop local thrift and home-financing institutions to be known as Federal savings and loan associations, and to provide for the conversion into Federal savings and loan associations of State-chartered members of the Federal Home Loan Bank System.

Substantial progress has been made in establishing Federal savings and loan associations. Public response to these institutions, evidenced both by the private capital that they have received, and the home-mortgage loans they have made, fully attests to the wisdom of Congress in creating them.

The financial panic of 1932-33 resulted in general public loss of confidence in financial institutions. Runs by depositors compelled banks, sound and unsound, to close their doors. Demands upon building and loan associations and other home-financing agencies for the withdrawal of private savings was of such magnitude and intensity as to render those institutions temporarily powerless to serve home-financing needs.

This condition, together with the salutary results from insurance of bank deposits in 1933, caused the Congress, in 1934, to create the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation to insure the shares of Federal savings and loan associations, and upon application therefor, investments in such similar State-chartered institutions as could meet the Corporation's requirements.

The results of this insurance, where tried for any length of time, have been to substitute confidence for doubt, investment of new capital for withdrawals, and to assist private thrift and home-financing institutions to resume the financing of homes in their respective communities.
In summary, upon the Federal Home Loan Bank Board rests a large measure of the responsibility of providing adequate home-mortgage credit for the present and future home owners of America.

The total volume of outstanding mortgages on nonfarm homes, housing not more than four families, is roughly estimated as of June 30, 1936, at $17,500,000,000. Of this amount, a little more than one-sixth is held by the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation in refinanced loans which would otherwise have been foreclosed, resulting both in loss to the home owner and in glutting the real-estate market by an accumulation of owned real estate in the hands of mortgage-lending institutions, many of which were already frozen or stagnant.

Exclusive of the $3,000,000,000 of Home Owners’ Loan Corporation loans, the mortgages held by member institutions of the Federal Home Loan Bank System and those eligible for membership in the System constitute approximately 75 percent of the outstanding mortgages held by all institutions on nonfarm homes housing not more than four families.

These institutions are the trustees for the savings of millions of our people and have been responsible in the past for most of the mortgage lending on urban homes. Their record of investment in new and refinanced mortgages during the past year maintains the normal ratio and is chiefly responsible for the recovery that has been made by the building industries.

The extent to which the responsibility placed upon the Board has been thus far discharged is outlined in the following reports of the four agencies subject to the Board’s jurisdiction.
THE FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, consisting of five members, was originally created to organize and direct the Federal Home Loan Bank System. Subsequently, there was placed upon these same men the responsibility of administration of three other activities—the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation, the Federal Savings and Loan System, and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. Three of these four agencies, although born in an emergency and particularly because of it, are intended to be a permanent part of the national home-financing structure. Indeed, through them, Congress has for the first time recognized the vital importance of the housing problem and has created what may now be called a national home-financing system.

The fourth activity was not only emergency in origin and character but intended to be temporary. The Home Owners’ Loan Corporation is specifically, by the very act which created it, “directed to retire and cancel the bonds and stock of the Corporation as rapidly as the resources of the Corporation will permit. All payments upon principal of loans made by the Corporation shall * * * be applied to the retirement of the bonds of the Corporation. Upon the retirement of such stock the reasonable value thereof * * * shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States and the receipts therefor shall be canceled. The Board shall proceed to liquidate the Corporation when its purposes are accomplished, and shall pay any surplus or accumulated funds into the Treasury of the United States.” But the liquidation thus directed by Congress, which is now under way, will in normal course require many years.

In addition to its mortgage operations, the instrumentality of the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation has been employed by Congress for two other purposes; first, to provide the capital of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation and, secondly, to make available to the savings and loan associations in various parts of the country funds for use in long-term home financing. The first of these investments made possible the insurance of shares, designed to reestablish the confidence of investors in institutions of the savings and loan type and to redirect to them the flow of the savings of the people; and the second, the immediate placement in those communities where a demand for funds for long-term financing existed, of the necessary capital not immediately available from the particular community. The first investment will be without expense to the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation, and the second has been and probably will continue to be productive of considerable profit.

All four agencies are united by their common interest in the problem of long-term home financing. The fact that all four are under the administration of a common board has permitted an economy and efficiency of administration that would otherwise not have been possible. This is shown graphically on the organization chart of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board produced upon the opposite page. From that it appears that no less than nine departments serve all four agencies. This, of course, obviates the necessity of such departments in connection with each one. These include, in addition to the Board, which acts for the other activities without any additional compensation, the legal department, the personnel department, the examining division, the review committee, the division of research and statistics (which now includes the mortgagee rehabilitation division), the departments of the financial adviser, the budget officer, the director of public relations, and the secretary, and, to a certain extent, the appraisal department.

The Examining Division, for example, which is described in greater detail later in this report, serves the Federal Home Loan Bank System in analyzing the applications for membership with the accompanying data. It makes the supervisory examinations for the Federal Savings and Loan System. In the case of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, it performs both of the services mentioned, to wit, the analyzing of applications for insurance and the periodical supervisory examination of insured institutions. All of these analyses and examinations and the information collected by the Examining Division are not only available for, but are used by the Board in the consideration of every application for share purchase by the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation. Likewise, the review committee, which analyzes, passes upon, and prepares most routine matters for final Board action, handles applications for membership in the Bank System, applications for new Federal charters, conversion, purchase of assets, transfer of assets, and problems of segregation in connection with the Federal Savings and Loan System, the applications for insurance, or for transfer of assets for the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and the applications for share purchase for the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation. It conducts hearings for the Federal Savings and Loan System and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. It deals with many complicated problems of rehabilitation for all of these activities, and from which all activities benefit.

One of the functions of the Board is supervision, particularly of the Federal savings and loan associations and of the State-chartered associations insured in the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. A slight amount of supervision of the members of the Bank System is also imposed. All of this has been combined and is placed under the Governor of the Bank System and the separate activities are relieved from the necessity of maintaining any supervisory personnel.

Similarly, there is but one general counsel and one legal department serving all activities. Indeed, in performing a particular piece of work, the legal department may actually be serving, at one and the same moment, two or more of the agencies. The same thing may be said of the Director of Public Information. A release prepared for the press may, and frequently does, cover all operations of the Board. The Federal Home Loan Bank Review, whose publication is supervised by this department, carries monthly figures showing the progress of all the Board’s activities and articles of value to all interested in the financing of homes. Also, when the Division of Research and Statistics collects facts concerning home finance in a particular city, or in the country as a whole, and presents its statistics and analysis thereof, it is for the use and benefit of all undertakings supervised by the Board. Further references will be made later to the interrelation of the present work of the Board.

Coordination of home-financing operations is encouraging uniformity of practice in the field. Standardized accounting procedure is being adopted to the mutual advantage of investor, borrower, and institution. Through its various agencies the Board is able to exert a very considerable influence upon other procedure and standards in home financing, as, for instance, in the case of appraisal.

With the exception of funds appropriated to encourage local thrift and local home financing, and to promote, organize, and develop Federal savings and loan associations and similar associations organized under State laws, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board has not operated under any Government appropriation since July 1, 1933, but has been self-sustaining through assessments made against the 12 Federal home-loan banks, the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, the promotion fund referred to, and charges against the associations examined. The following tabulation reflects the receipts and disbursements for the year ending June 30, 1936.

THE LEGAL DEPARTMENT

The work of the Legal Department has been touched upon in other sections of this report. The General Counsel, who heads the Legal Department, is the chief legal adviser of the Board in all its activities and a constant attendant at all Board meetings. On June 30, 1936, there were 1,772 employees in his department, of whom 553 were lawyers. The organization of the Legal Department and its particular functions in connection with the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation are explained in the portions of this report dealing with the operation of those organizations. For the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the Federal Home Loan Bank System, a special division of the Legal Department, under an associate general counsel, furnishes advisory and technical service and handles the small amount of litigation which arises.

THE PERSONNEL DEPARTMENT

The Personnel Department is headed by the Director of Personnel. It handles all pay roll, personnel, and employee problems. It sets up personnel procedure, salary schedules, recommends classification of positions, maintains personnel records, carries on employment and promotional activities, prepares pay rolls, and recommends personnel appointments or changes to administrative officers and the Board. It functions through a home office staff and a personnel department in each of the regional offices. On June 30, 1936, the number of employees in the department numbered 246, of which 110 were connected with the Washington Office. The Department serves all agencies of the Board.

EXAMINING DIVISION

The diverse activities of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board make it desirable to have a single Examining Division to serve all of the agencies. This form of organization is mutually advantageous to the Board itself and to the many institutions subject to examination. From the point of view of the former responsibility is more conveniently centralized, and to the latter more efficient examination is afforded at less cost.

Another step in the development of efficient examination is its separation from supervision. The examiner now operates solely to ascertain facts. He counsels with the executives of an examined institution only on subjects relating to accounting methods. His findings are reviewed by the proper supervisory authorities and the necessary recommendations are made by this group.

The specific duties of the Examining Division may be indicated by the following summarized statement of its activities during the past year:

(a) Annual examination of 894 Federal savings and loan associations and State-chartered institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

(b) Audit of accounts of 115 Federal savings and loan associations.

(c) Analysis of periodical reports of 3,641 members of the Federal Home Loan Bank System, as well as those of nonmember associations insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

(d) Review of independent audits of associations insured by the Insurance Corporation.

(e) Analysis of:

(1) Applications of 497 institutions for membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank System;

(2) Insurance applications of 899 institutions;
(3) Five hundred and sixty applications for conversion into Federal savings and loan associations;
(4) Applications of 1,652 associations for investment in their shares by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation;
(5) Thirty-one applications for the purchase of assets by insured institutions;
(6) Fourteen merger or consolidation applications;
(7) Numerous applications for segregation of assets;
(8) Three hundred and ninety-five applications for share investments by the United States Treasury.

(f) Examinations were conducted of—
(1) Institutions applying for membership in the Bank System;
(2) Two hundred and eighty-seven associations applying for insurance of accounts;
(3) One hundred and fifty-eight associations applying for conversion into Federal savings and loan associations;
(4) Two institutions applying for Home Owners' Loan Corporation investment.

(g) Audits were made of State-chartered savings and loan associations which did not have a satisfactory independent audit or where the association requested the Board to make an audit.

(h) Collateral deposited with the Federal home-loan banks as security for advances was analyzed.

The Examining Division, cooperating with State building and loan supervisors, is preparing forms for joint examinations of insured State savings and loan institutions. Uniform annual-report forms and financial statements have been agreed upon and are in use in a number of States. When a joint examination form is agreed upon one examination of an association will suffice for the building and loan division of the State, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

On June 30, the Division had 106 employees. During the fiscal year, operating expenses for office overhead, travel, subsistence, and salaries were $393,740.11, and cash receipts from examining fees were $331,883.02. At the close of the year, current receipts were approximately equal to current expenses, which ratio, it is anticipated, will continue.

APPRAISAL DEPARTMENT

In addition to the duties and functions regularly carried on by the Appraisal Division for the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, it has also rendered distinct service to the other agencies under the jurisdiction of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. The Division has established minimum qualification standards for appraisal personnel and has reviewed the qualifications of approximately 240 appraisers during the fiscal year 1936 and submitted recommendations for their approval to the Chief Examiner. The Division has endeavored through field contacts to improve the quality of the work performed by fee appraisers approved for service with the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and has held numerous group conferences throughout the country for discussion of appraisal problems and procedure.
Several such meetings were held in Louisiana during the formative period of the Central Appraisal Bureau of New Orleans which is composed only of appraisal personnel who have received approval of the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation.

The Appraisal Division has closely coordinated its work of reviewing valuations in the field with that of the Examining Division as it relates to the examination of assets of those associations desiring to qualify for insurance or investments in their shares by the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation. To assist in this work, a suggested appraisal form and guide were approved and distributed to all member institutions for the optional use of the associations, banks, and appraisers desiring to adopt the procedure.

THE REVIEW COMMITTEE

During the first part of this fiscal year the Review Committee consisted of five members, but during the latter portion the number was reduced to four. The committee acts as an arm of the Board in dealing with all applications for Federal charters, for insurance of shares, for bank membership, for Home Owners’ Loan Corporation investment, for approval of mergers or reorganizations, or sale or purchase of assets. When a request for any action of this character arises the committee examines the docket of the particular association or savings bank or insurance company, gathers all the essential facts, reviews and analyzes them, and prepares a summary of the financial information and a recommendation and a proposed resolution for the Board. It reports to the Board daily, and its assistance permits the intelligent transaction of a large volume of routine and detail business. Its field of service is as broad as the field of Board action.

THE DIVISION OF RESEARCH AND STATISTICS

The Division of Research and Statistics is under the direction of the Director of Research and Statistics. It collects, analyzes, and distributes a mass of information on conditions generally, and in particular cities, affecting home financing. The Division also gathers, studies, and reports to the Board upon the statistics of costs and accomplishments of all the operations under the Board. The Mortgagee Rehabilitation Division, which is treated separately in connection with the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation report, has been consolidated with the Division of Research and Statistics since the end of the fiscal year.

THE DEPARTMENT OF THE FINANCIAL ADVISER

The Financial Adviser supplies the Board with all technical financial advice with reference to the issuance, sale, or purchase, or refunding, or retirement of bonds, and maintains contacts with the United States Treasury, the Federal Reserve banks, and the money markets. He recommends procedures and interest rates on bond issues, supervises any market operations, and protects the interests of the Board, the Bank System, the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation, or the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, as the case may be. He is consulted with reference to the financial operations of the Bank System and by the several home-loan banks on their own financial problems. Investments by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation are made upon his recommendations.

THE DEPARTMENT OF THE BUDGET OFFICER

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation, and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation operate on budgets. It is the function of the Budget officer to see that all the necessary data for the three budgets are collected, set up in proper shape, and duly presented to the Director of the Budget and to the appropriate congressional committees. On all personnel files he certifies to the existence and availability of the necessary funds.

THE DEPARTMENT OF THE DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC RELATIONS

The Director of Public Relations heads a small department which collects, prepares, and gives out to the press and public facts and figures showing the progress of the various portions of the Board’s work. He advises on all problems touching on advertising, and supervises the publishing and editing of the Federal Home Loan Bank Review, which has now entered upon its third year. Approximately 6,000 copies of each edition of the Review are distributed, including one to each member of the Federal Home Loan Bank System. The Review carries the monthly record of the progress of the four agencies under the Board, and in addition publishes many articles on current problems of urban housing and finance.

THE DEPARTMENT OF THE SECRETARY

Because of the interrelation in the work of the organizations under the Board, the position of the Secretary is one demanding executive ability and constant close attention to detail. The members of the Board, acting as the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, as directors of the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation, and as trustees of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, consider many different questions at a single meeting, dealing sometimes with one, sometimes with another, and at times with two or more of these organizations. The Secretary keeps all actions distinct, writes up and indexes the minutes separately of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, of the directors of the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation, and of the trustees of the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation. He must also see that official notice of all actions taken is transmitted to the proper official, department, person, or association. He is official custodian of the Board’s records and seal, and supervises the very large and growing central filing system, the stenographic division, mail and messenger division, telephone switchboards, and emergency rooms. These divisions serve all of the agencies under the Board. During part of the fiscal year he had charge of the very serviceable duplicating division. On June 30, 1936, the employees of the Secretary’s Department numbered 190.
One other enterprise should be mentioned in connection with the general activities of the Bank Board. It is being handled by a deputy manager of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in charge of appraisal and reconditioning. That is the home-building service plan. Although it was not officially adopted by the Board until after the end of the fiscal year 1936, plans were laid and worked out during that period. Briefly, it is designed to enable members of the Federal home-loan banks at their option to offer home builders a positive means of obtaining good design and sound construction through the use of a complete home-building service. This service comprises advice on sound financing by the member institution and technical advice and supervisory facilities supplied by the cooperating architectural groups and experienced technicians. Distinguishing insignia will be provided to differentiate operations under the plan from other home-building programs. The plan operates essentially as a cooperative local service with only such control by the Federal home-loan banks and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board as is necessary to insure that the service offered the home builder is competent and satisfactory. Groups of cooperating architects were organized in a number of cities before the close of the fiscal year and near its end experiments with the plan were conducted in several cities, including Washington, D. C. The results revealed widespread interest in such a plan and exceeded general expectations.
The plan will be further developed and extended during the coming year. The cost of the preparation of the plan to date has been nominal.

PARTICIPATION IN EXHIBITS

Congress by special act authorized participation by Federal organizations in the Texas Centennial Exposition at Dallas, Tex., and the Great Lakes Exposition at Cleveland, Ohio, and made appropriation therefor. Allotments of these appropriations having been made to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, exhibits were prepared under the direction of the Deputy to the General Manager of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation showing the nature and extent of the work of the four agencies under the Board. They were set up at both Expositions and maintained during the entire period.
FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK SYSTEM

The Federal Home Loan Bank System was established to provide local thrift and home-financing institutions with a central reservoir of credit. It is in structure, and in numerous phases of its operation, a counterpart of the Federal Reserve System in the field of commercial banking. The United States, including Puerto Rico and the Territories of Hawaii and Alaska, is divided into 12 districts, with a regional bank in each area. A map showing these divisions appears on the following page.

Under the law, membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank System is open to building and loan associations, savings and loan associations, homestead associations, cooperative banks, savings banks, and insurance companies making long-term home loans, and which desire to apply, and are found to be solvent, well-managed, and engaged in sound and economical home financing. Exhibit 1 is a complete list of the members of the System arranged alphabetically by States and location. The law requires all Federal savings and loan associations to be members of the System. Membership affords many advantages, but the following may be pointed out:

1. Prestige and distinction.—The public already recognizes the advantage of doing business with institutions able to display the symbol of this Federal System. The System requires its members to conform to Nation-wide standards, provides them a reservoir of credit to furnish greater liquidity, and a source of additional funds should necessity require them.

2. Short-term advances.—Where the credit obligations of a member institution (other than advances from a Federal home-loan bank) are less than 5 percent of its net assets, it may receive short-term credit from its regional Federal home-loan bank without collateral. Where its credit obligations are in excess of 5 percent of its net assets, it may still secure the credit but must deposit collateral. Advances of a short-term type are utilized primarily to care for seasonal needs and mature within a year.

3. Long-term advances.—To accommodate members in the financing of their long-term program, advances are customarily made for periods up to a maximum of 10 years, repayable in equal periodical installments over the life of the advance. Home mortgages or Government bonds are assigned as collateral.

The membership of the System has shown continuous growth from its inception. During the past year there was a net increase of 316 members, which was accompanied by an increase in approximate resources of $49,000,000. The following statement of membership for the last 2 years shows this growth as classified according to type of member institutions:

1 In that portion of the report dealing with Federal savings and loan associations, the number of charters outstanding is reported as 1,135. At the date of this report, some 20 newly chartered Federal savings and loan associations were in process of qualifying as members of the Federal Home Loan Bank System.

SUBSCRIPTION TO STOCK OF FEDERAL HOME-LOAN BANKS

The Federal Home Loan Bank Act provides that each member institution must maintain an investment in the stock of the Federal home-loan bank of which it is a member of not less than 1 percent of the unpaid principal of its home mortgages. A borrowing member institution is required to increase that stock investment to an amount not less than one-twelfth of its net advances. As of June 30, the total subscription of member institutions to the capital stock of the 12 Federal home-loan banks was $26,745,700, of which $26,413,025 had been paid in. The difference represents the amount due on subscriptions from members who have been admitted recently and who are permitted under the act to complete their initial subscriptions in installments over a period of 1 year.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Act directed the Secretary of the Treasury to subscribe for the balance of the capital stock in the Federal home-loan bank, not subscribed for within 30 days by the members, in an amount not exceeding $125,000,000. Pursuant to that direction, he did subscribe for a total of $124,741,000. By the terms of the subscription the funds could be called for by the Board as required by the needs of the system, and at the date of this report $99,342,000 had been called, leaving a balance of $25,399,000 still available. The capital-stock structure of the system as of June 30, 1936, may, therefore, be summarized as follows:

When this capital provided by the Treasury is exhausted, the chief present source from which the banks may obtain funds for purpose of home financing is the money market, in which they are by law permitted to sell debentures or bonds. These may be either the obligations of the individual bank or the consolidated obligations of all the banks.

ADVANCES OF THE FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANKS

Net advances to member institutions on June 30, 1936, amounting to $118,586,838, were the highest since the establishment of the System. This is a net increase of $39,354,324 over the $79,232,514 outstanding at the close of the previous fiscal year. Total advances during the year amounted to $78,195,224, repayments to $38,840,900. In slightly less than 4 years advances to member institutions totaled $226,645,106, and repayments $108,058,268. These facts are presented in more detail on exhibit 2, which shows the distribution by States of the advances now outstanding, and in exhibit 3, which shows advances and repayments from the beginning of operations.

The Federal Home Loan Bank System has been of material assistance in reducing the cost of financing to the home owner. As a summarized statement of the rates charged by each district bank (exhibit 4) shows, through funds made available to the member institutions by the banks, they have been able to pass savings along to the individual borrower. The current rates charged by the Federal home-loan banks range from 3 to 3 ¼ percent per annum, most of the banks making long-term loans at 3 percent.

LOANS OF MEMBER INSTITUTIONS

The primary source of funds of the member institutions is in the savings of its local investors. This is apparent in the combined statement of the assets and liabilities of member institutions as of December 31, 1935. (See exhibit 5.)

It is clear from this statement that the great bulk of funds which has been used by the members has come from local sources and has in turn been used for meeting community needs. Out of more than $3,000,000,000 of assets, $2,000,000,000 had been invested in first-mortgage loans, $476,000,000 represented real estate owned, and cash investments consisted of $343,000,000.

As has been stated, membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank System is a means of supplementing funds secured locally. Although the use of the Bank System by its members has been gratifying, and the advances have been mounting rapidly every month since April 1934, the institutions are very far from having exhausted their legal borrowing capacity, which amounted on June 30, 1936, to $956,740,878. This was distributed by bank districts and by States as follows:

FINANCIAL OPERATIONS OF THE FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANKS

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, the gross income of the 12 district banks amounted to $3,893,777.91, of which $3,281,995.74 was interest earned on advances, $483,386.64 interest earned on investments, and the remainder miscellaneous income. Deductions from income consisted of $771,642.13 representing the operating expenses of the 12 banks, $299,999.96 representing the assessments on the banks for the expenses of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the general expenses of the national system, $59,275.75 interest paid on members’ deposits, and $45,247.46 interest paid on interbank deposits, or a total of $1,176,165.30. The net profit of the 12 banks amounted to $2,717,612.61. Of this amount, $543,522.53 was carried to reserves, $2,036,621.16 distributed in dividends, and the remaining $137,468.92 was carried to the unallocated surplus accounts of the banks. Detailed statements of condition and profit and loss reports on a combined basis as well as for each of the 12 district banks are attached to this report as Exhibits 6, 7, and 8. All of the Federal Home Loan Banks paid dividends during the fiscal period of from 1 to 2 percent per annum.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

During the year the Board created and filled the office of Governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank System and assigned to that office the responsibility of supervision of the operation of the 12 Federal home-loan banks and, to such extent as might be required, of the institutions comprising the membership of the System. At the same time the Board charged the Governor with the larger measure of responsibility of supervising the Federal savings and loan associations and the other State-chartered institutions whose accounts are insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. The officers of the Federal home-loan banks were designated as agents of the Board and of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation for such supervision and are responsible to the Governor for all matters relating thereto. This supervision also protects the investment of the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation in the shares of many of these institutions.

The absence of uniform practices and accounting methods among the various types of institutions representing the major portion of the membership of the System has heretofore made it difficult to assemble comparable data with respect to their operations. Supervising authorities in the several States required a great variety of types of reports. Previous reports of this Board have referred to the problem of securing adequate information from members without unduly burdening them. During the past year, as a result of several conferences held by representatives of the Board, the National Association of Building and Loan Supervisors and the accounting division of the United States Building and Loan League, agreement was reached upon a standard report form for reflecting the financial condition of a savings and loan association. The uniform report blank which resulted from these conferences has been adopted by the Board for all of its agencies. All or a substantial portion of the standard report forms are reported to have been adopted by some 30 State supervisory authorities. The Board proposes to continue its cooperative efforts in this direction to improve the operating practices of member institutions through more accurate knowledge of their condition, standards of comparison, and reduction of their accounting burden by means of standardized reporting requirements.

FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ADVISORY COUNCIL

During the year two meetings were held by the Federal Savings and Loan Advisory Council created by Congress under the act of May 28, 1935. This council consists of 1 member elected by each of the 12 boards of directors of the Federal home-loan banks, and 6 members appointed by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. It selects its chairman, vice chairman, and secretary, adopts its own method of procedure, and has power to confer with the Board and the board of trustees of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation on general business conditions and on special conditions affecting the Federal home-loan banks and their members and the Insurance Corporation. It may request information and make recommendations with respect to matters within the jurisdiction of the Board and the trustees of the corporation. At both meetings, many matters of importance to the agencies under the Board’s jurisdiction were discussed and recommendations made thereon.

The officers and membership of the council for the year were as follows:

Mr. I. Friedlander, chairman, ninth district; elected by bank.
Col. Charles B. Robbins, vice chairman, eighth district; appointed by Board.
Mr. H. F. Cellarius, secretary, fifth district; elected by bank.
Mr. B. J. Rothwell, first district; elected by bank.
Mr. Francis V. D. Lloyd (resigned and LeGrand Pellet elected by bank to take his place; Mr. Pellet attended second meeting).
Mr. Eustace Seligman, second district; appointed by Board.
Mr. Ernest T. Trigg, third district; elected by bank.
Mr. E. C. Baltz, fourth district; elected by bank.
Mr. Ivan Allen, fourth district; appointed by Board.
Mr. Harry S. Kissell, fifth district; appointed by Board.
Mr. F. S. Cannon, sixth district; elected by bank.
Mr. Morton Bodfish, seventh district; elected by bank.
Mr. Henry G. Zander, seventh district; appointed by Board.
Mr. H. R. Hanger, eighth district; elected by bank.
Mr. Charles W. Thompson, tenth district; elected by bank.
Mr. Frank S. McWilliams, eleventh district; elected by bank.
Mr. Ralph H. Cake, eleventh district; appointed by Board.
Mr. C. H. Wade, twelfth district; elected by bank.

BANK PRESIDENTS' COUNCIL

The bank presidents' council, created by resolution of the Board, and consisting of the executive heads of the 12 Federal home-loan banks, also held two meetings during this fiscal period. It, too, gave careful consideration to various problems which had arisen in the field or which were referred to it by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board for discussion. Its particular attention was directed to the detailed administration of the bank system and a discussion of the plans for supervision to be carried out by the officers of the banks. Each session resulted in recommendations to the Board.

In slightly less than 4 years the Federal Home Loan Bank System has made substantial progress toward its objectives, and has gathered around it a majority of the vigorous active associations of the savings and loan type. For these associations it provides a reservoir of credit and acts as a stabilizer, which activities should be effective in preventing or materially reducing the effects of any future depression. A major problem, still unsolved, is to so build up the System as to attract a larger membership among the savings banks and the insurance companies engaged in long-term home financing.
SAVINGS AND LOAN DIVISION

AUTHORIZATION

The Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended, authorized the Board—

To encourage local thrift and local home financing, and to promote, organize, and develop associations herein provided for, or similar associations organized under local laws. * * * The sums appropriated and made available pursuant to this section shall be used impartially in the promotion and development of local thrift and home-financing institutions, whether State or federally chartered.

CREATION OF THE DIVISION

In 1933, when the Federal Home Loan Bank Board first undertook the responsibility imposed by that portion of the Home Owners' Loan Act which authorized the chartering of Federal savings and loan associations, it created the Federal Savings and Loan Division. This Division was responsible to the Board for the field promotional work, services in connection with the Treasury investments made in the shares of the Federal associations, and the supervision of the associations so chartered by the Board. During the current year, due to the rapid growth, both in number and assets, of the Federal savings and loan associations, and the need for more coordinated supervision through the Federal Home Loan Bank System, this supervision work was transferred to the office of the Governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank System.

Additional need developed, however, for service in the field in connection with the insurance of accounts by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and, as a result, all of the promotional field activities in connection with the Board's program were concentrated in this division, and the name changed to Savings and Loan Division. This action was taken by Board resolution, November 8, 1935, directing the Savings and Loan Division to perform all of the duties resting upon the Board in connection with:

Field services in connection with the organization of new Federal savings and loan associations.

Field services in connection with the conversion of existing thrift associations.

Field services in connection with insurance of accounts by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

Field services and supervision in connection with the purchase of securities in savings and loan associations by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, under section 4 (n) of the Home Owners' Loan Act.

WORK OF THE DIVISION

The function of the Savings and Loan Division under the resolution just referred to is to present to the officers and the boards of directors of thrift and home-financing institutions the various facilities offered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to promote their welfare and to enhance the service they render their respective communities. This activity is carried on principally through personal contact by the Division staff of field representatives. During the past year calls were made by these representatives on savings and loan executives in approximately 350 cities and towns per month. Each call was primarily for the purpose of explaining what membership in the bank system means and how it is obtained, or how accounts of members may be insured, or how a State institution may convert to a Federal charter, or how, through capital investments by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in the association to supplement the local savings, the home-financing needs of the particular community may be cared for. The field representatives are also charged with the responsibility of initiating the organization of Federal savings and loan associations in communities not now adequately served by home-financing institutions. The responsibility of the Division, however, and its active assistance does not cease until an association has completed all the various steps leading to organization and enters upon its proposed program.

Under the direction of Congress, contained in the provision of the Home Owners' Loan Act referred to, the Division has taken a prominent part in rehabilitation programs for those local thrift and home-financing institutions which were unable to qualify under the Board's standards of eligibility for insurance or conversion. These programs included financial and corporate reorganizations, write-downs, and, in many cases, segregation of the sound and liquid assets from the so-called frozen assets of an association, the former being used as the initial capital of a new, live, and going institution and the latter left subject to gradual liquidation. In such a segregation, the existing shareholders receive shares in the going institution and shares or certificates in the liquidating corporation or trusteeship, which together equal their present share holdings. Such an arrangement does not destroy any existing values, permits the employment of the sound assets in the normal operation of a savings and loan association, and offers the shareholder the possibility of recouping his losses through the recovery in value of the real estate and other frozen assets. The State authorities in a great many of the States are giving their full cooperation to this work. Since, however, rehabilitation is most needed in the four or five States where we find the greatest concentration of savings and loan associations, and the programs there are either not yet started or just begun, there is still a great amount of work which this Division could do. The Home Loan Bank Board believes that this rehabilitation should proceed as rapidly as possible but it has at present no funds which it may expend for this special purpose, except the very small balance remaining in the original promotion fund provided for this Division.

RESULTS OBTAINED

A. Charters to new organizations.—Charters granted during the period covered by this report to newly organized groups in territories not adequately served by local thrift and home-financing institutions total 102, bringing the number of new charters granted by the Board to 637.

B. Charters by conversion.—The benefits available through the Federal savings and loan charter continue to attract the State-chartered thrift associations, and resulted in more Federal charters being granted during this fiscal year to existing State associations than to new organizations. The number of charters obtained through conversion during the period was 223, bringing the total number of conversion charters to 498. One of the interesting developments has been the comparatively large number of the bigger associations seeking the benefits of a Federal charter.

The table on the following page gives the details with reference to the applications for issuance of charters by months for the fiscal year.

C. Insurance of accounts.—The progress of insurance of accounts is shown at length in the report on the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. The following figures show the results thus far with associations retaining State charters, in the insurance of which this Division played a part:

D. Home Owners’ Loan Corporation investments.—Practically all States have now provided the necessary legal authority for investment by the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation in their mutual thrift institutions, and such investment has played and is playing a most important part in the rehabilitation of the industry and in the recovery of general business, particularly in the building trades. The increased lending activity of the home-financing institutions is due in no small measure to the funds made available through this program of investment. The $49,300,000, which was made available to the Treasury for the purchase of shares in the Federal savings and loan associations only, was exhausted on September 19, 1935. Since then all purchases have been made by the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation, and the extent to which the member and insured institutions are making increased use of these funds, is apparent in the following table:

It should be stressed that these purchases of the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation are investments in the true sense of the word. The Corporation earns on these funds exactly the same rate of dividend as does any individual shareholder in these institutions, the average annual rate of dividends received to date being 3 3/4 percent. In making the investment, the Corporation has bound itself not to ask for the withdrawal of any of these funds for a period of 5 years from date of purchase and then at a rate not exceeding 10 percent per year.

A table of share investments by States is attached: Exhibit 9.
ENABLING LEGISLATION

By the end of the fiscal year, 40 States had enacted legislation enabling State-chartered institutions to convert to Federal charter. Associations in all but three States were permitted to avail themselves of the benefits of share insurance through the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. Unfortunately, the thrift associations in these three States represent a very sizable percentage of the total assets of all such institutions in the country.

PERSONNEL

Due to the change in the divisional activities during the fiscal year, the number of employees in the Washington office has been reduced from 21 to 8 and the number of field representatives from 32 to 21. The entire personnel is employed by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and functions under its direction.

FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN SYSTEM

Federal savings and loan associations are local, mutual thrift and home-financing institutions, operating under charters issued by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, pursuant to the provision of section 5 of the Home Owners' Loan Act. Under the terms of the statute, the Board is authorized "to provide for the organization, incorporation, examination, operation, and regulation of associations to be known as 'Federal savings and loan associations', and to issue charters therefor, giving primary consideration to the best practices of local mutual thrift and home-financing institutions of the United States." The law further provides that each Federal savings and loan association shall become a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank System, and shall insure its accounts through the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

To encourage the development of Federal savings and loan associations and to provide more adequately for the financing of homes, both the Secretary of the Treasury and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation have been authorized to make investments in these associations. The Treasury investment was limited to $50,000,000 and confined to Federal associations; the Home Owners' Loan Corporation to $300,000,000 in both Federal and such State-chartered associations as were members of the bank system. Total investments in Federal Associations under these two appropriations are set forth in the following summary:

On June 30, 1936, there were 1,135 Federal savings and loan associations in operation; June 30, 1935, there were 851 associations. Of the net increase of 284 charters outstanding, 201 arose from the conversion of State-chartered institutions and 83 were new associations.

From June 30, 1935, to June 30, 1936, the total number of shareholders of Federal associations increased from 313,576 to 625,853; the assets of Federal associations from $265,499,189 to $657,534,365; private investments from $183,823,442 to $432,621,241; the United States Treasury and Home Owners' Loan Corporation investment from $30,606,300 to $102,040,100; Federal home-loan bank advances $15,184,140 to $44,110,502; and mortgage loans outstanding from

$186,002,814 to $474,519,057. Exhibit 10, attached hereto, shows these items by States.

The mortgage-lending activity of the Federal savings and loan associations has been marked. In the year's time they have made total advances of $165,362,751, of which $48,167,456 was for new construction, $36,610,456 for the purchase of homes, $56,836,868 for refinancing, not including the refinancing of mortgages held by the associations, and $16,484,352 for other purposes. The details of these advances by States is shown in exhibit 11, attached.

The total dividend disbursement of Federal savings and loan associations for the 6-month period ending December 31, 1935, amounted to $7,202,368, the average annual rate being 3.77 percent. For the 6-month period ending June 30, 1936, the dividend disbursement amounted to $8,263,903, at an average annual rate of 3.77 percent.

During the year the Board placed upon the Governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank System the responsibility for the supervision of all Federal savings and loan associations. To decentralize that supervision, the Board designated the officers of the Federal home-loan banks as its agents, subject to the instructions of the Governor. The benefits to the institutions are obvious. The supervisory contacts of a Federal savings and loan association are with its own Federal home-loan bank, which is also the regional agent of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. One filing of a report and a single examination serve three purposes. One contact between the association and officers of its bank provides the opportunity for an intimate understanding of its problems and leads to efficiency in supervision through a consistent viewpoint and rulings.

The importance and accomplishments of the Federal Savings and Loan System cannot be shown entirely by figures. The influence of the activity of the Federal associations and of their modernized lending plans and practices, particularly the direct-reduction loan, have had an enormous influence upon the whole savings and loan industry. Although it is impossible to state accurately the extent of this influence, it is well within the facts to say that literally thousands of building and loan associations which formerly operated upon the share-account sinking-fund plan have changed over in whole or in part to the fairer direct-reduction plan. It is also true that great numbers of them have discarded the fines and forfeitures and vexatious charges of the past. Concisely stated, the establishment of the Federal system and its rapid progress has forced changes in building and loan practice and procedure of greater moment and wider extent in the period of 4 years than has occurred in several previous decades in savings and loan history. It seems likely that the coming year will see the establishment of fewer new Federals, but the program of conversions from State-chartered institutions gives prospect of continuing in considerable volume.

Exhibit 1 shows a complete list of Federal associations in italics, arranged alphabetically by States and location.
THE HOME OWNERS' LOAN CORPORATION

The Home Owners' Loan Act, approved June 13, 1933, authorized and directed the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to organize the Home Owners' Loan Corporation with capital stock of $200,000,000, to be subscribed by the Secretary of the Treasury on behalf of the United States Government. It further authorized the Corporation to exchange its bonds, in an amount not to exceed $2,000,000,000, for first mortgages on urban homes.

Subsequent amendments to the original act increased the extent and scope of the Corporation's activities by authorizing the issuance of bonds in a total not exceeding $4,750,000,000, of which $400,000,000 could be used to finance necessary repairs and reconditioning of homes securing the Corporation's loans, and $300,000,000 for investment in shares and deposits in qualified home-financing institutions or for the purchase of obligations of the Federal home-loan banks. The Corporation was also directed to transfer $100,000,000 of its bonds in payment for the capital stock of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

LOANS TO HOME OWNERS

Eligibility.—Under the terms of the Home Owners' Loan Act, the Corporation's authority to exchange its bonds was limited to a period of 3 years from date of the act, and to mortgages or other obligations or liens secured by urban homes where the instruments evidencing these encumbrances were recorded or filed in the proper office, or executed prior to the date of the act. It included, however, the sale of bonds and the making of cash loans under certain conditions, and the use of bonds for the redemption of homes lost by foreclosure or by voluntary surrender within 2 years prior to the date of redemption.

The original act was amended on April 27, 1934, by further restricting the loans to applicants in involuntary default on June 13, 1933, who were unable to carry or refund their existing mortgage indebtedness. The limitation of date was inoperative if it were specifically shown to the satisfaction of the Corporation that a default after such date was due to unemployment or to economic conditions or misfortune beyond the control of the applicant; and the requirement of inability to carry or refund was inapplicable if the mortgages or liens were held by an institution in liquidation. At the same time the authority of the Corporation to redeem from foreclosure, or voluntary surrender by deed, was extended to all owners who had lost their homes in such fashion subsequent to January 1, 1930. Later, by the Act to Provide Additional Home-Mortgage Relief, approved May 28, 1935, the preference given mortgages held by institutions in liquidation was withdrawn and inability to carry or refund on the part of the mortgagor became a universal requirement.

Loan limits.—Loans by the Corporation were limited to 80 percent of the Corporation's appraisal of the property and could not exceed $14,000 in any case. By regulation of the Corporation, a mortgage or lien subordinate to the Corporation's mortgage might be taken at the time of the closing of the loan if it did not exceed the difference between the amount of the Corporation's loan and the Corporation's appraised value of the property. The security for the loans was restricted to real estate upon which there was located a dwelling or dwellings for not more than four families and which was used in whole or in part by the owner as his home, or held by him as his homestead, and which had a value of not to exceed $20,000 as appraised by the Corporation.

Terms and interest rate.—The original act granted the home owner the option of making no payment of principal for a period of 3 years from the date of the act, if he were not in default with respect to any other condition or covenant of his mortgage. This privilege was withdrawn on loans closed subsequent to the enactment of the Act to Guarantee the Bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, April 27, 1934. The moratorium, which was claimed by practically all of the borrowers prior to the amendment referred to, expired on June 13, 1936, and, consequently, at the end of the fiscal period being reported upon, all borrowers were being billed for full amortization payments. Although the act permitted the making of cash loans under certain conditions, comparatively few were made. Most of the Corporation's loans, therefore, bear 5 percent interest and are repayable in cash or in bonds of the Corporation in equal monthly installments of $7.91 per $1,000 of original loan for a period of 15 years. Some, but comparatively few, as originally made, run for a lesser period. All loans where the moratorium privilege was exercised have been reamortized over a 12-year period which, with interest, requires a normal payment of $9.25 per $1,000 of original face amount of the loan.

Types of financial assistance provided.—In addition to the amounts called for by the obligations to be refinanced, the Corporation was permitted to provide, and generally did provide, sufficient funds to pay delinquent taxes and assessments, pay for necessary repairs, and meet the incidental expenses of the refinancing.

Home Owners' Loan Corporation assistance noncompetitive.—As pointed out previously, under the act as amended on April 27, 1935, no applicant was eligible for a loan who could secure the necessary financial assistance elsewhere. After that amendment the Corporation consistently followed the policy laid down by Congress and declined to refinance mortgages where the borrowers could refinance through private institutions, or individuals, or other established governmental agencies.

Loan applications.—Between June and September 1933 more than 400,000 applications, totaling $1,194,866,000, were received in the various State and district offices which had been established up to that time. By the spring of 1934 the applications were coming in at a rate exceeding 35,000 per week. This rate declined during the year to approximately 6,000 per week in November. By that time, however, a total of 1,750,000 applications amounting to $5,500,000, had been filed, and, as it was apparent that the making of such of these as were eligible would more than exhaust the Corporation's available resources, the acceptance of applications was suspended on November 13, 1934, and no further applications were received.
until after the act of May 28, 1935, by which Congress increased the total bonding authority of the Corporation to $4,750,000,000. In that act Congress specifically limited the acceptance of further applications by the Corporation to a period of 30 days, which ended June 27, 1935. During that period approximately 135,000 additional applications were made, much less than had been expected, but increasing the grand total of applications permitted to be filed to 1,885,000, for a total sum of $6,173,000,000. The average application thus amounted to approximately $3,282.

Loan-closing operations.—In order to take care of this flood of applications the Corporation opened offices in 48 States, the District of Columbia, and the Territories of Hawaii and Puerto Rico. To permit early action, regulations governing the procedure were originally issued in bulletin form to the field offices. As soon as possible uniform standards and policies were adopted and introduced. The first manual of loan procedure was issued in the spring of 1934 and has been subsequently revised from time to time in the light of experience.

Appraisals.—The Corporation’s appraisal procedure was based upon a formula which gave equal weight to:

1. The market value at the time of the appraisal.
2. The cost of a similar plot of land at the time of the appraisal, plus the reproduction cost of the building, less depreciation.
3. The value of the premises, arrived at by capitalizing the reasonable monthly rental value of the premises over a period of 10 years immediately preceding the date of appraisal.

The training of appraisal personnel, and examination and rating of applicants for appraisal work, proceeded continuously during the entire 3 years of the Corporation’s lending program. At that time approximately 4,000 appraisers were qualified by the Corporation; some 1,300 were used in salary appraisal work, and 2,700 for fee assignments.

Reconditioning.—As has been previously stated, the Corporation was authorized to include in its cash advances funds with which to make repairs necessary for the preservation of the property, and such repairs were generally made a condition precedent to the refinancing of the mortgages. By the terms of the Act to Guarantee the Bonds of the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation, the authority to make advances was broadened to include sums for rehabilitation, modernization, rebuilding, and enlargement of the homes financed. Approximately 675,000 applications for reconditioning were received prior to loan closing on June 12, 1936. A preliminary inspection was made in practically every case; by June 30, 1936, 478,000 applications had been approved by the loan committee, and nearly 360,000 contracts had been awarded for a total of more than $70,000,000. At the close of the fiscal year, approximately 330,000 jobs had been completed and approved. A complete summary of reconditioning operations, with cumulative totals for the country as a whole and by districts, regions, and States, appears in exhibit 12.

Bonds issued, retired, and outstanding.—To June 30, 1936, Home Owners’ Loan Corporation bonds, including refunding issues and commitments, had been issued in the amount of $3,742,024,925. Of this amount, $626,020,050 was issued for refunding purposes. The principal item consisted of 4-percent bonds, issued in the early stages of the Corporation's operations, which were guaranteed by the United States as to interest only. After the passage of the Act to Guarantee the Bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, extending the guarantee to include principal, these 4 percent bonds were called for redemption. At the end of the fiscal period reported upon, there were still outstanding bonds of this issue in the face amount of $3,419,675. In addition to the bonds retired by refunding, bonds in the additional amount of $67,635,325 have been retired either through repurchase or through acceptance in repayment of loans. This left a net liability for bonds and commitments outstanding of $3,048,369,550. A statement showing the coupon dates of these bonds, the coupon rate, the callable date, maturity date, the total amount of each issue, the amount refunded and retired, and the balance outstanding, is set forth in exhibit 13.

In addition to bonds exchanged for mortgages and for the purchase of the capital stock of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, it was necessary for the Home Owners' Loan Corporation to sell bonds totaling $327,767,825, the proceeds of which were used for the various other purposes authorized by the Home Owners' Loan Act.

Under the provisions of the act, all payments made by borrowers on principal of the loans held by the Corporation must be applied to the retirement of bonds and cannot be used for any other purpose. Through June 30, 1936, principal payments, including the estimated distribution of unallocated cash on hand as of that date, totaled $121,593,940.

MANAGEMENT

The administration of the Home Owners' Loan Act is vested in the board of directors of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. These are identical with the members of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. The directors select officials of the Corporation and adopt such bylaws, rules, and regulations as are deemed necessary for the accomplishment of the purposes of the act.

On June 30, 1936, the principal officials of the Corporation consisted of the general manager, auditor, comptroller, general counsel, secretary, treasurer, and their deputies or assistants. These officials, through their Washington, regional, and State and district office staffs, are responsible for the operation of the Corporation under policies and regulations prescribed by the board of directors.

SERVICING AND COLLECTION OF LOANS

Establishment of regional offices.—During the first months of operation all supervisory activities were conducted from Washington, and all accounting and treasury records were maintained in the Corporation's home office. As the business grew by leaps and bounds, physical limitations on available office space in Washington, as well as economy of time and effort and efficiency in operation, compelled a decentralization of administration. Accordingly, in the early part of 1934, the United States was divided for administrative purposes into 11 regions, and as rapidly as possible regional office organizations were recruited and established in the most convenient locations in the districts. A map showing the regions established appears on the opposite page. Since the establishment of regional offices all individual loan records have been maintained in their respective regional offices, and the administrative control of the Corporation's local activities has been delegated to regional managers and their staffs. The home office management and technical staff see that the general policies promulgated by the Board are carried out, provide technical assistance to the regional offices, and exercise general administrative control over their activities.

Collections from borrowers.—On June 30, 1936, the borrowers had been billed for a total amount of $446,184,887, representing $186,386,933 of matured principal installments and $259,797,954 of matured interest on loans and advances. Repayments of $330,448,119 had been made, of which $121,593,940 was applicable to principal and $208,854,179 to interest (including the estimated distribution of unposted borrowers' payments on hand June 30). These collections represent 74 percent of the total amount of matured principal and interest.

Loan service division.—The collection and servicing efforts during the loan-closing period consisted largely of direct correspondence between Washington and mortgagors throughout the country. After the establishment of the regional offices, steps were taken in each region to organize a loan servicing procedure adaptable to conditions in that region. Various systems were tried out. As a result of the experience under them, a uniform procedure was developed and incorporated into the Corporation's Manual of Rules and Regulations. At this time a loan service division was established for the purpose of administering this procedure throughout the Nation. As rapidly as field offices could be provided with loan servicing personnel and equipment, the uniform procedure was put into operation. All delinquent borrowers were contacted by representatives of the division to determine the causes of default and possible remedies therefor, and individual records were established in the regional and in the district offices. At the end of June 1936 the loan service division had a total of 5,000 employees. The personnel was distributed as follows: 9 in the home office, 1,235 in the 11 regional offices, and 3,756 in the 313 field offices.

Property management.—The property management division is charged with the protection of the Corporation's interests in acquired properties and properties in process of acquisition. Its primary function is to liquidate owned properties as rapidly as possible without, however, interfering with recovery in the real estate market. Pending sale, these properties are managed in accordance with sound real estate practices. Wherever it is practical to do so, the Corporation utilizes the services of responsible real estate brokers.

Immediately preceding the acquisition of any property, a thorough analysis is made of it for the purpose of determining its proper disposition. A reconditioning inspection is made in order to ascertain the extent of reconditioning required to put the property in condition to invite sale or rental. A reappraisal report is obtained to establish the present market value and sales possibilities. Based on these field reports and on recommendations of the district or State office, a decision is reached as to the amount of reconditioning work to be performed, and whether the property is to be offered for immediate sale or is to be rented, awaiting a more favorable sales market. As of June 30, 1936, 28,675 properties were under the jurisdiction of the division, of which 5,133 were owned by the Corporation and the balance were in process of acquisition. (See Exhibit 14.)

Addition to home office building.—Reference has been previously made to the lack of available office space in Washington during the year 1934. This forced the Corporation to purchase a building for its own use. (See second annual report, p. 82.) In spite of the relief afforded by the new building, however, a rapid increase of the Corporation's business compelled it to continue the rental of additional space in the Standard Oil Building and to retain the offices occupied by its executives on the seventh floor of the New Post Office Building. The inconvenience and lost time due to this separation of the departments and employees of the Corporation led to the decision to construct an addition to what had been known as the HOLC Building for the purpose of housing in one structure the entire Washington organization of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and the allied activities under the control of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

With the approval of the President, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, by resolution on October 18, 1935, formally authorized the Home Owners' Loan Corporation to turn the necessary funds over to the procurement division of the Treasury Department. It was stipulated, however, that while the preparation of plans and the construction of the building were to be handled by the procurement division, the general direction of the work was to be carried on by the Deputy to the General Manager of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

Decision was made to construct a 10 story and basement addition, having a ground floor area of 13,000 square feet and an estimated cubic content of 1,641,000 cubic feet, the exterior of the building to harmonize with the existing structure. Preliminary drawings were approved on February 26, 1936, and the working plans and specifications were completed in April. Bids were taken thereon and the general contract was awarded to James Stewart & Co. on May 21, 1936, in the amount of $1,446,700. Additional contracts awarded separately amounted to $128,202, bringing the total cost as of June 30, 1936, to $1,574,902.

Excavation began on the morning of May 27, 1936, and the first concrete foundations were poured on June 16. The contract calls for the completion of the work within 300 calendar days from May 21, 1936. Construction progress schedules have been prepared for checking and expediting the progress of the work so that it may be completed within the time stipulated.

COMPTROLLER'S DIVISION

Organization.—The Comptroller is responsible for maintaining all accounting and financial records, and is custodian of the Corporation's assets. The Comptroller's organization consists of four sections, namely: accounting, treasury, insurance, and purchase and supply.

Originally, the Comptroller's functions were centralized in the home office. Arrangements for decentralization to the 11 regional offices were started with the organization of the Boston Regional Office in June 1934. By the end of the year, regional accounting, treasury, and insurance sections had been established in all regions. The purchasing section was retained in Washington to permit more economical purchase and use of equipment and supplies than would be possible on a decentralized basis.

Accounting section.—The regional accounting sections maintain complete records of all transactions affecting borrowers' accounts with the Corporation. Standard uniform reports are submitted by all regional offices to the home office, for consolidation into the Corporation's general books.

A staff of field representatives, under the direction of the Controller, maintains personal contact with regional offices, establishes uniform procedure, and provides supervision and assistance for regional accounting sections.

The accounts maintained in regional offices are subject to examination by the Auditor of the Corporation, and current transactions are verified by his staff.

With the completion of loan-closing operations, in June 1936, the accounting section was relieved of the burden of establishing new loan accounts and is now studying means for maintaining more adequate control of functional costs of operation, and more detailed analyses of the Corporation's financial condition.

Treasury's section.—Custodianship of mortgage-loan dockets, the receipt of Corporation funds, and the disbursing activities of the Corporation are under the supervision of the Treasurer.

To assist borrowers in making payments on their loans, the Corporation on June 30, 1936, had 195 collection offices throughout the country, to receive and transmit payments to the regional offices.

Insurance section.—The protection of the Corporation's home-mortgage investment against fire, wind, and other hazards is under the supervision of the insurance section. It is one of the duties of this section to see that the insurance requirements of the Corporation are consistent with the provisions of the laws of the several States and conform to the various types of insurance coverage and contracts required by local conditions.

At the time the loans were made, the Corporation required insurance, but permitted the borrower to arrange for the purchase of insurance through local agents, and in case he was unable to pay the initial premium, it was included in the original loan. In order that the Corporation might have complete protection, it also secured a contract protecting it against errors and omissions.

Following out the policy of the Corporation not to interfere with local insurance practices, or the rights of borrowers to secure through local insurance agents insurance necessary to meet the Corporation's requirements, it has participated in the adjustment of insurance losses only where it finds that an equitable adjustment is not being made and the interests of the Corporation are not fully protected.

As of June 30, 1936, this section was servicing approximately 2,500,000 insurance policies. All of these have been examined to determine that they meet the requirements of the Corporation and to make certain that nonstandard clauses and conditions, which might defeat recovery or prevent an equitable adjustment in the case of loss, are not incorporated therein. Through a careful and consistent follow-up of policies which are about to lapse, the number of premiums which it has been necessary for the Corporation to advance on behalf of borrowers has been reduced from approximately 50 percent in 1934 to 10 percent in 1936. To the end of the fiscal year there had been 57,629 losses for a total of over $6,500,000. These losses, except in a few cases, were fully covered by the policies, and promptly paid by the insurance companies.

_Purchase and supply section._—At the outset of the Corporation's activities the immediate need for the speedy organization of State and district offices made it necessary that many purchases of equipment and supplies be made from local dealers by the local officials. A large amount of equipment was also borrowed from other Government agencies, National, State, and municipal.

Since 1934, however, all purchases, except inconsequential items or supplies required to meet local emergencies, have been made through the purchase and supply section of the home office. By this means the Corporation has been able to take full advantage of economies made possible by large orders of standard supplies and equipment which could not have been realized if the purchases had been made in small quantities through local dealers.

The purchase and supply section maintains an inventory of the nonexpendable equipment in all the offices of the Corporation. With the cessation of lending operations, which resulted in the closing of some offices and reductions in others, many and frequent changes in this inventory are necessary. The curtailment of operations also resulted in the accumulation of surplus equipment, which the purchase and supply section is now liquidating as rapidly as possible. Rented and borrowed equipment is being replaced from the surplus equipment and such as is not in use, or that there is no reasonable prospect of using, is being sold. A considerable stock of standard supplies and equipment is maintained in the home office and shipped to the various regional offices upon requisition.

LEGAL DEPARTMENT

The nature of the business conducted by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation necessarily requires an unusual amount of legal work. The services of the General Counsel to the other agencies of the Board have been described in a previous portion of this report, but the more complicated nature of the service which he and his department perform for the Home Owners' Loan Corporation requires a more detailed statement here.

_Organization._—With particular reference to the work of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the legal department is organized in three divisions—advisory, litigation, and servicing.

_Advisory._—In addition to the legal advice to the board of directors, the advisory division deals with all legal problems in the internal operation of the Corporation, including advice in connection with bond issues or retirements and negotiations with Treasury officials; advice to the auditing department, including matters growing out of the exceptions in the auditing reports; advice to the accounting section, covering also many miscellaneous problems in connection with credits and fire-insurance losses.

The division contains a briefs section, which is provided with a library, briefs many questions, and reviews briefs made by the legal departments in the field.
A regulations section drafts rules and regulations as instructed by the Board, or as requested by departments, and negotiates with the executives and the board of directors in connection with them.

Litigation division.—The litigation division supervises, through a general litigation section, all litigation except foreclosure actions. During the fiscal year this involved the handling of 3,780 lawsuits, in 296 of which the Corporation was plaintiff.

The increasing number of foreclosures required the organization, during the year, of a special foreclosure section. Only a few foreclosures had been authorized, however, prior to June 30, 1936.

As the Corporation has adopted the policy of carrying its own fidelity, casualty, and public liability risks, the litigation division maintains a claims section to handle all claims of such character, as well as all claims filed with the United States Employees' Compensation Commission on behalf of employees.

From the early days of the Corporation, an investigation section has been maintained in the litigation division to investigate all alleged violations of criminal statutes in any way connected with the operation of the Corporation. More than 4,000 such cases were referred to the section during the fiscal year, of which 1,126 were pending at its close. After investigation of the charges by this section, appropriate administrative action is taken, and if it appears in any case that there has been willful violation of the criminal statutes, such case is referred for prosecution to the Attorney General of the United States and to the United States district attorney in the proper district.

Servicing division.—Between June 30, 1935, and June 30, 1936, the servicing division of the legal department, through its examining section, supervised the closing of 137,795 loans, and through its reconditioning section, the award of approximately 110,000 contracts of reconditioning. These latter involved approximately $25,000,000, and the clearance of all laborers', mechanics', and material men's liens.

Through the tax section of the servicing division, an accurate record is maintained with reference to the tax status of every piece of property, somewhat over a million, upon which the Corporation holds a lien, or which it owns. The size and complexity of the task can be better appreciated if one recalls that, on the average, every piece of property is subject to taxation by five governmental units.

It is also the function of the tax section to authorize the payment of taxes on account of the borrowers, where necessary to protect the lien of the Corporation. In the performance of this duty it saw to the payment of approximately $1,500,000 in taxes during this fiscal period. It performs the same service with reference to acquired properties. The amount of taxes on these paid for the period was $900,000.

As previously indicated, the fiscal year covered by this report saw the establishment of loan servicing and property management. This required the creation of a loan service section and a property service section, to give advice to, and perform such legal duties as would be required by, these vital operating divisions.

All sections of the legal department which have been referred to generally have corresponding sections in the regional offices. The regional staff in turn supervises the handling of legal matters in the States by the State counsel and his staff. The salaried staff of attorneys in the Washington, regional, State, and Territorial offices on June 30, 1935, consisted of 939 attorneys; on June 30, 1936, 541. In addition, the Corporation employed, during the fiscal year, from time to time, several thousand attorneys to examine titles, draw papers, and close loans in their own offices in the communities where home-owner borrowers resided. The Corporation also employed a few lawyers to handle certain litigation on a fee basis.

From the start of lending operations the legal department began the creation of a list of lawyers to be used as fee attorneys in connection with loan closing. During this fiscal year a new list of lawyers, to be used in the foreclosure work, was compiled and approved, and the fees for the services in the different States and communities were fixed and agreed upon. A smaller list of attorneys was selected for the foreclosure work on a fee basis, but most of them were attorneys who had been tried out in connection with loan closing.

PERSONNEL DEPARTMENT

The personnel department was organized to meet the personnel problems incidental to the rapid growth and the unusual nature and size of the organization. The development of the Corporation involved the selection and classification of over 20,000 employees located in some 300 different offices. To meet the urgent demands for qualified workers with the least possible delay, local officials of the Corporation originally made selections of personnel in accordance with their own standards.

Pursuant to the Executive order approved by the President of the United States on June 21, 1934, the personnel department classified the positions of the employees under the provisions of the Classification Act of 1923, as amended, subject to the review and revision by the Civil Service Commission. It also developed standards of selection, procedure, and uniform salary schedules adjusted to varying local requirements.

Since the organization of the regional offices in the fall of 1934, the administration of personnel matters has been correlated by control, planning, and recording units in the personnel departments of the Washington and regional offices. These units handle all pay-roll and leave matters and establish plans and standards for the field operations of the personnel department.

This activity has led to a well-organized personnel procedure whereby selections are based on carefully prepared tests in which the qualifications of applicants are compared with standard minimum requirements, and wherein an essential feature is a standard plan of salary administration, based on the accurate classification of all positions.

Exhibits 15 and 16 show the number of employees carried on the Corporation’s pay roll during the fiscal year 1936.

AUDITING DEPARTMENT

The auditor is responsible for the proper audit of all accounts of the Corporation. In addition, his division reports to the Board on all infractions of rules and regulations, as prescribed by enabling legislation, bylaws, Board resolutions, manual of procedure, bulletins, and general governmental standards and regulations, as they develop in the normal course of its activities.

The auditing department, during the fiscal year July 1, 1935, to June 30, 1936, preaudited and certified for payment by the Treasurer of the Corporation approximately 375,000 vouchers aggregating approximately $33,000,000 for all general operating expenditures, and preaudited and certified for payment disbursements made by the various treasurers in the regional offices.

Up to June 30, 1936, this department had concluded 106 regional office, State office, and special audits, of which number 58 were completed during this fiscal year's operations, and 1,024 regular audits of collection offices maintained in the various States. Reports covering these audits were submitted to the Board and to the various departments involved. Audits are being maintained on an annual basis for State and district offices and for lesser periods on collection offices.

An audit was made of mortgage loans refinanced by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, and all exceptions to the required standards were noted. Apparent overpayments in loan settlements with the mortgagees were submitted, in accordance with regulations, through the regional managers to the adjustment department in Washington. Recoveries of overpayments previously submitted were reported and credited to borrowers' accounts. In addition, the regional supervising auditors prepared schedules of loans which were paid in full, and these were reviewed by the home office.

A continuous internal audit is conducted of borrowers' accounts and property accounts. The application of the receipts and disbursements is checked and properly cleared through the records of the Corporation.

MORTGAGEE REHABILITATION DIVISION

By the summer of 1935 the Corporation had closed more than 900,000 loans; the Federal Home Loan Bank Board had chartered a very substantial number of Federal savings and loan associations; the program of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation was getting well under way; the lending activities of the Federal home-loan banks were increasing steadily, and the necessity of providing the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and its affiliated agencies and executives with current, accurate, and comprehensive information as to real-estate and mortgage conditions throughout the country became apparent.

As a result the Board, on July 28, 1935, created the mortgagee rehabilitation division to conduct a Nation-wide survey of mortgage and real estate conditions. After careful analysis it was determined that the activities of this investigation should be confined to cities of 40,000 population and over. A field and office staff of approximately 22 people was organized, and, after careful study of the problem involved, operations were started in August 1935. To date this division has completed the survey of 92 cities, and it is anticipated that surveys of the remaining cities over 40,000 population can be completed by March 1937.

Reports of completed surveys furnish the Board and the executives of the various interested agencies with complete and accurate information covering every phase of mortgage and real estate activity in the communities covered.

SUMMARY OF FISCAL OPERATIONS

During the fiscal year 1936 the Corporation completed the following operations:

Bonds.—Bonds and commitments issued through June 30, 1936, totaled $3,742,024,925. Of this amount, $626,020,050 have been refunded, and $67,635,825 retired, leaving a net outstanding bond and commitment liability of $3,048,369,550. (See exhibit 13.)

Principal repayments from borrowers, exclusive of unallocated funds, have amounted to $121,040,611, of which $67,635,825 have been used for the retirement of bonds and the balance of $53,405,286 are held in the bond retirement fund available for that purpose.

Disposition of bonds and commitments issued, capital stock, and realized income.—The disposition of proceeds of bonds and commitments issued, capital stock subscribed by the United States Treasury, and realized corporate income to June 30, 1936, is set forth in exhibit 17.

Loans.—Of 340,470 applications pending on June 30, 1935, 136,935 cases were eligible for Home Owners' Loan Corporation loans, which were consummated prior to the termination of loan-closing activities on June 12, 1936. Through that date a total of 1,018,390 loans, in the gross amount of $3,092,870,784, had been closed. This amount includes approximately $75,000,000 lent for necessary repairs and reconditioning incidental to refinancing operations.

Liquidation.—Through June 30, 1936, borrowers had been billed for a total amount of $446,184,887, representing $186,386,933 of matured principal installments, and $259,797,954 of matured interest on loans and advances. Repayments, including unallocated cash on hand on June 30, 1936, totaled $330,448,119, representing 74 percent of the total amount of matured principal and interest. Of this total, $121,593,940 represents principal and $208,854,179 interest, including the estimated distribution of unallocated cash.

Properties.—As of June 30, 1936, 5,133 properties were owned by the Corporation, and 23,542 were in process of acquisition.

Income and expenses.—During the fiscal year 1936, the total income of the Corporation from all sources amounted to $147,214,437. After deducting expenses, in the amount of $150,947,877, which includes reserves for fidelity and casualty losses in the amount of $300,000, the deficit for fiscal year 1936 amounted to $3,733,440, bringing the total deficit on June 30, 1936, to $34,024,396. This deficit is principally attributable to the expenses incidental to the closing of loans which were charged as incurred. If no change is made in the interest rate and if economic conditions continue to improve and if no impediments are placed in the way of collection, this deficit should be eliminated by earnings during the 15-year term of the loans. Ample reserves for losses on delinquent interest and losses on acquired properties are being charged against current earnings. With the reduction in loan operations, monthly administrative expenses declined from $3.54 per loan during June 1935 to $2.57 in June 1936, but, to offset this, the cost of servicing the loans and of handling the properties necessarily acquired will increase rapidly for some months.
FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN INSURANCE CORPORATION

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation was created by Congress under title IV of the National Housing Act, approved June 27, 1934. It was established for the primary purpose of restoring and strengthening the confidence of the public in the savings and loan type of thrift and home-financing institution. In this way, it was believed, the flow of new investment into these institutions would be stimulated, thus enabling them to care for the home-financing needs of the territory served.

Promptly upon the approval of the act the corporate organization was set up by the Board, and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, as directed by the act, subscribed and paid for the entire capital stock of $100,000,000. After careful preliminary conferences, the trustees of the Corporation then prepared and published rules and regulations governing its operation. Although all Federal savings and loan associations were required by the act to apply for and obtain insurance of shares, the insurance of accounts was optional for all other eligible institutions. From the beginning the work of organization of the Insurance Corporation was greatly simplified by the fact that the trustees were able to use for the benefit of the Corporation the field representatives and the technical legal staff already assembled and trained in the allied activities of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

STANDARDS AND PROCEDURE

An application for insurance originates with the individual association, and is filed by it with the Federal home-loan bank of its district. There it is reviewed and forwarded to the Board with the bank's recommendation as to appropriate action. In Washington it is first sent to the Legal Department for an opinion relative to the legal eligibility for insurance, the applicant's contingent liability on outstanding securities or other contracts, and an analysis of its form of securities, its charter, and bylaws. The review committee, then having before it the financial and operating statements with supporting data and the opinion of the Legal Department, reviews all of the information at hand and makes its recommendation to the board of trustees.

The Board may approve the application for insurance either conditionally or unconditionally. If it finds that an applicant is not at present insurable, it may recommend such changes and adjustments as it deems necessary. It has been the aim of the Corporation at all times to make constructive suggestions so that as many as possible of the applicant associations could receive the benefits of insurance. Through this process certain standards of eligibility have been developed which are applied with uniformity throughout the Nation. By virtue of the express provisions of the law and of the mutual character of the Corporation, no institution can be insured which has an impaired capital. It is equally important that the applicant evidence good management, with sound policies for economical home financing. The future growth of the applicant cannot be assured unless it can demonstrate its ability to operate normally, caring for its withdrawal or repurchase demands, and paying an earned dividend sufficient to hold existing investments and to attract new capital.

As stated previously, arrangements were made during the year to provide supervision for the institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation through the Governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank System and the officers of the 12 Federal home-loan banks. This supervision extends not merely to matters of statute and regulations, but undertakes to guide, encourage, and, if necessary, assist the management and directors of individual associations in the proper development of sound thrift and home-financing policies. This supervision is not separate from, but combined with, the supervision of Federal savings and loan associations and of those institutions in whose shares the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation has made investment. It depends basically upon the reports of examination made annually by the Examining Division of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board; but it adds to the suggestions of the examiner the element of leadership by the presidents and other officers of the home-loan banks.

A great deal of the constructive or forward-looking work done by the Corporation has a legal or semilegal character. This may be illustrated by the following outline of matters now in process:

1. Further development of illustrative forms of securities, satisfactory to the State supervisory authority and the Insurance Corporation. The following States have approved mutually satisfactory certificate forms: Alabama, California, Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Texas, Virginia, Washington.

2. Preparation, upon the request of supervisors in certain States and with the advice of bank counsel and State law officers, of model forms of charter and bylaws for use by insured institutions, particularly in relation to issuance of approved forms of securities.

3. Conferences and cooperation with State authorities in development of comprehensive programs for rehabilitation and insurance of State-chartered institutions, notably in California, Colorado, Georgia, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Texas, Virginia, Washington, and Wisconsin.

5. Development of legal procedure for rehabilitation or reorganization of State-chartered institutions applying for insurance.

6. Provisions for eliminating, in connection with insurance of institutions, potentially or actually dangerous contractual undertakings through bylaw amendments, exchange agreements, and revised security forms.
44 ANNUAL REPORT OF FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD

7. Opinions on various State and Federal tax situations.

8. Avoidance of inadvertent infractions of State statutes, e.g., by revisions of note and mortgage forms submitted to eliminate usurious or harsh interest provisions.

9. Cooperation with State agencies in the study of amendments of State statutes, looking toward better regulatory procedure and more uniform approved practices and standards.

EVENTS OF THE YEAR

During the year there have been a number of interesting developments which deserve mention.

On December 1, 1935, a General Manager was appointed.

Convenience and economy dictated the creation of a National Examining Division, with headquarters in Washington, for the purpose of performing the examining work required for all of the Board agencies. The cost of the examining work, with the exception of the Washington expense, is reimbursable and is billed to the association examined. It was found by experience that the necessary delay between performance of the work and the rendition of a bill required a substantial working capital, and the Insurance Corporation and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation each advanced $100,000 for this purpose. These advances will be repaid as soon as sufficient cash surplus has been accumulated by the Board.

During the year the Corporation prepared and distributed a pamphlet of questions and answers regarding insurance of accounts. It also had prepared and mailed to all insured associations a booklet suggesting advertising methods and ideas, and it encouraged the insured associations to use every effort to acquaint the public with the advantages of share insurance.

The rules and regulations of the Corporation were amended in several important respects—most important, probably, was the amendment providing for a hearing upon any changes in the rules and regulations if such hearing is requested by 7 members of the advisory council or by any 50 associations. The provision with reference to the accumulation and maintenance of the insurance reserve was liberalized and a graduated schedule of fidelity bond requirements was fixed for associations with assets exceeding $1,250,000.

A dividend was declared at the rate of 3 percent per annum upon the capital stock of the Corporation for the period January 1 to June 30, 1935, but after a study of the risks which had been assumed by the Corporation and the reserves accumulated it was decided not to declare a dividend for the subsequent 6 months' period. For the present an amount equal to the sum required to pay such a dividend is to be placed in a contingent reserve account.

During the early part of the year the entire examining expense, including the expense of the Washington office, had been charged to the applicant associations. It was decided, however, that this was imposing too large a burden upon them, and the practice was altered so that the associations were billed for the expense of the Examining Division in the field; and the cost of the Washington office and of the Review Committee was distributed between the Insurance Corporation, the Home Owners’ Loan Corporation, and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Conferences were held during the year with the State supervisors in an effort to work out common problems. An arrangement was entered into for joint examinations to be conducted by representatives of the State supervisors’ departments and the Examining Division. The advantages sought in this arrangement were a reduction in direct expense to the association and a minimizing of the inconvenience and interruption to business caused by any examination. The plan was not adopted early enough in the year to permit much experience with it, but there can be no doubt of the advantages to be derived through such cooperation between supervising agencies.

Various conferences have also been had with representatives of the Building and Loan Department of the State of Ohio, the Banking Department of the State of New Jersey, and a committee of the New Jersey Building and Loan League in an effort to work out plans for State-wide programs of rehabilitation.

The field representatives of the Savings and Loan Division of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board have been promoting the insurance of shares since the inception of the Corporation, but during the year a reorganization of that Division was effected by which the field men spent more time and placed more emphasis upon the promotion of insurance and the servicing of insured associations. The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation has contributed monthly to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board a sum to compensate for this service.

Early in the year the budget officer of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board was approved by the trustees as budget officer also for the Insurance Corporation, with the duty of seeing that proposed budgets were in proper form and fairly presented to the Director of the Budget. In addition the budget officer certifies on all personnel files the sufficiency of funds to meet the additions to the payroll. The Corporation has, in fact, operated well within its budget during this fiscal year.

Under the act it is the duty of the trustees to fix at the end of each year an equitable contribution to be paid by associations applying for insurance. The purpose of this contribution is to equalize, so far as possible, the contributions to the reserve fund which have been made by all insured associations. The equitable contribution for associations applying after June 27, 1936, was fixed at 3 cents per $100 of insurable accounts and creditor obligations.

Growth of insurance.—During the year June 30, 1935, to June 30, 1936, the Insurance Corporation has made distinct progress toward achieving the purpose of its creation. Where associations have taken out insurance the general result has been that withdrawals have ceased and in many places funds have begun to flow back into the associations in increasing amounts. The universal testimony from all parts of the country is to the effect that the insurance of shares is restoring the confidence of the people in the savings and loan type of thrift institutions. The job is by no means completed but a substantial beginning has been made. Such figures as are available show a greater lending activity among the insured associations, both Federal and State, than among the uninsured associations.
A chart is attached as exhibit 18 which shows in detail the progress of the Corporation by States. It will be observed that at the beginning of the year 774 Federal associations, with assets of $286,000,000, were insured. Of that number, 505 were newly formed Federals and 269 converted from State associations. At the end of the year there were 1,099 Federal associations with assets of $582,000,000; 618 were newly formed Federals and 481 converted associations. At the beginning of the year 44 State-chartered associations had insurance and their assets totaled $135,000,000. At the end of the year 237 had received insurance and their total assets were $332,000,000. The net increase in insured associations during the year was 518, or 63 percent, and the increase in assets was $493,000,000, or 117 percent. It should also be noted, in considering the progress of share insurance among the State associations, that the number of converted Federals should be added to the State-chartered insured members, and, if that is done, it appears that 718 old-established institutions have already received insurance. The associations preceded by an asterisk in exhibit 1 constitute a complete list of the insured associations on June 30, 1936.

Special mention should undoubtedly be made of the efforts of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board through its agencies, and in particular the Insurance Corporation, to rehabilitate the associations in various parts of the country upon a city-wide or State-wide scale. Such an effort has been successful only when made in cooperation with the State supervisory authorities. The past year saw the completion of the first stage of one of these efforts in the city of New Orleans where for some 4 years all of the associations in the city had been frozen. By agreement all applied for insurance together, all were examined, their properties appraised, their assets and condition analyzed, and thereafter the Board was able to announce the insurance of 13 associations. Because of uncertainty as to how shareholders might react to the resumption of normal operation after so long a period of restricted withdrawal, a preliminary advertising campaign was arranged to acquaint the people of the city with the facts and advantages of insurance. On August 8, 1935, the 13 associations opened up with insurance and promptly met all requests for money. The number and amount of such requests were much less than anticipated. The confidence of the people in these institutions seemed to be reestablished immediately. Efforts to get the other associations into insurable shape were continued, with the result that somewhat later 10 more of the New Orleans associations were insured, and at the end of the year all 23 were actively serving the savers and home owners of their communities, and the balance of the associations were preparing to make a second application for insurance. Similar efforts on a State-wide scale were successful in the States of Texas and Washington, and have already accomplished marked results in Kansas, Missouri, and Indiana.

There are no statistics available upon which to base the probable losses which the Corporation may sustain through the years of operation. So far, however, only one small loss has developed, which occurred in the liquidation of a newly organized Federal savings and loan association in Wheeling, W. Va. It is anticipated that the present insurance premium, one-eighth of 1 percent of the investment and creditor liability of member associations, will be sufficient to meet all losses, pay its operating expenses, and add to the Corporation's reserves.

Future developments and problems.—Since the insurance of accounts is optional with the State-chartered thrift and home-financing institutions, it was only natural that the managements of those institutions should be reluctant to apply for the protection until they had an opportunity to witness the operation of the Corporation and the effect upon the investors of insured institutions. This preliminary stage is now past, with results highly favorable to the future growth of the Corporation. This is somewhat evidenced by the receipt during June 1936 of over 200 applications by the 12 Federal home loan banks.

In spite of retarding influences the progress of insurance of shares has been steady. Substantially all the new Federals are now insured, so that almost all applications now being received come from established State-chartered associations. Applications are, therefore, restricted by the ability of existing associations to meet the qualifications of unimpaired capital, earnings sufficient to pay reasonable dividends, and, after insurance, resumption of normal operations. The popular demand for insurance of shares is increasing, and it is felt that it is merely a question of time until it will be sought and enjoyed by the great majority of savings and loan associations which are actively operating as regular business organizations.

Corporation's balance sheets, income, and employees.—The Corporation has experienced a successful year financially, increasing its reserve for losses by $748,982.50, after payment of all losses and operating expenses, as shown by the following balance sheets of June 30, 1935, and June 30, 1936.
