Some Interesting History of Banking in the United States

The growth of the banking business in the United States in the past thirty-five years is almost beyond belief. If one takes a copy of the January edition of the Rand McNally Bankers' Directory (the Original Bankers' Blue Book, founded 1872) of the year 1883 and lays alongside of it a copy of the July edition of 1917, he finds the following interesting comparisons:

	1883	1917	Percent- age of Increase
No. of Banks in United States	7,415	29,500	400%
No. of Banks in Canada	547	3,500	640%
No. of Pages in Directory	487	2,100	430%
No. of Maps	50	90	80% in No.
(1883, single page; 1917, double page)			160% in pgs.
Weight of Book		3 lbs. 9 lbs.	300%

In 1883 the Directory gave only the names of the President, the Cashier, Capital, Surplus and two correspondents.

In 1917, one finds the names of all officers and correspondents and the Capital, Surplus and Profits, Deposits, Loans and Investments, and Cash and Exchange.

This means,—first, an increase of over four hundred per cent in the quantity of paper, type, cloth and ink used in this Directory (without giving any consideration to the increase in the prices of these commodities in the past thirty-five years).

This means,—second, an increase of over four hundred per cent in the amount of labor used in typesetting, press work and binding this Directory (without giving any consideration to the enormous increase in the price of labor during the past thirty-five years).

This means,—third, an actual increase of one hundred per cent in the size of the clerical force necessary to collect and compile the information for this Directory, (and this does not take into consideration the increase in price of such labor in the past thirty-five years).

This means,—fourth, an increase of over four hundred per cent in the cost of the first class postage to collect the information for this Directory, (and this does not take into consideration the present advance in rates for War revenue).

This means,—fifth, an increase, owing to the size of the book and allowing for reduced express rates, of over two hundred per cent in the cost of delivering this Directory to subscribers.

The following comparison of the number of banks in 1883 and 1917 by states is very interesting.
