SPECIAL ARTICLES

Sales of United States Government Securities During the Third War Loan

Summary

The Third War Loan marked the first time in this war that the United States Government has conducted a large-scale drive for the sale of securities exclusively to nonbanking investors. In both the First and Second War Loans commercial banks were included for predetermined amounts of securities. Notwithstanding this difference, however, total sales in the Third War Loan exceeded the sales in each of the two preceding loans.

Aggregate sales in the Third War Loan amounted to $18.9 billions, of which sales of $18.3 billions were to investors included in the Third War Loan goal of $15 billions. This goal was divided between $10 billions for all corporations, associations, and State and local governments, and $5 billions for individuals, partnerships, and personal trust accounts.

The $5 billions goal for individuals, partnerships, and personal trust accounts was exceeded by $0.4 billions, while the $10 billions goal for corporations, associations, and State and local governments was exceeded by $2.9 billions. In addition, United States Government agencies and trust funds whose investments are handled through the facilities of the Treasury Department purchased $0.6 billions of securities during the Third War Loan although such sales were not included in the goals set for the drive.

Sales of securities to the various investor groups compare with the goals which had been set for these groups as follows:

Class of investor	Goals	Sales
	(In billions of dollars)
Individuals, partnerships, and personal trust accounts.....	5.0	5.4
Corporations, associations, and State and local governments:
Insurance companies and mutual savings banks.....	3.0	4.1
Dealers and brokers.....	.6	.9
Other corporations and associations, including State and local governments 1/.....	6.4	7.9
Totals for investor classes included in Third War Loan goals.....	15.0	18.3
United States Government agencies and trust funds 2/.....6
Total sales to all investors during Third War Loan.....	18.9

1/ Includes eleemosynary institutions and United States Government agencies and trust funds whose investments are not handled through the facilities of the Treasury Department. Sales to such agencies and trust funds during the Third War Loan totaled $82 millions.

2/ Consists of United States Government agencies and trust funds whose investments are handled through the facilities of the Treasury Department.

Although the total goal for individuals, partnerships, and personal trust accounts was surpassed by $0.4 billion, sales of Series E savings bonds failed by about 18 percent to reach the goal of $3 billions set for this issue. Sales of this security during the Third War Loan, nevertheless, were about $1 billion, or 68 percent, higher than sales of this security during the Second War Loan. Moreover, almost 53 million units of the Series E savings bonds were sold during the Third War Loan, as compared with 33 millions in the Second War Loan, and 19 millions in the First War Loan -- a result which was achieved despite the increased emphasis during the Third War Loan on sales of savings bonds in denominations of $100 or more.

Preparation for the War Loan

The total goal of $15 billions was decided upon after careful analysis of the flow of funds in the economy, with particular reference to new savings and accumulations of individuals and corporations. These savings and accumulations are being made at unprecedented rates as the war continues. Liquid savings of individuals are expected to amount to $37 billions this calendar year, or about 9 or 10 times the annual rate in the pre-war period. It is estimated that liquid corporate accumulations will total about $17 billions during 1943, a sum which includes unspent reserves for depreciation and depletion as well as funds made available by the liquidation of inventories and the retention of earnings. These accumulations cannot be spent for plant, equipment, or new inventory because of wartime controls. Accumulations in governmental accounts, such as social security funds and current surpluses of State and local governments, are expected to aggregate over $5 billions in 1943. All of these savings and accumulations will thus total about $60 billions this year -- approximately the same amount as the estimated Federal deficit.

This similarity in magnitude between the Federal deficit and the new accumulations of individuals, corporations, and governmental accounts is the result of a functional relationship which reflects the distribution of production and incomes between the Federal Government and private persons and businesses (including State and local governments). The production of goods and services generates income to the full value of production, some of which is purchased by the Federal Government (mostly for war purposes), while the remainder is purchased for private use. Similarly, some of the income generated by production goes to the Government in the form of taxes, while the rest remains in private hands. At the present time the Federal Government is taking about one-half of current output, although taxes are bringing in only about one-sixth of the total income generated. The difference, or about a third of the value of total output (or income), is equivalent to the Federal deficit. While private businesses and individuals thus get only the half of current output which is not taken by the Government, they retain about five-sixths of the total income. The difference, which is again about a third of total output (or income), represents the surpluses which are being accumulated in the private sector of the economy and is, of course, the counterpart of the Federal deficit.

After determining the over-all goals with reference to the flow of funds in the economy, individual State goals were set up. The goals by States should be recognized as no more than rough approximations which are necessarily based on less satisfactory data than are the over-all figures for expected sales. In the absence of any estimates of savings and accumulations by States. The State quotas were based primarily on estimates of income payments to individuals, classified by States, and on figures available for each State on bank deposits of individuals and corporations combined.

Goals for the Third War Loan were announced on July 22, 1943. The sales organization in the field was in the process of being reorganized at that time on a State basis from the Federal Reserve district basis which was followed in the Second War Loan. The announced intention of the Treasury was to conduct this drive with emphasis on person-to-person sales appeals. A War Finance Division with a national director of sales had been organized in the Treasury Department; State War Finance Committees were being set up; and local War Finance Committees were being organized along city and county lines. Large numbers of volunteers reporting to the local committees represented the final contact between the central sales organization and individual purchasers.

The seven securities which were offered in the Third War Loan were very similar to those offered in the Second War Loan. The Third War Loan securities consisted of four nonmarketable issues and three marketable issues, as follows:

Nonmarketable issues:
Savings bonds:
Series E, F, and G
Savings notes (formerly called tax notes):
Series C

Marketable issues:
7/8% Certificates of indebtedness, 9/1/44
2% Treasury bonds, 9/15/51-53
2-1/2% Treasury bonds, 12/15/64-69

For comparison of the characteristics of these issues see the "Treasury Bulletin" for August 1943, pages 2-4.

The Third War Loan formally opened on September 9, although sales of the four nonmarketable securities were included in the drive beginning with September 1 because some of the State organizations began their campaigns on these issues during the period from September 1 to September 9. The three marketable issues, however, were not available until September 9.

The drive closed on October 2, but final reports of sales were not available for an additional two weeks. In view of the fact that there were some 60,000 issuing agents participating in the drive, and that reports of sales of the nonmarketable issues encountered delays of as much as three weeks in officially reaching the Federal Reserve Banks, it was decided that for reporting purposes the books would be kept open on the three issues of savings bonds until October 16. Even at that date, however, it was known that some sales reports had not yet reached the Federal Reserve Banks. No estimate is available of the amount of such sales still being processed.

Analysis of sales

Tables 1 to 5 present detailed information on sales of securities during the Third War Loan by classes of investors, by issues, and by States. The sales reports have not been fully audited; hence the data are still preliminary. The figures shown are taken from tabulations of sales cleared through the Federal Reserve Banks.

All figures shown in this article and in the accompanying tables reflect gross purchases rather than net absorption of Federal securities by the seven investor groups. This means that no allowance is made in the figures for any offsetting market sales of Federal securities which may have been made by any of these investors. Data relating to these offsetting sales will not be available until the month-end figures included in the Treasury survey of the ownership of Government securities become available for September and October. These figures will be published in the November and December issues of the "Treasury Bulletin". At present, it is known that offsetting sales did occur and that, on balance, most of the securities sold were absorbed by banking sources.

Offsets also occurred in the case of nonmarketable securities to the extent that these issues were redeemed during the period of the Third War Loan. Redemptions of savings bonds during September were about the same as in August. Similarly, redemptions of tax and savings notes were about the same as in preceding months during which quarterly income tax instalments were due. Most of the redemptions of tax and savings notes were made by corporations rather than by individuals.

Table 1 shows sales of securities during the Third War Loan by classes of investors and by issues. The figures for all investors show that sales of the 2 percent bonds amounted to $5.3 billions, a larger amount than was sold of any other issue. Sales of the 7/8 percent certificates followed at $4.1 billions, while the 2-1/2 percent bonds totaled $3.8 billions, and purchases of Series C savings notes amounted to $2.5 billions.

Individuals, partnerships, and personal trust accounts purchased a total of $5.4 billions of securities in the Third War Loan, $3.0 billions of which -- more than half -- were savings bonds. Four-fifths of the savings bonds total, or about $2.5 billions, was accounted for by Series E savings bonds. Purchases of savings notes by individuals, partnerships, and personal trust accounts amounted to only $0.2 billions. Purchases of marketable issues by this group of investors aggregated $2.1 billions, of which 57 percent was in the 2 percent bonds, 26 percent was in 2-1/2 percent bonds, and 17 percent was in certificates of indebtedness.

Insurance companies and mutual savings banks concentrated their purchases in the 2 and 2-1/2 percent bonds. Because life insurance companies receive substantial funds at a steady and predictable rate, arrangements were made for them to subscribe during the Third War Loan to the 2 and 2-1/2 percent bonds in anticipation of funds which would become available to them for investment up to November 1. Subscriptions made under the deferred purchase plan aggregated $191 millions, and have been treated as sales in this article and in the accompanying tables. Insurance companies bought substantially more of the 2-1/2 percent bonds than of the 2 percent bonds, while mutual savings banks preferred the 2 percent bonds.

The purchases by other corporations and associations (namely, all corporations and associations other than insurance companies, mutual savings banks, dealers and brokers, and State and local governments) were concentrated heavily in certificates of indebtedness and in savings notes. More than two-thirds of the sales of 7/8 percent certificates and over 90 percent of the sales of Series C savings notes went to this group of buyers, a preference which reflects the fact that short-term issues of this type are ideally suited to the investment of reserve and other funds which are accumulating at a rapid rate during the war period. The savings notes mature in three years, but may be redeemed on demand after six months; the certificates mature in one year and may be refunded into another issue at maturity, sometimes directly by exchange and at other times by cash re-investment. These two issues alone accounted for $5.1 billions of the total purchases of $7.1 billions by "other corporations and associations" as shown in the table. The certificates accounted for a slightly larger proportion of purchases than did the savings notes.

The lower half of Table 1 presents a percentage distribution of the sales of each issue by classes of investors.

Sales by States

In Table 2, actual sales are compared with the goals for each State by classes of investors. For purposes of this discussion the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, and the possessions are considered to be States; figures for Northern and Southern California have been combined.

For the nation as a whole, actual sales to all investors combined reached 122 percent of the goal, while the goal for individuals was exceeded by 8 percent. For corporations and associations, the national achievement was 129 percent of the goal.

The table shows that all but one of the States reached or exceeded their total goals for all investors. Twenty-four of this group surpassed their total goals by at least 25 percent, and six -- West Virginia, Maryland, Ohio, Georgia, Alaska, and the possessions -- exceeded their total goals by more than 50 percent.

Almost two-thirds of the States succeeded in making their quotas for sales to individuals (including partnerships and personal trust accounts). Of this group, fifteen States exceeded their goals for individuals by at least 25 percent; three -- Georgia, West Virginia, and the possessions -- made 150 percent or more of their goals for individuals.

Only two States failed to reach their quota for sales to corporations, associations, and State and local governments. Thirty States surpassed their sales goals for this group by at least 25 percent, and fourteen by 50 percent or more.

Comparison of State quotas and sales of Series E savings bonds -- also shown in Table 2 -- brings out the fact that the people living between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains made the most outstanding showing in purchases of this issue. Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa, and Oklahoma exceeded 100 percent of their E bond quotas. Of the States east of the Mississippi River only Mississippi reached its E bond goal. Sales of E bonds in Alaska, Hawaii, and the possessions also amounted to more than the quotas set for these areas.

Table 3 supplies further details on purchases by States. Sales to individuals, partnerships, and personal trust accounts in each State are broken down into sales of Series E savings bonds, sales of Series F and G savings bonds, and sales of savings notes and marketable securities. Sales to corporations, associations, and State and local governments are classified to show State purchases by insurance companies, mutual savings banks, State and local governments, dealers and brokers, and other corporations and associations.

Table 3 brings out the variations in the proportions of sales to individuals (including partnerships and personal trust accounts) represented by the different issues. In all but thirteen States -- Alabama, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, and West Virginia -- sales of Series E savings bonds to individuals were greater than sales of savings notes and marketable securities to this group.

Insurance company purchases are seen in the table to have been heavily concentrated in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania. These five States accounted for over 80% of all insurance company purchases, while the five States of New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, and Maryland accounted for almost 90% of all purchases by mutual savings banks. These results, of course, reflect in large part the concentration of these institutions in the areas mentioned, although in the case of the insurance companies, the funds represent money originally accumulated over a much wider area.

More than two-thirds of the sales to dealers and brokers were in New York, with half of the remainder accounted for by Ohio and California.

Sales to other corporations and associations are less dependent on the location of the leading financial centers, although they are, in turn, heavily influenced by the distribution of the funds of the largest corporate investors. Five States -- New York, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and California -- sold the most to this group of investors, accounting for between 55 and 60 percent of total sales to other corporations and associations.

Comparison with previous War Loans

In Table 4, a detailed comparison is made of sales of securities during the First, Second, and Third War Loans, classified both by type of investor and by issue. Total sales of $18.9 billions to nonbanking investors in the Third War Loan compare with nonbanking sales of $13.5 billions during the Second War Loan, and $7.9 billions during the First War Loan. The intensive effort which was made during the Third War Loan to reach the many thousands of small individual investors in each State is reflected in the increase of more than 65 percent in the sales of Series E savings bonds from the Second to the Third War Loans, as well as in the increase of slightly over 60 percent in sales of all securities to individuals, partnerships, and personal trust accounts. This achievement compares with an increase of approximately 30 percent in sales to corporations, associations, and State and local governments from the Second to the Third War Loans and an increase of a little more than 40 percent in total sales to nonbanking investors.

Mutual savings banks purchased $1.5 billions during the Third War Loan, as against $1.2 billions during the Second War Loan, while insurance companies increased their purchases from $2.4 billions to $2.6 billions. Investors classified in the tables as "Other corporations and associations" increased their purchases by $2 billions -- from $5.1 billions in the Second War Loan to $7.1 billions in the Third War Loan. Large as this increase is in dollar terms, however, it may be noted that it is considerably less of a percentage advance than that scored by Series E savings bond sales.

In Table 5, sales of Series E savings bonds during each of the three War Loans are shown by denominations. The figures indicate that the campaign to increase the amount of each purchase, as well as the number of purchasers, has had some success, since the proportion of E bond sales represented by the $25 denomination has declined in each of the last two drives, while the percentage represented by the $100 bonds in the Third War Loan is somewhat above the corresponding percentages in each of the first two drives.

Altogether, the three War Loans have within less than a year sold a total of over $40 billions of securities to nonbanking investors -- an unprecedented achievement in war finance. More than a fourth of this total, or $10.3 billions, has been obtained from individuals, partnerships, and personal trust accounts. Almost half of this latter sum, or approximately $4.7 billions, has been received from sales of Series E savings bonds -- a figure which is in addition to the $5.6 billions of this issue sold outside the drives during the twelve-month period ending with the Third War Loan. It is evident that these results could not have been achieved without the most intensive effort on a nation-wide person-to-person basis, matched by an equally strong determination in all regions and among all groups of citizens to share in the financing of the war.

Treasury Market Financing in October 1943

New security offerings to commercial banks

In accordance with Secretary Morgenthau's announcement of August 16, 1943, the Third War Loan was followed by an offering of certificates of indebtedness and Treasury bonds for the exclusive subscription of commercial banks, which had been excluded from the Third War Loan.

The securities offered were a 7/8 percent certificate of indebtedness due October 1, 1944, and a 2 percent Treasury bond callable on or after September 15, 1951, and maturing September 15, 1953. The latter was the same issue which had been offered to subscribers other than banks during the Third War Loan. The total amount offered banks for cash subscription was $3 billions, divided equally between the two issues. Bank subscriptions to each issue were limited to the combined capital, surplus, and undivided profits of the bank, or to 5 percent of its total deposits, whichever was greater. Cash subscriptions up to $50,000 were allotted in full. Subscription books were open for three days commencing October 6. Subscriptions for the certificate amounted to $5,390 millions and were allotted on a 26 percent basis, while subscriptions for the bond totaled $5,532 millions and were allotted on a 25 percent basis, subject in each case to minimum allotments of $50,000 on all subscriptions of over $50,000.

Exchange of maturing securities

Simultaneous with the cash offering to commercial banks, holders of the 3-1/4 percent Treasury bonds called for redemption October 15, 1943, were given the opportunity of exchanging their bonds on a par-for-par basis for either the 2 percent Treasury bonds of 1951-53 or the 2-1/2 percent Treasury bonds of December 15, 1964-69 offered during the Third War Loan (subject to the restriction on commercial bank acquisition of the 2-1/2 percent bonds before September 15, 1953); and holders of Treasury certificates of indebtedness maturing November 1, 1943, were given the privilege of exchanging them for the new certificates of indebtedness offered to commercial banks.

Results of the financing are summarized in the following table.

^{1/} In the fiscal years 1935 and 1936, $91 millions and $554 millions, respectively, were transferred from increment on gold to the working balance for retirement of national bank notes. In this statement, however, charges for retirement of national bank notes are reflected directly against increment on gold in the years during which the retirements were actually made. Inactive gold in the amount of $1,087 millions for the fiscal year 1937 is considered as a part of the working balance.

* Less than $50,000.

^{1/} These notes were originally designed to help taxpayers set aside funds with which to pay taxes and were known as Treasury tax savings notes. Series A notes were designed for the small and moderate taxpayer; series B and series C notes were intended for the large taxpayer. When the collection of taxes through withholding at the source commenced, the need for series A tax savings notes disappeared and their sale was discontinued. Redemption provisions on series A notes were relaxed to provide for the payment of interest on notes thereafter redeemed for cash (see footnote ^{2/}). Sale of series C notes which were designed for the investment of idle cash reserves as well as the accumulation of tax reserves was continued and the notes were designated Treasury savings notes.

^{2/} Series A notes, which were sold from August 1, 1941 through June 22, 1943, yield approximately 1.92 percent per annum. The maximum amount which may be used in payment of each class of tax (income, estate, or gift) by each taxpayer during each taxable year is limited to $5,000 par value. Through June 22, 1943 the notes could be redeemed for cash only at the original purchase price; since that date, the notes have been redeemed for cash at the tax payment value current at the time of presentation. See also footnote ^{1/}.

^{3/} Series B notes were sold from August 1, 1941 through September 12, 1942, to yield approximately .48 percent per annum. The amount which may be turned in on taxes is unlimited. The notes may be redeemed for cash only at the original purchase price.

^{4/} Series C notes went on sale September 14, 1942. Interest accrues each month on a graduated scale (see "Treasury Bulletin" for August 1943, page 4) to yield approximately 1.07 percent per annum if held to maturity. The amount which may be turned in on taxes is unlimited. The notes may be redeemed for cash six months after the date of issue at the tax payment value current at the time of presentation. Prior to July 27, 1943, notice of 30 days was required for cash redemption. See also footnote ^{1/}.

Source: Daily Treasury Statements commencing November 1, 1942; prior thereto, Post Office Department.

1/ Figures for November 1942 and following months are not strictly comparable with earlier months because of the shift to a Daily Treasury Statement basis. Stamps sold prior to October 1, 1942 were known as postal savings stamps and were obligations of the Postal Savings System but subsequently became public debt obligations.

2/ Estimated on the basis of samples conducted by the Post Office Department.

3/ Includes minor amounts which were exchanged for postal savings certificates prior to November 1, 1942. These did not aggregate in any one month more than $26 thousands nor more than 0.9 percent of total redemptions.

4/ Sales and redemptions commence with May 1, 1941 when the special defense series of stamps went on sale. The amount of the old series of postal savings stamps outstanding on April 30, 1941 was $150 thousands.

5/ Details not available for May, June, and July 1941.

6/ Net of sales less redemptions. See footnote 1/.

7/ Does not include amounts transferred from Postal Savings System to the Treasury to cover outstanding stamps.

^{1/} Consists of purchases or sales made by the Treasury. Treasury investment accounts comprise (1) trust funds which by law are under the control of the Secretary of the Treasury or of the Treasurer of the United States, and (2) accounts under the control of certain

U. S. Government agencies whose investments are handled through the facilities of the Treasury Department. This table also includes purchases under Section 19 of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, and excludes the Exchange Stabilization Fund.

Summary Data from Treasury Survey of Ownership of Securities Issued or Guaranteed by the United States, August 31, 1943

The following tables present summary data from the Treasury survey, as of August 31, 1943, of the ownership of securities issued or guaranteed by the United States. The large commercial and savings banks and insurance companies covered in the survey account for approximately 95 percent of the holdings of United States Government and Government-guaranteed securities held by all banks and insurance companies in the United States.

A regrouping of insurance companies was reflected for the first time in the Treasury survey as of June 30, 1943 which appeared in the August issue of the "Treasury Bulletin". Because of this regrouping, data as of June 30, July 31, and August 31, 1943 on life insurance companies and on fire, casualty, and marine insurance companies should not be compared with similar data for prior months. Revisions of the earlier figures will be published in a forthcoming issue of the "Treasury Bulletin".

1/ When the price of a security is such as to result in a negative yield, the excess of price over zero yield is given in the yield column in thirty-seconds.

2/ Prices represent the mean of closing bid and ask quotations in the over-the-counter market except that prices of Treasury, Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, and Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds for the period prior to October 1, 1939 represent closing prices on the New York Stock Exchange. "When issued" prices are included beginning October 1, 1939. Dates of highs and lows, in case of recurrence, are the latest dates.

3/ Computed on mean price to call date when mean price is above par and to maturity date when mean price is below par.

4/ Not quoted.

5/ Included in average of long-term taxable Treasury bonds shown later in this chapter.

6/ Security is not transferable to commercial banks until ten years after issue date.

7/ Quoted on yield basis since November 12, 1942; prior price quotations have been converted to yields for back figures.

8/ Excludes Federal Housing Administration debentures and issues held entirely by government agencies.

9/ Called on June 7, 1943 for redemption on October 15, 1943.

10/ Included in average of long-term partially tax-exempt Treasury bonds shown later in this chapter.

11/ Excludes postal savings bonds.

Computation: (1) Treasury bond yields are computed on the basis of the mean of bid and ask quotations in the over-the-counter market, beginning September 2, 1941; previously, closing prices in the New York Stock Exchange were used on days when sales took place on the Exchange in a particular issue and the mean of closing bid and ask quotations on the New York Stock Exchange on days when no sales took place. (2) Corporate bond yields are computed on the basis of closing prices on the New York Stock Exchange and the New York Curb Exchange; on days when an issue does not sell, the price of the last preceding sale is used. See "Treasury Bulletin" for July 1941, pages 21-26, and subsequent issues.

1/ These items represent the difference between the cost value and the monetary value of silver bullion revalued and held to secure silver certificates.

2/ The figures in this column are not cumulative; as the amount of bullion held changes, the potential seigniorage thereon changes.

3/ Increase due principally to cumulative adjustment in computing average cost per ounce.
