

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE—MILITARY

MILITARY PERSONNEL

ACTIVE FORCES

These appropriations finance the personnel costs of the active duty forces of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Air Force. Changes in financial requirements are primarily related to military personnel strengths. In addition, these appropriations finance the future retirement benefits of the current active forces. While most of the entitlements financed by these appropriations are set by statute, the estimates reflect continuing efforts to improve management, including implementation of audit recommendations, improved management of military travel, and prudent use of bonus programs, and other pay programs.

Included in the 1998 request is funding for a 2.8% pay raise. This raise will help ensure that military compensation remains attractive and competitive with private sector pay and that the military services continue to attract and retain highly qualified people. Illustrative of the high quality of service members is their educational achievements. Over 96% of the individuals recruited into the military services in 1996 were high school graduates compared to 75% of the youth of the same age in the general population. Over 97% of personnel entering the services as commissioned officers are college graduates. Over 42% of the officers on active duty have advanced college degrees compared to less than 7% in the general population.

The numbers of active duty military personnel provided for are shown in the following table.

RESERVE FORCES

These appropriations finance the personnel costs of the National Guard and Reserve forces, including the future retirement benefits of the current Reserve forces. The estimates reflect continuing efforts to improve management efficiency including, for example, more economical use of training and recruiting resources as well as the undertaking of active missions at lower costs.

The number of National Guard and Reserve personnel estimated to participate in the Selected Reserve training programs and the number of full-time active duty military personnel provided for are summarized in the following table.

The Reserve Officers' Training Corps program provides training for reserve and regular officer candidates who have enrolled in the course while attending a college at which an ROTC unit has been established. College graduates who satisfactorily complete the advanced course of the program are commissioned and may be ordered to active duty for a minimum of 3 years.

The Reserve Officers' Training Corps Vitalization Act of 1964, as amended, authorizes a limited number of scholarships for ROTC students on a competitive basis. Successful candidates for the scholarships generally serve a minimum period of 4 years on active duty upon graduation and appointment as a commissioned officer. A number of scholarship recipients will fulfill their entire obligation in the Reserve components.

The Armed Forces health professions scholarship program provides a source of active duty commissioned officers for the various health professions.

The numbers of commissioned officers graduated from these programs are summarized below:

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE

These appropriations finance the cost of operating and maintaining the Armed Forces, including the Reserve components and related support activities of the Department of Defense, except military personnel pay, allowances and travel costs. Included are amounts for pay of civilians, contract services for maintenance of equipment and facilities, fuel, supplies, and repair parts for weapons and equipment. Financial requirements are influenced by many factors, including the number of aircraft squadrons, Army and Marine Corps divisions, installations, military strength and deployments, rates of operational activity, and the quantity and complexity of major equipment (aircraft, ships, missiles, tanks, et cetera) in operation. Special emphasis is placed on ensuring adequate funding for all programs that contribute directly or indirectly to the readiness of our armed forces. As such, the Department has undertaken important efforts to better assess our military readiness and the relationship between readiness and operation and maintenance program funding levels.

Transfers are made, as needed, to meet disbursement requirements in excess of funds otherwise available for obligation adjustment. Net gains resulting from favorable exchange rates are returned to this appropriation and are available for subsequent transfer when needed.

The Defense Health Program consists of Army, Navy and Air Force medical facilities supplemented for dependents and retirees under the age of 65 by the TRICARE (formerly called CHAMPUS) health care financing program. All dependents and retirees are entitled to care in military facilities when space and facilities are available. Dependents and retirees over age 65 are entitled to Medicare financed health care when space is unavailable in military facilities.

Medical care is provided in military facilities as follows:

	1996	1997	1998	1999
Hospitals/Medical Centers	116	115	98	98
Clinics	477	471	488	488

These hospitals, medical centers and clinics are staffed by:

The defense environmental restoration program provides for the identification, investigation, and cleanup of contamination resulting from past DOD activities. At the beginning of 1996, the Department had 10,019 previously identified contaminated sites requiring no further action, leaving 12,568 active sites at over 688 military installations and 2,641 formerly used Defense properties. (These number do not include sites on closing installations.) For these sites, DOD is engaged in either a study to determine the extent of the contamination or the actual clean-up.

Beginning in FY 1997, Congress established five separate environmental restoration accounts, one for each military department, one for defense agencies and one for formerly used defense sites. These five decentralized accounts included all the functions formerly funded in the defense environmental restoration account.

PROCUREMENT

Appropriations in this title support the acquisition of weapons, equipment, munitions, spares, and modification of existing equipment.

Procurement continues in 1998 for the Army's ATACMS tactical missile system, the Javelin anti-armor missile system, SINGARS radios, UH-60 Blackhawk helicopters, tactical wheeled vehicles, improved conventional munitions, and the Hellfire anti-armor missile. Major upgrade programs are also included for the M-1 tank, the Bradley Fighting Vehicle and the AH-64 attack helicopter.

Modernization of our naval forces in 1998 is highlighted by procurement of the improved E/F version of the F/A-18 multi-role fighter and the V-22 Osprey tilt-rotor aircraft. Procurement of the T-45 trainer aircraft and remanufacture and upgrade of the AV-8B vertical/short takeoff and landing close air support aircraft continues. Procurement of Trident strategic missiles and conventional Tomahawk missiles continues. Procurement of DDG-51 guided missile destroyers continues along with funding of the New Attack Submarine and an aircraft carrier refueling.

Significant Air Force programs include procurement of AMRAAM air-to-air missiles, the Joint Standoff Weapon

(JSOW) precision munition, C-17 and C-130J airlift aircraft, satellites, and space launch vehicles. Procurement continues for the Joint STARS surveillance aircraft and for the JPATS trainer aircraft, a joint Navy/Air Force program.

In 1998, procurement of tactical missile defense systems continues under the central management of the Ballistic Missile Defense Organization in recognition of the increased worldwide tactical ballistic missile threat. Procurement of systems for deployment is funded in respective service appropriations.

The budget plan for each appropriation is shown as a separate table immediately following the program and financing schedules for those appropriations that are available for obligation for more than one year. In all years, it presents, by budget activity, the value of the program requested for the life of the multiple-year appropriation.

RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, TEST, AND EVALUATION

Appropriations in this title support modernization through basic and applied research, fabrication of technology-demonstration devices, and development and testing of prototypes and full-scale preproduction hardware. This work is performed by contractors, government laboratories and facilities, universities and nonprofit organizations. Research and development programs are funded to cover annual needs.

The budget plan for each appropriation is shown as a separate table immediately following the program and financing schedules for that appropriation. Funds for each fiscal year are available for obligation for a two-year period beginning on the first day of that fiscal year.

The 1998 budget provides for major technology and development efforts. These include science and technology programs emphasizing dual-use technologies, stealth technologies, ballistic missile defense, the Army Digitization Program, the Crusader Artillery System, advanced anti-tank weapons, the RAH-66 Commanche Helicopter, the F-22 Advanced Tactical Fighter, the F/A-18 E/F improved multirole fighter aircraft, the Joint Strike Fighter program, development of a new attack submarine, the V-22 tiltrotor aircraft, the Evolved Expendable Launch Vehicle program, and a new space-based warning system.

The Department will continue to emphasize technology efforts that ensure that the Nation will maintain a technological advantage over potential adversaries. Advanced Concept Technology Demonstrations will receive particular emphasis. Development and evaluation of technologies will be pursued through prototyping with further development and production based on identifiable threats and maturity of the technology.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION

The budget plan for each appropriation is shown as a separate table immediately following the program and financing schedules for those appropriations that are available for obligation for more than one year. In 1998 and 1999 it presents, by budget activity, the value of the program requested for the life of the multiple-year appropriations, with comparable amounts in 1996 and 1997.

The budget authority for military construction programs for the Armed Forces, both Active and Reserve, shown in the individual schedules of this title is summarized in the following table:

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

	[In millions of dollars]
	1996 actual	1997 est.	1998 est.	1999 est.
Active Forces	1,740	2,011	1,631	1,638
Reserve Forces	430	414	173	160
Interservice activities	4,723	3,435	2,911	2,449
Total	6,893	5,860	4,715	4,247

The Military Construction programs are intended to provide facilities required as a result of new weapon systems entering the inventory including aircraft and naval vessels, to support chemical demilitarization and other high priority initiatives. The program continues initiatives to improve living and working conditions, reduce operating costs, increase productivity, and conserve energy by upgrading or replacing facilities which have become functionally obsolete or can be made more efficient through relatively modest investments in improvements. Also included in this request are resources required to realign and close bases consistent with the four closure rounds required by the Base Closure Acts of 1989 and 1990, and the expected land revenues which partially offset the one-time costs of closures.

FAMILY HOUSING, DEFENSE

These appropriations finance all costs associated with construction, improvements, operations, maintenance and leasing of all military family housing. In addition to quality of life enhancements, the program contains initiatives to reduce operating costs and conserve energy by upgrading or replacing facilities which can be made more efficient through relatively modest investments in improvements.

The 1998 budget includes no new appropriations for the Department of Defense Family Housing Improvement Fund (FHIF). Instead, the Department will make transfers from appropriations for family housing construction projects when the Department determines that using the HRA authorities is more appropriate than traditional construction methods. Legislation will be proposed that would allow appropriations for family housing construction projects in the Base Closure and Realignment accounts to be transferred into the FHIF. Starting in FY 1998, appropriations for the administrative expenses of the Housing Revitalization and Support Office will be requested in the Operation and Maintenance, Defense-Wide account. The FHIF was created to finance the use of innovative methods authorized in the Housing Revitalization Act (HRA), P.L. 104-106, to meet the Department's housing needs. The HRA authorizes the Department to use limited partnerships, make direct and guaranteed loans, and convey Department-owned property to stimulate the availability of affordable, quality housing for military personnel. The Department hopes to increase its reliance on the private sector to provide quality housing for all military personnel much sooner than possible with traditional family housing programs at currently planned funding levels.

The budget plan for each appropriation is shown as a separate table immediately following the program and financing schedules for those appropriations that are available for obligation for more than one year. In 1998 and 1999 it presents, by budget activity, the value of the program requested for the life of the multiple-year appropriation, with comparable amounts in 1996 and 1997.

The National Defense Stockpile is planned and operated under the authority of the Strategic and Critical Materials Stockpiling Act. The purpose of the Stockpile is to decrease or preclude a dangerous and costly dependence by the United States upon foreign sources for supplies of strategic and critical materials in times of national emergency. The quantities of the materials stockpiled as required by the Stockpiling Act are to be sufficient to sustain the United States during a national emergency involving military conflict that necessitates an expansion of the Armed Forces together with a significant mobilization of the economy of the United States.

The National Defense Stockpile Transaction Fund provides for the financing of acquisition, disposal and upgrading of strategic and critical stockpile materials, and all related expenses such as transportation, development of specifications, testing, quality studies, and relocation of materials, and operation of the Defense National Stockpile Center.

The FY 1998 budget proposes transfers of $400 million for the National Defense Stockpile Transaction Fund to procurement accounts of the Army, Navy, and Air Force. This is part of the Administration's effort to provide funding for modernization. Also, the FY 1998 budget proposes transferring $50 million to the operation and maintenance accounts of the Army, Navy, and Air Force to provide funding for readiness-related programs.

Section 662 of the Defense Authorization Act for 1992 and 1993, Public Law 102-190, established the Voluntary Separation Incentive (VSI) Fund to help manage the ongoing military force drawdown. VSI provides annual payments to selected active-duty Service members with more than six but less than 20 years of service who leave the service voluntarily. The Act provided that after January 1, 1993, all voluntary separation incentive payments shall be made from the fund. The fund is financed through actuarially-determined Government contributions from the Department of Defense personnel appropriations to cover the unfunded liability and the present value of future benefits for those separating and interest on the investments. The Act requires that the total present value costs of VSI benefit payments be deposited in the fund by September 30, 1999 when the authority to approve VSI benefits ends. The authority to make VSI payments is effective only as provided in Appropriations Acts. This authority is contained in section 8054 of the 1997 Defense Appropriations Act.

The National Security Education Act of 1991 established a program for undergraduate scholarships, graduate fellowships, and grants to educational institutions in critical area studies, foreign languages and other international fields.

The Act enhances the quality of U.S. educational programs in these fields and, by making it possible for more U.S.-citizen students to study abroad, develop a pool of potential U.S. Government employees with knowledge of particular cultures, languages, and governments. The program is to be carried out by the Secretary of Defense in consultation with the National Security Education Board. The Board will establish the criteria for awards.
