This fund finances, on a reimbursable basis, building management activities consisting of: Management, rental, operation, and protection of Government-owned and leased space in and outside the District of Columbia for housing Federal agencies; modernization and recurring repairs to Government-owned space under jurisdiction of General Services Administration; protection and maintenance

nance of excess and surplus properties; and maintenance of sites acquired for future construction of Federal buildings; and other related building services (66 Stat. 594). Retained earnings resulting from operations, after making provision for prior year losses, if any, are paid into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

Operating costs for 1966 are estimated at $378 million, a net increase of $16.7 million over 1965, mainly due to work which will be performed for the Post Office Department in connection with its modernization program, and additional Government-owned space to be serviced.

1. Buildings management—(a) Operation and protection of Government-owned space.—Provides for operation and protection of an average of 138.3 million square feet of space in 1966 compared to an average of 132.9 million square feet in 1965 and an average of 125.1 million square feet in 1964. The change from 1965 reflects net additional space to be serviced due to construction of new buildings, buildings being vacated by the Post Office Department, and certain buildings being transferred to GSA for operation and protection.

(b) Rental, operation, and protection of leased space.—Provides for an average of 42.3 million square feet in 1966 compared to an average of 43.6 million square feet in 1965 and an average of 43.4 million square feet in 1964, based on currently projected requirements of Federal agencies.

2. Moving and space alterations.—Provides for moving and related alterations based on experience factors of buildings management operations.

3. Temporary space and moving costs incident to new buildings.—Provides for cost of moving and space adjustments incident to the new construction program.

4. Protection and maintenance, surplus properties.—Provides for protection and maintenance of excess and surplus properties.

5. Maintenance repairs.—Provides for day-to-day maintenance of GSA operated buildings, and other Government buildings under jurisdiction of General Services Administration.

6. Security guarding.—Provides extra guarding service for other agencies where specifically authorized by law.

7. Operation and maintenance of sites held for future construction.—Provides for maintenance of sites acquired for future construction of Federal buildings and repairs to improvements located thereon.

8. Job order work.—Provides for special services and repairs and improvements to buildings for General Services Administration and other agencies. Increases in 1965 and 1966 are primarily for work which will be performed for the Post Office Department in connection with its modernization program.

9. Other.—Provides for program supervision of repair and improvement operations as distinguished from architectural and design activities initially financed from the Construction services fund, utility services furnished in the District of Columbia to buildings operated by other agencies and utilities to concessionaires.

Operating results and financial condition.—At the end of 1964 the net investment in the fund was $1.4 million, composed of $3.5 million appropriated, $4.9 million capitalized assets, $0.9 million retained earnings, less $7.9 million provision for unfunded leave liability.

Construction service activities consisting of preparation of drawings and specifications for the construction or alteration of public buildings; supervision of construction and alteration activities; and surveys and test borings performed in connection with the acquisition of Federal building sites; and other related services are financed by this fund on a reimbursable basis from funds appropriated, transferred, or advanced to General Services Administration (40 U.S.C. 296).

Operations.—Initial financing of this fund provides for salaries and related expenses of all personnel engaged in architectural and engineering services in connection with buildings design and construction, both departmental and field. Estimates for 1965 and 1966 cover the GSA public building construction program, the repair and improvement program, and additional workload in connection with projects assigned to GSA by other Federal agencies.

Operating results.—Retained earnings will be reduced in 1965 to approximately $500 thousand and maintained at that level.

The appropriation provides for (1) establishment of efficient supply property management practices throughout the Federal Government and (2) expenses of operating the worldwide supply system through which commercial-type commodities are sold to Government agencies and cost-type contractors from depot stocks, or by direct delivery from suppliers, whichever is more economical and meets the needs of the Government. Except for customer orders placed directly with suppliers under Federal Supply schedule contracts, most of the purchases of commodities are financed initially from the General supply fund, subject to reimbursement by ordering agencies. Wherever economical and feasible, costs of commodities furnished directly from suppliers are paid directly from funds of the requisitioning agency without involving the General supply fund.

The budget includes an item for separate transmittal for 1965 of $2,835 thousand to finance an increase in stores stock sales from $330 million to $365 million, an increase in purchases of nonstores direct delivery items from $256 million to $283.4 million, and for expenses to develop automotive safety standards under Public Law 88-515, approved August 30, 1964.

Fair value of personal property received from other appropriations or funds without cost for use by GSA is as follows: 1964, $25 thousand; 1965, $14 thousand; 1966, $13 thousand.

1. Supply distribution.—Stocks of commercial-type commodities are received, warehoused, and issued on a worldwide basis to Federal agencies through a national supply distribution system consisting of both wholesale and retail distribution facilities. Stores stock sales reflect a continuous increase, as follows: 1962, $239.5 million; 1963, $259.7 million; 1964, $287.8 million; and 1965 and 1966 estimated at $365 million and $386 million, respectively, including the cost of transportation to destination.

2. Procurement.—Commodities are procured to maintain inventories at stores depots to insure availability in advance of sales orders and for direct delivery to agencies. Term contracts for commercial-type commodities and services are established for large aggregate volume requirements against which agencies place individual orders at uniform price advantages. Total procurement in 1966 is estimated at $1,825 million compared to $1,761.7 million in 1965 and actual purchases of $1,550.9 million in 1964.

3. Quality control and standardization.—(a) Inspection.—Timely delivery of commodities of specified quality is assured by inspection and surveillance at contractors' plants or supply depots, by laboratory tests and analyses of samples prior to acceptance, and by contract administration assistance.

(b) Supply standardization.—Qualitative requirements of Federal agencies are reflected in Federal specifications, Federal standards, and Federal item identifications which are mandatory for use in procurement. These documents collectively provide for optimum expansion of supply support by GSA of commercial-type items to Federal agencies and for competitive procurement. The estimated workload for 1965 and 1966 is based primarily upon new items entering the national supply system requiring identification and specifications and revisions to existing specifications to reflect changing technology applicable to the current requirements of Federal agencies. The cataloging program results in establishing a uniform identification for each item of supply and establishes a basis for expanding supply support by the General Services Administration once the commonality of the items is determined.

4. Supply management.—The national supply system is developed, coordinated, and monitored; supply management surveys of Federal agencies' supply operations are conducted and recommendations are made for improving their efficiency and economy within the framework of the national supply system; supply management policies, procedures, methods and informational guides and training material for Government-wide application are promulgated; and the nationwide supply data system of the Federal supply service is designed, installed, and maintained.

items and provide for the necessary expenses in connection with development of automotive safety standards under Public Law 88-515, approved August 30, 1964. The current appropriation of $50.7 million will provide financing for only $330 million of sales from stock and $256 million of nonstores direct delivery items.

This fund finances, on a reimbursable basis, a national supply depot system and a system of ordering supplies for direct delivery to agencies. Supplies or services are sold from the fund at cost to other agencies and the District of Columbia. Related operating expenses are provided for under the appropriation Operating expenses, Federal Supply Service.

Also financed by the fund and reimbursed by using agencies are the operations of interagency motor vehicle pools established in areas of high vehicle density and the rehabilitation and repair of furniture and equipment.

Budget program.—The estimate provides for continued increases in sales to the military under the program for progressively expanding use of these supply facilities by the Department of Defense, and a slight increase in sales to civilian agencies. The estimate also contemplates the activation of additional motor vehicle pools.

Supply operations.—(a) Stores, regular.—Stocks of common-use commodities are purchased in volume and stored in supply depots for issue to Government agencies. From an alltime high of $287.8 million in 1964, sales are estimated to increase to $365 million and $386 million in 1965 and 1966, respectively.

(b) Stores, direct delivery.—Orders for stores-type items, if sufficiently large and delivery time is not a factor, are placed with the commercial source of supply and delivered directly to the customer. Sales were $36.3 million in 1964, and are estimated to increase to $44 million in 1965 and $50 million in 1966.

(c) Nonstores items.—Definite quantity requirements of commodities which are not susceptible to economical stocking in supply depots are purchased for direct shipment to using agencies. Sales through the fund are expected to increase from $168.9 million in 1964 to $225 million in 1965 and $227 million in 1966.

Export operations.—Stores and nonstores items are shipped to oversea customers. Receipts to the fund covering packing, transportation costs, and other reimbursable services are expected to increase from $16.1 million in 1964 to $19.5 million in 1965 and $23 million in 1966.

Equipment rental.—Operating and ADP equipment is purchased and charged on an accrual basis to the using activities. Receipts are estimated to increase from $0.5 million in 1964 to $0.9 million in 1965 and $3.3 million in 1966.

Rehabilitation and repair of furniture and equipment.—Furniture and equipment repair services, provided through commercial sources wherever feasible and economical, are estimated to increase from $5.5 million in 1964 to $7 million in 1965 and 1966.

Motor pools.—Services are provided to agencies through a system of interagency motor pools. Sales are estimated to increase from $28.2 million in 1964 to $34 million in 1965 and $34.4 million in 1966.

Other revenue and expense.—Gain or losses on equipment disposals, adjustments between fiscal years, inventory writeoffs, and discounts are applied against operating costs.

Operating results and financial condition.—Investment of the U.S. Government at the end of 1966 is estimated at $269.2 million consisting of $197.7 million direct appropriations, $68 million donated assets, $0.6 million capitalized surplus, and retained earnings of $3 million with $0.1 million deducted for long-term leave liability.

Upon establishment of interagency motor pools additional donated assets arising from transfers of motor vehicles from other agencies will be capitalized in the fund.

Any operating surplus, as determined by the General Accounting Office audit, must be returned to Treasury as miscellaneous receipts. Payments to be so made in 1965 and 1966 are $4,802 thousand and $3 million, respectively.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1963, $175 thousand; (1964 adjustments—$51 thousand); 1964, $744 thousand; 1965, $426 thousand; 1966, $276 thousand.

This appropriation, derived from proceeds from the transfer of excess property and the disposal of surplus property, provides for all utilization and disposal functions of the General Services Administration with respect to excess and surplus real and personal property and the rehabilitation of personal property to be performed by the Utilization and Disposal Service. Exceptions to this are fees of auctioneers, brokers, etc., and reimbursable services performed under the personal property rehabilitation program, both of which are financed through other accounts.

Increases for 1966 provide for further emphasis on reuse of existing real and personal property to obviate new capital and procurement outlays, or prompt disposal.

The selling price of property and rental income in 1964 was $101.4 million, and is estimated to increase to $116.4 million in 1965 and $122.5 million in 1966.

Fair value of personal property received from other appropriations or funds without cost for use by GSA is as follows: 1964, $5 thousand; 1965, $6 thousand; and 1966, $6 thousand.

1. Real property.—This activity provides for (a) utilization of excess and disposal of surplus real property, including national industrial reserve properties; (b) protection and maintenance of excess, surplus, and national industrial reserve properties; and (c) payments in lieu of taxes on certain properties as required by law. The estimate provides for utilization transfers of 130 properties in 1966 as compared to 125 in 1965 and sale of 300 surplus properties for $110 million in 1966 as compared to 295 for $105 million in 1965.

2. Personal property.—This activity provides for (a) utilization of excess personal property, thereby reducing new procurement; (b) donation of surplus personal property for public benefit purposes; (c) sale of surplus and exchange/sale personal property; and (d) rehabilitation of personal property owned by the Government to extend its useful life. The estimate for 1966 provides for: Utilization transfers and donations totaling $1,075 million at acquisition cost compared to $1,050 million in 1965; proceeds from sale of surplus and exchange/sale property totaling $12 million compared to $11 million in 1965; and rehabilitation of personal property amounting to $70 million at acquisition cost compared to $63 million in 1965.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders 1963, $195 thousand (1964 adjustments, $183 thousand); 1964, $193 thousand; 1965, $193 thousand; 1966, $193 thousand.

This appropriation provides for basic operations dealing with management of the Government's archives and records and for operation of presidential libraries. The estimate for 1966 is $242 thousand more than 1965 financing, $123 thousand of which is for increased regional records center activities.

Fair value of personal property received from other appropriations or funds without cost for use by GSA is as follows: 1964, $163 thousand; 1965, $86 thousand; 1966, $58 thousand.

1. Records management and centers.—Records of Federal agencies which must be retained for a period of time, but are not needed for frequent reference, are brought into and administered in regional Federal records centers serving specified geographical areas. National centers at St. Louis administer records of veterans of the armed services and records of former civilian employees of the Government and maintain a locator file for civilians currently employed. In addition to civilian agencies, records center facilities are now furnished to the entire Naval Establishment, the Army and Air Force at the seat of government, and for selected Army records throughout the world.

In 1966 records in custody of the National Archives and Federal records centers will total 9 million cubic feet. Reference services will total 5.3 million.

2. Archives and related services.—The permanently valuable records of the Government are selected, arranged, cataloged, preserved, and serviced in the Archives of the United States. Related services consist of (a) publication of the Federal Register and related compilations and the United States Statutes at Large, (b) preservation and servicing of historical materials in presidential libraries, and (c) servicing the National Historical Publications Commission.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders; 1963, $131 thousand (1964 adjustment, -$3 thousand); 1964, $133 thousand; 1965, $133 thousand; 1966, $133 thousand.

This appropriation provides for improving management of transportation, communication, and public utility services in all civilian agencies, and for providing specialized services to civilian agencies in each of these fields.

1. Transportation services.—Guides and procedures and educational programs for improving transportation practices and operations in civilian agencies are developed; reasonable rates are negotiated with carriers; and procurement assistance, rates, routing, and related services are supplied to executive agencies.

2. Communication services.—Networks are designed and engineered for a Federal communications system for general and national defense use, compatible with the National Communications System. Studies of equipment utilization, service, rates and economic factors are made, contracts negotiated, and management and control of operations are provided.

3. Motor vehicle management.—Government-wide policies and procedures are developed to improve the overall efficiency of the operation of the Government-owned motor vehicle fleet, and to assist the various Federal agencies with motor equipment management.

4. Public utilities services.—Reviews of utilities practices are made and management assistance is provided executive agencies. Negotiations are conducted with public utilities companies on behalf of executive agencies and technical assistance is rendered in connection with regulatory proceedings.

Representation services are provided the Department of Defense in public utility cases generally and in proceedings relating to the semiautomatic ground environment system (SAGE).

This fund, authorized by Public Law 87-847, approved October 23, 1962, finances, on a reimbursable basis, a telecommunications system for the Federal Government operationally compatible with military communications systems. The system provides local and long distance voice, teletype, data, facsimile and other communications services.

Expenses payable from the fund include personal services, procurement by lease or purchase of equipment and operating facilities (including cryptographic devices), and other costs necessary to operate the system. These expenses are reimbursed from available appropriations and funds of any agency, organization, or persons for telecommunications services and facilities made available to them.

Initial capital of $9 million was appropriated by Public Law 88-25, approved May 17, 1963. This sum may be increased by donations of supplies and equipment.

Budget program.—The estimate provides for a continued increase in volume and quality of communications services provided to executive agencies of the Government. Total sales for 1964 were $41.8 million and are estimated at $62.7 million in 1965 and $70 million in 1966.

1. Voice program.—This provides for a telephonic system which will enable personnel in each Federal agency office to communicate directly on a machine-to-machine or station-to-station basis with any other agency office in the Nation. The system will provide day-to-day service as well as incorporate features which would be necessary in emergency situations.

2. Record program.—A common unified system to satisfy record communications requirements of all Federal civil agencies provides machine-to-machine service for transmission of information by data, teletypewriter, facsimile, and other transmission media while at the same time providing message processing capability required for peak-period traffic loads, time zone differences, machine code and language translation, and processing of multiple address messages.

3. Circuit procurement program.—Provides for centralized procurement of circuits while at the same time permitting each agency to maintain operational control over its own circuits, thereby obtaining benefit of multiple tariff offerings of the commercial carriers.

4. Special programs.—Provides for an effective communications security program for civil agencies in keeping with objectives of the U.S. communications security plan, and for a consolidated program of procurement and maintenance of equipment to implement such security plans. These programs insure that the Federal Telecommunications System will remain operational in the event any portion of the normal system is disabled or destroyed.

Operating results and financial condition.—At the end of 1965 the net investment in the fund is estimated to be $8.4 million, composed of $9 million appropriated, less $0.6 million unfunded leave liability. Following the close of each fiscal year any surplus earnings, after making provision for prior year losses, if any, are to be deposited in miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1963, $2,614 thousand (1964 adjustments, -$734 thousand); 1964, $2,009 thousand; 1965, $1,506 thousand; 1966, $1,512 thousand.

The Defense Materials Service acquires and administers national stockpile inventories pursuant to the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act, and has custody of the supplemental stockpile established by the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954. Programs are administered in accordance with guidelines established by the Office of Emergency Planning. This Service also administers the inventory of machine tools and industrial manufacturing equipment established under the National Industrial Reserve Act of 1948. The Department of Defense makes selections for the reserve and provides program guidance.

The 1966 obligational program of $17.5 million is to provide $0.8 million for new material acquisition, and handling costs involved in upgrading stockpiled materials required to meet objectives; $12.3 million for inventory management, and disposal of material excess to stockpile needs; $1.2 million for national industrial equipment reserve activities; and $3.2 million for operating expenses.

In arriving at requirements to meet stockpile objectives, all U.S. Government inventories of strategic materials in GSA custody are taken into account. Data below reflect in composite the extent to which current national stockpile objectives are provided for: (a) from financing under the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act, and (b) under all U.S. Government programs involving strategic materials.

Total objectives are valued at $3,509.3 million. June 30, 1964, prices have been used.

(b) Upgrading materials.—Stockpile materials are upgraded to more usable forms in order to provide a minimum readiness inventory of materials in forms suitable for immediate use to meet the initial surge of demand and abnormal conditions of intensive mobilization. Payment for all processing and transportation costs to the maximum extent possible will be made by transfer of excess materials to contractors. The 1966 estimate covers only handling cost involved in upgrading.

2. Inventory management.—Covers cost of maintaining materials in the national and supplemental stockpiles so that they will be available for immediate use in any emergency, including rotation, storage, special preservation, and disposal of materials no longer required for stockpile objectives. The acquisition cost of these materials as of June 30, 1964, was $7,035.5 million.

(a) Rotation of materials.—Perishable materials in the national stockpile are sold and replaced with fresh material when their usability becomes impaired for essential emergency requirements. Sisal cordage fiber is the only material to be rotated in 1966. A proposed change in appropriation language would authorize the use of excess materials in the national stockpile or the Defense Production Act inventory as payment for the replacement cost of this fiber.

(b) Storage of materials.—Strategic and critical materials were stored at 158 locations as of June 30, 1964, utilizing approximately 95 million square feet of storage space. Materials in the national and supplemental stockpiles totaled approximately 44.9 million tons on June 30, 1964, and it is expected that approximately one million tons a year will be added to the supplemental stockpile in 1965 and 1966 under barter program. Distribution of storage costs is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Recurring storage costs.....	8,423	8,415	7,876
Nonrecurring storage costs.....	1,396	1,800	1,800
Relocation transportation and handling..	547	825	738
Total cost or estimate.....	10,366	11,040	10,414

(c) Disposal of materials.—Covers handling and transportation expenses incurred in connection with the disposal of materials no longer required for stockpile objectives (in thousands of dollars):

Total cost or estimate.....	911	1,750	1,900

Disposals on a commitment basis from the national stockpile in 1964 totaled approximately $127.1 million for about 167,600 short tons of materials, including rubber, tin, cadmium, magnesium, coconut oil, castor oil, and feathers and down.

As of June 30, 1964, a total of over 403,600 short tons of excess materials in the national stockpile were available for disposal under approved disposal plans. The estimates for transportation and handling expenses incurred in effecting disposals are based upon projected disposals of $183.5 million in 1965 and $200 million in 1966.

3. National industrial equipment reserve.—The reserve of Government-owned machine tools and other industrial manufacturing equipment authorized by the National Industrial Reserve Act of 1948 consists entirely of items selected by the Secretary of Defense from lists of such property declared excess to the needs of the three military departments and other executive agencies.

Items in the national industrial equipment reserve are intended primarily for expansion in an emergency of defense-supporting industries such as manufacturers of ball bearings, gears, tools and dies, and machine tools. Each of the military departments also maintains a reserve of production equipment for current and mobilization requirements of direct military contractors and producers specifically designated as mobilization suppliers.

In accordance with Department of Defense estimates for total selections for the national industrial equipment reserve from excess declarations of production equipment, budget estimates are based on selection rates of 800 items in 1965 and 750 items in 1966. In addition to the 750 selections in 1966, approximately 300 items will be returned to storage from the school loan program.

During 1963 and 1964, as authorized by the Department of Defense, GSA entered into 23 and 28 loan agreements, respectively, with vocational schools for equipment in the national industrial equipment reserve where such loans are in the interest of national defense.

4. Operating expenses.—Covers all expenses at the central and regional office levels for administering programs financed under this appropriation head including the Defense Materials Service and the integrated staff offices of GSA. Total workload will increase based on the accelerated disposal programs with staffing and related expenses holding at minimum requirements.

Under the provisions of Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1957, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was abolished as a corporate entity and the remaining functions of the Smaller War Plants Corporation and the World War II assets program were transferred to the General Services Administration for final liquidation.

Operations.—It is anticipated that there will continue during 1966 the servicing of leases and conditional sales agreements covering three facilities, and four other miscellaneous assets. Financial and legal servicing will also be required on approximately 20 cases in the hands of the Department of Justice under the complex food subsidy program. In 1966 administrative expenses in connection with financial and legal services will be absorbed in funds available from regular GSA programs.

Operating results.—Proceeds from liquidation will be paid into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury.

credit, insurance, and related financial services. Overall management of automatic data processing is provided under this head as well as that portion of data processing costs required to perform general agencywide functions such as mechanized accounting and payroll; however, financing of all automatic data processing operations is through "Advances and reimbursements, general activities." (b) Manpower and administration consisting of personnel, fair employment, compliance, educational institutes, and office services. (c) Management staff provides for the staff of manpower utilization, program review and analysis, organization and management policy and Governmentwide data processing coordination. (d) Direction and supervision.

2. Legal services are performed for all programs of GSA in the fields of real property, personal property, archives and records, transportation and communications, strategic and critical materials stockpiling, and finance and administration.

Fair value of personal property received from other appropriations or funds without cost for use by General Services Administration is as follows: 1964, $60 thousand; 1965, $32 thousand; 1966, $30 thousand.

Central blueprinting, photostating, duplicating, and distribution services are financed by a working capital fund pending reimbursements (40 U.S.C. 293). The Joint Committee on Printing, U.S. Congress, authorized the establishment of eight field printing plants in GSA regional offices, in addition to the plant in Washington, D.C., to meet the needs of GSA and other Federal agencies. All authorized plants have been activated. In addition, nine duplicating plants are now in operation, and it is anticipated that GSA will establish approximately five new centralized duplicating plants each year for the next several years.

Operating results.—Surplus earnings are deposited into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury. Through June 30, 1964, a total of $246 thousand has been deposited.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

The appropriate appropriation or fund available to the General Services Administration shall be credited with (1) cost of operation, protection, maintenance, upkeep, repair, and improvement, included as part of rentals received from Government corporations pursuant to law (40 U.S.C. 129); (2) reimbursements for services performed in respect to bonds and other obligations under the jurisdiction of the General Services Administration, issued by public authorities, States, or other public bodies, and such services in respect to such bonds or obligations as the Administrator deems necessary and in the public interest may, upon the request and at the expense of the issuing agencies, be provided from the appropriate foregoing appropriation; and (3) appropriations or funds available to other agencies, and transferred to the General Services Administration, in connection with property transferred to the General Services Administration pursuant to the Act of July 2, 1948 (50 U.S.C. 451ff), and such appropriations or funds may be so transferred, with the approval of the Bureau of the Budget.

Appropriations to the General Services Administration under the heading "Construction, Public Buildings Projects" made in this Act shall be available, subject to the provisions of the Public Buildings Act of 1959 for (1) acquisition of buildings and sites thereof by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise, including prepayment of purchase contracts, (2) extension or conversion of Government-owned buildings, and (3) construction of new buildings, in addition to those set forth under that appropriation [; Provided, That nothing herein shall authorize an expenditure of funds for acquisition, extension or conversion, or construction without the approval of the Committees on Appropriations of the Senate and House of Representatives].

Funds available to the General Services Administration for data processing activities may be expended and accounted for through a management fund, and such expenditures may include payments to the General Supply Fund for the use of equipment: Provided, That charges to the various appropriations and funds shall be approximately equal to the costs incurred on their behalf.

Funds available to the General Services Administration shall be available for the hire of passenger motor vehicles.

No part of any money appropriated by this or any other Act for any agency of the executive branch of the Government shall be used during the current fiscal year for the purchase within the continental limits of the United States of any typewriting machines except in accordance with regulations issued pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended.

Not to exceed 2 per centum of any appropriation made available to the General Services Administration for the current fiscal year by this Act may be transferred to any other such appropriation, but no such appropriation shall be increased thereby more than 2 per centum: Provided, That such transfers shall apply only to operating expenses, and shall not exceed in the aggregate the amount of $2,000,000.

Appropriations available to any department or agency during the current fiscal year for necessary expenses including maintenance or operating expenses, shall also be available for (a) reimbursement to the General Services Administration for those expenses of renovation and alteration of buildings and facilities which constitute public improvements, performed in accordance with the Public Buildings Act of 1959 (73 Stat. 479) or other applicable law, and (b) transfer or reimbursement to applicable appropriations to said Administration for rents and related expenses, not otherwise provided for, of providing subject to Executive Order 11035, dated July 9, 1962, directly or indirectly, suitable general purpose space for any such department or agency, in the District of Columbia or elsewhere.

[No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used for the payment of rental on lease agreements for the accommodation of Federal agencies in buildings and improvements which are to be erected by the lessor for such agencies at an estimated cost of construction in excess of $200,000 or for the payment of the salary of any person who executes such a lease agreement: Provided, That the foregoing proviso shall not be applicable to projects for which a prospectus for the lease construction of space has been submitted to and approved by the appropriate Committees of the Congress in the same manner as for the public buildings construction projects pursuant to the Public Buildings Act of 1959.] (Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1965.)

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1963, $200 thousand (1964 adjustments, -$74 thousand); 1964, $162 thousand; 1965, $162 thousand; 1966, $162 thousand.

1. General agency supervision.—The Administrator of the Agency is responsible for the general supervision and coordination of all Agency activities and is directly responsible for several programs administered by constituents of the Agency under delegation of authority by the Administrator. These include: the program of rehabilitation loans under the Housing Act of 1964, urban renewal, urban planning assistance, and open-space land programs administered by the Urban Renewal Commissioner; and the programs of college housing loans, public facility loans, public works planning advances, loans for housing for the elderly or handicapped, and certain liquidating activities administered by the Community Facilities Commissioner. The Administrator serves as chairman of the board of directors of the Federal National Mortgage Association and as chairman of the National Voluntary Mortgage Credit Extension Committee.

2. Directly administered programs.—These consist of (a) a consolidated investigation and compliance staff serving the entire Agency, (b) community disposition activities which are explained in detail under public enterprise funds, and (c) staff expenses in connection with the urban studies and housing research, low-income housing demonstrations, city planning fellowships, and Federal-State training programs, described on succeeding pages.

3. Community facilities programs.—This includes staff expenses for (a) college housing loans, (b) public facility loans, (c) public works planning advances, (d) loans for housing for the elderly or handicapped, and (e) liquidating activities described under public enterprise funds. Also included are staff expenses, financed from fees, for (f) financial audits and construction inspections of college housing and public facility projects.

4. Urban renewal programs.—This includes staff expenses for (a) urban planning assistance, (b) urban renewal activities, (c) the open-space land program, and (d) rehabilitation loans, all of which are described on succeeding pages. Also included are costs, financed from fees, of (e) representation and inspection of urban renewal projects and financial audits of urban renewal and urban planning assistance projects. For the budget year, certain costs of project representation heretofore financed from appropriated funds will be financed from fees under the limitation on nonadministrative expenses, below.

5. Urban transportation program.—This includes staff expenses for the program of facility and demonstration grants and facility loans in support of urban transportation authorized by the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 (49 U.S.C. 1601). These activities are described in connection with the Urban mass transportation fund set forth under public enterprise funds.

All funds available to the Administrator for operating or staff expenses are consolidated in a single operating expense fund managed under this appropriation title as authorized by 12 U.S.C. 1701(c)(3).

Grants are provided to supplement State and local funds for the purpose of financing comprehensive urban planning and helping communities solve planning problems resulting from changes in the urban economy and population. Cities under 50,000, counties, metropolitan areas, and States, as well as Indian reservations, are eligible to receive assistance, which generally amounts to two-thirds of the total cost of an urban planning project. However, for localities situated in redevelopment areas designated under section 5 of the Area Redevelopment Act of 1961 (75 Stat. 47), or in areas in which there has occurred a substantial reduction in employment opportunities as a result of Federal action, grants may amount to as much as three-fourths of the project cost regardless of population.

The program encourages and assists comprehensive planning for entire urban areas having common or related urban development problems. The planning work accomplished under the program embraces all the basic factors essential to sound urban growth. These include, but are not limited to, comprehensive land use planning to guide residential, commercial, and industrial expansion, and planning the general location of transportation and other facilities, such as schools, utilities, and recreational facilities. Grant recipients are required to coordinate their planning work with other jurisdictions and with related programs of the Federal government.

The budget program for 1966 assumes enactment of additional authorization for appropriations.

URBAN STUDIES AND HOUSING RESEARCH

For urban studies and housing research as authorized by the Housing Acts of 1948 and 1956, as amended, including administrative expenses in connection therewith, [§387,400] $1,500,000. (Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1965.)

This program includes both statistical data collection and special studies of housing and urban development for use in the preparation and administration of complex Federal programs; for program management and use in the formulation and execution of community development programs at State and local government levels; and for market guidance to homebuilders and producers of building materials.

The program for such studies and research is carried out primarily through contracts with other Federal agencies, educational institutions, and nonprofit private research organizations.

Grants to State and local public bodies to help finance acquisition or permanent interest in undeveloped or predominantly undeveloped land in urban areas useful for park, recreation, conservation, historic, or scenic purposes are authorized by title VII of the Housing Act of 1961 (42 U.S.C. 1500), as amended. The program is designed to assist public bodies in taking prompt action to preserve as open space that land essential to economic and otherwise desirable long-range urban development, which will also curb urban sprawl and prevent the spread of urban blight and deterioration. Safeguards are provided to prohibit subsequent conversion of open space land to other uses.

The budget estimate for administrative expenses includes funds for technical assistance and studies as authorized by section 705 of the Housing Act of 1961.

The budget program for 1966 assumes enactment of additional authorization for appropriation and legislation to increase the Federal share of land acquisition cost.

The Housing Act of 1950, as amended (12 U.S.C. 1749), authorizes direct long-term loans to assist institutions of higher education in providing housing and related facilities for students and faculty, and to hospitals for housing facilities for student nurses and interns. The Treasury borrowing authorization which funds the program currently amounts to $2,875 million. Estimates for the budget year anticipate enactment of $110 million additional authority during the current year. Interest rates are based on a statutory formula and are limited to the higher of either 2.75% or 0.25% above the average rate on all interest-bearing obligations forming a part of the Federal debt. The 1965 rate is 3.75%.

Budget program.—Net loan reservations are estimated at $300 million for the current year and for the budget year. A loan reservation is made after preliminary review of an application filed to determine the general eligibility and feasibility of a project. The reservation assures availability of loan funds to the applicant at the completion of Agency review of the loan application. The following table shows funds available and net reservations issued (in thousands of dollars):

Unreserved balance, start.....	61,424	128,189	281,949

Net loan reservations.....	298,452	300,000	300,000
Unreserved balance, end.....	128,189	281,949	24,224

Reservations are converted into loan contracts after detailed planning, filing of a full application, and comprehensive Agency review of engineering, architectural, financing, and legal aspects of proposed projects. After execution of the loan contracts, the institutions proceed with preparation of final plans and specifications, award of construction contracts, construction, and preparation of indentures and marketing of bonds in the private market or sale to the Government. Principal workload items are set forth in the following table:

Applications received.....	312	315	315
Gross loan reservations.....	289	280	277
Gross loan approvals.....	257	269	227

Financing.—Bond purchases are estimated at $288.5 million in the current year and $323.8 million in the budget year. Purchase of bonds ordinarily occurs when construction is well advanced.

Disbursements are based on the following projected construction schedule:

Completions.....	280	221	267

Operating results and financial condition.—Net earnings of $6,324 thousand are estimated for the budget year. The cumulative deficit was eliminated by the end of 1964 by which time all operating costs, including staff expenses and allowances for losses, incurred since the inception of the program were entirely recovered by the Government.

The Housing Amendments of 1955, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1492) authorize direct, long-term loans to municipalities and other subdivisions and instrumentalities of States and to Indian tribes for financing construction of essential public works. In addition, loans for provision of mass transportation facilities were authorized by the Housing Act of 1961, as amended. Loans are made only when credit is not otherwise available on reasonable terms and conditions.

The loan program is funded by a Treasury borrowing authorization aggregating $650 million, of which $50 million is available solely for mass transportation facilities. The $50 million borrowing authorization for mass transportation loans has been transferred to the Urban mass transportation fund. Other financial and budgetary information regarding mass transportation loans may also be found in the Urban mass transportation fund.

Communities with populations up to 50,000 are eligible for public facility loans, but the basic program extends priority to municipalities under 10,000 population for water, sewage, and gas distribution systems. Other eligible communities are those with populations up to 150,000 in redevelopment areas as designated by the Area Redevelopment Administration and in areas where the National Aeronautics and Space Administration maintains research or development installations. Financial assistance is also extended to public agencies or instrumentalities serving one or more municipalities, political subdivisions, or unincorporated areas in one or more States without regard to the aggregate population of the communities which they serve, so long as each of these communities is within the existing population limits of the program. Public facility loans may run for as long as 40 years and must be of sound value or so secured as reasonably to assure repayment. Interest rates are based on a statutory formula and are limited basically to the higher of either 3% or 0.50% above the average rate on all interest-bearing obligations forming part of the Federal debt. The 1965 rate is 4% for regular public facility loan projects and 3.75% for projects in redevelopment areas.

Budget program.—Net loan approvals are estimated at $60 million for the current year plus $25 million for the purchase of Alaska State bonds, and $100 million for the budget year; sales of bonds from portfolio and repayments are estimated at $6.7 and $7 million for the respective years. The following table shows the relationship of this program to available funds (in thousands of dollars):

Loan approvals are made after Agency review of engineering, financial, and legal aspects of proposed projects. After loan approval, the locality proceeds with preparation of final plans and specifications, award of construction contracts, construction, and preparation of indentures and marketing of bonds in the private market or sale to the Government. Principal workload items are set forth in the following table:

Financing.—Budget expenditures for the program total $41.2 million for 1965 and $42.9 million for 1966. At the end of the budget year, outstanding Treasury notes are estimated at $245.2 million.

Operating results.—The estimated net loss of $1.6 million in the budget year is largely attributable to the $1.2 million increase in the allowance for losses. Cumulative deficit at the end of 1966 totals $10.6 million of which $6.8 million represents allowance for losses.

Interest-free advances to States, municipalities, local public agencies, and metropolitan areas and regions for the planning of local public works are authorized by the Housing Act of 1954 (40 U.S.C. 462), as amended. The program is designed to (1) encourage the preparation and maintenance of a current and adequate reserve of planned public works which can readily be placed under construction, and (2) promote economy and efficiency in planning and building public works.

Advances are made only if the project is planned to be constructed within a reasonable period of time—considering the nature of the project. Projects must be in conformity with applicable State, regional, and local development plans. The following table shows funds available for approval of advances during the budget period (in thousands of dollars):

Appropriations.....	2,000	14,000	15,000

Net advances approved.....	10,547	24,000	25,000

Advances are repayable when construction commences on the project, except that such repayment is waived when construction is initiated as a result of a grant made in accordance with the Public Works Acceleration Act (40 U.S.C. 462g). Capital lost to the revolving fund as a result of forgiveness of advances pursuant to that act is being recovered from $4 million appropriated for this purpose in the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1965.

Budget program.—Actual and estimated program activity is shown in the following tabulation (dollars in thousands):

Net approvals:
Number.....	526	705	660
Amount.....	$10,547	$24,000	$25,000

Financing.—The program is financed by an authorized revolving fund of $78 million. The budget program anticipates legislation to authorize additional appropriations.

Operating results.—The cumulative deficit at the end of 1966 is estimated at $42.5 million of which $13.9 million represents an allowance for losses.

The Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1955, established a single revolving fund for the more efficient liquidation of assets acquired under a number of Housing and Home Finance Agency programs as well as any other programs which might be transferred by subsequent legislation. Under the terms of Public Law 88-560, outstanding advances under the first and second advance planning programs were transferred in 1964 from this fund to the public works planning fund in order that these advances might be collected under the terms of the later act.

Some $26 million in assets, with a net book value of $18 million, remained on June 30, 1964. Most of these assets were bonds of local governments. Several real properties, acquired by foreclosure or reversion from local governments on termination of specified uses, are being disposed of. Out of property originally capitalized at $2.5 billion, $413 million was transferred to other agencies for continued use, $786 million was transferred to local governments, and $891 million has been recovered and returned to the Treasury. URBAN RENEWAL

Federal assistance to local governments for acquisition, clearance, redevelopment, and rehabilitation of slums and blighted areas was authorized by the Housing Act of 1949, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1453). Federal grants may defray two-thirds of the net project cost, except in cities with a population of less than 50,000 (or 150,000 if located in a redevelopment area as designated by the Area Redevelopment Administration) where the Federal share is three-fourths for projects approved after June 30, 1961.

The authorization to make contracts for urban renewal grants now totals $4,725 million, of which $25 million was provided for emergency projects in Alaska following the earthquakes of early 1964. The unexpended balances of the $25 million made available for mass transportation demonstration grants by the Housing Act of 1961 is being transferred to the Urban mass transportation fund. Temporary project financing and long-term financing of land disposed of under lease agreements through direct or guaranteed loans are provided from a Treasury borrowing authorization of $1 billion.

Before Federal assistance is extended, a community is required to develop a workable program for community improvement, which is a communitywide plan of action utilizing local resources, both public and private, to eliminate and prevent slums and blight and to foster local development. Acceptable programs are certified by the Administrator for 1 year. Annual recertification, based on demonstrated satisfactory progress, is required for continued eligibility for additional Federal assistance. The budget is based on the following volume of workable program activity:

Budget program.—New reservations and adjustments in existing, reservations will total $760 million net in 1966. This assumes the enactment of $675 million in additional authorization in 1965. An administrative reservation of contract authority for grants is made at the time of approval of each urban renewal project (including the estimated cost of relocation payments), community renewal program, and urban renewal demonstration.

1. Projects.—Urban renewal projects are usually approved for grant reservation at the beginning of the planning period. In the case of general neighborhood renewal plans, which cover a larger or more complex area from which more than one project is expected to develop, reservations are made for the first project when approval is initially given for preparation of the overall plan. The reservation assures the availability of grant assistance when it is needed after the substantial community activity required for planning an urban renewal project. The following table reflects planning activity for urban renewal projects, including general neighborhood renewal plans:

Net new approvals.....	1,295	156	215	245
Planning completed.....	717	143	225	200
Planning in process, end of year.....	578	591	581	626

When a project is ready to enter the execution phase, a loan and grant contract is drawn between the community and the Housing and Home Finance Agency. In addition to a statement of the community's responsibility for carrying out the project in accordance with the general plan, the contract provides for progress grant payments based on extent of performance and for Federal or federally guaranteed lending for working capital. The number of projects in execution is shown in the following table:

	Cumulative as of June 30, 1963	1964 actual	1965 estimate	1966 estimate
Projects approved for loan and grant.....	732	143	225	200
Projects completed (Federal closeout).....	106	51	68	70
Projects active, end of year.....	626	718	875	1,005

2. Relocation.—Grants also are provided to reimburse the community for relocation payments made to cover moving expenses of families and businesses displaced from urban renewal areas, including actual direct losses of property not otherwise compensated for. A maximum of $200 per family and the actual certified costs, not in excess of $25 thousand per business are allowable. In addition, legislation enacted as a part of the Housing Act of 1964 provides relocation adjustment payments to families, individuals and small businesses under certain circumstances to ease the burden of relocation.

3. Urban renewal demonstration.—Grants up to two-thirds of the total cost of demonstration projects are available to public bodies. A demonstration project may involve the development and testing of new or improved methods of blight prevention and elimination, together with an analysis and report of the demonstration. These reports are published to help guide renewal programs in other cities.

4. Community renewal.—Federal grants are available to pay up to two-thirds of the cost incurred in preparing a local community renewal program covering the full range of urban renewal action required to meet needs on a citywide basis. All the deteriorated and deteriorating areas of the city can be identified and classified as to the relative urgency and degree of urban renewal action needed. The locality's resources for taking urban renewal action can be established and the community can develop a long-range program for urban renewal, including provision of related public improvements. The following table shows estimated community renewal program activity (dollars in millions):

Net approvals.....	97	21	30	30
Community renewal programs completed.....	1	5	25	50
Active, end of year.....	96	112	117	97
Grants approved in year.....	$12.3	$4.7	$6.0	$6.0

Progress and final grant payments for urban renewal activities are expected to reach a cumulative total of $1,623 million by the end of 1966, requiring a grant appropriation of $331 million in the budget year.

6. Alaska disaster.—The 1964 amendments to the Alaska Omnibus Act (Public Law 88-451, approved August 18, 1964) provided $25 million of contract authorization for urban renewal projects to aid in the reconstruction and redevelopment made necessary by the March 1964 earthquake. The Federal share of net project costs may be increased up to 90% if a major portion of the project area has either been rendered unusable by the disaster or is needed for new locations for those displaced by the disaster.

Budget program.—The Treasury borrowing authority of $1 billion is available for loan assistance to finance the planning and execution of urban renewal projects through the following types of commitments:

1. Planning advances.—Advances provide for costs directly associated with project planning. They are repayable, with interest, from funds made available to the projects during execution.

2. Temporary loans.—These are short-term direct Federal loans to provide initial financing for projects under contract. Thereafter, the local public agency generally relies upon private borrowings secured by pledge of the Federal loan commitment. Temporary loans are repaid from the proceeds of land sales and from local and Federal cash grants.

3. Definitive loans.—Definitive loans permit the disposition of project land through long-term leases in lieu of sale, at the option of the community. In such cases, commitments are issued to secure private financing for the net value of redeveloped land.

The loan commitments cover total expenditures by the local public agency in carrying out the project. Both the statute and experience recognize that only a minor portion of the Federal loan commitment is outstanding at any one time as direct Federal loans, and demand on Federal funds will not equal or even approach commitments made because: (a) project expenditures take place over several years; (b) early borrowings are progressively retired with funds provided from local and Federal grants and from the sale of land; and (c) private financing (guaranteed with a pledge of the Federal loan commitment) is relied upon as the major source of funds for temporary loans and definitive loans. Cumulative loan commitments will be $4,956 million by the end of 1966 but this amount will be reduced by $1,613 million in repayments and commitment waivers resulting in a net outstanding commitment of $3,343 million. The maximum Federal exposure (i.e., maximum demand for Federal loans at any one time) is estimated at $658 million on June 30, 1966.

The following table shows the status of loan commitments outstanding at the end of each of the years covered by the budget (in thousands of dollars):

Financing.—Borrowing authority previously committed is replenished by means of: (a) Repayment of planning advances; (b) repayment of temporary loans from project settlement funds (which include proceeds from the sale of land and Federal and local grants); (c) cancellation of temporary loan commitments; and (d) retirement of commitments due to the repayment of guaranteed non-Federal loans from project settlement funds.

The ratio of Federal exposure to temporary loan commitments set by the Administrator is estimated at 18% in 1965 and 1966. Planning advance commitments are included at 75%. Repayments of Federal temporary loans from the proceeds of non-Federal guaranteed loans, estimated to total $146 million in 1966, are reflected on the program and financing statement; such repayments act as receipts affecting budget expenditures, but from an obligation standpoint result in an increase in undisbursed commitments.

Operating results.—The use of grant appropriations is authorized to repay Treasury borrowing otherwise unrecoverable due to losses on planning advances and interest for terminated projects. The deficit resulting from capital grant payments and from uncollectible planning advances for terminated projects has been offset by the appropriation of funds for such purpose as shown in the following table (in thousands of dollars):

The Housing Act of 1964 authorized a new program of low-interest-rate loans to owners or tenants of property in urban renewal areas to finance rehabilitation required to make such properties conform to code requirements and other objectives of the urban renewal plan for the area. The program will provide financing to persons or business firms otherwise unable to undertake necessary rehabilitation because loans cannot be obtained in sufficient amounts or under reasonable terms. Maximum loan amounts are $10 thousand for residential units and $50 thousand for businesses.

Appropriations of $50 million are authorized to capitalize the fund. A supplemental appropriation of $10 million is requested in the current year, and the remaining $40 million in 1966.

Budget program.—The specialists on the staff of the local public agency engaged in a rehabilitation program will handle initial contacts with potential applicants. An application for a rehabilitation loan on residential property will be referred to a local HHFA Rehabilitation Loan Office. The appropriate FHA insuring office will make technical examinations of applications and inspect the work under approved loans, and the Federal National Mortgage Association will arrange for and supervise loan servicing by private institutions. The Small Business Administration will process business loan applications and handle loan closing and servicing. Loan approvals are estimated at $1.8 million during the current year (assuming the supplemental appropriation is available for the final quarter of the year) and $48.3 million in the budget year. Loan disbursements are estimated at $0.8 million and $23 million for the respective years.

Operating results.—Current operating losses for the initial operating period are estimated at $199 thousand in the current and $2,464 thousand in the 1966 fiscal year, chiefly attributable to administrative expenses and an allowance for losses estimated for the purpose of this budget at 3% of outstanding loans.

The Atomic Energy Community Act of 1955 (42 U.S.C. 2301), providing for the disposition of Government-owned properties at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Richland, Wash., was amended in 1963 (76 Stat. 664) to provide for the disposal of federally owned properties at Los Alamos, N. Mex. Sales and financing functions are delegated to the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Budget program.—At the beginning of the current year, only 2 properties with an appraised value of $72 thousand remained out of the 12,000 properties appraised at $80 million in the Oak Ridge and Richland disposal programs. There also remained $3.9 million in purchase money mortgages out of the $33 million written in the course of sales.

Predisposition work is underway at Los Alamos, covering the planning, zoning, platting, and property classification which precede appraisal and sales efforts. Appraisals will begin in the second half of the current fiscal year.

Operating results.—The deficit in the fund is expected to increase from $13.1 million in 1965 to $13.4 million in 1966. This deficit is due primarily to the discounts provided by law to purchasers of property who have statutory priority.

Federal assistance to public bodies to assist in the financing of urban transportation facilities and equipment and for demonstration projects designed to assist in the reduction of urban transportation needs and the improvement of urban transportation service was authorized by the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 (49 U.S.C. 1601). Applicants must show that facilities to be financed under the program are necessary for a program for a unified or officially coordinated public transportation system in the urban area, and are necessary for the sound, economic, and desirable development of the area.

Under the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 the grant authorization for appropriation, currently $75 million, will increase by $150 million in 1966. The Act further provides that $10 million of the grant authorization shall be available in each year (1965-66) for financing demonstration projects. Consolidated into the Urban Mass Transportation fund during the current year are the fund balances, unexpended authorizations, and other financial and budgetary data for the mass transportation demonstration grant program authorized under the Housing Act of 1961 which were formerly shown under Urban renewal fund, and Administrative expenses, mass transportation demonstrations.

The transportation facility loan program as authorized in the Housing Act of 1961, which expired on June 30, 1963, was reactivated by the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964. Loan projects are financed by annual appropriations. Financial and budgetary data for transportation facility loans formerly shown under Public facility loans are consolidated with the Urban mass transportation fund.

Facility grant program.—Net grant reservations are estimated at $50 million for the current year and $140 million for the budget year. Grants are available for up to two-thirds of "net project cost"—that portion of total project cost which cannot reasonably be financed from revenues. The applicant's share must be in cash from sources other than Federal funds or anticipated revenues.

A reservation is made after preliminary review of an application filed to determine the general eligibility and feasibility of a project. The reservation assures availability of grant funds to the applicant at the completion of Agency review of the final application.

Reservations are converted into grant contracts after detailed planning, filing of a final application, and comprehensive Agency review of engineering, financing, and legal aspects of proposed projects. Principal workload items are set forth in the following table:

Preliminary applications:

Disapproved or withdrawn.....	10	25
Gross grant reservations.....	15	45
Final applications:
Received.....	12	40

Demonstration program.—Net reservations of $10 million are estimated for both the current and budget years. Federal grants defray two-thirds of the net cost for projects which test and demonstrate new ideas and methods for improving mass transportation systems and service. Types of eligible projects include changes in frequency and other service improvements; improvements in forms of mass transportation traffic flow; testing new and improved technology; and coordination of various modes of urban transportation service.

Facility loan program.—Net loan reservations are estimated at $5 million for the current year and $10 million for the budget year. Loans under the program are designed to assist transit operations which are able to finance needed improvements and extensions of their transportation facilities out of revenues, but which cannot borrow the necessary funds on reasonable terms. Interest rates are based on a statutory formula and limited to the higher of either 3% or 0.50% above the average interest rate on all interest-bearing obligations forming part of the Federal debt. The 1965 rate is 4%.

Financing.—Budgetary expenditures for the program total $16.2 and $47.9 million for 1965 and 1966 respectively.

The Housing Act of 1959, as amended (12 U.S.C. 1701q et seq.), authorizes direct long-term loans at low interest rates to assist in financing new construction and rehabilitation, alteration, conversion, or improvement of existing structures to provide rental housing and related facilities for the elderly or the handicapped. Loans may be made to private nonprofit corporate sponsors, cooperatives, and those public bodies and agencies not receiving Federal financial assistance exclusively for public housing. The program is intended to provide housing for those elderly or handicapped persons and families whose incomes are too high for public housing but not sufficient to meet the cost of private rental housing, and to improve the ability of the handicapped to live more independently.

Loans may be made for the total development cost and may run for as long as 50 years. Interest rates are based on a statutory formula and are limited to the higher of either 2.75% or 0.25% above the average rate on all interest bearing obligations forming part of the Federal debt. The 1965 rate is 3.75%.

Budget program.—Net loan reservations are estimated at $65 million for the current year. Legislative proposals to provide more effective methods of meeting the needs for housing of the elderly or handicapped in the middle- and lower-middle-income segments of the population will make new loan reservations under this direct-loan program unnecessary in the budget year.

Financing.—The program is financed by a revolving fund which is initially supported by direct appropriations. Appropriations of $350 million have been authorized, of which $275 million has been appropriated. No further appropriation is proposed for this account. The following table shows the relationship of this program to available funds (in thousands of dollars):

Balance available, end.....	51,516	13,725	17,932

Operating results.—Estimated retained earnings at the close of the budget year are $3.3 million and in addition the cumulative allowance for losses is $1.5 million. This favorable result stems largely from the fact that the program has been financed by appropriations rather than borrowings from the Treasury, which require payment of interest on capital. If interest income continues to cover operating costs and prospective program losses, dividends will be paid to the Treasury in lieu of interest on capital.

FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION

The Association, operating under the Federal National Mortgage Association Charter Act (12 U.S.C. 1716, et seq.) purchases, manages, and sells residential mortgages which are insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the Veterans Administration; makes short-term bank-type loans that are secured by those types of mortgages; manages and sells certain noninsured or nonguaranteed mortgages that have been or may be acquired from authorized sources; and sells to private investors beneficial interests, or participations, in its own U.S. Treasury-financed mortgages and those of other government agencies or instrumentalities. The Association's functions are carried out through three programs for which separate accountability is required by statute.

These programs—secondary market operations, special assistance functions, and management and liquidating functions—are described in the following sections:

Note.—Expenditures from the following funds for 1965 are subject to the first paragraph of title II of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1965. For 1966, this paragraph is shown in the Other Independent Agencies chapter, p. 914.

The secondary market operations of the Federal National Mortgage Association were authorized by the Housing Act of 1954 to provide limited liquidity for Government insured and guaranteed mortgages and to improve the distribution of investment capital available for home mortgage financing. This assistance to the secondary market for home mortgages is provided by the purchase and sale of mortgages (including participations therein) insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the Veterans Administration on or after August 2, 1954, that are of such quality, type, and class as meet, generally, the purchase standards imposed by private institutional mortgage investors. Purchases and sales may be made only at such prices and on such terms as will reasonably prevent excessive use of the Association's facilities and will permit the Association to operate on a fully self-supporting basis.

The Association, under its secondary market operations, was authorized by the National Housing Act, as amended on or after June 30, 1961, to make short-term loans secured by FHA-insured or VA-guaranteed mortgages. Such loans are intended to further home construction by providing a degree of liquidity for mortgage investments and, generally, to provide supplementary assistance to the general secondary market.

The secondary market operations were initially capitalized by the issuance of $92.8 million of Federal National Mortgage Association preferred stock to the Secretary of the Treasury. Subsequently, additional preferred stock subscriptions by the Secretary of the Treasury amounting to $50 million (Public Law 85-10, approved March 27, 1957) and $65 million (Public Law 85-104, approved July 12, 1957) were authorized. Authorized preferred stock has actually been issued only as needed to support the Association's borrowings. At the end of 1964, authorized unissued stock amounted to $49 million. These estimates contemplate that no additional preferred stock will be issued in either 1965 or 1966.

The authorizing statute contemplates that the secondary market operations will ultimately be completely owned and financed by private participants. To that end, the preferred stock will be retired as rapidly as feasible and, in the meantime, the Association will pay dividends on the utilized portion to the Treasury at rates which will not be less than those determined by the Secretary of the Treasury. These estimates contemplate that no preferred stock will be retired in either 1965 or 1966. However, under arrangements entered into between the Secretary of the Treasury and the Federal National Mortgage Association, FNMA will purchase from the Secretary that portion of the Association's outstanding preferred stock which is not deemed to be required in the financing of the secondary market operations and will hold such stock as FNMA treasury stock, subject to subsequent repurchase by the Secretary as may be required for these operations. Under these arrangements, $70.8 million of preferred stock was purchased from the Secretary during 1964 and $38 million in 1965. No such purchases are contemplated in 1966.

Private capitalization for these operations is accumulated pursuant to a statutory requirement which provides that sellers of mortgages to the Association must make payments into capital incident to subscriptions for common stock in an amount equal to not more than 2% nor less than 1% of the unpaid principal amounts of the mortgages involved, as determined from time to time by the Association, taking into consideration conditions in the mortgage market and the general economy. Borrowers from the Association are currently required to make capital contributions in an amount equal to not more than one-half of 1% of the amounts borrowed.

Recommendations for legislation to transfer ownership of the Association to private owners of the capital stock must be submitted to the Congress as promptly as practicable after all the Treasury-held preferred stock has been retired. Meanwhile, the present interim program, financed by private as well as by Government investment funds, is treated in the budget as a trust enterprise and the financial statements related thereto appear in part 2 of this document.

The Association is authorized to finance its secondary market operations through borrowings from the public on the security of non-guaranteed debentures and short-term discount notes. Such obligations may not exceed the lesser of: (a) ten times the sum of the capital and surplus applicable to these operations, or (b) the sum of assets, free from any liens or encumbrances, of cash, mortgages, or other security holdings and obligations of the United States or guaranteed thereby, or obligations, participations, or other instruments which are lawful investments for fiduciary, trust, or public funds. The Secretary of the Treasury, so long as the preferred stock is outstanding, is authorized to purchase such obligations in an amount not exceeding $2.25 billion outstanding at any one time.

Budget program.—The secondary market operations, established in 1955, are now fully recognized by the home mortgage market and have reached significant levels. These estimates assume that FNMA's secondary market facilities will continue to be used by lenders to bridge a part of the gap between their need for and the availability of private housing funds.

It is assumed that FNMA's facilities will be used in increasing amounts in 1965 and 1966. It is estimated that FNMA purchases will increase by $240 million over 1965 to $500 million in 1966. Mortgage sales which amounted to $113 million in 1964 are now estimated at $100 million in 1965 and $195 million in 1966. The excess of mortgage purchases over sales and other liquidations in 1965 and 1966 will result in a net increase of portfolio during those years as compared with a net decrease in 1964.

In addition to the mortgages which it purchases in the regular manner, the Association also acquires, from the Federal Housing Administration, Commissioner-owned mortgages in exchange at par (100) for FNMA-held FHA debentures. The volume of mortgages so acquired was $126.5 million in 1964, and is estimated to amount to $40 million in 1965 and $80 million in 1966.

Financing.—Funds required to finance the secondary market operations during 1965 and 1966 will be obtained from (1) proceeds from the sale of mortgages to the investing public, (2) capital contributions by program participants, (3) sales of debentures and short-term discount notes to private investors, (4) repayments and prepayments of mortgage principal, and (5) earnings. Such interim Treasury borrowings as will be necessary during 1965 and 1966 will be repaid during each of those years.

Operating results.—Operations are reflected in budget expenditures only to the extent of Treasury financing.

The Federal National Mortgage Association is authorized to provide special assistance to the extent that the President has determined that it is in the public interest for the financing of (1) selected types of home mortgages pending establishment of their marketability and (2) home mortgages generally as a means of retarding or stopping a decline in mortgage-lending and home building activities which threatens materially the stability of a high level national economy.

The Association is authorized under the Presidential authority to make commitments to purchase and to purchase FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages totaling $2,510 million, outstanding at any one time. At the end of 1964, the amount of special assistance authority for these purposes aggregated $2,363 million. The increase resulted from the transfer at the beginning of 1965, pursuant to the provision of Public Law 87-70, of $147 million of authority from the management and liquidating functions, representing the net amount by which that portfolio was decreased during 1964. No such transfer of authority is authorized in 1966.

In addition to the Association's authority to conduct special assistance programs by direction of the President, the Congress has expressly authorized FNMA, under its special assistance functions, to issue commitments to purchase and to purchase (1) cooperative housing mortgages insured under section 213 of the National Housing Act, as amended, up to a limit of $225 million outstanding at any one time; (2) mortgages insured under title VIII of that act covering housing for military personnel and civilian employees, up to a limit of $500 million outstanding at any one time; and (3) FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages of $13,500 or less covering low- and moderate-priced housing on which construction had not commenced at the time application was made for Federal National Mortgage Association's commitments. This program, for which commitment and purchasing authority was limited to $1 billion outstanding at any one time, was terminated by Public Law 87-70 on June 30, 1961.

The $1,725 million of special assistance authority provided by the three described congressional programs has been reduced by $568.1 million to $1,156.9 million as of June 30, 1964, pursuant to the provisions of Public Law 87-70. The decrease is represented by the cancellation of the commitment and purchasing authority remaining unused at June 30, 1961, under the program for low- and moderate-priced housing mortgages ($207.2 million), and an amount equal to the principal reduction since June 1961 of the mortgages owned by the Association under the terminated program ($360.9 million).

The prices paid for mortgages under these functions are established by the Association at the time of the announcement of each individual program, but they may be adjusted thereafter from time to time. The prices that FNMA will currently pay for mortgages or home improvement loans offered pursuant to immediate purchase contracts or commitment contracts range from 99½ to 100.

Federal National Mortgage Association's special assistance functions are financed principally by Treasury borrowings, and all the benefits and burdens of the program inure solely to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Budget program.—During 1966, commitments to purchase mortgages are estimated to increase over the 1965 level by $229 million, to $673 million. Purchases, which lag well behind commitments, will increase by $165 million, to $279 million, primarily for below-market-interest-rate mortgages on rental and cooperative housing for moderate income families.

In addition, in order to assure sponsors that funds will be available for purchase of below-market-interest-rate mortgages upon completion of housing projects for moderate income families, the FHA reserves or makes preliminary allocations of amounts not in excess of FNMA's authorization for such purchases. The cumulative amount of authority reserved for this program was $950 million at June 30, 1964, and is estimated to increase to $1,450 million by 1965 and to $1,950 million by June 30, 1966. Of these amounts, reservations uncommitted by FNMA amounted to $720.9 million at June 30, 1964, and are estimated at $913.9 million and $933.9 million at June 30, 1965 and 1966, respectively. The anticipated reservations for 1966 will require an increase in the Association's purchase authority, which is shown under Proposed for separate transmittal, below.

Sales from portfolio, which amounted to $86.5 million in 1964, are estimated at $363 million during 1965 and $25 million in 1966.

Participations.—Under the program of liquidating the mortgage portfolio through the sale of beneficial interests or participations in mortgages, in 1965 the Association sold $200 million of participations involving the portfolio of its special assistance functions and projects $350 million in 1966. This program is more fully explained under the Government mortgage liquidation fund, below.

Financing.—Net repayments to the Treasury are estimated at $153 million in 1966. Net repayments were $149.4 million in 1964 and are estimated at $517 million in 1965.

Operating results.—Previously, earnings were retained and paid into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury following the year earned. A payment of $189 thousand was made in 1957, and another payment of $2,445 thousand was made in 1958. In order to protect the Association against losses inherent in a portfolio of this size, earnings will be retained and accumulated for so long as may be warranted. The following table shows the cumulative amounts at the end of each year since 1958 (in thousands of dollars):

Under proposed legislation, 1965.—Legislation will be proposed to increase the authority of the Association to purchase mortgages. It is expected that the legislation will be enacted in 1965. Of the total $150 million of new authority, $50 million will be used for mortgages under the proposed new program of Federal Housing Administration insurance of loans for land development for planned subdivisions or new communities. The remaining $100 million will be needed for expected 1966 reservations for below-market-interest-rate mortgages on housing for moderate-income families, and to assure that sufficient balances of authority are available in case unexpected demands for purchase of urban renewal, elderly, or cooperative housing mortgages should develop.

The Association, in its management and liquidating functions, is required by law to manage and liquidate its portfolio of mortgages acquired under contracts made before November 1, 1954, and those other mortgages that have been or may be acquired from authorized sources (Public Law 86-372, approved September 23, 1959.) Such liquidation is to be conducted in an orderly manner, with a minimum of adverse effect upon the home mortgage market and minimum loss to the Federal Government. Liquidation of the portfolio is accomplished through regular principal repayments according to their amortization schedules, sales of mortgages as rapidly as they can be absorbed by private investors without serious disruption of normal market conditions, and as the result of other principal credits arising from prepayments and foreclosures.

The initial mortgage purchasing phase of this activity has been completed and normally only the management and ultimate liquidation of the portfolio would need to be completed. However, additional mortgages will be acquired for this portfolio from Housing and Home Finance Agency or the constituent units or agencies of Housing and Home Finance Agency from time to time pursuant to the provisions of Public Law 86-372. Under this authority the Administrator must determine that such acquisitions are in the interest of efficient management and liquidation of the mortgages.

Under the provisions of Public Law 87-70, approved June 30, 1961, an amount equal to the net decrease for the preceding fiscal year in the aggregate principal amount of all mortgages owned by the Association under its management and liquidating functions was as of July 1 of each of the years 1961 through 1964 transferred to and merged with the Presidential authority provided for the Association's special assistance functions. The amounts transferred on July 1, 1961, 1962, 1963 and 1964 were $140 million; $170 million; $146 million and $147 million, respectively. No such transfers are authorized in 1966.

Budget program.—There will be no mortgages purchased under commitments made prior to November 1, 1954 for this portfolio during the period covered by these estimates. That purchasing program was completed during 1958.

During 1964, purchases from the Office of the Administrator were $50 thousand and are estimated at $100 thousand in 1965. No purchases of such mortgages are contemplated for 1966.

In 1965, Federal National Mortgage Association under these functions will acquire $131 million of Commissioner-owned mortgages from the Federal Housing Administration in exchange for Federal National Mortgage Association held Federal Housing Administration debentures and cash.

Mortgages in the amount of $61.4 million were sold during 1964. Sales are estimated at $40 million in the current and budget years.

Participations.—In 1966, the Association projects sales of beneficial interests or participations in mortgages in its management and liquidating portfolio of $135 million. This program is more fully explained under the Government mortgage liquidation fund, below.

Financing.—During the period covered by these budget estimates there will be only interim Treasury borrowings; net repayments of Treasury borrowings which were $178.1 million in 1964, are estimated at $56.6 million and $297 million in 1965 and 1966, respectively.

Operating results.—All the benefits and burdens of the management and liquidating functions inure solely to the Secretary of the Treasury. Net income, which amounted to $3.4 million in 1964, is estimated at $3.8 million in 1965 and $3.4 million in 1966. Retained earnings reserved for losses and contingencies at the end of 1964 amounted to $108.1 million and are estimated at $96.9 million and $92.3 million, respectively, for 1965 and 1966. The reductions in the amount outstanding at the end of 1962, 1963 and 1964 resulted from payments of $40 million, $25 million, and $15 million, respectively, during these years from earnings to the U.S. Treasury, amounts which were considered to be in excess of the Association's needs for losses and contingencies. Similarly, the Association has paid $15 million to the U.S. Treasury in 1965, and estimates it will pay $8 million in 1966.

² On and after Nov. 1, 1954, pursuant to Public Law 560, the Federal National Mortgage Association's mortgage purchase authority is the total of its mortgage portfolio and its outstanding commitment contracts in the Management and Liquidating Functions.

The Housing Act of 1964 vested fiduciary powers in the Association with the objective of facilitating the liquidation of its own mortgages and those of other Government agencies or instrumentalities through the sale of beneficial interests or participations in such mortgages. These powers are administered under the management and liquidating functions of the Association. The program provides, under a trust indenture, for the pooling of Federal National Mortgage Association Treasury-financed first mortgages and Treasury-financed first mortgages of other Government agencies or instrumentalities. Under its fiduciary powers the Association, as Trustee, sells to private investors, through its established facilities, participations in the interest and principal payments which are derived from the pooled mortgages, and retires the maturing securities with funds derived from the liquidation of the mortgages comprising the pool. A major advantage of the participation program, aside from providing for the immediate liquidation of a portion of the Government's mortgage assets, is the expectation that the securities which are issued thereunder will be attractive to private investors, such as pension and retirement funds and others which are not ordinarily interested in 1-4 family mortgages as a form of long-term investment. In 1965 the Government Mortgage Liquidation Trust, created pursuant to a trust indenture entered into between the Administrator of Veterans Affairs and the Federal National Mortgage Association, sold $300 million of participation certificates involving the portfolios of the Federal National Mortgage Association special assistance functions to the extent of $200 million and the Veterans Administration to the extent of $100 million. Projections for 1966 provide for the issuance of $1,285 million of participations involving the portfolios of the Federal National Mortgage Association special assistance functions to the extent of $350 million, management and liquidating functions to the extent of $135 million, and the Veterans Administration to the extent of $800 million.

The Federal Housing Administration, created by the National Housing Act of 1934, is a noncorporate business-type agency, which was brought under the Government Corporation Control Act by the Housing Act of 1948. The principal purposes of Federal Housing Administration are to improve home financing practices, to encourage improved housing standards and conditions, to further home ownership, and to stabilize the mortgage market. These objectives are achieved through the insurance of loans for financing the production, purchase, repair, and improvement of residential properties. At the end of 1964, $92.1 billion of insurance had been written, with $45.5 billion outstanding. During 1964 more than $7.6 billion of insurance was written, covering 521,186 units of housing and 664,951 title I property improvement loans. An estimated $7.8 billion of insurance will be written during 1965 and $8.7 billion in 1966.

Federal Housing Administration loan insurance is now administered through 24 different active programs. In addition, maintenance and settlement work continues under eight programs for which the authority to insure additional loans has expired. The various programs are identified in the following table, which also shows the amount of insurance written under the individual programs and the amount in force at the end of 1964.

For financial purposes, the agency's programs are grouped under 15 separate insurance funds and accounts established by statute. Income from fees, premiums, and investments are credited to the funds; operating expenses and other expenses and losses connected with foreclosed property and defaulted notes and mortgages are charged to the funds. Through June 30, 1964, income had amounted to $2,986 million, and expenses and losses had totaled $1,868 million, leaving a reserve of $1,118 million for the payment of future expenses and losses. The largest insurance fund is the Mutual mortgage insurance fund for the insurance of mortgage loans on homes under section 203. Other insurance funds cover the insurance of loans on property repairs and improvements; on basic and special-purpose multifamily housing, including cooperatives, condominiums, housing for the elderly, and nursing homes; on urban renewal and middle income housing; on armed services housing; and on war and defense housing. The Mutual mortgage insurance fund differs from the other funds in that mortgagors at termination of their mortgages, as authorized by statute, may share in the rebate of premiums paid into the fund which are not required for expenses or losses. Through June 30, 1964, such participation payments to home owners had amounted to $174 million with $147 million reserved for future payments or losses.

expense limitation covering those expenses of the central office related to (1) the general direction of operations, (2) the establishment of policies and procedures, and (3) the provision of housekeeping services for the entire agency, and a nonadministrative expense limitation covering the operating expenses of both the central office and the field related to (1) the initiation of insurance, (2) the maintenance of insurance on the books, and (3) the settlement activities associated with (a) the payment of claims, (b) the acquisition, management, and disposition of mortgages and properties acquired under insurance contracts, and (c) the liquidation of property improvement notes. Anticipated program developments for 1966 are summarized in the table below, which also includes estimates for 1965 and actual data for 1964.

The major activities of the agency may be grouped under the categories of insurance initiation, insurance maintenance, insurance settlement, and financial operations.

Insurance initiation.—The principal initiation activities, which currently account for about 70 percent of the total expenses under the nonadministrative expense limitation, are the examining of applications for insurance, the inspecting of properties under construction, and the recording of new insurance contracts, including property improvement loans, in the agency records. The number of applications for loan insurance received under the various agency programs is a measure of the initiation work of the agency. The total number of applications for mortgage insurance is expected to increase from 982,012 in 1964 to 1,023,000 in 1965 and to 1,062,000 in 1966.

Insurance maintenance.—Maintenance activities, which currently account for about eight percent of all expenses under the nonadministrative expense limitation, relate generally to the servicing of insurance on the books, such as billing mortgagees for premiums due, recording changes in mortgagees, making participation payments from the Mutual mortgage insurance fund, terminating insurance contracts, inspecting insured multifamily housing, and analyzing annual financial reports on such housing. These are cumulative workloads, increasing each year with the growth of insurance in force. At the end of 1964, insurance in force had reached $45.5 billion. Section 203 accounted for 72 percent of the total, with the expired programs, under which additional insurance contracts are no longer written, still accounting for nine percent of the total in force.

Insurance settlement.—Settlement activities, which currently account for more than one-fifth of the total expense under the nonadministrative expense limitation, include the acquisition of properties, mortgages, and home improvement notes under insurance contracts; the repair, management, and sale of acquired properties; the payment, largely in debentures, of claims under insurance contracts; the servicing and sale of mortgages acquired as a part of some sales transactions; and the accounting work arising out of the other settlement activities. The number of properties and mortgages acquired in any year and the number on hand and sold during the year constitute an index of the settlement workload. The total number of properties directly acquired under insurance contracts, in dwelling units, is estimated to increase from 43,325 units in 1964 to 47,000 in 1965 and to 48,000 in 1966. Property on hand is expected to increase from 77,657 units at the end of 1964 to 77,916 units at the end of 1965 and then to drop significantly to 74,841 units at the end of 1966 as property sales increase. The total of assigned mortgages is expected to increase from 36,064 units at the end of 1964 to 36,505 at the end of 1965 and to be reduced to 36,180 at the end of 1966.

Summary of Operating Expense Estimates.—Operating expenses are paid out of operating income, subject to Congressional limitation. Expenses for 1965 are estimated at $10,085 thousand for administrative operations and $79,775 thousand for nonadministrative operations, adjusted for the pay increase in the current year. The 1966 estimate is $10,450 thousand for administrative expenses and $80,850 thousand for nonadministrative.

Financing.—Mortgage insurance claims are met largely by the issuance of debentures, which are subsequently redeemed out of income and proceeds from the sale of acquired properties and mortgages. In 1964, $500 million of debentures were issued. Debentures to be issued are estimated at $543 million in 1965, and $549 million in 1966. Debentures were retired in 1964 in the amount of $293 million. The amount of debentures retired is estimated to increase markedly in 1965 to $860 million and for 1966 is estimated at $641 million, because of the large inflow of cash from maturing securities, cash sales of acquired home properties, sales of purchase-money mortgages to Federal National Mortgage Association, and other sources.

Retained earnings.—Insurance reserves, available for the payment of future expenses and losses, amounted to $1,118 million at the end of 1964 and are expected to increase to $1,162 million at the end of 1965 and to $1,229 million at the end of 1966.

Insurance authority.—All authorizations for active insurance programs expire October 1, 1965. The general mortgage insurance authorization, section 217, applies to all active mortgage insurance programs, except section 221 and title VIII. The housing repair and improvement insurance authorization, title I, section 2, applies to property improvement loans. The authority to insure mortgages on sales and rental housing, with respect to the moderate-income housing program, is covered by section 221. There is no time limitation on the authorization under this section with respect to families displaced from urban renewal areas or as a result of other governmental action. The armed services housing insurance authorization is covered by sections 809 and 810. A limitation of $2.3 billion in insurance issued covers sections 803, 809, and 810, effective from the date of Public Law 84-345, August 11, 1955.

LOW RENT PUBLIC HOUSING—Continued

The United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1401 et seq.), provides for a low-rent public housing program comprising decent, safe, and sanitary dwellings within the financial reach of families of low income. Such housing is locally owned and operated by local housing authorities created under State law. The Public Housing Administration is responsible for administering this program. The Administration makes loans and annual contributions to local housing authorities to assist in financing the construction of low-rent housing projects and in maintaining their low-rent character after completion and occupancy.

The most recent amendments of the Housing Act of 1937 were made in the Housing Act of 1964 (Public Law 88-560), approved September 2, 1964, which among other things (1) increased by $30,250 thousand (for a total of $366,250 thousand) the authorization for annual contributions in order to provide for approximately 37,500 additional units and to cover the cost of newly authorized relocation benefits; (2) authorized an additional subsidy (similar to the special subsidy for the elderly), within the $366,250 thousand limitation, with respect to units occupied by families and individuals displaced from urban renewal or public housing sites; (3) authorized relocation payments to families, individuals, businesses, and non-profit organizations displaced from low-rent housing sites and to include their cost with the development costs in computing the amount of annual contributions for the project involved; (4) authorized local housing authorities to make payments in lieu of taxes up to 10% of shelter rents regardless of the local contribution through tax exemption; and (5) made low income individuals who are handicapped or displaced by governmental action eligible for admission to low-rent housing.

Budget program—Development.—The Housing Act of 1961 authorized the placing of approximately 100,000 additional housing units under annual contributions contracts. Under this authorization annual contributions contracts were executed for 100,118 units before July 1, 1964.

The Housing Act of 1964 provides for approximately 37,500 additional housing units through October 1965. It is planned that 35,000 of these units will be placed under annual contributions contracts during fiscal year 1965.

The 1966 budget assumes that new legislation will be enacted in 1965 increasing the authorization for annual contributions to continue the current low-rent program at the annual level of 35,000 dwellings.

A 3-year comparison of the workload accomplishments and of the status of the program by stage are presented in the following tabulations:

Increased annual contributions requirements in 1965 and 1966 including a supplemental appropriation of $14 million anticipated in 1965 (reflected above), are attributed largely (1) to an increased number of units eligible for annual contributions resulting from the completion and permanent financing of new projects, (2) to the increased contributions authorized in the Housing Act of 1961 with respect to dwelling units occupied by elderly families and persons and (3) to the additional subsidy authorized in the Housing Act of 1964 for families (including single persons) displaced by urban renewal or low-rent housing projects. The Public Housing Administration may make payments up to $366.2 million per annum. As of June 30, 1964, the maximum amount of annual contributions which the Administration is committed to pay is $333.8 million. The uncommitted authority of $32.4 million will be used to make annual contributions contracts in 1965 and early 1966. Uncommitted authority and savings from unused committed authority can be used to make payments for the elderly which are estimated at $5 million in 1965 and $5.4 million in 1966 and which will continue to increase with the increase in the number of units occupied by elderly families and persons.

Administrative expenses.—The administrative expenses for the low-rent public housing program are financed by appropriations. These expenses amounted to $15,460 thousand in 1964. For 1965 the amount of $16,352 thousand is estimated, including a supplemental of $568 thousand to pay increased salary costs pursuant to Public Law 88-426. The estimate for 1966 is $17,210 thousand.

Administrative expenses are related primarily to the provision of technical advice and assistance to local housing authorities in the development and management of low-rent housing projects and to the auditing of local housing authority operations to ensure compliance with the social purposes of relevant Federal legislation and to protect the Federal investment.

The principal reasons for the rise in administrative expenses are (1) the increasing number of dwelling units entering all stages of the program during 1965 and 1966, and (2) increased costs attributed to the Federal Employees Salary Act of 1964. Increased employment is required for 1966 to permit satisfactory performance of this increased workload.

Nonadministrative expenses.—The Public Housing Administration utilizes program receipts to meet certain expenses of the low-rent public housing program. The use of these funds correspondingly reduces the requirements for appropriated funds. The Congress has established a nonadministrative expense limitation which applies (1) to expenses for the operation and maintenance of federally owned, directly operated projects; and (2) to expenses for technical services provided by the Administration during construction.

As of June 30, 1964, 3 federally owned, directly operated projects, containing 1,182 units, remained in the program. These projects have not been sold or leased to local housing authorities for various reasons, such as absence of State enabling legislation, local conditions, and the lack of legislative authorization to dispose of the projects for other than low-rent use. Estimated program receipts and expenses for 1965 and 1966 are based upon the continued operation of these projects by the Administration throughout both years.

Technical services are provided during the development stage by having representatives of the Administration visit the sites of projects under construction to ensure that projects will be built in accordance with specified and acceptable standards. The local housing authorities pay a fixed fee to the Administration for this service and the receipts are used to pay the cost of the service. The estimated cost for 1966 is based upon the number of projects in the construction stage.

Financing. The Public Housing Administration makes loans to local housing authorities to finance the early costs of project development. These loans are made with funds borrowed by the Administration from the Treasury for this purpose and with certain available working funds. The Housing Act of 1949 authorized the Administration to have outstanding at any one time borrowings from the Treasury of $1.5 billion. There was no outstanding amount of Treasury borrowings at the end of 1964, and none is estimated for June 30, 1965 and June 30, 1966.

When the Federal development loans to a local housing authority accumulate to an amount which is attractive to private investors, the local authority sells short-term temporary notes to the public and utilizes the proceeds to repay the Federal loans and to meet current needs for additional working capital. These notes are secured by the Federal Government's pledge to make development loans, if necessary, covering up to 90% of the development cost of the project. This arrangement has established an excellent security rating for the notes, which sold at an average interest rate of 1.983% in 1964.

In 1964 direct loans by the Administration were refunded through secured loans by private investors in the amount of $156 million. This refunding is estimated at $140 million in 1965 and $145 million in 1966. The temporary notes sold to private investors are issued for short periods, an average of 5 months, and may be reissued several times, and in increasing amounts, before the project is permanently financed. As a result, a considerable turnover of short-term notes takes place and the volume of loan activity managed by the Administration during any fiscal year greatly exceeds the amount of loans outstanding at the end of that fiscal year. The following table shows the actual financing and refinancing of development loans during 1964 and estimated transactions during 1965 and 1966 (in millions of dollars):

Normally, project development costs are permanently financed toward the end of the construction period through the sale of long-term bonds to the public. These are usually 40-year serial bonds and are secured by the Federal Government's pledge to pay annual contributions. In 1964 they sold at an average interest rate of 3.318%. As of June 30, 1964, there were approximately 667,845 units potentially eligible for permanent financing. Of these, 525,678 units had been permanently financed, leaving a potential permanent financing workload of 142,167 units. The estimates for permanent financing based on program status as of June 30, 1964, are shown below:

Units.....	38,008	30,879	35,307

Average per unit.....	$13,833	$15,021	$15,244

The amount of permanent financing for 1964 includes development cost of $460 thousand for projects refinanced and $60 thousand for additional development funds required for projects previously permanently financed, for which the number of units are not shown above.

Operating results.—Operating income is not intended to be sufficient to cover all program expense. Net costs, in the budget year, are approximately equal to the appropriations for administrative expenses and annual contributions payments. LIMITATION ON ADMINISTRATIVE AND NONADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES, PUBLIC HOUSING ADMINISTRATION

Not to exceed the amount appropriated for such expenses by title I of this Act shall be available for the administrative expenses of the Public Housing Administration in carrying out the provisions of the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1401-1433), including purchase of uniforms, or allowances therefor, as authorized by the Act of September 1, 1954, as amended (5 U.S.C.

2131): Provided, That necessary expenses of providing representatives of the Administration at the sites of non-Federal projects in connection with the construction of such non-Federal projects by public housing agencies with the aid of the Administration, shall be compensated by such agencies by the payment of fixed fees which in the aggregate in relation to the development costs of such projects will cover the costs of rendering such services, and expenditures by the Administration for such purpose shall be considered nonadministrative expenses, and funds received from such payments may be used only for the payment of necessary expenses of providing representatives of the Administration at the sites of non-Federal projects: Provided further, That all expenses of the Public Housing Administration not specifically limited in this Act, in carrying out its duties imposed by law, shall not exceed [$1,420,000] $1,582,000. RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

For necessary expenses, not otherwise provided for, including research, development, operations, services, minor construction, supplies, materials, equipment; maintenance, repair, and alteration of real and personal property; and purchase, hire, maintenance, and operation of other than administrative aircraft necessary for the conduct and support of aeronautical and space research and development activities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, [$4,363,594,000] $4,575,900,000, to remain available until expended. (42 U.S.C. 2451, et seq., 50 U.S.C. 151-160, 511-515; Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1965; additional authorizing legislation to be proposed.)

Note.—Excludes $24,800 thousand for activities transferred in the estimates to "Administrative operations." The amounts obligated in 1964 and 1965 are shown in the schedule as comparative transfers.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration was established October 1, 1958, pursuant to Public Law 85-568 (72 Stat. 426; 42 U.S.C. 2451) approved July 29, 1958, for the conduct of the nonmilitary space programs of the United States, including the exploration of space and its utilization for peaceful purposes, and to conduct and support advanced research and development related to space and aeronautics in support of both civilian and military requirements. This appropriation provides for research and development activities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as follows:

1. Manned space flight.—The estimates for this activity include the Gemini, Apollo and Advanced mission studies programs. Funding provides for all NASA manned space flight missions and the development of launch vehicles and propulsion systems required for these missions. The objective of the manned space flight activity is to provide the capability for manned operations in space which will achieve and maintain a position of leadership for the United States and to demonstrate this capability by landing men on the moon and returning them safely to earth before the end of this decade.

(a) Gemini.—The Gemini objectives are to develop an extended operational capability for manned flight in space and to conduct experiments in support of Apollo and other programs. The missions include the development of earth orbital rendezvous techniques, flights of up to 2 weeks duration in earth orbit, controlled reentry, operation of astronauts outside of their spacecraft, and experiments for manned lunar missions. Two unmanned and ten manned flights are planned. The first unmanned flight test was successfully completed in April 1964. The second unmanned flight test is scheduled for early 1965 and the first manned flight shortly thereafter. The primary effort in 1966 will be on manned flight missions.

(b) Apollo.—The primary goal of the Apollo program is manned flight to the moon and return. The first flight phase includes unmanned flights to qualify the launch vehicles and spacecraft systems and structures in the space environment. The second phase includes long duration manned earth-orbital flights and rendezvous experiments to validate the system for lunar missions. The third phase consists of manned flights which will land on the moon, explore its surface, and return to earth. During 1966 the major effort will be on the continued development of the Saturn IB and Saturn V launch vehicles and the Apollo spacecraft. The Saturn IB will undergo its first two development flight tests. The Saturn V development efforts will include extensive ground testing on components, systems, and stages; and acceptance testing of the stages for the first flight vehicle. The Apollo spacecraft ground test and development program and first flight phase will continue. The flight program in 1966 comprises two launches using the Little Joe II launch vehicle and two development flights using the Saturn IB vehicle. In addition to the primary effort on the manned lunar landing program, work will also be undertaken to determine how the Apollo spacecraft can be utilized for longer duration manned flights of scientific and engineering importance.

(c) Advanced mission studies.—The program objectives are to study present hardware systems for growth potential, to develop future systems requirements, and to formulate a stock of valid technical information upon which future program decisions can be based. Earth orbital and lunar missions will continue to be studied for feasibility and desirability.

2. Scientific investigations in space.—This activity includes physics and astronomy, unmanned lunar and planetary exploration, bioscience, and development of related launch vehicles. The objectives are to increase our knowledge of the earth, interplanetary space, the moon, the sun, the solar system, other stars and galaxies, and the effects of the space environment on living organisms. The flight systems used are sounding rocket probes, orbiting observatories, lunar orbiting and landing spacecraft, and interplanetary probes.

(a) Physics and astronomy.—This program comprises a number of projects designed to obtain scientific data from near-earth space. Projects include orbiting solar, astronomical, and geophysical observatories, sounding rockets, Explorer satellites and supporting research. The experiments range from solar radiation measurements to observations of infra-red, X-ray, and gamma sources in outer space, and include determination of geophysical, magnetic, and atmospheric characteristics of the earth. Initial development funds for a large Advanced Orbiting Solar Observatory are provided in this budget.

(b) Lunar and planetary exploration.—The Ranger program will be completed in 1965, but unmanned exploration of the moon's surface will be continued with Surveyor spacecraft which are capable of landing television equipment and scientific instruments on the moon and a Lunar Orbiter which will photograph and transmit back to earth pictures of large areas of the moon. The Mariner spacecraft currently in transit to Mars is equipped to obtain information about atmospheric and surface conditions on Mars. The Voyager spacecraft for which initial development funds are included in this budget is intended to obtain more detailed information on the nature of Mars, and to attempt to answer the question of whether life exists on that planet. The Pioneer spacecraft will provide data for studies in interplanetary phenomena simultaneously at widely separated points in space.

(c) Bioscience.—In addition to ground based research, this program includes one flight project. Its purpose is to determine effects of weightlessness upon primates, small animals, plants, and other biological specimens. Some preliminary design and technology development effort will also begin in 1966 on an automated biological laboratory that will be a major payload on Voyager missions to Mars.

(d) Launch vehicle development.—The development of high-performance vehicles for unmanned flight projects is the objective of this program. The Centaur upper stage is the major current project. Other activity is directed at improvements of currently operational launch vehicles to support mission requirements.

3. Space applications.—The NASA programs funded in this activity include development of meteorological satellites, communications satellites, and applications technology satellites. Specific objectives of the NASA meteorological program are to improve satellite technology, to carry out instrumentation flight tests, to provide data for atmospheric science research, and to participate in the operational satellite system as required by the U.S. Weather Bureau. In the communications area, NASA is completing tests with the Relay and Syncom satellites already launched. The objectives of the applications technology satellite program are to develop and flight test stabilized and synchronous orbiting spacecraft capable of demonstrating spacecraft components and systems applicable to meteorological, communications, scientific, and other space missions.

4. Space technology.—This activity comprises research and development work on space vehicle systems and related equipment and components required for space missions. Emphasis is placed on space vehicle and propulsion systems, and on the technology for applying nuclear power to space uses. Studies of the space environmental effects on man and on the man-machine relationship are also important activities. The improvement of electronic systems used for control, data acquisition, and communication is a prime objective. Problems concerned with launch, atmospheric reentry, and recovery involve research in areas such as aerothermodynamics, structures and materials, and advanced vehicle concepts. Most of this advanced technology and research activity is conducted at NASA laboratories and special ground based test facilities. The decrease in 1966 is due primarily to the decision to terminate development of the M-1 engine, the large solid rocket motor, and the SNAP-8 nuclear power device.

5. Aircraft technology.—The objective of this activity is to serve the advancement of the national capability in aeronautics, and to support other Government agencies having aeronautical interests and responsibilities, such as the Department of Defense and the Federal Aviation Agency. In 1966 the aeronautical research effort will be continued in support of supersonic transport and military aircraft development, utilization of the X-15 aircraft for flight research, and technological developments for short and vertical take-off and landing aircraft. A flight research program using prototype B-70 aircraft is provided for in 1966. Basic research in the areas of aerodynamics, structures and loads, propulsion, and aircraft operations will be carried forward in support of these and other anticipated advanced aircraft developments.

6. Supporting activities.—The three programs grouped in this activity provide general support for the attainment of NASA mission objectives.

(a) Tracking and data acquisition.—Operation and equipment of the stations of the NASA tracking and data acquisition networks are provided for here, as well as research and development to increase the capability of the specialized ground equipment.

(b) Sustaining university program.—This program includes training grants awarded to graduate science and engineering students, and broadly oriented research and facility grants to universities.

(c) Technology utilization.—The primary objective of this program is to facilitate and accelerate the transfer of new technological advances generated by NASA research into the nongovernmental sectors of the economy.

This appropriation provides for contractual services for the design, construction and modernization of facilities; the purchase of equipment related to construction and modernization; and advance design of facilities planned for future authorization. The principal projects in the 1966 program are described below:

1. Manned space flight.—This activity includes funding requirements in 1966 for operational and testing facilities, utility installations, and additions and modifications to existing facilities, to support the Apollo spacecraft and Saturn launch vehicle programs and related research and support activities. NASA field centers involved are the John F. Kennedy Space Center, NASA, Cocoa Beach, Fla.; the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala.; and the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex.

3. Space applications.—No projects funded in 1966.

4. Space technology.—Projects for this activity provide for research facilities and modernization of laboratories at the Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va.; and the Lewis Research Center, Cleveland, Ohio. In addition, there are included facilities for the new Electronics Research Center, Cambridge, Mass.

5. Aircraft technology.—The principal item is a modification to improve the capability of the 20-inch wind tunnel at Langley Research Center.

6. Supporting activities.—This activity includes funds for facilities and equipment at various worldwide locations to support the tracking and data acquisition requirements of the NASA flight programs.

ADMINISTRATIVE OPERATIONS

For necessary expenses, not otherwise provided for, of the operation of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, including uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by the Act of September 1, 1954, as amended (5 U.S.C. 2131); minor construction; supplies, materials, services, and equipment; awards; [purchase or hire of not to exceed two aircraft for administrative use;] hire, maintenance and operation of administrative aircraft; purchase and hire of motor vehicles (including purchase of not to exceed [eighty-five] thirty passenger motor vehicles, of which [forty] twenty-four shall be for replacement only); and maintenance, repair, and alteration of real and personal property; [$623,525,500.] $609,400,000: Provided, That contracts may be entered into under this appropriation for maintenance and operation of facilities, and for other services, to be provided during the next fiscal year. (42 U.S.C. 2451, et seq., 50 U.S.C. 151-160, 511-515; Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1965; additional authorizing legislation to be proposed.)

Note.—Includes $24,800 thousand for activities previously carried under "Research and development." The amounts obligated in 1964 and 1965 are shown in the schedule as comparative transfers.

This appropriation was established in 1964 pursuant to Public Law 88-113 (77 Stat. 142) approved September 6, 1963, to provide a separate account for the expenses of personnel and travel, and for supporting costs of NASA installations previously included in the research and development appropriation.

Responsibility for the manned space flight activity is located at the John F. Kennedy Space Center, NASA, Cocoa Beach, Fla.; Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex.; and Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala. The scientific investigations in space activity and space applications are concentrated principally at the Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md., the Pacific Launch Operations Office, Lompoc, Calif.; and the Wallops Station, Wallops Island, Va.

The space technology activity is conducted at all major NASA installations. Locations not included above to which major activities are assigned are Ames Research Center, Mountain View, Calif.; Electronics Research Center, Cambridge, Mass.; Flight Research Center, Edwards, Calif.; Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va.; Lewis Research Center, Cleveland, Ohio; and the Space Nuclear Propulsion Office, Germantown, Md. Aircraft technology work is carried out at the Ames Research Center, Flight Research Center, Lewis Research Center, and the Langley Research Center.

Programwide support and management are provided by NASA Headquarters, Washington, D.C., and the Western Operations Office, Santa Monica, Calif.; and support activities for tracking and data acquisition requirements are performed at the Manned Spacecraft Center, Goddard Space Flight Center, and Wallops Station.

The following table reflects the distribution of the direct obligations by installation.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Not to exceed 5 per centum of any appropriation made available to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by this Act may be transferred to any other such appropriation.

Not to exceed $35,000 of the appropriation "Administrative Operations" in this Act for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration shall be available for scientific consultations or extraordinary expense, to be expended upon the approval or authority of the Administrator and his determination shall be final and conclusive.

No part of any appropriation made available to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by this Act shall be used for expenses of participating in a manned lunar landing to be carried out jointly by the United States and any other country without the consent of the Congress.

Any appropriation in this Act to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration may initially be used during the fiscal year 1966 to finance work or activities for which funds have been provided in any other appropriation available to the Administration and appropriate adjustments between such appropriations shall subsequently be made in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. (Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1965; additional authorizing legislation to be proposed.)

VETERANS ADMINISTRATION

General and special funds:

GENERAL OPERATING EXPENSES

For necessary operating expenses of the Veterans Administration, not otherwise provided for, including expenses incidental to securing employment for and recognition of war veterans; uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by law; not to exceed $1,000 for official reception and representation expenses; [reimbursement of the Department of the Army for the services of the officer assigned to the Veterans Administration to serve as Assistant Deputy Administrator] purchase of one passenger motor vehicle (medium sedan for replacement only) at not to exceed $3,000; and reimbursement of the General Services Administration for security guard services; [$155,125,000] $153,000,000: Provided, That no part of this appropriation shall be used to pay in excess of twenty-two persons engaged in public relations work: Provided further, That [no part of] this appropriation [shall be used to pay educational institutions for reports and certifications of attendance at such institutions an allowance at a rate in excess of $1 per month for each eligible veteran enrolled in and attending such institution] may be reimbursed by other appropriations or funds available to the Veterans Administration for automatic data processing and other administrative services furnished for the purposes of such appropriations or funds. ⁴ Reimbursements are derived from refund of terminal leave payments (5 U.S.C. 61(b)) and proceeds from sale of personal property (40 U.S.C. 481(c)).

This appropriation provides for all administrative expenses of the Agency with the exception of those applicable to the Department of Medicine and Surgery.

The request for new obligational authority for 1966 is $4.9 million less than the total request for 1965. This decrease is due primarily to (1) reorganization of field installations, including the consolidation of 17 regional offices into larger, more efficient units, (2) financing the cost of data processing operations related to medical programs on a reimbursement basis, and (3) increased productivity and declining workloads.

The program includes provision for the impact of Public Law 88-664 approved October 13, 1964, covering revisions in the veterans' pension program, limited reopening of National service life insurance and a new "modified life plan" of National service life insurance. Under the "reopening" provisions of the law it is estimated that 500,000 policies will be issued during the reopening period. The initial administrative expenses and maintenance costs will be reimbursed from the Veterans' reopened insurance fund, which is being established to service the new programs.

1. General administration.—In addition to the executive direction of the Agency, this activity covers the Board of Veterans Appeals, which decides all cases (other than insurance cases) of appeals to the Administrator on claims involving benefits under veterans legislation.

2. Data management.—This activity is responsible for managing all automatic data processing operations. Further development of ADP operations will improve service to veterans, provide better information for management and research, and reduce operating costs.

3. Veterans benefits.—Veterans' and dependents' claims for compensation, pensions, or other benefits are adjudicated, and guardianship and fiduciary service is furnished helpless or incompetent veterans and minor dependents, as indicated by the following workloads (in thousands):

	1963 actual	1964 actual	1965 estimate	1966 estimate

Eligibility of trainees for vocational rehabilitation and education or educational assistance is determined and guidance is furnished to trainees. Approximately $5 million of the total cost of the compensation, pension, and education activity is related to the administration of the education program in 1966. Trainees (average number) are expected as follows:

Loan guaranty operations include issuance of certificates of loan guaranty or insurance, servicing of loans reported in default, payment of claims of lenders on defaulted loans, acquisition, management and disposal of property when necessary to protect the Government's interest, making of direct loans to veterans in certain areas, and providing assistance to specified paraplegic veterans in acquiring specially adapted housing. Under existing legislation, 1965.—A supplemental appropriation of $2,809 thousand for 1965 is proposed for increased operating expenses resulting from the enactment of four public laws (in thousands of dollars):

	Estimated cost
1. Public Law 88-355 (approved July 7, 1964). Authorizes the issuance of total disability income provisions for inclusion in National service life insurance policies to provide coverage to age 65.....	495
2. Public Law 88-361 (approved July 7, 1964). Authorizes the provision of educational assistance to the children of veterans who are permanently and totally disabled from an injury or disease arising out of active military, naval, or air service during a period of war or the induction period.....	587
3. Public Law 88-364 (approved July 7, 1964). Authorizes waiver of premium for certain veterans holding National service life insurance policies who become or have become totally disabled before their 65th birthday.....	227
4. Public Law 88-664 (approved October 13, 1964). Revises the veterans' pension program, reopens the National service life insurance program for certain veterans, and provides for a new "modified life plan" of National service life insurance. (The supplemental appropriation is required for the pension portion of the law only.).....	1,500

1. Medical, hospital, and domiciliary administration.—This covers the development, implementation, and administration of policies, plans, and broad objectives, and provides executive direction for all agency medical programs. Included are the central office headquarters, Washington, D.C., and immediate offices of regional representatives of the chief medical director responsible for supervision of medical programs conducted in specific geographic areas.

2. Education and training.—This provides (a) medical residency and internship training, and (b) postgraduate and inservice training to maintain and improve the quality of medical care. This also serves as a media for disseminating information on medical advances resulting from research efforts.

1. Medical research.—Medical research projects are conducted in Veterans Administration laboratories or in universities or other institutions on a contract basis, whichever is more advantageous or economical.

In addition to amounts provided for the medical research program by direct appropriation, an amount of $9,116 thousand was available in 1964 in grants from the National Institutes of Health and from other organizations sponsoring research. Of this amount, $1,495 thousand represents grants made directly to the Veterans Administration, and grants totaling $7,621 thousand made to various medical schools with which Veterans Administration hospitals are affiliated. It is anticipated that approximately the same level of funding from these outside sources will be available in 1965 and 1966. An indeterminate amount of support is also furnished from funds budgeted for hospital operations for other services including housekeeping, personnel, supply, fiscal and engineering at the hospital level. This estimate does not include funding of research construction projects which are a part of the Construction of hospitals and domiciliary facilities appropriation.

2. Prosthetic research.—This is a research program to develop and test prosthetic, orthopedic, and sensory aids for the purpose of improving the care and rehabilitation of disabled eligible veterans, including amputees, paraplegics, and the blind.

This appropriation provides for the cost of care and treatment of eligible beneficiaries in Veterans Administration hospitals, domiciliary and nursing care beds, outpatient clinics, contract hospitals and nursing homes, and State domiciliary and nursing homes.

To be eligible for inpatient care and treatment, a beneficiary must be a veteran of any war with a service-connected disability incurred or aggravated during a period of war, or, within the limits of Veterans Administration facilities, for any other disability if the veteran is unable to defray the expenses of necessary hospital, nursing home, or domiciliary care. Outpatient medical and dental treatment is provided to eligible veterans with disabilities by staffs of Veterans Administration outpatient clinics and by physicians and dentists participating in the hometown medical care program; to veterans receiving vocational rehabilitation who require treatment to avoid interruption of training; to pensioners of nations allied with the United States in World War I and in World War II; and to veterans of the Spanish-American War, Indian wars, Boxer Rebellion, and Philippine Insurrection. Veterans also are provided examinations in outpatient clinics for purposes of rating for compensation and pension, insurance, and determining their need for hospitalization or domiciliary care.

Increases in 1966 are for (a) the full year cost of the Government Employees Salary Reform Act of 1964, (b) within-grade salary increases, (c) activation of an additional 1,000 nursing home care beds beyond the 1,000 bed activation program begun in 1965, (d) new types of medical services in existing facilities, (e) increase in staffing levels for improved quality of medical care, (f) increased usage of utilities, communications, drugs, medicines, linens, prosthetic appliances, and medical supplies, (g) increased maintenance and repair requirements, (h) increased operating and building service equipment requirements, (i) an increase in medical fees paid under the hometown care program, (j) cost of public and private nursing home care authorized by Public Law 88-450 approved August 19, 1964 and (k) cost of filling prescriptions for drugs and medicines authorized by Public Law 88-664, approved October 13, 1964.

1. Maintenance and operation of Veterans Administration facilities—(a) Neuropsychiatric hospitals.—This covers the operation of neuropsychiatric hospitals. The estimated costs for 1966 exceed 1965 by $9,831 thousand. Estimated operating levels are:

Average number of operating beds.....	57,538	56,240	55,871
Average daily patient load.....	54,335	53,159	52,698
Average employment (net, including consultants).....	40,432	39,766	39,952

(b) General hospitals.—This covers the operation of general hospitals. The estimated costs for 1966 exceed 1965 by $6,281 thousand; however, a net decrease is estimated in direct operating costs because of the planned closing of 11 marginal hospitals in 1965 which more than offsets proposed increases. Estimated operating levels are:

Average number of operating beds.....	62,364	63,262	61,095
Average daily patient load.....	55,824	56,759	55,868
Average employment (net, including consultants).....	74,150	75,460	73,424

(c) Nursing home care.—This covers the operation of nursing care beds in Veterans Administration facilities. The increase in the estimated cost over 1965 is $6,757 thousand.

(d) Domiciliary care.—This covers the cost of domiciliary care of veterans in Veterans Administration facilities including the operation of two pilot restoration centers. The decrease in the estimated cost under 1965 is $4,023 thousand because of the planned closing in 1965 of four domiciliaries. Estimated operating levels are:

Average number of operating beds.....	16,518	16,440	14,053
Average daily member load.....	15,330	15,241	13,993
Average employment (net, including consultants).....	3,226	3,282	2,826

(e) Outpatient care.—This covers the expense of outpatient medical and dental care provided by Veterans Administration staff and by physicians and dentists participating under a fee basis arrangement in the hometown care program. The increase in the estimated cost over 1965 is $4,627 thousand, primarily because of the initiation of the new program of providing drugs and medicines for veterans receiving increased pensions based on need of regular aid and attendance (Public Law 88-664).

(f) Miscellaneous benefits and services.—This covers items of expense not directly connected with medical care and treatment such as beneficiary travel, care of the dead, operation of personnel quarters at medical facilities, and the cost of furnishing supply, engineering, housekeeping, and other administrative support service to other Veterans Administration departments on a nonreimbursable basis. The decrease in the estimated cost under 1965 is $57 thousand.

2. Contract care—(a) Hospitalization.—This covers the hospitalization in other Federal hospitals for service and non-service-connected disabilities where Veterans Administration facilities are not available. It also covers the use of non-Federal hospitals which are limited to treatment of service-connected disabilities, except that female veterans, veterans in training under the provisions of 38 U.S.C. 1506, and veterans in U.S. Territories and possessions may also receive treatment of non-service-connected disabilities. The net decrease in the estimated costs under 1965 of only $1 thousand is due to a decrease of 70 average daily patient load offset almost entirely by an increase in contract per diem payment rates.

3. Grants for State home care—(a) Domiciliary.—This covers the cost of domiciliary care of veterans in State homes. A decrease of $343 thousand is estimated under 1965 costs due to the full year effect of the transfer of a portion of the members from domiciliary care to the new nursing home care program initiated in 1965.

(b) Nursing home.—This covers the cost of nursing care of veterans in State nursing homes as authorized by 38 U.S.C. 641. The cost of this program will increase by $1,507 thousand over 1965 since this program was initially activated in the second half of that year.

The requirements presented in this budget submission take into consideration the contemplated receipt in 1966 of an equivalent amount of property and supplies from other Federal agencies or from the General post fund, national homes, Veterans Administration, to that experienced in 1964 which had an acquisition value of $1,779 thousand. This does not, however, represent the value of the items when transferred.

A supplemental appropriation for 1965 is anticipated under Proposed for separate transmittal.

This appropriation provides for the payment of compensation, pensions and other related benefits and allowances to veterans and their dependents as authorized by law. In June 1964 there were an estimated 22,013,000 living veterans of all wars and peacetime service of which 14.5%, or 3,197,000 were receiving benefits under this appropriation. In addition, 1,814,000 dependents of 1,239,000 deceased veterans were receiving benefits. The increased cost in the current and budget years is primarily attributable to the pension program because of (1) accretions to the rolls resulting from the aging of veterans, (2) continuing sharp increases resulting from liberalizations afforded widows and children under the Veterans' Pension Act of 1959 and (3) the enactment of Public Law 88-664, effective January 1, 1965, which increased most rates of disability and death pension for an estimated additional cost of $50 million in 1965 and $96,226 thousand in 1966. Five other new laws having minor cost effect were also enacted and are reflected in the estimates.

A supplemental appropriation in 1965 of $108 million is anticipated as shown under Proposed for separate transmittal.

Legislation will be proposed to facilitate the cycling of benefit payments throughout the month. This will result in greater efficiency and savings to the Government without loss to the beneficiary.

1. Compensation.—Compensation is payable to living veterans for a disability connected with military service and compensation or dependency and indemnity compensation is payable to eligible dependents of deceased veterans for death connected with military service.

(a) Living veterans.—The caseload of living veterans reflects a static trend through 1966. An increase in average payment is estimated for 1965 and 1966 attributable to changes in family composition and in the average degree of impairment of veterans' disabilities.

(b) Deceased veterans.—The overall caseload continues to decline while the average payment per case rises due to increased rates under new legislation effective October 1, 1963, and increases in DIC payments to widows attributable to the Uniformed Services Act of 1964.

2. Pensions.—Benefits are payable to wartime veterans and dependents of deceased veterans for non-service-connected disability and death. Most of these payments were increased by Public Law 88-664 effective January 1, 1965.

(a) Living veterans.—The normal caseload increase was significantly less in 1964 than in prior years because the major World War I category peaked in 1963. This factor, together with the elimination of certain recoupment privileges in computing pension income provided by Public Law 88-664, will cause a net decrease in overall caseloads in 1965 and 1966. A decline in the annual average payment occurred in 1963 and 1964. The increases in average payment in 1965 and 1966 are due to higher rates available under Public Law 88-664 effective January 1, 1965.

3. Other—(a) Retired officers.—Emergency officers (World War I) and certain officers (Regular Establishment) retired for service-connected disability are entitled to special retirement benefits at rates substantially higher than the normal compensation payments.

(b) Adjusted service and dependents pay.—Claims made pursuant to the provisions of the World War Adjusted Compensation Act of 1924, as amended, are payable from this appropriation. Qualified veterans are entitled to receive adjusted service pay if the amount of his adjusted service credit was $50 or less. If the amount of adjusted service credit was more than $50 the veteran was entitled to receive an adjusted service certificate. The payment of adjusted service certificates was heretofore paid from the Adjusted service certificate fund established by the above cited act. The elimination of the Adjusted service certificate fund is proposed in 1966, with remaining funds being paid into the Compensation and Pensions appropriation. Future redemptions and adjustments will be processed through this appropriation.

(c) Subsistence allowance.—Subsistence allowance payments to disabled veterans enrolled in vocational rehabilitation and education programs are made from this appropriation. The decrease in 1966 is due to a reduction in the number of veterans eligible for this benefit.

(d) Burial benefits.—Under present statutes (38 U.S.C. 901, 902) the Administrator is authorized to (1) provide an allowance of $250 (plus transportation charges where death occurs under Veterans Administration care) to cover the burial and funeral expenses of a deceased veteran and (2) furnish a flag to drape the casket of each deceased veteran entitled thereto. The increases in obligations are directly related to the estimated increase in the number of deaths of veterans in civil life.

(e) Special allowance, dependents.—Under certain conditions a special allowance (38 U.S.C. 412) is payable to dependents of certain veterans who died after December 31, 1956, but who were not fully and currently insured under the Social Security Act. The award is based upon a certification to Veterans Administration by the Social Security Administration.

(f) Invalid lifts.—The Administrator may furnish an invalid lift, if medically indicated, to any veteran in receipt of pension under (38 U.S.C. 617) based on the need of regular aid and attendance.

(g) Tort claim settlements.—Provides for payment of amounts of compromises or settlements under (28 U.S.C. 2677) of those tort claims which are potentially subject to offset against benefits under the provisions of (38 U.S.C. 351). Regular benefit payments under law are suspended until the total amount of the settlement is recouped.

Under existing legislation, 1965.—A supplemental appropriation of $108 million is required to cover costs of (1) increases above the previously projected trend in average disability compensation payments, (2) increases in World War II death pension cases, and (3) increases in disability and death pension rates due to enactment of Public Law 88-664, effective January 1, 1965.

Under proposed legislation, 1966.—The proposal to even the mailing of benefit payments through the month, while not adversely affecting the benefit structure will result in a one-time expenditure savings of $150 million.

This appropriation provides education and training allowances for veterans of the Korean conflict; educational assistance allowances for eligibles under the War Orphans' Educational Assistance Act of 1956, as amended, and special assistance to disabled veterans in the form of vocational rehabilitation, housing grants and automobiles or other conveyances.

A supplemental appropriation for 1965 of $8.8 million is anticipated under Proposed for separate transmittal.

1. Education and training.—Since the training program for Korean conflict veterans terminates in 1965, no funds are requested in the budget year. Children in training under the War Orphans' Educational Assistance Act of 1956, as amended, will increase in number mainly due to new legislation (Public Law 88-361) approved July 7, 1964 which extends educational benefits to the children of veterans who are permanently and totally disabled due to military service.

Assistance also is available to provide grants for specially adapted housing to veterans having suffered the loss of both feet and to paraplegic veterans. Public Law 88-401, approved August 4, 1964, also extends this benefit to certain blind veterans. In addition, up to $1,600 is allowed certain disabled veterans toward the purchase of automobiles or other conveyances.

1. Military and naval insurance.—Payments are made for claims on war-risk insurance issued to servicemen and veterans of World War I. Although no policies of this insurance remain in force, payments for death and disability claims continue. Payments are made also to the U.S. Government life insurance fund for claims (1) traceable to extra hazards of military service, and (2) for claims while insured was under premium waiver provisions in active military service.

2. National service life insurance.—This appropriation pays certain expenses of the National service life insurance fund and receives premiums and pays claims on nonparticipating insurance policies issued to certain disabled veterans of World War II. Authorization of appropriation of premium receipts is provided by 38 U.S.C. 719(b).

(a) Payment to National service life insurance.—(1) For death claims traceable to extra hazards of service an amount is transferred from this appropriation, which, when added to the reserve of the policy, is equal to the actuarial value of the claim. In the event of total disability traceable to the extra hazards of service, an amount is transferred from this appropriation sufficient to meet the current payments from the fund.

(2) Gratuitous insurance was issued to aviation cadets and to certain persons who were unable to make application for National service life insurance. Under a court ruling in 1964 gratuitous insurance payments are made to illegitimate children previously denied recognition.

(3) The fund is reimbursed when recovery of erroneous payments or overpayments is waived.

(4) The fund is reimbursed for death claims on policies under waiver of premiums while the insured is on active military duty.

Grants-in-aid are made to the Republic of the Philippines for the medical care and treatment of eligible Philippine Commonwealth Army veterans. Section 632 of title 38, United States Code, as amended, provides for reimbursement at agreed upon patient per diem rates, up to a maximum annual amount of $500 thousand. Medical care and treatment is provided by the Philippine Veterans Memorial Hospital in Manila, which was constructed from U.S. grants-in-aid totaling approximately $9,400 thousand.

A supplemental appropriation for 1965 is anticipated under Proposed for separate transmittal in the amount of $76 thousand.

Proposed for separate transmittal:

These funds provide for the construction of new hospital and domiciliary facilities, replacement and relocation of existing hospitals and domiciliaries, acquisition of sites, modernization and other improvements, alterations and additions for medical research facilities, nursing home beds, regional offices, supply depots, and data processing centers, including construction, administrative and related staff activities. This estimate is for the sixth increment for financing a 15-year program to modernize the hospital system. While this program will be primarily for improvements to the older (pre-World War II) hospitals, it will also provide for replacement of 12 hospitals acquired from military surplus, for air conditioning where indicated and for the correction of deficiencies in post-World War II hospitals as necessary to bring them up to modern medical standards.

A construction program of $97,006 thousand is recommended for 1966 to be financed with new obligatory authority. The amount for construction of replacement and relocation hospitals includes $17,093 thousand for a research facilities includes $3,392 thousand to continue projects for which planning is in process and $2,190 thousand for new projects. Also included is $2,006 thousand for planning, administration and related staff activities.

760-bed hospital at Chicago, Ill.; $11,815 thousand for a 480-bed hospital at Columbia, Mo.; $15,109 thousand for the first phase of replacement and modernization at Northport, N.Y.; $1 million to complete first phase of the replacement and modernization at Hines, Ill.; $1,013 thousand to complete 1,040-bed hospital at Los Angeles, Calif.; $703 thousand to complete 1,160-bed hospital at Long Beach, Calif.; $1 million for site acquisition for the 1,000-bed hospital at Long Island, N.Y.; $800 thousand for planning a 760-bed hospital at San Antonio, Tex.; and $1 million for planning a 1,040-bed hospital at San Diego, Calif. The amount for modernization and other improvement projects includes $24,819 thousand to continue projects for which planning is in process and $9,566 thousand for new projects which will ultimately cost $20,226 thousand. $500 thousand is included for planning the modernization of a hospital building for domiciliary at Wood, Wis.; $5 million is included to provide an additional 2,000 beds for furnishing nursing home care, in accordance with Public Law 88-450. The amount for

In accordance with the Government's policy to provide fallout shelter facilities in new construction, funds are included in this estimate for fallout shelter facilities as follows: For construction and planning Northport, N.Y., $69 thousand. For planning only: San Antonio, Tex., $8 thousand; San Diego, Calif., $8 thousand; and Lexington, Ky., $6 thousand. It is estimated that a total of $245 thousand will be requested in future budgets to complete construction of the shelter facilities at these 3 stations.

1. Hospitals—(a) New.—This activity covers the new hospitals and bed-addition projects authorized in 1947 and subsequent years. It provides for 77 projects to add 38,240 beds and 12 projects for conversion of beds at existing hospitals. This activity is scheduled for completion with the construction of the Washington, D.C., 710-bed hospital in 1965.

(b) Replacement and relocation.—This activity provides for replacement and relocation of beds which are housed in temporary, obsolete or hazardous structures. The program, initiated in 1955, currently includes 24 projects for approximately 18,129 beds. Status of beds to be provided under this title follows:

Under construction beginning of year	2,351	5,873	10,013
Put under construction during year	3,522	4,140	1,720

Under construction at end of year	5,873	10,013	8,422
Not under construction at end of year	9,380	5,240	3,520

(c) Modernization.—This activity provides for needed modernization of pre-World War II hospitals to bring them, insofar as practicable, up to the standards of the new hospitals. The status of projects in this program, excluding those which were financially completed as of June 30, 1963 follows (dollars in thousands):

	Number of projects	Total estimated cost of projects
Completed as of June 30, 1964	27	$37,942
Under construction June 30, 1964	24	67,246

Scheduled to be placed under construction, 1966	8	22,413
To be placed under construction, after 1966	3	11,803

(d) Other improvements.—This activity provides for needed improvements, other than modernization, at hospitals. The status of the projects in this program, excluding those which were financially completed as of June 30, 1963 follows (dollars in thousands):

	Number of projects	Total estimated cost of projects
Completed as of June 30, 1964	70	$5,224

Scheduled to be placed under construction, 1966	61	13,840
To be placed under construction, after 1966	10	15,712

2. Domiciliaries.—This activity provides for construction at domiciliary facilities, including restoration centers. The status of the projects in this program, excluding those which were financially completed as of June 30, 1963 follows (dollars in thousands):

	Number of projects	Total estimated cost of projects
Completed as of June 30, 1964	1	$1,800
To be placed under construction after 1966	1	6,137

3. Nursing homes.—Alteration to existing Veterans Administration hospitals to provide nursing home facilities authorized by the President are provided under this activity. This program to provide 4,000 beds for nursing home care in Veterans Administration facilities was initiated in 1965. It provides for alteration projects estimated to cost $10 million. Status of beds to be provided under this title follows:

	1965 estimate	1966 estimate
Under construction beginning of year		500
Put under construction during year	1,500	2,500
Completed during year	1,000	2,000
Total completed at end of year since initiation of the program	1,000	3,000
Under construction at end of year	500	1,000
Not under construction at end of year	2,500

4. Research facilities.—This activity provides for construction of medical research facilities. The status of the projects in this program, excluding those which were financially completed as of June 30, 1963, follows (dollars in thousands):

	Number of projects	Total estimated cost of projects
Completed as of June 30, 1964	6	$2,126
Under construction June 30, 1964	13	2,543
Scheduled to be placed under construction, 1965	25	6,926
Scheduled to be placed under construction, 1966	15	7,599
To be placed under construction after 1966	1	507

5. Experimental hospital facilities.—This program was initiated in 1963 to provide experimental facilities to help determine the most advantageous functional arrangements for hospital nursing units and supporting facilities. The only project currently authorized under this title is estimated to cost $475 thousand and was placed under construction in 1963. No new projects are proposed in 1966.

6. Other facilities.—This activity provides for necessary construction at all other Veterans Administration facilities including regional offices, supply depots and data processing centers. No new projects are proposed in 1966. The status of the projects in this program, excluding those which were financially completed as of June 30, 1963, follows (dollars in thousands):

	Number of projects	Total estimated cost of projects
Completed as of June 30, 1964	1	$48
Under construction June 30, 1964	1	56
Scheduled to be placed under construction, 1965	1	52

7. General administration.—This activity provides for planning, administration and related staff activities previously carried under "Medical Administration and Miscellaneous Operating Expenses." The amounts in 1964 and 1965 for this activity are shown in the schedule as comparative transfers.

The Veterans Canteen Service was established by Congress in 1946 to furnish at reasonable prices merchandise and services necessary to the comfort and well-being of veterans in hospitals and domiciliaries operated by the Veterans Administration (38 U.S.C. 4201-08).

Budget program.—Sales are expected to be $52,055 thousand in 1965 and it is estimated sales will be $53,941 thousand during 1966. Operating costs will increase primarily as a result of the Government Employees Salary Reform Act of 1964.

Financing.—No appropriation by the Congress will be required for the operation of the Veterans Canteen Service during 1966. Operations will be financed from current revenues. The Congress originally appropriated a total of $4,965 thousand to establish and operate the Service. Funds in excess of the needs of the Service totaling $9,900 thousand have been paid to the Treasury as of June 30, 1964.

Operating results and financial condition.—Operating revenue is expected to be sufficient to cover operating expenses. Funds at the close of the year in excess of the needs of the Service for the ensuing year will be paid to the Treasury.

Direct loans are made to purchase, construct, or improve a home; to purchase a farm on which there is a farm residence to be occupied by the veteran as his home; or to construct, alter, repair or improve a farm dwelling to be occupied by the veteran as his home.

Such loans are made only in rural areas, small cities, and towns where private credit for the making of GI loans is and has been generally unavailable. The maximum loan amount is $15 thousand and the maximum term is 30 years. The interest rate is the same as the rate allowable for GI loans (38 U.S. Code, section 1811 as amended).

Budget program—1. Direct loans to veterans.—Under existing legislation, authority to make or to enter into commitments to make loans expires July 25, 1967, for World War II veterans, and January 31, 1975, for Korean conflict veterans. The following table summarizes the new loan activity:

Loans made.....	17,996	14,000	10,200
Average per loan.....	$10,940	$11,000	$11,000
Total amount (in thousands).....	$199,869	$154,000	$112,000

2. Vendee loans.—Most sales of acquired property involve a small cash down payment by the purchaser and the establishment of a new mortgage loan or installment contract to be held by the Veterans Administration. Cash expenditures are not involved in the establishment of vendee loans or installment contracts. However, it is often necessary to subsequently advance cash on behalf of the borrower in order to protect the interest of the Government.

3. Property improvements.—Properties are acquired through foreclosure or voluntary conveyance of defaulted loans. This involves the exchange of noncash assets and are excluded from capital outlay on the program and financing schedule. However, capital expenditures are often necessary to put the property in salable condition. The following table summarizes these expenditures.

Number of properties improved.....	1,157	1,217	1,211
Average cost.....	$109	$99	$99
Total cost (in thousands).....	$126	$120	$120

4. Interest on borrowings from Treasury.—The actual interest cost for 1964 was $43,745 thousand. However, in order to effect the adjustment in interest paid in prior years (1962 and 1963) required by Public Law 88-274, approved February 1964, payments were reduced by $4,972 thousand for a net of $38,503 thousand in 1964. Approximately 65% of the total earned revenue through 1964 was used to pay interest expense on borrowings from the Treasury.

5. Operating expenses, general.—Includes a variety of miscellaneous expenses borne by the Government incident to closing and liquidating loans.

6. Property management expense.—Includes all the cost of ownership of acquired properties except those which increase the value of the property and are included under capital improvements. Included in management expense is grass cutting, repair of broken windows, winterizing, etc., also payments for services performed by management brokers and real estate taxes.

7. Sales expense.—Includes broker's fees and advertising costs incident to the sale of properties owned by Veterans Administration and averages approximately 5% of the selling price.

Financing.—Public Law 87-84, approved July 6, 1961, authorizes the Veterans Administration to draw $1.1 billion from the U.S. Treasury at stated intervals through 1966 with the provision that after the first year (1962) the amount so authorized was to be reduced by the amount of loans sold in the preceding fiscal year. Through 1964, $400 million was borrowed from the Treasury and $200.6 million lapsed due to loan sales in prior years. No borrowings are contemplated in 1965 or 1966. Funds provided by the repayment of principal on loans outstanding, the sale of loans, the sale of mortgage pool participation certificates, and other revenue will provide sufficient funds for the requirements of the Direct loan program; and also make available $200 million for transfer to the Loan guaranty fund in 1965 and $180 million in 1966. Therefore, appropriation language is proposed to rescind the new 1966 authorization.

Public Law 88-507, approved in August 1964, continued the authority to transfer "retained earnings" of this fund to the Loan guaranty fund and, in addition, provided authority to transfer, as needed, up to $200 million of unobligated balances of the Direct loan fund to the Loan guaranty fund. Language is proposed to extend these provisions through 1966.

Mortgage pools.—This fund received $93 million in 1965 from the sale of participation certificates in the government mortgage liquidation trust, authorized by the Housing Act of 1964, Public Law 88-560, approved in September 1964. These estimates also include revenue of $600 million in 1966 from the sale of additional mortgage pool participation certificates.

Note.—The above statement excludes the following exchanges of nonworking capital assets: The settlement of VA-guaranteed or insured loans by the acquisition of real property (1964, $255,791 thousand; 1965, $288,000 thousand; 1966, $302,000 thousand); The settlement of defaulted VA-owned loans by acquisition of real property (1964, $32,693 thousand; 1965, $38,200 thousand; 1966, $44,300 thousand); The acquisition of vendee loans in exchange for real property (1964, $321,697 thousand; 1965, $309,000 thousand; 1966, $322,000 thousand).

The Loan guaranty revolving fund was established at the beginning of 1962 by 74 Stat. 533, in order that the revenues obtained from principal repayments and proceeds of sales of vendee accounts, principal payments on acquired loans, income from interest payments on such assets, and miscellaneous income such as rental of properties, could be used to defray part of the expenses for paying claims, acquiring properties, managing and selling properties.

Budget program.—The activities indicated in tables 1 and 2 below represent the numbers of each asset acquired on a check-issued basis.

1. Real property acquired.—Private lenders who have acquired property as a result of foreclosure on defaulted guaranteed or insured loans may elect to convey that property to the Veterans Administration. The table below reflects this activity and excludes the amount of indebtedness established against the veteran:

Total cost (in thousands).....	$264,661	$273,000	$265,000

2. Capital improvements to acquired properties.—After conveyance of the property to the Veterans Administration, capital repairs are often necessary to place the property in salable condition. The following table indicates the annual cash expenditures for this purpose:

Number of property improvements.....	22,761	23,600	20,000
Average cost per improvement.....	$238	$250	$250
Total cost (in thousands).....	$5,419	$5,900	$5,000

3. Claims paid.—These payments are made to lenders in accordance with the Veterans Administration guaranty contract and represents the difference between the amount owed by the veteran on a defaulted loan and the value of the foreclosed property (as established by Veterans Administration). These payments are in addition to property acquisition cost shown in 1, above. The table below reflects this activity.

Average cost per payment.....	$996	$1,000	$1,000
Total cost (in thousands).....	$24,502	$24,500	$24,000

4. Repurchase of loans sold.—Pursuant to Veterans Administration Regulation 4600, dated March 22, 1962, the Administrator may sell mortgage loans, which have been created incident to the sale of Veterans Administration acquired properties, with full recourse:

Average cost per repurchase.....	$10,919	$11,000	$11,000
Total cost (in thousands).....	$13,496	$16,500	$17,000

5. Cash advances—vendee loans.—Cash expenditures are not involved in the establishment of vendee loans or installment contracts. However, it is often necessary to subsequently advance cash on behalf of the borrower in order to protect the interest of the Government. These disbursements are of two general types, i.e., those necessary to prevent foreclosure such as deficiencies in escrow accounts established for the payment of taxes and insurance on the mortgaged property and those necessary to cover foreclosure costs that should be paid by the borrower. These advances are added to the unpaid loan balance and are included in the capital outlay section of the program and financing schedule. The following table indicates the annual cash expenditure for these advances:

Total cost (in thousands)	$512	$600	$650

6. Loans acquired.—Guaranteed or insured loans in a default status may be purchased by the Administrator to avoid foreclosure when it is felt that temporary forbearance will allow the veteran borrowers to cure the default.

Number of loans acquired	425	600	425
Average cost per acquisition	$11,260	$12,500	$12,500
Total cost (in thousands)	$4,786	$7,600	$5,350

7. Property management expense.—The cost of ownership of acquired properties is financed from this fund. These costs include local real estate taxes, services performed by management brokers and maintenance of the property in a salable condition:

Average number of properties	21,823	19,796	19,511
Average cost per property	$1,119	$1,175	$1,250
Total cost (in thousands)	$24,410	$23,279	$24,400

8. Sales expense.—This item consists principally of brokers fees and advertising costs incident to the sale of acquired properties:

Number of sales	29,337	27,800	29,000
Average cost per sale	$597	$625	$625
Total cost (in thousands)	$17,527	$17,400	$18,000

Financing.—Normal revenue and receipts consist principally of interest income and repayments on mortgage loans made incident to the sale of real property acquired as a result of foreclosure on guaranteed loans. It is estimated that $62 million in 1965 and $50.7 million in 1966 will be received from these sources. Also an estimated $250 million vendee loans will be sold in 1965 and 1966, respectively.

78 Stat. 661 provided authority to transfer from the Direct loan revolving fund "retained earnings", as available, and, in addition up to $200 million as needed of "unobligated balances" to this fund to cover expenses for property acquisitions and other loan guaranty and insurance operations under 38 U.S.C. 37, except administrative expenses, as authorized by section 1824 of such title. Language is proposed to extend these provisions through 1966.

Mortgage pools.—This fund received $7 million in 1965 from the sale of participation certificates in the Government Mortgage Liquidation Trust, authorized by the Housing Act of 1964, Public Law 88-560. These estimates also include revenue of $200 million in 1966 from the sale of additional mortgage pool participation certificates.

¹ Balances of selected resources are identified in the statement of financial condition.

There are available for leasing to Federal employees 128 housekeeping units located at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Perry Point, Md. These units were constructed prior to World War I and consequently are in need of considerable repair.

Income derived from rental of these quarters is necessary for the extensive backlog of modernization, maintenance, and repair (38 U.S.C. 5012(a)). These quarters serve a definite need in providing an incentive to recruit and retain the services of key employees.

This fund finances the payment of claims on non-participating insurance policies issued to veterans with service-connected disabilities but who are otherwise insurable (38 U.S.C., sec. 722). Administrative expenses are paid from the appropriation, General operating expenses.

Budget program—1. Death claims.—Payments to surviving beneficiaries continue to increase as new deaths occur among the increasing number of policyholders.

2. Cash surrenders.—A policyholder may terminate his insurance by cashing in his policy for its cash value.

5. Policy loans made.—A policyholder may borrow up to 94 percent of the cash value of his policy. This activity increases with the increased number of policyholders.

The general increase in the activity of this fund is indicated in the following table:

[Dollars in thousands]

	June 30, 1963	June 30, 1964	June 30, 1965	June 30, 1966

Insurance in force.....	$460,174	$495,441	$530,700	$565,500

Financing.—Operations are financed from premiums and other receipts. Additional funds are derived from the appropriation, Veterans insurance and indemnities, instead of direct appropriations to this fund. It is estimated that the payment will be $2.7 million in 1965 and $3.2 million in 1966.

Operating results and financial condition.—Because premium and other receipts continue to be insufficient to cover operations, the deficit is expected to continue to increase with capital impairment reaching an estimated $37.9 million by June 30, 1966.

The capital of the fund consists of $4.5 million—$3.5 million appropriated directly in 1952, 1956-58 and $1 million transferred from Readjustment benefits appropriation in 1954.

The fund finances claims arising from the guarantees of premiums due on commercial life insurance policies held by servicemen while they are in service and for 2 years after discharge (72 Stat. 487). The Government guarantees the repayment of any indebtedness not liquidated by the insured himself. Any payment by the Government on cases approved subsequent to October 6, 1942, creates a debt owed the Government by the insured. Administrative expenses are paid from the appropriation, General operating expenses.

Budget program—Insurance program.—Claims paid on guaranteed premiums are made to commercial insurance companies in cases where the servicemen failed to make premium payments which were guaranteed by the Government.

The activity of the fund is indicated in the following table:

Number of settlements.....	29	55	36
Average cost per settlement.....	$943	$810	$874

Financing.—Payment of claims against this fund are financed from collections of claims receivable, revenue, and appropriations as needed. The last appropriation to this account was made in 1959 through Public Law 85-766. It is anticipated that present unobligated balances and additional income will fund this program only through 1965; therefore, an appropriation of $25 thousand will be required in 1966.

Operating results and financial condition.—The payment of refund claims has created expenses substantially in excess of the small revenue of the fund, thereby increasing the deficit to $1.9 million in 1964 with nominal losses continuing through 1966 with an estimated deficit of $2 million.

Under existing legislation, 1965.—A supplemental request will be made to transfer surplus retained earnings from the Veterans special term insurance fund to advance initial capital to the Veterans reopened insurance fund.

This fund will finance payment of claims and administrative costs on nonparticipating insurance policies issued after April 30, 1965, and prior to May 4, 1966, under the three insurance programs—(1) Veterans service-disabled standard insurance, (2) Veterans service-disabled rated insurance, and (3) Non-service-disabled rated insurance—established by provisions of the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940, as amended (38 U.S.C. 725 (b) and (c)).

Each program will be self-contained and premiums may be adjusted to insure that each is self-sustaining, as required by law. Separate accounting and actuarial records must be maintained for the three programs for the purpose of determining the actual program costs and to provide the basis for adjusting each program premium rate independently.

Service-disabled standard insurance program.—This program will finance payment of claims on policies issued to veterans with service-connected disabilities, but who are insurable according to the standards of good health established by the Administrator.

The estimated number of policies and amount of insurance in force follows (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1965	June 30, 1966
Number of policies.....	125,000	395,000
Amount of insurance.....	$1,110,000	$3,477,000

Budget program—1. Death claims.—Payments to beneficiaries are expected to reach $7.5 million in 1966.

2. Disability claims.—Payments to policyholders who purchased total disability income coverage are expected to begin in 1966 and are estimated at $9 thousand.

Financing.—Payments will be financed from premium receipts and interest on investments.

Operating results and financial condition.—It is expected that premium and interest income will be sufficient to pay death and disability claims and to set up necessary reserves.

Service-disabled rated insurance program.—This program will finance payment of claims on policies issued to veterans with service-connected disabilities who do not qualify for insurance at standard premium rates solely because of their service-incurred disability.

The estimated number of policies and amount of insurance in force follows (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1965	June 30, 1966
Number of policies.....	40,000	100,000
Amount of insurance.....	$344,000	$848,000

Budget program—(a) Death claims.—Payments to surviving beneficiaries are expected to total almost $5.7 million in 1966. A greater number of claims is expected in this group than in the Service-disabled standard insurance because of the higher mortality rate associable with rated policies.

Financing.—Payments will be financed from premium receipts and interest income from investments.

Operating results and financial condition.—It is expected that premium and interest income will be sufficient to pay death and disability claims and to set up necessary reserves.

Non-service-disabled rated insurance program.—This program finances payment of claims on policies issued to veterans with nonservice incurred disabilities who are unable to obtain commercial insurance even at substandard rates.

The estimated number of policies and amount of insurance in force follows (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1965	June 30, 1966
Number of policies.....	2,000	5,000
Amount of insurance.....	$17,000	$43,000

Budget program—(a) Death claims.—Payments to beneficiaries are expected to reach $812 thousand in 1966. The mortality rate will be exceptionally high because of the short average life expectancy of the insureds. Therefore, an incontestability clause will be included in the contracts to mitigate the otherwise uncontrollable initial capital impairment in this program.

Financing.—Payments are financed primarily from premium receipts and interest income from investments.

Operating results and financial condition.—It is expected that premium and interest income will be sufficient to pay death and disability claims and to set up necessary reserves.

Service charge program.—Amounts collected from policyholders for administrative expenses are credited to this program. Payments are made to the appropriation, "General operating expenses," and to the General fund receipts in the Treasury for cash advances and interest thereon.

Budget program—1. Payment to "General operating expenses" appropriation.—The administrative cost of issuing insurance policies, processing claims, and maintaining accounts is estimated to be $1,650 thousand in 1965, and $4 million in 1966.

2. Interest on loans payable (Treasury).—The sum of $1,650 thousand is being advanced from the Veterans special term insurance fund as initial capital. This amount, with interest, must be repaid to the "General fund receipts" in the Treasury. The estimated interest payment in 1965 is $9 thousand and about $57 thousand in 1966. The principal will be repaid to the Treasury as soon as practicable.

Financing.—Operations will be financed from administrative cost premiums collected from policyholders. It is estimated that amounts collected through 1966 will be insufficient to cover the administrative costs. Collections in future years will be sufficient to repay borrowings and allow the program to operate on a self-sustaining basis.

The fund finances the payment of claims on nonparticipating insurance policies issued before January 1, 1957, to veterans who served in the Armed Forces subsequent to April 1951 (38 U.S.C., sec. 723). Policyholders were given the right (72 Stat. 1716) to convert to a permanent plan of insurance or to a new form of term insurance. Those who converted to a permanent plan also acquired the right to purchase total disability income coverage with an additional premium. Administrative expenses are paid from the appropriation, General operating expenses.

Budget program—1. Death claims.—Payments to surviving beneficiaries continue to increase as deaths occur among policyholders.

2. Disability claims.—Payments to individuals who have purchased total disability coverage and who subsequently become totally disabled began in 1960.

3. Cash surrenders.—A policyholder may terminate his insurance by cashing in his policy for its cash value.

4. Special dividend.—Payments were authorized to insureds converting old term policies to new insurance plans. This special authority expired in 1964.

6. Policy loans made.—The policyholders who converted their insurance from term to permanent plan were subsequently entitled to borrow up to 94% of the cash value of the new policy.

The following table reflects the decrease in the number of policies and the amount of insurance in force (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1963	June 30, 1964	June 30, 1965	June 30, 1966
Number of policies.....	645,195	645,298	637,000	630,000
Insurance in force.....	$5,700,398	$5,674,079	$5,596,000	$5,525,000

Financing.—Payments from this fund are financed primarily from premium receipts and interest on investments.

Operating results and financial condition.—Favorable mortality experience on insurance written against this fund has kept death claim payments well below the amount of premium and interest receipts, thereby producing an annual increase in the retained earnings of the fund. Part of the surplus retained earnings were used to finance the special dividend which expired in 1964. In 1965 it is proposed to transfer $1.7 million of surplus retained earnings to the new Veterans reopened insurance fund to provide initial capital for that account. In 1966 it is planned to use $7 million of the surplus retained earnings to partially offset new obligational authority in the Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation.

This fund is used to make loans up to $100 to disabled veterans eligible for vocational rehabilitation who are without sufficient funds to meet their expenses (38 U.S.C. 1507). Repayments are used to make new loans. Administrative expenses are borne by the appropriation, General operating expenses.

The Supply fund finances, on a reimbursable basis, the procurement of supplies and certain equipment throughout the Veterans Administration in accordance with the provisions of 38 U.S.C. 5011, and nonperishable subsistence and drugs for all civilian agencies.

Budget program.—The fund provides for the procurement of supplies and equipment, the maintenance and operation of three supply depots located at Somerville, N.J., Hines, Ill., and Wilmington, Calif., the operation of service and reclamations shops at each supply depot, a centralized periodical procurement activity, and printing service to Veterans Administration installations on a centralized basis.

The publications and reproduction program provides printing service to Veterans Administration installations. Printed matter is acquired in accordance with the rules of the Joint Committee on Printing from the Government Printing Office, the General Services Administration, a Veterans Administration-operated plant in Arlington, Va., and from commercial sources.

The Veterans Administration has been designated as the Government's purchasing and distribution agent for nonperishable subsistence and drugs required by the civilian agencies. Contracting and purchasing of these commodities began in the latter part of 1961. The Veterans Administration is currently collaborating with the General Services Administration, Health, Education, and Welfare and Department of Defense in a study of distribution methods for subsistence items; it is anticipated that this joint study will be completed during 1965.

A decrease in procurement and sales volume in 1965 and 1966 over 1964 is anticipated due to direct procurement from the applicable appropriations of certain equipment previously provided through the Supply fund.

Personal services and other costs incidental to the operation and administration of supply activities in the Veterans Administration central office and field organizations are charged directly to applicable appropriations and are not an operating expense of the Supply fund.

Financing.—Consuming appropriations reimburse the fund for the cost of supplies and equipment provided and services rendered by the above specified activities. Supply depot operating costs are recovered from the appropriations and funds receiving supplies and equipment from the depots.

Operating results and financial condition.—The fund operated at a deficit of $221 thousand in 1964. It is anticipated that the fund will recover this loss in 1965.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Not to exceed 5 per centum of any appropriation for the current fiscal year for "Compensation and pensions", "Readjustment benefits", and "Veterans insurance and indemnities" may be transferred to any other of the mentioned appropriations, but not to exceed 10 per centum of the appropriations so augmented.

Appropriations available to the Veterans Administration for the current fiscal year for salaries and expenses shall be available for services as authorized by section 15 of the Act of August 2, 1946 (5 U.S.C. 55a).

The appropriation available to the Veterans Administration for the current fiscal year for "Medical care" shall be available for funeral, burial, and other expenses incidental thereto (except burial awards authorized by section 902 of title 38, United States Code), for beneficiaries of the Veterans Administration receiving care under such appropriations.

No part of the appropriations in this Act for the Veterans Administration (except the appropriation for "Construction of hospital and domiciliary facilities") shall be available for the purchase of any site for or toward the construction of any new hospital or home.

No part of the foregoing appropriations shall be available for hospitalization or examination of any persons except beneficiaries entitled under the laws bestowing such benefits to veterans, unless reimbursement of cost is made to the appropriation at such rates as may be fixed by the Administrator of Veterans Affairs. Studies to improve administrative procedures.—The Conference was authorized on a permanent basis in 1964 to assist the President, the Congress, the administrative agencies, and executive departments in improving existing administrative procedures. It is responsible for conducting studies of the efficiency, adequacy, and fairness of procedures by which Federal administrative agencies and executive departments determine the rights, privileges, and obligations of private persons dealing with agencies of the Federal Government.

The Chairman is required, on behalf of the Conference, to transmit to the President and the Congress an annual report and such interim reports as he deems desirable.

A supplemental appropriation for 1965 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

This appropriation provides for continued attention by the Commission to interrelations of Federal, State, and local governments.

Representatives of Federal, State, and local governments are brought together for consideration of common problems. The administration and coordination of Federal grant and other programs requiring intergovernmental cooperation are examined and emerging problems of Federal-State-local relations are identified and explored.

Proposed Federal and State legislative and administrative programs are developed to coordinate taxes at all levels in order to reduce tax overlapping and simplify the tax structure, and to reduce taxpayer-compliance costs and costs of tax administration.

Technical assistance is provided in the review of proposed legislation to determine its overall effect in the Federal system, and the most desirable allocations of governmental functions, responsibilities, and revenue among the several levels of government are recommended.

Recommendations growing out of the Commission's work are submitted, as appropriate, to the executive or legislative branches of Federal, State, and local governments.

The Alaska Omnibus Act (Public Law 86-70), approved June 25, 1959, authorized the President to appoint a temporary commission to settle any disputes arising between the United States and the State of Alaska concerning the conveyance of property. A dispute arose concerning certain property controlled by the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior and the Commission was established on March 5, 1964, by Executive Order No. 11144. Funds were appropriated for 1965 to cover Commission expenses. The Commission has completed its determinations and has advised the interested parties regarding details of the final settlement, and these are in process of being carried out.

The American Battle Monuments Commission maintains the World War I and World War II American military cemeteries in foreign countries and the memorials in the war areas commemorating the participation of the American armed forces. There are 11 memorials and 8 cemeteries, each with a memorial chapel, at World War I sites, and 14 cemeteries and memorials at World War II sites. Interred in these cemeteries are the remains of 124,079 service men and women, and an additional 91,419 missing and unidentified are commemorated by the inscribing of their names upon the walls of these and other memorials erected by the Commission in the United States and at Honolulu. In addition, the Commission maintains the U.S. National Cemetery, Mexico City, Mexico. Each year large numbers of American tourists and local citizens

The Board regulates the economic aspects of air carrier operations, both domestic and international; investigates aircraft accidents; participates in the development of international air transportation; and participates in the development of safety rules and standards. The increase proposed for 1966 is for increased accident investigation costs.

1. Economic regulation.—This includes granting certificates of public convenience and necessity; prescribing or approving rates and rate practices of air carriers; fixing mail rate compensation; preventing unfair competition; approving business relationships between air carriers; and adjudicating complaints alleging violations of civil air regulations.

2. Safety activities.—These consist of investigating and determining the probable cause of civil aircraft accidents, investigating potential hazards, and recommending preventive measures to avoid accidents in the future.

3. Board adjudication, executive and legal staff activities.—This includes the adjudicatory, program planning, and top policy and decision making functions of the Board; legal advice and assistance on all aspects of economic, regulatory, and safety activities; preparation of opinions; and handling litigation.

The Board fixes rates for transportation of airmail to promote the development of air transportation required for the commerce of the United States, the postal service, and the national defense. Many of these rates include an element of subsidy. The subsidy portion is paid by the Civil Aeronautics Board, and the service portion is paid by the Post Office Department.

A petition to eliminate subsidized helicopter operations will be presented to the Board. The budget estimates assume that helicopter subsidies will be terminated by December 31, 1965.

The following table reflects the estimated amounts becoming due finally for each year, together with the adjustments between years:

CERTIFICATED CARRIER UNITS

	Non-subsidized	Subsidized
Domestic:			Northeast Airlines returned to subsidy status in fiscal 1964. All other trunklines remain subsidy-free. Local service and helicopter carriers need for subsidy will continue at reduced level. Subsidy will continue to support routes between continental United States and Alaska and to remote localities. Subsidy will be required to support Hawaiian operations. The U.S.-flag operations which represent the all international operations, the all cargo operations, and all other operations are in a nonsubsidized status.

1. Recruiting and examining.—Most appointments in the competitive Civil Service are made under the open competitive merit system through examinations held by the offices of the Commission and its boards of examiners, made up of agency personnel operating under the supervision of the Commission. Appointments through such competitive examinations will accord career or career-conditional status. Physically handicapped persons are given special placement attention. Veterans are aided in securing the benefits to which they are entitled.

This fund finances on a reimbursable basis, full field security investigations performed at the request of other departments and agencies of the Government (66 Stat. 107).

Budget program.—Because work on some investigations will be started in one fiscal year and completed in another, work-in-process is recognized as an asset of the fund. Agency estimates of investigations to be requested in 1965 and 1966 as compared to 1964 experience, are presented below. In addition, the table relates estimated workload receipts to estimates of production, average positions, and unit costs.

The Commission, composed of lawyers in private practice and Federal and State officials, was established by Public Law 85-906, approved September 2, 1958, to investigate and study existing practices of judicial assistance and cooperation between the United States and foreign countries, to draft agreements to be negotiated by the Secretary of State and to recommend legislation or other action to the President with a view to achieving improvements. An advisory committee, composed of specialists in the legal profession, was created to advise and consult with the Commission and its professional staff.

The life of the Commission was extended to December 31, 1966, by Public Law 88-522, approved August 30, 1964.

A supplemental appropriation is anticipated for separate transmittal.

At the time the budget estimates for this agency were prepared the President had not yet appointed the members of the Commission. The estimates are therefore preliminary and may be amended at a later date to reflect the actual program and operating plans to be developed by the Commission members.

1. Federal administration.—Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 established an Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to investigate alleged instances of unlawful employment practices. Funds are provided to support the five-member Commission and supporting headquarters and field staff assistance.

2. State administration.—Title VII also anticipates a close relationship between the Commission and the States and localities that have statutes which prohibit unfair employment practices. Federal funds are provided to reimburse States and local equal employment agencies for certain activities carried out by them pursuant to specific agreements worked out with the Commission.

For more than 30 years the Export-Import Bank of Washington has assisted in financing U.S. exports. This is done through the Bank's programs of direct loans to foreign borrowers, guarantees issued to commercial banks, and insurance issued by the Foreign Credit Insurance Association. The Bank extends credit only when in its judgment private capital is not available, and encourages private participation in the credits extended. In all its activities, the Bank is required to find reasonable assurance of repayment.

Public Law 88-101, approved August 20, 1963, extended the life of the Bank to June 30, 1968; increased from $7 billion to $9 billion the total amount of loans, guarantees, and insurance which the Bank may have outstanding at any one time; and increased from $1 billion to $2 billion the amount of guarantees and insurance which may be issued on a fractional reserve basis. Although Congress enacted an increase of $2 billion in lending authority, it did not increase the Bank's authority to borrow from the U.S. Treasury.

The Foreign Assistance Appropriation Act of 1964 provided that the Export-Import Bank could guarantee sales of U.S. goods and services to the U.S.S.R. and Eastern European countries only if the President determined such guarantees to be in the national interest. On February 4, 1964, President Johnson determined the sale of U.S. agricultural products to the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, and Bulgaria, and the sale of U.S. goods and services to Yugoslavia to be consistent with the national interest. Subsequently, the Bank has guaranteed sales of agricultural commodities to Hungary and Poland.

In 1964 the Bank's receipts exceeded expenditures by $702 million. Three factors are mainly responsible. First, a growing volume of short- and medium-term loans akin to those made directly by the Bank in previous years are now being made by private credit sources under the Bank's program of guarantees to commercial banks or the re-insurance of policies issued by the Foreign Credit Insurance Association. Second, the Bank has been highly successful in selling its portfolio securities to commercial banks, thereby enlisting their participation in the financing of U.S. exports. Finally, the Bank has been receiving sizable prepayments from European governments on loans made for purposes of reconstruction shortly after World War II.

The Bank's new program activity increased from $732 million in 1963 to $852 million in 1964, and is expected to increase further in 1965. As in past years, most Bank lending was in the form of equipment and service credits to foreign borrowers. Gross authorizations increased from $1,474 million in 1963 to $1,743¹ million in 1964, an increase of $269 million. Much of the increase was due to commodity loan and FCIA insurance authorizations.

The following tables show the contemplated 1966 new program activity of the Bank, compared to the actual for 1964 and the estimate for 1965.

Equipment and services loans.—Equipment and service loans have been made in more than 80 countries of the free world. These loans have financed the purchase of U.S. goods and services and have assisted the economic development of the recipient countries through projects involving establishment of new industries, expansion and modernization of manufacturing plants, electric power facilities, highway construction, railroad modernization, and development of natural resources. Thousands of U.S. manufacturers have received orders as a result of this program.

Exporter loans.—Exporter loans are medium-term credits (1–5 years) which finance exports of capital equipment, consumer goods, aircraft, and semifinished products. Bank activity in this field has shifted from direct lending to the use of private financing sources—the Foreign Credit Insurance Association (FCIA) and commercial banks under Eximbank's guarantee programs.

Commodity loans.—Short-term and medium-term credits are extended by the Bank to finance the sale abroad of U.S. commodities such as cotton in those cases where financing is not available from private sources on reasonable terms. For the most part these loans are now being handled by commercial banks under Eximbank's guarantee. The unusually large authorization for 1964 is attributable to a $100 million commodity credit to Italy. Estimated authorizations for 1966 are $82 million.

Emergency foreign trade loans.—On occasion the Bank extends emergency loans to foreign governments experiencing shortages of foreign exchange to help such countries maintain their level of essential imports from the United States. Emergency loans may take the form of a line of credit to a foreign central bank or other financial institution to provide dollar exchange for a wide range of U.S. exports or to fund arrearages resulting from dollar exchange difficulties. No new authorizations of this type occurred in 1964. In 1965, however, $250 million has been authorized as part of the U.S. contribution in support of the British pound.

Delinquent loans.—As of June 30, 1964, protracted loan defaults aggregated $39.5 million ($22.7 million principal plus $16.8 million interest), involving five loans to Cuba, four to Bolivia, and two to Haiti. On these loans the total outstanding principal was $97.3 million. Of the Bank's $200 million of loans to mainland China authorized prior to 1947, all but $28.3 million has been repaid. The Republic of China resumed payment in 1961 on $2.3 million of loans, $1.9 million was outstanding on June 30, 1964.

In addition, there are minor delinquencies which, in the opinion of the Bank's Board of Directors, are attributable to routine delays or transitory exchange difficulties. On June 30, 1964, these delinquencies totaled $1.2 million of which $0.8 million was principal and $0.4 million was interest. On September 11, 1964, the Bank completed an agreement with the Government of Brazil to refund $92.5 million principal of debt due in 1964 and 1965. Of this total, $66.5 million consists of project and commercial supplier debt which the Bank will refund subject to comparable refunding by other creditor countries.

Guarantees and insurance.—In addition to making direct loans to finance purchase of U.S. goods and services for projects abroad, the Bank guarantees export loans made by commercial banks and offers export credit insurance through the FCIA on short- and medium-term transactions. Guarantees issued by Eximbank to commercial banks enable U.S. exporters to obtain nonrecourse medium-term financing directly from their banks. Similarly, through an arrangement with Eximbank, the FCIA issues insurance policies directly to exporters throughout the country. The insurance programs permit an exporter to: (1) extend credit to his customers in other countries without fear that unforeseen adverse developments abroad will expose him to large losses; and (2) obtain credit more readily from U.S. commercial banks. In August 1964, both programs were modified to give more flexibility to FCIA and the commercial banks.

Under the medium-term FCIA program and the guarantee program, the foreign buyer is required to make a partial payment in cash. Under both short- and medium-term programs, the exporter is required to carry a portion of the political and commercial risks. Eximbank takes the remainder of the political risks and shares the commercial risks with FCIA or the commercial bank. Premium rates for both guarantees and insurance vary according to the country of destination and the term of the credit.

The Bank's activity also includes insurance against war and expropriation risk on commodities, mainly cotton, which U.S. exporters hold abroad on consignment awaiting sale.

Total new insurance and guarantee authorizations in 1966 are estimated at $1,151.2 million. These include $884.5 million new and renewed insurance policies issued by FCIA, and $263.7 million of guarantees to commercial banks. The net charge to lending authority for such transactions is computed at 25% of the increase in outstanding balances during the year, after allowing for cancellations and expirations. This net charge is expected to be $55.0 million in 1966.

Private capital participation.—In 1964 the Bank continued to encourage further participation of U.S. commercial banks in its lending abroad. Following the pattern initiated by the establishment of the Series A Eximbank Portfolio Fund in 1962, and the Series B in 1963, the Bank established in 1964 a third fund, Series C, consisting of a pool of export paper held by it with maturities falling due over a 7-year period. Portfolio certificates representing participations in the fund and guaranteed by the Bank were sold to domestic commercial banks in the amount of $372.5 million; as in 1963, the domestic offering was heavily oversubscribed. The total sold under the three series as of June 30, 1964, amounted to $922.5 million of which $95.7 million has been retired, leaving net outstanding of $826.8 million.

In addition to the portfolio fund sales in 1964, there were sales of individual loan maturities of $63.3 million without recourse of which $62.4 million was sold abroad. In 1965 the Bank expects to sell additional portfolio certificates amounting to $725 million as well as approximately $180 million of individual loan maturities. Portfolio sales of $700 million are projected for 1966. The Bank also continues its efforts to obtain the participation of commercial banks in its new loans.

Administrative expenses.—It is estimated that a limitation of $4.1 million will permit the Bank to carry out its programs in 1966.

Operating results and financial condition.—The Bank is a Government-owned corporation in which the Treasury has invested $1 billion in capital stock. In addition, the Bank is authorized to borrow from the Treasury up to $6 billion as necessary to carry on its programs. The Bank pays interest on these borrowings, which is expected to amount to $11.4 million in 1966. In addition, interest on portfolio certificates is estimated at $56.6 million.

For 1966, the Bank's net income is estimated to be $117.8 million. Of this sum, $50 million is expected to be paid as a dividend to the Treasury. It is planned to add the remaining $67.8 million to the Bank's retained earnings to provide for future contingencies. Total investment of the Government in the corporation is expected to be $2,064 million on June 30, 1966, comprising $1 billion in capital stock and $1,064 million of retained earnings. As of June 30, 1964, outstanding borrowings from the Treasury were $830 million and net retained earnings reserve was $880 million, after the 1964 dividend of $50 million.

The Administration supervises a coordinated agricultural credit system of farm credit banks and associations which make credit available to farmers and their co-operators.

Assessments based upon estimated administrative expenses are collected from agencies in the farm credit system and are available for administrative expenses. Obligations are incurred within fiscal year limitations on administrative expenses.

Supervision and examination of farm credit banks and associations.—Provision is made for supervision and examination of: 12 Federal land banks (wholly farmer-owned); 13 banks for cooperatives (mixed ownership); 12 Federal intermediate credit banks (mixed ownership); 745 Federal land bank associations; and 483 production credit associations. Also, these credit agencies are furnished such services as assistance in financing and investments, custody of collateral for bonds and debentures, credit analysis, development of appraisal standards and policies, preparation of reports and budgets, and development and distribution of information on farm credit.

This fund is available to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration as a revolving fund for investment in capital stock of the Federal intermediate credit banks and the production credit associations. Originally there were separate investment funds for the Federal intermediate credit banks and the production credit associations; however, these funds were combined into a single revolving fund as provided in subsection (f) which was added to section 5 of the Farm Credit Act of 1933 (12 U.S.C., Supp. IV, 1131i) by section 2(l) of Public Law 87-343, approved October 3, 1961.

Budget program.—The Farm Credit Administration expects to transmit proposed legislation to Congress. Assuming no drastic changes in agricultural conditions, enactment of the proposed legislation will make it unnecessary for the Federal intermediate credit banks to draw on the Short term credit investment fund for any additional investments in their capital stock in 1966. If the legislation is not enacted, additional investments of approximately $7.5 million are forecast for 1966.

2. Production credit associations.—An estimate for purchase of stock in production credit associations of $1 million is made for 1965 and $1 million for 1966. The need arises primarily because the volume of business of associations is increasing more rapidly than necessary net worth can be accumulated from local sources. Proposed legislation will not affect the estimates shown for the production credit associations.

Financing.—At the end of 1965 it is estimated that $1,040 thousand will be invested in the production credit associations and $53,750 thousand in the Federal intermediate credit banks. An additional $675 thousand net investment in the associations is expected in 1966.

The provisions of section 105(d)(3) of the Farm Credit Act of 1956, which heretofore applied to the Federal intermediate credit banks investment fund is applicable to the combined fund. This section provides that of the $87,405 thousand class A stock of the credit banks outstanding on January 1, 1957, $57,405 thousand must be retired by payments into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts. When the balance is reduced to $30 million, the remaining proceeds from retirement of such stock will be credited to the combined revolving fund.

This fund is available to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration for investments in class A capital stock of the banks for cooperatives (12 U.S.C. 1134).

The fund was created with $500 million capital in 1929; however, it was reduced to $150 million by legislation approved June 25, 1962 (76 Stat. 109).

Budget program.—No new subscriptions of capital stock are anticipated and stock will be retired by the banks for cooperatives in accordance with section 42(a)(1) of the Farm Credit Act of 1933, as amended.

Operating results and financial condition.—Investment in capital stock will continue to be reduced through 1966, thereby increasing the cash of the fund. The cash balance in the fund at June 30, 1965, is estimated at $82,976 thousand.

Coal-mine operators, affected by orders issued by Federal coal-mine inspectors, may appeal to the Board for annulment or revision of, and temporary relief from, such orders. During 1964, a total of 152 orders were issued. When operators appeal, hearings are held, and the Board rules upon the applications. It is estimated that there will be 140 to 160 orders subject to appeal to the Board in 1966. The recommended appropriation includes an amount considered sufficient to cover necessary administrative expenses and to handle an expected caseload estimated on the basis of the average annual caseload for the past 11 years.

The Corporation insures accounts of depositors in insured banks up to $10,000 for each depositor. As of June 30, 1964, the deposit insurance fund, representing the accumulated net income of the Corporation, amounted to $2.76 billion. The entire fund is available for the protection of depositors in insured banks and for the payment of administrative and insurance expenses. No funds derived from taxes or Federal appropriations are allocated to or used by the Corporation in any of its operations. Its expenses and insurance losses are paid out of the fund which is accumulated principally from assessments paid by insured banks and from income from its investments in obligations of the United States Treasury. The Corporation is authorized to borrow from the United States Treasury and the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to loan to the Corporation, on such terms as may be fixed by the Corporation and the Secretary, not to exceed $3 billion outstanding when in the judgment of the Board of Directors of the Corporation such funds are required for insurance purposes. No borrowings under this authorization have been made to date and none are anticipated in 1965 or 1966.

CORPORATIONS

The following corporations and agencies, respectively, are hereby authorized to make such expenditures, within the limits of funds and borrowing authority available to each such corporation or agency and in accord with law, and to make such contracts and commitments without regard to fiscal year limitations as provided by section 104 of the Government Corporation Control Act, as amended, as may be necessary in carrying out the programs set forth in the Budget for the current fiscal year for each such corporation or agency, except as hereinafter provided: (Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1965.)

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board formulates policies and supervises the operations of the 12 Federal home-loan banks, the system of Federal savings and loan associations and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation; it is also responsible for the examination of all Federal savings and loan associations, and for the examination and supervision of all State-chartered institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The expenditure programs of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation are presented as business-type budgets. Section 2 of Public Law 895, approved July 3, 1948, provides that all expenses of the Division of Examinations—Federal Home Loan Bank Board shall be considered non-administrative; all of its expenses are defrayed from fees charged against and collected from the institutions examined.

Public Law 87-141, approved August 17, 1961, provides that expenses of any functions of supervision (except of Federal home-loan banks) vested in or exercisable by the Board shall be considered as nonadministrative expenses.

The administrative expenses of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board are paid from assessments against the 12 Federal home-loan banks, the Office of Examinations and Supervision, and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The expenses of the Division of Supervision are paid from assessments against the 12 Federal home-loan banks and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

Budget program.—The Board's budget is based on seven activities.

1. Examination and supervision of Federal home loan banks.—The Board examines and supervises the operations of the Federal home loan banks.

2. Supervision of Federal and State-chartered institutions.—The financial condition and operations of each insured institution is analyzed and corrective action is instituted when warranted. Supervision of insured institutions operating under State charter is carried on, cooperatively, under arrangements made with the respective State authorities.

3. Chartering Federal and insuring savings and loan associations.—Federal savings and loan associations are chartered and regulated. Applications of State-chartered associations for conversion into Federal savings and loan associations and applications of Federal savings and loan associations for establishment of branch offices are also examined. In addition, an analysis and evaluation is made of the insurance risk in connection with applications submitted by savings and loan associations for insurance of share accounts.

4. Examining savings and loan associations.—Supervisory examinations are made of Federal savings and loan associations, State-chartered associations insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and such uninsured member institutions of the Federal home loan bank system as are not examined by State examiners. Audits are also made of approximately 50% of all insured institutions in conjunction with supervisory examinations. Examinations are also made of institutions applying for insurance of accounts and for conversion from a State to a Federal charter when required by the Board. The costs of examinations and audits are assessed against the institutions examined.

5. Executive direction and staff services.—This includes formulation of basic policy and the furnishing of staff services common to the Board and the Insurance Corporation.

6. Analysis of operations.—An analysis is made of the financial condition of member institutions, the flow of savings, the character and volume of mortgage lending, as well as selective review of geographical or community areas and phases of operations and certain analyses of trends in the field of thrift and home mortgage finance including volume of activity and interest rates of all major types of mortgage lenders.

7. Administrative services.—These consist of auditing; accounting; budgetary and financial reporting; internal budget control; fiscal organization and management; these services also include general housekeeping and operating services, including printing and reproduction work.

The amounts shown in the schedules for the above activities include administrative expenses under annual limitation; nonadministrative expenses under a separate limitation; and certain additional expenses not under limitation. Administrative expenses are estimated to increase from $3,829 thousand to $4,252 thousand. Non-administrative expenses covering the expenses of examining and supervising savings and loan associations are discussed separately below.

The Office of Examinations and Supervision under the general direction of the Director of the Office conducts regular periodic and special supervisory examinations of all Federal savings and loan associations, of insured State-chartered savings and loan associations, other institutions of the savings and loan type insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and of noninsured member institutions of the Federal home loan bank system not subject to State supervision. The office also examines and analyzes the financial condition of institutions which apply for membership in the system, for insurance of accounts, or for conversion from a State to a Federal charter. The institutions examined bear the costs of examination, and the fees charged therefor are calculated to defray all of the operating expenses of the examination function.

The Office of Examinations and Supervision under the general direction of the Director of the Office also is responsible for the supervision of institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. The purpose of such supervision is to prevent the development and continuance of unsafe and unsound financial practices in these institutions and the correction of such practices where found. In carrying out the supervisory function, the office reviews and analyzes the examination reports forwarded by the chief examiners of the respective district offices.

The Federal home loan banks, together with the savings and loan associations and similar institutions which are members of the Banks, constitute the Federal home loan bank system and are designed to stabilize and strengthen institutions promoting private thrift and individual home ownership.

The 12 Federal home loan banks obtain their funds from capital stock, issuance of their own obligations, and deposits of member institutions. The capital stock of the banks consists entirely of subscriptions of member institutions. Authority to borrow from the Treasury in the amount of $1 billion is provided in 12 U.S.C. 1431 (64 Stat. 257). No borrowings have been made to date and none are anticipated in 1966.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation is authorized under title IV of the National Housing Act (12 U.S.C. 1724 et seq.) to insure savings in all Federal savings and loan associations and in State-chartered institutions of the savings and loan type which apply and qualify for insurance. The protection thus afforded, which insures savers in member associations against financial loss up to a statutory limit of $10 thousand, may be provided through the prevention of default or the payment of insurance to savings account holders in the event of liquidation. The former course of action, which results in complete protection to each investor regardless of the amount in his account, is accomplished by making cash grants or by purchasing all or a part of the association's assets. Also, the Corporation is authorized to make loans to institutions in financial difficulty. Wherever possible, preventive measures are taken to eliminate the necessity of liquidation. However, in the event liquidation is necessary, the Corporation acts as receiver or coreceiver upon request of State authority in cases involving State-chartered institutions.

The Corporation functions under direction of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which provides certain administrative services and conducts the examination and supervision of insured institutions. The expenses of the Board and its staff offices are paid from assessments made on the Corporation, the Federal home loan banks, and the Office of Examinations and Supervision.

1. Administrative expenses—(a) Insurable interests and insurance settlement operations.—In carrying out its role of protecting savings in insured savings and loan associations the Corporation has settled 48 cases since its creation 30 years ago. Total losses (including provision for losses) to June 30, 1964, have amounted to $26.8 million representing approximately 3.7% of cumulative gross income. Detailed information with respect to all of the insurance cases is summarized in the following table (dollars in thousands):

Loan (one)	(1)	(1)	(1)	3,000

¹ Included under "Acquisition of Assets" since assets were acquired in settlement of the loan.

2. Payment to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board—(a) Services and facilities.—The Corporation will pay 25% of the administrative expenses of the Board as a direct charge and 42% of the remaining administrative expenses of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in 1966 in return for services and facilities by the Board and staff offices and 47% of the supervisory expenses of the Office of Examinations and Supervision.

3. Other expenses.—Provides for liquidation and other expenses of the Corporation in connection with the disposition of assets purchased from and loans to insured institutions to prevent default.

Financing.—The original capital of $100 million has been completely repaid to the Treasury, together with an additional $43 million for the use of the funds.

The Corporation has continuing authority to borrow from the Treasury for insurance purposes, with a limitation of $750 million outstanding at any one time. No borrowings under this authorization have ever been made.

The Corporation is further authorized to assess against each insured institution additional premiums for insurance until the amount of such premiums equals the amount of all losses and expenses of the Corporation; except that the total amount so assessed in any one year against any such institution shall not exceed one-eighth of 1% of the total amount of the accounts of its insured members and its creditor obligations.

Public Law 87-210, which became effective January 1, 1962, requires each insured savings and loan association to pay annually to the Corporation an additional premium in the nature of a prepayment at a rate equal to 2% of the increase in savings for the previous calendar year less an amount equal to any requirement for the purchase of Federal Home Loan Bank stock during such period. The law also provides for the crediting of a return on the accumulated prepayments of each insured association at a rate equal to the average realized by the Corporation on its own investment portfolio. It is estimated that prepayments will total $190 million in 1966 compared to $208 million in 1964.

Public Law 87-210 further provides for the establishment of a Primary Reserve which shall be the general reserve of the Corporation and a Secondary Reserve to which shall be credited additional premiums. When the sum of these two reserves equals 2% of total savings plus creditor obligations, the cash payment of the regular premiums and the prepayments will cease and the Corporation will commence transferring the Secondary Reserve to the Primary Reserve by crediting each insured association's accumulated prepayments to its regular premium liability. If the aggregate of the two reserves drops to below 1.75%, the prepayments and the cash payment of the regular premium will be resumed and continued until the 2% ratio is again reached. It is estimated that the aggregate of the Primary and Secondary Reserves will reach $1.8 billion by June 30, 1966, or 1.5% of estimated savings and creditor obligations totaling $122.9 billion.

The Corporation is required by law to accumulate a primary reserve (as of the close of any December 31) equal to 2% of the total amount of all accounts of insured members and creditor obligations of all insured institutions before collection of regular premiums may be discontinued; provided, however, that each insured institution has paid regular premiums for at least 20 years. It is estimated that the primary reserve will reach $827.5 million by June 30, 1966, or 0.67% of estimated savings and creditor obligations totaling $122.9 billion.

Operating results and financial condition.—The Corporation is entirely self-supporting and in no one year has its operating expenses amounted to more than 5.3% of total income; in 1964 it amounted to 3%. Revenues and other receipts have been sufficient to meet all insurance losses, operating expenses, return on capital stock, and to establish a reserve for contingencies of $1,197.7 million as of June 30, 1964. Total revenues and other receipts since 1934, of $1,292.7 million, have been applied as follows (dollars in millions):

	Amount	Percent
Expense.....	$25.2	1.9
Net insurance losses and provision for losses.....	26.8	2.1
Return on capital stock to U.S. Treasury.....	43.0	3.3
Reserve for contingencies.....	1,197.7	92.7
Total.....	1,292.7	100.0

Operating expenses (funded) for 1966 are estimated at $3,994 thousand consisting of administrative expenses of the Corporation of $259 thousand, $2,930 thousand for services rendered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and $805 thousand for other expenses.

Since the time and size of expenditures for the prevention of default and payment of insurance are unpredictable, estimates of these expenditures are omitted from the financial statements.

Net operating income for 1966, which is expected to be increased by $38 million or 51.4% above the net operating income for 1964, will be retained by the Corporation to meet future contingencies.

HOME OWNERS' LOAN CORPORATION FUND

The Corporation was created to provide credit facilities to refinance the mortgages of destitute urban homeowners. Its lending authority expired on June 12, 1936, and since that time the Corporation has been dissolved. Liabilities, representing matured bonds held by the public together with accrued interest thereon, totaled $360 thousand at the end of 1964 and are estimated to be reduced to $328 thousand by the end of 1966.

The Federal Power Commission administers the Federal Power Act and Natural Gas Act, and has additional duties under other acts and Executive orders relating to Federal power developments and natural gas supplies.

1. Natural gas industry.—This activity covers the regulation of pipeline companies and independent producers involved in the transmission or sale for resale of natural gas in interstate commerce. On June 30, 1964, there were over 3,900 independent producers who, individually or associated with others, had approximately 15,000 rate schedules on file with the Commission. There were also 120 regulated natural gas pipeline companies, with annual operating revenues of $4.2 billion. It is expected that the volume of gas sales and related operating revenues of both producers and pipeline companies will continue to increase.

The volumes of work involved include:

Work programs	1964 actual	1965 estimate	1966 estimate
Applications for certificates of public convenience and necessity:
Pipeline companies.....	682	696	673
Independent producers.....	6,094	5,466	4,741
Subtotal.....	6,776	6,162	5,414
Rate filings:
Pipeline companies.....	1,192	1,471	1,633
Independent producers.....	8,409	9,048	9,548
Subtotal.....	9,601	10,519	11,181
Rate cases:
Pipeline companies.....	57	48	41

Total.....	20,216	20,489	20,051

In addition to these workload items, the Commission makes an annual review of the level of pipeline company earnings, institutes rulemaking proceedings to revise the Commission's rules and regulations, and makes a continuing review of the flow-through of pipeline and producer refunds and rate reductions ordered by the Commission. The elimination of most of the Commission's major backlogs and increased productivity in handling an increasingly complex workload permit a reduction in the request for this activity.

2. Electric power industry.—This activity includes the Commission's responsibility for the regulation of the electric power companies that are interstate public utilities, and for the maintenance of current information on the status of the entire electric power industry. Specifically, the Commission regulates wholesale rates and services, accounts, depreciation practices, certain security issues, disposition of properties, and mergers of interstate electric companies. The Commission encourages voluntary interconnection and coordination of all the Nation's power systems. Engineering data and statistics about the entire electric utility industry are gathered and published. Pertinent data on a calendar year basis are:

Description	1963 actual	1964 estimate	1965 estimate
Number of public utilities regulated.....	227	225	225
Operating revenues of regulated utilities (in millions).....	$12,018	$12,700	$13,400
Number of utilities reporting for statistical purposes.....	792	792	792
Operating revenues of all reporting utilities (in millions).....	$13,200	$14,000	$14,800

The National Power Survey was recently completed. The Commission will draw on the experience gained in this effort and continue to work with all segments of the industry in encouraging the use of the most efficient and economical means for supplying the Nation's expanding electric power loads. An increased program for wholesale rate regulation will assure that these economies result in reduced rates to the wholesale customers.

3. Non-Federal hydroelectric projects.—Licenses are issued for hydroelectric projects affecting lands of the United States and streams subject to Federal jurisdiction. Construction and operation of projects are inspected and the cost of construction is determined for projects under private license. Pertinent data are:

Licensed projects—more than 2,000 h.p. (end of year).....	229	274	327
Applications completed during year.....	131	146	161

Annual receipts from license fees (in thousands)...	$2,421	$3,013	$2,516

The Commission is carrying out a water resources appraisal program to provide an appropriate inventory of river basin plans. The Commission will use these in evaluating license applications for hydroelectric projects and in making recommendations on possible recapture of projects as licenses expire in future years. Greater emphasis will be placed on safety inspections and development of the recreation potential of projects licensed by the Commission.

The non-Federal licensing activity is self-supporting except for the statutory exemption of public bodies from payment of fees and certain old licenses for which the Commission does not have authority to require additional fees.

4. Federal river development projects.—Of a potential 156 million kilowatts of hydroelectric power in the United States, 42 million kilowatts had been developed as of June 30, 1964. Of this total, 17 million kilowatts had been developed by Federal agencies and 25 million kilowatts by non-Federal interests.

Studies of proposed Federal river development projects are made by the Commission to determine possibilities for conservation, development, and utilization of potential power resources. Recommendations based on these studies become a part of water resource project reports prepared by the construction agencies and reviewed by interested Federal and State agencies and the Congress. In 1964, 126 studies were carried on and it is estimated that there will be 130 in 1965 and 134 in 1966. The Commission reviews and approves proposed rates for sale of power from certain Federal projects.

The Federal Radiation Council was established by Executive Order 10831, and Public Law 86-373, to advise the President with respect to radiation matters directly or indirectly affecting health, including guidance for all Federal agencies in the formulation of radiation protection standards. Members of the Council are the heads of the agencies most significantly involved with radiation—the Secretaries of Health, Education, and Welfare; Agriculture; Defense; Commerce; and Labor; and the Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. Through 1965, the Council's activities were supported by financial contributions from the member agencies. A direct appropriation is proposed for 1966.

The Commission has the duty of preserving free competitive enterprise through prevention of monopolistic and unfair trade.

1. Antimonopoly.—All types of monopolistic restrictions, including price-fixing conspiracies, boycotting, price discriminations, and illegal mergers and acquisitions are corrected; economic data and criteria are brought to bear on monopoly and related problems; supervision is provided over the registration and operations of associations of American exporters engaged solely in export trade; and at the request of the Attorney General, investigations are made as to whether or not defendant corporations are complying with final decrees of U.S. courts in antitrust violations. In 1966 investigation and trial of merger and other antimonopoly cases will be expedited.

2. Deceptive practices.—False and misleading advertising and other unfair or deceptive practices are prevented by corrective action, including the affirmative aid of voluntary trade-practice conferences and advertising guides; business and the public are protected from the evils of misbranding and nondisclosure of fiber content of manufactured wool products and household textile articles; consumers and merchants are protected from unfair practices with respect to furs and fur products; and the public is protected from dangers inherent in flammable fabrics.

3. Executive direction and management.—These activities also include the adjudicatory functions of the Commission.

The Foreign Claims Settlement Commission is responsible for the settlement of claims of U.S. nationals against foreign nations and other claims programs as authorized by law.

1. Administration and adjudication of claims.—The Commission will administer 4 claims programs during the year: (a) pursuant to an agreement between Poland and the United States, the Commission is responsible for the adjudication from funds provided by Poland of approximately 10,000 property claims of U.S. citizens against Poland; (b) under the General War Claims Act (Public Law 87-846), the Commission must investigate an estimated 25,000 claims to determine compensation to be made to U.S. nationals from vested German and Japanese assets for certain damages sustained during World War II; (c) under the Lake Ontario claims program, the Commission is investigating the validity of 540 claims of U.S. citizens resulting from the artificial raising of the water level of Lake Ontario; and (d) under the Cuban claims bill (Public Law 88-666), the Commission must adjudicate an estimated 3,500 claims of U.S. citizens against the Government of Cuba.

2. Review of claims programs.—This activity includes research, reports, documentation, and similar functions to meet the needs of Congress, other Federal agencies, and the public on past and pending claims programs and on legislative matters.

Funds were appropriated in 1963 pursuant to Public Law 87-616, approved August 30, 1962, to cover the balance of payments to be made on awards previously determined by the Philippine War Damage Commission. Amending legislation (Public Law 88-94), approved August 12, 1963, provides for a $25 thousand limitation on payments of any individual claim. With the completion of this program in 1965, the balances of the amounts payable beyond the $25 thousand limitation will be transferred into a new appropriation account to be used for educational programs in the Philippines.

The General Accounting Office is responsible directly to the Congress for conducting independent reviews, audits, and investigations of programs, activities, and financial transactions of Federal agencies; for the rendition of legal decisions relating to Government fiscal matters; for developing, reviewing, and evaluating Federal agency accounting systems; for the settlement of certain claims for and against the Government; and, for advising and assisting the Congress and Government agencies on matters relating to public funds.

1-2. Office of the Comptroller General.—Executive management of the General Accounting Office is carried out by the Comptroller General, who is assisted by the Assistant Comptroller General and staff assistants.

4. Claims division.—All claims by or against the United States are settled in this division except those for transportation items and claims wherein exclusive jurisdiction is conferred by law upon another agency or the courts.

5. Transportation division.—This division audits freight and passenger transportation payments for the account of the United States and settles claims involving transportation charges.

7. Office of the general counsel.—In addition to preparing decisions and reports on the legality or propriety of proposed obligations and expenditures of the Government, the general counsel and his staff assist the Comptroller General in coordinating the various activities of the General Accounting Office with the Congress, its committees, and individual members, participate in conferences with legislative and administrative officials of the Government on legal matters of a fiscal nature, the sufficiency of proposed legislation, the desirability of new legislation for particular purposes, and render all other required legal services.

8. Accounting and auditing policy staff.—This staff develops accounting policies and related requirements for observance by each agency; auditing policies for the guidance of audit work performed by General Accounting Office auditors; and internal auditing objectives, principles, and standards for guidance of the executive agencies. In cooperation with the Treasury Department and the Bureau of the Budget, it participates in development and reviews of central accounting processes and financial reporting. It also participates in the review of agency accounting systems; in Government-wide studies of the management of automatic data processing systems; and in providing advice and assistance to the Congress on accounting and auditing policy matters.

9. Civil accounting and auditing division—10. Defense accounting and auditing division—11. International operations division.—These divisions, located in Washington, D.C., are responsible for the performance of the accounting, auditing, and investigative functions of the General Accounting Office in the Federal departments and agencies and the District of Columbia, as assigned by the Comptroller General. These functions include the development, review, and evaluation of accounting systems; the review and evaluation of the performance of Federal agencies, and contractors where appropriate, in discharging their financial responsibilities, including the audit and settlement of accounts; and the making of investigations into matters relating to the receipt, disbursement, and application of public funds.

The International operations division includes:

European branch, with headquarters in Frankfurt, Germany, responsible for performing assigned General Accounting Office functions in the European area, including North Africa and the Near East.

Far East branch, with headquarters in Tokyo, Japan, responsible for performing assigned General Accounting Office functions in the Far East area.

12. Field operations division.—This division, composed of a central office and regional offices in principal cities in the United States, performs assigned accounting, auditing, and investigative work outside the metropolitan area of Washington, D.C.

13. Office of staff management.—This office performs staff management functions for the accounting and auditing divisions, including (a) formulating and executing recruiting programs, (b) developing and carrying out training and professional career development programs, (c) participating in general control over the assignment of staff, and, (d) obtaining appropriate recognition of the professional character of the accounting and auditing work of the General Accounting Office.

14. Report department.—This department prepares for the accounting and auditing divisions typed copies of (1) final audit reports (2) manuals, including the GAO Policy and Procedures Manual for Guidance of Federal Agencies, and audit manuals for internal use (3) Congressional statements, audit programs, and other documents (4) draft audit reports, and conducts the related proofreading and editing of all reports, statements and other documents in accordance with prescribed standards and requirements.

The Corregidor-Bataan Memorial Commission was created by an act of Congress in August 1953 (Public Law 83-193). Its mission is to cooperate with the Philippine National Shrines Commission in planning a memorial on Corregidor Island to the American and Filipino servicemen who served in the Pacific area during World War II. Public Law 88-240, approved in August 1963, authorized an appropriation of $1.5 million to the Veterans Administration for construction of the memorial. The $35 thousand requested under this heading will provide for administrative expenses including research for appropriate development of a documentary film and marking of the site.

The Commission regulates carriers engaged in transportation in interstate commerce and foreign commerce to the extent that it takes place within the United States. These carriers are common carriers—railroads, express companies, sleeping car companies, motor carriers, water carriers, pipelines (except for water and gas), and freight forwarders—and motor and water contract carriers.

The increase of $585 thousand is requested in order to handle the continually increasing number of applications for motor carrier permanent and temporary operating authorities, to improve the economic and cost data necessary to regulatory activities, and to provide a more adequate level of compliance with the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act and related acts.

1. Regulation of carrier rates, practices, operating authorities, and finance.—This activity of the Commission consists of preparing studies and analyses of operating costs for use in rate proceedings; regulating rates; granting operating authorities; approving applications for abandonments and extensions of railroad lines, financial reorganizations, and rate agreements between carriers; reviewing proposed discontinuances of or change in the operation or service of trains and ferries; and formally issuing orders, rules, and regulations.

2. Compliance.—The Commission enforces statutes and regulations affecting transportation and carriers. Examinations are made to ascertain that motor carriers and freight forwarders are adequately insured; surveys of motor carrier operating practices are conducted to reduce accidents and to promote highway safety; and investigations are made of water carriers, freight forwarders, rate bureaus, and shippers' associations and agents to determine that there is compliance with statutory requirements.

1. Planning development of the National Capital.—The Planning Commission is the official planning agency for the District of Columbia, as well as for the Federal Government in the District and the National Capital region. It plans for "the orderly development and redevelopment of the National Capital and the conservation of the important natural and historic features thereof." At this time of great change in the area, it serves two basic functions: (1) it develops and maintains the long-range comprehensive plan for the District and (2) it reviews and approves, or reports on, proposed developments of District and Federal agencies. At present a comprehensive plan for 1985 is in advanced stages of preparation. In carrying out its statutory responsibilities the Commission reviews and reports on several hundred Federal and District of Columbia projects each year.

In its comprehensive plan work and contract studies for the District of Columbia, the Commission is concerned in particular with: (1) the needs of the Federal establishment for adequate operating facilities; (2) the physical needs for such community facilities as schools, parks, libraries, and other local government buildings, particularly for the deprived residential areas; (3) the achievement of a balanced transportation system; (4) the protection and extension of open and green spaces and the aesthetic values of the region; (5) the conservation of existing sound residential neighborhoods and the renewal of those requiring it; and (6) special programs such as the redevelopment of Pennsylvania Avenue and landmarks preservation.

The Commission membership meets monthly, serving without pay, and provides policy guidance for and basic coordination between many development programs of District and Federal agencies. It relies on the technical work of its staff and special experts to analyze projects and programs, and to carry out its policies. The Commission inherits a long tradition of efforts to make Washington the fine city it is today, and is vitally concerned about its future as a great National Capital city.

2. Coordinating metropolitan area planning.—The National Capital Regional Planning Council is charged with the development of an overall comprehensive regional plan and coordinates planning of the counties and cities of the metropolitan area with that for the Federal establishment in the suburbs. Its membership is composed of two representatives of the District of Columbia, and eight representatives nominated from the subregional planning agencies in Maryland and Virginia. The Council retains a professional staff, meets monthly, and operates through several committees specializing in various regional planning aspects. The Council functions as a regional coordinator and catalyst, serving as a central intelligence organization and clearinghouse on all planning and development matters having regional significance.

The National Capital Planning Commission acquires land for the comprehensive development of the park, parkway, and playground system in the District of Columbia and its environs.

1. George Washington Memorial Parkway.—Land is acquired along both shores of the Potomac River, above and below Washington from Great Falls to Mount Vernon. One-half the cost is borne by the local jurisdictions.

2. Stream valley parks.—Land is acquired by public bodies with the aid of a one-third contribution from the National Capital Planning Commission.

3. Park, parkway, and playground system in the District of Columbia.—Land is also acquired in the District of Columbia, with all expenditures being repaid over a period of years to the United States by the District of Columbia. Acquisitions are part of the Commission's comprehensive plan for the park, parkway, and playground system of the National Capital. Funds were provided in 1965 for the acquisition of land to provide a park-like setting for the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

4. Relocation payments.—Funds were provided in 1965 for relocation payments to business to be displaced by land acquisitions adjacent to the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The Agency is responsible for preparing a comprehensive transit development program for the National Capital region. A report containing recommendations on finance and organization was submitted to the President in 1962, and modifications of the Agency's proposal were considered by the 88th Congress. Certain additional revisions have been made by the Agency and will be submitted for consideration by the 89th Congress. The Agency proposes a continuing program for the construction of a regional highway system and a 7-year program for the construction of a high-speed rapid transit system.

The Agency is working with governing and planning bodies in the District of Columbia and other jurisdictions in the National Capital region to finalize routes and reserve rights-of-way and station sites. Work is also progressing on a more refined construction schedule.

The Board resolves representation disputes in industry and remedies and prevents specified unfair labor practices by employers or labor organizations. Additional funds are requested to enable the agency to effectively cope with a steadily rising caseload in both unfair labor practice and representation cases. Estimates for 1966 reflect an intake increase over 1965 of 8.4% for unfair labor practice cases and 5.7% for representation cases.

1. Field investigation.—Charges of unfair labor practices and petitions for elections to resolve representation disputes are investigated by regional office personnel. About 88% of the unfair labor practice cases and about 81% of the representation cases are closed by settlement, dismissal, or withdrawal. The remainder are prepared for public hearing. The agency strives for the voluntary settlement of disputes, and the high incidence of informal settlements achieved thus far is expected to continue in 1966.

2. Trial examiner hearing.—Trial examiners conduct public hearings in unfair labor practice cases. Their findings and recommendations are set forth in trial examiner decisions. In 1964 there were 1,069 hearings held, 148 proceedings adjusted and 744 decisions issued. The estimate for 1965 is for 1,170 hearings, 183 adjusted proceedings and 857 decisions. The 1966 estimate is for 1,235 hearings, 246 adjusted proceedings, and 1,081 decisions.

3. Board adjudication.—In an unfair labor practice case a trial examiner's decision becomes a Board order if no exceptions are filed. About 24% of these trial examiner decisions become automatic Board orders. The remainder are referred to the Board for decision, of which the Board issued 547 in 1964. The estimate for 1965 is 764 and the estimate for 1966 is 887. The Board issued 266 decisions in contested representation proceedings in 1963 and 197 in 1964; it is estimated that issuances will be 184 and 196 in 1965 and 1966, respectively. These decisions are inclusive of those cases in which a request for review of regional director's decisions has been granted. Regional directors issued 2,034 such decisions in 1963, and 1,820 in 1964. The estimate is 1,970 for 1965 and 2,077 in 1966.

4. Securing compliance with Board orders.—If the parties do not voluntarily comply with the Board's order involving unfair labor practices, the Board must request the courts to enforce its decisions. In 1964 a total of 249 Board decisions of all kinds required litigation; the estimate for 1965 is 315; the estimate for 1966 is 384.

The Foundation supports the basic sciences and science education, primarily at colleges and universities. Grants are made for basic research, research facilities, support of graduate study, science teacher training and curriculum improvement, scientific information services, and special programs for institutional development.

Major emphasis in 1966 is on providing funds in the Foundation budget to maintain an adequate rate of growth in Federal support for research in colleges and universities. Funds are also included for increased support for graduate training in the sciences and engineering and for strengthening science programs at developing institutions.

1. Basic research and supporting facilities.—The budget provides for the award of grants and contracts in the various activity areas as follows:

(a) Basic research project grants.—Grants for the conduct of basic research are awarded on the basis of scientific merit to investigators at more than 450 institutions.

Number of grants awarded.....	2,709	2,892	2,900	4,300

(b) National research programs.—Support is provided for broad national programs of scientific research, including the Antarctic research program, the International Indian Ocean Expedition and deep crustal studies of the earth (Project Mohole). A new ocean sediment coring program will be initiated in the budget year.

(c) Specialized research facilities support.—Grants are made for major items of research equipment and specialized scientific facilities, primarily at colleges and universities.

(d) National research centers.—The development and operation of national centers for basic research in optical and radio astronomy and the atmospheric sciences are budgeted in this category.

2. Science education programs.—The budget provides for a wide range of programs to strengthen the training and development of scientific manpower including the following:

(a) Fellowships for academic-year study are awarded to graduate science students, college science faculty and foreign senior scientists. Traineeships are awarded for graduate education in engineering, mathematics, and the physical, life and social sciences. Summer study programs for graduate teaching assistants are also supported.

(c) Support is provided for (1) projects directed toward the improvement of elementary, secondary school, and college science and mathematics course materials; and (2) supplementary programs to stimulate interest in and secure improvement of training in the sciences at secondary school and college levels.

3. Institutional science programs.—Grants are made to assist in the development and improvement of the science programs of institutions of higher learning, including matching grants for the construction, renovation and equipping of research laboratories and comprehensive grants to assist developing institutions which have the potential for achieving a higher level of excellence in the sciences and engineering.

4. Science information services.—Support is provided for the collection, translation and dissemination of information on the results of research and for the development of improved methods for the exchange of scientific information. The Foundation also has responsibility for the funding and the management of the Science Information Exchange.

5. Studies of national resources for science and technology.—This activity supports surveys and analytical studies of research and development within the various sectors of the economy and the current and projected status of scientific manpower and other resources related to the conduct of scientific activities. These studies provide a basis for and assist in the formulation of long-range national policies with regard to science.

The Commission was created to study the laws and procedures relating to administration of the public lands of the United States, and to determine whether and to what extent revisions thereof may be desirable. The act which created the Commission provides that its final report will be submitted to the President and the Congress not later than December 31, 1968.

A supplemental appropriation authorized $350 thousand for the remainder of 1965 to enable the Commission to begin functioning. The budget proposed for 1966 would permit hiring additional staff needed for adequate execution of the Commission's responsibilities, and makes it possible to enter into contracts and agreements with private and with other Federal and non-Federal public agencies for necessary studies and surveys.

Railroad workers entering military service may have such service credited toward benefits under the railroad retirement system under certain conditions. This appropriation of $16,558 thousand is requested to pay the second of 10 yearly installments on the amount due the Railroad retirement account for creditable military service for the period through June 30, 1963.

RAILROAD RETIREMENT AMENDMENTS, 1966

Under proposed legislation, 1966.—Legislation will be proposed to provide an increase in cash benefits to certain railroad beneficiaries and to provide hospital and related health service benefits proposed under the Social Security system to all railroad beneficiaries. Schedules reflecting this proposal are contained in the trust fund section, part II.

LIMITATION ON SALARIES AND EXPENSES

(Trust fund)

For expenses necessary for the Railroad Retirement Board, [$10,500,000], including the purchase (for replacement only and at a cost not to exceed $3,000) of one passenger motor vehicle, $10,650,000 to be derived from the railroad retirement account. The Board provides to eligible railroad workers annuities for age and disability, and benefits for survivors, financed jointly by employee-employer taxes. The administrative expenses of the Board in the operation of this program are financed from a portion of these taxes.

1. Maintenance of earnings accounts.—Eligibility for retirement and the amount of benefits paid are based on individual records of earnings and the workload fluctuates according to such factors as level of employment, and rate of turnover in the railroad industry. Accounts posted were 990,000 in 1964 and are estimated at 970,000 in 1965 and 960,000 in 1966. The costs are shared on a measured basis with the railroad unemployment insurance program.

2. Processing claims.—Applications for annuities and benefits are adjudicated and certified for initial payment. Claims processed were 169,000 in 1964 and are estimated at 168,000 in 1965 and 167,000 in 1966.

3. Maintenance of beneficiary rolls.—Benefit payments must be authorized each month for those persons on the rolls who continue to remain eligible. The number of monthly benefit payments will increase from 10,400,000 in 1964 to an estimated 10,600,000 and 10,800,000 in 1965 and 1966. The number of persons on the rolls receiving monthly benefit payments will increase from 883,000 at the end of 1964 to an estimated 895,000 and 907,000 at the end of 1965 and 1966.

4. Hearings and appeals.—Individuals whose claims for annuities or benefits are disallowed or who dispute the award have the right of appeal. Appeals dispositions were 246 in 1964 and are estimated at 225 in 1965 and 1966.

5. Actuarial services.—Actuarial studies and estimates of the assets and liabilities of the Railroad retirement account are required by law.

6. Administration.—The cost of administration is shared between the retirement and the railroad unemployment insurance programs on a measured basis.

LIMITATION ON SALARIES AND EXPENSES, RAILROAD RETIREMENT BOARD

Under proposed legislation, 1965.—Under section 906 of the 1965 appropriation act, the Board cannot exceed the program limitation printed in the 1965 budget after adjustment during the 88th Congress required a change in the Maintenance of earnings accounts and the $80 thousand unobligated balance shown above is now required in order to do the work.

The Board conducts renegotiation with contractors to eliminate excessive profits in connection with procurement under the national defense program. All contractors and subcontractors who have business subject to the act, which presently extends through June 30, 1966, are required to file with the Board if such business exceeds $1 million in a year. The Board has determined or recovered $895.8 million in excessive profits from the date of its establishment through June 30, 1964. Of this total, $24.2 million was determined during 1964.

1. Executive direction.—The Board is responsible for final action in all cases. This includes screening all filings involving renegotiable business over $1 million and requests for exemption.

2. Staff operations.—The headquarters staff furnishes technical advice and assistance to the Board and regional organization.

3. Renegotiation operations (field).—The two regional boards conduct renegotiation proceedings and make determinations and recommendations. They are authorized to conclude cases involving $800 thousand or less of renegotiable profits; however, their determinations in such cases may be appealed to the statutory Board. All determinations in cases involving more than $800 thousand renegotiable profits are subject to approval by the statutory Board.

The Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation, a wholly Government-owned enterprise, is responsible for the construction, operation, and maintenance of that part of the Saint Lawrence Seaway within the territorial limits of the United States (33 U.S.C. 981). The seaway has been constructed and is being operated and maintained jointly by the Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation and the Saint Lawrence Seaway Authority of Canada, in conjunction with the related power development works provided by the Power Authority of the State of New York and the Hydroelectric Power Commission of Ontario.

Operating costs and interest.—Operating expenses for 1966 are estimated at $1.8 million consisting of administrative expenses of the Corporation of $0.5 million (subject to congressional limitation) and $1.3 million for operations of locks and canals, control of traffic, and related maintenance of the facilities.

Interest charges on borrowings is estimated at $5 million for 1966, of which $3.8 million is expected to be earned and deposited with the U.S. Treasury.

Capital outlay.—The Corporation's construction program consists of a 10-mile canal, two locks and navigation channels in the 46-mile International Rapids Section of the St. Lawrence River between Ogdensburg and Massena, and certain channel and related navigation works in the 68-mile Thousand Islands Section between Lake Ontario and Ogdensburg.

The total cost of the U.S. share of the seaway is estimated at $131.2 million. Work in place at the end of 1965 is estimated at $130.6 million. The 1966 program to complete construction is estimated at $0.6 million and will consist principally of completing the extension of the upstream guide wall of the Eisenhower lock, commissioning of additional aids to navigation and other minor improvements.

Operating results.—The Corporation is self-supporting through tolls assessed shippers using the seaway facilities. All operating costs are paid from toll revenues and net operating income returned to the Treasury in payment of interest and principal. During the developmental period, all interest charges not earned will continue to be deferred as agreed to with the Treasury Department.

For 1966 the Corporation's net operating income is estimated at $3.9 million. The deficit at the end of the budget year is estimated at $22.3 million consisting principally of unpaid interest of $13.6 million and depreciation and amortization of land assets of $8.7 million.

Financing.—The Corporation has authority to borrow $140 million from the Treasury for financing the costs of the seaway and to provide for working capital and claims of which $124 million will have been used by the end of 1965. It is estimated that $0.6 million will be used to finance the construction program during the budget year 1966. Capitalized interest amounting to $6.7 million is not charged against the borrowing authority limitation.

Through an exchange of notes, dated June 30, 1964, between the United States and Canada, the review of the Saint Lawrence Seaway Tariff of Tolls has been extended for 2 years and a report to the respective Governments as to the sufficiency of authorized tolls to meet statutory requirements is due July 1, 1966.

The primary purpose of the Commission is to protect the interests of the investing public.

1. Full disclosure provisions.—Issuers of securities for public sale are required to file a registration statement and related prospectus containing significant information about the issuer and the offering with the Commission. This is to insure that investors will be provided with the material facts concerning security offerings. Certain provisions of the Securities Acts Amendments enacted August 20, 1964, extend to investors in certain over-the-counter securities the same protections now afforded to those in listed securities: namely, registration of classes of securities; annual and periodic company reporting; regulation of proxy solicitation; and restrictions upon "insider" trading.

2. Prevention and suppression of fraud.—Suspected fraud, deceit, and manipulation in the sale and trading of securities is prevented or minimized by prompt investigation. For 1966, the broker-dealer inspection cycle is estimated at 3 years. These inspections include the inspection of non-NASD members. Inspections of investment advisers is estimated on a 7-year cycle.

4. Regulation of investment and public utility holding companies.—Financing and other corporate matters of interstate public utility holding companies engaged in the electric utility business or in the retail distribution of gas are regulated. A total of 24 holding company systems of which 16 are active, comprising 143 separate companies with assets of $12.8 billion, are registered under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935. Foreign and domestic investment companies are registered also and their activities supervised. The assets of these companies have increased from $2.5 billion in 1941 to an estimate of $41 billion on June 30, 1964. In 1966, the investment company inspection program will continue on a 4-year cycle.

The primary purpose of the Selective Service System is effective manpower utilization through classification under the Universal Military Training and Service Act. The System is responsible for supplying men to keep the Armed Forces at their authorized strength and to the extent that their needs are not met by voluntary enlistment. It will be required to supply an estimated 125,000 men for this purpose in 1966 as compared to approximately 95,000 in 1965 and 151,000 in 1964.

1. National administration, planning, training and records management.—The overall administration of the act including planning, training, and records management is accomplished by the National Headquarters and six Regional Field Offices.

2. State administration, planning, training, and records servicing.—Administration of the act within the several States is the responsibility of the 56 State headquarters operating under the policies determined by National headquarters.

3. Registration, classification, and induction.—These functions affecting over 29,000,000 registrants are accomplished by the over 48,000 uncompensated citizens assisted by about 6,000 clerks at over 4,000 boards. These citizens determine who shall be deferred and for how long in the national interest in agriculture, industry, or other pursuits. They also determine the availability for military service of members of the Standby Reserve.

4. National Advisory Committee on the Selection of Physicians, Dentists and Allied Specialists.—This Committee acts in an advisory capacity to the Selective Service System. It is separately administered, but funds are furnished by the Selective Service System from its appropriation.

5. National Selective Service Appeal Board.—This Board acts on the classification of registrants which have been appealed to the President. It is under separate administration but the Selective Service System provides funds for its operation.

The Small Business Administration counsels, assists, and protects the interest of small business; provides aid to business firms and homeowners who have suffered losses through disasters; and makes loans to assist firms to adjust to changed economic conditions resulting from increased competition from imported articles.

1. Procurement and management assistance.—The objectives of this activity are (a) to insure that a fair proportion of Government contracts for purchases of supplies and services, including research and development, and for the sale and disposal of property be placed with small business enterprises, and (b) to provide technical and management assistance through management counseling, developing and distributing management aids and bulletins, establishing administrative management courses, and counseling on new and improved products and processes.

2. Research contracts.—Research studies designed to reveal matters materially affecting the competitive strength of small business and the effect on small business of Federal laws, programs, and regulations are financed under this activity.

3. Investment and development company assistance and supervision.—In order to stimulate and supplement the flow of private capital to small business concerns, this agency is authorized to (a) license, regulate, and examine small business investment companies, (b) provide initial capital to these companies, (c) lend growth funds to such companies, and (d) lend funds to State and local development companies for financing small business firms. Funds for administrative expenses are transferred from the revolving fund.

4. Financial assistance.—Small business concerns, victims of disasters, and businesses displaced because of federally aided construction, are assisted through loans, which are administered so as to assure return of the Government investment. In addition, financial counseling is provided to small businessmen requesting assistance. Funds for administrative expenses of this activity are transferred from the revolving fund. Financial statements covering these programs and the investment and development company assistance program may be found under the revolving fund section.

5. Trade adjustment loan assistance.—Following certification of proposals by the Secretary of Commerce, the Small Business Administration may make loans to assist firms to adjust to changed economic conditions resulting from increased competition from imported articles. Funds for administrative expenses are transferred from the appropriation Trade adjustment loan assistance.

Public Law 87-550 authorizes appropriations, without fiscal year limitation, to permit the Small Business Administration to make loans to eligible firms under the provisions of the Trade Expansion Act of 1962 (19 U.S.C. 1912-16.)

The Trade Expansion Act of 1962 provides for certification by the Secretary of Commerce of proposals for economic adjustment submitted by eligible firms. The Secretary is required to refer proposals to an appropriate Federal agency having lending authority. Such agency would then determine whether and to what extent it will provide financial assistance under its own legislation. With respect to firms that have been certified eligible for trade adjustment assistance, Public Law 87-550 permits Small Business Administration to make loans to any size firm, in any dollar amount for a period not to exceed 25 years. Loans may be made on a direct, participation, or guaranteed basis. In making such loans, Small Business Administration must apply applicable sections of the Trade Expansion Act.

This fund finances business and disaster loans and prime contracting activities as authorized by the Small Business Act, as amended (15 U.S.C. 631 et seq.), business loans as authorized by title IV of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 (78 Stat. 526), and investment and development company assistance activities, as authorized by the Small Business Investment Act, as amended (15 U.S.C. 661 et seq.). The Congress has authorized appropriations to the fund of $1,666 million. Of this amount, not to exceed $1,325 million may be outstanding for the authorized activities under the Small Business Act and the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 and not to exceed $341 million may be outstanding for investment and development company assistance. It is estimated that the limitation on investment and development company assistance will be reached in 1965. Thus, legislation will be proposed to increase the limitation.

1. Financial assistance program—Business loans (sec. 7(a), Small Business Act).—Business loans may be made directly or in participation with banks or other lending institutions, and shall be of such sound value or so secured as reasonably to assure repayment. No loan may be made unless the financial assistance is not otherwise available on reasonable terms. No direct loan may be made unless it is shown that a bank participation loan is not available and no loan on an immediate participation basis may be made unless it is shown that a guaranteed loan is not available. Under the guarantee plan, Small Business Administration agrees to purchase the guaranteed portion of the loan only upon default.

The agency's share of an immediate participation or guaranteed loan is limited to 90% and its maximum outstanding loan and/or commitment to any one borrower is limited by statute to $350 thousand, except for a loan to a corporation formed and capitalized by a group of small business concerns for purposes authorized in the Small Business Act. With respect to such "pool" loans, the limitation is $250 thousand multiplied by the number of separate small businesses participating in the corporation. Business loans, except for the purpose of constructing facilities, are limited to a maturity of 10 years and except for "pool" loans and loans in "redevelopment areas" under the Area Redevelopment Act, bear interest at a maximum rate of 5½% per annum on the agency's share thereof. For "pool" loans, the rate of interest on the Small Business Administration's share is no less than 4% nor more than 5% per annum. For loans in ARA designated areas, the rate of interest on the Small Business Administration's share is 4% per annum.

The Small Business Administration assists businessmen operating small firms to secure credit for constructive purposes on terms that will meet the borrower's individual requirements. Assistance includes counseling as well as the lending of funds. From the beginning of the lending program on September 29, 1953, through June 30, 1964, 43,915 loans had been approved in a total amount of $2,192.5 million (including participating banks' share of $379.4 million). Sixty-three percent of these loans have been on a participation or guarantee basis. In 1966, it is estimated that 11,800 loans will be approved, compared with an estimated 12,800 in 1965.

The following tabulation reflects certain data on business loans and includes funds disbursed or collected by banks on participation and guaranteed loans. Accordingly, the Small Business Administration's share of disbursements and repayments will not agree with related data in the financial statements, which reflect transactions on the basis of only the Small Business Administration cash funds involved.

Business loans (Economic Opportunity Act of 1964).—Pursuant to the authority contained in title IV of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 (78 Stat. 526), the Small Business Administration under delegation from the Director, Office of Economic Opportunity administers a program of financial assistance to very small business concerns and to qualified persons seeking to establish such concerns. Loans are authorized on a direct, immediate participation, or guaranteed basis, in an amount not to exceed $25 thousand, for a maximum term of 15 years. Provision is made for management training as an integral part of the loan program. The credit and collateral requirements are more flexible and relaxed than those applicable to loans made under the provisions of section 7(a) of the Small Business Act. It is estimated that a total of 3,000 loans for $15 million will be approved in 1966 compared with an estimated 1,000 loans for $5 million in 1965, the first year of the program.

Disaster loans.—No restrictions exist on the amount which may be loaned to an individual or business firm suffering loss from a disaster. The maximum term for disaster loans is 20 years except for home loans made in Alaska for the purpose of replacing, reconstructing, or repairing dwellings damaged or destroyed by the 1964 earthquake and subsequent seismic waves. For these Alaska home loans the maximum term is 30 years.

For other than "displaced business" disaster loans the interest rate may not exceed 3% on the Small Business Administration's share of the loan. For "displaced business" disaster loans, authorized by the Housing Act of 1961, the rate on the Small Business Administration share of the loan is determined pursuant to a formula prescribed by legislation. For 1964 the rate was 3½% per annum, while in 1965 the rate will be 3¾%.

Through June 30, 1964, a total of 23,217 disaster loans for $249.1 million had been approved, including 278 "displaced business" loans in the amount of $17.5 million. Approvals during 1964 were 2,604 for $55.7 million (the highest year of record) and included 95 "displaced business" loans for $6.9 million.

The Housing Act of 1964 amended the legislative authority so as to provide that "displaced business" disaster loans may be made for the purchase or construction of buildings for small firms which were tenants in the area from which relocated. For this reason, as well as the anticipated increase in urban renewal activities, the estimates for 1965 and 1966 reflect a step-up in the amount of such loans to be approved—$10.8 million in 1965 and $15.8 million in 1966.

For all other disaster loans the estimate for 1966 is $20 million which approximates the average amount of loans approved prior to the record year of 1964. The estimate for 1965 includes $55 million more than the annual average for additional loans anticipated to be made in Alaska as a result of the March 1964 earthquake.

2. Investment and development company assistance—Purchase of debentures of small business investment companies.—A primary function of these companies is to provide a source of needed equity capital for small business concerns. To facilitate the formation and growth of such companies with capital adequate to meet the demands from small business firms, the Small Business Investment Act, as amended, authorizes the Small Business Administration with certain limitations, to purchase subordinated debentures of any such company in an amount not to exceed the lesser of $700 thousand or the amount of the paid-in capital and surplus of the company from other sources. It is estimated that the Small Business Administration will approve purchase of debentures in the amount of $30 million in 1965 and $35 million in 1966.

Loans to small business investment companies.—To further encourage the formation and growth of such companies, the Small Business Administration is also authorized under certain circumstances to lend funds to them in amounts which may not exceed 50% of the paid-in capital and surplus of a company or $4 million, whichever is less. In addition to $10 million estimated to be loaned directly to such companies by Small Business Administration in 1966, $30 million of loans is anticipated to be made to these companies by financial institutions under a guaranteed loan program under which the guarantee right can be exercised against Small Business Administration only upon default by the borrowing small business investment company. For 1965 it is estimated that $22 million in direct loans and $18 million in guaranteed loans will be approved. This guarantee program replaces the former "standby" bank-loan program inaugurated in 1962. Under the "standby" plan, a bank makes a loan to a small business investment company on the basis of a note drawn to Small Business Administration but assigned to the bank. The bank has the right to reassign it at any time to the Small Business Administration and receive payment of the principal then due. A fund reservation of 50% has been established against these "standby" loans whereas only 10% is being established under the default-guarantee program.

Loans to State and local development companies.—The Small Business Administration is authorized to lend funds to State development companies for general use purposes and to State and local development companies for plant construction, conversion, or expansion, including the acquisition of land. The latter type loans must be so secured as reasonably to assure repayment, may be made directly or in participation with banks or other lending institutions, may be made only when the proceeds are for use solely to assist an identifiable small business concern and for a sound business purpose approved by the agency, and are limited to a maximum of $350 thousand for each such identifiable small business concern. A total of $40 million is estimated to be approved in 1966, compared with an estimate of $30 million in 1965. Legislation is being proposed to terminate the authority for loans to State development companies for general use purposes.

Operating costs—1. Interest expense.—As required by the Small Business Act, interest is payable into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury on outstanding disbursements from the fund, at rates determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, taking into consideration the current average yields on outstanding interest-bearing marketable public debt obligations of the United States of comparable maturities. With respect to disbursements made in 1965, the Secretary of the Treasury has set rates of 4% per annum for business loans and small business investment company loans, and 4½% per annum for disaster loans, State development company loans, local development company loans, and small business investment company debentures. The rates stated above for 1965 have also been used in computing interest expense for 1966. Of the estimated $45.1 million interest expense in 1966, $33.3 million is applicable to the financial assistance program and $11.8 million is applicable to the investment and development company assistance program. The comparable figures for 1965 are $28.9 million and $9.4 million, respectively.

2. Administrative expenses.—These expenses for the two programs are financed by transfer of funds from the revolving fund to the appropriation Salaries and expenses. The distribution of the amounts by program for each of the years is accordingly shown on the program and financing schedule for that appropriation account.

Financing.—The capital of the revolving fund is provided by direct appropriations. Appropriations made to date total $1,395 million. Appropriation requests for increased capital funds are based on the additional amount required to finance an estimated program volume (and related interest, administrative, and other expenses) after taking into consideration unobligated funds from prior years and funds becoming available through principal repayments and revenue. To finance the estimated program level in 1966, after taking into consideration funds to be provided by repayments and revenues, additional appropriations of $150 million will be required. The estimates for 1965 require an additional supplemental appropriation of $100 million.

Operating results.—The deficit is estimated to continue to increase. Interest and fee income will not be sufficient to cover interest and administrative expenses and a provision for estimated losses, primarily because of the cost of processing an increasing number of business loan applications of which only about 60% result in interest-earning loans, and the cost of servicing the expanding number of widely scattered loans which are relatively small in size.

Legislation will be proposed to authorize the sale of certificates of participation in pools of outstanding loans to small business firms held by the Small Business Administration. The proceeds from the sale of participation certificates will be credited to the revolving fund and thus be available for the purpose of making new loans. It is estimated that $350 million of participations will be sold in 1966. Such sales will have the effect of reducing the need for new obligational authority in 1966 and will result in an excess of receipts over expenditures as follows:

The Smithsonian Institution maintains public exhibits representative of the arts, American history, aeronautics, anthropology, geology, technology, and biology; preserves for reference and study purposes millions of valuable items of scientific, cultural, and historical interest; conducts research in the natural sciences and in the history of cultures, technology, and the arts, particularly those indigenous to North America; and participates in the international exchange of scientific literature. The areas of research in the natural sciences include anthropology, biology, geology, solar radiations, and astrophysics. The Smithsonian is also undertaking an intensive program of classification and study of marine organisms collected in connection with the Government's expanded oceanographic program. The Institution operates 3 museums, 4 scientific bureaus, 3 art galleries, the Armed Forces Museum Advisory Board, and the International Exchange Service. It is responsible also for the operation and maintenance of 7 main exhibition buildings, the Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass.; the Canal Zone Biological Area; the River Basin Surveys in Lincoln, Nebr.; a facility at Silver Hill, Md.; and an exhibits laboratory.

During the budget year the move of the collections and staff into the new west wing of the Natural History Building will be completed. The National Collection of Fine Arts and the National Portrait Gallery will continue to prepare exhibition plans and improve the condition of their collections prior to the move into the Fine Arts and Portrait Galleries scheduled to be substantially completed in November 1966. The National Air Museum will continue its program of restoring and preserving aircraft, engines and accessories. One new exhibits renovation project and a building rehabilitation project will be undertaken. The Institution will continue to expand its scientific activities. Programs of cooperative research and training will be developed.

The bicentennial of the birth of James Smithson will be observed in September 1965.

Public interest continues to grow, as evidenced by the number of visitors: 1962, 8,923,000; 1963, 10,310,000; 1964, 10,814,000.

A supplemental appropriation for 1965 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1964, $0; 1965, $0; 1966, $23,500.

² It is currently estimated that an unobligated balance of $1,400 thousand will not be required and is not included in these totals.

The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts was created, as a bureau of the Smithsonian Institution, by the Act of September 2, 1958, as amended. The Board of Trustees of the Center is authorized to construct and operate a national cultural center in Washington, D.C., on a site provided by the Federal Government. An appropriation of $15.5 million is available, to the extent that it is matched by contributions from the public by June 30, 1965, as the Federal contribution to the costs of constructing the $45 million Center. A Federal loan of $15.4 million is authorized for construction of foundations and underground parking facilities. It is to be repaid from parking receipts. The remaining costs of constructing and operating the Center are to be provided from public contributions. It is anticipated that a construction contract will be let in 1965 and that the Center will open 30 months after the start of construction.

Adjudication of cases and legal activities.—Upon petitions being filed, the Board holds formal hearings and determines whether: (a) organizations are Communist-action organizations, Communist-front organizations, or Communist-infiltrated organizations; (b) individuals are officers or members of a Communist-action organization or officers of a Communist-front organization and required to register as such; (c) the registration of particular Communist-action organizations or Communist-front organizations or of particular individuals should be canceled; and (d) a particular Communist-infiltrated organization has ceased to be a Communist-infiltrated organization. The Board's determinations involve the consideration of petitions, motions, answers, and evidence adduced at the hearings. In the individual registration proceedings as well as in proceedings involving organizations, the Board is empowered to hold hearings—which shall be public—to examine witnesses and receive evidence, and to compel the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documents relevant to the matter under inquiry. In each case the Board issues a report in writing setting forth its rulings and findings as to the facts, and issues an appropriate order.

It is the major responsibility of the Tariff Commission to assess the impact of United States and foreign trade policies on domestic industries and to provide reports to the President, the Congress, and the public on these matters. The increased complexity of our trade relations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), and the increase in our foreign trade in recent years have created a greater need for research, investigations, and reports on tariff and trade activities.

The Trade Expansion Act of 1962 has further increased the need for the Commission to assemble information enabling it to make determinations on petitions for adjustment assistance.

The Tax Court hears and decides cases involving income tax deficiencies and claims for refunds of excess profits taxes under the special relief sections of the Internal Revenue Code, and cases involving determinations of excessive profits on contracts renegotiated by the Federal Government.

For 1966 the court proposes a trial program of 160 weeks to be held in approximately 50 cities. This program should result in closing approximately 6,300 cases.

The actual and estimated work volume of the court is presented in the following tabulation:

The Congress created the Tennessee Valley Authority in 1933 for the unified development of a river basin comprising parts of seven States. Engineering works improve and regulate the Tennessee River and its tributaries for navigation, flood control, and the generation of electric power, and contribute in other ways to development of valley resources. Fertilizer research and agricultural activities promote conservation and improved use of land and water resources. Special attention is given to economic development problems in selected subregions. Forestry activities stress maximum use of forest resources consistent with watershed protection. All these activities are interrelated. Their common purpose is to help develop the valley's agricultural and industrial potential for the benefit of both the region and the Nation.

Other national interests are directly served. The Tennessee waterway is an interregional artery for commerce moving to and from ports in 20 States. In 1964 Federal agencies used 36% of the electric energy generated by the TVA system. In national emergencies, defense needs have first call on the Muscle Shoals chemical facilities for munitions research and production; in peacetime, they serve as the country's only public research center equipped for complete development of fertilizers from laboratory to demonstration-scale production with the objective of reducing the cost of chemical fertilizer to the farmer.

TVA is a corporation wholly owned by the Federal Government. Its program in 1966 will be financed from three sources: (1) appropriations by the Congress; (2) proceeds available from current power operations and borrowings against future power revenues; and (3) proceeds available from nonpower activities.

Budget program—1. River and power development.—A major objective of the TVA Act is full development and use of the water resources of the Tennessee River and its tributaries. The development of these natural resources is reflected in regional and national gains in the fields of navigation, flood control, power, light and heavy industry, and recreation. System facilities to be operated in 1966 consist of 29 dams with hydroelectric generating stations, 14 navigation locks at 10 dams, 11 steam-electric generating stations, a power transmission network of about 14,233 circuit miles, and reservoir shorelines totaling more than 10,000 miles. In addition, TVA will operate in cooperation with local interests a multipurpose system of small dams in the Beech River tributary watershed.

(a) Navigation operations of the multipurpose river development system include maintenance of adequate depths for the all-year 9-foot channel from the mouth of the river at Paducah, Ky., to Knoxville, Tenn., a distance of 650 miles. Traffic on the Tennessee waterway in calendar year 1963 was 14.4 million tons and 2.2 billion ton-miles. Transportation savings to shippers on this volume of traffic are estimated at $21.4 million, the difference between freight charges actually paid and those which would have been paid if the river had not been improved for navigation. More than 96% of these savings applied on freight originating outside the valley or moving from the valley to outside destinations. Engineering work assures that physical facilities are operated, maintained, and modified or improved to meet the needs of modern waterborne commerce. In 1966 three locks which have been in uninterrupted service for 20 years or more will be unwatered and inspected. Technical studies appraise the opportunities for use of the waterway and the barriers inhibiting its use. Data supplied to shippers and carriers help solve transportation problems, looking to full utilization of the Federal investment in the navigation channel. Advisory work with State and local agencies leads to new or improved public programs by those agencies to help assure full utilization of the waterway.

TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY FUND—Continued

Capital outlay costs for navigation facilities in 1966 are estimated at $1,524 thousand, which provides for continuing construction of a new larger lock at Gunterville Dam, Ala., for dredging an extension of the navigation channel on the Hiwassee River, and for other navigation channel improvements.

(b) Flood control operations of the Tennessee River system maintain and use storage space in upstream reservoirs for seasonal retention of excessive runoff and regulate discharges to rates of flow which can be handled safely by downstream channels and reservoirs. Dams on the Tennessee River and its tributaries provide 11.8 million acre-feet of storage for flood control at the beginning of the flood season. Cities and agricultural lands in the Tennessee Valley are protected and flood crests are reduced on the lower Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. Since the first project in the TVA system was placed in operation in 1936, regulation of TVA reservoirs to reduce flood crests has averted damages of about $277 million in the Tennessee Valley and about $39 million on the lower Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. As a supplement to operating its reservoir system for flood control, TVA collects and analyzes flood data and studies potential flood control projects and ways to improve operations of the existing system. Technical advice and assistance given to State and local agencies in finding solutions to local urban and rural flood control problems will be continued in 1966. A frequent and valuable byproduct of these efforts is the establishment or revitalization of local planning agencies.

Capital outlay costs for flood control facilities in 1966 are estimated at $2,031 thousand including $641 thousand for completing construction of two small water control reservoirs near Bristol, Tenn.-Va., and $1,390 thousand for beginning work on cooperative flood protection projects for the cities of Sevierville, Tenn., and Coeburn, Va. Total estimated cost of these facilities to be completed by June 30, 1968, is $2.7 million for Sevierville and $1.1 million for Coeburn.

(c) Power operations involve generation and transmission of power and sale of energy at wholesale to local distribution systems and to a small number of industries and Government agencies requiring large amounts of power. As of January 1, 1965, power was purchased and distributed by 156 local public agencies and 2 small privately owned utility companies. Total energy to be supplied to the power system from generating facilities of TVA, the Department of the Army on the Cumberland River, and the Aluminum Company of America on the Little Tennessee River is estimated to be 80.7 billion kilowatt-hours in 1966. This is about 7.3 billion kilowatt-hours greater than the energy supplied to the system in 1964 and about 6.9 billion kilowatt-hours above that estimated to be supplied in 1965. Net income from power operations, after depreciation, is estimated to be $54.7 million for 1966, as compared with $58.2 million in 1964 and an estimate of $51.0 million in 1965. The estimates assume average streamflow conditions. Better than average streamflows could produce some increase in net income over the estimates; with subnormal streamflows, the net income would be reduced by increases in production expenses.

Of the $55,445 thousand estimate for power supply facilities, all to be financed from power proceeds and borrowings, $12,019 thousand is for continuing construction of Nickajack hydro units 1-4, and $11,986 thousand is for continuing construction of a generating unit in the Bull Run Steam Plant and for cleanup of construction work on a generating unit (No. 8) at the Widows Creek Steam Plant. Nickajack units 1-4, scheduled for service in November 1967 and January 1968, replace capacity presently available from the Hales Bar project which is to be removed from service. Bull Run unit 1 is scheduled for commercial operation in May 1966.

Completion of these units on schedule will bring the estimated dependable capacity of the system by the winter of 1966-67 to 17.09 million kilowatts, including the Army plants on the Cumberland River and other plants operated as a part of the TVA system. This will provide a reserve of 23% over estimated demands of 13.90 million kilowatts served by TVA capacity to allow for loss of capacity because of breakdown of generating equipment and needs for its maintenance, failure of substation equipment and transmission lines, and drawdown of reservoirs during dry periods. Estimated total demands in the winter of 1966-67 are estimated at 14.40 million kilowatts, of which 0.50 million kilowatts will be served by capacity owned by others but made available to TVA under interchange arrangements. In the winter of 1967-68 it is estimated that total demands will increase to 15.20 million kilowatts, demands served by TVA capacity will be 14.20 million kilowatts, the dependable TVA system capacity will remain at 17.09 million kilowatts, and the reserve will decrease to 20.4%. By the winter of 1968-69 it is estimated that total demands will increase to 16.10 million kilowatts, demands served by TVA capacity will be 14.60 million kilowatts, the dependable TVA system capacity will remain at 17.09 million kilowatts, and the reserve will decrease to 17.1%.

TVA has on firm order for future delivery a large turbogenerator with a capacity of 1,130,000 kilowatts. During 1965 TVA will continue studies to determine the most advantageous location for this unit. This additional unit is now scheduled to be placed in service in the fall of 1969 to supply loads in the winter of 1969-70. The 1966 budget includes $25,742 thousand for construction work on this unit. Modernization of hydro units 1-8 at Wilson Dam, started in 1965, will continue in 1966. This work will increase the dependability and efficiency of these units. The 1966 estimate includes $5,190 thousand for work on these units.

The 1966 budget includes $508 thousand for preliminary design work on additional steam-electric generating capacity which will be needed after the winter of 1969-70.

(d) Multipurpose reservoir operations relate to the management, operation, and maintenance of 20 multipurpose reservoirs created by TVA dams. This involves water dispatching operations, water control investigations, investigations and control of reservoir ecology, plant protection and services to visitors, and operation of reservoir lands. Operating costs, funded, are estimated at $6,318 thousand for 1966, of which $1,737 thousand is allocated to navigation operations, $1,791 thousand to flood control operations, $2,336 thousand to power operations, and $43 thousand to cooperative valley development. The remaining $411 thousand is offset by non-power proceeds derived principally from operation of reservoir lands.

Cost of continuing construction of the nonpower portions of Nickajack Dam and Reservoir is estimated at $10,847 thousand in 1966. Dam closure is scheduled for November 1967, and total estimated cost including hydro units 1-4 is $66 million.

A total of $5,675 thousand is required in fiscal 1966 to begin construction of Tellico multipurpose dam and reservoir. The site of this project is near the mouth of the Little Tennessee River which flows into the Tennessee River downstream from Fort Loudoun Dam. Plans include provision for a canal connecting the two reservoirs to permit operation of the two reservoirs as a single unit. Estimated total cost is $42.5 million, of which an estimated $10.9 million will be recovered from future sales of reservoir lands. Also in 1966, engineering work will be continued on the Bear Creek multipurpose water control system at a cost of $250 thousand. An estimate of $289 thousand provides for completion of the Beech River multipurpose water control system.

2. Fertilizer, agricultural, and munitions development.—Chemical facilities at Wilson Dam, Ala., are maintained and operated as a national fertilizer development center, but by statute they must also be available for munitions purposes. These facilities are important in the national defense program.

Fertilizer, agricultural, and munitions development activities are of three general types: research on fertilizer products, processes, and uses; developmental production of fertilizer materials; and demonstration and educational introduction of new materials to the American farmer.

(a) Research on fertilizer products, processes, and uses consists of fundamental research, applied research, process engineering, technical studies of full-scale plant operations, and research on the agronomic requirements and effects of fertilizer materials. TVA works cooperatively with the Department of Agriculture, the land-grant colleges, and with industry to maximize effectiveness of research, hasten use of findings, and to avoid duplication. Research results on technological developments and on new and improved processes are made available to industry. Knowledge gained in fertilizer research is valuable also in the related field of munitions. In 1966, research will be continued on the chemistry of fertilizer utilization by plants in the soil, on fertilizers of improved physical and agronomic quality, and on incorporation of micronutrients in fertilizers. Work on finding improved methods for the production of wet-process phosphoric acid will be continued, as will the development of improved liquid fertilizers and fertilizers in fluid suspension. Studies will be continued to improve the materials and methods for dry blending of granular fertilizers. Agronomic research will include use of the stable isotope nitrogen-15 in studying behavior of nitrogen in the soil. Agronomic studies will be made of applying micronutrients in ways to be most beneficial to plants.

(b) Developmental fertilizer production has these objectives: to demonstrate the technical and commercial feasibility of new or improved processes, thereby encouraging their adoption by industry; to supply materials for widespread educational introduction among farmers; and to supply munitions materials or render other services for national defense.

(c) Demonstration and educational introduction of TVA fertilizers is carried on cooperatively with the land-grant colleges and includes carefully controlled small plot demonstrations, tests and demonstrations of fertilizer materials and practices on selected operating farms, and widespread educational introduction of fertilizers, which is also conducted in cooperation with commercial fertilizer manufacturers, distributors, and dealers. Farmers and the fertilizer industry pay for the fertilizers used. The price is dependent upon the novelty of the material or practice, the nature of the demonstration, and the value of the plant nutrient content as measured by commercial fertilizer prices. Agricultural extension services of the land-grant colleges give educational and technical guidance in demonstrating and introducing new fertilizers and fertilizer practices in the participating States. Studies and investigations are conducted to provide information for planning, conducting, and appraising agricultural development activities.

Capital outlay costs for chemical facilities are estimated at $5,316 thousand in 1966. Most of this is for continuation of projects begun in prior years as part of a rehabilitation program which was started in 1960. Facilities to be completed in 1966 include an integrated unit for production of granular nitrogen and compound fertilizers, modernization of bathhouse and sanitary facilities, pilot-plant building improvements, and facilities for storing phosphoric acid. During 1966 work will be continued on modernization of TVA's phosphate facilities, largely starting replacement of equipment for preparing charges for electric phosphorus furnaces.

3. Cooperative valley development.—Special attention to selected areas of the Tennessee Valley region, in particularly close cooperation with State and local agencies and with tributary area associations, constitutes an additional phase of TVA's program for the proper use, conservation, and development of the region's natural resources. Investigations identify current problems and opportunities for development under conditions of optimum use. Research helps develop and test corrective measures. Cooperative projects with State and local groups apply these measures to regional and special problems.

Cooperative valley development activities are of three principal types: forestry projects, mineral resources investigations, and tributary area development. The category also includes a small research activity directed toward disposal of organic wastes as soil amendments.

(a) Forestry projects aid the States, counties, landowners, and the timber industry in making full use of the existing forest resource of the valley and of developing it for maximum long-term production of quality timber, consistent with the needs of watershed protection. Forestry projects include appraisals of the quality and quantity of the forest resource and research and demonstrations in forest management, reforestation, industrial wood use, forest tree improvement, forest fertilizer tests, and strip mine reclamation.

(b) Mineral resources investigations will continue in 1966 in cooperation with State agencies, with emphasis on economic geology and the preparation in cooperation with State agencies of geologic maps essential to the development of regional minerals.

(c) Tributary area development is a comprehensive and concentrated approach to resource development in areas of the Tennessee Valley where special problems inhibit economic growth, where specific opportunities exist for further development of the resource base, and where local groups have organized to deal with problems of economic advancement and area improvement. In 1966 TVA will work closely with organized groups in 14 tributary areas.

(d) Disposal of organic wastes as soil amendments will be continued as a study in cooperation with the Public Health Service.

4. Land Between the Lakes demonstration.—The 1966 budget program includes provision for continuing development, as a demonstration of new ideas in public outdoor recreation and conservation education, of an area in western Kentucky and Tennessee of approximately 170,000 acres, situated between TVA's Kentucky reservoir and the Corps of Engineers' Barkley Lake. Offering the innumerable recreational advantages associated with 300 miles of cove-studded shoreline, Land Between the Lakes is within sunrise-to-sunset driving distance of 70 million of the Nation's people. This area is presently one of the most sparsely settled sections in the Tennessee and Cumberland Valleys and has only limited agricultural or industrial potential. Its development as a public recreation area will demonstrate new concepts of resource management for outdoor recreation and resource use education and represent a higher use of the land. Adequately developed, the area will serve as a stimulus to the lagging economy of the surrounding area by encouraging further private development and by serving as a guide to possible public development of other areas for recreation in the Tennessee Valley region and the Nation. The project will include a variety of activities through which an urbanizing population may use part of its increased leisure to renew its acquaintance with the land and gain new understandings of modern concepts of resource use and conservation. All planned recreation facilities, including campgrounds, picnic areas, boat launching ramps, associated roads and parking sites, and areas for hiking, fishing, and game management will incorporate ideas gained from institutions, agencies, and organizations who use outdoor recreation resources in their programs. In 1966, $9.9 million will be used to continue land acquisition and construction activities, and $618 thousand will be used for operations. Total capital outlays for the Land Between the Lakes demonstration are estimated at $51.5 million.

5. General service activities.—Operating costs for general service activities cover primarily topographic mapping and reimbursable services furnished at the request and expense of other agencies.

Topographic maps of the Tennessee Valley are vital to TVA's planning, construction, and operations needs. In order to be of practical utility, these maps, which now cover the entire Tennessee Valley, must be revised periodically. The estimate for 1966 includes $268 thousand for those maps which most urgently need revision and which are most necessary for regional development purposes at this time.

The 1966 estimate of $4,605 thousand for reimbursable services includes $2,268 thousand for construction and operating activities on an experimental gas-cooled reactor project for the Atomic Energy Commission at Oak Ridge, Tenn.; $643 thousand for mapping services for the Department of the Army and other agencies; $282 thousand for technical advisory assistance to power distributors; and $175 thousand for services for the Department of Defense for maintenance in standby of the Muscle Shoals phosphate development works. The balance is for loans of personnel and services to other agencies and miscellaneous recoveries of TVA expenditures, including backcharges to vendors for repairs by TVA to damaged structures or equipment.

Capital outlay costs are estimated at $4,430 thousand for general facilities in 1966. This covers additions and replacements of office, transportation, and electronic computing equipment and facilities used jointly in conducting all TVA programs. The 1966 estimate includes $328 thousand for design of a new medical and general service center at Wilson Dam, Ala., to replace present facilities some dating back to World War I; and $670 thousand for continuing design work on a power dispatching center and general office building to be located on Chickamauga Dam reservation in the vicinity of Chattanooga, Tenn., for occupancy by TVA personnel stationed in the Chattanooga area.

Financing.—Amounts estimated to become available in 1966 would be derived from (1) the requested appropriation of $58,952 thousand; (2) nonpower revenues and receipts of $24,038 thousand; and (3) power revenues and receipts of $321,203 thousand. In addition, the budget program anticipates financing from borrowings of $50 million backed by future power revenues. A summary of the application of appropriations follows:

Operating results and financial condition.—Retained earnings from power operations at the end of 1966 are estimated at $655,254 thousand. Net income from power operations in 1966 is estimated at $54,702 thousand. The accumulated net expense of nonpower programs at the end of 1966 is estimated at $325,199 thousand, of which $21,909 thousand is from 1966 operations. Only the power program is intended to be self-supporting; the net expense of nonpower programs is covered largely by appropriations from the Treasury. Payments to the Treasury in 1966 are estimated at $57.2 million—$42.2 million as a dividend (return on the appropriation investment in the power program) and $15 million as a reduction in the appropriation investment in the power program.

Total assets are estimated at $2,739,183 thousand at the end of 1966 as compared with an estimate of $2,635,656 thousand at the end of 1965—an increase of $103,527 thousand during 1966. The increase is mainly in fixed assets, reflecting expenditures for construction of facilities; $57,092 thousand of the increase in assets is in the power program and $46,435 thousand is in nonpower programs. The estimate of current liabilities of $62,255 thousand at June 30, 1966, is $18,982 thousand greater than the estimate of $43,273 thousand at June 30, 1965. The increase reflects liabilities mainly related to construction. Borrowings from the public for the power program are expected to increase by $75 million during 1966—from an estimate of $220 million at June 30, 1965, to an estimate of $295 million at June 30, 1966. The estimated total Government equity of $2,381,312 thousand at June 30, 1966, is $9,545 thousand more than the estimate of $2,371,767 thousand at June 30, 1965. The change represents a major part of the increase in investments in assets financed from sources other than borrowings.

1. Program operation.—The Agency is charged with the formulation and implementation of U.S. arms control and disarmament policy. The Director advises the Secretary of State and the President on arms control and disarmament policy and its implementation, conducts negotiations with other countries looking toward international agreements to control, reduce, or eliminate arms, and will direct U.S. participation in such control systems as may be adopted.

The Agency was created on September 26, 1961, under authority of Public Law 87-297. Previously this work had been conducted by the Department of State.

2. Contract research.—Contracts or grants will be entered into with private or public institutions for the conduct of research, development, and studies in the field of arms control and disarmament.

The United States Information Agency seeks, by means of communication techniques, to influence public attitudes abroad to achieve U.S. foreign policy objectives. The Agency also advises those responsible for formulating and implementing foreign policies and programs as to the probable impact of those policies on foreign opinion.

Agency operations are largely financed from this appropriation, which covers dollar and certain foreign currency costs, and from the special foreign currency appropriation, which covers payments in U.S.-owned currencies in excess of the normal requirements of the United States.

The increase of about $2.2 million in obligations funded from the Salaries and expenses appropriation will maintain the 1965 program level, cover other built-in costs, and provide for certain program increases to be offset by reductions in existing programs.

1. Overseas missions.—The program is conducted through 223 posts in 107 countries. The overseas missions carry out country programs designed to influence local attitudes and actions in support of U.S. foreign policy. Overseas missions prepare materials using local facilities and utilize materials provided by the media services in Washington. The following table summarizes the total cost of dollar and all foreign currency financed mission operations, including the cost of materials supplied by the media services (in thousands of dollars):

Total, mission costs.....	71,771	74,634	75,253

2. Media services.—These services provide support for overseas country programs.

(a) Press and publications service maintains communications facilities for the transmission of editorial and feature materials for adaptation by overseas missions. It produces two monthly magazines titled "America Illustrated," one for distribution in the Soviet Union and the other in Poland; and one Arabic language magazine, "Life in America," sold on newsstands throughout the Arab world. A new monthly magazine for the African area, in French and English editions, is planned for 1966. The service also operates three regional printing centers and provides overseas missions with printing supplies and equipment.

(b) Motion picture service produces and acquires films which are then translated into as many as 58 foreign languages. It adapts films for specific country or area use, and directs the foreign production, use, and distribution of films. Increased production of high-quality films is planned in 1966. The service also supplies the missions with mobile film units and equipment for showing motion pictures.

(c) Information center service supports U.S.-operated libraries and reading rooms, and binational centers, providing them with collections of American publications, both in English and in translations, and with English language teaching materials. It assists American publishers in distributing selected products overseas and supports the publication of low-priced books for sale abroad. The service also provides exhibits and visual materials to overseas missions for local display, and provides books and periodicals for presentation to selected individuals and groups.

(d) Broadcasting service in 1966 will produce radio broadcasts in English and in 37 foreign languages, with increased programing to Africa. Programs will be broadcast from transmitters at 7 domestic and 10 oversea locations. The service will continue to supply the oversea missions with recorded radio programs and scripts for placement on foreign stations and with radio supplies and equipment.

(e) Television service acquires and produces television programs for placement on outlets overseas. It also provides assistance to the oversea missions in the production and use of television programs. An increase in program production is planned in 1966.

3. Research and reference service acquires and prepares reports for use by domestic and oversea establishments in formulating and implementing Agency policies and programs.

4. Cooperative programs with private organizations.—The Agency encourages and coordinates the efforts of private organizations in building an information exchange program between the people of the United States and the peoples of foreign countries.

5. Program direction includes the Office of the Director, assistant directors for geographic areas and the Office of Planning.

6. Administration and staff support includes physical and personnel security functions, legal counsel, central administrative services, and emergency planning.

7. Administrative support.—Administrative services for the Agency's oversea operations, and certain special support services at headquarters, are obtained through reimbursable arrangements with the Department of State.

The purpose of this program, except for trade missions, is to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and those of other lands through suitable U.S. exhibitions in international fairs and other demonstrations of American economic, social, industrial, scientific, and cultural attainments.

1. International fairs and exhibitions.—Exhibits are mounted at important international fairs and other strategic locations overseas. In 1964 15 exhibits were mounted; 14 are planned for 1965, and 5 for 1966.

2. Trade missions are sent abroad to further the development of American export markets. There were 16 trade missions in 1964; 24 are planned for 1965 and 27 are planned for 1966.

3. Labor missions are sent to selected fairs and exhibitions abroad. There were eight labor missions in 1964; 12 are provided in 1965, and 6 are requested for 1966.

4. Special purpose exhibitions.—In 1964 a second series of two exhibits was completed under the United States-U.S.S.R. exchange agreement, one shown in three and one in four locations in the Soviet Union. In 1965 and 1966, a third series of three exhibits in the U.S.S.R. will be completed. As showings are concluded in the Soviet Union, the exhibits are displayed in other countries of East Europe. The estimate for 1966 provides for advance costs for a fourth series of three exhibits for showing in the Soviet Union, and for completion of an American fine arts exhibit at a special exposition in São Paulo.

This program serves U.S. foreign policy interests by enabling important foreign countries with serious dollar exchange problems to import U.S. books, periodicals, films, and other informational media. Under the program these materials may be purchased by foreign importers through normal commercial channels. The materials are then sold for local currencies to individuals, universities, public libraries, and others in the foreign countries concerned.

Operations in each country are carried out under terms of bilateral country agreements. Under the program, foreign importers make payments in their own currency to American exporters, who then exchange the foreign currency for U.S. dollars through application to the United States Information Agency. The foreign currencies acquired under the program are available for sale to other U.S. Government agencies for appropriated dollars, which are credited to the Informational media guarantee revolving fund.

A proposal to revise the legislative base for the Informational media guarantee fund will be submitted to the 89th Congress.

Program.—The 1966 estimate continues the program at the 1965 level in the eight countries where the program is active.

Financing.—The 1966 appropriation request provides $296 thousand for the payment of interest to the Treasury on funds borrowed in 1965 and 1966. The issuance of $4 million in guarantee contracts will be financed with current authority and receipts from operations.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 301. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act, or of the funds available for expenditure by any corporation or agency included in this Act, shall be used for publicity or propaganda purposes designed to support or defeat legislation pending before the Congress.

SEC. 302. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act, or of the funds available for expenditure by any corporation or agency included in this Act, shall be used to pay the compensation of any employee engaged in personnel work in excess of the number that would be provided by a ratio of one such employee to one hundred and thirty-five, or a part thereof, full-time, part-time, and intermittent employees of the corporation or agency concerned: Provided, That for purposes of this section employees shall be considered as engaged in personnel work if they spend half time or more in personnel administration consisting of direction and administration of the personnel program; employment, placement, and separation; job evaluation and classification; employee relations and services; wage administration; and processing, recording, and reporting.

SEC. 303. None of the funds provided herein shall be used to pay any recipient of a grant for the conduct of a research project an amount for indirect expenses in connection with such project in excess of 20 per centum of the direct costs.

SEC. 304. None of the funds appropriated in this Act shall be used to conduct or assist in conducting any program (including but not limited to the payment of salaries, administrative expenses, and the conduct of research activities) related directly or indirectly to the establishment of a national service corps or similar domestic peace corps type of program.

PART II

DETAILED ESTIMATES FOR TRUST FUNDS

EXPLANATION OF ESTIMATES FOR TRUST FUNDS

Part II contains detailed schedules and explanatory statements on the various trust funds. It excludes the detail on trust fund programs which require annual action by Congress (shown in part I) and the detail on the District of Columbia municipal government funds (contained in a separate budget volume).

TRUST AND DEPOSIT FUNDS DISTINGUISHED

The funds which are covered in this part of the budget are of two types as follows:

Trust funds are those funds established to account for receipts which are held in a fiduciary capacity by the Government for use in carrying out specific purposes and programs in accordance with a trust agreement or a statute. Within the category of trust funds, there is a subcategory of trust revolving funds, which are trust funds used to carry on a cycle of business-type operations, including certain corporations which are partly owned by the Government and partly by private interests.

Deposit funds are those funds established to account for collections that are either (a) held in suspense temporarily and later refunded or paid into some other fund of the Government, or (b) held by the Government as banker or agent for others, being paid out in lump sums at the direction of the owner. Such funds are not available for paying salaries, expenses, grants, or other expenditures of the Government.

While the transactions in these groups of funds are a part of the financial program of the Government, trust and deposit funds are reserved for the purposes of the trust or the terms of the deposit; hence these transactions are excluded from the administrative budget totals.

OBLIGATIONAL AUTHORITY FOR TRUST FUNDS

Most trust fund receipts are made available for use by permanent law, without requiring further action by Congress. In a few cases receipts of trust funds can be obligated and expended only in accordance with appropriations enacted by Congress from year to year. Examples are the funds of the United States Soldiers Home and the general municipal revenues of the District of Columbia. In the case of the Highway trust fund, Congress controls expenditures by appropriations annually, but it grants contract authorizations in advance thereof. In a few other cases, the trust receipts are permanently available for program purposes, but Congress imposes annual limitations on administrative expenses.

FORM OF TRUST FUND PRESENTATIONS

The detailed material in part II covers the trust funds which do not require annual action by Congress. Consolidated schedules are used for the smaller trust funds of each bureau or independent agency.

The material here follows the general format of the similar material in part I. In most cases, all receipts of a trust fund are permanently appropriated as the receipts are collected. In cases where the receipts are not appropriated as the money is collected, an additional schedule identifies the amounts available for appropriation. No appropriation language appears here, and the narrative statement of program and performance usually consists only of an explanation of the sources of money for the fund, the purposes for which it is authorized to be spent, and the legal citations.

TRUST FUND RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES

Receipts.—Like budget receipts, trust fund receipts are based upon collections received and deposited, including U.S. Government securities received in lieu of cash and contributions to the trust funds from the general fund. Reported receipts exclude borrowing and the sale or redemptions of U.S. Government securities.

Expenditures.—Like budget expenditures, trust fund expenditures are stated on a checks-issued basis, less refunds collected. The repayment of borrowing and the purchase of U.S. Government securities are excluded from the expenditure figures.

Trust revolving funds.—The small group of funds which constitute trust revolving funds are reported on a net expenditure basis. The collections of trust revolving funds, instead of being reported as receipts, are deducted from expenditures.

DEPOSIT FUND EXPENDITURES

Deposit fund expenditures are shown only in total for each agency as a whole. These expenditures are on a net basis; that is, the collections are deducted from checks issued, and the resulting figure is shown as an expenditure. Checks issued include transactions to move money into other funds, as well as refunds and the return of money to depositors. When the collections are larger than the gross expenditures, the amount shown as an expenditure is a negative item.

This schedule covers (1) funds received as gifts for immediate expenditure and receipts from the sale of recordings and photoduplication materials financed from capital originally received as gifts, (2) income from investments held by the Library of Congress Trust Fund Board, and (3) interest at the rate of 4% per annum paid by the Treasury on the principal funds deposited therewith as described under "Library of Congress trust fund, principal accounts." (2 U.S.C. 156-160; 31 U.S.C. 725s; 37 Stat. 319.)

1. Acquisition of Library materials.—During 1964, this included the procurement of manuscripts, Hispanic materials, fine prints, books and other library materials from certain foreign areas for the Library of Congress, and the acquisition and distribution of Government documents for the Library of Congress and cooperating libraries.

2. Reader and reference services.—These services during 1964 included the preparation of bibliographies, indexes, digests, and checklists; lectures; surveys of bibliographic services; poetry readings; musical concerts; furtherance of musical research, composition, performance and appreciation; and providing photostats, photographs, microfilm, and other forms of photoduplication, and sound recordings of folksongs and poetry to other Government agencies, libraries, and other institutions, and to the general public.

3. Organization of the collections.—During 1964, work was started on the Library of Congress Catalog, Books: Subjects, 1960-64. This quinquennial cumulation will total approximately 26 volumes. Work continued on the Dewey Decimal Classification, 17th edition and the Union List of Serials, 3d edition, the former scheduled for publication in calendar year 1964 and the latter, in calendar year 1965. The preparation of the index to Dissertations Abstracts and the preparation of printed catalog cards for additional manuscript collections located in the Library of Congress and other institutions was continued, and the National Union Catalog of Manuscript Collections, 1962, was issued.

4. Information service on copyright materials.—Depositors were supplied with preliminary information relating to copyright materials in selected subject fields.

This schedule covers two principal accounts—permanent loan and bequest of Gertrude M. Hubbard.

Both funds represent gifts or bequests in cash, which have been deposited with the Treasurer of the United States as permanent loans to the United States, the interest upon which, at 4% per annum, payable semi-annually, is available to the Librarian for the purposes specified in each case.

As of June 30, 1964, the principal in the permanent loan account, which shall not exceed the sum of $10 million (2 U.S.C. 158; 31 U.S.C. 725s, Public Law 87-522), was distributed as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Music activities.....	2,267
Fine arts.....	397
American history.....	307
Hispanic activities.....	211
Poetry and literature.....	694
Miscellaneous purposes.....	603
Total principal.....	4,479

The additional principal sum of $20 thousand, representing the bequest of Gertrude M. Hubbard, is for the purchase of engravings and etchings (37 Stat. 319).

The use of the income from these accounts is described under Library of Congress gift and trust fund income accounts.

The number of judges participating in the system established by 70 Stat. 1021 decreased in 1964 from 419 to 414. There were 459 judges on the roll at the end of the year as compared with 463 at the beginning of the year. As of June 30, 1964, there were 45 nonparticipants as compared with 44 a year ago.

The number of survivor annuitants on the roll increased in 1964 from 139 at the beginning of the year to 150 at the end of the year. The average annuity increased $178, from $2,946 to $3,124. This increase is due to the fact that current awards to annuitants are substantially higher than the annuities granted to widows in previous years.

Payroll deductions and matching agency contributions in 1965 and 1966 will be substantially higher as a result of the salary increases authorized for judges under the Federal Judicial Salary Act of 1964, Public Law 88-426, approved August 14, 1964.

1. Procurement assistance.—This trust fund is used for military assistance sales of defense articles and services currently authorized by section 507 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended (the act). Defense articles sold consist largely of aircraft, ships, combat and other vehicles, missiles and electronic equipment. In dollar volume, the major portion of this program consists of sales to European and other developed countries of the free world.

Section 507(a) of the act authorizes the sale of defense articles from Department of Defense stocks and defense services to eligible countries and international organizations if they agree to pay in dollars not less than the value thereof in advance or within 3 years after delivery. Payment within 120 days of delivery is normally required and the 3-year credit provision is used in very rare exceptions.

Section 507(b) of the act provides contract authority for the procurement of defense articles and defense services for sale to eligible countries and international organizations if such purchasers provide the U.S. Government with a dependable undertaking to: (1) pay the full amount of the procurement contract which will assure the U.S. Government against any loss on the contract, and (2) to make funds available in such amounts and at such times as may be required to meet the payments or other costs required by or resulting from the contract. An amendment made by the Foreign Assistance Act of 1964 provides authority for dependable undertaking transactions under section 507(b) where the eligible purchaser agrees to pay 120 days after delivery with Department of Defense appropriations used to meet payments required by such contracts, which appropriations are to be reimbursed by amounts subsequently received from the purchasers.

2. Advances for economic assistance.—By agreement with certain governments, the Agency for International Development acts as agent, utilizing dollar advances by them to arrange transportation services for commodities purchased by those countries (22 U.S.C. 2151).

3. Technical assistance, U.S. dollars advanced from foreign governments.—Funds advanced by foreign countries are used to pay some local costs of development grant programs in those countries in accordance with bilateral agreements (22 U.S.C. 2151).

The following services are financed by fees and miscellaneous contributions advanced by importers, manufacturers, States, organizations, individuals, and others.

1. Expenses and refunds, inspection and grading of farm products provide for (a) inspection and certification of animal foods and inedible agricultural products in interstate and foreign commerce; (b) identification and marking of divided portions of meat, meat byproducts, and meat food products for human consumption, which have been previously federally inspected and so marked, in order that divided portions will bear Federal marks; (c) examination of meat and meat food products in federally inspected meatpacking plants for compliance with contract specifications; and (d) a food inspection service covering any article of human food derived wholly or in part from meat, meat byproducts or meat food products not subject to the Federal meat inspection laws but for which the mark of Federal meat inspection is requested (7 U.S.C. 1622h, 1624).

2. Expenses, feed and attendants for animals in quarantine are paid from fees advanced by importers (21 U.S.C. 102).

3. Miscellaneous contributed funds received from States, local organizations, individuals, and others are available for work under cooperative agreements on miscellaneous farm, utilization, and marketing research activities, plant quarantine inspection, and cooperative plant pest control activities (5 U.S.C. 67, 563).

These funds are administered by the Farmers Home Administration, under agreements with 39 individual States, for use in carrying out subtitles A and B of the Consolidated Farmers Home Administration Act of 1961. In these States, real estate type loans are made from these funds and insured under the regular Farmers Home Administration insured loan program at 5% of which not less than one-half of 1% represents an insurance charge that is retained by the Government. In some States, operating type loans are made at 5% interest. The entire assets of the 39 State Corporations are being adminis-

In connection with the insurance of loans and mortgages which are for construction, reconstruction, or reconditioning of vessels, and which are financed by sale of bonds to the general public, section 1111, Merchant Marine Act, 1936, as amended (73 Stat. 272, 273), authorizes the Secretary of Commerce to accept deposits in escrow of proceeds from the sale of such bonds, together with interest due the bondholders.

Funds so deposited are to be used for (a) payments becoming due on the construction, reconstruction, or reconditioning of the vessels, (b) interest on the loan or mortgage, or (c) payments on account of principal in cases of default. Investments of the fund may be made in obligations of the United States, with any income realized paid to the borrower or mortgagor.

Establishment of the fund was authorized by Public Law 86-127, enacted July 31, 1959. Through September 30, 1964, $98,868 thousand had been deposited therein covering construction of 21 vessels. As of September 30, 1964, a balance of $18,765 thousand remained in the account.

1. Advances from Alaska.—Pursuant to the agreement between the Federal Government and the State of Alaska, the Bureau of Public Roads performs State highway functions on the Federal-aid systems for Alaska with funds contributed by the State (23 U.S.C. 120(8), 308).

2. Advances from State cooperating agencies.—Funds are contributed by the State highway departments or local subdivisions thereof for construction and/or maintenance of roads or bridges. The work is performed under the supervision of the Bureau of Public Roads (23 U.S.C. 308).

3. Contributions for highway research program.—In association with the General Services Administration and the Department of Defense, tests of highway equipment are conducted for the purpose of establishing performance standards upon which to base specifications for use by the Government in purchasing such equipment (23 U.S.C. 307).

4. Cooperative work, forest highways.—Contributions are received from States and counties in connection with cooperative engineering, survey, maintenance, and construction projects for forest highways (23 U.S.C. 204).

5. Equipment, supplies, etc., for cooperating countries.—In connection with the construction of the Inter-American Highway, the Bureau acts as agent for the cooperating Central American Republics in purchase of equipment, supplies, and services (23 U.S.C. 212, 308).

6. Technical assistance, U.S. dollars advanced from foreign governments.—Under the Foreign Economic Assistance Act and under agreement with the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and the Export-Import Bank of Washington, the Bureau of Public Roads renders technical assistance and acts as agent for the purchase of equipment and materials for carrying out highway programs in foreign countries. During the current year, these services are being rendered for Costa Rica, Ethiopia, Iran, Nicaragua, and the Philippines (64 Stat. 204-209).

Under the Federal old-age and survivors insurance system, workers, employers, and self-employed individuals make annual contributions in the form of taxes on earnings toward the benefits which will be payable when the worker retires or when he dies. An amount equal to the annual contributions is deposited in this trust fund for benefit payments and administrative expenses. Any excess of income over outgo together with annual interest is invested in Government securities (42 U.S.C. 401).

Payments are made between this trust fund and the Railroad retirement account so as to place this fund in the same position in which it would have been if railroad employment after 1936 had been included in social security coverage (45 U.S.C. 228E).

The status of the trust fund, including proposed legislation, is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Under proposed legislation, 1966.—Improvements in the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance program will provide a 7% benefit increase to beneficiaries, effective as of January 1, 1965, and extend coverage to certain groups and types of earnings not previously under the system. These improvements, along with the hospital insurance program, will be financed by an increase in the covered wage base from $4,800 to $5,600 and in the combined tax rate from the scheduled 8.25% to 8.50%, effective January 1, 1966. Notwithstanding the receipts from the proposed reimbursement for military service credits, there is a slight decline in receipts due to a lower portion of the total tax being allocated to the OASI trust fund.

1. Benefit payments.—The Social Security Act provides disability insurance benefits for certain disabled individuals and their dependents. Under current law an amount equal to one-half of 1% of wages paid and three-eighths of 1% of self-employment income is allocated to this fund for benefit payments and administrative expenses. The excess of income over outgo and annual interest are invested in Government securities.

2. Administration.—The Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare determines, at the end of each year that portion of the administrative expenses of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare which is a proper charge to this fund. The amount shown herein for the administrative expenses includes interest on the unpaid charges and is subject to further refinement of the processes for allocating costs between the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund and the Federal disability insurance trust fund (42 U.S.C. 401).

Annual payments are made between this account and the railroad retirement account so as to place these funds in the same position in which they would have been if railroad employment had been included under social security coverage (45 U.S.C. 228E).

Under proposed legislation, 1966.—Proposed legislation will provide social insurance under the Social Security system for inpatient and outpatient hospital care, post-hospital extended care, and home health services to over 16½ million aged Americans financed by a joint employee-employer tax. Benefits to those not currently covered will be financed through a general fund payment to the system. Benefit payments begin on July 1, 1966, and thus expenditures in fiscal year 1966 represent the minimal amount required for tooling-up. Receipts of $600 million are estimated to result from the payroll contribution tax effective January 1, 1966, and will be used to insure the financial soundness of the program.

1. National Park Service, donations.—The Secretary of the Interior accepts and uses donated moneys for purposes of the National Park and Monument System (16 U.S.C. 6). Donations amounting to $817 thousand were received from 110 contributors during 1964. It is estimated that $750 thousand will be received during 1965 and 1966.

2. Advances from District of Columbia, National Park Service.—Construction of inner loop, Constitution Avenue to 14th Street NW., in accordance with three agencies agreement (District of Columbia, National Park Service, and the Bureau of Public Roads) of Nov. 20, 1962.

3. Preservation, birthplace of Abraham Lincoln.—This fund consists of an endowment given by the Lincoln Farm Association, and the interest thereon is available for preservation of the Abraham Lincoln Birthplace National Historic Site, Ky. (16 U.S.C. 211, 212). The amount of $2.5 thousand was appropriated in 1964.

4. National Park trust fund.—The National Park Trust Fund Board holds and administers gifts of personal property for the benefit of, or in connection with, the National Park Service. Interest accruals or donations to the fund are used for current needs, or invested in United States Treasury bonds (16 U.S.C. 6a, 19). The amount of $510 thousand was appropriated in 1964.

5. Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, contributions.—Pursuant to the act of May 17, 1954 (68 Stat. 98-100), as amended, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to construct upon the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial National Historic Site, St. Louis, Mo., an appropriate national memorial to those persons who made possible the territorial expansion of the United States. Contributions are accepted from the city of St. Louis or other non-Federal sources in the ratio of $1 to each $3 Federal appropriations.

1. Construction.—Various public and private utilities advance funds to provide facilities which are not provided by the Administration under its customer service policy. These facilities are of benefit to the Government as well as to the customers and serve to promote greater efficiency on the system, reduce loads on existing facilities, and improve service to customers. Also, non-Federal groups advance funds for relocating facilities of the Administration as required for highway construction and other purposes (50 Stat. 736).

Seized property in the United States, of the governments or nationals of Germany and Japan, vested in the name of the Attorney General, is prepared for liquidation as soon as practicable (50 U.S.C. App.). At June 30, 1964 there had been transferred to the War Claims Fund $304.2 million. An additional $10 million will be transferred in 1965 and it is anticipated that $110 million will be transferred in 1966. In 1964, a total of $1.8 million in claims and settlements was paid from such property operations and it is anticipated that $1 million will be paid in 1965 and $2 million in 1966. Furthermore, it is expected that $60 million will be paid in 1966 in settlement of litigation. Interest in vested property is estimated to be $179 million at June 30, 1965, increasing $85 million from 1964 and $29 million from 1963; however, this interest will decrease to $6 million in 1966.

Property in the United States of the governments or nationals of Bulgaria, Hungary, and Rumania, seized pursuant to Title II of the International Claims Settlement Act of 1949 (22 U.S.C. 1621), has been vested in the name of the Attorney General as has property seized from the governments and nationals of Germany and Japan. As of June 30, 1964, a total of $26.6 million had been vested and liquidated. Funds thus realized are earmarked for payment of war damages and nationalization claims assertable by United States nationals against Bulgaria, Hungary, and Rumania. A total of $24.9 million already has been covered into the Treasury.

The financial transactions of the Federal-State and Railroad unemployment insurance systems are made through the Unemployment trust fund. In the Federal-State system, benefit payments are made by each State, financed by special State payroll taxes. These tax receipts are deposited in the Unemployment trust fund and are invested in Government securities until needed for benefit payments. The expenses of State and Federal administration (including those of the Federal-State employment service), are paid from the fund out of revenue from the Federal unemployment tax, assessed on employers, of 0.4% of the first $3 thousand of wages.

Both the benefit payments and administrative expenses of the separate unemployment insurance program for railroad employees are paid from the Unemployment trust fund and receipts from the tax on wages of railroad employees are deposited in the fund to meet these expenses.

On June 30, 1964, the cash balance of $6,858,526 thousand was distributed as follows among the various accounts maintained in the fund (in thousands of dollars):

Railroad unemployment insurance account:

The trust funds consist of amounts received from employers for the death of an employee where no person is entitled to compensation for such death and for fines and penalty payments. In 1964 receipts were $12 thousand and interest was $22 thousand (33 U.S.C. 908; 31 U.S.C. 725; 33 U.S.C. 944).

Receipts are used to pay compensation in cases where judgment against employers cannot be satisfied by reason of insolvency or other circumstances precluding payment, to provide necessary medical, surgical and other treatment in disability cases where there has been default in furnishing such medical treatment by reason of the insolvency of the employers; for payment of additional compensation for second injuries resulting in permanent total disability and to provide maintenance for employees undergoing vocational rehabilitation. In addition, under the sub-activity, Administration of rehabilitation, provision is made for the costs of necessary rehabilitation services not otherwise available to disabled longshoremen and harbor workers.

The fund is maintained through (a) contributions by participants, including all Foreign Service officers and eligible Foreign Service staff officers and employees, of 6.5% of their basic annual salaries; (b) matching Government (employer) contributions from the appropriations from which salaries are paid; and (c) interest on investments (22 U.S.C. 1071).

It is estimated that approximately 1,412 annuitants will be paid retirement benefits from this fund at the end of 1966 compared with 1,163 at the end of 1964 and 1,285 at the end of 1965. Gratuities represent payments made to Foreign Service officers in classes 4, 5, 6 and 7 who are selected out of the Service.

While income still exceeds outgo, the long-range projections for this fund indicate that payments will exceed income in the near future and the Government will need to supplement its current practice of only matching employee deductions.

1. Foreign claims settlement.—The Foreign Claims Settlement Commission is authorized to adjudicate claims of American nationals against Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Italy, Mexico, Panama, Poland, Rumania, Soviet Union, and Yugoslavia. Upon certification by the Commission, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to make payments on awards.

2. Losses in melting gold.—Out of the receipts to be covered into the Treasury under section 7 of the Gold Reserve Act of 1934, an amount is made available sufficient to cover the difference between the value of gold as carried in the general account of the Treasurer of the United States and the value of such gold after melting and refining (48 Stat. 1061).

3. National defense conditional gifts.—The Secretary of the Treasury accepts on behalf of the United States, conditional gifts of money or other intangible property to be used for a particular defense purpose. Intangibles other than money, are converted at the best terms available. The moneys held in trust are paid to those appropriation accounts which best effectuate the intent of the donors (68 Stat. 566).

4. Payment of pre-1934 bonds of the Government of the Philippines.—This trust account provides for payment of principal and interest on outstanding bonds of the Philippines, provinces, cities, and municipalities issued prior to May 1, 1934, under authority of acts of Congress (22 U.S.C. 1393(g)(5)). The value of matured bonds payable by the Bank of the Philippines is $19 thousand as of June 30, 1964.

5. Payment of unclaimed moneys.—Payments are made to individuals who establish their right to moneys held in trust pending claims of owners.

6. Unclaimed moneys of individuals whose whereabouts are known.—Amounts are held in trust awaiting settlement of allowances of claims (31 U.S.C. 725).

7. Esther Cattell Schmitt gift fund.—Public Law 87-467 (76 Stat. 88) authorized the acceptance of the gift made to the United States by the will of Esther Cattell Schmitt. The income received from the gift to the United States is paid by the Secretary of the Treasury to beneficiaries named in provisions of the will.

Matured obligations of the District of Columbia.—Funds from inactive accounts are transferred to this account to meet matured obligations of the District of Columbia when and if presented (31 U.S.C. 725s). As of June 30, 1964, there was a balance of $8 thousand in the fund.

To promote the education of the blind.—The $250 thousand uninvested credit, on the books of the Treasury, is an unexpendable endowment fund established to promote the education of the blind in the United States. A permanent annual appropriation of $10 thousand being equivalent to 4% on the principal, is paid to the American Printing House for the Blind (20 U.S.C. 101).

² Repayment of borrowings or purchase of preferred stock from Treasury represent obligations and expenditures of this fund but do not decrease the authority available to the fund since they may be reborrowed from or resold to Treasury at some future time.

The secondary market operations of the Federal National Mortgage Association were authorized by the Housing Act of 1954 to provide limited liquidity for Government insured and guaranteed mortgages and to improve the distribution of investment capital available for home mortgage financing. Mortgage purchases and short-term loans secured by FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages under these operations are financed by the proceeds from (1) the sale of obligations to private investors, or to the Secretary of the Treasury (the Secretary of the Treasury may not at any one time hold more than $2.25 billion of such obligations), (2) subscriptions by the Secretary of the Treasury to FNMA preferred stock ($92.8 million was authorized in 1955, $50 million in 1957 and $65 million in 1958, making a total of $207.8 million), (3) mandatory contributions into capital incident to subscriptions for the Association's common stock by mortgage sellers and by borrowers, (4) the sale of mortgages to the investing public, (5) repayments and prepayments of mortgage principal, and (6) income from operations. Recommendations for such legislation as may be necessary or desirable to transfer ownership of the Association to the private holders of the common stock must be submitted to the Congress as promptly as practicable after all of the Treasury-held preferred stock has been retired. Meanwhile, the present interim program, financed by private as well as by Government investment funds, is treated as a trust fund. Operations are discussed in part I of this document in connection with the program's general fund financing and effect on budget expenditures.

This fund (72 Stat. 1154) was established in 1940 as the financing mechanism for World War II servicemen's and veterans' insurance program authorized by the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940. Over 22 million policies have been issued under this program. Because issuance of new policies ended in 1951 the insurance in force will continue to decline. The general decline in the activity of the fund is indicated in the following table (dollars in millions):

The status of the fund excluding noncash transactions is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Assets of the fund, which are largely invested in special Treasury interest-bearing securities and in policy loans, are expected to increase from $6,316 million as of June 30, 1964, to $6,711 million as of June 30, 1966. The actuarial estimate of policy obligations as of June 30, 1964, totals $6,259 million, leaving a balance of $57.3 million for contingency reserves.

The income of the fund derives from premium receipts, interest on investments, and payments which are made to the fund from the appropriation "Veterans insurance and indemnities," for claims (1) resulting from extra hazards of the veterans' service, and (2) arising on certain policies held by personnel on active duty. Administrative expenses are charged to the appropriation General operating expenses.

In order to bolster the economy, all dividends are being disbursed in January rather than being spread throughout the calendar year. The accelerated payment of dividends advanced $99 million of dividend expenditures into 1964 from 1965 and an estimated $94.5 million into 1965 from 1966.

The fund is operated on a commercial basis to the greatest possible extent consistent with law. In the program and financing statement, the noncash transactions, which are offset by other claims of the fund, are excluded from program costs in order to show obligations. The following business-type statements of revenue and expense and of financial condition include these noncash transactions relating to the status of insurance policy accounts.

This fund (72 Stat. 1161) was established in 1919 to receive premiums and pay claims on insurance issued under the provisions of the War Risk Insurance Act. The general decline in the activity of the fund is indicated in the following table (dollars in millions):

Assets of the fund, which are largely invested in interest-bearing securities and policy loans, are estimated to decline from $1,078 million as of June 30, 1964, to $1,032 million as of June 30, 1966, as an increasing number of policies mature through death or disability. The actuarial evaluation of policy obligations as of June 30, 1964, totals $1,042 million, leaving a balance of $36 million for contingency reserves.

The income of the fund derives from premium receipts, interest on investments, and payments which are made to the fund from the appropriation Veterans insurance and indemnities, for claims (a) resulting from the extra hazards of the veteran's service, and (b) arising on certain policies held by personnel on active military duty. Administrative expenses are charged to the appropriation General operating expenses.

In order to bolster the economy, all dividends are being disbursed in January rather than being spread throughout the calendar year. The accelerated payment of dividends advanced $7 million of expenditures into 1964 from 1965 and an estimated $6.5 million into 1965 from 1966.

The fund is operated on a commercial basis to the greatest possible extent consistent with law. In the program and financing statement, the noncash transactions, which are offset by other claims of the fund, are excluded from program costs in order to show the obligations. The following business-type statements of revenue and expense and of financial condition include these non-cash transactions relating to the status of insurance policy accounts.

This fund finances the payment of subscription charges to approved carriers of the costs of health benefits protection as provided by the Federal Employees Health Benefits Act of 1959 (Public Law 86-382, 5 U.S.C. 3006) together with expenses incurred by the Civil Service Commission in administration of the act.

Budget program.—The act provides that the employees health benefits fund will be available to pay for administrative expenses incurred by the Commission, within such limitation as may be specified by the Congress. Almost 2 million employees and approximately 160,850 annuitants are participating in this program. By the end of 1966 it is estimated that an additional 94,000 eligible employee and survivor annuitants will participate in the program. For 1966 it is estimated that $364.1 million will be deposited into the fund from amounts withheld from employees and annuitants and $157.6 million will be contributed by the Government. On the basis of these forecasts, $501.7 million will be paid from the fund in 1966 to approved health benefit plans. An amount equal to 3% of the contribution toward each plan is set aside in the fund to provide a contingency reserve for that plan. The contingency reserve can only be used to defray future increased rates, or to reduce contributions, or to provide increased benefits. Effective with the contract period beginning November 1, 1963, an amendment to the regulations provides for additional payments to experience rated carriers from the contingency reserve when the reserves held by the carrier are less than a stipulated amount and the plan's contingency reserve held by the fund exceeds one month's subscription charges. Community rated carriers may also receive additional payments from their plan's contingency reserve held by the fund, when properly justified. In 1964, $861 thousand was paid from the contingency reserve to qualified carriers and for 1965 approximately $6 million will be paid and an estimated $4.5 million will be paid in 1966. In addition, an amount equal to 1% of all contributions is set aside for administrative expenses incurred by the Commission in the administration of the act. Public Law 88-284, enacted March 17, 1964, provides that the Commission from time to time and in such amounts as it considers appropriate may transfer unused funds for administrative expenses to the contingency reserve of the plans under contract. To implement this provision $7.8 million was transferred from the administrative expense reserve to the contingency reserve in May 1964. During 1965 another $2.5 million will be available for transfer, and in 1966 slightly more than $2.5 million will become available.

Financing.—The fund will be financed by contributions from participants and the Government.

Operating results.—Earnings will be retained to meet the cost of administration and future benefits.

This fund finances the payment of group life insurance premiums to private insurance companies under the Federal Employees' Group Life Insurance Act of 1954 (5 U.S.C. 2091-2103) and any expenses incurred by the Civil Service Commission in administration of this act as annually authorized by Congress.

Budget program.—Through June 30, 1964, with respect to the basic insurance program, a total of $805.2 million was withheld from the salaries of covered employees and $402.6 million was contributed by the Government to the fund. It is estimated that in 1966, $113 million will be paid into the fund by employees and $56.5 million by the Government. As of June 30, 1964, a total of $787 million had been paid by the insurer in benefits. It is estimated that over $145 million in benefits will be paid in 1966.

Most of the difference between receipts and benefit payments under the policy is placed in reserves. On June 30, 1964, the end of the last completed policy year, there were total reserves of $447 million of which $100 million was held as a special contingency reserve by the insurer at interest, and $347 million was held by the fund with the Treasury of the United States. The contingency reserve is now limited to a level of $100 million, and all amounts above this figure periodically are returned and deposited in the Treasury of the United States to be invested.

A summary statement of the operations of the contingency reserve for the three most recent policy years, 1962 through 1964, and the total at the end of the 10th policy year follows:

STATEMENT OF ANNUAL ACCOUNTING AND CONTINGENCY RESERVE

8. Contingency reserve held by in- surer at end of year.....	100,000	100,000	100,000	100,000

¹ The refunds from the contingency reserve were made as follows: $18 million, Dec. 26, 1963; $14 million, July 1, 1964; $15,690, Aug. 6, 1964.

Through June 30, 1964, individuals whose beneficial life insurance agreements have been assumed by the fund paid $22.8 million into the fund. It is estimated that in 1966 about $3 million will be paid into the fund by this group. Former members of beneficial associations continue to pay premiums according to the rate schedules in effect at the time their life insurance agreements were assumed by the fund, but the Government makes no current contributions to the fund for these individuals as it does for employees covered under the regular program.

A contingency reserve has been established and held by the insurer at interest under the policy covering members of beneficial associations. This reserve, which was estimated to be $5 million on June 30, 1964, will accumulate interest consistent with that provided under the regular program. If the Commission determines that the contingency reserve under the beneficial association program has reached a level sufficient to meet adverse fluctuation in future charges, any amounts above this level will be returned to the fund.

Financing.—Premium costs are met by withholding from the salaries of employees 25 cents biweekly for each $1 thousand of life insurance, contributions by the Government, and direct premium payments from beneficial association members.

Operating results.—Earnings are retained to meet the cost of future benefits.

This fund established in accordance with the Retired Federal Employees' Health Benefits Act (Public Law 86-724, 5 U.S.C. 3053) finances (1) the payment of subscription charges to an approved carrier for those qualified retired employees and survivors who enroll in the Government-sponsored uniform health benefits plan; (2) the contribution to qualified retired employees and survivors who retain or purchase private health insurance; and (3) the payment of expenses incurred by the Civil Service Commission in the administration of the act.

Budget program.—The act authorized the Commission to use money from the Employees life insurance fund, without regard to limitation on expenditures from that fund, through the fiscal year ending June 30, 1962, for administrative expenses. For 1963 and 1964, however, Congress provided a dollar limitation for the Commission's administrative expenses rather than the 2% limitation of Government contributions as set forth in section 4(b) and section 6(c) of the act. For 1965 and 1966 a dollar limitation is again being requested because the cost of administrative expenses required is expected to exceed the amount of funds that would be provided under the 2% limitation in the act. The estimate of administrative expenses for 1966 is based on anticipated needs. During 1966 an estimated $12.9 million will be paid into the fund by participating retired employees and survivors and $14.2 million by the Government. It is estimated that $20.2 million in subscription charges will be paid to the carrier of the Government-sponsored plan, and $6.6 million to annuitants for their private health insurance plans in 1966.

Financing.—The fund will be financed by contributions from those participants enrolled in the Government-sponsored plan and by Government contributions for 1966.

Operating results.—There will be an estimated $487 thousand surplus in the fund at the end of 1966 as compared with an estimated $388 thousand in 1965. This is primarily interest earned on investments, which were held during the years 1962 through 1966, but liquidated periodically to meet obligations.

The War claims fund consists of funds transferred by the Office of Alien Property, Department of Justice, from the net proceeds derived from the liquidation of former German and Japanese assets vested pursuant to the Trading With the Enemy Act. These funds are used largely to pay claims authorized under the General War Claims Act (Public Law 87-846).

The National Capital Housing Authority operates the low-rent public housing program in the District of Columbia under the authority of the Housing Act of 1937 and title II of the District of Columbia Alley Dwelling Act (48 Stat. 930). The 1966 program consists of the operation of 9,182 dwelling units and the development of 1,898 additional units. Management and development operations are financed through rental income, loans, and annual contributions. There is no debt service on Federal projects conveyed to the Authority for low rent use; all other projects are permanently financed through the sale of Housing Authority bonds which are supported by the pledge of the Public Housing Administration to pay annual contributions equal to the debt service less any excess operating receipts over operating expense.

Under the railroad retirement system, workers and employers pay taxes on wages to finance benefits which will be payable when the worker retires, becomes disabled, or dies. These taxes are deposited in this trust fund and invested in Government securities bearing interest of at least 3%.

Income.—The income of the Railroad retirement account consists of taxes paid by railroad employers and employees; interest on investments; appropriations for military service credits; repayments on amounts loaned to the Railroad unemployment insurance account; payments from the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund and Federal disability insurance trust fund. The railroad retirement system has reinsurance arrangement of annual financial interchanges with the social security system so as to place these systems in the same position in which they would have been if railroad employment had been included in social security coverage.

Retirement, disability, and survivor benefit payments.—Payment estimates reflect the continuing growth in the beneficiary rolls.

Administrative expenses.—Such expenses are subject to annual limitations in appropriation acts (see Limitation on salaries and expenses, Railroad Retirement Board in part II of the budget).

Loan to Railroad unemployment insurance account.—The Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act provides that when the balance in the Railroad unemployment insurance account is insufficient to pay benefits due under that act, necessary amounts are to be borrowed from the Railroad retirement account. When the balance in the Railroad unemployment insurance account permits, borrowed amounts are to be repaid to the Railroad retirement account with interest.

Under proposed legislation, 1966.—Proposed legislation will include the Railroad Retirement system in the changes being proposed for the Social Security system. Coverage of all aged railroad beneficiaries under the hospital insurance, and selected increases in benefits will be financed through increases in the tax rate and wage base. 1966 receipts to the Retirement Account will be higher due to these increases. Expenditures in 1966 relate to selected increase on benefits since hospital benefits begin on July 1, 1966.

The Board administers an unemployment and sickness insurance system and an employment service for unemployed railroad workers. The administrative expenses are financed through a permanent authorization of 0.25% of taxable payroll. As of each June 30, the unobligated balance in this fund in excess of $6 million is transferred to the Railroad unemployment insurance account in the unemployment trust fund (45 U.S.C. 361).

1. Maintenance of earnings accounts.—Insurance payments for unemployment, sickness, and maternity benefits are based on individual records of earnings and daily wage rates and the workload fluctuates according to such factors as level of employment and rate of turnover in the railroad industry. The costs are shared on a measured basis with the retirement program. Accounts posted were 990,000 in 1964 and are estimated at 970,000 and 960,000 in 1965 and 1966.

2. Processing of unemployment insurance claims.—Workers' claims for unemployment compensation are filed locally and certified for payment through the headquarters offices. Regular unemployment claims were 1,188,000 in 1964 and are estimated to be 1,100,000 in 1965 and 1,000,000 in 1966.

3. Processing of sickness and maternity claims.—These claims are filed by mail and certified for payment through the headquarters offices of the Board. Sickness claims were 727,000 in 1964 and are estimated to be 718,000 in 1965 and 710,000 in 1966.

4. Claimant placement services.—The Board conducts an employment service for unemployment benefit claimants. This resulted in savings of benefit payments of approximately $5.1 million in 1964 as 25,900 placements were made. Placements are estimated at 30,000 in 1965 and 1966.

5. Administration.—The costs of administration are shared between this and the retirement program on a measured basis.

This fund, established under 26 U.S.C. 7448, is used to pay eligible widows and dependent children of deceased judges of the Tax Court of the United States. Participating judges pay into the fund 3% of their salaries or retired pay to cover creditable service for which payment is required and such additional funds as are needed are provided through the annual appropriation to the Tax Court of the United States.

On June 30, 1964, eight judges of the court were participating in the fund, and two eligible widows were receiving annuity payments.

PERSONNEL COMPENSATION SCHEDULES

EXPLANATION OF PERSONNEL COMPENSATION SCHEDULES

Part III contains detailed schedules on personnel compensation which are furnished to the Congress pursuant to section 204 of the Budget and Accounting Act, 1921, as amended (31 U.S.C. 581). The schedules show data for (a) permanent positions, (b) positions other than permanent, (c) special personal service payments, and (d) other personnel compensation.

The sections on permanent positions relate to full-time employment in positions established for an indefinite duration and any others occupied for a year or more. For the position figures, any position is counted if it is occupied or will be occupied at any time during the year. A position which is reassigned or reallocated is shown only once for a particular year—at the grade and rate prevailing at the end of the year. The number of positions shown nearly always exceeds the maximum number of employees at one time due to delays in filling vacancies, leave without pay, and similar factors.

Grades and their respective salary ranges are reflected in the stub column; the most commonly used grade series, the general schedule grades, is abbreviated "GS-..." Titles are shown for positions with a base rate of $14,170 or above. Salaries are reported at the rate effective at the end of the year.

Because most annual salaries are by law the rate for 52 weeks, an additional entry covers the extra earnings whenever there are regular workdays above the 52-week base. For employees with a Monday-through-Friday workweek there were 2 extra days in 1964, and there is 1 each in 1965 and 1966. The entry for "pay above the stated annual rate" covers not only the extra compensable days but also the slight difference occurring when the annual rates are translated into biweekly or other pay periods.

Since within-grade salary advancements occur at various times during the year, the rates shown will not be exactly equal to the compensation earned, but the difference is taken up in the "Lapses" line. That line also covers savings due to vacancies, etc., and is offset in part by terminal leave payments.

The pay scales which became effective for many employees in January 1964 are used in the 1964 column, with a special deduct entry to account for the savings because pay was at the older, lesser rates for the first 6 months of the year. The current pay scales, which became effective early in July 1964, are used in the 1965 and 1966 columns.

Compensation for "positions other than permanent" distinguishes obligations for full-time temporary positions, for part-time positions (of any duration), and for intermittent positions.

Special personal service payments include compensation to persons who are not considered to be Federal employees, such as casual workers, prison inmates, etc.; payments to other agencies for reimbursable details; and, in certain accounts, an adjustment for the difference between leave earned and leave taken.

"Other personnel compensation" covers overtime, holiday pay, night work differential, post differentials, extra flight pay, etc.

The final amounts in these schedules agree with corresponding entries in the object schedules of parts I and II. In cases where a consolidated schedule in part III contains personnel compensation which is reflected in two or more object schedules, a distribution by account title follows the total line.

The schedules in this part of the appendix, like the object schedules of parts I and II generally, exclude estimates which are proposed for later transmittal, other than 1965 amounts required to meet costs of civilian and military pay increases. Such exclusions relate to a number of items of proposed legislation affecting 1966 and occasionally 1965, a number of supplemental estimates which are presently forecast under existing legislation, and the use of such amounts as are currently estimated in the special allowances (for contingencies, etc.).

PART IV

ANNEXED BUDGETS

EXPLANATION OF ANNEXED BUDGETS

Part IV, presenting detailed schedules and explanatory statements on seven self-supporting Government agencies and programs which are outside the normal budget process is included for the second consecutive year. Like the budgets for the legislative branch and the judiciary, the annexed budgets have not been reviewed by the President but are included in the amounts submitted by the agencies (except for one case where Bureau of the Budget estimates are used because no agency estimates were submitted).

Three agencies (Banks for Cooperatives, Federal Intermediate Credit Banks, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation) have been included in the Government-sponsored enterprise group in the computation of consolidated cash totals for some years, and the net totals for each have been displayed. However, data were reported only for certain debt and investment transactions, rather than for all of their activities, and the information was obtained informally. The inclusion of more complete annexed budgets does not change their handling in the totals.

The other four agencies and programs (Milk Marketing Administration, Comptroller of the Currency, Exchange Stabilization Fund, and the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System) are also not included in the administrative budget, and are included only in part in the deposit fund group within the trust fund totals. In part they are outside all traditional figures on Federal finances.

The material in this part is presented in the general format of similar material for public enterprise funds in part I. No appropriation language appears in part IV because action by the Congress is not required.

The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended—under certain conditions—to issue Federal milk marketing orders establishing minimum prices which handlers are required to pay for milk purchased from producers.

Market administrators are responsible for carrying out locally the terms of specific marketing orders. Their operating expenses, partly financed by assessments on regulated handlers and partly by fees collected from producers, are reported in these schedules. These funds are collected locally, deposited in local banks and disbursed directly by the market administrator.

Each milk order is administered locally by a market administrator who is appointed by the Secretary. There were 39 milk market administrators serving the 82 milk market orders as of July 1, 1964.

Each month each local office computes and announces class and uniform blend prices, and associated butterfat differentials. Handlers' records and facilities are examined to verify their reports and payments to producers, and weights and tests of producers milk are verified.

The expenses of each local office are met from an administrative fund and a marketing service fund which are prescribed in each order. The administrative fund is derived from prorated handler assessments. The marketing service fund of the individual order provides for the expense of disseminating market information to producers who are not members of a qualified cooperative. It also provides for the verification of the weights, sampling and testing of milk from these producers. The cost of these services is borne by such producers. The maximum rates for administrative assessment and for marketing services are set forth in each order. Adjustments below these rates are made from time to time upon recommendations by the market administrator and approval of the Agricultural Marketing Service. Rates are maintained at a level sufficient to provide reserves at about a 6-month operating level. Upon termination of any order the statute provides for distributing the proceeds from net assets pro rata to contributing handlers or producers.

The following table gives an indication of the growing role of Federal orders on the marketing of milk over the past few years.

The Agricultural Marketing Service has been delegated the responsibility for program development, technical assistance and overall program direction of the operations. Its costs of carrying out these responsibilities are financed, as authorized by 7 U.S.C. 1392b, from the funds appropriated by section 32 of the act of August 24, 1935 (7 U.S.C. 612c), and are reflected in part I of the appendix but not shown here.

The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency was created by act of Congress approved February 25, 1863 (12 Stat. 665), as an integral part of the national banking system. The Office finances its operations primarily by assessments from national banks.

The most important functions of the Comptroller of the Currency relate to the organization, examination, and liquidation of national banks. His approval is required by law in connection with the organization of new national banks, the conversion of State-chartered banks into national banks, and consolidations or mergers of national banks with national banks or of State banks with national banks where the continuing institution is a national bank. The establishment of branches by national banks also requires approval by the Comptroller.

The Office exercises general supervision over the operations of national banks. Each national bank is required to publish and file reports of condition not less than four times a year. National bank examiners examine each bank at least three times each 2 years for the purpose of determining the financial condition of national banks, the soundness of their operations, and their compliance with the requirements of the National Bank Act and other applicable statutes.

The estimates for calendar years 1964 and 1965 for costs and personnel have been prepared by the Bureau of the Budget.

For the purpose of stabilizing the exchange value of the dollar, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to enter into stabilization agreements, and to deal in gold and foreign exchange and other instruments of credit and securities. An exchange stabilization fund, with a capital of $200 million (derived from the increment resulting from the reduction in the weight of the gold dollar which took place in 1934) is authorized by law for this purpose (31 U.S.C. 822a). All earnings and interest accruing are paid into this fund and are available for the purposes thereof, including expenses.

The principal sources of the Fund's income have been the handling charge imposed on purchases and sales of gold for the account of the Fund, profits on foreign exchange transactions, and interest on investments held by the Fund. The income of the Fund has consistently exceeded its expenses; the cumulative income of the Fund from the time it began operations has been $192.6 million and its expenses $37.3 million, resulting in a net income through June 30, 1964, of $155.2 million.

Liabilities of the Fund include a $250 million borrowing by the Secretary from the International Monetary Fund.

The Federal Reserve System operates under the provisions of the act of December 23, 1913, known as the Federal Reserve Act (38 Stat. 251), as amended.

Program.—To carry out its responsibilities under the act, the Board determines general monetary, credit, and operating policies for the System as a whole and formulates the rules and regulations necessary to carry out the purposes of the Federal Reserve Act. The Board's principal duties consist of exerting an influence over credit conditions and supervising the Federal Reserve Banks and member banks.

Financing.—Under the provisions of section 10 of the Federal Reserve Act, the Board of Governors levies upon the Federal Reserve banks, in proportion to their capital and surplus, an assessment sufficient to pay its estimated expenses. The Board, under the act, determines and prescribes the manner in which its obligations are incurred and its expenses paid. Funds derived from the assessments are deposited in the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, and the act provides that such funds "shall not be construed to be Government funds or appropriated moneys." No Government appropriation is required to support operations of the Board.

The banks for cooperatives, of which there are 13, are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. They finance the operations of farmers' cooperatives. During 1964, the banks extended credit totaling $1,061 million. The funds to finance these loans are obtained from (1) sales of debentures to the public, (2) notes payable, and (3) their own capital. The debentures which the banks issue are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest. The banks' capital funds consist of capital stock owned by the U.S. Government, equities of borrowing cooperatives and retained earnings.

The Farm Credit Act of 1955 provides for eventual ownership of the banks by farmers' cooperatives and the retirement of the U.S. Government's investment. At the time the 1955 act was passed the U.S. Government had an investment in the banks of $150 million. By June 30, 1964, this investment had been reduced to $67 million while the equities of borrowing cooperatives had reached nearly $114 million. It is expected that additional repayments of Government capital of $13,500 thousand and $14 million will be made in 1965 and 1966, respectively.

All expenses, including administrative costs, are paid from the banks' own resources and thus in no way do they affect the Budget of the United States.

The Federal intermediate credit banks, of which there are 12, are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. They serve as banks of discount for agriculture, discounting agricultural and livestock paper for local financing institutions, such as production credit associations, agricultural credit corporations, livestock loan companies, and commercial banks. They also provide the production credit associations with necessary supervision and services. During the fiscal year 1964, the banks extended credit totaling $4.7 billion.

The banks' lending funds are obtained primarily from the sale of debentures to the public and from their own capital funds. The debentures are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest.

The banks were originally wholly-owned Government corporations set up exclusively as banks of discount; however, pursuant to the Farm Credit Act of 1956, the banks became mixed-ownership corporations and were made responsible for supervising the production credit associations and assisting them to make sound credit available to farmers.

All of the capital stock of the Federal intermediate credit banks from organization in 1923 to December 31, 1956, was held by the U.S. Government. The 1956 act provided a long-range plan for the eventual ownership of the credit banks by the production credit associations and the gradual retirement of the Government's investment in the banks. However, because of the increased credit demands placed upon the Federal intermediate credit banks, it has been necessary for the Government to invest additional capital in the banks in order to keep the debt-to-capital ratios within the 10 to 1 maximum permitted by law. At June 30, 1964, the U.S. Government's investment in the capital stock of the banks was $120 million and that of private interests was $60 million.

All expenses, including administrative costs, are paid from the banks' own resources and thus in no way affect the Budget of the United States.

The Farm Credit Administration expects to transmit to Congress in January 1965 proposed legislation which, among other things, will broaden the legal maximum debt-to-capital ratios of the banks. Assuming no drastic changes in agricultural conditions, enactment of this legislation will make it unnecessary for the banks to draw on the Short-Term Credit Investment Fund for additional purchases of their capital stock after 1965. The estimates for 1966 were prepared on this basis.

In order to protect depositors in insured banks, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation is authorized to insure such depositors in the maximum amount of $10 thousand; to examine all insured banks not members of the Federal Reserve System and, in certain situations for insurance purposes, to examine national and State chartered banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System; to participate in the regulation of mergers involving insured banks; and to promulgate and enforce rules and regulations relating to the supervision of insured banks, the withdrawal of deposit insurance, and other regulatory and supervisory matters consistent with its responsibility as insurer.

The income of the Corporation is derived principally from insurance assessments paid by insured banks and interest on investments in U.S. Government securities. No funds derived from taxes or Federal appropriations are allocated to or used by the Corporation. There is no capital stock outstanding. The Corporation is authorized to borrow from the United States Treasury and the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to loan to the Corporation, on such terms as may be fixed by the Corporation and the Secretary, not to exceed $3 billion outstanding when, in the judgment of the Board of Directors of the Corporation, such funds are required for insurance purposes (see schedule in part I of the appendix). No borrowings under this authorization have been made to date and none are anticipated in 1965 or 1966.

The deposit insurance fund, representing the accumulated net income of the Corporation, is reserved for the payment of insured deposits and for the payment of its operating and insurance expenses. The estimates shown for 1965 and 1966 in these statements make no provision for losses or expenses which might be incurred by reason of the closing of any bank after Sept. 30, 1964 (the date on which these reports were prepared) because there is no basis for predicting which, if any, insured banks will close in the future.
