This appropriation finances operation and maintenance of existing projects and other related activities.

1. Navigation projects.—In 1967 operation and maintenance will be carried out on 218 channel and harbor projects and on 29 locks, dams, and canals.

2. Flood control projects.—In 1967, 168 flood control reservoirs and 19 local flood protection projects will be operated and maintained. Other completed flood control projects will be inspected to determine the adequacy of maintenance by local interests.

3. Multiple-purpose projects including power.—By the end of 1967, 48 multiple-purpose projects with an installed capacity of 9,570,400 kilowatts will be operated and maintained.

4. Protection of navigation.—Under laws for the protection and preservation of navigable waters, regulations are established and permits are granted for activities and structures affecting navigable waters.

5. Niagara remedial works.—Costs of operating and maintaining works to preserve and enhance the scenic beauty of Niagara Falls are divided equally between the United States and Canada.

The Corps of Engineers—Civil is responsible for the flood control program for the lower Mississippi Valley from Cape Girardeau, Mo., to the Gulf of Mexico, including the main alluvial stream, the basins of the St. Francis and White, lower Arkansas, Yazoo, Tensas, and Atchafalaya Rivers, and Bayou Lafourche, and the alluvial lands around Lake Pontchartrain. The adopted plan calls for raising and strengthening about 1,600 miles of existing levees along the main river, for enlarging or constructing some 1,700 miles of levees on tributaries and in side basins, for channel improvement by bank stabilization from Head of Passes, La., to Cairo, Ill., and by dredging a navigation channel 12 feet deep and 300 feet wide from Baton Rouge, La., to Cairo, Ill., and for five flood-detention reservoirs on minor tributaries.

1. General investigations.—Six studies will be continued and two will be initiated. Basic data subsequently used in planning and designing projects are collected.

3. Construction.—The total cost of flood control and related improvements in the lower Mississippi River and its alluvial valley is estimated at $2,326 million, of which $1,427 million has been appropriated through 1966. The funds requested will be applied to continuation of 10 features.

4. Maintenance.—Provision is made for operation and maintenance of major features of the project.

The fund provides for the acquisition, operation, and maintenance of floating and land-based plant and equipment used in civil works functions; for temporary financing of services finally chargeable to civil works appropriations and for the furnishing of facilities and services for the military functions of the Department of the Army and other governmental agencies and private persons (67 Stat. 199).

Budget program—Operating costs.—Operating costs are expected to remain at about the same level in 1966 and 1967.

Capital outlay.—Land and structures includes replacement costs of buildings, facilities, and related land. Dredges and other floating plant includes replacement and improvement costs for dredges and dredging equipment and other vessels such as tugs, tenders, and towboats. Land-based equipment includes replacement and improvement cost of transportation equipment, construction equipment and fixed land equipment such as shop tools and fixed power driven equipment. Major items for replacement and plant expansion are noted in the following narrative.

Land and structures.—The 1967 program includes $0.3 million to initiate replacement of the South Atlantic Division laboratory in Marietta, Ga.; $0.8 million to continue replacement of the Waterways Experiment Station concrete laboratory in Vicksburg, Miss.; $0.9 million to continue replacement of the shop and yard facilities in Vicksburg, Miss.; $0.5 million for construction of facilities for the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors and the Coastal Engineering Research Center; $15 thousand for a study to determine the necessity for providing a laboratory facility for the North Atlantic Division.

Dredges.—The 1967 program includes: $4.8 million to complete construction of the hopper dredge McFarland; $1.4 million for rehabilitation of pipeline dredges Wahkiakum and St. Genevieve; $1.0 million for completion of design and initiation of construction for an east coast hopper dredge.

Other.—Remaining capital outlays relate to a variety of relatively small pieces of floating plant, land-based equipment and tools, office furniture and equipment.

Financing.—Reimbursements or advances from appropriations or individuals utilizing the services or facilities cover all operating costs and the capital outlay program reflected in the revolving fund schedules. Sales prices include an extra charge to help fund replacement of fixed assets at higher prices than original cost. Sums so obtained are applied to replacements as needed.

Operating results and financial condition.—Unreserved earnings in 1965 were $2.9 million more than expenses, thereby increasing these earnings to $3.3 million. Unreserved earnings are expected to decrease to about $2.7 million in 1966 and to $2.2 million in 1967.

Initial capital of the fund was provided by assumption of the assets, liabilities, and obligations of the plant accounts as carried on the records of the Corps of Engineers—Civil, at June 30, 1953, and by an appropriation from the general fund of $100. Capital (Government equity) of the fund amounted to $134.5 million at June 30, 1965, and is limited to $145 million by the Public Works Appropriation Act of 1966. In 1965 capital was increased by net earnings of $10.7 million and was decreased $2 million due to net transfers of assets to other agencies without reimbursement. Increases in 1966 and 1967 are principally due to earnings reserved for plant replacement. Since these increases are expected to raise total capital above the $145 million level, an increase in authorized capital is proposed.

Consolidated summary of personnel.—The revolving fund is used to initially finance all payrolls of the Corps of Engineers—Civil.

The table which follows shows the distribution of personnel and salary costs to appropriations of the Corps of Engineers and to other accounts. Direct obligations cover services of employees working full time at project sites. Indirect obligations cover personnel charges for services provided through the revolving fund.

This appropriation supports the objective of the act of July 12, 1960, as amended, to provide for the promotion of economic and social development in the Ryukyu Islands, and finances the administration of these islands by the United States, which exercises jurisdiction pursuant to the treaty of peace with Japan. Executive Order 10713 of June 5, 1957, as amended, establishes under the Secretary of Defense a Civil Administration of the Ryukyu Islands to execute the administrative, legislative, and jurisdictional powers reposed in the United States. To protect the security of the free world, the United States will continue responsibility for the administration of the Ryukyu Islands as long as conditions of threat and tension in the Far East require the maintenance of military bases in the islands.

Administration.—The program will provide for the general operating expenses of the Office of the High Commissioner and for the staff necessary to plan and execute the aid program and to assist the Government of the Ryukyu Islands in its responsibilities for administration.

Aid to the Ryukyuan economy.—The principal elements of the program are summarized in the following table (in thousands of dollars). The amounts under "1967 proposal" represent an anticipated request for 1967, under proposed legislation to increase the amount authorized by the act of July 12, 1960, as amended, to be appropriated for economic assistance.

Income from operations is derived primarily from the net earnings of the corporations, from the purchase and resale of petroleum products, from interest and from dividends.

The earnings of the development loan, electric power, and water corporations, are reinvested within the respective corporations each year. Receipts from the sale of petroleum products are distributed in part directly to the Government of the Ryukyu Islands, in lieu of taxes which might normally be expected from such sales, and are retained in part for contributions to social and economic development programs for the islands. A cash balance is retained in the fund to meet emergency requirements.

A major program for the development of increased water supplies and construction of expanded storage and distribution facilities was begun by the Ryukyu Domestic Water Corporation in 1963 at a total cost estimated to be $22.5 million. For this purpose, $6 million was contributed under this appropriation during 1964 and 1965 to the capital of the corporation. In addition, $7.5 million was contributed from the General Fund in 1964 and 1965, and it is planned to contribute $4.0 million in 1966 and an additional $1.2 million in 1967.

Additional economic aid is furnished by the United States through other programs. One of these is the free distribution of foodstuffs under the Food for Peace program. A second is the provision of long term credit for purchase of surplus commodities under the same program.

The total amount of external funds being made available for Ryukyuan economic and social development by the United States and Japan is summarized in the following table (in thousands of dollars):

The Government of the Ryukyu Islands was created by the U.S. Civil Administration on April 1, 1952, and its continuation was confirmed by Executive Order 10713, as amended. In addition to local revenue derived primarily from income and excise taxes, this Government receives grants from the United States Government and the Government of Japan. Grants from the United States are related to extraordinary services provided for U.S. forces and for assistance in development of public facilities and services. A statement of its accounts follows:

This appropriation provides for those functions in the Canal Zone which, in the United States, would be performed by State and local governments and civilian departments of the Federal Government, and for the operation of hospitals and clinics. All operating expenses, including depreciation and other nonfund expense, are recovered and paid into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts. Such recoveries are derived from individuals and agencies served and from the Panama Canal Company as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Repayments to Treasury (including depreciation):	1965 actual	1966 estimate	1967 estimate

(c) Police protection.—This includes the usual police functions of preservation of the peace and enforcement of the law in the Canal Zone (not including military reservations), operation of prisons, and police guards for certain facilities.

(d) Fire protection.—All firefighting facilities in the Canal Zone except those required for aircraft crash fires and fires aboard naval vessels and ammunition depots are consolidated under the Canal Zone Government.

(e) Judicial system.—This includes the operation of two magistrate courts and the expenses of the district court (exclusive of salaries) which serves as both a State and Federal court.

(f) Education.—This provides for the operation of schools, kindergarten through college, for the dependents of Canal Zone residents, the dependents of U.S. citizen Government employees residing in the Republic of Panama, and, on a space available basis, certain other residents of the Republic of Panama. There are two school systems; one for U.S. citizens, the other, which is conducted in the Spanish language, for Panamanians and other non-U.S. citizens. There also are specialized facilities for handicapped children.

(g) Public areas and facilities.—This includes the cleaning, lighting, and maintenance of streets and highways; maintenance of sewers, and care of public areas within the Canal Zone, not including military reservations. Also included are the operation and maintenance of recreational facilities.

(h) Library.—This provides for the operation of public library facilities for residents of the Canal Zone and technical reference services for Government agencies.

(i) Internal security.—This provides for loyalty investigations and related intelligence services for the Government and the Company.

(j) Other civil affairs.—This includes licensing, civil defense activities, and supervision of the civil functions program.

2. Health and sanitation—(a) Hospitals and clinics.—Two general medical and surgical hospitals, with outpatient clinics, are maintained and operated to furnish medical care to eligible civilian and military personnel. A neuropsychiatric and domiciliary hospital and a leprosarium also are operated and maintained.

(b) Other public health services.—This provides for communitywide public health services, sanitation and quarantine work in the Canal Zone and for ships calling at its ports and transiting the Canal; inspection of food processing establishments, and facilities for animal care and quarantine.

3. General Government expense—(a) Office of the Governor.—This provides for the executive direction of all Canal Zone Government activities and includes the expenses of the office of the Governor and his residence, the office of the Executive Secretary, and provision for certain contingencies.

(b) Other general Government expense.—This includes the Canal Zone Government's share of the cost of general and administrative services provided by the Panama Canal Company which the Canal Zone Government is without staff or facilities to perform or furnish; expenses of recruitment and repatriation, employees' home leave travel costs, aid to indigents, a social work program, and other general charges.

Unfunded adjustments to total operating costs.—This includes depreciation expense on facilities and equipment acquired under the capital outlay appropriation. Other nonfund costs include the undepreciated balance of such facilities and equipment which are retired, retirement expense and other minor amounts chargeable to current operations which were originally funded by the capital outlay appropriation.

A $750 thousand supplemental appropriation enacted in 1958 and an appropriation of $19,250 thousand enacted in 1959 provided $20 million for constructing a high-level bridge across the Panama Canal at Balboa, Canal Zone, as authorized and directed by the act of July 23, 1956 (ch. 665, 70 Stat. 596). The bridge was inaugurated October 12, 1962, thereby fulfilling the U.S. commitment to the Republic of Panama under the terms of point 4 of the General Relations Agreement between the United States and Panama of May 18, 1942 (Executive Agreement Series 452), and of item 5 of the Memorandum of Understandings Reached, signed January 25, 1955. It is anticipated that the total cost will not exceed $19,050 thousand. Excess funds in the amount of $850 thousand were returned to the Treasury at June 30, 1965, and an additional $100 thousand is programmed to lapse in 1966.

The Panama Canal Company is a wholly owned Government corporation for the primary purpose of maintaining and operating the interoceanic canal at the Isthmus of Panama, and other necessary supporting operations.

The administration of the Company is integrated with that of the Canal Zone Government, an independent agency initially financed by appropriations. The Governor of the Canal Zone is ex officio president of the Company. The Company is expected to be self-sustaining and is required to reimburse the U.S. Treasury for the net cost of the Canal Zone Government, the cost of interest on the net direct investment of the United States in the Company, and for annuity payments made by the United States to the Republic of Panama pursuant to the treaty of 1903 as amended in 1936.

Budget program—1. Transit operations.—The services performed by this activity are (in thousands of dollars):

Maintenance of channels and harbors.....	5,689	5,109	5,893

Capital outlay costs for 1967 are estimated at $491 thousand principally for the replacement and addition of equipment.

3. General corporate expense.—This includes payments to the Treasury for the net cost of Canal Zone Government and interest expense payable to U.S. Treasury, general and administrative expenses under statutory limitation, and other general corporate expenses not under limitation.

Financing.—The Company is authorized to obtain appropriations for its capital needs and to cover losses sustained in the conduct of its activities. In addition, under Public Law 86-200 (73 Stat. 428), the Company may borrow from the Treasury, at interest, amounts not exceeding $10 million outstanding at any time. While the latter authorization is utilized to backstop the Company's objectives, no cash withdrawals against it are planned during 1966 or 1967. The unobligated balance is estimated at $1,611 thousand on June 30, 1967.

Operating results and financial condition.—There will be an increase in retained earnings in 1966 estimated at $4,304 thousand and a further increase in 1967 estimated at $4,710 thousand, wholly representing net operating income for those years.

Note.—Contingent and other liabilities: The Company has outstanding, at all times, contingent and continuing liabilities in indeterminable amounts arising principally from monthly relief payments payable to retired alien employees; benefits payable under provisions of the Federal Employees Compensation Act; commitments for construction work, supplies and services; and pending suits and claims.

The annuity payments to be made to retired alien employees in 1966 are estimated at $1.5 million. Commitments under uncompleted construction contracts and unfilled purchase orders amounted to $5.0 million at June 30, 1965. The maximum liability which could result from outstanding claims and lawsuits is estimated to be $2.3 million.

The United States Soldiers' Home provides medical and domiciliary care and other authorized benefits for the relief and support of certain old, invalid, or disabled soldiers of the Regular Army and airmen of the Air Force. Funds for operation and maintenance of the Home are appropriated from the Soldiers' Home permanent fund (trust fund) and not from the general funds of the Treasury.

The laws enforced by the Food and Drug Administration are designed to protect the public against adulterated and misbranded foods, drugs, and cosmetics, therapeutic devices, household products containing hazardous substances, and the harmful social effects resulting from abuse of drugs that affect the central nervous system.

1. Medical evaluation.—Medical policy is developed and promulgated with respect to efficacy and safety of drugs and devices for man and animals. Advice is furnished the Commissioner concerning the health effects of toxic substances found in foods, drugs, cosmetics, and household substances. New drug applications for human and veterinary drugs and claims for investigational drugs are evaluated; an adverse drug reaction reporting program and clinical studies of drugs and devices are conducted; and medical aspects of FDA's inspectional and investigational programs and court cases are developed.

2. Research.—Broad and long-range research is conducted concerning foods, drugs, pesticides, and cosmetics and related hazardous substances. The research programs include fundamental research concerning the effects and interrelationships of substances occurring in the products that FDA regulates and experimentation to find new and better methods of detecting and identifying harmful and insanitary substances to add to the cumulative knowledge concerning man and the products he consumes.

3. Scientific evaluation.—Regulations are developed and promulgated for pesticide tolerances and exemptions, food additives, color additives, and food standards. In support of these regulatory activities, scientific evaluations are made on pesticides, food additives, color additives, and food standard petitions, and the labeling of hazardous substances. Toxicological evaluations are performed concerning investigational drugs and new drug applications for human and veterinary drugs. Methods and bases for evaluation of petitions and tolerances are developed and studied.

4. Education and voluntary compliance.—Encompasses the planning, conduct, and evaluation of programs to obtain voluntary compliance with laws on the part of the regulated industry and to inform consumers of the objectives of the laws and to help prepare them to achieve a greater degree of self-protection. Advisory opinions relating to laws and regulations are furnished to industry and a large volume of consumer inquiries are answered.

Informational and guidance materials are prepared and distributed to industry. Working relationships with trade, professional, and industry organizations are maintained to promote better understanding of FDA regulations and policies and to assist industry in voluntary compliance.

5. Regulatory compliance.—Nationwide inspectional, investigational, and analytical programs are conducted through 18 district offices and a number of resident inspector posts, to enforce the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, Hazardous Substances Labeling Act, and related statutes. Research is performed to improve methodology and analyses of samples. Activities are performed during the conduct of inspections to promote voluntary compliance. Inspectional and other field actions are reviewed to evaluate the degree of compliance or noncompliance with the law; from these reviews, determinations are made for securing compliance through legal or voluntary action and, where necessary, legal cases are prepared and initiated for enforcement of the law.

6. Drug abuse control.—Programs are developed to curtail the illegal traffic in stimulant, depressant, and counterfeit drugs. These programs involve regular inspection of manufacturers' and distributors' establishments and records, as well as special investigations and law enforcement work to apprehend violators.

7. Executive direction and technical support.—This activity contains the resources for overall agency management and certain administrative and technical services provided on a centralized basis. Executive functions include the establishment of policy, the formulation and promulgation of agencywide plans, budgets, regulations, and directives, allocation of resources, day-to-day direction of the Agency, dissemination of public information and evaluation of performance and accomplishments.

The coordination and operation of the FDA-wide science information program and the science library is included under this activity. In addition, programs are conducted to promote cooperative Federal-State relations and to prepare for operations under emergency conditions. Administrative services such as personnel, management analysis, facilities management, fiscal management, and other general services are provided on an agencywide basis. Other services performed include the preparation of laboratory cultures and solutions for the scientific programs and the cleaning of laboratory glassware and equipment.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1964, $855 thousand (1965 adjustments, -$5 thousand); 1965, $1,280 thousand; 1966, $1,978 thousand; 1967, $15,128 thousand.

This appropriation consolidates all activities related to the planning, construction, and equipping of buildings and facilities for the Food and Drug Administration.

Since 1958, FDA in collaboration with the General Services Administration has been engaged in a program to improve and enlarge its field facilities, and funds have been appropriated for all phases of modernization for 16 of the districts, with the remaining funds for the final 2 district offices included in this budget request.

At headquarters, considerable progress has been made in upgrading space and facilities. The Special Pharmacological Animal Laboratory, opened in 1964, provides vastly improved housing and laboratory facilities for large laboratory animals. FB-8 has just received its full complement of scientific personnel, and 15,000 square feet will be modified in 1966 to accommodate a total of 831 scientific personnel. Planning is underway on a laboratory building at Beltsville, Md., and a dog whelping facility to provide dog colonies for the Special Pharmacological Animal Laboratory.

The proposed program for 1967 calls for:

(1) Acquisition of portable equipment for the St. Louis and San Francisco districts to complete the current field modernization program.

(2) Planning for an additional headquarters laboratory facility at the Beltsville site.

(3) Providing additional construction funds for the current field facilities program, and

(4) Providing additional fixed equipment funds for the Chicago, New Orleans, and Seattle districts.

The Food and Drug Administration certifies batches of antibiotics, insulin, and color additives for use in food, drugs, or cosmetics; it also establishes tolerances for residues of pesticide chemicals in or on raw agricultural products and for color additives in foods, drugs, and cosmetics. These services are financed wholly by fees paid by the industries affected.

The workload in pesticide tolerance decreased sharply in 1964 as a result of the establishment of a new requirement for certification that caused most manufacturers to withhold their petitions until certain time-consuming reproduction studies were completed and their results could be included with the petitions. This means that activity in this area will return to normal in 1967; i.e., to a level comparable to that maintained in 1963.

Under the Vocational Education Act of 1963 and the George-Barden Act, matching grants are made to the States, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and the District of Columbia for support and improvement of vocational education programs. Training for gainful employment as semiskilled or skilled workers and for business and office occupations is emphasized, and construction of area vocational schools is included.

Grants are made for research and special project activities designed to meet special vocational education needs of youths, particularly those in economically depressed communities that have academic, socioeconomic, or other handicaps that prevent them from succeeding in the regular vocational education programs. A work-study program provides employment for students enrolled in vocational classes who are in need of financial assistance in order to continue their education. Funds will be provided for planning experimental residential vocational schools designed to meet special needs of youths in urban slums where high dropout rates and youth unemployment prevail.

Under the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965, grants are made to States in the Appalachian Region for construction of vocational education facilities.

Under the National Vocational Student Loan Insurance Act of 1965 advances are made for State and nonprofit private loan insurance funds for students in postsecondary business, trade, technical, and vocational schools. Payments are made for interest costs on behalf of students whose family income falls below $15,000.

Under existing legislation, 1966.—A supplemental appropriation of $1 million is anticipated in order to permit initiation of activities under the National Vocational Student Loan Insurance Act of 1965. It is expected that $950 thousand will be used for grants for interest subsidies and advances to State and nonprofit private student loan insurance programs and $50 thousand will be used for the Federal insurance program. Of the latter $10 thousand is estimated for obligation on defaulted loans and $40 thousand will be carried as an insurance reserve.

The 1967 estimate is based on the extension of the existing Act.

1. Assistance for educationally deprived children.—Payments are made to assist local school districts in expanding and improving their educational programs in order to meet the special educational needs of children from low-income families; and to assist State educational agencies in administering the program. It is estimated that approximately 7.5 million disadvantaged children will receive benefits in 1967, compared to 6.5 million in 1966.

2. School library materials.—Grants are made to States for procurement of library resources, textbooks, and other printed and published instructional materials for use by students and teachers in public and private elementary and secondary schools. Each State may use up to 3 percent of its grant to assist in administering the program.

3. Supplementary educational centers and services.—Grants are made to local public schools, working jointly with other local agencies, to stimulate and assist in establishing educational services not available in sufficient quantity or quality in the ongoing curriculum. Development of programs to serve as models for regular school programs is emphasized.

4. Strengthening State departments of education.—Grants are made to State educational agencies to stimulate and support planning, research, and technical assistance capabilities so that such agencies can more effectively meet their educational leadership responsibilities.

Under the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963, loans are made for academic facilities, and grants are awarded on a matching basis for undergraduate and graduate academic facilities and for public junior colleges and technical institutes. Technical engineering and other review services are rendered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development for construction projects. Proposed legislation would specify the 1967 authorizations for construction, extend the authorization for grants for expenses incurred by States in administration of the undergraduate and public junior college and technical institute grants and provide for enlargement of the loan program through use of the private credit market in sale of loan participations.

Under proposed legislation, 1967.—Legislation will be proposed to authorize the sale of certificates of participation in pools of college academic facilities loans. It is proposed that proceeds from the sale (estimated at $100 million for 1967) be placed in a revolving fund, through which the program would be funded hereafter, and that such receipts (up to $100 million) be made available for new loan commitments. The Federal National Mortgage Association will be authorized to serve as trustee for these sales.

Payments are made to assist in operation of schools in areas where enrollments are affected by Federal activities. The eligible districts are located in all States, Puerto Rico, various territories, and, since July 1964, the District of Columbia. Under certain circumstances, payments are made to other Federal agencies to make arrangements for education of children where local school districts do not assume responsibility for such children. Arrangements may be made for free public education of children of members of the Armed Forces on active duty not residing on Federal property.

Amendments to the law decreasing total 1967 requirements by $233 million will be proposed. The amendments will base grants on per-pupil costs in comparable school districts in the same State, and require school districts to absorb the costs of education for a number of Federal children representing a minimal portion of total enrollment.

Payments are made to assist in construction of schools in areas where enrollments are affected by Federal activities. From 1951 through 1966, $1,283 million has been appropriated for this program, aiding in the construction of an estimated 65,000 classrooms to house about 1.9 million pupils in the 50 States, Puerto Rico, Guam, and Wake Island.

The estimate for 1967 will allow funds to pay all approvable construction projects of local educational and other Federal agencies under the permanent sections of the law which provide assistance primarily for children whose parents reside and work on Federal property. About 1,000 classrooms for approximately 29,000 pupils will be provided. The temporary sections of the law, which provide assistance for children whose parents either work or reside on Federal property, expire June 30, 1966.

The authorized program for 1967 will support the following activities:

1. Assistance to local educational agencies.—Grants are made to local districts for school construction, principally on behalf of increased numbers of children residing on Federal property with a parent employed on Federal property.

2. Assistance for school construction on Federal properties.—Where the local educational agency is unable to provide school facilities for increased numbers of children living on Federal property, the Commissioner of Education is authorized to arrange for the construction of schools. Under certain circumstances, the Commissioner may also arrange to provide school facilities on a temporary basis for children of members of the Armed Forces on active duty who do not reside on Federal property.

3. Payments for technical services.—Technical services are rendered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development in connection with the construction of school facilities.

Grants and payments are made to States, educational institutions, and individuals.

1. Student loans.—Funds are allotted among the States for payments to institutions of higher education, including postsecondary business schools and technical institutes, to provide capital contributions to student loan funds. Under proposed legislation, the special teacher cancellation and other benefits available to needy students will be continued, but the private credit market will supply loan capital through guarantee programs, authorized in the Higher Education Act of 1965, subsidized by the Federal Government.

2. Instructional assistance.—Grants are made to States on a matching basis for acquisition of equipment and minor remodeling of laboratory or other space in order to strengthen instruction in science, mathematics, foreign languages, history, civics, geography, English, reading, and economics. Loans are made to nonprofit private schools for similar uses, and matching grants are also made to States for supervision and administration of the program.

3. Graduate fellowships.—Grants are made to institutions of higher education for expansion of graduate programs, and include both fellowship stipends for individuals and cost-of-education allowances for participating institutions. A primary objective is to promote better geographic distribution of graduate facilities throughout the Nation. In selection of fellows, preference is given to persons interested in college teaching.

Under proposed legislation, 1967.—Legislation will be proposed to terminate the direct loan program under the National Defense Education Act. The legislation will facilitate the substitution of loan insurance (under programs authorized by the Higher Education Act of 1965) for direct loans.

It will also provide financial arrangements to continue teacher cancellation and other benefits now authorized for students aided under the NDEA program. It is anticipated that insured loans can be substituted for obligations incurred for direct loans during a transitional period at the start of 1967.

Title IV of Public Law 89-10 amended the Cooperative Research Act (Public Law 85-531) by adding authority for support of construction and operation of regional laboratories. In these laboratories institutions of higher education, States, private enterprise and other agencies will pool their strengths to bring the results of educational research and new curriculum design to the Nation's classrooms. The 1965 amendments also extended financial flexibility by permitting award of grants in addition to contracts and authorized special attention to increasing the supply of manpower equipped to undertake research in educational problems.

In 1967 research centers will concentrate on such questions as education of the disadvantaged, individualized instruction, early childhood learning, teacher education, and development of institutions of higher education. Support will be given to preparation of new curricular materials in such fields as English, history, economics, government and the arts at the elementary and secondary level and literature and the social sciences at the college undergraduate level.

Foreign currencies which are in excess of the normal requirements of the United States are used to support research and grant projects which will add to educational and scientific knowledge in the United States. The funds are used for the promotion of foreign language training and area studies by assisting in the support of oversea activities of American institutions of education for purposes of improving the knowledge and abilities of U.S. educators and by research and study of foreign educational systems, experiences, and developments that will be of value to American educational systems.

Under the Higher Education Act of 1965, and the National Vocational Student Loan Insurance Act of 1965, the Office of Education received authority to insure loans of students in eligible institutions which do not have reasonable access to a State or private nonprofit programs of student loan insurance.

It is anticipated that 1,000 loans of $500 each and 5,000 of $200 each will be insured in 1966, and 6,000 loans of $500 each and 5,000 of $400 each in 1967. Of these, it is estimated that 1% of the total value will default due to death or total and permanent disablement, and 5% of the total value will default due to drop-out and other causes.

The balance of outstanding loans at the end of 1966 will be $1,360 thousand, and $6,160 thousand at the end of 1967. All insurance premiums earned, computed at 1/4 of 1% per annum of the unpaid principal amount of the loan (excluding interest added to principal), as well as interest received, will be retained in the fund to meet possible additional requirements for payments of defaulted loans. The fund may borrow from the Treasury if at any time the moneys available are insufficient to make payments on defaults of insured loans. It is estimated that the appropriation requested will make it unnecessary to utilize the authority in 1967. The fund will take over loans on which it pays insurance claims and seek to collect on them, but the schedules contemplate a full reserve for losses on such loans.

The business type schedules for this fund reflect an estimated $50 thousand to be provided in 1966 through a supplemental appropriation for Expansion and Improvement of Vocational Education.

1. Vocational rehabilitation services.—Federal matching grants are made to assist the States in rehabilitating handicapped individuals so that they may prepare for and engage in remunerative employment to the extent of their capabilities. The rehabilitation services provided by the States include medical restoration, training, guidance and placement services and, as a result of the 1965 amendments, rehabilitation services for an extended period prior to the determination of an individual's vocational rehabilitation potential. Beginning in 1967 the Federal matching rate is 75% of total program expenditures.

2. Innovation in vocational rehabilitation services.—Federal grants are made to States to assist them in initiating projects innovating new methods or techniques of providing vocational rehabilitation services to the disabled. Projects are intended to improve the vocational rehabilitation services provided by the State agencies. The matching rate of 90% for the first 3 years of a project is designed to encourage development of methods and techniques which are new in a State or for providing new or expanded services for individuals with particularly severe or catastrophic disabilities.

3. Expansion of vocational rehabilitation services.—Planning grants: Federal grants are made to States for planning comprehensive vocational rehabilitation programs able to serve all the disabled needing and wanting vocational rehabilitation services by 1975. The second year of this 2-year planning program is 1967. Expansion of vocational rehabilitation services: Federal grants are made to State agencies, local governmental units, and to private, nonprofit organizations to assist in the cost of projects designed to expand vocational rehabilitation services to the disabled. About 15,000 disabled persons are expected to be served as a result of these projects in 1967 and about 4,500 will be rehabilitated.

4. Construction of facilities and workshops.—Project grants are made to public and other nonprofit organizations or agencies for the construction of new buildings, the expansion, remodeling, alteration or renovation of existing buildings, and the initial equipment and staffing of such new, expanded, remodeled, altered or renovated buildings. State and local grants are also provided for planning rehabilitation facilities and workshops.

5. Workshop improvement activities.—Program grants are made to workshops to pay part of the costs of projects to analyze, improve, and increase their professional services to the handicapped, their business management or any other part of their operation affecting their capacity to provide employment and services for the handicapped. Grants are also made to States and public and other nonprofit organizations and agencies to pay 90% of the cost of projects for providing training services to physically handicapped individuals in public or other nonprofit workshops.

The Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954 and the International Health Research Act of 1960 authorize the conduct of research and related activities abroad. The estimate for 1967 proposes an appropriation of $4 million for the purchase of foreign currencies in eight excess-currency countries.

Rehabilitation research and related activities.—Research, demonstration, and research training programs are supported primarily with foreign currencies accruing to the United States through the sale of surplus agricultural commodities and through other sources. The research and demonstration programs are directed to the solution of problems which hold promise of contributing knowledge to the advancement of rehabilitation both in the United States and in other countries.

Research training and fellowships are provided and exchanges of rehabilitation experts are arranged between the United States and cooperating foreign countries to increase the rehabilitation research resources both here and abroad.

² Excludes $1,988 thousand unobligated balance transferred to "Buildings and Facilities, Federal Water Pollution Control Administration."

This appropriation includes all proposed direct construction items of the Public Health Service except construction of Indian health facilities, and all continuing projects except the mental health-neurology research facility—appropriated under "Mental health activities" and "Neurology and blindness activities," 1961.

A distribution of appropriations for construction of buildings and procurement of facilities to various programs of the Public Health Service follows (in thousands of dollars):

Proposed projects.—The following construction projects will necessitate the provision of additional funds in 1967:

1. Communicable disease facility, San Juan, P.R.—Planning funds were included in the 1966 budget. The 1967 request provides for construction of this facility on the campus of the University of Puerto Rico Medical Center.

2. Northeast Shellfish Sanitation Research Center addition.—Funds for planning an addition to the Narragansett laboratory in Rhode Island were appropriated in 1966. The 1967 request provides funds for construction of this addition.

3. Northwest Shellfish Sanitation Research Center.—Research is now conducted in a facility located on privately owned land which will not be available to the Public Health Service beyond 1968. Funds for planning and site acquisition were included in the 1966 appropriation. The 1967 request provides funds for the construction of this facility on Puget Sound.

4. Solid waste research facility.—Funds for construction of this facility were appropriated in 1966. The 1967 request will provide for the heavy process machinery and other essentials to equip this facility located at Johnson City, Tenn.

5. Laboratory facility, Cincinnati, Ohio.—The proposed facility will provide permanent Government-owned laboratories to house 750 research and support personnel engaged in environmental health activities. Personnel now engaged in these activities are now located in nine separate leased buildings in the Cincinnati area. The 1966 appropriation provided funds for preliminary planning which will be completed in September 1966. The 1967 request is for funds to design the proposed facility.

6. Appalachian environmental health field station.—Funds were appropriated in 1966 for master planning of this station. Research carried out at this station will be concerned with the environmental health problems peculiar to the Appalachia region. Funds are requested in 1967 for design of the station to be located at Morgantown, W. Va.

7. Arctic Health Research Center animal facility.—The Center at the University of Alaska is expected to be completed by September 30, 1967. Funds are requested in 1967 for the design and construction of an experimental animal facility to house normal and infected indigenous animals that are essential to the work of several programs of the Center.

8. Modernization of PHS hospitals.—Planning funds were provided in 1966 for modernization of nine hospitals. Funds requested for 1967 will provide for preliminary drawings and specifications.

9. Multilevel parking facilities—(a) General office building extension, NIH.—Planning funds were provided in 1966 for a structure to provide parking adjacent to the general office building. Construction funds are requested in 1967.

(b) Cancer-Mental Health-Neurology Research Building, NIH.—Planning funds were provided in 1966 for a parking facility adjacent to the new cancer and mental health-neurology research buildings. Construction funds are requested in 1967.

10. Isotope laboratory addition, NIH.—The proposed addition will provide space for the assay of radioactive materials, for calibrating radiation survey instruments, marking film badges, for student use in the radioisotope training course and additional office facilities. Funds are requested in 1967 for planning and construction.

11. Incinerator facility, NIH.—Planning funds are requested for a municipal-type incinerator plant for the NIH reservation which will provide the capacity needed by 1975 for the monthly incineration of approximately 1,400 tons of infectious and noninfectious material.

12. Repairs and improvements.—In 1964 the Public Health Service inaugurated a continuing program of major alterations, repairs, and improvements of buildings and facilities. The 1967 request provides funds for Community Health, Environmental Health, the Bureau of Medical Services, and the National Institutes of Health.

13. Arctic Health Research Center.—Funds were appropriated in 1964 and 1965 for the planning and construction of this Center. Construction is currently underway and is expected to be completed by September 30, 1967. The 1967 request provides funds for the purchase of portable equipment for the Center.

14. Facilities planning.—It is proposed to contract with a group of independent experts for the purpose of developing a master plan for construction of Public Health Service facilities.

The following activities will require appropriation of funds in subsequent years to complete, but will be continued in 1967 with funds appropriated in prior years:

- 15. Dental Health Center addition.
- 16. NIH Animal Center.
- 17. Child health and human development research facility, NIH.
- 18. National Environmental Health Sciences Center.

The remaining 19 activities will be completed with funds appropriated in prior years. The following 6 of the above 19 activities have been completed:

- 32. Research facilities, Lexington, Ky., NIH.
- 33. Animal quarters, NIH.
- 34. Library facilities.
- 35. Dental Research Building, NIH.
- 36. Surgical facilities, NIH.—Completed in 1963 and in operational use.
- 37. General office building, NIH.—Accepted for operational use in 1962.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Grants for research projects in injury control are awarded to universities, hospitals, laboratories, and other public and private institutions and to individuals to support investigations in the causation and control of injuries. In 1967 emphasis will be given to the development of control measures for occupant injuries and fatalities in motor vehicle accidents; falls, fractures, poisonings, and burns in the nontransport situations. By providing support for independent research, the research grants program makes possible the tapping of scientific manpower resources not otherwise available to the mission of the Division. Approximately 53 research grants will be supported in 1967 as compared to 44 in 1966.

(b) Fellowships.—Grants will be awarded to individuals to support graduate or postgraduate training of scientists in order to increase research manpower in the field of control of injuries from accidents. An estimated 14 fellowships will be supported in 1967 compared with an estimated 7 in 1966.

(c) Training.—Grants will be awarded to universities to establish and conduct research training programs which are designed to provide instruction and experience in research methodology related to injury control problems. Approximately three grants will be awarded in 1967 compared with two grants in 1966.

2. Research, training, and technical services.—This activity provides for surveillance and developmental research to determine the extent and cause of accidental injuries and the development of sound techniques for their prevention and control. The problem areas of emergency medical services and poison control are given special attention by the Division. The adoption of prevention and control techniques by State and local agencies is encouraged through training, demonstrations, consultation, and direct assignments.

CHRONIC DISEASES AND HEALTH OF THE AGED

To carry out sections 301, 311, 314(e), 316, 402(g), and 403(a)(1) of the Act, and for expenses necessary for demonstrations and training personnel for State and local health work under section 314(c) of the Act, with respect to chronic diseases and health problems of the aged, for allotments and payments to States under section 314(c) of the Act for establishing and maintaining adequate public health services for the chronically ill and the aged, and for cooperating with State health agencies, and other public and private nonprofit institutions, in the prevention, control, and eradication of cancer, neurological and sensory diseases, and blindness by providing for consultative services, training, demonstrations, and other control activities, directly and through grants-in-aid [$67,453,000] $86,659,000, of which $12,300,000 shall be available only for such allotments and payments to States under section 314(c) of the Act, and $2,750,000 shall be available through June 30, 1968, for grants under title XVII of the Social Security Act, as amended.

The mission of the chronic diseases and health of the aged program is to encourage and assist States and communities in developing, operating, and improving programs for preventing the occurrence and the increase of disability and dependency. This is accomplished through a coordinated program of intramural and extramural research, training, and technical services.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Grants are awarded to organizations, institutions, and individuals for research into methods of planning, conducting, and evaluating community programs and techniques to overcome barriers to the application of new-found knowledge in the prevention of chronic diseases and disability and in the care of the chronically ill and aged. Approximately 108 research projects will be supported in 1967 as compared to 84 in 1966.

(b) Training.—Grants will be awarded to organizations and institutions for increasing the number of trained research investigators capable of performing research into the community aspects of chronic diseases and chronic disease control. In 1967 an estimated nine grants will be supported.

(c) Formula grants to States.—Grants are made on a formula basis to assist States in developing and improving cancer and heart disease control programs, including the support of activities such as casefinding, rehabilitation, education, community services, and training. Grants are also made on a formula basis to assist States in expanding and improving programs for the development of community facilities and out-of-hospital services for the care of the aged and chronically ill, programs to improve the quality of care in nursing homes and homes for the aged, and training of health personnel. Grants are also made to assist States in developing comprehensive programs to combat mental retardation.

(d) Project.—Grants are awarded to institutions, organizations, and individuals for surveying, developing, and improving community services; for applying and evaluating control methods and techniques; and for expanding professional and supporting competencies in mental retardation, cancer, heart, stroke and neurological and sensory disease control. Grants are also awarded to States and other public or nonprofit agencies for studies and demonstrations which look toward the development of new or improved methods of providing health services outside the hospital—particularly for chronically ill and aged persons. The increase of $1,817 thousand in 1967 will provide support for new programs of cancer detection, control, and training and for neurological and sensory programs involving vision, speech, and hearing.

(e) Mental retardation implementation.—Grants will be awarded to assist States in developing comprehensive community action programs against mental retardation. Funds for planning State mental retardation programs were appropriated in 1965.

2. Research, training, and technical services.—This activity provides for the development and improvement of techniques and methods for the identification and prevention of chronic illness, for the care and restoration of the chronically ill and aged, and for meeting special health problems of older people. Assistance is given to State and local health departments, voluntary organizations, and other interested agencies through consultation, epidemiological investigations, demonstrations, loan of professional personnel and equipment, and training. Major emphasis is given to control programs in cancer, diabetes, arthritis heart disease, stroke, neurological and sensory disorders, mental retardation, kidney diseases, respiratory disorders, smoking and health, and for improving health services available to the long-term ill and aged. The increase of $2,156,700 requested in 1967 will be used for improving program activities in the areas of cancer, diabetes and arthritis, heart, respiratory, neurological and sensory disease control and problems of the aged.

COMMUNITY HEALTH PRACTICE AND RESEARCH

To carry out, to the extent not otherwise provided, sections 301, 306, 309, 310, 311, 314(c), title VII and title VIII of the Act, Executive Order 11074 of January 8, 1963, [$55,482,000] $103,228,000.

Loans, grants, Grants and payments for the next succeeding fiscal year: For making, after March 31 of the current fiscal year, loans, grants, grants and payments under section 306, and part C of title VII, and part B of title VIII of the Act for the first quarter of the next succeeding fiscal year, such sums as may be necessary, and the obligations incurred and expenditures made hereunder shall be charged to the appropriation for that purpose for such fiscal year: Provided, That such payments pursuant to this paragraph may not exceed 50 per centum of the amounts authorized in such section for [this purpose] these purposes for the next succeeding fiscal year.

For an additional amount for "Community health practice and research", $2,700,000.

For an additional amount for "Community health practice and research", $24,000,000, of which $3,000,000 shall be for carrying out section 310 of the Public Health Service Act, $9,000,000 for carrying out section 314(c) of the Act with respect to home health service programs, $1,000,000 for carrying out section 314(c) of the Act with respect to grants to schools of public health, and $11,000,000 for carrying out parts C, E, and F of title VII of the Act and of which $200,000 shall be available for scholarship grants to eligible schools for award to first-year students in the current academic year only; together with $2,100,000 to be transferred, as authorized by section 201(g)(1) of the Social Security Act, from any one or all of the trust funds referred to therein and to be expended for functions delegated to the Surgeon General by the Secretary under title XVIII of the Social Security Act: Provided, That the sums appropriated for carrying out parts C, E, and F of title VII of the Public Health Service Act shall be available only upon enactment of H.R. 3141, Eighty-ninth Congress, or similar legislation.

Grants and payments for the next succeeding fiscal year: For making, after March 31 of the current fiscal year, grants and payments under part F of title VII of the Public Health Service Act for the next succeeding fiscal year such sums as may be necessary, and the obligations incurred and expenditures made hereunder shall be charged to the appropriation for that purpose for such fiscal year. (Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1966; Departments of Labor, and Health, Education, and Welfare Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1966; Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1966.)

Note.—Excludes $12,352 thousand for activities transferred in the estimates to "Medical care services." The amounts obligated in 1965 and 1966 are shown in the schedule as comparative transfers.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1964, $594 thousand; (1965 adjustments, $4 thousand); 1965, $4,382 thousand; 1966, $4,382 thousand; 1967, $4,382 thousand.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Grants provide support for the development of research to produce new knowledge regarding more effective and acceptable methods of providing and financing a full range of preventive, curative, and restorative health services to all segments of the population. The grants are aimed at finding better ways to provide comprehensive community health services; to broaden the scope and improve the quality of these services; and to devise the techniques for assessing and evaluating these services. Ninety-five grants will be financed in 1967 compared to 68 in 1966.

(b) Fellowships.—Predoctoral, postdoctoral, and special fellowships that will be awarded to qualified scholars from such fields as the behavioral sciences, biometry and epidemiology, health and medical economics, health education, public health and medical care administration, and public administration. Funds are requested to support approximately 38 fellowships in 1967 compared with 25 in 1966.

(c) Formula grants to States (general health).—Grants are made to assist States and local communities in providing and improving basic public health services such as public health nursing, laboratory services, communicable disease control, and sanitation activities.

(d) Training.—Grants are made to provide basic support for the public health training program of the 13 schools of public health. In addition, project grants are made to schools of nursing, engineering, public health, medicine, and dentistry to strengthen and expand graduate public health training in such schools. Grants and awards are also made for traineeships for graduate or specialized public health training of professional health personnel. Training grants are also awarded to train highly qualified persons in research methodology. The increase for 1967 will provide for approximately 1,800 additional traineeships, about 40 additional project grants for graduate training in public health, and 1 new research training grant.

(e) Migrant health services.—Grants are made to pay part of the costs of establishing family health service clinics and other special projects to improve health services and health conditions of domestic agricultural migrant workers and their families. An increase of $4.2 million is proposed to support approximately 25 additional projects, including patient care in short-term general hospitals as authorized under Public Law 89-109.

(f) Educational improvement.—Grants are made to schools of medicine, dentistry, osteopathy, and optometry to improve the quality of such schools. Both basic and special improvement grants are made in order that schools may carry out their primary functions more effectively.

(g) Scholarships.—Grants are made to schools of medicine, dentistry, osteopathy, and optometry so that these schools may award scholarships to carefully selected and needy students. An increase of $3,830 thousand is proposed for 1967. Approximately 2,015 scholarships will be awarded in 1967 compared with 100 in 1966.

2. Student loan programs.—Under proposed legislation, the forgiveness features of the existing loan programs for the health professions and nursing will be continued, but the private credit market will supply loan capital through guarantee programs, authorized by the Higher Education Act of 1965, subsidized by the Federal Government. Funds are provided to finance the obligations incurred in 1966 under the advance obligational authority which permitted grants and payments in 1966 of up to 50% of amounts authorized in 1967.

3. Research, training, and technical services.—Funds are included to conduct activities directed toward achieving more effective organization, administration, and implementation of community health services programs. Increases will provide for expansion or initiation of activities in public health administration, systems analysis, health communications, health services for migrant workers, rural health, community health, manpower, program direction of training grant programs, physical fitness program, and program direction services for regional offices. The sum of $5 million included in 1965 and 1966 for services to Selective Service System rejectees and financed by an appropriation transfer from the Office of Economic Opportunity is budgeted for 1967 as an allocation in the Office of Economic Opportunity budget.

Under proposed legislation, 1967.—Legislation will be proposed to terminate direct loan programs for nurses, doctors, and other health personnel under the Public Health Service Act as amended. The legislation will facilitate substitution of loan insurance (under programs authorized by the Higher Education Act of 1965) for direct loans. It will also provide financial arrangements to continue existing cancellation features for nurses and other health personnel serving in shortage areas. It will also authorize the sale of student loan notes now held by educational institutions to financial institutions and the return to the Federal Government of its 90% share of student loan funds which are recovered. It is anticipated that insured loans can be substituted for obligations incurred for direct loans during a transitional period at the start of fiscal year 1967.

COMMUNICABLE DISEASE ACTIVITIES

To carry out, except as otherwise provided for, those provisions of sections 301, 311, 314(c), 317, and 361 of the Act relating to the prevention and suppression of communicable and preventable diseases, and the interstate transmission and spread thereof, including the purchase of not to exceed four passenger motor vehicles, of which one shall be for replacement only; hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; $31,497,000 $44,230,000, of which $9,100,000 shall be available through June 30, 1968, to carry out section 317 of the Act.

For an additional amount for "Communicable disease activities", $1,000,000.

For an additional amount for "Communicable disease activities", $8,000,000 to carry out section 317 of the Public Health Service Act, to remain available through June 30, 1967. (Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1966; Departments of Labor, and Health, Education, and Welfare Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1966; Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1966.)

Note.—Excludes $108 thousand for activities transferred in the estimates to "Office of the Surgeon General, Salaries and expenses."

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1964, $1,036 thousand (1965 adjustments, $20 thousand); 1965, $2,623 thousand; 1966, $2,623 thousand; 1967, $2,623 thousand.

This program provides facilities and services for the investigation, prevention, and suppression of communicable disease other than tuberculosis and venereal diseases by the direct development, advancement, and demonstration of knowledge and techniques, and for research through grants for all communicable diseases.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Research grants are awarded to organizations, institutions, and individuals for research concerned with epidemiology, prevention, laboratory diagnosis, and treatment of communicable diseases at the community level.

(b) Community immunization.—Grants are made to States, and with the approval of the States, to political subdivisions and instrumentalities of the States for immunization programs against poliomyelitis, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, and measles. Grants are made on a project basis to cover such program costs which are attributable to (1) the purchase of vaccines needed to protect preschool children, and (2) the planning, organization, promotional, epidemiologic, and surveillance activities of such campaigns.

2. Research, training, and technical services.—Scientific and technical skills in the fields of epidemiological medicine and microbiology, including reference diagnostic laboratory services, are provided to State and local health departments through investigations, consultations, and demonstrations. Important disease control programs include hepatitis, aseptic meningitis, poliomyelitis, rubella, viral encephalitis, the enteric diseases, staphylococcal and other institutionally acquired infections, the acute fungal diseases, diseases of animals transmissible to man, and the vector borne diseases. Professional competence in the investigation of epidemic outbreaks is afforded to the States through the staff of the Epidemic Intelligence Service which is constantly alert to the epidemic situation in the country. These officers provide a wide range of service, including epidemic aid, epidemiological field investigations, consultations in communicable disease control, surveillance of infectious diseases and collaborative field and laboratory research. The 1967 increase provides for studies on the rubella virus, expansion of encephalitis activities, the rabies program at the Mexican border and epidemic services; and expansion of national laboratory improvement and reference, medical audiovisual and training services.

1. Grants—(a) Formula grants to States.—Grants are made to assist States in planning and administering specific control measures including casefinding and case followup.

(b) Project.—Grants are designed to supplement the formula grants to States program through concentration on problem areas of tuberculosis control. In 1967, an additional $4,250,000 is proposed for support of project grants.

2. Research, training, and technical services.—Studies are conducted in epidemiology, prevention, detection, diagnosis, and therapy of tuberculosis. This research is conducted in cooperation with State and local health departments, tuberculosis hospitals, private investigators, and others. The results of the applied research are made available to the States and integrated into tuberculosis control programs by means of demonstrations, consultative services, operational studies and training activities.

The 1967 estimate provides for program activities to continue implementation of the recommendations of the Surgeon General's task force on tuberculosis control.

1. Project grants.—These grants provide assistance to States for programs designed to implement the report of the Surgeon General's task force on syphilis control, The Eradication of Syphilis. This implementation includes programs designed to apply epidemiologic techniques of case interview and followup of named contacts and other suspects; to improve case reporting by private physicians; and to assure epidemiologic intelligence through followup of syphilis positive blood reports from public and private laboratories.

2. Research, training, and technical services.—Research and evaluation activities are directed toward maintenance of uniformly satisfactory nationwide serologic services; development and introduction of new syphilis diagnostic tests; development of an immunizing agent for syphilis; improvement of diagnostic techniques for gonorrhea; evaluation of more effective methods of therapy; and the improvement of control procedures. Scientific and general information about venereal disease for both professional and lay groups is disseminated through State agencies.

Epidemiologic services are directed toward maintaining national and international intelligence and providing technical assistance to State and local health departments in programs directed toward the eradication of syphilis.

The 1967 estimate provides for continued implementation of the task force report on syphilis control.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1964, $588 thousand; (1965 adjustments, $3 thousand); 1965, $567 thousand; 1966, $567 thousand; 1967, $567 thousand.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Grants are made to health agencies, educational institutions, and other research organizations to support investigations in dental health. Foremost among the research areas in community dental health which will be emphasized in 1967 are biodontal and human engineering, the adequacy of dental care, better use of dental auxiliary manpower, and new methods of preventing oral disease. Approximately 36 research projects will be supported in 1967 as compared to 31 in 1966.

(b) Fellowships.—Funds are provided to establish fellowships for research in the basic dental behavioral and clinical sciences, and in public health dentistry. Approximately seven fellowships will be supported in 1967.

(c) Training.—Grants in support of research training in the public health field are one of the best means for alleviating the shortage of research personnel. The increase of $150 thousand will provide support for approximately one new grant bringing the total to four grants in 1967. Grants and awards will also be made to 46 schools of dentistry in 1967 for training dental students in the effective use of dental assistants and other auxiliaries. In 1967, a program of grant support will establish a nationwide system for continuing education for the dental practitioner: continuing education would be offered in dental schools, and in various localities by professional societies, health departments, and other suitable sponsoring organizations. The $100 thousand will support approximately two grants.

(d) State control programs.—Grants will be made to States to stimulate the development of State and community resources for the prevention and control of dental diseases.

2. Research, training, and technical services.—Funds are provided to study the status of the Nation's dental health and of its dental manpower supply, to conduct studies and demonstrations relating to the development and application of methods for preventing and controlling dental diseases and disorders which can be applied on a community basis, to investigate and develop methods for extending the availability of dental care to the American people, and to provide professional and technical assistance relating to these activities. The increase in 1967 will be used primarily in the development of the epidemiological and training programs at the Dental Health Center, and in research and development in dental technology.

The mission of the Division of Medical Care Administration is to improve the quality and expand the availability of medical care to the general population in all settings—the hospital, the clinic, the physician's office, the home, and in extended care facilities. This new organization has been delegated to carry out this broad mission as it relates specifically to the estimated 19 million beneficiaries of medical services under the health insurance provisions of title XVIII, Public Law 89-97. The professional health aspects of title XVIII of the Social Security Act include standards setting, State and local activities relating to providers of service and to coordinating the health insurance program with other health programs in the State, conducting a wide range of studies and evaluations relating to health services, and working with the National Medical Review Committee.

1. Home health formula grants to States.—Grants are made to States on a formula basis to assist in speeding the development of qualifying home health service programs as defined in section 1861(m) of the Social Security Act.

2. Research, training, and technical services.—This activity provides for carrying out the professional health aspects under title XVIII of the health insurance for the aged program and for conducting specialized programs in community medical care administration, health economics, home health services, and nursing home services. Assistance is provided to State and local health agencies, hospitals, voluntary organizations, and other interested groups through consultation, studies, demonstrations, loan of specialized personnel, technical services and training. The 1967 increases will permit an expansion of present programs to meet the demands of health insurance programing and exploration of new approaches to provisions of quality health care to the general population.

The division of nursing is concerned with the quality and quantity of nursing care essential to meet the health needs of the Nation. Its objective is the improvement of nursing practices of all kinds in hospitals, homes, health agencies, and other allied medical care facilities. The problems related to education, nurse supply, distribution of nursing services, and nurse-patient relationships are dealt with by means of a balanced program of intramural research, consultation, research grants, fellowships, training grants, projects for improvement of nurse training, and payments to diploma schools of nursing.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Grants are made to institutions and to individuals to undertake projects in the area of nursing research. Approximately 63 research projects will be supported in 1967, compared with 63 in 1966 and 55 in 1965.

(b) Fellowships.—Grants are awarded to individuals in order to increase the research manpower in the field of nursing. An estimated 85 fellowships will be supported in 1967, compared with an estimated 75 in 1966 and 76 in 1965.

(c) Training.—Grants are provided for traineeships to prepare graduate nurses to be teachers, supervisors, and administrators in all fields of nursing. The $1 million increase in 1967 will provide long-term training for about 200 trainees.

Research training grants are made to graduate schools of nursing to establish and expand training programs and to provide stipends to nurses. The increase in 1967 will provide for extension of the ongoing support to the five participating universities.

(d) Projects for improvement of nurse training.—These grants are made to collegiate, associate degree, and diploma schools of nursing to improve the quality of nurse training by means of expanding the content of programs of nursing education and improving the quality of teaching. The estimated new projects for 1967 is 20. It is estimated that approximately 109 projects in total will be supported in 1967.

(e) Payments to diploma schools of nursing.—These grants are made to diploma schools of nursing to defray a portion of the cost of training students whose enrollment can be attributed to the Nurse Training Act of 1964.

2. Research, training, and technical services.—By means of research, consultation, application of research findings, and administration of grants, professional guidance and leadership are provided to meet the goals of adequate nursing care. An increase in this activity in 1967 will provide for the ongoing program in improvement of nursing practices; insure the economical use of the new funds resulting from the Nurse Training Act of 1964 by supplying the supporting administrative services; and continuing a program of communication of nursing health knowledge.

Funds for construction programs, other than the funds available for construction of university-affiliated facilities for the mentally retarded and construction and operation of demonstration health facilities, are allocated to the States on the basis of a formula which takes into account population and per capita income.

1. Grants—(a) Construction under the Public Health Service Act.—Federal funds are provided for the construction and modernization of hospitals, long-term care facilities, rehabilitation facilities, diagnostic or diagnostic and treatment centers, public health centers, and related health facilities. The modernization program provides funds for the improvement of quality care hospitals that have become functionally or structurally obsolete and are becoming increasingly inefficient or unsafe to operate. The $270 million requested for 1967 will provide a $810 million program for that year, assuming that the Federal participation will average 33⅓%.

(b) Construction of facilities for the mentally retarded.—Grants are made for the construction of university-affiliated facilities for the mentally retarded and for community facilities for the mentally retarded. Funds available for the construction of university-affiliated mentally retarded facilities are approved on a special project basis. The $25 million requested for 1967 will provide a $50 million program for that year, assuming that the Federal participation will average 50%.

(c) Construction of demonstration health facilities.—Under the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965 grants are made for the construction and equipping of multicounty demonstration health facilities, including hospitals, regional health diagnostic or treatment centers, and other facilities. Funds are also provided to cover deficits in the operating costs of the multicounty demonstration health facilities constructed or modernized under this program. The $2,500 thousand requested for 1967 will be used to cover deficits in operating costs.

2. Special project planning grants.—Funds are provided to Hill-Burton State agencies to assist in the areawide planning of health facilities and related services. The $5 million requested for 1967 will provide support for the operation of existing planning agencies, and stimulate the activation of additional local planning groups.

3. Hospital and medical facilities research.—Funds are provided to permit research, experiments, and demonstration projects relating to the effective development and utilization of hospital services and resources. Grants are made available to States, political subdivisions, universities, hospitals, and other public and private nonprofit institutions or organizations for such projects; funds are also provided to public and nonprofit agencies for up to $500 thousand as a Federal share for the construction of experimental units of hospitals and other health facilities.

4. Operations and technical services.—State agencies are provided technical assistance in making inventories of their hospitals, public health centers, and other health facilities, and in determining the type, size, and locations of additional facilities required, and developing programs to meet the indicated needs. Technical assistance is also provided to States and to communities regarding the planning, programing, and design of hospital and other medical facilities, including facilities for the care of the mentally retarded. Proposed hospital and other health facility projects are reviewed to determine eligibility and compliance with the law and regulations. State plans and their annual revisions are reviewed and approved. Project applications, plans and specifications, wage rates, and contracts are reviewed for compliance with standards, and surveillance is maintained over projects under construction. Construction projects are inspected and payments are made as construction progresses.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1964, $0; 1965, $26 thousand; 1966, $26 thousand; 1967, $26 thousand.

Federal funds are provided on an individual project basis to assist in the construction of medical, dental, pharmacy, optometry, podiatry, osteopathy, and public health teaching facilities under the provisions of the Health Professions Educational Assistance Act Amendments of 1965 and the construction of schools of nursing under the provisions of Public Law 88-581 (approved September 4, 1964). These funds provide the basis for expanding and rehabilitating teaching facilities and represent an important step in increasing the supply of vitally needed physicians, dentists, nurses, and other health professions personnel.

1. Grants.—(a) Construction of teaching facilities for medical, dental, and other health personnel.—Grants are made to public and other nonprofit agencies and organizations for construction of teaching facilities for medical, dental, and other health personnel. As of July 31, 1965, institutions had submitted 96 letters of intent, for which applications have not yet been received, indicating a need of $453 million. The $135 million requested for 1967 will provide a $270 million program for that year, assuming that the Federal participation will average 50%.

(b) Construction of teaching facilities for nurses.—Grants are made to public and other nonprofit organizations for construction of teaching facilities for nurses. The $25 million requested for 1967 will provide a $50 million program for that year, assuming that the Federal participation will average 50%.

2. Operations and technical services.—Planning agencies and sponsoring institutions are provided technical assistance in (a) assessing and evaluating their teaching facility needs, (b) determining the type, size, and location of additional facilities required, (c) developing coordinated and well-balanced teaching programs, and (d) planning, programing, and designing teaching facilities. Applications for aid in constructing teaching facilities are reviewed to determine their eligibility and compliance with the law and regulations. Site visits are made of proposed projects for the purpose of evaluating the validity of and need for teaching facilities proposed and establishing the basis for determination regarding relative priority. Plans and specifications are reviewed for compliance with standards, surveillance is maintained over contract awards, payment of approved wage rates and other aspects of construction, and payments are certified based on the inspections of construction. Funds for construction purposes are committed for the projects after consultation with the appropriate National Advisory Council. Payments are computed and made as construction progresses.

This appropriation finances extramural and intramural research and training activities which are basic to all environmental health programs. These activities, together with those funded by the categorical appropriations, make possible a unified approach to the study of the health of man in his total environment.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Research grants which are multicategorical in purpose or scope and which cannot be appropriately funded in a categorical appropriation are awarded to organizations and institutions for the conduct of basic research in all environmental health scientific areas. This includes the establishment of research and training institutes which are located within academic institutions distributed throughout the Nation. Approximately 101 projects will be supported in 1967 as compared to 87 in 1966 and 50 in 1965; 12 of the 101 projects proposed for 1967 will be university institutes for Environmental Health Sciences.

(b) Training.—Grants are made to colleges and universities to provide support for the development and improvement of broad-based engineering and scientific competencies required for environmental health research. Approximately 83 projects will be supported in 1967 as compared to 55 in 1966 and 46 in 1965.

2. Arctic Health Research Center.—The Center conducts basic and applied research involving problems of sanitation, communicable diseases, nutrition, and physiology peculiar to cold environments. The 1967 increase is requested for expansion of the physiology and environmental sanitation programs and a partial transfer of material and personnel to the new research facility in Fairbanks, Alaska, in advance of completion anticipated in September 1967.

3. Research, training, and technical services.—Research on problems of common interest to all environmental health activities is undertaken in the National Environmental Health Sciences Center and in the area of pesticides. The increase requested for the National Environmental Health Sciences Center will fund expansion of programs in toxicology and cell biology. Programs will be initiated in physiology, human ecology, biomathematics, epidemiology, and bioengineering. Pesticides program increases are requested for expansion of ecological investigations, the pesticide intelligence program in which is included the establishment of a national pesticide information system, more intensive review of pesticide registration applications, and research in the toxicology of pesticides. Twelve existing community studies will be expanded and five new ones will be initiated. Increases are proposed for review and approval of the expanding grants programs, including five new institutes, and for expanded services to applicants and grantees.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders 1964, $992 thousand (1965 adjustments, —$149 thousand); 1965, $1,183 thousand; 1966, $1,183 thousand; 1967, $1,183 thousand.

The Public Health Service has the responsibility for the investigation of causes of air pollution, the determination of its effects upon life and property, the development of effective means of prevention and control, and the development of air quality criteria. These problems are dealt with through a coordinated program of basic and applied research, grants-in-aid to air pollution control agencies, abatement proceedings in certain cases, technical services to States and local agencies, and a training program designed to provide competencies necessary to cope with the complex problem of air pollution. To augment and accelerate the research program, extensive use is made of existing technical facilities in other Federal agencies and other public and private research organizations through grants and contracts.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Research grants are made to universities and other nonprofit institutions to conduct research into air pollution problems. Approximately 177 grants will be supported in 1967 as compared to 147 in 1966 and 130 in 1965.

(b) Fellowships.—Fellowship awards support individual postgraduate training in air pollution research and control activities. It is estimated that 71 fellowships will be supported in 1967 as compared to 57 in 1966 and 29 in 1965.

(c) Training.—Grants are awarded to universities to support the development and improvement of graduate level air pollution curricula and to provide student stipends. Approximately 33 grants will be awarded in 1967 as compared to 20 in 1966 and 20 in 1965.

(d) Control program projects.—Grants are made to regional, State, and local air pollution control agencies on a matching basis for the purpose of establishing, developing, or improving programs for the prevention and control of air pollution. This authority provides a basic means for assisting the States and communities in meeting their air pollution problems more effectively. Approximately 150 grants will be awarded in 1967 compared with 113 in 1966 and 93 in 1965.

(e) Survey and demonstration.—Grants are made to States and communities for surveys to assess their air pollution problems. In 1967, it is estimated that 27 survey and demonstration grants will be awarded.

2. Research, training, technical services, and abatement.—Research activities concerned with the desulfurization of fuels and other means of controlling oxides of sulfur, development of air quality criteria, and development of control devices and processes will be expanded to meet the responsibilities placed upon the program by the Clean Air Act. Basic meteorological and chemical research and assessment of automotive emission control through design and modification of engines and related equipment will receive continued emphasis. Short-term technical training on all aspects of air pollution is provided by the Public Health Service to State and local agency personnel and to industrial personnel responsible for industrial plant air pollution control. Technical services provided to State and local agencies, universities, and industry through consultations, collaborative surveys, and dissemination of technical information are of importance as a result of the increased responsibilities under the Clean Air Act. A comprehensive program for developing codes of good air pollution control practice for the more common industrial processes will be undertaken. The technical information center, which serves as a clearinghouse for all air pollution information and coordinates the collection and dissemination of a wide variety of technical information, will become operational. Abatement activities required under the provisions of the Clean Air Act, including those relating to pollution from Federal facilities, and preventive and international abatement activities authorized by the Clean Air Act amendments will be expanded. Abatement activities include the technical factfinding, conference and hearing procedures, and related administrative and legal aspects provided for in the Act. Motor vehicle pollution control activities authorized by the amendments will include limited testing of automobiles, refinement of testing procedures, and development of improved techniques and equipment.

This program provides national leadership for improving public health protection through research and technical assistance to States, municipalities, and industry to assist them in coping with health problems of the environment including administration of the "Solid Waste Disposal Act" to develop the technical and manpower resources for resolving the national solid wastes disposal problem. To assure that only safe drinking water, milk, shellfish, and food supplies are served to the public and to the 2 million travelers carried per day on interstate conveyances, and to stimulate creation and maintenance of State and local programs for a healthful environment, the operating functions of research, standards development, and application must be augmented and improved in areas affected by rapidly changing technology.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—The research grants program enables investigators at universities and other research institutions to conduct research in solid wastes disposal and in milk, food, and shellfish sanitation and technology, individual water supply and sewage disposal, recreational and swimming area sanitation, and environmental engineering—planning to alleviate health problems of metropolitan areas. Approximately 242 research projects will be supported in 1967 and 35 of these will be in the field of solid wastes disposal. This compares with 221 projects in 1965 and 234 in 1966.

(b) Training.—Training programs will be developed for both application of improved solid wastes technology and for expanding research competency. Institutions will be aided in developing specialized graduate programs and related technical courses needed to increase the manpower available for research and for improved solid wastes disposal operations. It is estimated that 5 programs will be funded in 1967, compared to 2 in 1966.

(c) Demonstration.—Funds will be granted for surveys and for demonstrations of new and improved solid wastes disposal techniques. Eligible projects will include better methods of treating, converting, reusing, and conserving the beneficial values of wastes, as well as demonstrations of improved systems and those affording greater health protection and methods of evaluating efficiency and effectiveness. Grants may provide up to two-thirds of the construction cost included in demonstration projects. Approximately 41 projects will be supported during 1967, an increase of 28 over 1966.

(d) Planning.—Grants will be made to State and interstate agencies for surveys and planning of solid waste programs within their jurisdictions. These must be broadly based plans which are consistent with public health and include full consideration of such factors as population growth, urban development, land use planning, air and water pollution control and the feasibility of regional disposal systems. This will encourage planning and action on solid waste collection and disposal programs by groups of communities and interstate organizations. Approximately 25 grants will be awarded during 1967, compared to 13 in 1966. These grants will pay up to 50% of the cost of developing long-range plans for solid wastes disposal facilities and operations.

2. Research, training, and technical services.—By means of research, standards development, interstate regulatory and certification activities, consultation, application of research findings, technical assistance, training, and inspections, professional guidance and leadership are provided to States and local communities for improved health protection of the public. The increase in 1967 will provide for expansion of solid waste disposal research and operational activities, increased training and program activities for urban environmental health planning, and additional demonstration projects on the United States-Mexican border.

The Public Health Service has responsibility for conducting a national program for the prevention and control of radiological hazards to public health. The Service is conducting a program to assess the levels and effects of radiation exposure and, in cooperation with other agencies at Federal, State, and local levels, to minimize such dangers. Such a program involves both basic and applied research on the sources, levels, and effects of radiation as well as means of protecting the public; the provision of technical information and assistance to State and local agencies in developing their own radiation protection programs; and a training program to provide the competencies needed in this new and expanding area of radiation protection and control.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Research grants are administered to complement intramural research as an integral part of the overall research effort and to capitalize on the talents of nongovernmental scientists. Approximately 99 research projects will be supported in 1967 as compared to 101 in 1966 and 92 in 1965.

(b) Training.—Grants are made to institutions to provide support of new or expanded programs for training of radiological health specialists of the professional and technical level. Support of approximately 44 training projects will be provided in 1967 as compared to an estimated 44 in 1966 and 44 in 1965.

(c) State program development.—Grants are made to States to provide financial assistance in the development of comprehensive State radiological health programs. Funds are allotted in accordance with a formula based on population, financial need, and the extent of the problem, with the requirement that they be matched by State funds on a 1-to-1 basis.

2. Research, training, and technical services.—Measurement and surveillance is performed to determine the levels of radiation exposure of man from all sources. Research is carried out to determine the biological effects, somatic and genetic, of such exposure, as well as means by which exposures can be reduced or prevented. Technical services are supplied to other Federal agencies, States, and local authorities. Training courses for State, local, and industrial personnel are conducted through the training facilities in Rockville, Md., Las Vegas, Nev., and at the Sanitary Engineering Center, Cincinnati, Ohio, as well as at various field locations such as Montgomery, Ala., and Winchester, Mass.

The net decrease in funds requested for 1967 is due primarily to nonrecurring expenses of which a major item is the initial equipment for the new leased facility for the Southwestern Radiological Health Laboratory at Las Vegas, Nev. An increase for development of methodology for exposure reduction and control will enable a start toward a concerted effort to improve the efficiency of the use of medical and dental X-rays so that the anticipated increase in examinations may be accomplished without an increase in unproductive radiation exposure to the population.

A total of 13 hospitals and 145 outpatient facilities will be operated to furnish medical and dental care to legal beneficiaries of the Public Health Service. The major beneficiary groups are American seamen, coastguardsmen and their dependents, Bureau of Employees' Compensation cases, persons afflicted with leprosy, and narcotic addicts. Among these, the largest single category is the American seamen who receive free, comprehensive medical care in service facilities for all conditions. Medical care is also provided to foreign seamen and beneficiaries of other Federal agencies on a reimbursable basis.

1. Inpatient and outpatient care.—Under this activity are operated 10 general hospitals, 2 psychiatric hospitals specializing in the treatment of narcotic addiction, and the National Leprosarium at Carville, La. Inpatient loads and outpatient visits are expected to be as follows:

Hospital outpatient visits.....	811,500	781,700	793,200

Twenty-seven full-time outpatient clinics and 118 outpatient offices serviced 628,358 visits in 1965 and 700,150 and 723,625 visits are estimated for 1966 and 1967, respectively.

The estimates for 1967 reflect an improvement in staffing that will provide 152 employees per 100 patients in the general hospitals, 0.97 employees per 1,000 outpatient visits in the hospital outpatient departments, and 0.81 per 1,000 visits in the separate outpatient clinics. Provision is also made to substantially reduce the backlog of equipment. Additional support is also furnished for training and research.

2. Coast Guard medical services.—Medical services are provided for Coast Guard personnel at shore stations and on vessels.

3. Operation of health units.—The Service operates health programs for Federal agencies on a reimbursable basis. Consultative and related services are performed for Federal agencies relative to their employee health programs.

4. Personnel detailed to other agencies.—Medical, dental, and other professional personnel are detailed to certain other Federal agencies on a reimbursable basis.

5. Payments to Hawaii.—Grants are made to Hawaii to defray the cost of care and treatment of persons afflicted with leprosy. Average daily patient load is expected to be 271 in 1967, compared with 274 in 1965 and 272 in 1966.

1. Hospital health services.—This activity consists of the operation of 47 general hospitals and their outpatient clinics and 2 tuberculosis sanatoriums.

During the latter part of 1965, direct hospital services were discontinued at the Tucson (San Xavier) hospital. Care for beneficiaries involved is now being provided through a field health center and contract hospitalization.

It is anticipated that during 1966 the new (replacement) hospitals at Barrow, Alaska, and Ft. Yates, N. Dak., will be completed, and that alterations will be completed at the Crow, Mont., hospital.

During 1967 it is estimated that the new (replacement) hospitals at Lawton, Okla., and Belcourt, N. Dak., will be completed, and that alterations will be completed at the Wagner, S. Dak., hospital.

A new program is being initiated to provide services to approximately 4,000 nonbeneficiaries living in the remote areas of Alaska.

AVERAGE DAILY PATIENT LOAD (EXCLUDING NEWBORN) AND OUTPATIENT VISITS TO HOSPITAL FACILITIES

Inpatient load by type of patient:	1965 actual	1966 estimate	1967 estimate
Continental United States:

Outpatient visits to hospital facilities....	757,512	774,000	797,000

2. Contract medical care.—Indian and Alaska native patients are hospitalized in non-Federal hospitals and are provided medical care by private physicians where Indian hospital or medical care facilities are not available. Patient loads in these hospitals are estimated to be as follows:

AVERAGE DAILY CONTRACT MEDICAL CARE LOAD

Tuberculosis patients.....	183	215	210

3. Field health services.—These include programs in sanitation, health education, nutrition, maternal and child health, school health, tuberculosis and other communicable disease control, medical social service, public health nursing and oral health. The services are provided through health centers, clinics, and other field units operated directly by the Service, as well as through contractual arrangements with State and local health organizations. It is estimated that the new (replacement) health centers at Toppenish, Wash., and Laguna, N. Mex., will be completed in 1966 and that in 1967 new health stations at Kaibeto, Ariz., and Lower Greasewood, Ariz., will be completed.

NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

The National Institutes of Health constitute the primary health research arm of the Government. It is made up of the following nine individual Institutes each with responsibility for a particular disease category: National Institute of General Medical Sciences, National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, National Cancer Institute, National Institute of Mental Health, National Heart Institute, National Institute of Dental Research, National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases, National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, and the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness. There are also four program divisions: the Division of Biologics Standards, the Division of Research Facilities and Resources, the Division of Computer Research and Technology, and the Division of Regional Medical Programs.

Operations of the Institutes and divisions are divided between grant programs largely for support of research and training of individuals and activities performed directly or through contracts by the Service. A portion of the funds from each of the operating appropriations is pooled through a management fund to provide central services for all institutes.

A distribution of obligations for the National Institutes of Health by major activity follows (in thousands of dollars):

The major activities shown in the table above are described below. The workload, where applicable, is shown under the appropriate institute together with an explanation of any unique activities.

Grants—Research.—Grants are made to institutions and to individuals to undertake research projects in the medical and biological sciences. Grants are awarded by the Surgeon General on the basis of merit after review and recommendation by scientifically competent study groups and the appropriate national advisory council.

Fellowships.—Grants are made to individuals in order to increase the research manpower in the medical sciences.

There are several different types of awards such as predoctoral, postdoctoral, research career development awards, and foreign research fellowships, each designed to develop research talent. Fellowships are reviewed by specialty boards and advisory councils and are awarded on the basis of merit.

Training.—Grants are made to institutions to develop or support training programs in the medical sciences and to individual trainees to enable them to undertake special training at an institution of their choice. Awards are made to both graduates and undergraduates. Grants are awarded by the Surgeon General on the basis of merit after review by an appropriate advisory council.

Regional medical programs.—A new program of grants to improve and disseminate new knowledge and techniques for the diagnosis and treatment of heart disease, cancer, and stroke. Grants will be made to regional groups that include medical schools, hospitals, and other appropriate medical institutions and organizations.

Mental health staffing.—Grants are made on a project basis to eligible community mental health centers for partial support of the operating costs of these centers.

State control programs.—Funds are provided to States and Territories on a formula basis for strengthening State and local clinical and educational services in mental health areas.

Direct operations—Research.—The institutes conduct research activities largely within the framework of the disease categories they represent.

Collaborative studies.—Categorical research programs are conducted by investigators in collaboration with other Federal institutions and non-Federal institutions largely through contracts. This research tends to be more developmental or targeted in nature than that supported through grants.

Professional and technical assistance.—Professional guidance and leadership in mental health activities are provided to States and other interested organizations through the provision of consultative services, demonstrations, training, field studies and investigations of improved methodology.

Review and approval of grants.—Applications for research grants, fellowships, and training grants are reviewed for merit by panels of private persons distinguished in the field of medical science. Staff of the National Institutes of Health provide the administrative support and executive direction for this review.

International research.—The Office of International Research is responsible for the coordination, policy formulation, and analysis of the National Institutes of Health international program activities.

Computer research and technology.—Plans and conducts research, developmental, and demonstration programs in mathematical and other computer related sciences in support of NIH programs; provides a professional and technical advisory resource which formulates and administers NIH-wide policies, standards, methods, and procedures regarding computation and data processing activities.

Biologics standards.—The Division of Biologics Standards administers the Biologics Control Act, establishes standards for the preparation of biologics, testing of vaccines and their preparation, and conducts research related to development, manufacture, testing and use of vaccines and analogous products.

Community mental health center construction.—Grants are made to cover a partial amount of the construction costs of community mental health centers.

Health research facilities construction.—Grants are made to cover a partial amount of the construction costs of health research facilities.

GENERAL RESEARCH AND SERVICES, NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

For the activities of the National Institutes of Health, not otherwise provided for, including research fellowships and grants for research projects and training grants pursuant to section 301 of the Act; and grants of therapeutic and chemical substances for demonstrations and research; [$60,469,000] $67,821,000: Provided, That funds advanced to the National Institutes of Health management fund from appropriations included in this Act shall be available for purchase of not to exceed [eleven] five passenger motor vehicles [, of which ten shall be] for replacement only; and not to exceed $2,500 for entertainment of visiting scientists when specifically approved by the Surgeon General: Provided further, That all appropriations made to the Public Health Service in this Act, and available for research or training projects, may be expended pursuant to contracts made on a cost or other basis for supplies and services, including indemnification of contractors to the extent and subject to the limitations provided in title 10, United States Code, section 2354, except that approval and certification required thereby shall be by the Surgeon General: Provided further, That not to exceed two per centum of this or any other appropriation in this Act for the National Institutes of Health may be transferred by the Surgeon General to any other such appropriation in this Act. (Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1966.)

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1964, $3,884 thousand (1965 adjustments, -$11 thousand); 1965, $3,072 thousand; 1966, $3,072 thousand; 1967, $3,072 thousand.

The appropriation for general research and services finances the Division of Research Facilities and Resources which is responsible for administering general research support grants, general clinical research centers, special resource centers, primate centers, and health research facilities. It also finances the Office of International Research which administers the international centers for medical research and training grants, the NIH special foreign currency program, the visiting scientists program, the international postdoctoral fellowships program, and the international research associate program; and the Division of Computer Research and Technology which plans and conducts research, developmental, and demonstration programs in mathematical and other computer related sciences.

There is an appropriation for each of the other nine Institutes and for the Division of Biologics Standards which is responsible for the Public Health regulations pertaining to control and preparation of biological products and conduct of related research.

The activities listed in the program and financing schedule for the general research and services appropriation are described below.

1. Grants.—(a) Research (international centers for medical research and training).—Funds will support six grants in 1967 as compared to seven grants in 1966 and 1965. (Project)—Funds will support approximately 205 grants in 1967 as compared to 159 grants in 1966 and 95 in 1965. In addition, funds are provided for general research support grants, general clinical research centers, special research resources, scientific evaluation, and primate centers.

(b) Fellowships.—Approximately 152 fellowships will be supported in 1967 as compared to 171 in 1966 and 166 in 1965.

(c) Training.—Approximately 10 graduate training grants will be supported in 1967.

2. Direct operations—(a) International research.—Provides for the executive direction, planning and coordinating of all international activities of the National Institutes of Health. A special cooperative research venture between the United States and Japan is recommended for 1967.

(b) Training activities.—Provides for investigators with research interests in laboratories operated by the U.S. institutions in other countries.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Approximately 1,200 grants will be supported in 1967 as compared to 1,113 in 1966 and 914 in 1965. In addition, funds are provided for general research support grants and scientific evaluation grants.

(b) Fellowships.—Approximately 166 postdoctoral and special fellowships will be supported in 1967 as compared to 176 in 1966 and 122 in 1965. Also some 109 career awards and career development fellowships will be supported in 1967 as compared to 100 in 1966 and 77 in 1965.

(c) Training.—Approximately 122 training grants will be supported in 1967 as compared to 118 in 1966 and 88 in 1965.

2. Direct operations—(a) Research.—Laboratory and clinical research is conducted in the four major program areas of child health and human development: Reproductive growth and development—reproductive biology, endocrinology, and ecology; and nutrition; mental retardation—biochemistry, neurophysiology, and behavioral research; aging—cellular biology, biochemistry, physiology, and psychology.

(b) Collaborative studies.—These studies include the incidence and distribution of specific childhood problems such as infant mortality, prematurity, mental retardation, and congenital malformations. This activity also includes technical communications which will include Scientific Information Center activities for the four program areas.

(c) Training activities.—This activity represents the NICHD Career Development Program designed to help overcome the shortages of professional manpower in pediatrics and obstetrics and the lack of the necessary cross-disciplinary training required in the basic research programs of the Institute.

² Selected resources as of June 30, are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, $2,838 thousand (1965 adjustment—$65 thousand); 1965, $2,659 thousand; 1966, $2,659 thousand; 1967, $2,659 thousand.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—In the regular programs approximately 1,549 grants will be supported in 1967 as compared to 1,596 in 1966, and 1,618 in 1965. In the hospital improvement projects program approximately 223 grants will be supported in 1967 as compared to 223 in 1966 and 159 in 1965. This activity also provides funds for general research support grants and clinical research centers.

(b) Fellowships.—Approximately 1,045 fellowship awards will be made in 1967 as compared to 983 in 1966 and 983 in 1965.

(c) Training.—Approximately 2,048 grants will be awarded in 1967 for 10,960 trainee stipends as compared to 2,015 grants for 10,600 trainee stipends in 1966 and 1,797 grants for 9,169 trainee stipends in 1965.

(d) Mental health staffing.—Grants are made on a project basis to eligible community mental health centers for partial support of the staffing costs of these centers.

(e) State control programs.—Grants are made to States and territories on a formula basis. These grants help to plan, establish, and improve statewide mental health and mental retardation programs.

2. Direct operations—(a) Research.—Laboratory and clinical research is conducted in neurobiology, neurochemistry, neurophysiology, psychology, neuropsychiatric studies, socioenvironmental studies, and neuropharmacology (including narcotics and barbiturate addiction).

(b) Collaborative studies.—The programs in this activity are concerned with biometry, psychopharmacology, special program development, and a community demonstration unit. These programs collaborate in research efforts with State and local mental health programs, and extend communication of research knowledge to the States.

(c) Training activities.—This activity supports a program to train psychiatrists for careers in the Public Health Service.

(d) Professional and technical assistance.—The programs in this activity assist States in developing and expanding State and local mental health programs through consultation and field studies and demonstrations. Included in this activity is the central administration of the Community Mental Health Centers Act of 1963. This activity also supports the effort to collect and disseminate information on mental health and mental retardation research.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Approximately 2,053 grants will be supported in 1967 as compared to 2,153 in 1966, and 2,178 in 1965. In addition, funds are provided for general research support grants, clinical research centers, heart cooperative drug study and specialized research centers.

(b) Fellowships.—Approximately 508 awards will be supported in 1967 as compared to 474 in 1966, and 467 in 1965.

(c) Training.—Funds for 1967 will provide assistance to 105 schools of medicine, osteopathy, and public health for support of undergraduate training. Funds will also provide for 268 grants for graduate research and clinical training including 1,340 traineeships. Comparable schools, grants, and traineeships were 105, 290, and 1,450 in 1966, and 105, 265, and 1,299 in 1965.

2. Direct operations—(a) Research.—Laboratory and clinical research is conducted to aid in the understanding of the cardiovascular system and its diseases, with emphasis on therapeutic agents, diagnostic instrumentation, surgery, and clinical medicine.

(b) Collaborative studies.—This activity conducts and supports epidemiological, geographical pathology, biometric research, and clinical trial studies to seek knowledge of the causes and prevention of cardiovascular disease. Causal factors are sought both by intensive study of "natural experiments" in population groups and by experimental modification of suspected factors by dietary, drug, or other measures.

(c) Training activities.—Inservice training is provided for positions requiring unique combinations of cardiovascular training and experience.

¹ Includes capital outlay as follows: 1966, $50 thousand, 1967, $50 thousand.

Legislation enacted in 1965 established this new program to improve and disseminate techniques for the diagnosis and treatment of heart disease, cancer, and stroke as well as related diseases. The program will emphasize regional planning and coordination of medical resources, continuing education for doctors and other medical personnel, and the rapid distribution of new knowledge and techniques.

The authorizing legislation provides for the award of grants to assist public or nonprofit private universities, medical schools, research institutions, and other public or nonprofit private institutions and agencies in planning, in conducting feasibility studies, and in operating pilot projects for the establishment of regional medical programs.

It is expected that $43,000,000 in grants will be awarded during fiscal year 1967 to regional groups. These funds will permit the further implementation of activities begun in fiscal year 1966 and will also provide for the extension of the program to additional regions of the country. Administrative costs of the program are estimated at $2,024,000 during fiscal year 1967.

Special cancer-virus research program.—This program provides for the acceleration and intensification of research for developing new leads in the areas of viruses, leukemia, and allied diseases. The program will be implemented through the use of grants, direct operations, and contracts and will involve studies in man and animals closely associated with man, in causation and treatment of leukemia and allied diseases, and in laboratories and in the field through epidemiologic approaches. (In 1967 funds for this program are carried in the appropriation "National Cancer Institute.")

The research efforts supported with foreign currencies derived through the sale abroad of surplus agricultural commodities authorized by the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, are directed toward the solution of disease and health problems which hold promise of contributing knowledge of value and significance to the advancement of medical research in the United States and other countries. The progress for translation of research publications is designed to continue to encourage and support international communication in the sciences relating to health. Research projects on collection and analysis of morbidity and mortality data are also supported as are other scientific activities overseas such as training and international conferences.

The National Library of Medicine constitutes a national resource for the collection, analysis, and dissemination of worldwide scientific information related to medicine, public health, and biomedical research, and for the support and development of biomedical communications conducted through the national medical library network. It provides interlibrary loans, reference and search services, and has developed and activated the medical literature analysis and retrieval system (medlars), a computerized system for the improved analysis, management, and dissemination of scientific information related to medicine for the purpose of strengthening the medical communication process. The National Library of Medicine administers the Medical Library Assistance Act of 1965. The grant and contract programs authorized by this Act are designed to remedy various deficiencies in the health science libraries of the country, enabling them to assist and support effectively health research, education, and practice.

The 1967 program includes funds to support the following activities under the Medical Library Assistance Act of 1965: (1) the construction of new library facilities, and improvement of existing facilities; (2) the training of additional librarians and information specialists; (3) the compilation and dissemination of biomedical information through the award of special scientific grants to scholars; (4) the conduct of research in medical library science, and the development of new systems and techniques for processing, storing and retrieving information; (5) the improvement and expansion of basic library resources, particularly literature collections; and (6) the financial support of biomedical scientific publications.

1. Medical stockpile.—The goal of this activity is to provide essential medical material for civilian needs in time of disaster. Medical supplies and equipment have been assembled into 2,573 packaged emergency hospitals and are prepositioned in strategic locations throughout the United States. The estimate for 1967 provides for the replacement of deteriorated materials and refurbishment of emergency hospitals; initial expansion of inventory levels for on-going hospitals; transportation for strategic relocation of selected emergency hospitals and for the shipment of supplies to increase the capability of emergency hospitals; the consolidation of depot stocks to attain maximum economy of operations, and to continue the program of maintaining the medical stockpile.

2. Emergency health training and community preparedness.—This activity has responsibility for preparing national emergency health and medical plans, and developing preparedness programs to achieve a state of health services necessary to meet all conditions of a national emergency. The 1967 estimate provides for a continuing program of developing plans and programs covering civilian health manpower, and health resources; including water supply implementation of emergency plans and programs in every State and community; development and initiation of training and health resources programs at the national and regional levels; and providing assistance to States and communities in disaster situations and providing a total program for the achievement of emergency health capabilities at all levels of Government.

Under proposed legislation, 1967.—Legislation will be proposed:

1. To reorient support of health activities so as to provide effective coordination between the Federal programs and those of State and local groups. A major purpose would be to achieve a more effective and economical utilization of scarce manpower and other resources through cooperative arrangements among the Federal Government, the States, and local governmental units and nonprofit agencies. Grants will be available for comprehensive State and local area planning for services, facilities, and manpower. It is also proposed to convert several existing categorical programs to general grants, to support and stimulate comprehensive health services.

2. To undertake new programs to improve the quality and efficiency of medical services by developing and applying new systems and concepts to the delivery of medical care services.

3. To commence detailed planning for modernization of obsolete hospital and health care facilities, especially in urban areas.

4. To begin an education and training program to overcome existing critical shortages of medical technologists and other allied health professionals.

5. To improve Federal health organization and provide its personnel with a comprehensive career development and training system.

NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH MANAGEMENT FUND—CON.

The National Institutes of Health management fund was established to facilitate the conduct of operations of the National Institutes of Health which are financed by two or more appropriations. The activities of the fund are financed primarily from advances and reimbursements from the several institutes. Formulas for determining the contribution from each institute are designed to reflect utilization of services performed by the management fund. Taken into consideration are such factors as the number of activated beds in the clinical center, number of laboratory workers, total personnel, and dollar level of grant, direct research, and direct operations funds obligated by the Institute. A small portion of the funds comes from reimbursements from outside sources, principally cafeteria receipts, and from other Government agencies.

The centralized organizations of the National Institutes of Health provide supporting services to all programs as follows:

1. Research supporting services provide the central administration and operation of services for the conduct of research activities such as the planning and supervising the design, construction, and development of new research activities; providing laboratory animals, culture media and glassware; design and fabrication of laboratory instrumentation; operating the NIH medical reference library including the translation of medical literature; scientific photography and medical arts; maintenance and alteration of all physical facilities including utility services; and environmental engineering services.

2. Clinical supporting services consist of the operation of the 516-bed clinical center together with the laboratory space required for the treatment of research patients.

3. Administrative management includes personnel, supply, financial management, office services, plant safety, management analyses and evaluations, and printing and reproduction.

4. Program direction provides for the executive direction and planning of intramural and extramural research.

5. Review and approval of grants provides procedures and policies governing the scientific and technical review of applications for research project grant programs, program project grants, facility construction grants, fellowships, and training grants. Performs application processing services, provides central grant management and information services, processing of grantee invention reports, evaluation and statistical analyses, and coordinates the formulation of policies and procedures for the extramural programs of the Public Health Service.

6. The cafeteria of the clinical center is operated by the nutrition department and furnishes meals for sale to the employees and visitors at rates sufficient to cover the reasonable value of the meals served. Income and expenses for 1965, 1966, and 1967 are as follows:

This fund finances medical supply and service operations of the Public Health Service. It is reimbursed from the appropriations supporting the programs benefited (42 U.S.C. 231).

Budget program.—The principal activities of the fund are carried out at (a) the Supply Service Center (formerly the Medical Supply Depot) at Perry Point, Md., which maintains inventories of medical stock and supplies to meet, in whole or in part, the requirements of the Public Health Service and requisitions of other Government organizations; (b) the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md., which maintains a central supply of scientific and general-use materials, supplies, and special equipment and also, provides services such as animal production, statistical processing, and instrumentation for the Institutes; and (c) the Division of Finance, Washington, D.C., which provides accounting, auditing, and data processing services for bureaus and divisions of the Public Health Service.

Operating results.—Retained earnings amounted to $272 thousand as of June 30, 1965, and are being retained in the fund against the possibility of future losses.

Budget program.—Farms and other industries operated at the Fort Worth, Tex., and Lexington, Ky., narcotic hospitals provide patients with occupational outlets as a part of their therapeutic rehabilitation. Useful products are made for sale to the hospitals and other Government institutions (42 U.S.C. 258). The investment of the U.S. Government at the end of 1967 is estimated at $583 thousand including $134 thousand in appropriation and $99 thousand in donated assets. Earnings are retained to meet possible future losses.

Public Law 86-798 (42 U.S.C. 241(d)) amends the Public Health Service Act to provide for grants-in-aid to universities, hospitals, laboratories, and other public or nonprofit institutions for the general support of research and research training in sciences related to health. The act specifies that this program will be supported with funds provided for research grants through the appropriations for the National Institutes of Health.

General research support.—These awards permit health professional schools and those non-academic research organizations heavily engaged in health research to better meet emerging opportunities in research and to use funds flexibly in ways catalytic for fostering additional research capability.

Biomedical science support.—These awards similar in purpose to general research support grants are made to graduate departments outside the health professional schools.

Health sciences advancement.—These awards support institutions which have demonstrated an interest and initiative in the health sciences, but which, because of inadequate resources, have been unable to develop fully their potential for health research and research training.

FEDERAL WATER POLLUTION CONTROL ADMINISTRATION

General and special funds:

BUILDINGS AND FACILITIES

For construction, alteration, and equipment of facilities, including acquisition and development of sites, planning, architectural, and engineering services, and for measures to control acid mine drainage, $4,624,000, to remain available until expended; Provided, That such unexpended balances as the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare may determine to be available as of June 30, 1966, in the appropriation for "Buildings and facilities," Public Health Service, for water pollution control activities shall be merged with this appropriation.

Note.—Includes $4,624 thousand of activities transferred in the estimates as follows (in thousands of dollars):

"Buildings and facilities," Public Health Service..... 3,350
"Water supply and water pollution control," Public Health Service.... 1,274

Amounts obligated in 1965 and 1966 are shown in the schedule as comparative transfers.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1964, $0 (1965 adjustments $2,646 thousand); 1965, $4,157 thousand (1965 and 1966 undelivered orders related to transfer from "Buildings and facilities, Public Health Service"); 1966, $6,800 thousand; 1967, $4,414 thousand.

This appropriation includes construction and related activities previously financed under the appropriations to the Public Health Service for water pollution control programs now administered by the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration established by Congress in 1965.

1. Water pollution control and water quality standards laboratories.—The Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1961 (Public Law 87-88) provide for establishment of at least seven water pollution control laboratories in different regions of the Nation. These new facilities will enable the program to provide technical support to the various elements of the Water Pollution Control Administration. Programs include research, investigations, field demonstrations, technical assistance to State and local government and technical training for Federal, State, local, and other persons with suitable qualifications. By the end of 1967, four laboratories will have been constructed and operational. Planning or construction is proceeding on six additional laboratories including three authorized by Congress in 1966.

In addition to the water pollution control laboratories, two water quality standards research laboratories have been authorized. These facilities will be used to conduct research for determining water quality standards for salt water and fresh water. Sites have been selected at Narragansett, R.I., for salt water research and Duluth, Minn., for fresh water research. The facility at Duluth, Minn., is expected to be completed by the end of 1967 and the Narragansett facility in 1968. The 1967 request will provide the funds to finance previously authorized construction, equipment, and repairs and improvements to meet the operational needs of these facilities.

2. Facilities for field evaluation of advanced waste treatment.—A major goal of the research program is the development and demonstration of practical and economical means for removing the maximum amount of pollutants to permit repeated reuse of water. Effective processes coming out of research need to be evaluated in the field on a pilot scale basis. In 1966, a granular carbon adsorption process is being evaluated. In 1967, funds are requested to design and construct a field facility to evaluate a demineralization process.

3. Facilities for demonstrating control measures for acid mine drainage.—In 1964, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare and the Department of the Interior started a joint program to demonstrate methods for abating and controlling acid drainage pollution from mines. This pollution is destroying fisheries and recreational values, making water treatment more costly, and discouraging new industry in affected areas. Results from this effort will provide the information needed to institute a general acid mine drainage control program. Through 1966 six sites, one in West Virginia, three in Pennsylvania, one in Maryland and one in Kentucky, are in various stages of development. The 1967 funds requested will support the construction of control measures at five sites at various levels of activity. Contracts for all construction activity at the West Virginia site will have been negotiated by the end of 1966.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1964, $2,007 thousand (1965 adjustments, $19 thousand); 1965, $1,977 thousand; 1966, $2,462 thousand; 1967, $3,666 thousand.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Grants are made to public or private agencies, institutions, and individuals for research related to water supply and water pollution problems. Approximately 269 grants will be supported in 1967 as compared to 270 in 1966 and 242 in 1965.

(b) Fellowships.—Awards support graduate and post-graduate training of individual scientists and engineers in water pollution control research. An estimated 102 fellowships will be awarded in 1967 as compared to 114 in 1966 and 101 in 1965.

(c) Training.—Grants to colleges and universities are made to expand training of scientific and engineering manpower required for research and technical operations in water pollution control. An estimated 71 training projects will be supported as compared to 64 in 1966 and 57 in 1965.

(d) Demonstration.—Grants are awarded to public and private institutions and agencies for field investigations and studies of an applied nature to test and illustrate the applicability of research findings and newly developed techniques to problems of water supply and pollution control. An estimated 70 grants will be supported as compared to 51 in 1966 and 29 in 1965.

(e) Control programs.—Grants are made to States and interstate water pollution control agencies to assist them in supporting programs for water pollution control.

2. Direct operations—(a) Comprehensive program.—Develop comprehensive river basin water pollution control programs to provide the Nation's present and future populations with a regulated supply of clean water for all legitimate uses. The funds provide for initiating four new development phase projects, expanding six existing projects, and initiating management activities in four areas.

(b) Enforcement.—Investigate, document, and carry out pollution control enforcement actions. The budget will meet additional needs for new and expanding onsite studies, investigating new interstate pollution problems, postaction surveillance activities and water quality standards activities.

(c) Research, training, and technical services.—Conduct research, field studies and demonstrations of water pollution problems, provide technical assistance and training to Federal, State, and local agencies, collect and disseminate basic data, dissemination of information to the press and general public, and service the extramural grant programs.

The 1967 increase will provide for furthering the conduct of activities in water pollution control laboratories located in Boston, Mass., and Ann Arbor, Mich.; and two national water quality standards research laboratories at Narragansett, R.I., and Duluth, Minn. By the end of 1967 five laboratories will have been completed and operational. The increase will also provide for expanding the acid mine drainage control program, Klamath River project, and recreation and water quality studies, initiating a study of Tampa Bay, Fla., and a demonstration project in the San Joaquin Valley, Calif.

Advanced waste treatment activity will be accelerated through research contracts estimated at 30 in 1967 as compared to 10 in 1966 and 1965.

(d) Construction grants and facilities demonstration services.—To administer the waste treatment works construction grant, and sewer overflow and storm water control grant, and contract programs.

(e) Executive direction and management support.—Includes establishment of goals and policy; formulation and promulgation of agency plans, regulations and directives; distribution of resources; evaluation of performance and accomplishment; and day-to-day direction of the agency. Management support is provided for all programs in the areas of financial management, procurement and property, management services, and personnel.

1. Waste treatment works construction.—Grants are made to State, municipal, intermunicipal, and interstate agencies to stimulate and assist in the construction of waste treatment facilities. All sums appropriated in excess of $100 million are allocated to States and other jurisdictions on the basis of population, whereas sums appropriated up to $100 million are allocated on the basis of population and per capita income. All allocations to States not obligated within 6 months following the end of the year for which appropriated are subject to reallocation to States having unmet needs. However, before any such reallocation from a State, grants may be made to communities in such State experiencing Federal impact.

Grants for a specific project are subject to the following additional conditions:

(a) The maximum allowable grant is 30% of the eligible cost of a project or $1,200 thousand whichever is smaller, provided, however, that in the case of a project which will serve more than one municipality, the grant may be increased to a maximum of $4,800 thousand.

(b) The $1,200 thousand or $4,800 thousand limitation shall not apply if the State agrees to match equally all grants made from allocations from any appropriations in excess of $100 million.

(c) A grant may be increased 10% if a project is certified as being in conformity with a comprehensive plan developed by an official State, metropolitan, or interstate planning agency.

The 1965 amendments to the Federal Water Pollution Control Act authorized $150 million for 1966 and 1967. However, in 1966 $121 million was appropriated with $91 million allocated on the basis of a $100 million appropriation, taking into consideration population and per capita income, and with $30 million allocated on a population basis only.

This estimate provides the maximum amount authorized for 1967.

Grants are made to State, municipal, or intermunicipal or interstate agencies; contracts are made with public or private agencies or individuals.

3. Appalachian regional development.—Grants are made for waste treatment facilities to State, municipal, intermunicipal, and interstate agencies eligible under the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965. It is estimated that 30 new projects will be supported in 1967.

Under proposed legislation, 1967.—As part of the Administration's pollution control program, it is proposed to establish in selected watersheds Clean River Demonstration projects to be carried out, to the extent possible, under existing legislation. The projects will be designed to test and demonstrate different techniques of organization, financing, and pollution abatement in river basins.

In addition, legislation will be proposed to strengthen enforcement procedures, including registration of all wastes discharged into navigable rivers. It is proposed to expand research, training, and control programs and the demonstration of new techniques for advanced waste treatment.

Saint Elizabeths Hospital (1) provides treatment and care for the mentally ill who are either beneficiaries of the Federal Government or residents of the District of Columbia, (2) trains persons in the medical, nursing, and associated disciplines concerned with the treatment of psychiatric patients, and (3) conducts or cooperates with others in scientific research activities dealing with mental illness.

Programs of the hospital are financed by Federal appropriations covering treatment and care of Federal beneficiaries and by reimbursements made to the hospital for services rendered other patient groups, principally residents of the District of Columbia. Federal appropriations to the hospital are of the indefinite type, under which the hospital receives in appropriated funds the difference between the amount of reimbursements actually received during the year, on account of patient care provided by the hospital, and the total program costs approved by the Congress for the year. Reimbursement rates for reimbursable patient groups other than the District of Columbia are based on a pro rata share of the total program costs. Charges to the District of Columbia are based on the estimated mean (or average) cost per patient-day of the upper 10% of the States.

The functions of Saint Elizabeths Hospital are carried out under the three activity headings set forth below:

1. Operation and maintenance.—This activity covers the protective, therapeutic and rehabilitative programs of the hospital, maintenance of hospital buildings, procurement of supplies and materials, and the provision of necessary administrative services. Actual and estimated average daily patient load is as follows:

1966 estimate.....	5,936
1967 estimate.....	5,722

The ratio of staff to patients has increased from 62 employees for each 100 patients in 1965 to 64 in 1966 and 66 in 1967.

2. Training and education.—The training and education program of Saint Elizabeths Hospital provides multidisciplinary clinical training for professional and ancillary personnel engaged in or interested in mental health activities.

3. Research.—Under this activity heading, the hospital plans, develops, and carries out coordinated research programs and projects for the purpose of obtaining a better understanding of the causes of mental disorders, and of the factors bearing upon their development, treatment, and possible prevention. A close working relationship with the National Institute of Mental Health is maintained and the resources of both institutions are often combined in unified endeavors.

This appropriation covers all construction and facility improvement items of Saint Elizabeths Hospital. Projects underway or proposed for initiation in 1967 are set forth below:

1. Construction and equipment, continued treatment building (rehabilitation center).—Plans and specifications for this 450-bed facility are complete. Solicitation of bids for the construction contract has been deferred pending resolution of certain questions regarding the relationship of this building to community mental health program plans for the District of Columbia.

2. Miscellaneous improvements of existing facilities.—Funds requested will provide for: (a) rewiring and extension of electrical facilities, (b) screening inpatient buildings, (c) plumbing and heating modernization and improvement, (d) improvements in the hot water generation system, (e) improvement of employee locker facilities, (f) a study of improvement and renovation needs in a treatment building, (g) an increase in fuel oil storage capacity, (h) replacement of an elevator in a patient treatment building, (i) extension and improvement of electric clock systems in three treatment buildings, and (j) extension of a telephone cable.

3. Construction and equipment, treatment and cafeteria building.—Construction and landscaping were completed during 1965. Demolition of the old building which was replaced by the new facility is underway with completion expected during the year.

4. Extension and modernization of administration building.—The hospital's administration building was remodeled to provide more adequate space and facilities. All remodeled areas were in use throughout the past year. Replacement of the existing cupola on this building is the last remaining phase of this project, which will be fully completed in 1966.

5. Construction and equipment, security facility.—Funds requested will provide for development of plans and specifications for a security facility, which will contain maximum, medium, and minimum security features. Funds for development of a comprehensive program statement for this project were provided in the 1966 budget. The proposed facility will make possible the demolition of two antiquated patient buildings, constructed in 1879 and 1899.

The 1965 amendments to the Social Security Act (Public Law 89-97), enacted July 30, 1965, provided a comprehensive program of health insurance for the aged by establishing a hospital insurance plan and a voluntary supplementary medical insurance plan covering physicians' costs and other related medical services. This program will be operative beginning July 1, 1966. In addition, the 1965 amendments made changes in the old-age, survivors and disability insurance programs. Some of the most significant changes were: (1) A 7% increase in benefit payments for all beneficiaries, retroactive to January 1, 1965; (2) continuation of benefit payments to age 22 for children attending school; (3) payment of actuarially reduced benefits to widows at age 60; (4) liberalization of the definition of disability; and (5) liberalization of provisions governing the effect of beneficiary earnings on payment of retirement benefits.

The 1965 amendments created two new trust funds, the Federal hospital insurance trust fund and the Federal supplementary medical insurance trust fund. Benefits will be paid from these funds under a continuing authorization provided in the Social Security Act in the same manner as benefits for old-age, survivors and disability insurance are now paid from the Old-age and survivors insurance trust fund and the Disability insurance trust fund. Administrative costs of the entire social security program are paid from these trust funds.

1. Old-age and survivors insurance program.—Prospective beneficiaries file claims in the more than 600 district offices located throughout the country. The number of claims to be received in 1966 increases sharply because persons 65 or over who are still working will file claims to be eligible for hospital insurance benefits even though they will not yet receive old-age insurance benefits. Changes in the OASI program made by the amendments also contribute to this increase. The estimate for 1967 is more representative of the going level of persons who will file claims for survivors or old-age benefits. Because of the peaking of work in 1966, a backlog of OASI claims will be carried into 1967, and virtually all work related to recomputation of OASI benefits will be deferred from 1966 to 1967.

The beneficiary rolls require continuous revision to insure the prompt mailing of benefit checks each month to beneficiaries who are entitled to them, and to discontinue such checks when eligibility for benefits is interrupted or ends. The number of OASI beneficiaries in current pay status and consequently the amount of OASI benefit payments will continue to rise each year. The abnormally high benefit payment increase in 1966 reflects the 7% increase in benefits authorized by the 1965 amendments. This increase was retroactive to January 1965, but the full retroactive amount was paid in 1966.

2. Disability insurance program.—Claims for disability insurance benefits are filed in the Administration's district offices. Most of these claims are sent to State agencies where determinations as to the existence of a disability are made. These determinations are reviewed in the central office of the Social Security Administration to assure uniformity among States. The more liberal definition of disability contained in the 1965 amendments and the continuation of benefits to disabled workers' children who attend school after reaching age 18 are the principal reasons for the large increase in claims in 1966. The 1967 claims estimate reflects the more normal level of workers and their dependents who will file claims for disability benefits under this program. Some backlog of claims work will be carried over from 1966 to 1967. The number of disability beneficiaries in payment status and the amount of benefit payments will continue to rise each year. The abnormally high increase in benefit payments in 1966 is due to the large number of new claims and the 7% benefit increase authorized by the 1965 amendments.

3. Health insurance program.—This activity includes both the hospital insurance program and the voluntary supplementary medical insurance program established by the 1965 amendments. The hospital insurance program covers virtually all persons age 65 and over. Those individuals who are not entitled to benefits under the old-age and survivors insurance program or under the railroad retirement program will file claims for hospital insurance benefits. Most of these claims are expected to be filed in 1966. The hospital insurance program will be financed through a separate payroll tax effective January 1, 1966 to be paid by employers, employees and self-employed persons and by appropriations from the General fund to cover the costs of the noninsured persons. The supplementary medical insurance program covers essentially all persons age 65 and over on a voluntary basis and will be financed by contributions from those who elect to come under the program and by matching contributions from the General fund.

The overall responsibility for administration of the health insurance program will rest with the Social Security Administration. Certain administrative functions will be delegated to State agencies and intermediaries and some functions will also be performed by the Public Health

4. Maintenance of earnings accounts.—Eligibility for old-age and survivors insurance and disability benefits and the amounts of these benefit payments are based on the lifetime earnings records maintained by the Social Security Administration. The volume of earnings record work is related to the level of employment and the rate of labor turnover. The 1965 amendments expanded the employment and earnings covered by social security by including doctors of medicine and most payments received as tips. These amendments are reflected in the 1966 and 1967 estimates along with the expected increase in the total labor force and a decline in unemployment.

5. Hearings and appeals.—Individuals whose claims are disallowed have a right to appeal to the Bureau of Hearings and Appeals. Also, under the new hospital insurance program, providers of services have the right to appeal an adverse decision by the Administration. The increased number of hearing requests anticipated in 1966 and 1967 is related principally to the effect of the liberalization of the definition of disability provided in the 1965 amendments. The effect of the health insurance program will be small in 1966 and will increase in 1967, but the full impact will not be felt in this activity until after 1967.

7. Contingency reserve.—This reserve ($35 million) represents funds to be made available only to process workloads not anticipated in the budget estimate or to meet mandatory increases in costs of agencies or organizations with which agreements have been made to participate in the administration of the health insurance program.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1964, $24 thousand; 1965, $349 thousand; 1966, $11,167 thousand; 1967, $25,621 thousand.

Funds requested for expenditure from the trust funds, established by the Social Security Act, as amended, will provide for: (1) The construction of an additional office building and an extension of the operations building at the social security headquarters in Baltimore County, Md.; (2) the purchase of additional land adjacent to the headquarters site; and (3) the acquisition of sites, design, and construction of 30 additional buildings to house district offices of the Social Security Administration.

1. Headquarters construction.—The continued growth of the social security program and the impact of the new health insurance programs and other major changes in the Social Security Act provided in the 1965 amendments have rendered existing headquarters facilities inadequate. Long-range headquarters space requirements have been reevaluated in light of the impact of the expanded program. To provide for space needs for the 10-year period ending June 30, 1976, an additional office building and a major extension of the operations building totaling 382,150 net assignable square feet will be required. This is in addition to the presently owned space and the expansion program already funded. Funds for the design and specifications of these buildings were provided in the 1966 supplemental appropriation. An estimate of construction costs to be obligated in 1967 is $17,341,000. In addition, funds totaling $750 thousand are requested for 1967 for purchase of land adjacent to the headquarters site to insure that future program expansions can be met within the one consolidated headquarters site.

2. District office construction.—Funds were provided in the 1965 and 1966 appropriations for the acquisition of sites, design, and construction of Social Security Administration district offices in 37 selected cities throughout the country. This is part of a long-range program of construction to provide more appropriate and adequate space for district offices in locations where construction is both feasible and advantageous. An estimate of $8,159,000 for 1967 will provide for the acquisition of sites, design, and construction of district office buildings in 30 more selected cities.

paid to individuals covered by the hospital insurance program but not entitled to monthly benefits under the social security or railroad retirement programs; and (2) the Federal Government's matching contributions to the Supplementary medical insurance trust fund from which benefit payments are made under the voluntary medical insurance program. The estimated reimbursement for hospital benefits includes related administrative expenses. An explanation of the distribution by trust fund follows:

1. Reimbursement for hospital insurance expenditures for the uninsured.—The Social Security Amendments of 1965 (Public Law 89-97), enacted July 30, 1965, established a Federal hospital insurance trust fund to finance the hospital insurance program. Tax contributions from employers, employees, and the self-employed covered by the social security and railroad retirement systems will be paid into this fund beginning January 1, 1966. Individuals age 65 and over who are entitled to retirement benefits under the social security or railroad retirement systems are eligible for hospital insurance benefits from the trust fund. In addition, the amendments also extend hospital insurance coverage to essentially all other individuals age 65 and over, or who will attain age 65 before 1968, and are not entitled to social security or railroad retirement benefits. The cost of providing benefits for these persons will be met from the general revenues of the Treasury. The estimated reimbursement to the Hospital insurance trust fund for 1967 for benefit payments to be made to non-insured individuals, and related administrative expenses, is $282,947,000.

2. Contribution to Supplementary medical insurance trust fund.—The Social Security Amendments of 1965 established a voluntary supplementary medical insurance program covering the costs of physicians' services and other related medical costs. This program is offered to virtually every individual who has attained age 65. Persons who elect to enroll initially in the supplementary plan will pay premiums of $3 per month. (For those beneficiaries receiving retirement benefits under the social security or railroad retirement systems, the premiums will be deducted from monthly benefit payments.) The Government will match these premiums with $3 per month for each enrollee paid from the general revenues of the Treasury. All premium payments will be deposited in the Supplementary medical insurance trust fund, from which benefits and the cost of administration will be paid. An estimated $550 million is required for the Government's matching contribution in 1967.

Under existing legislation, 1966.—A supplemental appropriation request of $367,800 thousand is proposed for 1966 to cover reimbursement of $25,800 thousand to the Hospital insurance trust fund for administrative expenses related to noninsured individuals in 1966, and an authorization to advance $342 million to the Supplementary medical insurance trust fund. Section 1844 of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1965 authorizes an advance appropriation from the general fund equal to $18 multiplied by the number of individuals who could be eligible for the program in July 1966. Based on an estimated 19 million eligible individuals, the advance computes to $342 million. This advance, which will remain available through calendar year 1967, will provide an operating fund to assure prompt payment of benefits in the early months of the program and to provide a contingency reserve.

PAYMENT FOR MILITARY SERVICE CREDITS

For payment to the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, the Federal Disability Insurance, and the Federal Hospital Insurance trust funds for benefit payments and other costs resulting from non-contributory coverage extended certain veterans, as provided under section 217(g) of the Social Security Act, as amended, $105,000,000.

The appropriation covers the reimbursement to the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund, the Disability Insurance Trust Fund and the Hospital Insurance Trust Fund for benefits paid on the basis of non-contributory military service credits of veterans of World War II and certain veterans of the postwar period. The estimated reimbursement includes reimbursement for administrative expenses and interest lost to the trust funds. An explanation of the distribution follows:

Reimbursement for noncontributory military service credits.—Section 217(g) of the Social Security Act, as amended, required the Secretary to determine by September 1965, the amount which, if paid in equal installments at the beginning of each fiscal year in the period beginning with July 1, 1965, and ending with June 30, 2015, would accumulate, with interest compounded annually, to an amount sufficient to place the OASI, DI, and HI trust funds in the same position at the end of the period, as they would have been if the noncontributory credit for military service had not been provided.

On the basis of this determination it has been estimated that annual installments of $105 million will be required. The first installment to be paid in fiscal year 1966 is proposed for later transmittal as a supplemental appropriation. The annual payment to each trust fund is (in millions of dollars):

Federal credit unions are privately owned, cooperative associations organized for the purpose of promoting thrift among their members and creating a source of credit for provident or productive purposes, authorized by the Federal Credit Union Act (act of June 26, 1934), as amended.

The Bureau finances its activities out of fees for services performed.

The Bureau's activities consist of (a) chartering new Federal credit unions, (b) supervising established Federal credit unions, (c) making periodic examinations of their financial condition and operating practices, and (d) administrative services. Data relating to activities are shown below:

Grants are made to States with plans for administering the above public assistance programs that have been approved by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. As of November 30, 1965, 54 jurisdictions including all of the States, and the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands were administering old-age assistance, aid to families with dependent children, and aid to the blind; 53 jurisdictions were administering aid to the permanently and totally disabled; and 47 States had plans approved for administering medical assistance for the aged, with 1 additional State expected to have an approved plan in 1966. At this time, 16 States receive grants under a combined single plan for the adult public assistance programs.

The Social Security Amendments of 1965 establish a new title XIX, "Grants to States for Medical Assistance Programs." The purpose of this title is to make medical services for the needy more generally available through liberalizing the Federal law permitting Federal financial participation in payments to medical vendors. At this time nearly all States make vendor payments for some items of medical care for at least some of the needy under titles I, IV, X, XIV, and XVI. Effective January 1, 1966, States will have the option of claiming Federal financial participation in vendor medical payments under the new title XIX or under the other public assistance titles.

The Social Security Amendments of 1965 also included a number of amendments to the public assistance titles of the Social Security Act that are designed to make additional needy people eligible for assistance and to raise the level of assistance payments. The major changes involving additional expenditures from Federal funds are as follows:

1. An increase of about $2.50 per recipient per month in the Federal share of assistance payments to the aged, blind, and disabled; and in aid to families with dependent children, of about $1.25 per recipient; and

2. Federal financial participation in assistance payments to aged individuals who are patients in public mental and tuberculosis hospitals, a group hitherto excluded from the States' claims for Federal funds.

Financing.—A single appropriation is made to meet the Federal share of the combined costs of grants to States for public assistance including cost of administration, services, and training. This is an open-end grant, and the amount of the appropriation depends upon the States' expenditures for each of the program activities. The Federal share of total expenditures for each program activity is computed in accordance with the formula for that program activity specified in titles I, IV, X, XIV, XVI, and XIX of the Social Security Act. Title XI, section 1115 of the Social Security Act provides that for 1963-67 up to $2 million may be used to cover the costs of demonstration projects not covered by funds made available under the above public assistance titles and title XI, section 1110 of the Social Security Act.

Amount of request.—For 1967, the total amount of Federal, State, and local expenditures for assistance, for administration, services, and training, and for demonstration projects is estimated at $6,266,700 thousand of which $3,769,400 thousand represents the Federal share. The appropriation request of $3,746,400 thousand is $23 million less than the estimated Federal share, because the States will have available for expenditures $23 million representing the Federal share of collections and adjustments for prior years. The request for 1967 includes a net cost of $300.4 million for the Social Security Amendments of 1965. This amount is the difference between the total cost of the 1965 amendments to the public assistance titles of the Social Security Act and the reduction in public assistance costs that is expected to occur under title XVIII, Health Insurance for the Aged, also established under the 1965 amendments. The net costs attributable to the 1965 amendments is $68.6 million greater in 1967 than in 1966 because the amendments to the public assistance titles will be in effect for the full year 1967 compared with half of 1966; beginning July 1, 1966, payments for hospital care will be made under title XVIII. The estimate for 1967 includes an amount of $240 million for the additional cost of the medical assistance program established under title XIX; the balance of the cost is included as part of the amount estimated for grants to be made for the other public assistance programs.

It is estimated that a supplemental appropriation of $381 million will be required for 1966 in addition to the $3,222 million already appropriated. The supplemental is needed to finance costs beyond the amount appropriated under each of the public assistance programs for 1966 and to complete requirements for 1965.

The appropriation request of $3,746,400 thousand for 1967 is $143,400 thousand more than the $3,222 million appropriated for 1966 plus the proposed supplemental request of $381 million for 1966. Excluding the amount of $26,025 thousand used from the 1966 estimate to complete requirements for 1965, and allowing for an increase of $475 thousand in the estimated amount of collections and adjustments for prior years in 1967, the amount of the increase from 1966 to 1967 is $169,900 thousand. Of the total rise between 1966 and 1967, $68,600 thousand is attributable to an increase for the Social Security Amendments of 1965 and $101,300 thousand is for increases in expenditures for assistance payments and for the cost of administration, services, and training.

The figures for 1966 used in the tables appearing under the activities below include the proposed supplemental request of $381 million; the figures shown in the program and financing schedule include only the $3,222 million already appropriated.

1. Payments to or on behalf of recipients.—(a) Old-age assistance.—The average number of recipients per month for 1967 is estimated to be 13,000 smaller than for 1966. The estimated average monthly payment is $1.50 less than the estimate for 1966. The decrease in average payments and in aggregate payments reflects the reduction that will result from the health insurance for the aged provisions of title XVIII of the Social Security amendments which become effective on July 1, 1966.

(b) Medical assistance for the aged.—The total number of recipients on whose behalf vendor medical payments will be made in 1967 is estimated to be about the same as for 1966. The estimated average annual amount per recipient for 1967 is $191 less than in 1966. The drop in average payment and in aggregate payments in 1967 reflect the effect of the health insurance for the aged program.

(f) Medical assistance program.—Effective January 1, 1966, States will have the option of claiming Federal financial participation in vendor medical payments under the new title XIX or under the other public assistance titles. Expenditures under title XIX are subject to more favorable Federal financial participation than that available under the other public assistance titles, but the program requirements under title XIX will be difficult for some States to meet. Most States have not reached a firm decision as to the feasibility of their moving to title XIX.

The estimate shown below represents only the additional amount of Federal funds estimated to be required under title XIX, if available State and local funds are matched at the more favorable rate allowed under that title. The rest of the expenditures that may be made under this title are included as part of the estimates for programs of old-age assistance, medical assistance for the aged, aid to families with dependent children, aid to the blind, and aid to the permanently and totally disabled.

As States move to title XIX, expenditures now made under the other programs will be transferred to title XIX; as a result the Federal fund requirements for the other programs will be lower than the amounts shown and Federal fund requirements under title XIX will be larger than the amounts shown.

2. State and local administration, services, and training.—The Federal share contributes toward the salaries and expenses of about 95,000 State and local personnel.

Total costs in 1967 are estimated at $49,400 thousand more than in 1966; $36,600 thousand of this increase will come from Federal funds. The increase in costs is attributable primarily to (1) staff increases to handle a

Under existing legislation, 1966.—In connection with its consideration of the regular Labor-HEW appropriation bill for 1966 and a supplemental request solely for increased Federal participation resulting from the Social Security Amendments of 1965, Congress approved an appropriation of $3,222 million for grants to States for old-age assistance, medical assistance, aid to families with dependent children, aid to the blind, and aid to the permanently and totally disabled under titles I, IV, X, XIV, XVI, and XIX of the Social Security Act, as amended.

Recent program trends and estimates submitted by the States indicate that the appropriation for 1966 will fall short of meeting the Federal share of State expenditures by an estimated $381 million. This amount includes $26,025 thousand from the 1966 appropriation used to complete 1965 requirements.

Public Law 86-571, approved July 5, 1960, provides for hospitalization and services to repatriated mentally ill U.S. nationals until arrangements can be made for assumption of responsibility by States of residence or the repatriate's family. This estimate assumes that a total of 131 mentally ill repatriates will require hospitalization in 1967. This compares with 103 who required hospital care in 1965 and 118 estimated for 1966.

Section 1113 of the Social Security Act authorizes temporary assistance to U.S. citizens and their dependents who return to this country because of destitution, illness, or international crises and who are without available resources. It is estimated that in 1967 temporary assistance will be provided to a total of about 183 cases who have been repatriated because of destitution and sickness as compared to 123 in 1965 and 150 estimated for 1966.

The Bureau is responsible for the administration of grant-in-aid programs which provide financial assistance, medical care, and social services to approximately 8 million persons through the following programs: Old-age assistance, medical assistance for the aged, aid to families with dependent children, aid to the blind, aid to the permanently and totally disabled, and, effective January 1, 1966, the new medical assistance programs established as title XIX of the Social Security Act by the 1965 amendments to that act. In fiscal year 1967, the programs are expected to cost about $6¼ billion in Federal, State, and local funds—of which about $3.7 billion will be Federal funds. It is the mission of the Bureau to help develop, maintain, and improve these programs which aid needy people in securing the necessities of life, in meeting health problems, and in achieving as much economic and personal independence as possible.

The Bureau also administers a program of assistance for repatriated U.S. nationals who are returned from abroad because of mental or other kinds of illness, destitution, or international crises and who are without available resources.

1. Program policies and standards.—Requirements of the Social Security Act are interpreted and specialized technical assistance is provided to State agencies. There is special emphasis to assure that problems of public welfare, including methods of administration, are dealt with constructively. Currently a major Bureau activity is providing technical assistance to the States to effect a new program of medical care for the needy. Under this program, medical care to the needy aged may be provided, wherever necessary, to supplement that to be available under the two new social security insurance plans; it also provides for expansion of medical services covering a broad group of other needy individuals, especially children, to an extent never possible in the past in the public assistance programs. Considerable emphasis is also being placed on alleviating and preventing dependency to the maximum extent possible through methods such as: increased development and utilization of social services, including community resources; community work and training programs; and better trained public welfare personnel.

2. Review State plans and grants, evaluate State operations.—Action is taken on new State plans and on amendments thereto to assure conformity to the act; reviews are made of operations and findings are used to assist States in administering their programs; consultation and advice are provided on problems arising in day-to-day operations; grants are processed; information is provided to the public.

3. Research and statistics.—Information is collected in cooperation with State agencies. Special analyses are undertaken to provide national statistics and other information on public assistance which are used by the Bureau and the States in formulating policies, planning program content, setting standards, making legislative recommendations, justifying appropriation requests, answering requests, and guiding administrative action.

The States are required to match one-half of the amounts appropriated for maternal and child health and crippled children's services. The remainder is distributed to the States in proportion to their financial need, except that not to exceed 12½% of the appropriations for the above programs is available for special project grants to State agencies and to public or nonprofit institutions of higher learning. The States are required to match all appropriated funds for child welfare services but the percent of matching required varies from 33½ to 66%. There are no matching requirements for the programs of grants for research, training, or demonstration projects in child welfare, grants for research projects relating to maternal and child health and crippled children's services, and grants for training of professional personnel for health and related care of crippled children.

1. Maternal and child health services.—Grants are provided to States for the extension and improvement of health services for mothers and children, especially in rural areas. It is proposed that $4.75 million of these grants be earmarked for special projects for mentally retarded children.

2. Crippled children's services.—Grants are made to States to extend and improve services for crippled children including medical, surgical, corrective, and other care, especially in rural areas. It is proposed that $3.75 million of these grants be earmarked for special projects for crippled children who are mentally retarded.

3. Child welfare services.—Grants aid States to establish, extend, and strengthen child welfare services for the protection and care of homeless, dependent, and neglected children, and children in danger of becoming delinquent, and for the return of runaway children to their own homes in other States.

4. Research, training, or demonstration projects in child welfare.—Grants are made to public or nonprofit institutions of higher learning or agencies and organizations engaged in research or child welfare activities for projects of regional or national significance or for those which demonstrate new facilities or methods which contribute to the advancement of child welfare, and to public or nonprofit institutions of higher learning for special projects for training personnel for work in the field of child welfare.

5. Special project grants for maternity and infant care.—Grants are made to State or local health agencies for special projects for maternity and infant care to help reduce the incidence of mental retardation caused by complications associated with childbearing. The Federal grant cannot exceed 75% of the cost of a project.

6. Special project grants for health of school and preschool children.—Grants are made to State or local health agencies, State crippled children's agencies, medical schools, and teaching hospitals affiliated with medical schools for special projects for health care and services for children and youth of school age or for preschool children. The Federal grant cannot exceed 75% of the cost of a project.

7. Training of professional personnel for care of crippled children.—Grants are made to public or other nonprofit institutions of higher learning for training of professional personnel for health and related care of crippled children, particularly mentally retarded children and children with multiple handicaps.

8. Research projects relating to maternal and child health services and crippled children's services.—Grants, contracts, or jointly financed cooperative arrangements are made for research projects relating to maternal and child health and crippled children's services that show promise of substantial contribution to the advancement of these programs.

The Bureau investigates and reports on the health and welfare of children and administers grants for: maternal and child health services; crippled children's services; child welfare services; research, training or demonstration projects relating to child welfare, maternal and child health, and crippled children's services; special projects for maternity and infant care; and special projects for health of school and preschool children; and projects for training professional personnel for the care of crippled children.

1. State and local health services for children.—Policies and requirements for State maternal and child health and crippled children's programs are developed; State plans are reviewed and approved; policies and guides are developed and applications are reviewed for special project grants for health of school and preschool children; consultative services are given to State agencies, other public and voluntary agencies and organizations, and educational institutions engaged in training professional personnel; and guides and recommendations are prepared on the provision of child health services.

2. State and local social services for children.—The same approach is used for the child welfare services as for the child health services.

3. Technical assistance to States and communities for juvenile delinquency programs.—Consultation is given to States, communities, and organizations, both public and voluntary, on standards and methods for care and treatment of juvenile delinquents, on content of State or local programs, and on problems of organization and coordination on a statewide or local basis; assistance is given to State agencies and educational institutions in planning for training of professional and nonprofessional personnel in the field of juvenile delinquency.

4. Research in child life and services for children.—Studies on child health and welfare, particularly social and economic problems are conducted and the programs and services for children are evaluated. The results are interpreted to the lay and professional public through pamphlets and bulletins.

5. Information for parents and others working with children.—Publications are prepared and distributed on child health and welfare services. Upon request, assistance is given to States in interpreting their child health and welfare programs.

6. Mental retardation services for children.—Policies and guides are developed, and applications are reviewed for special maternity and infant care project grants designed to help reduce the incidence of mental retardation caused by complications of childbearing; for research projects relating to maternal and child health and crippled children's services; and for grants for training professional personnel for the care of crippled children. Consultative services are given to State and local agencies, both public and voluntary, with emphasis on expansion of services for mentally retarded children; program interpretive materials are prepared and distributed.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1964, $167 thousand; 1965, $279 thousand; 1966, $279 thousand; 1967, $279 thousand.

This program, under Public Law 87-274, was extended by Public Law 88-368 to June 30, 1966, and by Public Law 89-69 to June 30, 1967.

1. Grants and contracts for demonstration and evaluation projects.—Funds will be used for demonstrating improved methods in the prevention and control of juvenile delinquency with emphasis placed on supporting programs of law enforcement and corrections, remedial services, and self-help projects especially suited to the needs of young people. In 1965, 24 special demonstration programs were started. The 1966 estimate includes continuing costs for 15 special demonstration programs. The 1967 estimate includes costs for continuation of about 15 projects and approximately 13 new starts.

2. Grants and contracts for training of personnel.—Funds are for the purpose of training personnel already employed or preparing for employment in programs for the prevention and control of juvenile delinquency. This training is accomplished through university-based training centers and workshops and short-term traineeships. Over 19,000 personnel who work or are preparing to work in the prevention and control of juvenile delinquency were trained by the end of 1965. The number trained in 1966 and 1967 will be 8,000 and 10,000.

3. Technical assistance services and administration.—This activity provides for coordination of specialized services in juvenile delinquency and control both at the Federal and local levels; for project and training application review and approval; collection and dissemination of information; and direct services and technical assistance to local communities and training institutions in the field.

4. Washington metropolitan area demonstration and evaluation project.—This special project was started in 1965 for the purpose of demonstrating to the Nation the effectiveness of a large-scale, well-rounded program for the prevention and control of juvenile delinquency and youth offenses. The project includes among other things, a neighborhood development center, a law enforcement and corrections program, and an innovative welfare program. It is being designed to demonstrate methods of increasing opportunities available to young people who are, or are in danger of becoming, juvenile delinquents or youth offenders, and of increasing the ability of these youth to make use of these opportunities.

COOPERATIVE RESEARCH OR DEMONSTRATION PROJECTS—Con.

The Social Security Act authorizes grants to States, grants to public and nonprofit organizations and contracts or jointly financed cooperative arrangements for the conduct of research or demonstration projects relating to programs carried on or existing under the Social Security Act and related programs. The program is administered by the Welfare Administration in cooperation with the Social Security Administration.

Funds appropriated are used to support cooperative research or demonstration projects in areas such as (1) those relating to the prevention and reduction of dependency, (2) those which will aid in effecting coordination of planning between private and public welfare agencies, and (3) those which will help improve the administration and effectiveness of programs carried on or existing under the Social Security Act and programs related thereto.

The $3,150 thousand requested for 1967 will provide $978 thousand to support approximately 22 new projects, $1,522 thousand for the continuation in 1967 of projects initiated in prior years, and $650 thousand to initiate directed research.

The Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954 authorizes the conduct of studies and research abroad in program matters for which the Welfare Administration has statutory responsibility in the United States. The estimate for 1967 contemplates the use of $2 million in foreign currencies.

1. Maternal and child health.—Studies, research, research planning, and research training in maternal and child health and handicapping conditions are proposed for 10 countries selected because of research opportunities in special health fields to gain knowledge of value to the United States, to the country involved, and internationally.

2. Social welfare.—Studies of urban social welfare and specialized social services are proposed in 10 countries selected because of country experiences and research facilities in programs such as urban social services, community development, methods to strengthen family life, improve child care and prevent juvenile delinquency, and services for the aging. Cooperative projects are undertaken to contribute new knowledge valuable to social welfare programs in the United States, the country concerned, and internationally.

ASSISTANCE TO REFUGEES IN THE UNITED STATES—Continued

A program to assist Cuban refugees in the United States was established by the President in 1961. During 1961 and 1962, the program was carried out under authorities in the Mutual Security Act of 1954, and the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961. On June 28, 1962, Public Law 87-510 was enacted which provides for assistance to refugees in the United States.

As of June 30, 1965, 177,599 refugees had registered at the Cuban Refugee Center in Miami and 89,402 had been resettled under Government auspices to other locations in the United States. It is estimated that about 80,000 refugees remained as of that date in the Miami area. In 1965 and for the first quarter of 1966, refugees were registering at the Refugee Center at the rate of about 5,200 persons a year. On October 3, 1965, President Johnson announced that the United States would permit the orderly influx of refugees allowed to leave Cuba as a result of the Castro statement of September 28, 1965. It is estimated that an additional 31,500 refugees will register at the Center in 1966 and 48,000 will register in 1967 as a result of this policy. The program provides the following services for Cuban refugees in the United States:

1. Program administration.—Provides Federal direction of the program and includes work with refugees to prepare them for resettlement and employment. New registrations are estimated to total 36,700 in 1966 and 52,000 in 1967.

2. Welfare assistance and services.—State and private welfare agencies provide, on a reimbursable basis, to needy refugees, financial assistance, hospitalization, surplus food, as well as care for unaccompanied children. At the end of 1965, 17,500 persons were receiving financial assistance in Florida. It is expected that a portion of the new influx of refugees entering the United States will require financial assistance in Florida. The total number of persons requiring financial assistance in Florida is estimated at 17,000 persons on June 30, 1966, and 23,000 persons on June 30, 1967.

3. Resettlement.—Through contracts with various agencies, refugees are provided homes and jobs in areas other than Miami. During 1965, 10,157 persons were resettled. It is estimated that 28,500 persons will be resettled under Government auspices in 1966 and 40,200 persons will be resettled in 1967.

4. Education.—Selected training is provided to equip the refugees for employment and resettlement. The average daily child population on whose behalf payments are made to meet part of the added cost to the Miami public schools is expected to increase from 15,540 in 1965 to 17,100 in 1966 and 17,250 in 1967. Loans made to needy college students are expected to rise from 2,950 in 1965 to 3,700 in 1966 and 3,900 in 1967.

5. Health services.—These services are provided to new arrivals and to needy refugees in Miami and include medical screening, outpatient clinic services, and care of patients with tuberculosis and mental illness.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1964, $9 thousand; 1965, $8 thousand; 1966, $8 thousand; 1967, $8 thousand.

The Administration on Aging was created in 1965 by the Older Americans Act of 1965. The existing Office of Aging was abolished at the same time the Administration on Aging was established. The Administration performs the following functions: Serves as a clearinghouse for information related to problems of the aged and aging; assists the Secretary in all matters pertaining to these problems; administers grant programs which were established by the Act; gathers statistics and performs research; provides technical assistance and consultation to States, communities, organizations, and institutions with respect to programs for the aged and aging; develops and publishes educational materials dealing with the welfare of older persons; and stimulates more effective use of existing resources and available services for the aged and aging.

1. Grants for community planning, services, and training.—Grant funds are allotted to State agencies according to formula on the basis of acceptable State plans submitted by the agencies. The State allotments are available for grants to pay part of the cost of projects in the State. These projects must be approved by the State agency in accordance with its State plan.

The formula for allocation provides that each State receive 1 percent of the total amount appropriated, except the Virgin Islands, Guam, and American Samoa which receive one-half percent, with the remainder allotted on the basis of the population aged 65 or over in each State as related to the total population in the Nation aged 65 and over. These funds are to be used to pay 75 percent of the first year costs of projects, 60 percent of the second year costs, and 50 percent of the third year costs. Projects are limited to 3 years of Federal support, but are to be established on a basis which assures continuation of desirable activities after termination of Federal support. States may use up to 10 percent of their allotment or $15 thousand, whichever is the larger, to pay up to one-half of the administrative costs of the State agency. Unused portions of State allotments are available for reallocation to other States.

The projects supported are to be for the following purposes: Community planning and coordination of programs for the aged and aging; demonstrations of such programs or activities; training of specialized personnel to carry out programs and activities; and establishment of new, or expansion of existing programs.

2. Grants and contracts for research, demonstration, and training projects.—Grants are made to, and contracts are made with, public and nonprofit private agencies, organizations, and institutions after consultation with the appropriate State agency. Research, development, and demonstration contracts are also made with individuals.

There are no matching requirements for the programs of grants and contracts for research, development, demonstration, and training projects in the field of aging. However, recipients of a grant or contract will be required to contribute toward research projects, and may be required to contribute money, facilities, or services toward carrying out other projects.

Grants and contracts are made for the following purposes: To study current living patterns of older persons and identify factors which are beneficial or detrimental to the wholesome and meaningful living of such persons; to develop or demonstrate new approaches, techniques, and methods which hold promise of substantial contributions toward wholesome and meaningful living for older persons; to develop or demonstrate approaches, methods, and techniques for achieving or improving coordination of community services for older persons; to evaluate these approaches, techniques, and methods which may assist older persons to enjoy wholesome and meaningful living and to continue contributing to the strength and welfare of the Nation; and to train persons employed or preparing for employment in carrying out programs pertaining to the aged or aging.

3. Technical assistance, services, and administration.—The Administration on Aging formulates policies, requirements, and guides for the development of State plans; reviews and approves State plans; issues grant allocations; evaluates the administration of State plans in terms of compliance with existing plans and the development of better plans; and gives consultative services to the State agencies and grantees.

The Administration develops policies, requirements, and guides for research, development, demonstration, and training projects; stimulates interest in projects covering undeveloped areas; evaluates project proposals; awards grants and contracts; evaluates project progress and results; and provides consultative services to prospective and actual awardees.

The Administration prepares, collects, and publishes educational and informational materials on a wide range of subjects related to problems of the aged and aging. These materials are aimed at professional aging specialists, the aging population, and the general public.

The Administration conducts research, gathers and analyzes statistics, carries on program evaluation and development, provides short-term training and technical instruction, and conducts administrative operations.

Gallaudet College is a private, nonprofit institution providing advanced education for the deaf, a graduate school to train teachers, and a research program to provide information about the deaf. It operates the Kendall elementary and secondary school for deaf children (primarily from the District of Columbia) and a preschool program for very young deaf children which serve as the laboratory schools for the college graduate program. Federal funds provide 66% of the operating costs.

A construction program designed to replace aging buildings and provide modern facilities to accommodate increased enrollments was initiated in 1956. Full financial support for the erection of a number of new buildings and alterations and repairs to the existing physical plant has been provided by the Federal Government. The estimates for 1966 and 1967 provide for the continuation of this support to meet current needs and to afford adequate facilities for the expansion of the college to meet steadily increasing enrollments. New obligational authority for projects is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

The university is a private nonprofit institution consisting of an undergraduate college, a graduate school offering the master's degree and the degree of doctor of philosophy (in English, history, chemistry, physics, zoology, government, pharmacology, and physiology), and eight professional schools. Federal funds provide 55% of the operating costs.

In 1965, 194 research projects were supported by outside organizations, and an estimated 225 projects will be undertaken in 1966 and 1967. The operation and maintenance staff services 47 buildings located on the university's 60-acre campus. The dormitories, food service, bookstores, and athletic program are self-supporting.

1. Executive direction and coordination.—Broad policy direction is given to the various operating programs of the Department. Staff assistance is provided for the development of the Department's legislative program and for coordination and leadership in all areas of program operation. Staffing is provided for long-range program and policy planning and for coordination of the civil rights responsibilities of the Department. The budget plan for 1967 envisions further strengthening of staff support provided to the Secretary through this activity.

2. Public information.—Overall guidance is given to the Department's relation with the public. Information is provided to the press, various public and private organizations, and to interested individuals.

3. Administrative management.—Staff assistance is provided to the Secretary for formulating administrative policy in the areas of personnel, general services and general management. Various types of management studies are conducted with a view toward improving administrative efficiency. Services are provided for internal security functions. Policies are established for personnel operations and for various types of general services activities. This activity includes the Department library which serves all headquarters staff.

4. Financial management.—Staff assistance is provided to the Secretary in formulating policy in all areas of financial management.

The Office of Audit was established on July 1, 1965, and is responsible for the overall policy, liaison, and coordination of all Department audit activities. Audit functions from the Public Health Service, Social Security Administration, Office of Education, Food and Drug Administration, Office of Field Administration, and Office of the Secretary were consolidated into this one office.

This Office is responsible for performing internal and external audits of all Department activities, including grants and contracts awarded to States, educational institutions, and various types of profit and nonprofit organizations, to provide assurance that Federal funds are used for the purposes intended. In addition, the Office maintains liaison and coordinates audit activities of the Department with those of other Government agencies, including the Defense Contract Audit Agency.

The Office of Audit will be administered on a decentralized basis, consisting of a central office in Washington, D.C., responsible for policy, coordination with program representatives, and overall administration and a field staff, divided into the nine HEW regional areas, responsible for the performance of all audits within their respective geographical areas.

The Secretary is represented in each of the Department's nine regions by a regional director who is responsible for carrying out departmental policies and for leadership, coordination, evaluation, and administrative supervision of all operating agencies' program representatives located in the regional offices.

The two activities of the Office of Field Administration are as follows:

1. Field administration.—This activity includes review, evaluation, and coordination of Department program operations conducted through the regional offices. It also provides personnel, fiscal, and office services for regional employees, the number of which is expected to reach 29,000 in 1967.

3. State merit systems.—For 24 grant-in-aid programs, grants to States are contingent upon compliance with Federal regulations and standards relating to State personnel administration. The Division of State Merit Systems reviews State plans and personnel practices in more than 300 State agencies administering grant programs and 70 merit systems applicable to them. On State request, it provides technical services for increased efficiency of personnel administration.

1. President's Council on Aging.—The Council was established by Executive Order 11022 of May 14, 1962, to advise the President regarding programs and developments in the field of aging, to assist in the coordination of Federal aging programs, and to promote the sharing and dissemination of information on the many aspects of aging among Federal agencies and between them and State, local, or private groups. The heads of the following agencies were named as council members: Health, Education, and Welfare (chairman), Agriculture, Commerce, Labor, Treasury, Civil Service Commission, Housing and Home Finance Agency, and Veterans Administration. Beginning in 1966, the activities of the Council will be carried out in conjunction with the regular activities of member agencies.

2. President's Council on Physical Fitness.—The Council was established by Executive Order 11074 of January 8, 1963, to foster improvements in existing programs and promote additional efforts to enhance the physical fitness of Americans. Members of the Council are the following agency heads: Secretaries of Health, Education, and Welfare (chairman), Defense, Interior, Agriculture, Commerce, Labor; the Attorney General, and the Administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. The Council's activities were supported by financial contributions of the member agencies. Beginning in 1966, this activity will be financed from funds appropriated to the Public Health Service.

3. Intra-agency Committee on Mental Retardation.—Committee serves in an advisory capacity in the consideration of departmentwide policies, programs, procedures, activities, and related matters.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

§ 201. The provisions of section 207 of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1966, Public Law 89-156, shall apply to the items contained in this chapter. (Departments of Labor, and Health, Education, and Welfare Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1966.)

§ 201. None of the funds appropriated by this title to the Welfare Administration for grants-in-aid of State agencies to cover, in whole or in part, the cost of operation of said agencies, including the salaries and expenses of officers and employees of said agencies, shall be withheld from the said agencies of any States which have established by legislative enactment and have in operation a merit system and classification and compensation plan covering the selection, tenure in office, and compensation of their employees, because of any disapproval of their personnel or the manner of their selection by the agencies of the said States, or the rates of pay of said officers or employees.

SEC. 202. The Secretary is authorized to make such transfers of motor vehicles, between bureaus and offices, without transfer of funds, as may be required in carrying out the operations of the Department.

SEC. 203. None of the funds provided herein shall be used to pay any recipient of a grant for the conduct of a research project an amount equal to as much as the entire cost of such project.

SEC. 204. Appropriations to the Public Health Service available for research grants pursuant to the Public Health Service Act shall also be available, on the same terms and conditions as apply to non-Federal institutions, for research grants to hospitals of the Service, the Bureau of Prisons, Department of Justice, and to Saint Elizabeths Hospital.

SEC. 205. None of the funds contained in this Act shall be used for any activity the purpose of which is to require any recipient of any project grant for research, training, or demonstration made by any officer or employee of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to pay to the United States any portion of any interest or other income earned on payments of such grant made before July 1, 1964; nor shall any of the funds contained in this Act be used for any activity the purpose of which is to require payment to the United States of any portion of any interest or other income earned on payments made before July 1, 1964, to the American Printing House for the Blind.

SEC. 206. Expenditures from funds appropriated under this title to the American Printing House for the Blind, Howard University and Gallaudet College shall be subject to audit by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

【SEC. 207. None of the funds contained in this title shall be available for additional permanent Federal positions in the Washington area if the proportion of additional positions in the Washington area in relation to the total new positions is allowed to exceed the proportion existing at the close of fiscal year 1965.】 (Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1966.)

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 1001. Appropriations contained in this Act, available for salaries and expenses, shall be available for services as authorized by section 15 of the Act of August 2, 1946 (5 U.S.C. 55a) but at rates for individuals not to exceed $100 per diem.

SEC. 1002. Appropriations contained in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor as authorized by the Act of September 1, 1954, as amended (5 U.S.C. 2131).

SEC. 1003. Appropriations contained in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for expenses of attendance at meetings which are concerned with the functions or activities for which the appropriation is made or which will contribute to improved conduct, supervision, or management of those functions or activities.

SEC. 1004. The Secretary of Labor and the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, are each authorized to make available not to exceed $5,000 from funds available for salaries and expenses under titles I and II, respectively, for official reception and representation expenses.

【SEC. 1005. None of the funds contained in this Act shall be used for implementing any provision of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.】

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 1456) requires a study of housing and building codes, and zoning and tax policies. The study includes review of (1) State and local urban and suburban housing and building laws, standards, codes, and regulations and their impact on building costs; (2) State and local zoning and land use laws, codes, and regulations; and (3) Federal, State, and local tax policies with respect to their effect on land and property cost and on incentives to build new housing and make improvements in existing structure. The report to Congress is due within 18 months after appropriation of funds.

Grants are provided to supplement State and local funds for the purpose of financing comprehensive urban planning and helping communities solve planning problems resulting from changes in the urban economy and population. Cities under 50,000, counties, metropolitan areas, and States, as well as Indian reservations are eligible to receive assistance, which generally amounts to two-thirds of the total cost of an urban planning project. In addition, the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 authorizes two-thirds grants to organizations composed of public officials who are representative of political jurisdictions within an urban area and are seeking solutions to metropolitan or regional problems. Grants may be as much as three-fourths of project cost for localities with substantial unemployment.

The program encourages and assists comprehensive planning for entire urban areas having common or related urban development problems. The planning work accomplished under the program embraces all the basic factors essential to sound urban growth. These include, but are not limited to, comprehensive land use planning to guide residential, commercial, and industrial expansion, and planning the general location of transportation and other facilities, such as schools, utilities, and recreational facilities. Grant recipients are required to coordinate their planning work with other jurisdictions and with related programs of the Federal Government.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 increased the authorization for appropriation by $125 million so that the aggregate authorization is currently $230 million. The act also provided that up to 5% of the funds appropriated may be used for studies, research, and demonstration projects, for the development and improvement of techniques and methods for comprehensive planning and for the advancement of the purposes of the urban planning assistance program.

GRANTS FOR BASIC WATER AND SEWER FACILITIES

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Undisbursed grant obligations, 1965, $0; 1966, $98,750 thousand; 1967, $148 million.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 3102) authorizes grants to local public bodies and agencies for basic water and sewer facilities. With a limited exception, grants may not exceed 50% of project development costs. The program is designed to promote effective orderly growth and development of communities.

Projects approved for grants must contribute to improved health or living standards of people in the community to be served and be so designed that an adequate capacity will be available to serve the reasonably foreseeable growth needs of the area. In addition, the project must be consistent with a program for a unified or officially coordinated areawide water or sewer facilities system as part of the comprehensively planned development of the area.

Net grant approvals are estimated at $100 million for 1966 and 1967.

GRANTS TO AID ADVANCE ACQUISITION OF LAND

Grants to local public bodies and agencies are authorized by the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 3104) to assist the timely acquisition of sites planned to be used in connection with the future construction of public works or facilities. A grant may not exceed reasonable interest charges on a 5-year loan incurred to finance the acquisition of land.

No grant will be made unless the public work or facility for which land is to be used is planned for construction within a 5-year period. In addition, the public work or facility must contribute to the economy, efficiency, and the comprehensively planned development of the area.

The Open Space Land program authorized by title VII of the Housing Act of 1961 (42 U.S.C. 1500), as amended, was substantially expanded by the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965. The Act increased the authorization for grants from $75 to $310 million, increased the Federal share of project cost from 20% or 30% to 50% and expanded the definition of project cost to include appropriate demolition and development costs. The Act also made provision for grants for open space land in built-up urban areas, and grants for urban beautification and improvement programs. The activities added by the Act will enable the Department to better assist public bodies in taking prompt action to preserve open space land essential to economic and otherwise desirable long-range urban development, and to help curb urban sprawl and prevent the spread of urban blight and deterioration.

Under the regular program, grants will be made to State and local public bodies to help finance acquisition or permanent interest in undeveloped or predominantly undeveloped land in urban areas useful for park, recreation, conservation, historic, or scenic purposes. Under the provisions of the 1965 act, grants will be made to States and local public bodies to assist in the acquisition of developed land in built-up portions of urban areas to be cleared for use as permanent open space land. Such grants can be made only after it is determined that adequate open space land cannot effectively be provided through the use of existing undeveloped or predominantly undeveloped land. Local urban beautification and improvement programs are eligible for Federal financial assistance only if the program itself represents significant and effective efforts, involving all available public and private resources, for the beautification or open space use of land. In addition, the local beautification program must be important to the comprehensively planned development of the locality.

Grants are authorized to local public bodies and agencies to finance specific projects for neighborhood facilities by section 703 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 3103). Facilities eligible for Federal financial assistance must be necessary for a program of health, recreational, social, or similar community service, be designed for multipurpose use including most if not all community services needed in the neighborhood, be consistent with comprehensive planning for the development of the community, and be located as to be available for use by a significant portion of the areas' low or moderate income residents. Priority is given to projects designed primarily to benefit members of low income families or otherwise substantially further the objectives of a community action program approved under title II of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. Federal assistance may not exceed two-thirds of project development cost except in those instances when three-fourths grants are permitted for projects located in areas with substantial unemployment.

Grants to public or private nonprofit bodies or agencies to develop and demonstrate new or improved means of providing housing for low income persons and families, including handicapped families, are authorized by the Housing Act of 1961 (42 U.S.C. 1436), as amended. Demonstration projects under this program test new approaches in construction design and methods to lower construction costs, new or improved ways of rehabilitating and upgrading sound but deficient structures, means of facilitating home ownership by low income families, and the provision of technical advice and packaging assistance to nonprofit sponsors of low to moderate income housing.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (12 U.S.C. 1701s) authorizes rent supplement payments to owners of certain private housing on behalf of qualified low-income tenants. Housing owners eligible for contracts with a maximum term of 40 years are private nonprofit groups, cooperative, or limited dividend owners who provide housing financed with mortgages insured by FHA under the market interest rate mortgage insurance program for low or moderate income families, except for a limited experimental program under section 101(J) of the act. Public or private agencies may be authorized under contract agreement to provide services required in connection with the admission of tenants.

To be eligible for rent supplements, a tenant cannot have an income higher than the maximum limits that can be established for occupancy of federally aided low rent public housing in the same area. In addition, the tenant must be either elderly, physically handicapped, displaced from his home by governmental action, living in substandard housing, or an occupant or former occupant of a dwelling damaged or destroyed by a natural disaster.

These tenants are required to pay 25% of their income for rent. Rent supplements making up the difference between this amount and full economic rent will be paid to the project owner on behalf of the tenant. As the tenant's income rises, the supplement payment will be reduced. In the budget year, rent supplement payments are estimated at $3 million which will provide for 60,000 payments involving 7,500 housing units.

The maximum annual rent supplement payments which may be provided for in rent supplement contracts are limited to the aggregate amounts approved in annual appropriation acts. Under the act, annual payments up to $30 million are authorized to be approved for 1966, for which a separate transmittal is proposed. Approval of the additional $35 million authorized for the fiscal year 1967 is proposed.

Proposed for separate transmittal:

Under existing legislation, 1966.—Appropriation language is proposed to approve the maximum annual rent supplement payments of $30 million which may be provided for in contracts in 1966 under the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (12 U.S.C. 1701s).

Under proposed legislation, 1967.—Legislation is proposed to establish a program in which qualifying cities demonstrate how public and private resources and all the techniques and talents of the Nation's technology can be mobilized to transform existing urban complexes, tying together both physical and human resource programs. All cities will be invited to submit proposals for such demonstrations. Those which indicate they can qualify will be granted planning funds to develop the details of the proposals. The cities which submit detailed plans that qualify will be given grants to carry them out. Necessary appropriations for grants to carry out the plans will be requested in future years.

The Housing Act of 1950, as amended (12 U.S.C. 1749), authorizes direct long-term loans to higher educational institutions to assist them in providing housing and related facilities for students and faculty, and to hospitals for housing facilities for student nurses and interns. Loan terms may be as long as 50 years. The Treasury borrowing authorization which funds the program is $3,175 million and will increase by $300 million in 1967 under current statute. However, proposed legislation to facilitate sale of certificates of participation in pools of college housing bonds will make the $300 million of new authority for 1967 unnecessary and will provide for its cancellation, as shown below in "Proposed for separate transmittal." The effect of the sales anticipated under this legislative proposal is not reflected in the financial statements which follow. The interest rate on loans is based on a statutory formula, as amended by the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, and is limited to the lower of either 3% or 0.25% above the average rate on all interest-bearing obligations forming part of the Federal debt. The 1966 rate is 3%.

Budget program.—Net loan reservations are estimated at $300 million in 1966 and $300 million in 1967. The following table shows the relationship of net reservations issued to available funds (in thousands of dollars):

	1965 actual	1966 estimate	1967 estimate

Financing.—Bond purchases are estimated at $291.7 million in the current year and $347.6 million in the budget year. Purchase of bonds ordinarily occurs when construction is well advanced.

Disbursements are based on the following projected construction schedule:

Operating results and financial condition.—Retained earnings, end of year, of $8,670 thousand are estimated for the budget year. The cumulative deficit was eliminated by the end of 1965 by which time all operating costs, including staff expenses and allowances for losses, incurred since the inception of the program were entirely recovered by the Government.

Under proposed legislation.—Legislation will be proposed to facilitate the sale of certificates of participation in pools of College housing bonds. Such sales will have the effect of reducing budget expenditures, and in addition will allow for the cancellation by the proposed legislation of $300 million of new obligational authority, which otherwise will become available in 1967. The legislation will provide for covering the losses to the College housing loan fund on these certificates of participation. In 1967, it is estimated that $820 million of sales will be made against the portfolio of College housing bonds. It is expected that no new obligational authority to cover losses will be required before the first participation certificates mature in 1968.

The Housing Amendments of 1955, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1492) authorize direct, long-term loans to municipalities and other subdivisions and instrumentalities of States and to Indian tribes for financing construction of essential public works. In addition, the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 authorized loans to private nonprofit corporations for construction of water or sewer facilities in communities under 10,000 population. Loans are made only when credit is not otherwise available on reasonable terms and conditions.

The loan program is funded by a Treasury borrowing authorization aggregating $600 million. The $50 million borrowing authorization for mass transportation loans was transferred to the Urban mass transportation fund in 1965 and appears under that title.

Communities with populations up to 50,000 are eligible for public facility loans, but the basic program extends priority to municipalities under 10,000 population for water, sewage, and gas distribution systems. Other eligible communities are those with populations up to 150,000 in redevelopment areas as designated by the Area Redevelopment Administration or the Economic Development Administration and in those areas where the National Aeronautics and Space Administration maintains research or development installations.

Public facility loans may run for as long as 40 years and must be of sound value or so secured as reasonably to assure repayment. Interest rates are based on a statutory formula holding the maximum rate to the higher of either 3% or 0.5% above the average rate on all interest-bearing obligations forming part of the Federal debt.

Budget program.—Net loan approvals are estimated at $30 million for 1966 and $30 million for 1967. Repayments, sales of bonds from portfolio, and refundings are estimated at $7.5 million. The following table shows the relationship of this program to available funds (in thousands of dollars):

Proposed legislation will facilitate sale of certificates of participation in pools of public facility loans as shown below in "Proposed for separate transmittal." The effect of these sales is not reflected in the financial statements which follow.

Financing.—Budget expenditures for the program total $22.9 million for 1966 and $27.7 million for 1967. Disbursements are based on the following projected construction schedule:

Construction starts.....	111	91	145
Completions.....	185	164	101

At the end of the budget year, outstanding Treasury notes are estimated at $259.6 million.

Operating results.—The estimated net loss of $1.5 million in the budget year is largely attributable to the $825 thousand increase in the allowance for losses. Cumulative deficit at the end of 1967 totals $11.9 million of which $7 million represents allowance for losses.

Under proposed legislation.—Legislation will be proposed to facilitate sales of participation in pools of Public facility loans. Such sales have the effect of reducing budget expenditures. The legislation will provide for covering the losses incurred by the Public facility loan fund in connection with the sales of these certificates. In 1967, it is estimated that $80 million of sales will be made against the portfolio of Public facility loans. It is expected that no new obligational authority to cover losses will be required before the first participation certificates mature in fiscal year 1968.

Interest-free advances to States, municipalities, local public agencies, and metropolitan areas and regions for the planning of local public works are authorized by the Housing Act of 1954 (40 U.S.C. 462), as amended. The program is intended to (1) encourage the preparation and maintenance of a current and adequate reserve of planned public works which can readily be placed under construction, and (2) promote economy and efficiency in planning and building public works.

Advances are made only if it is intended to construct the project within a reasonable period of time considering the type of project. Projects must be in conformity with applicable State, regional, and local development plans. Advances are repayable when construction commences on the planned project, except in those instances where the construction was initiated under the Public Works Acceleration Act.

Budget program.—Net advances approved are estimated at $24 million for 1966 and $10 million for 1967. The following table shows the relationship of this program to available funds (in thousands of dollars):

Financing.—The program is financed by a revolving fund authorized to aggregate a maximum of $128 million.

Operating results.—The cumulative deficit at the end of 1967 is estimated at $30.3 million, of which $30 million represents an allowance for losses on outstanding advances

URBAN RENEWAL

Federal assistance to local governments for acquisition, clearance, redevelopment, and rehabilitation of slums and blighted areas was authorized by the Housing Act of 1949, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1453). Federal grants may defray two-thirds of the net project cost, except in cities with a population of less than 50,000 (or 150,000 if located in a redevelopment area as designated by the Area Redevelopment Administration or the Economic Development Administration) where the Federal share is three-fourths for projects approved after June 30, 1961.

The authorization to make contracts for urban renewal grants now totals $5,375 million, will increase by $725 million on July 1, 1966, and by $750 million at the outset of each of the 2 succeeding years. The $25 million made available for mass transportation demonstration grants by the Housing Act of 1961 has been transferred to the urban mass transportation fund. Temporary project financing and long-term financing of land disposed of under lease agreements through direct or guaranteed loans are provided from a Treasury borrowing authorization of $1 billion.

Before Federal assistance is extended, a community is required to develop a workable program for community improvement, which is a communitywide plan of action utilizing local resources, both public and private, to eliminate and prevent slums and blight and to foster local development. Acceptable programs are certified by the Secretary or his designee for 1 year.

Annual recertification, based on demonstrated satisfactory progress, is required for continued eligibility for additional Federal assistance. The budget is based on the following volume of workable program activity:

URBAN RENEWAL [ADMINISTRATION] PROGRAMS

For administrative expenses [in connection with grants] for urban renewal programs as authorized by title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended [§ 438,675,000, including $331,000,000 as an additional amount for payment of grants to liquidate contract authorization incurred prior to July 1, 1965, and not to exceed $13,175,000 for administrative expenses of making such grants and of making grants authorized by] (42 U.S.C. 1450 et seq.), and sections 314 and 701 of the Housing Act of 1954, as amended [§: Provided, That no part of this appropriation shall be used for administrative expenses or technical services in connection with contracts for grants or any other obligations in excess of the amounts herein provided] (42 U.S.C. 1452a; 40 U.S.C. 461), $15,625,000: Provided, That the second proviso under the head "Urban renewal administration", in the Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1966 (79 Stat. 1136), shall not be effective during the current fiscal year.

[URBAN RENEWAL ADMINISTRATION]

[For additional amounts for "Urban renewal administration", to remain available until expended, $675,570,000 for the fiscal year 1966, including not to exceed $570,000 for administrative expenses during such year, and $725,000,000 for grants for the fiscal year 1967: Provided, That funds available for administrative expenses in the current fiscal year shall be available in connection with grants provided for in this paragraph: Provided further, That not to exceed $1,500,000 of the amount provided for each fiscal year in this paragraph for grants shall be available for rehabilitation grants pursuant to Sec. 115 of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended, and not to exceed $75,000,000 shall be available for code enforcement grants pursuant to Sec. 117 of such Act.] (Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1966; Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1966.)

Budget program.—New reservations and adjustments in existing reservations will total $725 million net in 1967 under the advance appropriation in the Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1966. Program continuity is assured by the contract authority for the 1968 urban renewal program which has already been provided. Therefore no advance appropriations for 1968 are included in the budget.

1. Projects.—Urban renewal projects are usually approved for grant reservation at the beginning of the planning period. General neighborhood renewal plans, from which more than one project is expected to develop, are given grant reservations in amounts estimated to cover the first project developed from the plan. The reservation assures the availability of grant assistance when it is needed after the substantial community activity required for planning.

When a project is ready to enter the execution phase, a loan and grant contract is drawn between the community and the Department of Housing and Urban Development. In addition to a description of the community's responsibility for carrying out the project in accordance with the general plan, the contract provides for progress grant payments based on extent of performance and for Federal or federally guaranteed lending for working capital.

2. Code enforcement.—The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 authorizes grants to local governments for programs of concentrated code enforcement in deteriorated or deteriorating areas. Grants may include two-thirds of the cost of planning and carrying out such programs which include the cost of code enforcement activities and public improvements necessary to arrest the decline of the area.

3. Demolition.—A new section 116 has been added to title I, authorizing a program of Federal grants to cities, other municipalities, and counties to assist in financing the cost of demolishing structures which, under State or local law, have been determined to be structurally unsound or unfit for human habitation.

4. Reimbursement for relocation and rehabilitation grants.—Grants also are provided to reimburse communities for relocation payments they make to families and businesses displaced from urban renewal areas. These payments include moving expenses and actual direct losses of property not otherwise compensated for in maximum amounts of $200 per family and $25 thousand per business, the latter payments based on actual certified costs. They also include relocation adjustment payments to eligible families, elderly individuals, and small businesses to ease the financial burden accompanying establishment in the new accommodations. Relocation adjustment payments to eligible businesses may be as much as $2,500, and those to eligible families and individuals, $500.

Relocation adjustment payments, first provided for in the Housing Act of 1964 and increased for businesses in the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, result in grant reservation increases of about $181 million in the current year to provide for this type of payment in all approved projects which have not completed the relocation stage of execution activities.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 provides for grants to low-income owner-occupants in urban renewal and code enforcement areas who cannot otherwise afford repairs and improvements necessary to bring their residences up to the public standards required by codes or urban renewal plans for the area. These 100% Federal grants of up to $1,500 will assist owner-occupants with incomes generally below $3 thousand per year.

5. All other.—This category includes demonstration projects for the development and testing of new or improved urban renewal methods, community renewal grants for preparing a program covering renewal needs on a citywide basis, special projects to aid in the reconstruction and redevelopment made necessary by the March 1964 earthquake in Alaska, and grants to restore planning advances and interest made uncollectible by inability to develop an adequate urban renewal project.

Budget program.—The Treasury borrowing authority of $1 billion is available for loan assistance to finance the planning and execution of urban renewal projects through the following types of commitments:

1. Planning advances.—Advances provide for costs directly associated with project planning. They are repayable, with interest, from funds made available to the projects during execution.

2. Temporary loans.—These are short-term direct Federal loans to provide initial financing for projects under contract. Thereafter, the local public agency generally relies upon private borrowings secured by pledge of the Federal loan commitment. Temporary loans are repaid from the proceeds of land sales and from local and Federal cash grants.

3. Definitive loans.—Definitive loans permit the disposition of project land through long-term leases in lieu of sale, at the option of the community. In such cases, commitments are issued to secure private financing for the net value of redeveloped land.

The loan commitments cover total expenditures by the local public agency in carrying out the project. Both the statute and experience recognize that only a minor portion of the Federal loan commitment is outstanding at any one time as direct Federal loans, and demand on Federal funds will not equal or even approach commitments made because: (a) project expenditures take place over several years; (b) early borrowings are progressively retired with funds provided from local and Federal grants and from the sale of land; and (c) private financing (guaranteed with a pledge of the Federal loan commitment) is relied upon as the major source of funds for temporary loans and definitive loans. Cumulative loan commitments will be $5,624 million by the end of 1967 but this amount will be reduced by $2,127 million in repayments and commitment waivers resulting in a net outstanding commitment of $3,497 million. The maximum Federal exposure (i.e., maximum demand for Federal loans at any one time) is estimated at $690 million on June 30, 1967.

The following table shows the status of loan commitments outstanding at the end of each of the years covered by the budget (in thousands of dollars):

Total outstanding Federal loans and loan commitments, end of year.....	2,647,786	3,103,584	3,497,356

Utilized undisbursed commitments.....	1,069,735	1,243,735	1,396,735

Financing.—Borrowing authority previously committed is replenished by means of: (a) Repayment of planning advances; (b) repayment of temporary loans from project settlement funds (which include proceeds from the sale of land and Federal and local grants); (c) cancellation of temporary loan commitments; and (d) retirement of commitments due to the repayment of guaranteed non-Federal loans from project settlement funds.

The ratio of Federal exposure to temporary loan commitments set by the Secretary or his designee is estimated at 18%. Planning advance commitments are included at 75%. Repayments of Federal temporary loans from the proceeds of non-Federal guaranteed loans, estimated to total $130 million in 1967, are reflected on the program and financing statement.

Operating results.—The use of grant appropriations is authorized to repay Treasury borrowing otherwise unrecoverable due to losses on planning advances and interest for terminated projects. The deficit resulting from capital grant payments and from uncollectible planning advances for terminated projects has been offset by the appropriation of funds for such purpose as shown in the following table (in thousands of dollars):

The Housing Act of 1964, as amended, authorizes a program of 3% loans to owners or tenants of property in urban renewal areas to finance rehabilitation required to make such properties conform to code requirements and other objectives of the urban renewal plan for the area. The program will provide financing to persons or business firms otherwise unable to undertake necessary rehabilitation because loans cannot be obtained in sufficient amounts or under suitable terms. Maximum loan amounts are $10,000 for residential units and $50,000 for businesses.

Budget program.—The specialists on the staff of the local public agency engaged in a rehabilitation program will handle initial contacts with potential applicants. An application for a rehabilitation loan on residential property may be referred to a local Rehabilitation Loan Office of the Department. The appropriate FHA insuring office will inspect the work under approved loans, and the Federal National Mortgage Association will arrange for and supervise loan servicing by private institutions. The Small Business Administration will process business loan applications and handle loan closing and servicing. Loan approvals are estimated at $15 million during the current year and $35 million in the budget year. Loan disbursements are estimated at $1 million and $16.5 million for the respective years.

Operating results.—Current operating losses for the initial operating period are estimated at $1,364,000 in the current and $1,175,000 in the 1967 fiscal year, chiefly attributable to administrative expenses for initiation of the program.

The Atomic Energy Community Act of 1955 (42 U.S.C. 2301), providing for the disposition of Government-owned properties at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Richland, Wash., was amended in 1963 (76 Stat. 664) to provide for the disposal of Federally owned properties at Los Alamos, N. Mex. Sales and financing functions are delegated to the Secretary.

Budget program.—At the beginning of the current year, there remained two properties available for sale in Richland, Wash., and some $3.6 million in mortgages at Richland and Oak Ridge. The two properties have been sold. Disposal activity has begun at Los Alamos. Several of the subdivisions into which Los Alamos has been divided have been completely platted, appraisal of the residential properties subject to occupant priorities was completed in the first quarter, and the first 500 properties are expected to be sold in the current year. More than double that number of sales are expected in the budget year. In the process of sales, $2.9 million in mortgages are expected to be written in the current year, and $6.1 million in fiscal 1967.

Operating results.—The deficit in the fund is expected to increase from $14.6 million at the end of 1966 to $17.7 million at the end of 1967. This deficit is due primarily to the discounts provided by law to purchasers of property who have statutory priority. Funds recovered and transferred to the Treasury are estimated to increase from $2 million in the current year to $10 million in 1967. The latter figure is based on the expected sale of the bulk of the residential mortgages in 1967.

Grants and loans to public bodies to assist in the financing of urban transportation facilities and equipment and for demonstration projects designed to assist in meeting urban transportation needs and the improvement of urban transportation service are authorized by the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 (49 U.S.C. 1601). Applicants must show that facilities to be financed under the program are necessary for a program for a unified or officially co-ordinated public transportation system in the urban area, and are necessary for the sound, economic, and desirable development of the area.

Under the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, the grant authorization for appropriation will increase by $150 million in 1967 to a cumulative total of $375 million. With the appropriation of $130 million for 1967 provided in the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1966, the balance of existing authority is $55 million. The proposed appropriation of $150 million for grants in 1968 requires additional authorizing legislation to continue the principle of advance funding.

Ten million dollars of the grant authorization is available in each year for financing demonstration projects. The former mass transportation demonstration grant program authorized under the Housing Act of 1961 has been consolidated into the urban mass transportation fund.

The transportation facility loan program authorized in the Housing Act of 1961 was reactivated by the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964. Loan projects are financed by annual appropriations. Financial and budgetary data for transportation facility loans formerly shown under Public facility loans are consolidated with the Urban mass transportation fund.

Facility grant program.—Net grant approvals are estimated at $120 million for the current and budget years. Grants are available for up to two-thirds of "net project cost"—that portion of total project cost which cannot reasonably be financed from revenues. The applicant's share must be in cash from sources other than Federal funds or transit revenues.

Preliminary applications are reviewed to determine the general eligibility and feasibility of a project. Following approval of the preliminary application, the applicant proceeds with detailed planning and submits a final application. A grant approval is made on the basis of comprehensive staff review of the engineering, financing, and legal aspects of the proposed project. Principal workload items are set forth in the following table:

Preliminary applications received.....	37	85	110
Final application approved:
Number.....	17	40	40
Amount (in thousands).....	$50,703	$120,000	$120,000
Projects completed in year.....	-----	8	30
Projects underway, end of year.....	17	49	59

Demonstration program.—Net grant approvals of $10 million are estimated for both the current and budget years. Federal grants defray two-thirds of the net cost of projects which test and demonstrate new ideas, methods, and equipment for improving mass transportation systems and service.

Facility loan program.—Net loan approvals are estimated at $9 million for the current year; none are estimated for 1967. Loans are made to assist transit operations which are able to finance needed improvements and extensions of facilities out of revenues only when the necessary funds are not available on reasonable terms. Interest rates are based on the statutory formula and limited to the higher of either 3% or 0.50% above the average interest rate on all interest-bearing obligations forming part of the public debt. The 1966 rate is 4½%.

The Housing Act of 1959, as amended (12 U.S.C. 1701q et seq.), authorizes direct long-term loans at low interest rates to assist in financing new construction and rehabilitation, alteration, conversion, or improvement of existing structures to provide rental housing and related facilities for the elderly or the handicapped. Loans may be made to private nonprofit corporate sponsors, cooperatives, and those public bodies and agencies not receiving Federal financial assistance exclusively for public housing. The program is intended to provide housing for those elderly or handicapped persons and families whose incomes are too high for public housing but not sufficient to meet the cost of private rental housing and to improve the ability of the handicapped to live more independently.

Loans may be made for the total development cost and may run for as long as 50 years. Interest rates are based on a statutory formula, as amended by the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, and are limited to the lower of either 3% or 0.25% above the average rate on all interest bearing obligations forming part of the Federal debt. The 1966 rate is 3%.

Budget program.—Net loan reservations are estimated at $85 million for both 1966 and 1967. Principal workload items are set forth in the following table:

Financing.—The program is financed by a revolving fund which is initially supported by direct appropriations. Appropriations of $500 million have been authorized, of which $325 million have been appropriated, and an additional $80 million appropriation is requested for 1967. The following table shows the relationship of this program to available funds (in thousands of dollars):

Operating results.—Estimated retained earnings at the close of the budget year are $8.5 million and in addition the cumulative allowance for losses is $2.2 million. This favorable result stems largely from the fact that the program has been financed by appropriations rather than borrowings. If interest income continues to cover operating costs and prospective program losses, dividends will be declared to the Treasury in lieu of interest on capital.

FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION

The Association, operating under the Federal National Mortgage Association Charter Act (12 U.S.C. 1716, et seq.) purchases, manages, and sells residential mortgages or loans which are insured by the Federal Housing Administration, guaranteed by the Veterans Administration or insured by the Farmers Home Administration; makes short-term bank-type loans that are secured by those types of mortgages and loans; manages and sells certain noninsured or nonguaranteed mortgages or other obligations that have been or may be acquired from authorized sources; and sells to private investors beneficial interests, or participations, in its own U.S. Treasury-financed mortgages or other obligations and those of other Government agencies or instrumentalities. The Association's functions are carried out through three programs for which separate accountability is required by statute. These programs—secondary market operations, special assistance functions, and management and liquidating functions—are described in the following sections:

Note.—Expenditures from the following funds for 1966 are subject to the first paragraph of title II of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1966. For 1967, this paragraph is shown in the Other Independent Agencies chapter, p. 932.

Under its secondary market operations, FNMA is authorized to provide limited liquidity for Government insured and guaranteed mortgages and to improve the distribution of investment capital available for home mortgage financing. This assistance to the secondary market for mortgages is provided by the purchase and sale of mortgages that are insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the Veterans Administration, or rural housing loans that are insured by the Farmers Home Administration of the Department of Agriculture, including participations therein, that are of such quality, type, and class as meet, generally, the purchase standards imposed by private institutional mortgage investors. Purchases and sales may be made only at such prices and on such terms as will reasonably prevent excessive use of the Association's facilities and will permit the Association to operate on a fully self-supporting basis.

The Association, under its secondary market operations, is authorized by the National Housing Act, as amended, to make short-term loans secured by these Government-insured and guaranteed mortgages and loans. Such short-term loans are intended to further home construction by providing a degree of liquidity for mortgage investments and, generally, to provide supplementary assistance to the general secondary market.

The secondary market operations were initially capitalized by the issuance of $92.8 million of Federal National Mortgage Association preferred stock to the Secretary of the Treasury. Subsequently, additional preferred stock subscriptions by the Secretary of the Treasury, amounting to $50 million (Public Law 85-10, approved Mar. 27, 1957) and $65 million (Public Law 85-104, approved July 12, 1957) were authorized. Authorized preferred stock has actually been issued only as needed to support the Association's borrowings, so that at the end of 1964, authorized unissued stock amounted to $49 million. These estimates contemplate that $2 million of this amount will be issued in 1967.

The authorizing statute contemplates that the secondary market operations will ultimately be completely owned and financed by private participants. To that end, the preferred stock will be retired as rapidly as feasible and, in the meantime, the Association will pay dividends on the utilized portion to the Treasury at rates which will not be less than those determined by the Secretary of the Treasury. These estimates contemplate that no preferred stock will be retired in either 1966 or 1967. However, under arrangements entered into between the Secretary of the Treasury and the Association, FNMA purchases from the Secretary that portion of the Association's outstanding preferred stock which is not deemed to be required in the financing of the secondary market operations and holds such stock as FNMA treasury stock, subject to subsequent repurchases by the Secretary as may be required for these operations. Under these arrangements, $108.8 million of preferred stock was purchased from the Secretary during 1964 and 1965. It is estimated that this entire amount will be repurchased by the Secretary in 1966 and 1967.

Private capitalization for these operations is accumulated pursuant to a statutory requirement which provides that sellers of mortgages or loans to the Association must make payments into capital incident to subscriptions for common stock in an amount equal to not more than 2% nor less than 1% of the unpaid principal amounts of the mortgages and loans involved, as determined from time to time by the Association, taking into consideration conditions in the mortgage market and the general economy. Borrowers from the Association are currently required to make capital contributions in an amount equal to not more than one-half of 1% of the amounts borrowed.

Recommendations for legislation to transfer ownership of the Association to private owners of the capital stock must be submitted to the Congress as promptly as practicable after all the Treasury-held preferred stock has been retired. Meanwhile, the present interim program, financed by private as well as by Government investment funds, is treated in the budget as a trust enterprise and the financial statements related thereto appear in part II of this document.

Financing.—The Association is authorized to finance its secondary market operations in part through borrowings from the public on the security of nonguaranteed debentures and short-term discount notes. Such obligations may not exceed the lesser of: (a) ten times the sum of the capital and surplus applicable to these operations, or (b) the sum of assets free from any liens or encumbrances; cash, mortgages, loans, or other security holdings and obligations of the United States or guaranteed thereby; or obligations, participations, or other instruments which are lawful investments for fiduciary, trust, or public funds. The Secretary of the Treasury, so long as the preferred stock is outstanding, is authorized to purchase such obligations in an amount not exceeding $2.25 billion outstanding at any one time.

Other sources of funds required to finance the secondary market operations during 1966 and 1967 will be (1) proceeds from the sale of mortgages and loans to the investing public, (2) capital contributions by program participants, (3) repayments and prepayments of mortgage or loan principal, (4) earnings, (5) resale of FNMA Treasury stock to the Secretary of the Treasury, and (6) the issuance of $2 million of previously unissued preferred stock to the Secretary of the Treasury. Such interim Treasury borrowings as will be necessary during 1966 and 1967 are expected to be repaid during each of those years.

Budget program.—The secondary market operations, established in 1955, are now fully recognized by the home mortgage market and have reached significant levels. FNMA's secondary market facilities continue to be used by lenders to bridge a part of the gap between their need for, and the availability of, private housing funds.

Because recent changes in the mortgage and financial markets have restricted sharply the supply in both the investment field and funds available for mortgage investments, it is estimated that FNMA's facilities will be utilized to a considerably greater extent in 1966 and 1967 than in 1965. It is estimated that FNMA purchases from the public, which totaled $253 million in 1965, will increase substantially, to $1,775 million in 1966 and to $900 million in 1967. Mortgage sales, which amounted to $73 million in 1965, are now estimated at $25 million in 1966 and 1967. The excess of purchases over sales and other liquidations in 1966 and 1967 will result in net increases of portfolio during those years.

In addition to the mortgages and loans which it purchases in the regular manner, the Association also acquires mortgages from the Federal Housing Administration in exchange at par (100) for FNMA-held FHA debentures. The volume of mortgages so acquired was $51 million in 1965 and is estimated at $25 million in 1966. Due to FHA's current procedure, initiated in 1966, of settling claims in cash in lieu of debentures, no such exchanges are projected for 1967.

Operating results.—Operations are reflected in budget expenditures only to the extent of Treasury financing.

The Federal National Mortgage Association may, when the President determines it is in the public interest, provide special assistance for the financing of (1) selected types of home mortgages pending establishment of their marketability, and (2) home mortgages generally as a means of stabilizing home-building activities and hence contributing to overall economic stability.

The association is authorized under Presidential authority to make commitments to purchase and to purchase FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages totaling $2,914 million outstanding at any one time. At the end of 1965, the amount of special assistance authority for these purposes aggregated $2,510.3 million.

Increases in 1966 in this authority resulted from (1) an increase of $100 million provided by Public Law 89-117, approved August 10, 1965, and (2) a transfer, pursuant to that public law, of $303.7 million from the congressional authorization applicable to mortgages insured under title VIII of the National Housing Act; the transfer of an additional $137.5 million is estimated for 1967. Public Law 89-117 also provided an increase in authority, subject to Presidential determination, of $450 million in 1967, and $550 million and $525 million, respectively, in 1968 and 1969. Since the 1967 program will not require the use of the authority becoming available in 1967, legislation is proposed to cancel it, as shown below under "Proposed for separate transmittal."

The Congress has also authorized FNMA, without prior Presidential determination, to issue commitments to purchase and to purchase specific types of mortgages: up to $225 million of cooperative housing mortgages insured under section 213 of the National Housing Act, as amended, and up to $500 million of armed service mortgages insured under title VIII of that act, covering housing for military personnel and civilian employees. Public Law 89-117 authorized the transfer from the armed service authority to the Presidential authority of all but $58.75 million which is reserved for mortgages insured under section 809 of the National Housing Act. Another congressional program for FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages of $13,500 or less, covering low- and moderate-priced housing on which construction had not commenced at the time application was made for Federal National Mortgage Association's commitments, was terminated by Public Law 87-70. Of the $1 billion authorized for these mortgages, the unused portion of $207.2 million was transferred to the Presidential authority, and the remainder is cancelled as purchased mortgages are liquidated.

Mortgage purchase prices under these functions are set by the Association; they currently range from 99½ to 100.

Budget program.—During 1967, commitments to purchase mortgages are estimated to increase over the 1966 level by $96 million, to $459 million. Purchases, which lag well behind commitments, will increase by $86.4 million, to $236.9 million, primarily for below-market-interest-rate mortgages on rental and cooperative housing for moderate-income families.

In addition, to assure the availability of authority to purchase below-market-interest-rate mortgages upon completion of the underlying moderate-income-family housing, FHA reserves or makes preliminary allocations of amounts not in excess of FNMA's purchase authority. At June 30, 1965, reservations which had not been converted to FNMA commitments to purchase amounted to $901.1 million, and are expected to increase to $1,071.1 million by 1967.

Sales from portfolio, which amounted to $203.7 million in 1965, are estimated at $150 million during 1966 and $25 million in 1967.

Participations.—Under the program of liquidating the mortgage portfolio through the sale of beneficial interests or participations in mortgages, in 1965 the Association sold $200 million of participations involving the portfolio under these functions and projects $355 million in 1966 and $120 million in 1967. This program is more fully explained under the Government Mortgage Liquidation Trust. Additional sales are projected in 1967 under proposed legislation to provide for covering losses resulting from inclusion of low-interest-rate mortgages in participation pools. The effects of these additional sales are not reflected in the following financial statements.

Financing.—These functions are financed principally by Treasury borrowings, and all the benefits and burdens of the program inure solely to the Treasury. Net borrowings from the Treasury are estimated at $69 million in 1967. Net repayments were $376.8 million in 1965 and are estimated at $364 million in 1966.

Operating results.—In order to protect the Association against losses inherent in a portfolio of this size, earnings will be retained and accumulated for so long as may be warranted. The following table shows the cumulative earnings (in thousands of dollars):

¹ Balance of selected resources are identified on the statement of financial condition.

The Association, under its management and liquidating functions, is required by law to manage and liquidate its portfolio of mortgages acquired under contracts made before November 1, 1954, and those other mortgages, loans and Government obligations that have been or may be acquired from authorized sources (Public Law 89-117 approved August 10, 1965). Such liquidation is to be conducted in an orderly manner, with a minimum of adverse effect upon the home mortgage market and minimum loss to the Federal Government. Liquidation of the portfolio is accomplished through regular principal repayments according to their amortization schedules, sales of mortgages, loans and obligations as rapidly as they can be absorbed by private investors without serious disruption of normal market conditions, and as the result of other principal credits arising from prepayments and foreclosures.

The initial mortgage purchasing phase of this activity has been completed and normally only the management and ultimate liquidation of the portfolio would need to be completed. However, certain additional mortgages, loans and other obligations may be acquired for this portfolio from the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and residential housing mortgages may also be acquired from any Federal instrumentality from time to time pursuant to the provisions of Public Law 89-117.

Budget program.—No mortgages will be purchased under commitments made prior to November 1, 1954, for this portfolio during the period covered by these estimates. That purchasing program was completed during 1958.

During 1965, purchases from the HHFA "Revolving fund (liquidating programs)" were $109 thousand but no such purchases are estimated during 1966 and 1967.

In 1966, FNMA will acquire under these functions $8 million of mortgages from the Federal Housing Administration in exchange for FNMA-held FHA debentures and cash. Because of FHA's current procedure of settling claims in cash rather than debentures, $15.5 million of these mortgages will be purchased for cash in 1967.

Mortgages in the amount of $71.6 million were sold during 1965. Sales are estimated at $40 million in the current year and $25 million in the budget year.

Participations.—In 1966, the Association sold $130 million of beneficial interests, or participations, in mortgages of this portfolio. No such sales are projected under existing legislation for 1967. This program is more fully explained under the Government Mortgage Liquidation Trust. Legislation will be proposed to facilitate the sale of additional participations by providing for covering any losses to this fund resulting from the inclusion of low-interest-rate mortgages in participation pools. Sales in 1967 under this legislation for FNMA as a whole are shown under "Proposed for separate transmittal," below. The financial statements that follow do not reflect such sales.

Financing.—During the period covered by these estimates there will be only interim Treasury borrowings; net repayments of Treasury borrowings which were $112.3 million in 1965 are estimated at $296.3 million and $135.5 million in 1966 and 1967, respectively.

Operating results.—All the benefits and burdens of the management and liquidating functions inure solely to the Secretary of the Treasury. Net income, which amounted to $2.5 million in 1965, is estimated at $2.4 million in 1966 and $2.6 million in 1967. Retained earnings reserved for losses and contingencies at the end of 1965 amounted to $95.6 million and are estimated at $98 million and $100.6 million, respectively, for 1966 and 1967. The reductions in the amounts outstanding at the end of 1962, 1963, 1964, and 1965 resulted from payments of $40 million, $25 million, $15 million, and $15 million, respectively, during those years from earnings to the U.S. Treasury, amounts which were considered to be in excess of the Association's needs for losses and contingencies. However, because of losses which are expected to result from sales of mortgages and participation certificates, and because of the uncertainties of future costs of borrowings necessary to maintain a relatively fixed income portfolio, no payment to the Treasury out of earnings is projected for 1966 and 1967.

The Housing Act of 1964 vested fiduciary powers in the Association with the objective of facilitating the financing of its own first mortgages and those in which the United States or an agency or instrumentality thereof may have a financial interest through the sale of beneficial interests, or participations, in such mortgages. The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 expanded this authority to include any obligations owned by FNMA or those offered to it by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. These powers are administered under the management and liquidating functions of the Association. The program provides, under a trust indenture, for the pooling of stated amounts of FNMA Treasury-financed first mortgages and those in which the United States or an agency or instrumentality thereof may have a financial interest and obligations owned by FNMA or by the Secretary. Under its fiduciary powers the Association, as Trustee, sells to private investors through its established facilities and contacts in the private money market participations in the interest and principal payments which are derived from the pooled mortgages or obligations and retires the maturing securities with funds derived from the liquidation of the mortgages or obligations comprising the pool. A major advantage of the participation program, aside from providing for the immediate liquidation of a portion of these assets of the Government, is the expectation that the securities which are issued thereunder will be attractive to private investors, such as pension and retirement funds and others which are not ordinarily interested in mortgages or these types of obligations as long-term investments. In 1965, the Government Mortgage Liquidation Trust, created pursuant to a trust indenture entered into between the Administrator of Veterans Affairs and the Federal National Mortgage Association, sold $300 million of participation certificates involving the portfolios of the FNMA special assistance functions to the extent of $200 million and the Veterans Administration to the extent of $100 million. Projections for 1966 provide for the issuance of $1,310 million of participations involving the portfolios of the FNMA special assistance functions to the extent of $355 million, management and liquidating functions to the extent of $130 million, and the VA to the extent of $825 million. Sales of participations in 1967 are projected at $380 million, involving FNMA special assistance functions to the extent of $120 million and the VA to the extent of $260 million. Additional sales are projected under proposed legislation, as indicated under "Proposed for separate transmittal," below. These additional sales are not reflected in the following financial statements.

Under proposed legislation.—Legislation will be proposed to authorize the sale of participations in mortgages and other obligations held by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Small Business Administration, the Office of Education, and the Farmers Home Administration. The legislation will authorize FNMA to act as trustee in connection with the participation sales. All receipts on mortgages and other obligations included in pools will be held by the trustee to pay interest and principal on the certificates as they come due. The trustor agencies will supply any funds necessary to assure that collections are adequate to meet these payments. The effect of the sale on the trustor agencies is discussed in the part of the appendix containing their accounts.

Legislation will be submitted to the Congress to (1) cancel $450 million of new obligational authority which becomes available in the Special assistance functions fund under existing law but which is not needed to carry out the 1967 program, (2) facilitate sales of participations in pools of mortgages with low-interest rates in both the Special assistance and Management and liquidating functions funds by providing for covering losses to the funds on such sales, and (3) make clear that sales of participations in mortgages reduce the charge against limited purchase authority in the same way as sales of entire mortgages. Sales in 1967 of $400 million of participations in pools of low-interest-rate mortgages are projected under this proposed legislation. It is expected that no new obligational authority will be needed to cover any losses before the first participation certificates mature in 1968.

The Federal Housing Administration, created by the National Housing Act of 1934, is a noncorporate business-type agency, which was brought under the Government Corporation Control Act by the Housing Act of 1948. The principal purposes of FHA are to improve home financing practices, to encourage improved housing standards and conditions, to further home ownership, and to stabilize the mortgage market. These objectives are achieved through the insurance of loans for financing the production, purchase, repair, and improvement of residential properties. At the end of 1965, $100 billion of insurance had been written, with $49 billion outstanding. During 1965 more than $8 billion of insurance was written, covering 551,387 units of housing and 513,954 title I property improvement loans. An estimated $8.4 billion of insurance will be written during 1966 and $9.6 billion in 1967.

FHA loan insurance is now administered through 25 different active programs, including the new land development program established by the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965. In addition, maintenance and settlement work continues under eight programs for which the authority to insure additional loans has expired. The various programs are identified in the table on the following page, which also shows the amount of insurance written under the individual programs and the amount in force at the end of 1965.

For financial purposes, the agency's programs are grouped under three separate insurance funds and accounts established by statute. Income from fees, premiums, and investments are credited to the funds; operating expenses and other expenses and losses connected with foreclosed property and defaulted notes and mortgages are charged to the funds. Through June 30, 1965, income had amounted to $3,454 million, and expenses and losses had totaled $2,329 million, leaving a reserve of $1,125 million for the payment of future expenses and losses. The largest insurance fund is the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund for the insurance of mortgage loans on homes under section 203. The General Insurance Fund covers the insurance of loans on property repairs and improvements; on basic and special-purpose multifamily housing, including cooperatives, condominiums, housing for the elderly, and nursing homes; on urban renewal and middle-income housing; on armed services housing; and on war and defense housing. The Cooperative Management Housing Insurance Fund covers the insurance of management-type contracts and supplementary loans under section 213. Under the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund mortgagors at termination of their mortgages may share in the rebate of premiums paid into the fund which are not required for expenses or losses. Through June 30, 1965, such participation payments to homeowners had amounted to $182 million with $139 million reserved for future payments or losses.

Budget program.—Budget requirements for loan insurance operations are embodied in (1) an administrative expense limitation covering those expenses of the central office related to the general direction of operations, the establishment of policies and procedures, and the provision of housekeeping services for the entire agency and (2) a nonadministrative expense limitation covering the operating expenses of both the central office and the field related to the initiation of insurance, the maintenance of insurance on the books, and the settlement activities associated with the payment of claims, the acquisition, management, and disposition of mortgages and properties acquired under insurance contracts, and with the liquidation of property improvement notes. Anticipated program developments for 1967 are summarized in the table on the following page, which also includes estimates for 1966 and actual data for 1965.

The major activities of the agency may be grouped under the categories of insurance initiation, insurance maintenance, insurance settlement, and financial operations.

Insurance initiation.—The principal initiation activities, which currently account for about 72 percent of the total expenses under the nonadministrative expense limitation, are the examining of applications for insurance, the inspecting of properties under construction, and the recording of new insurance contracts, including property improvement loans, in the agency records. The total number of applications for mortgage insurance is expected to increase from 1,048,602 units in 1965 to 1,200,000 in 1966 and to 1,353,000 in 1967.

Insurance maintenance.—Maintenance activities, which currently account for about 8% of all expenses under the nonadministrative expense limitation, relate generally to the servicing of insurance on the books, such as billing mortgagees for premiums due, recording changes in mortgagees, making participation payments from the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund, terminating insurance contracts, inspecting insured multifamily housing, and analyzing annual financial reports on such housing. These are cumulative workloads, increasing each year with the growth of insurance in force. At the end of 1965, insurance in force had reached $49 billion.

Insurance settlement.—Settlement activities, which currently account for more than one-fifth of the total expense under the nonadministrative expense limitation, include the acquisition under insurance contracts of properties, mortgages, and home improvement notes; the repair, management, and sale of acquired properties; the payment of claims under insurance contracts; the servicing and sale of mortgages acquired as a part of some sales transactions; and the accounting work arising out of the other settlement activities. The total number of mortgages assigned and properties directly acquired under insurance contracts, in dwelling units, is estimated to increase from 53,700 units in 1965 to 58,500 in 1966 and to decrease to 56,750 in 1967. Properties and mortgages on hand are expected to decrease from 108,168 units at the end of 1965 to 105,668 at the end of 1966 and to 99,418 at the end of 1967.

Summary of operating expense estimates.—Operating expenses are paid out of operating income, subject to congressional limitation. Expenses for 1966 are estimated at $10,405,300 for administrative operations and $82,850,000 for nonadministrative operations. The 1967 estimate is $10,950,000 for administrative expenses and $89,400,000 for nonadministrative expenses.

Financing.—Through 1965, insurance claims were met largely by the issuance of debentures, which are subsequently redeemed out of income and proceeds from the sale of acquired properties and mortgages. In 1965, $560 million of debentures were issued, and $782 million were redeemed. The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 authorized FHA to pay claims in cash and to borrow from the Treasury as necessary to do so. This procedure was placed in effect September 1, 1965. As a result, only $240 million of debentures will be issued in 1966 and none in 1967. Debentures will be redeemed in the amount of $433 million in 1966 and $154 million in 1967. Insurance claims, payable in cash, will amount to $527 million in 1966 and $612 million in 1967. Borrowings from the Treasury are expected to total $70 million in 1967.

Retained earnings.—Insurance reserves, available for the payment of future expenses and losses, amounted to $1,125 million at the end of 1965 and are expected to increase to $1,136 million by the end of 1966 and to $1,184 million by the end of 1967.

Insurance authority.—Authorizations for active insurance programs expire October 1, 1969. In general, these authorizations are without dollar limitation except for the armed services housing program which has utilized authority as follows:

The United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1401 et seq.), established a low-rent public housing program of safe and sanitary dwellings within the financial reach of families of low income. Such housing is locally owned and operated by local housing authorities created under State law. Federal loans and annual contributions are made to local housing authorities to assist them in financing the construction of low-rent housing and in maintaining the low-rent character of such housing after completion.

Budget program—Development.—A 3-year comparison of the workload accomplishments and of the status of the program by development stage are presented in the following tabulations:

Increased annual contributions requirements in 1966 and 1967 including a supplemental appropriation of $27 million anticipated in 1966 (reflected above), are attributed largely (1) to an increased number of dwellings eligible for annual contributions resulting from the completion and permanent financing of new developments, (2) to the increased contributions authorized in the Housing Act of 1961 with respect to dwellings occupied by elderly families and persons, (3) to the additional subsidy authorized in the Housing Act of 1964 for families (including single persons) displaced by urban renewal or low-rent housing projects, and to the additional costs of relocating families and persons displaced by public housing, and (4) to the increased contributions authorized in the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 with respect to dwellings occupied by handicapped individuals.

The 1965 act increased the existing limit on the aggregate amount of contracts for annual contributions which may be entered into by $47 million on the date of enactment and by an additional $47 million on July 1, 1966, 1967, and 1968. The previous authorization was $366.2 million per annum. With respect to contracts executed as of June 30, 1965, the maximum amount of annual contributions committed is $346 million. The uncommitted authority at the end of each of the 3 budget years will be used to make annual contributions contracts in the subsequent year. Uncommitted authority and savings from committed authority can be used to make special payments for the elderly, handicapped, and displacees which in the aggregate are estimated at $6 million in 1966 and $6.4 million in 1967 and which will continue to increase with the increase in the number of dwellings occupied by such families and persons.

Administrative expenses.—The administrative expenses for the low-rent public housing program are financed by appropriations. Administrative expenses result primarily from the provision of technical advice and assistance to local housing authorities in the development and management of low-rent housing and to the auditing of local housing authority operations to ensure compliance with the social purposes of relevant Federal legislation and to protect the Federal investment.

Nonadministrative expenses.—Program receipts are used to meet certain expenses of the low-rent public housing program. The use of these funds correspondingly reduces the requirements for appropriated funds. The Congress has established a nonadministrative expense limitation which applies to expenses for the operation and maintenance of federally owned, directly operated projects, and to expenses for technical services provided during construction of low-rent housing.

As of June 30, 1965, two federally owned, directly operated developments, located at Enid, Okla., and Oklahoma City, Okla., containing 80 dwellings and 354 dwellings, respectively, remained in the program. One development containing 748 dwellings which was federally owned on June 30, 1964, was conditionally conveyed to the housing authority of Indianapolis, Ind., for low-rent use on January 1, 1965.

These remaining developments have not been transferred to local housing authorities because of the absence of State enabling legislation. However, enabling legislation was enacted in the State of Oklahoma in 1965 which permits the organization of local housing authorities and their participation in the low-rent housing program.

PUBLIC HOUSING [ADMINISTRATION] PROGRAMS—Continued

Estimated program receipts and expenses for 1966 and 1967 are based upon the continued Federal operation of these developments throughout both years.

Technical services are provided during the development stage by representatives of the program who insure that such developments will be built in accordance with specified and acceptable standards. The local housing authorities pay a fixed fee to the program for this service and the receipts are used to pay the cost of the service. The estimated cost for 1967 is based upon the number of developments in the construction stage.

Financing.—Loans are made to local housing authorities to finance the early costs of project development. These loans are made with funds borrowed from the Treasury for this purpose and with certain available working funds. Under the Housing Act of 1949, borrowings outstanding at any one time from the Treasury may not exceed $1.5 billion. Borrowings from and repayment to the Treasury are estimated at $50 million during each of the years 1966 and 1967. There was no outstanding amount of Treasury borrowings at the end of 1965, and none is estimated for June 30, 1966, and June 30, 1967.

When the Federal development loans to a local housing authority accumulate to an amount which is attractive to private investors, the local housing authority sells short-term temporary notes to the public and utilizes the proceeds to repay the Federal loans and to meet current needs for additional working capital. These notes are secured by the Federal Government's pledge to make development loans, if necessary, covering up to 90% of the development cost of the project. This arrangement has established an excellent security rating for the notes, which sold at an average interest rate of 2.213% in 1965.

In 1965, direct Federal loans were refunded through secured loans by private investors in the amount of $107 million. This refunding is estimated at $153 million in 1966 and $167 million in 1967. The temporary notes sold to private investors are issued for short periods, an average of 5 months, and may be reissued several times, and in increasing amounts, before the project is permanently financed. As a result, a considerable turnover of short-term notes takes place and the volume of loan activity managed by the program during any fiscal year greatly exceeds the amount of loans outstanding at the end of that fiscal year.

Public Housing Program development loans:

Loans repaid during year.....	2,016	1,898	2,272
Balance at end of year.....	854	909	972

Normally, project development costs are permanently financed toward the end of the construction period through the sale of long-term bonds to the public. These are usually 40-year serial bonds and are secured by the Federal Government's pledge to pay annual contributions. In 1965 they sold at an average interest rate of 3.273%. As of June 30, 1965, there were approximately 684,065 dwellings potentially eligible for permanent financing. Of these, 555,416 dwellings had been permanently financed, leaving a potential permanent financing workload of 128,649 dwellings. The estimates for permanent financing based on program status as of June 30, 1965, are shown below:

Dwellings financed.....	30,134	34,167	38,958
Permanent financing.....	$480,793,591	$548,230,000	$613,905,000
Average per dwelling.....	$15,508	$15,597	$15,758

The amount of permanent financing includes development cost of $13.5 million for projects refinanced in 1965 and $15.3 million in 1966 for which the number of dwellings are not shown.

Operating results.—Net costs, in the budget year, are approximately equal to the appropriations for administrative expenses and annual contributions payments. The magnitude of such costs and appropriations used on a cumulative basis are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

PUBLIC LAND MANAGEMENT

BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT

The Bureau of Land Management is responsible for the conservation, management and development of some 464 million acres of the Nation's public lands. This includes some 289 million acres of other federally owned lands, which are located in Alaska.

In addition, the Bureau administers mining and mineral leasing on other federally owned lands, on former Federal lands where minerals have been reserved in public ownership, and on the submerged lands of the Outer Continental Shelf.

The work of the Bureau produces revenue from various sources which is distributed as follows (in millions of dollars):

1. Realty and mineral leasing services—(a) Title lease and records service.—The program is geared to remaining current in the processing of land and mineral transactions through continued (1) meeting of obligations to the public under existing public land laws, (2) completing realty transactions necessary to support departmental programs, and (3) furnishing of required data and land status for Bureau programs and other Federal agencies.

(b) Records improvement.—Land records are being modernized for Colorado, Oregon, and Idaho.

2. Resource management conservation and protection—(a) Land classification and mineral examination.—Applications for various types of land use are acted on. Classification of lands for retention or disposal is emphasized. Mineral material sales are made. Mining claim investigations and mineral trespass cases are acted upon.

(b) Range management.—Major efforts are directed toward better management of grazing use on the 177 million acres of public lands available for grazing by 26,000 stockmen. New techniques and programs such as the rest-rotation grazing system are being emphasized.

(c) Forestry.—Approximately 46 million acres of commercial forest lands and 111 million acres of woodland-type lands are managed under the principles of sustained yield. The 1967 program includes the sale of 1.335 billion board feet of timber for anticipated receipts of $43.5 million.

(d) Soil and watershed conservation.—Public lands in critical condition from erosion are rehabilitated and restored to productivity. The 1967 program stresses investments which will improve water quantity and quality and to restore natural beauty.

MANAGEMENT OF LANDS AND RESOURCES—continued

(e) Fire protection.—Public lands administered by the Bureau (exclusive of O&C lands) are protected. In 1967, special emphasis is being placed on fire control zone planning. The fire control center at Boise, Idaho, established in 1966 will provide assistance, coordination and guidance in carrying out protection programs.

3. Cadastral surveys.—(a) Alaska.—Surveys in Alaska will assist the State to select lands permitted by the Alaska Statehood Act and in the survey of small tracts which are involved in the State selection program. Advanced measurement devices and techniques will be utilized.

(b) Other States.—Surveys will be made to locate and identify legal boundaries of lands under application for lease or disposal, including submerged lands on the Outer Continental Shelf; and assist in the resource management of public lands and provide legal descriptions needed by other Federal agencies.

4. Firefighting and rehabilitation.—Fires are fought on or threatening lands under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management. Areas damaged by wildfire will be rehabilitated. A supplemental appropriation for 1966 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

5. General administration.—Executive direction is provided and services such as accounting, personnel administration, procurement, budgeting, management analysis and internal auditing are performed in support of the programs of the Bureau.

1. Expenses, sale of timber, etc., on reclamation lands.—A portion of the receipts from timber sales on public lands set aside for reclamation purposes is used to cover the cost of sales (41 Stat. 202; 53 Stat. 1196).

2. Leasing of grazing lands.—State, county, and privately owned grazing lands that are intermingled with public grazing lands are managed on a leased basis within the limits of receipts from such arrangements (43 U.S.C. 315m).

3. Payments to Oklahoma (royalties).—The State of Oklahoma is paid 37½% of the Red River oil and gas royalties in lieu of State and local taxes on Kiowa, Comanche, and Apache tribal funds (42 Stat. 1448), to be used for construction and maintenance of public roads and support of public schools (44 Stat. 740).

4. Payments to Coos and Douglas Counties, Oreg., from receipts, Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands.—Out of receipts from the Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands in Oregon, payments in lieu of taxes are made to Coos and Douglas Counties for schools, roads, highways, bridges, and port districts (53 Stat. 753-754).

5. Payments to counties, Oregon and California grant lands.—Fifty percent of the receipts of Oregon and California land-grant funds is paid the counties in which the lands are situated, to be used as other county funds (39 Stat. 218; 50 Stat. 876).

6. Payments to States (grazing fees).—The States are paid 33½% of the fees from each grazing district on Indian lands ceded to the United States within the State's boundaries (43 U.S.C. 315j).

7. Payments to States (proceeds of sales).—The States are paid 5% of the net proceeds from sale of public land and public land products (31 U.S.C. 711).

8. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands outside grazing districts.—The States are paid 50% of the grazing fee receipts from public domain lands outside grazing districts (43 U.S.C. 315i, 315m).

9. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands within grazing districts.—The States are paid 12½% of grazing fee receipts from grazing district lands within their boundaries (43 U.S.C. 315b, 315i).

10. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands within grazing districts, miscellaneous.—The States are paid specifically determined amounts from grazing fee receipts from miscellaneous lands within grazing districts when payment is not feasible on a percentage basis (43 U.S.C. 315).

11. Payments to States from receipts under Mineral Leasing Act.—Alaska is paid 90% and other States 37½% of the receipts from bonuses, royalties, and rentals resulting from development of mineral resources under the Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 191), and from leases of potash deposits (30 U.S.C. 285), on public lands.

12. Payments to counties, national grasslands.—Of the revenues received from the use of submarginal lands, 25% is paid to the counties in which such land is situated, for school and road purposes (7 U.S.C. 1012).

13. Expenses, Public Land Administration Act.—Public Law 86-649, approved July 14, 1960, permanently appropriated certain moneys to the Secretary of the Interior. Timber purchasers or permittees provide bond or deposit to assure fulfillment of contracts. Users of roads under jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management may make deposits for maintenance purposes. Moneys received in forfeiture of such bonds or for road maintenance are available for necessary forest improvement, protection, and rehabilitation and for road maintenance. Moneys collected on Oregon and California grant lands are available for those lands only and amounts in excess of the cost of doing the work are transferred to miscellaneous receipts (74 Stat. 507-508).

BUREAU OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

The responsibility of the United States toward the Indian people includes protection and development of trust property and the furnishing of services not otherwise available to Indians and which are normally provided other citizens through Government and private agencies. Active programs are being aimed toward increased Indian participation in the management of Indian-owned resources and full Indian participation in American life. States and counties are participating at an increasing rate in the service programs. The ultimate goal of the entire program is to have the Indian people take their proper place in the social and economic life of the Nation on the same basis as other citizens.

2. Fire suppression.—Funds under this item provide for the payment of the cost of suppression and prevention of fires on or threatening Indian reservations. Approximately 60 million acres require protection.

3. Agricultural and industrial assistance.—Funds under this activity provide for improved methods in farming, homemaking, the management of a revolving loan credit program for small business enterprises, and formulation of plans and programs for the economic development of the Indian people.

4. Soil and moisture conservation.—Land-use practices based on land inventories and soil conservation plans are introduced to control erosion and promote more effective utilization of soil and water resources.

5. Maintenance of roads.—The Bureau of Indian Affairs road system which requires maintenance includes 18,811 miles of roads and trails on Indian reservations.

6. Development of Indian arts and crafts.—Production and marketing of the products of Indian crafts are fostered through formation of production groups; establishing of standards; and improving of markets, design, and production methods.

7. Management of Indian trust property.—Banking services are provided for Indians; land is purchased, sold, exchanged, and leased; and Indian property and money rights are safeguarded. Consolidation or disposal of frac-tionated land holdings, especially in those areas affected by readjustment legislation, is to be accomplished.

8. Repair and maintenance of buildings and utilities.—Federal buildings and their related utility and communication systems are maintained.

The programs of the Bureau are administered from two organizational levels—the Washington office and the area offices. This program provides for carrying out administrative functions which support Bureau program activities. These functions include executive direction, budget and finance management, personnel management, audit, inspection services, property and supply management, records management, and office services.

The administration of common service activities is partially financed on a benefit basis from other Bureau activities.

TRIBAL FUNDS

(Trust fund)

In addition to the tribal funds authorized to be expended by existing law, there is hereby appropriated $3,000,000 from tribal funds not otherwise available for expenditure for the benefit of Indians and Indian tribes, including pay and travel expenses of employees; care, tuition, and other assistance to Indian children attending public and private schools (which may be paid in advance or from date of admission); purchase of land and improvements on land, title to which shall be taken in the name of the United States in trust for the tribe for which purchased; lease of lands and water rights; compensation and expenses of attorneys and other persons employed by Indian tribes under approved contracts; pay, travel, and other expenses of tribal officers, councils, and committees thereof, or other tribal organizations, including mileage for use of privately owned automobiles and per diem in lieu of subsistence at rates established administratively but not to exceed those applicable to civilian employees of the Government; relief of Indians, without regard to section 7 of the Act of May 27, 1930 (46 Stat. 391), including cash grants; and employment of a curator for the Osage Museum, who shall be appointed with the approval of the Osage Tribal Council and without regard to the classification laws: Provided, That in addition to the amount appropriated herein, tribal funds may be advanced to Indian tribes during the current fiscal year for such purposes as may be designated by the governing body of the particular tribe involved and approved by the Secretary: Provided further, That funds derived from appropriations in satisfaction of awards of the Indian Claims Commission and the Court of Claims shall not be available for advances, except for such amounts as may be necessary to pay attorney fees, expenses of litigation, and expenses of program planning, until after legislation has been enacted that sets forth the purposes for which said funds will be used: Provided, however, That no part of this appropriation or other tribal funds shall be used for the acquisition of land or water rights within the States of Nevada, Oregon, Washington, and Wyoming, either inside or outside the boundaries of existing Indian reservations, if such acquisition results in the property being exempted from local taxation, except as provided for by the Act of July 24, 1956 (70 Stat. 627). This fund and miscellaneous tribal funds provide the only source of loans for the great majority of Indians who cannot borrow from ordinary commercial credit sources because of their low economic status and lack of bankable security (25 U.S.C. 470, 471, 631). Loans are made to tribes for relending to individuals, to tribal business enterprises, and to individual Indians for farming and business purposes.

This fund was transferred from the Housing and Home Finance Agency to the Secretary of the Interior under the provisions of Public Law 85-806, enacted August 28, 1958 (72 Stat. 974). The Secretary will use the funds transferred from the Housing and Home Finance Agency, along with any other revenues that may be received from the Hoonah housing project for the purpose of liquidating said project in accordance with the provisions of law. The deficit is expected to increase as funds are used for the liquidation of the project.

BUREAU OF OUTDOOR RECREATION

The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation serves as the focal point in the Federal Government for the many activities related to outdoor recreation. In addition, liaison is maintained with the State and the local governments and the private sector with a view to developing and executing a nationwide coordinated effort in the provision of outdoor recreation opportunities.

The Bureau also administers a program of assistance to States for recreation planning, for acquisition of land and water areas, and for the development of such areas. This program and the recreation land acquisition programs of certain Federal agencies are financed from the Land and water conservation fund.

General and special funds:

OFFICE OF TERRITORIES

The Office of Territories promotes the economic and political development of those territories and the Trust Territory which are under U.S. jurisdiction and within the responsibility of the Department of the Interior. It originates and implements Federal policy, guides and coordinates certain operating programs, provides information and services, and participates in foreign policy and defense matters concerning the territories and the Trust Territory. In addition, the Office represents the Governors of the Virgin Islands, Guam, and American Samoa and the High Commissioner of the Trust Territory in Washington.

General and special funds:

ADMINISTRATION OF TERRITORIES

For expenses necessary for the administration of Territories and for the departmental administration of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior, including expenses of the offices of the Governors of Guam and American Samoa, as authorized by law (48 U.S.C., secs. 1422, 1661(c)); salaries of the Governor of the Virgin Islands, the Government Secretary, the Government Comptroller, and the members of the immediate staffs as authorized by law (48 U.S.C. 1591, 72 Stat. 1095) [], and purchase of two passenger motor vehicles for replacement only []; compensation and mileage of members of the legislature[s] in [Guam,] American Samoa [], and the Virgin Islands [] as authorized by law (48 U.S.C. sec[s] [1421d(e),] 1661(c) [], and 1572e []); compensation and expenses of the judiciary in American Samoa as authorized by law (48 U.S.C. 1661(c)); grants to American Samoa, in addition to current local revenues, for support of governmental functions; loans and grants to Guam, as authorized by law (Public Law 88-170); and personal services, household equipment and furnishings, and utilities necessary in the operation of the houses of the Governors of Guam and American Samoa; [$14,579,000] $10,513,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That the Territorial and local governments herein provided for are authorized to make purchases through the General Services Administration: Provided further, That appropriations available for the administration of Territories may be expended for the purchase, charter, maintenance, and operation of aircraft and surface vessels for official purposes and for commercial transportation purposes found by the Secretary to be necessary. The 1967 budget request of $10,513 thousand for Administration of Territories includes $398 thousand for the Office of Territories staff in Washington; $98 thousand for support of the Office of the Governor of the Virgin Islands; $152 thousand for the Office of the Government Comptroller of the Virgin Islands; $90 thousand for the Office of the Governor of Guam; $9,149 thousand for the Government of American Samoa; and $18 thousand for Servicing Alaska Public Works loans, a responsibility of the Secretary of the Interior as authorized by Public Law 88-29, approved December 23, 1963.

In addition, the Administration of Territories request includes funds to continue the Guam Rehabilitation Program authorized by Public Law 88-170, approved November 4, 1963. In 1965 the Congress appropriated $19 million to begin the rehabilitation program. The appropriation for the current year is $9,657 thousand. The estimate for 1967 is $5,503 thousand of which only $608 thousand is being requested as new obligational authority for the budget year. The balance of $4,895 thousand is expected to be financed by reprogramming funds made available, but not expended, in prior years.

Funds are no longer requested for legislative costs for the Virgin Islands and Guam. As a result of the enactment of Public Laws 89-98 and 89-100, approved July 30, 1965, the local legislatures in these areas are now authorized to provide for their own expenses. This action is in accordance with the policy of the Department of the Interior of encouraging the Territories to assume maximum responsibility with respect to their local activities.

Funds in the amount of $9.2 million are being requested for the Government of American Samoa. A substantial portion of this amount represents construction funds, which are sought only for the financing of projects that have been previously approved but not funded in the past 2 years. Samoan projects carried out in the past few years have led to a modernized educational system pioneering in the use of educational television, substantial improvements in other public services, and a sharp growth of the economy of the islands. The funds here requested are necessary to continue the current rate of development.

Under the terms of the Trusteeship Agreement between the United States and the Security Council of the United Nations, the United States exercises full jurisdiction over the territory and is obligated to promote the political, economic, and educational advancement of the inhabitants. These responsibilities are carried out through the Department of the Interior.

The Trust Territory, with a population of about 90,000 persons, comprises 2,141 islands scattered over 3 million square miles of ocean in 3 major archipelagos, the Mariana, Caroline and Marshall Islands. The land area totals 687 square miles.

1. High Commissioner's Office.—This office provides executive direction for the development programs and the administration of all the territory.

2. Judiciary.—Provision is made for the high court of the Trust Territory, the court of appeals, and the lesser courts of the territory.

3. Grants.—The cost of operating the government of the territory is defrayed by these grants and local revenue.

These costs are distributed as follows (in thousands of dollars):

The Alaska Railroad is authorized to perform generally all the usual duties of a common carrier by railroad so as to best aid in the development of agricultural, mineral, and other resources of Alaska, the settlement of public lands, and in the national defense effort (48 U.S.C. 301-308). The Railroad's main line extends 470.3 miles from Seward to Fairbanks, and 12.4 miles from Whittier to Portage Junction. There are also 194.8 miles of branch lines, passing and spur tracks, and yards. Finances are obtained through the Alaska Railroad revolving fund from revenues of the transportation service and other receipts. Except for the appropriations for disaster recovery totaling $25.4 million, it has not been necessary to seek direct appropriations since 1956.

Budget program.—A return to a normal operations and maintenance rail line program and the continuation of the related capital improvements program are planned for 1967; improvements deferred because of diversion of forces to disaster recovery will be substantially accomplished during the current year. The major activity of the Railroad is the transportation service; the principal supporting services are maintenance of way and structures and maintenance of equipment. Lease of real properties, and river boats and related facilities round out the budget program of the Railroad.

Financing.—No appropriation is being requested for 1967. It is estimated that at the end of the budget year there will be a Treasury balance of $3,291 thousand of which $2,402 thousand will be unobligated.

Operating results.—Based upon the present revenue outlook and forecasts of operating expenses, deficits from operations should amount to $1 million for each of the years 1966 and 1967.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1964, $7,117 thousand (1965 adjustments, $48 thousand); 1965, $7,774 thousand; 1966, $7,141 thousand; 1967, $6,930 thousand.

Geological Survey provides basic scientific data concerning water, land, and mineral resources, and supervises the development and production of minerals and mineral fuels on leased Federal and Indian lands.

1. Topographic surveys and mapping.—Topographic maps portray the elevation, shape, and position of the natural and manmade features of the earth's surface. These maps, at various scales, are a fundamental part of the background information required to inventory, develop, and manage the natural resources of the country. They also have numerous other uses such as the location and development of highways and lines of communications, urban planning, and military and civil defense. It is estimated that topographic surveys and mapping completed during 1966, added to surveys already available, will result in a total of about 2,620,000 square miles of coverage (about 73.7% of the United States) in either the 7½- or 15-minute standard map series. In addition, it is expected that about 25,000 square miles of existing coverage in the 15-minute series will be resurveyed for the 7½-minute series. During 1967, mapping of about 110,000 square miles of previously unsurveyed or inadequately surveyed areas in the United States will be started. In addition, about 15,000 square miles of revision will be added to the program and about 150 special maps at various scales will be published.

2. Geologic and mineral resource surveys and mapping.—The continuing national program of geologic research and investigations produce: (a) new or improved methods and instruments for mineral exploration; (b) geologic, geophysical, and geochemical maps that show the distribution, age, composition, structure, and physical properties of the rocks and mineral deposits at and beneath the surface of the earth; (c) information on the chemistry and physics of the earth and the geologic processes by which it was formed and is being continually modified; and (d) geologic data that are directly applicable to urban development, land utilization, and the solution of land construction problems. The diverse studies underway and planned in this activity provide knowledge essential to intelligent exploration and utilization of our natural resources.

3. Minerals exploration.—In order to help find new sources of many of our essential minerals that are in short supply, the Federal Government is continuing to provide financial assistance to private industry for promising exploration projects. This encouragement and assistance has been and will continue to be a vital factor in the discovery of important new sources of critical minerals.

4. Marine geology and hydrology.—This program, begun in 1963, includes geological and geophysical mapping and investigation of the Nation's Continental Shelves and slopes; research on geologic and hydrologic processes, techniques, and instruments applicable to marine investigations; and research on the hydrology of river mouths, estuaries, and lagoons to provide data for understanding conditions involved in the use of marine resources.

5. Water resources investigations.—This program includes determinations of the flow and sediment discharge of rivers, location and safe yields of underground waters, chemical quality and temperature of waters, and availability of water supplies for present and future demands. Research is conducted to increase knowledge concerning the occurrence of water, its movement, and its interaction with the environment. Hydrologic appraisals are made in areas of existing or potential water problems. Funds requested for 1967 will be used to implement the Geological Survey's responsibilities under Bureau of the Budget Circular No. A-67, which prescribes guidelines for coordination of Federal activities in the acquisition of water data; strengthening the nationwide effort in basic data collection and analysis; conducting area water resources studies and analyses of water resources of basins; continuing studies of flood and drought problems including flood problems in Appalachia; development and application of modern scientific methods, including automatic data processing; research on basic hydrological principles; participation in the International Hydrologic Decade; continued support of education and training in hydrology; and timely publication of water data and results of investigations.

6. Soil and moisture conservation.—This program provides land management agencies of the Department of the Interior with basic hydrologic and geologic data needed for maintenance and improvement of the productive value of public lands.

7. Conservation of lands and minerals.—This program supervises development and production of minerals and mineral fuels on leased Federal, Indian, and Outer Continental Shelf lands. Federally owned and controlled lands are classified for their mineral and waterpower values. The number of producing leases steadily increase each year. In 1967 it is expected that these leases will number 11,250 as compared to 10,000 in 1966 and 9,750 in 1965. Such leases in 1966 and 1967, it is estimated, will produce minerals valued at $1.66 billion and $1.75 billion, respectively, and render a royalty return of about $223 million and $237 million, respectively. The State's share of public land production is 37½% of the royalties, except Alaska which receives 90%; the Reclamation fund receives 52½%, and 10% is retained in the U.S. Treasury. Demands are holding steady for mineral and waterpower classification services. Programs for reclassification and restoration of lands previously withdrawn are continuing at the rate permitted by funds available. In 1967 it is estimated that 53,000 reports will be completed at the request of other agencies. This compares to 52,000 in 1966 and 53,000 in 1965.

Reimbursable obligations.—Reimbursements from non-Federal sources are from States and municipalities for making cooperative topographic and geologic surveys and water resources investigations (44 Stat. 963), proceeds from sale to the public of copies of photographs and records (43 U.S.C. 45), proceeds from sale of personal property (40 U.S.C. 481(c)), reimbursements from permittees and licensees of the Federal Power Commission (16 U.S.C. 797), and reimbursements from friendly countries and international organizations for technical assistance (22 U.S.C. 2357). Reimbursements from other Federal agencies (31 U.S.C. 686) are for special-purpose mapping and investigations performed at the request of the financing agency, much of which contributes to the basic objectives of the Geological Survey.

An unobligated balance of $400 thousand is carried forward each year to pay the expenses of reimbursable work pending collection from cooperating agencies. This advance is not available for obligation.

1. Stabilization payments.—This program provides for stabilization payments for lead and zinc ores and concentrates in order to stabilize the mining of lead and zinc by small domestic producers. Present legislation for the program expires December 31, 1969 (Public Law 89-238).

Payments are computed for lead at 75% of the difference between 14½ cents per pound and the average market price for the month in which the sale occurred and for zinc at 55% of the difference between 14½ cents per pound and the average market price for the month. The total amount of payments which may be made in each calendar year of the program is limited as are the tons of lead and zinc on which payments may be made.

2. Administration.—This activity finances the processing and certification of applications from small domestic producers, the establishment of quotas and allocations and the processing of claims for payment.

When lessees or operators drilling for oil and gas on public lands strike water, water wells may be developed by the Department from proceeds from the sale of water from existing wells (30 U.S.C. 221-229). No obligations are anticipated in 1967.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

The amount appropriated for the Geological Survey shall be available for purchase of not to exceed [forty-three] forty-six passenger motor vehicles, for replacement only; reimbursement of the General Services Administration for security guard service for protection of confidential files; contracting for the furnishing of topographic maps and for the making of geophysical or other specialized surveys when it is administratively determined that such procedures are in the public interest; construction and maintenance of necessary buildings and appurtenant facilities; acquisition of lands for gaging stations and observation wells; expenses of U.S. National Committee on Geology; and payment of compensation and expenses of persons on the rolls of the Geological Survey appointed, as authorized by law, to represent the United States in the negotiation and administration of interstate compacts. (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1966.)

Provision is made for conserving, evaluating, and developing mineral resources.

1. Research.—(a) Coal.—Scientific research is carried out on the chemical and physical properties of coal and lignite, and their preparation, combustion, carbonization, and gasification. Research is continuing on the development of a stationary coal-burning gas turbine to provide a method of increasing the efficiency of steam-generating equipment.

(b) Petroleum.—Research is conducted to conserve petroleum and natural gas resources by improving the processes of recovery and utilization and to promote improved efficiency in processing and use of raw materials produced from these resources. The work is carried out in cooperation with Federal and State agencies and with industry associations and is partially supported financially by many of these agencies and associations.

(c) Oil shale.—Research is carried out on oil shale to determine the composition of the various products obtainable, to test the applicability of those products to different uses, and to determine the basic chemistry and physics essential to the development and evaluation of new retorting concepts.

(d) Metallurgy.—Research is carried out seeking improved processes for extracting metals and nonmetals from their ores. Multidiscipline investigations develop better methods to recover metals by physical, chemical, and electrical techniques and find means to produce superpure materials. A parallel effort integrates the structure of metals, alloys, and ceramic compounds with optimum preparation and utilization. Basic to all investigations is fundamental research to delineate the physical and thermodynamic properties of materials and to analyze the rates and mechanics of high-temperature chemical and metallurgical reactions.

(e) Mining.—Research effort applies physics and mining engineering principles to all phases of mineral mining. Fundamental studies range from the physical nature of rock structures through the application of rock mechanics to exploration, development, and operational problems of mining. Highly specialized research is conducted on the mechanisms of penetrating and breaking rock. The problem of ground control which is attacked by developing methods of stabilizing underground openings and techniques for designing efficient open-pit slopes is of prime importance. Work will continue on extension of applied rock mechanics studies into coal mines to develop engineering principles required for safe economic physical design of modern coal mining systems, engineering application of results of previous studies in underground metal mines and studies of nature and behavior of rock and rock masses in relation to the mining processes.

(f) Marine mineral mining.—Research is devoted to the conception, development, testing, and evaluation of instruments and hardware of undersea mining. Investigations are concerned with the nature and extent of oceanic deposits and the mining and processing of materials recoverable from such deposits. The prototype devices perfected in 1966 will be scaled up in 1967 and tested on selected marine deposits to assess their economic and technologic feasibility.

(g) Explosives.—Research is conducted to provide information and guidance to industry, other Federal agencies, and State and local governments on safe handling and use of commercial explosives and blasting agents; the safety characteristics of explosives certified for use in underground coal mines; the hazards of gas and vapor explosions from flammable liquids and/or gases; and the means of controlling fires in mineral fuels and their products.

2. Resource development—(a) Statistics.—Mineral statistical programs and systems are carried out. Reports on mineral production and consumption are issued for use of Federal, State and local government agencies, the press, professional and technical publications, and industry. Modernization of data collection and processing will be continued by electronic automation of selected statistical surveys.

(b) Economic analysis.—Economic information concerning mineral supply and demand, tariffs, taxes, trade, and other economic matter is furnished to Government and industry to aid in planning industry and Government research efforts, and industry expansion and investment.

(c) Bituminous coal.—Comprehensive technical and economic information is provided for guidance in the optimum recovery, processing, and utilization of coal reserves; and for maximizing efficiencies in the production, transportation, and utilization of coal and related products. Guidance is provided for technological and economic research as related to methods of extraction and preparation, to methods and problems of marketing, and to techniques of combustion and utilization.

(d) Anthracite.—Resource investigations are directed to the development of engineering and economic data on anthracite required by Government, industry, and the general public to assist in promoting the economic well-being of the Pennsylvania anthracite industry; to increase the safety of mining operations and conserve fuel and energy reserves through proper control and drainage of anthracite mine water; and to eliminate hazards to public health and safety brought about by past mining practices.

(e) Petroleum.—Technical and economic studies are designed to provide the accurate and complete picture of the location, extent, and utilization of energy resources contained in petroleum, natural gas, and marginal bituminous substances. Present and possible future trends in production, technology, and practices and their effects on various sectors of the petroleum and natural gas industries will be considered and evaluated on a continuing basis.

(f) Minerals.—Resource investigations are made of mineral deposits to gain better knowledge of the location, quantity, quality, and recoverability of specific mineral resources. Investigations of marginal or submarginal mineral deposits are aimed at determining possible future utilization. Economic forecasting is undertaken, with special attention to the generally growing but shifting demand for mineral commodities, to help guide industrial, business, and Government planning and assistance in the direction of mineral research. Increasing attention is given to production cost levels and to technologic trends. During 1967, the Bureau will continue to appraise the mineral potential of wilderness areas within the national forests as directed by the Wilderness Act of 1964.

(g) International activities.—Technical and economic data on foreign mineral resources, production and consumption, and international trade are compiled and analyzed for Government use in coping with problems of mineral supply and to assist industry in planning domestic and foreign minerals ventures.

1. Inspections, investigations, and rescue work.—The objectives for 1967 are to: (a) inspect, at least once annually, every active coal mine regularly employing more than 14 men underground, take action in accordance with Federal Coal Mine Safety Act to require compliances with its mandatory provisions, and exert special effort to gain compliance with its voluntary provisions; (b) inspect annually, or as necessary, underground coal mines regularly employing less than 15 men underground, and all strip and auger mines, and report on observed hazards with appropriate corrective recommendations; and (c) conduct investigations of serious accidents and make recommendations to reduce working hazards, safeguard the health of workers, and promote efficiency in the mineral industries. The Bureau encourages accident-prevention education through safety organizations, exhibits, safety film production, demonstrations, instructions by Bureau personnel in accident prevention, and first aid and mine-rescue methods.

2. Control of fires in coal deposits.—Fires in inactive or abandoned coal deposits on public lands or private property are controlled or extinguished. Expenditures in connection with fires in active coal mines are limited to investigations and research.

3. Health and safety research.—Research is conducted on the support of mine roof and control of overburden, ventilation of mines, methods of allaying harmful and combustible airborne dusts, preventing accumulations of combustible dusts, preventing underground fires, safe blasting practices, and safe electrical installations. Other research is directed toward developing mining procedures and devices to avoid, detect, or control those aspects of mining and the working environment which involve potential personal hazards to mine workmen and physical hazards to mine operations. Various machines and devices are tested for use in mines and plants where explosive or harmful gas or dust may be liberated or encountered.

Funds appropriated in fiscal year 1956 (69 Stat. 460) will be expended in 1966 and future years on a matched fund basis with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the conservation of anthracite coal resources through flood control and anthracite mine drainage. The act of July 15, 1955, was amended by the act of October 15, 1962 (76 Stat. 934), to further provide for the filling of voids in abandoned coal mines in the interest of public health and safety.

APPALACHIAN REGION MINING AREA RESTORATION

For expenses necessary in carrying out a nationwide study of strip and surface mine rehabilitation and reclamation, and a program of mining area restoration, as authorized by section 205 of the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965, $10,566,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That this appropriation shall not be available for the purchase, or for sharing in the cost of purchase, of lands or interests therein.

1. Subsidence, caving, and mine fire control.—Provision is made for the continuance of projects for the sealing and filling of voids in abandoned coal mines and for the planning and execution of projects for the extinguishment and control of underground and outcrop mine fires. Additional public benefit results through removal of unsightly mine refuse dumps which presently are hazardous due to possible ignition with consequent pollution of surrounding atmosphere by smoke, fumes, and noxious gases.

2. Strip and surface mine area restoration.—Projects for the reclamation and rehabilitation of strip and surface mine areas are continuing on public land in those areas where the greatest hazard to public health and safety exists. The work conducted will aid greatly in the resolution of stream pollution problems. The creation of recreational facilities will be given serious consideration in evaluating projects.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Appropriations and funds available to the Bureau of Mines may be expended for purchase of not to exceed [seventy-one] seventy-five passenger motor vehicles for replacement only; providing transportation services in isolated areas for employees, student dependents of employees, and other pupils, and such activities may be financed under cooperative arrangements; purchase and bestowal of certificates and trophies in connection with mine rescue and first-aid work: Provided, That the Secretary is authorized to accept lands, buildings, equipment, and other contributions from public and private sources and to prosecute projects in cooperation with other agencies, Federal, State, or private: Provided further, That the Bureau of Mines is authorized, during the current fiscal year, to sell directly or through any Government agency, including corporations, any metal or mineral product that may be manufactured in pilot plants operated by the Bureau of Mines, and the proceeds of such sales shall be covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

ALLOCATIONS RECEIVED FROM OTHER APPROPRIATION ACCOUNTS

Note.—Obligations incurred under allocations from other accounts are included in the schedules of parent appropriations as follows:

Interior:

Bureau of Reclamation: "Construction and rehabilitation."
Office of the Secretary: "Advances and reimbursements."

Defense: Corps of Engineers, Army—Civil, "General investigations."

State: U.S. educational exchange program, "U.S. dollars advanced from foreign governments."

The Helium fund is used for the production, conservation, purchase, and sale of helium; location and development of helium properties and reserves; and research on the properties and uses of helium to promote its wise and effective use. Production is primarily for the Department of Defense, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and the Atomic Energy Commission, which reimburse the fund for products received. Other Federal agencies and commercial users buy helium for medical, scientific, and commercial uses.

Budget program.—Production of helium from the five Government-owned plants is estimated at 824 million cubic feet. Sales of helium are estimated at 650 million cubic feet. Operational changes scheduled at the Otis, Kans., plant during 1966 will result in discontinuance of purification and shipping operations, leaving production of crude helium into the conservation pipeline the only remaining function of this plant. Arrangements for additional helium-bearing gas for processing will increase annual production by approximately 40 million cubic feet at the Government's Navajo plant at Shiprock, N. Mex. Increased efficiency and reduction of operating costs are planned through installation of a new crude helium unit at the Exell helium plant. The new modern unit will replace 12 small units.

The Helium Research Center, Amarillo, Tex., will continue expansion of their program in basic and applied research. Emphasis will be placed on improvements in processes, production methods, purification, liquefaction, and utilization in order to increase technical literature and knowledge of helium and helium-bearing gas mixtures.

The Bureau of Mines will purchase an estimated 3.9 billion cubic feet of helium at a cost of $43.8 million from four private companies which operate five helium extraction plants. The helium will be transported through the Bureau's pipeline to Government-owned underground storage near Amarillo.

Drilling of nine wells in the Government-owned Cliffside gas field is planned. Five of the wells are for the development of the Tuck-Trigg Dome Red Cave reservoir for helium-bearing natural gas production and the development of an alternate storage reservoir. The remaining four wells are for replacement of natural gas withdrawal wells on the Bush Dome helium storage reservoir which have been invaded by stored helium and/or for additional helium injection wells.

Financing the budget program.—The entire helium program of production, sales, conservation, and research is financed from the Helium fund. The sales price of helium has been set at an amount which is estimated to provide sufficient funds for payment of all expenses and repayment of an incurred debt, including interest in carrying out the helium program. Total expenditures for fiscal year 1967 are estimated at $56.3 million. Borrowings of approximately $31 million are needed to supplement the $25.6 million income from the sales of helium and related services to finance the overall program. The unused and available borrowing authority as of June 30, 1966, is estimated to be $5 million; hence, an additional $26 million borrowing authority is requested.

Operating results and financial condition.—As of June 30, 1965, the Government had $117.9 million invested in the helium program. Of this amount, $64.3 million is owed to the U.S. Treasury in accordance with the Helium Act Amendments of 1960, leaving a net investment of $53.6 million. The investment at June 30, 1965, was about one-third in helium plants and facilities, and about two-thirds in helium stored underground.

On June 30, 1967, the Government's investment is estimated to be $210.6 million, of which $124.9 million is to be repaid to the Treasury, leaving a net investment balance of $85.7 million. The estimated increase from June 30, 1965, of $32.1 million in net Government investment (equity) results from an increase in retained earnings accrued during 1966 and 1967. Retained earnings result from the favorable cost-sales price relationship existing during the early years of the conservation program and are used for the purchase of conservation helium for storage and other capital assets to minimize borrowing from the Treasury.

The functions of the Office of Coal Research as stated in Public Law 86-599 are to (1) develop through research, new and more efficient methods of mining, preparing, and utilizing coal; (2) contract for, sponsor, cosponsor, and promote the coordination of, research with recognized interested groups, including but not limited to, coal trade associations, coal research associations, educational institutions, and agencies of States and political subdivisions of States. The Office of Coal Research is charged with the responsibility to exploit the full potentiality and versatility of this natural resource to the maximum welfare of the United States. The Office of Coal Research is devoting its efforts to enlarge and increase the use of coal within presently known fields of utilization and in addition to seek new uses. The scientific and technical aspects of the program are performed through a program of contract research.

1. Administration and contract supervision.—This portion of the program performs all necessary functions relating to contracts. Proposals, either solicited or unsolicited, are received in the Office of Coal Research. They are thoroughly evaluated to ascertain such matters as technical and economic feasibility and possible duplication with other current or prior work in or out of the Government. The drafting, negotiation, and execution of the contracts, together with all review and monitoring of technical and administrative phases of the contract work is performed by the OCR staff. All fiscal aspects of the contracts, including audit, records, travel, budgetary, personnel, publications, and reports work for the staff are part of this function.

2. Contract research.—The entire research function cited above as the responsibility of OCR is represented in this aspect of the OCR operation. Proposals may be received which have been unsolicited, or discussions may be held with potential contractors prior to the submission of proposals. Based on such preliminary discussions, some are encouraged to submit proposals, others are told that the prospective area of activity in which they have expressed an interest would be potentially duplicative, or perhaps would not offer sufficient potential. The contract research activities are conducted with commercial organizations, educational institutions, and nonprofit research organizations. Contracts vary from complete Government funding to joint funding on a matching basis.

Coordination of oil and gas activities.—This office coordinates Federal oil and gas policies, provides advice and assistance to Federal agencies and international organizations on all phases of petroleum and gas, and serves as the principal channel of communication between the Federal Government and the petroleum, gas, petrochemical and allied industries. Studies, domestic and worldwide, are made to maintain data on adequacy of petroleum and gas, to define deficient areas or elements, and to develop ways to alleviate actual or potential deficiencies.

Administration of oil import program.—This appropriation finances the Oil Import Administration established March 13, 1959, pursuant to Presidential Proclamation No. 3279, as amended. The Administration established quotas for importers of crude oil and oil products under the mandatory quota system.

Oil Import Appeals Board.—The Oil Import Appeals Board has been established to conduct hearings on appeals from importers who request a change in their quota or who do not qualify for a quota.

1. Management.—This activity covers administration and enforcement of international agreements pertaining to fish and whales.

2. Marketing and technology.—This includes: (a) collecting and disseminating economic data on the fishing industry, including business trends and foreign trade; (b) exploring for fish and improving fishing gear and methods; (c) operation of market news offices; (d) compiling and publishing commercial fishery statistics; and (e) developing and demonstrating more efficient means of handling, processing, storing, and marketing of fishery products.

3. Research.—Research is conducted: (a) on variations in abundance of important commercial food fishes and other aquatic animals; (b) on declining species and fishery resources; (c) on cultivation of aquatic animals, including shellfish; and (d) in the design of fish protective devices. A supplemental estimate for 1966 is proposed for expansion of studies on the effects of pesticides on marine animals.

4. Research on fish migration over dams.—Investigations are conducted to determine factors influencing direction and rate of movement of anadromous fish over dams, for consideration in designing future dams.

5. Fishing vessel mortgage insurance.—This activity provides for administration of the fishing vessel mortgage insurance program, which aids financing of construction of fishing vessels.

6. Columbia River fishery facilities.—This activity covers costs of operation, maintenance, and alteration of hatcheries, fish screens, and fishways under the Columbia River fishery development program.

7. Fishery resources disaster aid.—Assistance was provided in 1965 to the fishing industry of the Great Lakes region affected by a botulism outbreak. Authority for this assistance was provided by section 4(b) of the Commercial Fisheries Research and Development Act of 1964. Commencing with 1966, this activity is being conducted under the Federal aid for commercial fisheries research and development account.

Funds for three of the above activities are supplemented from the permanent appropriation, Promote and develop fishery products and research pertaining to American fisheries, and from the special foreign currency appropriation. These supplementary amounts are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

1. Subsidy payments.—Subsidies are paid for construction of fishing vessels in U.S. shipyards under provisions of the act of June 12, 1960 (74 Stat. 212), as amended by the act of August 30, 1964 (78 Stat. 614). The subsidies cover the difference between construction costs in U.S. and foreign shipyards; up to 50% of the total construction cost. The estimate for 1967 will provide for subsidies for construction of about 23 vessels.

2. Program administration.—Covers administrative services, including determination of applicable cost differentials, rendered by the Maritime Administration on a reimbursable basis, and Bureau costs in administering the program.

The Commercial Fisheries Research and Development Act of 1964 (78 Stat. 197) authorized assistance to the States, Puerto Rico, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands, and Guam for commercial fisheries research and development; and assistance directly to the commercial fishing industry in cases where there is a commercial fishery failure due to a resource disaster arising from natural or undetermined causes, or to prevent such a resource disaster. Funds to assist enterprises affected by the botulism outbreak in the Great Lakes region were appropriated for 1965 under this disaster authority to the Management and investigations of resources account.

1. Aid to States.—States are reimbursed up to 75% of the cost of approved commercial fisheries research and development projects, within their respective apportionment of funds appropriated for such purposes. Projects are approved by the Secretary of the Interior under standards of merit and priority established by him.

2. Resource disaster aid.—Assistance is provided to any segment of the fishing industry suffering from a commercial fishery failure due to a resource disaster arising from a natural or undetermined cause, or to prevent such a disaster. This activity was conducted under the Management and investigations of resources account in 1965.

3. Program administration.—Provides for apportionment determinations; evaluation of project proposals; program coordination; inspection; and other technical and administrative services.

This fund is used for making loans to segments of the fishing industry unable to obtain commercial loans on reasonable terms for financing operations, maintenance, replacement, repair, and equipment of fishing gear and vessels, and for research into basic problems of fisheries. Loans bear interest at 5% annually and mature in not more than 10 years. Loan commitments against the fund are made on approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and referred to the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries for closing in the field and rendering loan servicing functions required (70 Stat. 1119). The act of July 24, 1965, Public Law 89-85, authorizes extension and broadening of the program.

Budget program—Loans made.—As of September 30, 1965, a total of 1,672 applications amounting to $43.1 million had been received. Of these, 874 loans totaling $19.3 million had been approved and 429 applications amounting to $9.9 million had been declined.

Administrative expenses.—These expenses include processing of loan applications, closing of loans, and collection of repayments and interest.

Financing.—Appropriations of $13 million provide capital for the fund. Additional financing is provided from repayments and interest on outstanding loans.

Operating results.—The existing deficit is expected to be eliminated by future interest earnings.

MANAGEMENT AND INVESTIGATIONS OF RESOURCES—continued

1. Fish hatcheries.—Ninety fish hatcheries are operated for propagation of food and game fishes, and administrative staffing for the development of a National Fisheries Center and Aquarium is provided.

2. Wildlife refuges.—The Bureau manages 285 wildlife refuges in the 48 contiguous States, consisting of 3.8 million acres for migratory waterfowl and 6 million acres for rare birds and mammals. This includes 14 new refuges which will be put under management in 1967. In addition, there are 18 refuges in Alaska and 1 in Hawaii totaling 19 million acres.

3. Soil and moisture conservation.—The program consists of the planning, application, and maintenance of conservation measures for the protection, stabilization, rehabilitation, control, and use of the soil, water, and vegetative resources on 132 national wildlife refuges comprising over 10 million acres.

4. Management and enforcement.—The Bureau enforces the Migratory Bird Treaty and Lacey Acts for protection of migratory birds and regulation of interstate and foreign shipments of game; conducts migratory game bird surveys; and administers the Black Bass Act regulating shipment of fish across State boundaries.

5. Fishery research.—These research studies include nutrition, genetics, and diseases of fish; improved methods of fish husbandry and management of public water areas for fishing; effects of pesticides; and conservation of marine sport fishes.

6. Wildlife research.—Research is conducted on management and conservation of migratory birds and other wildlife and on diseases, parasites, and pesticides. Wildlife units are also maintained in cooperation with the Wildlife Management Institute and land-grant colleges at 18 locations to give technical training in wildlife management, conduct research, and demonstrate improved management practices.

7. Fishery services.—Technical assistance is provided to Federal, State, Indian, and other public or private entities in management of sport fishing and fish propagation; and 20 cooperative fishery units are operated at universities.

8. Wildlife services.—Technical assistance is provided to Federal, State, Indian, and other public or private entities for enhancement of recreational and esthetic values of wildlife resources; and conducting operational control programs where needed to alleviate damage caused by wildlife. State and local cooperator funds are expected to total $4.4 million in 1967.

9. River basin studies.—This activity covers studies of the effects on fish and wildlife resources of water-use projects of Federal agencies and licensees. Recommendations are made for measures to protect and improve these resources. Additional funds, totaling $1.8 million in 1967, are provided for this activity from the Bureau of Reclamation and the Corps of Engineers.

10. Pesticides registration.—Pesticidal formulations are reviewed to determine the actual or potential hazards to fish and wildlife from the proposed use of chemicals and recommendations for labeling are made.

Funds for four of the above activities are supplemented by moneys appropriated under the permanent accounts, Federal aid in fish restoration and management, Federal aid in wildlife restoration, and National wildlife refuge fund, as follows (in thousands of dollars):

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

The Service's primary responsibility is to conserve and manage for their highest purpose the natural, historical, and recreational resources of the National Park System. Visitation to parks is expected to increase from 111.5 million in 1965 to 127.5 million in 1967.

General and special funds:MANAGEMENT AND PROTECTION

For expenses necessary for the management and protection of the areas and facilities administered by the National Park Service, including protection of lands in process of condemnation; plans, investigations, and studies of the recreational resources (exclusive of preparation of detail plans and working drawings) and archeological values in river basins of the United States (except the Missouri River Basin); and not to exceed [$25,000] $88,000 for the Roosevelt Campobello International Park Commission, [$32,366,000] $36,177,000. ¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders (total selected resources) 1964, $1,694 thousand (1965 adjustments, $9 thousand); 1965, $1,844 thousand; 1966, $1,844 thousand; 1967, $1,844 thousand.

1. Management of park and other areas.—The estimate contemplates the administration of 230 parks comprising about 26.4 million acres of federally owned land located in 44 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. The increase proposed is to provide for (a) administration of 13 new park areas; (b) operation of newly constructed or reconstructed facilities and to meet requirements generated by increased visitor use in existing park areas; (c) production of additional informational publications; (d) payment to the Bureau of Employees' Compensation, Department of Labor, as required by Public Law 86-767, approved September 13, 1960; and (e) additional requirements for the Roosevelt Campobello International Park Commission.

The following tabulation shows the actual and estimated visitors, and general and special fund receipts:

1967 estimated.....	127,500,000	10,607,575

A supplemental appropriation for 1966 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

2. Forestry and fire control.—Vegetation such as forests, grasslands, desert shrubs and tundra, totaling approximately 16 million acres are protected from fire, destructive insects, diseases, and other preventable damage. The increase proposed is to provide for (a) operating new park areas; and (b) operation of newly constructed or reconstructed facilities and to meet increased visitor workload in existing park areas. A supplemental appropriation for 1966 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

3. Soil and moisture conservation.—The program will permit corrective measures in 36 parks in accordance with the Service's long-range soil and moisture conservation program.

4. Park and recreation programs.—Studies are conducted to determine the significance and suitability of natural, historical and recreational areas proposed for inclusion in the National Park System; and to determine the boundaries of proposed areas and recommend changes in existing area boundaries as needed. Assistance is provided other Federal agencies, the States, and their political subdivisions upon request, in general development planning, site planning, consultation on design, construction, and operational matters, interpretative planning and guidance in protection and preservation of historical and archeological values on lands involved. Studies and investigations are carried out leading to establishment and acquisition of rights to sources of water supply; and technical assistance is provided in acquiring lands and in solving problems relating to both normal and adverse uses made of some of the park lands. The Service participates in the negotiation of agreements with State and local government agencies for recreation administration on lands developed with Federal funds; conducts archeological investigations and salvage programs in areas threatened by inundation through reservoir construction; and conducts surveys of historic sites and buildings and natural landmarks to document for present and future use pertinent information with respect to them and to determine the ones that should be preserved as a part of the American heritage.

The increase is to provide for (a) staffing and fund deficiencies obtaining in the National Park System planning program; and (b) staffing and operating expenses for the Registry of National Landmarks program.

5. Concessions management.—There are over 200 concessioners operating in the parks and other areas. Services to be rendered are determined; contracts are negotiated or permits issued; and rates are established and records are audited. The decrease proposed is due to proposed organizational realignments.

CONSTRUCTION—continued

1. Buildings, utilities, and other facilities.—The 1967 program is designed to continue the provision of essential facilities to meet visitor requirements in the older parks and to initiate development in the newly acquired ones. A summary of the 1967 program by major type of construction follows (in thousands of dollars):

Camping and picnicking facilities.....	3,159
Public service and administrative units.....	10,409
Utilities.....	5,223
Employee housing.....	983
Miscellaneous.....	3,226
Total.....	23,000

A supplemental appropriation for 1966 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

2. Acquisition of lands and water rights.—Approximately 640,000 acres of privately owned lands are located within the areas administered, most of which should be acquired to facilitate public use of these areas. Performance for the current year contemplates completion of acquisitions authorized in the 1966 and prior fiscal year appropriations. For 1967, the program is included in the budget of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation under authority of the Land and Water Conservation Act of 1965.

Rights to water must be obtained, frequently by purchase in many of the areas, for use of visitors and employees, and for fire protection.

4. Parkways and 5. Roads and trails.—The costs scheduled under these activities are against carryover balance of prior appropriations. The program authorized by title 23, United States Code is obligated against the contract authority provided by that title and is shown under the appropriation "Parkway and Road Construction (liquidation of contract authorization)," National Park Service.

6. Undistributed costs.—These costs represent end-of-year variations in clearing accounts involving operations such as automotive shops, corrals, and facilitating services. The costs are distributed to the various activities served based on predetermined rates. Such rates are studied and adjusted at least once annually to provide for adequate operations.

1. Educational expenses, children of employees, Yellowstone National Park.—Revenues received from the collection of park visitor fees are used to provide educational facilities to dependents of park personnel (62 Stat. 338).

2. Payment for tax losses on land acquired for Grand Teton National Park.—Park visitor fee revenues are used to compensate the State of Wyoming for tax losses on Grand Teton National Park lands (64 Stat. 851).

3. Operation, management, maintenance, and demolition of federally acquired properties, Independence National Historical Park.—Some of the buildings on lands acquired for establishment of Independence National Historical Park, Philadelphia, Pa., were rented pending their conversion to park purposes or demolition. Some of the cleared sites are being used temporarily as parking lots from which income is also realized. The income is used for management and maintenance of the rental properties and for demolition of buildings (65 Stat. 644).

WATER AND POWER DEVELOPMENT

BUREAU OF RECLAMATION

The Bureau plans, constructs, and operates facilities to irrigate lands, furnish municipal or miscellaneous water supplies, and develop related hydroelectric power and flood control in the 17 Western States and the States of Alaska and Hawaii.

Appropriations to the Bureau are made from the general fund and special funds. The special funds are (a) the Reclamation fund, largely derived from certain irrigation and power revenue; receipts from the sale, lease, and rental of public lands; and certain oil and mineral revenue; (b) the Colorado River Dam fund, derived from the revenue of the Boulder Canyon project; and (c) the Colorado River development fund, derived from transfers of money from the Colorado River Dam fund. The 1967 estimates, including $3 million for separate transmittal, are summarized by source, as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Appropriation title	Estimate of appropriation	General fund	Reclamation fund	Colorado River Dam fund	Colorado River development fund	Other

Total.....	302,018	151,700	144,286	5,528	500	4

The total appropriation request of $302 million represents a decrease of $26.6 million compared with the current year appropriations and a decrease of $25.4 million compared with the preceding year.

General and special funds:

For carrying out the functions of the Bureau of Reclamation as provided in the Federal reclamation laws (Act of June 17, 1902, 32 Stat. 388, and Acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto) and other Acts applicable to that Bureau, as follows:

GENERAL INVESTIGATIONS

For engineering and economic investigations of proposed Federal reclamation projects and studies of water conservation and development plans and activities preliminary to the reconstruction, rehabilitation and betterment, financial adjustment, or extension of existing projects, including not to exceed $450,000 for investigations of projects in Alaska, to remain available until expended, [$14,232,000] $13,685,000, of which [$12,847,000] $12,283,000 shall be derived from the reclamation fund and $500,000 shall be derived from the Colorado River development fund: Provided, That none of this appropriation shall be used for more than one-half of the cost of an investigation requested by a State, municipality, or other interest: Provided further, That [$405,000] $425,000 of this appropriation shall be transferred to the [United States Fish] Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife [Service] for studies, investigations, and reports thereon as required by the Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 563-565) to provide that wildlife conservation shall receive equal consideration and be coordinated with other features of water-resource development programs of the Bureau of Reclamation. (Public Works Appropriation Act, 1966; authorizing legislation to be proposed.)

2. Alaskan investigations.—These engineering and economic investigations relate to projects for the development and utilization of the water resources of Alaska (48 U.S.C. 487-487b).

3. General engineering and research.—Studies directed toward improvements in planning procedures and in engineering methods and materials. Included are studies of atmospheric water resources and suppression of losses due to evaporation as a means of increasing project water supplies.

4. Fish and wildlife studies.—These funds are transferred to the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife for studies of the fish and wildlife aspects of reclamation projects in the planning stage, authorized for construction or under construction, exclusive of the Missouri River Basin.

CONSTRUCTION AND REHABILITATION

For construction and rehabilitation of authorized reclamation projects or parts thereof (including power transmission facilities) and for other related activities, as authorized by law, to remain available until expended, [$196,661,500] $175,000,000, of which $90,000,000 shall be derived from the reclamation fund: Provided, That no part of this appropriation shall be used to initiate the construction of transmission facilities within those areas covered by power wheeling service contracts which include provision for service to Federal establishments and preferred customers, except those transmission facilities for which construction funds have been heretofore appropriated, those facilities which are necessary to carry out the terms of such contracts or those facilities for which the Secretary of the Interior finds the wheeling agency is unable or unwilling to provide for the integration of Federal projects or for service to a Federal establishment or preferred customer: Provided further, That the final point of discharge for the interceptor drain for the San Luis unit shall not be determined until (1) completion of a pollution study by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, (2) development of a plan to minimize any detrimental effect of the San Luis drainage waters on San Francisco Bay, and (3) agreement is reached by the Secretary with the State of California, subject to the approval of the President, limiting the Federal share of the costs of the drain to Antioch to not more than 60 per centum thereof, and if found necessary to extend the drain beyond Antioch, the Federal share of such extension shall be determined on the basis of an equitable apportionment of the additional costs between the Federal Government and the non-Federal entities who are to use the facilities: Provided further, That no funds shall be made available under this appropriation for the construction in Contra Costa County, California, of any portion of the interceptor drain in connection with the San Luis unit which terminates at any point east of Port Chicago: Provided further, That not to exceed $2,200,000 shall be available for construction of additional facilities associated with delivery of Colorado River water to Mexico, and to be nonreimbursable: Provided further, That not to exceed $450,000 shall be available for replacement of the Paradise Valley Diversion Dam on the Milk River project, Montana, with facilities to serve the lands of the Paradise Valley Irrigation District, to be repaid in full under terms and conditions satisfactory to the Secretary of the Interior.

For an additional amount for "Construction and rehabilitation", $500,000, to remain available until expended. (Public Works Appropriation Act, 1966; Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1966.)

The program consists of advance planning, preconstruction activities, and construction of authorized projects; and rehabilitation of existing facilities.

Work will be underway in 1967 on 29 projects and 16 units and divisions of the Missouri River Basin project including initiation of construction on 2 projects and 1 unit of the Missouri River Basin project with estimated costs totaling $636.5 million. In addition, the third powerplant at Grand Coulee with a total cost of $364 million is proposed for separate transmittal. Five projects and one unit of the Missouri River Basin project will be completed in 1967. The program also includes rehabilitation and betterment work on eight projects. During the year facilities will be completed to supply water to 53,500 acres of land, to provide 95,800 acre-feet of water annually for municipal and industrial use, and to provide 362,200 kilowatts of hydroelectric power.

The Bureau operates and maintains the power-generation and transmission facilities, and generally the storage dams and reservoirs, of completed projects. Where necessary, irrigation works are operated and maintained until the water users are able to undertake the responsibilities. In 1967 a total of 36 projects, project areas, or divisions of projects will be operated and maintained for irrigation, power, municipal and industrial water supplies, and other benefits with funds made available under this appropriation. The Fort Peck project revolving fund finances the operation and maintenance of project power facilities physically integrated with the Missouri River Basin project.

Provision is also made for flood control operations on certain projects, soil and moisture conservation operations on public lands under jurisdiction of the Bureau, the Colorado River front work and levee system program, negotiation and administration of water marketing contracts on Corps of Engineers' projects in California, power marketing programs on International Boundary and Water Commission powerplants in Texas, and examination of existing structures.

	Kilowatt-hours of energy (millions)	Gross energy sales (thousands)
1965 (actual).....	32,095	$89,288
1967 (estimate).....	33,929	101,292

Commercial power is sold to wholesale customers such as municipalities, Rural Electrification Administration-financed cooperatives, private utilities, and other Government agencies. These revenues are deposited in the reclamation fund, the Colorado River Dam fund, the general fund and revolving funds.

The programs include $2,665,500 in 1967 for the purchase of power and wheeling. The establishment in 1961 of the net billing procedure for certain of these power transactions between the Federal Government and non-Federal utilities precludes the need for an additional $3,435,000 for this purpose in 1967.

This fund is used to assure continuous operation of irrigation and power systems in the event of droughts, canal bank failures, generator failures, damage to transmission lines, or other emergencies.

These schedules also reflect nonreimbursable emergency repair work directed by the Office of Emergency Planning under provisions of Public Law 81-875. The Emergency fund was selected as the appropriation to account for all OEP directed disaster relief work. This work has been financed from available emergency funds, a general fund appropriation in 1965 to reimburse the Emergency fund for expenses incurred for repair of flood damage to irrigation facilities of the Milk River and Kern River Federal reclamation projects, reimbursements from OEP, and by transfers from other appropriations of the Bureau of Reclamation under authority of section 201 of the 1965 Public Works Appropriation Act.

This appropriation is available for transfer to the National Park Service and the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife for construction, operation, and maintenance of recreational and fish and wildlife facilities at projects constructed under the Upper Colorado River Basin fund.

1. Recreational facilities.—The program continues the work in progress in 1966 to develop public recreational facilities at reservoirs of the Colorado River storage project. Work will continue at five reservoirs in 1967, of which one will be completed. Work will also be completed on one reservoir appearing earlier, but not in the 1966 program. In addition, work on two new reservoirs will get underway. Three reservoirs will be operated under interim management until such time as agreements can be made for their operation by State or local agencies.

2. Fish and wildlife facilities.—The program for 1967 continues the work in progress in 1966 to develop fish and wildlife facilities as part of the Colorado River storage project. Work will be conducted at 10 sites in 1967, including 2 national fish hatcheries and a national wildlife refuge.

This fund is derived from the sale of Federal property in or near the cities of Coulee Dam and Grand Coulee, Wash., and is available for certain purposes in connection with the disposal of the Federal interest in the communities.

Funds will be used in 1967 for administration of sales contracts retained by the United States and for other incidental expenses (71 Stat. 530).

SPECIAL FUNDS

Sums herein referred to as being derived from the reclamation fund, the Colorado River Dam fund, or the Colorado River development fund, are appropriated from the special funds in the Treasury created by the Act of June 17, 1902 (43 U.S.C. 391), the Act of December 21, 1928 (43 U.S.C. 617a), and the Act of July 19, 1940 (43 U.S.C. 618a), respectively. Such sums shall be transferred, upon request of the Secretary, to be merged with and expended under the heads herein specified; and the unexpended balances of sums transferred for expenditure under the heads "Operation and Maintenance" and "General Administrative Expenses" shall revert and be credited to the special fund from which derived. (Public Works Appropriation Act, 1966.)

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Appropriations to the Bureau of Reclamation shall be available for purchase of not to exceed [forty-nine] forty-one passenger motor vehicles for replacement only; purchase of one aircraft; payment of claims for damage to or loss of property, personal injury, or death arising out of activities of the Bureau of Reclamation; payment, except as otherwise provided for, of compensation and expense of persons on the rolls of the Bureau of Reclamation appointed as authorized by law to represent the United States in the negotiation and administration of interstate compacts without reimbursement or return under the reclamation laws; rewards for information or evidence concerning violations of law involving property under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Reclamation; performance of the functions specified under the head "Operation and Maintenance Administration", Bureau of Reclamation, in the Interior Department Appropriation Act, 1945; preparation and dissemination of useful information including recordings, photographs, and photographic prints; and studies of recreational uses of reservoir areas, and investigation and recovery of archeological and palaeontological remains in such areas in the same manner as provided for in the Act of August 21, 1935 (16 U.S.C. 461-467): Provided, That no part of any appropriation made herein shall be available pursuant to the Act of April 19, 1945 (43 U.S.C. 377), for expenses other than those incurred on behalf of specific reclamation projects except "General Administrative Expenses" and amounts provided for reconnaissance, basin surveys, and general engineering and research under the head "General Investigations".

Allotments to the Missouri River Basin project from the appropriation under the head "Construction and Rehabilitation" shall be available additionally for said project for those functions of the Bureau of Reclamation provided for under the head "General Investigations" (but this authorization shall not preclude use of the appropriation under said head within that area), and for the continuation of investigations by agencies of the Department on a general plan for the development of the Missouri River Basin. Such allotments may be expended through or in cooperation with State and other Federal agencies, and advances to such agencies are hereby authorized.

Sums appropriated herein which are expended in the performance of reimbursable functions of the Bureau of Reclamation shall be returnable to the extent and in the manner provided by law [: Provided, That net revenues not to exceed an additional $88,000 to the amount authorized in the Public Works Appropriation Act, 1964 (77 Stat. 850) arising from the lease of grazing and agricultural lands within the Tule Lake and Lower Klamath Lake Divisions as determined by the Secretary may be credited to the cost heretofore and hereafter incurred for the Klamath project water rights program, notwithstanding the provisions of section 2(c) of the Act of June 17, 1944, and sections 2(a), 2(b), and 2(c) of the Act of August 1, 1956].

No part of any appropriation for the Bureau of Reclamation, contained in this Act or in any prior Act, which represents amounts earned under the terms of a contract but remaining unpaid, shall be obligated for any other purpose, regardless of when such amounts are to be paid; Provided, That the incurring of any obligation prohibited by this paragraph shall be deemed a violation of section 3679 of the Revised Statutes, as amended (31 U.S.C. 665).

No funds appropriated to the Bureau of Reclamation for operation and maintenance, except those derived from advances by water users, shall be used for the particular benefits of lands (a) within the boundaries of an irrigation district, (b) of any member of a water users' organization, or (c) of any individual when such district, organization, or individual is in arrears for more than twelve months in the payment of charges due under a contract entered into with the United States pursuant to laws administered by the Bureau of Reclamation.

Not to exceed $225,000 may be expended from the appropriation "Construction and Rehabilitation" for work by force account on any one project or Missouri River Basin unit and then only when such work is unsuitable for contract or no acceptable bid has been received and, other than otherwise provided in this paragraph or as may be necessary to meet local emergencies, not to exceed 12 per centum of the construction allotment for any project from the appropriation "Construction and rehabilitation" contained in this Act shall be available for construction work by force account: Provided, That this paragraph shall not apply to work performed under the Rehabilitation and Betterment Act of 1949 (63 Stat. 724). (Public Works Appropriation Act, 1966.)

ALLOCATIONS RECEIVED FROM OTHER ACCOUNTS

Note.—Obligations incurred under allocations from other accounts are included in the schedules of the parent appropriations, as follows:
 "Construction," Bureau of Indian Affairs.
 "Educational exchange trust funds," Department of State.
 "Development grants, economic assistance, AID," Department of State.
 "Job Corps," Office of Economic Opportunity.

This fund defrays the expense of operating the power-generation and transmission facilities of the Fort Peck project, Corps of Engineers—Civil, and emergency expenses to insure continuous operation (16 U.S.C. 833).

Budget program.—Increase in funded operating costs in 1967 over 1966 are due primarily to provision for painting penstocks. The capital outlay program is completed except for minor continuing capital expenditures from operation and maintenance appropriation.

Financing.—The operation of the Fort Peck project power and transmission facilities is financed by this fund. The capital outlays for transmission facilities by advances from the appropriation Construction and rehabilitation have been completed. The accompanying statements consolidate the financing from the Continuing fund for emergency expenses, Fort Peck project, Montana, and Construction and rehabilitation.

Operating results.—Net income is estimated at $731 thousand for 1967, a decrease from the 1966 estimates. Earnings in excess of current operating needs are retained so as to maintain a continuing emergency fund of $500 thousand. The balance is paid into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts toward amortizing with interest that part of the Government investment allocated to power generation and transmission. Such payments totaled $2,360 thousand in 1965 and are estimated at $3.1 million in 1966 and $1.3 million in 1967.

² The Fort Peck project and the Missouri River Basin project interchange power in their marketing operations. Rather than exchange funds for settlement on the balance of the interchange, the revenues of each project are covered into deposit funds pending distribution to the appropriate fund or receipt account.

² Balances of selected resources are identified on the statement of financial condition.

The fund defrays the cost of advance planning, construction, operation, and maintenance of the Colorado River storage project and participating projects, a comprehensive basinwide development which will make possible the control and utilization of the water resources of the Upper Colorado River Basin. The storage project will regulate and conserve the flows of the Colorado River and its major tributaries through holdover storage in large reservoirs, permitting increased consumptive use of water in the upper basin as well as the production of hydroelectric power. Excess revenue from the sale of power will be applied to repayment of costs allocated to irrigation which are beyond the ability of the water users to repay. The participating projects consist of power, irrigation, and municipal and industrial water supply developments.

Construction costs of the storage project and participating projects are financed through appropriations advanced to the fund. Project revenue will be credited to the fund and will cover costs of operation and maintenance. Revenue in excess of these costs will be utilized to repay project costs allocated to power, municipal and industrial water supply, and irrigation.

Budget program—1. Advance planning.—Funds for this activity in 1967 will provide for the continuation of studies on the Central Utah, Fruitland Mesa, and Savery-Pot Hook participating projects.

2. Colorado River storage project.—Construction will be underway on two units and on the Transmission division.

3. Participating projects.—Work will continue in 1967 on five participating projects.

4. Drainage and minor construction.—This activity will fund work in 1967 on four participating projects which have been substantially completed, but which require additional funds for miscellaneous finishing activities and drainage construction. Construction is scheduled to be completed on the Navajo unit of the storage project.

Operation and maintenance program.—The Bureau of Reclamation operates and maintains four units of the Colorado River storage project and the power generation and transmission facilities with revenues from the sale of energy and water. Two participating projects (Central Utah, Vernal unit and Emery County) are operated and maintained with funds advanced by the water users, and power operations of the Seedskadee participating project will be financed from operating revenues.

Financing.—The 1967 programs for advance planning and construction of the storage and participating projects will be financed principally by appropriations to the fund and to a minor degree from construction revenues. The operation and maintenance program in 1967 will be financed by funds advanced by the water users and from project revenues. Nonreimbursable operation and maintenance will be financed by revenues and the repayable debt of the storage project and participating projects will be reduced by this amount.

Operating results and financial condition.—Budget expenditures will decrease to $41 million in 1967 from $45 million in 1966.

The total equity of the Government in the fund is expected to reach $688 million by the end of 1967.

The increases in estimated net operating income in 1966 and 1967 arise almost entirely from increasing revenues partially offset by increases in interest on the investment payable to the U.S. Treasury.

The Administration is responsible for the marketing of electric power produced at 30 Federal hydroelectric generating plants in service or under construction, and wheels and exchanges power for certain non-Federal utilities in the Pacific Northwest.

A schedule of Federal generation through 1975, of plants in operation or expected to be under construction in 1967, follows:

Project in operation.....	First generation (fiscal year)	Installed capacity (kilowatts, nameplate rating)
Projects under construction:		6,678,150

The transmission facilities program also will enable the Administration to wheel and exchange power over the Federal grid from the non-Federal Boundary, Wells, Mossyrock, and Rocky Reach dams and the Hanford reactor. The estimated amounts of peak generating capacity on the Federal system are as follows (in thousands of kilowatts):

	July 1, 1966	July 1, 1975
Federal projects.....	7,702	14,461
Power wheeled and exchanged for non-Federal utilities.....	4,002	6,227
Total.....	11,704	20,688

1. Construction in progress.—Includes amounts requested in 1967 to carry forward work on transmission facilities started in prior years. Funds appropriated in 1966 are available to begin planning of an extra-high-voltage transmission line from the Bonneville area to southern Idaho, if a wheeling agreement cannot be reached with non-Federal utilities. No specific estimate for 1967 construction of the transmission line is included in this budget pending final determinations as required by 1966 appropriation action.

2. New construction.—Includes the amounts needed in 1967 to start construction of new transmission and sub-station capacity to carry to load centers the power production of generating installations scheduled to be in operation by June 1970 and to meet service requirements of power customers.

3. General plant.—Provision is made for acquisition of items such as tools and electronic data processing, office, shop, laboratory, transportation, and portable communications equipment used in the construction and operation of the Federal power system. The 1967 budget includes funds for the replacement of two helicopters.

This program provides for the operation and maintenance of the Administration's high-voltage electric grid system, and for commercial and administrative expenses in marketing wholesale electric power from Federal dams, and in wheeling power from non-Federal dams in the Pacific Northwest.

1. System operation and maintenance.—This activity consists of the scheduling and dispatching of power; the operation of substations; the maintenance of transmission lines, substations and other facilities; power requirements and marketing studies; planning and integration of power resources; and system engineering.

Transmission facilities of the Administration are expanded as increased generating capacity becomes available. The system will be operated and maintained at a level which will insure safe operation and provide a reliable grade of service to customers.

3. Power contracts and rates.—This activity provides for the negotiation of power sales and wheeling contracts, the billing and servicing of contracts, including the development of service plans, and the establishment of wholesale rate schedules. Receipts which are deposited in the Treasury amounted to $86.3 million in 1965, and are estimated at $92 and $96.4 million in 1966 and 1967, respectively.

Power developed at Corps of Engineers—Civil hydroelectric generating plants in four Southwestern States is marketed by the Administration through transmission facilities owned by others and through its own system. The Administration also contracts for the sale, purchase, and interchange of power with other systems.

1. System operation and maintenance.—The Administration operates and maintains a transmission system as follows (dollars in thousands):

This fund, accumulated from power receipts, is available permanently for emergency expenses necessary to insure continuity of service. It is also available in such amounts as may be approved annually in appropriation acts to cover costs in connection with the purchase of electric power and rentals for use of facilities for transmission and distribution of power. Electric power is purchased from private utilities and generating and transmission cooperatives. Power is transmitted to customers through wheeling arrangements with private utilities, and through use of transmission capacity in facilities owned by the generating and transmission cooperatives (16 U.S.C. 825s-1).

WATER AND POWER DEVELOPMENT—Con.

This program finances basic research on and development of low-cost processes for converting saline water to fresh water in quality suitable for municipal, industrial, and agricultural use.

1. Research and development.—Both basic and applied research, engineering and development, and evaluation work are accomplished by means of contracts or grants to other Federal or non-Federal agencies, institutions, commercial organizations, and consultants. Estimates for 1967 will permit an expanded effort to advance desalting technology applicable to a wide range of water supply problems.

2. Administration and coordination.—This activity provides for administration of federally sponsored research, coordination of Federal and non-Federal research projects, and stimulation of private and public saline water research including participation in activities of scientific and technical organizations.

The objective of this program is to stimulate, sponsor, provide for, and supplement present programs for the conduct of research, investigations, experiments, and the training of scientists in the fields of water and of resources which affect water, in order to assist in assuring the Nation at all times of a supply of water sufficient in quantity and quality to meet the requirements of its expanding population.

1. Assistance to States for institutes.—This activity provides for specific grants to all 50 States and Puerto Rico for assistance in carrying on the work of a competent and qualified water resources research institute at one college or university in each State. The function of such institute is to conduct research, investigations, and experiments of either a basic or practical nature, or both, in relation to water resources and to provide for the training of scientists through such research, investigations, and experiments. States may elect to use their grants in support of regional institutes in which several States participate.

2. Matching grants to institutes.—This activity provides for grants to match, on a dollar-for-dollar basis, funds made available to institutes by States or other non-Federal sources to meet the necessary expenses of specific water resources research projects which could not otherwise be undertaken.

3. Administration.—This activity provides for the administration of the Water Resources Research Act including the prescribing of rules and regulations; review and appraisal of institute programs and research proposals, making of allotments, contracts, and grants; establishment and maintenance of cooperation and coordination among the centers and between the centers and Federal and other organizations concerned with water resources.

Operating fund.—During 1965 the Virgin Islands Corporation sold its power and water facilities and its sugar growing and manufacturing properties. The power and water facilities were sold to the Government of the Virgin Islands for $7.3 million on terms of a $500 thousand down-payment with the remainder payable over 19 years at 4¼% interest. The major portion of the sugar properties were sold to private enterprise for $3.7 million with 20% down-payment and the balance payable over 20 years at 5% interest.

Electric generating plants:	1965 actual

Operating results and financial condition.—In 1966 the corporation will liquidate its remaining activities including disposal of properties on St. Thomas which it has managed for the Department of Defense.

The accumulated deficit of $1,403 thousand has been written off in accordance with the provisions of the Virgin Islands Corporation Act (72 Stat. 1759).

All current receivables, mortgages and long-term accounts at a total of $9,519 thousand will be transferred on June 30, 1966 to the Secretary of the Interior for collection and deposit in the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts. The analysis is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Current accounts.....	$883
Mortgages receivable.....	8,466
Long term accounts.....	170

The cash balance of $476 thousand will also be returned to the Treasury.

These transfers aggregating to $9,995 thousand will offset the Government equity and completely terminate all activities of the Corporation.

GENERAL PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

SEC. 101. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency reconstruction, replacement, or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities, or other facilities or equipment damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, storm, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted.

SEC. 102. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office) of any appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts included in the budget programs of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of forest or range fires on or threatening lands under jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior: Provided, That appropriations made in this title for fire suppression purposes shall be available for the payment of obligations incurred during the preceding fiscal year, and for reimbursement to other Federal agencies for destruction of vehicles, aircraft or other equipment in connection with their use for fire suppression purposes, such reimbursement to be credited to appropriations currently available at the time of receipt thereof.

SEC. 103. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for operation of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by the Act of June 30, 1932 (31 U.S.C. 686): Provided, That reimbursements for costs of supplies, materials and equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.

SEC. 104. Appropriations made to the Department of the Interior in this title or in the Public Works Appropriations Act, [1966] 1967 shall be available for services as authorized by section 15 of the Act of August 2, 1946 (5 U.S.C. 55a), when authorized by the Secretary, in total amount not to exceed $200,000; hire, maintenance and operation of aircraft; hire of passenger motor vehicles; purchase of reprints; payment for telephone service in private residences in the field, when authorized under regulations approved by the Secretary; and the payment of dues, when authorized by the Secretary, for library membership in societies or associations which issue publications to members only or at a price to members lower than to subscribers who are not members.

SEC. 105. Appropriations available to the Department of the Interior for salaries and expenses shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 2131 and D.C. Code 4-204). (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1966.)

SEC. 201. Appropriations in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency reconstruction, replacement or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities, or other facilities or equipment damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, storm, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted.

SEC. 202. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office) of any appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts included in the budget programs of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of forest or range fires on or threatening lands under jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior.

SEC. 203. Appropriations in this title shall be available for operation of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by the Act of June 30, 1932 (31 U.S.C. 686): Provided, That reimbursements for costs of supplies, materials and equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.

SEC. 204. No part of any funds made available by this Act to the Southwestern Power Administration may be made available to any other agency, bureau, or office for any purposes other than for services rendered pursuant to law to the Southwestern Power Administration. (Public Works Appropriation Act, 1966.)

GENERAL PROVISIONS, RELATED AGENCIES

The per diem rate paid from appropriations made available under this title for services as authorized by section 15 of the Act of August 2, 1946 (5 U.S.C. 55a) or other law, shall not exceed $83. (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1966.)

The Office of Alien Property has administered the Government's interests in property which was seized or blocked under wartime measures during World War II. On or before June 30, 1966, the Office of Alien Property will cease to be an organizational entity within the Civil Division of the Department of Justice. Whatever alien property work may remain beyond 1966 is not expected to require the full-time services of any employee. The funds requested in this budget are needed principally to support the part-time activities of civil division personnel on alien property work, and for other related activities. Actual and predicted workloads are reflected in the table which follows:

Law enforcement.—Under the Law Enforcement Assistance Act of 1965, grants and payments are made to public or private nonprofit agencies, organizations, or institutions for establishing, improving, or enlarging programs and facilities to provide professional training and related education to State and local law enforcement and correctional personnel; also, for projects designed to improve the capabilities, techniques, and practices of State and local agencies engaged in law enforcement, the administration of criminal justice, the correction of offenders, or the prevention or control of crime.

Special studies will be made concerning law enforcement organization techniques, and practices, or the prevention or control of crime, and technical assistance will be rendered cooperating agencies in such matters. Information and materials relating to such studies will be collected, evaluated, published and disseminated.

President's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crime.—The President's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crime was established under the provisions of Executive Order 10940 to assist in fulfilling the obligations of the U.S. Government to maintain and develop programs and policies promoting the general welfare of its younger citizens.

The principal functions of the Committee are to review, evaluate, and promote the coordination of the activities of the several departments and agencies of the Federal Government having responsibilities relating to juvenile delinquency and youth crime; to stimulate experimentation, innovation, and improvement in Federal programs; to encourage cooperation and the sharing of information between Federal agencies and State, local, and private organizations having similar responsibilities and interests; and to make recommendations to the Federal departments and agencies on measures to make more effective the prevention, treatment, and control of juvenile delinquency and youth crime.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is the investigative branch of the Department of Justice and obtains evidence for use in civil litigation and prosecution of criminal violations of Federal law. It has primary responsibility for the internal security of the Nation. It assists all law enforcement agencies in identification and technical matters.

The appropriation request for 1967 totals $175,465 thousand. This will provide an increase of 165 in the personnel staff when compared with that allowed under the appropriation approved by Congress for the current fiscal year, the increase being for civil rights work. A growing volume of work is expected to be received in all major areas of endeavor.

1. Security and criminal investigations.—This activity includes the Bureau's investigative responsibilities, the coordination and maintenance of the data gathered, and the maintenance of the Bureau's communications system. Data are disseminated to other Government agencies having an official interest in them. During 1965, the Bureau received 1,699,361 names for search through its files. An increase in name check work is anticipated.

Estimate:
1966.....	705,000
1967.....	710,000

2. Identification by fingerprints.—The Identification Division is the national repository of identification data based on fingerprint records. Fingerprints are acquired, classified, preserved and exchanged with other duly authorized law enforcement agencies and 5,884,986 sets of fingerprints were received for handling during 1965, the highest volume since the time of World War II. The volume of fingerprint work is expected to increase. Sets of fingerprints on file on July 1, 1965, totaled 175,246,960.

3. Criminal and scientific laboratory.—The Laboratory provides technical and scientific assistance to the FBI and all duly constituted law enforcement agencies and other Federal agencies which desire to avail themselves of the service. During 1965, scientific examinations totaled 276,383, a new alltime high. The upward trend is expected to continue.

4. Training schools and inspectional services.—A Bureau-wide inspectional service and a personnel training program are provided. The Bureau assists, upon request, in providing various types of training to local law enforcement agencies.

This appropriation will provide for the custody and care of an average of 21,500 prisoners and the maintenance and operation of 39 institutions and the central office. An average of 5,284 employees will be employed with the funds in this appropriation. The medical care of prisoners is provided by the U.S. Public Health Service.

1. Custody, care, and treatment of prisoners in Federal institutions covers the direct care costs of all prisoners in the Federal Prison System. These include the costs of all food, clothing, education, custodial requirements, welfare services, release transportation, and related personal services. The funds required, exclusive of salary costs, are in direct relation to the estimated number of prisoners expected to be maintained in 1967 which is 21,500 at an estimated cost per man per day of $0.88.

The Bureau of Prisons contracts with some 796 approved State and local jails to board Federal prisoners for short periods of time. Such periods occur before and during trial, while prisoners await transfer to Federal institutions after conviction, and during commitments for short sentences. An average of 3,230 prisoners was boarded at a cost of $3.88 per man per day in 1965.

A supplemental appropriation for 1966 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

This is a wholly owned Government Corporation. A board of six directors appointed by the President controls its policies. Supervision is by the Director of the Bureau of Prisons who has jurisdiction over all industrial enterprises and vocational training programs in all Federal penal and correctional institutions. Products manufactured by inmates are sold only to the penal institutions and to other Government agencies. Earnings, in excess of operating requirements, are paid as dividends into the U.S. Treasury.

Purpose and organization.—The Corporation is authorized, under the Attorney General, to establish and operate industries in Federal penal and correctional institutions and disciplinary barracks (18 U.S.C. 4121-4128). Its purposes are to provide employment for inmates, provide maximum vocational training for qualified inmates in connection with regular institutional and industrial activities; and to operate a placement service to assist released inmates to secure jobs. Earnings from the sale of these products pay expenses of the Corporation and have permitted payment of $59 million in dividends into the Treasury since January 1, 1935. It is anticipated that dividends of $3.5 million will be paid in both 1966 and 1967.

Budget program.—During fiscal year 1965, the Corporation operated 54 shops and factories at 23 locations. The laundry at Tallahassee, Fla., was closed. The printshop at Atlanta, Ga., was moved to Sandstone, Minn. During 1966 the clothing factory at Atlanta will be closed out, thus providing space and needed manpower for the efficient operation and expansion of the canvas specialty factory due to the Post Office orders. A new enterprise will start operations at Marion, Ill., leaving 54 shops and factories at 24 locations.

The following table indicates the scope of employment and training efforts in the total prison program:

Operating results.—The Corporation has always operated at a profit and is expected to continue to do so. Earnings of the fund pay expenses of the Corporation, which include general administration and vocational rehabilitation. These two activities, although financed from fund receipts are subject to annual appropriation limitations. Earnings in excess of operating requirements are paid into the U.S. Treasury. As of June 30, 1965, the cumulative earnings amounted to $89.1 million, of which $30.1 million had been retained as working capital and $59 million had been paid into the Treasury. Earnings are estimated to be $4.7 million in 1966 and $4.2 million in 1967.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

SEC. 202. None of the funds appropriated by this title may be used to pay the compensation of any person hereafter employed as an attorney (except foreign counsel employed in special cases) unless such person shall be duly licensed and authorized to practice as an attorney under the laws of a State, territory, or the District of Columbia.

SEC. 203. Seventy-five per centum of the expenditures for the offices of the United States attorney and the United States marshal for the District of Columbia from all appropriations in this title shall be reimbursed to the United States from any funds in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the District of Columbia.

SEC. 204. Appropriations and authorizations made in this title which are available for expenses of attendance at meetings shall be expended for such purposes in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Attorney General.

SEC. 205. Appropriations and authorizations made in this title for salaries and expenses shall be available for services as authorized by section 15 of the Act of August 2, 1946 (5 U.S.C. 55a).

SEC. 206. Appropriations for the current fiscal year for "Salaries and expenses, general administration", "Salaries and expenses, United States Attorneys and Marshals", "Salaries and expenses, Federal Bureau of Investigation", "Salaries and expenses, Immigration and Naturalization Service", and "Salaries and expenses, Bureau of Prisons", shall be available for uniforms and allowances therefor as authorized by the Act of September 1, 1954, as amended (5 U.S.C. 2131). (Departments of State and Justice, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1966.)

1. Experimental, demonstration, and research programs.—This activity provides for contractual program costs for experimental and demonstration, labor mobility, trainee placement assistance or bonding program and manpower research programs authorized under title I of the Manpower Development and Training Act, as amended.

Experimental, demonstration, developmental and pilot projects are conducted by means of contracts and/or grants with public or private nonprofit organizations for the purpose of improving techniques and demonstrating the effectiveness of specialized methods in meeting the manpower, employment and training problems of worker groups such as the long-term unemployed, disadvantaged youth, displaced older workers, the handicapped, members of minority groups, and other similar groups. Labor mobility pilot projects are also conducted to assess the effectiveness in reducing unemployment of programs to increase the mobility of unemployed workers by providing assistance to meet their relocation expenses. Trainee bonding projects are also undertaken to assist persons seeking employment or trainees completing training to whom employment is denied because of difficulty in securing indemnity bonds.

A comprehensive manpower research program also is conducted to appraise manpower requirements and resources, problems of unemployment resulting from automation and technological change, mobility of workers, adequacy of manpower development efforts, utilization of manpower resources and such research and investigations which give promise of furthering the purposes of the Manpower Development and Training Act.

2. Planning, research, and evaluation.—This activity provides for the Federal administration of the planning, research, and evaluation activities of the Office of the Manpower Administrator in planning, developing, and implementing a comprehensive manpower program. It provides leadership, coordination, and direction to the manpower research program. It also provides continuous review and appraisal of approved programs and identifies and develops solutions, through experimental and demonstration programs, for the special problems and needs of various groups of potential trainees.

3. Financial and management services.—This activity provides for administrative staff support to the Manpower Administrator in the achievement of an integrated, national manpower program. It furnishes administrative and staff support services in the budget, fiscal management, contracting services, administrative and management services, and provides centralized personnel services to all organizations of the Manpower Administration.

4. Executive direction.—This activity provides for the executive direction, supervision, and coordination of the manpower programs of the Department of Labor. It includes also the direction of the Department of Labor activities involved in achieving compliance with title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Public Law 88-352) and with the Department of Labor's regulations on non-discrimination in federally assisted programs, and in making the determinations regarding immigrant eligibility directed by the 1965 amendments (Public Law 89-236) to the Immigration and Nationality Act.

5. Trade adjustment assistance.—This activity will provide secretariat support to the Board responsible for the determination of eligibility for adjustment assistance under the Automotive Products Trade Act of 1965 (Public Law 89-283) and Executive Order 11254 and will provide for the implementation of the Secretary of Labor's responsibilities under this act.

A supplemental appropriation for 1966 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

1. Training and allowances.—This activity provides for the direct program costs for occupational and basic education training programs to equip the Nation's unemployed and underemployed workers with skills that will enable them to participate in productive employment. Institutional training projects are conducted by State and local vocational education agencies and on-the-job training projects are conducted by employers and other organizations. This activity provides for the costs of conducting the training and for trainee allowances to those trainees who are heads of households or who meet other provisions of the act regarding eligibility to allowances. In 1967 projects are estimated to be approved for some 250,000 persons.

2. Program services.—This activity provides for service provided by the State Employment Security agencies in the overall development and administration of employment service activities including the identification of occupations in which shortages or potential demand exists, the selection, referral, and placement of trainees and the paying of trainee allowances. Overall supervision of the institutional program is provided by the State Vocational Education agencies. On-the-job project promotion, development and supervision are also provided by cooperating State Apprenticeship agencies and by employers, associations and other organizations.

3. Federal institutional training service.—This activity provides for the program development and administration of the institutional training programs provided by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

1. Training promotion and service to industry.—Industrial management and unions are encouraged and aided to develop and conduct apprenticeship and industrial training programs which will help individual workers attain and improve skill competence and adaptability. Apprenticeship and training programs are promoted and established by direct contact at national and local levels with employers and unions, by use of informational media and promotional techniques, and by cooperation with State and community agencies concerned with manpower development. More than 2,000 apprenticeship and industrial training programs are initiated annually to provide, on a nondiscriminatory basis, training opportunities for new labor force entrants and skill-deficient workers. In excess of 3,000 improvements in training system administration, practices, coverage, and content are obtained annually in existing programs. Technical assistance is provided to 185,000 employers directly or through union management committees. More than 240,000 apprentices and 20,000 journeymen and other workers receive training annually. Research in training needs, methods, and results is conducted. Promotional aids and publications are prepared to support activities of the field staff. Cooperation is extended to State apprenticeship agencies.

2. On-the-job training.—Section 204, title II, of the Manpower Development Act is implemented by administration of an on-the-job training program in industry, employers, associations, community and civic groups, and unions are provided assistance in the operation of in-plant training programs to facilitate hiring of unskilled applicants and upgrading skills of employees. Training programs are developed to meet specific needs for additional workers or skills and contracts are negotiated partially to reimburse employers for training costs. State apprenticeship agencies are encouraged to participate in on-the-job training and are reimbursed for costs incurred in performance of MDTA-OJT activities.

Employment service.—The Federal-State employment service system is a nationwide network of nearly 2,000 local employment offices financed by Federal grants and administered by the State employment security agencies. The local offices provide a community manpower service for the areas served by obtaining jobs for persons seeking employment, by providing workers for employers having jobs to offer, by developing or carrying out programs designed to resolve the employment, unemployment, and manpower utilization problems of an area, and by providing special services to employers, individuals, and community agencies or groups requiring or seeking them. These functions are supplemented by counseling and testing services to assist applicants in obtaining suitable jobs or to upgrade their skills through further training, and by assisting employers in analyzing their skill requirements and in solving problems of recruitment and turnover. Specialized services are offered to inexperienced and otherwise disadvantaged youth, particularly high school dropouts, and to others who are presently unsuited for available employment.

1. Unemployment Insurance Service.—The Service's responsibilities are concerned with State unemployment insurance laws and related wage loss compensation plans, including unemployment compensation for Federal employees and ex-servicemen. The Service determines whether State plans and their administration conform to Federal law requirements; reviews State estimates of funds needed to administer the unemployment insurance program; and provides leadership and assistance to the States in improving legal structures, administration, and financial soundness of State reserves. In 1967, the Service will continue to modernize the structure and administration of State plans by programs of research and updated recommendations for State legislation, and by assisting States in adopting advanced methods of operations and management.

2. U.S. Employment Service.—This Service furnishes assistance and guidance to State agencies in the management of employment service offices to provide (a) an efficient placement service in all occupations for all workers and employers; (b) counseling and testing services to assist both workers and employers in meeting their individual employment needs; (c) specialized services for jobseekers requiring particular assistance in order to secure suitable employment, including youth, older workers, handicapped, minority groups, and workers displaced by automation and technological change; (d) for improved mobility of labor by guiding necessary shifts of workers between geographical areas and across occupational and industrial lines; (e) labor area information analysis; (f) estimates of area employment and unemployment and the occupational characteristics of job opportunities; (g) occupational analysis to employers and unions; (h) stimulation and support for community action to develop expanded job opportunities and to stabilize employment; (i) suitable counseling and placement services to veterans and to stimulate the interest of employers in employing veterans; (j) special recruitment and farm placement programs to help unemployed and underemployed farmworkers, including rural youth, achieve maximum employment, and to meet agriculture's needs for year-round and seasonal workers; (k) greater job continuity by maintaining and expanding interstate migratory routes; (l) assistance to local migratory committees for the extension of community services to migratory farmworkers and their families; (m) investigation of farm and nonfarm employment offered aliens seeking permanent entry into the United States under the Immigration and Nationality Act; and (n) insure compliance with the provisions of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. In 1967 the Employment Service will continue to expand and intensify its services to the labor community.

3. Administration and Management Service.—This Service provides or coordinates, as appropriate, leadership and assistance in overall administrative management activities within the Bureau and to affiliated employment security agencies. This responsibility involves budgeting, allocating, accounting, reporting, and auditing activities. In addition, the Service maintains the nationwide statistical reporting and validation system, and through it serves the needs of the Bureau and affiliated agencies for statistical data and economic research and analysis. The Service conducts evaluations of overall administration in affiliated agencies and assists in efforts to strengthen and improve management functions; provides assistance to them in their personnel administration and staff training responsibilities; monitors their compliance with Federal merit system standards; and assists them in the application and utilization of electronic data processing facilities. For the Bureau, the Service provides centralized services and assistance involving such activities as management studies, organization control, employment ceiling control, procedural coordination, automatic data processing, office services, and general business management. In 1967, the Service will emphasize management improvement efforts, especially the automation of budgetary, fiscal accounting, and statistical reporting operations.

4. Manpower development and training.—The Bureau of Employment Security furnishes guidance and assistance to the States in the development, administration, and evaluation of a manpower program which provides: (a) payment of relocation assistance allowances to workers who have been forced to find employment in new areas; (b) payment for training, travel and subsistence training allowances to persons found in need of assistance during training conducted by Manpower Development and Training Act; (c) unemployed and underemployed persons with basic educational and occupational training; (d) counseling and testing services to such persons prior to, during, and after completion of training in accordance with their needs; (e) specialized services for jobseekers who require assistance in securing suitable employment, including youth, older workers, handicapped, minority groups, hard-core unemployed, and workers displaced by automation and technological change; (f) improved mobility of labor by guiding necessary shifts of workers between geographical areas and across occupational lines; (g) training needs surveys in relation to the occupational characteristics of job opportunities; (h) placement services to assist trainees and employers to satisfy their respective employment needs; (i) stimulation and support for community action to develop expanded educational and job opportunities; and (j) formulation and preparation of fiscal standards procedures and statistics associated with the MDTA program. In 1967, the MDTA will increase the scope and intensity of services to workers and employers.

5. Farm labor contractor registration.—The Farm Labor Service provides policy, administrative directions and procedures for implementation of the act and the Secretary's regulations; issues interpretative bulletins, and operating procedures; conducts field investigations to insure compliance with the provisions of the act and regulations; and when necessary, initiates cases against alleged violators of the provisions. In 1967 the Bureau will seek to resolve the legal problems which have prevented proper fulfillment of the act's requirements so that the program can function more effectively.

6. Admission and employment in agriculture of non-immigrant aliens.—The Bureau of Employment Security develops objectives, guidelines, and operating procedures for the recruitment, placement, and retention of domestic farmworkers in positions heretofore held by foreign farmworkers; regulates the admission of nonimmigrant aliens for employment in agriculture under the requirements of the Immigration and Nationality Act and the Secretary's regulations governing such aliens. In 1967 the Bureau will conduct a program which will satisfy the needs of American growers through the proper channeling of domestic farmworkers.

7. Admission and employment of immigrant aliens.—This activity provides for the administration of the 1965 amendments to Public Law 414, the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952. Under the new provisions, immigrants wishing to work will not be allowed to enter the United States unless the Secretary has certified that, "there are not sufficient workers in the United States who are able, willing, qualified, and available . . . and the employment of such aliens will not adversely affect wages and working conditions of the workers in the United States similarly employed."

A supplemental appropriation for 1966 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

Grants are made to States for the salaries and other expenses of about 59,729 State employees in administering the Unemployment Compensation and Employment Service programs. An amount of $508,950 thousand will be financed from Federal payroll taxes and $23 million will be advanced to the trust fund from the general fund. Obligations for 1967 are estimated to be an increase of $39,850 thousand over the 1966 estimate, primarily for State salary increases averaging $300 per employee, financing of Youth Services on a full-year basis, and the hiring of 1,516 employees for expansion of employment services and handling the increased work in unemployment insurance program coverage, offset by management improvements and increased productivity of $13,600 thousand.

1. Unemployment Insurance Service.—State employment security agencies pay compensation to unemployed workers, including Federal workers and ex-servicemen, and collect unemployment taxes from employers who are subject to unemployment insurance laws. Total administrative costs in 1967 are estimated at $5,978 thousand more than in 1966; which includes $10,815 thousand for mandatory salary, personnel benefits, and nonpersonal services, $5,309 thousand for increase in the number of State employees to handle the expected increases in workload resulting from changes in State laws and increased coverage of the system; offset by $3,900 thousand reflecting reduced activity consistent with workload, and $6,246 thousand for management improvement and increased productivity. Federal grants in 1965 provided State administrative funds to collect $3 billion in taxes, and pay $2.3 billion in benefits to unemployed workers. Federal grants in 1967 are estimated to provide State administrative funds to collect $2.9 billion in taxes, and pay $2.1 billion in benefits to unemployed workers.

2. Employment service.—Federal grants finance the more than 2,000 local offices of the State Employment Service which provide a community manpower service by obtaining jobs for persons seeking employment, by providing workers for employers having jobs to offer, by developing programs to resolve the employment, unemployment, and manpower utilization problems, and by providing special services to employers, individuals, and community groups. These functions are supplemented by counseling and testing to assist applicants in obtaining suitable jobs or to upgrade their skills through further training, and by assisting employers in analyzing their skill requirements and in solving problems of recruitment and turnover. Specialized services are offered to inexperienced and otherwise disadvantaged youth, particularly high school dropouts, and to others who are presently unsuited for available employment. Similarly, special services are offered to veterans, older workers, handicapped, and minority group job seekers. Communities are aided to develop employment opportunities and to provide employment services in areas where full-time offices are not feasible.

Total costs in 1967 are estimated at $33,275 thousand more than in 1966; including $11,495 thousand for mandatory salary, personnel benefits, $7,989 thousand for expansion of employment services, and $20,700 thousand for financing youth services on a full-year basis. These increases are partially offset by management improvements and increased productivity of $6,909 thousand.

3. Administration and management.—State agency administrative staff provide leadership and direction for program activities in State and local offices; control the financial management and statistical reporting programs to assure effectiveness, efficiency and economy; and provide support services. Total costs in 1967 are estimated at $597 thousand more than in 1966; $1,042 thousand is for mandatory salary, personnel benefits, and nonpersonal services, offset by $445 thousand for management improvements and increased productivity.

4. Contingencies.—This is provided to meet increases in costs due to unforeseen increases in the number of claims filed, changes in State compensation laws, and changes in State salary rates.

Funds are allocated to the States for payment of unemployment compensation to eligible Federal employees and ex-servicemen.

Weeks compensated under the unemployment compensation for Federal employees program were 1,354,348 in 1965. They are estimated to be considerably lower in 1966 and 1967. Weeks compensated under the unemployment compensation program for ex-servicemen were 2,079,614 in 1965 and likewise will be considerably lower in 1966 and 1967. The reduction in weeks compensated in both 1966 and 1967 results from our assumption there will be lower unemployment during these years and fewer separations from the armed services.

The increases in average weekly benefit amounts are due to our assumption of the continuing rise in State maximum weekly benefit amounts which are set by the State legislatures.

This fund covers transportation and other costs directly involved in importing Mexican farmworkers (7 U.S.C. 1461-1468). Public Law 87-345 dated October 3, 1961, extended the authority until December 31, 1964.

Budget program.—The program involves the recruitment, selection, and importation of Mexican workers for agricultural work on farms in the continental United States. Mexican workers recruited and selected by the Mexican Government were sent to three migratory stations in Mexico where they were examined for ability to do farmwork, screened for subversive activities, vaccinated, and transported to three reception centers in the United States where they were X-rayed, examined and treated for disease, and contracted to employers. This required the establishment and operation of reception centers to provide housing, subsistence, and medical care.

Financing.—The costs of operation of this program were met by fees charged the employer for each worker contracted. These rates were $15 per worker for both contracting and recontracting. The fees provided for the cost of importing workers and for State activities and for the serological testing administered by the Public Health Service.

Operating results and financial condition.—The Mexican Farm Labor Program expired December 31, 1964. However, because of the 2-year time limitations for filing claims (article 39, Migrant Labor Agreement of 1951, as amended, and article 24 of the Standard Work Contract), a contingency reserve of $200 thousand has been set up to meet potential obligations which may arise as a result of liquidation of the program. This reserve is reflected as an unobligated balance.

Article 39 of the Migrant Labor Agreement of 1951 and article 24 of the Standard Work Contract state:

“(a) The United States Government shall be relieved of liability as guarantor under the provision of Article 32 of this Agreement for any sum due a Mexican worker under this Agreement and the work contract unless written claim therefor is filed with the Secretary of Labor within 2 years from the date of termination of the work contract.

“(b) The employer shall be relieved of liability for any obligation whatsoever due a Mexican worker under this Agreement and the work contract unless written claim therefor is filed with the employer within the time provided in the State statute of limitation for filing such claims in the State in which the Mexican worker was employed at the time the obligation arose.

“Provided, however, that when a Mexican worker is transferred to another employer pursuant to this agreement, the limitation period specified in paragraph (a) of this Article shall begin on the date of termination of the work contract with the last such employer to whom the worker is so transferred.”

The June 30, 1965 unreserved earnings of $399 thousand and capital of $206 thousand have been paid into the Treasury. Should no claims arise which would properly be chargeable to the Farm Labor Supply Revolving Fund, the $200 thousand reserve, plus any other savings which might materialize will be turned over to the U.S. Treasury.

This fund established by the Employment Security Act of 1960 (74 Stat. 970) makes advances without fiscal year limitation to the Employment Security Administration account in the Unemployment trust fund. The purpose of this fund is to finance the Federal and State administrative costs of the employment security programs on a repayable basis from the beginning of the fiscal year until the Federal unemployment tax receipts become available in February of the same fiscal year.

During 1965, the fifth year of operations, $194,968 thousand was advanced to the Employment Security account and was repaid. During 1966, about $223,029 thousand of the fund will be used to finance the program until the Federal unemployment tax receipts are received during February 1966.

The fund will be needed until the Employment Security Administration account accumulates a carryover balance of $250 million. Earnings are retained to meet future requirements.

Guardsmen on training duty, and to other functions required to sustain and carry out responsibilities of the Secretary of Labor in labor-management relations matters.

1. Employee-management relations services.—Assistance is provided to unions, employers, employees, and Federal agencies, in meeting long-range, complex, and critical labor-management problems. Included are arrangements for special studies and analyses, guidance in identifying and utilizing available public and private services, and technical assistance in estimating and planning for economic and work force adjustments as they will affect labor-management relations. Department of Labor inter-agency activities on labor-management relations matters are serviced and, as requested, Federal action with regard to particular disputes is coordinated. Inquiries concerning collective bargaining and other aspects of the labor-management relations area are answered. The functions vested in the Secretary of Labor under Executive Order 10988 are performed, including the development and issuance of appropriate interpretations, policies, and procedures. Requests of agencies and employee organizations for nominations of arbitrators are processed and appropriate actions are taken. Cooperative advice and assistance are provided the Civil Service Commission in carrying out the latter's responsibilities under Executive Order 10988. The Secretary's responsibilities under the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, to assure appropriate protection for transportation employees affected by Federal assistance under the act, are provided.

2. Labor-management policy development.—Recommendations are developed for the Administrator and the Secretary with respect to appropriate policy for labor-management relations legislation, Executive orders, objectives for Federal programs affecting collective bargaining, and matters before the President's Advisory Committee on Labor-Management Policy. Studies are made of private policies affecting collective bargaining and of the performance of collective bargaining in relation to meeting current and prospective economic and social needs; labor-management relations research functions in the Department of Labor are coordinated and special studies are made of particular situations. Research programs pertaining to the LMRDA and the WPPDA are developed and executed.

3. Administration of reporting and disclosure laws.—This activity covers the administration and enforcement of the LMRDA and WPPDA. Approximately 79% of the obligations are devoted to LMRDA activities and approximately 21% to WPPDA activities. Reporting forms and instructions are devised and reports from labor organizations, union officers and employees, employers and labor relations consultants and welfare and pension plan administrators are examined for compliance with the acts (approximately 228,000 reports will be received in 1967) with comprehensive analysis made of selected reports. Reports are made available for disclosure to the public. Interpretations and regulations pertaining to the acts are developed and promulgated, as are policies and standards for the conduct of elections. Technical assistance to further voluntary compliance, including clinics and workshops, publications and visual aids, is provided to those affected by the acts. Under the provisions of the acts, complaints alleging violations of the law are investigated and special investigations are conducted in areas where evidence exists of persistent or willful violations. Investigations involving approximately 9,000 cases are estimated in 1967. Supervision is provided for the conduct of rerun elections held under court order or waiver. The programs related to disclosure under the LMRDA, and to technical assistance, investigation and enforcement under both acts are conducted primarily through 24 area offices and 12 resident offices, under the direction of 5 regional offices.

4. Promotion of compliance and assistance to veterans.—Assistance is provided veterans, reservists, and National Guardsmen on training duty to secure reinstatement with their preservice employers and other employment advantages to which they may be entitled, based on seniority accrued while in military service. Compliance is advanced by informing employers and labor organizations of their reemployment responsibilities. Specific complaints of ex-servicemen are investigated and if violation of law is apparent, litigation is recommended when voluntary compliance cannot be achieved.

1. Improving working conditions of wage earners.—This is accomplished by assisting and advising States on labor law administration and their adoption of appropriate labor legislation or codes; by working with State and Federal agencies for better migratory labor conditions; and by developing suitable standards for young workers.

2. Reducing industrial accidents.—This involves providing engineering consultation, technical advice, educational and promotional assistance in all phases of occupational accident prevention to States, labor unions, maritime and special industries, and Federal agencies. With respect to Federal employees, Mission SAFETY-70 is a program to reduce costs and incidence of injuries 30% by 1970, with a potential savings of 200 lives, 45,000 injuries, and $250 million.

3. Promoting employment of the handicapped.—A continuing program of public information and education is conducted through the President's Committee to advance employment of the handicapped citizen; cooperation is maintained with all national groups interested in the field, including the Governors' Committees in the States and 1,500 local committees.

1. Advancement of women's employment opportunities and status.—The Women's Bureau seeks to enlarge economic, civil, and political rights and opportunities for women through its educational, research, legislative, and promotional activities, its staff work for the Interdepartmental Committee on the Status of Women and the Citizens' Advisory Council on the Status of Women; and its services to Governors' Commissions on the Status of Women, to other Government agencies and to national, State, and local groups. Its programs are especially designed to advance the position of the 26.5 million women in the labor force through the promotion of improved working conditions, expanded job opportunities, better training and more adequate counseling services. Through informational, technical, and advisory programs, the Bureau also contributes to the advancement of the position of women in other lands.

2. Interdepartmental Committee and Citizens' Advisory Council on the Status of Women.—The Interdepartmental Committee on the Status of Women maintains a continuing review and evaluation of the progress of Federal departments and agencies in advancing the status of women; stimulates cooperation among Federal agencies, State and local governments, Governors' Commissions on the Status of Women, and public and private organizations with programs in areas of special concern to women; encourages research on factors affecting the status of women; and reports annually on activities of the Committee and Council to the President.

The Citizens' Advisory Council on the Status of Women encourages and stimulates action with private institutions, organizations, and individuals working for improvement of conditions and services of special concern to women; reviews and evaluates their progress; advises and assists the Committee in evaluating total progress made and recommends action for accelerated progress; and considers new ways to advance the status of women and recommends appropriate action to the Committee.

The Division obtains compliance with minimum standards respecting wages, hours, and other employment conditions which are applicable to industries engaged in interstate commerce and to certain contractors engaged in performing services for or furnishing goods to the Government.

1. Enforcement.—Information media are used to inform employers and employees of their rights and responsibilities under the law. Investigations are made to correct violations and to assist employers in meeting legal requirements and workers in recovering wages due. During 1965 nearly 60,000 establishments were investigated under the Fair Labor Standards Act and Public Contracts Act, and some 406,000 employees were found to be due wages in the amount of $74.5 million of which employers agreed to pay $24 million. In 1965 field work was completed for a survey which included investigation of some 14,000 establishments selected in accordance with approved statistical sampling procedures to determine the general level of compliance with the acts administered by the Division. Data obtained from the survey will help to direct the enforcement program in 1966 and 1967 toward those areas in which noncompliance is most likely to occur. In 1966 and 1967 it is anticipated that the enforcement program will continue at about the same level as in 1965. Under the Service Contract Act of 1965 attention will be directed in the latter part of 1966 toward information activities, training of staff and the development of investigation procedures. During 1966 a limited number of investigations will be conducted to determine compliance with the wage and fringe benefit provisions of the act after it becomes effective on January 20, 1966. It is planned to conduct approximately 2,500 such investigations in 1967. Enforcement of the wage and fringe benefit provisions of the Service Contract Act will be absorbed under the Division's existing enforcement program.

2. Wage determinations and regulations.—During 1966 the minimum wage rates under the Fair Labor Standards Act for 13 industries in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and American Samoa will be reviewed. In 1967, industry committees will review the minimum wage rates of 27 industries in Puerto Rico. It is estimated that applications for special minimum wage certificates for establishments will continue at an annual rate of 6,000 during 1966 and 1967 and applications for individual certificates will approximate 8,000. Regulations and interpretations are prepared to give effect to the Fair Labor Standards Act. Emphasis will be directed to development and revision of issuances affected by amendments to the act and changes in industry practices. As a result of adverse court decisions, no new wage determinations were issued in 1965 under the public contracts wage determination program. Pending the completion of court action or the development of alternative methods for making wage surveys, no new wage determination proceedings will be initiated. A program for collecting data and issuing determinations of prevailing wage rates and fringe benefits for classes of employees covered by the Service Contract Act of 1965 will be initiated in 1966 and continued in 1967. Necessary regulations and interpretations under the new act will be issued.

3. Research and legislative analysis.—Economic research on the effects of the wage, hour, and equal pay provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act and Public Contracts Act and analysis and development of statistical data are provided. Studies were conducted in 1965 to provide current data for reports to the Congress and to provide statistical data needed in the consideration of administrative problems and legislative proposals. Further studies will be conducted in 1966 and 1967.

The Wage and Hour Division has primary responsibility for administering the Service Contract Act of 1965 which provides labor standards for the protection of employees of contractors and subcontractors furnishing services to or performing maintenance service for Federal agencies.

1. Enforcement.—The Division will utilize information media to inform employers and employees of their rights and responsibilities under the law. A limited number of investigations and safety and health inspections will be made in 1966 to correct violations and to assist employers in meeting legal requirements. Primary emphasis will be directed to information activities, investigator training, and the development of investigation procedures.

2. Wage determinations and regulations.—In 1966 the Division will initiate a program for issuing determinations of locally prevailing wage rates and fringe benefits for classes of employees subject to the Service Contract Act. Such determinations will be made available for use by contracting agencies in invitations to bid. Necessary regulations and interpretations will be issued. Data on wages and fringe benefits will be obtained by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

3. Research and legislative analysis.—Technical assistance will be provided in connection with the development of the program for collecting data on prevailing wage rates and fringe benefits for classes of employees by locality.

1. Manpower and employment.—The Bureau collects, issues, and analyzes comprehensive data on employment, unemployment, hours of work, earnings, and labor turnover. It publishes monthly estimates of the labor force, employment and unemployment, as well as providing greater detail on various labor force characteristics and industrial employment. Estimates of manpower requirements and supply, reviews of long-range labor force and employment trends, and special studies on manpower problems are prepared. Detailed studies of the outlook for specific occupations are carried out. Conducts experimental work on job vacancy statistics reporting.

2. Prices and cost of living.—The "Consumer Price Index" is published covering urban wage earners and clerical families for the Nation as a whole, for selected large cities, and for selected cities in Alaska. The "Wholesale Price Index" is issued monthly covering more than 2,000 industrial and agricultural products in primary markets. Special analytical studies of price changes are undertaken and research is conducted on standard budgets.

3. Wages and industrial relations.—Information is compiled on wages and related benefits in nonsupervisory employment for 80 major labor markets and for selected major industries; and on salaries in selected professional, administrative, and technical occupations. Monthly information is compiled on work stoppages and wage developments, and reports on employer expenditures on fringe benefits are issued. Studies are made of collective bargaining agreement provisions, trade union organization, and private welfare and pension plans.

4. Measurement of productivity.—Annual indexes of output per man-hour and analyses of productivity trends are provided. Studies are conducted on developments in automation and other technological changes, with analysis of adjustments to such changes. Studies are made of labor requirements for selected types of construction.

5. Industrial hazards.—The Bureau provides quarterly and annual information on industrial injuries, and detailed analyses of the causes of injuries for selected industries.

6. Foreign labor conditions.—Information, reports, and advisory services for policy and program work are provided on labor conditions in foreign countries, including prices, wages, employment, unemployment, unit labor costs, labor law, and labor standards.

7. Program staff services.—The Bureau establishes policies for the maintenance of statistical standards and improvement of statistical methodology. Special economic reports are prepared for the Commissioner, the Secretary, the Council of Economic Advisers, and other Government agencies, and research is conducted into problems of economic growth. This activity coordinates the Bureau's research and reports activities; plans and edits all publications and releases; and maintains a central inquiry service.

1. Departmental program activities.—(a) Litigation.—This activity includes supervision of enforcement of Federal labor standards statutes and legal services in the administration of several workmen's compensation laws including the Federal Employees' Act, the Longshoremen's and Harborworkers' Compensation Act, the Defense Base Act, and the District of Columbia Act.

(b) Interpretations and opinions.—The Office of the Solicitor provides interpretations to the various departmental officials on all labor laws administered by the Department, and necessary direction of the legal advisory work performed in the Solicitor regional offices. During 1965, a total of 52,282 interpretations, opinions and legal advices were rendered.

(c) Wage determinations.—Prevailing wage rates including fringe benefits on construction contracts involving the use of Federal funds are predetermined under this activity. Coordination of enforcement by Federal contracting agencies of labor standards provisions relating to public construction is provided.

(d) Legislation.—This activity provides analysis and reports on legislation, drafts of proposed legislation for the Department, and advice and assistance concerning labor-management relations. It also engages in decision writing and in research, analysis, and reference activities in connection with the Department's programs.

(e) Labor-management laws.—This activity provides legal advisory and litigation services for the Department under the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act and the Welfare and Pension Plans Disclosure Act.

2. Field legal services.—At the regional level opinions and interpretations are provided to field officials of the Department, employers, employees, employer associations, labor organizations, attorneys, and the general public. Enforcement, including several types of civil litigation in the Federal courts and proceedings under the Administrative Procedures Act, of the various statutes administered by the Department is carried on in the field. Attorneys representing the Solicitor assist the Department of Justice and the various U.S. attorneys in the preparation and conduct of criminal prosecution and in defending declaratory judgment, Court of Claims, and other actions brought against departmental officials and/or the United States.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

Mail volume.—The budget estimates for 1967 are based on expected volume of 77.7 billion pieces of mail, compared to 74.4 billion anticipated for 1966 and 71.9 billion in 1965.

The 1967 forecast includes 41 billion first-class letters and cards; 1.9 billion airmail items; 9.2 billion magazines, newspapers, and other publications; 20.9 billion pieces of printed matter and small parcels; and 1 billion zone-rate parcels, catalogs, and other fourth-class matter. Comparisons of these and other items of postal workload and related 1967 revenues with corresponding 1966 estimates and 1965 results appear in the table on page 742.

Financing.—Six separate limitations are enacted for the Post Office Department for operation of the postal service and other assigned responsibilities. The limitations apply to the postal fund which is financed by the deposit therein of postal revenues and other receipts and by an appropriation from the general fund of the Treasury for the balance.

Only the appropriation from the general fund to the postal fund (being equal to the excess of obligational authority over revenues) is considered new obligational authority for purposes of the Federal budget. Further, only the excess of the Department's disbursements over its receipts (exclusive of the general fund appropriation) is considered as budget expenditures.

The six individual limitations control obligations incurred by the Department and are therefore requested and accounted for in terms of obligations. However, the program and financing schedules show funded accrued costs for each principal activity reconciled in total to obligations.

The schedule of revenue and expense shows operating costs on a full accrual basis including provision for employees' accrued annual leave and costs funded by other agencies. Costs attributable to public services as defined by 39 U.S.C. 2303 and amended by Public Law 87-793 are shown in total on the revenue and expense statement.

The Postal Policy Act of 1958 (Public Law 85-426), as amended by the Postal Service and Federal Employees' Salary Act of 1962 (Public Law 87-793), provides that postal rates and fees be adjusted as required to produce the amount of revenue approximately equal to the total cost of operating the Postal Establishment less the amount determined to be attributable to the performance of public services.

Transactions outside the postal fund.—Postal money orders cashed, postal savings system, and deposits resulting from U.S. savings bond sales are excluded from this chapter. The postal money orders outstanding are included in the figure for checks outstanding in table 3 of the budget, and a corresponding sum is included in Treasury cash. Balances for the postal savings system and savings bond sales are included in part II of this document.

Revenue from mail and other services of the Post Office Department is placed in the postal fund, which was established as a revolving fund in 1950 (39 U.S.C. 2202). In addition to the obligations and expenditures under limitations enacted in annual appropriation acts, the fund is also used without annual action by Congress for the purchase of stamp-embossed envelopes and for the payment of certain indemnities, claims, and judgments.

Postal revenue comes primarily from private postal patrons. It also includes receipts from various Federal agencies for the handling of official mail and the payment by the Congress for franked mail. Reimbursements received for nonpostal services and other recoveries are likewise deposited in the postal fund.

The aggregate of postal revenues is less than the obligations authorized for payment from the postal fund. An indefinite appropriation is made from the general fund of the Treasury to make up the difference. After taking into account anticipated changes in funded working capital, the net budget expenditures for the postal service for 1967 are estimated to be $755 million, compared to $878 million for 1966, and $804 million for 1965. The decrease in 1967 is due principally to the increased revenue generated through a larger volume of mail and increased revenue from fourth-class mail dependent on proposed reformatations.

³ Liabilities do not include: (1) Undetermined amounts of postage in the hands of the public which, for practical considerations, have been accounted for as revenue when sold; (2) the following contingent and future obligations which by law the Department may not fund or account for as obligations until payments are due: contingent liabilities for pending suits and damage claims of $42.8 million and $43.2 million at June 30, 1965 and 1964, respectively, a substantial portion of which are expected either to be settled at less than the amount claimed or disallowed; and (3) undetermined amounts payable under long-term leases.

This appropriation provides for the direction and control of the Postal Establishment. The budget estimate for 1967 is $95.8 million, an increase of $6.8 million over 1966 and $11.2 million over 1965.

Payments formerly made from this appropriation, 1965 and prior years, for the settlement of personal and property damage claims arising out of the operation of the postal service and for losses resulting from unavoidable casualties are now being paid from postal revenue.

1. Executive direction and administration.—This activity provides for all offices and bureaus at Washington headquarters except the research and engineering staff; and includes the money order audit activity in Washington, D.C., and the reimbursement to Treasury Department for processing of paid money orders. For 1966 the biennial fidelity bond premium of all employees is included.

2. Field inspection service.—This activity provides for the postal inspection and internal audit services. Postal inspection includes all field investigation and inspection functions pertaining to violation of the postal laws, prevention and detection of mail loss and mistreatment and losses of Government funds and property, field audit of postmasters' accounts, personnel security and suitability investigations, and special surveys and investigations. The internal audit program includes comprehensive reviews and financial audits of activities at the departmental level, regional offices, and other selected field installations.

3. Regional operations.—This activity provides for direction and administration of postal field activities by 15 regional administration offices under authority delegated from Washington headquarters, for the performance of regional controller functions, and for staff services of accounting, disbursing, and data processing for the regional operation offices in a geographic area that covers two or three regions per postal data center. This does not include the inspection service or field installations of the Bureau of Facilities.

This no-year appropriation provides for a research, development, and engineering program estimated for 1967 at $16.2 million, a decrease of $2.7 million under 1966 and an increase of $5.1 million over 1965.

1. Direct operations.—This activity provides for the administration of a research, development, and engineering program for the Postal Establishment. It includes the conduct of research, development, and engineering activities not performed under contract, and the development of: (1) preliminary layouts and designs for postal buildings and mechanized equipment; (2) better work methods, procedures, and manpower utilization systems; and (3) the Headquarters program for the design, development, and testing of new postal equipment and materials. It also funds the personal services required for the operation of postal laboratory.

2. Contract engineering.—This activity provides for contract procurement of engineering services used primarily in the replacement and modernization of facilities and equipment.

3. Contract research and development.—This activity includes funds for the design, development, test, and evaluation of new postal equipment, materials, and techniques required to reduce costs, improve service, and improve employee working conditions. The work is primarily performed by other Government agencies or by private industry under contract. Funds are also included for supplies and material used in testing and evaluating equipment at the postal laboratory.

Work performed under most research and development contracts runs over a period of more than 1 year and, because of its nature, is generally done on cost-plus-a-fixed-fee basis. At times the scope is of such magnitude as to require several years for completion. Therefore, obligations incurred in any one year are not necessarily indicative of the level of work actually performed. In order to provide flexibility required in programing research projects, funds in this appropriation are available until expended.

Funds provided in this appropriation pay the personal services and related expenses required to perform the primary function of the Post Office Department—collecting, sorting, and delivering the mail. The employees paid with these funds include postmasters, who administer the operation of the postal installations; supervisors and clerks, who direct and process the handling of mail along with providing window services to patrons; city carriers, special delivery messengers, and rural carriers, who collect and deliver the mail; maintenance personnel, who keep the buildings and equipment in operating condition; and the vehicle maintenance employees, who service the Government-owned trucks used in hauling mail.

Funds requested for 1967 total $4,725 million, an increase of $170 million over the estimate for 1966. The additional funds will provide the manpower and cover the related expenses necessary to handle the estimated increase of 3.3 billion pieces of mail in 1967, provide delivery service to the additional area and patrons, to improve existing services, and $66 million to annualize pay increases effective for a part year in 1966.

1. Administration of postal installations.—Services are performed under this activity by postmasters, assistant postmasters, supervisors, and technical personnel. These employees are engaged in the local management, supervision, labor relations and related fields at all postal units. Technical personnel under this activity include accounting, finance examiner, medical, safety, and personnel employees.

2. Mail handling and window service.—This activity provides for the separation and distribution of all mail received in the postal units, including highway and railway post offices. It also includes rendering of window service to patrons, payment for the operation of contract stations, dispatch control of trucks hauling mail, and reimbursements to the Federal Reserve banks for handling deposits made by postmasters.

It is expected that continued benefits from the efforts to improve operating procedures and cooperation of the mailing public in the preparation of its mailings along with the continued mechanization and employee incentive programs will enable the increase of 4.5% in mail volume to be handled with an increase of 3.1% in clerical manpower. Other programs directed toward a more efficient Postal Service will increase manpower 0.4% for a total increase of 3.5% in this activity. This compares with a 1.4% increase in manpower to handle a 3.2% increase in mail volume experienced in 1965 and a 1.9% increase in manpower to handle a 3.5% increase in mail volume and other programs planned in 1966.

The following table shows a comparison of employment and workload:

3. Collection and delivery service.—This service provides for delivery of mail to residences and business places in cities and their suburbs, collection of mail from over 315,000 street letterboxes and 14,400 building mail chutes in these areas, delivery of mail on rural routes, and delivery of special delivery articles. This service also includes the local pickup and delivery of mail between stations and the post office and other installations. In some instances drivers transport mail between cities. Possible city delivery stops per man-year worked in 1967 are estimated to increase approximately 0.2%. The estimated increase in number of possible stops results from the continuous growth in housing. Programs directed toward a more efficient city delivery service results in an increase of 0.9% in manpower for 1967. The number of rural routes to be established in 1967 will be offset by conversions of rural routes to city delivery service and the consolidation of rural routes for economic reasons.

4. Maintenance service.—The services under this activity relate to the maintenance of equipment and protection and cleaning of buildings used by the postal service. The employees under this activity include, among others, guards, mail handling elevator operators, janitors, and mechanics to service mechanical and electronic mail handling and office equipment.

5. Vehicle service.—This activity provides for the maintenance and operating cost of vehicles used for the local collection and delivery of mail and in some instances the transport of mail between cities. This includes employment of vehicle mechanics; the purchase of parts, gasoline, oil, tires, and contract maintenance; and the cost of hired vehicles used in lieu of Government-owned vehicles when it is economically advantageous.

This appropriation covers transportation of mail by air, land, and water.

1. Surface transportation.—This includes transportation of mail by water, highway, and rail.

(a) Water.—Domestic water transportation service is utilized for the transportation of mail on the inland and coastal waterways at per annum contract rates ($0.6 million in 1967), at pound rates ($3.2 million in 1967), and at container rates to Hawaii ($1.6 million in 1967). Pound rate service is utilized for Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. The decrease in pound rate volume is due to the increased service at container rates.

Foreign water transportation covers carriage of mails by steamship to foreign countries at per pound rates ($11.9 million including $0.2 million for shipment of empty mail bags in 1967). It also includes terminal charges by foreign countries for handling such mail at the port of entry and charges for mails transiting such countries ($6.3 million in 1967). The increase in international surface mail volume was 1.1% in 1965 and is projected to be 4.5% in 1966 and 6.3% in 1967.

TRANSPORTATION—Continued

(b) Highway.—This includes transportation of mail by star route, buses, mail messenger, highway post offices, and railroad operated truck routes. The estimates for 1967 are as follows:

	(Millions)
Star route service.....	$113.7
Area bus contracts.....	0.9
Mail messenger service.....	16.9
Highway post offices.....	7.1
Total.....	138.6

Star route service is the major function in the overall highway transportation activity and provides service between post offices. The uptrend in the average cost per mile of star route service and in highway transportation generally is caused by the growing need for larger and more expensive truck equipment where mail volume is steadily increasing, and by the higher costs due to the growth in the national economy.

DATA RELATING TO TRANSPORTATION BY STAR ROUTES

1963.....	11,418	425,725	$80,708	18.96

Mobile highway post offices provide mail distribution en route in contract highway vehicles where adequate train service of this nature does not exist. General price increases have resulted in higher costs to the performing contractors and subsequent adjustment in contract rates is the reason for the increase in the average cost per mile.

(c) Rail.—This covers transportation by railroad in the United States and Puerto Rico. The estimate provides for increased mail volume offset in part by diversions from railroad to highway service.

2. Air transportation.—This covers the transportation of mail by air between points within the United States, to U.S. possessions and to foreign countries. CAB Rate Order No. E-21514, effective October 1, 1964, reduced mail transportation rates for U.S. carriers on the transatlantic and transpacific routes approximately 25%. This order had the effect of reducing foreign airmail transportation costs $4 million in 1965 and $5 million in 1966. CAB Order No. 22512 reduced mail transportation rates 10% for domestic carriers, fully effective in fiscal year 1966. This had the effect of reducing mail transportation costs by $5.9 million in 1966.

This appropriation provides for expenses of occupying postal facilities, for supplies and certain types of contractual services required by the postal service, and for field service organizations operated by the Bureau of Facilities.

1. Building occupancy.—This activity provides for rental of postal facilities; cost of communications, fuel, and utilities; one-time payments for improvements to leased buildings; installments on lease-purchase contracts; and the acquisition and resale of sites to lessors under the commercial leasing program. The recoveries from the resale of such land shown under Advances and reimbursements are applied to the purchase of additional sites for resale. Increased rental costs result from (a) the acquisition of additional postal space, (b) increased rental rates, and (c) replacement of inadequate or substandard space in Government buildings.

This appropriation provides funds to alter and improve Federal buildings used for postal purposes; for procurement of equipment, including installation of major mail-processing machines; and for procurement of vehicles and garage equipment for the Post Office Department vehicle fleet. The program and financing schedule shows, in addition to obligations, the extent to which yearly costs are expected to be incurred with the corresponding increase or decrease in the amount of assets on order, which is indicated by changes in selected resources applied to the program.

1. Federal buildings improvement.—This activity provides for modernizing and extending Government-owned buildings to make them adequate and efficient for postal purposes. Air conditioning, heating plant improvements, and the purchase of additional land adjacent to Federal buildings are included in this activity.

2. Major mechanization projects.—This activity provides for the installation of major mail processing machinery and equipment in large postal facilities designed for such installations. It also provides for modification of existing installations to adapt them to changing concepts of mail handling. This mechanization consists of bulk transport conveyors, tray transport conveyors, parcel sorting machines, and sack sorting machines. Since 1957 such mechanization has been ordered for 60 facilities. By the end of 1966, five additional installations will be on order or in the process of completion, and nine installations will be ordered in 1967.

3. Vehicle program.—This activity provides for replacement of wornout vehicles, for additions to the fleet required by growth of postal service, for vehicles to augment the carrier mechanization program, and for the purchase of garage equipment. The estimate provides for the purchase of 17,123 vehicles; 11,726 small vehicles; and 5,397 vehicles of the ½-ton capacity and over. Of the smaller vehicles, 9,175 are 3-wheel mailsters scheduled to replace current high-cost carrier driveout agreements, and 2,551 are for replacement. Of the larger vehicles, 549 are for new service and 4,848 are for replacement.

The reimbursements from foreign air transportation and sale of sites to prospective lessors amount to 91.0% of the total reimbursements estimated to be received in 1967.

5. Foreign air transportation: Transportation of military mail (Department of Defense).—The Department of Defense pays for the oversea portion of the transportation of mail moving to and from military post offices in foreign countries. Because it is set up to do so, the Post Office Department makes the arrangements with and pays the bills of commercial air carriers who haul this mail overseas. The Department of Defense makes a reimbursement to the Transportation appropriation for the costs thus incurred by the Post Office Department. The trend in volume growth experienced during the past several years is expected to continue through 1967.

6. Building occupancy: Sale of sites and related costs to prospective lessors.—This program provides for purchase of sites for construction of leased postal facilities and payments of architect-engineering fees for the design of such buildings. The sites are resold to successful bidders upon award of the agreement to lease, and the proceeds reimbursed to the Building occupancy and postal supplies appropriation. The amount estimated for 1967 results from the lesser value of awards as well as a reduction in the number of awards which will be made in 1967 as compared with 1966.

ADMINISTRATION OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS—Con.

1. Executive direction and policy formulation.—The Secretary is assisted in the formulation of policy and direction of the Department's activities by the appropriate staff officers, specialized offices, and functional bureaus of the Department.

2. Conduct of diplomatic and consular relations with foreign countries.—This includes representation of the United States and its citizens abroad, political and economic negotiations and reporting, consular operations, and oversea administrative services. Major items of increase are for the establishment of new posts, staff to meet increased consular and communication workloads, improvement of physical security at oversea posts, and increases for rising prices and local employee wage rates. A continued rise in travel of U.S. citizens abroad is anticipated in 1967 as reflected in the following annual number of passports applied for in the United States:

1,026,027	1,091,470	1,271,983	1,400,000	1,540,000

3. Conduct of diplomatic relations with international organizations.—In collaboration with other Government agencies, U.S. policy is developed and coordinated on political and security issues and in such specialized fields as world health, education, labor, and refugee activities.

4. Domestic public information and liaison.—This program provides for informing the American public on international policies and also keeping the Department informed on American attitudes on foreign policy.

5. Central program services.—These provide personnel and physical security measures, direction and administration of the Foreign Service Institute, and the administration of a global communications system for all civilian activities of the Government, including services for other agencies on a reimbursable basis. The increase is mainly for improved communications facilities in Washington, and for strengthening of the Foreign Service Institute training program and its facilities.

6. Administrative and staff activities.—These include normal domestic administrative activities, as well as assistance to educational facilities abroad for U.S. Government dependents. A substantial increase is requested to enhance the quality of education in American-sponsored elementary and secondary schools abroad.

The foreign service buildings program provides consolidated office space for the Foreign Service and other Government agencies abroad, and living quarters for American employees. This program also finances real property leases of 10 years or more (shorter term leases are included in Salaries and expenses, above), procurement of furniture and furnishings, and repair, maintenance, and operating costs of these facilities.

The following table shows present and estimated property holdings by type of structure and geographic area (dollars in thousands):

ADMINISTRATION OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS—Con.

ABROAD—Continued

Unsatisfactory Government-owned or leased office space is replaced with structures designed specifically to meet the particular needs of the Foreign Service and other Government civilian operations overseas. Housing is provided American employees in localities where suitable housing is otherwise unavailable.

Appropriations are made pursuant to periodic congressional authorizations. In 1961, the remainder of prior authorizations was exhausted. In 1962 and 1963, interim authorizations of $10 million each year provided only for operating expenses, so the acquisition and construction of real property during the 3 years 1961–63 was not significant. The program was able to approach its earlier level of activity when Public Law 88–94, approved August 12, 1963, authorized $26.3 million for capital projects. Subsequent appropriations have left a balance of capital authorization under this act of $6,468 thousand. A new authorization bill, which would provide a capital authorization of $36,065 thousand, is now under review by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Public Law 88–414 provides authorization of not exceeding $12,400 thousand for operating expenses in 1967. Additional authority will be required for operating expenses for subsequent years.

Starting in 1961, a separate appropriation, limited to payments in excess foreign currencies, has been enacted annually pursuant to the authority of section 104(l) of Public Law 480. These currencies supplement the regular building fund and are used principally to acquire or construct capital assets in the form of real property, thereby accelerating the building program. They are also used to pay property operating and maintenance costs to the greatest extent possible, in order to reduce dollar expenditure requirements. Countries in which these currencies are available to this program are Burma, Ceylon, Guinea, India, Israel, Nepal (through use of Indian rupees), Pakistan, Poland, Tunisia, United Arab Republic, and Yugoslavia. These funds will be credited to and expended under the regular appropriation.

EMERGENCIES IN THE DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR SERVICE

For expenses necessary to enable the Secretary of State to meet unforeseen emergencies arising in the Diplomatic and Consular Service, to be expended pursuant to the requirement of section 291 of the Revised Statutes (31 U.S.C. 107), $1,600,000. (Department of State Appropriation Act, 1966.)

These funds are used for relief and repatriation loans to U.S. citizens abroad and for other emergencies of the Department. More than 75% of these loans have been repaid and deposited to miscellaneous receipts. Outstanding loans on June 30, 1965, amounted to $3.3 million.

Proposed for separate transmittal:

This fund finances on a reimbursable basis certain central services including duplicating, editorial, microfilming, telephone, motorpool, laborers, supply and despatch (5 U.S.C. 170(u)). On July 1, 1965, the fund expanded its activity to include the financing of the procurement of certain representational furnishings, both initial and replacement. Inventory of approximately $109 thousand was transferred to the fund by the Office of Foreign Buildings.

Provided here are the U.S. contributions to help defray the costs of the United Nations and 8 of its specialized agencies, 6 inter-American organizations, 7 regional organizations, and 12 other organizations.

The decrease for the United Nations results from the deletion of a requirement for the U.N. Emergency Force in the Middle East (UNEF) from this appropriation. The decrease is offset, in part, by an increase in the regular budget due to requirements for the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development, expansion of the newly established U.N. Organization for Industrial Development, and general salary increases resulting from a U.N. salary revision.

Major reasons for increases in contributions to the other organizations include: (1) wage and salary increases resulting from the recommendations of the International Civil Service Advisory Board and their adoption by the U.N. General Assembly, and from a study conducted by the Secretariat of the Organization of American States; (2) building construction costs in certain organizations, particularly the International Civil Aviation Organization; (3) statutory requirements, including normal salary increments and adjustments in the base for calculating pensions from net to gross; (4) program expansion, especially in the fields of health (medical research, training of professional auxiliary personnel, and advisory services to governments) and agriculture (fisheries, forestry, development of rural institutions, studies of agricultural commodities, and research); and (5) technical budget factors, including a decrease in credits applied against assessments in UNESCO and the International Atomic Energy Agency, and additional working capital fund advances in the World Health Organization.

These missions represent the United States to the international organizations listed above, provide continuous reporting, and maintain liaison with the international secretariats of the organizations and with the delegations of other governments.

In 1967, the funds for two additional missions are being transferred in the estimates from the "Salaries and expenses" appropriation to this appropriation. The two transferred missions are: (1) UNESCO mission in Paris, and (2) Food and Agriculture Organization mission in Rome. The costs of these missions for 1965 and 1966 are reflected in these schedules on a comparative basis.

This appropriation funds the cost of official U.S. Government participation in multilateral international conferences, and other international activities not otherwise provided for which are determined to be necessary in the conduct of U.S. foreign relations. This includes: (a) participation in conferences of the United Nations, its subsidiary bodies, and specialized agencies; (b) meetings of regional and other international organizations, including commodity groups, and other conferences concerned with economic, political, cultural, or scientific matters; (c) participation in international conferences not directly associated with any international organization; (d) defraying the expenses of participating members of international secretariats to meetings, conferences, and related activities held under U.S. auspices; and (e) contributions to new or provisional organizations.

This appropriation request provides for regularly planned and scheduled conferences, and for predictable U.S. contributions to new or provisional organizations. The 1967 estimate does not provide for unforeseen contingencies.

The requested 1967 appropriation increase of $102 thousand is required for funding U.S. contributions to new or provisional organizations.

This appropriation provides for continuation of U.S. participation in the multilateral Trade Negotiation Conference, which began in Geneva on May 4, 1964, under the sponsorship of the Contracting Parties of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT). The negotiations are expected to continue throughout 1967.

The basic authority for the President to enter into trade agreements is contained in section 201 of the Trade Expansion Act of 1962 (Public Law 87-794).

The request of $850 thousand will provide: (1) transportation and travel expenses of the U.S. delegations; (2) necessary administrative expenses involved in support of the U.S. delegations; and (3) salaries of 17 officer and 13 clerical positions assigned to the Bureau of Economic Affairs in the Department of State, and 10 local-hire positions in Geneva.

1. Rio Grande international dams program.—Construction of Amistad Dam, the second major international storage structure on the Rio Grande contemplated by the 1944 Water Treaty, will be continued in 1967.

2. Lower Rio Grande flood control.—Mexico is continuing to investigate the feasibility of control structures on certain of its tributaries to the Lower Rio Grande. Pending completion of these studies, which could permit improvements to the Lower Rio Grande to effect savings in operation and maintenance costs, all except urgently needed works are being deferred. No funds are requested for 1967, as work will be financed with unobligated balance of prior year funds.

3. Nogales sanitation project.—Expansion of the Nogales international disposal works will be accomplished subject to satisfactory agreement with Mexico for sharing of the costs. No funds are requested for 1967, as work will be financed from funds made available in prior years.
