(c) Police protection.—This includes the usual police functions of preservation of the peace and enforcement of the law in the Canal Zone (not including military reservations), operation of prisons, and police guards for certain facilities.

(d) Fire protection.—All firefighting facilities in the Canal Zone except those required for aircraft crash fires and fires aboard naval vessels and ammunition depots are consolidated under the Canal Zone Government.

(e) Judicial system.—This includes the operation of two magistrate courts and the expenses of the district court (exclusive of salaries) which serves as both a State and Federal court.

(f) Education.—This provides for the operation of schools, kindergarten through college, for the dependents of Canal Zone residents, the dependents of U.S. citizen Government employees residing in the Republic of Panama, and, on a space available basis, certain other residents of the Republic of Panama. There are two school systems; one for U.S. citizens, the other, which is conducted in the Spanish language, for Panamanians and other non-U.S. citizens. There also are specialized facilities for the handicapped.

The Panama Canal Company is a wholly owned Government corporation whose primary purpose is maintaining and operating the interoceanic canal at the Isthmus of Panama, and other necessary supporting operations.

The administration of the Company is integrated with that of the Canal Zone Government, an independent agency initially financed by appropriations. The Governor of the Canal Zone is ex officio president of the Company. The Company is expected to be self-sustaining and is required to reimburse the U.S. Treasury for the net cost of the Canal Zone Government, the cost of interest on the net direct investment of the United States in the Company, and for annuity payments made by the United States to the Republic of Panama pursuant to the treaty of 1903, as amended in 1936.

3. General corporate expense.—This includes payments to the Treasury for the net cost of Canal Zone Government and interest expense payable to U.S. Treasury, general and administrative expenses under statutory limitation, and other general corporate expenses not under limitation.

Financing.—The Company is authorized to obtain appropriations for its capital needs and to cover losses sustained in the conduct of its activities. In addition, under Public Law 86-200 (73 Stat. 428), the Company may borrow from the Treasury, at interest, amounts not exceeding $10 million outstanding at any time. While the latter authorization is utilized to backstop the Company's objectives, no cash withdrawals against it are planned during 1967 or 1968. The unobligated balance is estimated at $11,456 thousand on June 30, 1968.

Operating results and financial condition.—There will be an increase in retained earnings in 1967 estimated at $8,581 thousand and a further increase in 1968 estimated at $8,171 thousand, wholly representing net operating income for those years.

Note.—Contingent and other liabilities: The Company is contingently liable with respect to certain pending suits and claims. In addition, the Company has outstanding at all times, certain liabilities of indeterminable amounts which are recognized in the accounts on an as-paid basis. These liabilities include, principally, monthly relief benefits payable to retired alien employees; repatriation costs earned by certain employees; benefits payable under provisions of the Federal Employees Compensation Act; and commitments for construction work, supplies, and services.

The maximum liability which could result from outstanding claims and lawsuits is estimated to be $7.8 million. The relief payments to be made to retired alien employees in 1967 are estimated at $1.5 million. Repatriation allowances are payable to certain employees who, after completion of 2 years of service, are entitled to such allowances upon termination of their employment. The maximum liability for payment of repatriation at future dates is estimated not to exceed $4 million. Commitments under uncompleted construction contracts and unfilled purchase orders amounted to $4.9 million at June 30, 1966.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—THE PANAMA CANAL

The Governor of the Canal Zone is authorized to employ services as authorized by [section 15 of the Act of August 2, 1946 (15 U.S.C. §55a)] §109, in an amount not exceeding $30,000: Provided, That the rates for individuals shall not exceed $100 per diem.

Funds appropriated for operating expenses of the Canal Zone Government may be apportioned notwithstanding section 3679 of the Revised Statutes, as amended (31 U.S.C. 665), to the extent necessary to permit payment of such pay increases for officers or employees as may be authorized by administrative action pursuant to law which are not in excess of statutory increases granted for the same period in corresponding rates of compensation for other employees of the Government in comparable positions. (Public Works Appropriation Act, 1967.)

Note.—$769 thousand selected resources in each fiscal year shown in Treasury statements for this account, but are actually in buildings and facilities account.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $1,576 thousand (1966 adjustments, -$120 thousand); 1966, $5,940 thousand; 1967, $5,940 thousand; 1968, $5,940 thousand.

The laws enforced by the Food and Drug Administration are designed to protect the public against adulterated and misbranded foods, drugs, and cosmetics, therapeutic devices, household products containing hazardous substances, and the harmful social effects resulting from abuse of drugs that affect the central nervous system.

1. Medical evaluation.—Medical policy is developed and promulgated with respect to efficacy and safety of drugs and devices for man and animals. Advice is furnished the Commissioner concerning the health effects of toxic substances found in foods, drugs, cosmetics, and household substances. New drug applications for human and veterinary drugs and claims for investigational drugs are evaluated; an adverse drug reaction reporting program and clinical studies of drugs and devices are conducted; and medical aspects of FDA's inspectional and investigational programs and court cases are developed.

2. Scientific research and evaluation.—Broad and long-range research is conducted concerning foods, drugs, pesticides, and cosmetics; and on related hazardous substances. The research programs include fundamental research concerning the effects and interrelationships of substances occurring in the products that FDA regulates and experimentation to find new and better methods of detecting and identifying harmful and unsanitary substances to add to the cumulative knowledge concerning man and the products he consumes. Regulations are developed and promulgated for pesticide tolerances and exemptions, food additives, color additives, and food standards. In support of these regulatory activities, scientific evaluations are made on the subjects of the regulations and the labeling of hazardous substances. Methods and bases for evaluation of petitions and tolerances are developed and studied. Scientific activities of the agency are coordinated and the Science Information Facility is administered.

3. Education and voluntary compliance.—This activity encompasses the planning, conduct, and evaluation of programs to obtain voluntary compliance with laws on the part of the regulated industries and it also serves to inform consumers of the objectives of the laws and to help prepare them to achieve a greater degree of self-protection. Advisory opinions relating to laws and regulations are furnished to industry and a large volume of consumer inquiries are answered.

Informational and guidance materials are prepared and distributed to industry. Working relationships with trade, professional, and industry organizations are maintained to promote better understanding of FDA regulations and policies and to assist industry in voluntary compliance.

4. Regulatory compliance.—Nationwide inspectional, investigational, and analytical programs are conducted on a decentralized basis through 18 district offices and a number of resident inspector posts, to enforce the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, Hazardous Substances Act, and related statutes. Research is performed to improve methodology and analyses of samples. Activities are performed during the conduct of inspections to promote voluntary compliance. Inspectional and other field actions are reviewed to evaluate the degree of compliance or non-compliance with the law; from these reviews, determinations are made for securing compliance through legal or voluntary action and, where necessary, legal cases are prepared and initiated for enforcement of the law. Regulations are issued under the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (as well as others) and overall agency compliance activities are coordinated. Also cooperative Federal-State relations programs are carried out.

5. Drug abuse control.—Programs are developed to curtail the illegal traffic in stimulant, depressant, and counterfeit drugs. These programs involve special investigations and law enforcement work to apprehend violators, as well as inspection of manufacturers' and distributors' establishments and records. Studies are initiated into the sociological and psychological aspects of the problem of drug abuse, to identify causes and patterns that will prove useful in developing education and information programs designed to combat the problem.

6. Executive direction and administrative support.—The executive direction and administrative support activity contains the resources for overall agency management and certain administrative and other services provided on a centralized basis. The executive functions within the activity include the establishment of policy; the formulation and promulgation of agencywide plans, budgets, and directives; the allocation of resources; the day-to-day direction of the agency; the evaluation of performance and accomplishments; and the conduct of internal security to protect trade secrets and prevent conflict of interest. In addition, programs are conducted to obtain the services of outside consultants and committees, such as the recent committee which studied the effects of oral contraceptives.

Administrative and other support is provided on an agencywide basis in the areas of fiscal management, mail and records, printing and distribution, facilities planning and management, supply management, data processing, management services, personnel, and training. $194 thousand has been proposed for separate transmittal under the Administrative Expenses Act.

² Selected resources as of June are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $1,280 thousand; 1966, $1,581 thousand; (1967 adjustments, -$65 thousand); 1967, $5,560 thousand; 1968, $14,415 thousand.

This appropriation consolidates all activities related to the planning, construction, and equipping of buildings and facilities for the Food and Drug Administration.

Since 1958, FDA in collaboration with the General Services Administration, has been engaged in a program to improve and enlarge its field facilities, and funds have been appropriated for all phases of modernization for the district offices. It is projected that construction contracts on two of the seven new offices will be let in 1967.

At headquarters, progress has been made in upgrading space and facilities. Planning for Beltsville Laboratory No. 1 will be completed in the spring of 1967. The award of the actual construction contract is projected for late summer of 1967. The outfitting of FB-8 with its initial complement of portable equipment is 90% complete. The conversion of 15,000 square feet of office to laboratory space in FB-8 will begin in December 1966, and will take 5 months to complete. The dog-whelping facility at Beltsville will begin construction after the letting of the contract currently scheduled for May 1967.

The proposed program for 1968 calls for:

1. Planning for an additional headquarters laboratory facility.

2. Repairs and improvements to various headquarters and field laboratories.

The Food and Drug Administration certifies batches of antibiotics, insulin, and color additives for use in food, drugs, or cosmetics; it also establishes tolerances for residues of pesticide chemicals in or on raw agricultural products and for color additives in foods, drugs, and cosmetics. These services are financed wholly by fees paid by the industries affected.

The workload in pesticide tolerance decreased sharply in 1964 as a result of the establishment of a new requirement for certification that caused most manufacturers to withhold their petitions until certain time-consuming reproduction studies were completed and their results could be included with the petitions. This means that activity in this area will return to normal in 1967; i.e., to a level comparable to that maintained in 1963.

1. Maintenance and operations.—Payments previously included under “Payments to school districts” are made to assist in operation of schools in areas where enrollments are affected by Federal activities. The eligible districts are located in all States, Puerto Rico, various outlying areas, and the District of Columbia. Under certain circumstances, payments are made to other Federal agencies to make arrangements for education of children where local school districts do not assume responsibility for such children. Arrangements may be made for free public education of children of members of the Armed Forces on active duty not residing on Federal property.

2. Construction.—Payments previously included under “Assistance for school construction” are made to assist in construction of schools in areas where enrollments are affected by Federal activities. From 1951 through 1966, $1,283 million has been appropriated for this program aiding in the construction of an estimated 65,000 classrooms to house about 1.9 million pupils in the 50 States, Puerto Rico, Guam, and Wake Island.

The temporary sections of the law which provide assistance for children whose parents either work or reside on Federal property expire June 30, 1967.

The authorized program for 1968 will support the following activities:

(a) Assistance to local educational agencies.—Grants are made to local districts for school construction, principally on behalf of increased numbers of children residing on Federal property with a parent employed on Federal property.

(b) Assistance for school construction on Federal properties.—Where the local educational agency is unable to provide school facilities for increased numbers of children living on Federal property, the Commissioner of Education is authorized to arrange for construction of schools. Under certain circumstances, the Commissioner may also arrange to provide school facilities on a temporary basis

Teams of experienced teachers and teaching interns are made available to serve, upon request, in schools located in neighborhoods with concentrations of low-income families. Federal grants are made to universities for pre-service and inservice training of the interns, and to local schools for payment of a portion of the salaries of both interns and the experienced teachers during their period of service. Cooperative arrangements between universities and local schools permit the interns to work toward completion of requirements for advanced degrees. Legislation will be proposed to extend the program beyond its June 30, 1967 expiration date.

education programs under the Higher Education Act, Higher Education Facilities Act, National Defense Education Act, and Bankhead-Jones Act.

1. Program assistance.—To raise the academic quality of developing colleges, grants are made for projects to upgrade faculty and curricula and to support exchange of faculty and teaching fellowships. Such grants require the establishment of cooperative links between the developing colleges and other organizations such as universities, businesses, or other developing institutions. Grants also are allotted among States for support of instruction in agriculture, the mechanic arts, and related fields of the 68 land-grant colleges. Additional grants for the same purpose are provided through a separate permanent appropriation. Finally, grants are made to higher education institutions for acquisition of television and other equipment and minor remodeling of space in order to improve undergraduate instruction.

2. Construction.—Loans are made and grants are awarded on a matching basis for construction of academic facilities at colleges, universities, junior colleges, and technical institutes. The Participation Sales Act of 1966 provides for transfer of the construction loan appropriations to the "Higher education loan fund" in order to promote the use of private capital through sales of participations in loan pools by the Federal National Mortgage Association. Grants also are made to assist State commissions in administering undergraduate construction grants under this program as well as equipment grants under the Higher Education Act, and in comprehensive planning of future higher education construction. Technical engineering and other review services are provided for construction projects.

Under proposed legislation, 1968.—Legislation will be proposed to authorize colleges and universities to borrow loan capital for their National Defense Education Act direct student loan funds and to authorize sale of certificates of participation in pools of these loans. It is proposed that proceeds from the sale (estimated at $100 million for 1968) be placed in a revolving fund, and that such receipts be made available for new loans to colleges and universities. The Federal National Mortgage Association will be authorized to serve as trustee for these sales.

Under the Higher Education Act of 1965, and the National Vocational Student Loan Insurance Act of 1965, the Office of Education received authority to insure loans of students in eligible institutions which do not have reasonable access to State or private nonprofit programs of student loan insurance.

It is anticipated that 10,000 higher education loans at $833 each and 1,000 vocational student loans at $400 each will be insured in 1967. It is estimated that 500,000 higher education loans at $833 each and 50,000 vocational student loans at $400 each will be insured in 1968. It is estimated that 1,000 higher education loans and 200 vocational student loans will default due to death, permanent disablement or will default due to dropout and other causes.

All insurance premiums earned, computed at $\frac{1}{4}$ of 1% per annum of the unpaid principal amount of the loan (excluding interest added to principal), as well as interest received, will be retained in the fund to meet possible additional requirements for payments of defaulted loans. The fund may borrow from the Treasury if at any time the moneys available are insufficient to make payments on defaults of insured loans. It is estimated that the funds available will make it unnecessary to utilize the authority in 1968. The fund will take over loans on which it pays insurance claims and seek to collect on them, but the schedules contemplate a full reserve for losses on such loans.

The Higher Education Facilities Act authorizes loans for construction of academic facilities in higher education institutions. Such loans may be made for up to 75% of a project's total development cost and must be repaid within 50 years.

The Participation Sales Act of 1966 establishes a revolving fund for these loans. Participations in pools of such loans will be sold by the Federal National Mortgage Association in order to promote the use of private capital for the program.

In 1967, 250 project approvals totaling $200 million are estimated. This level will be funded by a $100 million appropriation and the sale of $100 million in Federal National Mortgage Association participations.

About 250 project approvals are also estimated for 1968. This level will be funded by a $100 million carryover from 1967 appropriations, and the sale of $100 million in Federal National Mortgage Association participations.

1. Vocational rehabilitation services.—Federal matching grants are made to assist the States in rehabilitating handicapped individuals so that they may prepare for and engage in remunerative employment to the extent of their capabilities. The rehabilitation services provided by the States include medical restoration, training, guidance and placement services and, as a result of the 1965 amendments, rehabilitation services for an extended period prior to the determination of an individual's vocational rehabilitation potential. Beginning in 1967 the State matching rate is 25% of total program expenditures. A supplemental expenditure of $15 million is proposed for 1967 to provide additional Federal funds for the basic support programs.

2. Innovation of vocational rehabilitation services.—Federal grants are made to States to assist them in initiating projects innovating new methods or techniques of providing vocational rehabilitation services to the disabled. Projects are intended to improve the vocational rehabilitation services provided by the State agencies. The matching rate of 90% for the first 3 years of a project is designed to encourage development of new methods and techniques.

3. Expansion of vocational rehabilitation services.—Federal grants are made to State agencies, local governmental units, and to private, nonprofit organizations to assist in the cost of projects designed to expand vocational rehabilitation services to the disabled.

4. Construction of facilities and workshops.—Project grants within a 5-year period beginning in 1966, are made to public and other nonprofit organizations or agencies for the construction of new buildings, the expansion, remodeling, alteration or renovation of existing buildings, and the initial equipment and staffing of such new, expanded, remodeled, altered or renovated buildings. State and local grants are also provided for planning rehabilitation facilities and workshops.

5. Workshop improvement activities.—Program grants, effective 1966-70, are made to workshops to pay part of the costs of projects to analyze, improve and increase their professional services to the handicapped, their business management or any other part of their operation affecting their capacity to provide employment and services for the handicapped. For the period 1967-71, grants will be made to States and public and other nonprofit organizations and agencies to pay 90% of the cost of projects for providing training services to physically handicapped individuals in public or other nonprofit workshops.

The Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954 and the International Health Research Act of 1960 authorize the conduct of research and related activities abroad. The estimate for 1968 proposes an appropriation of $5 million for the purchase of foreign currencies in eight excess-currency countries.

Rehabilitation research and related activities.—Research, demonstration, and research training programs are supported primarily with foreign currencies accruing to the United States through the sale of surplus agricultural commodities and through other sources. The research and demonstration programs are directed to the solution of problems which hold promise of contributing knowledge to the advancement of rehabilitation both in the United States and in other countries.

Research training and fellowships are provided and exchanges of rehabilitation experts are arranged between the United States and cooperating foreign countries to increase the rehabilitation research resources both here and abroad.

1. Physician manpower—(a) Research grants.—These grants support research to develop more effective methods of providing physician manpower services to the community. They are intended to broaden the scope of physician education, improve the quality of services, and extend the availability of services. The proposed increase will provide funds for approximately 4 additional grants in 1968 for a total program of about 14 grants.

(b) Direct operations.—The funds provided will focus activities in the area of physician manpower and training. The programs will assess requirements, availability, and quality of physician education and teaching personnel through intramural studies, contracts, and technical assistance and consultation. The increases will allow expansion or initiation of activities in construction of educational facilities, physician education, and physician supply and utilization.

2. Dental services and resources—(a) Grants—(1) Research.—In 1968, grants to health agencies, educational institutions, and other research organizations will emphasize biodental and human engineering, adequacy of dental care, better use of dental auxiliary manpower, and new methods of preventing oral disease. Approximately 43 research projects will be supported compared to 41 in 1967. (2) Fellowships.—Funds are provided to establish fellowships for research in the basic dental behavioral and clinical sciences, and in public health dentistry. Six fellowships and one career development award will be supported in 1968 compared to three in 1967. (3) Training.—The increase of $100 thousand in research training will permit the establishment of one new program in 1968. In 1967, grants and awards are also made to 46 schools of dentistry for training dental students in the effective use of dental assistants and other auxiliaries. The $351 thousand increase will provide juniors and seniors with a longer and more comprehensive chairside experience with auxiliaries under professional supervision. In 1967, a program of grant support was initiated to afford lifelong learning opportunities for the dental practitioner. The $100 thousand increase will support two more grants for a total of four in 1968.

(b) Direct operations.—Funds are provided to study the status of the Nation's dental health and of its dental manpower supply, to conduct studies and demonstrations relating to the development and application of methods for preventing and controlling dental diseases and disorders which can be applied on a community basis, to investigate and develop methods for extending the availability of dental care to the American people, and to provide professional and technical assistance relating to these activities. The increase in 1968 will be used primarily in the areas of disease prevention and control, manpower supply and utilization, in the development of the epidemiological and training programs at the Dental Health Center, and in research and development in dental technology.

3. Nursing services and resources—(a) Grants—(1) Research.—Grants are made to institutions and to individuals to undertake projects in nursing research. In 1968, approximately 67 research projects will be supported compared to 56 in 1967. (2) Fellowships.—Grants are awarded to individuals in order to increase the research manpower in the field of nursing. An estimated 94 fellows will be supported in 1968 compared to 85 in 1967. (3) Training.—Grants are provided for traineeships to prepare graduate nurses as teachers, supervisors, and administrators in all fields of nursing. Projects for improvement of nurse training are made to collegiate, associate degree, and diploma schools of nursing to improve the quality of training by expanding the program content of nursing education and improving the quality of teaching. Approximately 90 projects will be supported for these purposes in 1968. Payments to diploma schools of nursing are made to defray a portion of the cost of training students whose enrollment can be attributed to the Nurse Training Act of 1964. Opportunity grants are made to schools to assist in making available the benefits of nursing education to qualified high school graduates of exceptional financial need.

(b) Direct operations.—This activity provides professional guidance and leadership to meet the goals of adequate nursing care by means of research, consultation, application of research findings, and administration of grants. The increase in 1968 will provide for expansion of consultative services and technical help to regional, State, and community nursing programs; studies to determine better methods of patient care through improvement of nursing practices; increased assistance to nursing schools in the development of projects to strengthen and improve their curriculums; contracts for full utilization of nursing educational talent; evaluation of the impact of the Nurse Training Act of 1964 on nursing education in the United States; an inventory of paranursing personnel and studies on the low salary scale and poor working conditions of both nursing and paranursing personnel; and the development of new and more effective ways for the transfer of scientific information to the nurse practitioner.

4. Allied health professions manpower (direct operations).—This activity will develop, administer and support grant and operational programs to increase the supply and improve the education, utilization, and effectiveness of manpower in allied community, clinical, research, and environmental health occupations; project national needs and trends in the allied health occupations including the availability and quality of educational programs and facilities; and study costs, financing, and means of improving educational programs for the allied health occupations. The increase in 1968 will be used to provide program assistance to institutions providing training in these occupations, for development of new program concepts, and for development of data on resources.

5. Health manpower educational services—(a) Training grants.—Grants and awards are made for traineeships for graduate or specialized public health training of professional health personnel, to provide basic support to schools of public health and to support faculty. Educational improvement grants are made to schools of medicine, dentistry, osteopathy, podiatry, and optometry to improve the quality of such schools. Both basic and special improvement grants are made so that schools may carry out their primary functions more effectively. Funds requested in 1968 will provide basic improvement grants to approximately 171 schools. Most of the increase will be used to make special improvement grants to medical schools.

(b) Student loans.—This program provides for the maintenance of student loan funds in schools of medicine, dentistry, osteopathy, podiatry, pharmacy, and optometry, and in collegiate, associate degree, and hospital diploma schools of nursing. The amount for 1968 will provide loans to approximately 21,000 health professions students and 20,000 nursing students.

(c) Scholarships.—Scholarship grants are made to schools of medicine, dentistry, osteopathy, podiatry, pharmacy, and optometry so that these schools may award scholarships to carefully selected and needy students. Approximately 4,000 scholarships will be awarded in 1968 compared to 2,000 in 1967.

(d) Direct operations.—This activity will service training grant, student loan, and operational programs for the training of personnel in the health occupations. The program will also provide consultation, evaluation, information, procedural, and related services to support PHS manpower grant programs.

6. Program direction and management services.—The Bureau of Health Manpower provides a national focus for health manpower activities. The Bureau guides and supports all Department health manpower programs, designs proposals to meet needs for new or revised health manpower programs, coordinates research and program reporting activities, and provides technical guidance and coordination to Bureau activities in the PHS regional organization.

A 1967 supplemental of $12,750 thousand has been requested for grants and loans to students.

Grants for construction of teaching facilities.—Federal funds are provided on an individual project basis to assist in the construction of medical, dental, pharmacy, optometry, podiatry, osteopathy, and public health teaching facilities under the provisions of the Health Professions Educational Assistance Act Amendment of 1965, the construction of schools of nursing under the provisions of the Nurse Training Act of 1964 and for construction of facilities for training centers for allied health personnel such as medical technologists, dental hygienists, and practical nurses, under the provisions of the Allied Health Professions Personnel Training Act of 1966. These funds provide the basis for construction, expansion, and rehabilitation of new and existing teaching facilities and represent an important step in increasing the supply of vitally needed physicians, dentists, nurses, and other health professions personnel.

(a) Medical, dental, and other health personnel.—Grants are made to public and other nonprofit agencies and organizations for construction of teaching facilities for medical, dental, and other health professionals. The $175 million requested for 1968 will provide a $350 million program for that year, based on an average Federal participation of 50%. As of November 1, 1966, the program had 31 applications requesting $105 million which had been approved and not funded, and 16 applications requesting $71 million which are pending presentation to the Council. In addition 116 letters of intent for which applications have not been received are in file, indicating a need of $430 million.

(b) Nurses.—Grants are made to public and other nonprofit agencies and organizations for construction of teaching facilities for nurses. The $25 million requested for 1968 will provide a $50 million program for that year, based on an average Federal participation of 50%. As of December 15, 1966, institutions have submitted 88 applications requesting Federal funds in excess of $47.8 million and 102 letters of intent, for which applications have not yet been received, requesting an estimated $100 million.

(c) Allied health professions personnel.—Grants are made to public and other nonprofit agencies and organizations for construction, expansion, and rehabilitation of teaching facilities as training centers for technical and other allied health personnel. The $3 million requested for 1968 will provide a $6 million program for that year, based on an average Federal participation of 50%.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $3,047 thousand (1966 adjustments, -$494 thousand); 1966, $8,069 thousand; 1967, $8,069 thousand; 1968, $8,069 thousand.

The mission of the program is to develop means for preventing the occurrence of chronic diseases and for making the lives of those who have chronic diseases as free from disability and impairment as possible. This is accomplished through programs of research, training, and technical assistance.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Research grants provide support to nonprofit organizations and institutions for the development of new research knowledge in the prevention and treatment of chronic diseases. Support will be provided to approximately 57 research projects in 1968 compared to 51 in 1967 and 1966.

(b) Training.—Grants are awarded to educational institutions to increase the number of health research personnel. These grants will assist in alleviating the shortage of the highly qualified professional personnel capable of performing research into the community aspects of chronic disease control. An estimated seven grants will be awarded in 1967 and 1968 as compared to six in 1966.

2. Direct operations.—The programs provide extramural and intramural research, training, and program consultation and assistance to State and local health agencies, voluntary organizations, and educational institutions through contracts, cooperative agreements, assignment of personnel, and loan of equipment. The kidney disease program will be expanded in 1968. The total increase requested in 1968 for this activity is $2,402 thousand.

This program provides facilities and services for the investigation, prevention, and suppression of communicable diseases, including tuberculosis and venereal diseases, by the direct development, advancement, and demonstration of knowledge and techniques, through research grants, and through the prevention of the introduction of communicable diseases from foreign countries. Studies and investigations on the health effects of pesticides are conducted.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Research grants are awarded to organizations, institutions and individuals for research concerned with epidemiology, prevention, laboratory diagnosis, treatment of communicable diseases at the community level and on the health effects of pesticides. Approximately 105 research projects will be supported in 1968 as compared to 103 in 1967 and 94 in 1966.

(b) Community immunization.—Grants are made to States, and with the approval of the States, to political subdivisions and instrumentalities of the States for immunization programs against poliomyelitis, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, and measles. Grants are made on a project basis to cover program costs which are attributable to (1) the purchase of vaccines needed to protect preschool children and (2) the planning, organization, promotional, epidemiologic and surveillance activities of such campaigns.

2. Direct operations—(a) Communicable diseases.—Scientific and technical skills in the fields of epidemiological medicine and microbiology, including reference diagnostic laboratory services, are provided to State and local health departments through investigations, consultations, and demonstrations. Important disease investigation and control programs include hepatitis, aseptic meningitis, poliomyelitis, rubella, viral encephalitis, the enteric diseases, staphylococcal and other institutionally acquired infections, the acute fungal diseases, diseases of animals transmissible to man, and the vector borne diseases. Professional competence in the investigation of epidemic outbreaks is afforded to the States through the staff of the Epidemic Intelligence Service which is constantly alert to the epidemic situation in the country. These EIS officers provide a wide range of service, including epidemic aid, epidemiological field investigations, consultations in communicable disease control, surveillance of infectious diseases, and collaborative field and laboratory research. The 1968 budget provides for an increase in national laboratory improvement and reference services.

(b) Tuberculosis.—Studies are conducted in epidemiology, prevention, detection, diagnosis, and therapy of tuberculosis. This research is conducted in cooperation with State and local health departments, tuberculosis hospitals, private investigators and others. The results of the applied research are made available to the States and integrated into tuberculosis control programs by means of demonstrations, consultative services, operational studies and training activities.

(c) Venereal diseases.—Research and evaluation activities are directed toward maintenance of uniformly satisfactory nation-wide serologic services; development and introduction of new syphilis diagnostic tests; development of an immunizing agent for syphilis; improvement of diagnostic techniques for gonorrhea; evaluation of more effective methods of therapy; and the improvement of control procedures. Scientific and general information about venereal disease for both professional and lay groups is disseminated through State agencies.

Epidemiologic services are directed toward maintaining national and international intelligence and providing technical assistance to State and local health departments in programs directed toward the eradication of syphilis.

(d) Pesticides.—This program includes the conduct of investigations and community studies on the biological effects of pesticides, the maintenance of a pesticide intelligence system, and the scientific review and evaluation of registration applications for the effects of pesticides on human health. The 1968 increase provides for expansion of pesticides intelligence and technical assistance to States.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $1,183 (1966 adjustments, -$146 thousand); 1966, $2,221 thousand; 1967, $2,221 thousand; 1968, $2,221 thousand.

The Public Health Service has the responsibility for the investigation of causes of air pollution, the determination of its effects upon life and property, the development of effective means of prevention and control, the development of air quality criteria, and direct Federal enforcement. These problems are dealt with through a coordinated program of basic and applied research, grants-in-aid to air pollution control agencies, abatement proceedings in certain cases, technical services to States and local agencies, and a training program designed to provide competencies necessary to cope with the complex problem of air pollution. To augment and accelerate the research program, extensive use is made of existing research organizations through grants and contracts. In view of the amendments in 1966 to the Clean Air Act, a supplemental budget request for 1967 is proposed for separate transmittal.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Research grants are made to universities and other nonprofit institutions to conduct research into air pollution problems. Approximately 220 grants will be supported in 1968 as compared to 171 in 1967 and 149 in 1966.

(b) Fellowships.—Fellowship awards support individual postgraduate training in air pollution research and control activities. It is estimated that 71 fellowships will be supported in 1968 as compared to 71 in 1967 and 57 in 1966.

(c) Training.—Grants are awarded to universities to support the development and improvement of, primarily, graduate-level air pollution curricula and to provide student stipends. Approximately 46 grants will be awarded in 1968 as compared to 33 in 1967 and 20 in 1966.

(d) Control programs.—Grants are made to regional, State, and local air pollution control agencies on a matching basis for the purpose of establishing, developing, and improving programs for the prevention and control of air pollution. The 1966 amendments to the Act broaden the grant authority to include assistance for maintenance of State and local programs. A supplemental request in 1967 to implement this new authority is proposed for separate transmittal. This authority provides a basic means for assisting the States and communities in meeting their air pollution problems more effectively. Approximately 275 grants will be awarded in 1968 compared to 150 in 1967 and 109 in 1966.

(e) Survey and demonstration.—Grants are made to States and communities for surveys to assess their air pollution problems. In 1968, it is estimated that 24 survey and demonstration grants will be awarded compared to 27 in 1967 and 28 in 1966.

2. Direct operations.—This activity includes research into the nature and extent of air pollution; its transport and atmospheric behavior; the effects on humans, other biological systems, property, and the atmosphere itself; and improvement in means for controlling pollution. Research findings are translated into practical application through the provision of demonstrations and technical services to States, communities, and others concerned with pollution control, and through the training of technical personnel for research and control operations. Direct Federal regulatory control activities are carried out principally with respect to interstate and automotive emission pollution.

The 1968 program calls for accelerated research activity with respect to desulfurization of combustion gases and other means of controlling oxides of sulfur; the development of air quality criteria; and the development of control devices and processes, with special emphasis on automotive emissions. The 1967 supplemental proposed for separate transmittal includes an accelerated research effort in oxides of sulfur pollution control research. Consultative services, training, and other types of technical assistance to States and localities will be increased. As part of this assistance, a comprehensive program for developing guides to good air pollution control practice for the more common industrial processes will be expanded. The scope of activities of the Technical Information Center, which serves as a clearinghouse for information on air pollution and its control, will be expanded. There will be increased Federal abatement activity in interstate areas, including actions to prevent new interstate problems from developing. Motor vehicle pollution control activities, including the testing of vehicles for compliance with Federal standards and refinement of testing techniques, will be increased in 1968, the first full year of testing in a Federal laboratory.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965 $111 thousand (1966 adjustments, -$68 thousand); 1966, $930 thousand; 1967 $950 thousand; 1968, $930 thousand.

The urban and industrial health appropriation supports a national program directed at the prevention and control of environmental hazards associated with urban living, transportation, and industry. Particular attention is devoted to accidental injuries, the occupational environment, water supply, housing, solid waste disposal, food protection, environmental sanitation, and the special environmental problems of the Arctic region.

1. Grants.—(a) Research.—Research grants are made to universities, hospitals, research institutes, individuals, State and local health departments, and other public and private nonprofit institutions, for investigations on health problems related to waste disposal, diseases and hazards related to the work environment, the causation and control of injuries, and health problems related to food, water supply, and urban environmental sanitation. Approximately 415 grants will be awarded in 1968 compared to 358 in 1967 and 322 in 1966.

(b) Training.—Grants are awarded to universities for graduate and postgraduate training of scientists to increase the research manpower in the fields of injury control, occupational health, environmental engineering, urban health planning, and food protection. Grants are also awarded to universities for the development of curricula and support of students in fields relevant to solid waste management. Approximately 64 grants to individuals and universities will be awarded in 1968 compared to 35 in 1967 and 27 in 1966.

(c) Fellowships.—Grants are awarded to individuals to support graduate or postgraduate training in order to increase research manpower in the field of control of injuries from accidents. An estimated 16 fellowships will be supported in 1968 compared to 11 in 1967 and 2 in 1966.

(d) Survey and demonstration.—Grants are made to State and local agencies for demonstrating new methods and systems of solid waste management. These grants provide for Federal support of up to two-thirds of the cost of a project and permit construction of new types of waste disposal facilities. Approximately 41 grants will be awarded in 1968 as compared to 41 in 1967 and 19 in 1966.

(e) Planning.—Grants are made to State and interstate agencies to provide up to 50% of the cost for surveys and planning of solid waste management programs within their jurisdictions. These grants will be used to develop specific long-range plans that will include consideration of the technical and administrative factors needed to establish a satisfactory and economical solid waste management program. Approximately 41 grants will be supported in 1968 as compared to 25 in 1967 and 14 in 1966.

2. Direct operations.—(a) Solid wastes.—The solid waste program is designed to insure proper health protection and improved solid waste disposal practices and technology through research, training, technical assistance, and demonstration development. The increase in 1968 will provide for the conduct of bench-scale feasibility studies, evaluation of promising discoveries through demonstration projects, and expansion of technical service activities.

(b) Occupational health.—Research on occupational hazards and diseases is conducted and assistance provided to Federal, State, and local agencies and to industry for prevention and control of occupational hazards and diseases. The increase in 1968 will be used to expand research studies on especially acute occupational disease problems, and to provide intensive short-term training for occupational health employees assigned to States.

(c) Injury control.—This program provides for surveillance and developmental research to determine the extent and cause of accidental injuries and the development of sound techniques for their prevention and control. The adoption of prevention and control techniques by State and local agencies is encouraged through training, demonstrations, consultation, and the direct assignment of personnel. The 1968 increase will provide for expansion of epidemiological investigations into the causes of accidental injury and death.

(d) Food and water quality.—Through research, training, and technical assistance, standards development, and interstate regulatory and certification activities, guidance and leadership is provided to States and local communities for safeguarding the sanitary quality of water supplies, milk, shellfish, and other foods prepared commercially. The 1968 increase will provide for expanded water microbiological research and expanded technical assistance for the water supply program.

(e) Arctic health.—The Arctic Health Research Center conducts basic and applied research involving problems of sanitation, communicable diseases, nutrition, and physiology peculiar to cold environments. The 1968 increase provides for increased operations and maintenance costs of the new research facility in College, Alaska, which will be fully operational for the first time in 1968.

(f) Special environmental hazards.—Assistance is provided to communities through technical consultation, training, establishment of guidelines, and demonstrations directed at the development of sound urban environmental health planning necessary to control and prevent pollution and other environmental hazards. Research and consultation to other Government agencies is conducted on the development of criteria and administration of codes for healthful housing. Demonstration projects on community sanitation are conducted in cooperation with Mexico in cities on the Mexican border.

The Public Health Service has responsibility for conducting a national program for the assessment, control, and prevention of radiological hazards to public health. Such a program involves both basic and applied research on the sources, levels, and effects of radiation as well as means of protecting the public; a training program to provide the competencies needed in the expanding area of radiation protection and control; and the provision of technical information and assistance to State and local health agencies in development of their own radiation protection programs.

1. Research grants.—Research grants are administered to complement intramural research as an integral part of the overall research effort and to capitalize on the talents of nongovernmental scientists. Approximately 105 research projects will be supported in 1968 as compared to 94 in 1967 and 104 in 1966.

2. Direct operations.—Research is carried out to determine the somatic and genetic biological effects of radiation exposure, and the means by which exposures can be reduced or prevented. Training courses for State, local, and industrial personnel to strengthen competency in radiological health are conducted through facilities at Rockville, Md.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Montgomery, Ala.; Winchester, Mass.; and Las Vegas, Nev. Measurement and surveillance is performed to determine the levels of radiation exposure of man from all sources. Technical assistance is supplied to other Federal agencies and State and local authorities as a major means of implementing corrective action.

A total of 11 hospitals and 150 outpatient facilities will be operated to furnish medical and dental care to legal beneficiaries of the Public Health Service. The major beneficiary groups are American seamen, coastguardsmen and their dependents, Bureau of Employee's Compensation cases, and persons afflicted with leprosy. Among these, the largest single category is the American seamen who receive free, comprehensive medical care in service facilities for all conditions. Medical care is also provided to foreign seamen and beneficiaries of other Federal agencies on a reimbursable basis.

1. Inpatient and outpatient care.—Under this activity are operated 10 general hospitals, and the National Leprosarium at Carville, La. Inpatient loads and outpatient visits are expected to be as follows:

AVERAGE DAILY PATIENT LOAD AND ANNUAL TOTAL OUTPATIENT VISITS

Hospital patients, by type of hospital:	1966 actual	1967 estimate	1968 estimate
General hospitals.....	2,314	2,320	2,330

Twenty-eight full-time outpatient clinics and 122 outpatient offices serviced 715,436 visits in 1966 and 745,050 and 767,250 visits are estimated for 1967 and 1968, respectively.

The estimates for 1968 represent an improvement in staffing that will provide 158 employees per 100 inpatients in the general hospitals, 1.01 employees per 1,000 outpatient visits in the hospital outpatient departments, and 0.82 employee per 1,000 outpatient visits in the separate outpatient clinics, supply and ration funds are increased and a further reduction in the equipment replacement backlog is proposed. Added staff support at the Carville, La., leprosy hospital is also furnished. A continuation of the improvement in the research and training programs is also provided.

In addition, funds are included to support projects in poison control, medical rehabilitation, and emergency medical services, as well as programs and project research to develop better delivery methods and more effective utilization of all forms of health services.

2. Coast Guard medical services.—Medical services are provided for Coast Guard personnel at shore stations and on vessels. The estimates provide added staff for expanded and relocated facilities and for increased workload.

3. Federal employee occupational health and safety.—This activity provides survey and consultation to Federal agencies on the conduct of Federal employee health programs and establishes and maintains safety activities for employees of the Public Health Service. Federal employee health programs are operated on a reimbursable basis on request by Federal agencies.

4. Personnel detailed to other agencies.—Medical, dental, and other professional personnel are detailed to certain other Federal agencies on a reimbursable basis.

5. Payments to Hawaii.—Grants are made to Hawaii to defray the cost of care and treatment of persons afflicted with leprosy. Average daily patient load is expected to be 254 in 1968, compared with 265 in 1966 and 258 in 1967.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $133 thousand (1966 adjustment, -$92 thousand); 1966, $681 thousand; 1967, $1,020 thousand; 1968, $1,020 thousand.

Federal funds are provided on a grant or loan basis to assist States, other public agencies, and nonprofit organizations for (a) the construction and/or modernization of health facilities and Appalachian demonstration health facilities, and (b) hospital and medical facilities research. Funds for construction programs, other than the funds available for construction and operation of demonstration health facilities, are allocated among the States.

1. Grants for construction of health facilities.—Federal funds are provided for the construction and modernization of hospitals, long-term care facilities, rehabilitation facilities, diagnostic or diagnostic and treatment centers, public health centers, and related health facilities. The modernization program provides funds for the rehabilitation and replacement of hospitals and other health facilities, particularly those in urban areas, that have become functionally or structurally obsolete and are becoming increasingly inefficient or unsafe to operate. The $280 million requested for 1968 will provide a $840 million program for that year, assuming that the Federal participation will average 33⅓%.

3. Grants for construction and operation of demonstration health facilities.—Under the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965 grants are made for the construction, equipping, and operation of multicounty demonstration health facilities, including hospitals, regional health diagnostic or treatment centers, and other facilities. In 1968, program emphasis will be on providing operational assistance to health facilities in Appalachia.

4. Hospital and medical facilities research.—Funds are provided to permit research, experiments, and demonstration projects relating to the effective development and utilization of hospital and medical facilities services and resources. Grants are made available to States, political subdivisions, universities, hospitals, and other public and private nonprofit institutions or organizations for such projects; funds are also granted to public and nonprofit agencies for the construction of experimental or demonstration units of hospitals and other health facilities.

5. Operations and technical services.—State agencies are provided technical assistance in making inventories of their hospitals, public health centers, and other health facilities, and in determining the type, size, and locations of additional facilities required, and developing programs to meet the indicated needs. Technical assistance is also provided to States and to communities regarding the planning, programing, and design of hospital and other medical facilities, including facilities for the care of the mentally retarded. Proposed hospital and other health facility projects are reviewed to determine eligibility and compliance with the law and regulations. State plans and their annual revisions are reviewed for conformance with planning criteria and guidelines. Project applications, plans and specifications, wage rates, and contracts are reviewed for compliance with standards, and surveillance is maintained over projects under construction. Construction projects are inspected and payments are made as construction progresses.

This program provides medical care and public health services for Indians, Alaska native beneficiaries, and Alaska nonbeneficiaries.

1. Hospital health services.—This activity consists of the operation of 49 general hospitals and their outpatient clinics and 2 tuberculosis sanatoria.

During 1968 the new (replacement) hospitals at Lawton, Okla., and Belcourt, N. Dak., will be in full operation; the outpatient department at the Wagner, S. Dak., hospital, which was altered during 1967, will be in full operation; and a new (replacement) hospital at Mescalero, N. Mex., will be completed.

An operations research program located at Tucson, Ariz., utilizing the Papago Reservation as the operational community, will be directed toward the design and preliminary implementation of an integrated and comprehensive management information system based on service unit planning and evaluation needs.

Workloads for the total program are expected to be as follows:

AVERAGE DAILY PATIENT LOAD (EXCLUDING NEWBORN) AND OUTPATIENT VISITS TO HOSPITAL FACILITIES

Inpatient load by type of patient:
Continental United States:
	1966 actual	1967 estimate	1968 estimate
General patients	1,431	1,425	1,445
Tuberculosis patients	173	160	150

Total inpatient load	2,149	2,120	2,120
Outpatient visits to hospital facilities	788,466	810,000	820,000

2. Contract medical care.—Indian and Alaska native patients are hospitalized in non-Federal hospitals and are provided medical care by private physicians where Indian hospital or medical care facilities are not available. Patient loads in these hospitals are estimated to be as follows:

AVERAGE DAILY CONTRACT MEDICAL CARE LOAD
By type of patient:	1966 actual	1967 estimate	1968 estimate
General patients	473	507	463
Tuberculosis patients	227	221	211
Neuropsychiatric patients	188	200	200

3. Field health services.—These include programs in sanitation, health education, nutrition, maternal and child health, school health, tuberculosis and other communicable disease control, medical social services, public health nursing, and oral health. The services are provided through health centers, clinics, and other field units operated directly by the Service, as well as through contractual arrangements with State and local health organizations. It is estimated that the new (replacement) health stations at Kaibeto and Lower Greasewood, Ariz., will be completed in 1967 and that in 1968 a new school health center at Fort Wingate, N. Mex., a new health center at Wanblee, S. Dak., and new health stations at Queets and Taholah, Wash., and Lapwai, Idaho, will be completed.

An expanded community health aide training program will be initiated to impart the knowledge and skills necessary for subprofessionals to function as assistants to health professionals.

4. Special assistance to the Menominee Indian people.—A 4-year program to assist the Menominee Indian people of Menominee County, Wis., was authorized by Public Law 89-653. The assistance covers joint school district costs and public welfare benefits as well as health and sanitation services. The 1967 program also includes funds to complete the construction of sanitation facilities in Menominee County.

NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

The National Institutes of Health constitutes the primary arm of the U.S. Government in the support of biomedical research. NIH carries out its mission of investigating basic life processes, advancing the capability for the diagnosis, treatment, and prevention of disease, and accelerating the application of new knowledge into practice by two major mechanisms: (1) extramural grant programs (78.4% of total funds requested for 1968), and (2) operations conducted directly or through contracts. A major segment of the advances in medical science in recent years has benefited either directly or indirectly from the activities of the National Institutes of Health. NIH programs also embrace efforts to enhance graduate education in the life sciences as well as efforts to expand our national capability to engage in biomedical research.

NIH consists of eight National Institutes, each with a particular area of concern: General Medical Sciences, Child Health and Human Development, Cancer, Heart, Dental Research, Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases, Allergy and Infectious Diseases, and Neurological Diseases and Blindness. There are also five program divisions: Biologics Standards, Research Facilities and Resources, Computer Research and Technology, Regional Medical Programs, and Environmental Health Sciences. The operating appropriations contribute to a management fund to provide central services for all institutes. The budget request for these appropriations in 1968 is 8% over the 1967 appropriation and will support a more intense effort in the fight against disease and toward financing increased costs due to greater sophistication and complexities in conducting biomedical research.

A distribution of obligations for the National Institutes of Health follows (in thousands of dollars):

The major activities are described below. Unique activities are included under the appropriate institute.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Research grants constitute the principal activity, in terms of expenditures, of NIH. Regular grants are awarded to individuals for health related research projects, which are reviewed for scientific merit and relevance by discipline-oriented study groups and disease oriented national advisory councils. Grants are also awarded to support various special programs designed to enhance our capability to conduct research and research training, these include clinical and specialized research centers. All institutes provide funds for general research support grants which are given to institutions to strengthen their overall biomedical research program, and are of two types: (1) a formula grant which provides funds in proportion to the institution's involvement in biomedical research, and (2) a project grant aimed at expanding the number of outstanding academic research institutions throughout the Nation.

(b) Fellowships.—Fellowships are awarded to individuals in order to increase the research manpower in the medical sciences. There are several different types of awards, such as, predoctoral, postdoctoral, research career development awards, and foreign research fellowships, each designed to develop a specific type of research talent.

(c) Training.—Training grants are awarded on the basis of competitive review to various academic or research institutions which have demonstrated the ability to design and conduct successful training programs in one or more of the biomedical sciences.

(d) Regional medical programs.—This program of grants is designed to disseminate new knowledge and techniques and thus improve the diagnosis and treatment of heart disease, cancer, stroke, and related diseases. Grants will be made to a national grid of about 50 regional groups that include medical schools, hospitals, and other appropriate medical institutions and organizations.

2. Direct operations—(a) Laboratory and clinical research.—The institutes conduct research activities within their own laboratories and in a commonly-shared clinical center facility.

(b) Collaborative research and development.—Categorical research programs are conducted by investigators in collaboration with other Federal institutions and non-Federal institutions largely through contracts. This research tends to be more specifically goal-oriented in nature than that supported through grants. Included are such directed activities as the development of artificial organs, vaccines, and chemotherapeutic agents.

(c) Biometry, epidemiology, and field studies.—Data relating to the incidence of disease in various population groups and regions of the world are collected and analyzed with the tools of modern statistics.

(d) Other.—Additional activities under direct operations include international research, computer research and technology, biomedical engineering development, biological standards, and health research facilities construction grants, and will be discussed under their respective appropriations. Funds are also included for program direction, research support and service activities, and review and approval of grants.

General and special funds:

GENERAL RESEARCH AND SERVICES, NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

For the activities of the National Institutes of Health, not otherwise provided for, including research fellowships and grants for research projects and training grants pursuant to section 301 of the Act; and grants of therapeutic and chemical substances for demonstrations and research; [$68,534,000] $81,141,000: Provided, That funds advanced to the National Institutes of Health management fund from appropriations included in this Act shall be available for purchase of not to exceed [five] twelve passenger motor vehicles for replacement only; and not to exceed $2,500 for entertainment of visiting scientists when specifically approved by the Surgeon General. (Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1967.)

Note.—Includes $5,100 thousand for activities transferred in the estimates from (in thousands of dollars):

"National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases"..... 600
"National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases"..... 4,500

The amount obligated in 1967 is shown in the schedule as a comparative transfer.

1. Division of Research Facilities and Resources.—The programs of this division are oriented towards providing the resources and facilities necessary for the conduct of biomedical research. Grants support care and maintenance of laboratory animals and the provision of specialized research resources, such as large-scale equipment, to improve multidisciplinary research capabilities of institutions. This division also administers general research support grants, general clinical research centers, and grants for construction of health research facilities.

2. Office of International Research.—The Office of International Research is responsible for the coordination, policy formulation, and analysis of the National Institutes of Health international program activities. Funds requested for 1968 will continue to support five international centers for medical research and training located in Malaysia, Costa Rica, India, Colombia, and Pakistan. This office also administers the NIH special foreign currency program, the visiting scientists programs, the international postdoctoral fellowships, and a cooperative research program with Japan.

3. The Division of Computer Research and Technology.—The mission of this Division is to conduct an interdisciplinary effort directed toward the exploitation by the life sciences of the concepts and methodology of mathematics and computer technology. This Division also serves as a central computer programming and operating facility, servicing all NIH activities.

4. Engineering development.—Funds for this program, new in 1967, will be used to plan for a centralized medical engineering development component. This effort will be directed toward applying engineering and technological innovation to biomedical problems in such areas as the development of artificial organs, synthetic materials and the automation of clinical and laboratory measurements.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Approximately 1,260 regular research grants will be supported in 1968 as compared to 1,255 in 1967 and 1,351 in 1966. In addition, funds are provided for general research support grants and specialized research centers.

(b) Fellowships.—Approximately 238 postdoctoral and special fellowships will be supported in 1968 as compared to 235 in 1967 and 268 in 1966. Also some 125 career award and career development fellowships will be supported in 1968 as compared to 118 in 1967 and 91 in 1966.

(c) Training.—Grants are awarded to accredited schools for the improvement of instruction in the curriculum; clinical training grants are awarded for training in such fields as surgery, pathology, radiobiology, radiotherapy, and internal medicine; and grants are awarded to research training centers for individual traineeships. The following table summarizes those grants.

2. Direct operations—(a) Laboratory and clinical research.—Research includes laboratory research in the fields of biochemistry, biology, pathology, and physiology and clinical research in the fields of dermatology, endocrinology, immunology, metabolism and surgery.

(b) Collaborative research and development.—Research is conducted in the areas of etiology and cancer therapy. This subactivity includes the breast cancer task force and the special virus-leukemia program. Research efforts are directed toward the acquisition, development and application of new knowledge pertinent to the prevention, control and treatment of cancer.

(c) Biometry, epidemiology, and field studies.—Studies are carried out to characterize the occurrence and behavior of cancers by specific sites in human populations, both in the United States and abroad, and the effects of migration on these cancer patterns. These efforts are inter-related with the programs budgeted under the research and collaborative research and development subactivities.

(c) Training.—Funds for 1968 will provide assistance to 108 schools of medicine, osteopathy, and public health for support of undergraduate training. Funds will also provide for 268 grants for graduate research and clinical training including 1,340 traineeships. Comparable schools, grants, and traineeships were 108, 283, and 1,415 in 1967, and 105, 295, and 1,475 in 1966.

2. Direct operations—(a) Laboratory and clinical research.—Research is conducted to aid in the understanding of the cardiovascular system and its diseases, with emphasis in therapeutic agents, diagnostic instrumentation, surgery, and clinical medicine.

(b) Collaborative research and development.—Funds will support the Artificial Heart-Myocardial Infarction program, Heart Cooperative Drug Study, and a National Blood program.

(c) Biometry, epidemiology, and field studies.—This activity conducts and supports epidemiological, biometrics research, and clinical trial studies to seek knowledge of the causes and prevention of cardiovascular disease. Causal factors are sought both by intensive study of “natural experiments” in population groups and by experimental modification of suspected factors.

(d) Training activities.—Inservice training is provided for positions requiring unique combinations of cardiovascular training and experience.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $5,954 thousand (1966 adjustment, -$69 thousand); 1966, $7,848 thousand; 1967, $7,848 thousand; 1968, $7,848 thousand.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Funds available for 1968 will support approximately 1,489 grants. This compares to 1,386 grants in 1967 and 1,266 in 1966. In addition, funds are provided for general research support grants, clinical research centers and the Gorgas Memorial Laboratory.

(b) Fellowships.—An estimated 278 awards will be made in 1968 for postdoctoral, special and research career fellowships. This compares to 261 awards in 1967 and 264 in 1966.

(c) Training.—Funds for 1968 will provide approximately 175 grants to train individuals in allergy and immunology, tropical medicine, infectious diseases, parasitology, mycology and rickettsiology. This compares to 175 grants in 1967 and 184 in 1966.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF ALLERGY AND INFECTIOUS DISEASES—CON.

2. Direct operations—(a) Laboratory and clinical research.—Laboratory, and clinical research is conducted in the broad fields of allergic, infectious, and parasitic diseases. The increase in 1968 will provide for the expansion of studies on oncogenic viruses, interferon and other antiviral substances, parasitic diseases and human chronic and degenerative diseases.

(b) Collaborative research and development.—Contracts are programed in the areas of vaccine development and testing; research reagent development, production and distribution; and immunologic problems as they relate to tissue transplantation. The increase in 1968 will provide for continued development of vaccines against respiratory illnesses, further development of reagents for arthropod-borne viruses and for the expansion of the transplantation immunology program.

(c) Biometry, epidemiology and field studies.—Will provide for epidemiologic and field studies to collect and analyze data concerning the distribution and occurrence of allergic and infectious diseases, to determine their causes and effects in individuals and populations, and to evaluate mechanisms for prevention and treatment.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Approximately 1,143 grants will be supported in 1968 as compared to 1,087 in 1967 and 1,065 in 1966. In addition, funds are provided for general research support grants, clinical research centers, and scientific evaluation.

(b) Fellowships.—Approximately 206 postdoctoral and special fellowships will be supported in 1968 as compared to 190 in 1967 and 138 in 1966. Also some 104 career awards and career development fellowships will be supported in 1968 as compared to 97 in 1967 and 78 in 1966.

(c) Training.—Approximately 143 training grants will be supported in 1968 as compared to 141 in 1967 and 128 in 1966.

2. Direct operations—(a) Laboratory and clinical research.—Laboratory and clinical research is conducted in four major program areas of Child Health and Human Development. Reproduction.—Reproductive biology, endocrinology and ecology. Growth and development.—neurophysiology, neurochemistry and nutrition. Mental retardation.—biochemistry, neurophysiology, and behavioral research. Aging.—Cellular biology, biochemistry, physiology and psychology.

(b) Collaborative research and development.—This activity includes conferences and symposia to develop and coordinate programs in reproduction, growth and development, aging, and mental retardation, studies on effects of oral contraceptives, nutrition and culture as they affect growth and development, and studies of medical practices in institutions for the mentally retarded. Also included is technical communication which will include scientific information centers.

(c) Biometry, epidemiology and field studies.—These studies include investigations into the incidence and distribution of specific childhood problems such as infant mortality, prematurity, mental retardation, and congenital malformations. Also included are studies of the efficacy and safety of various contraceptive methods.

(d) Training.—This activity represents the NICHD Career Development Program designed to help overcome the shortages of professional manpower in pediatrics and obstetrics and the lack of the necessary cross-disciplinary training required in the basic research programs of the Institute.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1966, $24 thousand; 1967, $24 thousand; 1968, $24 thousand.

Legislation enacted in 1965 established this new program to improve and disseminate techniques for the diagnosis and treatment of heart disease, cancer, and stroke as well as related diseases. The program will emphasize regional planning and coordination of medical resources, continuing education for doctors and other medical personnel, and the rapid distribution of new knowledge and techniques.

The authorizing legislation provides for the award of grants to assist public or nonprofit private universities, medical schools, research institutions, and other public or nonprofit private institutions and agencies in planning, in conducting feasibility studies, and in operating pilot projects for the establishment of regional medical programs.

1. Grants.—It is expected that $80,400 thousand in grants will be awarded to regional groups in 1968 primarily to support a rapid expansion throughout the Nation of operational activities begun during 1967, and an expansion and supplementation of planning activities begun in 1966.

2. Professional and technical assistance.—Of the total program increase, $2,225 thousand will fund contracts in support of the basic grant programs. This will include $1,475 thousand for activities in continuing education of the health professions; and $750 thousand for systems analysis, systems development and computer utilization.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $1,613 thousand (1966 adjustment, $63 thousand); 1966, $3,145 thousand; 1967, $3,145 thousand; 1968, $3,145 thousand.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Research grants are awarded to organizations and institutions for the conduct of basic research in all environmental health scientific areas. This includes the establishment of research and training institutes which are located within academic institutions distributed throughout the Nation. Approximately 73 projects will be supported in 1968 as compared to 56 in 1967 and 41 in 1966; 7 of the projects proposed for 1968 will be university institutes for Environmental Health Sciences.

(b) Training.—Grants are made to colleges and universities to provide support for the development and improvement of broad-based engineering and scientific competencies required for environmental health research. Approximately 62 projects will be supported in 1968 as compared to 49 in 1967 and 31 in 1966.

2. Direct operations—(a) Research.—Research on basic environmental health problems is undertaken in the National Environmental Health Sciences Center in North Carolina. Increases requested for this center will fund expansion and development of programs in toxicology, physiology, pathology and cytobiology, epidemiology, and bioengineering.

² Selected resources as of June 30, are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $2,659 thousand (1966, adjustment, -$38 thousand); 1966, $3,386 thousand; 1967, $3,386 thousand; 1968, $3,386 thousand.

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Grants are awarded on a project basis for behavioral, clinical, psychological, and applied research in mental illness and health. Clinical research centers and general research support grants are also supported from this subactivity. Approximately 1,929 grants will be supported in 1968 as compared to 1,778 in 1967 and 1,656 in 1966.

(b) Hospital improvement.—These project grants to State institutions for the mentally ill are designed to improve the quality of care, treatment, and rehabilitation in these institutions. Approximately 122 of these grants will be supported in 1968, the same in 1967, and 123 in 1966.

(c) Training.—Grants are made to training institutions for clinical and research training in psychiatry, behavioral sciences, psychiatric nursing, psychiatric social work, and other mental health disciplines. Experimental and special programs and continuing education in the mental health field are included as well as special training in such areas as alcoholism, drug abuse, and suicide prevention. In 1968 approximately 11,997 trainee stipends will be awarded as compared to 11,134 trainee stipends in 1967 and 9,933 trainee stipends in 1966.

(d) Fellowships.—Awards are made on the basis of excellence to individuals involved in mental health research. In 1968 approximately 1,166 awards will be made as compared to 1,045 in 1967 and 1,035 in 1966.

2. Direct operations—(a) Planning, development, and administration of extramural research programs.—The Institute professional staff in this activity are involved in the management of grants and contract mechanisms to support programs in planning in the areas of behavioral science research, applied research, clinical research, and psychopharmacological research; in developing programs in these areas; and consultation and advice to those involved in such research. In addition this subactivity includes the coordination of schizophrenia research and research in mental health and social problems.

(b) Intramural research.—Laboratory and clinical research is conducted in the behavioral and biological sciences, e.g., psychiatry, socioeconomic studies, neurobiology, and neurochemistry. Additionally there is laboratory and clinical research in special mental health problems of neuropharmacology, clinical psychopharmacology, narcotic addiction, and alcoholism.

(c) Manpower and training.—Within this subactivity analytic studies of manpower are undertaken and the national mental health training program is coordinated and supported. Emphasis is given to the full range of manpower requirements for research and service in the field of mental health including the disciplines of psychiatry, behavioral sciences, psychiatric nursing, and social work.

(d) Mental health services.—The administration and stimulation of the community mental health centers program is undertaken in this subactivity as well as technical program assistance such as the mental hospital improvement program and its corollary the mental hospital in-service training program. The Center for Studies of Metropolitan and Regional Mental Health Problems is funded from this subactivity.

(e) Special mental health programs.—This subactivity funds specialized centers recently established to give greater emphasis to specific areas such as alcoholism, narcotic and drug abuse, suicide prevention, crime and delinquency, and mental health of children and youth. Also funded in this subactivity is a program for training psychiatrists for careers in the Public Health Service.

(f) Regional and field activities.—Epidemiological studies, a community demonstration unit, the nucleus for experimental model community mental health centers, and the regional mental health offices are funded here. In addition this activity provides for planning and operation of supervised facilities for the aftercare of addicts who have been cared for by the Institute as provided by the Narcotic Addict Rehabilitation Act of 1966.

(g) Fort Worth and Lexington hospitals.—These are psychiatric hospitals primarily concerned with the treatment of patients suffering from narcotic addiction. These facilities will be used to conduct examinations and evaluations of alleged addicts and provide for their treatment under the provisions of the Narcotic Addict Rehabilitation Act of 1966.

(h) Scientific communication and public education.—The National Clearinghouse for Mental Health Information which collects and disseminates scientific and technical information in the mental health field and the Institute's public education program are funded here. In 1968, $1 million will be used to finance a public information program on narcotics and dangerous drugs directed toward the university community, physicians, social workers, educators, and voluntary agencies.

(i) Program management and services.—Central Institute program planning and evaluation, biometric services, program liaison, and administrative management are funded in this subactivity.

The National Library of Medicine constitutes a national resource for the collection, analysis, and dissemination of worldwide scientific information related to medicine, public health, and biomedical research, and for the support and development of biomedical communications conducted through the national medical library network. It provides interlibrary loans, reference and search services, and has developed and activated MEDLARS, a computerized system for the improved analysis, management, and dissemination of scientific information related to medicine for the purpose of strengthening the medical communication process. The National Library of Medicine administers programs authorized by the Medical Library Assistance Act (Public Law 89-291).

1. Grants—(a) Research.—Funds available in 1968 will support approximately 28 grants. This compares to 36 grants in 1967 and 24 in 1966.

(b) Training.—Training grant awards in 1968 will number approximately 20. This compares to 20 in 1967 and 9 in 1966. Fellowship awards to health science scholars will number approximately 6 in 1968 as compared to 4 in 1967 and 2 in 1966.

(c) Construction.—Funds available in 1968 will support approximately 13 construction projects.

(d) Publications and library support.—An estimated 365 awards will be made in 1968, compared to 310 in 1967 and 10 in 1966.

(e) Regional medical libraries.—In 1968, funds will support approximately seven grants to institutions serving as regional medical libraries. This compares to one grant in 1967 and none in 1966.

2. Direct operations—(a) Library operations.—The increase in 1968 will provide funds for a new and improved computer system and increased indexing and searching capability to meet increased demands and improve the quality of bibliographic services associated with the medical literature analysis and retrieval system (MEDLARS); provide an improved level of administrative support and program analysis; and begin program planning, systems design, and development of a Toxicology Information Exchange.

(b) Research and support contracts.—The Medical Library Assistance Act authorizes the use of contracts in addition to the grant mechanism for two categories of support—research and publications support. In 1968, there will be a net decrease in amounts obligated for contracts as the grant mechanism will be used to a greater extent.

(c) Review and approval.—The increase in 1968 will provide funds for the necessary level of program direction and administrative support under an expanded extramural program.

Proposed projects.—The following construction projects will necessitate the provision of additional funds in 1968:

1. Dental health center addition.—Planning funds were appropriated in 1966. The 1968 request provides for construction of this facility on the grounds of PHS hospital in San Francisco.

2. Planning for central air pollution research facility.—The proposed facility will bring together the major constituent units of the National Center for Air Pollution Control. The funds requested in 1968 will provide for planning and design of this facility.

3. NIH animal center.—In 1968, funds are requested to complete construction requirements for phase I.

4. Combined service facility, NIH.—Planning funds are requested for a proposed facility to house certain NIH service activities including the fire department, vehicle repair and maintenance, procurement, and supply functions.

5. Multilevel parking facilities.—Funds for construction of two multilevel parking facilities at the National Institutes of Health were provided in 1967. Planning funds are requested in 1968 for an addition to the facility previously approved for the general office building.

6. Incinerator facility, NIH.—Funds for planning a municipal-type incinerator plant, rated at a burning capacity of 12 tons per hour, were included in the 1967 budget. The 1968 request provides for construction of this facility.

7. Repairs and improvements.—The 1968 request provides funds for continuation of a program of major alterations, repairs, and improvements of buildings and facilities inaugurated in 1964.

The following activities will require appropriation of funds in subsequent years to complete, but will be continued in 1968 with funds appropriated in prior years:

- 8. Northeast shellfish sanitation research center.
- 9. Modernization of PHS hospitals.
- 13. Laboratory facility, Cincinnati, Ohio.
- 14. Appalachian environmental health field station.
- 19. Child health and human development research facility, NIH.
- 20. National Environmental Health Sciences Center.

The remaining activities will be completed with funds appropriated in prior years. The following five of the above activities have been completed.

- 32. Service building 12, NIH.
- 34. Animal quarters, NIH.
- 35. Research facilities, Lexington, Ky., NIH.
- 36. Library facilities.
- 37. Dental research building, NIH.

The research efforts supported with foreign currencies derived through the sale abroad of surplus agricultural commodities authorized by the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, are directed toward the solution of disease and health problems which hold promise of contributing knowledge of value and significance to the advancement of medical research in the United States and other countries. Translation of research publications is supported to encourage international communication in the sciences relating to health. Research projects on collection and analysis of morbidity and mortality data are also supported as are other scientific activities overseas such as training and international conferences.

for every person, in an environment which contributes positively to healthful individual and family living; (2) to develop an effective partnership, involving close intergovernmental collaboration, official and voluntary efforts, and participation of individuals and organizations; (3) to assure that Federal financial assistance is directed to support the marshaling of all health resources—national, State, and local—(4) and to assure comprehensive health services of high quality for every person, regardless of existing patterns of private professional practice of medicine, dentistry and related healing arts. This will be accomplished through the following:

1. Grants—(a) Planning—(1) Grants to States for comprehensive State health planning.—These grants will be made only to State agencies on a formula basis and are designed to stimulate comprehensive planning for health services (public and private), including the facilities and manpower required to provide such services, on a state-wide basis.

(2) Project grants for area-wide health planning.—These grants will be made to public agencies, nonprofit private agencies, or other groups on a regional, metropolitan area, or other area-wide basis. They are designed to provide stimulation and identification of specific needs at the community level and the design of programs solving these needs in a manner consistent with State plan.

(3) Project grants for training, studies, and demonstration for comprehensive health planning.—These grants will be made to public and nonprofit private agencies or organizations, designed to provide for training, studies, and demonstrations to develop improved or more effective methods of comprehensive health planning throughout the Nation.

(b) Formula grants to States for comprehensive public health services.—These grants will assist States financially in establishing and maintaining adequate public health services.

(c) Project grants for health services development.—These grants are awarded to nonprofit organizations and institutions, and State and local health agencies, for developing, testing, and evaluating community services, with emphasis on the application of new techniques and methods in demonstrating the provision of health services and training.

The Public Health Service Management Fund finances program direction and services and business operations provided by the staffs of the Offices of the Bureau Chiefs for the Disease Prevention and Environmental Control and Health Services bureaus. The supporting services of each staff are similar in nature and provide executive direction and supervision of Bureau-wide activities; overall program planning, evaluation, and coordination; research and development activities; financial management; personnel management; information activities; grants management; procurement; supply and property management; contract negotiation; management analysis; and messenger, file, and mail services. In addition, the associate regional health directors for disease prevention and environmental control and their staffs, located in the nine regional offices of the Department, are supported.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $2,570 thousand (1966 adjustment, -$56 thousand); 1966, $2,595 thousand; 1967, $2,595 thousand; 1968, $2,595 thousand.

The National Institutes of Health management fund was established to facilitate the conduct of operations of the National Institutes of Health which are financed by two or more appropriations. The activities of the fund are financed primarily from advances and reimbursements from the several institutes. Formulas for determining the contribution from each institute are designed to reflect utilization of services performed by the management fund. Taken into consideration are such factors as the number of activated beds in the clinical center, number of laboratory workers, total personnel, and dollar level of grant, direct research, and direct operations funds obligated by the institute. A small portion of the funds comes from reimbursements from outside sources, principally cafeteria receipts, and from other Government agencies.

The centralized organizations of the National Institutes of Health provide supporting services to all programs as follows:

1. Research supporting services.—Provide the central administration and operation of services for the conduct of research activities such as the planning and supervising the design, construction and development of new research activities; providing laboratory animals, culture media and glassware; design and fabrication of laboratory instrumentation; operating the NIH medical reference library including the translation of medical literature; scientific photography and medical arts; maintenance and alteration of all physical facilities including utility services; and environmental engineering services.

2. Clinical supporting services.—Consist of the operation of the 516-bed clinical center together with the laboratory space required for the treatment of research patients.

3. Administrative management.—Includes personnel, supply, financial management, office services, plant safety, management analyses and evaluations, and printing and reproduction.

4. Program direction.—Provides for the executive direction and planning of intramural and extramural research.

5. Review and approval of grants.—Provides procedures and policies governing the scientific and technical review of applications for research project grant programs, program project grants, facility construction grants, fellowships, and training grants. Performs application processing services, provides central grant management and information services, processing of grantee invention reports, evaluation and analysis of scientific information relative to the various fields and disciplines in biomedical research, and develops and maintains a system for recording, compiling, analyzing, and reporting statistical data on the extramural programs of the National Institutes of Health and those of the Public Health Service for which the Division of Research Grants serves as central manager.

6. Cafeteria.—The clinical center is operated by the nutrition department and furnishes meals for sale to the employees and visitors at rates sufficient to cover the reasonable value of the meals served. A new clinical center cafeteria, to be operated independently of the NIH, will be completed in 1968. However, due to the uncertainty of the date of completion, 1968 costs are shown for a full year. Income and expenses for 1966, 1967 and 1968 are as follows:

This fund finances medical supply and service operations of the Public Health Service. It is reimbursed from the appropriations supporting the programs benefited (42 U.S.C. 231).

Budget program.—The principal activities of the fund are carried out at (a) the Supply Service Center (formerly the Medical Supply Depot) at Perry Point, Md., which maintains inventories of medical stock and supplies to meet, in whole or in part, the requirements of the Public Health Service and requisitions of other Government organizations; (b) the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md., which maintains a central supply of scientific and general-use materials, supplies, and special equipment and also, provides services such as animal production, statistical processing, and instrumentation for the Institutes; and (c) the Division of Finance, Washington, D.C., which finances accounting, auditing, and data processing services for bureaus and divisions of the Public Health Service.

Operating results.—Retained earnings amounted to $532 thousand as of June 30, 1966, and are being retained in the fund against the possibility of future losses.

Health professions student loans.—Recent amendments to title VII of the Public Health Service Act created a revolving fund to provide additional loan funds to health professions students. Loans will be made to health professions schools which, in turn, will loan funds to the students on much the same basis as in the past. The promissory notes from the schools will be refinanced through the Federal National Mortgage Association, which in turn will sell participations in these obligations to private interests. Through these sales, the revolving fund will be replenished. A supplemental appropriation of $10 million will be requested in fiscal year 1967 to provide sufficient funds to begin operation early in fiscal year 1968.

Nursing student loans.—Recent amendments to title VIII of the Public Health Service Act created a revolving fund to provide additional loan funds to nursing students. Loans will be made to nursing schools, who, in turn, will loan funds to the students on much the same basis as in the past. The promissory notes from the schools will be placed in trust with the Federal National Mortgage Association, which in turn will sell participations in these obligations to private interests. Through these sales, the revolving fund will be replenished. A supplemental appropriation of $2 million will be requested in 1967 plus $3.5 million already appropriated for student loans to provide sufficient funds to begin operation early in 1968.

PARTICIPATION SALES AUTHORIZATION

The Federal National Mortgage Association, as trustee, is hereby authorized to issue beneficial interests or participations in such loan assets of the Health Professions Education Fund and the Nurse Training Fund as may be placed in trust with such association in accordance with section 302(c) of the Federal National Mortgage Association charter act, as amended, in an aggregate principal amount of not to exceed $15,000,000: Provided, That this authorization shall remain available until June 30, 1969.

PAYMENT OF SALES INSUFFICIENCIES

For the payment of such insufficiencies as may be required by the trustee on account of outstanding beneficial interests or participations in assets of the Public Health Service in Health Professions Education Fund assets or Nurse Training Fund assets, authorized by this act to be issued pursuant to said section 302(c), such sums as may be necessary, to remain available without fiscal year limitation.

GENERAL RESEARCH SUPPORT GRANTS

For general research support grants, as authorized in section 301(d) of the Act, there shall be available from appropriations available to the National Institutes of Health for operating expenses the sum of ~~["$51,700,000"]~~ $61,700,000: *Provided, That none of these funds shall be used to pay a recipient of such a grant any amount for indirect expenses in connection with such project. Public Law 86-798 (42 U.S.C. 241(d)) amends the Public Health Service Act to provide for grants-in-aid to universities, hospitals, laboratories, and other public or nonprofit institutions for the general support of research and research training in sciences related to health. The act specifies that this program will be supported with funds provided for research grants through the appropriations for the National Institutes of Health.

(a) General research support.—These awards permit health professional schools and those nonacademic research organizations heavily engaged in health research to better meet emerging opportunities in research and to use funds flexibly in ways catalytic for fostering additional research capability.

(b) Biomedical science support.—These awards similar in purpose to general research support grants are made to graduate departments outside the health professional schools.

(c) Health sciences advancement support.—These awards support institutions which have demonstrated an interest and initiative in the health sciences, but which, because of inadequate resources, have been unable to develop fully their potential for health research and research training.

Saint Elizabeths Hospital (1) provides treatment and care for the mentally ill who are either beneficiaries of the Federal Government or residents of the District of Columbia, (2) trains persons in the medical, nursing, and associated disciplines concerned with the treatment of psychiatric patients, and (3) conducts or cooperates with others in scientific research activities dealing with mental illness.

Programs of the hospital are financed by Federal appropriations covering treatment and care of Federal beneficiaries and by reimbursements made to the hospital for services rendered other patient groups, principally residents of the District of Columbia. Federal appropriations to the hospital are of the indefinite type, under which the hospital receives in appropriated funds the difference between the amount of reimbursements actually received during the year, on account of patient care provided by the hospital, and the total program costs approved by the Congress for the year. Reimbursement rates for reimbursable patient groups other than the District of Columbia are based on a pro rata share of the total program costs. Charges to the District of Columbia are based on the estimated mean (or average) cost per patient day of the upper 10% of the States.

The functions of Saint Elizabeths Hospital are carried out under the three activity headings set forth below:

1. Operation and maintenance.—This activity covers the protective, therapeutic and rehabilitative programs of the hospital, maintenance of hospital buildings, procurement of supplies and materials, and the provision of necessary administrative services. Actual and estimated average daily patient load is as follows:

1968 estimate.....	5,558

2. Training and education.—The training and education program of Saint Elizabeths Hospital provides multidisciplinary clinical training for professional and ancillary personnel engaged in or interested in mental health activities.

3. Research.—Under this activity heading, the hospital plans, develops and carries out coordinated research programs and projects for the purpose of obtaining a better understanding of the causes of mental disorders, and of the factors bearing upon their development, treatment, and possible prevention. A close working relationship with the National Institute of Mental Health is maintained and the resources of both institutions are often combined in unified endeavors.

This appropriation covers all construction and facility improvement items of Saint Elizabeths Hospital. Projects underway or proposed for initiation in fiscal year 1968 are set forth below:

1. Construction and equipment, continued treatment building (rehabilitation center).—Plans and specifications for this 450-bed facility are complete. Solicitation of bids for the construction contract has been deferred pending resolution of certain questions with the District of Columbia.

2. Miscellaneous improvements of existing facilities.—Funds requested will provide for: (a) screening in patient buildings, (b) plumbing and heating modernization and improvement, (c) improvement of employee locker facilities, (d) replastering of hospital buildings, (e) air conditioning of a treatment building, (f) installation of an elevator in the hospital's laboratory, (g) improvement of ventilation in the laundry, (h) relining of a powerplant chimney, and (i) an engineering study of sanitary and storm sewer facilities.

3. Construction and equipment, treatment and cafeteria building.—Construction and landscaping were completed in 1965, and demolition of the old building which was replaced by the new facility was accomplished during the past year.

4. Extension and modernization of administration building.—The hospital's administration building was remodeled to provide more adequate space and facilities. The project was completed in 1966.

5. Construction and equipment, security facility.—This facility will provide for the needs of patients who require treatment in a security setting. With funds provided in the 1967 budget, the hospital expects to initiate the development of plans and specifications for this project, with completion of this phase of the work scheduled for 1968. Construction funds will be requested in the following year. The proposed facility will make possible the demolition of antiquated treatment buildings.

6. Construction and equipment, residential treatment center for adolescents.—Funds made available during the current year will provide for a program statement and plans for a facility in which mentally disturbed young patients will receive specialized treatment, in a physical setting which is removed from the hospital's adult patient population. No facility of this type is presently available at the hospital.

The Social Security Program provides old-age, survivors, and disability insurance protection for over 90% of the workers and their families in the United States. It also provides hospital insurance protection for virtually all individuals in the United States who are age 65 or older, as well as supplementary medical insurance coverage for those aged 65 or over who elect it. Individuals covered under the Social Security Act contribute a portion of their earnings during their working years to pay for this protection and employers match the contributions made by their employees. Monthly premiums are paid by those individuals age 65 and over who elect to come under the supplementary medical insurance program, and these premiums are matched by the Federal Government by appropriations from the general fund. The Federal Government also finances from general fund appropriations the hospital insurance protection for individuals not insured under the social security or railroad retirement systems. These contributions are deposited in the Federal old-age and survivors, disability, hospital, and supplementary medical insurance trust funds, from which benefit payments and administrative costs are paid.

1. Old-age and survivors insurance program.—The 1965 amendments to the Social Security Act caused an abnormally large number of claims filings in 1966 largely because persons age 65 or older who were still working and not eligible for old-age benefits filed claims in order to be eligible for hospital insurance benefits. Other provisions of the 1965 amendments such as the continuation of benefits to children age 18–22 who attend school and the reduction in age for widows to qualify for benefits contributed to the 1966 peak. The 1967 and 1968 estimates of claims to be received are more representative of the ongoing level of claims receipts. The number of persons receiving monthly benefits and the amount of benefits to be paid increase over the prior year's level in 1967 and again in 1968. This trend is expected to continue for many years into the future because of the growth in number of aged persons in the population, in the size of the total population insured for survivors benefits, and in the proportion of persons reaching retirement age who are insured.

In the second session of the 89th Congress, legislation (Public Law 89–368) was enacted which provided for payment of monthly benefits to certain individuals age 72 and over who are not insured under the social security program. An estimated 350,000 of these individuals are included in the 1967 estimate of beneficiaries in current pay status given below; this number declines to 320,000 by the end of 1968.

The administrative costs budgeted under this activity cover the costs of processing claims for benefits, including reconsiderations and appeals of initial claims decisions, and handling revisions to beneficiary rolls to insure the prompt mailing of benefit checks each month to beneficiaries who are entitled to them, and to discontinue such checks when eligibility for benefits is interrupted or ends. Also included in this activity beginning in 1967 is a continuing annual program to reappraise the amount of benefits paid each beneficiary to determine whether the beneficiary is entitled to a higher amount of benefits due to events that have occurred since his initial entitlement to benefits. Prior to 1967, recomputations of benefits were made only upon application of the beneficiaries.

2. Disability insurance program.—The more liberal definition of disability and other program changes contained in the 1965 amendments to the Social Security Act created a one-time backlog of eligibles which is reflected in the level of claims filings in 1966. The 1967 and 1968 estimates reflect a more normal level of filings by workers and their dependents for disability benefits under this program. The processing of some of the claims received in 1966 was carried over to 1967 because of heavy health insurance claims work loads received late in 1966 which had to be given priority handling. The number of disability beneficiaries in pay status and the amount of benefit payments will continue to rise each year primarily because the size of the population insured for disability benefits will increase.

The administrative costs budgeted under this activity cover the costs of handling claims for benefits, including reconsiderations and appeals of initial claims decisions, of determining continuing eligibility for disability benefits and of handling revisions to beneficiary rolls. Determinations regarding the existence of a disability are made by State agencies in most cases, and these decisions are reviewed in the central office of the Social Security Administration.

3. Health insurance program.—This activity includes both the hospital insurance and the voluntary supplementary medical insurance programs which were established by the 1965 amendments. The 1966 obligations for this activity represent the costs of making ready for the operation of these programs beginning July 1, 1966, except for services of extended care facilities, which are covered by the hospital insurance program beginning January 1, 1967.

a. Hospital insurance plan.—The hospital insurance program affords basic protection to persons age 65 and over against the costs of inpatient hospital services, post-hospital home health services, post-hospital extended care and outpatient diagnostic services. Bills for services rendered under the hospital insurance program are submitted by hospitals, extended care facilities, and home health agencies. In most instances, these bills are processed by the Blue Cross Association and private insurance companies acting as intermediaries for the Social Security Administration. The individual beneficiary records of utilization of hospital services are maintained in the central office of the Social Security Administration. The increase in 1968 in the estimated number of bills submitted by providers of service results from: (1) the growth in beneficiaries who will be covered by the program as the population age 65 and over increases; and (2) the coverage of extended care facilities under the program for a full year in 1968 as compared with a half year in 1967.

b. Supplementary medical insurance plan.—Almost all persons age 65 and over are eligible to enroll in the supplementary medical insurance program, which covers the cost of physician services and other medical costs within certain deductible and coinsurance requirements. When this program became operative on July 1, 1966, about 17 million individuals had enrolled. Enrollees in the program pay a monthly premium of $3 and the aggregate of these premiums is matched by the Federal Government by appropriations from the general fund. Bills for services under the medical insurance program are submitted by either the provider of service or the beneficiary to Blue Shield associations and insurance companies who have been designated to act as intermediaries for the Social Security Administration in specific geographical areas. The volume of bills to be handled in 1968 will increase over the 1967 level for two reasons: (1) the estimated increase in number of beneficiaries in the program because of the growth in the population age 65 and over; and (2) the $50 deductible which must be met by the beneficiary in each calendar year before entitlement to medical insurance benefits takes effect twice during 1967 but only once in 1968.

The administrative costs budgeted under this activity cover the bill payment function performed by the intermediaries, services performed by State agencies in certifying and consulting with providers of services, and all work performed by the Social Security Administration in directing the program, providing services to beneficiaries and maintaining records of utilization of services.

Funds requested for expenditure from the trust funds, established by the Social Security Act, as amended, will provide for design and specifications for multilevel parking facilities at the Social Security Headquarters in Baltimore County, Md.

1. Headquarters construction.—The 1966 and 1967 appropriation acts provided for the necessary acquisition of land and construction of additional headquarters buildings to meet the requirements of an expanded staff required to administer the health insurance program and changes to previously existing programs made by the Social Security Act Amendments of 1965. However, funds were not requested in the 1966 and 1967 budgets to meet the parking requirements for the added staff to be housed in the new buildings, pending consideration of the feasibility of multilevel parking. Preliminary recommendations from the feasibility study now underway support the practicability and desirability of multilevel parking in order to keep parking facilities within reasonable proximity to the buildings on the headquarters site and to improve the appearance of the total headquarters site. Funds totaling $634 thousand are requested for 1968 to provide for the planning, design, and specifications of a multilevel parking facility.

2. District office construction.—Funds have been provided in the 1965, 1966, and 1967 appropriations for the acquisition of sites, design, and construction of Social Security Administration district offices in 109 selected cities throughout the country. This is part of a long-range program of construction to provide more appropriate and adequate space for district offices in locations where construction is determined to be both feasible and advantageous. Funds scheduled for obligation in 1968 for this activity are based on estimated progress in constructing district offices already funded.

This appropriation provides two Federal contributions to the Medicare programs totaling $906,631.

The first covers the costs of hospital and related care on behalf of aged individuals who are not insured under the social security or railroad retirement systems. (Costs for the aged who are insured are met by employer and employee payroll taxes.) The number of aged for whom hospital and related benefits are paid is estimated at 4.3 million in 1967 and 4.4 million in 1968.

The second Federal contribution is the $3 per month payment to match similar premium payments made by the aged who voluntarily enrolled in the supplementary medical insurance program to cover doctor bills. About 17.6 million aged will be enrolled by the end of 1967 and 17.9 by the end of 1968.

Because the administrative costs for the hospital insurance program for the uninsured and the number of enrollees in the voluntary medical insurance program in 1967 were higher than previously estimated, a supplementary appropriation will be required in 1967.

Under existing legislation, 1967.—A supplemental appropriation request of $91,103 thousand for 1967 is proposed for later transmittal to: (1) reimburse the Federal Hospital Insurance Trust Fund by $18,103 thousand for larger than previously estimated administrative expenses incurred in 1966 and to be incurred in 1967 for aged individuals not eligible for social security or railroad retirement benefits and for interest lost to the trust fund by reason of these higher expenses; and (2) increase the previously appropriated amount for general fund matching contributions to the Federal Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Fund by $73 million because of the larger than budgeted number of participants in the program.

Under proposed legislation, 1968.—Legislation will be proposed for a major improvement in the social security system and to extend the health insurance program to disabled beneficiaries. Schedules reflecting these proposals are contained in the trust fund section, part II. The schedule above indicates the increase in general fund contributions required to pay the $3 per month Federal matching premium to cover doctor bills for the disabled. The proposed increase in social security payments is expected to reduce the need for some individuals to be assisted under other existing State and Federal income maintenance programs.

The appropriation covers the reimbursement to the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund, the Federal Disability Insurance Trust Fund, and the Federal Hospital Insurance Trust Fund for benefits paid on the basis of noncontributory military service credits of veterans of World War II and certain veterans of the the postwar period. The estimated reimbursement includes reimbursement for administrative expenses and interest lost to the trust funds.

Reimbursement for noncontributory military service credits.—Section 217(g) of the Social Security Act, as amended, required the Secretary to determine by September 1965, the amount which, if paid in equal installments at the beginning of each fiscal year in the period beginning with July 1, 1965, and ending with June 30, 2015, would accumulate, with interest compounded annually, to an amount sufficient to place the trust funds in the same position at the end of the period, as they would have been if the non-contributory credit for military service had not been provided.

On the basis of this requirement, it has been estimated that annual installments of $105 million will be required. The first two installments were made in 1966 and 1967. The payment to each trust fund is (in millions of dollars):

Federal credit unions are privately owned, cooperative associations organized for the purpose of promoting thrift among their members and creating a source of credit for provident or productive purposes, authorized by the Federal Credit Union Act (act of June 26, 1934), as amended.

The Bureau finances its activities out of fees for services performed.

The Bureau's activities consist of (a) chartering new Federal credit unions, (b) supervising established Federal credit unions, (c) making periodic examinations of their financial condition and operating practices, and (d) administrative services. Data relating to activities are shown below.

Grants to States for old-age assistance, aid to the blind, aid to the permanently and totally disabled, aid to families with dependent children, medical assistance, and medical assistance for the aged are made to States that have plans for these programs approved by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. As of November 30, 1966, 54 jurisdictions including all the States, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands were administering old-age assistance, aid to the blind, and aid to families with dependent children under approved plans; 53 jurisdictions were administering aid to the permanently and totally disabled; and 20 States were operating under approved plans for medical assistance for the aged. Twenty-seven States were operating medical assistance programs under title XIX (Medicaid), the new title established under the Social Security Amendments of 1965. By the close of 1967, it is expected that a total of 30 States will have plans approved under title XIX, as compared with 9 at the end of 1966; and that in 1968, the number with such plans will be 48.

Since October 1, 1962, as an alternative to separate plans for each program, States could elect to receive grants under a combined single plan for the adult assistance programs, that is, old-age assistance, aid to the blind, aid to the permanently and totally disabled, and medical assistance for the aged. Eighteen States have elected the alternative of a combined single plan for the adult assistance programs.

Effective January 1, 1966, States had the option of claiming Federal financial participation in vendor medical payments under the new title XIX or under the other public assistance titles. At the time title XIX was established nearly all States were making payments for some items of medical care for at least some of the needy under the other public assistance titles. The purpose of the new title is to make medical services more generally available to low-income groups by coupling Federal requirements for program coverage and quality of care with more generous Federal financial participation. Effective January 1, 1970, Federal financial participation in payments to medical vendors will be available only under title XIX.

Amount of request.—For 1968, total expenditures from all sources are estimated at $7,292.6 million. Of this amount $4,263 million or 58.5 percent represents the total Federal share. The Federal appropriation request is $4,240 million.¹

Of the total Federal share, $2,636.3 million, almost 62%, is for money payments to recipients; $1,204.7 million, a little more than 28%, is for payments to medical vendors; and $422 million, a little less than 10%, is for the costs of State and local administration, services, and training and for demonstrations of more effective and economical methods of administering the public assistance programs.

In 1968 $1,204.7 million is for payments to medical vendors, an increase of $183.1 million to purchase medical care for more people and to expand the types of medical services provided; upwards of $50 million of the increase, however, will be required to cover the estimated annual increase in costs per unit of medical care. The appropriation request for 1968 is $258.5 million or 6.5% more than the 1967 appropriation plus the proposed supplemental request for that year. About 71% of the increase—$183.1 million—is attributable to larger expenditures for payments to medical vendors; $43.4 million (17%) is for money payments and $32 million (12%) for costs of State and local administration, services, and training.

A supplemental appropriation of $281.5 million will be required for 1967, about 8% more than the $3,700 million already appropriated. The supplemental is needed primarily to finance payments to medical vendors beyond the estimated amount included in the prior appropriation request.

The estimates for 1968 assume that legislation authorizing special demonstration project funds and extension of title IV to include children of unemployed parents, due to expire June 30, 1967, will be extended. The estimates shown in the tables appearing under the activities below include the proposed supplemental request of $281.5 million; the estimates shown in the program and financing schedule include only the $3,700 million already appropriated.

Provisions for determining the Federal share of assistance payments.—Grants to States for public assistance are available to the States under six titles of the Social Security Act:

Title I: Old-age assistance. Medical assistance for the aged.	Title XIV: Aid to the permanently and totally disabled.
Title IV: Aid and services to needy families with children.	Title XVI: Aid to the aged, blind or disabled, or for such aid and medical assistance for the aged.
Title X: Aid to the blind.	Title XIX: Medical assistance program.

The Federal share of money payments to recipients and of the combined total of money payments and direct agency payments to medical vendors (vendor medical payments) is computed in two parts. The Federal share of the first \$37 of the average monthly payment per recipient in the categories for adults is $\frac{3}{37}$; and of the first \$18 per recipient of aid to families with dependent children it is $\frac{1}{2}$. The Federal share of the balance of the average monthly payment up to a maximum of \$75 per recipient in the categories for adults and \$32 per recipient in aid to families with dependent children varies according to the per capita income of the States, and ranges from 50% to 65%.

For recipients of old-age assistance under title I and the aged, blind, and disabled under title XVI, there is additional Federal participation based on up to $15 per recipient of the average vendor medical payment.

For medical assistance for the aged under titles I or XVI, or medical assistance programs under title XIX, Federal participation is a percentage of the total amount of vendor medical payments made by the States. The percentage varies according to per capita income of the States and ranges from 50% to 80% for medical assistance for the aged and from 50% to 83% under title XIX.

Provisions for determining the Federal share of administration, services, and training.—The Federal share is 75% of (1) the cost of providing preventive and rehabilitative services that are specified by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare; (2) the salaries of professional medical personnel and supporting staff employed in the administration of medical assistance programs under title XIX; and (3) the cost of staff training, including educational leave and agency training sessions.

The Federal share of costs, other than those specified above, is 50%.

Provision for demonstration projects.—Section 1115 of the Social Security Act provides that for 1963–67 up to $2 million of the amount appropriated for any year may be used to help meet the State share of costs of demonstration projects that could be expected to contribute significantly to existing knowledge about the kinds and scope of services or methods of work which enhance the agency's capacity to assist needy persons in solving problems that threaten the stability of family life and prevent persons from attaining self-support or self-care. It has been assumed that this provision will be extended.

Provisions for Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.—With the exception of vendor medical payments under medical assistance for the aged and all expenditures under title XIX (medical assistance program), there is a specified annual limitation on total Federal grants for public assistance for each of these jurisdictions. Subject to the above limitation, the Federal share of the cost of administration, services, and training is the same as that for all other jurisdictions, but the Federal share of assistance is one-half of the amount that falls within maximums on the average monthly payment per recipient—$37.50 in the programs for adults and $18 in aid to families with dependent children. For title XIX, the Federal share of vendor medical payments is specified as 55%.

2. Payments to medical vendors—Program coverage.—By the close of 1968, 48 jurisdictions, 18 more than in 1967, are expected to have established medical assistance plans under title XIX. Beginning July 1967, all medical assistance plans under title XIX must provide, as a minimum, five basic medical services to at least all individuals who receive money payments; or who are eligible on the basis of need to receive such payments under the money payment titles of the Social Security Act, but do not meet eligibility conditions, such as durational residence requirements, for money payments. About 90% of the 10 million different individuals who will receive money payments at some time during the year will be potentially eligible for medical services under title XIX. Under some State title XIX plans, medical care also will be available to some medically needy individuals who would be eligible for money payments except that they have income and resources beyond the amounts permitted under the State's assistance standards for money payments. A smaller number of title XIX plans provide that medical care will be furnished to all children under 21 who are medically needy; this group includes both those whose income falls below and those with income above the State's assistance standard for money payments. Federal financial participation is available for payments made in behalf of the foregoing groups. A few State plans also will cover medically needy individuals 21 to 64 years of age who do not meet the disability requirements of the money payment titles; by 1975 all State title XIX plans must cover such individuals. Federal financial participation is not available for medical payments relating to this group.

Total payments (Federal, State, and local).—Total payments are estimated to increase $325.7 million or 17% in 1968 over 1967. It is anticipated that more than 95% of all expenditures for payments to medical vendors will be made under title XIX. The proportion of total payments on behalf of children is expected to be much larger than under the other public assistance titles because: (1) a substantial part of the costs of medical care for the aged will be met by Medicare and (2) States are required to furnish care for children comparable to that furnished other age groups. Hitherto most States provided a lesser scope of care for recipients of aid to families with dependent children than for other assistance recipients.

Federal share.—The Federal share of expenditures is estimated to increase by $183.1 million or 18% in 1968 over the amount estimated for 1967, with more than 95% of the expenditures being made as grants under title XIX. Under title XIX, the amount of Federal funds available for payments to medical vendors on behalf of children is not limited by the maximum average payment governing Federal financial participation in the program of aid to families with dependent children. Therefore the increase in the proportion of Federal title XIX expenditures going to benefit children is expected to be even larger than the increase in the proportion of total expenditures made in behalf of this group.

3. State and local administration, services, and training.—The Federal share represents 75% of State and local costs of providing preventive and rehabilitative services, as defined by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare; and of the costs of training State and local personnel for more effective performance in administering the public assistance programs; and 50% of the other costs of State and local administration that are found by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to be necessary for the proper and efficient administration of the State public assistance programs.

For the last 6 months of 1966, and for 1967, and 1968, the Federal share also includes costs under title XIX at the 75% rate for services of skilled professional medical personnel to improve the administration of medical assistance.

The Federal share contributes toward the salaries and expenses of over 100,000 State and local personnel for all programs.

Total costs in 1968 are estimated at $51 million more than in 1967; $32 million of this increase will come from Federal funds. The increase in costs is attributable primarily to (1) staff increases to handle a larger number of recipients including those who are to receive medical assistance under title XIX and to provide social services to recipients directed toward self-care, self-support, and strengthened family life; and (2) salary increases given to keep pace with rising living costs and to compete successfully with other professions and agencies for staff.

Under existing legislation, 1967.—In connection with its consideration of the regular Labor-Health, Education, and Welfare appropriation bill for 1967, Congress approved an appropriation of $3.7 billion for grants to States for old-age assistance, medical assistance, aid to families with dependent children, aid to the blind, and aid to the permanently and totally disabled under titles I, IV, X, XIV, XVI, and XIX of the Social Security Act, as amended.

Recent program trends indicate that the appropriation for 1967 will fall short of meeting the Federal share of State expenditures by an estimated $281.5 million.

Improvements in public assistance and medical assistance under proposed legislation, 1968.—Legislation will be proposed to assure that public assistance payments more nearly meet the economic needs of recipients, to require all States to provide assistance to families with children who are impoverished because of unemployment of a parent, to provide incentives for employment, and to improve work and training programs to help restore recipients to independence. In addition, legislation will be proposed to improve the Medicaid system particularly for children and will modify the provisions to bring them in line with those of the other assistance programs. Because of the time required to fully implement this new legislation, additional Federal costs in 1968 will begin at $60 million and will be offset by anticipated savings in the medical vendor program by $35 million.

ASSISTANCE FOR REPATRIATED UNITED STATES NATIONALS—Con.

Public Law 86-571, approved July 5, 1960, provides for hospitalization and services to repatriated mentally ill U.S. nationals until arrangements can be made for assumption of responsibility by States of residence or the repatriate's family. The budget estimate assumes that a total of 100 mentally ill repatriates will require hospitalization in fiscal year 1968; this compares with 81 who required such care in fiscal year 1966 and 92 estimated for 1967.

Section 1113 of the Social Security Act authorizes temporary assistance to U.S. citizens and their dependents who return to this country because of destitution, illness or international crises and who are without available resources. It is estimated that in 1968 temporary assistance will be provided a total of about 167 cases who have been repatriated because of destitution and sickness as compared to 129 in fiscal year 1966 and 150 estimated for fiscal year 1967.

The Bureau is responsible for the administration of the following grant-in-aid programs: Old-Age Assistance, Medical Assistance for the Aged, Aid to Families with Dependent Children, Aid to the Blind, Aid to the Permanently and Totally Disabled, and a new Medical Assistance program established as title XIX of the Social Security Act by the 1965 amendments to that act, which became effective January 1, 1966. These programs are designed to help the States and localities provide specified needy persons with assistance for basic maintenance and medical care and with social services. In fiscal year 1968, the programs are expected to cost about $7.2 billion in Federal, State, and local funds—of which $4¼ billion will be Federal funds. It is the mission of the Bureau to help develop, maintain, and improve these programs which aid needy people in securing the necessities of life, in meeting health problems, and in achieving as much economic and personal independence as possible.

The Bureau also administers a program of Assistance for Repatriated U.S. Nationals who are returned from abroad because of mental or other kinds of illness, destitution, or international crises and who are without available resources.

1. Program policies and standards.—Requirements of the Social Security Act are interpreted and specialized technical assistance is provided to State agencies. There is special emphasis to assure that problems of public welfare, including methods of administration, are dealt with constructively. Currently, a major Bureau activity is providing technical assistance to the States to effect a new program of medical care for the needy. Under this program, medical care to the needy aged may be provided, wherever necessary, to supplement that to be available under the two new social security insurance plans; it also provides for expansion of medical services covering a broad group of other needy individuals, especially children, to an extent which was not possible before enactment of title XIX. Considerable emphasis is also being placed on alleviating and preventing dependency to the maximum extent possible through methods such as: increased development and utilization of social services, including community resources; community work and training programs; and better trained public welfare personnel.

2. Review State plans and grants, evaluate State operations.—Action is taken on new State plans and on amendments thereto to assure conformity to the act; reviews are made of operations and findings are used to assist States in administering their programs; consultation and advice are provided on problems arising in day-to-day operations; grants are processed; information is provided to the public.

3. Research and statistics.—Information is collected in cooperation with State agencies. Special analyses are undertaken to provide national statistics and other information on public assistance which are used by the Bureau and the States in formulating policies, planning program content, setting standards, making legislative recommendations, justifying appropriation requests, answering requests, and guiding administrative action.

The States are required to match one-half of the amounts appropriated for maternal and child health and crippled children's services. The remainder is distributed to the States in proportion to their financial need, except that not to exceed 12½% of the appropriations for the above programs is available for special project grants to State agencies and to public or nonprofit institutions of higher learning. The States are required to match all appropriated funds for child welfare services but the percent of matching required varies from 33½ to 66%. There are no matching requirements for the programs of grants for research, training, or demonstration projects in child welfare, grants for research projects relating to maternal and child health and crippled children's services, and grants for training of professional personnel for health and related care of crippled children.

1. Maternal and child health services.—Grants are provided to States for the extension and improvement of health services for mothers and children. It is proposed that $4.75 million of these grants be earmarked for special projects for mentally retarded children.

2. Crippled children's services.—Grants are made to States to extend and improve services for crippled children including medical, surgical, corrective, and other care. It is proposed that $3.75 million of these grants be earmarked for special projects for crippled children who are mentally retarded.

3. Child welfare services.—Grants aid States to establish, extend, and strengthen child welfare services for the protection and care of homeless, dependent, and neglected children, and children in danger of becoming delinquent, and for the return of runaway children to their own homes in other States.

4. Research, training, or demonstration projects in child welfare.—Grants are made to public or nonprofit institutions of higher learning or agencies and organizations engaged in research or child welfare activities for projects of regional or national significance or for those which demonstrate new facilities or methods which contribute to the advancement of child welfare, and to public or nonprofit institutions of higher learning for special projects for training personnel for work in the field of child welfare.

5. Special project grants for maternity and infant care.—Grants are made to State or local health agencies for special projects for maternity and infant care to help reduce the incidence of mental retardation caused by complications associated with childbearing. The Federal grant cannot exceed 75% of the cost of a project.

6. Special project grants for health of school and preschool children.—Grants are made to State or local health agencies, State crippled children's agencies, medical schools, and teaching hospitals affiliated with medical schools for special projects for health care and services for children and youth of school age or for preschool children. The Federal grant cannot exceed 75% of the cost of a project.

7. Training of professional personnel for care of crippled children.—Grants are made to public or nonprofit institutions of higher learning for training of professional personnel for health and related care of crippled children, particularly mentally retarded children and children with multiple handicaps.

8. Research projects relating to maternal and child health and crippled children's services.—Grants, contracts, or jointly financed cooperative arrangements are made for research projects relating to maternal and child health and crippled children's services that show promise of substantial contribution to the advancement of these programs.

The Bureau investigates and reports on the health and welfare of children and administers grants for: maternal and child health services; crippled children's services; child welfare services; research, training or demonstration projects relating to child welfare, maternal and child health, and crippled children's services; special projects for maternity and infant care; and special projects for health of school and preschool children; and projects for training professional personnel for the care of crippled children.

1. State and local health services for children.—Policies and requirements for State maternal and child health and crippled children's programs are developed; State plans are reviewed and approved; policies and guides are developed and applications are reviewed for special project grants for health of school and preschool children; consultative services are given to State agencies, other public and voluntary agencies and organizations, and educational institutions engaged in training professional personnel; and guides and recommendations are prepared on the provision of child health services.

2. State and local social services for children.—The same approach is used for the child welfare services as for the child health services.

3. Technical assistance to States and communities for juvenile delinquency programs.—Consultation is given to States, communities and organizations, both public and voluntary, on standards and methods for care and treatment of juvenile delinquents, on content of State or local programs, and on problems of organization and coordination on a statewide or local basis; assistance is given to State agencies and educational institutions in planning for training of professional and nonprofessional personnel in the field of juvenile delinquency.

4. Research in child life and services for children.—Studies on child health and welfare, particularly social and economic problems, are conducted and the programs and services for children are evaluated. The results are interpreted to the lay and professional public through pamphlets and bulletins.

5. Information for parents and others working with children.—Publications are prepared and distributed on child health and welfare services. Upon request, assistance is given to States in interpreting their child health and welfare programs.

6. Mental retardation services for children.—Policies and guides are developed, and applications are reviewed for special maternity and infant care project grants designed to help reduce the incidence of mental retardation caused by complications of childbearing; for research projects relating to maternal and child health and crippled children's services; and for grants for training professional personnel for the care of crippled children. Consultative services are given to State and local agencies, both public and voluntary, with emphasis on expansion of services for mentally retarded children; program interpretive materials are prepared and distributed.

This program, under Public Law 87-274, was extended by Public Law 88-368 to June 30, 1966, and by Public Law 89-69 to June 30, 1967.

1. Grants and contracts for demonstration and evaluation projects.—Funds are used for demonstrating improved methods in the prevention and control of juvenile delinquency with emphasis placed on supporting programs of law enforcement and corrections, remedial and preventive services, and self-help projects especially suited to the needs of young people. In 1966, 21 special demonstration projects were funded. In 1967, it is anticipated that 13 new projects will be initiated and 20 projects continued.

2. Grants and contracts for training personnel.—Funds are for the purpose of training personnel already employed or preparing for employment in programs for the prevention and control of juvenile delinquency. This training is accomplished through university-based training centers and workshops and short-term traineeships. Over 26,900 personnel who work or are preparing to work in the prevention and control of juvenile delinquency were trained by the end of 1966.

3. Technical assistance services and administration.—This activity provides for coordination of specialized services in juvenile delinquency and control both at the Federal and local levels; for project and training application review and approval; collection and dissemination of information; and direct services and technical assistance to local communities and training institutions in the field.

4. Washington metropolitan area demonstration and evaluation project.—This special project, authorized by section 9 of Public Law 87-274, was started in 1965. It is designed to demonstrate methods of increasing opportunities available to young people who are, or are in danger of becoming, juvenile delinquents or youth offenders, and of increasing the ability of these youth to make use of these opportunities.

The Social Security Act authorizes grants to States, grants to public and nonprofit organizations, and contracts or jointly financed cooperative arrangements for the conduct of research or demonstration projects relating to programs carried on or existing under the Social Security Act and related programs. The program is administered by the Welfare Administration in cooperation with the Social Security Administration.

Funds appropriated are used to support cooperative research or demonstration projects in areas such as (1) those relating to the prevention and reduction of dependency, (2) those which will aid in effecting coordination of planning between private and public welfare agencies, and (3) those which will help improve the administration and effectiveness of programs carried on or existing under the Social Security Act and programs related thereto.

The $4,170 thousand requested for 1968 will provide $1,010 thousand to support approximately 23 new grant projects, $1,690 thousand for the continuation in 1968 of 32 grant projects initiated in prior years, and $1,470 thousand for contracts under the directed research program, including program evaluation.

The Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954 and the International Health Research Act of 1960 authorize the conduct of studies, research, and research training abroad in program matters for which the Welfare Administration has statutory responsibility in the United States. The estimate for 1968 contemplates the use of $1.5 million in foreign currencies.

1. Maternal and child health.—Studies, research, research planning, and research training including the interchange of experts and research fellowships in maternal and child health and handicapping conditions are proposed for 10 countries to gain knowledge of value to the United States, to the country involved, and internationally.

2. Social welfare.—Studies of urban social welfare and specialized social services are proposed in 10 countries for programs such as urban social services, community development, methods to strengthen family life, improve child care and prevent juvenile delinquency, and services for the aging. Cooperative projects including seminars and expert consultation contribute new knowledge valuable to social welfare programs in the United States, the country concerned, and internationally.

In 1961 the President established a program to assist Cuban refugees in the United States. During 1961 and 1962, the program was conducted under the authority of the Mutual Security Act of 1954 and the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961. On June 28, 1962, the Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1962 was enacted which provides for assistance to refugees in the United States.

Refugees were arriving in Miami at the rate of about 1,700 a week when the missile crisis occurred in October 1962 after which the number of arrivals decreased to about 100 a week. On September 28, 1965, Castro publicly announced that any person who wished to leave Cuba could do so and on October 3, 1965, President Johnson announced that the United States would permit the orderly influx of refugees allowed to leave Cuba. In December 1965, the airlift of the new influx of refugees started and refugees are now arriving in Miami at the rate of about 1,000 a week. Between 1961 and the end of June 1966, 207,157 refugees had registered at the Cuban Refugee Center in Miami of which 116,000 had been resettled to other locations in the United States. The program provides the following services for Cuban refugees in the United States:

1. Program administration.—Provides Federal direction of the program and includes work with refugees to prepare them for resettlement and employment. New registrations are estimated to be 52,000 in both 1967 and 1968.

2. Welfare assistance and services.—State and private welfare agencies provide, on a reimbursable basis, to needy refugees, financial assistance, hospitalization, surplus food, as well as care for unaccompanied children. At the end of 1966, 14,482 persons were receiving financial assistance in Florida. The total number of persons requiring financial assistance in Florida is estimated at 20,500 persons on June 30, 1967, and 26,500 persons on June 30, 1968.

3. Resettlement.—Through contracts with various agencies, refugees are provided homes and jobs in areas other than Miami. During 1966, 26,606 persons were resettled and it is estimated that 40,200 persons will be resettled in both 1967 and 1968.

4. Education.—Selected training is provided to equip the refugees for employment and resettlement. The average daily child population on whose behalf payments are made to meet part of the added cost to the Miami public schools is expected to increase from 16,673 in 1966 to 17,600 in 1967 and 18,170 in 1968. Loans made to needy college students are expected to rise from 3,600 in 1966 to 4,200 in 1967 and 4,500 in 1968.

5. Health services.—These services are provided to new arrivals and to needy refugees in Miami and include medical screening, outpatient clinic services, and care of patients with tuberculosis and mental illness.

The Administration on Aging was created in fiscal year 1966 by the Older Americans Act of 1965 to serve as the focal point for the Federal Government's concern for the needs and problems of the aging.

1. Grants for community planning, services, and training.—Grant funds are allotted to State agencies according to formula on the basis of acceptable State plans submitted by the agencies. The State allotments are available for grants to pay part of the cost of projects in the State. These projects must be approved by the State agency in accordance with its State plan.

The formula for allocation provides that each State receive 1% of the total amount appropriated, except the Virgin Islands, Guam, and American Samoa which receive ½%, with the remainder allotted on the basis of the population aged 65 or over in each State as related to the total population in the Nation aged 65 and over. These funds are to be used to pay up to 75% of the first-year costs of projects, up to 60% of the second-year costs, and up to 50% of the third-year costs. Projects are limited to 3 years of Federal support, but are to be established on a basis which leads to continuation of successful activities after termination of Federal support. States may use up to 10% of their allotment or $15 thousand, whichever is the larger, to pay up to one-half of the administrative costs of the State agency. Unused portions of State allotments are available for reallocation to other States.

The projects supported are for the following purposes: Community planning and coordination of programs for the aged and aging; demonstrations of such programs or activities; training of specialized personnel to carry out programs and activities; and establishment of new, or expansion of existing programs.

The increase of $5,183 thousand will continue projects funded in 1966 and 1967 and provide funds for about 240 new projects in 1968.

2. Grants and contracts for research, demonstration, and training.—Grants are made to, and contracts are made with, public and nonprofit private agencies, organizations, and institutions after consultation with the appropriate State agency. Research, development, and demonstration contracts are also made with individuals.

There are no matching requirements for the programs of grants and contracts for research, development, demonstration, and training projects in the field of aging. However, recipients of a grant are required to contribute toward research projects, and may be required to contribute money, facilities, or services toward carrying out other projects.

Grants and contracts are made for the following purposes: To study current living patterns of older persons and identify factors which are beneficial or detrimental to the wholesome and meaningful living of such persons; to develop or demonstrate new approaches, techniques, and methods which hold promise of substantial contributions toward wholesome and meaningful living for older persons; to develop or demonstrate approaches, methods, and techniques for achieving or improving coordination of community services for older persons; to evaluate the approaches, techniques, and methods which may assist older persons to enjoy wholesome and meaningful living and to continue contributing to the strength and welfare of the Nation; and to train persons employed or preparing for employment in carrying out programs pertaining to the aged or aging.

The increase of $3.4 million in 1968 will provide funds for continuation grants, about 38 new projects, and fund the initiation of an expanded program of nutritional services on a pilot-project basis.

3. Technical assistance, services, and administration.—The Administration on Aging serves as a focal point for stimulation of coordination between the many Federal programs which affect older persons. Coordination is sought through interagency groups and direct contact with individual agencies in order to assure full consideration in agency program planning and program operation of the needs and problems of older persons.

In the program of grants to States, the Administration formulates policies, requirements, and guides for the development of State plans; reviews and approves State plans; issues grant allocations; evaluates the administration of State plans in terms of the development of better and more plentiful services; and provides a broad range of consultative services to the State agencies and grantees on the development of such services and the effective use of existing resources.

In the program of direct project grants, the Administration develops policies, requirements, and guides for research, development, demonstration, and training projects; stimulates interest in projects covering undeveloped areas; evaluates project proposals; awards grants and contracts; evaluates project progress and results; and provides consultative services to prospective and actual awardees.

In carrying out the information clearinghouse function, the Administration prepares, collects, and publishes program guidelines and models, and educational and informational materials on a wide range of subjects related to providing opportunities for a meaningful life for the aged and aging. These materials are aimed at professionals in the field of aging, the aging population, and the general public.

The Administration conducts research, gathers and analyzes statistics, carries on program evaluation and development, provides short-term training and technical instruction, and conducts administrative operations.

Gallaudet College is a private, nonprofit institution providing a liberal higher education for the deaf, a graduate school to train teachers, and a research program to provide information about the deaf. It operates the Kendall School for deaf children (primarily from the District of Columbia) and a preschool program for very young deaf children which serve as the laboratory facilities for the college graduate program. Federal funds provide approximately two-thirds of the operating costs.

A construction program designed to replace aging buildings and provide modern facilities to accommodate increased enrollments was initiated in 1956. Full financial support for the erection of a number of new buildings and alterations and repairs to the existing physical plant has been provided by the Federal Government. The estimates for 1967 and 1968 provide for the continuation of this support to meet current needs and to afford adequate facilities for the expansion of the college to meet steadily increasing enrollments (in thousands of dollars):

The university is a private nonprofit institution consisting of an undergraduate college, a graduate school offering the master's degree and the degree of doctor of philosophy (in English, history, chemistry, physics, zoology, government, pharmacology, and physiology) and eight professional schools. Federal funds provide 54% of the total operating costs.

In 1966, 201 research and training projects were supported by outside organizations, and an estimated 231 projects will be undertaken in 1967 and 1968. The operation and maintenance staff services 40 buildings located on the university's 60-acre campus. The dormitories, food service, bookstores, and intramural athletic programs are intended to be self-supporting and render service at the lowest possible costs.

1. Medical stockpile.—The goal of this activity is to provide essential medical material for civilian needs in time of disaster. Medical supplies and equipment have been assembled into 2,573 emergency packaged disaster hospitals which are prepositioned throughout the United States. The estimate for 1968 provides for a continuing program of rehabilitation and refurbishment of the packaged disaster hospitals in order to maintain a complete state of readiness; procurement of new materials to increase the emergency medical supply inventories of community hospitals; relocating the packaged disaster hospital in order to achieve direct affiliation with the community hospital; and maintaining and servicing the medical stockpile.

2. Emergency health training and community preparedness.—This activity supports the preparation of national emergency health and medical plans, and the development of preparedness programs to achieve a state of health services necessary to meet all conditions of a national emergency. The estimate for 1968 provides for a continuing program of the development of plans and operational capability of civilian health manpower as well as utilization and distribution of other health resources including: the placement of federally furnished medical supplies and equipment in community hospitals; development and initiation of disaster management services at all levels of government; and providing assistance to States and communities in disaster situations.

3. Emergency welfare services.—The goal of this activity is to provide minimum essential welfare aid in time of disaster. State and local competency will be utilized and supplemented in order to keep people alive, reunite families, and provide emergency financial assistance where required.

4. Staff support for the Secretary.—This activity supports the staff necessary to the provision of Emergency health and welfare activities.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 201. None of the funds appropriated by this title to the Welfare Administration for grants-in-aid of State agencies to cover, in whole or in part, the cost of operation of said agencies, including the salaries and expenses of officers and employees of said agencies, shall be withheld from the said agencies of any States which have established by legislative enactment and have in operation a merit system and classification and compensation plan covering the selection, tenure in office, and compensation of their employees, because of any disapproval of their personnel or the manner of their selection by the agencies of the said States, or the rates of pay of said officers or employees.

SEC. 202. The Secretary is authorized to make such transfers of motor vehicles, between bureaus and offices, without transfer of funds, as may be required in carrying out the operations of the Department.

SEC. 203. None of the funds provided herein shall be used to pay any recipient of a grant for the conduct of a research project an amount equal to as much as the entire cost of such project.

SEC. 204. Appropriations to the Public Health Service available for research grants pursuant to the Public Health Service Act shall also be available, on the same terms and conditions as apply to non-Federal institutions, for research grants to hospitals of the Service, the Bureau of Prisons, Department of Justice, and to Saint Elizabeths Hospital.

SEC. 205. None of the funds contained in this Act shall be used for any activity the purpose of which is to require any recipient of any project grant for research, training, or demonstration made by any officer or employee of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to pay to the United States any portion of any interest or other income earned on payments of such grant made before July 1, 1964; nor shall any of the funds contained in this Act be used for any activity the purpose of which is to require payment to the United States of any portion of any interest or other income earned on payments made before July 1, 1964, to the American Printing House for the Blind.

Grants to local public bodies and agencies to assist in financing multipurpose neighborhood facilities are authorized by section 703 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 3103). To be eligible for Federal financial assistance, projects must be necessary for carrying out a program of health, recreational, social, or similar community services; be designed for multipurpose use providing a wide range of services and activities needed in the neighborhood; be consistent with comprehensive planning for the development of the community; and be conveniently located for use by a significant portion of the low or moderate income residents of the area. Priority is given to neighborhood centers designed primarily to benefit members of low income families or otherwise substantially further the objectives of a community action program approved under title II of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. Federal assistance may not exceed two-thirds of project development cost, except for projects located in redevelopment areas designated under the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965, where three-fourths grants are authorized.

This new account finances the administration of activities supervised by the Assistant Secretary for Renewal and Housing Assistance. In addition to the expenses directly chargeable to renewal and housing assistance programs, certain overall expenses of the Department which are attributed to these programs are also included within this appropriation.

Funds provided will be used for administering the Urban renewal program (except for Urban renewal demonstrations), the Rehabilitation loan program, the Neighborhood facilities grant program, the Low-rent public housing program, the Alaska housing program, and certain expenses involved in the overall direction of the College housing loan program and the program of loans for the elderly and handicapped. Direct expenses of these latter two programs are financed from receipts to the respective funds. Description of these programs are included for each account under the head, “Renewal and Housing Assistance.” In addition, this appropriation finances the administration of certain activities under the Open space land programs in the Metropolitan development section which have been delegated to the Assistant Secretary for Renewal and Housing Assistance.

Public enterprise funds:

URBAN RENEWAL

Federal assistance to local governments for rehabilitation or acquisition and clearance and redevelopment of slums and blighted areas is authorized by title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended. Federal grants may defray two-thirds of the net project cost, except in cities with a population of less than 50,000 (or 150,000 if located in a redevelopment area designated by the Economic Development Administration) where the Federal share is three-fourths for projects approved after June 30, 1961.

The authorization to make contracts for urban renewal grants now totals $6,125 million and will increase by $750 million on July 1, 1967, and by another $750 million on July 1, 1968. In addition, $250 million has been made available in 1968 by the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 for projects to be included within an approved model city program. Temporary project financing and long-term financing of land disposed under lease agreements through direct or guaranteed loans are provided from a Treasury borrowing authorization of $1 billion.

Before Federal assistance is extended, a community is required to develop a workable program for community improvement which is a community-wide plan of action to eliminate and prevent slums and blight and to foster local development by utilizing local public and private resources. Acceptable programs are certified for one year by the Secretary or his designee. Annual recertification, based on demonstrated satisfactory progress, is required for continued eligibility for additional Federal assistance. The budget is based on the following volume of workable program activity:

URBAN RENEWAL PROGRAMS

For administrative expenses for urban renewal programs not exceeding commitments heretofore made or provided for in appropriation acts, including programs authorized by title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1450 et seq.), and sections 314 and 701 of the Housing Act of 1954, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1452a; 40 U.S.C. 461), $15,000,000: Provided, That the limitation on funds for rehabilitation grants contained in the second proviso under the head “Urban renewal administration”, in the Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1966, is increased by $9,000,000 for the current fiscal year.]

For grants for urban renewal, [fiscal year 1968, as an additional amount] as additional amounts for urban renewal programs, as authorized by title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1450 et seq.), and section 314 of the Housing Act of 1954, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1452a), [$750,000,000,] to remain available until expended, $250,000,000 for the fiscal year 1968 for projects within approved city demonstration programs pursuant to section 113 of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 1260-1261), and $750,000,000 for the fiscal year 1969: Provided, That no commitments shall be entered into during the fiscal [year 1968] years 1968 or 1969 for grants aggregating more than the total amounts available in [that year] those years from the amounts previously authorized for making such commitments [through June 30, 1967,] plus the additional amount appropriated herein for each such fiscal year. (Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967; Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1967.)

Note.—Excludes $15,395,000 for activities transferred in the estimates to the following appropriations:
 "Salaries and expenses, Renewal and housing assistance."
 "Salaries and expenses, Metropolitan development."
 "Salaries and expenses, Demonstrations and intergovernmental relations."
 "General administration."
 "Regional management and services."
 The amounts obligated in 1966 and 1967 are shown in the schedule as comparative transfers.

an additional $250 million for projects and activities to be included within approved model city programs. To assure program continuity, an advance appropriation of $750 million for 1969 is proposed to cover contract authority already enacted. An administrative reservation of contract authority for grants (grant reservation) is made at an early stage in the development of a project. This enables communities to proceed with the substantial planning activities required and assures the availability of grant assistance when ultimately needed.

1. Projects.—Urban renewal projects are usually approved for grant reservation at the beginning of the planning period. General neighborhood renewal plans cover areas larger or more complex than can be included in a single project and are assigned a grant reservation at the time overall plans are approved in an amount sufficient to finance the first project developed from the plan.

A loan and grant contract is drawn between the community and the Department when a project is ready for execution. This contract sets forth the community's responsibility for carrying out the project in accordance with the general plan, provides for Federal grant payments as the project progresses, and assures working capital by either direct or Federally guaranteed temporary loans.

Grants include reimbursement to communities for relocation payments made to families and businesses displaced from urban renewal areas. These payments cover moving expenses and actual direct losses of property not otherwise compensated for in maximum amounts of $200 per family and $25 thousand per business. Grants also include relocation adjustment payments to eligible families, elderly individuals and small businesses to ease the financial burden accompanying establishment in new accommodations. Maximum relocation adjustment payments are $2,500 for eligible businesses and $500 for eligible families and individuals.

2. Code enforcement.—Grants to local governments for programs of concentrated code enforcement in deteriorated or deteriorating areas may cover two-thirds of the cost of planning and carrying out such programs including the cost of public improvements necessary to arrest the decline of the area.

3. Rehabilitation.—Federal rehabilitation grants of up to $1,500 assist low income owner-occupants in urban renewal and code enforcement areas who otherwise could not afford to meet the standards required by local codes or urban renewal plans for such areas. Approximately 8,600 grants will be made in 1967 and 14,400 in 1968.

4. Model cities.—These funds will be used exclusively for urban renewal activities which are scheduled to be carried out as part of model city programs under the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966.

5. All other.—This includes grants for demonstration projects to develop and test new or improved urban renewal methods, community renewal programs for the analysis of renewal needs on a citywide basis, and special projects to aid in the reconstruction and redevelopment made necessary by the Alaska earthquake of March 1964.

There are also grants to communities to assist in financing the cost of demolishing structures which have been determined to be structurally unsound or unfit for human habitation under State or local law. These grants may not exceed two-thirds of the net cost of demolition under a program developed and executed by a municipality or county. Also included are costs to the fund for advances that are determined to be uncollectable when approved planning activities fail to develop adequate urban renewal projects.

Budget program.—Treasury borrowing authority of $1 billion is available to assist in financing the planning and execution of urban renewal projects with the following types of commitments:

1. Planning advances.—Advances provide for costs directly associated with project planning. They are repayable with interest from funds made available to the project during execution.

2. Temporary loans.—Short-term direct Federal loans provide initial financing for projects under contract. Thereafter, working capital is generally provided by borrowing from the private market secured by pledge of the Federal loan commitment. Temporary loans are repaid from proceeds of land sales and from local and Federal cash grants.

3. Definitive loans.—Definitive loans permit the disposition of project land through long-term leases in lieu of sale at the option of the community. In such cases, commitments are issued to secure private financing for the net value of redeveloped land. No loans of this type are anticipated in 1967 or 1968.

Loan commitments cover total expenditures by the local public agency in carrying out a project. Both the statute and experience recognize that only a minor portion of the Federal loan commitment will be outstanding at any one time as direct Federal loans. Demand on Federal funds will not equal or even approach commitments made because: (a) project expenditures take place over several years; (b) early borrowings are progressively retired with funds provided from local and Federal grants and from the sale of land; and (c) private financing (guaranteed with a pledge of the Federal loan commitment) is relied upon as the major source of funds for temporary loans and definitive loans. Cumulative loan commitments will be $6,786 million by the end of 1968, but this amount will be reduced by $2,733 million in repayments and commitment waivers to produce a net outstanding commitment of $4,053 million. The maximum Federal exposure (i.e., maximum demand for Federal loans at any one time) is estimated at $802 million on June 30, 1968. This exposure is estimated at 18% of temporary loan commitments and 75% of planning advance commitments.

The status of loan commitments outstanding at the end of each of the years covered by the budget follows (in thousands of dollars):

Unutilized balance of commitments	1,383,271	1,442,748	1,516,912

Financing.—Borrowing authority previously committed is replenished by means of: (a) repayment of planning advances; (b) cancellation of temporary loan commitments; and (c) the repayment of direct Federal or guaranteed non-Federal loans from project settlement funds, including proceeds from the sale of land and Federal and local grants. Repayments of Federal temporary loans from the proceeds of non-Federal guaranteed loans which are estimated to total $256 million in 1968 are reflected in the program and financing statement.

Operating results.—The use of grant appropriations is authorized to repay Treasury borrowing otherwise unrecoverable due to losses on planning advances and interest for terminated projects. The deficit resulting from capital grant payments and from uncollectable planning advances for terminated projects has been offset by the appropriation of funds for such purpose as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Section 312 of the Housing Act of 1964, as amended, authorizes 20-year loans at 3% interest to owners or tenants of property in an urban renewal area or an area covered by a program of concentrated code enforcement. The program finances rehabilitation required to make the property conform to code standards or the standards of the urban renewal plan as applicable. A direct loan may be made only when financing cannot be obtained on comparable terms and conditions from non-Federal sources. Maximum loan amounts generally are $10 thousand for each residential unit and $50 thousand for business properties.

Budget program.—Specialists on the staff of each local public agency engaged in a rehabilitation program handle the initial contacts with potential applicants. Applications are then submitted to regional offices of the Department for processing and approval. FHA insuring offices furnish appropriate technical services. The Federal National Mortgage Association arranges and supervises loan servicing by private institutions. Loan approvals are estimated at $15 million during 1967 and $30 million in 1968. Loan disbursements are estimated at $10.2 million and $23.1 million, respectively.

Operating results.—Operating losses for the current and budget years are estimated to be $2,364 thousand and $1,912 thousand, respectively, and are attributable principally to administrative expenses in 1967 and to the reserve for losses in 1968.

The U.S. Housing Act of 1937, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1401 et seq.), established a low-rent public housing program to assist in providing safe and sanitary dwellings within the financial reach of families of low income. Such housing is locally owned and operated by local housing authorities created under State law. Federal loans and annual contributions are made to local housing authorities to assist them in financing the construction of low-rent housing and in maintaining the low-rent character of such housing after completion.

The most recent amendments of the Housing Act of 1937 were made in the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (Public Law 89-117), approved August 10, 1965. Among other things, this act increased the authorization for annual contributions contracts by $47 million upon enactment and by an additional $47 million on July 1 in each of the years 1966, 1967, and 1968, respectively, in order to provide for an average of 60,000 additional dwellings annually over the 4-year period.

million anticipated in 1967 (reflected above), are attributable largely to (1) an increased number of dwellings eligible for annual contributions resulting from the completion and permanent financing of new developments, (2) the increased contributions authorized with respect to dwellings occupied by elderly families and persons and by handicapped individuals, (3) the additional subsidy authorized in the Housing Act of 1964 for families (including single persons) displaced by urban renewal or low-rent housing projects, and to the additional costs of relocating families and persons displaced by public housing, and (4) the increased requirements resulting from financing the cost of modernization of existing structures and dwellings.

The 1965 Housing Act increased the existing limit on the aggregate amount of contracts for annual contributions which may be entered into by $47 million on the date of enactment and by an additional $47 million on July 1, 1966, 1967, and 1968. As of June 30, 1966, the authorization was $413.2 million per annum. With respect to contracts executed as of June 30, 1966, the maximum amount of annual contributions committed is $383.7 million. The uncommitted authority at the end of each of the three budget years will be used to make annual contributions contracts in the subsequent year. Uncommitted authority and savings from committed authority can be used to make special payments for the elderly, handicapped, and displacees which in the aggregate are estimated at $6 million in 1967 and $6.4 million in 1968 and which will continue to increase with the increase in the number of dwellings occupied by such families and persons.

Administrative expenses.—The administrative expenses for the low-rent public housing program are financed by appropriations. In 1966 and 1967, these were separate appropriations. In 1968, administrative expenses for the low-rent program will be included primarily in the appropriation for "Salaries and expenses, Renewal and Housing Assistance."

Other expenses.—Program receipts are used to meet certain expenses of the low-rent public housing program. The use of these funds correspondingly reduces the requirements for appropriated administrative funds. In 1966 and 1967, the Congress applied a limitation to expenses for the operation and maintenance of federally owned, directly operated projects, and to expenses for technical services provided during construction of low-rent housing. In 1968, it is proposed to eliminate the limitation on the use of these funds.

Enabling legislation, which was enacted in the State of Oklahoma in 1965, permits the organization of local housing authorities and their participation in the low-rent housing program. One development containing 354 dwellings which was federally owned and operated on June 30, 1965, was conditionally conveyed to the Housing Authority of Oklahoma City, Okla., for low-rent use on April 1, 1966. As of June 30, 1966, one federally owned, directly operated development located at Enid, Okla., containing 80 dwellings, remained in the program.

Estimated program receipts and expenses for 1967 and 1968 are based upon the continued Federal operation of this development throughout both years.

Technical services are provided during the development stage by construction representatives who insure such development will be in accordance with specified and acceptable standards. The local housing authorities are charged a fixed fee which pays for the cost of the service. The estimate for 1968 is based upon the number of developments under construction.

Financing.—Loans are made to local housing authorities to finance the early costs of project development. These loans are made with certain available working funds and, when necessary, with funds borrowed from the Treasury for this purpose. Under the Housing Act of 1949, borrowings outstanding at any one time from the Treasury may not exceed $1.5 billion. There were no outstanding borrowings at the end of fiscal year 1966, and no outstanding borrowings are anticipated at June 30, 1967, and June 30, 1968.

When the Federal development loans to a local housing authority accumulate to an amount which is attractive to private investors, the local housing authority sells short-term temporary notes to the public and utilizes the proceeds to repay the Federal loans and to meet current needs for additional working capital. These notes are secured by the Federal Government's pledge to make development loans, if necessary, covering up to 90% of the development cost of the project. This arrangement has established an excellent security rating for the notes, which sold at an average interest rate of 2.786% in 1966.

In 1966, direct Federal loans were refunded through secured loans by private investors in the amount of $119.8 million. This refunding is estimated at $131.7 million in 1967 and $153.9 million in 1968. The temporary notes sold to private investors are issued for short periods, an average of 5 months, and may be reissued several times, and in increasing amounts, before the project is permanently financed. As a result, a considerable turnover of short-term notes takes place and the volume of loan activity managed by the program during any fiscal year greatly exceeds the amount of loans outstanding at the end of that fiscal year.

The following table shows the actual financing and re-financing of development and other loans during 1966 and estimated transactions during 1967 and 1968 (in millions of dollars):

Loans by Housing Assistance Administration:	1966 actual	1967 estimate	1968 estimate

Loans repaid during year.....	1,594	1,661	1,828
Balance at end of year.....	934	972	1,032

Normally, project development costs are permanently financed toward the end of the construction period through the sale of long-term bonds to the public. These are usually 40-year serial bonds and are secured by the Federal Government's pledge to pay annual contributions. In 1966, they sold at an average interest rate of 3.499%. As of June 30, 1966, there were approximately 729,854 dwellings potentially eligible for permanent financing. Of these, 584,965 dwellings had been permanently financed, leaving a potential permanent financing workload of 144,889 dwellings. The estimates for permanent financing based on program status as of June 30, 1966, are shown below:

Dwellings financed.....	27,790	41,539	45,691
Permanent financing.....	$437,224,595	$658,565,000	$735,550,000
Average per dwelling.....	$14,552	$15,854	$16,098

The amount of permanent financing includes development cost of $31.7 million for projects refinanced in 1966 and $1.1 million for additional development funds required for one project previously permanently financed, for which the number of dwellings are not shown.

Operating results.—Net costs, in the budget year, are approximately equal to the appropriation for annual contributions payments. The magnitude of such costs and appropriations used on a cumulative basis are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Direct long-term low interest loans to assist in financing new construction and rehabilitation or conversion of existing housing and related facilities for rental by the elderly or the handicapped are authorized by the Housing Act of 1959, as amended (12 U.S.C. 1701q et seq.). Loans may be made only to private nonprofit corporations, consumer cooperatives, and those public agencies not receiving Federal financial assistance exclusively for public housing. The program is designed to provide housing for those lower middle income elderly or handicapped persons and families whose incomes are too high for public housing, but not sufficient to meet the cost of private rental housing and to assist them to live more independently.

Loans may be made for the total development cost and may extend for a period of 50 years. Interest rates are based on a statutory formula and are limited to the lower of either 3% or 0.25% above the average rate on all interest-bearing obligations forming part of the Federal debt. The 1967 rate is 3%.

Budget program.—Net loan reservations are estimated at $85 million in 1967 and 1968, respectively. Principal workload items are as follows:

Financing.—The program is financed by a revolving fund supported by direct appropriations. Appropriations of $500 million have been authorized of which $405 million have been appropriated. An appropriation of $80 million is requested for 1968. In addition, there are expected to be $100 million in sales of certificates of participations in pools of mortgages from this program as authorized by Public Law 89-429, Participations Sales Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 164). The difference between the interest rate on the participation certificates and that on the mortgages in the pools is estimated to require $1,245,000 from the permanent, indefinite appropriation established by the 1967 Independent Offices Appropriation Act. The following table shows the relationship of this program to available funds (in thousands):

Operating results.—Estimated retained earnings at the close of the budget year are $11.5 million and in addition the cumulative allowance for losses is $2.9 million. This favorable position is largely because the program has been financed by appropriations rather than by borrowings.

Direct long-term loans to higher educational institutions to assist them to provide housing and related facilities for students and faculty and to hospitals to assist them to provide housing facilities for student nurses and interns are authorized by the Housing Act of 1950, as amended (12 U.S.C. 1749). Loans may be made for a period of 50 years. The program is funded from a Treasury borrowing authorization of $3.175 billion which will increase by $300 million in 1968 under current statute. The 1967 increase was rescinded because of the sale of certificates of participation in pools of college housing bonds as provided in Public Law 89-429, Participations Sales Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 164). Such sales are estimated at $600 million in 1967 and $1.6 billion in 1968. The interest rate on loans is based on a statutory formula and is limited to the lower of either 3% or 0.25% above the average rate on all interest-bearing obligations forming part of the Federal debt. The 1967 rate is 3%.

The difference between the interest rate on the participation certificates and that on the bonds underlying the certificates is estimated to require $38,280,000 from the indefinite appropriation established by the 1967 Independent Offices Appropriation Act in order to pay the interest on the certificates becoming due in 1968.

Budget program.—Net loan reservations are estimated at $300 million in 1967. The 1968 program is discussed in the proposal for separate transmittal. The relationship of net reservations issued to available funds under both present and proposed legislation is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Unreserved balance, end of year....	203,225	534,275	2,145,405

Financing.—Loan disbursements are estimated at $375 million in the current year and $330 million in the budget year. Purchase of bonds ordinarily occurs when construction is well advanced.

Operating results and financial condition.—A loss of $43,284 thousand is expected to result in 1968 primarily from the $5,265 thousand estimated sales commission associated with the sale of participation certificates and the $38,820 thousand payment of interest insufficiencies on outstanding certificates. The restoration of the latter portion of the loss from the indefinite appropriation will result in retained earnings of $3.7 million at the end of 1968.

Under proposed legislation, 1968.—Legislation is proposed to provide an interest rate for college housing loans that will help assure that the loans are made to colleges which are unable to borrow on the private market at reasonable interest rates. The program in 1968 will be carried out under this new interest rate. Loan reservations of $300 million are expected, financed from balances of borrowing authority available from the existing college housing loan program.

Grants are provided to supplement State and local funds for the purpose of financing comprehensive urban planning and helping communities solve planning problems resulting from changes in the urban economy and population. Cities under 50,000, counties, metropolitan areas, States, Indian reservations as well as metropolitan organizations of public officials are eligible to receive assistance, which generally amounts to two-thirds of the total cost of an urban planning project. Grants may be as much as three-fourths of project costs for localities in redevelopment areas so designated by the Department of Commerce and for cities with substantial unemployment.

The program encourages and assists comprehensive planning for entire urban areas having common or related urban development problems. The planning work accomplished under the program embraces all the basic factors essential to sound urban growth. These include, but are not limited to, comprehensive land use planning to guide residential, commercial, and industrial expansion, and planning the general location of transportation and other facilities, such as schools, utilities, and recreational facilities. Grant recipients are required to coordinate their planning work with other jurisdictions and with related programs of the Federal Government.

Net planning grant approvals in 1968 are estimated at $47.5 million.

Up to 5 percent of the funds appropriated may be used for studies, research, and demonstration projects, for the development and improvement of techniques and methods for comprehensive planning and for the advancement of the purposes of the urban planning assistance program. Commitments under this authority are estimated at $2.5 million in 1968.

METROPOLITAN DEVELOPMENT INCENTIVE GRANTS

For incentive grants to encourage planned metropolitan development as authorized by title II of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 1261-1266), $30,000,000, to remain available until expended.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Undisbursed obligations, 1968, $23,000 thousand.

Section 205 of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 1261-1266) authorizes supplementary grants to State and local public bodies carrying out federally aided development projects in areas which meet certain metropolitan-wide comprehensive planning and programing requirements. This program provides additional incentives to communities to

(1) achieve more effective implementation of metropolitan planning and programing; (2) strengthen the cooperative ties between State and local governments and agencies in metropolitan areas; and (3) promote more efficient use of Federal funds.

To be eligible for incentive grants, the public bodies must demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Secretary that (1) metropolitan-wide comprehensive planning and programing are adequate for evaluating the location, financing, and scheduling of public facility and other proposed land development projects, whether or not federally assisted, which have metropolitan-wide or inter-jurisdictional significance; (2) adequate metropolitan-wide arrangements exist for coordinating local public policies and activities affecting the development of the area; and (3) public facility projects and other land development having a major impact on development of the area, whether or not federally assisted, are in fact being carried out in accord with metropolitan-wide comprehensive planning and programing.

The incentive grants supplement existing Federal assistance to projects for transportation facilities (transit, primary and secondary highways, and airports), water and sewer facilities, recreation and other open space areas, historic preservation, libraries, and hospital and medical facilities. An incentive grant may not exceed either 20% of eligible project cost or the total amount of the basic Federal grant assistance. In addition, total Federal contributions to the project may not exceed 80% of project cost.

OPEN SPACE LAND [AND URBAN BEAUTIFICATION] PROGRAMS

For grants as authorized by title VII of the Housing Act of 1961, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1500-1500e), and the provision of technical assistance to State and local public bodies (including the undertaking of studies and publication of information), $55,000,000, $125,000,000, to remain available until expended; Provided, That [not to exceed $800,000 may be used for administrative expenses and technical assistance, and] no part of [this] any appropriation in this act shall be used for administrative expenses in connection with [grants requiring payments in excess of the amount herein appropriated therefor.] commitments entered into during the current fiscal year for grants aggregating more than the total amounts available in the current year from amounts heretofore appropriated for making such commitments through June 30, 1967 plus the additional amount appropriated herein. (Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967.)

Note.—Excludes $825,000 for activities transferred in the estimates to "Salaries and Expenses, Metropolitan Development," "General Administration" and "Regional Management Services." The amounts obligated in 1966 and 1967 are shown in the schedule as comparative transfers.

The open space land programs authorized by title VII of the Housing Act of 1961 (42 U.S.C. 1500), as amended, provide matching grants to assist public bodies in taking prompt action to preserve open space land essential to proper long-range urban development, help curb urban sprawl and prevent the spread of urban blight and deterioration, and assist in preserving areas and properties of historic or architectural value.

Budget program.—Net grant approvals for open space land activities will total $127 million in fiscal 1968.

1. Acquisition and development of open space land.—Grants assist public bodies to finance acquisition or permanent interest in undeveloped or predominantly undeveloped land in urban areas useful for park, recreation, conservation, historic, or scenic purposes. Development is limited to improvements normally associated with a community or neighborhood park and to certain basic site improvements.

2. Creation of urban parks.—Financial assistance is provided to assist in the acquisition of developed land in built-up portions of urban areas to be cleared for use as permanent open space land. Such grants can be made only after it is determined that adequate open space land cannot effectively be provided through the use of existing undeveloped or predominantly undeveloped land.

3. Beautification and improvement programs.—Local urban beautification and improvement programs are eligible for Federal financial assistance if the programs represent significant and effective efforts, involving all available public and private resources, for the beautification of open space or other public land in urban areas. In addition, the local beautification program must be important to the comprehensively planned development of the locality.

4. Demonstrations, studies, and publications.—Grants are provided to pay up to 90% of the cost of activities which have special value in developing and demonstrating new and improved methods and materials for use in carrying out open space land programs. In addition, not to exceed $50,000 of the funds available per year may be used to undertake studies which will help carry out the purposes of open space programs.

5. Historic preservation.—Assistance is provided to help in the acquisition of or permanent interest in areas, sites, and structures of historic or architectural value in urban areas, and in their restoration and improvement. The project must be in accord with the comprehensively planned development of the locality.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 3102) authorizes grants to local public bodies and agencies for basic water and sewer facilities. With a limited exception, grants may not exceed 50% of project development cost. The program is designed to promote effective orderly growth and development of communities.

Projects approved for grants must contribute to improved health or living standards of people in the community to be served and be so designed that an adequate capacity will be available to serve the reasonably foreseeable growth needs of the area. In addition, the project must be consistent with a program for a unified or officially coordinated areawide water or sewer facilities system as part of the comprehensively planned development of the area.

Net grant reservations are estimated at $100 million for 1967 and $175 million for 1968.

Grants to local public bodies and agencies are authorized by the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 3104) to assist the timely acquisition of sites planned to be used in connection with the future construction of public works or facilities. A grant may not exceed reasonable interest charges on a 5-year loan incurred to finance the acquisition of land.

No grant will be made unless the public work or facility for which land is to be used is planned for construction within a 5-year period. In addition, the public work or facility must contribute to economy, efficiency, and the comprehensively planned development of the area. Repayment of the grant may be required if the land purchased is not used within 5 years for the facility planned, or if the land is used for other purposes.

Net grant approvals are estimated at $1 million for 1967 and $4 million for 1968.

This new account finances the cost of administration of activities supervised by the Assistant Secretary for Metropolitan Development, including expenses directly chargeable to metropolitan development programs and a related share of overall supporting expenses of the Department.

Funds provided will be used for administering certain activities under the open space land programs, the urban planning assistance program, the metropolitan development incentive grant program, advances for public works planning program, the urban mass transportation program, the water and sewer facilities grant program, the advance acquisition of land program, and certain expenses involved in the overall direction of the public facility loan program and liquidating programs. Direct expenses of these latter two programs are financed from receipts to the respective funds. Descriptions of all programs involved are included for each account under the head, "Metropolitan Development."

Interest-free advances to States, municipalities, local public agencies, and metropolitan areas and regions for the planning of local public works are authorized by the Housing Act of 1954 (40 U.S.C. 462), as amended. The program is intended to (1) encourage the preparation and maintenance of a current and adequate reserve of planned public works which can readily be placed under construction, and (2) promote economy and efficiency in planning and building public works.

Advances are made only if it is intended to construct the project within a reasonable period of time considering the type of project. Projects must be in conformity with applicable State, regional, and local development plans. Advances are repayable when construction commences on the planned project, except in those instances where the construction was initiated under the Public Works Acceleration Act.

Budget program.—Net advances approved are estimated at $8.5 million for 1967 and $9 million for 1968. The following table shows the relationship of this program to available funds (in thousands of dollars):

	1966 actual	1967 estimate	1968 estimate

Financing.—The program is financed by a revolving fund authorized to aggregate a maximum of $128 million.

Operating results.—The cumulative deficit at the end of 1968 is estimated at $29.2 million of which $21.1 million represents an allowance for losses on outstanding advances.

Grants and loans to public bodies to assist in the financing of urban transportation facilities and equipment and for demonstration and research projects designed to assist in meeting urban transportation needs and the improvement of urban transportation service are authorized by the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 (49 U.S.C. 1601), as amended. Applicants must show that facilities to be financed under the program are necessary for a program for a unified or officially coordinated public transportation system in the urban area, and are necessary for the sound, economic, and desirable development of the area.

Under the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, the grant authorization for appropriation will increase by $150 million in each of the years 1968 and

1969 to a cumulative total of $675 million. With the appropriations of $55 and $70 million for 1968 provided in the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967, and the Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1967, respectively, the balance of existing authority available for 1969 will be $230 million. The budget proposes an advance appropriation of $230 million for 1969.

New programs added by the 1966 amendments to the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 include grants for technical studies, grants for managerial training programs, and grants for research and training. These programs are authorized under the regular grant authorization. Ten million dollars of the grant authorization is available in each year for financing demonstration and research projects. A new systems study project also authorized by the 1966 amendments will be funded under this sublimitation.

The transportation facility loan program authorized in the Housing Act of 1961 was reactivated by the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended. Loan projects have been financed by annual appropriations.

1. Transportation facility grants.—Net grant approvals are estimated at $120 million for 1967 and $123.5 million for 1968. Grants are available for up to two-thirds of "net project cost"—that portion of total project cost which cannot reasonably be financed from revenues. The applicant's share must be in cash from sources other than Federal funds or transit revenues.

2. Demonstration and research grants.—Net grant approvals of $8.5 million are estimated for the budget year. Federal grants defray two-thirds of the net cost of projects which test and demonstrate new ideas, methods, and equipment for improving mass transportation systems and service.

3. New systems study project.—$2 million will be obligated for this study in 1967. The Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, in consultation with the Secretary of Commerce, will study and prepare a program of research, development, and demonstration of new systems of urban transportation. The findings and recommendations of the Secretary to the President will be submitted to Congress in 1968.

4. Grants for technical studies.—Grants to States and local public agencies are made for the planning, engineering, and designing of urban mass transportation projects, and for other technical studies to be included within a program for a unified or officially coordinated urban transportation system as part of the comprehensively planned development of urban areas. Net grant approvals are estimated at $3 million for 1967 and $5.5 million for 1968.

5. Managerial training programs.—Under this program, fellowships are provided for training of personnel employed in managerial, technical, and professional positions in the urban mass transportation field. Not more than 100 fellowships may be awarded in any year to persons selected by the grantee public body. Grant assistance may not exceed $12 thousand per fellowship. Financial assistance approved in 1968 is estimated at $1 million.

6. Grants for research and training.—Grants are made to public and private nonprofit institutions of higher learning to assist in establishing or carrying on comprehensive research in the problems of transportation in urban areas. In addition, grants under this program can provide for the training of persons to carry on further research or to obtain employment in private or public organizations which plan, construct, operate, or manage urban transportation systems. Net grant approvals are estimated at $1.5 million in 1968.

7. Transportation facility loans.—No loan approvals are estimated for the current and budget years.

The Housing Amendments of 1955, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1492) authorize direct, long-term loans to municipalities and other subdivisions and instrumentalities of States, and Indian tribes for financing construction of essential public facilities, and to private, nonprofit corporations for construction of water or sewer facilities in communities under 10,000. Loans are made only when credit is not otherwise available on reasonable terms and conditions.

The loan program is funded by a Treasury borrowing authorization aggregating $600 million. This authorization is adequate to finance the program through the period covered by this budget.

Communities with populations up to 50,000 are eligible for public facility loans, but the basic program extends priority to municipalities under 10,000 population for water, sewage, and gas distribution systems. Other eligible communities are those with populations up to 150,000 in redevelopment areas designated by the Secretary of Commerce and those where the National Aeronautics and Space Administration maintains research or development installations.

Public facility loans may run for as long as 40 years and must be of sound value or so secured as reasonably to assure repayment. Interest rates are based on a statutory formula holding the maximum rate to the higher of either 3% or 0.5% above the average rate on all interest-bearing obligations forming part of the Federal debt.

Budget program.—Net loan approvals are estimated at $30 million in 1967 and $50 million in 1968. Repayments and refundings applicable to loans financed by Treasury borrowings are estimated at $4.7 million in 1967 and $3.7 million in 1968. Participation certificate sales are planned at $80 million in both 1967 and 1968. The following table shows the relationship of this program to available funds (in thousands of dollars):

	1966 actual	1967 estimate	1968 estimate
Unreserved balance, start of year.....	259,077	233,631	287,751

Total available.....	263,062	317,751	370,104
Net loan approvals.....	—29,431	—30,000	—50,000
Unreserved balance, end of year...	233,631	287,751	320,104

Financing.—Budget receipts for the program total $30.4 million for 1967 and $23.6 million for 1968. The budget receipts are primarily due to proceeds from the sale of participation certificates in the amounts of $80 million in each of 1967 and 1968, partially offset by loan disbursements and other fund transactions.

Operating results.—The estimated net loss of $5.6 million in the budget year is largely attributable to the $1.6 million increase in the allowance for losses and the $2.7 million to cover interest insufficiency resulting from the spread between the rates on participation certificates and the rates on loans underlying the certificates. The $3.4 million appropriation to restore the deficiency holds the cumulative deficit at the end of 1968 to $15.4 million of which $9.4 million represents the allowance for losses.

The Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1955, established a single revolving fund for the more efficient liquidation of assets acquired under a number of housing and urban development programs as well as any other programs which might be transferred by subsequent legislation. Some $24 million in assets, with a net book value of $17 million, remained on June 30, 1966.

Out of property originally capitalized at $2.5 billion, $413 million was transferred to other agencies for further use, $786 million was transferred to local governments, and $896 million has been recovered and returned to the Treasury. ¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Undisbursed grant obligations, 1966, $0; 1967, $5,000 thousand; 1968, $267,500 thousand.

Title I of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 authorizes a program of financial assistance for planning and carrying out comprehensive city demonstration programs. The program helps cities plan, administer, and carry out coordinated physical and social programs to improve the environment and the general welfare of people living in slum and blighted areas of cities of all sizes in all parts of the country.

Federal grants are authorized to cover 80% of the cost of planning and developing city demonstration programs. This assistance may be provided only if (1) the application for such assistance has been approved by the local governing body of the city, and (2) the Secretary has determined that there exists administrative machinery through which coordination of all related planning activities of local agencies can be achieved, and there is evidence that the necessary cooperation of agencies engaged in related local planning can be obtained.

The Act also authorizes the Secretary to make grants to city demonstration agencies to pay 80% of the cost of administering approved comprehensive city demonstration programs. Such grants may not be used, however, to pay the cost of administering any project or activity for which Federal financial assistance is already provided under an existing grant-in-aid program.

Special grants will be available to supplement the assistance available under existing grant-in-aid programs. The amount of these supplemental grants can be up to 80% of the total non-Federal contributions required for all projects or activities assisted by existing Federal grant-in-aid programs which are carried out as a part of a comprehensive city demonstration program.

During each of the years 1967 and 1968, it is estimated that some 70 or more cities will qualify for planning grants. During 1968, more than 70 cities are expected to be eligible for supplemental grants amounting to $400 million in commitments, as some cities starting planning in 1968 as well as those starting in 1967 will be requesting such grants.

In addition to the amounts contained in this appropriation, a special urban renewal authorization of $250 million will be available only for additional urban renewal projects and activities which are specifically identified and scheduled to be carried out within approved comprehensive city demonstration programs. This amount will be in addition to supplemental grant funds described above and to regular urban renewal projects included in such programs.

Title IX of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 1283) authorizes the Secretary to make grants to assist States to make available information on urban needs and on assistance programs and activities, and to provide technical assistance, to small communities (those having populations of less than 100,000) with respect to the solution of urban problems.

Information activities for which assistance may be provided include the establishment of information centers to serve small communities in the assembly, correlation, and dissemination of urban physical, social, and economic development data, and information on the availability and status of Federal, State, and local programs and of other resources for the solution of urban problems.

Technical assistance services may be provided by States to any small community requesting assistance with respect to the solution of urban problems. Technical assistance services include making available trained specialists in the fields of urban renewal, mass transportation, public administration, relocation, planning, and other fields to assist communities.

Grants may be made for up to 50 percent of the cost of the activities carried out under an approved urban information and technical assistance program. However, no grant may be made for purposes concerned with the day to day operations of State or local governing bodies and agencies.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 directs the Secretary to conduct comprehensive studies, and to make available findings with respect to the problems of housing and urban development. The Housing Acts of 1948 and 1956 also authorize a program of research into housing, metropolitan growth, and urban problems.

This program includes both statistical data collection and special studies of housing and urban development for use in the preparation and administration of complex Federal programs; for program management and use in the formulation and execution of community development programs at State and local government levels; and for market guidance to homebuilders and producers of building materials. Economic intelligence is provided about current developments in the housing and mortgage markets, including regular and special reports and statistics on housing sales and rentals.

Under the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966, the research program of the Department will be expanded to accelerate the application of technological innovations to housing and urban development. The objective is to test and demonstrate innovations which promise cost reductions and more systematic ways of solving problems of housing and community development, as well as to encourage and promote the acceptance and application of new and improved techniques and methods of constructing, rehabilitating, and maintaining housing and advancing the state of urban technology.

The program for such studies and research is carried out primarily through contracts with other Federal agencies, educational institutions, nonprofit private research organizations, and private corporations.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 1456) required a study of housing and building codes, and zoning and tax policies. The study includes review of (1) State and local urban and suburban housing and building laws, standards, codes, and regulations and their impact on building costs; (2) State and local zoning and land use laws, codes, and regulations; and (3) Federal, State, and local tax policies with respect to their effect on land and property cost and on incentives to build new housing and make improvements in existing structures. The report to Congress is due before March 6, 1968.

This new account finances the cost of administration of activities supervised by the Assistant Secretary for Demonstrations and Intergovernmental Relations, including the expenses directly chargeable to these programs, and a related share of certain overall supporting expenses of the Department.

Funds provided will be used for administering urban research and demonstration programs including the programs of urban renewal demonstrations, urban planning assistance research and demonstrations, and certain open space studies, the program funds for which are included under the heads, "Renewal and Housing Assistance" and "Metropolitan Development." This appropriation also finances the administration of programs involving cooperation with State and local governments including the community development training programs and the programs of fellowships for city planning and urban studies. Economic and market analysis programs include the administration of the natural disaster study and, during the current year, studies of housing and building codes, and zoning and tax policies pursuant to the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 1456).

Funds are provided by transfer from the appropriation for comprehensive city demonstration programs for the administrative expenses of planning and carrying out the new model cities program.

In addition, this appropriation will finance in fiscal year 1968 the new metropolitan expediter program provided for in the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 1262). This activity provides for the appointment by the Secretary of an expediter at the request of a central city to provide information and assistance with respect to Federal programs conducted in the metropolitan area.

Descriptions of the other programs involved are included in the narrative statements for each account under the head, "Demonstrations and Intergovernmental Relations," and under the urban renewal program, urban planning assistance program, and open space land programs in the "Renewal and Housing Assistance" and "Metropolitan Development" sections of this chapter.

RENT SUPPLEMENT PROGRAM—Continued

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (12 U.S.C. 1701s) authorizes rent supplement payments to owners of certain private housing on behalf of qualified low-income tenants. Housing owners eligible for contracts with a maximum term of 40 years are private non-profit groups, cooperative, or limited dividend owners who provide housing financed with mortgages insured by FHA under the market interest rate mortgage insurance program for low or moderate income families, except for a limited experimental program under section 101(j) of the act. Public or private agencies may be authorized under contract agreement to provide services required in connection with the admission of tenants.

To be eligible for rent supplements, a tenant cannot have an income higher than the maximum limits that can be established for occupancy of federally aided low-rent public housing in the same area. In addition, the tenant must be either elderly, physically handicapped, displaced from his home by governmental action, living in substandard housing, or an occupant or former occupant of a dwelling damaged or destroyed by a natural disaster.

These tenants are required to pay 25% of their income for rent. Rent supplements making up the difference between this amount and full economic rent will be paid to the project owner on behalf of the tenant. As the tenant's income rises, the supplement payments will be reduced. In the budget year, rent supplement payments are estimated at $5 million which will provide for almost 100,000 payments involving about 14,000 housing units.

The maximum annual rent supplement payments which may be provided for in rent supplement contracts are limited to the aggregate amounts approved in annual appropriation acts. Annual payments up to $32 million are authorized to be approved through 1967. Approval of an additional $40 million authorization for 1968 is proposed.

Administration of the community disposition program, established by the Atomic Energy Community Act of 1955 (42 U.S.C. 2301) to dispose of federally owned properties at Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Richland, Wash.; and by amendment in 1963 (76 Stat. 664) Los Alamos, N. Mex., was transferred to FHA late in the past year.

Budget program.—Disposal activity began at Los Alamos in the past year, during which 1,144 residential properties were sold. The remainder will be sold in the current year. Other property, consisting of churches, commercial properties, and vacant land will require more time to sell; however, the majority of all properties and land tracts will be sold by the end of 1968. In the process of sales, $4.7 million in mortgages are expected to be written in the current year and $3.8 million in 1968.

Operating results.—The deficit in the fund is expected to increase from $16.7 million at the end of 1967 to $18 million at the end of 1968. This is due primarily to the discounts provided by law to purchasers of property who have statutory priority. Funds recovered and transferred to the Treasury are estimated to increase from $2.5 million in the current year to $8.5 million in the budget year.

The Federal Housing Administration, created by the National Housing Act of 1934, is a noncorporate business-type agency, which was brought under the Government Corporation Control Act by the Housing Act of 1948. The principal purposes of FHA are to improve home financing practices, to encourage improved housing standards and conditions, to further home ownership, and to stabilize the mortgage market. These objectives are achieved through the insurance of loans for financing the production, purchase, repair, and improvement of residential properties. At the end of 1966, $109.3 billion of insurance had been written, with $53 billion outstanding. During 1966 more than $9.1 billion of insurance was written, covering 608,353 units of housing and 502,649 title I property improvement loans. An estimated $6.8 billion of insurance will be written during 1967 and $7.8 billion in 1968.

FHA loan insurance is now administered through 26 different active programs. In addition, maintenance and settlement work continues under nine programs for which the authority to insure additional loans has expired. The table on the following page identifies the various programs and shows the amount of insurance written and the amount in force at the end of 1966 under the individual programs.

For financial purposes, FHA programs are grouped under three separate insurance funds and accounts established by statute. Income from fees, premiums, and investments are credited to the funds; operating expenses and other expenses and losses connected with foreclosed property and defaulted notes and mortgages are charged to the funds. Through June 30, 1966, income had amounted to $3,772 million, and expenses and losses to $2,642 million, leaving a reserve of $1,130 million for the payment of future expenses and losses. The largest insurance fund is the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund for the insurance of mortgage loans on homes under section 203. The General Insurance Fund covers the insurance of loans on property repairs and improvements; on basic and special-purpose multifamily housing, including cooperatives, condominiums, housing for the elderly, and nursing homes; on urban renewal and middle-income housing; on armed forces housing; and on war and defense housing. The Cooperative Management Housing Insurance Fund covers the insurance of management-type contracts and supplementary loans under section 213. The Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund allows mortgagors at termination of their mortgages to share in the rebate of premiums paid into the fund which are not required for expenses or losses. Through June 30, 1966, such participation payments to homeowners had amounted to $188 million with $133 million reserved for future payments or losses.

Budget program.—Budget requirements for mortgage and loan insurance operations are embodied in (1) an administrative expense limitation covering those expenses of the central office related to the general direction of operations, the establishment of policies and procedures, and the provision of housekeeping services for the entire agency, and (2) a nonadministrative expense limitation covering the operating expenses of both the central office and the field related to the initiation of insurance, the maintenance of insurance on the books, and the settlement activities associated with the payment of claims, the acquisition, management, and disposition of mortgages and properties acquired under insurance contracts, and with the liquidation of property improvement notes. Anticipated program developments for 1968 are summarized in the table Program Highlights on the following page, along with estimates for 1967 and actual data for 1966.

The major activities of the agency are grouped under the categories of insurance initiation, insurance maintenance, insurance settlement, and financial operations.

Insurance initiation.—The principal initiation activities, which currently account for about 72% of the total expenses under the nonadministrative expense limitation, are the examining of applications for insurance, the inspecting of properties under construction, and the recording of new insurance contracts, including property

Insurance maintenance.—Maintenance activities, which currently account for about 8% of all expenses under the nonadministrative expense limitation, relate generally to the servicing of insurance on the books, such as billing mortgagees for premiums due, recording changes in mortgagees, making participation payments from the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund terminating insurance contracts, inspecting insured multifamily housing, and analyzing annual financial reports on such housing. These are cumulative workloads, increasing each year with the growth of insurance in force. At the end of 1966, insurance in force had reached $53 billion.

Insurance settlement.—Settlement activities, which currently account for approximately one-fifth of the total expenses under the nonadministrative expense limitation, include the acquisition under insurance contracts of properties, mortgages, and home improvement notes; the repair, management, and sale of acquired properties; the payment of claims under insurance contracts; the servicing and sale of mortgages acquired as a part of some sales transactions; and the accounting work arising out of the other settlement activities. The total number of mortgages assigned and properties directly acquired under insurance contracts, in terms of dwelling units, is estimated to decrease from 66,399 units in 1966 to 62,150 in 1967 and increase to 63,000 in 1968. Properties and mortgages on hand are expected to decrease from 117,244 units at the end of 1966 to 116,394 at the end of 1967 and to 114,894 at the end of 1968.

Summary of operating expense estimates.—Operating expenses are paid out of operating income, subject to congressional limitation. Expenses for 1967 are estimated at $10.8 million for administrative operations and $85.0 million for nonadministrative operations. The 1968 estimate is $11.1 million for administrative expenses and $88.5 million for nonadministrative expenses.

Financing.—Through 1965, insurance claims were met largely by the issuance of debentures, which are subsequently redeemed out of income and proceeds from the sale of acquired properties and mortgages. In 1966, $298 million of debentures were issued, and $426 million were redeemed. In 1967, $168 million of debentures will be issued and $109 million redeemed. Debenture issuances will total $120 million in 1968, and debenture redemptions will total $90 million. The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 authorized FHA to pay claims in cash and to borrow from the Treasury as necessary to do so. Home mortgage claims and multifamily housing claims under sections 220, 221, and 233 are now being paid in cash. Insurance claims, payable in cash, will amount to $609 million in 1967 and $578 million in 1968. Borrowings from the Treasury are expected to total $50 million in 1967 and $90 million in 1968.

Retained earnings.—Insurance reserves, available for the payment of future expenses and losses, amounted to $1,130 million at the end of 1966 and are expected to be $1,100 million by the end of 1967 and $1,124 million by the end of 1968.

Insurance authority.—Authorizations for active insurance programs expire October 1, 1969. In general, these authorizations are without dollar limitation, except for the armed services housing program which has utilized authority as follows:

FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION

The Association, operating under the Federal National Mortgage Association Charter Act (12 U.S.C. 1716, et seq.) purchases, manages, and sells residential mortgages or loans which are insured by the Federal Housing Administration, guaranteed by the Veterans Administration, or insured by the Farmers Home Administration; makes short-term bank-type loans which are secured by those types of mortgages and loans; manages and sells certain noninsured or nonguaranteed mortgages or other obligations which have been or may be acquired from authorized sources; and sells to private investors beneficial interests, or participations, in mortgages or other types of obligations in which certain departments or agencies of the Federal Government have a financial interest. The Association's functions are carried out through three programs for which separate accountability is required by statute. These programs—secondary market operations, special assistance functions, and management and liquidating functions—are described in the following sections.

Public enterprise funds:

LOANS TO SECONDARY MARKET OPERATIONS FUND—Continued

Under its secondary market operations, FNMA provides limited liquidity for Government insured and guaranteed mortgages and improves the distribution of investment capital available for home mortgage financing. This assistance to the secondary market for mortgages is provided by the purchase and sale of mortgages that are insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the Veterans Administration, or rural housing loans that are insured by the Farmers Home Administration of the Department of Agriculture, including participations therein, that are of such quality, type, and class as meet, generally, the purchase standards imposed by private institutional mortgage investors. Purchases and sales may be made only at such prices and on such terms as will reasonably prevent excessive use of the Association's facilities and will permit the Association to operate on a fully self-supporting basis.

The Association is also authorized by the National Housing Act to make short-term loans secured by these Government insured and guaranteed mortgages and loans. Such short-term loans are intended to further home construction by providing a degree of liquidity for mortgage investments and to provide supplementary assistance to the home mortgage market.

The secondary market operations were initially capitalized by the issuance of $92.8 million of Federal National Mortgage Association preferred stock to the Secretary of the Treasury. Subsequently, additional preferred stock subscriptions by the Secretary of the Treasury were authorized, amounting to $50 million (Public Law 85-10, approved March 27, 1957), $65 million (Public Law 85-104, approved July 12, 1957) and $110 million (Public Law 89-566, approved September 10, 1966). From these additional authorizations, $66 million of preferred stock has been issued to provide the increased capital needed to support the Association's borrowings under the limitation described below. No further issuance of the stock is expected in 1967 or 1968, so that the authorized unissued stock at the end of 1968 will amount to $159 million.

The authorizing statute contemplates that the secondary market operations will ultimately be completely owned and financed by private participants. To that end, the preferred stock will be retired as rapidly as feasible. In the meantime, the Association will pay dividends on the utilized portion to the Treasury at rates not less than those determined by the Secretary of the Treasury. These estimates contemplate that no preferred stock will be retired in 1967 and 1968. Under arrangements entered into between the Secretary of the Treasury and the Association, FNMA purchases from the Secretary that portion of the Association's outstanding preferred stock which is not deemed to be required in the financing of the secondary market operations and holds such stock as FNMA Treasury stock, subject to subsequent repurchases by the Secretary as may be required for these operations. Under these arrangements, $108.8 million of preferred stock was purchased from the Secretary in 1964 and 1965 of which $91.8 million was repurchased by the Secretary in 1966.

Private capitalization for these operations is accumulated pursuant to the statutory requirement that sellers of mortgages or loans to the Association must make payments into capital as subscriptions for common stock in an amount equal to not more than 2% nor less than 1% of the unpaid principal amounts of the mortgages and loans involved, as determined from time to time by the Association, taking into consideration conditions in the mortgage market and the general economy. Borrowers from the Association are currently required to make capital contributions in an amount equal to not more than one-half of 1% of the amounts borrowed.

Recommendations for legislation to transfer ownership of the Association to private owners of the capital stock must be submitted to the Congress as promptly as practicable after all the Treasury-held preferred stock has been retired. Meanwhile, the present interim program, financed by private as well as by Government investment funds, is treated in the budget as a trust enterprise and the financial statements related thereto appear in Part II of this document.

Financing.—The Association is authorized to finance its secondary market operations in part through borrowings from the public on the security of nonguaranteed debentures and short-term discount notes. Through 1966, such obligations could not exceed the lesser of: (a) ten times the sum of the capital and surplus applicable to these operations, or (b) the sum of assets, free from any liens or encumbrances: cash, mortgages, loans, or other security holdings; obligations of the United States or guaranteed thereby; or obligations, participations, or other instruments which are lawful investments for fiduciary, trust, or public funds. Public Law 89-566 increased the first of these limits on borrowing authority to fifteen times the sum of capital and surplus. The Secretary of the Treasury, so long as any of the preferred stock is outstanding, is authorized to purchase such obligations in an amount not exceeding $2.25 billion outstanding at any one time.

Other sources of funds required to finance the secondary market operations during 1967 and 1968 will be (1) proceeds from sales of mortgages to the investing public, (2) capital contributions by program participants, (3) repayments and prepayments of mortgage or loan principal, and (4) earnings. Such interim Treasury borrowings as will be necessary during 1967 and 1968 are expected to be repaid during each of those years. FNMA Treasury stock resold to the Secretary in 1967, prior to the increase in the limit on borrowing authority, will be repurchased during that year.

Budget program.—The secondary market operations, established in 1955, are now fully recognized by the home mortgage market and have reached significant levels. FNMA's secondary market facilities continue to be used by lenders to bridge a part of the gap between their need for, and the availability of, private housing funds.

Recent changes in the mortgage and financial markets have restricted sharply the supply in both the investment field and funds available for mortgage investments. As a consequence, it is estimated that FNMA's purchasing facilities will be utilized to a greater extent in 1967 and 1968 than in any year prior to 1966. FNMA's mortgage purchases, which amounted to $1,821 million in 1966, are expected to aggregate $1,800 million in 1967 and $1,400 million in 1968. Mortgage sales, which amounted to $4 million in 1966, are estimated at $25 million in 1967 and $200 million in 1968. The excess of purchases over sales and other liquidations in 1967 and 1968 will result in net increases of portfolio during those years.

In addition to the mortgages and loans which it purchases in the regular manner, the Association has also acquired mortgages from the Federal Housing Administration in exchange at par (100) for FNMA-held FHA debentures. The volume of mortgages so acquired was $30 million in 1966. Due to FHA's current procedure, initiated in 1966, of settling claims in cash in lieu of debentures, no such exchanges are projected for 1967 or 1968.

Operating results.—Operations are reflected in budget expenditures only to the extent of Treasury financing. No net Treasury financing is estimated in either 1967 or 1968.

The Federal National Mortgage Association may, when the President determines it is in the public interest, provide special assistance for the financing of (1) selected types of home mortgages pending establishment of their marketability, and (2) home mortgages generally as a means of stabilizing home-building activities and, hence, of contributing to overall economic stability.

The Association is authorized under Presidential authority to make commitments to purchase and to purchase FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages totaling $2,418.4 million outstanding at any one time. At the end of 1966, the amount of special assistance authority for these purposes aggregated $2,914 million.

Changes in this authority in 1967 result from (1) a transfer, pursuant to Public Law 89-566, approved September 10, 1966, of $500 million from the Presidential authorization to the congressional authorization applicable to federally insured or guaranteed mortgages on low-cost housing, and (2) a transfer, pursuant to Public Law 89-117, approved August 10, 1965, of $4.4 million to the Presidential authorization from the congressional authorization applicable to mortgages insured under title VIII of the National Housing Act; the transfer of an additional $3 million to the Presidential authorization from the congressional authorization is estimated for 1968. Public Law 89-117 also provided an increase in the Presidential authorization of $100 million in 1966, $450 million in 1967, $550 million in 1968, and $525 million in 1969, but the 1967 authority was rescinded by Public Law 89-429, approved May 24, 1966.

The Congress has also authorized FNMA, without prior Presidential determination, to issue commitments to purchase and to purchase specific types of mortgages. One of these congressional programs is for $225 million of cooperative housing mortgages insured under section 213 of the National Housing Act, as amended. Another congressional program provided authority for up to $500 million of mortgages insured under title VIII of that act, covering housing for military personnel and civilian employees. Public Law 89-117 authorized the transfer from this authority to the Presidential authority of all but $58.75 million, which is reserved for mortgages on owner-occupied homes insured under section 809 of the National Housing Act. Public Law 89-566, approved September 10, 1966, authorized FNMA under its special assistance functions to purchase $1 billion of FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages on low and moderate cost single family homes. Mortgages purchased under this authority are confined by law to new construction and may not exceed $15,000 in original principal amount ($17,500 in high cost areas, and $22,500 in Alaska, Guam, and Hawaii). Funds needed to implement the program were provided by transferring $500 million from the President's authority and by $500 million in new obligational authority. An earlier congressional program for FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages of $13,500 or less, covering low- and moderate-priced housing on which construction had not commenced at the time application was made for Federal National Mortgage Association's commitment, was terminated by Public Law 87-70. Of the $1 billion authorized for this earlier program, the unused portion of $207.2 million was transferred to the Presidential authority, and the remainder is rescinded as purchased mortgages are liquidated.

Mortgage purchase prices under these functions are set by the Association; they currently range from 96 to 100.

Budget program.—Commitments to purchase mortgages are estimated to total $610 million in 1967 and $472 million in 1968. Purchases, which lag well behind commitments, are estimated to total $249.5 million and $482 million in 1967 and 1968, respectively. Commitments and purchases are primarily for low-cost housing mortgages and below-market interest rate mortgages on rental and cooperative housing for moderate-income families.

In addition, in order to assure sponsors that funds will be available for purchase of certain mortgages upon completion of the related housing projects, the FHA reserves or makes preliminary allocations of amounts not in excess of FNMA's authorization for purchases. In 1967 and 1968, it is expected that this procedure will be used for (1) below-market interest rate mortgages covering housing for moderate-income families, (2) mortgages covering housing subject to rent supplement contracts entered into under section 101 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, and (3) mortgages insured under section 221(h) of the National Housing Act which are executed by a nonprofit organization to finance the purchase and rehabilitation of deteriorating or substandard housing for subsequent resale to low-income home purchasers. The cumulative amount of authority reserved for these programs was $1,837.5 million at June 30, 1966, and is estimated at $2,090 million and $2,785 million, respectively, at June 30, 1967 and 1968. At June 30, 1966, reservations which had not been converted to FNMA commitments to purchase amounted to $1,058.2 million, and are expected to increase to $1,248.2 million in 1967 and to $1,603.2 million by 1968.

Sales from portfolio amounted to $0.8 million in 1966. No direct mortgage sales are projected for 1967, but sales of $25 million are estimated for 1968.

Participations.—Under the program of liquidating the mortgage portfolio through the sale of beneficial interests, or participations, in mortgages, the Association sold $200 million in 1965 and $475 million in 1966 of participations involving the portfolio of its special assistance functions and plans $300 million in 1967 and $250 million in 1968. This program is more fully explained under the Participation sales fund and the Participation sales trust fund.

Financing.—Net repayments to the Treasury were $314 million in 1966 and are estimated at $69 million in 1967. Net borrowings from the Treasury are estimated at $185 million in 1968.

Operating results.—Previously, earnings were retained and paid into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury following the year earned. A payment of $188.8 thousand was made in 1957, and another payment of $2,444.7 thousand was made in 1958. In order to protect the Association against losses inherent in a portfolio of this size, earnings will be retained and accumulated for so long as may be warranted. The following table shows the cumulative amounts at the end of each year covered by these estimates (in thousands of dollars):

The Association, under its management and liquidating functions, is required by law to manage and liquidate its portfolio of mortgages acquired under contracts made before November 1, 1954, and those other mortgages, loans or obligations that have been or that may be acquired from authorized sources (Public Law 89-117, approved August 10, 1965). Such liquidation is to be conducted in an orderly manner, with a minimum of adverse effect upon the home mortgage market and minimum loss to the Federal Government. Liquidation of the portfolio is accomplished through regular principal repayments according to their amortization schedules; sales of mortgages, loans, or obligations, or participations, or beneficial interests, therein, as rapidly as they can be absorbed by private investors without serious disruption of normal market conditions; and as the result of other principal credits arising from prepayments and foreclosures.

The initial mortgage purchasing phase of this activity has been completed and only the management and ultimate liquidation of the initial portfolio needs to be completed. However, certain additional mortgages, loans, and other obligations may be acquired for this portfolio from the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and residential housing mortgages may also be acquired from any Federal instrumentality from time to time pursuant to the provisions of Public Law 89-117.

Budget program.—No mortgages will be purchased under commitments made prior to November 1, 1954, for this portfolio during the period covered by these estimates. That purchasing program was completed during 1958.

In 1966, FNMA acquired under these functions $131 million of mortgages from the Federal Housing Administration in exchange for FNMA-held FHA debentures and cash during 1967 and 1968, purchases of these mortgages are estimated at $525 million and $200 million, respectively.

Mortgages in the amount of $5.7 million were sold during 1966. It is estimated that there will be no sales of mortgages in 1967, but $10 million in 1968.

Participations.—In 1966, the Association sold $130 million of beneficial interests, or participations, in mortgages of this portfolio and sales of $440 million and $355 million are estimated for 1967 and 1968. This program is more fully explained under the Participation sales fund and Participation sales trust fund.

Financing.—These functions are financed principally by Treasury borrowings and portfolio liquidations and all the benefits and burdens of the program inure solely to the Treasury. Net repayments to the Treasury were $114.8 million in 1966, and are estimated at $34 million in 1967 and $235.5 in 1968.

Operating results.—Net income amounted to $3.3 million in 1966. It is estimated that net losses of $0.8 million in 1967 and $2.4 million in 1968 will result from the inclusion of low interest rate mortgages in participation pools. These losses reflect payments of participation sales insufficiencies owed to the trustee. Retained earnings reserved for losses and contingencies at the end of 1966 amounted to $98.9 million and are estimated at $98.1 million and $95.7 million, respectively, for 1967 and 1968. Reductions in the amount of retained earnings at the end of 1962, 1963, 1964, and 1965 resulted from payments from earnings of $40 million, $25 million, $15 million, and $15 million, respectively, to the U.S. Treasury, amounts which were considered to be in excess of the Association's needs for losses and contingencies. No payment to the Treasury out of earnings is projected for 1967 and 1968.

The Federal National Mortgage Association Charter Act, as amended by the Housing Act of 1964, the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, and the Participation Sales Act of 1966, authorized the Association, under its management and liquidating functions, to create trusts or other fiduciary undertakings to facilitate the financing of mortgages owned by Federal Government agencies or other obligations owned by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Trusts were created under this authority providing for the pooling of Treasury-financed first mortgages owned by FNMA, the Veterans' Administration, and the Small Business Administration. FNMA, as trustee, sold participations in the interest and principal collections on the pooled mortgages, and distributes the interest and principal received from the pooled mortgages to the holders of the certificates of participation in accordance with the terms of those certificates.

The sales of participations in pools of mortgages and the retirement of participation certificates are summarized in the following table (in thousands of dollars):

The Participation Sales Act of 1966 revised the fiduciary authority of FNMA with respect to sales of participations in pools of loans. Transactions of FNMA as trustee under this revised authority are shown under the Participation sales trust fund in part II of this document.

【PAYMENT OF PARTICIPATION SALES INSUFFICIENCIES】

【To enable any department or agency named in paragraph (2) of section 302(c) of the Federal National Mortgage Association Charter Act, as added by Public Law 89-429, to pay the Federal National Mortgage Association, as trustee, such insufficiencies as may be required by the trustee on account of such outstanding beneficial interests or participations as may be authorized by this Act to be issued pursuant to said section 302(c), such sums as may be necessary, to be available without fiscal year limitation.】

PARTICIPATION SALES AUTHORIZATIONS

The Federal National Mortgage Association, as trustee, is hereby authorized to issue beneficial interests or participations in such obligations as may be placed in trust with such Association in accordance with section 302(c) of the Federal National Mortgage Association Charter Act, as amended, for the account of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (including the Federal National Mortgage Association) in an aggregate principal amount not to exceed $2,385,000,000, in addition to amounts heretofore authorized: Provided, That the foregoing authorization shall remain available until June 30, 1969.

PAYMENT OF PARTICIPATION SALES INSUFFICIENCIES

For the payment of such insufficiencies as may be required by the trustee on account of outstanding beneficial interests or participations

authorized by this Act to be issued pursuant to section 302(c) of the Federal National Mortgage Association Charter Act, as amended, such sums as may be necessary, to remain available without fiscal year limitation. (Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967.)

The Housing Act of 1964, as amended by the Participation Sales Act of 1966, authorized the pooling of mortgages or other types of obligations of certain Government departments or agencies and the sale by the Federal National Mortgage Association, as trustee, of beneficial interests, or participations, in such pools. The Participation Sales Act of 1966 provided that the aggregate amount of participations issued for the account of any trustor may not exceed the amount authorized for that trustor in an appropriation act. The Independent Offices Appropriation Act of 1967 authorized sales of $1,420 million for the Department of Housing and Urban Development. In 1968, an additional authorization of $2,385 million is requested.

The Participation Sales Act of 1966 also authorized the establishment of indefinite appropriations, and the Independent Offices Appropriation Act of 1967 established such indefinite appropriations, to cover payment for insufficiencies in the amounts required to be paid by the trustors on account of outstanding participations. These insufficiencies are comprised of the excess of interest payments to holders of participation certificates over the interest payments received from the pooled mortgages or other obligations, after allowance for administrative and other costs and investment income of the trust.

Provision for an indefinite appropriation is required in connection with participation sales proposed for 1968.

Sales of participations, and use of the indefinite appropriation, are reflected in the following trustor accounts: Housing for the elderly or handicapped fund; College housing; Public facility loans; and Federal National Mortgage Association, Special assistance functions and Management and liquidating functions funds.

All funds available to the Secretary for operating and staff expenses may be consolidated into a single operating expense fund as authorized by 12 U.S.C. 1701(c)(3). Except for funds used to administer the Federal Housing Administration and the Federal National Mortgage Association, all Departmental operating funds have been consolidated into this fund in order to facilitate the financing of complex operations which, for the most part, are supported by two or more appropriations. All administrative funds provided under the heads, Renewal and housing assistance, Metropolitan development, Demonstrations and intergovernmental relations, and Departmental management and payments from Mortgage credit for departmental expenses are paid into this fund and are administered as one account. Funds provided for services performed for other agencies, such as the Agency for International Development are also paid into and administered from this fund.

Pursuant to section 7 of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act (Public Law 89-174, approved Sept. 9, 1965), the Secretary is authorized to establish a working capital fund. This fund is authorized to finance on a reimbursable basis various centralized services of the Department. Those proposed to be financed on this basis for 1968 include printing and reproduction services, central supply services, communication services, and graphic services. Other authorized services may be included later.

Budget program.—Operating costs for the services are expected to continue at about the same level as currently financed by customers' appropriations and funds. Capital outlay includes $227 thousand to reimburse the Federal Housing Administration ($222 thousand) and the Federal National Mortgage Association ($5 thousand) for transfer of fixed assets. The remaining $67 thousand is for replacement and additional equipment to meet operating needs.

Financing.—The proposed appropriation of $1,500 thousand for capital of the fund will be used for capital outlay of $294 thousand in 1968, to fund accrued annual

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

PUBLIC LAND MANAGEMENT

BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT

The Bureau of Land Management is responsible for the conservation, management and development of some 457 million acres of the Nation's public lands. This includes some 282 million acres of federally owned lands, located in Alaska.

In addition, the Bureau administers mining and mineral leasing on other federally owned lands, on former Federal lands where minerals have been reserved in public ownership, and on the submerged lands of the Outer Continental Shelf.

The work of the Bureau produces revenue from various sources which is distributed as follows (in millions of dollars):

1. Realty and mineral leasing service—(a) Title, lease, and records service.—Provides realty, mineral leasing, and records services necessary to (1) complete realty transactions essential to support departmental programs, (2) support the land classification effort, (3) meet obligations to the public under the existing public land laws, and (4) conduct the program of mineral leasing for onshore lands and the Outer Continental Shelf which will generate estimated receipts of $564 million in 1968.

(b) Records improvement.—Land records will be completed in Oregon, construction initiated in Idaho, and preliminary work started in California.

2. Resource management, conservation, and protection—(a) Land classification and mineral examination.—This subactivity emphasizes (1) continued land classification for multiple-use management or disposal, (2) preliminary recreation planning to meet rapidly increasing recreational use, (3) field examination to process land tenure adjustments, mining claim investigations and mineral trespasses, and (4) oil shale validity determinations.

(b) Range management.—Major efforts are directed toward better utility of the watershed lands available for grazing by livestock and wildlife. Also studies of key wildlife areas will be made.

(c) Forestry.—Modern forest management provides an even flow of timber to help meet local market demands. Reforestation is done to maintain the inventoried production base and stand improvement is done to create better quality yields faster. In 1968, sale offerings are estimated at 1.5 billion board feet of timber with anticipated receipts of $51.4 million.

MANAGEMENT OF LANDS AND RESOURCES—continued

(d) Soil and watershed conservation.—Public lands in critical condition from erosion are rehabilitated and restored to productivity. The 1968 program stresses investments to improve water quantity and quality and to reduce erosion damage.

(e) Fire protection.—Included is contract and force account protection of resource assets, capital improvements, and term investments from the increasing risk of fire loss. In 1968, emphasis will continue on fire preparedness, and fire zone planning, adequate training of fire-fighters and education of the public on fire prevention measures.

3. Cadastral surveys—(a) Alaska.—Surveys assist the State to select lands permitted under the Alaska Statehood Act. In 1968, added emphasis will be given to keeping townsite and small tract surveys current. Advanced survey techniques will be utilized.

(b) Other States.—Positive land location is a prerequisite to any capital investment or management effort. It also assists other Federal agencies and aids in trespass abatement. Required original survey on the 180 million acres of unsurveyed land and resurvey to locate obliterated and destroyed corners will receive major program emphasis.

4. Firefighting and rehabilitation.—Fires on or threatening timber and watershed lands under Bureau jurisdiction are suppressed. Rehabilitation of burned over areas is accomplished to restore the resources and preserve the soil. A supplemental appropriation for 1967 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

5. General administration.—Provides executive direction and administrative services, such as financial management, personnel management, management analysis, procurement, and property management to support Bureau activities.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $536 thousand; 1966, $583 thousand; 1967, $583 thousand; 1968, $583 thousand.

1. Expenses, sale of timber, etc., on reclamation lands.—A portion of the receipts from timber sales on public lands set aside for reclamation purposes is used to cover the cost of sales (41 Stat. 202; 53 Stat. 1196).

2. Leasing of grazing lands.—State, county, and privately owned grazing lands that are intermingled with public grazing lands are managed on a leased basis within the limits of receipts from such arrangements (43 U.S.C. 315m).

3. Payments to Oklahoma (royalties).—The State of Oklahoma is paid 37½% of the Red River oil and gas royalties in lieu of State and local taxes on Kiowa, Comanche, and Apache tribal funds to be used for construction and maintenance of public roads and support of public schools (44 Stat. 740).

4. Payments to Coos and Douglas Counties, Oreg., from receipts, Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands.—Out of receipts from the Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands in Oregon, payments in lieu of taxes are made to Coos and Douglas Counties for schools, roads, highways, bridges, and port districts (53 Stat. 753-754).

5. Payments to counties, Oregon and California grant lands.—Fifty percent of the receipts of Oregon and California land-grant funds is paid the counties in which the lands are situated, to be used as other county funds (39 Stat. 218; 50 Stat. 876).

6. Payments to States (grazing fees).—The States are paid 33⅓% of the fees from each grazing district on Indian lands ceded to the United States within the State's boundaries (43 U.S.C. 315j).

7. Payments to States (proceeds of sales).—The States are paid 5% of the net proceeds from sale of public land and public land products (31 U.S.C. 711).

8. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands outside grazing districts.—The States are paid 50% of the grazing fee receipts from public domain lands outside grazing districts (43 U.S.C. 315i, 315m).

9. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands within grazing districts.—The States are paid 12½% of grazing fee receipts from grazing district lands within their boundaries (43 U.S.C. 315b, 315i).

10. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands within grazing districts, miscellaneous.—The States are paid specifically determined amounts from grazing fee receipts from miscellaneous lands within grazing districts when payment is not feasible on a percentage basis (43 U.S.C. 315).

11. Payments to States from receipts under Mineral Leasing Act.—Alaska is paid 90% and other States 37½% of the receipts from bonuses, royalties, and rentals resulting from development of mineral resources under the Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 191), and from leases of potash deposits (30 U.S.C. 285), on public lands.

12. Payments to counties, national grasslands.—Of the revenues received from the use of submarginal lands, 25% is paid to the counties in which such land is situated, for school and road purposes (7 U.S.C. 1012).

13. Expenses, Public Land Administration Act.—Public Law 86-649, approved July 14, 1960, permanently appropriated certain moneys to the Secretary of the Interior. Timber purchasers or permittees provide bond or deposit to assure fulfillment of contracts. Users of roads under jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management may make deposits for maintenance purposes. Moneys received in forfeiture of such bonds or for road maintenance are available for necessary forest improvement, protection, and rehabilitation and for road maintenance. Moneys collected on Oregon and California grant lands are available for those lands only and amounts in excess of the cost of doing the work are transferred to miscellaneous receipts (74 Stat. 507-508).

This program promotes the economic advancement of the Indians through the utilization of their resources.

1. Forest and range lands.—This activity covers management, protection, and utilization of the forest, range, and wildlife resources on nearly 50 million acres of Indian-owned lands.

Million board-feet.....	848	850	925
Dollar value.....	14,292,690	14,300,000	15,400,000

2. Fire suppression.—Funds under this item provide for the payment of the cost of suppression and prevention of fires on or threatening Indian reservations. Approximately 60 million acres require protection. A supplemental appropriation for 1967 is anticipated.

3. Agricultural and industrial assistance.—Funds under this activity provide for improved methods in farming, homemaking, the management of a revolving loan credit program for small business enterprises, supervision of self-help housing construction, and formulation of plans and programs for the economic development of the Indian people.

4. Soil and moisture conservation.—Land-use practices based on land inventories and soil conservation plans are introduced to control erosion and promote more effective utilization of soil and water resources.

5. Maintenance of roads.—The Bureau of Indian Affairs road system which requires maintenance includes 18,138 miles of roads and trails on Indian reservations.

6. Development of Indian arts and crafts.—Production and marketing of the products of Indian crafts are fostered through formation of production groups; establishing of standards; and improving of markets, design, and production methods.

7. Management of Indian trust property.—Banking services are provided for Indians; land is purchased, sold, exchanged, and leased; and Indian property and money rights are safeguarded. Consolidation or disposal of fractionated land holdings, especially in those areas affected by readjustment legislation, is to be accomplished.

8. Repair and maintenance of buildings and utilities.—Federal buildings and their related utility and communication systems are maintained.

The programs of the Bureau are administered from two organizational levels—the Washington office and the area offices. This program provides for carrying out administrative functions which support Bureau program activities. These functions include executive direction, budgeting, accounting, property management, personnel management, and management planning.

The administration of common service activities is partially financed on a benefit basis from other Bureau activities.

TRIBAL FUNDS

(Trust fund)

In addition to the tribal funds authorized to be expended by existing law, there is hereby appropriated $3,000,000 from tribal funds not otherwise available for expenditure for the benefit of Indians and Indian tribes, including pay and travel expenses of employees; care, tuition, and other assistance to Indian children attending public and private schools (which may be paid in advance or from date of admission); purchase of land and improvements on land, title to which shall be taken in the name of the United States in trust for the tribe for which purchased; lease of lands and water rights; compensation and expenses of attorneys and other persons employed by Indian tribes under approved contracts; pay, travel, and other expenses of tribal officers, councils, and committees thereof, or other tribal organizations, including mileage for use of privately owned automobiles and per diem in lieu of subsistence at rates established administratively but not to exceed those applicable to civilian employees of the Government; relief of Indians, without regard to section 7 of the Act of May 27, 1930 (46 Stat. 391), including cash grants; and employment of a curator for the Osage Museum, who shall be appointed with the approval of the Osage Tribal Council and without regard to the classification laws: Provided, That in addition to the amount appropriated herein, tribal funds may be advanced to Indian tribes during the current fiscal year for such purposes as may be designated by the governing body of the particular tribe involved and approved by the Secretary: Provided further, That funds derived from appropriations in satisfaction of awards of the Indian Claims Commission and the Court of Claims shall not be available for advances, except for such amounts as may be necessary to pay attorney fees, expenses of litigation, and expenses of program planning, until after legislation has been enacted that sets forth the purposes for which said funds will be used: Provided, however, That no part of this appropriation or other tribal funds shall be used for the acquisition of land or water rights within the States of Nevada, Oregon, and Washington, either inside or outside the boundaries of existing Indian reservations, if such acquisition results in the property being exempted from local taxation, except as provided for by the Act of July 24, 1956 (70 Stat. 627). (25 U.S.C. 123, Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1967.)

This fund and miscellaneous tribal funds provide the only source of loans for the great majority of Indians who cannot borrow from ordinary commercial credit sources because of their low economic status and lack of bankable security (25 U.S.C. 470, 471, 631). Loans are made to tribes for relending to individuals, to tribal business enterprises, to individual Indians for farming and business purposes, and for hiring expert witnesses for Indian claims cases.

1. Assistance to States.—Funds are provided for assisting States in financing 50% of the cost of preparing recreation plans, acquiring land and water areas, and developing areas for public outdoor recreation purposes.

2. Federal program.—Funds are provided to assist the National Park Service, Forest Service, and the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife to acquire certain areas for outdoor recreation purposes or for the preservation of endangered wildlife species. Funds also are provided to perform preliminary surveys and acquire priority tracts in new Federal recreation areas immediately after they have been authorized.

3. Administrative expenses.—Funds are provided to coordinate and administer both the State and Federal programs. State recreation plans and acquisition and development project proposals will be reviewed and the necessary processing and accounting of payments to States will be performed. Federal land acquisition proposals will be reviewed and coordinated to help meet the need for outdoor recreation opportunities and to preserve wildlife threatened with extinction. In addition, certain other expenses, such as printing and distributing the entrance permit to be used at many Federal areas will be financed under this activity.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $13,866 thousand; 1966, $5,053 thousand; 1967, $5,053 thousand; 1968, $5,053 thousand.

The 1968 budget request for Administration of Territories is $15,613,000, which includes $398,000 for General Administration; $98,000 for support of the Office of the Governor of the Virgin Islands; $197,000 for the Office of the Comptroller of the Virgin Islands; $99,000 for the Office of the Governor of Guam; $371,529 for support of the Office of the Governor, Legislature and Judiciary of American Samoa.

In addition, the Administration of Territories appropriation request includes funds to continue the Guam Rehabilitation Program, authorized by Public Law 88-170, approved November 4, 1963. The estimated amount for 1968 is $7,496,000. This program consists of 4 major projects which are integral parts of the multiyear plan (1968-72), a new school, $1,490,800; water supply and distribution, $1,219,600; third increment of sewer system, $1,888,600; and the second increment of the Commercial Port, $2,897,000.

Also requested are Grant funds in the amount of $6,953,262 for the Government of American Samoa, which is a net reduction of $1,894,738 below the 1967 appropriation. This reduction is basically the result of a projected increase from local revenues of $317,133, and a decrease in the construction program of $1,500,000. The most significant program increases are for staffing of schools, and the new hospital, related medical services, salary increases for the police force and support of a new inter-island vessel and two small craft.

Funds are no longer requested for servicing Alaska public work loans. The Department of Housing and Urban Development has transmitted a final report to the Secretary of the Interior, indicating final completion of required actions, under the delegation of authority from the Secretary of the Interior (Public Law 88-229).

Under the terms of the Trusteeship Agreement between the United States and the Security Council of the United Nations, the United States exercises full jurisdiction over the territory and is obligated to promote the political, economic, and educational advancement of the inhabitants. These responsibilities are carried out through the Department of the Interior.

The Trust Territory, with a population of about 90,000 persons, comprises 2,141 islands scattered over 3 million square miles of ocean in three major archipelagos, the Mariana, Caroline, and Marshall Islands. The land area totals 687 square miles.

1. High Commissioner's office.—This office provides executive direction for the development programs and the administration of all the territory.

2. Judiciary.—Provision is made for the high court of the Trust Territory, the court of appeals, and the lesser courts of the territory.

3. Grants.—The cost of operating the government of the territory is defrayed by these grants and local revenue. New authority is distributed as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Under proposed legislation, 1967-68.—Legislation is being submitted to the Congress to increase the annual appropriation authorization for the Trust Territory. Upon enactment, a supplemental appropriation will be requested of $5 million for 1967 and $12.5 million for 1968. The additional funds are urgently needed to meet costs of improved medical programs, to augment the education program to cope with growing enrollment, to meet critical community development needs, and to provide the physical facilities required to support these programs.

Public Law 88-485, approved August 22, 1964 authorized an amount not to exceed $950,000 to provide for the settlement of claims of radiation victims of Rongelap Atoll.

These funds were requested as a 1965 supplemental, and were made available in the Second Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1965, Public Law 89-16, approved April 30, 1965.

All payments of victims claims have been accomplished except one item amounting to $1,166.02. This is due to difficulty in locating the next of kin of one of the victims who died.

The $47,500 reserved for lawyers' fee still remains unexpended as this matter has not been resolved. Settlement is expected prior to the close of the current fiscal year.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $7,774 thousand (1966 adjustments, -$4 thousand); 1966, $9,130 thousand; 1967, $9,130 thousand; 1968, $9,130 thousand.

Geological Survey provides basic scientific data concerning water, land, and mineral resources, and supervises the development and production of minerals and mineral fuels on leased Federal and Indian lands.

1. Topographic surveys and mapping.—Topographic maps portray the elevation, shape, and position of the natural and manmade features of the earth's surface. These maps, at various scales, are a fundamental part of the background information required to inventory, develop, and manage the natural resources of the country. They also have numerous other uses such as the location and development of highways and lines of communications, urban planning, and military and civil defense. It is estimated that topographic surveys and mapping completed during 1967, added to surveys already available, will result in a total of about 2,693,000 square miles of coverage (about 75.8% of the United States) in either the 7½- or 15-minute standard map series. In addition, it is expected that about 24,000 square miles of existing coverage in the 15-minute series will be resurveyed for the 7½-minute series. During 1968, mapping of about 118,000 square miles of previously unsurveyed or inadequately surveyed areas in the United States will be started. In addition, about 21,000 square miles of revision will be added to the program and about 130 special maps at various scales will be published. Increased emphasis will be placed on urban and heavy-use area mapping.

2. Geologic and mineral resource surveys and mapping.—The continuing national program of geologic research and investigations produces: (a) new or improved methods and instruments for mineral exploration; (b) geologic, geophysical, and geochemical maps that show the distribution, age, composition, structure, and physical properties of the rocks and mineral deposits at and beneath the surface of the earth; (c) information on the chemistry and physics of the earth and the geologic processes by which it was formed and is being continually modified; and (d) geologic data that are directly applicable to urban development, land utilization, and the solution of land construction problems. The diverse studies underway and planned in this activity provide knowledge essential to intelligent exploration and utilization of our natural resources. The 1968 program emphasizes the search for heavy metals in short supply, earthquake research, and wilderness area mineral surveys.

3. Minerals discovery loan program.—In order to help find new sources of many of our essential minerals that are in short supply, the Federal Government is continuing to provide financial assistance to private industry for promising exploration projects. This encouragement and assistance has been and will continue to be a vital factor in the discovery of important new sources of critical minerals.

4. Marine geology and hydrology.—This program, begun in 1963, includes geological and geophysical mapping and investigation of the Nation's Continental Shelves and slopes; research on geologic and hydrologic processes, techniques, and instruments applicable to marine investigations; and research on the hydrology of river mouths, estuaries, and lagoons to provide data for understanding conditions involved in the use of marine resources.

5. Water resources investigations.—The program includes determinations of the flow and sediment discharge of rivers, location and safe yields of underground waters, chemical quality and temperature of waters, and availability of water supplies for present and future demands. Research is conducted to increase knowledge concerning the occurrence of water, its movement, and its interaction with the environment. Hydrologic appraisals are made in areas of existing or potential water problems. Funds requested for 1968 will be used to continue the Geological Survey's responsibilities under Bureau of the Budget guidelines for coordination of Federal activities in the acquisition of water data; strengthen the nationwide effort in basic data collection and analysis; accelerate the automation of data services to provide quicker and better service to users; conduct regional water resources studies and analyses of water resources problems; continue studies of lake resources and of flood and drought problems; expand studies of urban hydrology and problems; research on basic hydrological principles; development and application of modern scientific methods with special emphasis on remote sensing methods; planning, coordination, and participation in the International Hydrological Decade program; continued support of education and training in hydrology; and timely publication of water data and results of investigations.

6. Soil and moisture conservation.—This program provides land management agencies of the Department of the Interior with basic hydrologic and geologic data needed for maintenance and improvement of the productive value of public lands.

7. Conservation of lands and minerals.—This program includes mineral and water resources land classification, and the supervision of prospecting, development, and production of leasing act minerals and fuels from leased Federal, Indian, and Outer Continental Shelf lands. Mineral classification complements leasing and supervision by determining whether leases which issue shall be competitive or noncompetitive, thus in effect ascertaining the legally applicable royalty rates. Classification also identifies the areas of mineral rich public land which, as such, are available for competitive lease; and it retains the ownership of leasable minerals in the Government in event of surface disposal of public mineral lands. Supervision of oil and gas and mining operations insures the safe and orderly development and maximum recovery of the Nation's leasable mineral resources and an equitable royalty return to the United States and the Indians from mineral development of leased lands. Federal and Indian mineral leases are expected to produce minerals valued at about $1.8 billion in 1967 and $1.9 billion in 1968. Royalties in those years are expected to amount to $252 million and $267 million, respectively. Demands for land classification services by other executive agencies are expected to hold steady at about 50,000 reports per year through 1968.

Reimbursable obligations.—Reimbursements from non-Federal sources are from States and municipalities for making cooperative topographic and geologic surveys and water resources investigations (44 Stat. 963), proceeds from sale to the public of copies of photographs and records (43 U.S.C. 45), proceeds from sale of personal property (40 U.S.C. 481(c)), reimbursements from permittees and licensees of the Federal Power Commission (16 U.S.C. 797), and reimbursements from friendly countries and international organizations for technical assistance (22 U.S.C. 2357). Reimbursements from other Federal agencies (31 U.S.C. 686) are for special-purpose mapping, investigations, and computer services performed at the request of the financing agency, much of which contributes to the basic objectives of the Geological Survey.

An unobligated balance of $400 thousand is carried forward each year to pay the expenses of reimbursable work pending collection from cooperating agencies. This advance is not available for obligation.

1. Stabilization payments.—This program provides for payments on lead and zinc ores and concentrates in order to stabilize the mining of lead and zinc by small domestic producers. Present legislation for the program expires December 31, 1969 (Public Law 89-238).

Payments are computed for lead at 75% of the difference between 14½ cents per pound and the average market price for the month in which the sale occurs, and for zinc at 55% of the difference between 14½ cents per pound and the average market price for the month in which the sale occurs. The total amount of payments which may be made in each calendar year of the program is limited as are the tons of lead and zinc on which payments may be made.

2. Administration.—This activity finances the processing and certification of applications from small domestic producers, the establishment of quotas and allocations and the processing of claims for payment.

When lessees or operators drilling for oil and gas on public lands strike water, water wells may be developed by the Department from proceeds from the sale of water from existing wells (30 U.S.C. 221-229). No obligations are anticipated in 1968.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

The amount appropriated for the Geological Survey shall be available for purchase of not to exceed forty-six passenger motor vehicles, for replacement only; reimbursement of the General Services Administration for security guard service for protection of confidential files; contracting for the furnishing of topographic maps and for the making of geophysical or other specialized surveys when it is administratively determined that such procedures are in the public interest; construction and maintenance of necessary buildings and appurtenant facilities; acquisition of lands for gaging stations and observation wells; expenses of U.S. National Committee on Geology; and payment of compensation and expenses of persons on the rolls of the Geological Survey appointed, as authorized by law, to represent the United States in the negotiation and administration of interstate compacts. (43 U.S.C. 31; Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1967.)

Provision is made for conserving, evaluating, and developing mineral resources.

1. Research—(a) Coal.—Scientific research is carried out on the chemical and physical properties of coal and lignite, and their preparation, combustion, carbonization, and gasification. Research is emphasized on the development of methods for reducing or eliminating industrial air pollution caused by sulfur oxides released to the atmosphere during combustion of fossil fuels.

(b) Petroleum.—Research is conducted to conserve petroleum and natural gas resources by improving the processes of recovery and utilization and to promote improved efficiency in processing and use of raw materials produced from these resources. Research will be initiated in 1968 on identification, removal, and recovery of sulfur compounds from petroleum, residual fuel oil, and petroleum coke. The work is carried out in cooperation with Federal and State agencies and with industry associations and is partially supported financially by many of these agencies and associations.

(c) Oil shale.—Research is carried out on oil shale to determine the composition of the various products obtainable, to test the applicability of those products to different uses, and to determine the basic chemistry and physics essential to the development and evaluation of new retorting concepts.

(d) Metallurgy.—Research is carried out seeking improved processes for extracting metals and nonmetals from their ores. Multidiscipline investigations develop better methods to recover metals by physical, chemical, and electrical techniques and find means to produce super-pure materials. A parallel effort integrates the structure of metals, alloys, and ceramic compounds with optimum preparation and utilization. Basic to all investigations is fundamental research to delineate the physical and thermodynamic properties of materials and to analyze the rates and mechanics of high-temperature chemical and metallurgical reactions.

(e) Mining.—The mining research effort applies the principles of physics and mining engineering to all phases of mineral mining. This effort is directed to the four principal problem areas of mining technology: Ground control, rock disintegration, materials handling, and environmental control. The major portion of the increase is programed to develop tunneling technology for transportation, urban utilities, the distribution of water, power, oil and gas, and mineral extraction. Additional emphasis will be placed on the heavy metals program.

(f) Marine mineral mining.—Research is devoted to the conception, development, testing, and evaluation of instruments and hardware of undersea mining. Investigations are concerned with the nature and extent of oceanic deposits and the mining and processing of materials recoverable from such deposits.

(g) Explosives.—Research is conducted to provide information and guidance to industry, other Federal agencies, and State and local governments on safe handling and use of commercial explosives and blasting agents; the safety characteristics of explosives certified for use in underground coal mines; the hazards of gas and vapor explosives from flammable liquids and/or gases; and the means of controlling fires in mineral fuels and their products.

2. Resource development—(a) Statistics.—Mineral statistical programs and systems are carried out. Reports on mineral production and consumption are issued for use of Federal, State, and local government agencies, the press, professional and technical publications, and industry. Modernization of data collection and processing will be continued by electronic automation of selected statistical surveys.

(b) Economic analysis.—Economic information concerning mineral supply and demand, tariffs, taxes, trade, and other economic matter is furnished to Government and industry to aid in planning industry and Government research efforts, and industry expansion and investment.

(c) Bituminous coal.—Comprehensive technical and economic information is provided for guidance in the optimum recovery, processing, and utilization of coal reserves; and for maximizing efficiencies in the production, transportation, and utilization of coal and related products. Guidance is provided for technological and economic research as related to methods of extraction and preparation, to methods and problems of marketing, and to techniques of combustion and utilization.

(d) Anthracite.—Resource investigations are directed to the development of engineering and economic data on anthracite required by Government, industry, and the general public to assist in promoting the economic well-being of the Pennsylvania anthracite industry; to increase the safety of mining operations and conserve fuel and energy reserves through proper control and drainage of anthracite mine water; and to eliminate hazards to public health and safety brought about by past mining practices.

(e) Petroleum.—Technical and economic studies are designed to provide the accurate and complete picture of the location, extent, and utilization of energy resources contained in petroleum, natural gas, and marginal bituminous substances. Present and possible future trends in production, technology, and practices and their effects on various sectors of the petroleum and natural gas industries will be considered and evaluated on a continuing basis.

(f) Minerals.—Resource investigations are made of mineral deposits to gain better knowledge of the location, quantity, quality, and recoverability of specific mineral resources. Investigations of marginal or submarginal mineral deposits are aimed at determining possible future utilization. Economic forecasting is undertaken, with special attention to the generally growing but shifting demand for mineral commodities, to help guide industrial, business, and Government planning and assistance in the direction of mineral research. Increasing attention is given to production cost levels and to technologic trends. During 1968, the Bureau will continue to appraise the mineral potential of wilderness areas within the national forests as directed by the Wilderness Act of 1964.

(g) International activities.—Technical and economic data on foreign mineral resources, production and consumption, and international trade are compiled and analyzed for Government use in coping with problems of mineral supply and to assist industry in planning domestic and foreign minerals ventures.

1. Inspections, investigations, and rescue work.—The objectives for 1968 are to: (a) Inspect, at least once annually, every active underground coal mine, take action in accordance with Federal Coal Mine Safety Act to require compliances with its mandatory provisions, and exert special effort to gain compliance with safety recommendations; (b) inspect annually, or as necessary, all strip and auger coal mines and report on observed hazards with appropriate corrective recommendations; (c) inspect metal and nonmetallic mines in accordance with the Federal Metal and Nonmetallic Mine Safety Act; and (d) conduct investigations of serious accidents in coal, metal, and nonmetallic mines and make recommendations to reduce working hazards, safeguard the health of workers, and promote efficiency in the mineral industries. The Bureau encourages accident-prevention education through safety organizations, exhibits, safety film production, demonstrations, instructions by Bureau personnel in accident prevention, and first-aid and mine rescue methods. Grants are made to States to assist them to promulgate safety programs in coal mines.

2. Control of fires in coal deposits.—Fires in inactive or abandoned coal deposits on public lands or private property are controlled or extinguished. Expenditures in connection with fires in active coal mines are limited to investigations and research.

3. Health and safety research.—Research is conducted on the support of mine roof and control of overburden, ventilation of mines, methods of allaying harmful and combustible airborne dusts, preventing accumulations of combustible dusts, preventing underground fires, safe blasting practices, and safe electrical installations. Other research is directed toward developing mining procedures and devices to avoid, detect, or control those aspects of mining and the working environment which involve potential personal hazards to mine workmen and physical hazards to mine operations. Various machines and devices are tested for use in mines and plants where explosive or harmful gas or dust may be liberated or encountered.

1. Subsidence, caving, and mine fire control.—The proposed appropriation and funds previously appropriated will be used in 1968 for the sealing and filling of voids in abandoned coal mines and for the planning and execution of projects for the extinguishment and control of underground and outcrop mine fires. Research will be continued into means of extinguishing fires in mine refuse dumps which when ignited cause pollution of the surrounding atmosphere by smoke fumes and noxious gases.

2. Strip and surface mine area restoration.—Funds previously appropriated will be used in 1968 for continuation of projects for the reclamation and rehabilitation of strip and surface mine areas on public land in those areas where the greatest hazard to public health and safety exists. The work conducted will aid greatly in the resolution of stream pollution problems. The creation of recreational facilities will be given serious consideration in evaluating projects. No new funds are requested for 1968.

Provision is made for a research and development program for new and improved methods of proper and economic solid waste disposal as authorized under the Clean Air Act Amendments and Solid Waste Disposal Act. The program includes studies directed toward the conservation of natural resources by reducing the amount of waste and unsalvageable materials and by recovery and utilization of potential resources in solid wastes. Funds are provided for a research grant program to bring the research capabilities of universities and nonprofit research organizations into the solid waste research program.

The Helium fund is used for the production, conservation, purchase, and sale of helium; location and development of helium properties and reserves; and research on the properties and uses of helium to promote its wise and effective use. Production is primarily for the Department of Defense, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and the Atomic Energy Commission, which reimburse the fund for products received. Other Federal agencies and commercial users buy helium for medical, scientific, and commercial uses.

Budget program.—Production of helium from the five Government-owned plants is estimated at 764 million cubic feet. Of this amount, 42 million cubic feet is expected to be produced by the Otis, Kans., plant as crude helium for conservation, leaving 722 million cubic feet of Government-produced pure helium for sale. The Otis plant was converted from pure to crude helium production during 1966.

Sales of helium are estimated at 775 million cubic feet. The excess demand over pure helium production from Government plants will be met by withdrawal of crude helium from storage. About 53 million cubic feet will need to be withdrawn and purified to supplement Government production.

Construction of a new crude helium separation unit at the Exell helium plant, started in 1967 and designed to increase efficiency and reduce operating costs, is scheduled for completion in 1968. Construction of additional helium purification and shipping facilities and procurement of additional shipping containers is planned for 1968. The additional facilities and shipping containers will be needed to supply the expected demand for helium through 1969. Drilling of six wells in the Government-owned Cliffside gas field is planned in order to replace gas production capacity lost in wells invaded by crude helium and to obtain additional geologic and engineering data on the storage field for conservation helium.

The Helium Research Center, Amarillo, Tex., will continue expansion of their program in basic and applied research. Emphasis will be placed on improvements in processes, production methods, purification, liquefaction, and utilization in order to increase technical literature and knowledge of helium and helium-bearing gas mixtures.

The Bureau of Mines will purchase an estimated 3.8 billion cubic feet of helium at a cost of $43.6 million from four private companies which operate five helium extraction plants. The helium will be transported through the Bureau's pipeline to Government-owned underground storage near Amarillo.

Financing the budget program.—The entire program of production, sales, conservation, and research is financed from the Helium fund. The sales price of helium has been set at an amount which is estimated to provide sufficient funds for payment of all expenses and repayment of an incurred debt, including interest, in carrying out the helium program. Total expenditures for 1968 are estimated at $57.5 million. Borrowings of approximately $27 million are needed to supplement the $30.3 million income from the sales of helium and related services to finance the overall program. The unused and available borrowing authority as of June 30, 1967, is estimated to be $9 million. An additional $18.2 million borrowing authority is requested to provide funds for coverage of all anticipated obligations.

Operating results and financial condition.—As of June 30, 1966, the Government had $158.9 million invested in the helium program. Of this amount, $86.3 million is owed to the U.S. Treasury in accordance with the Helium Act Amendments of 1960, leaving a net investment of $72.6 million. The investment at June 30, 1966, was about one-fourth in helium plants and facilities, and about three-fourths in helium stored underground.

On June 30, 1968, the Government's investment is estimated to be $261.8 million, of which $151.1 million is to be repaid to the Treasury, leaving a net investment balance of $110.7 million. The estimated increase from June 30, 1966, of $38.1 million in net Government investment (equity) results from an increase in retained earnings accrued during 1967 and 1968. Retained earnings result from the favorable cost-sales price relationship existing during the early years of the conservation program which is used for the purchase of conservation helium for storage and other capital assets to minimize borrowing from the Treasury.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $7,468 thousand (1966 adjustments, -$2 thousand); 1966, $7,842 thousand; 1967, $7,842 thousand; 1968, $8,842 thousand.

The functions of the Office of Coal Research as stated in Public Law 86-599 are to (1) develop, through research, new and more efficient methods of mining, preparing, and utilizing coal; (2) contract for, sponsor, cosponsor, and promote the coordination of, research with recognized interested groups including, but not limited to, coal trade associations, coal research associations, educational institutions, and agencies of States and political subdivisions of States.

The Office of Coal Research is charged with the responsibility to exploit the full potentiality and versatility of this natural resource to the maximum welfare of the United States. The Office is devoting its efforts to enlarge and increase the use of coal within presently known fields of utilization and in addition to seek new uses. The scientific and technical aspects of the program are performed through a program of contract research.

1. Administration and contract supervision.—This portion of the program performs all necessary functions relating to contracts. Proposals, either solicited or unsolicited, are received in the Office of Coal Research. They are thoroughly evaluated to ascertain such matters as technical and economic feasibility and possible duplication with other current or prior work in or out of the Government. The drafting, negotiation, and execution of the contracts, together with all review and monitoring of technical and administrative phases of the contract work is performed by the OCR staff. All fiscal aspects of the contracts, including audit, records, travel, budgetary, personnel, publications and reports work for the staff are part of this function.

2. Contract research.—The entire research function cited above as the responsibility of OCR is represented in this aspect of the OCR operation. Proposals may be received which have been unsolicited, or discussions may be held with potential contractors prior to the submission of proposals. Based on such preliminary discussions, some are encouraged to submit proposals, others are told that the prospective area of activity in which they have expressed an interest would be potentially duplicative, or perhaps would not offer sufficient potential. The contract research activities are conducted with commercial organizations, educational institutions, and nonprofit research organizations. Contracts vary from complete Government funding to joint funding on a matching basis.

Coordination of oil and gas activities.—This office coordinates the implementation of Federal oil and gas policies, provides leadership and coordination for petroleum statistics within the Federal establishment, provides advice and assistance to Federal agencies and international organizations on all phases of petroleum and gas, and serves as the principal channel of communication between the Federal Government and the petroleum, gas, petrochemical, and allied industries. Studies, domestic and worldwide, are made to maintain data on adequacy of petroleum and gas, to define deficient areas or elements, and to develop ways to alleviate actual or potential deficiencies. The Department's program for emergency planning and readiness for the oil and gas industries and the recruitment, training, and assignment of 600 Executive Reservists for the Emergency Petroleum and Gas Administration are assigned responsibilities of this office.

Administration of oil import program.—This appropriation finances the Oil Import Administration, established March 13, 1959, pursuant to Presidential Proclamation No. 3279 as amended. The Administration establishes quotas for importers of crude oil and oil products under the mandatory quota system.

Oil Import Appeals Board.—The Oil Import Appeals Board has been established to conduct hearings on appeals from importers who request a change in their quota or who do not qualify for a quota.

1. Management.—This activity covers administration and enforcement of international agreements pertaining to fish and whales.

2. Marketing and technology.—This includes: (a) collecting and disseminating economic data on the fishing industry, including business trends and foreign trade; (b) exploring for fish and improving fishing gear and methods; (c) operation of market news offices; (d) compiling and publishing commercial fishery statistics; and (e) developing and demonstrating more efficient means of handling, processing, storing, and marketing fishery products.

3. Research.—Research is conducted: (a) on variations in abundance of important commercial food fishes and other aquatic animals; (b) on declining species and fishery resources; (c) on cultivation of aquatic animals, including shellfish; and (d) in the design of fish protective devices.

4. Research on fish migration over dams.—Investigations are conducted to determine factors influencing direction and rate of movement of anadromous fish over dams, for consideration in designing future dams.

5. Fishing vessel mortgage insurance.—This activity provides for administration of the fishing vessel mortgage insurance program, which aids financing of construction of fishing vessels.

6. Columbia River fishery development.—This activity covers costs of operation, maintenance, and alteration of hatcheries, fish screens, and fishways under the Columbia River fishery development program; and provides for management studies related to the program.

Funds for three of the above activities are supplemented from the permanent appropriation, Promote and develop fishery products and research pertaining to American fisheries, and from the special foreign currency appropriation. These supplementary amounts are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Premiums and fees collected under the fishing vessel mortgage insurance program are deposited in this fund for use in cases of default. Proceeds from sales of collateral are also deposited in the fund (46 U.S.C. 1271-1279; 70 Stat. 1119; 23 F.R. 2304). Because of a default, $400 thousand was borrowed from the Treasury in 1966 under authority of the Act of July 5, 1960 (47 Stat. 314). The sum of $50 thousand was repaid in 1966, and it is expected that the rest will be repaid by June 30, 1968, from amounts deposited to the account. As of August 31, 1966, 72 mortgage loans totaling $5 million were insured on 90 vessels valued at $6.7 million.

This fund is used for making loans to segments of the fishing industry unable to obtain commercial loans on reasonable terms for financing or refinancing the cost of purchasing, constructing, equipping, maintaining, repairing, or operating new or used commercial fishing vessels or gear. Loans now being made bear interest at 6 percent annually and mature in not more than 10 years. The act of July 24, 1965, Public Law 89-85, authorized extension and broadening of the program.

Budget program—Loans made.—As of August 31, 1966, a total of 1,852 applications amounting to $47.4 million had been received. Of these, 972 loans totaling $21.6 million had been approved and 456 applications amounting to $10.3 million had been declined.

Financing.—Appropriations of $13 million provide capital for the fund. Additional financing is provided from repayments and interest on outstanding loans.

1. Fish hatcheries.—Ninety fish hatcheries are operated for propagation of food and game fishes, and research and planning in connection with drawings and specifications for construction of a National Fisheries Center and Aquarium are provided.

2. Wildlife refuges.—In the 48 contiguous States the Bureau manages 279 migratory bird refuges consisting of 4.6 million acres, 10 big game refuges totaling 0.5 million acres, and 5 game ranges totaling 4.6 million acres. This includes three new migratory bird refuges which will be put under management in 1968. In addition, there are 13 migratory bird and 4 big game refuges in Alaska and a migratory bird refuge in Hawaii totaling 18 million acres.

3. Soil and moisture conservation.—The program consists of the planning, application, and maintenance of conservation measures for the protection, stabilization, rehabilitation, control, and use of the soil, water, and vegetative resources on 141 national wildlife refuges comprising over 10 million acres.

4. Management and enforcement.—The Bureau enforces the Migratory Bird Treaty and Lacey Acts for protection of migratory birds and regulation of interstate and foreign shipments of game; conducts migratory game bird surveys; and administers the Black Bass Act regulating shipment of fish across State boundaries.

5. Fishery research.—These research studies include nutrition, genetics, and diseases of fish; improved methods of fish husbandry and management of public water areas for fishing; effects of pesticide; and conservation of marine sport fishes.

6. Wildlife research.—Research is conducted on management and conservation of migratory birds and other wildlife and on diseases, parasites and pesticides. Wildlife units are also maintained in cooperation with the Wildlife Management Institute and land-grant colleges at 18 locations to give technical training in wildlife management, conduct research, and demonstrate improved management practices.

7. Fishery services.—Technical assistance is provided to Federal, State, Indian, and other public or private entities in management of sport fishing and fish propagation; 23 cooperative fishery units are operated at universities.

8. Wildlife services.—Technical assistance is provided to Federal, State, Indian, and other public or private entities for enhancement of recreational and esthetic values of wildlife resources; and conducting operational control programs where needed to alleviate damage caused by wildlife. State and local cooperator funds are expected to total $4 million in 1968.

9. River basin studies.—This activity covers studies of the effects on fish and wildlife resources of water-use projects of Federal agencies and licensees. Recommendations are made for measures to protect and improve these resources. Additional funds, totaling $1.8 million in 1968, are provided for this activity from the Bureau of Reclamation and the Corps of Engineers.

10. Pesticides review.—Pesticidal formulations are reviewed to determine the actual or potential hazards to fish and wildlife from the proposed use of chemicals, recommendations for labeling are made, and surveillance and monitoring of fish and wildlife habitat are carried on to record the level of pesticide contamination.

Funds for four of the above activities are supplemented by moneys appropriated under the permanent accounts, Federal aid in fish restoration and management, Federal aid in wildlife restoration, and National wildlife refuge fund, as follows (in thousands of dollars):

1. Payments to States.—States are reimbursed up to 75% of the cost of approved wildlife restoration projects, including acquisition and development of land and water areas, and for wildlife management research.

2. Administration.—State plans are examined and projects inspected.

3. Carrying out Migratory Bird Conservation Act.—Funds apportioned but not expended by States within 2 years are available to carry out provisions of the Migratory Bird Conservation Act and supplement moneys appropriated for this purpose to this Bureau under management and investigations of resources.

FISH AND WILDLIFE AND PARKS—ContinuedNATIONAL PARK SERVICE

The Service's primary responsibility is to conserve and manage for their highest purpose the natural, historical, and recreational resources of the national park system. Visitation to parks is expected to increase from 134.9 million in 1966 to 159.6 million in 1968.

General and special funds:MANAGEMENT AND PROTECTION

For expenses necessary for the management and protection of the areas and facilities administered by the National Park Service, including protection of lands in process of condemnation; plans, investigations, and studies of the recreational resources (exclusive of preparation of detail plans and working drawings) and archeological values in river basins of the United States (except the Missouri River Basin); and not to exceed $88,000 for the Roosevelt Campobello International Park Commission, [$35,932,800] $40,822,000. (16 U.S.C. 1, 1b, 1c, 1d, 3, 17j-2, 17, k, n, 81c, 431-433, 459r, 460, 460a-2, 461-467, 590a, 590f, 594; 40 U.S.C. 484(k); 43 U.S.C. 620(g); 50 U.S.C. 1622h(1); E.O. 6166 of June 10, 1933; E.O. 6228 of July 28, 1933; Act of May 29, 1930 (46 Stat. 482, 483); Act of August 17, 1949 (63 Stat. 612); Act of July 7, 1964 (78 Stat. 299); Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1967.)

NOTES

Includes $1,365 thousand for activities previously carried under "Construction, National Park Service." The amounts obligated in 1966 and 1967 are shown in the schedule as comparative transfers.

Excludes $323,400 for activities transferred in the estimates to "Preservation of historic properties, National Park Service." The amounts obligated in 1966 and 1967 are shown in the schedule as comparative transfers.

1. Management of park and other areas.—The estimate contemplates the administration of 240 park areas comprising about 27 million acres of federally owned land located in 45 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. The increase proposed is to provide for (a) administration of 10 new park areas, (b) operation of newly constructed or reconstructed facilities and to meet requirements generated by increased visitor use in existing park areas, and (c) payment to the Bureau of Employees' Compensation, Department of Labor, as required by Public Law 86-767, approved September 13, 1960.

The following tabulation shows the actual and estimated visitors, and general and special fund revenues collected by the National Park Service, including recreation fee revenues deposited in the Land and Water Conservation Fund:

	Calendar year visitors	Fiscal year receipts
1966 actual		8,106,208
1966 estimate	134,872,000
1967 estimate	147,303,000	8,933,900
1968 estimate	159,576,000	10,106,900

2. Forestry and fire control.—Vegetation such as forests, grasslands, desert shrubs, and tundra, totaling approximately 16 million acres, is protected from fire, destructive insects, diseases, and other preventable damage. The increase proposed is to provide for operation of newly constructed facilities and to meet increased visitor workload in existing park areas. A supplemental appropriation for 1967 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

3. Soil and moisture conservation.—The program will permit corrective measures in 42 park areas in accordance with the Service's long-range soil and moisture conservation program.

4. Park and recreation programs.—Studies are conducted to determine the significance and suitability of natural, historical, and recreational areas proposed for inclusion in the national park system; to determine the boundaries of proposed areas; to recommend changes in existing area boundaries as needed; and to make recommendations concerning the designation of wilderness areas within the parks. Assistance is provided other Federal agencies, the States, and their political subdivisions upon request, in general development planning; site planning; consultation on design, construction, and operational matters; interpretative planning; and guidance in protection and preservation of historical and archeological values on lands involved. Staff direction and coordination is provided for the interpretive programs of all units of the National Park System. Studies and investigations are carried out leading to establishment and acquisition of rights to sources of water supply, and technical assistance is provided in acquiring lands and in solving problems relating to both normal and adverse uses made of the park lands. The Service participates in the negotiation of agreements with State and local government agencies for recreation administration on lands developed with Federal funds, conducts archeological investigations and salvage programs primarily in areas threatened by inundation through reservoir construction, and administers a program which gives recognition to nationally significant natural landmarks owned by non-Federal agencies and organizations, and individuals.

5. Concessions management.—There are over 200 concessioners operating in the parks and other areas. Services to be rendered are determined, contracts are negotiated or permits issued, and rates are established.

1. Buildings, utilities, and other facilities.—The 1968 program of $17,079 thousand is designed to continue the provision of essential facilities to meet visitor requirements in the older park areas and to initiate minimum development in the newly authorized areas. A summary of the 1968 program by major type of construction follows (in thousands of dollars):

Camping and picnicking facilities.....	2,338
Public service and administrative units.....	9,384
Utilities.....	3,755
Employee housing.....	462
Miscellaneous.....	1,140
Total.....	17,079

2. Acquisition of lands and water rights.—Performance for the current year contemplates completion of land acquisition authorized under this item in the 1965 and prior fiscal year appropriations. For 1968, this program is included in the budget of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation under authority of the Land and Water Conservation Act of 1965.

Rights to water must be obtained, frequently by purchase in many areas, for use of visitors and employees, and for fire protection.

4. Parkways, and 5. Roads and trails.—The costs scheduled under these activities are against carryover balance of prior appropriations. The program authorized by title 23, United States Code is obligated against the contract authority provided by that title and is shown under the "Parkway and road construction (Liquidation of contract authorization)" appropriation.

6. Undistributed costs.—These costs represent end-of-year variations in clearing accounts involving operations such as automotive shops, corrals, and facilitating services. The costs are distributed to the various activities served, based on predetermined rates. Such rates are studied and adjusted at least once annually to provide for adequate operations.

WATER AND POWER DEVELOPMENT

BUREAU OF RECLAMATION

The Bureau plans, constructs, and operates facilities to irrigate lands, furnish municipal or miscellaneous water supplies, and develop related hydroelectric power and flood control in the 17 Western States and the State of Alaska.

Appropriations to the Bureau are made from the general fund and special funds. The special funds are (a) the Reclamation fund, largely derived from certain irrigation and power revenue; receipts from the sale, lease, and rental of public lands; and certain oil and mineral revenue; (b) the Colorado River Dam fund, derived from the revenue of the Boulder Canyon project; and (c) the Colorado River development fund, derived from transfers of money from the Colorado River Dam fund. The 1968 estimates are summarized by source, as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Appropriation title	Estimate of appropriation	General fund	Reclamation fund	Colorado River Dam fund	Colorado River development fund	Other
Construction and rehabilitation.....	179,968	79,968	100,000	-----	---	--

Total.....	315,635	147,420	161,930	5,780	500	5

The total appropriation request of $315.6 million represents a decrease of $16.1 million compared with the current year appropriations, including two supplemental estimates proposed for separate transmittal and a decrease of $12.7 million compared with the preceding year.

General and special funds:

For carrying out the functions of the Bureau of Reclamation as provided in the Federal reclamation laws (Act of June 17, 1902, 32 Stat. 388, and Acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto) and other Acts applicable to that Bureau, as follows:

GENERAL INVESTIGATIONS

For engineering and economic investigations of proposed Federal reclamation projects and studies of water conservation and development plans and activities preliminary to the reconstruction, rehabilitation and betterment, financial adjustment, or extension of existing projects, including not to exceed $450,000 for investigations of projects in Alaska, to remain available until expended, [$15,075,000] $16,523,000, of which [$13,473,000] $13,058,000 shall be derived from the reclamation fund and $500,000 shall be derived from the Colorado River development fund: Provided, That none of this appropriation shall be used for more than one-half of the cost of an investigation requested by a State, municipality, or other interest: Provided further, That not to exceed $35,000 of this appropriation shall be available for payment to the Salt River Pima-Maricopa and Ft. McDowell Indian tribes for economic studies in connection with the potential construction of Orme Dam on the Salt River in Arizona: Provided further, That [$425,000] $400,000 of this appropriation shall be transferred to the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife for studies, investigations, and reports thereon as required by the Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 563-565) to provide that wildlife conservation shall receive equal consideration and be coordinated with other features of water-resource development programs of the Bureau of Reclamation. 1. Economic investigations and plan formulation.—These include reconnaissance, basin surveys, feasibility investigations, and special investigations throughout the 17 Western States to formulate resource development plans for basins and specific projects leading to authorization, including studies relating to the rehabilitation, financial adjustment, or water conservation on existing Federal reclamation projects.

2. Alaskan investigations.—These engineering and economic investigations relate to projects for the development and utilization of the water resources of Alaska (48 U.S.C. 487-487b).

3. General engineering and research.—Studies directed toward improvements in planning procedures and in engineering methods and materials. Included are studies of atmospheric water resources and suppression of losses due to evaporation as a means of increasing project water supplies.

4. Fish and wildlife studies.—These funds are transferred to the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife for studies of the fish and wildlife aspects of reclamation projects in the planning stage, authorized for construction or under construction, exclusive of the Missouri River Basin.

The program consists of advance planning, preconstruction activities and construction of authorized projects, and rehabilitation of existing facilities. Investigations for units of the Missouri River Basin are included under that project.

Work will be underway in 1968 on 29 projects and 17 units and divisions of the Missouri River Basin project including initiation of construction on 2 projects with estimated costs totaling $133 million. One project will be completed in 1968. The program also includes rehabilitation and betterment work on eight projects. During the year, facilities will be completed to supply water to 143,400 acres of land, to provide 20,000 acre-feet of water annually for municipal and industrial use, and to provide 212,000 kilowatts of hydroelectric power.

A 1967 supplemental estimate for completion of the Delivery of Water to Mexico program is proposed for separate transmittal.

The following workload table summarizes the program goals and accomplishments:

The Bureau operates and maintains the power-generation and transmission facilities, and generally the storage dams and reservoirs, of completed projects. Where necessary, irrigation works are operated and maintained until the water users are able to undertake the responsibilities. In 1968 a total of 36 projects, project areas, or divisions of projects will be operated and maintained for irrigation, power, municipal and industrial water supplies, and other benefits with funds made available under this appropriation. The Fort Peck project revolving fund finances the operation and maintenance of project power facilities physically integrated with the Missouri River Basin project.

Provision is also made for flood control operations on certain projects, soil and moisture conservation operations on public lands under jurisdiction of the Bureau, the Colorado River front work and levee system program, negotiation and administration of water marketing contracts on Corps of Engineers' projects in California, marketing of power from the International Boundary and Water Commission powerplant, and examination of existing structures.

Fiscal year:	Kilowatt-hours of energy (millions)	Gross energy sales (thousands)
1966 (actual).....	36,105	$106,461
1967 (estimate).....	35,644	100,795
1968 (estimate).....	36,972	105,830

The above sales data includes $22 million in revenues associated with 14.5 billion kilowatt-hours of energy from Reclamation powerplants for which Bonneville Power Administration is the marketing agent. Sales data for the Upper Colorado River Storage project are not included in this statement.

Commercial power is sold to wholesale customers such as municipalities, Rural Electrification Administration-financed cooperatives, private utilities, and other Government agencies. These revenues are deposited in the Reclamation fund, the Colorado River Dam fund, the general fund, and the Fort Peck revolving fund.

The programs include $8,754,700 in 1968 for the purchase of power and wheeling. The establishment in 1961 of a net billing procedure for certain of these power transactions between the Federal Government and non-Federal utilities precludes the need for an additional $3,205,000 for this purpose in 1968.

This appropriation from the general fund provides for loans to non-Federal organizations for construction and rehabilitation of distribution systems and for loans and grants to enable non-Federal organizations to construct small irrigation projects. Repayments of these loans will be deposited in the reclamation fund.

1. Distribution systems.—Loans are made to irrigation districts for construction of distribution systems on authorized Federal reclamation projects. Work will continue on one project in 1968.

2. Small projects.—Loans and grants of not more than $6.5 million are made to non-Federal agencies for construction of small projects. Funds will be provided for two new loans in 1968 and work will continue on eight projects. One other loan will be financed with funds previously appropriated. Five projects are scheduled to be completed.

These schedules also reflect Office of Emergency Planning directed nonreimbursable emergency repair work under provisions of Public Law 81-875. The Emergency fund was selected as the appropriation to account for all OEP directed disaster relief work. This work has been financed from available emergency funds, reimbursements from OEP, and by transfers from other appropriations of the Bureau of Reclamation under authority of section 201 of the 1965 Public Works Appropriation Act.

development of the Colorado River Storage project and participating projects.

1. Recreational facilities.—The program continues essential work in progress in 1967 to develop public recreational facilities at reservoirs of the Colorado River Storage project. Work will continue at two reservoirs in 1968. Three reservoirs will be operated under interim management until such time as agreements can be made for their operation by other Federal, State, or local agencies.

2. Fish and wildlife facilities.—The program for 1968 continues the work in progress in 1967 to develop fish and wildlife facilities as part of the Colorado River Storage project. Work will be conducted at six sites in 1968, including two national fish hatcheries and a national wildlife refuge.

This fund is derived from the sale of Federal property in or near the cities of Coulee Dam and Grand Coulee, Wash., and is available for certain purposes in connection with the disposal of the Federal interest in the communities.

The unobligated balance available at the start of 1967 is in excess of any amounts necessary for expenses of disposal and shall, therefore, be covered into the reclamation fund (71 Stat. 530).

SPECIAL FUNDS

Sums herein referred to as being derived from the reclamation fund, the Colorado River Dam fund, or the Colorado River development fund, are appropriated from the special funds in the Treasury created by the Act of June 17, 1902 (43 U.S.C. 391), the Act of December 21, 1928 (43 U.S.C. 617a), and the Act of July 19, 1940 (43 U.S.C. 618a), respectively. Such sums shall be transferred, upon request of the Secretary, to be merged with and expended under the heads herein specified; and the unexpended balances of sums transferred for expenditure under the heads "Operation and Maintenance" and "General Administrative Expenses" shall revert and be credited to the special fund from which derived. (Public Works Appropriation Act, 1967.)

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Appropriations to the Bureau of Reclamation shall be available for purchase of not to exceed [forty-one] twenty-six passenger motor vehicles for replacement only; purchase of one aircraft for replacement only; payment of claims for damage to or loss of property, personal injury, or death arising out of activities of the Bureau of Reclamation; payment, except as otherwise provided for, of compensation and expense of persons on the rolls of the Bureau of Reclamation appointed as authorized by law to represent the United States in the negotiation and administration of interstate compacts without reimbursement or return under the reclamation laws; rewards for information or evidence concerning violations of law involving property under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Reclamation; performance of the functions specified under the head "Operation and Maintenance Administration", Bureau of Reclamation, in the Interior Department Appropriation Act, 1945; preparation and dissemination of useful information including recordings, photographs, and photographic prints; and studies of recreational uses of reservoir areas, and investigation and recovery of archeological and paleontological remains in such areas in the same manner as provided for in the Act of August 21, 1935 (16 U.S.C. 461-467): Provided, That no part of any appropriation made herein shall be available pursuant to the Act of April 19, 1945 (43 U.S.C. 377), for expenses other than those incurred on behalf of specific reclamation projects except "General Administrative Expenses" and amounts provided for reconnaissance, basin surveys, and general engineering and research under the head "General Investigations".

Allotments to the Missouri River Basin project from the appropriation under the head "Construction and Rehabilitation" shall be available additionally for said project for those functions of the Bureau of Reclamation provided for under the head "General Investigations" (but this authorization shall not preclude use of the appropriation under said head within that area), and for the continuation of investigations by agencies of the Department on a general plan for the development of the Missouri River Basin. Such allotments may be expended through or in cooperation with State and other Federal agencies, and advances to such agencies are hereby authorized.

Sums appropriated herein which are expended in the performance of reimbursable functions of the Bureau of Reclamation shall be returnable to the extent and in the manner provided by law.

No part of any appropriation for the Bureau of Reclamation, contained in this Act or in any prior Act, which represents amounts earned under the terms of a contract but remaining unpaid, shall be obligated for any other purpose, regardless of when such amounts are to be paid: Provided, That the incurring of any obligation prohibited by this paragraph shall be deemed a violation of section 3679 of the Revised Statutes, as amended (31 U.S.C. 665).

No funds appropriated to the Bureau of Reclamation for operation and maintenance, except those derived from advances by water users, shall be used for the particular benefits of lands (a) within the boundaries of an irrigation district, (b) of any member of a water users' organization, or (c) of any individual when such district, organization, or individual is in arrears for more than twelve months in the payment of charges due under a contract entered into with the United States pursuant to laws administered by the Bureau of Reclamation.

Not to exceed $225,000 may be expended from the appropriation "Construction and rehabilitation" for work by force account on any one project or Missouri River Basin unit and then only when such work is unsuitable for contract or no acceptable bid has been received and, other than otherwise provided in this paragraph or as may be necessary to meet local emergencies, not to exceed 12 per centum of the construction allotment for any project from the appropriation "Construction and rehabilitation" contained in this Act shall be available for construction work by force account: Provided, That this paragraph shall not apply to work performed under the Rehabilitation and Betterment Act of 1949 (63 Stat. 724).

[Any appropriations made heretofore or hereafter to the Bureau of Reclamation which are expended in connection with national disaster relief under Public Law 81-875 as administered by the Office of Emergency Planning shall be reimbursed in full by that Office to the account for which the funds were originally appropriated.] (Public Works Appropriation Act, 1967.)

This fund defrays the expense of operating the power-generation and transmission facilities of the Fort Peck project, Corps of Engineers—Civil, and emergency expenses to insure continuous operation (16 U.S.C. 833).

Budget program.—Decrease in funded program costs in 1968 from 1967 is due primarily to the completion of penstock rehabilitation, and extraordinary maintenance and replacement work. This reduction is partially offset by increased cost of operation of Fort Peck powerplant and replacement of generator coolers.

Financing.—The operation of the Fort Peck project power and transmission facilities is financed by this fund. The capital outlays for transmission facilities by advances from the appropriation Construction and Rehabilitation have been completed.

Operating results.—Net income is estimated at $1,318 thousand for 1968, an increase over the 1967 estimates. Earnings in excess of current operating needs are retained so as to maintain a continuing emergency fund of $500 thousand. The balance is paid into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts toward amortizing with interest that part of the Government investment allocated to power generation and transmission. Such payments totaled $4.4 million in 1966 and are estimated at $1.5 million in 1967 and $1.8 million in 1968.

² The Fort Peck project and the Missouri River Basin project interchange power in their marketing operations. Rather than exchange funds for settlement on the balance of the interchange, the revenues of each project are covered into deposit funds pending distribution to the appropriate fund or receipt account.

UPPER COLORADO RIVER STORAGE PROJECT

For the Upper Colorado River Storage Project, as authorized by the Act of April 11, 1956 (43 U.S.C. 620d), to remain available until expended, [$50,198,000] $39,660,000, of which [$46,398,000] $36,910,000 shall be available for the "Upper Colorado River Basin Fund" authorized by section 5 of said Act of April 11, 1956, and [$3,800,000] $2,750,000 shall be available for construction, operation and maintenance of recreational and fish and wildlife facilities authorized by section 8 thereof, and may be expended by bureaus of the Department through or in cooperation with State or other Federal agencies, and advances to such Federal agencies are hereby authorized: Provided, That no part of the funds herein appropriated shall be available for construction or operation of facilities to prevent waters of Lake Powell from entering any national monument: Provided further, That $148,000 of the funds herein appropriated for the Upper Colorado River Basin Fund shall be available for operation of the Page, Arizona, Accommodation School, and to be nonreimbursable and nonreturnable. (Public Works Appropriation Act, 1967.)

Appropriations made for the Upper Colorado River storage project include amounts for the Upper Colorado River Basin fund which are reimbursable, except for costs allocated to nonreimbursable purposes, and for the recreational and fish and wildlife facilities, which are not reimbursable under the terms of the law.

² Balances of selected resources are identified on the statement of financial condition.

The fund defrays the cost of advance planning, construction, operation, and maintenance of the Colorado River storage project and participating projects, a comprehensive basinwide development which will make possible the control and utilization of the water resources of the Upper Colorado River Basin. The storage project will regulate and conserve the flows of the Colorado River and its major tributaries through holdover storage in large reservoirs, permitting increased consumptive use of water in the upper basin as well as the production of hydroelectric power. Excess revenue from the sale of power will be applied to repayment of costs allocated to irrigation which are beyond the ability of the water users to repay. The participating projects consist of power, irrigation, and municipal and industrial water supply developments.

Construction costs of the storage project and participating projects are financed through appropriations advanced to the fund. Project revenue will be credited to the fund and without further appropriation will be available to cover costs of operation, maintenance, replacements of, and emergency expenditures for, all facilities of the project and with certain limitations, of the participating projects. Revenue in excess of these costs will be utilized to repay project costs allocated to power, municipal and industrial water supply, and irrigation.

Budget program—1. Advance planning.—Funds for this activity in 1968 will provide for the continuation of studies on the Central Utah, Fruitland-Mesa and Savery-Pot Hook participating projects.

2. Colorado River storage project.—Construction will be underway on two units and on the Transmission division.

3. Participating projects.—Work will continue in 1968 on four participating projects.

4. Drainage and minor construction.—This activity will fund work in 1968 on eight participating projects and one unit of the Colorado River storage project which have been substantially completed, but which require additional funds for miscellaneous finishing activities and drainage construction. Of the above, construction is scheduled to be completed on the Navajo unit of the storage project and on the Florida participating project.

Operation and maintenance program.—The Bureau of Reclamation operates and maintains four units of the Colorado River storage project and the power generation and transmission facilities with revenues from the sale of energy and water. The Emery County participating project is operated and maintained with funds advanced by the water users and power operations of the Seedskadee participating project will be financed from operating revenues.

Emergency expenditures.—The program for 1967 includes $1,204 thousand for repairs to Fontenelle Dam, Seedskadee project and $400 thousand for the replacement of spacers on the Glen Canyon-Pinnacle Peak transmission line. The 1968 program provides for completion of the emergency repairs to Fontenelle Dam.

Financing.—The 1968 programs for advance planning and construction of the storage and participating projects will be financed by appropriations to the fund. The operation and maintenance program in 1968 will be financed from project revenues and by funds advanced by the water users, and the emergency expenditure program will be financed from project revenues.

Operating results and financial condition.—Budget expenditures will decrease to $40 million in 1968 from $45 million in 1967.

The total equity of the Government in the fund is expected to reach $737 million by the end of 1968.

The increases in estimated net operating income in 1967 and 1968 arise almost entirely from increasing revenues partially offset by increases in operating expenses and in interest on the investment payable to the U.S. Treasury.

The Administration is responsible for the marketing of electric power produced at 30 Federal hydroelectric generating plants in service or under construction, and wheels and exchanges power for certain non-Federal utilities in the Pacific Northwest.

A schedule of Federal generation through 1976 of plants in operation or expected to be under construction in 1968 follows:

	First generation (fiscal year)	Installed capacity (kilowatts, nameplate rating)
Projects in operation.....		6,758,150
Projects under construction:
Foster.....	1968	20,000
John Day.....	1968	2,160,000
Lower Monumental.....	1970	405,000
Little Goose.....	1970	405,000
Grand Coulee (pumping plant additions).....	1971	97,000
The Dalles (additions).....	1971	624,000
Lower Granite.....	1972	405,000
Chief Joseph (additions).....	1973	704,000
Dworshak.....	1972	400,000
Lost Creek.....	1973	49,000

Libby.....	1974	420,000
Grand Coulee (third powerhouse).....	1974	1,800,000
Total.....		14,247,150

The transmission facilities program also will enable the Administration to wheel and exchange power over the Federal grid from the non-Federal Boundary, Wells, Mossyrock, and Rocky Reach dams. The estimated amounts of peak generating capacity on the Federal system are as follows (in thousands of kilowatts):

	July 1, 1967	July 1, 1976
Federal projects.....	7,896	16,213
Power wheeled and exchanged for non-Federal utilities.....	3,693	5,673
Total.....	11,589	21,886

1. Construction in progress.—Includes amounts requested in 1968 to carry forward work on transmission facilities started in prior years. Funds appropriated in 1966 are available for planning an extra-high-voltage transmission line from western Montana to southern Idaho if a wheeling agreement with non-Federal utilities cannot be reached. No specific estimate for 1968 construction of the transmission line is included in this budget pending final determinations as required by 1967 appropriation action.

2. New construction.—Includes amounts needed in 1968 to start construction of new transmission and substation capacity to carry to load centers the power production of generating installations scheduled to be in operation by June 1974 and to meet service requirements of power customers.

3. General plant.—Provision is made for acquisition of items such as tools and electronic data processing, office, shop, laboratory, transportation, and portable communications equipment used in the construction and operation of the Federal power system. The 1968 budget includes funds for purchase of a large-capacity, general-purpose digital computer to replace an existing computer configuration.

This program provides for the operation and maintenance of the Administration's high-voltage electric grid system, and for commercial and administrative expenses in marketing wholesale electric power from Federal dams, and in wheeling power from non-Federal generating facilities in the Pacific Northwest and over interregional tie lines.

1. System operation and maintenance.—This activity consists of the scheduling and dispatching of power; the operation of substations; the maintenance of transmission lines, substations, and other facilities; power requirements and marketing studies; planning and integration of power resources; and system engineering.

Transmission facilities of the Administration are expanded as increased generating capacity becomes available. The system will be operated and maintained at a level which will insure safe operation and provide a reliable grade of service to customers.

3. Power contracts and rates.—This activity provides for the negotiation of power sales and wheeling contracts, the billing and servicing of these contracts, the review of resale rates, the development of service plans, and the establishment of wholesale rate schedules. Receipts which are deposited in the Treasury amounted to $94.6 million in 1966, and are estimated at $101.7 and $113.3 million for 1967 and 1968, respectively.

1. System operation and maintenance.—Provision is made for investigation of proposed water resources projects; scheduling and dispatching power generation; scheduling storage and release of water; administering contractual operation requirements; and determining methods of operating generating plants individually and in coordination with others to obtain maximum utilization of resources.

2. Purchase of energy and wheeling charges.—Provision is made for the payment of wheeling fees and for the purchase of firming energy in connection with disposal of power from the Kerr and Jim Woodruff projects under contracts with utility companies.

3. Power contracts and rates.—Provision is made for negotiation and administration of power contracts, collection of revenue, development of wholesale power rates, and determination of adequate provisions for the amortization of the power investment. Receipts which were deposited in the Treasury amounted to $22,891,212 in 1966 and are estimated at $26,200,000 for 1967 and 1968.

4. General administration.—Provision is made for the agency's executive management and supporting administrative services.

1. Construction in progress.—Construction of facilities started in 1966 and 1967 will be completed during the budget year.

2. New construction and additions.—The 1968 construction program provides for preliminary construction and engineering; system planning, and comprehensive river basin planning; additional substation capacity; additional metering, relay and communications equipment; and general plant equipment.

The 1966 budget included funds for initiating construction of a line through central and southwestern Arkansas and southeastern Oklahoma. In place of this, pursuant to a congressional directive, negotiations are continuing with privately owned utilities for the wheeling of power to preference customers in southwestern Arkansas, northwestern Louisiana, and Oklahoma. Results of the negotiations will be reported to the Congress at an early date. If satisfactory contractual arrangements for wheeling cannot be obtained, consideration will be given to appropriations to initiate construction of a Federal transmission line and related facilities.

The Administration is responsible for the marketing of electric power produced at 22 Corps of Engineers—Civil hydroelectric generating plants in the Southwest. A schedule of Federal generation through 1973 of plants in operation and under construction in this area follows:

Power developed at Corps of Engineers—Civil hydroelectric generating plants in four Southwestern States is marketed by the Administration through transmission facilities owned by others and through its own system. The Administration also contracts for the sale, purchase, and interchange of power with other systems.

1. System operation and maintenance.—The Administration operates and maintains a transmission system as follows (dollars in thousands):

This appropriation provided for the construction of five demonstration plants. Four plants located at Freeport, Tex.; Webster, S. Dak.; Roswell, N. Mex., and the freezing process demonstration pilot plant located at Wrightsville Beach, N.C., have been completed. The fifth plant located at San Diego, Calif., was completed in 1962 and transferred to the Navy Department in 1964. Funds provided by appropriation and reimbursement will finance replacement of this plant which is scheduled to be completed in the last quarter of 1967.

1. Water pollution control and water quality standards laboratories.—Four water pollution control laboratories authorized in 1961 have been constructed and are now operational. Two water quality standards research laboratories were authorized in 1963. One of these, a fresh water research facility at Duluth, Minn., is expected to be completed in 1967. The 1968 request will provide for special and technical equipment and repairs and improvements in these facilities.

2. Field evaluations.—A demonstration program for abating and controlling acid drainage pollution from mines is in process. This pollution destroys fisheries and recreational values, makes water treatment more costly, and discourages new industry. By the end of 1967, all control measures will have been installed or placed under contract at a site near Elkins, W. Va. Several sites in Pennsylvania are under study. Also, several advanced waste treatment processes will be evaluated in the field on a pilot scale basis.

WATER SUPPLY AND WATER POLLUTION CONTROL

For expenses necessary to carry out the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, as amended, and other related activities, including $4,700,000 $9,000,000 for grants to States and $300,000 $1,000,000 for grants to interstate agencies under section 7 of such Act, $55,439,000: Provided, That the unobligated balance of funds appropriated under this head in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1966, for constructing acid mine drainage control measures, shall remain available during the current fiscal year and shall be transferred to the appropriation for "Buildings and facilities." $101,114,000: Provided, That $1,000,000 for grants to comprehensive basin planning agencies under section 3(c) of such Act and $30,000,000 for grants under section 6 of such Act, shall remain available until expended. (Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1967.)

Note.—Includes $10 million for activities transferred in the estimate from "Construction grants for waste treatment works," Federal Water Pollution Control Administration. The amounts obligated in 1966 and 1967 are shown in the schedule as comparative transfers.

1. Grants—(a) Research and development.—Grants and, to some extent, contracts are made to public and private agencies, institutions, and individuals for research and for field investigations and studies of an applied nature. Their purpose is to test and illustrate the applicability of research findings and newly developed techniques to problems of water pollution and particularly those related to combined sewer problems, advanced waste treatment, water purification, and joint treatment of municipal wastes and industrial waste pollution problems. Approximately 400 grants or contracts will be supported in 1968 as compared to 410 in 1967 and 312 in 1966.

(b) Training.—Grants are made to colleges, universities, and other institutions to expand training of manpower required in the field of water pollution control. Fellowships are also awarded to support individual scientists and engineers in water pollution control research. An estimated 165 grants and fellowships will be awarded as compared to 168 in 1967, and 178 in 1966.

(c) State and interstate agency programs.—Grants are made to States and interstate agencies for active participation in water pollution control programs.

(d) Comprehensive basin planning.—Grants will be provided to help finance the administrative expenses of agencies established and adequately represented by State, interstate, local, or international interests, to develop effective comprehensive water quality control and abatement plans for river basins.

2. Direct operations—(a) Comprehensive planning, management, and assistance.—This includes development and assistance in comprehensive river basin planning, development of water quality standards, comprehensive study of estuaries; technical assistance to other Federal agencies, States, and interstate agencies, local communities and industry; pollution surveillance; training; economic and manpower evaluation of water pollution control activities; and control of pollution from Federal installations. The funds provide for generally expanding or initiating activities in these areas.

(b) Research and development.—The 1968 increase will permit accelerating efforts in water pollution control laboratories, initiating field studies or demonstrations and providing for 150 to 200 contracts. It also provides for technical management for grants and contracts.

(c) Regulation and enforcement.—The estimate provides for enforcement activities when established water quality standards are violated.

(d) Construction grants administration.—(See entry under "Construction grants for waste treatment works.")

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1965, $58 thousand (1966 adjustments, $18 thousand); 1966, $7 thousand; 1967, $7 thousand; 1968, $7 thousand.

1. Departmental direction.—The Office of the Secretary, Under Secretary, and the Office of Information provide top departmental direction and contact with the public. The Office for Equal Opportunity provides departmental administration of the equal opportunity program. An adviser on environmental quality with a small supporting staff will be established in the Office of the Secretary reporting through the Science Adviser.

2. Program direction and coordination.—Five Assistant Secretaries and the Program Support Staff assist the Secretary on matters of policy for promoting the domestic welfare and the conservation and development of the country's resources. The Office of Minerals and Solid Fuels and the Defense Electric Power Administration discharge the responsibilities of the Secretary regarding mobilization and emergency preparedness functions relating to electric power and minerals including solid fuels.

3. Administrative management.—Under the direction of the Assistant Secretary for Administration, financial management, budget, management improvement, property management, personnel, administrative services, inspection, investigation, internal audit, and security operations are carried on.

4. The Office of the Commissioner is responsible for general supervision and coordination of Fish and Wildlife Service activities.

5. General services.—Printing and binding, telephone, health, and library services are provided under this activity.

Increase of $1,341 thousand in adjusted appropriation in 1967 is caused by transfers of $148 thousand from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in connection with the transfer of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration to the Department of the Interior and $1,193 thousand from the bureaus as a result of the consolidation of the audit function in the Office of the Secretary.

The objective of this program is to stimulate, sponsor, provide for, and supplement present programs for the conduct of research, investigations, experiments, and the training of scientists in the fields of water and of resources which affect water, in order to assist in assuring the Nation at all times of a supply of water sufficient in quantity and quality to meet the requirements of its expanding population. A supplemental appropriation for 1967 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

1. Assistance to States for institutes.—This activity provides for specific grants to all 50 States and Puerto Rico for assistance in carrying on the work of a competent and qualified water resources research institute at one college or university in each State. The function of such institutes is to conduct research, investigations, and experiments of either a basic or practical nature, or both, in relation to water resources and to provide for the training of scientists through such research, investigations, and experiments. States may elect to use their grants in support of regional institutes in which several States participate.

2. Matching grants to institutes.—This activity provides for grants to match, on a dollar-for-dollar basis, funds made available to institutes by States or other non-Federal sources to meet the necessary expenses of specific water resources research projects which could not otherwise be undertaken.

3. Additional water research.—This activity provides for grants to and contracts and matching or other arrangements with educational institutions, private foundations or other institutions, with private firms and individuals whose training, experience, and qualifications are adequate for the conduct of water research projects, and with local, State, and Federal Government agencies, to undertake research into any aspects of water problems related to the mission of the Department of the Interior which are deemed desirable and which are not otherwise being studied.

4. Scientific information center.—This activity provides for the operation of a water resources scientific information center. The objectives of center operations are to be responsive to the water resources scientific information needs of Federal water resources organizations, to avoid duplication of research, and to improve communications and coordination of efforts among all those engaged in federally sponsored water-related research.

5. Administration.—This activity provides for the administration of the Water Resources Research Act including the prescribing of rules and regulations; review and appraisal of institute programs and research proposals; making of allotments, contracts, and grants; establishment and maintenance of cooperation and coordination among the centers and between the centers and Federal and other organizations concerned with water resources.

Operating results and financial condition.—In 1967 the corporation will liquidate its remaining activities including disposal of properties on St. Thomas which it has managed for the Department of Defense.

The accumulated deficit of $143 thousand has been written off in accordance with the provisions of the Virgin Islands Corporation Act (72 Stat. 1759).

All current receivables mortgages and long-term accounts at a total of $11,954 thousand will be transferred on June 30, 1967, to the Secretary of the Interior and the Administrator of GSA for collection and deposit in the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts. The analysis is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Current accounts	553
Mortgages receivable	11,269
Long-term accounts	132

The cash balance of $14 thousand will also be returned to the Treasury.

These transfers aggregating to $11,968 thousand will offset the Government equity and completely terminate all activities of the Corporation.

GENERAL PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

SEC. 101. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency reconstruction, replacement, or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities, or other facilities or equipment damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, storm, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted.

SEC. 102. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office) of any appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts included in the budget programs of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of forest or range fires on or threatening lands under jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior: Provided, That appropriations made in this title for fire suppression purposes shall be available for the payment of obligations incurred during the preceding fiscal year, and for reimbursement to other Federal agencies for destruction of vehicles, aircraft or other equipment in connection with their use for fire suppression purposes, such reimbursement to be credited to appropriations currently available at the time of receipt thereof.

SEC. 103. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for operation of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by the Act of June 30, 1932 (31 U.S.C. 686): Provided, That reimbursements for costs of supplies, materials and equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.

SEC. 104. Appropriations made to the Department of the Interior in this title or in the Public Works Appropriations Act, [1967] 1968, shall be available for services as authorized by [section 15 of the Act of August 2, 1946 (5 U.S.C. 55a)] 5 U.S.C. 3109, when authorized by the Secretary [in total amount not to exceed $200,000]; hire, maintenance and operation of aircraft; hire of passenger motor vehicles; purchase of reprints; payment for telephone service in private residences in the field, when authorized under regulations approved by the Secretary; and the payment of dues, when authorized by the Secretary, for library membership in societies or associations which issue publications to members only or at a price to members lower than to subscribers who are not members.

SEC. 105. Appropriations available to the Department of the Interior for salaries and expenses shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. [2131] 5901; 80 Stat. 299 and D.C. Code 4-204). (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1967.)

SEC. 201. Appropriations in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency reconstruction, replacement or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities, or other facilities or equipment damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, storm, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted.

SEC. 202. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office) of any appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts included in the budget programs of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of forest or range fires on or threatening lands under jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior.

SEC. 203. Appropriations in this title shall be available for operation of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by the Act of June 30, 1932 (31 U.S.C. 686): Provided, That reimbursements for costs of supplies, materials, and equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.

SEC. 204. No part of any funds made available by this Act to the Southwestern Power Administration may be made available to any other agency, bureau, or office for any purposes other than for services rendered pursuant to law to the Southwestern Power Administration. (Public Works Appropriation Act, 1967.)

GENERAL PROVISIONS, RELATED AGENCIES

SEC. 202. The per diem rate paid from appropriations made available under this title for services as authorized by [section 15 of the Act of August 2, 1946 (5 U.S.C. [55a]) 3109 or other law, shall not exceed $88. (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1967.)

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 301. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein. (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1967.)

ALIEN PROPERTY ACTIVITIES

LIMITATION ON GENERAL ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES

The Attorney General, or such officer as he may designate, is hereby authorized to pay out of any funds or other property or interest vested in him or transferred to him pursuant to or with respect to the Trading With the Enemy Act of October 6, 1917, as amended (50 U.S.C. App.), and the International Claims Settlement Act, as amended (22 U.S.C. 1631), necessary expenses incurred in carrying out the powers and duties conferred on the Attorney General pursuant to said Acts: Provided, That not to exceed [$80,000] $48,000 shall be available in the current fiscal year for transfer to the appropriation for "Salaries and expenses, general legal activities", for the general administrative expenses of alien property activities, including rent of private or Government-owned space in the District of Columbia. (28 U.S.C. 515, 524, 525; 50 U.S.C., App. 6; Executive Order 9788, Oct. 14, 1948, 11 F.R. 11981; Department of Justice Appropriation Act, 1967.)

The Office of Alien Property, which had administered the Government's interest in property seized or blocked under the Trading with the Enemy Act during World War II, was terminated as an organizational entity on June 30, 1966. Alien property matters remaining after June 30, 1966, will be dealt with by the Civil Division. They are not expected to require the full-time services of any employee. The funds requested in this budget are needed principally to support the part-time activities of Civil Division personnel, alien property work, and for other related activities.

Under the Law Enforcement Assistance Act of 1965, funds are awarded to public or private nonprofit agencies and institutions for (1) improving or enlarging programs and facilities to provide professional training and related education to State and local law enforcement, correctional, and crime control personnel, and (2) projects designed to improve the capabilities, techniques, and practices of State and local agencies engaged in law enforcement, the administration of criminal justice, the correction of offenders, and the prevention and control of crime.

The review, processing, and monitoring of grant and contract awards made for the above purposes constitute the major part of the Department's activities under the above legislation. However, the act also contemplates that special studies will be made concerning law enforcement organization, techniques, and practices, or the prevention and control of crime, and that technical assistance will be rendered to State and local agencies in these matters. Information and materials relating to such studies and to the results and findings of projects supported under the act are also collected, evaluated, published, and disseminated for use by interested agencies.

Established by title X of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Service provides assistance to communities in resolving disputes, disagreements, and difficulties arising from discriminatory practices which disrupt or threaten to disrupt peaceful relations among citizens, and also where efforts are being made to eliminate disparities between groups, to achieve compliance with the act, and to reduce and prevent racial disorders.

By law, the Service may assist communities upon request of local citizens or officials, or upon its own motion; Federal courts may also refer public accommodations cases arising under title II of the act to the Service.

To create a climate of compliance and orderly progress, the Service seeks, encourages, and utilizes the cooperation of appropriate Federal, State, and local agencies, private and public groups or institutions, and individuals working to develop methods and programs for the peaceful resolution of racial disputes. Vital to this effort, is the CRS National Citizens Committee, appointed by the President, whose membership is pledged to equal opportunities and who work in close cooperation with the Service.

In 1968, six field offices, with a complement of 46 conciliation specialists, will be established. Staff of these offices will be prepared to assist any community in which a crisis arises, but will specifically seek to help ward off crises in the 87 central cities in which there are more than 10,000 people of minority groups living.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is the investigative branch of the Department of Justice and obtains evidence for use in civil litigation and prosecution of criminal violations of Federal law. It has primary responsibility for the internal security of the Nation. It assists all law enforcement agencies in identification and technical matters.

The appropriation request for 1968 totals $186.6 million. This will provide an additional 569 full-year employees (106 agents and 463 clerks) when compared with the personnel staff allowed under the appropriation approved by Congress for the current fiscal year. One hundred sixty-five of these (100 agents and 65 clerks) are for assignment to the field to assist in the handling of the growing volume of civil rights work. The remaining 404 additional employees (6 agents and 398 clerks) are for assignment at the seat of government, the bulk to be utilized to meet a rapidly rising volume of name and fingerprint checkwork.

1. Security and criminal investigations.—This activity includes the Bureau's investigative responsibilities, the coordination and maintenance of the data gathered, and the maintenance of the Bureau's communications system. Data are disseminated to other Government agencies having an official interest in them. During 1966, the Bureau received 2,426,665 names for search through its files, up 43% over the prior year and a further substantial increase in name checkwork is anticipated.

Estimate:
1967.....	720,000
1968.....	725,000

2. Identification by fingerprints.—The Identification Division is the national repository of identification data based on fingerprint records. Fingerprints are acquired, classified, preserved, and exchanged with other duly authorized law enforcement agencies and 6,964,816 sets of fingerprints were received for handling during 1966, an increase of 18% over the 1965 volume and a new high for any fiscal year since the time of World War II. The volume of fingerprint work is expected to continue at this high level. Sets of fingerprints on file on July 1, 1966, totaled 179,775,988.

3. Criminal and scientific laboratory.—The laboratory provides technical and scientific assistance to the FBI and all duly constituted law enforcement agencies and other Federal agencies which desire to avail themselves of the service. During 1966, scientific examinations totaled 284,304, a new alltime high. The upward trend is expected to continue.

4. Training schools and inspectional services.—A Bureau-wide inspectional service and a personnel training program are provided. The Bureau assists, upon request, in providing various types of training to local law enforcement agencies.

A supplemental appropriation for 1967 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

This appropriation will provide for the custody and care of an average of 20,100 prisoners and the maintenance and operation of 39 institutions and the central office. An average of 5,143 employees will be employed with the funds in this appropriation. The medical care of prisoners is provided by the U.S. Public Health Service.

1. Custody, care, and treatment of prisoners in Federal institutions covers the direct care costs of all prisoners in the Federal prison system. These include the costs of all food, clothing, education, custodial requirements, welfare services, release transportation, and related personal services. The funds required, exclusive of salary costs, are in direct relation to the estimated number of prisoners expected to be maintained in 1968 which is 20,100 at an estimated cost per man per day of $0.98. The average daily population for 1966 was 20,925 as compared to 21,624 in 1965.

2. Maintenance and operation of institutions.—This activity includes administrative expenses, all utility services, operation of motor vehicles, the repair and maintenance of all buildings and facilities, and equipment replacements. The cost of personal services attributable to these activities is also included.

3. Medical services.—Funds are allocated to the Public Health Service for the cost of medical, psychiatric, and technical services.

This is a wholly owned Government corporation. A board of six directors appointed by the President controls its policies. Supervision is by the Director of the Bureau of Prisons who has jurisdiction over all industrial enterprises and vocational training programs in all Federal penal and correctional institutions. Products manufactured by inmates are sold only to the penal institutions and to other Government agencies. Earnings, in excess of operating requirements, are paid as dividends into the U.S. Treasury.

Purpose and organization.—The Corporation is authorized, under the Attorney General, to establish and operate industries in Federal penal and correctional institutions and disciplinary barracks (18 U.S.C. 4121-4128). Its purposes are to provide employment for inmates, provide maximum vocational training for qualified inmates in connection with regular institutional and industrial activities; and to operate a placement service to assist released inmates to secure jobs. Products manufactured by the inmates are sold only to other Government agencies and the penal institutions. Earnings from the sale of these products pay expenses of the corporation and have permitted payment of $63 million in dividends into the Treasury since January 1, 1935. It is anticipated that dividends of $4 million will be paid in both 1967 and 1968.

Budget program.—During 1966, the corporation operated 53 shops and factories at 23 locations. The clothing factory at Atlanta was closed, thus providing space and manpower needed for the expansion of the canvas specialty factory due to the Post Office orders. The feather products activities was moved from Chillicothe, Ohio, to Texarkana, Tex.; the print shop was moved from El Reno, Okla., to Marion, Ill.; and the foundry at Chillicothe, Ohio, and the laundry at Alderson, W. Va., were closed.

During 1967, an automatic data processing enterprise will be started at Alderson, W. Va., and a new enterprise will start operations at Marion, Ill. The brush factory at Florence, Ariz., will be moved to La Tuna, Tex. The glove factory at the women's division at Terminal Island, Calif., will be closed, thus permitting an expansion of the clothing factory operations. The chair factory at Chillicothe will be closed.

The following table indicates the scope of employment and training efforts in the total prison program:

Operating results.—The corporation has always operated at a profit and is expected to continue to do so. Earnings of the fund pay expenses of the corporation, which include general administration and vocational rehabilitation. These two activities, although financed from fund receipts are subject to annual appropriation limitations. Earnings in excess of operating requirements are paid into the U.S. Treasury. As of June 30, 1966, the cumulative earnings amounted to $97.9 million, of which $34.9 million had been retained as working capital and $63 million had been paid into the Treasury. Earnings are estimated to be $5.2 million in 1967 and $5.9 million in 1968.

1. Training and allowance payments.—This activity provides for the direct program costs for occupational and basic education training programs to equip the Nation's unemployed and underemployed workers with skills that will enable them to participate in productive employment. Institutional training projects are conducted by State and local vocational education agencies and on-the-job training projects are conducted by employers and other organizations. Part-time training opportunities are provided for workers to be trained in areas where skill shortages exist or are expected. Assistance is also provided to persons in need of basic employment skills such as language and other basic education skills. Programs are conducted for the training of prison inmates to increase their employability upon release. This activity provides for the costs of conducting training and for trainee allowances to those trainees who are heads of households or who meet other provisions of the act regarding eligibility to allowances. In 1968, projects are estimated to be approved for 280,000 persons.

2. Program services.—This activity provides for services by the State employment security agencies in the overall development and administration of employment service activities including the identification of occupations in which shortages or potential demand exists, the selection, referral, and placement of trainees and the paying of trainee allowances. Overall supervision of the institutional program is provided by the State vocational education agencies. On-the-job project promotion, development, and supervision are also provided by cooperating State apprenticeship agencies and by employers, associations, and other organizations. Health services for trainees are provided by vocational rehabilitation agencies or other available medical facilities when such services are not available from other sources. Costs will increase in 1968 in order to provide more extensive services required for training disadvantaged persons.

3. Federal institutional training services.—This activity provides for the program development and administration of the institutional training programs provided by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

2. Planning, research, and evaluation.—This activity provides for the Federal administration of the planning, research, and evaluation activities of the Office of the Manpower Administrator in planning, developing, and implementing a comprehensive manpower program. It provides leadership, coordination, and direction to the manpower research program. It provides continuous review and appraisal of approved programs and identifies and develops solutions, through experimental and demonstration programs, for the special problems and needs of various groups of potential trainees. It also provides leadership for the coordination of major Federal manpower research activities.

3. Financial and management services.—This activity provides for administrative staff support to the Manpower Administrator in the achievement of an integrated, national manpower program. It furnishes administrative and staff support services in the budget, fiscal management, administrative, and management services areas and provides centralized personnel services and contract services to all organizations of the Manpower Administration.

4. Executive direction.—This activity provides for the executive direction, supervision, and coordination of the manpower programs.

1. Training promotion and service to industry.—Industrial management and unions are encouraged and aided to develop and conduct apprenticeship and industrial training programs which will help individual workers attain and improve skill competence and adaptability. Apprenticeship and training programs are promoted and established by direct contact at national and local levels with employers and unions, by use of informational media and promotional techniques, and by cooperation with State and community agencies concerned with manpower development. More than 2,200 apprenticeship and industrial training programs are initiated annually to provide training opportunities for new labor force entrants and skill-deficient workers. Technical assistance is provided to 185,000 employers directly or through union manage-

2. On-the-job training.—Section 204, title II, of the Manpower Development and Training Act, is implemented by administration of an on-the-job training program in industry. Employers, associations, community and civic groups, and unions are provided assistance in the operation of inplant training programs to facilitate hiring of unskilled applicants and upgrading skills of employees. Training programs are developed to meet specific needs for additional workers or skills. Contracts are negotiated to reimburse employers for on-the-job training costs incurred as provided for under the Manpower Development and Training Act. State apprenticeship agencies are encouraged to participate in on-the-job training and are reimbursed for costs incurred in performance of MDTA-OJT activities.

BUREAU OF EMPLOYMENT SECURITY

LIMITATION ON GRANTS TO STATES FOR UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION AND EMPLOYMENT SERVICE ADMINISTRATION

(Trust fund)

For grants in accordance with the provisions of the Act of June 6, 1933, as amended (29 U.S.C. 49-49n), for carrying into effect section 602 of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, for grants to the States as authorized in title III of the Social Security Act, as amended (42 U.S.C. 501-503), including, upon the request of any State, the purchase of equipment, and the payment of rental for space made available to such State in lieu of grants for such purpose, and for expenses not otherwise provided for, necessary for carrying out title XV of the Social Security Act, as amended (68 Stat. 1130), [$524,000,000] $557,107,000 may be expended from the employment security administration account in the Unemployment trust fund, and of which $12,000,000 shall be available only to the extent necessary to meet increased costs of administration resulting from changes in a State law or increases in the number of claims filed and claims paid or increased salary costs resulting from changes in State salary compensation plans embracing employees of the State generally over those upon which the State's basic grant (or the allocation for the District of Columbia) was based, which increased costs of administration cannot be provided for by normal budgetary adjustments: Provided, That any portion of the funds granted to a State in the current fiscal year and not obligated by the State in that year shall be returned to the Treasury and credited to the account from which derived: Provided further, That such amounts as may be agreed upon by the Department of Labor and the Post Office Department shall be used for the payment, in such manner as said parties may jointly determine, of postage for the transmission of official mail matter in connection with the administration of unemployment compensation systems and employment services by States receiving grants herefrom.

Grants to States, next succeeding fiscal year: For making, after May 31 of the current fiscal year, payments to States under title III of the Social Security Act, as amended, and under the Act of June 6, 1933, as amended, for the first quarter of the next succeeding fiscal year, such sums as may be necessary, the obligations incurred and the expenditures made thereunder for payments under such title and under such Act of June 6, 1933, to be charged to the appropriation therefor for that fiscal year: Provided, That the payments made pursuant to this paragraph shall not exceed the amount obligated by the United States for such purposes for the fourth quarter of the current fiscal year. (29 U.S.C. 49-49n; 38 U.S.C. 2001-2014; 42 U.S.C. 501-503, 1101-1105, 1361-1371; Department of Labor Appropriation Act, 1967.)

1. Unemployment insurance service.—State employment security agencies pay unemployment compensation to unemployed workers eligible under State unemployment insurance laws and collect unemployment taxes from employers who are subject to State unemployment insurance laws. Unemployment benefits are also paid to unemployed Federal workers and ex-servicemen from funds provided under Federal appropriation. Federal grants in 1966 provided State administrative funds to collect $3.1 billion in taxes and pay $1.9 billion in State benefits to unemployed workers.

2. Employment service.—The Federal-State employment service system is a nationwide network of nearly 2,000 local employment offices financed by Federal grants and administered by the State employment security agencies. The local offices provide a community manpower service for the areas served by obtaining jobs for persons seeking employment, by providing workers for employers having jobs to offer, by developing or carrying out programs designed to resolve the employment, unemployment, and manpower utilization problems of an area, and by providing special services to employers, individuals, and community agencies or groups requiring or seeking them. These functions are supplemented by counseling and testing services to assist applicants in obtaining suitable jobs or to upgrade their skills through further training, and by assisting employers in analyzing their skill requirements and in solving problems of recruitment and turnover. Specialized services are offered to inexperienced and otherwise disadvantaged youth, particularly high school drop-outs, and to others who are presently unsuited for available employment. Similarly, special services are offered to veterans, older workers, handicapped, and minority group jobseekers.

Programs are carried on to aid communities to develop employment opportunities and to provide necessary employment services to workers and employers in areas where the establishment of full-time offices is not economically feasible. Various statistical and survey operations are carried out to assist employers, local offices, and other Government agencies. The services outlined above are provided for both farm and nonfarm workers.

3. Administration and management.—State agency administrative staff provides leadership and direction for the program activities in the State and local offices; control the financial management and statistical reporting programs of the employment security system to assure their effectiveness, efficiency, and economy; and provide all administrative support services.

Toward the improvement of administrative management, State agencies in 1968 are expected to participate in the development and introduction of "plans of service" geared to national objectives but tailored to meet local situations; self-evaluation programs of operations and activities; a management information reporting system, including work measurement and cost accounting; and plans for automating operations to the maximum extent feasible.

4. Contingency fund.—This fund is provided to meet increases in administration costs due to unforeseen increases in the number of claims filed for unemployment compensation, changes in State unemployment compensation laws, and for additional costs due to changes in State employee salary rates brought about by changes in State compensation plans embracing employees of the States, generally.

Funds are allocated to the States for payment of unemployment compensation to eligible Federal employees and ex-servicemen and for State administrative costs and allowance payments under the Automotive Products Trade Act and the Trade Expansion Act.

Weeks compensated under the unemployment compensation for Federal employees program were 1,070,389 in 1966 and are estimated at 738,000 in 1967. Weeks compensated under the unemployment compensation program for ex-servicemen were 1,282,411 in 1966 and are estimated at 696,000 in 1967. The reduction in weeks compensated in 1968 reflects continued improvement in economic conditions.

The average weekly payment will increase because of the trend of State legislatures to increase the maximum weekly benefit amount to follow increases in wage payments to workers covered under State laws and higher earnings of Federal workers, both civilian and military. The increase in weekly benefit amounts will be offset by the decrease in weeks compensated.

1. Unemployment Insurance Service.—The Service's responsibilities are concerned with State unemployment insurance laws and related wage loss compensation plans, including unemployment compensation for Federal employees and ex-servicemen. The Service determines whether State plans and their administration conform to Federal law requirements; reviews State estimates of funds needed to administer the unemployment insurance program; and provides leadership and assistance to the States in improving legal structures, administration, and financial soundness of State reserves. In 1968, the Service will continue these functions at the 1967 level. During 1968, the Unemployment Insurance Service will (1) evaluate alternative systems of source data automation in benefit payment operation in the States and prepare recommendations for their adoption and installation; (2) complete studies of alternatives work measurement systems and overseas installation of selected systems in at least one-fourth of the States; and (3) define standards of effective administration for use in evaluating State performance and resource requirement.

2. U.S. Employment Service.—This Service furnishes assistance and guidance to State agencies in the management of employment service offices to provide (a) an efficient placement service in all occupations for all workers and employers; (b) counseling and testing services to assist both workers and employers in meeting their individual employment needs; (c) specialized services for job-seekers requiring particular assistance in order to secure suitable employment, including youth, older workers, handicapped, minority groups, and workers displaced by automation and technological change; (d) for improved mobility of labor by guiding necessary shifts of workers between geographical areas and across occupational and industrial lines; (e) labor area information analysis; (f) estimates of area employment and unemployment and the occupational characteristics of job opportunities; (g) occupational analysis to employers and unions; (h) stimulation and support for community action to develop expanded job opportunities and to stabilize employment; (i) suitable counseling and placement services to veterans and to stimulate the interest of employers in employing veterans; (j) special recruitment and farm placement programs to help unemployed and underemployed farmworkers, including rural youth, achieve maximum employment, and to meet agriculture's needs for year-round and seasonal workers; (k) greater job continuity by maintaining and expanding interstate migratory routes; (l) assistance to local migratory committees for the extension of community services to migratory farmworkers and their families; and (m) investigation of farm and nonfarm employment offered aliens seeking permanent entry into the United States under the Immigration and Nationality Act. In 1968 the Employment Service will continue to provide these services at the 1967 level.

3. Administration and Management Service.—This Service provides or coordinates, as appropriate, leadership and assistance in overall administrative management activities within the Bureau and to affiliated employment security agencies. This responsibility involves budgeting, allocating, and reporting activities. In addition, the Service maintains the nationwide statistical reporting and validation system, and through it serves the needs of the Bureau and affiliated agencies for statistical data and economic research and analysis. The Service conducts evaluations of overall administration in affiliated agencies and assists in efforts to strengthen and improve management functions; provides assistance to them in their personnel administration and staff training responsibilities; monitors their compliance with Federal merit system standards; and assists them in the application and utilization of electronic data processing facilities. For the Bureau, the Service provides centralized services and assistance involving such activities as management studies, organization control, employment ceiling control, procedural coordination, automatic data processing, office services, and general business management. At the 1967 level of operations, the Service, in 1968, will adjust its activities as necessary to provide coordination to bureauwide efforts in the development and design of guides, techniques and tools for use by State agencies in program planning and evaluation, management information reporting (including work measurement and cost accounting), and automation of operations, as recommended in reports prepared by two management consulting firms.

4. Manpower development and training activities.—The Bureau of Employment Security furnishes guidance and assistance to the States in the development, administration, and evaluation of a manpower program which provides: (a) payment of relocation assistance allowances to workers who have been forced to find employment in new areas; (b) payment of training, travel, and subsistence training allowances to persons found in need of assistance during training conducted by Manpower Development and Training Act (MDTA); (c) unemployed and underemployed persons with basic educational and occupational training; (d) counseling and testing services to such persons prior to, during, and after completion of training in accordance with their needs; (e) specialized services for jobseekers who require assistance in securing suitable employment, including youth, older workers, handicapped, minority groups, hard-core unemployed, and workers displaced by automation and technological change; (f) improved mobility of labor by guiding necessary shifts of workers between geographical areas and across occupational lines; (g) training needs surveys in relation to the occupational characteristics of job opportunities; (h) placement services to assist trainees and employers to satisfy their respective employment needs; (i) stimulation and support for community action to develop expanded educational and job opportunities; and (j) formulation and preparation of fiscal standards procedures and statistics associated with the MDTA program. In 1968 the MDTA will continue to provide services to workers and employers.

5. Farm labor contractor registration activities.—The Farm Labor Service provides policy, administrative directions and procedures for implementation of the act and the Secretary's regulations; issues interpretative bulletins, and operating procedures; conducts field investigations to insure compliance with the provisions of the act and regulations; and when necessary, initiates cases against alleged violators of the provisions. In 1968 the Bureau will emphasize the compliance function under the act.

7. Admission and employment of immigrant aliens.—Under the provisions of 8 U.S.C. 1184, immigrants wishing to work will not be allowed to enter the country unless the Secretary of Labor has certified that "there are not sufficient workers in the United States who are able, willing, qualified, and available . . . , and the employment of such aliens will not adversely affect wages and working conditions of the workers in the United States similarly employed." In order to implement the Department's responsibilities, the Bureau of Employment Security will make recommendations and issuance or denial of certifications to all petitioners seeking third and sixth preferences, to visa applicants in nonpreference cases, and those from the Western Hemisphere that are not screened out by the consulates or Immigration and Naturalization Service offices. Department of Labor authority under the law will be used to stimulate full utilization of unemployed U.S. resident workers.

This fund covered transportation and other costs directly involved in importing Mexican farmworkers (7 U.S.C. 1461-1468). The Mexican Farm Labor Program expired December 31, 1964. However, because of the 2-year time limitations for filing claims—article 39, Migrant Labor Agreement of 1951, as amended, and article 24 of the Standard Work Contract, a contingency reserve of $65,000 has been set up to meet potential obligations which may arise as a result of liquidation of the program. This reserve is reflected as an unobligated balance. Should no claims arise which would properly be chargeable to the Farm Labor Supply Revolving Fund, the $65,000 reserve, plus any other savings which might materialize, will be turned over to the U.S. Treasury.

This fund established by the Employment Security Act of 1960 (74 Stat. 970) makes advances without fiscal year limitation to the Employment Security Administration Account in the Unemployment Trust Fund. The purpose of this fund is to finance the Federal and State administrative costs of the employment security programs on a repayable basis from the beginning of the fiscal year until the Federal unemployment tax receipts become available in February of the same fiscal year.

During 1966, the sixth year of operations, $210,245 thousand was advanced to the Employment Security Account and was repaid. During 1967, about $294,615 thousand of the fund will be used to finance the program until the Federal unemployment tax receipts are received during February 1967.

Based on the 1968 requested limitation on Grants to States of $557,107 thousand and $18,328 thousand for Bureau of Employment Security, Salaries and expenses, it is estimated that $304,487 thousand will be required for Advances in 1968.

The fund will be needed until the Employment Security Administration Account accumulates a carryover balance of $250 million. Earnings are retained to meet future requirements.

This appropriation covers activities necessary to the administration and enforcement of the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959 (LMRDA); the Welfare and Pension Plans Disclosure Act (WPPDA) as amended, the several provisions of law respecting reemployment rights of veterans, reservists, and National Guardsmen on training duty, and to other functions required to sustain and carry out responsibilities of the Secretary of Labor in labor-management relations matters.

1. Employee-management relations services.—Assistance is provided to unions, employers, employees, and Federal agencies, in meeting long-range, complex, and critical labor-management problems. Included are arrangements for special studies and analyses, guidance in identifying and utilizing available public and private services, and technical assistance in estimating and planning for economic and work force adjustments as they will affect labor-management relations. Federal action with regard to particular labor-management disputes is coordinated; requests of agencies and employee organization for nominations of arbitrators are processed; and the departments' responsibilities under Executive Order 10988 and the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, are carried out.

2. Labor-management policy development.—Recommendations are developed for the Administrator and the Secretary with respect to appropriate policy for labor-management relations legislation, Executive orders, objectives for Federal programs affecting collective bargaining, and matters before the President's Advisory Committee on Labor-Management Policy. Studies are made of private policies affecting collective bargaining and of the performance of collective bargaining in relation to meeting current and prospective economic and social needs; labor-management relations research functions in the Department of Labor are coordinated and special studies are made of particular situations. Research programs pertaining to the LMRDA and the WPPDA are developed and executed.

3. Administration of reporting and disclosure laws.— This activity covers the administration and enforcement of the LMRDA and WPPDA. Reporting forms and instructions are devised and reports from labor organizations, union officers and employees, employers and labor relations consultants and welfare and pension plan administrators are examined for compliance with the acts with comprehensive analysis made of selected reports. Reports are made available for disclosure to the public. Interpretations and regulations pertaining to the acts are developed and promulgated, as are policies and standards for the conduct of elections. Technical assistance to further voluntary compliance, including clinics and workshops, publications and visual aids, is provided to those affected by the acts. Under the provisions of the acts, complaints alleging violations of the law are investigated and special investigations are conducted in areas where evidence exists of persistent or willful violations. Supervision is provided for the conduct of rerun elections held under court order or waiver.

4. Promotion of compliance and assistance to veterans.— Assistance is provided veterans, reservists and National Guardsmen on training duty to secure reinstatement with their preservice employers and other employment advantages to which they may be entitled, based on seniority accrued while in military service. Compliance is advanced by informing employers and labor organizations of their reemployment responsibilities. Specific complaints of ex-servicemen are investigated and if violation of law is apparent, litigation is recommended when voluntary compliance cannot be achieved.

The Division obtains compliance with minimum standards respecting wages, hours, and other employment conditions which are applicable to industries engaged in interstate commerce and to certain contractors engaged in performing services for or furnishing goods to the Government.

1. Enforcement.—Information media are used to inform employers and employees of their rights and responsibilities under the law. Investigations are made to correct violations and to assist employers in meeting legal requirements and workers in recovering wages due. During 1966 more than 57,000 establishments were investigated under the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) and the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act and some 429,000 employees were found to be due wages in the amount of $90 million of which employers agreed to pay $27.5 million. In 1967 and 1968, investigations will be conducted also under the McNamara-O'Hara Service Contract Act. Amendments to the FLSA, which become effective on February 1, 1967, increase the statutory minimum wage for workers presently covered by the act and extend coverage to about 9 million additional employees.

² Does not include "de minimus" violations.

2. Wage determinations and regulations.—During 1966 the minimum wage rates for four industries in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and American Samoa were reviewed. Because the 1966 FLSA amendments provide for automatic increases in existing wage rates, appointment of additional industry committees during the latter part of 1966 and in 1967 has been held in abeyance. During the latter part of 1967 and 1968 industry committees will be appointed to review hardship appeals and set wage rates as appropriate in lieu of those provided in the amendments. Minimum wage rates will be set for newly covered industries. It is expected that the number of applications for special minimum wage certificates received during 1967 and 1968 will increase over the 15,000 received in 1966 as a result of the increase in coverage and revised certification provisions under the amendments. Existing regulations and interpretations will be revised and new ones issued to give effect to the amendments. It is estimated that during 1967 more than 1,000 wage determinations will be issued under the McNamara-O'Hara Service Contract Act which will apply to over 10,000 service contracts. In 1968 an increase in the number of determinations issued and the number of contracts affected is expected.

3. Research and legislative analysis.—Economic research on the effects of the wage, hour, and equal pay provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act, and the McNamara-O'Hara Service Contract Act, and analysis and development of statistical data are provided. Studies were conducted in 1966 to provide current data for reports to the Congress and to provide statistical data needed in the consideration of administrative problems and legislative proposals. Estimates of the nature and extent of noncompliance existing among all covered establishments in the United States and Puerto Rico were developed on the basis of data obtained by the 1965 compliance survey. During the latter part of 1967 and 1968 emphasis will be directed to industries affected by the 1966 FLSA amendments.

1. Improving working conditions of wage earners.—This is accomplished by assisting and advising States on labor law administration and their adoption of appropriate labor legislation or codes; by working with State and Federal agencies for better migratory labor conditions; and developing suitable standards for young workers.

2. Reducing industrial accidents.—This involves providing engineering consultation, technical advice, educational and promotional assistance in all phases of occupational accident prevention to States, labor unions, maritime and special industries, and Federal agencies. The maritime safety activities will be expanded in 1968 in response to the growth in the maritime industry.

1. Manpower and employment.—Comprehensive data on employment, unemployment, hours of work, earnings, and labor turnover are collected, analyzed, and reported. Monthly estimates of the labor force, employment and unemployment, and studies of selected characteristics of the labor force and of industrial employment are conducted. Estimates of manpower requirements and supply, of long-range labor force and employment trends, and special studies on manpower problems are prepared.

Detailed studies of the outlook for specific occupations and experimental work on new reporting systems in the field of manpower are carried out.

In 1968, 34,000 additional households will be intensively surveyed in the poverty areas of 10 major cities; special nationwide surveys will be undertaken of various aspects of manpower underutilization.

2. Prices and cost of living.—The "Consumer Price Index" is published covering urban wage earners and clerical families for the Nation as a whole, for selected large cities, and for selected cities in Alaska. The "Wholesale Price Index" is issued monthly covering more than 2,000 industrial and agricultural products in primary markets. Special analytical studies of price changes are undertaken and standard family budgets are prepared and priced.

In 1968, additional data will be obtained to permit the adjustment for quality change in the CPI. Data for comparing international price levels and trends will be collected; 75 industries will be added to the industry-sector index series, and research into the best methods of obtaining consumer expenditure data will be undertaken.

Studies are conducted on developments in automation and other technological changes, with analysis of adjustments to such changes. Studies are made of labor requirements for selected types of construction. Research is conducted into problems of economic growth. Annual statistics on industrial injuries are compiled.

5. Foreign labor and trade.—Information, reports, and advisory services for policy and program work are provided on labor conditions in foreign countries, including prices, wages, employment, unemployment, unit labor costs, labor law, and labor standards.

6. Program staff services.—Policies are established for the maintenance of statistical standards and improvement of statistical methodology. Special economic reports are prepared for the Commissioner, the Secretary, the Council of Economic Advisers, and other Government agencies. The Bureau's research and report activities are coordinated; publications and releases are planned and edited; and a central inquiry service is maintained.

7. Administration and management services.—Responsible for the development of plans, policies, and the overall operation of the Bureau statistical and management programs.

This Bureau is authorized to purchase foreign currencies which the Treasury Department determines to be excess to the normal requirements of the United States. These currencies are used to fund travel and other costs incidental to sponsoring regional labor attaché conferences overseas. These conferences are of benefit to the United States in that they provide a forum for discussions of regional problems among the attending labor officers and with Washington officials; provide for coordination and implementation of U.S. objectives in the labor and manpower areas; provide a forum for keeping labor officers overseas abreast of new developments in the United States; and provide opportunities for State and labor officials to discuss general and specific reporting needs.

Three conferences are scheduled for the coming fiscal year. One will be held in New Delhi for the labor officers from the Near East and South Asia, and two will be held in Tunisia, one for labor officers from Western Europe and the second for labor officers from Africa. The location, timing and participation of 1968 conferences will be based on the experience gained in this fiscal year's program.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. ——. Appropriations in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for supplies, services, and rental of conference space within the District of Columbia, as the Secretary of Labor shall deem necessary for settlement of labor-management disputes.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

Mail volume.—The budget estimates for 1968 are based on expected volume of 83.4 billion pieces of mail, compared to 79.8 billion anticipated for 1967 and 75.6 billion in 1966.

The 1968 forecast includes 44.6 billion first-class letters and cards; 2.2 billion airmail items; 9.3 billion magazines, newspapers, and other publications; 22.4 billion pieces of printed matter and small parcels; and 1.1 billion zone-rate parcels, catalogs, and other fourth-class matter. Comparisons of these and other items of postal workload and related 1968 revenues with corresponding 1967 estimates and 1966 results appear in the table on page 728.

Financing.—Seven separate limitations are enacted for the Post Office Department for operation of the postal service and other assigned responsibilities. The limitations apply to the postal fund which is financed by the deposit therein of postal revenues and other receipts and by an appropriation from the general fund of the Treasury for the balance.

The estimates for 1968 include, in the overall summary tables and in the statement of revenue and expense, anticipated revenue increases from new postage rates aggregating $700 million based on legislation to be proposed.

Only the appropriation from the general fund to the postal fund (being equal to the excess of obligational authority over revenues) is considered new obligational authority for purposes of the Federal budget. Further, only the excess of the Department's disbursements over its receipts (exclusive of the general fund appropriation) is considered as budget expenditures.

The seven individual limitations control obligations incurred by the Department and are therefore requested and accounted for in terms of obligations. However, the program and financing schedules show funded accrued costs for each principal activity reconciled in total to obligations.

The schedule of revenue and expense shows operating costs on a full accrual basis including provision for employees' accrued annual leave and costs funded by other agencies. Costs attributable to public services as defined by 39 U.S.C. 2303 and amended by Public Law 87-793 are shown in total on the revenue and expense statement.

The Postal Policy Act of 1958 (Public Law 85-426), as amended by the Postal Service and Federal Employees' Salary Act of 1962 (Public Law 87-793), provides that postal rates and fees be adjusted as required to produce the amount of revenue approximately equal to the total cost of operating the Postal Establishment less the amount determined to be attributable to the performance of public services.

Transactions outside the postal fund.—Postal money orders cashed, postal savings system, and deposits resulting from U.S. savings bond sales are excluded from this chapter. The postal money orders outstanding are included in the figure for checks outstanding in table 2 of the budget, and a corresponding sum is included in Treasury cash. Balances for the postal savings system and savings bond sales are included in part II of this document.

Revenue from mail and other services of the Post Office Department is placed in the postal fund, which was established as a revolving fund in 1950 (39 U.S.C. 2202). In addition to the obligations and expenditures under limitations enacted in annual appropriation acts, the fund is also used without annual action by Congress for the purchase of stamp-embossed envelopes and for the payment of certain indemnities, claims, and judgments.

Postal revenue comes primarily from private postal patrons. It also includes receipts from various Federal agencies for the handling of official mail and the payment by the Congress for franked mail. Reimbursements received for nonpostal services and other recoveries are likewise deposited in the postal fund.

The aggregate of postal revenues is less than the obligations authorized for payment from the postal fund. An indefinite appropriation is made from the general fund of the Treasury to make up the difference. After taking into account anticipated changes in funded working capital, and the additional revenues from proposed rate increase legislation, the net budget expenditures for the postal service for 1968 are estimated to be $544 million, compared to $1,208 million for 1967, and $888 million for 1966. The additional amount projected to be received from the proposed rate increases has been included in the final summary tables and in the statement of revenue and expense.

³ Liabilities do not include: (1) Undetermined amounts of postage in the hands of the public which, for practical considerations, have been accounted for as revenue when sold, and (2) the following contingent and future obligations which by law the Department may not fund or account for as obligations until payments are due: contingent liabilities for pending suits and damage claims of $44.3 million and $42.8 million at June 30, 1966 and 1965, respectively, a substantial portion of which are expected either to be settled at less than the amount claimed or disallowed; and undetermined amounts for long-term leases.

This limitation provides for the direction and control of the Postal Establishment. The budget estimate for 1968 is $108 million, an increase of $12.9 million over 1967 and $22 million over 1966.

1. Executive direction and administration.—This activity provides for all offices and bureaus at Washington headquarters except the research and engineering staff and provides for reimbursement to the Treasury for processing paid money orders. The biennial fidelity bond premium for all employees is included in 1966 and 1968.

2. Field inspection service.—This activity provides for the postal inspection and internal audit services. Postal inspection includes all field investigation and inspection functions pertaining to the violation of postal laws; prevention and detection of loss and mistreatment of mail, and losses of Government funds and property; field audit of postmasters' accounts; personnel security and suitability investigations; and special surveys and investigations. The internal audit program includes comprehensive reviews and financial audits of activities at the departmental level, regional offices, data centers, and other selected field installations.

3. Regional operation.—This activity provides for direction and administration of postal field activities under authority delegated by Washington headquarters. There are 15 regional operation offices that are responsible for administration of programs, controlling and reporting of operating costs, and management of postal operations. The six postal data centers provide staff services of accounting, disbursing, and data processing for headquarters and regional operation offices. Each data center covers a geographical area of two or three regional offices.

This no-year limitation provides for a research, development, and engineering program. The fund requirement is estimated for 1968 at $23.1 million, an increase of $7 million over 1967 and an increase of $11.6 million over 1966.

1. Direct operation.—This activity provides for the administration of a research, development, and engineering program for the Postal Establishment. It includes the conduct of research, development, and engineering activities not performed under contract, and the development of: (1) preliminary layouts and designs for postal buildings and mechanized equipment; (2) better work methods, procedures, and manpower utilization systems; and (3) the Headquarters program for the design, development, and testing of new postal equipment and materials. It also funds the personal services required for operation of the postal laboratory.

2. Engineering support services.—In prior years, this activity has been identified as contract engineering. The title has been changed to more accurately reflect the nature of the services now being procured. Contracts under which these services are now provided require the provision of an end product (designs, specifications, etc.) as opposed to the services of individual technical personnel.

The technical services secured under this activity are required to support both the research and development and construction engineering programs of the Department.

3. Contract research and development.—This activity includes funds for the design, development, test and evaluation of new postal equipment, materials and techniques required to reduce costs, improve service, and improve employee working conditions. The work is primarily performed by other Government agencies or by private industry under contract. Funds are also included for supplies and material used in testing and evaluating equipment at the postal laboratory.

Work performed under most research and development contracts runs over a period of more than 1 year. At times the scope is of such magnitude as to require several years for completion. Therefore, obligations incurred in any one year are not necessarily indicative of the level of the level of work actually performed. In order to provide flexibility required in programming research projects, funds in this limitation are available until expended.

Funds provided in this limitation pay the personal services and related expenses required to perform the primary function of the Post Office Department—collecting, sorting, and delivering the mail. The employees paid with these funds include postmasters, who administer the operation of the postal installations; supervisors and clerks, who direct and process the handling of mail along with providing window services to patrons; city carriers, special delivery messengers, and rural carriers, who collect and deliver the mail; maintenance personnel, who keep the buildings and equipment in operating condition; and the vehicle maintenance employees, who service the Government-owned trucks used in hauling mail.

Funds requested for 1968 total $5,344 million, an increase of $216 million over the estimate for 1967. The additional funds will provide the manpower and cover the related expenses necessary to handle the estimated increase of 3.6 billion pieces of mail in 1968, provide delivery service to the additional area and patrons, to improve existing services, and $2.6 million to annualize pay increases effective for a part year in 1967.

1. Administration of postal installations.—Services are performed under this activity by postmasters, assistant postmasters, supervisors, and technical personnel. These employees are engaged in the local management, supervision, labor relations and related fields at all postal units. Technical personnel under this activity include accounting, finance examiner, medical, safety, and personnel employees.

2. Mail handling and window service.—This activity provides for the separation and distribution of all mail received in the postal units, including highway and railway post offices. It also includes rendering of window service to patrons, payment for the operation of contract stations, dispatch control of trucks hauling mail, and reimbursements to the Federal Reserve banks for handling deposits made by postmasters.

It is expected that continued benefits from the efforts to improve operating procedures and cooperation of the mailing public in the preparation of its mailings along with the continued mechanization and employee incentive programs will enable the increase of 4.5% in mail volume to be handled with an increase of 3.8% in clerical manpower. This compares with a 6.7% increase in manpower to handle a 5.2% increase in mail volume experienced in 1966 and a 7.4% increase in manpower to handle a 5.5% increase in mail volume and other programs planned in 1967.

CLERKS AND MAIL HANDLERS

	Man-years	Mail volume (millions)	Average pieces per man-year
1964	277,188	69,676	251,369

3. Collection and delivery service.—This service provides for delivery of mail to residences and business places in cities and their suburbs, collection of mail from over 313,000 street letterboxes and 14,700 building mail chutes in these areas, delivery of mail on rural routes, and delivery of special delivery articles. This service also includes the local pickup and delivery of mail between stations and the post office and other installations. In some instances drivers transport mail between cities. Possible city delivery stops in 1968 are estimated to increase approximately 3.4%. The estimated increase in number of possible stops results from the continuous growth in housing. Programs directed toward a more efficient city delivery service result in an increase of 1.6% in manpower for 1968. The number of rural routes to be established in 1968 will be offset by conversions of rural routes to city delivery service and the consolidation of rural routes for economic reasons.

4. Maintenance service.—The services under this activity relate to the maintenance of equipment and protection and cleaning of buildings used by the postal service. The employees under this activity include, among others, guards, mail handling elevator operators, janitors, and mechanics to service mechanical and electronic mail handling and office equipment.

5. Vehicle service.—This activity provides for the maintenance and operating cost of vehicles used for the local collection and delivery of mail and in some instances the transport of mail between cities. This includes employment of vehicle mechanics; the purchase of parts, gasoline, oil, tires, and contract maintenance; and the cost of hired vehicles used in lieu of Government-owned vehicles when it is economically advantageous.

1. Surface transportation.—This includes transportation of mail by water, highway, and rail.

(a) Water.—Domestic water transportation service is utilized for the transportation of mail on the inland and coastal waterways at per annum contract rates ($0.3 million in 1968), at pound rates ($2.3 million in 1968), and at container rates to Hawaii ($1.7 million in 1968). Pound rate service is utilized for Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. The decrease in pound rate volume is due to the increased service at container rates.

Foreign water transportation covers carriage of mails by steamship to foreign countries at per pound rates ($11.2 million including $0.2 million for shipment of empty mail bags in 1968). It also includes terminal charges by foreign countries for handling such mail at the port of entry and charges for mails transiting such countries ($6.6 million in 1968). The increase in international surface mail volume was 1.4% in 1966 and is projected to be 1.9% in 1967 and 1.1% in 1968.

TRANSPORTATION—Continued

(b) Highway.—This includes transportation of mail by star route, buses, mail messenger, highway post offices, and railroad operated truck routes. The estimates for 1968 are as follows:

	(Millions)
Star route service.....	$156.2
Area bus contracts.....	0.9
Mail messenger service.....	17.1
Highway post offices.....	5.4
Total.....	179.6

Star route service is the major function in the overall highway transportation activity and provides service between post offices. The uptrend in the average cost per mile of star route service and in highway transportation generally is caused by the growing need for larger and more expensive truck equipment where mail volume is steadily increasing, and by the higher costs due to the growth in the national economy.

DATA RELATING TO TRANSPORTATION BY STAR ROUTES

Mobile highway post offices provide mail distribution en route in contract highway vehicles where adequate train service of this nature does not exist. General price increases have resulted in higher costs to the performing contractors and subsequent adjustment in contract rates is the reason for the increase in the average cost per mile.

This limitation provides for expenses of occupying postal facilities, for supplies and certain types of contractual services required by the postal service, and for field service organizations operated by the Bureau of Facilities.

1. Building occupancy.—This activity provides for rental of postal facilities; cost of communications, fuel, and utilities; one-time payments for improvements to leased buildings; installments on lease-purchase contracts; and the acquisition and resale of sites to lessors under the commercial leasing program. The recoveries from the resale of such land shown under Advances and reimbursements are applied to the purchase of additional sites for resale. Increased rental costs result from (a) the acquisition of additional postal space, (b) increased rental rates, and (c) replacement of inadequate or substandard space in Government buildings.

This limitation provides funds to alter and improve Federal buildings used for postal purposes; for procurement of vehicles and garage equipment for the Post Office Department vehicle fleet; for mail processing machines to include installation; for self-service vending units and other customer service equipment; and for postal support equipment to include data processing machines. The program and financing schedule shows, in addition to obligations, the extent to which yearly costs are expected to be incurred with the corresponding increase or decrease in the amount of assets on order, which is indicated by changes in selected resources applied to the program.

1. Federal buildings improvement.—This activity provides for modernizing and extending Government-owned buildings to make them adequate and efficient for postal purposes. Air conditioning, heating plant improvements, and the purchase of additional land adjacent to Federal buildings are included in this activity.

2. Vehicle program.—This activity provides for replacement of wornout vehicles, for additions to the fleet required by growth of postal service, for vehicles to augment the carrier mechanization program, and for the purchase of garage equipment. The estimate provides for the purchase of 19,388 vehicles of which 14,720 are for carrier mechanization, 4,328 are for bulk transfer of mail, and 340 are other types. All vehicles are of ½-ton capacity and over. Of the $43.5 million requested to purchase the carrier mechanization and bulk transfer vehicles, $21.8 million is for replacement of obsolete vehicles and $21.7 million is for new service.

3. Mail processing equipment.—This activity provides for the installation of major mail processing machinery and equipment in large postal facilities designed for such installations. It also provides for modification of existing installations to adapt them to changing concepts of mail handling. This mechanization consists of bulk transport conveyors, tray transport conveyors, parcel sorting machines, and sack sorting machines. Since 1957 such mechanization has been ordered for 68 facilities. By the end of 1967, 8 additional installations will be on order or in the process of completion, and 17 installations will be ordered in 1968.

4. Customer service equipment.—This activity provides for the procurement of that equipment which is designed and utilized specifically to render service to window, lobby, and self-service unit patrons. The equipment is designed and employed to increase hours of service to the public at less expense to the Post Office Department. In 1968, 630 self-service postal units and 1,000 additional vending machines are proposed.

5. Postal support equipment.—This activity provides for the purchase of all equipment required by the postal service. It includes equipment for postal data centers and the postal source data systems; equipment for maintenance of buildings, grounds, and other equipment; furniture and office equipment; and vehicle maintenance equipment.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1968, $38,923 thousand.

This limitation provides for preliminary planning of postal public buildings, acquisition of sites, preparation of drawings and specifications, construction, supervision of construction, and other related costs incident to projects approved under the Public Buildings Act of 1959. Costs for onsite supervision and administration of projects are financed from Research, development, and engineering. This appropriation was formerly included under the Sites and expenses, public buildings projects and the Construction, public buildings projects limitation in the General Services Administration. The estimate of $55,853 thousand provides funds for:

1. Sites, design, and expenses.—Acquisition of sites, including costs of appraisals; preparation of drawings and specifications, by contract or otherwise; technical services; soil surveys and tests; reproduction of plans and specifications; and supervision of construction, by contract or otherwise.

2. Construction.—Construction of one new building and foundation costs for one additional building.

¹ Reimbursements from non-Federal sources consist of receipts from the sale of postal vehicles and other equipment (40 U.S.C. 481(c)), from damage to postal vehicles and other personal property (39 U.S.C. 2203(a)); the sale of scrap material from mail bag repair units and equipment shops (39 U.S.C. 2203(b)); rent paid by private concerns for space in buildings acquired under 39 U.S.C. 2102 and 2103; payments made by contractors for services performed by postal personnel (39 U.S.C. 2203(c)(3)); and fines, penalties, and refunds resulting from nonperformance or inadequate performance of carriers and contractors (39 U.S.C. 2203(c)(4)); from the sale and lease of real estate (39 U.S.C. 2113); and from the refund of annual leave payments (5 U.S.C. 5551).

The reimbursements from foreign air transportation and sale of sites to prospective lessors amount to 95.6 percent of the total reimbursements estimated to be received in 1968.

1. Foreign air transportation: Transportation of military mail (Department of Defense).—The Department of Defense pays for the overseas portion of the transportation of mail moving to and from military post offices in foreign countries. Because it is set up to do so, the Post Office Department makes the arrangements with and pays the bills of commercial air carriers who haul this mail overseas. The Department of Defense makes a reimbursement to the Transportation limitation for the costs thus incurred by the Post Office Department. The trend in volume growth is expected to continue through 1968.

2. Building occupancy: Sale of sites and related costs to prospective lessors.—This program provides for purchase of sites for construction of leased postal facilities and payments of architect-engineering fees for the design of such buildings. The sites are resold to successful bidders upon award of the agreement to lease, and the proceeds reimbursed to the Building occupancy and postal supplies limitation. The amount estimated for 1968 results from the lesser value of awards as well as a reduction in the number of awards which will be made in 1968 as compared with 1967.

economic negotiations and reporting, consular operations, and oversea administrative services. Major items of increase are for additional requirements in Southeast Asia, international education officers in the Foreign Service, and rising prices and local employee wage rates in other countries. A continued rise in travel of U.S. citizens abroad is anticipated in 1968 as reflected in the following annual number of passports applied for in the United States:

1,091,470	1,271,983	1,464,612	1,625,000	1,805,000

3. Conduct of diplomatic relations with international organizations.—In collaboration with other Government agencies, U.S. policy is developed and coordinated on political and security issues and in such specialized fields as world health, education, labor, and refugee activities.

4. Domestic public information and liaison.—This program provides for informing the American public on international policies and also keeping the Department informed on American attitudes on foreign policy.

5. Central program services.—These provide personnel and physical security measures, direction and administration of the Foreign Service Institute, and the administration of a global communications system for all civilian activities of the Government, including services for other agencies on a reimbursable basis.

6. Administrative and staff activities.—This includes normal domestic administrative activities. Increases are included for improved foreign affairs direction and manpower utilization.

A supplemental appropriation is anticipated for 1967 for Southeast Asia and for international education officers.

Unsatisfactory Government-owned or leased office space is replaced with structures designed specifically to meet the particular needs of the Foreign Service and other Government civilian operations overseas. Housing is provided American employees in localities where suitable housing is otherwise unavailable.

Appropriations are made pursuant to periodic congressional authorizations. A new authorization, Public Law 89-636, approved October 10, 1966, provided a capital authorization of $29.8 million and an operating authorization of $12.6 million for 1968 and $12.8 million for 1969.

Starting in 1961, a separate appropriation, limited to payments in excess foreign currencies, has been enacted annually pursuant to the authority of Public Law 480, as amended. These currencies supplement the regular building fund and are used principally to acquire or construct capital assets in the form of real property, thereby accelerating the building program. They are also used to pay property operating and maintenance costs to the greatest extent possible, in order to reduce dollar expenditure requirements. Countries in which these currencies are available to this program are Burma, Ceylon, Congo (Kinshasa), Guinea, India, Israel, Nepal (through use of Indian rupees), Pakistan, Poland, Tunisia, United Arab Republic, and Yugoslavia. These funds will be credited to and expended under the regular appropriation.

EMERGENCIES IN THE DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR SERVICE

For expenses necessary to enable the Secretary of State to meet unforeseen emergencies arising in the Diplomatic and Consular Service, to be expended pursuant to the requirement of section 291 of the Revised Statutes (31 U.S.C. 107), $1,600,000. (Department of State Appropriation Act, 1967.)

The United States contributes its share of the expenses of the United Nations and 8 of its specialized agencies, 6 inter-American organizations, 7 regional organizations, and 13 other organizations.

The United Nations increase results from the establishment of the United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO), expansion of the activities of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD), normal salary and other mandatory type increments, building improvements and additional costs of the Outer Space Conference and International Symposium. The increases are offset, in part, by an increase in miscellaneous income, decreases for special missions, primarily the observer group in India and Pakistan, and a reduction of posts in the field service. The increase in the U.S. contribution is offset, in part, by a slightly larger repayment on the U.S. loan to the United Nations than the previous year.

Other major contribution increases are for (1) the World Health Organization attributable to the inclusion of a smallpox eradication program, UN salary review increases for professional employees, and higher costs of continuing operations due to inflation; (2) the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization mainly attributable to a new method of budgeting to take into account the anticipated impact of inflationary pressures on the cost of the program, reimbursement to and increase in the level of the working capital fund and program expansion in educational planning, access of women to education and assistance to member states in planning their research and science policies; and (3) the Pan American Health Organization mainly due to folding the malaria eradication program, originally financed on a voluntary basis, into the regular budget and professional salary increases stemming from the UN salary review.

This appropriation funds the cost of official U.S. Government participation in multilateral intergovernmental conferences, and other international activities which are determined to be necessary to the successful conduct of U.S. foreign relations. This includes (a) participation in conferences of the United Nations, its subsidiary bodies, and specialized agencies; (b) meetings of regional and other international organizations—including the Organization of American States and its subsidiary or related bodies, commodity groups, and specialized bodies dealing with intergovernmental economic, political, cultural, or scientific matters; (c) participation in other governmental conferences which are not directly associated with any international organization; (d) defraying the expenses of participating members of international secretariats to meetings, conferences, and related activities held under U.S. auspices; and (e) contributions to new or provisional organizations.

This appropriation request provides for regularly scheduled or planned conferences, and for predictable U.S. contributions to new or provisional organizations. The 1968 estimate does not provide for unforeseen contingencies.

The requested 1968 appropriation increase of $85 thousand is required for funding U.S. contributions to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade Organization.

1. Rio Grande international dams program.—Construction of Amistad Dam, the second major international storage structure on the Rio Grande contemplated by the 1944 Water Treaty, will be continued in 1968, for completion in 1969.

2. Lower Rio Grande flood control.—Mexico is continuing to investigate the feasibility of control structures on certain of its tributaries to the Lower Rio Grande. Pending completion of these studies, which could permit improvements to the Lower Rio Grande to effect savings in operation and maintenance costs, all except urgently needed works are being deferred. Work in 1968 will be financed with prior year funds.

A supplemental appropriation is anticipated for 1967 for the Tijuana Flood Control project.

The Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1962 (Public Law 87-510) provides legislative authority for assistance to migrants and refugees, both on a multilateral basis through contributions to the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration and the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, and through unilateral assistance to refugees from Communist countries. Public Law 89-230, approved October 1, 1965, provides authority for an annual contribution of $50 thousand to the International Committee of the Red Cross.

Despite increases in requirements for transportation and related costs of Cuban refugees, for the contribution to the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, and for administration, the overall 1968 request remains lower than estimates for 1967 because of the anticipated reduction in the contribution to the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—DEPARTMENT OF STATE

SEC. 102. Appropriations under this title for "Salaries and expenses", "International conferences and contingencies", and "Missions to international organizations" are available for reimbursement of the General Services Administration for security guard services for protection of confidential files.

SEC. 103. No part of any appropriation contained in this title shall be used to pay the salary or expenses of any person assigned to or serving in any office of any of the several States of the United States or any political subdivision thereof.

SEC. 104. None of the funds appropriated in this title shall be used (1) to pay the United States contribution to any international organization which engages in the direct or indirect promotion of the principle or doctrine of one world government or one world citizenship; (2) for the promotion, direct or indirect, of the principle or doctrine of one world government or one world citizenship.

SEC. 105. It is the sense of the Congress that the Communist Chinese Government should not be admitted to membership in the United Nations as the representative of China.

SEC. 106. Existing appointments and assignments to the Foreign Service Reserve in the Department of State which expire during the current fiscal year may be extended in the discretion of the Secretary of State for a period of one year in addition to the period of appointment or assignment otherwise authorized. (Department of State Appropriation Act, 1967)

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 701. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used for publicity or propaganda purposes not authorized by the Congress.

SEC. 702. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used to administer any program which is funded in whole or in part from foreign currencies or credits for which a specific dollar appropriation therefor has not been made.

SEC. 703. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein. (Departments of State, Justice, and Commerce, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1967.)

The Coast Guard employs multipurpose vessels, aircraft, and shore units, strategically located along the coast and inland waterways of the United States and in selected areas overseas to carry out the duties specified in title 14, United States Code.

Direct program—1. Search and rescue.—Most Coast Guard operating facilities have the capacity for promoting safety on or over the high seas and on waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States. The Coast Guard performs any and all acts necessary to rescue and aid persons and save property placed in jeopardy due to marine and aircraft disaster or due to floods (14 U.S.C. 88). Coast Guard activities in the area of search and rescue fall within the national search and rescue plan and other agreements.

2. Aids to navigation.—A network of manned and unmanned aids to navigation is maintained along our coasts and on our inland waterways through the use of tenders and shore facilities to insure the safe passage of the mariner. Loran stations are operated in the United States and abroad to serve the needs of the armed services and marine and air commerce (14 U.S.C. 81).

3. Merchant marine safety.—The Coast Guard insures compliance with Federal statutes and regulations pertaining to the merchant marine industry by reviewing plans and specifications for the construction or alteration of merchant vessels; by periodic inspections, by conducting marine casualty investigations, and by setting standards, procedures, and practices under which merchant marine personnel are regulated (14 U.S.C. 2). Legislation will be proposed to establish charges for various services provided steam vessels and seagoing personnel, as well as providing diesel vessels the inspections accorded steam vessels.

4. Marine law enforcement.—Vessels, aircraft, and shore units enforce Federal laws on the high seas and waters over which the United States exercises jurisdiction. Law enforcement activities include fishery patrols; Campeche, Key, and Alaskan patrols; small-boat boarding; supervision of explosive loadings; enforcement of dangerous cargo regulations; and port control (14 U.S.C. 89, 91).

5. Oceanography, meteorology, and polar operations.—The Coast Guard participates in the National Oceanographic Program (14 U.S.C. 94), which is coordinated by the Interagency Committee on Oceanography. Its facilities cooperate with the Weather Bureau in taking weather observations from vessels manning ocean stations (14 U.S.C. 90). Icebreaking is performed by specially constructed icebreakers engaged in polar operations with other agencies and by other vessels with more limited icebreaking capacity in our harbors and channels (14 U.S.C. 2). Also included in this program is participation in the International Ice Patrol (46 U.S.C. 738).

6. Military readiness and operations.—The Coast Guard operates as a service in the Navy in times of war or national emergency. During peacetime, readiness training is received by major units and facility armament is maintained in a state of readiness (14 U.S.C. 3). Included in this category are Coast Guard operations in Vietnam.

7. Reserve training.—The Coast Guard maintains trained officers and enlisted personnel in the Ready Reserve who are available for active duty in time of war, national emergency, and at such other times as the national security may require. The tasks required of the Coast Guard by the Department of Defense upon mobilization determine the requirements. In broad terms, these tasks are divided into port security, vessel augmentation, coastal force, aviation, and other lesser but essential support areas.

8. General support.—Certain facilities of the Coast Guard provide overall direction and support of all Coast Guard programs. Included are radio stations, repair and supply facilities, training and recruiting facilities, and nonoperational services at headquarters and district offices.

Reimbursable program—9. Miscellaneous services to other accounts.—The Coast Guard performs various functions for other agencies and accounts for which reimbursement is received.
