¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders: 1966, $147 thousand (1966 adjustments, -$23 thousand); 1967, $199 thousand; 1968, $156 thousand; 1969, $148 thousand.

1. Executive direction and management.—The Office, Chief of Engineers, and 10 division offices supervise work decentralized in 37 district offices. One division office and the district offices are financed from other appropriations.

2. River and Harbor Board.—The Board reviews reports on proposed projects and makes advisory recommendations to the Chief of Engineers.

3. Coastal Engineering Research Center.—The Center plans and conducts research in the field of coastal engineering, develops standards, and reviews technical reports as directed by the Chief of Engineers.

4. Commercial statistics.—Data on waterborne commerce are collected, compiled, and published.

5. Special investigations.—Investigations are made in response to congressional and other special requests for information on the civil works program.

The Corps of Engineers—Civil is responsible for the flood control program for the lower Mississippi Valley from Cape Girardeau, Mo., to the Gulf of Mexico including the main alluvial stream, the basins of the St. Francis and White, lower Arkansas, Yazoo, Tensas, and Atchafalaya Rivers, and Bayou Lafourche, and the alluvial lands around Lake Pontchartrain. The adopted plan calls for raising and strengthening about 1,600 miles of existing levees along the main river, for enlarging or constructing some 1,700 miles of levees on tributaries and in side basins, for channel improvement by bank stabilization from Head of Passes, La., to Cairo, Ill., for dredging a navigation channel 12 feet deep and 300 feet wide from Baton Rouge, La., to Cairo, Ill., and for five flood-detention reservoirs on minor tributaries. The amount of $69.6 million is requested for these activities.

1. General investigations.—Fourteen studies concerning navigation, flood control, and related purposes will be continued, of which three will be completed in 1969. One study will be initiated. Basic data subsequently used in planning and designing projects are collected.

2. Advance engineering and design.—Funds are requested to continue planning on two features, of which one will be completed in 1969, and to initiate planning on three others.

3. Construction.—The total cost of flood control and related improvements in the lower Mississippi River and its alluvial valley is estimated at $2,480 million, of which $1,545 million has been appropriated through 1968. The funds requested will be applied to continuation of nine features.

4. Maintenance.—Provision is made for operation and maintenance of major features of the project.

The fund provides for the acquisition, operation, and maintenance of floating and land-based plant and equipment used in civil works functions; for temporary financing of services finally chargeable to civil works appropriations and for the furnishing of facilities and services for the military functions of the Department of the Army and other governmental agencies and private persons (67 Stat. 199).

Budget program.—Operating costs.—Operating costs are expected to remain at about the same level in 1968 and 1969.

Capital outlay.—Land and structures includes replacement costs of buildings, facilities and related land. Dredges and other floating plant includes replacement and improvement costs for dredges and dredging equipment and other vessels such as tugs, tenders, and towboats. Land-based equipment includes replacement and improvement costs of transportation equipment, construction equipment and fixed land equipment such as shop tools and fixed power driven equipment. Major items for replacement and plant expansion are noted in the following narrative.

Land and structures.—The 1969 program includes $0.6 million for replacement of the Waterways Experiment Station concrete laboratory in Vicksburg, Miss.; $0.4 million for replacement of shop and yard facilities in Vicksburg, Miss.; $1.2 million for construction of facilities for the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors and the Coastal Engineering Research Center; and $0.8 million for construction of the North Atlantic Division Materials Testing Laboratory at New York, N.Y.

Dredges.—The 1969 program includes: $0.3 million for rehabilitation of cutterhead dredge Wahkiakum; $1.6 million for replacement of cutterhead dredge St. Genevieve; $5.7 million for construction of hopper dredge Hayward; and $0.5 million for construction of a shallow draft hopper dredge.

Other floating plant.—Other floating plant includes: $1.1 million for construction of the towboat/snagboat ROS; $0.9 million for a mat sinking barge for Memphis District; and $0.6 million for construction of quarter boats for use in Lower Mississippi Valley. Remaining capital outlays relate to a variety of relatively small items of floating plant, land-based equipment and tools, office furniture and equipment.

Financing.—Reimbursements or advances from appropriations or individuals utilizing the services or facilities cover all operating costs and the capital outlay program reflected in the revolving fund schedules. Sales prices include an extra charge to help fund replacement of fixed assets at higher prices than original cost. Sums so obtained are applied to replacements as needed.

Operating results and financial condition.—Unreserved earnings in 1967 were $3.3 million less than expenses, thereby decreasing these earnings to $1.4 million. Unreserved earnings are expected to increase to about $3.4 million in 1968 and $6.5 million in 1969.

Initial capital of the fund was provided by assumption of the assets, liabilities, and obligations of the plant accounts as carried on the records of the Corps of Engineers—Civil at June 30, 1953, and by an appropriation from the general fund of $100. Capital (Government equity) of the fund amounted to $145.2 million at June 30, 1967 and is limited to $162 million by the Public Works and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act of 1968 (Public Law 90-147). In 1967 capital was increased by net earnings of $4.4 million. Increases in 1968 and 1969 are principally due to earnings reserved for plant replacement which are wholly invested in assets. Capital of the fund is expected to reach $155.5 million at the end of 1968 and $167.3 million at the end of 1969. To permit operation at program levels for those years and into 1970, an increase in authorized capital to $172 million is required.

Consolidated summary of personnel.—The revolving fund is used to initially finance all payrolls of the Corps of Engineers—Civil.

The table which follows shows the distribution of personnel and salary costs to appropriations of the Corps of Engineers and to other accounts. Direct obligations cover services of employees working full time at project sites. Indirect obligations cover personnel charges for services provided through the revolving fund.

This appropriation supports the objective of the act of July 12, 1960, as amended, to provide for the promotion of economic and social development in the Ryukyu Islands, and finances the administration of these islands by the United States, which exercises jurisdiction pursuant to the treaty of peace with Japan. Executive Order 10713, June 5, 1957, as amended, establishes under the Secretary of Defense a Civil Administration of the Ryukyu Islands to execute the administrative, legislative, and jurisdictional powers reposed in the United States. The United States contribution to the development of the Ryukyuan economy, and to the improvement of the health, education, and welfare of the Ryukyuan people, helps ensure the free and effective use of its important bases in the islands.

1. Administration.—The program will provide for the general operating expenses of the Office of the High Commissioner and for the staff necessary to plan and execute the aid program, and to assist the Government of the Ryukyu Islands in its responsibilities for administration. In addition it provides for the U.S. share of the cost of the advisory committee to the High Commissioner announced by the President on November 15, 1967.

2. Aid to the Ryukyuan economy.—The principal elements of the program are summarized in the following table. The amounts under "1968 supplemental" represent anticipated requests under the act of November 4, 1967, increasing the amount to be appropriated for economic assistance to $17.5 million as authorized by the act of July 12, 1960, as amended.

The general fund of the civil administration is also available for assisting the economic and social development of the islands. It receives income from three wholly owned corporations, from the purchase and resale of petroleum products, and from investments in financial institutions. The corporations retain their earnings to provide for necessary growth. Receipts from the sale of petroleum products have been distributed in part directly to the Government of the Ryukyu Islands in lieu of taxes. Since a sales tax on such products has been enacted, all 1969 receipts will be retained for investment in the corporations or for contributions to specific social and economic development programs for the islands. A cash balance is maintained to meet emergency requirements. Statements of condition and financial program follow, in thousands of dollars.

Expansion of the fixed assets of the corporations is planned as indicated in the obligation program summarized below (in thousands of dollars):

	1967 actual	1968 planned	1969 planned
Ryukyu Electric Power Corporation (REPC).....	5,810	10,843	30,094
Ryukyu Domestic Water Corporation (RDWC).....	5,220	5,697	2,420
Ryukyu Development Loan Corporation (RDLC).....	20	400	-----

The REPC is initiating an increase in its power production capacity at a cost of about $37 million. Approximately 60 MW of additional electric-power generating capacity is scheduled to be installed by the end of 1969, which will require obligation of about $7 million out of the general fund and REPC revenues in 1967 and 1968. It is also planned to construct a 160 MW steam turbine plant to cost approximately $30 million and to be completed by the end of 1971, the cost to be funded by the corporation partly out of accumulated cash ($5 million) and partly out of future earnings ($25 million). The plant will be obtained under competitive bids providing for long-term credit arrangements by the construction contractor. If required, a guarantee of a portion of the contractor's investment can be provided by a 10-year power purchase contract between the REPC and the U.S. military services, which consume nearly two-thirds of the REPC power output. Other obligations are for transmission plant expansion and miscellaneous equipment. When completed the proposed expansion will permit retirement of certain obsolete, high-cost generating units.

The RDWC is continuing the system expansion and water development program, with a total cost of about $43 million, begun in 1963. $14.35 million had been obligated at the end of 1966. Obligations also cover land acquisition, miscellaneous equipment, and improvement of existing facilities.

Obligations of the RDLC in 1968 will be for construction of a new office building to provide space required by the growth of the corporation program. The corporation plans to increase its long-term lending capability through the sale to local Okinawan banks of $10 million worth of bonds during 1968 and 1969.

Additional economic aid is furnished by the United States through other programs. One of these is the free distribution of foodstuffs under the Food for Freedom program. A second is the provision of long-term credit for purchase of surplus commodities under the same program.

The total amount of external funds being made available for Ryukyuan economic and social development by the United States and Japan is summarized in the following table in thousands of dollars. In 1969, Japanese assistance includes loans, to the Government of the Ryukyu Islands, of $7.8 million for industrial development.

The Government of the Ryukyu Islands was created by the U.S. Civil Administration on April 1, 1952. In addition to local revenue derived primarily from income and excise taxes, this government receives grants from the U.S. Government and the Government of Japan. Grants from the United States are related to extraordinary services provided for U.S. forces and for assistance in development of public facilities and services. A statement of its accounts follows (in thousands of dollars):

Aid to the Ryukyuan economy.—A supplemental appropriation will be requested under the increased authorization for Ryukyuan economic development provided in the act of November 4, 1967 (Public Law 90-126). This appropriation would provide an increased contribution for the salaries of Ryukyuan teachers and for other education and economic development projects.

This appropriation was made available for a loan from the Secretary of the Army to the Ryukyu Electric Power Corporation (REPC) to fund construction of an 88 megawatt power plant and ancillary facilities at Kin on Okinawa. Approximately $10.2 million has been expended. REPC earnings provided the $4.7 million balance of the $14.9 million construction cost of the plant which went into operation in July 1965. Negotiations are being undertaken to secure private financing for further power expansion. In the event these negotiations are successful, the $7.5 million unobligated balance will not be needed.

The Panama Canal Company is a wholly owned Government corporation whose primary purpose is maintaining and operating the interoceanic canal at the Isthmus of Panama, and other necessary supporting operations.

The administration of the Company is integrated with that of the Canal Zone Government, an independent agency initially financed by appropriations. The Governor of the Canal Zone is ex officio president of the Company. The Company is expected to be self-sustaining and is required to reimburse the U.S. Treasury for the net cost of the Canal Zone Government, the cost of interest on the net direct investment of the United States in the Company, and for annuity payments made by the United States to the Republic of Panama pursuant to the treaty of 1903, as amended in 1936.

Capital outlay costs for 1969 are estimated at $1 million, principally for the replacement and addition of equipment.

3. General corporate expense.—This includes payments to the Treasury for the net cost of Canal Zone Government and interest expense payable to U.S. Treasury, general and administrative expenses under statutory limitation, and other general corporate expenses not under limitation.

Financing.—The Company is authorized to obtain appropriations for its capital needs and to cover losses sustained in the conduct of its activities. In addition, under Public Law 86-200 (73 Stat. 428), the Company may borrow from the Treasury, at interest, amounts not exceeding $10 million outstanding at any time. While the latter authorization is utilized to backstop the Company's objectives, no cash withdrawals against it are planned during 1968 or 1969. With the total borrowing authority utilized as a resource the Company's unobligated balance at June 30, 1969, is estimated at $8,137 thousand.

Note.—Contingent and other liabilities: The Company is contingently liable with respect to certain pending suits and claims. In addition, the Company has outstanding at all times, certain liabilities of indeterminable amounts which are recognized in the accounts on an as-paid basis. These liabilities include, principally, benefits payable under provisions of the Federal Employees Compensation Act; and commitments for construction work, supplies and services. Commencing with 1967 the Company formally recorded in its accounts liabilities for repatriation of Company employees and for cash relief payments to former employees who do not qualify for annuities under the U.S. Civil Service retirement system. These liabilities were heretofore disclosed by footnote.

The maximum liability which could result from outstanding claims and lawsuits is estimated to be $22.9 million, the largest single item being a suit in the amount of $18 million initiated by deckhands seeking additional wages. Other compensation claims pending total $4.3 million. Commitments under uncompleted construction contracts and unfilled purchase orders amounted to $8.7 million at June 30, 1967.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders. 1966, $5,969 thousand (1967 adjustments, -$3,441 thousand); 1967, $2,828 thousand; 1968, $2,828 thousand; 1969, $2,828 thousand.

The laws enforced by the Food and Drug Administration are designed to protect the public against adulterated and misbranded foods, drugs, cosmetics, therapeutic devices, household products containing hazardous substances, and the harmful social effects resulting from abuse of drugs that affect the central nervous system.

1. Medical evaluation.—Medical policy is developed and promulgated with respect to efficacy and safety of drugs for man and animals. New drug applications for human and veterinary drugs and claims for investigational drugs are evaluated, an adverse drug reaction reporting program and clinical studies of drugs are conducted, and medical aspects of FDA's inspectional and investigational programs and court cases are developed.

2. Scientific research and evaluation.—Broad and long-range research is conducted concerning foods, drugs, pesticides, and cosmetics, and on related hazardous substances.

Regulations are developed and promulgated for pesticide tolerances and exemptions, food additives, color additives, and food standards. Scientific evaluations are made on the subjects of the regulations and the labeling of hazardous substances. Methods and bases for evaluation of petitions and tolerances are developed and studied. Scientific activities of the agency are coordinated. A National Center for Drug Analysis has enabled FDA to expand the drug surveillance program by providing for the rapid analysis of drug samples taken from the market.

3. Education and voluntary compliance.—This activity encompasses the planning, conduct, and evaluation of programs to obtain voluntary compliance with laws on the part of the regulated industries. It serves to inform consumers of the objectives of the laws and to help prepare them to achieve a greater degree of self-protection.

Informational and guidance materials are prepared and distributed to industry.

4. Regulatory compliance.—Nationwide inspectional, investigational, and analytical programs are conducted through 17 district offices and a number of resident inspector posts to enforce the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, Hazardous Substances Act, and related statutes. Research is performed to improve methodology and analyses of samples. Inspectional and other field actions are reviewed to evaluate the degree of compliance or non-compliance with the law and, where necessary, legal cases are prepared and initiated for enforcement of the law.

5. Drug abuse control.—Programs are developed to curtail the illegal traffic in stimulant, depressant, and counterfeit drugs. These programs involve special investigations and law enforcement work to apprehend violators, as well as inspection of manufacturers' and distributors' establishments and records. Studies are initiated into the sociological and psychological aspects of the problem of drug abuse to identify causes and patterns that will prove useful in developing education and information programs designed to combat the problem.

6. Executive direction and administrative support.—The executive direction and administrative support activity contains the resources for overall agency management and certain administrative and other services provided on a centralized basis. The executive functions within the activity include the establishment of policy; the formulation and promulgation of agencywide plans, budgets, and directives; the allocation of resources; the day-to-day direction of the agency; the evaluation of performance and accomplishments; the conduct of internal security to protect trade secrets and prevent conflict of interest, the programs dealing with legislative matters and other Government agencies.

Administrative and other support is provided on an agencywide basis in the areas of financial management, mail and records, printing and distribution, facilities planning and management, supply management, data processing, management services, personnel, and training.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1966, $443 thousand; 1967, $388 thousand; 1968, $388 thousand; 1969, $388 thousand.

This appropriation contains all activities related to the planning, construction, and equipping of buildings and facilities for the Food and Drug Administration.

FDA, in collaboration with the General Services Administration has engaged in a program to improve and enlarge its field facilities, and funds have been appropriated for all phases of modernization of the district offices.

Planning for Research Laboratory No. 1 and the animal care facility has been completed and it is expected that construction will begin in 1968. The conversion of 15,000 square feet of office to laboratory space in Federal Building No. 8 is well underway and will be completed in 1968.

Major items in the 1968 and 1969 program are:

1. Planning construction of the National Center for Drug Analysis. This will be financed by reallocating funds previously programed for the St. Louis District Office (which has since been abolished).

2. Begin planning for construction of Research Laboratory No. 2.

3. Complete planning activities for district offices at Philadelphia, San Francisco, Seattle, Chicago, and Denver.

4. Completion of the conversion of office to laboratory space in Federal Building No. 8 in Washington, D.C.

5. Repairs and improvements to Government-owned laboratory and field facilities.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30, are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders 1966, $104 thousand; 1967, $216 thousand; 1968, $216 thousand; 1969, $216 thousand.

FDA certifies batches of antibiotics, insulin, and color additives for use in food, drugs, or cosmetics; it also establishes tolerances for residues of pesticide chemicals in or on raw agricultural products and for color additives in foods, drugs, and cosmetics (21 U.S.C. 346, 356, 357). These services are financed wholly by fees paid by the industries affected.

The workload in pesticide tolerances increased sharply in 1967 because time-consuming reproduction studies started in 1964 were completed and their results could be included with the petitions. Also, the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act and the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act direct that in no way should the old no-residue or zero tolerance registration be continued later than December 31, 1970. As a result of the legislation, the existing pesticides on the market must be re-evaluated for safe residue tolerances. This will increase the workload in this area.

1. Educationally deprived children.—Grants are made to schools to assist in expanding and improving instruction and ancillary services for children from low-income families, handicapped children, dependent and neglected children, orphans and juvenile delinquents, children of migratory workers and Indians. In addition, payments are made to State educational agencies for administrative expenses. In order to notify schools well in advance of the academic year as to the amount of Federal grants on which to base financial, personnel and other plans, this program will be proposed for funding for 1969 in the 1968 supplemental, and for 1970 in the regular 1969 appropriation.

-----	9,000	9,500	9,500

2. Supplementary educational centers.—Grants are made to States and to school districts, in association with colleges, private schools, museums, and other local educational resources, to develop and establish programs which serve as models for improving and supplementing the regular school curriculum. Examples of such grants would include support for science or language teaching centers, mobile laboratories, and planning new ways to extend educational services in central cities, metropolitan regions, or sparsely populated rural areas.

4. Strengthening State departments of education.—The leadership ability of State educational agencies is improved by grants to assist them in developing systematic and technically proficient planning and evaluation activities, and in stimulating and supporting research, statistical and technical assistance for local school systems so that these agencies can meet their leadership responsibilities more effectively.

5. Equipment and minor remodeling.—Grants are made to States for acquisition of equipment and minor remodeling of laboratory or other space suitable for use in providing education in public elementary or secondary schools while loans are made to nonprofit private schools for similar uses, and grants are made to States to assist in administering these programs. These grants supplement Federal assistance for purchase of school equipment made available through grants for education of the disadvantaged, supplementary centers and other programs.

6. Library resources.—Grants are made to States for procurement of library resources, textbooks, and other printed and published instructional materials for use by students and teachers in public and private elementary and secondary schools. Each State may use a portion of its grant to assist in administering these programs. These grants are in addition to Federal support for purchase of school library books from other programs such as those for education of the disadvantaged and supplementary centers.

7. Dissemination of information.—Funds are provided for preparation and dissemination of information and for technical assistance to schools and colleges so that such institutions can improve their instructional programs in full knowledge of the results of educational research and experimentation.

8. Program planning and evaluation.—Funds are made available to the Secretary of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for expenses including grants, contracts or other payments, for (1) planning succeeding year programs or projects under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act and the Adult Education Act and (2) evaluation of such programs and projects.

9. Dropout prevention programs.—Grants are made to local school districts for innovative projects in poverty area schools to reduce and prevent dropouts.

10. Bilingual education programs.—Grants are made to local educational agencies to develop, establish, and

1. Maintenance and operations.—Payments are made to assist in operation of schools in areas where enrollments are affected by Federal activities. The eligible districts are located in all States, Puerto Rico, various outlying areas, and, since July 1964, the District of Columbia. Under certain circumstances, payments are made to other Federal agencies to make arrangements for education of children where local school districts do not assume responsibility for such children. Arrangements may be made for free public education of children of members of the Armed Forces on active duty not residing on Federal property.

2. Construction.—Payments are made to assist in construction of schools in areas where enrollments are affected by Federal activities. From 1951 through 1967, $1,338 million has been appropriated for this program aiding in the construction of an estimated 65,000 classrooms to house about 1.9 million pupils in the 50 States, Puerto Rico, Guam and Wake Island.

The authorized programs for 1969 will support the following activities:

(a) Assistance to local educational agencies.—Grants are made to local districts for school construction, principally on behalf of increased numbers of children residing on Federal property with a parent employed on Federal property.

(b) Assistance for school construction on Federal properties.—Where the local educational agency is unable to provide school facilities for increased numbers of children living on Federal property, the Commissioner of Education is authorized to arrange for construction of schools. Under certain circumstances, the Commissioner may also arrange to provide school facilities on a temporary basis for children of members of the Armed Forces on active duty who do not reside on Federal property.

(c) Payments for technical services.—Technical services are provided in connection with the construction of school facilities.

3. Program support.—Expenses are provided for advisory committees, services of other specialists, and evaluation of the above program.

Support is provided to broaden and strengthen programs to train and improve teachers and other education personnel under the Education Professions Development Act and the National Defense Education Act.

1. State grants for recruitment of educational personnel.—Grants are made to States to recruit and train persons for careers as elementary and secondary teachers and teacher aides. The estimate will support such training for about 9,000 persons.

2. Development of educational personnel.—Grants and contracts with higher education institutions, public educational agencies, and other organizations are supported to identify and encourage high school and college students and other capable persons to enter or reenter the field of education.

Elementary, secondary, and other education personnel.—Grants are made to higher education institutions for developing and strengthening teacher education programs at the graduate level, including fellowships for prospective and inservice preschool, elementary, secondary, adult, and vocational teachers. Grants and contracts with higher education institutions and State and local educational agencies support operation of institutes and other programs to update and improve the training of personnel such as teachers, teacher aides, supervisors, counselors, teachers of disadvantaged youth, and educational media specialists. Stipends are paid to persons attending such institutes.

Higher education personnel.—Grants are made to institutions for fellowships leading to a doctorate for prospective college teachers, including stipends for individuals and cost-of-education allowances for participating institutions. In addition, grants and contracts with higher education institutions provide full costs of institutes and other training programs, including stipends to individuals, to train college teachers, administrators, and educational specialists.

3. Program support.—Expenses are provided for advisory committees, services of other specialists, and evaluation of the above programs.

Teams of experienced teachers and teaching interns are made available to serve, upon request, in schools located in neighborhoods with concentrations of low-income families. Federal grants are made to institutions of higher education for pre-service training and in-service training of the interns and experienced teachers. Local school districts receive federal grants for payment of a portion of the salaries of both interns and experienced teachers during their period of service. Cooperative arrangements between the institutions of higher education and local school districts permit the interns to work toward completion of requirements for advanced degrees.

Grants and payments are made to States, educational institutions, and individuals for support of higher education programs under the Higher Education Act, Higher Education Facilities Act, National Defense Education Act, Economic Opportunity Act, and Bankhead-Jones Act.

1. Program assistance.—To raise the academic quality of developing colleges, grants are made for projects to upgrade faculty and curriculums and to support exchange of faculty and teaching fellowships. Such grants require the establishment of cooperative links between the developing colleges and other organizations such as universities, businesses, or other developing institutions. Grants also are allotted among States for support of instruction in agriculture, the mechanic arts, and related fields at the 68 land-grant colleges. Additional grants for the same purpose are provided through a separate permanent appropriation. Grants are made to higher education institutions for acquisition of television and other equipment and minor remodeling of space in order to improve undergraduate instruction.

2. Construction.—Grants are awarded on a matching basis for construction of academic facilities at colleges, universities, junior colleges, and technical institutes. The Participation Sales Act of 1966 provides for transfer of construction loan appropriations to the higher education facilities loan fund in order to promote the use of private capital through sales of participations in loan pools by the Federal National Mortgage Association. Grants also are made to assist State commissions in administering undergraduate construction grants under this program as well as instructional equipment grants under the Higher Education Act, and in comprehensive planning of future higher education construction. Technical engineering and other review services are provided for construction projects.

3. Student aid.—Funds are allotted to colleges and universities to provide (1) educational opportunity grants for financially needy undergraduate students, (2) work-study grants under which students are given part-time jobs during the school year and full-time summer jobs, and (3) capital contributions to National Defense Education Act student loan funds from which loans are made to graduate and undergraduate students. Under the talent search program, contracts are supported to identify needy youths and school dropouts and, in cooperation with Project Upward Bound administered by the Office of Economic Opportunity, to encourage them to complete their education. Advances are made to State and non-profit private loan insurance funds to guarantee loans to college students, and payments are made to reduce interest costs for students whose adjusted family incomes fall below $15 thousand. The similar program for vocational students under the National Vocational Student Loan Insurance Act, previously carried under Expansion and improvement of vocational education, has been transferred to this account for 1969 in accordance with a legislative proposal to merge the two programs.

1. Educational research and demonstration.—This activity supports a broad range of efforts to improve education through research and demonstration. Included is support for (1) educational laboratories which bring together the resources of institutions of higher education, States, private enterprise, and the talents of scholars, experts, artists and other specialists to develop improved curricula and methods of instruction for use in the Nation's classrooms, and to disseminate these through demonstrations and other techniques; (2) the research and development centers which concentrate on such specific questions as education of the disadvantaged, individualized instruction, early childhood learning, teacher education, and development of institutions of higher education; and (3) project grants which are awarded to institutions for improvement of school curricula and inquiries into education and its effects. In 1969, stress will be placed on the development of prototype programs for improved instruction and administration including a model school using the District of Columbia. These programs will be based in part on the results of prior research. The existing research base will be extended with greater stress on the problems of low-income, urban and migrant children. A variety of research projects will involve joint efforts with the National Science Foundation, the National Institutes of Health, the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Department of Labor, and the Office of Economic Opportunity. In addition, significantly greater attention will be given to evaluation of the educational process.

1. Institutes for school personnel and grants to school boards.—Desegregation of school facilities under the Civil Rights Act of 1964 frequently poses group leadership and planning problems for teachers, school officials, and others affected by school desegregation. To help such people understand and deal with these problems, grants and contracts are awarded to school boards and to training institutions. Awards are made on the basis of relative need from proposals submitted to the Office of Education.

Under the Higher Education Act of 1965 and the National Vocational Student Loan Insurance Act of 1965 the Office of Education received authority to insure loans to students in eligible institutions who do not have reasonable access to State or private nonprofit programs of student loan insurance.

Proposed amendments to the Higher Education Act would merge the National Vocational Student Loan Insurance Act into the Higher Education Act insured loan program and, in lieu of extending the Federal insurance program, would authorize the Office of Education to re-insure loans guaranteed by State and nonprofit private agencies at 80% of defaults by student borrowers.

It is anticipated that 560,000 new loans at $850 each will be reinsured in 1968, and that 750,000 new loans at $855 each will be reinsured in 1969. Estimates for 1968 defaults under the 80% reinsurance clause are 1,895 loans (issued in 1966 and 1967) at $860 each. Defaults estimated for 1969 under the 80% reinsurance clause are 2,275 loans (issued in 1966 and 1967) at $860 each, and 560 loans (issued in 1968) at $850 each. The defaults are anticipated because of death, permanent disablement, dropout, and other causes.

Insurance premiums earned from direct Federal insurance in 1968, computed at one-half of 1% per annum of the unpaid principal amount (excluding interest added to principal), will be retained in the fund to meet possible additional requests for defaulted loans. The fund may borrow from the Treasury if at any time the moneys available are insufficient to make payments on defaults of insured loans. It is estimated that the funds available will make it unnecessary to utilize the authority in 1968 or 1969. The fund will take over loans on which it pays insurance claims and seeks to collect on them, but the schedules contemplate a full reserve for losses on such loans.

The Higher Education Facilities Act authorizes loans for construction of academic facilities in higher education institutions. Such loans may be made for up to 75% of a project's total development cost and must be repaid within 50 years.

The Participation Sales Act of 1966 established a revolving fund for these loans, and authorizes the sales of such loans to the private credit market, the proceeds of which are deposited into the fund to be used for new loans to colleges and universities. The Federal National Mortgage Association is authorized to serve as trustee for these sales.

In 1967, 211 projects totaling $200 million were approved. This level was funded by a $100 million appropriation and the sale of $100 million in participations. Approximately 165 project approvals are estimated for 1968, to be funded by a $50 million carryover from the 1967 appropriation and the sale of $100 million in participations. It is estimated that in 1969, 165 projects totaling $150 million will be funded by an appropriation of $100 million and $50 million carryover from the 1967 appropriation.

Appropriations for insufficiencies are used to fund the deficit resulting from the difference between the interest rate required to sell the participations and the interest rate paid by higher education institutions on facilities loans. The new obligational authority required for insufficiencies is computed as follows (in thousands of dollars):

The mission of this program is to carry out comprehensive health planning and public health services: (1) to promote and assure the highest level of health attainable for every person, in an environment which contributes positively to healthful individual and family living; (2) to develop an effective partnership, involving close inter-governmental collaboration, official and voluntary efforts, and participation of individuals and organizations; (3) to assure that Federal financial assistance is directed to support the marshalling of all health resources—national

State, and local—(4) and to assure comprehensive health services of high quality for every person, without interference with existing patterns of private professional practice of medicine, dentistry and related healing arts. This will be accomplished through the following:

1. Grants.—(a) Planning.—(1) Grants to States for comprehensive State health planning.—These grants will be made only to State agencies on a formula basis for the purpose of developing comprehensive plans for health services (public and private), including the facilities and manpower required to provide such services, on a state-wide basis.

(2) Project grants for areawide health planning.—These grants will be made to public agencies, nonprofit private agencies, or other groups on a regional, metropolitan area, or other areawide basis. They are designed to stimulate the identification of specific needs at the community level and the design of programs for solving these needs in a manner consistent with the State plan.

(3) Project grants for training, studies, and demonstration for comprehensive health planning.—These grants will be made to public and nonprofit private agencies or organizations, designed to provide for training, studies, and demonstrations to develop improved or more effective methods of comprehensive health planning throughout the Nation.

(b) Formula grants to States for comprehensive public health services.—These grants will assist States financially in establishing and maintaining adequate public health services in a manner consistent with the State comprehensive health plan.

(c) Project grants for health services development.—These grants are awarded to nonprofit organizations and institutions, and State and local health agencies, to cover part of the cost of (1) providing services (including related training) to meet health needs of limited geographic scope, such as rat control programs, or of specialized regional or national significance or (2) developing and supporting for an initial period new programs of health services (including related training).

3. Direct operations.—(a) Review and approval.—Responsibility for the review and approval functions has been assigned generally to the nine Regional Health Directors. These funds are for support of essential review and approval activities, including support of personnel, consultants, reproduction costs, travel for site visits, and related management.

(b) Program direction and technical assistance.—Support of technical assistance activities, particularly in the health planning area, development of performance standards, the collection of program information, and the conduct of program evaluations are essential to meaningful stewardship of the funds made available for the grant programs. The request will permit support of personnel, travel, related costs, and contracts with appropriate institutions and organizations to improve planning activities. Also, the request will accelerate the development of meaningful evaluation techniques with special emphasis upon pertinent indicators of health status. A total of $1,668 thousand is provided to support evaluation efforts.

The Partnership for Health Amendments of 1967 (Public Law 90-174) expand the Comprehensive Health Planning and Public Health Services Act of 1966 to provide increased grant support to States and other public and nonprofit agencies for health planning and for health services. The supplemental appropriation will provide funds for expanded programs of rat control and related project grants. Authority will be requested to permit the availability of funds through December 31, 1968.

1. Institutional support.—The principal agents of this activity are grant programs directed toward enhancing the educational experience of students entering the health professions resulting ultimately in better health service to the Nation. Schools use these funds to support and enlarge faculty staffs, expand library holdings, modify existing and add new curriculums, modernize teaching laboratories, and purchase educational aids and equipment. Number of institutions receiving basic support and improvement funds:

Medical	98	100	101
Dental	52	52	52
Nursing	473	515	540
Public health	13	15	15
Other related health	348	535	580

By the end of 1969, a separate program will enable all of the Nation's dental schools to provide students with experience in the use of dental auxiliaries through programs offering them practical experience with laboratory, hygienist, and chairside assistants, thereby increasing the productivity of dental graduates.

Improving the utilization of limited resources of health professionals requires appraisal of how various types of personnel are being utilized and the identification of new categories of allied health professionals and technicians for more effective team practice. Allied health new methods grants will support some 35 projects in 1969 to develop curriculums to produce personnel requiring newly identified skills.

2. Student assistance.—Student assistance is of two kinds, graduate and specialized, comprising traineeships and research fellowships, and undergraduate, comprising opportunity grants for nurses, scholarships and student loans. Research fellowships support candidates at the predoctoral and postdoctoral levels for research training in dental public health and nursing in areas where researchers are in short supply. Traineeships support the graduate and specialized preparation of teachers needed to expand and improve curriculum offerings and the advanced training needed by supervisors, administrators and other specialists in nursing, public health and the allied health professions.

Number of persons trained:

Dental fellowships	3	7	10
Nursing fellowships	85	94	120
Traineeships, long and short term:

Public health	13,860	13,300	13,300
Allied health	64	300	2,900

Nursing educational opportunity grants and health professions scholarships enable deserving students from low income families to pursue their education. Schools make awards to students, who in the judgment of the school, are unable to pursue the course of study without financial assistance. The student loan programs for the health professions, including the nurses, are also designed to help provide an adequate supply of health manpower and to assure that the needed supply of health professions and nursing manpower is drawn from the most capable individuals regardless of their economic status.

3. Manpower requirements and utilization.—(a) Grants.—Research grants support studies in the areas of physician methods and techniques, continuing physician education, effective use of health manpower, nursing care, dental personnel education, and dental health education. Research training grants enable institutions to establish training programs in fields where there is unusual demand for researchers having skills in dental and nursing specialties. A dental continuing education grant program makes available to dental practitioners the opportunity to update their knowledge on technological developments and the management of dental practice. An increase in the level of new research grants in 1969 will provide projects for modifying existing and development of new medical and osteopathic school curricula and development of new teaching methods in medical schools.

(b) Direct operations.—Funds are provided for programs to assess requirements, availability and quality of health discipline education and study of the status of the Nation's dental health; studies and demonstration of methods of preventing and controlling dental diseases; provide professional guidance and leadership to meet the goals of nursing care by means of research, consultation, application of research findings and administration of grants; develop, administer and support grant and operational programs to increase the supply and improve the education, utilization and effectiveness of manpower in the health occupations; for servicing training and construction grants, student loans, and operational programs for training of personnel. Funds totaling $46 thousand are included for evaluation studies of the effectiveness with which the schools of public health are fulfilling their roles as national training centers for public health personnel. Planned for 1969 is the initiation of a nationwide health manpower intelligence system to provide comprehensive information on supply, distribution and utilization of health manpower, along with the establishment of a health manpower clearinghouse. Other increases in 1969 will be used primarily in the areas of health manpower utilization, the training aspects of the comprehensive health planning program, nurse recruitment and refresher training, and in dental disease prevention and control.

4. Program direction and management services.—The Bureau of Health Manpower provides a national focus for health manpower activities. The Bureau guides and supports health manpower programs, designs proposals to meet needs for new or revised health manpower programs, coordinates research and program reporting activities, and provides technical guidance and coordination to Bureau activities.

Grants for construction of teaching facilities.—Federal funds are provided on an individual project basis to assist in the construction of medical, dental, pharmacy, optometry, podiatry, veterinary, osteopathy, and public health teaching facilities under the provisions of the Health Professions Educational Assistance Act Amendment of 1965, the construction of schools of nursing under the provisions of the Nurse Training Act of 1964 and for construction of facilities for training centers for allied health personnel such as medical technologists, and dental hygienists, under the provisions of the Allied Health Professions Personnel Training Act of 1966. These funds provide the basis for construction, expansion, and rehabilitation of new and existing teaching facilities and represent an important step in increasing the supply of vitally needed physicians, dentists, nurses, and other health professions personnel.

(a) Medical, dental, and other health personnel.—Grants are made to public and other nonprofit agencies and organizations for construction of teaching facilities for medical, dental, and other health personnel. The $127 million for 1969 will provide a $254 million program for that year, assuming that the average Federal participation will be 50%. From the beginning of the Health Professions Educational Assistance Act in 1964 to December 1, 1967, institutions have submitted 189 applications requesting Federal funds in excess of $582 million and have indicated 102 proposed projects for which applications are anticipated that will request a Federal share of $634 million.

(b) Nurses.—Grants are made to public and other nonprofit agencies and organizations for construction of teaching facilities for nurses. The $21 million for 1969 will provide a $42 million program for that year, assuming that the average Federal participation will be 50%. Under the Nurse Training Act of 1964, from its beginning to December 1, 1967, institutions have submitted 137 applications requesting Federal funds in excess of $68 million and 120 letters of intent, for which applications have not yet been received, indicating a need of $85 million.

(c) Allied health professions personnel.—Grants are made to public and other nonprofit agencies and organizations for construction, expansion, and rehabilitation of teaching facilities as training centers for technical and other allied health personnel. The $2.8 million for 1969 will provide a $5.6 million program for that year, based on an average Federal participation of 50%.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1966, $8,069 thousand (1967 adjustments, -$299 thousand); 1967, $9,930 thousand; 1968, $9,930 thousand; 1969, $9,930 thousand.

The program assists in preventing the occurrence of chronic diseases and in making the lives of those who have chronic diseases as free from disability and impairment as possible. It is accomplished through applied research, development, training, and technical assistance.

1. Grants.—(a) Research.—Research grants provide support to nonprofit organizations and institutions in the development of applications of new research knowledge in the prevention and treatment of chronic diseases. Support will be provided to approximately 47 research projects in 1969 compared to 47 in 1968 and 55 in 1967.

(b) Training.—Grants are awarded to educational institutions to increase the number of health research personnel. These grants will assist in alleviating the shortage of the highly qualified professional personnel capable of performing research into the community aspects of chronic disease control. An estimated eight grants will be awarded in 1969, the same number as in 1968 and 1967.

2. Direct operations.—The programs provide extramural and intramural research, training, and program consultation and assistance to State and local health agencies, voluntary organizations, and educational institutions through contracts, cooperative agreements, assignments of personnel, and loan of equipment. The 1969 increases provide for the expansion of programs in arthritis, smoking and health, and chronic respiratory diseases; and initiation of a new program combating malnutrition.

This program provides facilities and services for the investigation, prevention, and suppression of communicable diseases, including tuberculosis and venereal diseases, by the direct development, advancement, and demonstration of knowledge and techniques, through research grants, and through the prevention of the introduction of communicable diseases from foreign countries. Studies and investigations on the health effects of pesticides are conducted.

1. Grants.—(a) Research.—Research grants are awarded to organizations, institutions, and individuals for research concerned with epidemiology, prevention, laboratory diagnosis, treatment of communicable diseases at the community level and on the health effects of pesticides. Approximately 102 research projects will be supported in 1969 as compared to 102 in 1968 and 110 in 1967.

2. Direct operations.—(a) Communicable diseases.—Scientific and technical skills in the fields of epidemiological medicine and microbiology, including reference diagnostic laboratory services, are provided to State and local health departments through investigations, consultations, and demonstrations. Important disease investigation and control programs include hepatitis, aseptic meningitis, poliomyelitis, rubella, viral encephalitis, the enteric diseases, staphylococcal and other institutionally acquired infections, the acute fungal diseases, diseases of animals transmissible to man, and the vector borne diseases. Professional competence in the investigation of epidemic outbreaks is afforded to the States through the staff of the Epidemic Intelligence Service which is constantly alert to the epidemic situation in the country. These EIS officers provide a wide range of service, including epidemic aid, epidemiological field investigations, consultations in communicable disease control, surveillance of infectious diseases, and collaborative field and laboratory research. The 1969 increase provides for expansion of the laboratory improvement program, epidemic services; and of viral, bacterial, and fungal diseases studies.

(b) Tuberculosis.—Studies are conducted in epidemiology, prevention, detection, diagnosis, and therapy of tuberculosis. This research is conducted in cooperation with State and local health departments, tuberculosis hospitals, private investigators and others. The results of the applied research are made available to the States and integrated into tuberculosis control programs by means of demonstrations, consultative services, operational studies, and training activities.

(c) Venereal diseases.—Research and evaluation activities are directed toward maintenance of uniformly satisfactory nationwide serologic services; development and introduction of new syphilis diagnostic tests; development of an immunizing agent for syphilis; improvement of diagnostic techniques for gonorrhea; evaluation of more effective methods of therapy; and the improvement of control procedures. Scientific and general information about venereal disease for both professional and lay groups is disseminated through State agencies.

Epidemiologic services are directed toward maintaining national and international intelligence and providing technical assistance to State and local health departments in programs directed toward the eradication of syphilis.

(d) Pesticides.—This program includes the conduct of investigations and community studies on the biological effects of pesticides, the maintenance of a pesticide intelligence system, and the scientific review and evaluation of registration applications for the effects of pesticides on human health.

(e) Foreign quarantine.—Certain visa applicants are examined in order to determine those who are excludable for physical or mental reasons. Other inspections (persons and importations) are made to prevent the introduction into the United States of quarantinable and other communicable diseases.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1966, $2,221 thousand (1967 adjustments, -$248 thousand); 1967, $4,882 thousand; 1968, $4,882 thousand; 1969, $4,882 thousand.

The Public Health Service has the responsibility for the investigation of causes of air pollution, the determination of its effects upon life and property, the development of effective means of prevention and control, the development of air quality criteria, and direct Federal enforcement. The Clean Air Act of 1963, with subsequent amendments, provided for an approach to these problems through two broad areas of activity: (a) the solution of significant technical problems through research, development, and demonstration, and (b) the application of available technology and control techniques, through a variety of coordinated abatement and control measures. A program of basic and applied research, grants-in-aid to air pollution control agencies, abatement proceedings in certain cases, technical services to States and local agencies, and a training program designed to provide competencies necessary to cope with the complex problem of air pollution, serves to carry out these approaches. The research program is accelerated by extensive use of existing research organizations through grants and contracts. The Air Quality Act of 1967, which further amends the Clean Air Act, provides additional tools which strengthen the potential for more effective action in both areas of activity. For example, with respect to research and demonstrations, the act includes additional stimuli and incentives for accelerated activity, by both industry and government, on the improvement of emission control technology. In regard to abatement and control, the States retain primary responsibility for the regulatory control of air pollution. However, the act provides that, in the absence of appropriate State action, Federal standard-setting activity is authorized. In view of the Air Quality Act of 1967, a supplemental budget request for 1968 is being proposed.

1. Grants.—(a) Research.—Research grants are made to universities and other nonprofit institutions to conduct research into air pollution problems. Approximately 195 grants will be supported in 1969 as compared with 171 in 1968 and 180 in 1967.

(b) Fellowships.—Fellowship awards support individual postgraduate training in air pollution research and control activities. It is estimated that 70 fellowships will be supported in 1969 as compared to 70 in 1968 and 61 in 1967.

(c) Training.—Grants are awarded to universities to support the development and improvement of, primarily, graduate-level air pollution curricula and to provide student stipends. Approximately 27 grants will be awarded in 1969 as compared to 27 in 1968 and 24 in 1967.

(d) Control program projects.—Grants are made to regional, State, and local air pollution control agencies on a matching basis for the purpose of establishing, developing, improving, and maintaining programs for the prevention and control of air pollution. Included in this activity is a program of newly authorized grants for planning programs under the Air Quality Act of 1967. This authorization is for the planning for air quality standards and their implementation. Approximately 286 grants will be awarded in 1969 compared with 275 in 1968 and 142 in 1967.

(e) Survey and demonstration.—Grants are made to States and communities for surveys to assess their air pollution problems. In 1969, it is estimated that 24 survey and demonstration grants will be awarded compared to 24 in 1968 and 24 in 1967.

2. Direct operations.—This activity includes research into the nature and extent of air pollution; its transport and atmospheric behavior; the effects on humans, other biological systems, property, and the atmosphere itself; and improvement in means for controlling pollution. Research findings are translated into practical application through the provision of demonstrations and technical services to States, communities, and others concerned with pollution control, and through the training of technical personnel for research and control operations. Direct Federal regulatory control activities are carried out principally with respect to interstate and automotive emission pollution.

The 1969 program will continue the on-going research in the three principal areas of automotive vehicles emissions, sulfur oxides pollution, and development of air quality criteria, and will place primary emphasis on research areas designated for special attention by the Air Quality Act of 1967. These include accelerated research into new and improved methods, having industrywide application, for the prevention and control of air pollution from the combustion of fuels; development of air quality criteria and emission control techniques as preliminary to subsequent application and regulatory enforcement measures; a comprehensive economic cost study; and a program of registration by manufacturers and processors of all additives placed in fuels used for combustion. Consultative services, training, and other types of technical assistance to States and localities will be increased. Conferences and interstate and intrastate abatement actions with attendant field investigations for securing necessary technical information on the scope and effect of pollution in specific problem areas will be continued and expanded. Newly authorized provisions of the Air Quality Act of 1967 will be undertaken including designation of atmospheric regions and air quality control regions, and development by the States of air quality standards or by the Federal Government in the absence of satisfactory action by a State. Motor vehicle pollution control activities will be continued and expanded in preparation for more stringent and comprehensive standards to be applicable to 1970 model vehicles.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1966, $930 thousand (1967 adjustments, -$130 thousand); 1967, $1,856 thousand; 1968, $1,856 thousand; 1969, $1,856 thousand.

The urban and industrial health appropriation supports a national program for the prevention and control of environmental hazards and health problems associated with urban living, including those related to an industrialized society. Particular attention is devoted to solid wastes management, occupational health, injury control, water supply, food protection, environmental sanitation, and the special environmental problems of the Arctic region.

1. Grants.—(a) Research.—Research grants are made to universities, hospitals, research institutes, individuals, State and local health departments, and other public and private nonprofit institutions, for investigations on health problems related to solid waste disposal, diseases and hazards related to the work environment, the causation and control of injuries, and health problems related to food, water supply, and urban environmental sanitation. Approximately 359 grants will be awarded in 1969 compared to 380 in 1968 and 315 in 1967.

(b) Training.—Grants are awarded to universities for graduate and post-graduate training of scientists to increase the research manpower in the fields of injury control, occupational health, environmental engineering, water supply, urban health planning, and food protection. Grants are also awarded to universities for the development of curricula and support of students in fields relevant to solid waste management. Approximately 51 grants to individuals and universities will be awarded in 1969, the same level as in 1968, and 40 in 1967.

(c) Fellowships.—Fellowship awards support individual graduate or postgraduate training in order to increase research manpower in the field of control of injuries from accidents. An estimated 16 fellowships will be supported in 1969 compared to 16 in 1968 and four in 1967.

(d) Survey and demonstration.—Grants are made to State and local agencies for demonstrating new methods and systems of solid waste management. These grants provide for Federal support of up to two-thirds of the cost of a project and permit construction of new types of waste disposal facilities for demonstration purposes. Approximately 56 grants will be supported in 1969 as compared to 46 in 1968 and 42 in 1967.

(e) Planning.—Grants are made to State and interstate agencies to provide up to 50% of the cost for surveys and planning of solid waste management programs within their jurisdictions. These grants will be used to develop specific long-range plans that will include consideration of the technical and administrative factors needed to establish a satisfactory and economical solid waste management program. Approximately 41 grants will be supported in 1969 as compared to 41 in 1968 and 32 in 1967.

2. Direct operations.—(a) Solid wastes.—The solid waste program is designed to insure proper health protection and improved solid waste disposal practices and technology through research, training, technical assistance, demonstration development, and systems planning. The 1969 increase will be primarily for expansion of research to secure breakthroughs in the reuse and disposal of wastes and the application of systems analysis to solid wastes management.

(b) Occupational health.—Research is conducted and assistance provided to Federal, State, and local agencies and to industry for prevention and control of occupational hazards and diseases. The 1969 increase will be directed to the critical problem of controlling radon exposure of uranium miners.

(c) Injury control.—This program provides for surveillance and developmental research to determine the extent and cause of accidental injuries and the development of sound techniques for their prevention and control. The adoption of prevention and control techniques by State and local agencies is encouraged through training, demonstrations, consultation, and the direct assignment of personnel. The 1967 amendments to the Flammable Fabrics Act extend the scope of the act to include all fabrics and related products and directs the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare to conduct a comprehensive and continuing investigation of the deaths, injuries, and economic losses resulting from accidental burns. The 1969 increase will be utilized to implement the Flammable Fabrics Act and strengthen the program to reduce fractures, particularly among the elderly, and deaths from asphyxia.

(d) Water supply and shellfish.—Through research, training and technical assistance, standards development, and interstate regulatory and certification activities, guidance and leadership are provided to States and local communities for safeguarding the sanitary quality of water supplies and shellfish. The 1969 increase will be used to support research and development of the effects of water quality on health, and DHEW participation in the nationwide inter-departmental water resources planning activities.

(e) Arctic health.—The Arctic Health Research Laboratory is conducting an organized program of scientific investigations in problems affecting human health in arctic and cold weather climates. Major fields of investigation include nutrition and metabolic disease, environmental sanitation, epidemiology, zoonotic disease, entomology, and physiology.

(f) Special health protection.—Assistance is provided to communities through technical consultation, training, establishment of guidelines, and demonstrations directed at the development of sound urban environmental health planning necessary to control and prevent environmental hazards and safeguard the sanitary marketing of milk and food.

The Public Health Service has responsibility for conducting a national program for the control and prevention of radiological hazards to public health. The Service is conducting a program to assess the levels and effects of radiation exposure, and in cooperation with other agencies at Federal, State, and local levels, to minimize such dangers. Such a program involves both basic and applied research on the sources, levels, and effects of radiation as well as means of protecting the public; a training program to provide the competencies needed in the expanding area of radiation protection and control; and the provision of technical information and assistance to State and local health agencies in development of their own radiation protection programs. This appropriation also will provide support for overall direction and management of Bureau programs in 1969.

1. Research grants.—Research grants are administered to complement intramural research as an integral part of the overall research effort and to capitalize on the talents of nongovernmental scientists. Approximately 98 research projects will be supported in 1969 as compared to 96 in 1968 and 88 in 1967.

2. Direct operations.—Research is carried out to determine the somatic and genetic biological effects of radiation exposure, and the means by which exposures can be reduced or prevented. Training courses for State, local and industrial personnel to strengthen competency in radiological health are conducted through facilities at Rockville, Md.; Montgomery, Ala.; Winchester, Mass.; and Las Vegas, Nev. Measurement and surveillance is performed to determine the levels of radiation exposure of man from all sources. Technical assistance is supplied to other Federal agencies, State and local authorities, and industry as a major means of implementing corrective action. The increased funds requested in 1969 are for the further development of the automatic collimator for medical X-ray equipment.

3. Bureau program direction and management services.—The Office of the Director of the Bureau of Disease Prevention and Environmental Control directs and coordinates the programs of the Bureau and furnishes management services as related to total Bureau performance. This consists of (a) formulation of administrative and program policies; (b) review and consolidation of administrative management with regard to program planning, legislative matters, financial and personnel management, office services, and organizational and staffing problems; and (c) establishment of criteria for research and development, compliance and control, standards and intelligence, and dissemination of information. The increase requested in 1969 will provide for additional services necessary to direct and manage the Bureau's expanding programs.

This appropriation encompasses a comprehensive nationwide program directed to improving the quality, quantity, effectiveness, and availability of health and health protection services in all settings.

1. Medical care administration and community health.—
 (a) Grants.—(1) Research.—Grants are awarded to organizations, institutions, and individuals for carrying out research investigations dealing with the organization, financing, utilization, quality, availability, and delivery of health services. (2) Training and fellowships.—Grants are awarded to institutions and to qualified scholars for supporting research training programs in medical care administration and community health for predoctoral and postdoctoral research training in related specialties. (3) Migrant health services.—Grants are made to finance part of the costs of establishing family health service clinics, to provide short-term hospitalization, and for other special projects to improve health services for and health conditions of domestic agricultural migrant workers and their families.

(b) Direct operations.—This activity provides for conducting specialized programs in medical care administration and community health, including the professional health aspects of title XVIII of the Social Security Act, and consultation and technical assistance on title XIX of the Act. Assistance is provided to Federal, State, and local health agencies, hospitals, nursing homes, home health agencies, voluntary organizations, and other interested groups through consultation, studies, demonstrations, assignment of specialized personnel, and training.

The increase in 1969 will provide for initiation of a program to provide consultative services and technical assistance to cities to assist in improving health care for the poor and for minority groups; collection and analysis of health services and resource data; economic studies of the rising costs of medical care and the future role of city public health institutions; initiation of studies and demonstrations to encourage the development of group practice; initiation of family planning studies; and consultative services and technical assistance in the development of health services in rural areas.

2. National Center for Health Services Research and Development.—(a) Grants and contracts will be awarded to States, political subdivisions, universities, hospitals and other public or nonprofit private agencies, institutions or organizations for projects for the conduct of research, experiments, or demonstrations.

(b) Direct operations.—This activity provides for planning and coordinating health services research demonstrations, studies, and other related activities.

This activity includes $280 thousand for evaluating the relative success of research and development programs in devising more effective ways of providing health services and facilities in this country. It will involve the application of modern analytical techniques of the computer sciences, operations research and the social sciences.

3. Program direction and management services.—The increase provides for program direction and management services for the Office of the Bureau Director.

³ Reimbursements from non-Federal sources represent collections from pay patients (42 U.S.C. 221).

A total of 11 hospitals and 152 outpatient facilities will be operated to furnish medical and dental care to legal beneficiaries of the Public Health Service. The major beneficiary groups are American seamen, coastguardsmen and their dependents, Bureau of Employee's Compensation cases, and persons afflicted with leprosy. Among these, the largest single category is the American seamen who receive comprehensive medical care in service facilities for all conditions. Medical care is also provided to foreign seamen and beneficiaries of other Federal agencies on a reimbursable basis.

Though the primary mission of this program is to provide comprehensive health services to its beneficiaries, it also has responsibility for the training of health services personnel; conducting clinical and health services research; and participation in community health service programs. In essence, its broadened responsibility is in keeping with the recognition by many authorities, including the National Commission on Community Health Services, that the hospital is, and should be, the focal point for all health services.

1. Operation of hospitals and clinics.—Under this activity are operated 10 general hospitals, and the National Leprosarium at Carville, La. Inpatient loads and outpatient visits are expected to be as follows:

AVERAGE DAILY PATIENT LOAD AND ANNUAL TOTAL OUTPATIENT VISITS

Hospital patients, by type of hospitals:	1967 actual	1968 estimate	1969 estimate
General hospitals.....	2,214	2,210	2,195

Total.....	2,493	2,480	2,465
Hospital outpatient visits.....	794,807	808,000	815,000

Twenty-eight full-time outpatient clinics and 124 outpatient offices provided 811,804 visits in 1967 and 868,000 and 909,000 visits are estimated for 1968 and 1969, respectively.

The estimates for 1969 represent an improvement in staffing of the outpatient clinics. Provision is also made for improvement of patient supplies and subsistence, contractual services and additional equipment.

2. Medical care for special groups.—(a) Coast Guard medical services.—Medical services are provided for Coast Guard personnel at shore stations and on vessels. The estimates provide for an increase in staffing and funds to improve the medical and dental activities.

(b) Federal employee health services.—This activity provides survey and consultation to Federal agencies on the conduct of Federal employee health programs and estab-

3. Special health services.—(a) Emergency and rehabilitative services.—This activity includes rehabilitation medicine, emergency health services, and poison control programs.

(b) Payments to Hawaii.—Grants are made to Hawaii to defray the cost of care and treatment of persons afflicted with leprosy. Average daily patient load is expected to be 250 in 1969, compared with 254 in 1967 and 251 in 1968.

4. Personnel detailed to other agencies.—Medical, dental, and other professional personnel are detailed to certain other Federal agencies on a reimbursable basis.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1966, $681 thousand (1967 adjustments, -$1,160 thousand); 1967, $1,226 thousand; 1968, $1,226 thousand; 1969, $1,226 thousand.

Federal funds are provided on a grant or loan basis to assist States, other public agencies, and nonprofit organizations; grants are made for constructing or modernizing health facilities.

1. Grants for construction of health facilities.—Federal funds are provided for the construction and modernization of hospitals, long-term care facilities, rehabilitation facilities, diagnostic or diagnostic and treatment centers, public health centers, and related health facilities. The modernization program provides funds for the rehabilitation and replacement of hospitals and other health facilities which are functionally or structurally obsolete and inefficient or unsafe to operate. Special priority construction is given to projects located in the more densely populated areas. The $290.8 million for 1969 will provide a $872.5 million program for that year, assuming that the Federal participation will average 33%.

2. Operations and technical services.—State agencies are provided technical assistance in making inventories of their hospitals, public health centers, and other health facilities and in determining the type, size, and locations of additional facilities required, and developing programs to meet the indicated needs. Technical assistance is also provided to States and to communities regarding the planning, programing, and design of hospital and other medical facilities, including facilities for the care of the mentally retarded. Proposed hospital and other health facility projects are reviewed to determine eligibility and compliance with the law and regulations. State plans and their annual revisions are reviewed for conformance with planning criteria and guidelines. Project applications, plans and specifications, wage rates, and contracts are reviewed for compliance with standards, and surveillance is maintained over projects under construction. Construction projects are inspected and payments are made as construction progresses.

1. Medical stockpile.—The goal of this activity is to provide essential medical material for civilian needs in time of disaster. Medical supplies and equipment have been assembled into emergency packaged disaster hospitals which are located throughout the United States. The estimate for 1969 provides for a continuing program of rehabilitation and refurbishment of the existing packaged disaster hospitals; relocating the packaged disaster hospital to achieve direct affiliation with the community hospital; procurement of new materials to increase the emergency medical supply inventories of community hospitals; and maintaining, periodically inspecting and servicing the medical stockpile.

2. Emergency health training and community preparedness.—This activity supports the preparation of national emergency health and medical plans, and the development of preparedness programs to achieve a continuity of health services necessary to meet all conditions of a national emergency. The estimate for 1969 provides for a continuing program of the development of plans and operational capability of civilian health manpower as well as utilization and distribution of other health resources including the placement of federally furnished medical supplies and equipment in community hospitals and the development and initiation of disaster management services. The estimate for 1969 also provides for training at the State and local level and providing assistance to States and communities in disaster situations.

NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

The National Institutes of Health constitutes the primary arm of the U.S. Government in the support of biomedical research. NIH carries out its mission of investigating basic life processes, advancing the capability for the diagnosis, treatment, and prevention of disease, and accelerating the application of new knowledge into practice by two major mechanisms: (1) extramural grant programs (about 70% of total funds requested for 1969), and (2) operations conducted directly or through contracts. A major segment of the advances in medical science in recent years has benefited either directly or indirectly from the activities of the National Institutes of Health. NIH programs also embrace efforts to enhance graduate education in the life sciences as well as efforts to expand our national capability to engage in biomedical research.

NIH consists of eight National Institutes, each with a particular area of concern: General Medical Sciences, Child Health and Human Development, Cancer, Heart, Dental Research, Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases, Allergy and Infectious Diseases, and Neurological Diseases and Blindness. There are also five program divisions: Biologics Standards, Research Facilities and Resources, Computer Research and Technology, Regional Medical Programs, and Environmental Health Sciences. The operating appropriations contribute to a management fund to provide central services for all institutes. The budget request for these appropriations in 1969 will provide a level of obligations 6% above the 1968 level and will support a more intense effort in the fight against disease and toward financing increased costs due to greater sophistication and complexities in conducting biomedical research.

A distribution of obligations for the National Institutes of Health follows (in thousands of dollars):

¹ Excludes NIMH's share which totals in 1967, $6,434 thousand; in 1968, $5,483 thousand; and 1969, $7,755 thousand.

The major activities are described below. Unique activities are included under the appropriate institute.

1. Grants.—(a) Research.—Research grants constitute the principal activity in terms of expenditures, of NIH. Regular grants are awarded to individuals for health related research projects, which are reviewed for scientific merit and relevance by discipline-oriented study groups and disease-oriented national advisory councils. Grants are also awarded to support various special programs designed to enhance our capability to conduct research and research training; these include clinical and specialized research centers. All institutes provide funds for general research support grants which are given to institutions to strengthen their overall biomedical research program, and are of two types: (1) a formula grant which provides funds in proportion to the institution's involvement in biomedical research, and (2) a project grant aimed at expanding the number of outstanding academic research institutions throughout the Nation.

(b) Fellowships.—Fellowships are awarded to individuals in order to increase research manpower in the medical sciences. There are several different types of awards, such as, predoctoral, postdoctoral, research career development awards, and foreign research fellowships, each designed to develop a specific type of research talent.

(c) Training.—Training grants are awarded on the basis of competitive review to various academic or research institutions which have demonstrated the ability to design and conduct successful training programs in one or more of the biomedical sciences.

2. Direct operations.—(a) Laboratory and clinical research.—The institutes conduct research activities within their own laboratories and in a commonly-shared clinical center facility.

(b) Collaborative research and development.—Categorical research programs are conducted by investigators in collaboration with other Federal institutions and non-Federal institutions largely through contracts. This research tends to be more specifically goal-oriented in nature than that supported through grants. Included are such directed activities as the development of artificial organs, vaccines, and chemotherapeutic agents.

(c) Biometry, epidemiology, and field studies.—Data relating to the incidence of disease in various population groups and regions of the world are collected and analyzed with the tools of modern statistics.

(d) Other.—Additional activities under direct operations include international research, computer research and technology, biomedical engineering development, biologics standards, and will be discussed under their respective appropriations. Funds are also included for program direction, research support and service activities, and review and approval of grants.

3. Regional medical programs.—This program of grants is designed to disseminate new knowledge and techniques and thus improve the diagnosis and treatment of heart disease, cancer, stroke, and related diseases. Grants will be made to a national grid of about 54 regional groups that include medical schools, hospitals, and other appropriate medical institutions and organizations.

[BIOLOGICAL] BIOLOGICS STANDARDS

To carry out sections 351 and 352 of the Act pertaining to regulation and preparation of biological products, and conduct of research related thereto, $8,649,000 $3,499,000 (42 U.S.C. 262-263; Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1968.)

1. Grants.—(a) Research.—Approximately 1,205 grants will be supported in 1969 as compared to 1,218 in 1968 and 1,210 in 1967. In addition, funds are provided for general research support grants and specialized research centers.

(b) Fellowships.—Approximately 199 postdoctoral and special fellowships will be supported in 1969 as compared to 204 in 1968 and 160 in 1967. Also some 127 career award and career development fellowships will be supported in 1969 as compared to 125 in 1968 and 88 in 1967.

(c) Training.—Grants are awarded to accredited schools for the improvement of instruction in the curriculum; clinical training grants are awarded for training in such fields as surgery, pathology, radiobiology, radiotherapy, and internal medicine; and grants are awarded to research training centers for individual traineeships. The following table summarizes these grants.

Graduate training: Research (clinical and nonclinical).....	90	94	93
Cancer clinical training.....	90	99	97

2. Direct operations.—(a) Laboratory and clinical research.—Research includes laboratory research in the fields of biochemistry, biology, pathology, and physiology and clinical research in the fields of dermatology, endocrinology, immunology, metabolism, and surgery.

(b) Collaborative research and development.—Research is conducted in the areas of etiology and cancer therapy. This subactivity includes several task forces including breast cancer and lung cancer and the special virus-leukemia program. Research efforts include field studies, investigations, and contracts with public and private organizations and universities for the acquisition, development, and application of new knowledge pertinent to the prevention, control, and treatment of cancer.

(c) Biometry, epidemiology, and field studies.—This program is designed to analyze defined populations having unusual risks to specific cancers or known exposure to high risk environments, in order to reveal statistically significant cause-and-effect associations and disassociations leading to the discovery of etiologic factors and agents.

Funds will also provide for 257 grants for graduate research and clinical training for 1,195 trainees. Comparable numbers of grants and trainees were 275 and 1,375 in 1968, and 288 and 1,500 in 1967.

2. Direct operations.—(a) Laboratory and clinical research.—Research is conducted to aid in the understanding of the cardiovascular system and its diseases, with emphasis in therapeutic agents, diagnostic instrumentation, surgery, and clinical medicine.

(b) Collaborative research and development.—Funds will support the Artificial Heart-Myocardial Infarction program, Heart Cooperative Drug Study, and a National Blood program.

(c) Biometry, epidemiology, and field studies.—This activity conducts and supports epidemiological, biometrics research, and clinical trial studies to seek knowledge of the causes and prevention of cardiovascular disease. Causal factors are sought both by intensive study of "natural experiments" in population groups and by experimental modification of suspected factors.

(d) Training activities.—Inservice training is provided for positions requiring unique combinations of cardiovascular training and experience.

tinuation of planned renovation of laboratory space and equipment, and expansion of capabilities in clinical allergy and immunology.

(b) Collaborative research and development.—Contracts are programed in the areas of vaccine development and testing; research reagent development, production and distribution; and tissue transplantation immunology. The increase in 1969 will provide for expanded support for the development of bacterial vaccine, initiated in 1967, and to continue and expand transplantation immunology program efforts.

1. Grants.—(a) Research.—Approximately 1,122 grants will be supported in 1969 as compared to 1,122 in 1968 and 1,072 in 1967. In addition, funds are provided for general research support grants, clinical research centers, and mental retardation research centers.

(b) Fellowships.—Approximately 167 postdoctoral and special fellowships will be supported in 1969 as compared to 206 in 1968 and 168 in 1967. Also some 99 career awards and career development fellowships will be supported in 1969 as compared to 104 in 1968 and 94 in 1967.

(c) Training.—Approximately 167 training grants will be supported in 1969 as compared to 159 in 1968 and 143 in 1967.

2. Direct operations.—(a) Laboratory and clinical research.—Laboratory and clinical research is conducted in five major program areas of child health and human development. Reproduction and population research.—Reproductive biology, endocrinology, and ecology. Perinatal biology and infant mortality.—Maternal-child interactions, maturation of motor and behavioral systems, nutrition and development. Growth and development.—Neurophysiology, neurochemistry, and nutrition. Adult development and aging.—Cellular biology, biochemistry, physiology, and psychology. Mental retardation.—Biochemistry, neurophysiology, and behavioral research.

(b) Collaborative research and development.—This activity serves the important purpose of supplementing and complementing NICHD's intramural research programs. It is one of the most effective ways for coordinating program development in family planning, reproduction, fertility control, perinatal biology, growth and development, aging, and mental retardation. Program liaison is maintained and furthered through support of interdisciplinary research conferences and symposia and through scientific information centers.

(c) Biometry, epidemiology, and field studies.—Through contractual research, this activity supports the Institute's scientific staff in planning and conducting studies dealing with the incidence, distribution, and control of health problems in certain populations. Efforts are also being made to develop more effective and reliable means for measuring health problems, to collect and analyze health data, and to make statistical studies for use in initiating and evaluating scientific programs.

(d) Training activities.—This activity represents the NICHD Career Development program designed to help overcome the shortages of professional manpower in pediatrics and obstetrics and the lack of the necessary cross-disciplinary training required in the basic research programs of the Institute.

The goal of this program is to reduce the illness, disability, and premature deaths resulting from heart disease, cancer, stroke, and related diseases. Regional medical program grants support the establishment of cooperative arrangements among medical schools, hospitals, research centers, physicians, and other health groups and institutions on a regional basis, for the purpose of planning and conducting research, training, demonstrations of patient care, and other related projects which increase the availability and utilization of advanced diagnosis and care for these diseases.

1. Grants.—During 1969, $93.8 million will be awarded for planning and operational activities in at least 54 regional medical programs, covering the entire population of the country. Approximately 30 programs will receive their initial operational grants during this year; the remainder will be entering the second or third year of operations.

2. Direct operations.—The division of regional medical programs provides professional and technical assistance to regional personnel in the development of their programs, and centrally conducts research, development, and training activities under contracts which supplement and provide resources for the regional programs.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1966, $2,423 thousand (1966 adjustments, $125 thousand); 1967, $4,731 thousand; 1968, $4,731 thousand; 1969, $4,731 thousand.

1. Grants.—(a) Research.—Approximately 73 grants will be supported in 1969 as compared to 73 in 1968 and 81 in 1967. There will be 10 Environmental Health Institute grants supported in 1969 as compared to 9 in 1968. This activity supports research on the phenomena associated with the source, distribution, mode of entry, and effect of environmental agents on biological systems through grants to universities, research institutes, and other public or private nonprofit institutions.

(b) Fellowships.—Approximately 21 awards will be supported in 1969 as compared to 16 in 1968 and 15 in 1967. Under the fellowship program predoctoral, postdoctoral, and special grant awards will be made to graduate students and scientists for training in the field of environmental health sciences.

(c) Training.—Approximately 57 grants will be supported in 1969 as compared to 56 in 1968 and 47 in 1967. The graduate research training program supports the availability of high-quality training opportunities in environmental health. It has a threefold goal: (1) To increase the number of highly qualified scientists primarily concerned with environmental health; (2) to enable training institutions to strengthen and to enrich their research training capabilities; and (3) to expand opportunities for environmental health research training in a greater number of graduate institutions throughout the United States.

2. Direct operations.—(a) Laboratory and clinical research.—This activity supports the in-house research programs in environmental health sciences at the National Environmental Health Science Center in the Research Triangle Park, N.C. Included are research efforts in cell biology, pharmacology and toxicology, analytical and synthetic chemistry, biophysics and biomedical instrumentation, animal science and technology, pathologic physiology, epidemiology, biometry, epidemiologic pathology, and scientific information as well as the supporting services for these laboratories and branches.

(b) Review and approval of grants.—The scientific and administrative staff responsible for the review, negotiation, processing, and awarding of all grants is supported by this activity.

(c) Program direction.—This activity supports the Office of the Director of the division and scientific administrative staff who assist in the planning, supervision, and technical direction of the program.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1966, $2,431 thousand; 1967, $3,694 thousand; 1968, $3,694 thousand; 1969, $3,694 thousand.

The appropriation for general research and services finances the Division of Research Facilities and Resources which is responsible for administering general research support grants, general clinical research centers, special resource centers, primate centers, and health research facilities. It also finances the Office of International Research which administers the International Centers for Medical Research and Training grants, the NIH special foreign currency program, the visiting scientists program, the international postdoctoral fellowships program, and the international research career development program; the International Center; the engineering development activity; and the Division of Computer Research and Technology which plans and conducts research, developmental, and demonstration programs in mathematical and other computer related sciences.

The activities for the general research and services appropriation are described below.

1. Division of Research Facilities and Resources.—(a) Grants.—(1) Research.—Funds are provided for general research support grants, general clinical research centers, special research resources, scientific evaluation, and primate centers. Approximately 203 grants will be supported in 1969 as compared to 218 grants in 1968 and 209 in 1967.

(2) Fellowships.—Approximately 176 fellowships will be supported in 1969 as compared to 154 in 1968 and 155 in 1967.

(3) Training.—Approximately seven graduate training grants will be supported in 1969 compared with seven in 1968 and six in 1967.

(b) Direct operations.—Collaborative research and development.—Research is conducted in collaboration with Federal and non-Federal institutions through contracts. Included are pharmacology-toxicology information systems studies, special research resources, surveys of animal resources, and development of standards for laboratory animal facilities.

2. Office of International Research.—(a) Grants.—(1) Research.—Approximately 174 regular research grants will be supported in 1969 as compared to 182 in 1968 and 211 in 1967. In addition, five international centers for medical research and training will be supported in 1969—the same number as in 1968 and 1967.

(2) Fellowships.—Approximately 20 fellowships will be supported in 1969 as compared with 20 in 1968 and 15 in 1967.

(b) Direct operations.—(1) International research.—Provides for the executive direction, planning, and coordinating of all international activities of the National Institutes of Health.

(2) Training activities.—Provides for investigators with research interests in laboratories operated in other countries by U.S. institutions.

3. Division of Computer Research and Technology.—This activity conducts research in mathematical, computer, and allied sciences; provides necessary professional, technical, and training support to specific NIH research programs, and operates a central computer center serving the total intramural and extramural activities of the National Institutes of Health.

4. Engineering development.—This activity is directed toward applying engineering and technological innovations to biomedical problems in such areas as the development of artificial organs, synthetic materials, and the automation of clinical and laboratory measurements.

5. International Center.—The primary function of the International Center is to create the environment and provide the means to bring together scholars and scientists for advanced study of the development of science as it relates to health and its implications for the future. The Center will administer a fellowship program to provide support for the international exchange of individuals for teaching, research, and study in the health and related sciences. Further, it will organize conferences, seminars, and working scientific sessions developed around the major health problems, and will serve as the central point for reception and assistance of foreign scientists and other international visitors to the National Institutes of Health. In 1969, funds are required for initial arrangement costs including the assembly of the staff; and for the commencement of the scholars-in-residence program and the international conference and seminar program.

Funds are proposed for the 13th year of a program of grants for the construction of new and improved non-Federal research facilities in the sciences related to health as authorized by the Health Research Facilities Act of 1956, as amended. A program level of $20.6 million is achieved in 1969 through the utilization of funds brought forward from 1968.

³ Non-Federal sources include sponsored travel; voluntary payment for hospital care (narcotic addict patients) (42 U.S.C. 221).

1. Grants.—(a) Research.—Grants are awarded on a project basis for behavioral, clinical, psychological, and applied research in mental illness and health. Clinical research centers and general research support grants are also supported from this subactivity. Approximately 1,680 grants will be supported in 1969 as compared to 1,628 in 1968 and 1,481 in 1967.

(b) Hospital improvement.—These project grants to State institutions for the mentally ill are designed to improve the quality of care, treatment, and rehabilitation in these institutions. Approximately 112 of these grants will be supported in 1969, 122 in 1968, and 107 in 1967.

(c) Training.—Grants are made to training institutions for clinical and research training in psychiatry, behavioral sciences, psychiatric nursing, psychiatric social work, and other mental health disciplines. Experimental and special programs and continuing education in the mental health field are included as well as special training in such areas as alcoholism, drug abuse, and suicide prevention. In 1969, approximately 13,641 trainee stipends will be awarded as compared to 12,330 trainee stipends in 1968 and 11,149 trainee stipends in 1967.

(d) Fellowships.—Awards are made on the basis of excellence to individuals involved in mental health research. In 1969, approximately 1,105 awards will be made as compared to 1,105 in 1968 and 1,092 in 1967.

(e) Early child care demonstrations and evaluations.—Grant funds in this activity will be used to demonstrate and evaluate different methods of preventing and treating the emotional disturbances and social handicaps of disadvantaged children and enhancing their intellectual development through day-care center programs and pre-school education.

2. Direct operations.—(a) Planning, development, and administration of extramural research programs.—The Institute professional staff in this activity is involved in the management of grants and contract mechanisms to support programs in planning in the areas of behavioral science research, applied research, clinical research, and psychopharmacological research; in developing programs in these areas; and consultation and advice to those involved in such research. In addition, this subactivity includes the coordination of schizophrenia research and research in mental health and social problems.

(b) Intramural research.—Laboratory and clinical research is conducted in the behavioral and biological sciences, e.g., psychiatry, socioeconomic studies, neurobiology, and neurochemistry. Additionally there is laboratory and clinical research in special mental health problems of neuropharmacology, clinical psychopharmacology, narcotic addiction, and alcoholism.

(c) Manpower and training.—Within this subactivity analytic studies of manpower are undertaken and the national mental health training program is coordinated and supported. Emphasis is given to the full range of manpower requirements for research and service in the field of mental health including the disciplines of psychiatry, behavioral sciences, psychiatric nursing, and social work.

(d) Mental health services.—The administration and stimulation of the community mental health centers program is undertaken in this subactivity as well as technical program assistance such as the mental hospital improvement program and its corollary the mental hospital in-service training program. The Center for Studies of Metropolitan and Regional Mental Health Problems is funded from this subactivity.

(e) Special mental health programs.—This subactivity funds specialized centers recently established to give greater emphasis to specific areas such as alcoholism, narcotic and drug abuse, suicide prevention, crime and delinquency, and mental health of children and youth. Included in this activity is $575,000 in 1969 to administer the new grant program of early child care demonstrations and evaluations. Also funded in this subactivity is a program for training psychiatrists for careers in the Public Health Service.

(f) Regional and field activities.—Epidemiological studies, a community demonstration unit, the nucleus for experimental model community mental health centers, and the regional mental offices are funded here. In addition, this activity provides for planning and operation of supervised facilities for the aftercare of addicts who have been cared for by the Institute as provided by the Narcotic Addict Rehabilitation Act of 1966.

(g) Fort Worth and Lexington hospitals.—These are psychiatric hospitals primarily concerned with the treatment of patients suffering from narcotic addiction. These facilities will be used to conduct examinations and evaluations of alleged addicts and provide for their treatment under the provisions of the Narcotic Addict Rehabilitation Act of 1966.

(h) Scientific communication and public education.—The National Clearinghouse for Mental Health Information which collects and disseminates scientific and technical information in the mental health field and the Institute's public education program are funded here.

(i) Program management and services.—Central Institute program planning and evaluation, biometric services, program liaison, and administrative management are funded in this subactivity.

SAINT ELIZABETHS HOSPITAL, SALARIES AND EXPENSES—CON.

Programs of the hospital are financed by Federal appropriations covering treatment and care of Federal beneficiaries and by reimbursements made to the hospital for services rendered other patient groups, principally residents of the District of Columbia. Federal appropriations to the hospital are of the indefinite type, under which the hospital receives in appropriated funds the difference between the amount of reimbursements actually received during the year, on account of patient care provided by the hospital, and the total program costs approved by the Congress for the year. Reimbursement rates for reimbursable patient groups other than the District of Columbia are based on a pro rata share of the total program costs. Charges to the District of Columbia are based on the estimated mean (or average) cost per patient-day of the upper 10% of the States.

The functions of Saint Elizabeths Hospital are carried out under the three activity headings set forth below:

1. Operation and maintenance.—This activity covers the protective, therapeutic, and rehabilitative programs of the hospital, maintenance of hospital buildings, procurement of supplies and materials, and the provision of necessary administrative services. Actual and estimated average daily in-hospital patient load is as follows:

1969 estimate.....	5,200

2. Training and education.—The training and education program of Saint Elizabeths Hospital provides multidisciplinary clinical training for professional and ancillary personnel engaged in or interested in mental health activities.

3. Research.—Under this activity heading, the hospital plans, develops, and carries out coordinated research programs and projects for the purpose of obtaining a better understanding of the causes of mental disorders, and of the factors bearing upon their development, treatment, and possible prevention.

This appropriation covers all construction and facility improvement items of Saint Elizabeths Hospital. Projects underway or proposed for initiation in 1969 are set forth below:

1. Construction and equipment, continued treatment building (rehabilitation center).—Plans and specifications for this 450-bed facility are complete. Solicitation of bids for the construction contract has been deferred pending resolution of certain questions relative to this project.

2. Miscellaneous improvements of existing facilities.—Funds requested will provide for (a) rewiring and extension of electrical facilities, (b) screening in patient buildings, (c) replastering of hospital buildings, (d) the planning phase of a sewer renovation program, (e) architectural and engineering work leading to the replacement of four coal-fired boilers, (f) replacement of an elevator in a food service building, and (g) a small addition to a patient treatment building.

3. Construction and equipment, treatment and cafeteria building.—All work related to this project, including demolition of old buildings, was completed prior to 1967. During the past year all of the financial transactions relative to the work were closed out.

4. Construction and equipment, security facility.—This facility will replace several antiquated buildings and more effectively provide for the needs of patients who require treatment in a security setting. The development of plans and specifications will be undertaken during 1969. Construction funds will be requested in a subsequent fiscal year.

5. Construction and equipment, residential treatment center for adolescents and children.—With funds made available in 1967, the hospital expects to develop a program statement during the current year, and complete the preparation of detailed plans and specifications by the end of 1969, for construction of a facility which will provide specialized treatment for mentally disturbed young patients in a physical setting removed from the hospital's adult patient population.

National vital and health statistics.—The program of the National Center for Health Statistics comprises the major activities of the Public Health Service in the measurement of the health status of the Nation and in developing and applying optimum technical methods for the collection, processing, and analysis of health statistics. It includes (a) the collection, compilation, analysis, and dissemination of statistics on births, deaths, fetal deaths, marriages and divorces and other health data related to these basic vital events; (b) continuing surveys and special health statistics studies on the amount, distribution, and effects of illness and disability in the United States and the services received for or because of such conditions; (c) studies of health survey methods with a view toward their continued improvement; and (d) technical advice and assistance on the application of statistical methods in the health and medical fields.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1966, $1,714 thousand (1967 adjustments, -$47 thousand); 1967, $3,168 thousand; 1968, $4,272 thousand; 1969, $3,578 thousand.

The National Library of Medicine is the central national resource for the collection, organization, processing and dissemination of worldwide scientific information related to general health. The program of the Library for 1969 will include activities to: (a) provide rapid, comprehensive access to health information to meet the needs of practitioners, educators, students, and researchers in the health sciences; (b) continue development of a Toxicology Information Exchange to meet the Nation's need for information on the biological effects of chemical agents on man and his environment; (c) support the development and utilization of the Nation's health information resources; (d) conduct system engineering and network design in health communications; and (e) provide support and services for medical audiovisual information.

The Library directly provides interlibrary loans, reference and bibliographic services, and has developed, activated and improved MEDLARS, a computerized system which provides analysis, management, and dissemination of current bibliographic information related to health. The National Medical Audiovisual Center, NLM, supports efforts to develop new media for health communications and provides health information services in audiovisual forms. The National Library of Medicine also administers support programs authorized by the Medical Library Assistance Act.

1. Grants.—(a) Construction.—Funds available in 1969 will support approximately one construction project compared to 10 projects in 1968.

(b) Training.—Training grant awards in 1969 will number approximately 24. This compares to 20 in 1968 and 17 in 1967.

(c) Special scientific projects.—Awards to health science scholars will number seven in 1969 compared to four in 1968 and two in 1967.

(d) Research.—Funds available in 1969 will support 30 projects compared to 21 in 1968 and 29 in 1967.

(e) Library resources.—300 libraries will receive grants in 1969 compared to 300 in 1968 and 258 in 1967.

(f) Regional medical libraries.—In 1969 eight grants to institutions serving as regional medical libraries will be made compared to three in 1968 and one in 1967.

(g) Publications support.—An estimated number of 10 awards will be made in 1969 compared to 12 in 1968 and 14 in 1967.

2. Direct operations.—(a) Library operations.—The increase in 1969 will provide funds for further development of an improved second generation MEDLARS system to improve the quality and speed of response and meet increased service demands.

(b) Toxicology information.—The increase in 1969 will provide for planning, systems design, and engineering to permit further development of the Toxicology Information Exchange.

(c) National Medical Audiovisual Center.—The increase in 1969 will permit increased direct funding to cover increased costs of production and distribution of audiovisual materials.

(d) Research and support contracts.—The net change in 1969 results from inclusion under this activity of contract research for health communications systems engineering and network design, and a decrease in the utilization of contract authority under the Medical Library Assistance Act for research and publications support.

(e) Review and approval of grants and contracts.—Funds identified in this activity provide for the administration of the extramural program.

(f) Program direction.—The 1969 increase will be used to bolster the administrative management of the Library and to meet increased administrative costs.

Proposed projects.—The following construction projects will necessitate the provision of additional funds in 1969:

2. Multilevel parking facility.—Planning funds were provided in 1968 for an addition to the facility previously approved adjacent to the general office building. Construction funds are requested in 1969.

4. Neurology-allergy virus facility.—Planning funds are requested in 1969 for a proposed virus facility for the joint use of the National Institutes of Neurological Diseases and Blindness and Allergy and Infectious Diseases.

6. Animal breeding and holding facility, CDC.—The 1969 request provides funds for acquisition of an additional 100 acres of pasture and for fencing and grazing improvements.

7. Appalachian health field station.—Funds were provided in 1967 for planning a facility at Morgantown, W. Va., for research in the environmental health problems of the Appalachian region. Funds requested in 1969 would provide for construction of the facility and for specialized equipment.

9. Northeast marine health sciences laboratory—equipment.—Funds were provided in 1966 and 1967 for planning and construction of this laboratory addition. The 1969 request provides for purchase of initial portable equipment.

10. Northwest marine health sciences laboratory—equipment.—Construction of this laboratory is expected to be completed in 1969. Funds requested will provide for purchase of initial portable equipment.

12. Outpatient clinic, Cincinnati, Ohio—planning.—Funds are requested to provide for planning of an outpatient clinic to be included in the National Center for Urban and Industrial Health. This would replace the present facility now accommodated in the Post Office building.

14. Repairs and improvements.—The 1969 request provides for continuation of a program of major alterations, repairs, and improvements of buildings and facilities inaugurated in 1964.

The following activities will require appropriation of funds in subsequent years to complete, but will be continued in 1969 with funds appropriated in prior years:

- 1. NIH animal center.
- 3. Master utilities extension.
- 11. Modernization of PHS hospitals.
- 17. Combined Service facility.
- 21. Laboratory facility, Cincinnati, Ohio.
- 26. Child health and human development research facility.
- 27. Environmental Health Sciences Center, Durham, N.C.

The remaining activities will be completed with funds appropriated in prior years. The following of the above activities have been completed.

- 36. Biologics standards laboratory annex, NIH.
- 40. Research facilities, Lexington, Ky.

The research efforts supported with foreign currencies derived through the sale abroad of surplus agricultural commodities authorized by the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, are directed toward the solution of disease and health problems which hold promise of contributing knowledge of value and significance to the advancement of medical research in the United States and other countries. Translation of research publications is supported to encourage international communication in the sciences relating to health. Research projects on collection and analysis of morbidity and mortality data are also supported as are projects in family planning and other scientific activities overseas such as training and international conferences.

1. Retirement payments.—Provision is made for the pay of officers retired for age, disability, or length of service. There were 705 retired officers on the rolls on June 30, 1967, and it is anticipated that there will be 785 in 1968 and 873 in 1969.

2. Survivors' benefits.—Under the provisions of the Retired Serviceman's Family Protection Plan, retired commissioned officers who elect to receive reduced retirement payments may provide for monthly payments to their survivors. There were survivors of 43 deceased officers on the rolls as of June 30, 1967, and it is anticipated that there will be survivors of 49 officers in 1968 and 55 officers in 1969.

3. Dependents' medical care.—This activity provides funds for care in non-Public Health Service facilities for dependents of Public Health Service beneficiary members of the uniformed services and retired personnel in accordance with the Dependents' Medical Care Act, approved December 7, 1956, as amended by Public Law 89-614. Care provided directly in Public Health Service facilities is financed under the appropriation, "Patient care and special health services."

The Allied Health Professions Personnel Training Act of 1966 (Public Law 89-751) amended title VII, part C of the Public Health Service Act to establish a revolving fund from which schools may obtain loans to provide loans to health professions students. This amendment supplements the existing Federal capital contribution method of funding student loans as authorized by the Health Professions Educational Assistance Act, Public Law 88-129.

The first year student loans were awarded from the revolving fund was in 1968. In that year, approximately 12 thousand health professions students received loans totaling $11,659 thousand.

In 1969, approximately 11,800 health professions students will receive loans totaling $11,429 thousand.

The Participation Sales Act of 1966 established a revolving fund for these loans, and authorizes the sales of such loans to the private credit market, when authorized in appropriation acts. The Federal National Mortgage Association is authorized to serve as trustee for these sales.

Appropriations for insufficiencies are used to fund the deficit resulting from the difference between the interest rate on participation certificates and the interest rate paid by higher education institutions.

The new obligational authority required for "insufficiencies" is computed as follows (in thousands of dollars):

	1968 estimate	1969 estimate

The Allied Health Professions Personnel Training Act of 1966 (Public Law 89-751) amended sec. 827 of the Public Health Service Act to establish a revolving fund to provide loans to nursing students. This amendment supplements the existing Federal capital contribution method of funding student loans as authorized by the Nurse Training Act, Public Law 88-581.

The first year that student loans were awarded from the revolving fund was in 1968. In that year, approximately 9,100 students received nursing student loans totaling $6,715 thousand.

In 1969, approximately 11,500 nursing students will receive loans totaling $7,300 thousand.

The Participation Sales Act of 1966 established a revolving fund for these loans and authorizes the sales of such loans to the private credit market, when authorized in appropriations act. Trustee for these sales is the FNMA.

Appropriations for insufficiencies are used to fund the deficit resulting from the difference between the interest rate on participation certificates and interest rate paid by higher education institutions.

Public Law 86-798 (42 U.S.C. 241(d)) amends the Public Health Service Act to provide for grants-in-aid to universities, hospitals, laboratories, and other public or nonprofit institutions for the general support of research and research training in sciences related to health. The act specifies that this program will be supported with funds provided for research grants through the appropriations for the National Institutes of Health and the National Institute of Mental Health.

(a) General research support.—These awards permit health professional schools and those nonacademic research organizations heavily engaged in health research to better meet emerging opportunities in research and to use funds flexibly in ways catalytic for fostering additional research capability. In 1968 $5 million is reprogrammed from health science advancement support to this activity. This is done in recognition of the need for additional financial aid for the health professions schools at this time.

(b) Biomedical science support.—These awards similar in purpose to general research support grants are made to graduate departments outside the health professional schools.

(c) Health sciences advancement support.—These awards support institutions which have demonstrated an interest and initiative in the health sciences, but which, because of inadequate resources, have been unable to develop fully their potential for health research and research training.

The National Institutes of Health management fund was established to facilitate the conduct of operations of the National Institutes of Health which are financed by two or more appropriations. The activities of the fund are financed primarily from advances and reimbursements from the several institutes. Formulas for determining the contribution from each institute are designed to reflect utilization of services performed by the management fund. Taken into consideration are such factors as the number of activated beds in the clinical center, number of laboratory workers, total personnel, and dollar level of grant, direct research, and direct operations funds obligated by the institute. A small portion of the funds comes from reimbursements from outside sources, principally cafeteria receipts, and from other Government agencies.

The centralized organizations of the National Institutes of Health provide supporting services to all programs as follows:

1. Research supporting services.—Provide the central administration and operation of services for the conduct of research activities such as planning and supervising the design, construction, and development of new research activities; providing laboratory animals, culture media and glassware; design and fabrication of laboratory instrumentation; operating the NIH medical reference library including the translation of medical literature; scientific photography and medical arts; maintenance and alteration of all physical facilities including utility services; and environmental engineering services.

2. Clinical supporting services.—Consist of the operation of the 516-bed clinical center together with the laboratory space required for the treatment of research patients.

3. Administrative management.—Includes personnel management, supply management, financial management, office services, plant safety, and management surveys, analyses, reviews, and evaluations.

4. Program direction.—Provides for the overall executive direction and planning of intramural and extramural research.

5. Review and approval of grants.—Initiates and develops recommendations and provides staff support services for the National Institutes of Health in formulating Public Health Service grants and awards policies and procedures relating to research, center, and training grants and fellowship programs; assigns grant and award applications to the appropriate bureau of the Public Health Service; assigns applications within the National Institutes of Health to Institutes and Divisions and to initial review groups, and provides for the scientific review of applications by the National Institutes of Health study sections and review committees; conducts negotiations with grantee institutions, makes studies, and provides advisory and consultative services to NIH Institutes and Divisions relative to PHS grant policy and NIH-wide management matters; collects, stores, retrieves, and analyzes management and program data needed by the National Institutes of Health in the management of its extramural programs.

6. Cafeteria.—The clinical center cafeteria is operated by the nutrition department and furnishes meals for sale to the employees and visitors at rates sufficient to cover the reasonable value of the meals served. Income and expenses are as follows:

Income from:	1967 actual	1968 estimate	1969 estimate

Maintenance payments to recipients are to cover costs of food, shelter, clothing, and other necessary items of daily living. These payments are generally made to the recipient in the form of a money payment. In certain cases, such payments may be made on his behalf to another person: for example, protective payments on behalf of aged recipients unable, because of mental conditions, to manage funds; payments for foster care provided certain children under the AFDC program; and payments for institutional services in intermediate care facilities provided to persons in need of personal care short of skilled nursing home care.

Grants to States for old-age assistance, aid to the blind, aid to the permanently and totally disabled, and aid to families with dependent children are made to States that have plans for these programs approved by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. As of July 1, 1967, 54 jurisdictions were administering old-age assistance, aid to the blind, and aid to families with dependent children under approved plans, and 53 jurisdictions were administering programs of aid to the disabled. The Social Security Amendments of 1967 also authorized grants to States whose plans for the dependent children program provide for emergency assistance to needy families with children (including migrant workers with families).

Amount of request.—For 1969, total expenditures for maintenance payments from Federal, State, and local sources are estimated at $5,278 million; the Federal share of this total is 58%. The appropriation request of $3,051.9 million for 1969 is about $100 million more than total Federal requirements for 1968 including the proposed supplemental.

The programs of old-age assistance and aid to the blind are expected to require smaller amounts in 1969 than in 1968. An increase in expenditures from Federal funds is expected for aid to families with dependent children and aid to the permanently and totally disabled.

Provisions for determining the Federal share of maintenance payments.—Grants to States for maintenance payments are available to the States under the following titles of the Social Security Act:

Old-Age Assistance (title I).	Aid to the Aged, Blind or Disabled (title XVI).
Aid to the Blind (title X).	Aid to Families With Dependent Children (title IV).
Aid to the Permanently and Totally Disabled (title XIV).	Emergency Assistance (title IV).

The Federal share of money payments to or on behalf of recipients is computed in two parts. The Federal share of the first \$37 of the average monthly payment per recipient in the categories for adults is $\frac{3}{37}$; and of the first \$18 per recipient of aid to families with dependent children it is $\frac{1}{2}$. The Federal share of the balance of the average monthly payment, up to a maximum of \$75 per recipient in the categories for adults and up to \$32 per recipient (\$100 per child in foster care) in aid to families with dependent children, varies according to the per capita income of the States, and ranges from 50% to 65%. The Federal share of emergency assistance is 50%.

Grants to States for maintenance payments.—(1) Old-age assistance.—The average monthly number of recipients for 1969 is estimated to be 37,100 fewer than for 1968. The decrease in number of recipients reflects primarily the effect of the 1967 amendments to the Social Security Act which increased social security benefits. The estimated average monthly maintenance payment is 10 cents more than the estimate for 1968.

(2) Aid to the blind.—The average monthly number of recipients for 1969 is estimated at 1.8% below the number estimated for 1968. The estimated average monthly maintenance payment is $1.10 more than the estimate for 1968.

(4) Aid to families with dependent children.—The average monthly number of recipients—children and adults—to be aided during 1969 is expected to reach 6,060,000. Approximately 475,000 of these recipients will be assisted entirely from State and local funds because the 1967 social security amendments limit Federal financial participation in payments on behalf of children whose parents are absent for specified reasons. For 1969, the aggregate number of such children that can be aided with Federal funds in any quarter cannot exceed the rate per 1,000 children under 18 that they represented in the quarter January–March 1968. The number of recipients covered by the appropriation request for 1969 is about 659,000 more than the estimated average for 1968. The appropriation request for 1969 is $1,503.1 million, or $99 million more than that estimated for 1968. Without the change in legislation, the request for 1969 would have been about $125 million greater. Part of the funds requested for this program will be used for maintenance costs and incentive payments for an estimated 450,000 persons in families with an adult or older child engaged in employment and training projects.

(5) Emergency assistance.—The appropriation request is for $10 million for grants to States to provide emergency assistance for maintenance needs of recipients in crisis situations that must be met before the process of eligibility determination for and authorization of aid to families with dependent children can be completed. Examples of crisis situations include imminent eviction, loss of utility services turned off because of nonpayment, and exhaustion of food supplies. Federal funds are made available to encourage and enable States to act promptly and effectively in such situations.

Federal financial participation is available at the 50% rate in emergency assistance payments for periods not to exceed 30 days in any 12-month period. Assistance provided may be in the form of money to the individual to meet maintenance needs or vendor payments for food, clothing, rent, utilities, or other items.

The appropriation for 1969 provides for the first full-year of the program authorized by the 1967 social security amendments. It is designed to encourage and promote training and employment of appropriate individuals receiving support under public assistance from the aid to families with dependent children program. The Department of Labor will administer the training activities and work projects in cooperation with State welfare agencies. In 1969 about 82,000 persons will be trained and an additional 20,000 will be employed in work projects. State welfare agencies are responsible for the referral of appropriate individuals to the new program, assurance of proper child care, and provision of the full range of necessary social services. A supplemental appropriation is proposed for 1968 to initiate this program.

1. Training and incentives.—(a) On-the-job training.—An estimated 36,200 trainees will participate in the on-the-job training in 1969. For some trainees this will be a major part of their training while for others it will be a transitional phase between classroom training and regular employment. This activity also provides orientation costs for all participants in the program. Orientation provides training in basic employment skills, vocational counseling and testing, and an employability plan for permanent employment. Upon completion, some persons will go directly into employment and the remainder into some phase of training.

(b) Institutional and work experience training.—This activity provides for classroom and/or work experience training which will be needed by the bulk of participants. Most trainees will need some combination of basic education, general educational development, institutional training, and work experience. During the training period participants will receive a training incentive payment of $30 per month.

(c) Work projects.—The 1967 amendments also authorize agreements with public agencies and private nonprofit agencies organized for a public purpose (including councils of Indian tribes living on a reservation) for special work projects to employ those persons for whom jobs in the regular economy cannot be found at the time and for whom training is not appropriate. For 1969, funds will provide the employer's (public agencies and councils of Indian tribes only) share of the first full year (1969) costs of wage payments under these work projects.

(d) Program direction and evaluation.—This activity provides for the program development, evaluation, and administration of the Work Incentive Program by the Department of Labor.

2. Child care.—This activity provides for the costs of care for dependent children of mothers participating in the work incentive program.

In 1969 child care will be provided for an average monthly number of about 34,000 to 35,000 children at an average cost of $100 per month per child, for which Federal matching in 1969 is 85%.

Grants for medical assistance under title XIX of the Social Security Act (Medicaid), and for medical assistance provided under titles I, IV, X, XIV, or XVI of the act are made to States having plans approved by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. After January 1, 1970, Federal financial participation in payments to medical vendors will be available only under title XIX. The purpose of title XIX, which became effective in January 1966, is to make quality medical care more generally available to low income groups by coupling Federal requirements for program coverage and quality of care with more generous Federal financial participation.

Federal financial participation in Medicaid payments varies according to the per capita income of the State, from a minimum of 50% to a maximum of 83%. Eligible recipients include, as a minimum, all persons receiving or eligible to receive a money payment under the Social Security Act. In addition the State may elect to cover certain medically needy persons who need help with their medical bills. Federal legislation enacted in 1967 prohibits Federal financial participation in payments made in behalf of families and individuals whose incomes exceed specified levels.

The requested appropriation for 1969 is $2,118.3 million. The comparable figures would be $1,171.6 million in 1967 and $1,807.6 million in 1968 which includes a supplemental request of $568.3 million.

Total payments (Federal, State, and local).—Total payments to medical vendors during 1969 are estimated at $4,184 million, an increase of $772.5 million from 1968.

Slightly more than half, or $2,130 million, will be paid in behalf of recipients for whom a money payment is authorized. Nearly 97% of total payments to medical vendors during 1969 will be made under title XIX.

Total payments, Federal, State, and local (thousands):	1967 actual	1968 estimate	1969 estimate

For nonmoney payment recipients..	1,156,128	1,714,800	2,053,700

Federal share.—Federal expenditures for payments to medical vendors are expected to increase by $346.3 million over the 1968 level plus the supplemental, to $2,033.2 million. About 58% of the Federal share of expenditures for medical services will be made in behalf of recipients who also receive a money payment.

The costs of skilled professional medical personnel engaged in the administration of the program and their supporting staff and the costs of training skilled professional medical personnel are subject to the 75% rate of Federal financial participation, as are costs of training programs for nursing home operators, to enable them to qualify as operators of licensed homes under the States licensing laws, as required under the 1967 amendments. All other costs are subject to 50% Federal participation.

The total expenditure for State and local administration is estimated at $192,100,000 or $41.9 million more than the estimate for 1968. The Federal share of this amount is $98.1 million, or slightly more than half of the total; and $20.6 million more than the appropriation plus the supplemental request for 1968.

State and local costs of administration (thousands):	1967 actual	1968 estimate	1969 estimate
Total (Federal, State, and local)....	$98,484	$150,200	$192,100
Federal share.....	51,632	77,500	98,100

Program analysis indicates that increases in medical assistance costs are due to a substantial increase (7.3% in 1967) in medical prices (especially in hospital daily service charges and physicians' fees), expansion of the number of jurisdictions participating in the Medicaid program (29 in 1967, 43 in 1968 and 48 in 1969), inclusion by the States of additional needy and medically needy persons in Medicaid (5.2 million in 1967, 7.3 million in 1968 and 8.5 million in 1969), and Medicaid coverage of services for which Federal payments were not formerly available. Federal payments for families with children are expected to increase by about $170 million in 1969. This 30% increase is relatively greater than for other groups. Program costs would have been higher had it not been for recent legislation limiting Federal financial participation to persons meeting certain income qualifications.

The Medical Service Administration within the new Social and Rehabilitation Service of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare has responsibility for providing program direction for Medicaid. The 1967 amendments will enable this new organization to engage in experimentation to develop new, more efficient methods of delivering quality health services to the needy.

Note.—Estimate of 591,800 thousand is for activities previously carried under "Grants to States for Public Assistance." The amounts obligated in 1967 and 1968 are shown in the schedule as comparative transfers.

02 Out of prior authorizations.....	-----	-----	135,000

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Amount obligated in one year for grants chargeable to appropriation for subsequent year: 1966, $60,478 thousand; 1967, $62,176 thousand; 1968, $135,000 thousand; 1969, $135,000 thousand.

Grants are made to States operating public assistance programs approved by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare under titles I, IV, X, XIV, and XVI of the Social Security Act. They provide social services prescribed or specified by the Secretary and for the necessary costs of proper and efficient administration. The purpose of the grants is to enable each State, as far as practicable under the conditions existing in the State, to furnish rehabilitative and other services to recipients and potential recipients to help them maintain and strengthen family life and to attain or retain capability for maximum self-support, self-care, and personal independence. Grants are also available for training State and local personnel and for support of graduate and undergraduate programs of social work training. Experimental, pilot, and demonstration projects are also supported to test new methods of administration and the delivery of services.

For 1969, the appropriation request for social services, administration, training, and demonstration projects is $594,800,000; this amount is $127,900,000 more than the appropriation plus the supplemental request for 1968. Total expenditures from Federal, State, and local funds are estimated at $970.4 million in 1969 compared to $776.3 million in 1968.

The Federal share is 75% for: (1) the cost of providing preventive and rehabilitative services that are specified by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare; and (2) the cost of staff training, including educational leave and agency training sessions.

Under the 1967 legislation, States are encouraged to provide certain services that they are not required to furnish until 1970. To this end, the rate of Federal financial participation in the costs of such services is 85% until 1970 when it drops to 75%.

The Federal share of costs, other than those specified above, is 50%.

Section 1115 of the Social Security Act provides for meeting the non-Federal share of costs of demonstration projects that could be expected to contribute significantly to existing knowledge about the kinds and scope of services or methods of work which enhance the capacity of public assistance and medical assistance agencies to assist needy persons in solving problems that threaten the stability of family life and prevent self-support or self-care.

1. Social services.—The 1962 amendments to the Social Security Act authorized 75% Federal financial participation in State and local costs of providing social services to applicants for and recipients of public assistance, under an approved plan for the provision of such services. Total expenditure for State and local costs of social services is expected to increase by $154.5 million, nearly 30% from 1968. The Federal share will be $104.8 million or about 68% of the total increase.

Most of the additional expenditures for social services will be made in the program of aid to families with dependent children as States move to carry out the provisions of the 1967 amendments requiring them to develop programs: (1) for review of the employment potential of each adult and older child not attending school; (2) for reducing the incidence of illegitimacy and strengthening family life; (3) for furnishing homemaker and home management services either directly or through purchase from other community agencies; and (4) for other services designed to promote independence and strengthen family life. Part of the estimated increase reflects the anticipated growth—about 12%—in the number of recipients from 1968 to 1969.

The types of services to adults requiring the greatest expenditures are homemaker services, and services related to improving housing for recipients. States are expected to make only modest expansions in service programs for adults during 1969.

Total expenditures and the Federal share of expenditures for social services are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

	1967 actual	1968 estimate	1969 estimate
Federal share.....	281,589	338,100	442,900

2. State and local administration (excluding medical assistance).—Included in this activity are caseload-related costs of State and local administrative personnel, personnel engaged in making payments to recipients, and staff engaged in providing services to employees of the department, as well as costs of travel not directly related to social services, automatic data processing and other similar functions. Costs of reimbursing law enforcement officials for locating and obtaining support payments from absent fathers, as authorized by the 1967 social security amendments, are also included.

Costs of State and local administration are expected to increase by nearly $30 million from 1968 to 1969. Administrative costs, total and the Federal share for 1967-69 are estimated as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Total.....	184,200	209,600	239,200
Federal share.....	92,100	104,800	119,600

3. Training.—Expenditures for training staff of State and local agencies administering public assistance programs, and of training persons preparing for employment in these agencies may be shared by the Federal Government at the 75% rate. In 1969, expenditures for training State and local staff are expected to total $33.7 million, about 25% more than in 1968. The largest share of this expenditure is for inservice training of the staff of public welfare agencies. The 1967 amendments also add provisions for training subprofessional personnel.

The 1969 estimate also includes $3 million for grants to colleges, universities, and accredited graduate schools of social work to meet part of the costs of developing, expanding, or improving their social work training resources.

Total expenditures and the Federal share of expenditures for training are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Total.....	22,224	26,700	36,700
Federal share.....	16,668	20,000	28,300

4. Demonstration projects.—Demonstration project authority is one of the most potentially useful provisions in the Social Security Act. It provides for the waiver of certain legal requirements and additional financing in the interest of encouraging program innovation in the States. The 1967 amendments raised the authorization from $2 to $4 million a year to help States finance such projects.

Projects operated under the authority include those designed to provide direct social services in new areas; to strengthen administration and stimulate program development; to demonstrate new methods of administration, including restructuring of agencies; to promote and strengthen staff recruitment and development; to demonstrate new approaches to encourage education and preparation for self-support; to show the effect of broadening program coverage and raising assistance payments; and to improve the administration of medical assistance.

In connection with its consideration of the regular Labor-Health, Education, and Welfare appropriation bill for 1968, Congress approved an appropriation of $4,124,300 thousand for Grants to States for old-age assistance, medical assistance, aid to families with dependent children, aid to the blind, and aid to the permanently and totally disabled under titles I, IV, X, XIV, XVI, and XIX of the Social Security Act, as amended.

Recent program trends indicate that the appropriation for 1968 will be inadequate to meet the Federal share of State expenditures by an estimated $1,135,000 thousand.

Public Law 86-571, approved July 5, 1960, provides for hospitalization and services to repatriated mentally ill U.S. nationals until arrangements can be made for assumption of responsibility by States of residence or the repatriate's family. The budget estimate assumes that a total of 106 mentally ill repatriates will require hospitalization in 1969; this compares with 87 who required such care in 1967 and 101 estimated for 1968.

Section 1113 of the Social Security Act authorizes temporary assistance to U.S. citizens and their dependents who return to this country because of destitution, illness or international crises and who are without available resources. It is estimated that in 1969 temporary assistance will be provided a total of about 191 cases who have been repatriated because of destitution and sickness as compared to 150 in 1967 and 174 estimated for 1968.

1. Vocational rehabilitation services.—Federal matching grants are made to assist the States in rehabilitating handicapped individuals so that they may prepare for and engage in remunerative employment to the extent of their capabilities. The rehabilitation services provided by the States include medical restoration, training, guidance and placement services and, as a result of the 1965 amendments, rehabilitation services for an extended period prior to the determination of an individual's vocational rehabilitation potential. Beginning in 1967, the State matching rate is 25% of total program expenditures.

2. Innovation of rehabilitation services.—Federal grants are made to States to assist them in initiating projects innovating new methods or techniques of providing vocational rehabilitation services to the disabled. Projects are intended to improve the vocational rehabilitation services provided by the State agencies. The matching rate of 90% for the first 3 years of a project is designed to encourage development of new methods and techniques. In 1969, the program will provide support for about 139 projects.

3. Services for migratory agricultural workers.—Federal grants are made to State and local government agencies to pay 90% of the cost of projects to provide vocational rehabilitation services to handicapped migratory agricultural workers and members of their families whether or not handicapped.

4. Statewide planning of rehabilitation services.—Federal grants are made to States to pay the cost of planning for the development of comprehensive vocational rehabilitation programs in each State. Grants are made for each of 2 years. Appropriation authorization for this program expires in 1968. Program authorization expires in 1969.

5. Expansion grants.—Federal grants are made to State agencies, local governmental units, and to private nonprofit organizations to assist in the cost of projects designed to expand vocational rehabilitation services to the disabled. A total of 162 projects will be supported under this program in 1969.

6. Training service grants.—For the period 1967 to 1971, grants will be made to States and public and other nonprofit organizations and agencies to pay 90% of the cost of projects for providing training services to physically handicapped individuals in public or other nonprofit workshops. In 1969, approximately 58 grants will be made.

7. Workshop improvement grants.—Program grants, effective 1966 to 1970, are made to workshops to pay part of the costs of projects to analyze, improve, and increase their professional services to the handicapped, their business management or any other part of their operation affecting their capacity to provide employment and services for the handicapped. In 1969, approximately 235 workshop improvement grants will be made.

8. Construction and initial staffing of rehabilitation facilities and workshops.—Project grants within a 5-year period beginning in 1966, are made to public and other nonprofit organizations or agencies for the construction of new buildings, the expansion, remodeling, alteration, or renovation of existing buildings, and the initial equipment and staffing of such buildings. State and local grants are also provided for planning rehabilitation facilities and workshops. The 1969 program will support approximately 23 construction projects, 23 initial staffing grants, and 50 project development grants.

1. Research grants.—Federal grants are made to organizations, institutions, and individuals for studies to determine the most effective and economical ways in which comprehensive care can be provided to meet existing needs of the mentally retarded.

In 1968, two projects initiated in 1966 were continued; they will be continued into 1969 and one new grant will be initiated.

2. Hospital improvement grants.—Project grants are made to provide assistance to State residential institutions for the mentally retarded: (1) to demonstrate, improve the quality and methods of care, treatment, and rehabilitation, and (2) for in-service training for personnel in such institutions to improve and strengthen the therapeutic services being provided to the mentally retarded.

3. Community service facilities for the mentally retarded.—(a) Construction grants.—Federal funds are allotted to States to assist in the construction, expansion, remodeling, and equipping of specially designed public and nonprofit comprehensive facilities, diagnostic and evaluation clinics, and day and residential facilities, including sheltered workshops. Approximately 1.5 million persons need services not presently available to them.

The 1969 program will support approximately 27 projects for facilities to serve 4,100 retarded persons of whom 2,000 are not now receiving services.

(b) Initial staffing grants.—Grants are available to assist in initial staffing of new community mental retardation facilities and new services in existing facilities. The availability of assistance for initial staffing costs will help make it possible for States to construct and operate these facilities already determined to be of highest priority, particularly in the disadvantaged areas. In 1969, approximately 40 initial staffing grants will be made for facilities serving 1,300 retarded persons.

4. Construction of university-affiliated facilities for the mentally retarded.—Project grants for the planning and construction of university-affiliated facilities are made to public or nonprofit colleges, universities or hospitals affiliated with colleges and universities, for the construction of new buildings, acquisition, expansion, remodeling and alteration of existing buildings, initial equipment and architects' fees, but excluding the cost of off-site improvements and acquisition of land. The rate of Federal participation in construction cost is limited to 75% of eligible costs. Two percent of appropriated funds are available for planning grants and each grant may not exceed $25,000 or 75% of the cost, whichever is lesser. The 1969 program is expected to support three university-affiliated facilities and five planning grants.

These grant programs have as their goal the establishment, extension, and strengthening of health and welfare services for mothers and children. They include both formula grants to State agencies and special project grants to a variety of agencies and organizations for research, training, and services in child health and welfare. For the programs of maternal and child health services and crippled children's services, the States must match one-half of the amounts appropriated; the remainder is distributed in proportion to financial need of the States, except that not to exceed 12½ percent of the appropriation for each program may be used for special project grants.

The States are required to match all appropriated funds for the program of child welfare services but the percent of matching varies from 33½ to 66%. There are no matching requirements for the grants for training of personnel for health and related care of mothers and children, for research projects relating to maternal and child health and crippled children's services, for training of child welfare personnel, or for research or demonstration projects in child welfare. The programs of special projects for maternity and infant care, health of school and preschool children, and dental health of children require that at least 25% of the cost of the project be met by the grantee.

The 1967 Social Security Amendments provide that, of the total amount appropriated under title V for child health services, 50% shall be for formula grants; 40% shall be for special project grants including dental health of children; and 10% shall be for training and research. The Secretary has authority to transfer not to exceed 5% of the total appropriated for title V from one purpose specified above to another purpose or purposes specified. Of the total appropriated under title V in any fiscal year, at least 6% must be made available for family planning services.

Family planning.—Program analysis has shown that expansion of voluntary family planning services could reduce infant mortality significantly and at a lower cost than any other health program. The following table illustrates the emphasis that will be placed on family planning services primarily through maternity and infant care projects.

Number of women receiving family planning services.....	300,000	325,000	1,000,000
Expenditures (millions).....	$3.5	$5.5	$24.0

Early case-finding and followup care.—The 1967 amendments authorize an expansion of early case finding and followup treatment for children which PPB analysis indicates is the most cost-effective program for the prevention and correction of chronic handicapping conditions. The analysis estimated that screening, followup and treatment would cost approximately $30 per child screened and that the program would prevent or correct handicapping conditions in approximately 3 percent of the children screened. The 1969 request includes an additional $15 million for early case finding and treatment.

1. Maternal and child health and crippled children's services.—(a) Maternal and child health services.—Grants are provided to States for the extension and improvement of health services for mothers and children especially in rural areas and in areas suffering from severe economic distress. Included are family planning services, home visits by public health nurses, well-child conferences and school health examinations. It is proposed that $4,750 thousand of these grants be earmarked for the 150 special projects for mentally retarded children.

(b) Crippled children's services.—Grants are made to States to extend and improve services for crippled children including early casefinding and medical, surgical, corrective, and other care, especially in rural areas and in areas suffering from severe economic distress. About 450,000 children annually receive services under this program. It is proposed that $5 million of these grants be earmarked for the 150 special projects for children who are mentally retarded which are supported by both maternal and child health and crippled children's funds. These projects serve 43,000 children.

(c) Special project grants for maternity and infant care.—Grants are made to State or local health agencies, or to other public or nonprofit private agencies, institutions, or organizations for special projects to help reduce the incidence of mental retardation and other handicapping conditions associated with childbearing, and to help reduce infant and maternal mortality. Currently there are 54 projects which provide comprehensive health services for 100,000 needy mothers and their infants including family planning services.

(d) Special project grants for health of school and pre-school children.—Grants are made to State or local agencies, medical schools, and teaching hospitals for special projects for comprehensive health care for children and youth. Fifty-five projects currently serve areas which include 1.8 million eligible children.

(e) Special project grants for dental health of children.—Under new legislation, grants will be made to State and local health agencies and to other public or nonprofit private agencies for dental projects which include preventive services, treatment, and aftercare for children and youth.

(f) Training of personnel for health and related care of mothers and children.—Grants are made to public or nonprofit private institutions of higher learning for training personnel for health care and related services for mothers and children. There are 14 university affiliated mental retardation centers currently receiving training grants.

(g) Research projects relating to maternal and child health and crippled children's services.—Grants, contracts, or jointly financed cooperative arrangements are made for research projects relating to maternal and child health and crippled children's services. Projects to study new and more efficient ways of delivering health services will be initiated as a result of the 1967 amendments to the Social Security Act.

(h) Evaluation.—Of the sum appropriated for grants under title V, not to exceed one-half of 1% shall be available for program evaluation by the Secretary.

2. Child welfare services.—(a) Child welfare services.—Grants aid States to establish, extend, and strengthen child welfare services for the protection and care of homeless, dependent, and neglected children, and children in danger of becoming delinquent, and for the return of runaway children to their own homes in other States.

(b) Training of child welfare personnel.—Grants are made to public or other nonprofit institutions of higher learning for special projects for training personnel for work in the field of child welfare.

(c) Research or demonstration projects in child welfare.—Grants, contracts, or jointly financed cooperative arrangements are made for the conduct of research or demonstration projects in the field of child welfare which are of regional or national significance, demonstrate new methods or facilities, or demonstrate utilization of research and research findings.

【COORDINATION AND】 DEVELOPMENT OF PROGRAMS FOR THE AGING

【For grants for community planning, services, and training, and for grants and contracts for research and development projects and training projects, and for consultative services, technical assistance, training and other services, relating to programs for the aged and aging, and for salaries and expenses in connection therewith, as authorized by the Older Americans Act of 1965, as amended, $18,450,000.】

To carry out, to the extent not otherwise provided, the Older Americans Act of 1965, as amended, $26,000,000.

Note.—Excludes $1,821,000 for activities transferred in the estimates to Social and Rehabilitation Service, salaries and expenses. The amounts obligated in 1967 and 1968 are shown in the schedule as comparative transfers.

1. Grants to States for community planning, services, and training.—Grant funds are allotted to State agencies according to formula. The State allotments are available for grants to pay up to 75% of the first-year costs of projects, up to 60% of the second-year costs, and up to 50% of the third-year costs. Projects are limited to 3 years of Federal support. States may use up to 10% of their allotment or $25 thousand, whichever is the larger, to pay up to one-half of the administrative costs of the State agency.

The purposes of this program are to stimulate community planning for meeting the needs of older persons, expand existing programs which provide services and opportunities for older persons, establish new programs where a need exists, and furnish necessary specialized training related to these activities.

New legislation will be proposed to strengthen the planning, leadership, and evaluation capability of the State agencies on aging through the development of comprehensive statewide planning and evaluation patterns within each State. It will provide opportunity for States to conduct statewide and areawide pilot projects, and will lengthen the period of Federal support for local projects.

The increase of $5,978 thousand will continue community projects funded in previous years, permit the carrying out of the legislative proposals if enacted, and provide funds for about 200 new projects in 1969.

2. Grants and contracts for research and demonstration.—Grants are made to, and contracts are made with, public and nonprofit private agencies, organizations, and institutions after consultation with the appropriate State agency. There are no matching requirements. However, recipients of a grant are required to contribute toward the cost of projects.

The purposes of the research and demonstration program are to study current living patterns of older persons; identify factors which are beneficial or detrimental to their wholesome and meaningful living; develop and demonstrate promising new approaches, techniques, and methods for meeting the needs of the aging; develop and demonstrate techniques for achieving and improving coordination of community services for older persons; and evaluate the relative effectiveness of different approaches.

The increase of $2,858 thousand will provide funds for continuation of ongoing projects and the initiation of 61 new projects in areas such as comprehensive coordinated services, special transportation problems of the elderly, and nutrition.

3. Training grants and contracts.—Grants are made to, and contracts are made with, public and nonprofit private agencies, organizations, and institutions after consultation with the appropriate State agency. There are no matching requirements. However, institutions are ordinarily required to contribute services, facilities, or funds toward their training projects. The focus of the training program is on career development and in-service training for personnel in a wide variety of specialized services to the aging.

The increase of $755 thousand will provide funds for continuation of ongoing training projects and the initiation of about 10 new projects for the training of over 500 additional persons.

The Social Security Act authorizes grants to States, grants to public and nonprofit organizations and contracts (including contracts with private organizations and agencies) or jointly financed cooperative arrangements for the conduct of research or demonstration projects relating to programs carried on or existing under the Social Security Act and related programs. The program is administered by the Social and Rehabilitation Service in cooperation with the Social Security Administration.

Funds appropriated are used to support research or demonstration projects in areas such as (1) those relating to the prevention and reduction of dependency, (2) those which will aid in effecting coordination of planning between private and public welfare agencies, and (3) those which will help improve the administration and effectiveness of programs carried on or existing under the Social Security Act and programs related thereto.

The $5 million requested for 1969 will provide $810 thousand to support approximately 19 new grant projects, $940 thousand for the continuation in 1969 of 16 grant projects initiated in prior years, $1,750 thousand for contracts under the directed research program, and $1,500 thousand for special innovative demonstration projects to be initiated in 1969.

Research grants.—Research grants are supported with institutions of higher education and other organizations on the basis of projects received from individual researchers and reviewed and evaluated by experts. These projects cover a broad variety of subject areas including pension and retirement systems, impact of health care projects on welfare recipients, and evaluation of new systems of delivery of services.

Innovative demonstrations.—Innovative demonstration grants and contracts are primarily related to the translation into practice of research findings in such a manner that through changes in the systems of delivery of services and through changes in actual day-to-day operations and practices self-support and self-care can be achieved to the maximum extent possible. Examples of projects to be supported are new modes of self-development, alternative forms of child care and alternative programs for delivery of family planning services.

Directed research.—Directed research activities supported by grants and contracts are primarily designed to produce information useful for program evaluation and program planning purposes. These research projects are designed and closely monitored by Federal research and program evaluation staffs in order to assure a direct relationship to ongoing program operations. Examples of studies already supported under this program are a nationwide survey of the living conditions of AFDC

The Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, and the International Health Research Act of 1960 authorize the conduct of research and related activities abroad. Research, demonstration, and research training programs are supported primarily with foreign currencies accruing to the United States through the sale of surplus agricultural commodities and through other sources. The estimate for 1969 proposes an appropriation of $7.5 million for the purchase of foreign currencies in eight excess currency countries.

Rehabilitation.—Research and demonstration programs are directed to the solution of problems which hold promise of contributing knowledge to the advancement of rehabilitation both in the United States and in other countries. Research training and fellowships are provided and exchanges of rehabilitation experts are arranged between the United States and cooperating foreign countries to increase the rehabilitation research resources both here and abroad.

Maternal and child health.—Studies, research, research planning and research training including the interchange of experts and research fellowships in maternal and child health and handicapping conditions are conducted in special applied health fields to gain knowledge of value to the United States, to the country involved, and internationally.

Social welfare.—Studies of urban social welfare and delivery of social services are conducted in countries selected because of country experiences and research facilities in programs such as urban social services, community development, methods to strengthen family life, improve child care, control and prevent juvenile delinquency, and services for the aging. Cooperative projects including seminars and expert consultation contribute new knowledge valuable to social welfare programs in the United States, the country concerned, and internationally.

This appropriation finances the support activities for the various grant and contract programs associated with assistance for and provision of constructive and rehabilitation services to needy, disabled, and other disadvantaged persons. These activities are funded through one appropriation but are administered by five administrations, nine regional offices, staff offices, and the immediate Office of the Administrator.

Rehabilitation.—This activity supports programs of grants to States for vocational rehabilitation; for construction of rehabilitation facilities and workshops and for workshop improvement projects; rehabilitation of migratory agricultural workers; and for direction pertaining to construction of facilities under the Medical Facilities Survey and Construction Act. Services are also provided in cooperation with the Social Security Administration for the rehabilitation of disability insurance beneficiaries, with these activities being financed from trust funds.

In addition, program development activities are conducted for services provided recipients of aid to the blind and permanently and totally disabled as authorized by title X, XIV and XVI of the Social Security Act.

Mental retardation.—Activities supporting the programs of construction of community and university affiliated facilities for the mentally retarded; research into mental retardation problems and programs; initial staffing of community mental retardation facilities; improvement of mental hospital programs; and State-wide implementation of mental retardation prevention and amelioration efforts are included under this category.

SRS research and statistics.—Intramural research staffs (other than those in the Administration on Aging and the Children's Bureau), administration of cooperative research; rehabilitation research; the experimental and demonstration projects in public assistance and medical assistance; and the collection of overall public welfare and rehabilitation program statistics are financed under this activity.

Assistance payments.—Federal leadership and administration of the joint Federal-State program of maintenance payments is included in this activity. This includes the determination of eligibility, the disbursement of funds to recipients and other persons on their behalf, the direction of the quality control review system of case actions, and certain responsibilities for program development and other activities associated with the Work Incentive program.

Medical assistance.—Federal administration of the medical vendor payment programs for maintenance payment recipients and the medically indigent, particularly the medical assistance program authorized by title XIX of the Social Security Act, are supported by this activity. Program development, program evaluation, review, and advice on management methods in medical assistance programs are among the areas included in this activity.

Maternal and child health and family and child welfare services.—This activity supports investigations into, and reports on, the health and welfare of children. Program development and administration of the maternal and health services, crippled children services, child health research and demonstrations, special projects for maternity and infant care, and health care of school and pre-school children, as well as training of personnel of health care of mothers and children are included in this activity. Administration and policy development associated with child welfare services; services to families and children, who are receiving AFDC payments, and child welfare research and training efforts are also included.

Aging services.—Serves as a focal point for stimulation of coordination of Federal programs which affect older persons, administration of the grants and contracts for community services and planning, research and demonstrations, and training authorized by the Older Americans Act of 1965; conduct of an information clearinghouse on subjects of interest to the aged and those concerned with aging; and research, and gathering and analysis of statistics, and related activities, are all supported under this category. In addition, program development activities are conducted for services to the aged as authorized by titles I and XVI of the Social Security Act.

Regional coordination and direction.—Overall coordinating and program direction staffs of regional offices associated with the regional commissioners and the overall field liaison and operations staff in headquarters is supported through this activity. This staff provides a focal point for contacts with States and other grantees on matters relating to more than one Social and Rehabilitation Service program and takes official actions on State plans.

Executive direction and program services.—Activities supported in this category include overall program leadership, coordination and direction, analysis of legislative proposals, preparation and dissemination of overall publications and public information, program planning and general administrative and management services.

In 1961 the President established a program to assist Cuban refugees in the United States. During 1961 and 1962, the program was conducted under the authority of the Mutual Security Act of 1954 and the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961. On June 28, 1962, the Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1962 was enacted which provides for assistance to refugees in the United States.

Refugees were arriving in Miami at the rate of about 1,700 a week when the missile crisis occurred in October 1962 after which the number of arrivals decreased to about 100 a week. On September 28, 1965, Castro publicly announced that any person who wished to leave Cuba could do so and on October 3, 1965, President Johnson announced that the United States would permit the orderly influx of refugees allowed to leave Cuba. In December 1965, the airlift of the new influx of refugees started and refugees are now arriving in Miami at the rate of about 1,000 a week. Between 1961 and the end of June 1967, 250,519 refugees had registered at the Cuban Refugee Center in Miami of which 153,390 had been resettled to other locations in the United States. The program provides the following services for Cuban Refugees in the United States:

1. Program administration.—Provides Federal direction of the program and includes work with refugees to prepare them for resettlement and employment. New registrations are estimated to be 48,000 in both 1968 and 1969.

2. Welfare assistance and services.—State and private welfare agencies provide, on a reimbursable basis, to needy refugees, financial assistance, hospitalization, surplus food, as well as care for unaccompanied children. At the end of 1967, 20,088 persons were receiving financial assistance in Florida. The total number of persons requiring financial assistance in Florida is estimated at 25,188 persons on June 30, 1968 and 30,288 persons on June 30, 1969.

3. Resettlement.—Through contracts with various agencies, refugees are provided homes and jobs in areas other than Miami. During 1967, 37,381 persons were resettled and it is estimated that 38,000 persons will be resettled in 1968 and 39,000 persons in 1969.

4. Education.—Selected training is provided to equip the refugees for employment and resettlement. The average daily child population on whose behalf payments are made to meet part of the added cost to the Miami public schools is expected to increase from 19,709 in 1967 to 22,900 in 1968 and 26,516 in 1969. Loans made to needy college students are expected to rise from 3,782 in 1967 to 4,200 in 1968 and 4,600 in 1969. Changes in reimbursement rates are expected to decrease the average cost per child.

5. Health Services.—These services are provided to new arrivals and to needy refugees in Miami and includes medical screening, outpatient clinic services and care of patients with tuberculosis and mental illness.

Grants to States, payments after April 30: For making, after April 30 of the current fiscal year, payments to States under titles I, IV, V, X, XIV, XVI, and XIX, respectively, of the Social Security Act, [as amended,] for the last two months of the current fiscal year (except with respect to activities included in the appropriation for "Work incentive activities") and for the first quarter of the next succeeding fiscal year, such sums as may be necessary, the obligations incurred and the expenditures made thereunder for payments under each of such titles to be charged to the subsequent [appropriation] appropriations therefor for the current or succeeding fiscal year.

In the administration of titles I, IV (other than part C thereof), V, X, XIV, XVI, and XIX, respectively, of the Social Security Act [as amended,], payments to a State under any of such titles for any quarter in the period beginning April 1 of the prior year, and ending June 30 of the current year, may be made with respect to a State plan approved under such title prior to or during such period, but no such payment shall be made with respect to any plan for any quarter prior to the quarter in which such plan was submitted for approval.

The appropriations herein made for "Grants to States for maintenance payments," "Grants to States for medical assistance," and "Social services, administration, training, and demonstration projects," shall be available interchangeably for transfer of appropriations, but no such transfer shall be made except upon approval of the Director of the Bureau of the Budget.

Such amounts as may be necessary from the appropriations for "Grants to States for maintenance payments," "Grants to State for medical assistance," and "Social Services, administration, training, and demonstration projects," shall be available for grants to States for any period in the prior fiscal year subsequent to March 31, of that year. (Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1968.)

¹ $100,000 advance to the Federal Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Fund appropriated, with funds to remain available for obligation until the end of calendar year 1967. Obligation of such funds was not required.

This appropriation provides two general fund payments to the health insurance program totaling $1,360,227 thousand.

1. Reimbursement for hospital insurance expenditures for the uninsured.—A payment of $465,227 thousand to the Federal Hospital Insurance Trust Fund is budgeted for 1969 to cover the costs of hospital and related care for individuals age 65 and over who are not insured under the social security or railroad retirement systems. (Costs for the aged who are insured are financed by worker and employer payroll taxes.) The estimate assumes that there will be an average of 2.1 million uninsured persons covered for hospital benefits during 1969.

2. Contributions to Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Fund.—An estimated $895,000 thousand will be required in 1969 to finance the Government's contribution to the Federal Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Fund. For each monthly premium paid by enrollees in the voluntary medical insurance program, which primarily covers doctor bills, the Federal Government matches a like amount. The estimate for 1969 assumes that an average of about 18.6 million persons will be enrolled in the program during 1969 as compared with an average of about 18.3 million in 1968.

The previous estimates for hospital insurance benefit payments and administrative costs for the uninsured, as well as the estimates of the amount of matching contributions under the supplementary medical insurance program required for 1967 and 1968 were understated. Based on actual experience in 1967 and revised estimates for 1968, a supplemental appropriation will be required in 1968 to make up the deficits.

A supplemental request of $373,028 thousand for 1968 is proposed for later transmittal to: (1) reimburse the Federal Hospital Insurance Trust Fund by $268,304 thousand for larger than previously estimated benefit payments and administrative expenses incurred in 1967 and to be incurred in 1968 under the transitional provision on eligibility of presently uninsured individuals for hospital insurance benefits and for interest lost to the trust fund by reason of these higher expenses; and (2) increase the matching contributions to the Federal Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Fund by $104,724 thousand because of the larger than budgeted number of participants in the program in 1967 and 1968 and the higher monthly premium rate effective April 1, 1968.

PAYMENT FOR MILITARY SERVICE CREDITS

For payment to the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, the Federal Disability Insurance, and the Federal Hospital Insurance trust funds for benefit payments and other costs resulting from noncontributory coverage extended certain veterans, as provided under section 217(g) of the Social Security Act, as amended, $105,000,000.

The appropriation covers the reimbursement to the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund, the Federal Disability Insurance Trust Fund and the Federal Hospital Insurance Trust Fund for benefits paid on the basis of noncontributory military service credits of veterans of World War II and certain veterans of the postwar period. The estimated reimbursement includes reimbursement for administrative expenses and interest lost to the trust funds.

Reimbursement for noncontributory military service credits.—Section 217(g) of the Social Security Act, as amended, required the Secretary to determine in September 1965 and in every fifth September thereafter, the amount which, if paid in equal installments at the beginning of each fiscal year in the period beginning with July 1, 1965, and ending with June 30, 2015, would accumulate, with interest compounded annually, to an amount sufficient to place the trust funds in the same position at the end of the period, as they would have been if the noncontributory credit for military service had not been provided.

On the basis of this requirement, it has been estimated that annual installments of $105 million are required. Appropriations for the first three installments were made for 1966, 1967, and 1968. The payment to each trust fund is (in millions of dollars):

ance Trust Fund as reimbursement for funds expended in 1967 on account of payment of benefits to certain non-insured individuals aged 72 and over. The appropriation includes reimbursement for benefit payments, related administrative expenses, and interest loss to the trust fund.

P.L. 89-368, section 228(g), authorizes an appropriation for the amount which is necessary to place the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund in the same position as it would have been if the payments made from the trust fund to persons with fewer than three quarters of coverage had not been made. The first such authorized appropriation is for the year ending June 30, 1969, for payments made in the year ending June 30, 1967. Similar appropriations are authorized for each fiscal year thereafter.

As authorized by Public Law 89-36, the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare entered into an agreement with the Rochester Institute of Technology for the establishment, construction, and operation of a National Technical Institute for the Deaf. Its purpose is to provide a residential facility for post secondary technical training and education for persons who are deaf in order to prepare them for successful employment.

An amount of $800 thousand is requested for 1969 to be used for the operating programs of the Institute and for the initiation of a pilot educational program for 100 deaf students.

Funds are requested for the planning of facilities for the Model Secondary School for the Deaf. The general specifications of the master plan for physical plant development, completed in 1968, will be refined and detailed plans for individual buildings will be developed.

Facilities planning will be in accord with the stipulation in Public Law 89-694 that "in the design and construction of any facilities, maximum attention will be given to excellence of architecture and design, works of art, and innovative auditory and visual devices and installations appropriate for the educational functions of such facilities." Attention will be given also to the possibilities of economy through such measures as combination of services to the Model Secondary School and the college, as in central heating and air conditioning, and shared use of facilities, as in a student health center.

Gallaudet College is a private, nonprofit institution providing a liberal higher education for the deaf, a graduate school to train teachers, and a research program to provide information about the deaf. It operates the Kendall School for deaf children (primarily from the District of Columbia), and a preschool program for very young deaf children, which serve as the laboratory facilities for the college graduate program. Federal funds provide approximately two-thirds of the operating costs.

A construction program to replace aging buildings and provide modern facilities to accommodate increased enrollments was initiated in 1956. Full financial support for the erection of a number of new buildings and alterations and repairs to the existing physical plant has been provided by the Federal Government. The estimates for 1968 and 1969 provide for the continuation of this support to meet current needs and to afford adequate facilities for the expansion of the college to meet steadily increasing enrollments (in thousands of dollars):

The University is a private non-profit institution consisting of an undergraduate college, a graduate school offering the master's degree and the degree of Doctor of Philosophy (in English, history, chemistry, physics, zoology, government, pharmacology and physiology) and eight professional schools. Federal funds provide 56.3% of the total operating costs.

In 1967, 230 research and training projects were supported by outside organizations, and an estimated 250 projects will be undertaken in 1968 and 1969. The operation and maintenance staff services 47 buildings located on the University's 60-acre campus. The dormitories, food service, bookstores, and intramural athletic programs are intended to be self-supporting and render service at the lowest possible cost.

The social security program provides old-age, survivors, and disability insurance protection for over 90% of the workers and their families in the United States. It also provides hospital insurance protection for virtually all individuals in the United States who are age 65 or older, as well as supplementary medical insurance coverage for those aged 65 or over who elect it. Individuals covered under the Social Security Act contribute a portion of their earnings during their working years to pay for this protection and employers match the contributions made by their employees. Monthly premiums are paid by those individuals age 65 and over who elect to come under the supplementary medical insurance program; these premiums are matched by the Federal Government by appropriations from the general fund. The Federal Government also finances from general fund appropriations the hospital insurance protection for individuals not insured under the social security or railroad retirement systems. These contributions are deposited in the Federal Old-Age and Survivors, Disability, Hospital, and Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Funds, from which benefit payments and administrative costs are paid.

1. Old-age and survivors insurance program.—The 1967 amendments to the Social Security Act made significant changes including (a) increasing all monthly benefit payments an average of 14%, with a minimum benefit of $55; (b) payment of monthly benefits to disabled widows and widowers between the ages of 50 and 62; (c) liberalization of the earnings limitation for the payment of social security benefits; (d) payments of benefits to a child on his mother's wage record under the same conditions as on his father's wage record; and (e) providing noncontributory wage credits for servicemen of up to $300 per quarter for the value of food, shelter, and other allowances.

The effect of these provisions is to cause a large number of backlog claims to be filed in the latter part of 1968 and the first half of 1969. Even without amendments there would have been an increase in retirement and survivors claims receipts in 1968 and 1969 over 1967 actual filings because of the gradual growth in the number of aged persons in the population and the proportion of aged persons reaching retirement age, as well as the size of the total population insured for survivors benefits.

OASI claims applications:	1967 actual	1968 estimate	1969 estimate
Received	3,332,844	3,703,000	3,701,000
Processed	3,391,820	3,727,226	3,725,000
OASI beneficiaries in current pay status (average for year)	20,595,000	21,725,000	22,630,000
OASI benefit payments (in millions)	$18,886	$20,742	$23,711

The administrative costs budgeted under this activity cover the costs of processing claims for benefits, including reconsiderations and appeals of initial claims decisions, and handling revisions to beneficiary rolls to insure the prompt mailing of benefit checks each month to beneficiaries who are entitled to them, and to discontinue such checks when eligibility for benefits is interrupted or ends. The estimated costs shown in the program and financing schedule for 1968 for this activity and all other activities in this account exclude the added costs of increased workloads stemming from the 1967 amendments to the Social Security Act and higher than budgeted requirements for the preamendment program. These costs are shown in the program and financing schedule proposed for later transmittal.

2. Disability insurance program.—The 1967 amendments, in addition to providing for an increase in monthly benefit payments as in the OASI program, liberalized the insured status requirements for workers disabled before age 31. This new provision resulted in a large number of backlog cases received in 1968 and early in 1969. The number of disability beneficiaries and the amount of benefit payments will continue to rise as the size of the population insured for disability benefits increases.

Disability claims applications:	1967 actual	1968 estimate	1969 estimate
Received	803,951	952,000	931,000
Processed	815,110	942,705	945,300
Disability beneficiaries in current pay status (average for year)	1,970,000	2,150,000	2,375,000
Disability benefit payments (in millions)	$1,861	$2,118	$2,521

The administrative costs budgeted under this activity cover the costs of handling claims for benefits, including reconsiderations and appeals of initial claims decisions, of determining continuing eligibility for disability benefits and of handling revisions to beneficiary rolls. Determinations regarding the existence of a disability are made by State agencies in most cases, and these decisions are reviewed in the central office of the Social Security Administration.

3. Health insurance program.—This activity includes both the hospital insurance and the voluntary supplementary medical insurance programs which were established by the 1965 amendments to the Social Security Act. The 1967 obligations represent the first year of operation of these programs which became effective July 1, 1966 (except for services of extended care facilities which were effective Jan. 1, 1967). The 1967 amendments provided for changes in the health insurance program which are designed principally to facilitate the operation and administration of the program, along with some liberalization of hospital protection.

(a) Hospital insurance plan.—The hospital insurance plan affords basic protection to persons age 65 and over against the costs of inpatient hospital services, posthospital home health services, posthospital extended care, and outpatient diagnostic services. Bills for services rendered under the hospital insurance program are submitted by hospitals, extended care facilities, and home health agencies. In most instances these bills are processed by the Blue Cross Association and private insurance companies acting as intermediaries for the Social Security Administration. The individual beneficiary records of utilization of hospital services are maintained in the central office of the Social Security Administration. The substantial increase in 1968 over 1967 in the number of bills submitted by providers of service is due primarily to (1) the lag between furnishing services and submitting bills which substantially affects volume in the first year of operations only, and (2) the coverage of extended care facilities under the program for a full year in 1968 as compared with a half year in 1967. The growth in beneficiaries who will be covered by the program as the population age 65 and over increases causes an increase in number of bills in both 1968 and 1969.

(b) Supplementary medical insurance plan.—Almost all persons age 65 and over are eligible to enroll in the supplementary medical insurance program which covers the cost of physician services and other medical costs within certain deductible and coinsurance requirements. Enrollees in the program pay a monthly premium and the aggregate of these premiums is matched by the Federal Government by appropriations from the general fund. Claims for services under the medical insurance program are submitted by either the provider of service or the beneficiary to Blue Shield associations and insurance companies who have been designated to act as carriers for the Social Security Administration in specific geographical areas. The volume of claims to be handled in 1968 increases over the 1967 level for three reasons: (1) The estimated increase in number of beneficiaries in the program because of the growth in the population age 65 and over; (2) the $50 deductible which must be met by the beneficiary in each calendar year before entitlement to medical insurance benefits took effect twice during 1967 but will operate only once in 1968; and (3) the lag between rendering services and submission of claims which was built up in the first year of operations and does not recur. The increase in volume of bills to be handled in 1969 reflects the growth in the aged population.

The administrative costs budgeted under this activity cover the bill and claim payment functions performed by the intermediaries and carriers, services performed by State agencies in certifying and consulting with providers of services, and all work performed by the Social Security Administration in directing the program, providing services to beneficiaries, and maintaining records of utilization of services.

4. Contingency reserve.—This activity represents a contingency fund to be used with the approval of the Bureau of the Budget in the event that workloads and/or mandatory costs of agencies with which agreements have been made to participate in the administration of the program exceed the budget estimates. The fund is to be used only after maximum absorption of such costs within the existing limitation has been achieved.

$35,561 thousand is necessary because of higher than budgeted workloads in the old-age, survivors, and disability insurance programs, and because of higher than budgeted costs directly or indirectly related to the administration of the new health insurance program which was established by the 1965 amendments to the Social Security Act. The original 1968 budget estimates for the health program were made without any actual operating experience; the revised estimates reflect 1 year's experience under the program. The balance represents $701 thousand for the effect of the postal increase on the enacted appropriation. An additional supplemental amount of $12,373 thousand for the effect of the pay raise on the enacted appropriation is shown on that schedule.

A supplemental appropriation request of $72,555 thousand for 1968 is proposed for separate transmittal. Of this amount, $36,293 thousand is for handling the additional work stemming from the enactment of the 1967 amendments to the Social Security Act. An additional

1. Headquarters construction.—Obligations scheduled for 1968 and 1969 under this activity are based on estimated progress of construction projects already funded.

2. District office construction.—Funds have been provided in the 1965, 1966, and 1967 appropriations for the acquisition of sites, design, and construction of Social Security Administration district offices in 109 selected cities throughout the country. This is part of a long-range program of construction to provide more appropriate and adequate space for district offices in locations where construction is determined to be both feasible and advantageous. Funds scheduled for obligation in 1968 and 1969 for this activity are based on estimated progress in constructing district offices already funded.

1. Benefit payments.—The Social Security Act provides for payment of monthly benefits to retired workers and their dependents and to survivors of deceased workers. These benefits are financed from contributions made by workers, employers, and self-employed individuals in the form of taxes on earnings which are deposited in this trust fund. Any excess of income over outgo together with annual interest is invested in Government securities (42 U.S.C. 401).

2. Construction.—3. Administration.—The administrative expenses of the Department of Treasury and the Social Security Administration are distributed currently on an estimated basis among the four social security trust funds. Adjustment is made in each succeeding year for the difference between actual and estimated costs for these organizations and for costs of certain components of Department of Health, Education, and Welfare initially borne by the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance trust fund.

4. Payment to Railroad retirement account.—Payments are made between this trust fund and the Railroad retirement account so as to place this fund in the same position in which it would have been if railroad employment after 1936 had been included in social security coverage (45 U.S.C. 228E).

5. Vocational rehabilitation services.—The Social Security Act provides that payments may be made from this fund for the purpose of making vocational rehabilitation services available to disabled children of retired or deceased workers, who receive benefits under this program. The total amount of these payments may not exceed 1% of the total benefits certified for payment to such individuals in the preceding year.

1. Benefit payments.—The hospital insurance program pays for most of the costs of hospital and related services furnished almost all aged individuals and, effective January 1, 1967, for the services of extended care facilities. Benefits and administrative costs for those on the social security and railroad retirement rolls are financed from a payroll tax. Costs for those not insured under the social security or railroad retirement program are met from general revenues of the Treasury.

2. Construction and administration.—The administrative expenses of the Department of Treasury and the Social Security Administration are distributed currently on an estimated basis. Adjustment is made after actual costs are known for these organizations and for costs of certain components of Department of Health, Education, and Welfare initially borne by the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance trust fund.

1. Benefit payments.—The Social Security Act provides for a voluntary supplemental medical insurance program. Benefit payments are made to those electing coverage to cover the costs of physicians' services, home health services, and other related medical services. Costs of benefit payments and administrative expenses are financed by premium payments by enrollees together with matching contributions from the general revenues of the Treasury. The premium payment increases from $3 to $4 effective April 1968.

2. Construction and administration.—The administrative expenses of the Social Security Administration are distributed currently on an estimated basis. Adjustment is made after actual costs are known for this organization and for costs of certain components of Department of Health, Education, and Welfare initially borne by the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance trust fund. Expenditures for 1967 include reimbursement to the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance trust fund which bore all administrative costs chargeable to this trust fund in 1966.

The Public Broadcasting Act of 1967 (Public Law 90-129) establishes the nonprofit, non-Federal Corporation for Public Broadcasting and authorizes Federal appropriations to this Corporation for 1968. The purpose of the Corporation is to strengthen the quality of non-commercial educational television and radio broadcasting and make such public broadcasting services more widely available across the Nation. A supplemental appropriation will be requested for 1968.

Legislation will be proposed to continue authority for Federal grants to the Corporation in 1969 totaling $20 million. In addition, proposals will be made for the Corporation's long-term financing.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. 201. None of the funds appropriated by this title to the [Welfare Administration] Social and Rehabilitation Service for grants-in-aid of State agencies to cover, in whole or in part, the cost of operation of said agencies, including the salaries and expenses of officers and employees of said agencies, shall be withheld from the said agencies of any States which have established by legislative enactment and have in operation a merit system and classification and compensation plan covering the selection, tenure in office, and compensation of their employees, because of any disapproval of their personnel or the manner of their selection by the agencies of the said States, or the rates of pay of said officers or employees.

Sec. 202. The Secretary is authorized to make such transfers of motor vehicles, between bureaus and offices, without transfer of funds, as may be required in carrying out the operations of the Department.

Sec. 203. None of the funds provided herein shall be used to pay any recipient of a grant for the conduct of a research project an amount equal to as much as the entire cost of such project.

Sec. 204. Appropriations to the Public Health Service available for research grants pursuant to the Public Health Service Act shall also be available, on the same terms and conditions as apply to non-Federal institutions, for research grants to hospitals of the Service, the Bureau of Prisons, Department of Justice, and to Saint Elizabeths Hospital.]

Sec. [205] 204. None of the funds contained in this Act shall be used for any activity the purpose of which is to require any recipient of any project grant for research, training, or demonstration made by any officer or employee of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to pay to the United States any portion of any interest or other income earned on payments of such grant made before July 1, 1964: nor shall any of the funds contained in this Act be used for any activity the purpose of which is to require payment to the United States of any portion of any interest or other income earned on payments made before July 1, 1964, to the American Printing House for the Blind.

Sec. [206] 205. Expenditures from funds appropriated under this title to the American Printing House for the Blind, Howard University and Gallaudet College shall be subject to audit by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Sec. [207] 206. None of the funds contained in this title shall be available for additional permanent Federal positions in the Washington area if the proportion of additional positions in the Washington area in relation to the total new positions is allowed to exceed the proportion existing at the close of fiscal year 1966. (Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1968.)

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. 901. Appropriations contained in this Act, available for salaries and expenses, shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109 but at rates for individuals not to exceed the per diem rate equivalent to the rate for GS-18.

Sec. 902. Appropriations contained in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901 [, 80 Stat. 299]-5902).

Sec. 903. Appropriations contained in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for expenses of attendance at meetings which are concerned with the functions or activities for which the appropriation is made or which will contribute to improved conduct, supervision, or management of those functions or activities.

Sec. 904. The Secretary of Labor and the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare are each authorized to make available not to exceed $7,500 from funds available for salaries and expenses under titles I and II, respectively, for official reception and representation expenses.

Sec. 905. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

Sec. 906. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used to finance any Civil Service Interagency Board of Examiners.

Sec. 907. No part of the funds appropriated under this Act shall be used to provide payments, assistance, or services, in any form, with respect to any individual convicted in any Federal, State, or local court of competent jurisdiction, of inciting, promoting, or carrying on a riot, or any group activity resulting in material damage to property or injury to persons, found to be in violation of Federal, State, or local laws designed to protect persons or property in the community concerned. Grants to local public bodies and agencies to assist in financing multipurpose neighborhood facilities are authorized by section 703 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 3103). To be eligible for Federal financial assistance, projects must be necessary for carrying out a program of health, recreational, social, or similar community services; designed for multipurpose use providing a wide range of services and activities needed in the neighborhood; consistent with comprehensive planning for the development of the community; and be conveniently located for use by a significant portion of the low- or moderate-income residents of the area.

While grant assistance applies only to provision of the structure, local communities schedule and provide services designed to meet the needs of the particular neighborhood. All projects must be multiservice in character, but a facility may be designed to meet the needs of a particular group such as the elderly or youth. A large number of the facilities will house service programs supported by other Federal agencies, thus providing an improved opportunity for coordinating services of these different programs.

Priority consideration is given to neighborhood centers designed primarily to benefit members of low-income families or otherwise substantially further the objectives of a community action program approved under title II of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. Applications are rated on the degree of poverty in the service area and the extent to which the project provides needed services to low-income families in an effective manner. It is anticipated that about 130 applications will be approved in 1969.

Federal assistance may not exceed two-thirds of project development cost, except for projects located in redevelopment areas designated under the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965, where three-fourths grants are authorized.

This appropriation finances the administrative and supporting expenses for carrying out renewal and housing assistance programs under the Assistant Secretary for Renewal and Housing Assistance. In addition to the expenses directly chargeable to renewal and housing assistance programs, certain overall expenses of the Department which are attributed to these programs are also included within this appropriation. The following functions are included:

1. Renewal assistance programs.—Activities in this area include the administration of the urban renewal program (except for the program of urban renewal demonstrations). It also covers the administration of the rehabilitation loan program, neighborhood facilities grant program, and the central direction of the urban parks and urban beautification and improvement sections of the open space land programs.

2. Housing assistance programs.—This area covers the administration of the low-rent housing program and the proposed Alaska housing program. Low-rent housing activities include conventional construction and the leasing, acquisition and rehabilitation, and turnkey programs. The 1969 Budget reflects additional administrative expenses necessary for the acceleration of low rent public housing activity.

3. Executive supervision and services.—This area covers the administration of programs within renewal and housing assistance which cannot be allocated to specific program activities as well as certain activities, such as relocation, for which the Assistant Secretary for Renewal and Housing Assistance exercises Departmentwide responsibility.

Among these activities is the review and approval of workable programs for community improvement, a prerequisite to the various forms of urban renewal assistance, special FHA mortgage insurance aids, and annual contributions contracts for federally aided low rent public housing. To provide assurance of a sustained local effort toward attaining stated objectives within reasonable time limits, specialists review the Department's certification of adequacy on an annual basis. The following table shows the anticipated volume of workable program activity:

Public enterprise funds:

Note.—Expenditures from the following funds for 1968 are subject to the first paragraph of title II of the Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1968. For 1969, this paragraph is shown in the Other Independent Agencies chapter, p. 950.

URBAN RENEWAL

Title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended, authorizes Federal assistance to local public agencies for rehabilitation or acquisition, clearance, and redevelopment of slums and blighted areas. Federal grants may defray two-thirds of the net project cost or three-fourths in localities with a population of less than 50,000 or located in a redevelopment area as designated by the Economic Development Administration, Department of Commerce.

The authorization to make contracts for urban renewal grants now totals $7,125 million and will increase by $750 million on July 1, 1968. Of the total, $250 million was authorized for activities to be included within approved Model City programs. Of this $250 million, $100 million will be used in 1968. The budget proposes to use the remaining $150 million for 1969, along with $350 million of new contract authorization to be proposed and the $750 million already enacted. The budget also proposes a $1,400 million appropriation for 1970 on the basis of additional authorizing legislation to be proposed. This will continue the practice of providing appropriations one year in advance. Temporary project financing and long-term financing of land disposed under lease agreements through direct or guaranteed loans are provided from a Treasury borrowing authorization of $1 billion.

Urban renewal projects are administered by local public agencies. A project may involve many techniques for upgrading or reconstructing blighted areas, including rehabilitation, code enforcement, and provision of community facilities and other community needs, such as parks and the preservation of historic structures, as well as the more traditional method of clearance and redevelopment. Counseling and financial assistance in project areas are extended to residents and businessmen who are willing to rehabilitate their properties and to those who are displaced by project activities. As of June 30, 1967, nearly 900 different localities were participating in the renewal program through urban renewal projects, community renewal programs, programs of concentrated code enforcement or demolition grants.

URBAN RENEWAL PROGRAMS

For grants for urban renewal, fiscal year [1969] 1970, as an additional amount for urban renewal programs, as authorized by title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1450 et seq.), and section 314 of the Housing Act of 1954, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1452a), [$750,000,000] $1,400,000,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That no part of any appropriation in this Act shall be used for administrative expenses in connection with commitments for grants aggregating more than the total of amounts available in the current year from the amounts authorized for making such commitments through June 30, [1967] 1968, plus the additional amounts appropriated therefor. (Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1968; additional authorizing legislation for 1970 program to be proposed.)

Budget program.—An administrative reservation of funds (grant reservation) is made at an early stage in the development of an urban renewal project to assure the availability of grant assistance when plans for the project are complete.

New reservations and adjustments in existing reservations will total $1,250 million net in 1969 for all title I programs. This includes additional contract authority of $350 million being proposed, the $150 million unappropriated balance authorized for activities in Model City areas, and $750 million already enacted.

1. Projects.—Grant reservations for urban renewal projects are estimated at $1,125 million in 1969, including individual projects, general neighborhood renewal planning for areas larger or more complex than can be included within a single project, and for projects scheduled to be carried out as part of Model City programs under the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966. The amounts estimated for projects include grants of up to $1,500 each for rehabilitation by low income owner-occupants in urban renewal areas who otherwise could not afford to meet the standards of the urban renewal plan. The estimates also include reimbursement to communities for the costs of relocating families, individuals, and businesses displaced from urban renewal areas. Payments to displacees cover expenses and actual direct property losses not otherwise compensated for up to $200 per family and $25 thousand per business. Eligible families, elderly people, and small businesses may receive relocation adjustment payments to ease the financial burden accompanying establishment in new accommodations. Maximum relocation adjustment payments are $2,500 for eligible businesses and $500 for eligible families and individuals.

2. Code enforcement.—Grants to local governments for programs of concentrated code enforcement in deteriorated or deteriorating areas may cover three-fourths of the cost in communities under 50,000 population and two-thirds of the cost in localities over 50,000 population. Costs of planning and carrying out such programs include the cost of certain eligible public improvements necessary to arrest the decline of the area. Rehabilitation grants and relocation assistance are provided to the same extent as in an urban renewal project.

3. Community renewal.—Grants to localities cover two-thirds of the cost of preparing community renewal programs. These programs analyze renewal needs on a communitywide basis, including determinations of the economic base available to support renewal in terms of both current conditions and future market prospects; appraisal of physical, social, and financial resources of the area; the development of community renewal goals; and a schedule for accomplishing these goals.

4. Demolition.—Grants are available to city or county governments covering up to two-thirds of the net cost of demolishing structures which have been determined to be structurally unsound or unfit for human habitation under State or local law after the local governing body has exhausted other legal procedures to secure remedial action by the owners.

5. All other.—These include demonstration grants to develop and test new or improved urban renewal techniques as well as amounts to reimburse the loan fund for uncollectable planning advances on terminated projects.

Budget program.—Treasury borrowing authority of $1 billion is available to assist in financing the planning and execution of urban renewal projects with the following types of commitments:

1. Planning advances.—Advances provide for costs directly associated with project planning. They are repayable with interest from funds made available to the project during the execution stage.

2. Temporary loans.—Short-term direct Federal loans provide initial financing for projects under contract. Thereafter, working capital is generally provided by borrowing from the private market secured by pledge of the Federal loan commitment. Temporary loans are repaid from proceeds of land sales and from local and Federal cash grants.

3. Definitive loans.—Definitive loans permit the disposition of project land through long-term leases in lieu of sale at the option of the community. In such cases, commitments are issued to secure private financing for the net value of redeveloped land.

Loan commitments cover total expenditures by the local public agency in carrying out a project. Both the statute and experience recognize that only a minor portion of the

Federal loan commitment will be outstanding at any one time in the form of direct Federal loans because: (a) project expenditures take place over several years; (b) early borrowings are progressively retired with funds provided from local and Federal grants and from the sale of land; and (c) private financing (guaranteed with a pledge of the Federal loan commitment) is relied upon as the major source of funds for temporary loans and definitive loans.

Cumulative loan commitments will be $8,089 million by the end of 1969, but this amount will be reduced by $3,478 million in repayments and commitment waivers to produce a net outstanding commitment of $4,611 million. The maximum Federal exposure (i.e., maximum demand for Federal loans at any one time) is estimated at $911 million on June 30, 1969. This exposure is estimated at 18% of temporary and definitive loan commitments and 75% of planning advance commitments.

The status of loan commitments outstanding at the end of the past, current, and budget years follows (in thousands of dollars):

Unutilized commitments.....	1,543,828	1,680,128	1,708,428

Financing.—Borrowing authority previously committed is replenished by means of: (a) repayment of planning advances; (b) cancellation of temporary loan commitments; and (c) the repayment of direct Federal or guaranteed non-Federal loans from project settlement funds, including proceeds from the sale of land and Federal and local grants. Repayments of Federal temporary loans from the proceeds of non-Federal guaranteed loans, which are estimated to total $279 million in 1969, are reflected in the program and financing statement.

Operating results.—The use of grant appropriations is authorized to repay Treasury borrowing otherwise unrecoverable due to losses on planning advances and interest for terminated projects. The deficit resulting from capital grant payments and from uncollectable planning advances for terminated projects has been offset by the appropriation of funds for such purpose shown as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Section 312 of the Housing Act of 1964, as amended, authorizes 20-year loans at 3% interest to owners or tenants of property in an urban renewal area or an area covered by a program of concentrated code enforcement. The program finances rehabilitation required to make the property conform to code standards or the standards of the urban renewal plan, as applicable. These low-interest-rate loans provide a method of financing private rehabilitation where necessary repairs might otherwise not be feasible due to the economic circumstances of the property owners or the difficulty of obtaining financing from other sources. A direct loan may be made only when financing cannot be obtained on comparable terms and conditions from non-Federal sources. Maximum loan amounts generally are $10 thousand for each residential unit and $50 thousand for business properties.

Budget program.—Specialists on the staff of each local public agency engaged in a rehabilitation program handle the initial contacts with potential applicants. Applications are then submitted to the regional offices of the Department for processing and approval. FHA insuring offices furnish appropriate technical services. The Federal National Mortgage Association arranges and supervises loan servicing by private institutions, except for business loans, which will be processed, closed and serviced by the Small Business Administration. Loan approvals are estimated at $20 million during 1968 and $20 million in 1969. Loan disbursements are estimated at $17.1 million and $20.2 million, respectively. The budget is based on the following volume of loan activity:

Applications	1967 actual	1968 estimate	1969 estimate
Loans approved:
In year	1,103	3,560	3,560
Residential	1,103	3,460	3,460

Cumulative	1,306	4,866	8,426
Residential	1,306	4,766	8,226
Nonresidential		100	200

Operating results.—Operating losses for the current and budget years are estimated to be $1,411 thousand and $1,293 thousand, respectively, and are attributable principally to an increase in the reserve for losses proportional to the increase in outstanding loans.

² Reflects the effect in 1968 and 1969 of proposed legislation which would redefine loan obligations.

The United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1401 et seq.), established a low-rent public housing program to assist in providing safe and sanitary dwellings within the financial reach of families of low income. Such housing is owned and operated by local housing authorities created under State law. Federal loans and annual contributions assist local housing authorities in financing the construction of low-rent housing and in maintaining the low-rent character of such housing after completion.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (Public Law 89-117), approved August 10, 1965, increased the authorization for annual contributions contracts by $47 million upon enactment and by an additional $47 million on July 1 in each of the years 1966, 1967, and 1968, respectively. As of June 30, 1967, the authorization was $460.2 million, while contracts in force on that date provided for an aggregate maximum annual contribution of $445.5 million. Legislation has been proposed to increase this authorization by an additional $50 million, and to authorize earlier commitment of the $47 million which would otherwise become available on July 1, 1968.

Budget program.—Development.—The low-rent development program was accelerated in 1968, with further growth planned in 1969. An increase to 75,000 dwellings completed for occupancy in 1969 will represent a 29-percent gain over 1968, and 112 percent over 1967. It is expected that the leasing, acquisition, and turnkey programs will contribute substantially to the accomplishment of these goals.

In addition to the production of new dwellings, a program to modernize many older dwellings has begun in 1968 at a level of $125 million, and will be continued in 1969 at that same level.

The workload accomplishments and the status of the development program by stage is presented in the tabulations below. The levels for 1968 and 1969 depend upon early enactment of the authorizations discussed above.

million anticipated in 1968, are attributable largely to (1) an increased number of dwellings eligible for annual contributions resulting from the completion and permanent financing of new developments; (2) the additional subsidy for dwellings occupied by elderly handicapped and displaced families and persons; (3) increasing development costs, reflecting rising land and construction costs generally and the additional costs of relocating families and persons displaced by public housing; and (4) the modernization of existing structures and dwellings.

Uncommitted annual contributions contract authority and savings from committed authority can be used to make special payments for the elderly, handicapped and displacees which in the aggregate are estimated at $9 million in 1968 and $10 million in 1969. This will continue to increase with the increase in the number of dwellings occupied by such families and persons.

An expanded social service program is being instituted in 1968 and will be continued in 1969, as will a pilot program of management of low-rent public housing by private management firms.

Administrative expenses.—The administrative expenses for the low-rent public housing program are financed by appropriations. In 1967, this was a separate appropriation. Beginning in 1968, administrative expenses for the low-rent program are included in the appropriation for Salaries and expenses, renewal and housing assistance.

Other expenses.—Program receipts are used to meet certain expenses of the low-rent public housing program. The use of these funds correspondingly reduces the requirements for appropriated administrative funds. In 1967, the Congress applied a limitation to expenses for the operation and maintenance of federally owned, directly operated projects, and to expenses for technical services provided during construction of low-rent housing. In 1968, the limitation on the use of these funds was eliminated.

As of June 30, 1967, one federally owned, directly operated project located at Enid, Okla. containing 80 dwellings, remained in the program. Estimated program receipts and expenses for 1968 and 1969 are based upon the continued Federal operation of this project throughout both years.

Technical services are provided during development by construction representatives who insure compliance with specified and acceptable standards. The local housing authorities are charged a fixed fee which pays for the cost of the service. The estimate for 1969 is based upon the number of developments under construction.

Financing.—Loans are made to local housing authorities to finance the early costs of project development. These loans are made with certain available working funds and, when necessary, with funds borrowed from the Treasury for this purpose. Under the Housing Act of 1949, borrowings outstanding at any one time from the Treasury may not exceed $1.5 billion. There were no outstanding borrowings at the end of 1967. Outstanding borrowings are estimated at $4 million at June 30, 1968, and no outstanding borrowings are anticipated at June 30, 1969. The $1.5 billion ceiling, however, has had the effect of limiting the amount of Federal loan commitments as well as loans actually disbursed. Commitments do not normally result in the disbursement of Federal funds, but are pledged by the local housing authority as security for funds borrowed on the private market. Since loan commitments of $1.5 billion would be reached under the budget program prior to the end of 1968, legislation has been proposed to make it clear that there would be counted toward any such limitation only the amount of Federal loans which the Secretary estimates will actually be disbursed. The budget assumes enactment of this or similar legislation.

The legislation which has been proposed would redefine loan obligations as the maximum amount to be loaned by the Department at any one time pursuant to loan agreements then outstanding with public housing authorities, as determined by the Secretary. The maximum amount to be loaned at any one time is estimated at not more than $200 million for each of the years 1968 and 1969.

The following table shows the status of all loan commitments (in thousands of dollars):

When the Federal development loans to a local housing authority accumulate to an amount which is attractive to private investors, the local housing authority sells short-term temporary notes to the public and utilizes the proceeds to repay the Federal loans and to meet current needs for additional working capital. Securing these notes with a Federal loan commitment, covering up to 90 percent of the development cost of the projects as discussed above, results in an excellent security rating for the notes, which sold at an average interest rate of 3.482 percent in 1967.

In 1967, direct Federal loans were refunded through secured loans by private investors in the amount of $105.3 million. This refunding is estimated at $148 million in 1968 and $183 million in 1969. The temporary notes sold to private investors are issued for an average of 5 months, and may be reissued several times in increasing amounts before the project is permanently financed. As a result, the volume of loan activity managed by the program during any fiscal year greatly exceeds the amount of loans outstanding at the end of that fiscal year.

The following table shows the actual financing and refinancing of development and other loans during 1967 and estimated transactions during 1968 and 1969 (in millions of dollars):

Normally, projects are permanently financed toward the end of construction through the sale to the public of 40-year serial bonds secured by the annual contributions contract. In 1967, these bonds sold at an average interest rate of 3.713 percent. As of June 30, 1967, there were approximately 770,693 dwellings potentially eligible for permanent financing. Of these, 613,628 dwellings had been permanently financed, leaving a potential permanent financing workload of 157,065 dwellings. The estimates for permanent financing based on program status as of June 30, 1967, are shown below:

Direct long-term low interest loans to assist in financing new construction and rehabilitation or conversion of existing housing and related facilities for rental by the elderly or the handicapped are authorized by the Housing Act of 1959, as amended (12 U.S.C. 1701q et seq.). Loans may be made only to private nonprofit corporations, consumer cooperatives, and those public agencies not receiving Federal financial assistance exclusively for public housing. The program is designed to provide housing for those lower-middle-income elderly or handicapped persons and families whose incomes are too high for public housing, but not sufficient to meet the cost of private rental housing and to assist them to live more independently.

Loans may be made for the total development cost and may extend for a period of 50 years. Interest rates are based on a statutory formula and are limited to the lower of either 3% or 0.25% above the average rate on all interest-bearing obligations forming part of the Federal debt. The 1968 rate is 3%.

Budget program.—Net loan reservations are estimated at $85 million in 1968 and 1969, respectively. Principal workload items are as follows:

Financing.—The program is financed by a revolving fund supported by direct appropriations. Appropriations of $500 million have been authorized of which $430 million have been appropriated. In addition, authorized sales of certificates of participations in pools of mortgages from this program, as provided by Public Law 89-429, Participation Sales Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 164), are proposed at $60 million in 1968 and $65 million in 1969. In order to pay the interest on participation certificates, appropriations are required for the difference between the interest rate on the participation certificates and that on the mortgages underlying the certificates.

The appropriation required for insufficiencies is computed as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Operating results.—Estimated retained earnings at the close of the budget year are $20.9 million and in addition the cumulative allowance for losses is $4.1 million. This favorable position is largely because the program has been financed by appropriations rather than by borrowings.

Direct long-term loans to higher educational institutions to assist them to provide housing and related facilities for students and faculty and to hospitals to assist them to provide housing facilities for student nurses and interns are authorized by the Housing Act of 1950, as amended (12 U.S.C. 1749). Loans may be made for a period of 50 years. The program is funded from a Treasury borrowing authorization of $3,475 million which will increase by $300 million in 1969 under current statute. The interest rate on loans is based on a statutory formula and is limited to the lower of either 3% or 0.25% above the average rate on all interest-bearing obligations forming part of the Federal debt. The 1968 rate is 3%.

Sales of certificates of participation in pools of college housing bonds, as provided in Public Law 89-429, Participation Sales Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 164), amounted to $600 million in 1967 and are estimated at $1,385 million in 1968 and $500 million in 1969. In order to pay the interest on the participation certificates, appropriation funds are required for the difference between the interest rate on the participation certificates and that on the bonds underlying the certificates.

The appropriation for these insufficiencies is computed as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Budget program.—Net loan reservations are estimated at $200 million in 1968. The 1969 program is discussed in the proposal for separate transmittal at the end of this chapter. The relationship of net reservations issued to available funds under both present and proposed legislation is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Financing.—Loan disbursements are estimated at $350 million in the current year and $295 million in the budget year. Purchase of bonds ordinarily occurs when construction is well advanced.

Operating results and financial condition.—A loss of $62,940 thousand is expected to result in 1969 primarily from the $66,148 thousand payment of interest insufficiencies on outstanding certificates. The restoration of $63,291 thousand of the latter amount from the appropriation will result in retained earnings of $7.6 million at the end of 1969.

Grants are authorized by section 701 of the Housing Act of 1954, as amended (40 U.S.C. 461), to supplement State and local funds for the purpose of financing comprehensive urban planning and helping communities solve planning problems resulting from changes in the urban economy and population. Cities under 50,000, counties, metropolitan areas, States, Indian reservations as well as organizations of public officials are eligible to receive assistance. Grants usually are two-thirds of the total cost of an urban planning project. However, grants may be as much as three-fourths of project costs for localities in redevelopment areas so designated by the Department of Commerce and for cities with substantial unemployment as a result of certain Federal actions.

The program encourages and assists comprehensive planning for entire areas having common or related development problems. The planning work accomplished under the program embraces all the basic factors essential to balanced growth and development and includes (1) preparation, as a guide for governmental policies and action, of general plans with respect to the pattern and intensity of land use, the provision of public facilities and other governmental services, and the effective development and utilization of human and natural resources, (2) long range plans for such action, (3) programming of capital improvements and other expenditures, (4) coordination of all related plans of the levels of government concerned, and (5) preparation of regulatory and administrative measures in support of the foregoing.

Up to 5% of the funds appropriated may be used for studies, research, and demonstration projects for the development and improvement of techniques and methods for comprehensive planning and for the advancement of the purposes of the urban planning assistance program.

Budget program.—The budget proposes an appropriation of $55 million for 1969. Legislation will be proposed to increase the cumulative authorization for the program.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1966, $58,364 thousand, (1967 adjustments, -$1,357 thousand); 1967, $106,891 thousand; 1968, $124,391 thousand; 1969, $149,391 thousand.

Title VII of the Housing Act of 1961 (42 U.S.C. 1500), as amended, authorizes the Open Space Land programs which provide for grants to assist public bodies in preserving and creating open space lands in order to enhance the urban environment. The program encourages protection of threatened lands which have scenic, recreation, conservation, or historic value; creation of orderly patterns of urban growth; and ventilation of congested neighborhoods. The program requires comprehensive areawide planning with provision for (1) review and consultation by regional planning organizations and (2) definition of local priorities for open space action, including long range acquisition and development as an element in functional open space planning.

Budget program.—Net grant approvals for open space land activities will total $85 million in 1969, compared with $77.5 million in 1968.

1. Acquisition and development of open space land.—Fifty percent matching grants assist public bodies in financing acquisition or permanent interest in undeveloped or predominately undeveloped land in urban areas for open space uses. Development must be compatible with approved open space uses. Grant approvals for 1969 are expected to total 400, involving 76,420 acres. Relocation grants are estimated at $575 thousand for 1969.

2. Developed land in urban areas.—Assistance in acquiring open space for densely populated, built-up areas where little or no open space exists is provided through matching grants for the acquisition of already developed land and the demolition of the buildings on it. The program is expected to increase activity to include the creation of 120 parks. Relocation grants are estimated at $1,600 thousand for 1969.

3. Beautification and improvement programs. Assistance for beautification takes the form of grants up to 50% of the increased expenditures of the local body over the previous norm for similar activities in preceding years. Local urban beautification and improvement programs are eligible for Federal financial assistance if the programs represent significant and effective efforts, involving available public and private resources, for the beautification of open space or other public land in urban areas. In 1969, grant approvals are expected to total 100.

4. Historic preservation.—Grants may be provided for up to 50% of the cost of acquiring sites or structures of historic or architectural value and restoring or improving such properties. The program seeks new ways to make historic properties economically viable and to stimulate new public uses for them. A total of 25 grants is anticipated for 1969.

5. Demonstrations, studies, and publications.—Grants of up to 90% of project cost are available for projects which have special value in developing and demonstrating new, improved methods and materials which have the potential of broad national applicability in open space areas. The 1969 budget program assumes elimination of the proviso in the 1968 appropriation act which restricts grants to not more than 50%. In 1969, five grant approvals are estimated.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 3102) authorizes grants to local public bodies and agencies for basic water and sewer facilities. With a limited exception, grants may not exceed 50% of project development cost. The program is designed to promote effective, orderly growth and development of communities.

Projects approved for grants must contribute to improved health or living standards of people in the community to be served and be so designed that an adequate capacity will be available to serve the reasonably foreseeable growth needs of the area. In addition, the project must be consistent with a program for a unified or officially coordinated areawide water or sewer facilities system as part of the comprehensively planned development of the area.

Net reservations are estimated at $175 million for 1968 and $150 million for 1969. The level of activity in 1969 will allow grants to be approved for 290 communities.

Grants to local public bodies and agencies are authorized by the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 3104) to assist the timely acquisition of sites planned to be used in connection with the future construction of public works or facilities. A grant may not exceed reasonable interest charges on a 5-year loan incurred to finance the acquisition of land.

No grant will be made unless the public work or facility for which the land is to be used is planned for construction within a 5-year period. In addition, the public work or facility must contribute to the economy, efficiency, and comprehensively planned development of the area. Repayment of the grant may be required if the land purchased is not used within 5 years for the facility planned, or if the land is used for other purposes.

A total of 13 grant reservations are estimated for 1968 and 20 for 1969. The following table shows the relationship of net grant reservations to available authority (in thousands of dollars):

This appropriation item finances the cost of administration of activities supervised by the Assistant Secretary for Metropolitan Development, including expenses directly chargeable to metropolitan development programs and a related share of overall supporting expenses of the Department.

Funds provided are used for administering certain activities under the open space land programs, the urban planning assistance program, the metropolitan development incentive grant program, advances for public works planning program, the urban mass transportation program, the water and sewer facilities grant program, the advance acquisition of land program, and certain expenses involved in the overall direction of the public facility loan program and liquidating programs. Direct expenses of these latter two programs are financed from receipts to the respective funds. Descriptions of all programs involved are included for each account under the head Metropolitan Development.

Public enterprise funds:

Note.—Expenditures from the following funds for 1968 are subject to the first paragraph of title II of the Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1968. For 1969, this paragraph is shown in the Other Independent Agencies chapter, p. 950.

Interest-free advances to States, municipalities, local public agencies, and metropolitan areas and regions for the planning of local public works are authorized by the Housing Act of 1954 (40 U.S.C. 462), as amended. The program is intended to (1) encourage the preparation and maintenance of a current and adequate reserve of planned public works which can readily be placed under construction, and (2) promote economy and efficiency in planning and building public works.

Advances are made only if it is intended to construct the project within a reasonable period of time, considering the type of project. Projects must be in conformity with applicable State, regional, and local development plans. Advances are repayable when construction commences on the planned project, except in those instances where the construction was initiated under the Public Works Acceleration Act.

Budget program.—Net advances approved are estimated at $8.5 million for 1968 and the same level for 1969. This will provide an estimated 360 approvals in 1968 and 340 approvals in 1969. The following table shows the relationship of this program to available funds (in thousands of dollars):

	1967 actual	1968 estimate	1969 estimate
Repayments less net expenses.....	6,260	8,510	8,510

Net advances approved.....	5,786	8,500	8,500
Available at end of year.....	486	496	506

Financing.—The program is financed by a revolving fund authorized to aggregate a maximum of $128 million.

Operating results and financial condition.—A substantial increase in the program deficit is shown in 1967. Outstanding advances on project plans for which construction is improbable have been written off in previous years. A change in accounting policy during 1967 retroactively shifted all these charges to the deficit, including the special group of projects for which repayments were forgiven in order to encourage construction starts under the Public Works Acceleration Act (76 Stat. 541, 544 and 79 Stat. 451, 509). Allowances for losses on outstanding active plans continue to be estimated at 85% for the first and second programs, but were increased from 20 to 25% under the current program. The cumulative deficit at the end of 1969 is estimated at $46.3 million, of which $17.6 million represents this allowance.

The Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 (49 U.S.C. 1601), as amended, authorized grants and loans to public bodies to assist in the financing of urban transportation facilities and equipment and for demonstration and research projects designed to assist in meeting urban transportation needs and the improvement of urban transportation service. Applicants must show that facilities to be financed under the program are necessary for a program for a unified or officially coordinated public transportation system in the urban area, and are necessary for the sound, economic and desirable development of the area.

Budget Program.—Net grant approvals are expected to increase from $140 million in 1968 to $190 million in 1969. An advance appropriation of $230 million is proposed for 1970, requiring additional authorization of $190 million. In addition, to provide authority for an expanded research and development program in 1969, legislation will be proposed to increase the limitation on research and demonstration funds under section 6(c) of the Urban Transportation Act of 1964.

Program activity is anticipated as follows:

1. Transportation facility grants.—Grants assist State and local bodies, and authorized interstate and regional public bodies, in the acquisition, construction and improvement of capital facilities and equipment which are needed for their urban transportation systems. Grants may be up to two-thirds of "net project cost"—that portion of total project cost which cannot reasonably be financed from revenues. In 1969, 25 grant approvals for $157.5 million are expected.

2. New systems study project.—The Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, in consultation with the Secretary of Transportation, has undertaken a study to prepare a program of research development, and demonstration of new systems of urban transportation. The findings and recommendations will be submitted to Congress in March 1968.

3. Research, development and demonstration.—Federal grants assist projects which develop, test, and demonstrate new ideas, methods and equipment for improving mass transportation systems and service. Grants also assist public and private non-profit institutions of higher learning to establish and carry-on comprehensive research in problems of transportation in urban areas. In 1969 the program is expected to begin to carry out the program of research prepared under the new systems study project. Approval of 46 projects for $25 million is anticipated.

4. Grants for technical studies.—Grants to States and local public agencies are made for the planning, engineering, and designing of urban mass transportation projects and for other technical studies to be included within a program for a unified or officially coordinated urban transportation system as part of the comprehensively planned development of urban areas. In 1969, 17 grant approvals for $6.5 million are anticipated.

5. Managerial training programs.—Under this program, fellowships are provided for training of personnel employed in managerial, technical, and professional positions in the urban mass transportation field. Not more than 100 fellowships may be awarded in any year and grant assistance may not exceed $12 thousand per fellowship. The approval of 100 fellowships for $1 million is expected for 1969.

The Housing Amendments of 1955, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1492) authorize direct, long-term loans to municipalities and other subdivisions and instrumentalities of States, and Indian tribes for financing construction of essential public facilities, and to private, nonprofit corporations for construction of water or sewer facilities in communities under 10,000. Loans are made only when credit is not otherwise available on reasonable terms and conditions.

The loan program is funded by a Treasury borrowing authorization aggregating $600 million. In addition, sales of $80 million in participation certificates were made in 1967, and further sales of $80 million are projected in each of 1968 and 1969.

Communities with populations up to 50,000 are eligible for public facility loans, but the basic program extends priority to municipalities under 10,000 population for water, sewerage, and gas distribution systems. Other eligible communities are those with populations up to 150,000 in redevelopment areas designated by the Secretary of Commerce and those where the National Aeronautics and Space Administration maintains research or development installations.

Public facility loans may run for as long as 40 years and must be of sound value or so secured as reasonably to assure repayment. Interest rates are based on a statutory formula holding the maximum rate to the higher of either 3% or 0.5% above the average rate on all interest-bearing obligations forming part of the Federal debt.

Budget program.—Net loan approvals are estimated at $40 million in 1969. This will allow approval of an estimated 70 projects (in thousands of dollars):

Operating results and financial conditions.—The estimated net loss of $6.7 million in the budget year is largely attributable to the $2.2 million increase in the allowance for losses and the $4.4 million loss on participation certificates. The loss relating to participation certificates has been restored by the appropriations for these purposes. The $4.4 million appropriation to restore the deficiency holds the cumulative deficit at the end of 1969 to $16.1 million of which $11.3 million represents the allowance for losses.

The Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1955, established a single revolving fund for the more efficient liquidation of assets acquired under a number of housing and urban development programs as well as any other programs which might be transferred by subsequent legislation. Some $22 million in assets, with a net book value of $15 million, remained on June 30, 1967.

Out of property originally capitalized at $2.5 billion, some $415 million has been transferred to other agencies and programs, $786 million has been given to local governments under statutory provisions, and $900 million will have been recovered and returned to the Treasury by the close of the 1969 fiscal year. Title I of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 (Public Law 89-754) authorizes a program of financial assistance for planning and carrying out model cities programs. The program helps cities plan, administer, and carry out coordinated physical and social programs to improve the environment and the general welfare of people living in slum and blighted areas of cities of all sizes in all parts of the country.

Federal grants are authorized to cover up to 80% of the cost of planning and developing model city programs. This assistance may be provided only if (1) the application for such assistance has been approved by the local governing body of the city, and (2) the Secretary has determined that there exists administrative machinery through which coordination of all related planning activities of local agencies can be achieved, and there is evidence that the necessary cooperation of agencies engaged in related local planning can be obtained.

The act also authorizes the Secretary to make grants to city demonstration agencies to pay up to 80% of the cost of administering approved comprehensive model city programs. Such grants may not be used, however, to pay the cost of administering any project or activity for which Federal financial assistance is already provided under an existing grant-in-aid program.

Special grants will be available to assist the cities to carry out projects or activities included within an approved model cities program and to supplement the assistance available under existing grant-in-aid programs.

The amount of these supplementary grants can be up to 80% of the total non-Federal contributions required for all projects or activities assisted by existing Federal grant-in-aid programs which are carried out as a part of a model city program.

During 1967, applications for planning grants were received from 193 cities. Of these applications 63, involving 65 neighborhoods, have been approved. During 1968 it is estimated that planning grants will be approved for approximately 70 additional cities. Cities within the first group are expected to become eligible for supplementary grants during 1968 and 1969; those within the second group are expected to become eligible during 1969.

In addition, a special urban renewal authorization is available only for additional urban renewal projects and activities which are specifically identified and scheduled to be carried out within approved model city programs. This amount is in addition to supplementary grant funds described above and to regular urban renewal projects included in such programs.

Title IX of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 1282-1284) authorizes the Secretary to make grants to assist States to make available information on urban needs and on assistance programs and activities, and to provide technical assistance, to small communities (those having populations of less than 100,000) with respect to the solution of urban problems.

Information activities which may be aided by grants include the assembly, correlation, and dissemination of urban physical, social, and economic development information. The objective is to inform governments of small communities, and interested organizations and individuals of the availability and status of Federal, State, and local programs and of other resources for the solution of urban problems.

Technical assistance services may be provided by States to small communities which request assistance for the solution of their urban problems. Technical assistance services include making available trained specialists in the field of urban renewal, mass transportation, and public administration, relocation, housing and other urban fields to assist small communities.

Grants may be made for up to 50% of the cost of the activities carried out under an approved urban information and technical assistance program. However, no grant may be made to assist in assembling data or providing information to be used primarily in the day-to-day operations of State or local governing bodies and agencies.

This account finances the cost of administration of activities supervised by the Assistant Secretary for Demonstrations and Intergovernmental Relations, including the expenses directly chargeable to these programs, and a related share of certain overall supporting expenses of the Department.

Funds provided are used for administering (1) programs involving cooperation with State and local governments, including the urban information and technical assistance program, community development training programs, and the program of fellowships for city planning and urban studies, and (2) the coordination of economic and market analysis programs.

Funds are provided by transfer from the appropriation for Model Cities programs for the administrative expenses of planning and carrying out the Model Cities program.

Descriptions of the programs involved are included in the narrative statements for each account under the head, "Demonstrations and Intergovernmental Relations."

The Department of Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 directs the Secretary to conduct comprehensive studies, and to make available findings with respect to the problems of housing and urban development. The Housing Acts of 1948 and 1956 and the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 also authorize a program of research into housing, urban technology, metropolitan growth, and urban problems.

This program includes ongoing statistical data collection and special studies of housing and urban development for (1) use in the preparation and administration of complex Federal programs; (2) program management and use in the formulation and execution of community development programs at State and local government levels; and (3) market guidance to homebuilders and producers of building materials. Economic intelligence is provided about current developments in the housing and mortgage markets, including regular and special reports and statistics on housing sales and rentals.

The research program also includes studies designed to accelerate the application of technological innovations to housing and urban development. The objective is to test and demonstrate innovations which promise cost reductions and more systematic ways of solving problems of housing and community development, as well as to encourage and promote the acceptance and application of new and improved techniques and methods of constructing, rehabilitating, and maintaining housing and advancing the state of urban technology.

The program for such studies and research is carried out primarily through contracts with other Federal agencies, educational institutions, nonprofit private research organizations, and private corporations.

This appropriation also finances the cost of administration of the research activities described herein. Also included are the costs of administration of related research activities such as the low-income housing demonstration grant program, urban renewal demonstrations, urban planning research and demonstrations, surveys of public works planning, and studies and publications under the open space land programs.

1. Study of housing and building codes, zoning, tax policies, and development standards.—The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 1456) required a study of housing and building codes and zoning and tax policies, which is now being conducted by a Commission selected by the President. The study includes review of (1) State and local urban and suburban housing and building laws, standards, codes, and regulations and their impact on building costs; (2) State and local zoning and land use laws, codes, and regulations; and (3) Federal, State, and local tax policies with respect to their effect on land and property cost and on incentives to build new housing and make improvements in existing structures. The report is due by December 31, 1968.

2. Natural disaster study.—Section 5 of the Southeast Hurricane Disaster Relief Act of 1965 (79 Stat. 1301) authorized a study of alternative programs which may help provide financial assistance to those suffering property losses in flood and other natural disasters. The study reviews possible alternative methods of Federal disaster insurance. Recommendations on a flood insurance study were submitted during 1967. Findings on earthquake insurance are due by October 31, 1968.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1966, $0; 1967, $2 thousand; 1968, $89 thousand; 1969, $591 thousand.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (12 U.S.C. 1701s) authorizes rent supplement payments to owners of certain private housing on behalf of qualified low-income tenants. Housing owners eligible for contracts with a maximum term of 40 years are private nonprofit groups, cooperatives, or limited dividend owners who provide housing financed with mortgages insured by FHA under the market interest rate mortgage insurance program for low or moderate income families, except for a limited experimental program under section 101(j) of the act. Public or private agencies may be authorized under contract agreement to provide services required in connection with the admission of tenants.

To be eligible for rent supplements, a tenant cannot have an income higher than the maximum limits that can be established for occupancy of federally aided low-rent public housing in the same area. In addition, the tenant must be either elderly, physically handicapped, displaced from his home by governmental action, living in substandard housing, or an occupant or former occupant of a dwelling damaged or destroyed by a natural disaster.

These tenants are required to pay 25% of their income for rent. Rent supplements making up the difference between this amount and full economic rent are paid to the project owner on behalf of the tenant. As the tenant's income rises the supplement payments are reduced.

Budget program.—Rent supplement payments are estimated to increase from $3 million in 1968 to $15 million in 1969 as additional projects are completed and occupied. By the end of 1969, more than 26,000 families are expected to be receiving the benefits of these payments. The maximum annual amount of rent supplement payments which may be contracted for are limited to the aggregate amounts approved in annual appropriation acts. Contracts for annual payments up to $42 million are authorized through 1968. Approval of an additional $65 million for 1969 is proposed.

The community disposition program was established by the Atomic Energy Community Act of 1955 (42 U.S.C. 2301) to dispose of federally owned properties at Oak Ridge, Tenn., Richland, Wash., and by amendment in 1963 (76 Stat. 664) Los Alamos, N. Mex.

Budget program.—Disposal activity began at Los Alamos in 1966; during 1966 and 1967, 1,750 residential properties were sold. The remainder will be sold late in 1968. Other property, consisting of churches, commercial properties, and vacant land will require more time to sell; however, the majority of all properties and land tracts will be sold by the end of 1969. In the process of sales, $2.9 million in purchase money mortgages are expected to be written in 1968 and $6.5 million in 1969.

Operating results.—The deficit in the fund is expected to increase from $16.6 million at the end of 1968 to $18.3

million at the end of 1969. This is due primarily to the discounts provided by law to purchasers of property who have statutory priority. Funds recovered and transferred to the Treasury are estimated to be $1 million in 1968 and $8.5 million in the budget year.

The Federal Housing Administration, created by the National Housing Act of 1934, is a noncorporate business-type agency, which was brought under the Government Corporation Control Act by the Housing Act of 1948. The principal purposes of FHA insurance programs are to improve home financing practices, to encourage improved housing standards and conditions, to further homeownership, and to stabilize the mortgage market. These objectives are achieved through the insurance of loans for financing the production, purchase, repair, and improvement of residential properties. At the end of 1967, $115.4 billion of insurance had been written, with $55.1 billion outstanding. During 1967 more than $6.1 billion of insurance was written, covering 387,987 units of housing and 453,174 title I property improvement loans. An estimated $7.0 billion of insurance will be written during 1968 and $8.5 billion in 1969.

FHA loan insurance is now administered through 30 different active programs. In addition, maintenance and settlement work continues under nine programs for which the authority to insure additional loans has expired. The table below identifies the various programs and shows the amount of insurance written and the amount in force at the end of 1967 under the individual programs.

For financial purposes, FHA insurance programs are grouped under three separate insurance funds and accounts established by statute. Income from fees, premiums, and investments are credited to the funds; operating expenses and other expenses and losses connected with foreclosed property and defaulted notes and mortgages are charged to the funds. Through June 30, 1967, income had amounted to $4,102.4 million, and expenses, losses, and distributive share payments to $2,925.9 million, leaving a reserve of $1,176.5 million for the payment of future expenses and losses. The largest insurance fund is the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund for the insurance of mortgage loans on homes under section 203. The General Insurance Fund covers the insurance of loans on property repairs and improvements; on basic and special-purpose multifamily housing, including cooperatives (except management-type cooperatives) condominiums, housing for the elderly, and nursing homes; on urban renewal and middle-income housing; on armed forces housing; on war and defense housing; on group practice facilities; and on land development. The Cooperative Management Housing Insurance Fund covers the insurance of mortgages covering management-type cooperatives and supplementary loans under section 213. The Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund allows mortgagors at termination of their mortgages to share in the rebate of premiums paid into the fund which are not required for expenses or losses. The Cooperative Management Housing Insurance Fund is mutual also. Through June 30, 1967, such participation payments to homeowners had amounted to $192.4 million with $128.4 million reserved for future payments or losses.

Budget program.—Budget requirements for mortgage and loan insurance operations are embodied in (1) an administrative expense limitation covering those expenses of the central office related to the general direction of operations, the establishment of policies and procedures, and the provision of administrative management and services for the agency, and (2) a nonadministrative expense limitation covering the operating expenses of both the central office and the field related to the initiation of insurance, the maintenance of insurance on the books, and the settlement activities associated with the payment of claims, the acquisition, management, and disposition of mortgages and properties acquired under mortgage insurance contracts, and with the liquidation of notes acquired in connection with claims under property improvement loan insurance contracts. Anticipated program developments for 1969 are summarized in the following table, Program Highlights, along with estimates for 1968 and actual data for 1967.

The major activities of the agency are grouped under the categories of insurance initiation, insurance maintenance, insurance settlement, and financial operations.

Insurance initiation.—The principal initiation activities, which currently account for about 75% of the total expenses under the nonadministrative expense limitation, are the examining of applications for insurance, the inspecting of properties under construction, and the recording of new insurance contracts, including property improvement loans, in the agency records. The total number of applications for mortgage insurance is expected to increase from 758,000 units in 1967 to 1,007,000 in 1968 and to 1,201,500 in 1969.

Insurance maintenance.—Maintenance activities, which currently account for about 6% of all expenses under the nonadministrative expense limitation, relate generally to the servicing of insurance on the books such as billing mortgagees for premiums due, recording changes in mortgagees, making participation payments from the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund, terminating insurance contracts, inspecting insured multifamily housing, and analyzing annual financial reports on such housing. These are cumulative workloads, increasing each year with the growth of insurance in force. At the end of 1967, insurance in force had reached $55 billion.

Insurance settlement.—Settlement activities, which currently account for approximately 19% of the total expenses under the nonadministrative expense limitation, include the acquisition under insurance contracts of properties, mortgages, and home improvement notes; the repair, management, and sale of acquired properties; the payment of claims under insurance contracts; the servicing and sale of mortgages acquired as a part of some sales transactions; and the accounting work arising out of the other settlement activities. The total number of mortgage insurance claims, in terms of dwelling units, is estimated to decrease from 58,001 units in 1967 to 57,000 in 1968 and increase to 63,770 in 1969. Properties on hand are expected to decrease from 65,484 units at the end of 1967 to 57,099 at the end of 1968 and to 49,019 at the end of 1969. Mortgages on hand are expected to increase from 45,600 at the end of 1967 to 51,215 at the end of 1969.

Summary of operating expense estimates.—Operating expenses are paid out of operating income, subject to congressional limitation. Expenses for 1968 are estimated at $11 million for administrative operations and $87 million for nonadministrative operations. The 1969 estimate is $12 million for administrative expenses and $95.6 million for nonadministrative expenses.

Financing.—Through 1965, insurance claims were met largely by the issuance of debentures, which are subsequently redeemed out of income and proceeds from the sale of acquired properties and mortgages. In 1967, $157 million of debentures were issued and $106.6 million were redeemed. In 1968, $126.8 million of debentures will be issued and $71.2 million redeemed. Debenture issuances will total $131.3 million in 1969 and debenture redemptions will total $67.2 million. The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 authorized FHA to pay claims in cash and to borrow from the Treasury as necessary to do so. Home mortgage claims and multifamily housing claims under sections 220, 221, and 233 are now being paid in cash. Insurance claims, payable in cash, will amount to $553.2 million in 1968 and $645.4 million in 1969. Borrowings from the Treasury are expected to total $70 million in 1969.

Retained earnings.—Insurance reserves, available for the payment of future expenses and losses, amounted to $1,176.5 million at the end of 1967 and are expected to be $1,210.1 million by the end of 1968 and $1,240.7 million by the end of 1969.

Insurance authority.—Authorizations for active insurance programs expire October 1, 1969. In general, these authorizations are without dollar limitation, except for the armed services housing program which has utilized authority as follows:

FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION

The Association, operating under the Federal National Mortgage Association Charter Act (12 U.S.C. 1716, et seq.) purchases, manages, and sells residential mortgages which are insured by the Federal Housing Administration, guaranteed by the Veterans Administration, or insured by the Farmers Home Administration; makes short-term bank-type loans which are secured by those types of mortgages and loans; manages and sells certain noninsured or nonguaranteed mortgages or other obligations which have been or may be acquired from authorized sources; and sells to private investors beneficial interests, or participations, in mortgages or other types of obligations in which certain departments or agencies of the Federal Government have a financial interest. The Association's functions are carried out through three programs for which separate accountability is required by statute. These programs—secondary market operations, special assistance functions, and management and liquidating functions—are described in the following sections.

Public enterprise funds:

Note.—Expenditures from the following funds for 1968 are subject to the first paragraph of title II of the Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1968. For 1969, this paragraph is shown in the Other Independent Agencies chapter, p. 950.

Under its secondary market operations, the Federal National Mortgage Association assists the secondary mortgage market by the purchase and sale of mortgages and housing loans that are insured or guaranteed by the Federal Housing Administration, the Veterans' Administration, or the Farmers Home Administration. These secondary market operations are jointly owned by the Federal Government, which holds preferred stock in the Corporation, and by private holders of common stock. The authorizing statute (title III of the National Housing Act) contemplates that these operations will ultimately be completely owned and financed by private participants. Legislation is proposed to transfer ownership of these operations to private owners and to provide for retirement of all the preferred stock owned by the Government in order to enable the Association to provide support to the mortgage market unconstrained by budgetary considerations. Meanwhile, the present interim program, financed by private as well as by Government investment funds, is treated in the budget as a trust enterprise, and the financial statements and narrative statement of operations related thereto appear in the trust fund section at the end of this chapter.

Federal Government funds support the secondary market operations in two ways: through the purchase of preferred stock and through interim lending to support the Association's purchase of mortgages. The Association finances its operations in part through the sale of obligations to the public. Such obligations may not exceed 15 times the Association's capital and surplus related to these operations. To help supply the capital necessary to support these borrowings, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to purchase preferred stock totaling $317.8 million. At the end of 1967, the Secretary held $141.8 million of this stock, and the Association expects to issue to him $20 million of stock in 1968 and $28 million in 1969.

The Secretary of the Treasury, so long as any of the preferred stock is outstanding, is also authorized to purchase obligations of the Association in an amount not exceeding $2.25 billion outstanding at any one time. This authority is used to provide interim financing to the Association, pending sale of its obligations to the public. Such interim Treasury lending as will be necessary during 1968 and 1969 is expected to be repaid during each of those years.

The Federal National Mortgage Association may, when the President determines it is in the public interest, provide special assistance for the financing of (1) selected types of home mortgages pending establishment of their marketability, and (2) home mortgages generally as a means of stabilizing home-building activities and hence, of contributing to overall economic stability.

The Association is authorized under presidential authority to make commitments to purchase and to purchase FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages totaling $2,974.6 million outstanding at any one time. At the end of 1967, the amount of special assistance authority for these purposes aggregated $2,418.4 million.

Changes in this authority in 1968 result from a transfer, pursuant to Public Law 89-117, approved August 10, 1965, of $6.2 million to the presidential authorization from the congressional authorization applicable to mortgages insured under title VIII of the National Housing Act; the transfer of an additional $6 million to the presidential authorization from the congressional authorization is estimated for 1969. Public Law 89-117 also provided an increase in authority, subject to presidential determination, of $100 million in 1966, $450 million in 1967, $550 million in 1968, and $525 million in 1969, but the 1967 authority was cancelled by Public Law 89-429, approved May 24, 1965.

The Congress has also authorized FNMA, without prior presidential determination, to issue commitments to purchase and to purchase specific types of mortgages. One of these congressional programs is for $225 million of cooperative housing mortgages insured under section 213 of the National Housing Act, as amended. Another congressional program provided authority for $500 million of mortgages insured under title VIII of that act, covering housing for military personnel and civilian employees. Public Law 89-117 authorized the transfer from this authority to the presidential authority of all but $58.75 million, which is reserved for mortgages on owner-occupied homes insured under section 809 of the National Housing Act. Public Law 89-566, approved September 10, 1966, authorized FNMA under its Special assistance functions to purchase $1 billion of FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages on low and moderate cost single family homes. Mortgages purchased under this authority are confined by law to new construction and may not exceed $15,000 in original principal amount ($17,500 in high cost areas, and $22,500 in Alaska, Guam, and Hawaii). Funds needed to implement the program were provided by transferring $500 million from the President's authority and by $500 million in new obligational authority. An earlier congressional program for FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages of $13,500 or less, covering low- and moderate-priced housing on which construction had not commenced at the time application was made for Federal National Mortgage Association's commitment, was terminated by Public Law 87-70. Of the $1 billion authorized for this earlier program, the unused portion of $207.2 million was transferred to the presidential authority, and the remainder is rescinded as purchased mortgages are liquidated.

Mortgage purchase prices under these functions are set by the Association; they currently range from 99½ to 100.

Budget program.—Commitments to purchase mortgages are estimated to total $718.8 million in 1968 and $445 million in 1969. Purchases, which lag well behind commitments, are estimated to total $725 million and $520 million in 1968 and 1969, respectively. Commitments and purchases are primarily for low-cost housing mortgages and below-market interest rate mortgages on rental and cooperative housing for moderate-income families.

In addition, in order to assure sponsors that funds will be available for purchase of certain mortgages upon completion of the related housing projects, the FHA reserves or makes preliminary allocations of amounts not in excess of FNMA's authorization for purchases. In 1968 and 1969, it is expected that this procedure will be used for (1) below-market interest rate mortgages covering housing for moderate-income families or financing the purchase and rehabilitation by nonprofit organizations of deteriorating or substandard housing for subsequent resale to low-income home purchasers, and (2) mortgages covering housing subject to rent supplement contracts entered into under section 101 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965. The cumulative amount of authority reserved for these programs was $2,070 million at June 30, 1967 and is estimated at $2,370 million and $2,470 million, respectively, at June 30, 1968 and 1969. At June 30, 1967, reservations which had not been converted to FNMA commitments to purchase amounted to $1,164.3 million, and are expected to increase to $1,404.3 million in 1968 and to $1,534.3 million by 1969.

No sales were made directly from portfolio in 1967 and none are estimated in 1968 and 1969.

Participations.—Under the program of liquidating the mortgage portfolio through the sale of beneficial interests or participations in mortgages, the Association sold $200 million in 1965, $475 million in 1966, and $300 million in 1967 of participations involving the portfolio of its special assistance functions and projects $250 million in 1968 and $655 million in 1969. This program is more fully explained under the Participation sales fund. Under the law (section 302c of the Federal National Mortgage Association Charter Act, as amended by Public Law 89-429, approved May 24, 1966) receipts from these sales are treated as proceeds from sales of loans and thus restore the Association's authority to purchase additional mortgages. For the purposes of budget presentation, such sales are treated as increases in authority to purchase mortgages.

Financing.—Net repayments to the Treasury were $145.5 million in 1967 and are estimated at $165 million in 1969. Net borrowings from the Treasury are estimated at $445 million in 1968.

Operating results.—Previously, earnings were retained and paid into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury following the year earned. A payment of $188.8 thousand was made in 1957, and another payment of $2,444.7 thousand was made in 1958. In order to protect the Association against losses inherent in a portfolio of this size, earnings will be retained and accumulated for so long as may be warranted. The following table shows the cumulative amounts at the end of the years covered by these estimates (in thousands of dollars):

Earnings to June 1967.....	113,035
Dividends paid Treasury (1957-58).....	-2,634
Retained earnings.....	110,401
Net income or loss:
1968 (estimated).....	1,400
1969 (estimated).....	-18,000
Retained earnings 1969 (estimated).....	93,801

The loss projected for 1969 results from insufficiencies with respect to outstanding certificates of participation. These insufficiencies represent primarily the excess of interest due on the certificates over the interest earned on the underlying mortgages. The following table shows the derivation and financing of the insufficiencies (in thousands of dollars):

¹ Balance of selected resources is identified in the statement of financial condition.

The Association, under its management and liquidating functions, is required by law to manage and liquidate its initial mortgage portfolio and those other mortgages, loans, or obligations that have been or that may be acquired from authorized sources (Public Law 89-117, approved August 10, 1965). Such liquidation is to be conducted in an orderly manner, with a minimum of adverse effect upon the home mortgage market and minimum loss to the Federal Government. Liquidation of the portfolio is accomplished through regular principal repayments according to their amortization schedules, by sales of mortgages as rapidly as they can be absorbed by private investors without serious disruption of normal market conditions, and as the result of other principal credits arising from prepayments and foreclosures.

The initial mortgage portfolio in this activity consisted of mortgages on hand at, or purchased under contracts made before, November 1, 1954. Certain additional mortgages, loans, and other obligations may be acquired for this portfolio from the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and residential housing mortgages may also be acquired from any Federal instrumentality from time to time pursuant to the provisions of Public Law 89-117.

Budget program.—Purchases of mortgages under contracts made prior to November 1, 1954, for this portfolio were completed during 1958.

In 1967, FNMA purchased $542.4 million of mortgages from the Federal Housing Administration under these functions. During 1968 and 1969, purchases of these mortgages are estimated at $500 million and $200 million, respectively.

No direct sales of mortgages were made during 1967 and none are estimated for 1968 and 1969.

Financing.—These functions are financed principally by Treasury borrowings and portfolio liquidations and sales of participations in mortgage pools. Net borrowings from the Treasury were $8.7 million in 1967 and are estimated at $85 million in 1968. Net repayments to the Treasury are estimated at $383 million in 1969.

In 1967, the Association sold $440 million of beneficial interests, or participations, in pooled mortgages of this portfolio and sales of $355 million and $550 million, respectively, are estimated for 1968 and 1969. Principal repayments on pooled mortgages were transferred to the Participation sales fund for repayment of certificates of participation in the amount of $49.1 million in 1967, and transfers of $72.0 million and $111.9 million are expected in 1968 and 1969, respectively. This program is more fully explained under the Participation sales fund.

Operating results.—Net income, which amounted to $7.6 million in 1967, is estimated at $1.3 million in 1968. It is estimated that a net loss of $7.9 million will occur in 1969 primarily because of the insufficiencies resulting from interest on outstanding participation certificates in excess of interest on the underlying pooled mortgages. The following table shows the financing of the insufficiencies (in thousands of dollars):

	1967 actual	1968 estimate	1969 estimate
Interest accrued on participation certificates.....	9,133	29,200	63,200

Applicable investment income from participation sales fund.....	-377	-2,747	-5,027
Retained earnings reserved to meet insufficiencies.....	-1,699	-4,253	-14,473

Retained earnings reserved for insufficiencies and other losses and contingencies amounted to $106.5 million at the end of 1967 and are estimated at $107.7 million and $99.8 million, respectively, for 1968 and 1969. Reductions in the amount of retained earnings at the end of 1962, 1963, 1964, and 1965 resulted from payments from earnings of $40 million, $25 million, $15 million, and $15 million, respectively, to the U.S. Treasury, amounts which were considered to be in excess of the Association's needs for losses and contingencies. No payment to the Treasury out of earnings is projected for 1968 and 1969.

The Federal National Mortgage Association Charter Act, as amended by the Housing Act of 1964, the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, and the Participations Sales Act of 1966, authorizes the Association, under its management and liquidating functions, to create trusts or other fiduciary undertakings to facilitate the financing of mortgages and other loan obligations owned by Government agencies. Under this authority, the Association creates trusts providing for pools of these loan obligations and sells to private investors participations in the interest and principal collections on such obligations, in principal amounts not exceeding the unpaid principal amounts of the obligations placed in the pools.

Sales of certificates of participation in these pools are shown in the budget schedules of the trustor agencies originally owning the loan obligations as borrowing from the public for the purpose of financing loan portfolios. Collections on the pooled obligations are transferred to the Association as trustee and retained in the Participation sales fund and invested until distributed to the holders of participation certificates in accordance with the terms of the trust agreement. Interest is paid semiannually, and principal (which is treated as repayment of borrowing in this account) on the certificate maturity dates.

Under the 1964 legislation, FNMA created the Government Mortgage Liquidation Trust, holding mortgages from the portfolios of FNMA and the Veterans Administration, and issued participation certificates amounting to $1,790 million. Under the 1965 legislation, FNMA created the Small Business Obligations Trust, and issued certificates totaling $350 million against loans of the Small Business Administration. In 1967, under the 1966 legislation FNMA created the Federal Assets Liquidation Trust, and sold certificates amounting to $2.9 billion against loans from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (including FNMA), the Veterans Administration, the Small Business Administration, the Farmers Home Administration, and the Office of Education. In 1968, FNMA has created the Federal Assets Financing Trust, holding loans from the same five agencies plus the Public Health Service, and plans to sell certificates totaling $4 billion. Sales in 1969 are projected at $3,150 million. The operations of all the trusts are combined into a single set of schedules for budget presentation.

In connection with sales of participations made since June 30, 1966, the law provides that in the event collections on the pooled obligations are insufficient to cover required distributions, the trustor agencies shall pay to the Association, as trustee, amounts equal to the insufficiencies. Such insufficiencies result from interest rates on obligations placed in the pools which are lower than the interest rates specified on participation certificates, and from administrative and other costs, net of investment income from the trusts. Appropriations for such insufficiencies are authorized by appropriation acts, as described in the accounts of the trustor agencies in their respective portions of this document.

The sales of participations in pools of loan obligations and the retirement of participation certificates are summarized in the following table (in millions of dollars):

The Housing Act of 1964, as amended by the Participation Sales Act of 1966, authorized the pooling of mortgages or other types of obligations of certain Government departments or agencies and the sale by the Federal National Mortgage Association, as trustee, of beneficial interests, or participations, in such pools. The Participation Sales Act of 1966 provided that the aggregate amount of participations issued for the account of any trustor may not exceed the amount authorized for that trustor in an appropriation act. In 1967 and 1968, appropriation acts for the Department of Housing and Urban Development authorized sales of $1,420 million and $2,385 million, respectively. In 1969, an additional authorization of $1,595 million is requested. This together with $255 million of the 1968 authorization carried into 1969 will allow 1969 sales for the Department of $1,850 million.

The Participation Sales Act of 1966 also authorized the establishment of appropriations to cover payment for insufficiencies in the amounts required to be paid by the trustors on account of outstanding participations. These insufficiencies are comprised primarily of the excess of interest payments to holders of participation certificates over the interest payments received from the pooled mortgages or other obligations. For sales authorized in 1967, the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967, established a permanent, indefinite appropriation to cover insufficiencies. For sales authorized in 1968, the Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Act, 1968, established an annual, definite appropriation for the payment of insufficiencies. The 1969 budget proposes return to the permanent indefinite appropriations.

Sales of participations and use of the indefinite and definite insufficiency appropriations are reflected in the following trustor accounts: Housing for the elderly or handicapped fund; College housing loans; Public facility loans; and Federal National Mortgage Association, Special assistance functions and Management and liquidating functions fund.

Pursuant to section 7(f) of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (79 Stat. 670), the Secretary will establish a working capital fund, effective April 1, 1968. This fund is authorized to finance on a reimbursable basis various centralized services of the Department. Those functions to be financed on this basis for 1968 include printing and reproduction services, central supply services, communication services, and graphic services. Centralized data processing services for the whole Department are proposed to be financed through the fund beginning in 1969. Other authorized services may be included later.

Budget program.—Operating costs for the services are expected to continue at about the same level as currently financed by customers' appropriations and funds. The operating statements for 1968 reflect estimated operating costs for the last quarter of 1968. Capital outlay for 1968 includes $257 thousand to reimburse the Federal Housing Administration ($252 thousand) and the Federal National Mortgage Association ($5 thousand) for transfer of fixed assets. Capital outlay for 1969 includes $287 thousand to reimburse the Federal Housing Administration for the transfer of fixed assets of data processing services.

Financing.—The Congress provided $1,500 thousand transfer authority in the Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1968 (Public Law 90-121). In order to capitalize the fund in 1968, $1,500 thousand of unobligated balance from the Liquidating programs fund will be transferred. This amount, made available for capital of the fund, will be used for capital outlay of $257 thousand in 1968, to fund accrued annual leave assumed at inception of the fund, and to provide working capital to fund obligations of the services which were included in the 1968 budget on a current basis. An appropriation of $2,000 thousand is proposed for 1969 to fund centralized data processing services, including $287 thousand to reimburse the Federal Housing Administration for transferred fixed assets, to fund the additional accrued leave liability of the employees in this activity, to provide cash for the replacement of the transferred assets, which will be fully depreciated by June 30, 1969, and to provide working capital to fund these new obligations on a current basis.

Under its secondary market operations, FNMA provides limited liquidity for Government insured and guaranteed mortgages and improves the distribution of investment capital available for home mortgage financing. This assistance to the secondary market for mortgages is provided by the purchase and sale of mortgages that are insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the Veterans Administration, or rural housing loans that are insured by the Farmers Home Administration of the Department of Agriculture, including participations therein, that are of such quality, type, and class as meet, generally, the purchase standards imposed by private institutional mortgage investors. Purchases and sales may be made only at such prices and on such terms as will reasonably prevent excessive use of the Association's facilities and will permit the Association to operate on a fully self-supporting basis.

The Association is also authorized by the National Housing Act to make short-term loans secured by these Government insured and guaranteed mortgages and loans. Such short-term loans are intended to further home construction by providing a degree of liquidity for mortgage investments and, generally, to provide supplementary assistance to the home mortgage market.

The secondary market operations were initially capitalized by the issuance of $92.8 million of Federal National Mortgage Association preferred stock to the Secretary of the Treasury. Subsequently, additional preferred stock subscriptions by the Secretary of the Treasury were authorized, amounting to $50 million (Public Law 85-10, approved March 27, 1957), $65 million (Public Law 85-104, approved July 12, 1957) and $110 million (Public Law 89-566, approved Sept. 10, 1966). From these additional authorizations, $66 million of preferred stock has been issued to provide the increased capital needed to support the Association's borrowings under the limitation described below. Further issuances totaling $3 million of the stock in 1968 and $28 million in 1969 are projected, so that the authorized unissued stock at the end of 1969 will amount to $128 million.

Under arrangements entered into between the Secretary of the Treasury and the Association, FNMA purchases from the Secretary that portion of the Association's outstanding preferred stock which is not deemed to be required in the financing of the secondary market operations and holds such stock as FNMA Treasury stock, subject to subsequent repurchases by the Secretary as may be required for these operations. Under these arrangements, $121.8 million of preferred stock was purchased from the Secretary during the period from 1964 through 1967. Of that amount $104.8 million was repurchased by the Secretary in those years. It is estimated that the remaining $17 million of FNMA Treasury stock will be repurchased by the Secretary in 1968. The Association pays dividends on the utilized portion to the Treasury at rates not less than those determined by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The authorizing statute contemplates that the secondary market operations will ultimately be completely owned and financed by private participants. To that end, legislation is recommended to retire the preferred stock as rapidly as feasible, and to transfer ownership of the Association to private owners of the capital stock. As a private corporation, these operations will be able to raise money in the private capital markets and support the secondary mortgage market unconstrained by considerations which control the Federal budget.

Private capitalization for these operations is accumulated pursuant to the statutory requirement that sellers of mortgages or loans to the Association must make payments into capital as subscriptions for common stock in an amount equal to not more than 2% nor less than 1% of the unpaid principal amounts of the mortgages and loans involved, as determined from time to time by the Association, taking into consideration conditions in the mortgage market and the general economy. Borrowers from the Association are currently required to make capital contributions in an amount equal to not more than one-half of 1% of the amounts borrowed.

Financing.—The Association is authorized to finance its secondary market operations in part through borrowing from the public on the security of nonguaranteed debentures and short-term discount notes. Such obligations may not exceed the lesser of: (a) fifteen times the sum of the capital and surplus applicable to these operations, or (b) the sum of the following assets (free from any liens or encumbrances): cash, mortgages, loans, other security holdings and obligations of the United States or guaranteed thereby, and obligations, participations, or other instruments which are lawful investments for fiduciary, trust, or public funds. Public Law 89-566 increased the first of these limits on borrowing authority from ten times to fifteen times the sum of capital and surplus. The Secretary of the Treasury, so long as any of the preferred stock is outstanding, is authorized to purchase such obligations in an amount not exceeding $2.25 billion outstanding at any one time.

Other sources of funds required to finance the secondary market operations during 1968 and 1969 will be (1) proceeds from sales of mortgages to the investing public, (2) capital contributions by program participants, (3) repayments and prepayments of mortgage or loan principal, (4) earnings, and (5) resale of FNMA Treasury stock and sale of additional issues of preferred stock to the Secretary of the Treasury. Such interim Treasury borrowings as will be necessary during 1968 and 1969 are expected to be repaid during each of those years.

Budget program.—The secondary market operations, established in 1955, are now fully recognized by the home mortgage market and have reached significant levels. FNMA's secondary market facilities continue to be used by lenders to bridge a part of the gap between their need for, and the availability of, private housing funds.

Conditions in the mortgage and financial markets have restricted the supply of funds available for mortgage investments. As a consequence, FNMA's mortgage purchases, which amounted to $1,118 million in 1967, are expected to aggregate $2.4 billion in 1968. Proposed legislation to allow increases in mortgage interest rates is expected to attract more private investment to the mortgage market and only $1 billion of mortgage purchases are projected under Government auspices for 1969. The proposed legislation to transfer the operations to private operations would allow additional purchases if required by market conditions. Mortgage sales, which amounted to $9 million in 1967, are estimated at $25 million in 1968 and $25 million in 1969. The excess of purchases over sales and other liquidations in 1968 and 1969 will result in net increases of portfolio during those years.

Operating results.—Retained earnings through June 30, 1967, totaled $81.8 million. Net income, after provision for the payment to the Treasury of an amount equivalent to Federal income taxes, is expected to be $19.6 million in 1968 and $13.5 million in 1969. Dividends on preferred stock are expected to amount to $6 million in 1968 and $7.6 million in 1969, and on the common stock, $4.8 million in 1968 and $5.3 million in 1969. These operations, together with a surplus adjustment of $3 million in 1968, will increase retained earnings to $94.2 million at the end of 1969. These retained earnings, to the extent that they are not needed for future dividends, will be retained to support the Association's operations and to help provide the capital base for borrowings.

Legislation is proposed to provide an interest rate for college housing loans that will help assure that the loans are made to colleges which are unable to borrow on the private market at reasonable interest rates. The program in 1969 will be carried out under this new interest rate. Loan reservations of $300 million are expected to be financed from balances of borrowing authority available from the existing college housing loan program.

Section 205 of the Demonstrations Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 1261-1266) authorized supplementary grants to State and local public bodies carrying out federally aided development projects in areas which meet certain metropolitan-wide comprehensive planning and programming requirements. Legislation is proposed to provide the necessary authorization for appropriations to allow this program to be initiated in 1969. This program will provide additional incentives to communities to (1) achieve more effective implementation of metropolitan planning and programming; (2) strengthen the cooperative ties between State and local governments and agencies in metropolitan areas; and (3) promote more efficient use of Federal funds.

To be eligible for incentive grants, the public bodies must demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Secretary that (1) metropolitan-wide comprehensive planning and programming are adequate for evaluating the location, financing, and scheduling of public facility and other proposed land development projects, whether or not federally assisted, which have metropolitan-wide or interjurisdictional significance; (2) adequate metropolitan-wide arrangements exist for coordinating local public policies and activities affecting the development of the area; and (3) public facility projects and other land development having a major impact on development of the area, whether or not federally assisted, are in fact being carried out in accord with metropolitan-wide comprehensive planning and programming.

The incentive grants will supplement existing Federal assistance to projects for transportation facilities (transit, primary and secondary highways, and airports), water and sewer facilities, recreation and other open space areas, historic preservation, libraries, and hospital and medical facilities. An incentive grant may not exceed either 20% of eligible project cost or the total amount of the basic Federal grant assistance. In addition, total Federal contributions to the project may not exceed 80% of project cost.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 102. Where appropriations in this title are expendable for travel expenses of employees and no specific limitation has been placed thereon, the expenditures for such travel expenses may not exceed the amounts set forth therefor in the budget estimates submitted for the appropriations: Provided, That this section shall not apply to travel performed by uncompensated officials of local boards and appeal boards of the Selective Service System; to travel performed in connection with the investigation of aircraft accidents by the Civil Aeronautics Board; to travel performed directly in connection with care and treatment of medical beneficiaries of the Veterans' Administration; or to payments to interagency motor pool where separately set forth in the budget schedules.

SEC. 103. No part of any appropriation contained in this title shall be available to pay the salary of any person filling a position, other than a temporary position, formerly held by an employee who has left to enter the Armed Forces of the United States and has satisfactorily completed his period of active military or naval service and has within ninety days after his release from such service or from hospitalization continuing after discharge for a period of not more than one year made application for restoration to his former position and has been certified by the Civil Service Commission as still qualified to perform the duties of his former position and has not been restored thereto.

SEC. 104. No part of any appropriation made available by the provisions of this title shall be used for the purchase or sale of real estate or for the purpose of establishing new offices outside the District of Columbia: Provided, That this limitation shall not apply to programs which have been approved by the Congress and appropriations made therefor.

SEC. 301. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act, or of the funds available for expenditure by any corporation or agency included in this Act, shall be used for publicity or propaganda purposes designed to support or defeat legislation pending before the Congress.

SEC. 302. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act, or of the funds available for expenditure by any corporation or agency included in this Act, shall be used to pay the compensation of any employee engaged in personnel work in excess of the number that would be provided by a ratio of one such employee to one hundred and thirty-five, or a part thereof, full-time, part-time, and intermittent employees of the corporation or agency concerned: Provided, That for purposes of this section employees shall be considered as engaged in personnel work if they spend half-time or more in personnel administration consisting of direction and administration of the personnel program; employment, placement, and separation; job evaluation and classification; employee relations and services; wage administration; and processing, recording, and reporting.

SEC. 303. Appropriations and funds available for the administrative expenses of the Department of Housing and Urban Development shall be available in the current fiscal year for purchase of uniforms, or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901; 80 Stat. 299-5902); hire of passenger motor vehicles; and services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109.

SEC. 304. Funds made available for the Department of Housing and Urban Development under title II of this Act shall be available, without regard to the limitations on administrative expenses, for legal services on a contract or fee basis, and for utilizing and making payment for services and facilities of Federal National Mortgage Association, Federal Reserve banks or any member thereof, Federal home-loan banks, and any insured bank within the meaning of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Act, as amended (12 U.S.C. 1811-1831).

SEC. 305. None of the funds provided herein shall be used to pay any recipient of a grant for the conduct of a research project an amount equal to as much as the entire cost of such project.

SEC. 306. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein. (Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1968.)

PUBLIC LAND MANAGEMENT

BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT

The Bureau of Land Management is responsible for the conservation, management, and development of some 457 million acres of the Nation's public lands. This includes some 282 million acres of federally owned lands, which are located in Alaska.

In addition, the Bureau administers mining and mineral leasing on other federally owned lands, on former Federal lands where minerals have been reserved in public ownership, and on the submerged lands of the Outer Continental Shelf.

The work of the Bureau produces revenue from various sources which is distributed as follows (in millions of dollars):

1. Realty and mineral leasing service.—(a) Title, lease, and records service.—Provides realty, leasing, and records services necessary (1) to support Federal programs, (2) to meet obligations to the general public under existing legislation, (3) to support the land classification effort, and (4) to conduct the mineral leasing program for on-shore lands and the Outer Continental Shelf. Included are increased efforts in compliance review under the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and Executive Order 11246, in records services to support oil shale title clearance, and in Outer Continental Shelf mineral leasing programs.

(b) Records improvement.—The modernized records system will be completed for Oregon, new records will be constructed for Idaho, and preliminary work started for the northern land district of California.

2. Resource management, conservation, and protection.—(a) Lands classification and mineral examination.—Provides realty services to the public and field examination and classification for lands petitions-applications, realty transactions, mining and mineral leasing activity, classification for multiple-use or disposal, lands inventory and analysis, trespass, and before trespass. Increases will be devoted to (1) oil shale title clearance (point 1) and, (2) land classification under the Classification and Multiple-Use Act.

(b) Range management.—Provides efforts to improve utilization of rangelands available for grazing by livestock.

(c) Forestry.—Forest management provides a sustained yield of timber to meet national and regional demands for wood products and to contribute to the economy of timber dependent communities. Reforestation and stand improvement are undertaken to maintain the production base and improve quality of yields. In 1969, timber volume of 1.5 billion board feet will be offered in western Oregon and other public domain areas. Receipts from timber sales are estimated to be $54.1 million.

(d) Soil and watershed conservation.—Public lands constitute major watershed areas of western river basins.

This subactivity provides efforts to halt deterioration from erosion, to hold soil on-site, to improve vegetative cover, to augment water penetration into groundwater storage reserves, to improve water quality by reducing pollution and sediment runoff, and to reduce destructive flood runoff.

(e) Fire protection.—Provides contract and force account protection of public land resources and improvements from the risk of loss by wildfire. Increases will permit additional replacement of old, unsafe firefighting equipment and improvement of the operation and maintenance of the radio communications system.

(f) Recreation and wildlife.—Provides for wildlife habitat management studies, planning, development and improvement, and recreation management. The increase will accelerate recreation site planning and permit a study of desert recreation potential.

3. Cadastral surveys.—(a) Alaska.—Surveys are performed of lands selected by the State for transfer under the Alaska Statehood Act, for native townsites, for native allotments, and for other special purposes.

(b) Other States.—Surveys are performed to obtain positive land identification as a prerequisite to resource management and improvement. Resurveys are often required to reestablish lost corners. The increase will be used to assist in oil shale title clearance by locating mining claims, and delineating areas for test and development programs.

4. Firefighting and rehabilitation.—Provides for the suppression of fires on or threatening the resources of the public lands under Bureau jurisdiction. Rehabilitation of burned-over areas is accomplished to restore land productivity and preserve watersheds. A supplemental appropriation for 1968 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

5. General administration.—Provides executive direction and general administrative services, such as financial management, personnel management, management analysis, procurement, and property management to support Bureau activities. The increase will provide for the additional services required by the increased 1969 program.

1. Construction.—Buildings.—The necessary buildings and appurtenant facilities, such as office buildings, warehouses, equipment storage buildings, fire stations and lookouts, district yards, parking areas, and housing in isolated areas, are constructed to carry out Bureau programs. The 1969 program provides for construction of the second phase of the Boise Interagency Fire Center at Boise, Idaho, and a district office building at Baker, Oreg., as well as survey and design work.

Recreational facilities.—Recreation facilities for family camping, picnicking, and other outdoor recreational activities are constructed on public land sites receiving heavy public recreational use as campsites, picnic areas, hunter camps, fishing spots, etc. These facilities provide safe and attractive camping and picnicking units, potable water and sanitary facilities to protect public health and safety as well as to prevent stream pollution and fire damage to resources. The 1969 program will provide 570 family units at 16 sites and development of one historic area.

2. Maintenance.—Buildings.—Provides for maintenance of physical facilities such as buildings, warehouses, equipment shelters, fire stations, and lookouts.

Recreation facility operation and maintenance.—Provides for both the operation and maintenance of developed recreation facilities and for the cleanup of litter and trash from undeveloped recreation sites. Increases will provide additional operation and maintenance of facilities; patrol to prevent vandalism and collect user fees; an expanded program of trash and litter cleanup at undeveloped recreation sites and at unauthorized dump sites on the public lands; and increased efforts to enlist the help of local groups in litter prevention and pickup campaigns.

Road maintenance.—Provides for preventative and corrective maintenance on the public lands access roads under Bureau jurisdiction.

1. Expenses, sale of timber, etc., reclamation lands.—A portion of the receipts from timber sales on public lands set aside for reclamation purposes is used to cover the cost of sales (41 Stat. 202; 53 Stat. 1196).

2. Leasing of grazing lands.—State, county, and privately owned grazing lands that are intermingled with public grazing lands are managed on a leased basis within the limits of receipts from such arrangements (43 U.S.C. 315m).

3. Payments to Oklahoma (royalties).—The State of Oklahoma is paid 37½% of the Red River oil and gas royalties in lieu of State and local taxes on Kiowa, Comanche, and Apache tribal funds to be used for construction and maintenance of public roads and support of public schools (44 Stat. 740).

4. Payments to Coos and Douglas Counties, Oreg., from receipts, Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands.—Out of receipts from the Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands in Oregon, payments in lieu of taxes are made to Coos and Douglas Counties for schools, roads, highways, bridges, and port districts (53 Stat. 753-754).

5. Payments to counties, Oregon and California grant lands.—A portion of the receipts of Oregon and California land-grant fund is paid the counties in which the lands are situated, to be used as other county funds (39 Stat. 218; 50 Stat. 876).

6. Payments to States (grazing fees).—The States are paid 33⅓% of the fees from each grazing district on Indian lands ceded to the United States within the States' boundaries (43 U.S.C. 315j).

7. Payments to States (proceeds of sales).—The States are paid 5% of the net proceeds from sale of public land and public land products (31 U.S.C. 711).

8. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands outside grazing districts.—The States are paid 50% of the grazing fee receipts from public domain lands outside grazing districts (43 U.S.C. 315i, 315m).

9. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands within grazing districts.—The States are paid 12½% of grazing fee receipts from grazing district lands within their boundaries (43 U.S.C. 315b, 315i).

10. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands within grazing districts, miscellaneous.—The States are paid specifically determined amounts from grazing fee receipts from miscellaneous lands within grazing districts when payment is not feasible on a percentage basis (43 U.S.C. 315).

11. Payments to States from receipts under Mineral Leasing Act.—Alaska is paid 90% and other States 37½% of the receipts from bonuses, royalties, and rentals resulting from development of mineral resources under the Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 191), and from leases of potash deposits (30 U.S.C. 285), on public lands.

12. Payments to counties, national grasslands.—Of the revenues received from the use of submarginal lands, 25% is paid to the counties in which such land is situated, for school and road purposes (7 U.S.C. 1012).

13. Expenses, Public Land Administration Act.—Public Law 86-649, approved July 14, 1960, permanently appropriated certain moneys to the Secretary of the Interior. Timber purchasers or permittees provide bond or deposit to assure fulfillment of contracts. Users of roads under jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management may make deposits for maintenance purposes. Moneys received in forfeiture of such bonds or for road maintenance are available for necessary forest improvement, protection, and rehabilitation and for road maintenance. Moneys collected on Oregon and California grant lands are available for those lands only and amounts in excess of the cost of doing the work are transferred to miscellaneous receipts (74 Stat. 507-508).

BUREAU OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

The United States is responsible for providing to Indians and Indian tribes all of the options and opportunities that are available to Americans generally. This includes working with Indian communities, other communities, the States, and other Federal agencies toward education for Indian children, elevation of Indian standards of living, development of Indian capability to manage their own affairs, promotion of political and social integration, and fulfillment of the Federal responsibility for Indian trust property. The goal is to assist Indian people to take their place in the social and economic life of the Nation on the same basis as other citizens.

General and special funds:

EDUCATION AND WELFARE SERVICES

public schools enrolling Indian children where tax-free Indian lands result in financial problems for the local districts and where other special problems exist that are not covered by Federal impact legislation, administered by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Grants are also made to Indian students attending college and an education program is provided adult Indians living on reservations for training in basic literacy and community development. In 1969, kindergartens will be established and operated for reservation Indian children by both the public and the Federal school systems. Indian children enrolled in Federal facilities and those receiving higher education grants are as follows:

4. Soil and moisture conservation.—Land-use practices based on land inventories and soil conservation plans are introduced to control erosion and promote more effective utilization of soil and water resources.

5. Maintenance of roads.—The Bureau of Indian Affairs maintains a system of roads on 155 reservations in 21 States totaling 17,938 miles.

6. Development of Indian arts and crafts.—Production and marketing of the products of Indian crafts are fostered through formation of production groups; establishing standards; and improving markets, designs, and production methods.

7. Management of Indian trust property.—Banking services are provided for Indians; land is purchased, sold, exchanged, and leased; and Indian property and money rights are safeguarded. Consolidation or disposal of

This fund and miscellaneous tribal funds provide the only source of financing for those Indians who cannot borrow from other Government credit agencies or from ordinary commercial lenders because of their low economic status, isolated geographic location, lack of bankable security, or for other reasons (25 U.S.C. 70n-1, 443, 470, 470a, 473a, 482, 506, and 631). Loans are made to tribes and other Indian organizations for relending to individual members and groups of members, to finance tribal business enterprises; and to help tribes attract industries to operate in localities that will promote the economic development of the Indians. Loans are also made to tribes for use by them in obtaining expert assistance for the preparation and trial of claims pending before the Indian Claims Commission. Direct loans are made to cooperative associations and individual Indians for any purpose that will promote the economic development of the borrower, including loans for educational purposes.

BUREAU OF OUTDOOR RECREATION

The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation serves as the focal point in the Federal Government for the many activities related to outdoor recreation. In addition, liaison is maintained with the State and the local governments and the private sector with a view to developing and executing a nationwide coordinated effort in the provision of outdoor recreation opportunities.

The Bureau also administers a program of assistance to States for recreation planning, for acquisition of land and water areas, and for the development of such areas. This program and the recreation land acquisition programs of certain Federal agencies are financed from the land and water conservation fund.

General and special funds:

The 1969 budget request for administration of Territories finances general administration costs as well as costs of operating the Office of the Governor of the Virgin Islands, the Office of the Comptroller of the Virgin Islands, the Office of the Governor of Guam, and the Office of the Governor, Legislature, and Judiciary of American Samoa.

In addition, the appropriation request includes funds to continue the Guam Rehabilitation Program, authorized by Public Law 88-170, approved November 4, 1963. The 1969 program consists of the following projects which are part of the multiyear plan (1969-72):

Educational facilities.....	$1,422,400
Yona urban renewal and sewer system.....	1,176,600
Sinajana village development and urban renewal.....	2,061,000
Commercial port (3d increment).....	3,540,000
1969 estimate.....	8,200,000

Also requested are Grant funds in the amount of $6,781 thousand for the Government of American Samoa, which is a net decrease of $172,162 below the 1968 appropriation. The most significant programs in the budget year include those for education and medical services, public works, and capital improvements.

Under the terms of the Trusteeship Agreement between the United States and the Security Council of the United Nations, the United States exercises full jurisdiction over the territory and is obligated to promote the political, economic and educational advancement of the inhabitants. These responsibilities are carried out through the Department of the Interior.

The trust territory, with a population of about 92,000 persons, comprises 2,141 islands scattered over 3,000,000 square miles of ocean in three major archipelagos, the Mariana, Caroline, and Marshall Islands. The land area totals 700 square miles.

1. High Commissioner's office.—This office provides executive direction for the development programs and the administration of all the territory.

2. Judiciary.—Provision is made for the high court of the trust territory, the court of appeals, and the lesser courts of the territory.

3. Grants.—The cost of operating the government of the territory is defrayed by these grants and local revenue. These costs are distributed as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Public Law 88-485, approved August 22, 1964, authorized an amount not to exceed $950 thousand to provide for the settlement of claims of radiation victims of Rongelap Atoll.

These funds were requested as a 1965 supplemental and were made available in the Second Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1965, Public Law 89-16, approved April 30, 1965.

All payments of victims' claims will have been accomplished by 1969.

General and special funds:

SURVEYS, INVESTIGATIONS, AND RESEARCH

For expenses necessary for the Geological Survey to perform surveys, investigations, and research covering topography, geology, and the mineral and water resources of the United States, its Territories and possessions, and other areas as authorized by law (72 Stat. 837 and 76 Stat. 427); classify lands as to mineral character and water and power resources; give engineering supervision to power permits and Federal Power Commission licenses; enforce departmental regulations applicable to oil, gas, and other mining leases, permits, licenses, and operating contracts; control the interstate shipment of contraband oil as required by law (15 U.S.C. 715); administer the minerals exploration program (30 U.S.C. 641); and publish and disseminate data relative to the foregoing activities; [$85,499,000] $94,756,000, of which [$14,460,000] $15,835,000 shall be available only for cooperation with States or municipalities for water resources investigations, and [$216,000] $450,000 shall remain available until expended, to provide financial assistance to participants in minerals exploration projects, as authorized by law (30 U.S.C. 641-646), including administration of contracts entered into prior to June 30, 1958, under section 303 of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended: Provided, That no part of this appropriation shall be used to pay more than one-half the cost of any topographic mapping or water resources investigations carried on in cooperation with any State or municipality. (43 U.S.C. 31; Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1968.)

Note.—Excludes $10 thousand for activities transferred in the estimates to "Salaries and expenses, Office of the Secretary."

Geological Survey provides basic scientific data concerning water, land, and mineral resources, and supervises the development and production of minerals and mineral fuels on leased Federal and Indian lands.

1. Topographic surveys and mapping.—Topographic maps portray the elevation, shape, and position of the natural and manmade features of the earth's surface. These maps, at various scales, are a fundamental part of the background information required to inventory, develop, and manage the natural resources of the country. They also have numerous other uses such as the location and development of highways and lines of communications, urban planning, and military and civil defense. It is estimated that topographic surveys and mapping completed during 1968, added to surveys already available, will result in a total of about 2,768,000 square miles of coverage (about 77.9% of the United States) in either the 7½- or 15-minute standard map series. In addition, it is expected that about 24,000 square miles of existing coverage in the 15-minute series will be resurveyed for the 7½-minute series. During 1969, mapping of about 113,000 square miles of previously unsurveyed or inadequately surveyed areas in the United States will be started. In addition, about 24,000 square miles of revision will be added to the program and about 135 special maps at various scales will be published. In 1969, increased emphasis will be placed on mapping the urban and urbanizing portions of the standard metropolitan statistical areas, especially the larger cities of over 250,000 population.

2. Geologic and mineral resource surveys and mapping.—The continuing national program of geologic research and investigations produces: (a) new or improved methods and instruments for mineral exploration; (b) geologic, geophysical, and geochemical maps that show the distribution, age, composition, structure, and physical properties of the rocks and mineral deposits at and beneath the surface of the earth; (c) information on the chemistry and physics of the earth and the geologic processes by which it was formed and is being continually modified; and (d) geologic data that are directly applicable to urban development, land utilization, and the solution of land construction problems. The diverse studies underway and planned in this activity provide knowledge essential to intelligent exploration and utilization of our natural resources. The 1969 program provides increases for earthquake research, wilderness area mineral surveys, and new studies of oil shale and associated mineral resources.

3. Minerals discovery loan program.—In order to help find new sources of many of our essential minerals that are in short supply, the Federal Government is continuing to provide financial assistance to private industry for promising exploration projects. This encouragement and assistance has been and will continue to be a vital factor in the discovery of important new sources of critical minerals.

4. Marine geology and hydrology.—This program, begun in 1963, includes geological and geophysical mapping and investigation of the Nation's Continental Shelves and slopes; research on geologic and hydrologic processes, techniques, and instruments applicable to marine investigations; and research on the hydrology of river mouths, estuaries, and lagoons to provide data for understanding conditions involved in the use of marine resources.

5. Water resources investigations.—The program includes determinations of the flow and sediment discharge of rivers, location, and amount of underground waters, chemical quality and temperature of waters, changes caused by nature and by man, availability and suitability of water supplies for present and future demands—all of which provide water data essential to planning and water management. Research is conducted to increase our understanding of fundamental principles of water occurrence, movement, and interaction with its environment, and also to increase the accuracy and usefulness of water data by improvements in technology. Funds requested for 1969 will be used to continue the Geological Survey's responsibilities under Bureau of the Budget guidelines for coordination of Federal activities in acquisition and dissemination of water data; strengthen the nationwide effort in basic data collection and analysis; continue the automation of data services to provide better service to users, and the development and application of instruments and techniques for improved data; conduct research on basic principles, especially in the fields of geochemistry, geophysics, limnology, glaciology, geomorphology, sedimentology, ground-water hydrology; continue support of education and training in hydrology, and timely publication of water data and results of investigations. Increased funds are requested in 1969 for expanding the Federal-State program to meet State needs; for flood-plain delineation in urban areas vulnerable to flooding; for research and experimentation in artificial recharge and for evaluation of ground-water potentials in broad regions—both essential for planning the effective use of ground-water reservoirs in water management; for studies of urban hydrology; and for the International Hydrological Decade.

6. Soil and moisture conservation.—This program provides land management agencies of the Department of the Interior with basic hydrologic and geologic data needed for maintenance and improvement of the productive value of public lands.

7. Conservation of lands and minerals.—This program provides for (a) the classification of federally owned lands for the leasable minerals and sites for development of water resources and (b) the supervision of prospecting, development, and production of minerals and fuels from leased Federal, Indian, and Outer Continental Shelf lands. Mineral classification complements leasing and supervision by determining whether leases which issue shall be competitive or noncompetitive, thus in effect ascertaining the legally applicable royalty rates. Classification also identifies the areas of mineral rich public land which, as such, are available for competitive lease; and it retains the ownership of leasable minerals in the Government in event of surface disposal of public mineral lands. Supervision of oil and gas and mining operations insures the safe and orderly development and maximum recovery of the Nation's leasable mineral resources and an equitable royalty return to the United States and the Indians from mineral development of leased lands. Marine resources evaluation will provide information for improving the management of the Outer Continental Shelf through good businesslike practices. It will provide basic geologic and engineering data which are essential to good conservation practices and efficient utilization of offshore resources. Federal and Indian mineral leases are expected to produce minerals valued at about $2.1 billion in 1968 and $2.3 billion in 1969. Royalties in those years are expected to amount to $274 million and $303 million, respectively.

Demands for land classification services by other executive agencies are expected to hold steady at about 50,000 reports per year through 1969.

8. Earth resources observation satellite (EROS).—Funds proposed for 1969 will be used for applications feasibility and data management studies in satellite-based remote sensing techniques related to resource management and development, and for economic analyses of alternate methods of obtaining resource data for user agencies from remote sensors, both from satellites and aircraft.

Reimbursable obligations.—Reimbursements from non-Federal sources are from States and municipalities for making cooperative topographic and geologic surveys and water resources investigations (44 Stat. 963), proceeds from sale to the public of copies of photographs and records (43 U.S.C. 45), proceeds from sale of personal property (40 U.S.C. 481(c)), reimbursements from permittees and licensees of the Federal Power Commission (16 U.S.C. 797), and reimbursements from friendly countries and international organizations for technical assistance (22 U.S.C. 2357). Reimbursements from other Federal agencies (31 U.S.C. 686) are for special-purpose mapping, investigations, and computer services performed at the request of the financing agency, much of which contributes to the basic objectives of the Geological Survey.

An unobligated balance of $400 thousand is carried forward each year to pay the expenses of reimbursable work pending collection from cooperating agencies. This advance is not available for obligation.

Lead and zinc stabilization.—This program provides for payments on lead and zinc ores and concentrates in order to stabilize the mining of lead and zinc by small domestic producers. Present legislation for the program expires December 31, 1969 (Public Law 89-238).

Payments are computed for lead at 75% of the difference between 14½ cents per pound and the average market price for the month in which the sale occurs, and for zinc at 55% of the difference between 14½ cents per pound and the average market price for the month in which the sale occurs. The total amount of payments which may be made in each calendar year of the program is limited as are the tons of lead and zinc on which payments may be made.

Payment from proceeds, sale of water.—When lessees or operators drilling for oil and gas on public lands strike water, water wells may be developed by the Department from proceeds from the sale of water from existing wells (30 U.S.C. 221-229). No obligations are anticipated in 1969.

Provision is made for conserving, evaluating, and developing mineral resources.

1. Research.—(a) Coal.—Scientific research is carried out on the chemical and physical properties of coal and lignite and their preparation, combustion, carbonization, and gasification. Research is emphasized on the development of methods for reducing or eliminating industrial air pollution caused by sulfur oxides released to the atmosphere during combustion of fossil fuels.

(b) Petroleum.—Research is conducted to conserve petroleum and natural gas resources by improving the processes of recovery and utilization and to promote improved efficiency in processing and use of raw materials produced from these resources. Research will be continued on fuel combustion and utilization as related to air pollution by automotive emissions. The work is carried out in cooperation with Federal and State agencies and with industry associations and is partially supported financially by many of these agencies and associations.

(c) Oil shale.—Research is carried out on oil shale to determine the composition of the various products obtainable, to test the applicability of those products to different uses, and to determine the basic chemistry and physics essential to the development and evaluation of new retorting concepts. The 1969 estimate provides for the development of techniques that will allow in-place retorting of the thick, deeply buried sections of the Green River formation that are not now economically recoverable by present conventional mining and retorting methods.

(d) Metallurgy.—Research is carried out seeking improved processes for extracting metals and nonmetals from their ores. Multidiscipline investigations develop better methods to recover metals by physical, chemical, and electrical techniques and find means to produce superpure materials. A parallel effort integrates the structure of metals, alloys, and ceramic compounds with optimum preparation and utilization. Basic to all investigations is fundamental research to delineate the physical and thermodynamic properties of materials and to analyze the rates and mechanics of high-temperature chemical and metallurgical reactions.

(e) Mining.—Research effort applies physics and mining engineering principles to all phases of mineral mining. Fundamental studies range from the physical nature of rock structures through the application of rock mechanics to exploration, development, and operational problems of mining. Highly specialized research is conducted on the mechanisms of penetrating and breaking rock. The problem of ground control which is attacked by developing methods of stabilizing underground openings and techniques for designing efficient open-pit slopes is of prime importance. Work will continue on extension of applied rock mechanics studies into coal mines to develop engineering principles required for safe economic physical design of modern coal mining systems, engineering application of results of previous studies in underground metal mines, and studies of nature and behavior of rock and rock masses in relation to the mining processes.

(f) Marine mineral mining.—Research is devoted to the conception, development, testing, and evaluation of instruments, and hardware of undersea mining. Investigations are concerned with the nature and extent of oceanic deposits and the mining and processing of materials recoverable from such deposits.

(g) Explosives.—Research is conducted to provide information and guidance to industry, other Federal agencies, and State and local governments on safe handling and use of commercial explosives and blasting agents; the safety characteristics of explosives certified for use in underground coal mines; the hazards of gas and vapor explosives from flammable liquids and/or gases; and the means of controlling fires in mineral fuels and their products.

2. Resource development.—(a) Statistics.—Mineral statistical programs and systems are carried out. Reports on mineral production and consumption are issued for use of Federal, State, and local government agencies, the press, professional and technical publications, and industry. Modernization of data collection and processing will be continued by electronic automation of selected statistical surveys.

(b) Economic analysis.—Economic information concerning mineral supply and demand, tariffs, taxes, trade, and other economic matter is furnished to Government and industry to aid in planning industry and Government research efforts, and industry expansion and investment.

(c) Bituminous coal.—Comprehensive technical and economic information is provided for guidance in the optimum recovery, processing, and utilization of coal reserves; and for maximizing efficiencies in the production, transportation, and utilization of coal and related products. Guidance is provided for technological and economic research as related to methods of extraction and preparation, to methods and problems of marketing, and to techniques of combustion and utilization.

(d) Anthracite.—Resource investigations are directed to the development of engineering and economic data on anthracite required by Government, industry, and the general public to assist in promoting the economic well-being of the Pennsylvania anthracite industry; to increase the safety of mining operations and conserve fuel and energy reserves through proper control and drainage of anthracite mine water; and to eliminate hazards to public health and safety brought about by past mining practices.

(e) Petroleum.—Technical and economic studies are designed to provide the accurate and complete picture of the location, extent, and utilization of energy resources contained in petroleum, natural gas, and marginal bituminous substances. Present and possible future trends in production, technology, and practices, and their effects on various sectors of the petroleum and natural gas industries will be considered and evaluated on a continuing basis.

(f) Minerals.—Resource investigations are made of mineral deposits to gain better knowledge of the location, quantity, quality, and recoverability of specific mineral resources. Investigations of marginal or submarginal mineral deposits are aimed at determining possible future utilization. Economic forecasting is undertaken, with special attention to the generally growing but shifting demand for mineral commodities, to help guide industrial, business, and Government planning and assistance in the direction of mineral research. Increasing attention is given to production cost levels and to technologic trends. During 1969, the Bureau will continue to appraise the mineral potential of wilderness areas within the national forests as directed by the Wilderness Act of 1964.

(g) International activities.—Technical and economic data on foreign mineral resources, production and consumption, and international trade are compiled and analyzed for Government use in coping with problems of mineral supply and to assist industry in planning domestic and foreign minerals ventures.

1. Inspections, investigations, and rescue work.—The objectives for 1969 are to: (a) inspect, at least once annually, every active underground coal mine, take action in accordance with Federal Coal Mine Safety Act to require compliances with its mandatory provisions, and exert special effort to gain compliance with safety recommendations; (b) inspect annually, or as necessary, all strip and auger coal mines and report on observed hazards with appropriate corrective recommendations; (c) inspect metal and nonmetallic mines in accordance with the Federal Metal and Nonmetallic Mine Safety Act; and (d) conduct investigations of serious accidents in coal, metal, and nonmetallic mines and make recommendations to reduce working hazards, safeguard the health of workers, and promote efficiency in the mineral industries. The Bureau encourages accident-prevention education through safety organizations, exhibits, safety film production, demonstrations, instructions by Bureau personnel in accident prevention, and first-aid and mine rescue methods. Grants are made to States to assist them to promulgate safety programs in coal mines.

2. Control of fires in coal deposits.—Fires in inactive or abandoned coal deposits on public lands or private property are controlled or extinguished. Expenditures in connection with fires in active coal mines are limited to investigations and research.

3. Health and safety research.—Research is conducted on the support of mine roof and control of overburden, ventilation of mines, methods of allaying harmful and combustible airborne dusts, preventing accumulations of combustible dusts, preventing underground fires, safe blasting practices, and safe electrical installations. Other research is directed toward developing mining procedures and devices to avoid, detect, or control those aspects of mining and the working environment which involve potential personal hazards to mine workmen and physical hazards to mine operations. Various machines and devices are tested for use in mines and plants where explosive or harmful gas or dust may be liberated or encountered.

Provision is made for a research and development program for new and improved methods of proper and economic solid waste disposal as authorized under the Clean Air Act Amendments and Solid Waste Disposal Act. The program includes studies directed toward the conservation of natural resources by reducing the amount of waste and unsalvageable materials, by recovery and utilization of potential resources in solid wastes, and by development of data applicable to large-scale removal of obnoxious burning and nonburning waste deposits. Funds are provided for a research grant program to bring the research capabilities of universities and nonprofit research organizations into the solid waste research program.

The Helium Fund is used for the production, conservation, purchase, and sale of helium; location and development of helium properties and reserves; and research on the properties and uses of helium to promote its wise and effective use. Production is primarily for the Department of Defense, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and the Atomic Energy Commission which reimburse the fund for products received. Other Federal agencies and commercial users buy helium for medical, scientific, and commercial uses.

Budget program.—Production of helium from the five Government-owned plants is estimated at 682 million cubic feet.

Sales of helium are estimated at 850 million cubic feet. The excess demand over pure helium production from Government plants will be met by withdrawal of crude helium from storage. About 168 million cubic feet will need to be withdrawn and purified to supplement Government production.

Installation of new helium separation equipment at the Exell helium plant, started in 1967, will be completed in 1969. Work will begin in 1969 on installation of new helium purification equipment designed to meet the need for increased sales. Installation of gas processing facilities at the Exell plant to enrich conservation helium and to process Cliffside field gas, which will insure suitable operation and adequate storage space for crude helium in the Cliffside reservoir, will be initiated. Also included in the investment program for 1969 is provision for drilling and equipping four wells in the Cliffside field to accommodate the storage program and to aid helium injection capacity and to provide gas withdrawal capacity to replace capacity lost due to existing wells being invaded. The drilling will also provide geologic and engineering data about the performance of the helium storage reservoir.

The Bureau of Mines will purchase an estimated 3.7 billion cubic feet of helium at a cost of $42.8 million from four private companies which operate five helium extraction plants. The helium will be transported through the Bureau's pipeline to Government-owned underground storage near Amarillo.

The Helium Research Center, Amarillo, Tex., will continue expansion of their program in basic and applied research. Emphasis will be placed on improvements in processes, production methods, purification, liquefaction, and utilization in order to increase technical literature and knowledge of helium and helium-bearing gas mixtures.

Financing the budget program.—The entire program of production, sales, conservation, and research is financed from the Helium Fund. The sales price of helium has been set at an amount which is estimated to provide sufficient funds for payment of all expenses and repayment of an incurred debt, including interest, in carrying out the helium program. Total expenditures for 1969 are estimated at $53.5 million. Borrowings of approximately $20.6 million are needed to supplement the $33.7 million income from the sales of helium and related services to finance the overall program. The unused and available borrowing authority as of June 30, 1968, is estimated to be $3 million. An additional $17.6 million borrowing authority is requested to provide funds for coverage of all anticipated obligations.

Operating results and financial condition.—As of June 30 1967, the Government had $203.5 million invested in the helium program. Of this amount, $112.5 million is owed to the U.S. Treasury in accordance with the Helium Act Amendments of 1960, leaving a net investment of $91 million. The investment at June 30, 1967, was about one-fourth in helium plants and facilities, and about three-fourths in helium stored underground.

On June 30, 1969, the Government's investment is estimated to be $303.2 million, of which $172.5 million is to be repaid to the Treasury, leaving a net investment balance of $130.7 million. The estimated increase from June 30, 1967, of $39.7 million in net Government investment (equity) results from an increase in retained earnings accrued during 1968 and 1969. Retained earnings result from the favorable cost-sales price relationship existing during the early years of the conservation program which is used for the purchase of conservation helium for storage and other capital assets to minimize borrowing from the Treasury.

The Office of Coal Research develops, through research, new and more efficient methods of mining, preparing, and utilizing coal and contracts for, sponsors, cosponsors, and promotes the coordination of, research with recognized interested groups (including, but not limited to, coal trade associations, educational institutions, and agencies of States and political subdivisions).

The Office of Coal Research is responsible for developing the full potentiality and versatility of coal as the Nation's largest energy resource to the maximum benefit of the United States. The Office is devoting its efforts to expand the use of coal through development of new uses as well as within presently known fields of utilization. The scientific and technical aspects of the program are performed through a program of contract research.

1. Administration and contract supervision.—This portion of the program performs all necessary functions relating to contracts. This includes drafting, negotiation, and execution of the contracts, together with review and monitoring of technical and administrative phases of the contract work. Proposals are evaluated to ascertain technical and economic feasibility and eliminate possible duplication with other work.

2. Contract research.—The entire research activity cited above as the responsibility of OCR is represented in the contract aspect of the OCR operation. Proposals received from, or discussions with, potential contractors relate to the prospective area of activity in which they have expressed interest and whether a project would be potentially duplicative, or would offer insufficient potential.

Contract research activities are conducted with profit and nonprofit research organizations. Contracts vary from complete Government funding to joint funding. Only applied research and development projects are undertaken. Several have now reached the pilot plant phase of their development. No basic research or grant research programs are entered into.

Coordination of oil and gas activities.—This office coordinates the implementation of Federal oil and gas policies, provides leadership and coordination for petroleum statistics within the Federal establishment, provides advice and assistance to Federal agencies and international organizations on all phases of petroleum and gas, and serves as the principal channel of communication between the Federal Government and the petroleum, gas, petrochemical, and allied industries. Studies, domestic and worldwide, are made to maintain data on adequacy of petroleum and gas, to define deficient areas or elements, and to develop ways to alleviate actual or potential deficiencies. The Department's program for emergency planning and readiness for the oil and gas industries and the recruitment, training, and assignment of 550 executive reservists for the Emergency Petroleum and Gas Administration are assigned responsibilities of this office.

Administration of oil import program.—This appropriation finances the Oil Import Administration, established March 13, 1959, pursuant to Presidential Proclamation No. 3279, as amended. The Administration established quotas for importers of crude oil and oil products under the mandatory quota system.

Oil Import Appeals Board.—The Oil Import Appeals Board has been established to conduct hearings on appeals from importers who request a change in their quota or who do not qualify for a quota.

1. Management.—This activity covers administration and enforcement of international agreements pertaining to fish and whales.

2. Marketing and technology.—This includes: (a) collecting and disseminating economic data on the fishing industry, including business trends and foreign trade; (b) exploring for fish and improving fishing gear and methods; (c) operation of market news offices; (d) compiling and publishing commercial fishery statistics; and (e) developing and demonstrating more efficient means of handling, processing, storing, and marketing fishery products.

3. Research.—Research is conducted: (a) on variations in abundance of important commercial food fishes and other aquatic animals; (b) on declining species and fishery resources; (c) on cultivation of aquatic animals, including shellfish; and (d) in the design of fish protective devices.

4. Research on fish migration over dams.—Investigations are conducted to determine factors influencing direction and rate of movement of anadromous fish over dams, for consideration in designing future dams.

5. Fishing vessel mortgage insurance.—This activity provides for administration of the fishing vessel mortgage insurance program, which aids financing of construction of fishing vessels.

6. Columbia River fishery development.—This activity covers costs of operation, maintenance, and alteration of hatcheries, fish screens, and fishways under the Columbia River fishery development program; and provides for management studies related to the program.

The overall programs of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries are administered from two organizational levels—the Washington, D.C., office and the regional offices. This program provides financing for some of the salary costs and other expense in connection with executive direction and administrative services in Washington, D.C., and the regional offices.

The balance of the cost of general expenses for executive direction and costs of common service activities, including administrative services, is financed on a benefit basis from other Bureau appropriations.

This fund is used for making loans to segments of the fishing industry unable to obtain commercial loans on reasonable terms for financing or refinancing the cost of purchasing, constructing, equipping, maintaining, repairing, or operating new or used commercial fishing vessels or gear. Loans now being made bear interest at 6% annually and mature in not more than 10 years. The act of July 24, 1965, Public Law 89-85, authorized extension and broadening of the program.

Budget program.—Loans made.—As of September 30, 1967, a total of 2,008 applications amounting to $53.6 million had been received. Of these, 1,050 loans totaling $24.6 million had been approved and 496 applications amounting to $11.4 million had been declined.

Financing.—Appropriations of $13 million provide capital for the fund. Additional financing is provided from repayments and interest on outstanding loans.

BUREAU OF SPORT FISHERIES AND WILDLIFE

The Bureau's primary responsibility is to aid in conserving the Nation's sport fish and wildlife resources; and to develop a national program to provide public opportunities for understanding, appreciation and use of these natural resources.

General and special funds:

MANAGEMENT AND INVESTIGATIONS OF RESOURCES

For expenses necessary for scientific and economic studies, conservation, management, investigation, protection, and utilization of sport fishery and wildlife resources, except whales, seals, and sea lions, and for the performance of other authorized functions related to such resources; operation of the industrial properties within the Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge (61 Stat. 770); and maintenance of the herd of long-horned cattle on the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge; [$44,148,800] $46,354,000. 1. Fish hatcheries.—Fish from 91 hatcheries help support inland fishery resources, principally on Federal lands and on Federal water development projects; four development centers and three training schools improve fish-cultural practice and technology; planning and research is provided for construction of a National Fisheries Center and Aquarium.

2. Wildlife refuges.—In the 48 contiguous States, the Bureau manages 281 migratory bird refuges consisting of 3.8 million acres, 17 refuges established primarily for rare and endangered species of wildlife totaling 4.2 million acres, and two wildlife ranges containing nearly 1 million acres. This includes six new migratory bird refuges which will be put under management in 1969. In addition, there are nine migratory bird refuges, three rare and endangered species refuges, and five wildlife ranges in Alaska and a rare and endangered species refuge in Hawaii totaling 18.7 million acres. The national wildlife refuge system also includes nearly 150,000 acres in small tracts acquired under the Wetlands Loan Act.

3. Soil and moisture conservation.—The program consists of the planning, application, and maintenance of conservation measures for the protection, stabilization, rehabilitation, control, and use of the soil, water, and vegetative resources on 141 national wildlife refuges comprising over 10 million acres.

4. Management and enforcement.—The Bureau enforces the Migratory Bird Treaty and Lacey Acts for protection of migratory birds and regulation of interstate and foreign shipments of game; conducts migratory game bird surveys; and administers the Black Bass Act regulating shipments of fish across State boundaries.

5. Fishery research.—These research studies include nutrition, genetics, and diseases of fish; improved methods of fish husbandry, effects of environmental pollutants, particularly pesticides, on aquatic communities; and conservation of marine sport fishes.

6. Wildlife research.—Research is conducted on game and nongame, resident and migratory forms of wildlife. Results are used by the Bureau as well as cooperating Federal, State, and private agencies to improve wildlife management and conservation practices. Wildlife units are also maintained at 18 locations to give technical training in wildlife management, conduct research, and demonstrate improved management practices.

7. Fishery services.—Technical assistance is provided to Federal, State, Indian, and other public or private entities in management of sport fishing and fish propagation; 23 cooperative fishery units are operated at universities.

8. Wildlife services.—Technical assistance is provided to Federal, State, Indian, and other public or private entities for enhancement of recreational and aesthetic values of wildlife resources; and operational control programs are conducted where needed to alleviate damage caused by wildlife. State and local cooperator funds are expected to total $4½ million in 1969.

9. River basin studies.—This activity covers studies of the effects on fish and wildlife resources of water-use projects of Federal agencies and licensees. Recommendations are made for measures to protect and improve these resources. Additional funds, totaling $2 million in 1969, are provided for this activity from the Bureau of Reclamation and the Corps of Engineers.

10. Pesticides review.—Pesticidal formulations are reviewed to determine the actual or potential hazards to fish and wildlife from the proposed use of chemicals, and recommendations for labeling are made. Surveillance of pest-control operations and monitoring of fish and wildlife habitat are conducted to obtain information on levels of pesticide contamination.

Funds for four of the above activities are supplemented by moneys appropriated under the permanent accounts, Federal aid in fish restoration and management, Federal aid in wildlife restoration, and National wildlife refuge fund, as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Assistance is given to States, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands by appropriation of funds for fish restoration and management equal to the revenue of the 10% excise tax on sport-fishing tackle and for wildlife restoration equal to the 11% excise tax on the manufacture of firearms and ammunition.

1. Federal aid in fish restoration and management.—States are reimbursed up to 75% of the cost of approved fish restoration and management projects, including research into fish culture, formulation of restocking plans, and acquisition and improvement of fish habitat (16 U.S.C. 772a-k).

2. Federal aid in wildlife restoration.—States are reimbursed up to 75% of the cost of approved wildlife restoration projects, including acquisition and development of land and water areas, and for wildlife management research (16 U.S.C. 669-669j).

The Migratory Bird Conservation Act (16 U.S.C. 715s) authorizes the expenditure of revenues from the sale of products from the National Wildlife Refuge System.

3. National wildlife refuge fund.—After deduction of expenses, the net proceeds from sales of refuge products either 25% or 0.75% of the value of lands acquired in fee in case of each refuge is paid to counties in which refuges are located for benefit of public schools and roads. The remainder of the revenue is available for management of the refuge system and for enforcement of the Migratory Bird Treaty Act.

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

The Service's primary responsibility is to conserve and manage for their highest purpose the natural, historical, and recreational resources of the National Park System. Visitation to park areas is expected to increase from an estimated 138.8 million in calendar year 1967 to 172.8 million in 1969.

General and special funds:

MANAGEMENT AND PROTECTION

For expenses necessary for the management and protection of the areas and facilities administered by the National Park Service, including protection of lands in process of condemnation; plans, investigations, and studies of the recreational resources (exclusive of preparation of detail plans and working drawings) and archeological values in river basins of the United States (except the Missouri River Basin); and not to exceed $88,000 for the Roosevelt Campobello International Park Commission, [$40,672,000] $44,531,000. 1. Management of park and other areas.—The estimate contemplates the administration of 259 park areas comprising about 27 million acres of federally owned land located in 45 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. The increase proposed is to provide for (a) administration of five park areas for which no funds (or only small token amounts) have heretofore been provided, (b) operation of newly constructed or reconstructed facilities and to meet requirements generated by increased visitor use in existing park areas, and (c) payment to the Bureau of Employees' Compensation, Department of Labor, as required by Public Law 86-767, approved September 13, 1960.

The following tabulation shows the actual and estimated visitors, and general and special fund revenues collected by the National Park Service, including recreation fee revenues deposited in the Land and Water Conservation Fund:

2. Forestry and fire control.—Vegetation such as forests, grasslands, desert shrubs, and tundra, totaling approximately 13 million acres, is protected from fire, destructive insects, diseases, and other preventable damage. The increase proposed will provide for operation of newly constructed facilities and meet increased visitor-use workload in the park areas. A supplemental appropriation for 1968 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

4. Park and recreation programs.—Studies are conducted to determine the significance and suitability of natural, historical, and recreational areas proposed for inclusion in the National Park System; to determine the boundaries of proposed areas; to recommend changes in existing park area boundaries as needed; and to make recommendations concerning the designation of wilderness areas within the parks. Assistance is provided other Federal agencies, the States, and their political subdivisions, upon request, in general development planning, site planning, consultation on design, construction, operational matters, and interpretive planning, and guidance in protection and preservation of historical and archeological values on lands involved. Staff direction and coordination is provided for the interpretive programs of all units of the National Park System. Studies and investigations are carried out leading to establishment and acquisition of rights to sources of water supply, and technical assistance is provided in acquiring lands and in solving problems relating to both normal and adverse uses made of the parklands. The Service participates in the negotiation of agreements with State and local government agencies for recreation administration on lands developed with Federal funds, conducts archeological investigations and salvage programs primarily in areas threatened by inundation through reservoir construction, and administers a program which gives formal recognition to natural landmarks of national significance.

1. Buildings, utilities, and other facilities.—The 1969 program is designed to continue the provision of essential facilities to meet visitor requirements in the older park areas and to initiate minimum development in newly authorized areas. A summary of the 1969 program by major type of construction follows (in thousands of dollars):

Camping and picnicking facilities.....	668
Public service and administrative units.....	4,002
Utilities.....	5,742
Employee housing.....	70
Total.....	13,389

2. Acquisition of lands and water rights.—Performance for 1968 contemplates completion of land acquisition authorized under this item in 1965 and prior fiscal year appropriations, with the exception of $45 thousand included in the 1968 appropriation for the East Glacier Airport, Mont. The current land acquisition program is included in the budget of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation under authority of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965.

Rights to water must be obtained, frequently by purchase in many areas, for use of visitors and employees, and for fire protection.

4. Parkways, and 5. Roads and trails.—The costs scheduled under these activities are against carryover balances of prior appropriations. The program authorized by title 23, United States Code, is obligated against the contract authority provided by that title and is shown under the "Parkway and road construction (liquidation of contract authorization)" appropriation.

6. Undistributed costs.—These costs represent end-of-year variations in clearing accounts involving operations such as automotive shops, stores, corrals, and facilitating services. The costs are distributed to the various activities served based on predetermined rates. Such rates are studied and adjusted at least once annually to provide for adequate operations.

WATER AND POWER DEVELOPMENTBUREAU OF RECLAMATION

The Bureau plans, constructs, and operates facilities to irrigate lands, furnish municipal and industrial or other water supplies, and develop related hydroelectric power and flood control in the 17 Western States and Hawaii.

Appropriations to the Bureau are made from the general fund and special funds. The special funds are (a) the Reclamation fund, largely derived from certain irrigation and power revenue; receipts from the sale, lease, and rental of public lands; and certain oil and mineral revenue; (b) the Colorado River Dam fund, derived from the revenue of the Boulder Canyon project; and (c) the Colorado River development fund, derived from transfers of money from the Colorado River Dam fund. The 1969 estimates are summarized by source, as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Appropriation title	Estimate of appropriation	General fund	Reclamation fund	Colorado River Dam fund	Colorado River development fund	Other
General investigations	$16,877	$1,954	$14,423	----	500	-

Total	292,080	104,686	181,491	5,398	500	5

The total appropriation request of $292.1 million represents a decrease of $25.6 million compared with the current year appropriations and a decrease of $37.3 million compared with the preceding year.

General and special funds:

For carrying out the functions of the Bureau of Reclamation as provided in the Federal reclamation laws (Act of June 17, 1902, 32 Stat. 388, and Acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto) and other Acts applicable to that Bureau, as follows:

GENERAL INVESTIGATIONS

For engineering and economic investigations of proposed Federal reclamation projects and studies of water conservation and development plans and activities preliminary to the reconstruction, rehabilitation and betterment, financial adjustment, or extension of existing projects, [including not to exceed $450,000 for investigations of projects in Alaska,] to remain available until expended, [$16,523,000] $16,877,000, of which [$13,058,000] $14,423,000 shall be derived from the reclamation fund and $500,000 shall be derived from the Colorado River development fund: Provided, That none of this appropriation shall be used for more than one-half of the cost of an investigation requested by a State, municipality, or other interest: Provided further, That [$400,000] $354,000 of this appropriation shall be transferred to the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife for studies, investigations, and reports thereon as required by the Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 563-565) to provide that wildlife conservation shall receive equal consideration and be coordinated with other features of water-resource development programs of the Bureau of Reclamation. (Public Works and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1968; legislation pending in Congress.)

The program consists of advance planning, preconstruction activities and construction of authorized projects, and rehabilitation of existing facilities. Investigations for units of the Missouri River Basin are included under that project.

Work will be underway in 1969 on 29 projects and 18 units and divisions of the Missouri River Basin project. Construction will be started on one project with an estimated cost of $13 million. One project and one unit of the Missouri River Basin project will be completed in 1969. The program also includes rehabilitation and betterment work on eight projects. During the year, facilities will be completed to supply water to 114,400 acres of land and to provide 43,700 acre-feet of water annually for municipal and industrial use.

The following workload table summarizes the program goals and accomplishments:

The Bureau operates and maintains the power-generation and transmission facilities, and generally the storage dams and reservoirs, of completed projects. Where necessary, irrigation works are operated and maintained until the water users are able to undertake the responsibilities. In 1969, a total of 37 projects, project areas or divisions of projects will be operated and maintained for irrigation, power, municipal and industrial water supplies, and other benefits with funds made available under this appropriation. The Fort Peck project revolving fund finances the operation and maintenance of project power facilities physically integrated with the Missouri River Basin project.

Provision is also made for flood control operations on certain projects, soil and moisture conservation operations on public lands under jurisdiction of the Bureau, the Colorado River front work and levee system program, negotiation and administration of water marketing contracts on Corps of Engineers' projects in California, marketing of power from the Corps of Engineers' powerplants on the Missouri River Basin project and from the International Boundary and Water Commission's powerplant in Texas, examination of existing structures, and for purchase power and wheeling.

Fiscal year:	Energy sales (millions of kw. hrs.)	Income from energy sales (thousands)
1967 (actual).....	38,378	$110,630
1968 (estimate).....	38,232	108,928
1969 (estimate).....	39,092	112,974

The above sales data for 1967 includes $21.5 million in revenues associated with 15.7 billion kilowatt-hours of energy from Reclamation powerplants for which Bonneville Power Administration is the marketing agent. Sales data for the Upper Colorado River Storage project are not included in this statement.

Commercial power is sold to wholesale customers such as municipalities, Rural Electrification Administration-financed cooperatives, private utilities, and other Government agencies. These revenues are deposited in the reclamation fund, the Colorado River Dam fund, the general fund and the Fort Peck revolving fund.

The programs include $6,367,000 in 1969 for the purchase of power and wheeling. A net billing procedure for certain of these power transactions between the Federal Government and non-Federal utilities precludes the need for an additional $3,329,000 for this purpose in 1969.

This appropriation from the general fund provides for loans to non-Federal organizations for construction and rehabilitation of distribution systems and for loans and grants to enable non-Federal organizations to construct small irrigation projects. Repayments of these loans will be deposited in the reclamation fund.

1. Distribution systems.—Loans are made to irrigation districts for construction of distribution systems on authorized Federal reclamation projects. Work will continue on one project in 1969.

2. Small projects.—Loans and grants of not more than $6.5 million are made to non-Federal agencies for construction of small projects. Funds will be provided in 1969 to continue work on seven projects. Of these, four projects are scheduled to be completed.

These schedules also reflect Office of Emergency Planning directed nonreimbursable emergency repair work under provisions of Public Law 81-875. The emergency fund was selected as the appropriation to account for all OEP directed disaster relief work. This work has been financed from available emergency funds, reimbursements from OEP, and by transfers from other appropriations of the Bureau of Reclamation under authority of section 201 of the 1965 Public Works Appropriation Act.

Under this appropriation the Secretary investigates, plans, constructs, operates, and maintains recreational and fish and wildlife facilities in connection with the development of the Colorado River Storage project and participating projects.

1. Recreational facilities.—Work will be initiated at one reservoir and continued at two reservoirs in 1969. One reservoir will be operated under interim management until such time as an agreement can be made for its operation by a Federal, State, or local agency.

2. Fish and wildlife facilities.—Work will be conducted at five sites in 1969, including two national fish hatcheries and a national wildlife refuge.

Construction will be started on the Bottle Hollow reservoir located on the Uintah-Uray Reservation, Utah. This activity has been assigned to the Bureau of Reclamation as constructing agency for the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

SPECIAL FUNDS

Sums herein referred to as being derived from the reclamation fund, the Colorado River Dam fund, or the Colorado River development fund, are appropriated from the special funds in the Treasury created by the Act of June 17, 1902 (43 U.S.C. 391), the Act of December 21, 1928 (43 U.S.C. 617a), and the Act of July 19, 1940 (43 U.S.C. 618a), respectively. Such sums shall be transferred, upon request of the Secretary, to be merged with and expended under the heads herein specified; and the unexpended balances of sums transferred for expenditure under the heads "Operation and Maintenance" and "General Administrative Expenses" shall revert and be credited to the special fund from which derived. (Public Works and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1968.)

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Appropriations to the Bureau of Reclamation shall be available for purchase of not to exceed [twenty-six] forty-five passenger motor vehicles for replacement only; purchase of two aircraft [for replacement only]; payment of claims for damage to or loss of property, personal injury, or death arising out of activities of the Bureau of Reclamation; payment, except as otherwise provided for, of compensation and expense of persons on the rolls of the Bureau of Reclamation appointed as authorized by law to represent the United States in the negotiation and administration of interstate compacts without reimbursement or return under the reclamation laws; rewards for information or evidence concerning violations of law involving property under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Reclamation; performance of the functions specified under the head "Operation and Maintenance Administration", Bureau of Reclamation, in the Interior Department Appropriation Act, 1945; preparation and dissemination of useful information including recordings, photographs, and photographic prints; and studies of recreational uses of reservoir areas, and investigation and recovery of archeological and paleontological remains in such areas in the same manner as provided for in the Act of August 21, 1935 (16 U.S.C. 461-467): Provided, That no part of any appropriation made herein shall be available pursuant to the Act of April 19, 1945 (43 U.S.C. 377), for expenses other than those incurred on behalf of specific reclamation projects except "General Administrative Expenses" and amounts provided for reconnaissance, basin surveys, and general engineering and research under the head "General Investigations".

Allotments to the Missouri River Basin project from the appropriation under the head "Construction and Rehabilitation" shall be available additionally for said project for those functions of the Bureau of Reclamation provided for under the head "General Investigations" (but this authorization shall not preclude use of the appropriation under said head within that area), and for the continuation of investigations by agencies of the Department on a general plan for the development of the Missouri River Basin. Such allotments may be expended through or in cooperation with State and other Federal agencies, and advances to such agencies are hereby authorized.

Sums appropriated herein which are expended in the performance of reimbursable functions of the Bureau of Reclamation shall be returnable to the extent and in the manner provided by law.

No part of any appropriation for the Bureau of Reclamation, contained in this Act or in any prior Act, which represents amounts earned under the terms of a contract but remaining unpaid, shall be obligated for any other purpose, regardless of when such amounts are to be paid: Provided, That the incurring of any obligation prohibited by this paragraph shall be deemed a violation of section 3679 of the Revised Statutes, as amended (31 U.S.C. 665).

No funds appropriated to the Bureau of Reclamation for operation and maintenance, except those derived from advances by water users, shall be used for the particular benefits of lands (a) within the boundaries of an irrigation district, (b) of any member of a water users' organization, or (c) of any individual when such district, organization, or individual is in arrears for more than twelve months in the payment of charges due under a contract entered into with the United States pursuant to laws administered by the Bureau of Reclamation.

Not to exceed $225,000 may be expended from the appropriation "Construction and rehabilitation" for work by force account on any one project or Missouri River Basin unit and then only when such work is unsuitable for contract or no acceptable bid has been received and, other than otherwise provided in this paragraph or as may be necessary to meet local emergencies, not to exceed 12 per centum of the construction allotment for any project from the appropriation "Construction and rehabilitation" contained in this Act shall be available for construction work by force account: Provided, That this paragraph shall not apply to work performed under the Rehabilitation and Betterment Act of 1949 (63 Stat. 724). (Public Works and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1968.)

UPPER COLORADO RIVER STORAGE PROJECT

For the Upper Colorado River Storage Project, as authorized by the Act of April 11, 1956 (43 U.S.C. 620d), to remain available until expended, [$41,000,000] $25,673,000, of which [$38,250,000] $23,000,000 shall be available for the "Upper Colorado River Basin Fund", authorized by section 5 of said Act of April 11, 1956, and [$2,750,000] $2,673,000 shall be available for construction, operation and maintenance of recreational and fish and wildlife facilities authorized by section 8 thereof, and may be expended by bureaus of the Department through or in cooperation with State or other Federal agencies, and advances to such Federal agencies are hereby authorized: Provided, That no part of the funds herein appropriated shall be available for construction or operation of facilities to prevent waters of Lake Powell from entering any national monument. (Public Works and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1968.)

Appropriations made for the Upper Colorado River storage project include amounts for the Upper Colorado River Basin fund which are reimbursable, except for costs allocated to nonreimbursable purposes, and for the recreational and fish and wildlife facilities, which are not reimbursable under the terms of the law.

The fund defrays the cost of advance planning, construction, operation, and maintenance of the Colorado River storage project and participating projects, a comprehensive basinwide development which will make possible the control and utilization of the water resources of the Upper Colorado River Basin. The storage project will regulate and conserve the flows of the Colorado River and its major tributaries through holdover storage in large reservoirs, permitting increased consumptive use of water in the upper basin as well as the production of hydroelectric power. Excess revenue from the sale of power will be applied to repayment of costs allocated to irrigation which are beyond the ability of the water users to repay. The participating projects consist of power, irrigation, and municipal and industrial water supply developments.

Construction costs of the storage project and participating projects are financed through appropriations to the fund. Project revenue will be credited to the fund and without further appropriation will be available to cover costs of operation, maintenance, replacements of, and emergency expenditures for, all facilities of the project and with certain limitations, of the participating projects. Revenue in excess of these costs will be utilized to repay project costs allocated to power, municipal and industrial water supply, and irrigation.

Budget program—1. Advance planning.—Funds for this activity in 1969 will provide for the continuation of studies on the Central Utah, Savery-Pot Hook, and Fruitland Mesa participating projects.

2. Colorado River storage project.—Construction will be underway on one unit and on the Transmission division.

3. Participating projects.—Work will continue in 1969 on four participating projects.

4. Drainage and minor construction.—This activity will fund work in 1969 on five participating projects and two units of the Colorado River storage project which have been substantially completed, but which require additional funds for miscellaneous finishing activities and drainage construction. Of the above, construction is scheduled to be completed on the Navajo unit of the storage project and on the Paonia participating project.

Operation and maintenance program.—The Bureau of Reclamation operates and maintains four units of the Colorado River storage project and the power generation and transmission facilities with revenues from the sale of energy and water. The Emery County participating project is operated and maintained with funds advanced by the water users and power operations of the Seedskaadee participating project and quality of water studies will be financed from operating revenues.

Financing.—The 1969 programs for advance planning and construction of the storage and participating projects will be financed by appropriations to the fund. The operation and maintenance program in 1969 will be financed from project revenues and by funds advanced by the water users. Nonreimbursable operation and maintenance will be financed by revenues, and the repayable debt of the storage project and participating projects will be reduced by this amount.

Operating results and financial condition.—Budget expenditures will decrease to $30 million in 1969 from $40 million in 1968. The total equity of the Government in the fund is expected to reach $764 million by the end of 1969.

The increases in estimated net operating income in 1968 and 1969 arise almost entirely from increasing revenues partially offset by increases in operating expenses and in interest on the investment payable to the U.S. Treasury.

This fund defrays the expense of operating the power-generation and transmission facilities of the Fort Peck project, Corps of Engineers—Civil, and emergency expenses to insure continuous operation (16 U.S.C. 833).

Budget program.—Decrease in funded program costs in 1969 from 1968 is due mainly to reduced requirements for painting penstocks and surge tanks and completion of other minor work. This reduction is partially offset by increased cost of operation and maintenance of Fort Peck powerplant.

Financing.—The operation of the Fort Peck project power and transmission facilities is financed by this fund. The capital outlays for transmission facilities by advances from the appropriation Construction and rehabilitation have been completed.

Operating results.—Net income is estimated at $1,059 thousand for 1969, an increase over the current year. Earnings in excess of current operating needs are retained so as to maintain a continuing emergency fund of $500 thousand. The balance is paid into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts toward amortizing with interest that part of the Government investment allocated to power generation and transmission. Such payments totaled $2.5 million in 1967 and are estimated at $1.1 million in 1968 and $1.4 million in 1969.

The Administration markets electric power produced at 31 Federal hydroelectric generating plants in service or under construction, and wheels and exchanges power for certain non-Federal utilities in the Pacific Northwest.

Projects in operation have an installed capacity of 7,318,150 kilowatts. Eight projects and five additions to projects which are under construction will have a total installed capacity of 8,485 thousand kilowatts.

The transmission facilities program also will enable the Administration to wheel and exchange power over the Federal grid from the non-Federal Rocky Reach Dam and from new non-Federal thermal generating plants. The estimated amounts of peak generating capacity on the Federal system are as follows (in thousands of kilowatts):

	July 1, 1968	July 1, 1978
Federal projects	8,540	17,900
Power wheeled and exchanged for non-Federal utilities	5,217	12,073
Total	13,757	29,973

CONSTRUCTION—continued

System construction.—The 1969 estimates will allow continued work on transmission facilities initiated in prior years and will provide for a start of construction on new transmission and substation capacity. These facilities are needed to carry power to load centers from power generating installations scheduled to be in operation by June 1975.

Funds appropriated in 1966 are available for planning an extra-high voltage transmission line from western Montana to southern Idaho, if a wheeling agreement with non-Federal utilities cannot be reached. No specific estimate for 1969 construction of the transmission line is included in this budget pending final determinations as required by 1968 appropriation action.

This program provides for the operation and maintenance of the Administration's high-voltage electric grid system, and for commercial and administrative expenses in marketing wholesale electric power from Federal dams, and in wheeling power from non-Federal generating facilities in the Pacific Northwest and over interregional tie lines.

1. System operation and maintenance.—This activity consists of the scheduling and dispatching of power; the operation of substations, the maintenance of transmission lines, substations, and other facilities; power requirements and marketing studies; planning and integration of power resources; and system engineering.

Transmission facilities of the Administration are expanded as increased generating capacity becomes available. The system will be operated and maintained at a level which will insure safe operation and provide a reliable grade of service to customers.

The following table shows the rising trend of several of the more important indexes of the operation and maintenance activity:

3. Power contracts and rates.—This activity provides for the negotiation of power sales and wheeling contracts, the billing and servicing of these contracts, the review of resale rates, the development of service plans, and the establishment of wholesale rate schedules. Receipts which are deposited in the Treasury amounted to $99.7 million in 1967, and are estimated at $110.6 and $120.4 million for 1968 and 1969, respectively.

The Administration markets power generated at Corps of Engineers—Civil hydroelectric generating plants in a 10-State area of the Southeast. Deliveries are made by means of transmission facilities owned by others. There are 14 projects now in operation. Projects in operation have an installed capacity of 1,807 thousand kilowatts, and 7 projects are under construction with a total installed capacity of 655,375 kilowatts.

1. System operation and maintenance.—Provision is made for investigation and planning of proposed water resources projects; scheduling and dispatching power generation; scheduling storage and release of water; administering contractual operation requirements; and determining methods of operating generating plants individually and in coordination with others to obtain maximum utilization of resources.

2. Purchase of energy and wheeling charges.—Provision is made for the payment of wheeling fees and for the purchase of firming energy in connection with disposal of power under contracts with utility companies.

3. Power contracts and rates.—Provision is made for negotiation and administration of power contracts, collection of revenue, development of wholesale power rates, and determination of adequate provisions for the amortization of the power investment. Receipts which were deposited in the Treasury amounted to $23,062,594 in 1967 and are estimated at $27,200 thousand for 1968 and $26,900 thousand for 1969.

4. General administration.—Provision is made for the agency's executive direction and administrative services.

System construction.—The 1969 construction program includes funds to continue or complete the construction of projects started in prior years; to start construction on new transmission and substation capacity required to meet additional system generation and service requirements of power customers; and to provide for additional metering, relay and communications equipment and general plant.

The 1968 budget included funds for initiating construction of a line from Neosho, Mo., to a point near Kansas City, Kans. The 1968 budget also included funds to initiate construction of a line through central and southwestern Arkansas and southeastern Oklahoma. In lieu of this, pursuant to a congressional directive, negotiations are continuing with local utilities in an attempt to conclude agreements to accomplish satisfactory wheeling of power contracts. Results of these negotiations will be reported to the Congress at an early date. If satisfactory contractual agreements cannot be obtained, consideration will be given to Federal construction of the transmission lines.

The Administration is responsible for marketing of power produced at 23 Corps of Engineers—Civil hydroelectric generating plants in the Southwest. Projects in operation have an installed capacity of 1,433,500 kilowatts and 11 projects are under construction with a total installed capacity of 697,200 kilowatts.

This fund, accumulated from power receipts, is available permanently for emergency expenses necessary to insure continuity of service. It is also available in such amounts as may be approved annually in appropriation acts to cover costs in connection with the purchase of electric power and rentals for use of facilities for transmission and distribution of power. Electric power is purchased from private utilities and generating and transmission cooperatives. Power is transmitted to customers through wheeling arrangements with private utilities, and through use of transmission capacity in facilities owned by generating and transmission cooperatives (16 U.S.C. 825s-1).

This program finances research on and development of low-cost processes for converting saline water to fresh water in quality suitable for municipal, industrial, and agricultural use.

1. Research and development.—Both basic and applied research, engineering and development, and evaluation work are accomplished by means of contracts or grants to Federal or non-Federal agencies, institutions, commercial organizations, and consultants.

2. Construction, operation, and maintenance.—This activity provides for the design, construction, acquisition, operation, maintenance, and modification of saline water conversion test bed plants, facilities, and modules to determine the practical application of the conversion processes under development.

3. Administration and coordination.—This activity provides for the necessary planning, supervision, and administration of the saline water conversion program.

02 Out of prior authorizations.....		18,000	56,000

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1966, $3,411 thousand (1967 adjustment, $4 thousand); 1967, $9,054 thousand; 1968, $10,958 thousand; 1969, $12,013 thousand.

1. Grants.—(a) Research and development.—Grants and, to some extent, contracts are made to public and private agencies, institutions, and individuals for research and for field investigations and studies of an applied nature. Their purpose is to test and illustrate the applicability of research findings and newly developed techniques to problems of water pollution and particularly those related to combined sewer problems, advanced waste treatment, water purification, and joint treatment of municipal wastes and industrial waste pollution problems. Approximately 380 grants and contracts will be supported in 1969 as compared to 430 in 1968 and 365 in 1967.

(b) Training.—Grants are made to colleges, universities, and other institutions to expand training of manpower required in the field of water pollution control. Fellowships are also awarded to support individual scientists and engineers in water pollution control research. In 1968 and 1969, 181 grants and fellowships will be awarded as compared to 174 in 1967.

(c) State and interstate agency programs.—Grants are made to States and interstate agencies for active participation in water pollution control programs.

(d) Comprehensive basin planning.—Grants will be provided to help finance the administrative expenses of agencies established and adequately represented by State, interstate, local, or international interests, to develop effective comprehensive water quality control and abatement plans for river basins.

2. Direct operations.—(a) Comprehensive planning, management, and assistance.—This includes development and assistance in comprehensive river basin planning, development of water quality standards, comprehensive study of estuaries; technical assistance to other Federal agencies, States, and interstate agencies, local communities and industry; pollution surveillance; training; economic and manpower evaluation of water pollution control activities; and control of pollution from Federal installations. The funds provide for generally expanding activities in these areas.

(b) Research and development.—The 1969 increase will permit accelerating efforts in water pollution control laboratories, initiating field studies or demonstrations and providing for 75 to 150 contracts. It also provides for technical management for grants and contracts.

(c) Regulation and enforcement.—The estimate provides for enforcement activities when established water quality standards are violated.

(d) Construction grants administration.—(See entry under Construction grants for waste treatment works.)

1. Departmental direction.—The Office of the Secretary, Under Secretary, and the Office of Information provide top departmental direction and contact with the public. The Office for Equal Opportunity provides departmental administration of the equal opportunity program.

2. Program direction and coordination.—Five assistant secretaries and the Program Support Staff assist the Secretary on matters of policy for promoting the domestic welfare and the conservation and development of the country's resources.

3. Administrative management.—Under the direction of the Assistant Secretary for Administration, financial management, budget, management improvement, property management, personnel, administrative services, inspection, investigation, internal audit, and security operations are carried on.

4. Commissioner of Fish and Wildlife.—The Office of the Commissioner is responsible for general supervision and coordination of Fish and Wildlife Service activities.

5. Lower Colorado River Land Use Office.—Administers functions and programs of the Lower Colorado River land use plan with respect to lands (exclusive of refugees administered by the Fish and Wildlife Service and project operation, protection, and security zones around dams and reclamation construction areas administered by the Bureau of Reclamation) bordering on the Lower Colorado River from Davis Dam to the International Boundary which have been acquired or withdrawn for reclamation purposes or otherwise fall within the area encompassed by the plan. This involves negotiation, execution, and administration of leases, the administration of recreation activities prior to leasing, the special permit program on the lands and coordination with plans, programs, or activities of bureaus that relate to or affect the plan.

6. Natural Resources Library.—Provides library services and information necessary to the Department of the Interior in carrying out its role as the natural resources agency of the Federal Government. This includes, in addition to the Washington area, over 1,600 field installations.

7. General services.—Printing and binding, telephone, and health services are provided under this activity.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1966, $1,144 thousand (1967 adjustments, -$3 thousand); 1967, $1,881 thousand; 1968, $3,381 thousand; 1969, $3,381 thousand.

The objective of this program is to stimulate, sponsor, provide for, and supplement present programs for the conduct of research, investigations, experiments, and the training of scientists in the fields of water and of resources which affect water, in order to assist in assuring the Nation at all times of a supply of water sufficient in quantity and quality to meet the requirements of its expanding population.

1. Assistance to States for institutes.—This activity provides for specific grants to all 50 States and Puerto Rico for assistance in carrying on the work of a competent and qualified water resources research institute at one college or university in each State. The function of such institute is to conduct research, investigations, and experiments of either a basic or practical nature, or both, in relation to water resources and to provide for the training of scientists through such research, investigations, and experiments. States may elect to use their grants in support of regional institutes in which several States participate.

2. Matching grants to institutes.—This activity provides for grants to match, on a dollar-for-dollar basis, funds made available to institutes by States or other non-Federal sources to meet the necessary expenses of specific water resources research projects which could not otherwise be undertaken.

3. Additional water research.—This activity provides for grants to and contracts and matching or other arrangements with educational institutions, private foundations or other institutions, with private firms and individuals whose training, experience, and qualifications are adequate for the conduct of water research projects, and with local, State, and Federal Government agencies to undertake research into any aspects of water problems related to the mission of the Department of the Interior which are deemed desirable and which are not otherwise being studied.

4. Scientific information center.—This activity provides for the operation of a water resources scientific information center. The objectives of center operations are to be responsive to the water resources scientific information needs of Federal water resources organizations, to avoid replication of research, and to improve communications and coordination of efforts among all those engaged in federally sponsored water-related research.

5. Administration.—This activity provides for the administration of the Water Resources Research Act including the prescribing of rules and regulations; review and appraisal of institute programs and research proposals, making of allotments, contracts, and grants; establishment and maintenance of cooperation and coordination among the centers and between the centers and Federal and other organizations concerned with water resources.

Operating results and financial condition.—In 1968 the corporation will liquidate its remaining activities including disposal of properties on St. Thomas which it has managed for the Department of Defense.

The accumulated deficit of $227 thousand has been written off in accordance with the provisions of the Virgin Islands Corporation Act (72 Stat. 1759).

All current receivables mortgages and long-term accounts at a total of $11,180 thousand will be transferred on June 30, 1968 to the Secretary of the Interior with the assistance of the Administrator of General Services Administration for collection and deposit in the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts. The analysis is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Current accounts.....	$799
Mortgages receivable.....	10,268
Long-term accounts.....	113

The cash balance of $704 thousand will also be returned to the Treasury.

These transfers aggregating to $11,884 thousand will offset the Government equity and completely terminate all activities of the Corporation.

1. National Park Service, donations.—The Secretary of the Interior accepts and uses donated moneys for purposes of the National Park and Monument System (16 U.S.C. 6). Donations amounting to $354,837 were received from 106 contributors during 1967. It is estimated that $500 thousand will be received during each of the years 1968 and 1969.

2. Advances from District of Columbia, National Park Service.—The National Park Service develops, administers, operates, and maintains the portion of the National Capital Parks system within the District of Columbia; it provides protection for the system through the enforcement of laws and regulations by the U.S. Park Police.

3. Preservation, birthplace of Abraham Lincoln, National Park Service.—This fund consists of an endowment given by the Lincoln Farm Association, and the interest thereon is available for preservation of the Abraham Lincoln Birthplace National Historic Site, Ky. (16 U.S.C. 211, 212). The amount of $2,540 was appropriated in 1967.

4. National park trust fund.—The National Park Trust Fund Board holds and administers gifts of personal property for the benefit of, or in connection with, the National Park Service. Interest accruals or donations to the fund are used for current needs, or invested in U.S. Treasury bonds (16 U.S.C. 6a, 19). The amount of $33,085 was appropriated in 1967.

5. Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, contribution.—Pursuant to the act of May 17, 1954 (68 Stat. 98-100), as amended, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to construct upon the Jefferson National Expansion

Memorial National Historic Site, St. Louis, Mo., an appropriate national memorial to those persons who made possible the territorial expansion of the United States. Contributions are accepted from the city of St. Louis or other non-Federal sources in the ratio of $1 to each $3 of Federal appropriations.

1. Construction.—Various public and private utilities advance funds to provide facilities which are not provided by the Administration under its customer service policy. These facilities are of benefit to the Government as well as to the customers and serve to promote greater efficiency on the system, reduce loads on existing facilities, and improve service to customers. Also, non-Federal groups advance funds for relocating facilities of the Administration as required for highway construction and other purposes (50 Stat. 736).

Receipts in excess of expenditures will be deposited in the Treasury. The account will be budgeted on a net expenditure basis. Receipts are estimated to be $110,640 thousand in 1968 and $120,380 thousand in 1969.

SOUTHEASTERN POWER ADMINISTRATION FUND

It is proposed to establish in 1968 a Southeastern Power Administration revolving fund which will reflect the net cost of the power marketing program. Receipts in excess of expenditures will be deposited in the Treasury. The account will be budgeted on a net expenditure basis. Revenues are estimated to be $27,200 thousand in 1968 and $26,900 thousand in 1969.

SOUTHWESTERN POWER ADMINISTRATION FUND

It is proposed to establish a Southwestern Power Administration revolving fund which will reflect the net cost of the power marketing program. Receipts in excess of expenditures would be deposited in the Treasury. The account will be budgeted on a net expenditure basis. Revenues are estimated to be $18,047 thousand in 1968 and $17,907 thousand in 1969.

GENERAL PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

SEC. 101. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency reconstruction, replacement, or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities, or other facilities or equipment damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, storm, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted.

SEC. 102. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office) of any appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts included in the budget programs of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of forest or range fires on or threatening lands under jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior: Provided, That appropriations made in this title for fire suppression purposes shall be available for the payment of obligations incurred during the preceding fiscal year, and for reimbursement to other Federal agencies for destruction of vehicles, aircraft or other equipment in connection with their use for fire suppression purposes, such reimbursement to be credited to appropriations currently available at the time of receipt thereof.

SEC. 103. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for operation of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by the Act of June 30, 1932 (31 U.S.C. 686): Provided, That reimbursements for costs of supplies, materials and equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.

SEC. 104. Appropriations made to the Department of the Interior in this title or in the Public Works and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation [Appropriations] Act, [1968] 1969, shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, when authorized by the Secretary, in total amount not to exceed $300,000; hire, maintenance and operation of aircraft; hire of passenger motor vehicles; purchase of reprints; payment for telephone service in private residences in the field, when authorized under regulations approved by the Secretary; and the payment of dues, when authorized by the Secretary, for library membership in societies or associations which issue publications to members only or at a price to members lower than to subscribers who are not members.

SEC. 105. Appropriations available to the Department of the Interior for salaries and expenses shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902 [; 80 Stat. 299] and D.C. Code 4-204). (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1968.)

SEC. 201. Appropriations in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency reconstruction, replacement or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities, or other facilities or equipment damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, storm, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted.

SEC. 202. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office) of any appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts included in the budget programs of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of forest or range fires on or threatening lands under jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior.

SEC. 203. Appropriations in this title shall be available for operation of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by the Act of June 30, 1932 (31 U.S.C. 686): Provided, That reimbursements for costs of supplies, materials, and equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.

SEC. 204. No part of any funds made available by this Act to the Southwestern Power Administration may be made available to any other agency, bureau, or office for any purposes other than for services rendered pursuant to law to the Southwestern Power Administration. (Public Works and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1968.)

GENERAL PROVISIONS, RELATED AGENCIES

SEC. 202. The per diem rate paid from appropriations made available under this title for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109 or other law, shall not exceed [§88] $92. (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1968.)

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 301. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein. (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1968.)

Under the Law Enforcement Assistance Act of 1965 (LEAA), funds are awarded to public or private nonprofit agencies and institutions for (i) improving or enlarging programs and facilities to provide professional training and related education to State and local law enforcement, correctional, and crime control personnel, and (ii) projects designed to improve the capabilities, techniques, and practices of State and local agencies engaged in law enforcement, the administration of criminal justice, the correction of offenders, and the prevention and control of crime.

The review, processing, and monitoring of grant and contract awards made for the above purposes constitute the major part of the Department's activities under the above legislation. However, the act also contemplates that special studies will be made concerning law enforcement organization, techniques, and practices, or the prevention and control of crime, and that technical assistance will be rendered to State and local agencies in these matters. Information and materials relating to such studies and to the results and findings of projects supported under the act are also collected, evaluated, published, and disseminated for use by interested agencies.

The Service was established by title X of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, to provide assistance to communities in resolving disputes, disagreements and difficulties arising from discriminatory practices which disrupt or threaten to disrupt peaceful relations among citizens, and also where efforts are being made to eliminate disparities between groups, to achieve compliance with the act and to reduce and prevent racial disorders.

By law, the Service may assist communities upon request of local citizens or officials, or upon its own motion; Federal courts may also refer cases arising under title II public accommodations cases to the Service.

In endeavoring to create a climate of compliance and orderly progress, the Service seeks, encourages, and utilizes the cooperation of appropriate Federal, State, and local agencies, private and public groups or institutions, and individuals working to develop methods and programs for the peaceful resolution of racial disputes. Vital to this effort, is the CRS National Citizens Committee, appointed by the President, whose membership is pledged to equal opportunities and who work in close cooperation with the Service.

In carrying out the mandate of Congress, the Service must conduct its activities in confidence and without publicity, and the staff must hold confidential any information so acquired.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is the investigative branch of the Department of Justice and obtains evidence for use in civil litigation and prosecution of criminal violations of Federal law. It has primary responsibility for the internal security of the Nation. It assists all law enforcement agencies in training, identification, and technical matters.

The appropriation request for 1969 totals $206,695 thousand. This will provide an additional 613 full-year employees (78 agents and 535 clerks) when compared with the staff allowed under the appropriation for the current year. Ninety-six of these (58 agents and 38 clerks) are for assignment to the field to assist in the handling of civil rights work and other pressing investigative matters. The remaining 517 additional employees (20 agents and 497 clerks) are for assignment at the seat of government, the majority to be utilized to meet the heavy volume of name and fingerprint checkwork as well as scientific examinations, and to meet staffing needs of the expanding new National Crime Information Center.

1. Security and criminal investigations.—This activity includes the Bureau's investigative responsibilities, the coordination and maintenance of the data gathered and the maintenance of the Bureau's communications system. Data are disseminated to other Government agencies having an official interest in them. During 1967, the Bureau received 3,036,307 names for search through its files, up 25% over the prior year and a further substantial increase in name checkwork is anticipated.

Estimate:
1968	775,000
1969	780,000

2. Identification by fingerprints.—The Identification Division is the national repository of identification data based on fingerprint records. Fingerprints are acquired, classified, preserved and exchanged with other duly authorized law enforcement agencies and 6,974,179 sets of fingerprints were received for handling during 1967, an increase over the 1966 volume and a new high for any year since the time of World War II. The volume of fingerprint work is expected to increase further. Sets of fingerprints on file on July 1, 1967, totaled 184,156,455.

3. Criminal and scientific laboratory.—The laboratory provides technical and scientific assistance to the FBI and all duly constituted law-enforcement agencies and other Federal agencies which desire to avail themselves of the service. During 1967, scientific examinations totaled 330,516, a new all time high and an increase of 16% over the 1966 volume. The upward trend is expected to continue.

4. Training.—A Bureau-wide personnel training program is provided. The Bureau assists, upon request, in providing various types of training to local law-enforcement agencies.

5. General administration.—This activity encompasses all functions of an administrative character bearing upon Bureau operations, including a Bureau-wide inspectional service.

1. Construction.—At Leavenworth, the next-to-last phase of the multiyear renewal program begun in 1966 will be started. Major deficiencies in electrical distribution systems at Texarkana, Tallahassee, and Petersburg will be corrected as a part of continuing efforts to insure compliance with safety requirements and to meet increased needs for electrical capacity. Water pollution abatement measures will be undertaken at Lewisburg. The planned conversion of Texarkana to an institution for younger offenders will require modification to the physical plant; the first phase of this work will be undertaken in 1969 followed by a second and final phase in 1970. At Seagoville, the presently unreliable and inadequate water system will be rehabilitated. Completion of remodeling at Terminal Island, approved for 1968, will be undertaken in 1969. A large portion of the funds provided for this project will be utilized in 1968 for urgent requirements to enlarge and modernize hospital facilities at Springfield Mo.

2. Repairs and improvements.—The amount requested will accomplish major plant repairs. A substantial part of the work will be performed by inmate labor.

The Bureau of Prisons contracts with some 750 to 800 approved State and local jails to board Federal prisoners for short periods of time. Such periods occur before and during trial, during commitments for short sentences, and while awaiting transfer to Federal institutions after conviction. An average of 3,084 prisoners was boarded at an average cost of $4.38 per man-day in 1967.

A supplemental appropriation for 1968 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

This is a wholly owned Government corporation. A board of six directors appointed by the President controls its policies. Supervision is by the Director of the Bureau of Prisons who has jurisdiction over all industrial enterprises and vocational training programs in all Federal penal and correctional institutions.

Purpose and organization.—The corporation is authorized, under the Attorney General, to establish and operate industries in Federal penal and correctional institutions and disciplinary barracks (18 U.S.C. 4121-4128). Its purposes are to provide employment for inmates, provide maximum vocational training for qualified inmates in connection with regular institutional and industrial activities; and to operate a placement service to assist released inmates to secure jobs. Products manufactured by the inmates are sold only to other Government agencies and the penal institutions. Earnings from the sale of these products pay expenses of the corporation and have permitted payment of $67 million in dividends into the Treasury since January 1, 1935. The corporation anticipates paying a dividend of $4 million during 1968 and a dividend of $4 million in 1969, for a total of $75 million by June 30, 1969.

Budget program.—During 1967, the corporation operated 51 shops and factories at 23 locations. The chair factory at Chillicothe, Ohio, the garment factory at Seagoville, Tex., the glove factory at Terminal Island, Calif., and the furniture refinishing plant at Terre Haute, Ind., were closed. The canvas specialty facility was moved from Tallahassee, Fla., to Terre Haute, Ind.

During 1968, the print shop at Leavenworth, Kans., and the clothing factory at Terminal Island will be closed. An ADP enterprise will be started at Terminal Island. A new metal furniture factory will start operations at Marion, Ill. A new operation for the repair of missile cables will be started at Lompoc, Calif. This will bring the total shops and factories to 48 at 22 locations.

The following table indicates the scope of employment and training efforts in the total prison program:

are subject to annual appropriation limitations. Earnings in excess of operating requirements are paid into the U.S. Treasury. As of June 30, 1967, the cumulative earnings amounted to $108.9 million, of which $41.9 million had been retained as working capital and $67 million had been paid into the Treasury. Earnings are estimated to be $8.5 million in 1968 and $7.2 million in 1969.

The Office of Alien Property, which had administered the Government's interest in property seized or blocked under the Trading With the Enemy Act during World War II, was terminated as an organizational entity within the Civil Division on June 30, 1966.

Alien property matters remaining after June 30, 1966, will be dealt with by the Civil Division. They are not expected to require the full-time services of any employee. The funds requested in this statement are for the services of Civil Division personnel and related expenses required to discharge remaining alien property functions.

Seized property in the United States, of the governments or nationals of Germany and Japan, vested in the name of the Attorney General, is prepared for liquidation as soon as practicable (50 U.S.C. App.). At June 30, 1967, there had been transferred to the War Claims Fund $464.2 million. No additional transfers are contemplated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1968, but it is anticipated that $10 million will be transferred in the following year. In 1967, a total of $1.6 million in claims and litigation settlements was made from such property operations and it is expected that $2.3 million will be paid in 1968 and $43 million in 1969. Interest in vested property is estimated to be $60 million at June 30, 1968, and $6 million at June 30, 1969.

Property in the United States of the governments or nationals of Bulgaria, Hungary, and Rumania, seized pursuant to title II of the International Claims Settlement Act of 1949 (22 U.S.C. 1621), has been vested in the name of the Attorney General like property seized from the governments and nationals of Germany and Japan. The total amount vested and liquidated under the program was $26.6 million of which $25.6 million was covered into the Treasury for payment of war damages and nationalization claims asserted by U.S. nationals against Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania. The balance of the funds was used for the payment of the expenses of the Office, the payment of claims against the vested property and the settlement of litigation. During 1967, the program was terminated upon the transfer of the remaining vested funds into the Hungarian and Rumanian Claims Funds in the Treasury.

1. Training and allowance payments.—This activity provides for the direct program costs for occupational and basic education training programs to equip the Nation's unemployed and underemployed workers with skills that will enable them to participate in productive employment. Institutional training projects are conducted by State and local vocational education agencies and on-the-job training projects are conducted by employers and other organizations. This activity provides for the costs of conducting the training and for the payment of trainee allowances to those trainees who are heads of households or who meet other provisions of the act regarding eligibility for allowances. In 1969, projects are estimated to be approved for 274,700 persons, a substantial part of which will be served through the department's recently initiated Concentrated Employment Program (CEP). Part of the on-the-job training funds will be used to initiate a new thrust in involving private industry in the training and employment of the hard core unemployed. Employers will be reimbursed for the cost of providing the complete range of manpower and related services.

2. Program services.—This activity provides for service provided by the State employment security agencies in the overall development and administration of employment service activities including the identification of occupations in which shortages or potential demand exists, the selection, referral and placement of trainees, and the paying of trainee allowances. Overall supervision of the institutional program is provided by the State vocational education agencies. On-the-job project promotion, development, and supervision are also provided by co-operating State apprenticeship agencies and by employers, associations, and other organizations. It likewise provides for coordination of MDTA and other manpower programs through comprehensive planning and the collection of data to serve as a basis for these plans.

3. Federal institutional training service.—This activity provides for the program development and administration of the institutional training programs provided by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

1. Experimental, demonstration, and research programs.—

This activity provides for contractual program costs for experimental and demonstration and manpower research programs authorized under title I of the Manpower Development and Training Act, as amended.

Experimental, demonstration, developmental, and pilot projects are conducted by means of contracts and/or grants with public or private nonprofit organizations for the purpose of improving techniques and demonstrating the effectiveness of specialized methods in meeting the manpower, employment, and training problems of worker groups such as the long-term unemployed, disadvantaged youth, displaced older workers, the handicapped, members of minority groups, and other similar groups.

2. Planning, research, and evaluation.—This activity provides for the Federal administration of the planning, research, and evaluation activities of the Office of the Manpower Administrator in planning, developing and implementing a comprehensive manpower program. It provides leadership, coordination, and direction to the manpower research program. It also provides continuous review and appraisal of approved programs and identifies and develops solutions, through experimental and demonstration programs, for the special problems and needs of various groups of potential trainees.

3. Financial and management services.—This activity provides for administrative staff support to the Manpower Administrator in the achievement of an integrated, national manpower program. It furnishes administrative and staff support services in the budget, fiscal management, audit, administrative and management services, and provides centralized personnel services and contract services to all organizations of the Manpower Administration.

4. Executive direction.—This activity provides for the executive direction, supervision, and coordination of the manpower programs of the Department of Labor.

1. Training promotion and service to industry.—Private enterprise is assisted and encouraged to develop and conduct apprenticeship and industrial training programs which will help individual workers attain and improve skill competence and overcome disadvantages. Apprenticeship and training programs are promoted and established by direct contact at national and local levels with employers and unions, by use of informational media and promotional techniques, and by cooperation with State and community agencies concerned with manpower development. More than 3,200 apprenticeship and industrial training programs are initiated annually to provide training opportunities for new labor force entrants and skill-deficient workers. Technical assistance is provided to employers directly or through union-management committees. More than 275,000 apprentices and 31,000 journeymen and other workers participate annually. Research in training needs, methods, and results is conducted. Promotional aids and publications are prepared to support activities of the field staff. Cooperation is extended to State apprenticeship agencies. During 1968 and 1969 assistance to private enterprises located in ghettos and residents of ghettos will be increased through participation in the Concentrated Employment Program. Expansion of opportunities in apprenticeship for members of minority ethnic groups will be emphasized.

2. On-the-job training.—Section 204, title II, of the Manpower Development and Training Act is implemented by administration of an on-the-job training program with employers, associations, community and civic groups, and unions. Assistance will be provided in the operation of in-plant training programs to facilitate hiring of disadvantaged job applicants and upgrading skills of employees. Training programs are developed to meet specific needs for additional workers or skills. Contracts are negotiated to partially reimburse employers for training costs incurred as provided for under the Manpower Development and Training Act. Services of State apprenticeship agencies are utilized in achieving the objectives of the act. The agencies are reimbursed for expenses incurred in the development and administration of training programs.

1. Unemployment Insurance Service.—The Service's responsibilities are concerned with State unemployment insurance laws and related wage loss compensation plans, including unemployment compensation for Federal employees and ex-servicemen. The Service determines whether State plans and their administration conform to Federal law requirements; reviews State estimates of funds needed to administer the unemployment insurance program; and provides leadership and assistance to the States in improving legal structures, administration, and financial soundness of State reserves. In 1969, the Service will continue these functions at the 1968 level.

2. U.S. Employment Service.—The Service furnishes assistance and guidance to State agencies in the management of employment service offices to provide an effective and efficient manpower service for all workers and employers by providing (1) all activities related to identifying and reaching out to disadvantaged individuals not readily employable for a variety of reasons and providing the kinds of assistance necessary for them to become productive members of the work force and of our society; (2) specialized counseling, job development, and placement services to youth, older workers, handicapped, minority groups, and workers displaced by automation and technological change; (3) suitable counseling and placement services to veterans and stimulating employers to hire veterans; (4) counseling and testing services to assist both ready-to-work jobseekers and employers in meeting their employment needs; and (5) improving mobility of labor by guiding necessary shifts of workers between geographical areas and across occupational and industrial lines.

The Employment Service also provides occupational information and support services such as (1) the development of various forms of verbal, nonverbal, foreign language, and culturally unbiased occupational tests; (2) labor area information analyses; (3) estimates of area employment and the occupational characteristics of job opportunities; (4) occupational analyses for employers and unions; and (5) stimulation and support for community action to develop expanded job opportunities and to stabilize employment.

Special assistance is furnished to the Nation's agricultural workers and employers by (1) implementing special recruitment and farm placement programs to help unemployed and underemployed farmworkers achieve maximum employment, and to meet agriculture's needs for year-round and seasonal workers; (2) providing greater job continuity by maintaining and expanding interstate migratory routes; (3) providing assistance to local migratory committees for the extension of community services to migratory farmworkers and their families; (4) and investigating farm and nonfarm employment offered aliens seeking permanent entry into the United States under the Immigration and Nationality Act.

Services in 1969 will be provided at the 1968 level.

3. Administration and Management Service.—This Service provides or coordinates, as appropriate, leadership and assistance in overall administrative management functions within the Bureau and to affiliated employment security agencies. Assigned responsibilities include budgeting, allocating, and fiscal reporting activities. In addition, the activity maintains the nationwide statistical reporting and validation system which serves the needs of the Bureau and affiliated agencies for statistical data and economic research and analysis. The Service conducts evaluations of overall administration in affiliated agencies and assists in efforts to strengthen and improve their management functions, provides assistance to them in their personnel administration and staff training responsibilities, monitors their compliance with Federal merit system standards, and assists them in the application and utilization of automatic data processing facilities. For the Bureau, the activity provides overall planning, coordination, and general administration of assigned programs. Responsibilities include the direction and coordination of program and budget planning; issuance of policies and internal management procedures; review of budgetary needs and financial aspects of program and legislative proposals; budget allocation, execution, and control; and establishment and maintenance of effective working relations within the Department, with other Federal agencies, and with affiliated State employment security agencies. Also provided by this activity are centralized services and assistance in such functions as management studies, organization control, procedural coordination, automatic data processing, office services, and general business management.

The program increase in 1969 will provide the nationwide direction and coordination of implementation of a management information system, and employment security cost accounting system, and a uniform automatic data processing system of affiliated State agencies. These systems are intended to improve the capability of local, State and Federal offices to manage and evaluate the operations of the Employment Security System.

4. Manpower development and training activities.—The Bureau of Employment Security furnishes guidance and assistance to the States in the development, administration, and evaluation of a manpower program which provides: (1) payment of relocation assistance allowances to workers who have been forced to find employment in new areas; (2) payment of training, travel and subsistence training allowances to persons found in need of assistance during training conducted by Manpower Development and Training Activities; (3) unemployed and underemployed persons with basic educational and occupational training; (4) counseling and testing services to such persons prior to, during, and after completion of training in accordance with their needs; (5) specialized services for job seekers who require assistance in securing suitable employment, including youth, older workers, handicapped, minority groups, hard-core unemployed, and workers displaced by automation and technological change; (6) improved mobility of labor by guiding necessary shifts of workers between geographical areas and across occupational lines; (7) training needs surveys to determine program requirements relating to occupational characteristics of job opportunities; (8) placement services to assist trainees and employers to satisfy their respective employment needs; (9) stimulation and support for community action to develop expanded educational and job opportunities; and (10) formulation and preparation of fiscal standards procedures and statistics necessary for management and evaluation of the program. In 1969 activities under the Manpower Development and Training Act will continue to provide services to workers and employers. The Employment Service will emphasize human resources development nationwide and through increased involvement in the Concentrated Employment Program.

5. Farm labor contractor registration activities.—The Farm Labor Service provides policy, administrative directions and procedures for implementation of the act and the Secretary's regulations; issues interpretative bulletins and operating procedures; conducts field investigations to insure compliance with the provisions of the act and regulations; and when necessary, initiates cases against alleged violators of the provisions. In 1969, the Bureau will emphasize the compliance function under the act.

7. Admission and employment of immigrant aliens.—Under the provisions of 8 U.S.C. 1184, immigrants wishing to work will not be allowed to enter the country unless the Secretary of Labor has certified that "there are not sufficient workers in the United States who are able, willing, qualified, and available . . . , and the employment of such aliens will not adversely affect wages and working conditions of the workers in the United States similarly employed." In order to implement the Department's responsibilities, the Bureau of Employment Security will make recommendations and issuance or denial of certifications to all petitioners seeking third and sixth preferences, to visa applicants in nonpreference cases, and those from the Western Hemisphere that are not screened out by the consulates or Immigration and Naturalization Service offices. Department of Labor authority under the law will be used to stimulate full utilization of unemployed U.S. resident workers.

This fund established by the Employment Security Act of 1960 (74 Stat. 970) makes advances without fiscal year limitation to the Employment Security Administration Account in the Unemployment Trust Fund. The purpose of this fund is to finance the Federal and State administrative costs of the employment security programs on a repayable basis from the beginning of the fiscal year until the Federal unemployment tax receipts become available in February of the same fiscal year.

During 1967, the seventh year of operations, $278,742 thousand was advanced to the Employment Security Account and was repaid. During 1968, about $306,457 thousand of the fund will be used to finance the program until the Federal unemployment tax receipts are received during February 1968.

The estimated requirement for 1969 of $355,541 thousand is based on the estimated needs for 7 months of the fiscal year, until the FUTA collections are received during February 1969. For 1969 the estimated funds required from the revolving fund exceed the amount available in the revolving fund by $43 million. An appropriation for this amount to the Revolving Fund is therefore needed.

The fund will be needed until the Employment Security Administration Account to which the advances are made, accumulates a carryover balance of $250 million. Earnings (mainly comprised of interest) are retained with the fund to help meet future requirements.

This appropriation covers activities necessary to the administration and enforcement of the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959 (LMRDA), the Welfare and Pension Plans Disclosure Act (WPPDA), as amended; the several provisions of law respecting re-employment rights of veterans, reservists, and National Guardsmen on training duty; and to other functions required to sustain and carry out responsibilities of the Secretary of Labor in labor-management relations matters.

1. Labor-management relations services.—Assistance is provided to unions, employers, employees, and Federal agencies in meeting long-range, complex, and critical labor-management problems. Included are arrangements for special studies and analyses, guidance in identifying and utilizing available public and private services, and technical assistance in estimating and planning for economic and work force adjustments as they will affect labor-management relations. Federal action with regard to particular labor-management disputes is coordinated, requests of agencies and employee organization for nominations of arbitrators are processed, and the departments' responsibilities under Executive Order 10988 and the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, are carried out.

2. Labor-management policy development.—Recommendations are developed for the administrator and the Secretary with respect to appropriate policy for labor-management relations legislation, Executive orders, objectives for Federal programs affecting collective bargaining, and matters before the President's Advisory Committee on Labor-Management Policy. Studies are made of private policies affecting collective bargaining and of the performance of collective bargaining in relation to meeting current and prospective economic and social needs; labor-management relations research functions in the Department of Labor are coordinated and special studies are made of particular situations. Research programs pertaining to the LMRDA and the WPPDA are developed and executed.

3. Administration of reporting and disclosure laws.—This activity covers the administration and enforcement of the LMRDA and the WPPDA. Reporting forms and instructions are devised and reports from labor organizations, union officers and employees, employers and labor relations consultants, and welfare and pension plan administrators are examined for compliance with the acts with comprehensive analysis made of selected reports. Reports are made available for disclosure to the public. Interpretations and regulations pertaining to the acts are developed and promulgated, as are policies and standards for the conduct of elections. Technical assistance to further voluntary compliance, including clinics and workshops, publications, and visual aids is provided to those affected by the acts. Under the provisions of the acts, complaints alleging violations of the law are investigated and special investigations are conducted in areas where evidence exists of persistent or willful violations. Supervision is provided for the conduct of rerun elections of union officials held under court order or waiver.

4. Promotion of compliance and assistance to veterans.—

Assistance is provided veterans, reservists, and National Guardsmen on training duty to secure reinstatement with their preservice employers and other employment advantages to which they may be entitled, based on seniority accrued while in military service. Compliance is advanced by informing employers and labor organizations of their reemployment responsibilities. Specific complaints of ex-servicemen are investigated and if violation of law is apparent, litigation is recommended when voluntary compliance cannot be achieved.

1. Executive direction, planning, and evaluation.—The Office of the Administrator directs, supervises, and coordinates the Department's wage and labor standards program. It also coordinates the planning, research, evaluation, and budget activities of the Wage and Labor Standards Administration in developing and implementing a comprehensive wage and labor standards program.

2. Appeals from determinations of Federal employee claims.—The Employees' Compensation Appeals Board hears and decides appeals from decisions of the Bureau of Employees' Compensation and the Governor of the Canal Zone in cases arising under the Federal Employees' Compensation Act. The Board closed out 268 cases in 1967, held 37 hearings, and rendered 221 opinions.

3. Improving safety and other working conditions of wage earners.—The Bureau of Labor Standards assists and advises States on labor law administration and their adoption of appropriate labor legislation or codes. In 1967, 1,180 on-the-spot technical services were given to 41 State government agencies. The Bureau also administers the safety provisions of the Maritime Safety Act and certain Federal procurement acts. In addition, it provides educational and promotional assistance, engineering consultation and technical advice in all phases of occupational accident prevention to maritime and special industries, labor unions, and Federal agencies. During 1967, the Bureau conducted 25,278 safety inspections; gave 552 technical services to State agencies and unions and 684 to Federal agencies; and conducted 112,000 hours of safety training. User charge legislation will be proposed to recover the cost of the maritime safety program.

4. Promoting employment of the handicapped.—The President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped conducts a continuing program of public information and education to advance employment of the handicapped citizen and cooperates with all national groups interested in this field, including the Governors' Committees and 1,500 local committees.

5. Advancing opportunities and status of women.—The Women's Bureau seeks to enlarge economic, civil, and political rights and opportunities of women through its educational and promotional activities, its technical and advisory services, its staff work for the Interdepartmental Committee on the Status of Women and the Citizens' Advisory Council on the Status of Women; and its services to Governors' Commissions on the Status of Women, to other Government agencies, and to National, State, and local groups. Its programs are especially designed to advance the position of the 28.6 million women in the labor force, with special attention to the disadvantaged, through the promotion of improved working conditions, expanded job opportunities, better training, and improved vocational counseling and community services. Through information, technical and advisory programs, the Bureau also contributes to the advancement of the position of women in other lands. In 1967, the Bureau provided 14,371 technical and advisory services to women's organizations, State commissions, and a wide variety of government and private agencies; cosponsored 14 major conferences; and filled 42,006 requests for information.

6. Providing compensation for employees of the Federal Government and other persons covered by Federal workmen's compensation laws.—The Bureau of Employees' Compensation administers the Federal Employees' Compensation Act, the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, the Defense Bases Act, the War Risk Hazards Act, certain provisions of the War Claims Act, the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act, and the Non-appropriated Fund Instrumentalities Act. During 1967, 121,321 new injuries were reported under the Federal Employees' Compensation Act and 100,897 under the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act. User charge legislation will be proposed to cover the administrative cost of the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act.

The Wage and Hour Division obtains compliance with the minimum standards set by statute respecting wages, hours, and other conditions of employment in industries subject to the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), the McNamara-O'Hara Service Contract Act (MOSCA), the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act (PCA), and related laws. Enforcement responsibilities under the Davis-Bacon and related acts have also been delegated to the division.

1. Enforcement.—Information media and other means are used to inform employees and employers of their rights and responsibilities under the acts administered. With the significant changes resulting from the 1966 amendments to the FLSA, some 10 million pieces of informational material were printed for distribution to the public, and more than 2,300 speeches were made to groups of employees, employers, and other interested parties. Activity at approximately this level is expected to continue through 1969. Investigations are made to insure that employees receive the wages to which they are entitled, to aid employers in complying with the provisions of the acts, and to correct violations. During 1967, more than 58,000 establishments were investigated and agreements to comply in the future were obtained from employers found to be in violation. This represents more than $50 million in increased earnings on an annual basis for employees found underpaid. New programs are being planned to increase compliance with the acts in both urban slums and other areas where disadvantaged workers are concentrated. An additional 50 investigators are being requested to aid in obtaining compliance with the acts as an additional 1 million employees and 100,000 establishments will become subject to the standards of the FLSA in 1969. With these additional positions and expected productivity increases resulting from the use of new investigative procedures, it is estimated that a total of 75,000 investigations will be completed.

2. Wage determinations and regulations.—To prevent the curtailment of job opportunities, more than 19,000 certificates authorizing the employment of students, trainees, the handicapped, and other groups of workers at special minimum wage rates were issued under the FLSA. This was an increase of some 5,000 over the number made in 1966. With further changes in standards and with revisions in the regulations and procedures, it is anticipated that 27,000 certificates will be issued in 1969. Revision of existing regulations and interpretations and the promulgation of new ones, particularly to give effect to the 1966 FLSA amendments, are being carried out to aid the public in complying with the acts and are expected to continue at the present level of activity through 1969. During 1967, nearly 800 wage determinations setting wage rates and fringe benefit standards were issued under the MOSCA affecting over 4,000 Federal service contracts. It is anticipated that some 1,400 determinations will be issued in 1969. An omnibus determination was made under the PCA in 1967, and another will be made in 1968, raising the minimum wage standard for all employees subject to the PCA to at least the level provided for by the FLSA. Also under the FLSA, 14 industry committees met to consider rates for newly covered industries in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and American Samoa, and to provide for hardship review for previously covered industries which in the absence of such reviews would have been subject to automatic increases in standards. Altogether, 42 wage orders were issued affecting all of the covered industries in these areas. The biennial review program will be reinstated in 1969 with 22 committees scheduled to meet.

3. Research and legislative analysis.—Research is conducted on the effects of the wage, hour, equal pay, and child labor provisions of the FLSA, the MOSCA, and the PCA, and statistical data are developed and analyzed. Eight studies were published or substantially completed in 1967 dealing with the areas of new coverage under the 1966 FLSA amendments or with proposed areas of new legislative activity. Data are also collected and analyzed in the development of administrative policies and in the support of litigation activities. Efforts are currently being directed toward discovering the best ways to utilize the acts to help the disadvantaged.

3. Occupational employment statistics (mail questionnaires to industries and governments); number of different establishments reporting annually.....	29,000	29,000	42,000

2. Prices and cost of living.—The "Consumer Price Index" is published covering urban wage earners and clerical workers for the Nation as a whole, and for selected large cities. The "Wholesale Price Index" is issued monthly covering about 2,600 industrial and agricultural products in primary markets. Special analytical studies of price changes are undertaken and standard family budgets are prepared and priced.

In 1969 statistical measures of the price competitiveness of U.S. products in world markets will be developed.

² Each individual household is only surveyed every 6 months, but a sample is surveyed every month.

3. Wages and industrial relations.—Information is compiled on wages and salaries and fringe benefits, in major labor markets and industries. Monthly information is compiled on work stoppages and wage developments, and reports on employer expenditures on fringe benefits are issued. Studies are made of collective bargaining agreement provisions, trade union organization, and private welfare and pension plans.

For 1969, a program to collect information on labor management relations in Federal, State, and local governments will be initiated; and 9,000 establishments in non-manufacturing industries will be surveyed for general wage changes.

WORKLOAD STATISTICS (MAJOR ITEMS)Wages and industrial relations:

4. Productivity, technology, and growth.—Annual indexes of output per man-hour and analyses of productivity trends are provided. Studies are conducted on developments in automation and other technological changes with analysis of adjustments to such changes. Studies are made of labor requirements for selected types of construction. Research is conducted into problems of economic growth.

5. Foreign labor and trade.—Information, reports, and advisory services for policy and program work are provided on labor conditions in foreign countries, including prices, wages, employment, unemployment, unit labor costs, labor law, and labor standards. Research is conducted on the effects of international trade on U.S. employment.

6. Program staff services.—Policies are established for the maintenance of statistical standards and improvements of statistical methodology. Special economic reports are prepared for the Commissioner, the Secretary, the Council of Economic Advisers, and other Government agencies. The Bureau's research and report activities are coordinated; publications and releases are planned and edited; and a central inquiry service is maintained.

7. Administration and management services.—Bureau plans and policies are developed and the overall operation of the Bureau is administered.

This fund is available without fiscal year limitation and provides services on a centralized basis for the following department activities (5 U.S.C. 622a): (1) Communications, (2) supply service, (3) duplicating service, (4) visual exhibits, (5) accounting and payrolling, and (6) tabulating.

Budget program.—1. Communication services.—Consists of switchboard and telecommunications, mail and messenger, and office space services.

2. Central supply.—Consists of purchasing and distributing supplies including blank forms, equipment, and laboring service as required.

3. Duplicating services.—Consists of offset printing, including composing and layout, mimeographing, collating, and addressograph service. This activity also includes procurement of printing from the Government Printing Office and the procurement and distribution of congressional material.

4. Visual exhibits.—Consists of preparing displays for public information and furnishing photographic services to the various bureaus.

5. Accounts and payroll.—Consists of centralized payrolling, accounting and financial reporting for the department.

6. Central tabulating services.—Provides tabulating service for payroll and accounting functions, personnel and other statistical operations.

Operating results and financial conditions.—Services rendered are charged for at rates which return in full all expenses of operation, including a normal reserve for accrued annual leave and depreciation of equipment. The fund is reimbursed in advance by bureaus, offices, and agencies served.

MANPOWER ADMINISTRATION

BUREAU OF EMPLOYMENT SECURITY

LIMITATION ON GRANTS TO STATES FOR UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION AND EMPLOYMENT SERVICE ADMINISTRATION

For grants in accordance with the provisions of the Act of June 6, 1933, as amended (29 U.S.C. 49-49n), for carrying into effect section 602 of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, for grants to the States as authorized in title III of the Social Security Act, as amended (42 U.S.C. 501-503), including, upon the request of any State, the purchase of equipment, and the payment of rental for space made available to such State in lieu of grants for such purpose, and for expenses not otherwise provided for, necessary for carrying out title XV of the Social Security Act, as amended (68 Stat. 1130), [$556,932,000] $616,573,000 may be expended from the employment security administration account in the Unemployment trust fund, and of which $12,000,000 shall be available only to the extent necessary to meet increased costs of administration resulting from changes in a State law or increases in the number of claims filed and claims paid or increased salary costs resulting from changes in State salary compensation plans embracing employees of the State generally over those upon which the State's basic grant (or the allocation for the District of Columbia) was based, which increased costs of administration cannot be provided for by normal budgetary adjustments: Provided, That any portion of the funds granted to a State in the current fiscal year and not obligated by the State in that year shall be returned to the Treasury and credited to the account from which derived: Provided further, That such amounts as may be agreed upon by the Department of Labor and the Post Office Department shall be used for the payment, in such manner as said parties may jointly determine, of postage for the transmission of official mail matter in connection with the administration of unemployment compensation systems and employment services by States receiving grants herefrom.

Grants to States, next succeeding fiscal year: For making, after May 31 of the current fiscal year, payments to States under title III of the Social Security Act, as amended, and under the Act of June 6, 1933, as amended, for the first quarter of the next succeeding fiscal year, such sums as may be necessary, the obligations incurred and the expenditures made thereunder for payments under such title and under such Act of June 6, 1933, to be charged to the appropriation therefor for that fiscal year: Provided, That the payments made pursuant to this paragraph shall not exceed the amount obligated by the United States for such purposes for the fourth quarter of the current fiscal year. (29 U.S.C. 49-49n; 38 U.S.C. 2001-2014; 42 U.S.C. 501-503, 1101-1105, 1361-1371; Department of Labor Appropriation Act, 1968.)

1. Unemployment insurance service.—State employment security agencies pay unemployment compensation to unemployed workers eligible under State unemployment insurance laws and collect unemployment taxes from employers who are subject to State unemployment insurance laws. Unemployment benefits are also paid to unemployed Federal workers and ex-servicemen from funds provided under Federal appropriation. Federal grants in 1967 provided State administrative funds to collect over $2.9 billion in taxes to pay State benefits totaling almost $2 billion to approximately 4.5 million beneficiaries, and to pay $77.9 million in benefits to unemployed Federal employees and ex-servicemen.

2. Employment service.—The Federal-State employment service system is a nationwide network of nearly 2,100 local employment offices financed by Federal grants and administered by the State employment security agencies. The local offices provide a community manpower service for the areas served by developing the employability of disadvantaged persons; by obtaining jobs for those who are job-ready; by providing workers for employers having jobs to offer; by developing or carrying out programs designed to resolve the employment, unemployment, and manpower utilization problems of an area; and by providing special services to employers, individuals, and community agencies or groups requiring or seeking them. These functions are supplemented by counseling and testing services to assist applicants to obtain suitable jobs or to upgrade their skills through further training, by assisting employers in analyzing their skill requirements and in solving problems of recruitment and turnover, and by developing labor area information. Specialized services are offered to inexperienced and otherwise disadvantaged youth, particularly high school dropouts, and to others who are presently unsuited for available employment. Similarly, special services are offered to veterans, older workers, handicapped, and minority group jobseekers. These specialized services are grouped together under the Human Resources Development concept, and will be linked to the Concentrated Employment Program, a comprehensive effort of manpower development and supporting services within selected, compact, and clearly defined geographic areas.

Programs are carried on to aid communities to develop employment opportunities and to provide necessary employment services to workers and employers in areas where the establishment of full-time offices is not economically feasible. Various statistical and survey operations are carried out to assist employers, local offices, and other Government agencies in their considerations of manpower needs. The services outlined above are provided for both farm and nonfarm workers.

3. Administration and management.—State agency administrative staff provides leadership and direction for all employment security program activities in the State; conducts research on program needs, legislative proposals, and labor economics; develops and implements program plans; obtains, controls, and accounts for funds received as payments or grants; administers the statistical reporting program; reviews and evaluates program administration and operations in the State and local offices; performs the agency's personnel management functions, including the development and execution of training and career development programs; consults, advises, and cooperates with other agencies and groups in planning manpower utilization and development programs; and provides all administrative support services, such as data processing, property management, procurement, reproduction, supply, and mail and messenger services.

Staff resources in State employment security agencies will be so redirected and managed in 1969 as to permit significant improvements in management and evaluation. These improvements will include: the implementation of an automated reporting system; the installation of a State-based evaluation system; the installation of plans of service as a basis for planning and budgeting in the employment service and, to the extent applicable, in unemployment insurance activities; the implementation, in a number of States, of a cost-accounting system; and the further development of the application of automatic data processing technology to employment security operations in selected States.

4. Contingency fund.—This fund is provided to meet increases in administrative costs due to unforeseen increases in the number of claims filed for unemployment compensation, changes in State unemployment compensation laws, and for additional costs due to changes in State employee salary rates brought about by changes in State compensation plans embracing employees of the States, generally.

The financial transactions of the Federal-State and railroad unemployment insurance systems are made through the Unemployment trust fund. In the Federal-State system, benefit payments are made by each State, financed by special State payroll taxes. These tax receipts are deposited in the Unemployment trust fund and are invested in Government securities until needed for benefit payments. The expenses of State and Federal administration (including those of the Federal-State employment service), are paid from the fund out of revenue from the Federal unemployment tax, assessed on employers, of 0.4% of the first $3 thousand of wages.

Both the benefit payments and administrative expenses of the separate unemployment insurance program for railroad employees are paid from the Unemployment trust fund and receipts from the tax on wages of railroad employees are deposited in the fund to meet expenses.

On June 30, 1967, the cash balance of $10,504,370 was distributed as follows among the various accounts maintained in the fund (in thousands of dollars):

State unemployment trust accounts	10,052,138

The trust funds consist of amounts received from employers for the death of an employee where no person is entitled to compensation for such death and for fines and penalty payments. In 1967, receipts were $26 thousand and interest was $11 thousand (33 U.S.C. 908; 31 U.S.C. 725; 33 U.S.C. 944).

The trust funds are available for payments of additional compensation for second injuries. When a second injury results in a permanent partial disability combined with a previous disability, the employer provides compensation only for the disability caused by the subsequent injury. Compensation to supplement the employer's payment is provided from this fund. Payments are made for maintenance for employees undergoing vocational rehabilitation to enable them to return to remunerative occupations. Payments are made in cases where judgment against employers cannot be satisfied by reason of insolvency or other circumstances precluding payment and to provide medical, surgical, and other treatment in disability cases where there has been a default by insolvency of the employer. In addition, under the subactivity Administration of Rehabilitation, provision is made for the costs of necessary rehabilitation services not otherwise available to disabled longshoremen and harbor workers.

Actuarial computations for reserved liabilities to be paid from the trust fund presently exceeds security bonds and cash on hand. The amount of securities reflected on the program and financing schedule are for the Workmen's Compensation Act, within the District of Columbia and all available securities and cash for the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, as amended, will be expended in 1969 and the fund will be insolvent. Temporary funding for the 1969 activities in this area are to be provided for by direct appropriation to Bureau of Employees Compensation—salaries and expenses.

Legislation has been proposed in the 1967 amendments to the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Act to increase the amount of money to be paid into the special fund, section 44 of the act.

This estimate is for the funding of proposed extensions of labor mobility and placement assistance experimental programs for which authorization will expire on June 30, 1968.

1. Labor mobility demonstration program.—This program provides for assistance to meet relocation expenses, in the form of grants or loans, or both, only to involuntarily unemployed individuals who cannot reasonably be expected to secure full-time employment in the community in which they reside, have bona fide offers of employment (other than temporary or seasonal employment) and are deemed qualified to perform the work for which they are being employed.

2. Placement assistance (bonding).—This activity provides for payments to employers or institutions to cover losses incurred as a result of the dishonesty or infidelity by employees who have participated in federally assisted training or counseling programs. The employee must be qualified for but denied employment for reasons other than ability to perform. This includes difficulty in securing bonds for indemnifying their employers against loss from the infidelity, dishonesty, or default of such persons.

Reimbursement under proposed programs from non-Federal sources for the payment of administrative costs for payment of increased benefits and user charges.

This proposal will provide for the payment of expenses of administration of compensation payments under the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act and extensions of this act by insurance carriers and self-insurers authorized to insure under section 32 of the act and for the administration of maritime safety activities to the applicable carriers.

This proposal also makes provision for increased benefit payments and additional administrative costs for these benefits and the user charge.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. 101. Appropriations in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for supplies, services, and rental of conference space within the District of Columbia, as the Secretary of Labor shall deem necessary for settlement of labor-management disputes.

TITLE IX—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. 901. Appropriations contained in this Act, available for salaries and expenses, shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109 but at rates for individuals not to exceed the per diem rate equivalent to the rate for GS-18.

Sec. 902. Appropriations contained in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901 [80 Stat. 299]-5902).

Sec. 903. Appropriations contained in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for expenses of attendance at meetings which are concerned with the functions or activities for which the appropriation is made or which will contribute to improved conduct, supervision, or management of those functions or activities.

Sec. 904. The Secretary of Labor and the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare are each authorized to make available not to exceed $7,500 from funds available for salaries and expenses under titles I and II, respectively, for official reception and representation expenses.

Sec. 905. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

Sec. 906. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used to finance any Civil Service Interagency Board of Examiners.

Sec. 907. No part of the funds appropriated under this Act shall be used to provide payments, assistance, or services, in any form, with respect to any individual convicted in any Federal, State, or local court of competent jurisdiction, of inciting, promoting, or carrying on a riot, or any group activity resulting in material damage to property or injury to persons, found to be in violation of Federal, State, or local laws designed to protect persons or property in the community concerned. (Departments of Labor and Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1968.)

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

Federal Funds

Mail volume.—The budget estimates for 1969 are based on expected volume of 85.2 billion pieces of mail, compared to 82.2 billion anticipated for 1968 and 79.2 billion in 1967.

The 1969 forecast includes 45.8 billion first-class letters and cards; 2.3 billion airmail items; 9.2 billion magazines, newspapers, and other publications; 22.9 billion pieces of printed matter and small parcels; and 1.1 billion zone-rate parcels, catalogs, and other fourth-class matter. These and other items of postal workload and related 1969 revenues compared with corresponding 1968 estimates and 1967 results appear in the table on page 724

Financing.—Eight separate limitations are enacted for the Post Office Department for operation of the postal service and other assigned responsibilities. The limitations apply to the postal fund which is financed by the deposit therein of postal revenues and other receipts and by an appropriation from the general fund of the Treasury for the balance.

Only the appropriation from the general fund to the postal fund (being equal to the excess of obligational authority over revenues) is considered new obligational authority for purposes of the Federal budget. Further, only the excess of the department's disbursements over its receipts (exclusive of the general fund appropriation) is considered as budget expenditures.

The eight individual limitations control obligations incurred by the Department and are therefore requested and accounted for in terms of obligations. However, the program and financing schedules show funded accrued costs for each principal activity reconciled in total to obligations.

The schedule of revenue and expense shows operating costs on a full accrual basis including provision for employees' accrued annual leave and costs funded by other agencies. Costs attributable to public services as defined by 39 U.S.C. 2303 and amended by Public Law 87-793 are shown in total on the revenue and expense statement.

The Postal Policy Act of 1958 (Public Law 85-426), as amended by the Postal Service and Federal Employees' Salary Act of 1962 (Public Law 87-793), provides that postal rates and fees be adjusted as required to produce the amount of revenue approximately equal to the total cost of operating the Postal Establishment less the amount determined to be attributable to the performance of public services.

Following is a summary of financial transactions and estimated revenue deficiency (in millions of dollars):

Transactions outside the postal fund.—Postal money orders cashed, postal savings system, and deposits resulting from U.S. savings bond sales are excluded from this chapter. The postal money orders outstanding are included in the figure for checks outstanding in table 724 of the budget, and a corresponding sum is included in Treasury cash. Balances for the postal savings system and savings bond sales are included in part II of this document.

Revenue from mail and other services of the Post Office Department is placed in the postal fund, which was established as a revolving fund in 1950 (39 U.S.C. 2202). In addition to the obligations and expenditures under limitations enacted in annual appropriation acts, the fund is also used without annual action by Congress for the purchase of stamp-embossed envelopes and for the payment of certain indemnities, claims, and judgments.

Postal revenue comes primarily from private postal patrons. It also includes receipts from various Federal agencies for the handling of official mail and the payment by the Congress for franked mail. Reimbursements received for nonpostal services and other recoveries are likewise deposited in the postal fund.

The aggregate of postal revenues is less than the obligations authorized for payment from the postal fund. An indefinite appropriation is made from the general fund of the Treasury to make up the difference. After taking into account anticipated changes in funded working capital, the net budget expenditures for the postal service for 1969 are estimated to be $767 million, compared to $1,087 million for 1968, and $1,141 million for 1967.

This limitation provides for the direction and control of the Postal Establishment. The budget estimate for 1969 is $123.8 million, an increase of $16.3 million over 1968 and $29.2 million over 1967.

1. Executive direction and administration.—This activity provides for all offices and bureaus at Washington headquarters except the research and engineering staff and provides for reimbursement to the Treasury for processing paid money orders. The biennial fidelity bond premium for all employees is included in 1968.

2. Field inspection service.—This activity provides for the postal inspection and internal audit services. Postal inspection includes all field investigation and inspection functions pertaining to the violation of postal laws; prevention and detection of loss and mistreatment of mail, and losses of Government funds and property; field audit of postmasters' accounts; personnel security and suitability investigations; and special surveys and investigations. The internal audit program includes comprehensive reviews and financial audits of activities at the departmental level, regional offices, data centers, and other selected field installations.

3. Regional operation.—This activity provides for direction and administration of postal field activities under authority delegated by Washington headquarters. There are 15 regional administration offices that are responsible for administration of programs, controlling and reporting of operating costs, and management of postal operations. The six postal data centers provide staff services of accounting, disbursing, and data processing for headquarters and regional operation offices. Each data center covers a geographical area of two or three regional offices.

This no-year appropriation funds the administration and conduct of the headquarters' research and development and engineering programs. The estimated fund requirement for 1969 is $36.4 million, an increase of $13.1 million over 1968 and an increase of $20.3 million over 1967.

1. Direct operation.—This activity includes funds for headquarters personnel, compensation of the Research and Engineering Advisory Council and related costs required to administer departmental research and development and engineering programs. It also includes the conduct of research and development and engineering activities not performed under contract. Work performed includes the development of preliminary designs for new major facilities and mechanized mail handling equipment and modifications to existing facilities and systems; the development, test and evaluation of new equipment, systems and techniques for postal applications and the conduct of an industrial engineering program.

2. Engineering support.—This activity provides materials and services to support postal research and development and engineering programs. Work funded under this activity includes technical support in the development of designs for facilities and equipment, professional services to support the conduct of an industrial engineering program, and the development of models and aids used in the planning, design, and phase-in of new major facilities and mechanized systems.

3. Contract research and development.—This activity includes funds for the design, development, test and evaluation of new postal equipment, materials and techniques required to reduce costs, improve service and improve employee working conditions. The work is primarily performed by other Government agencies or by private industry under contract. Funds are also included for supplies, materials, and equipment used in testing and evaluating equipment at postal laboratory facilities.

Work performed under most research and development contracts runs over a period of more than 1 year and, because of its nature, is generally done on cost-plus-a-fixed-fee basis. At times the scope is of such magnitude as to require several years for completion. Therefore, obligations incurred in any one year are not necessarily indicative of the level of work actually performed. In order to provide flexibility required in programming research projects, funds in this appropriation are available until expended.

Funds provided in this limitation pay the personal services and related expenses required to perform the primary function of the Post Office Department—collecting, sorting, and delivering the mail. The employees paid with these funds include postmasters, who administer the operation of the postal installations; supervisors and clerks, who direct and process the handling of mail along with providing window services to patrons; city carriers, special delivery messengers, and rural carriers, who collect and deliver the mail; maintenance personnel, who keep the buildings and equipment in operating condition; and the vehicle maintenance employees, who service the Government-owned trucks used in hauling mail.

Funds requested for 1969 total $5,784 million, an increase of $292 million over the estimate for 1968. The additional funds will provide the manpower and cover the related expenses necessary to handle the estimated increase of 3.1 billion pieces of mail in 1969, provide delivery service to the additional area and patrons, and improve existing services.

1. Administration of postal installations.—Services are performed under this activity by postmasters, assistant postmasters, supervisors, and technical personnel. These employees are engaged in the local management, supervision, labor relations, and related fields at all postal units. Technical personnel under this activity include accounting, finance examiner, medical, safety, and personnel employees.

2. Mail handling and window service.—This activity provides for the separation and distribution of all mail received in the postal units, including highway and railway post offices. It also includes rendering of window service to patrons, payment for the operation of contract stations, dispatch control of trucks hauling mail, and reimbursements to the Federal Reserve banks for handling deposits made by postmasters.

It is expected that continued benefits from the efforts to improve operating procedures and cooperation of the mailing public in the preparation of its mailings along with the continued mechanization and employee incentive programs will enable the increase of 3.8% in mail volume to be handled with an increase of 3.2% in clerical manpower. This compares with a 7.5% increase in manpower to handle a 4.7% increase in mail volume experienced in 1967 and a 3.6% increase in manpower to handle a 3.8% increase in mail volume and other programs planned in 1968.

CLERKS AND MAIL HANDLERS

	Man-years	Mail volume (millions)	Average pieces per man-year
1965	281,067	71,873	255,715

3. Collection and delivery service.—This service provides for delivery of mail to residences and business places in cities and their suburbs, collection of mail from over 319,034 street letterboxes and 14,906 building mail chutes in these areas, delivery of mail on rural routes, and delivery of special delivery articles. This service also includes the local pickup and delivery of mail between stations and the post office and other installations. In some instances drivers transport mail between cities. Possible city delivery stops in 1969 are estimated to increase approximately 3.3%. The estimated increase in number of possible stops results from the continuous growth in housing. The number of rural routes to be established in 1969 will be offset by conversions of rural routes to city delivery service and the consolidation of rural routes for economic reasons.

4. Maintenance service.—The services under this activity relate to the maintenance of equipment and protection and cleaning of buildings used by the postal service. The employees under this activity include, among others, guards, mail handling elevator operators, janitors, and mechanics to service mechanical and electronic mail handling and office equipment.

5. Vehicle service.—This activity provides for the maintenance and operating cost of vehicles used for the local collection and delivery of mail and, in some instances, the transport of mail between cities. This includes employment of vehicle mechanics; the purchase of parts, gasoline, oil, tires, and contract maintenance; and the cost of hired vehicles used in lieu of Government-owned vehicles when it is economically advantageous.

This appropriation covers transportation of mail by air, land, and water.

1. Surface transportation.—This includes transportation of mail by water, highway, and rail.

(a) Water.—Domestic water transportation service is utilized for the transportation of mail on the inland and coastal waterways at per annum contract rates ($0.4 million in 1969), at pound rates ($2.5 million in 1969), and at container rates to Hawaii ($2.4 million in 1969). Pound-rate service is utilized for Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. The decrease in pound-rate volume is due to the increased service at container rates.

Foreign water transportation in 1969 covers carriage of mails by steamship to foreign countries at (1) per pound rates ($5.3 million); (2) unit rate, container movement ($4.4 million); and (3) for shipment of empty mailbags ($0.2 million). It also includes terminal charges by foreign countries for handling such mail at the port of entry and charges for mails transiting within such countries ($6.7 million).

¹ The decrease in pound-rate service is caused by increased use of container-rate service.

(b) Highway.—This includes transportation of mail by star route, buses, mail messenger, highway post offices, and railroad-operated truck routes. The estimates for 1969 are as follows:

	Millions
Star route service.....	$157.2
Area bus contracts.....	.8
Mail messenger service.....	23.9
Highway post offices.....	1.3
Total.....	183.2

Star route service is the major function in the overall highway transportation activity and provides service between post offices. The uptrend in the average cost per mile of star route service and in highway transportation generally is caused by the growing need for larger and more expensive truck equipment where mail volume is steadily increasing, and by the higher costs due to the growth in the national economy.

Mobile highway post offices provide mail distribution en route in contract highway vehicles where adequate train service of this nature does not exist. General price increases have resulted in higher costs to the performing contractors and subsequent adjustment in contract rates is the reason for the increase in the average cost per mile.

This limitation provides for rental of postal facilities; cost of communications, fuel, utilities, and moving expenses; one-time payments for improvements to leased buildings; installments on lease-purchase contracts; and the acquisition and resale of sites to lessors under the commercial leasing program. The recoveries from the resale of such land shown under Advances and reimbursements are applied to the purchase of additional sites for resale. Increased rental costs result from (a) the acquisition of additional postal space, (b) increased rental rates, and (c) replacement of inadequate or substandard space in Government buildings.

This limitation provides funds to alter and improve Federal buildings used for postal purposes; for procurement of vehicles and garage equipment for the Post Office Department vehicle fleet; for mail-processing machines to include installation; for self-service vending units and other customer service equipment; and for postal support equipment to include data processing machines. The program and financing schedule shows, in addition to obligations, the extent to which yearly costs are expected to be incurred with the corresponding increase in the amount of assets on order, which is indicated by changes in selected resources applied to the program.

1. Federal buildings improvement.—This activity provides for modernizing and extending Government-owned buildings to make them adequate and efficient for postal purposes. Air conditioning, heating plant improvements, and the purchase of additional land adjacent to Federal buildings are included in this activity.

2. Vehicle program.—This activity provides for replacement of worn-out vehicles, for additions to the fleet required by growth of postal service, for vehicles to augment the carrier mechanization program, and for the purchase of garage equipment. The estimate provides for the purchase of vehicles for carrier mechanization, for bulk transfer of mail, and other types. All vehicles are of one-half ton capacity and over. The purchase of vehicles are for replacement of obsolete vehicles and for new service.

3. Mail processing equipment.—This activity provides for the installation of major mail processing machinery and equipment in large postal facilities designed for such installations. It also provides for modification of existing installations to adapt them to changing concepts of mail handling. This mechanization consists of bulk transport conveyors, tray transport conveyors, parcel sorting machines, and sack sorting machines. In 1967, five fixed mechanization systems were ordered.

4. Customer service equipment.—This activity provides for the procurement of that equipment which is designed and utilized specifically to render service to window, lobby, and self-service unit patrons. The equipment is designed and employed to increase hours of service to the public at less expense to the Post Office Department. In 1969, 690 self-service postal units and 551 additional vending machines are proposed.

5. Postal support equipment.—This activity provides for the purchase of support equipment required by the postal service. It includes ADP equipment for headquarters, postal data centers and the postal source data systems; equipment for maintenance of buildings, grounds, and other equipment; furniture and office equipment; and vehicle maintenance equipment.

This limitation provides for preliminary planning of postal public buildings, acquisition of sites, preparation of drawings and specifications, construction, supervision of construction, purchase of leased buildings, and other related costs incident to projects approved under the Public Buildings Act of 1959. Costs for onsite supervision and administration of projects are financed from Research, development, and engineering. The 1969 estimate of $88,252 thousand provides funds for:

1. Sites, design, and expenses.—Acquisition of sites, including costs of appraisals; preparation of drawings and specifications, by contract or otherwise; technical services; soil survey and tests; reproduction of plans and specifications; and supervision of construction, by contract or otherwise.

2. Construction.—Construction of three new projects.

3. Purchase of leased buildings.—Purchase by the Department of two buildings presently occupied through leases.

4. Project planning and development.—Expenses of initial project study and planning associated with a new project.
