The fund currently provides premium aviation war risk hull insurance, effective immediately, to U.S. international air carriers. Premium binders are also issued to cover aircraft, persons, and property and will become war risk insurance in wartime and in situations short of war; policies covering aircraft, persons, and property which become active insurance upon issuance are available to certain civil air carriers in connection with Government contract operations. Administrative costs are out of fee receipts (49 U.S.C. 1531, as amended; 75 Stat. 210).

Unfunded contingent liability as of September 30, 1970, is estimated at $55 billion. This amount includes hull insurance and personal and property liability on approximately 947 aircraft insured under this program.

OPERATIONS (AIRPORT AND AIRWAY TRUST FUND)

For necessary expenses of the Federal Aviation Administration, not otherwise provided for, including administrative expenses for research and development, establishment of air navigation facilities; purchase of [three] ten passenger motor vehicles for replacement only; and purchase and repair of skis and snowshoes; and arms and ammunition; [$6,000,000] $991,809,000, to be derived from the Airport and Airway Trust Fund: Provided, That there may be credited to this appropriation funds received from States, counties, municipalities, other public authorities, and private sources, for expenses incurred in the maintenance and operation of air navigation facilities: Provided further, That the obligated balance of the appropriation for "Operations" for the prior fiscal year, but excluding the balance of the amount appropriated for safety regulation activities, shall be transferred to this appropriation. (Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1971.)

Note.—The appropriation for this account for 1971 had not been enacted at the time this budget was prepared. A temporary continuing appropriation is in effect for the period from July 1 to March 30.

Note.—Approximately $869 million of the 1971 program level for this account is financed under the old appropriation "Operations."

1. Operation of traffic control system.—This activity covers the operation on a daily 24-hour basis of a national system of air traffic management in the United States and its possessions. With the aid of radar, communications, and other facilities, traffic management personnel at 27 centers monitor and control en route flights of civil and military aircraft conducted under instrument conditions to assure safety and to expedite the flow of traffic. Control towers are operated at 335 major civil airports to guide traffic movements on and in the vicinity of the airports. Some 343 domestic and international flight service stations transmit weather and other information to pilots and relay traffic control data between ground controllers and pilots. The increase in 1972 will provide for operating newly commissioned air traffic control facilities, for greater workloads brought about by the projected growth in aviation activity, increased support for automation programs, implementation of new procedures for more efficient airspace utilization and improvements in the training program.

OPERATIONS (AIRPORT AND AIRWAY TRUST FUND)—Continued

2. Installation and materiel service.—This activity covers the direction and engineering services related to the establishment and improvement of facilities and equipments in the traffic control system; procurement, contracting and materiel management programs; supply support and leased communications services for the traffic control system; and supply support for agency aircraft except for aircraft related to research and development programs. Major increases in 1972 are to provide supply support and leased communications services for air traffic control and air navigation facilities.

3. Maintenance of traffic control system.—This activity covers the technical operation and maintenance of a national network of air navigation and traffic control aids in the United States and its possessions. Major increases in 1972 are for the maintenance of new air traffic control and navigation aids planned for commissioning.

4. Administration of flight standards program.—This activity covers the establishment and enforcement of the civil air regulations which are designed to assure the high standards of safety in aviation. Inspections are made and certificates issued for aircraft, airmen, aircraft operators, and air agencies that meet safety or competency requirements. Facility flight inspection functions and management and maintenance of agency aircraft are also included in this activity.

5. Administration of medical programs.—This activity covers the development of standards governing the physical and mental fitness of airmen and other persons in the air navigation system; the development and supervision of a health and medical program for agency personnel; the administration of an aviation medical research program, the project costs of which are financed under Research and development; and the operation of the Civil Aeromedical Institute building.

6. Research direction.—This activity covers the planning, direction and evaluation of the research and development program, the direct project costs of which are financed under the Airway system investment and development appropriation; and the related administrative support for the operation of the National Aviation Facilities Experimental Center at Atlantic City, N.J.

7. Administration of airports program.—This activity provides for the administration of a new airport planning grant program and an expanded development assistance program for the improvement of public airports authorized by the Airport and Airway Development Act of 1970. The activity covers the costs of preparing the National Airport System Plan; development of airport planning, design and construction standards; furnishing planning and engineering advisory services; and assuring compliance of public agencies with terms of Federal assistance agreement relating to airports.

This appropriation finances the capital investment and research and development programs of FAA.

Facilities and equipment.—The Federal airways system is improved by the installation of new equipment and the construction and modernization of facilities to keep pace with aeronautical activity. The appropriation also finances major capital investments required by other agency programs such as aircraft for facility flight inspection and training, and experimental facilities for the research and development program. The 1972 estimate will carry forward the program to increase the capacity of the airways system and make its operations more efficient and safer. It provides for continuation of major efforts already underway to provide an automation capability in the air traffic control system. Operating costs of facilities procured under this appropriation are financed under the Operations appropriation.

(a) Air route traffic control centers.—Long-range radar provides FAA air traffic controllers with information on aircraft positions, at distances up to 185 miles. Automation equipment covers computers and other devices which aid controllers in handling en route air traffic. Other center facilities cover the installation of equipment to provide communications and related services.

(b) Airport traffic control towers.—Terminal area radar aids traffic control in the vicinity of airports by displaying aircraft positions at distances up to 60 miles. Terminal area automation covers computers and other devices which aid controllers in handling terminal air traffic. Other tower facilities cover the establishment, improvement and relocation of airport traffic control tower facilities.

(c) Flight service stations.—Domestic flight service stations and associated facilities provide flight assistance service to pilots. International flight service stations provide long-distance communications for transoceanic flights.

(d) Air navigation facilities.—Very high frequency omnidirectional radio ranges equipped with tactical air navigation capabilities (VORTAC) are standard short-range navigation aids used to define airways and air routes and to provide distance and direction information to pilots. Low and medium frequency facilities include radio beacons and ranges which provide pilots with direction and weather information. Instrument landing systems provide pilots with direction, distance, and glide slope information necessary for making safe approaches to runways under poor visibility conditions. Visual aids consist primarily of lighting aids which also assist the pilot in making final approaches to airport runways, particularly in areas where terrain or other environmental factors cause potential hazards to safe landings. Intermediate fields are emergency landing areas provided on a few air routes where public airports are not available.

(e) Housing, utilities, and miscellaneous facilities.—This section includes general support facilities and items not covered elsewhere.

(f) Aircraft and related equipment.—For: (a) Facility flight inspection covering aircraft and avionics equipment to inspect the accuracy and other characteristics of navigation and traffic control aids from the air; (b) training aircraft used to provide flight training to agency personnel and to maintain the proficiency of operations inspectors; (c) aircraft and equipment used to provide logistics support for remote facilities, for use by agency officials, and for other general purpose missions.

(g) Research, test, and evaluation facilities.—This activity provides for the construction and improvement of plant and facilities at the National Aviation Facilities Experimental Center in Atlantic City, N.J. It also covers the procurement of capital items of equipment for use in the research and development program.

Research and development.—The Federal Aviation Administration conducts a program to improve and modernize the national system of aviation facilities, and to initiate an airport/airspace increased capacity development program to meet projected 1980 traffic demands. The agency also carries out a program of medical research.

Research and development is conducted through contracts with qualified firms, universities, and individuals, or by agency staff or other Government agencies.

(a) Air traffic control.—This provides for improving the airways system by the development of systems for automation of air traffic control to expedite aircraft operations and improve aviation safety. This also provides for a program aimed at solving the problem of inadequate capacity of the present and near future airports/airways systems to meet projected aviation requirements. The objective is to double the capacity of the airports/airways systems by 1980.

(b) Navigation.—This provides for modernization, expansion, and improvements of the common system navigation facilities in the United States and in overseas areas where international agreements require U.S. participation. Work in the field of landing systems, short- and long-distance navigation, and flight inspection is included.

(c) Aviation weather.—This provides for a program, coordinated with the Departments of Defense and Commerce, to develop devices and improve techniques for the communication and display of weather information to aviation users. The effects of weather in air traffic management techniques and systems are also analyzed.

(d) Aviation medicine.—This activity provides for conducting an aeromedical research effort directed toward the identification and elimination of those physical, physiological, and psychological factors which may affect personnel engaged in operation of the air traffic control system.

Under the Airport and Airway Development Act of 1970 (Public Law 91-258; 84 Stat. 219), grants are made to public agencies in the development and improvement, as well as planning, of public airports. Projects supported by airport development and improvement grants include construction of runways and taxiways, purchase of land, provision of runway and taxiway lighting systems, and construction of buildings to house safety equipment. Projects to be supported by airport planning grants include the development of construction plans for regional systems of airports and plans for individual airports. The 60 largest air carrier airports receive the largest proportion of grant funds, but significant amounts are also given to the smaller air carrier airports and general aviation airports.

This request provides $15 million in obligating authority for new planning grants, $205 million for airport development grants, and liquidating cash totaling $92 million to pay for airport development and improvement projects including land acquisition.

Note.—Includes $86,998 thousand in 1972 for functions previously financed from the appropriation, Motor Carrier Safety, and the limitation on General Expenses (trust fund).

This account provides for the salaries and expenses of the Federal Highway Administration required to conduct and administer Federal-aid and some direct highway programs.

Expenses for planning, operation and administration of the Federal-aid highway programs and highway research are financed by reimbursements from Federal-aid authorizations. Motor carrier safety programs and one-third of the amount for highway-related safety research and development programs are financed by this Federal fund appropriation. Beginning in 1972, the functions formerly financed by the appropriation for Motor carrier safety and by the Limitation on general expenses of the Federal-aid highway (trust fund) account are now carried out under this account.

Administrative services for other programs of the Federal Highway Administration, including highway safety, and for road construction programs of other Federal agencies, are initially financed from this activity and reimbursements are collected from those programs. This account does not cover administrative expenses of highway beautification which are handled by a separate appropriation.

1. Program direction and coordination.—(a) Provides overall direction and coordination of the highway transportation mission; (b) provides legal services for all aspects of Federal-aid highway, motor carrier safety, and highway safety programs; (c) develops and administers programs for a continuing audit of claims against Federal funds and a thorough investigation of alleged irregularities in connection with highways programs; (d) plans and directs programs of public affairs and intergovernmental relations; and (e) develops and recommends policies and standards for full and effective implementation of civil rights and equal opportunity procedures for use within the Federal Highway Administration and by recipients of grants-in-aid administered by the Federal Highway Administration. Increases are requested to provide additional personnel to meet the expanding workload in legal services, civil rights, and program review functions.

2. General program support.—(a) Formulates policy, multiyear and long-range plans and goals for highway programs and develops data and analyses for current and long-range programing; (b) conducts direct and contract research and development relating to traffic operations, new construction techniques, highway safety, and the social and environmental aspects of highways; and (c) provides organization and management systems, budgeting, accounting, personnel management, training, contracting and procurement, program analysis, administrative services, and computer services for all elements of the Federal Highway Administration. Increases are requested to meet an expanding administrative support workload and the increased cost of common office services provided for all units.

3. Highway programs.—(a) Provides highway engineering guidance to Federal and State agencies and to certain foreign governments and conducts a program to encourage use of modern traffic engineering to increase the traffic-carrying capacity of existing highways and urban streets; (b) assists States, other Federal agencies, and certain foreign countries in right-of-way acquisition and develops procedures for highway location selection and consideration of environmental impacts; and (c) provides program and engineering supervision of the interstate, primary, secondary, and urban highway programs through nine regional and 52 division offices. Increases are requested to expand the urban corridor demonstration program of cooperative highway-mass transportation projects.

4. Motor carrier and highway safety.—(a) Develops and executes policy and programs for accomplishment of the motor carrier safety mission in accordance with the Department of Transportation Act, the Interstate Commerce Act, and the Explosives and Combustibles Act; and (b) administers a program of assistance to States and political subdivisions in the establishment of safety programs based on highway-oriented safety standards as provided by the Highway Safety Acts of 1966 and 1970. Increases are requested to provide additional personnel for motor carrier safety field investigation and supervision and to meet expanded workload in hazardous materials activities, and to conduct research and other functions necessary to support highway-oriented safety standards.

5. Training programs.—Provides on-the-job training for highway engineers and program managers.

² $13 thousand transferred to the appropriation, Salaries and expenses.

This appropriation provides funds for projects initiated pursuant to the provisions of the Highway Beautification Act of 1965, together with the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1968 and the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970 provides for completely revised program emphasis to concentrate on the outdoor advertising portion of the program. The primary objective of the new program is to remove all nonconforming outdoor signs along the Nation's interstate and Federal-aid primary highways by 1976. It is anticipated that the total Federal cost of this effort will aggregate approximately $300 million.

In its initial stages, about the first 2 years, feasibility projects will be undertaken with particular focus on sign removal in terms of an entire company rather than on the basis of sign-by-sign location as in the past. Preliminary evaluation indicates that such an approach offers the greatest potential for total program success at the least cost. The advantages are: (1) a positive approach to environmental improvement; (2) a time-phased program which generates Federal fund requirements at a realistic level; and (3) the promise of achieving support from the industry and, in particular, the smaller companies.

Success of the 1972 program rests heavily on working directly with the States, their local subdivisions, and the involved industries. Only a cooperative concentrated effort will achieve the goals for removal and control of junkyards and signs on an equitable and timely basis.

A proposed language provision will be submitted to increase the grant obligation limitation contained in the anticipated 1971 appropriation act from $8.5 million to $15 million.

The United States in cooperation with the Republic of Panama and the Government of Colombia will participate in the construction of approximately 250 miles of highway through the Darien Gap.

It is estimated that the total cost of the highway will be $150 million with the United States participating up to $100 million and the remaining $50 million being supplied by Colombia and Panama. Completion of the highway will take 10 years; however, it is contemplated that a passable all-weather gravel surface will be in use by 1976.

This highway will connect the Inter-American Highway of Central America with the Pan-American Highway System of South America, creating a single, cohesive network stretching from Alaska to every South American country. A 1971 supplemental of $5 million is being requested.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970 authorized contract authority for highway-related safety grants of $30 million for each of the years 1972 and 1973. The States are required to match the Federal grants. A $10 million obligation level and $6 million in outlays is contemplated in 1972. Two-thirds of the funds are to be provided from the Highway trust fund and one-third from the General fund. Contract authority is available 1 year in advance of the year for which authorized.

These funds provide grants to assist States and localities in implementing the highway safety standards specifically administered by the Federal Highway Administration.

These standards relate to traffic control devices, highway construction and maintenance, accident location surveillance, and highway-related pedestrian safety.

Section 322 of title 23, U.S.C., as added by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970, authorizes the Secretary to carry out a demonstration project for the elimination of all public ground-level rail-highway crossings along the route of high-speed ground transportation demonstration projects between Washington, D.C., and Boston, Mass., and in the vicinity of Greenwood, S.C. The authorization provides for the appropriation of not to exceed $22 million from general funds and $9 million from the Highway trust fund.

Subsection (c)1 provides Federal payment from the Highway trust fund of 90% if the highway involved is on any Federal-aid system, and the railroad's share of such costs will be 10%. Subsection (c)2 provides Federal payment from general funds of the Treasury of 80% if the highway involved is not on any Federal-aid system, the railroad's share is to be 10%, and the remaining 10% of such costs shall be paid by the State in which the crossing is located.

TERRITORIAL HIGHWAYS (LIQUIDATION OF CONTRACT AUTHORITY)

For payment of obligations incurred in carrying out the provisions of title 23, United States Code, section 215, including services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, $1,200,000, to remain available until expended.

Grants are authorized by 23 U.S.C. 215, subsection (a) to assist the territorial governments of the Virgin Islands, Guam, and American Samoa for the improvement of highways. Grants are provided to assist each territorial government in a program for the construction and improvement of a system of arterial highways, and necessary inter-island connectors, as designated by the Governor of such territory and approved by the Secretary. Federal financial assistance shall be granted upon the basis of a Federal contribution of 70% of the cost of any project.

In order to establish a long-range highway development program, the Secretary is authorized to provide technical assistance for the establishment of an appropriate agency in the territorial governments to administer highway planning, design, construction and maintenance operations, the development of a system of arterial and collector highways and the establishment of advance acquisition of right-of-way and relocation assistance programs.

Contract authority of $2 million per fiscal year for the Virgin Islands for the years 1971, 1972, and 1973; $2 million per fiscal year for Guam for the years 1971, 1972, and 1973; and $500 thousand per fiscal year for American Samoa for the years 1971, 1972, and 1973 was authorized by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970. Contract authority is available in the year for which authorized.

A 1971 supplemental appropriation of $80 thousand is being requested.

Grants are made to States for construction and improvement of Federal-aid highways. Contract authorizations are provided in the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956 and subsequent highway legislation to cover 90% of the costs of completing the 42,500-mile National System of Interstate and Defense Highways, and to match State funds on a 50-50 basis for the primary, secondary, and urban programs. The Federal share of project costs is increased in those States with large areas of public domain. Payments to the States for work done are made out of the Highway trust fund, into which are deposited certain percentages of tax receipts on motor fuel, tires and tubes, tread rubber, trucks, buses, trailers, truck use, truck parts and accessories, and on lubricating oil used in highway vehicles.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1968 provided contract authorizations of $4 billion for each of the years 1971, 1972, and 1973 for the continued construction of the Interstate Highway System. The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970 provided $1.1 billion for each of the years 1972 and 1973 to continue the Federal-aid primary, secondary, and urban programs; $100 million for each of the years 1972 and 1973 to continue traffic operations projects in urban areas (TOPICS); $125 million in each of the years 1972 and 1973 for the Federal-aid primary and secondary systems in rural areas; and $30 million in 1972 and 1973 for grants to States for highway safety functions under the Highway Safety Act of 1970 administered by the Federal Highway Administration, of which $10 million is financed from General funds and $20 million from the Highway trust fund. Additional Interstate contract authorizations of $55 million in each of the years 1972 and 1973 were provided to insure that each State receives at least one-half of 1% of apportioned interstate funds. These contract authorizations are available for obligation in the fiscal year preceding the year for which authorized.

The act further provided contract authorizations of $100 million in 1972 to initiate a special bridge replacement program; and $50 million in 1972 to promote and develop economic growth centers through the construction of economic growth center development highways. These contract authorizations are available in the year authorized.

The latest cost estimate to complete the Interstate System is $62.5 billion, which is $11.86 billion more than previously estimated. Congress approved contract authorizations through 1976 providing an additional $9.775 billion of this increase. Congress also provided an extension of the termination date of the Highway trust fund and revenues to September 30, 1977.

A 1971 supplemental appropriation of liquidating cash is being requested to make payments for obligations incurred under contract authority.

As of October 1, 1970, 30,595 miles of the 42,500-mile Interstate System were open to traffic. Most of the mileage, exclusive of toll roads, was built or improved under the Federal-aid interstate program, under the 90% Federal, 10% State matching program launched in 1956. Toll roads, bridges, and tunnels incorporated in the system totaled 2,311 miles. In addition to the sections open to traffic, 4,853 miles were under construction with Interstate funds, and engineering or right-of-way acquisition was in progress on another 5,393 miles. Thus, some form of work was under construction or completed on 40,841 miles of the 42,500-mile system—about 96% of the total system mileage.

Construction projects involving 257,203 miles in the regular Federal-aid program (primary, secondary, and urban) have been completed since July 1, 1956, at a total cost of $22.04 billion; and contracts involving 15,150 miles at a cost of $4.3 billion were authorized or underway on October 1, 1970. In addition, $1.76 billion of engineering and right-of-way acquisition work had been completed, and $870 million was underway.

Actual and estimated progress of Federal-aid programs are summarized in the following table:

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1968 provided for the establishment of a right-of-way revolving fund to provide interest-free loans for the advance acquisition of rights-of-way by the States and payment of relocation expenses including the State share of the cost.

Contract authority of $100 million in each of the years 1970, 1971, and 1972 was authorized from the Highway trust fund. This contract authority is available 1 year in advance of the year for which authorized.

Main highways within or adjacent to national forests are constructed and improved with these funds. Projects are jointly selected by the States, the Forest Service, and the Federal Highway Administration on the basis of their contribution to meeting traffic requirements within the national forests. Authorizations are apportioned by States on the basis of a formula which uses as factors the national forest area and value in each State. Contract authorization of $33 million is available for each of 1972 and 1973 from the Highway trust fund. Funds can be obligated in the year prior to the year for which authorized.

Actual and estimated progress of the program is summarized in the following table (dollars in thousands):

Fiscal year ¹	Annual authorization ²	Miles completed	Unobligated balance, end-of-year	Obligations for projects	Outlays

Highways are constructed and improved through public lands in States with large areas of such lands. Funds for this program are available a year in advance of the year for which authorized. Contract authorizations were made available by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970 for 1972 and 1973 in the amount of $16 million for each year from the Highway trust fund.

The 1972 liquidating cash appropriation request is the initial funding from the Highway trust fund. Prior year appropriations have been funded by Federal funds.

Baltimore-Washington Parkway.—The Secretary of Transportation, the Secretary of the Interior and the State of Maryland will enter into an agreement for reconstruction of the section of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway now under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior.

The reconstruction will cost a total of $65 million from the Highway trust fund to provide six lanes and upgrade this roadway to geometric and construction standards for the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways. Upon completion of construction, title to the roadway will be conveyed to the State of Maryland. An initial appropriation of $5 million is proposed for 1972 to provide for preliminary engineering and right-of-way acquisition.

Rail crossings—Demonstration projects.—Provides initial financing of $3 million of the Highway trust fund portion of rail crossing demonstration projects as authorized by title 23, U.S.C., section 322. This amount will be used to reimburse the appropriation, Rail crossings—demonstration projects, for the trust fund share of a $10 million program to eliminate unsafe rail-highway grade crossings along the route of the high-speed rail demonstration in the Washington, D.C., to Boston, Mass., corridor.

Highway safety—Research, demonstration, and training.—Provides $2 million from the Highway trust fund for the costs of highway safety research, demonstration, and training as authorized by title 23, U.S.C., section 403, to be carried out by the Federal Highway Administration. This amount will be used to reimburse the appropriation, Salaries and expenses, for the trust fund share of the total $3 million program.

The Highway Revenue Act of 1956, as amended, provides for the transfer from the General fund to the Highway trust fund of revenue from the gasoline tax and certain other taxes paid by highway users. The Secretary of the Treasury estimates the amounts to be so transferred. In turn, annual appropriations are authorized from this fund to meet expenditures for Federal-aid highways. Legislation will be proposed to increase certain highway excise taxes levied on heavy trucks to provide a more equitable distribution of the cost of highway programs. Enactment of the proposed legislation by the beginning of 1972 will increase 1972 revenues by $295 million.

NATIONAL HIGHWAY TRAFFIC SAFETY ADMINISTRATION

The Highway Safety Act of 1970 established the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) to replace the National Highway Safety Bureau within the Department of Transportation. The act also contains funding authorizations for carrying out highway safety programs on a matching basis with the States and for conducting an associated highway research and development program. Two-thirds of the authorizations contained in the act will be financed from the Highway Trust Fund, with the remainder to be financed from Federal funds. Other agency programs authorized under the Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1966, as amended, continue to be financed entirely from Federal funds.

The following table briefly depicts the source of financing, identified with the specific item of authorizing legislation, for all Administration programs (in thousands of dollars):

TRAFFIC AND HIGHWAY SAFETY

For expenses necessary to discharge the functions of the Secretary with respect to traffic and highway safety, including services authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, including $9,600,000 to remain available until expended for the preparation of plans and specifications, construction of facilities and equipping of a compliance test facility, $55,800,000; together with $1,126,000 to be transferred from the appropriation "State and community highway safety (Liquidation of contract authorization)" and $32,054,000 to be transferred from the appropriation "Highway safety programs (trust fund)".

Note.—The appropriation for this account for 1971 had not been enacted at the time this budget was prepared. A temporary continuing appropriation is in effect for the period from July 1 to March 30.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1969, $18,977 thousand; 1970, $24,585 thousand; 1971, $30,235 thousand; 1972, $52,335 thousand.

The following activities encompass motor vehicle safety programs authorized under the Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act; highway safety programs authorized under the Highway Safety Act; and executive direction and administrative support requirements undertaken pursuant to both acts. Through 1971, all programs are financed from Federal funds. Beginning in 1972, financing for two-thirds of highway safety research and development programs and the administration of the State and community highway safety program will be financed by a reimbursement from the Highway Trust Fund. The remaining one-third portion of highway safety research and development plus the programs authorized under the Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act are financed entirely from Federal funds in this appropriation.

1. Program direction and coordination.—This activity provides direction, coordination, and implementation of overall policies, programs, and objectives. Staff offices carry out responsibilities in planning, scientific matters, legal services, and civil rights.

2. Motor vehicle program.—This activity includes development of motor vehicle and tire safety standards, the procedures for evaluating and assuring compliance, and studies to determine the effect of standards on product costs and the necessary leadtime for implementing the standards by the industry. Increases to expand the testing of new motor vehicles and tires for compliance with Federal safety standards are requested.

3. Traffic safety program.—This activity provides policy, program and technical guidance to the States in executing highway safety programs, to determine their effectiveness and to administer the Federal assistance aspects of these programs, to conduct training and education programs, and to conduct demonstration projects that will speed the implementation of new safety techniques into practice. Increases are requested to initiate additional demonstrations of countermeasures to attack the serious problem of traffic accidents caused by chronic alcoholics who drive.

4. Research and analysis.—This activity provides for motor vehicle and highway safety research and development and for the collection of data to determine the relationship between motor vehicle or motor vehicle equipment performance characteristics and (1) crashes involving motor vehicles, and (2) the occurrence of death or personal injury as a result of such crashes. The National Driver Register, which provides centralized information on license revocations, is also funded under this activity. Increases are requested to expand research on techniques to counter driving by alcoholics, to improve the crash survivability features of motor vehicles, and to fabricate a small number of experimental safety vehicles.

5. Staff and administrative support services.—Provides for services, such as budgeting, personnel management, office services, contracting, and procurement to support all activities conducted by this organization.

6. Compliance test facility.—Provides for the design and initiation of constructing and equipping a compliance test facility needed to perform tests on motor vehicles, tires, and other motor vehicle equipment to assure compliance with Federal motor vehicle safety standards. These tests are undertaken to determine manufacturers' observance of existing standards; to investigate consumer reports of safety defects; and to evaluate test procedures for proposed standards.

The Highway Safety Act of 1970 contains additional authorizations to continue programs under section 402 of title 23, calling for highway safety programs for each State, subject to approval of the Secretary of Transportation. Federal grants are provided to assist the States and their political subdivisions in the establishment of highway safety programs, such as for driver licensing, motor vehicle registration, traffic records, police traffic services, driver education, etc. These programs are based on comprehensive statewide plans in accordance with uniform standards promulgated by the Secretary. The States are required to match Federal grants.

Through 1971, programs are financed from Federal fund balances available under prior legislative authorizations. Beginning in 1972, two-thirds of required financing will be secured from the Highway Trust Fund, pursuant to the Highway Safety Act of 1970. The remaining one-third derived from Federal funds, is provided by this appropriation. A total of $80 million in obligations is planned for the highway safety program authorized by section 402, including those obligations incurred by both the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) and the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA). A tentative distribution for purposes of the budget schedule indicates that this total would be divided by $10 million for the FHWA and $70 million for the NHTSA but this is a tentative estimate for the subdivision of total obligations. Annual program plans, as submitted by the States and approved by the two agencies, will determine the actual distribution of obligations between the two authorizations. In no event will obligations exceed either of the separate authorizations.

Authority is contained in the Highway Safety Act of 1970 to secure two-thirds of required financing for highway safety programs administered under sections 402 and 403 of title 23 from the Highway trust fund. This account reflects the appropriate funding levels as authorized by the Highway Safety Act of 1970.

The total program level of $70 million for State and community grant (sec. 402) programs is comprised of funding from both the State and community highway safety (Liquidation of Contract Authorization) appropriation and this appropriation. These grants assist States and local communities to improve their highway safety programs.

The total program level of $44,700 thousand for highway safety research and development (sec. 403) programs is included in the Traffic and highway safety appropriation to simplify fiscal program administration. This appropriation reimburses the Traffic and highway safety appropriation for $29,800 thousand which is the two-thirds share from the Highway trust fund for research, development, demonstration and training programs.

The Rail Passenger Service Act of 1970 (Public Law 91-518) authorized the creation of a National Railroad Passenger Corporation which will assume responsibility for providing rail passenger service over a designated network on May 1, 1971. The Corporation is to be a for-profit corporation, and its purpose is to develop modern, fast, and efficient rail service to meet the Nation's intercity passenger transportation needs. The Corporation will not be an agency or establishment of the U.S. Government.

Funds under this appropriation provide for the Department of Transportation to pay the National Railroad Passenger Corporation for the purpose of assisting in— (1) The initial organization and operation of the Corporation; (2) the establishment of improved reservations systems and advertising; (3) servicing, maintenance, and repair of railroad passenger equipment; (4) the conduct of research and development and demonstration programs respecting new rail passenger services; (5) the development and demonstration of improved rolling stock; and (6) essential fixed facilities for the operation of passenger trains on lines and routes included in the basic system over which no through passenger trains are being operated at the time of enactment of this act, including necessary track connections between lines of the same or different railroads.

Public enterprise funds:

THE ALASKA RAILROAD

ALASKA RAILROAD REVOLVING FUND

The Alaska Railroad Revolving Fund shall continue available until expended for the work authorized by law, including operation and maintenance of oceangoing or coastwise vessels by ownership, charter, or arrangement with other branches of the Government service, for the purpose of providing additional facilities for transportation of freight, passengers, or mail, when deemed necessary for the benefit and development of industries or travel in the area served; and payment of compensation and expenses as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 8146, to be reimbursed as therein provided: Provided, That no employee shall be paid an annual salary out of said fund in excess of the salaries prescribed by the Classification Act of 1949, as amended, for grade GS-15, except the general manager of said railroad, one assistant general manager at not to exceed the salaries prescribed by said Act for GS-17, and five officers at not to exceed the salaries prescribed by said Act for grade GS-16.

The Alaska Railroad was located, built, and is operated by the Federal Government under the act of March 12, 1914 (38 Stat. 305).

Under the Department of Transportation Act (80 Stat. 931), the Alaska Railroad was transferred from the Secretary of the Interior to the Secretary of Transportation. The Railroad now operates as a bureau of the Federal Railroad Administration.

Budget program.—There are no significant changes planned for 1972. The rail line program of operating and other costs is expected to remain at a level approximating estimated revenues. Proposed capital improvements are within the capability of the present force structure. This will enable the Railroad to maximize year-round use of all levels of skills required to maintain safe and adequate transportation services. The major activity of the program is the transportation services; the principal supporting activities are maintenance of way and structures, maintenance of equipment, and communication operations and maintenance. Lease of real properties and riverboats and related facilities round out the budget program.

Financing.—No appropriation is being requested for 1972. It is estimated at the end of the budget year there will be an unobligated balance of $5,910 thousand and an unexpended Treasury balance of $6,369 thousand.

In furtherance of the general policy to withdraw the Federal Government from programs and enterprises more appropriately carried on at other governmental levels or in the private sector, the administration will continue to support legislation which would authorize the sale of the Alaska Railroad.

This fund was established to finance all grant, contract, and loan activities authorized by the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964.

Under the provisions of the 1970 amendments (Urban Mass Transportation Assistance Act of 1970) authority to obligate $3.1 billion was provided for the capital facilities, relocation, and technical studies activities. Grants and contracts for research, development, and demonstration; managerial training; and university research and training are funded through appropriations.

Capital outlay.—Capital facilities grants.—Pursuant to the provisions of section 3 of the act, funds may be granted to assist States and local public bodies and agencies thereof in financing acquisition, construction, reconstruction, and improvement of facilities and equipment for use, by operation or lease or otherwise, in mass transportation service in urban areas. The grant shall not exceed two-thirds of the net project cost. In 1972 the program level for new approvals will be $497 million. This compares with $284.7 million in 1971.

Relocation grants.—Pursuant to section 7 of the act, capital facilities grants may be made only when there is an adequate relocation program for families and business concerns displaced by the project. While there is no statutory requirement for a relocation program for projects conducted under section 6, it has been determined that relocation programs must be a condition of demonstrations involving the construction of new systems. Grants awarded pursuant to section 7 shall not exceed $200 for an individual or family or $3,000 (or if greater, the certified moving expenses) for a business concern.

Technical studies grants.—Section 9 of the act provides for grants to States and local public bodies and agencies for the planning, engineering, and designing of urban mass transportation projects. Grants under this section shall not exceed two-thirds of the cost of a project. The level of new approvals is estimated at $25 million for 1972 and this compares with $15 million in 1971.

Research, development, and demonstrations.—Under section 6 of the act, grants and contracts may be awarded to undertake research, development, and demonstration projects in all phases of urban mass transportation. The level of new approvals is $75 million for 1972 as compared to $40.3 million in 1971.

University research and training grants.—Grants under section 10 provide for fellowships to train personnel employed in managerial, technical, and professional positions in the urban mass transportation field. Provision is made for 100 fellows at a maximum cost of $12 thousand with a total constraint of $1,500 thousand per year.

Section 11 of the act provides for grants to public and private nonprofit institutions of higher learning to assist in establishing or carrying on comprehensive research in the problems of transportation in urban areas. Activities include training and courses of instruction for persons in this field. The maximum that can be used for these undertakings is $3 million in any year.

Capital facilities loans.—Under section 3 of the act, loans may be made to assist States and local public bodies and agencies thereof in financing acquisition, construction, reconstruction, and improvement of land, facilities, and equipment for use, by operation or lease or otherwise, in mass transportation service in urban areas. There is no planned activity for 1972; and in 1971 a $57 million loan was approved.

Administrative expenses.—Under section 4(c) of the act, all appropriations—excluding liquidating cash appropriations—must be charged against the available contract authority. Under section 12(a) authority exists to use this account for administrative expenses. In 1972, it is proposed that the appropriation to the fund include an item for administrative expenses with the amount ($6.8 million) being transferred to the Salaries and expenses account.

Financing.—This fund was initially capitalized through appropriations and transfer of the assets and liabilities from a demonstration and loan program that was enacted in 1961. On July 1, 1968, a portion of the assets, liabilities, and unexpended balance of the Urban Mass Transportation Fund were transferred to the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The main portion of the fund became the responsibility of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, Department of Transportation. Appropriations are authorized as additional capital to fund for purposes of the research, development, and demonstration; university research and training; and managerial training activities of the program. Contract authority has been provided as capital to conduct the capital facilities relocation and technical studies activities.

Contract authority was granted for a $3,100 million program. However, the act provides that all appropriations (excluding liquidating cash) for program activities and administrative expenses be charged against the contract authority.

The amendments for 1970 provide for appropriations to liquidate obligations. This authority provides for $1,860 million in liquidating cash through June 30, 1975, with an initial amount of $80 million authorized for 1971. It is anticipated that this authority will be exercised during 1971 and this budget contemplates a supplemental for $15 million. As this request for liquidating cash is being made in the first year that the program is using contract authority, the anticipated appropriation is considered new obligational authority and, thus, is a reduction of the $3,100 million.

The requested appropriation for 1972 includes $150 million for liquidating cash. The item does not affect the available amount of contract authority.

Additional capital appropriations for 1972 are required in the amount of $78 million. This will be used for the activities conducted pursuant to sections 6, 10, and 11 of the act.

The Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation, a wholly Government-owned enterprise, is responsible for the development, operation, and maintenance of the St. Lawrence Seaway system in the United States. The Corporation is one of the operating administrations within the Department of Transportation and has offices both in the Department and in Massena, N. Y. (33 U.S.C. 981 et seq.).

The Corporation has joint responsibility with the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority of Canada for the 114-mile reach of the international section of the St. Lawrence River between Lake Ontario and St. Regis, N. Y. Principal facilities of the U.S. Corporation—the Eisenhower and Snell Locks, the Wiley-Dondero Canal, the Corporation's offices, and operational and maintenance facilities—are located in Massena, N. Y., and vicinity.

Budget program.—The Corporation operates and maintains the locks, channels, canals, and related seaway facilities. In addition, a new operational planning and development activity has as its primary objective the encouragement of growth of commerce on the Great Lakes and the seaway, together with maximum utilization of the existing public facilities.

Financing.—The Corporation is authorized to borrow $140 million from the U.S. Treasury for financing the costs of the seaway, of which $133.8 million has been used. The unused balance of $6.2 million is retained to preserve the Corporation's borrowing authority to meet emergency requirements in the future. Public Law 91-469, approved October 21, 1970, amended the act creating the Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation by terminating the accrual and payment of interest on the obligations of the Corporation and for other purposes.

Operating results and financial condition.—The Corporation is self-supporting through tolls assessed shippers using the seaway facilities. All operating costs are paid from toll revenues and net operating income returned to the Treasury in payment of principal.

For 1972, the Corporation's total revenue is estimated at $7.1 million to be applied as follows:

(a) To pay estimated operating expenses for 1972 of $3.3 million consisting of administrative expenses of $0.7 million (subject to congressional limitation), $2.4 million for operation and maintenance of seaway facilities, including $0.2 million for operational planning and development.

(b) To pay estimated capital outlay cost of $0.4 million consisting of $0.3 million for construction and $0.1 million for lock rehabilitation expenses. The 1972 construction program of $0.3 million includes replacement of floating aids with fixed aids in conjunction with extended navigational season, ice control equipment, traffic control equipment, sewage treatment facilities for Corporation's floating plant and commercial vessels, installation of revised timber fender anchorage at upstream Eisenhower Lock, current control study, South Cornwall channel, and various equipment purchases.

(c) To pay $3.4 million for retirement of bonds issued to the U.S. Treasury.

Tolls review.—The review of the St. Lawrence Seaway Tariff of Tolls was completed in 1967 and an agreement with the Government of Canada provided for a review of seaway toll structures after 4 years, at the request of either seaway entity.

The Safety Board investigates, determines the probable cause, and issues reports on all civil aviation accidents; makes final cause determination and reports the facts and circumstances of major surface transportation accidents, relying on the Administrations within the Department of Transportation to investigate such surface transportation accidents; conducts special transportation safety studies; makes recommendations for the purpose of preventing accidents and promoting safety in transportation; examines the adequacy of transportation safety standards and determines compliance with these standards; and reviews on appeal actions against any certificate or license issued by the Secretary or an Administrator of the Department of Transportation.

1. Policy formulation, legal assistance, and information services.—This activity covers the formulation and development of policy and program objectives, providing legal advice and assistance to the Safety Board components, rendering decisions on transportation safety matters, and providing information services concerning the Safety Board's activities.

2. Program execution and support.—This activity covers the centralized management, control, and execution of day-to-day operations of the Safety Board's programs.

3. Aviation accident cause determination and safety promotion.—This activity covers investigations of all U.S. civil aviation accidents, except investigations which are delegated to the Federal Aviation Administration; determining accident cause and reporting the facts and circumstances in all aviation accidents; conducting special studies; and making recommendations on matters pertaining to aviation safety promotion and aviation accident prevention.

4. Surface transportation accident cause determination and safety promotion.—This activity covers the fields of railroad, highway, pipeline, and marine safety. The Safety Board delegates accident cause determinations of most accidents to the Administrations within the Department of Transportation, but reserves the right to make cause determinations and report the facts and circumstances of all surface transportation accidents which it determines to be major. The Safety Board conducts surface transportation studies and acts as an energizer in surface transportation safety promotion and surface transportation accident prevention.

5. Certificate or license appeal.—This activity covers the review on appeal of the suspension, amendment, modification, revocation, or denial of any certificate or license issued by the Secretary or an Administrator of the Department of Transportation.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

【All funds transferred to the Airport and Airway Trust Fund pursuant to section 208c of Public Law 91-258 shall be available for expenditure to meet obligations incurred before July 1, 1970, for the purposes and activities specified in the appropriation act by which said funds were originally appropriated or for obligations and expenditures after June 30, 1970, for the same or similar purposes and activities authorized by Public Law 91-258.】 (Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1971.)

Sec. 301. During the current fiscal year applicable appropriations to the Department of Transportation shall be available for maintenance and operation of aircraft; hire of passenger motor vehicles and aircraft; and uniforms, or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902).

Sec. 302. Funds appropriated under this Act for expenditure by the Federal Aviation Administration may be expended for reimbursement of other Federal agencies for expenses incurred, on behalf of the Federal Aviation Administration, in the settlement of claims for damages resulting from sonic boom in connection with research conducted as part of the civil supersonic aircraft development.

Sec. 303. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

The Secretary of the Treasury may invest the principal of the Pershing Hall Memorial Fund in interest-bearing U.S. bonds. Earnings are paid to the American Legion for use in the maintenance of Pershing Hall in Paris, France (49 Stat. 426).

There is pending legislation which would transfer the control of Pershing Hall to the Administrator of Veterans Affairs. The effect of the proposed legislation will be to abolish the Pershing Hall Memorial Fund and the Secretary of the Treasury shall cover any funds therein into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts and shall liquidate any nonliquid assets in such fund and cover the proceeds therefrom into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

2. Federal tax deposit operations.—Business organizations make deposits through authorized commercial banks or directly with Federal Reserve banks to pay their withheld income, social security, railroad retirement, excise and corporation taxes into the Treasury.

3. Financial reporting and maintenance of the Government's central accounts.—This activity includes the maintenance of the central accounts of appropriations, receipts, and expenditures and the preparation and publication of financial reports on the fiscal operations of the Government as a whole. It also includes accounting for purchases, sales and redemption of securities, processing of capital stock subscriptions of Government corporations, and investment in interest-bearing securities for certain funds such as the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund, the unemployment trust fund, the veterans' insurance trust fund, and various Government retirement funds.

4. Other central fiscal operations.—Banking facilities are provided for all agencies of the Government through designation of selected institutions to act as official depositories of the Government's funds. Other functions included Government-wide guidance and regulations in certain special areas; systems work within the Fiscal Service and the Bureau of Accounts; examination of the financial condition of companies issuing surety bonds in

This account was created as self-insurance to cover losses in shipment of Government property such as coin, currency, securities, certain losses incurred by the Postal Service, and losses in connection with the redemption of savings bonds (40 U.S.C. 722). Since these claims are only partially offset by recoveries, the net losses have gradually increased since 1942 to $2,783 thousand as of June 30, 1970, and are expected to increase to $3,184 thousand by June 30, 1971.

1. Losses in melting gold.—Out of the receipts to be covered into the Treasury under section 7 of the Gold Reserve Act of 1934, an amount is made available sufficient to cover the difference between the value of gold as carried in the general account of the Treasurer of the United States and the value of such gold after melting and refining (48 Stat. 1061).

2. National defense conditional gifts.—The Secretary of the Treasury accepts on behalf of the United States, conditional gifts of money or other intangible property to be used for a particular defense purpose. Intangibles other than money, are converted at the best terms available. The moneys held in trust are paid to those appropriation accounts which best effectuate the intent of the donors (68 Stat. 566).

3. Esther Cattell Schmitt gift fund.—Public Law 87-467 (76 Stat. 88) authorized the acceptance of the gift made to the United States by the will of Esther Cattell Schmitt. The income received from the gift to the United States is paid by the Secretary of the Treasury to beneficiaries named in provisions of the will.

The Bureau of Customs collects the duties and taxes on imported merchandise, inspects all international traffic, regulates certain marine and aircraft activities, combats smuggling, undervaluation, and frauds on the customs revenue, and performs related functions in connection with the importation and exportation of merchandise.

Direct obligations are estimated to be $166,328 thousand for 1972, an increase of $21,778 thousand over the amount now appropriated for 1971. This amount reflects $4,745 thousand for new other increases to maintain the current level of employment, and $17,033 thousand for program increases.

1. Processing of arriving persons and cargo.—This activity processes all persons arriving in the United States and all merchandise imported into the United States. It assesses and collects duties, taxes, and fees on imported merchandise, inspects international traffic, combats smuggling, performs certain marine activities relating to the movement of vessels in the foreign trade, and enforces the laws of other Government agencies affecting imports and exports. It examines and ascertains the value of imported merchandise, and performs scientific analysis and identification of merchandise for tariff and enforcement purposes.

2. Investigations and law enforcement.—The customs agents in the United States and abroad make investigations in the enforcement of the Tariff Act of 1930, the Narcotics Drug Act of 1934, the Gold Reserve Act of 1934, the Export Control Act, and other laws affecting the movement of merchandise into and out of the United States. They also secure market value information for customs import specialists. In 1970, a total of 32,040 investigations were made. The estimates for 1971 and 1972 are 37,000 and 38,000, respectively.

3. Internal audit.—Performs internal audit of procedures, accounts and records, property and control of imported merchandise, as well as the evaluation of entry procedures on import and drawback entries. Also audits the accounts and records of customhouse brokers and of certain wool manufacturers and processors.

² Balances of selected resources are identified in the statement of financial condition.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing designs, manufactures and supplies most of the major evidences of a financial character issued by the United States. It is the sole source of U.S. currency and Federal Reserve notes, various public debt instruments, as well as most of the minor evidences of a financial character issued by the United States, such as food coupons, postage and internal revenue stamps. In addition, the Bureau prints a wide variety of miscellaneous commissions, certificates, etc., and executes certain printings for various territories administered by the United States, particularly postage and revenue stamps.

The anticipated work volume is based on estimates of requirements submitted by agencies served. The program comprises the following activities:

1. Engraving and printing.—(a) Currency.—Estimates for the current and budget years indicate an increase in delivery requirements to 2.9 and 3.1 billion notes, respectively, as compared with the delivery of 2.5 billion notes in 1970. Annual savings of over $1 million will be realized on this product during 1971 and 1972 primarily as a result of increased employee productivity. In spite of the continuing rise in the cost of labor and materials the unit cost rates for manufacturing currency are projected at $7.73 per thousand notes for 1971 and $7.84 for 1972, substantially below the actual cost of $8.02 per thousand notes in 1970.

(b) Stamps.—This category of work is comprised mainly of postage and internal revenue stamps, and food coupons. The budget estimates for 1971 and 1972 show continued substantial increases in the requirements for this class of work, primarily in books of food coupons which are ordered by the Department of Agriculture. Estimates for the current and budget year indicate an increase in the delivery requirements of food coupons to 1.7 billion and 1.9 billion coupons, respectively, as compared with the delivery of 964 million coupons in 1970.

(c) Securities.—This program encompasses the production of a wide variety of bonds, notes, and debentures for the Bureau of the Public Debt and certain other agencies of the Government. A substantial decrease in the estimated requirements for Treasury bills is noted for 1971 and 1972 as compared with the quantity delivered to the Bureau of the Public Debt in 1970. The decrease is due primarily to the discontinuance by that agency of issuing the $1 thousand and $5 thousand denomination Treasury bill which constituted a large share of the total requirements for this particular type of security.

(d) Commissions, certificates, etc.—An increase of approximately 11% is noted in the number of units to be delivered for this class of work in 1972 as compared with the actual year 1970. However, the production costs associated with these items represent a very small percentage of the overall engraving and printing program of the Bureau.

2. Operation and maintenance of the incinerator and space utilized by other agencies.—Charges are made to other agencies on an actual cost basis for use of the incinerator and maintenance services provided for the space they occupy in the Bureau's buildings.

3. Other direct charges for miscellaneous services.—Charges for a wide variety of miscellaneous services performed by Bureau personnel are made to the agencies concerned on an actual cost basis.

Bureau operations resulted in a loss of $96 thousand in 1970. This loss will be recovered from any profits accruing in subsequent years, in accordance with the provisions of 31 U.S.C. 181. Budget expenditures were $236 thousand below receipts in 1970. Due to heavy expenditures for the purchase of fixed assets, budget expenditures are expected to be in excess of receipts in the amount of $1,200 thousand in 1971 and $1,626 thousand in 1972.

An appropriation of $3 million is being requested in 1972 to increase the capital of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing Fund to provide for purchase of additional equipment. This will increase the capital of the fund to $28.3 million, represented by appropriations of $6.3 million and donated assets of $22 million.

The Bureau of the Mint manufactures coins, receives deposits of gold and silver bullion, safeguards the Government's holdings of monetary metals, and refines gold and silver bullion.

1. Manufacture of coins.—Production of coins is the major Mint activity. Funds requested for 1972 will permit production of approximately 9.2 billion coins, including 200 million dollar coins bearing the likeness of the late President of the United States, Dwight David Eisenhower, as authorized by Public Law 91-607, approved December 31, 1970.

A supplemental appropriation in the amount of $3,000 thousand is anticipated to provide additional funds necessary to reimburse the Federal Reserve banks for their services as fiscal agents of the Bureau due to an increase in workload and a rise in the cost of salaries, goods, and services.

INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

The Internal Revenue Service is responsible for administration and enforcement of the internal revenue laws. It seeks to preserve and enhance the productivity of the Nation's tax system by fostering voluntary compliance with internal revenue laws and reducing noncompliance.

To encourage lawful compliance with these laws the Service maintains an automatic data processing master file system, informs taxpayers of the requirements of law, assists them in fulfilling these requirements, audits tax returns, collects unpaid taxes, investigates and prosecutes willful tax evaders, etc.

The number of taxpayers and the volume of revenue increases as the population, individual prosperity, and national economy increase. This growth is reflected in the following figures:

Calendar year:	Tax returns filed (in millions)	Gross revenue collections (in billions of dollars)
1963 actual.....	97.8	105.9
1968 actual.....	107.6	153.6

1971 estimate.....	108.5	206.4

¹ See estimate in Part 4 of the Budget document.

The additional funds requested for 1972 are principally to provide additional manpower (net of productivity increases) to maintain compliance levels on the 111.3 million tax returns expected, and to meet increased costs of maintaining the staff already authorized. Important technological advances are utilized by extending the use of the direct data entry system. Three additional Internal Revenue Service Centers will provide for processing of the increased volume of tax returns.

This appropriation provides for the overall planning and direction of the Internal Revenue Service, and the internal audit and internal security functions. This 1972 appropriation request will maintain a balanced level of administrative programs, internal audits, and integrity investigations.

1. Executive direction.—This activity sets policies and goals; provides the research and planning necessary for orderly and effective accomplishment of the Revenue Service's mission; provides leadership and direction in the execution of plans; and provides for the administrative support of all operations.

2. Internal audit and security.—This activity establishes and verifies maintenance of quality controls in the Revenue Service. It provides a continuing and independent review of all Revenue Service operations, thereby assuring the Commissioner and operational managers that appropriated funds are spent only for authorized purposes, that tax revenues are properly safeguarded, and that public confidence in the integrity of Revenue Service employees is maintained.

This appropriation provides for all actions associated with the mailing out of tax return forms and instructions, receipt of completed returns and payments, deposit of the payments, and verification through a master file ADP system of the accuracy of information provided on the tax returns. It also provides for payment of refunds, offset of refunds against delinquent accounts, issuance of notices that payments are overdue, identification of possible tax evaders (nonfilers) for investigation, and assistance in selection of tax returns which appear to warrant an audit. It provides for preparation of reports (statistics of income) based on tax return data, for other statistical studies of the tax system, and for forecasting (for work planning purposes) the number of tax returns to be filed by type, size, and geographical area (and related workload data) for many years ahead.

Service center automated operations and district manual operations are concerned with tax return processing and revenue accounting. Statistical reporting provides for the statistics of income, other statistical research and reports, and for tax return and related workload forecasting.

The additional funds requested for 1972 are principally to keep pace with workload resulting from growth in population and the economy. Important technological advances are anticipated by extending the use of direct data entry equipment, by introducing an automated data retrieval system, and by providing computer capability for improved analysis of the effectiveness of Internal Revenue Service operations. Three additional Internal Revenue service centers will provide for processing the increasing volume of more complex tax returns.

This appropriation provides (1) for assistance to taxpayers in understanding and complying with the tax laws and (2) for detecting and correcting instances of noncompliance.

Additional funds requested for 1972 are necessary to strengthen the compliance enforcement capacity of the tax administration system and permit progress toward program levels which will insure a continued high degree of voluntary compliance with the internal revenue laws. This requires the Service to stop the trend of declining audit coverage and to begin restoration of an adequate audit program, to accelerate identification of taxpayers who do not file returns, to promptly collect taxes due but unpaid, and to provide quality taxpayer service and education.

1. Audit of tax returns.—This activity provides for a selective examination of tax returns to see if taxpayers have properly complied with the internal revenue laws. It corrects errors and explains corrections to the taxpayers. It also makes determinations as to whether certain organizations or funds are exempt from taxation.

2. Collection of delinquent accounts and securing delinquent returns.—This activity provides assistance to taxpayers in understanding their tax obligations and is responsible for securing tax returns due but unfiled and collecting taxes due but unpaid.

3. Tax fraud and special investigations.—This activity provides for enforcement of the criminal statutes relating to violations of tax laws. It investigates cases of suspected intent to defraud; recommends prosecution as warranted; and assists in the preparation and trial of criminal tax cases. It is responsible for directing Service participation in the drive against organized crime.

4. Alcohol, tobacco, and firearms regulation and enforcement.—This activity provides for administration and enforcement of internal revenue laws and regulations relating to alcohol and tobacco products. It is also responsible for administering and enforcing the Federal Alcohol Administration Act, the National Firearms Act, and title IV of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968.

5. Taxpayer conferences and appeals.—This activity provides for administrative consideration and settlement of taxpayer appeals of audit findings.

6. Technical rulings and services.—This activity develops tax return forms, instructions, and guides; issues rulings and opinions as to application of the tax laws, and meets with taxpayer groups to review and resolve special tax problems.

7. Legal services.—This activity provides for the legal counsel and legal assistance needed by the Service to administer and enforce the internal revenue laws.

This revolving fund was established pursuant to section 112(a) of the Federal Tax Lien Act of 1966 solely to serve as the source of financing the redemption of real property by the United States. In collecting delinquent taxes, situations arise where it is to the Government's advantage to buy property on which it has a lien when the property is sold at a foreclosure sale brought by the holder of a lien which is superior to the Government's. The advantage arises when the property is worth substantially more than the first lien holder's equity, but is being sold for an amount that barely covers that equity, thereby leaving no proceeds to apply against delinquent taxes. Under these circumstances if the Government buys the property and subsequently puts it up for sale under more advantageous conditions, it is possible to realize sufficient profit on the transaction to fully or partially collect the amount of taxes due. The revolving fund is reimbursed from the proceeds of the sale in an amount equal to the amount expended from the fund for the redemption. The balance of the proceeds are applied against the amount of the tax, interest, penalties, and additions thereto, and for the costs of sale. The remainder, if any, would revert to the parties legally entitled to it.

This office: (a) receives, keeps, and disburses the moneys of the United States; (b) processes claims for the proceeds of Government checks; (c) issues and redeems currency and Government securities; (d) maintains fiscal accounts; and (e) prepares financial statements and reports.

1. Payment and reconciliation of checks.—This activity maintains checking accounts of Government disbursing officers and Government-owned corporations; proves all debits and credits to the general account of the Treasurer by Federal Reserve banks and U.S. depositories; performs centralized payment function of all checks drawn on the Treasurer of the United States; reconciles deposits claimed and checks issued as reported by disbursing officers with the deposits credited and checks paid by the Treasurer and determines the outstanding checks in each disbursing account. Electronic equipment has been used by this activity since August 1956 in paying and reconciling checks. Postal money orders have also been processed on this equipment since June 1962 as a reimbursable service for the Postal Service.

In addition to Government checks and postal money orders, Federal tax deposit forms are also being processed on this equipment. This form represents payment of corporation, employment, and excise taxes. The amounts paid are deposited in the Treasurer's account and the forms are sent to the Treasurer for proving and for conversion of the information on the forms to magnetic tape. The tape records are then sent to Internal Revenue Service for direct input to its computerized central filing system of Federal taxes.

The Check Forgery Insurance Fund was established in the amount of $50 thousand by the act approved November 21, 1941 (31 U.S.C. 561). It was increased to $100 thousand by appropriation of an additional $50 thousand in 1964 and further increased to $200 thousand by appropriation of $100 thousand in 1970.

The fund is for use by the Treasurer in making settlement with the payees or special endorsees in cases of checks drawn on the Treasurer which have been paid on forged endorsements in which it appears that recovery from those liable may be delayed or be unsuccessful.

The Service must provide for the protection of the President of the United States, members of his immediate family, the President-elect, the Vice President or other officer next in the order of succession to the office of the President, and the Vice President-elect; persons who are determined to be major presidential or vice presidential candidates, unless such protection is declined; the person of a former President and his wife during his lifetime, the person of the widow of a former President until her death or remarriage and minor children of a former President until they reach 16 years of age, unless such protection is declined. The Service is also responsible for investigation of counterfeiting of currency, specie, and securities; forgery and altering of Government checks and bonds; and noncriminal cases.

The Executive Protective Service protects the Executive Residence and grounds in the District of Columbia and any building in which White House offices are located. This operation is clearly allied with the personal protection of the President and his family while they are in residence. In addition, the Executive Protective Service protects foreign diplomatic missions in the Washington metropolitan area and such other areas in the United States as the President may direct on a case-by-case basis.

The Treasury Security Force is responsible for safeguarding paper currency and other Government securities and obligations in the money and security handling divisions of the Treasury Department. It also provides protection for the main Treasury building and its annex.

The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency was created for the purpose of establishing and regulating a national banking system. The National Currency Act of 1863 (12 U.S.C. 1 et seq., 12 Stat. 665) provided for the chartering and supervising functions in this connection. The income of the Comptroller's Office is derived principally from assessments paid by national banks and interest on investments in U.S. Government obligations. In accordance with 12 U.S.C. 481 assessments paid by national banks are not construed to be Government funds. No funds derived from taxes or Federal appropriations are allocated to or used by the Comptroller's Office in any of its operations.

The administrator of national banks charters new banking institutions only after investigation and due consideration. Supervision of existing national banks is aided by the required submission of periodic reports and detailed, on-site examinations, the latter conducted by a staff of approximately 1,550 national bank examiners. At the present time there are approximately 4,650 national banks having in excess of 12,000 operating branches and total assets of $315 billion. As a result of the reports submitted and the examinations conducted, the Office determines the financial condition of individual national banks and the system as a whole, the soundness of operations and compliance with applicable laws and regulations.

In addition, the Comptroller considers applications for mergers in which the resulting bank will be a national bank, and applications from banks to establish branches. The Comptroller of the Currency promulgates rules and regulations for the guidance of national banks, bank directors, etc., and publishes them as manuals so that they are readily available to the interested parties.

² Includes U.S. securities. see footnote on statement of financial condition.

For the purpose of stabilizing the exchange value of the dollar, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to enter into stabilization agreements, and to deal in gold and foreign exchange and other instruments of credit and securities. An exchange stabilization fund, with a capital of $200 million (derived from the increment resulting from the reduction in the weight of the gold dollar which took place in 1934) is authorized by law for this purpose (31 U.S.C. 822a). All earnings and interest accruing are paid into this fund and are available for the purposes thereof, including expenses. Transactions in Special Drawing Rights and U.S. holdings of SDRs are administered by this fund.

The principal sources of the fund's income have been the handling charge imposed on purchases and sales of gold for the account of the fund, profits on foreign exchange transactions, and interest on investments held by the fund. The income of the fund has consistently exceeded its expenses; the cumulative income of the fund from the time it began operations has been $472.5 million and its expenses $72 million, resulting in a net income as of June 30, 1970, of $400.5 million.

It is not practicable to forecast the transactions of the fund in gold, foreign currencies, foreign investments, and the like. The budget schedules, therefore, are incomplete for all items other than operating expenses for 1971 and 1972.

Liabilities of the fund include $650 million advanced to the fund as a result of drawings of foreign currencies by the Secretary from the International Monetary Fund.

GENERAL PROVISION

SEC. 101. Appropriations in this Act to the Department of the Treasury shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-2) including maintenance, repairs, and cleaning; and services as authorized by title 5, United States Code, section 3109. (Treasury Department Appropriation Act, 1971.)

TITLE VI—GENERAL PROVISION

SEC. 601. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein. (Treasury, Post Office, and Executive Office Appropriation Act, 1971.)

ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION

Federal Funds

General and special funds:

OPERATING EXPENSES

For necessary operating expenses of the Commission in carrying out the purposes of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, including the employment of aliens; services authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109; hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; publication and dissemination of atomic information; purchase, repair and cleaning of uniforms; official entertainment expenses (not to exceed $30,000); reimbursement of the General Services Administration for security guard services; hire of passenger motor vehicles; [$1,929,160,000] $1,884,880,000 and any moneys (except sums received from disposal of property under the Atomic Energy Community Act of 1955, as amended (42 U.S.C. 2301)) received by the Commission, notwithstanding the provisions of section 3617 of the Revised Statutes (31 U.S.C. 484), to remain available until expended: Provided, That of such amount $100,000 may be expended for objects of a confidential nature and in any such case the certificate of the Commission as to the amount of the expenditure and that it is deemed inadvisable to specify the nature thereof shall be deemed a sufficient voucher for the sum therein expressed to have been expended: Provided further, That from this appropriation transfers of sums may be made to other agencies of the Government for the performance of the work for which this appropriation is made, and in such cases the sums so transferred may be merged with the appropriation to which transferred: Provided further, That no part of this appropriation shall be used in connection with the payment of a fixed fee to any contractor or firm of contractors engaged under a cost-plus-a-fixed-fee contract or contracts at any installation of the Commission, where that fee for community management is at a rate in excess of $90,000 per annum, or for the operation of a transportation system where that fee is at a rate in excess of $45,000 per annum. (42 U.S.C. 2011; 2017; 2291; 84 Stat. 299; Public Works for Water, Pollution Control, and Power Development and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1971; additional authorizing legislation to be proposed.)

Note.—Excludes $146 thousand in 1972 for activities transferred to Operations, research, and facilities, Environmental Protection Agency. The transfer shown as appropriations adjustments above in 1971 includes $85 thousand for such activities.

The Atomic Energy Commission conducts a variety of production, research and development, and supporting activities directed toward its responsibilities for national defense and peaceful applications of atomic energy. Most of the activities are carried on in Government-owned facilities by industrial concerns and educational institutions operating under contracts.

Total program costs in 1972 are estimated at $2,152.3 million or $25.4 million less than the estimated 1971 costs of $2,177.7 million, and $26.5 million less than actual costs of $2,178.8 million for 1970. The 1972 decreases are principally in the nuclear materials, reactor development, and physical research programs, partially offset by an increase in the weapons program.

In 1972, total program obligations will exceed program costs, the difference being obligations incurred for future years' costs. Total program obligations for operating expenses in 1972 are estimated to be $2,190.4 million compared to $2,198.0 million in 1971, and $2,126.2 million in 1970.

The schedule of costs by activity does not include non-budgetary costs such as depreciation charges, accrued annual leave earned but not taken by AEC employees, and the cost of source and special nuclear materials consumed; in total, these are as follows: 1970, $523.9 million; 1971 estimate, $577.7 million; 1972 estimate, $629 million.

1. Nuclear materials.—By far the largest segment of this program relates to the production of special nuclear materials primarily for use in nuclear weapons and as fuel for nuclear reactors. The program also provides for the development of information on the availability of source materials and for research and development for the safeguarding of nuclear materials and for filter testing and related operational safety activities.

Production of special nuclear materials is carried on at major production plants located at Richland, Wash.; Savannah River, S.C.; Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Paducah, Ky.; and Portsmouth, Ohio. Production of uranium enriched in the isotope U²³⁵ will continue to increase in 1972 as additional electric power is purchased for the operation of the gaseous diffusion plants. Production costs related to reactor products will decrease significantly in 1972 reflecting the shutdown of the KE and N reactors at Richland.

The increased level of enriched uranium production reflects the rising demand for the enrichment of uranium by the electric power industry. AEC charges industry for its services in enriching uranium, and the related revenues are included in the receipts from non-Federal sources in the program and financing schedule.

With the expiration of U₃O₈ concentrate procurement contracts on December 31, 1970, effort in this area in 1972 will be directed toward obtaining and evaluating information on the availability of source materials. In 1972, work will also continue on process improvements to assure efficiency and safety of operation and to develop more economical methods of production. By major categories, the costs are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Category	1970 actual	1971 estimate	1972 estimate
Source materials.....	50,444	17,900	1,500
Special nuclear materials:
Production of enriched uranium.....	131,550	150,890	195,155
Production of plutonium and other reactor products.....	161,159	154,221	128,585
Other.....	23,271	32,247	23,538
Safeguards and operational safety activities.....	5,176	6,276	6,372
Total.....	371,600	361,534	355,150

2. Weapons.—The weapons program encompasses production of nuclear weapons; maintenance of stockpiled weapons in a state of constant readiness; design, development, and underground testing of new weapons types, including the use of supplemental test sites; and participation with the Department of Defense in the test readiness program and in the development of test detection methods. By major category, the costs are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Category	1970 actual	1971 estimate	1972 estimate
Production.....	304,931	362,390	403,700
Research and development.....	250,666	247,625	247,600
Testing of nuclear weapons.....	251,930	219,245	196,800
Total weapons.....	807,527	829,260	848,100

3. Reactor development.—This program includes the development of nuclear power reactors for central station applications and the development of power and propulsion reactors for military, civilian, and space applications, together with research and development on reactor technology and nuclear safety. By major category, the costs are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Category	1970 actual	1971 estimate	1972 estimate
Civilian power reactors.....	124,555	129,600	144,800
Cooperative power reactor demonstration program.....	6,745	11,609	13,078
Space propulsion systems.....	46,372	42,880	15,000
Space electric power development.....	34,503	31,975	21,600
Terrestrial electric power development.....	3,495	900	1,000
General reactor technology.....	45,657	42,000	38,500
Nuclear safety.....	37,098	35,940	35,940
Operational services.....	2,721	1,880	1,550
Naval propulsion reactors.....	121,810	136,800	140,000
Total reactor development program.....	422,956	433,584	411,468

The emphasis of the civilian power reactor program will continue to be placed on advancing power reactor technology in order to achieve large-scale generation of economical electrical energy and conservation of natural resources. In particular, the development program on the Liquid Metal Fast Breeder Reactor (LMFBR) will increase to support the plan leading to an economic fast breeder nuclear power plant. Research and development on advanced converter and thermal breeder power reactors will be continued.

Costs of $13.1 million will be incurred for the cooperative power reactor demonstration program in which AEC provides financial aid to assist industry in development and construction of civilian power reactor prototypes of advanced design. Support of a cooperative arrangement for LMFBR demonstration plant of about 300 to 500 MWe will be underway following completion of the project definition phase.

The space propulsion systems program is carried out in cooperation with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to develop nuclear rocket technology for potential space applications. In 1972, based on national priorities, NERVA flight engine development will be sharply reduced, with limited effort continuing on engine technology and reduced effort on advanced nuclear propulsion research and technology.

The space electric power development program is conducted in cooperation with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Department of Defense to develop nuclear reactor and radioisotopic power systems for space applications. Development of an electric generator for use on NASA's planned Viking (Mars Lander) mission and a multihundred watt module for higher-power missions will be emphasized in 1972. However, the development of reactor systems will be reduced.

The terrestrial electric power program provides for the development of a radioisotopic power system for use in a cardiac pacemaker.

General reactor technology includes development work in support of the overall reactor program in such areas as reactor fuels, materials, physics, heat transfer, components, chemistry, and chemical separations.

The nuclear safety program provides for research and development and investigation of safety problems, conduct of field tests, and application of effective engineered safeguards in the construction and operation of nuclear reactors and other nuclear facilities. In 1972 added emphasis will be placed on fast breeder reactor safety.

The naval propulsion reactors program provides for the design and development of improved nuclear propulsion plants and reactor cores for installation in naval vessels ranging from small submarines to large combatant surface ships.

4. Physical research.—This program comprises basic and applied research in the physical sciences. By major categories, the costs are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Category	1970 actual	1971 estimate	1972 estimate
High energy physics.....	120,483	118,585	114,400
Medium energy physics.....	12,789	13,040	12,800
Low energy physics.....	29,429	27,659	25,300
Mathematics and computer research.....	5,779	5,370	4,800
Chemistry research.....	53,882	51,578	49,000
Metallurgy and materials research.....	27,730	26,779	25,200
Controlled thermonuclear research.....	27,726	28,409	28,000
Total physical research.....	277,818	271,420	259,500

The Commission serves as executive agent for the Nation's high energy physics program. An increase is required for the National Accelerator Laboratory, primarily for tuning and shakedown of the 200 Bev accelerator and preparing for experimental operations. Costs for the overall high energy physics program are below the 1971 level, requiring reductions in other program activities to accommodate this increase.

Support for the medium energy physics program will be slightly below the 1971 level. Within this total, an increase is required for the Los Alamos Meson Physics Facility to continue construction-related research and development and to prepare for the research programs. A small increase at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology provides for bringing the 400 Mev electron linac into operation. Other activities in medium energy physics will be reduced to offset these increases.

The objective of the controlled thermonuclear research program is to determine whether the energy released by thermonuclear reactions can be controlled and developed into an economical and environmentally attractive source of energy. This research will continue in 1972 using experimental devices to test recent concepts for improved plasma confinement and to study the technology required to produce, control, and use the large-volume fusion plasmas necessary to achieve reactor-like conditions. Funds for controlled thermonuclear research are slightly below the 1971 level.

Other activities of the physical research program—low energy physics, mathematics and computer research, chemistry research, and metallurgy and materials research—are also somewhat below the 1971 levels.

5. Biology and medicine.—Basic and applied research and development is conducted on the effects of radiation on living organisms and on the environment, protection against the injurious effects of radiation, and development of methods for using radioactive materials in the diagnosis, treatment, and understanding of human diseases such as cancer. The program includes measurement and study of the effects of radioactivity (including fallout) in the environment for developing standards to insure that nuclear activities are conducted safely. The program is coordinated with other Government agencies conducting programs in related aspects of biomedical research.

Primary emphasis in 1972 will be placed on program areas of particular importance and urgency including: (1) the late effects of low doses of radiation, (2) tumorigenicity of particles of plutonium and other alpha emitters, and (3) thermal alteration of land, fresh water, marine and atmospheric environments. The overall biology and medicine program will be held at the 1971 levels; therefore, in order to provide increases for the above activities other portions of the program will be reduced in 1972.

6. Training, education and information.—This program includes specialized training courses; graduate fellowships and traineeships; assistance to schools, faculty and students; operation of the Puerto Rico Nuclear Center; training in materials safeguards; dissemination of scientific and technical information; and operation of nuclear science and technology demonstrations and exhibits, including costs for participation in the United Nations' Fourth International Conference on the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy.

In 1972, AEC will provide only for continuation of existing graduate fellowships and traineeships. The cooperative use of specialized atomic energy laboratory facilities and staff in assisting the educational programs of colleges and universities throughout the country will continue.

Training in materials safeguards will be provided in order to detect and deter possible diversion of nuclear materials from peaceful to unauthorized use.

To broaden knowledge and understanding of atomic energy, information will be provided at both a technical and popular level. Results of scientific research and technical developments will be made available to other Government agencies and to the public.

7. Isotopes development.—This program is designed to promote and encourage the development of new uses of radioisotopes and radiation technology. Developmental emphasis will be on an optimally designed long-life radioisotope engine for an artificial heart including fabrication, performance, and feasibility evaluation. Development of isotopic measuring and diagnostic systems for tracing and analyzing environmental pollution will be continued. Other activities of the isotopes development program will be maintained in 1972 at a reduced level.

8. Civilian applications of nuclear explosives.—This program, also known as Plowshare, provides for the investigation, development, and demonstration of peaceful uses for nuclear explosives. The 1972 program primarily involves effort in the underground engineering area, especially on those applications of great industrial interest involving natural gas stimulation. No nuclear experiments are planned for execution during 1972, although design of nuclear explosives especially for underground engineering applications and continuing work with private industry regarding future cooperative industrial experiments are planned.

9. Communities.—Operating costs for the community program are estimated at $4.5 million in 1972. The 1972 estimate includes assistance payments to the former AEC communities of Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Los Alamos, N. Mex., under the Atomic Energy Community Act of 1955, as amended. The estimate also includes costs at Los Alamos, principally for fire protection.

10. Regulation.—This program covers salaries and other costs for employees engaged in the discharge of regulatory functions of the Commission including development of policies, standards, and procedures; administering licenses and regulations applicable to licensees; compliance and safeguards inspections for licensees; and cooperation with States in regulatory activities. The 1972 estimate provides for 633 employees located in the headquarters and field offices. This is an increase of 75 from the June 30, 1971, employment level.

11. Program direction and administration.—This program includes the salaries and other costs for employees engaged in executive direction, general management, and technical supervision of the atomic energy program. Employees are located in the Washington headquarters and in field offices. The 1972 estimate provides for 5,070 employees, which is a decrease of 92 from the level estimated for June 30, 1971.

12. Security investigations.—The Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, requires investigations of those persons proposed for access to restricted data of the atomic energy program. The number of background investigations to be requested in 1972 is estimated at 13,795 compared with 15,450 for 1971 and 13,228 for 1970.

13. Cost of work for others.—In furthering the objective of widespread utilization of atomic energy for peaceful purposes, AEC, when requested, furnishes materials and services to industrial organizations and other private parties. Charges made for such products and services are reflected in the budget under receipts and reimbursements from non-Federal sources (revenues applied) and are applied as a source of funds, thereby reducing the amount of appropriations required. The items included are (in thousands of dollars):

This appropriation provides for construction of plant and facilities and for acquisition of capital equipment required for the production, research and development, and supporting programs of the Atomic Energy Commission. In addition to the budget authority of $366.6 million being requested for 1972, carryover funds amounting to $3.1 million will also be available for these purposes, bringing total planned obligations to $369.7 million. Of this total $77.6 million applies to new construction projects or modification of existing facilities, $89.8 million is applicable to construction projects which were previously authorized by Congress, $42.4 million is applicable to projects for which amended authorization is being requested, and $159.9 million is required for acquisition of capital equipment not related to construction.

The 1972 funds applicable to the previously authorized projects now underway include $2.6 million for the equipment test facility, Oak Ridge, Tenn. (total estimated cost $6.4 million); $10 million for the new weapons production capabilities project (total estimated cost $315 million); $22.5 million for the Fast Flux Test Facility (total estimated cost $102.8 million); $48 million for the 200 Bev accelerator, Du Page and Kane Counties near Chicago, Ill. (total estimated cost $250 million); and $6.7 million for the meson physics facility, Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, N. Mex. (total estimated cost $56 million).

The equipment test facility project will provide space, power supplies, instrumentation and prototype equipment for the purpose of testing the performance of new types of production equipment in order to determine the economics of using similar equipment in a production process. The weapons production project provides for new capability and increased capacity for production of warheads of the Minuteman, Poseidon and Safeguard systems. The Fast Flux Test Facility, as part of the Liquid Metal Fast Breeder Reactor program, will provide an irradiation reactor for testing fuel and clad materials in a fast flux sodium cooled environment. The 200 Bev accelerator will provide the highest energy proton beam in the world, permitting experiments to be conducted in an energy range which is now inaccessible. The meson physics facility will be a medium energy accelerator capable of producing a particle beam of extremely high intensity for basic research in physics.

The 1972 request for projects partially authorized in past years includes additional funding of $36.4 million for fire, safety, and adequacy of operating conditions projects, various locations (total estimated cost still under review); $0.3 million for conversion of heating plant to natural gas, Argonne National Laboratory, Ill. (total estimated cost $0.9 million); and $5.7 million for the sodium pump test facility (total estimated cost $12.5 million).

New construction projects include $5 million to reduce releases of radioactive materials from AEC facilities. These funds will be used for the design, procurement, fabrication and installation of equipment, together with the necessary plant modifications to existing chemical processing, waste management and supporting facilities, and for construction of new facilities. New construction projects also include partial funding of $3.5 million for initiation of design and land acquisition for a national radioactive waste repository at Lyons, Kans., for the storage of radioactive waste in an abandoned salt mine (total estimated cost $25 million).

A wide variety of capital equipment is procured to fill the various needs of all operating programs. Such needs range from routine replacement of worn out and obsolete equipment to procurement of new research devices and computers. Additions are needed for expanding programs and to keep pace with rapidly changing technology in the production and research programs.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 101. Not to exceed 5 per centum of appropriations made available for the current fiscal year for "Operating expenses" and "Plant and capital equipment" may be transferred between such appropriations, but neither such appropriation, except as otherwise provided herein, shall be increased by more than 5 per centum by any such transfers, and any such transfers shall be reported promptly to the Appropriations Committees of the House and Senate.

SEC. 102. No part of any appropriation herein shall be used to confer a fellowship on any person who advocates or who is a member of an organization or party that advocates the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force or violence or with respect to whom the Commission finds, upon investigation and report by the Civil Service Commission on the character, associations, and loyalty of whom, that reasonable grounds exist for belief that such person is disloyal to the Government of the United States: Provided, That any person who advocates or who is a member of an organization or party that advocates the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force or violence and accepts employment or a fellowship the salary, wages, stipend, grant, or expenses for which are paid from any appropriation contained herein shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both, Provided further, That the above penal clause shall be in addition to: and not in substitution for, any other provisions of existing law. (42 U.S.C. 2011; Public Works for Water, Pollution Control, and Power Development and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1971.)

Includes $3,815 thousand in 1971 transferred as an unobligated balance from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Environmental Health Service, Buildings and facilities.

Includes $2,607 thousand in 1970 for activities transferred to Food and drug control.

The Environmental Protection Agency, established December 2, 1970, by Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1970, has responsibility for the major Federal pollution control and abatement programs.

1. Abatement and control.—Planning grants and control agency support grants are awarded to State, regional, and local agencies for planning, establishing, and improving environmental quality programs. Monitoring and surveillance is performed to determine baseline quality conditions, pollution problems, and to evaluate the performance of control devices. Criteria are recommended and standards are established in cooperation with State and local agencies, and enforcement actions are instituted to assure compliance. Technical assistance is provided to Federal agencies, States, interstate regions, local communities, and industries as cooperative endeavors and also in response to emergency situations.

2. Manpower development.—This activity is conducted to increase the supply and improve the performance of manpower required for environmental protection activities. Training and fellowship grants and other forms of assistance are awarded to educational institutions, States, and individuals; and in-house training programs are conducted in field facilities for personnel of Federal, State, and local governments, industry and educational institutions.

3. Research, development, and demonstration.—Research and development activities deal with causes, sources, transport, fate, and effects of pollutants in ecological systems; the development of monitoring technology; the determination of pollution exposure effects from all sources on man and environment; and the development of criteria, standards, and regulations to protect man and his environment from pollution. Research, development, and demonstration activities are also conducted to develop and maintain current knowledge of devices and technologies for the abatement and control of pollution. Research, development, and demonstration activities are conducted under grants, contracts, and other agreements involving universities, industry, private firms, nonprofit organizations, State and local governments, and other Federal agencies, and through activities conducted at EPA's laboratories and field locations.

4. Facilities.—This activity provides for construction of laboratory facilities and alterations, repairs, and improvements to existing facilities. Part of the funds were appropriated in prior years.

5. Program direction and support.—This activity includes the Office of the Administrator, regional administrators, and the executive staffs of mission-oriented programs in the areas of water, air, solid wastes, radiation, and pesticides. It provides executive direction and leadership, administrative management, and supporting services such as program planning and evaluation, personnel administration, budgeting, accounting, auditing, and training.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders 1969, $3,103 (1970 adjustments-$176 thousand); 1970, $5,366 thousand; 1971, $5,366 thousand; 1972, $5,366 thousand.

This appropriation provides for the basic real property operations of General Services Administration, including acquisition, operation, maintenance, protection, and utilization of general-purpose buildings and space; for overall direction of buildings design, construction, and repair and modernization.

The appropriation request for 1972 of $403,981 thousand is a net increase of $32,191 thousand above the comparable amount for 1971. The 1971 amount includes proposed transfers of $15,537 thousand for annual cost of expansion space acquired in 1970, not provided for in GSA's 1971 budget; $6,806 thousand proposed for separate transmittal for wage-board and pay act increases effected in 1971; and $1,097 thousand for pay increases for guards in the metropolitan District of Columbia area.

The net increase of $32,191 thousand provides primarily for management and operation of new Federal buildings scheduled for occupancy in 1971 and 1972, and for increased protection of property under charge and control of GSA, or the Postal Service, offset by credits for space released resulting from new construction.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1969, $35,300 thousand (1970 adjustments, -$945 thousand); 1970, $32,416 thousand; 1971, $30,399 thousand; 1972, $33,099 thousand.

This appropriation provides for day-to-day maintenance repair work of all types, repairs, remodeling, improvement of space and tenant alterations, and conversions and extensions of federally owned buildings under the jurisdiction of the General Services Administration for these purposes. The budget for 1972 provides for continuation of the long-range program initiated in 1957 to maintain buildings in such condition so as not to adversely affect efficient operations of occupying agencies.

1. Maintenance repairs.—Normal needs for day-to-day repairs to buildings and equipment are programed at a rate of $0.20 per net square foot for general office-type space and $0.06 per net square foot for warehouse-type space.

2. Repairs and improvements.—Major and minor repair and improvement projects are selected from an inventory of urgently needed work to bring the properties up to modern standards of usefulness, and to eliminate sources of air and water pollution in the major heating plants in the metropolitan area of the District of Columbia.

3. Conversions and extensions.—Building conversions and extensions estimated to cost in excess of $25 thousand are performed under this heading to provide space to meet current requirements.

4. Program direction.—Overall direction and program development are provided under this activity.

² Estimates based on current market conditions.

The recommended appropriation of $183.8 million for 1972 provides for eight new projects, and funding for three superstructures.

Legislation will be proposed to the Congress which would authorize the utilization of Government-owned building sites and architectural plans and specifications by private entrepreneurs who would construct buildings for long-term lease to the Government. The proposed legislation would authorize lease construction for projects already approved by the Congress and, for new projects, would not change present requirements for congressional authorization. Upon timely enactment of the proposed legislation, the following 45 projects, having construction contract capability in 1972, could be awarded for lease construction by June 30, 1972:

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1969, $9,061 thousand; 1970, $7,135 thousand; 1971, $7,335 thousand; 1972, $7,835 thousand.

This appropriation provides for preliminary planning of public buildings, acquisition of sites, including options to purchase, preparation of drawings and specifications, management and inspection of construction, and related costs incident to projects approved under the Public Buildings Act of 1959, as amended. Costs for construction are financed from Construction, Public Buildings Projects.

The estimate of $15.1 million for 1972 provides $2.0 million for preliminary planning and development; $3.2 million for the acquisition of sites; $4.3 million for design; $5.1 million for management and inspection; and $0.5 million for administrative operations support.

1. Preliminary planning and development.—Feasibility studies, site investigations, selections and appraisals, including options to purchase; topographical surveys, including test borings, design through tentative stage, and development of projects prior to prospectus authorization.

2. Site acquisition.—Acquisition of sites, including title evidence for three of the six projects included in the estimate, and deficiency judgments and interest thereon arising out of condemnation proceedings.

3. Design.—Preparation of drawings and specifications, by contract or otherwise, technical services, and reproduction of plans and specifications for six projects.

A proposed 1971 supplemental appropriation will be requested to provide site and design expenses for the GSA portion of Federal projects to be located in Chicago and New York City and constructed in conjunction with proposed new Federal correctional centers. In Chicago, the General Services Administration will construct a facility for parking official Government vehicles of Federal agencies in the downtown area; and in New York, the GSA portion will consist of office space for use primarily by the U.S. attorneys and marshals and the Attorney General's strike force. Funds have already been appropriated to the Department of Justice for design of the correctional center portion of these joint projects as well as for construction of its share of the New York facility.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1969, $797 thousand; 1970, $818 thousand; 1971, $2,118 thousand; 1972, $6,218 thousand.

Public Law 89-372, approved March 18, 1966, authorized the appointment of 10 circuit and 35 district judges. An additional amount of $6 million was appropriated in the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967, approved September 6, 1966, to provide equipped facilities for the judges by performing alterations to existing facilities, rental of space, and alterations of temporary facilities pending the construction of new buildings under separate financing authority.

The Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts has requested GSA to provide the facilities required for the judges and their staffs at locations where the judges will hold court. To date, the President has appointed all of the judges authorized under Public Law 89-372, and additional funds have been appropriated in 1971 to provide facilities for three judges.

Additional funds have also been appropriated in 1971 to provide additional court facilities as a result of the enactment of Public Law 90-347, approved June 18, 1968, which authorized the appointment of additional circuit judges, Public Law 90-578, approved October 17, 1968, which authorized the creation of magistrates, and Public Law 91-272, approved June 2, 1970, which authorized the appointment of additional district judges.

This fund finances, on a reimbursable basis, building management activities consisting of: Management, rental, operation, and protection of Government-owned and leased space in and outside the District of Columbia for housing Federal agencies; modernization and recurring repairs to Government-owned space under jurisdiction of General Services Administration; maintenance of sites acquired for future construction of Federal buildings; uniforms and uniform allowances; and other related building services (66 Stat. 594). Retained earnings resulting from operations, after making provision for prior year losses, if any, are paid into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

Operating costs funded for 1972 are estimated at $576.3 million, an increase of $26.2 million over 1971.

1. Buildings management.—(a) Operation and protection of Government-owned space.—Provides for operation and protection of an average of 154.0 million square feet of space in 1972 compared to an average of 152.8 million square feet in 1971 and an average of 150.7 million square feet in 1970. The change from 1971 reflects net additional space to be serviced due to construction of new buildings, and certain buildings being transferred to GSA for operation and protection.

(b) Rental, operation, and protection of leased space.—Provides for an average of 57.0 million square feet in 1972 compared to an average of 57.2 million square feet in 1971 and an average of 52.6 million square feet in 1970, based on currently projected requirements of Federal agencies.

2. Moving, alterations, and related costs.—Provides for moving and related alterations based on experience factors of buildings management operations and for moving and space adjustments incident to the new construction program.

3. Payments to United States Postal Service.—Provides for financing the new postal security force by reimbursement from GSA to the U.S. Postal Service.

4. Maintenance repairs.—Provides for day-to-day maintenance of GSA operated buildings, and other Government buildings under jurisdiction of GSA.

5. Security and special guarding.—Provides security and above normal guarding service required by other agencies.

6. Operation and maintenance of sites held for future construction.—Provides for maintenance of sites acquired for future construction of Federal buildings and repairs to improvements located thereon.

7. Job order work.—Provides for special services and repairs and improvements to buildings for GSA and other agencies.

8. Other.—Provides for program supervision of repair and improvement operations as distinguished from architectural and design activities initially financed from the Construction services fund, utility services furnished in the District of Columbia to buildings operated by other agencies and utilities to concessionaires.

Operating results and financial condition.—At the end of 1970, the net investment in the fund was $3.8 million composed of $3.5 million appropriated, $7.9 million capitalized assets, $0.4 million retained earnings, less $8 million provision for unfunded leave liability.

Construction services activities consisting of preparation of drawings and specifications for the construction or alteration of public buildings; management and inspection of construction and alteration activities; and surveys and test borings performed in connection with the acquisition of Federal building sites and other related services are financed by this fund on a reimbursable basis from funds appropriated, transferred, or advanced to General Services Administration (40 U.S.C. 296).

Operations.—Initial financing of this fund provides for salaries and related expenses of all personnel engaged in architectural and engineering services in connection with buildings design and construction, both departmental and field. Estimates for 1971 and 1972 cover the GSA public building construction program, the repair and improvement program, and additional workload in connection with projects assigned to GSA by other Federal agencies.

Operating results.—Retained earnings were decreased in 1970 to approximately $1,544 thousand. By compressing time for the completion of design and construction projects, the rate at which income will be earned will be increased and will result in a gain of $427 thousand in 1971. However, an operating loss of $1,929 thousand is projected for 1972, which will reduce retained earnings to $42 thousand at the end of 1972.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1969, $1,388 thousand (1970 adjustments, $87 thousand); 1970, $1,376 thousand; 1971, $1,376 thousand; 1972, $1,376 thousand.

This appropriation provides for (1) establishment of efficient supply and property management practices throughout the Federal Government, and (2) expenses of operating the worldwide supply system through which commercial-type commodities are sold to Government agencies, Federal grantees, and cost-type contractors from depot stocks, or by direct delivery from suppliers, whichever is more economical and meets the needs of the Government. Except for customer orders placed directly with suppliers under Federal supply schedule contracts, most of the purchases of commodities are financed initially from the general supply fund, subject to reimbursement by ordering agencies. Wherever economical and feasible, costs of commodities furnished directly from suppliers are paid directly from funds of the requisitioning agency without involving the general supply fund. This appropriation also provides for the necessary expenses of carrying out some of the Government-wide automated data management activities within the jurisdiction of the General Services Administration.

Fair value of personal property received from other appropriations or funds without cost for use by GSA is as follows: 1970, $24 thousand; 1971, $11 thousand; 1972, $9 thousand.

1. Supply distribution.—Stocks of commercial-type commodities are received, warehoused, and issued on a worldwide basis to Federal agencies through a national supply distribution system consisting of both wholesale and retail distribution facilities. Stores stock sales will decrease from $493.9 million in 1970 to an estimated $457 million in 1972.

2. Procurement.—Commodities are procured to maintain inventories at stores depots to insure availability in advance of sales orders and for direct delivery to agencies. Term contracts for commercial-type commodities and services are established for large aggregate volume requirements against which agencies place individual orders at uniform price advantages. Total procurement in 1970 was $2,148.8 million; procurement for 1971, $2,260 million, and procurement for 1972, $2,277 million.

3. Supply control.—During 1972 supply control will continue to serve as the single contact point for all matters pertaining to supply support. Continued emphasis will be placed on efficient processing and control of requisitions, supply systems development, commodity and data management functions and increased attention and effort to maintain adequate levels of inventory while controlling the capital investment.

4. Inspection.—Timely delivery of commodities of specified quality is assured by inspection and surveillance at contractors' plants or supply depots, by laboratory tests and analyses of samples prior to acceptance, and by contract administration assistance on 14,000 contracts covering $857 million of items procured.

5. Supply standardization.—Qualitative requirements of Federal agencies are reflected in Federal specifications, Federal standards, and Federal item identifications which are mandatory for use in procurement. In 1972 the standardization program will consist of the promulgation of 1,200 Federal specifications and standards actions and 215,000 cataloging actions.

6. National supply policies and programs.—In 1972, national supply policies and programs activities will continue to place emphasis on agreements between GSA, the Department of Defense, and the civil agencies for the governing of supply management relationships. Studies and recommendations will continue to be made in order to improve the internal supply systems of Federal agencies. Renewed emphasis will be placed on the development, coordination, and issuance of Federal Procurement Regulations. Additional personnel and funds have been added to the FPR staff to accomplish these actions. Priority support to the Department of Defense and the Agency for International Development requirements in Southeast Asia will receive continued emphasis.

7. Automated data management services.—During 1972, the resources for this program will be devoted to such functions as: (1) providing ADP procurement assistance to Federal agencies; (2) negotiation and awarding of Federal Supply schedule contracts for the procurement of ADP equipment and maintenance; (3) determination of sharing resources; (4) establishment, maintenance, redesign and publication of the Government-wide ADP Management Information System; (5) reutilization of excess Government leased and low value (under $2,500) excess Government-owned ADP equipment; and (6) furnishing technical assistance and performing technical research.

The Automatic Data Processing Fund was authorized by Public Law 89-306, to coordinate and provide for the economic and efficient purchase, lease, and maintenance of automatic data processing equipment by Federal agencies.

The fund finances on a reimbursable basis a Government-wide automatic data processing operation, including the procurement by lease, purchase, transfer or otherwise of ADP equipment, maintenance of equipment, procurement and/or development of software programs with Government-wide application, and operation of service centers and related functions.

Budget program.—The estimate provides for a continued increase in revenue during 1971 and 1972. Sales are estimated to increase from $16,871 thousand in 1970 to $24,375 thousand in 1971 to $31,582 thousand in 1972.

1. Data processing.—Finances the operation of Federal Data Processing Centers which provide ADP services on a Government-wide basis. These processing services consist of local batch processing and time sharing where a single computer serves multiple users at various remote locations through communications links—incidental programmer/analyst, operator, data conversion, EAM and control support are provided to users of each mode; human resource pools consisting of programmers, analysts, and equipment operators for use at the Federal Data Processing Center or at a user homesite on an as-required basis; and maintenance support for Government-owned equipment and software.

This program also provides for financing joint use facilities for common central ADP services of an installation operated by two or more agencies under GSA policy guidance. In 1970 a pilot project was implemented by GSA through the fund to determine the feasibility of inhouse maintenance support for Government-owned equipment. This project calls for the maintenance of four computers located at the Washington, D.C. Federal Data Processing Center. Expansion of Federal Data Processing Center and other related operations are estimated to increase revenue from sales from $15,078 thousand in 1970 to $18,699 thousand in 1971 and to $22,753 thousand in 1972.

2. Lease program.—This program finances the purchase and multi-year lease of ADP equipment and software from manufacturers for subsequent lease to Federal agencies at costs substantially below commercial annual lease prices. Purchases are made by the fund when special discounts with time limitations and other arrangements become available and agencies are unable to take advantage of these cost reduction opportunities due to budget cycle limitations. To date, the overall average rate of return based on a present value analysis achieved on purchases through the fund is 32%. In addition to purchases, this program acquires excess Government-owned ADP equipment, where there is a known user or the equipment has a high potential for reutilization, capitalizes it at fair market value and leases it to Federal agencies at a cost substantially below all other lease cost alternatives available to the using agency. Revenue from leasing is estimated to increase from $1,793 thousand in 1970 to $5,676 thousand in 1971 and $8,829 thousand in 1972.

This fund finances, on a reimbursable basis, a national supply depot system and a system of ordering supplies for direct delivery to agencies. Supplies or services are sold from the fund at cost to other agencies and the District of Columbia. Related operating expenses are provided for under the appropriation Operating expenses, Federal Supply Service.

Also financed by the fund and reimbursed by using agencies are the operations of interagency motor vehicle pools and the rehabilitation and repair of furniture and equipment.

Budget program.—This estimate provides for sales to both military and civilian agencies. It also provides for the operation of the retrograde program and the credit return program.

1. Supply operations.—(a) Stores, regular.—Stocks of common-use commodities are purchased in volume and stored in supply depots for sale to Government agencies. From a total of $493.9 million in 1970, sales are estimated to decrease to $470 million in 1971 and $457 million in 1972.

(b) Stores, direct delivery.—Orders for stores-type items, if sufficiently large and delivery time is not a factor, are placed with the commercial source of supply for delivery directly to the customer. Sales were $33.9 million in 1970, and are estimated to decrease to $30 million in 1971 and 1972.

(c) Nonstores items.—Definite quantity requirements of commodities which are not susceptible to economical stocking in supply depots are purchased for direct shipment to using agencies. Sales through the fund are expected to increase from $293.2 million in 1970 to $308.7 million in 1971 and 1972.

2. Export operations.—Stores and nonstores items are shipped to overseas customers. Receipts to the fund covering packing, transportation costs and other reimbursable services are expected to increase from $31.4 million in 1970 to $32.7 million in 1971 and 1972.

3. Rehabilitation and repair of furniture and equipment.—Furniture and equipment repair services, provided through commercial sources wherever feasible and economical, are expected to remain at $0.9 million through 1972.

4. Motor pools.—Services are provided to agencies through a system of interagency motor pools. Sales are estimated to increase from $51.0 million in 1970 to $54.2 million in 1971 and $56.5 million in 1972.

Equipment rental.—Operating and administrative equipment is purchased and charged on an accrual basis to the using activities. Receipts are estimated to increase from $2.1 million in 1970 to $2.9 million in 1971 and 1972.

Other revenue and expense.—Gain or losses on equipment disposals, adjustments between fiscal years, inventory writeoffs, and discounts are applied against operating costs.

Operating results and financial condition.—Investment of the U.S. Government at the end of 1972 is estimated at $412.5 million consisting of $242.7 million direct appropriations, $169.4 million donated assets, and $0.6 million capitalized surplus with $0.2 million deducted for long-term leave liability.

Any operating surplus, as determined by the General Accounting Office audit, must be returned to Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

This appropriation provides for basic operations dealing with management of the Government's archives and records, operation of presidential libraries, and grants for historical publications.

The estimate for 1972 is $1,491 thousand more than the 1971 program. Of this amount, $238 thousand is required for increased Presidential Library activities; $230 thousand for workload increases in the National Archives activities; $412 thousand for shelving and handling increased transfers of records to Federal records centers; $100 thousand for nonrecurring space costs to house records management and center activities; $96 thousand for historical publication grants; and $415 thousand for increased support activities.

Fair value of personal property received from other appropriations or funds without cost for use by GSA is as follows: 1970, $23 thousand; 1971, $15 thousand; 1972, $18 thousand.

In 1972 records in custody of the National Archives and Federal records centers will total 12.5 million cubic feet which will represent an estimated 44% of the total Federal records. Reference services will total 10.2 million, a 3% increase over 9.9 million in 1970.

1. Records management and centers.—Demands for services continue to increase workload at the regional records centers. In 1972, agencies will transfer 980,000 cubic feet of inactive records. Records disposal will be held at a 600,000-cubic-foot level; reference services will exceed the current annual level of 7 million.

In 1970, Federal records centers accounted for cost avoidance of $19 million, the value of space and equipment released and of more economic records storage. In addition, the records management activity helps agencies control their paper workload; which, for all of the Federal Government, consists of some 8 to 10 billion pages a year. In 1970, GSA's direct assistance to agencies produced a net first-year savings of $8.2 million, including 203,000 man-days saved or released for other duty.

2. Archives and related services.—In 1972, the regularly recurring workload in the National Archives, except for a slight increase in funds for reference and audiovisual services, will be held at the 1971 level. Additional funds are requested, however, for arrangement and description of early Government records in preparation for the Nation's Bicentennial activities.

An increase in staff is needed for the Eisenhower and Kennedy libraries to accelerate processing, screening, and cataloging holdings for research use. Additionally, liaison staff is necessary to begin work for a future Nixon library.

3. National historical publications grants.—This activity carries out section 503(f) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, 63 Stat. 377, as amended by Public Law 88-383, July 28, 1964, and Public Law 90-461, August 8, 1968, authorizing not to exceed $500 thousand for 1965 and for each of 9 succeeding years, for grants to State and local agencies and to nonprofit organizations and for allocations to Federal agencies for the purpose of collecting, reproducing, and publishing source material significant to the history of the United States.

OPERATING EXPENSES, TRANSPORTATION AND COMMUNICATIONS
SERVICE—Continued

This appropriation provides for improving management of transportation, communication, and public utility services in all civilian agencies, and for providing specialized services to civilian agencies in each of these fields.

1. Transportation services.—Guides, procedures, and educational programs for improving transportation practices and operations in civilian agencies are developed; reasonable rates are negotiated with carriers; and procurement assistance, rates, routing, and related services are supplied to executive agencies.

2. Communication services.—Networks are designed and engineered for a Federal communications system for general and national defense use, compatible with the National Communications System. Studies of equipment utilization, service, rates, and economic factors are made, contracts negotiated, and management and control of operations are provided. The projected program for 1972 provides for the management of the Federal Telecommunications System financed through the FT fund whose sales volume will increase from $151.4 million in 1971 to an estimated $165.2 million in 1972, and for increasing emphasis on the management of Government-wide communications.

3. Motor vehicle management.—Government-wide policies and procedures are developed to improve the overall efficiency of the operation of the Government-owned motor vehicle fleet, and to assist the various Federal agencies with motor equipment management. The program for 1972 contemplates 18 additional motor equipment studies of agencies' managerial and operational policies. Implementation of the recommendations of such studies have to date reduced equipment investment by the Government by about $3.3 million and avoided additional operating costs by $6.7 million.

4. Public utilities services.—Negotiations are conducted with public utilities companies on behalf of executive agencies and technical assistance is rendered in connection with regulatory proceedings. In 1972, continued emphasis will be placed on the above areas, where in 1970, savings to the Government of $1,629 thousand accrued.

In the transportation, communications, and public utilities services, the regulatory representation function consists of (1) negotiations with carriers and utility companies concerning consumer considerations of the Government, and (2) participation in regulatory proceedings. New rate proposals are discussed with the carriers before they become effective which, it is anticipated, will minimize the number of rate proceedings in which GSA will participate during this year on behalf of the Government as a user.

This fund was authorized by Public Law 87-847, approved October 23, 1962. It finances, on a reimbursable basis, a telecommunications system for the Federal Government which is operationally compatible with the National Communications System. This system provides local and long distance voice, teletype, data facsimile, and other communication services to meet the growing needs of Federal agencies. Within a few years present systems capability will be exhausted if the system is not changed. Research in the fields of communications and automatic data processing is a continuing requirement to maintain and improve the Government-wide telecommunications system.

Expenses payable from the fund include personal services, procurement by lease or purchase of equipment and operating facilities (including cryptographic devices), and other costs necessary to operate the system. These expenses are reimbursed from available appropriations and funds of any agency or organization for telecommunications services and facilities made available to them.

Initial capital of $9 million was appropriated by Public Law 88-25, approved May 17, 1963. This sum may be increased by agency donations of supplies and equipment.

Budget program.—The estimate provides for a continued increase in volume and quality of communications services provided to executive agencies of the Government. Total sales for 1970 were $128.6 million and are estimated at $151.3 million in 1971 and $165.2 million in 1972.

1. Voice program.—Provides for a telephonic system which will enable personnel in each Federal agency office to communicate directly on a machine-to-machine or station-to-station basis with any other agency office in the Nation. The system will provide day-to-day service as well as incorporate features which would be necessary in emergency situations. The program for 1972 contemplates a sales level of $142 million, an increase of $11.7 million over 1971, and an anticipated traffic volume of 91 million intercity calls being handled by FTS.

2. Record program.—Provides common unified records communications system to satisfy record communications requirements of all Federal civil agencies by providing machine-to-machine service for transmission of information by data, teletypewriter, facsimile, and other transmission media while at the same time providing message processing capability required for peak-period traffic loads, time zone differences, machine code and language translation, and processing of multiple address messages. The continued development of the records program is reflected in the projected sales increase of $1.6 million in 1972 over the $12.9 million anticipated in 1971.

3. Circuit procurement program.—Provides for centralized procurement of circuits for civil agencies to obtain the benefits of multiple tariff offerings of commercial carriers, while at the same time permitting each agency to maintain operational control over its own circuits. Sales are projected at $6.7 million in 1971 and $7 million for 1972.

4. Special programs.—Provides for an effective communications security program for civil agencies in keeping with objectives of the U.S. communications security plan, and for a consolidated program of procurement and maintenance of equipment to implement such security plans. These programs insure that the Federal Telecommunications System will remain operational in the event any portion of the normal system is disabled or destroyed.

Operating results and financial condition.—At the end of 1972 the net investment in the fund is estimated to be $8.7 million, composed of $9 million appropriated, $0.2 million donated assets capitalized, less $0.5 million unfunded leave liability. Following the close of each fiscal year any surplus earnings, after making provision for any prior year losses, are deposited in miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1969, $1,521 thousand (1970 adjustments, -$58 thousand); 1970, $2,510 thousand; 1971, $2,510 thousand; 1972, $2,510 thousand.

The Property Management and Disposal Service has the responsibility for: (a) acquisition, administration, and disposal of national stockpile inventories pursuant to the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act; (b) custody and disposal of the supplemental stockpile established by the Agriculture Trade Development and Assistance Act; (c) administration of utilization and disposal functions of the General Services Administration with respect to excess and surplus real and personal property; (d) rehabilitation of personal property; and (e) administration of the inventory of machine tools and industrial manufacturing equipment established under the National Industrial Reserve Act.

The estimate for 1972 provides for storage, maintenance, and inspection of stockpile materials and disposal of those stockpile materials excess to objectives, the administration of the industrial equipment reserve activities, the appraisal of real and personal property, and continuing emphasis on reuse of existing real and personal property to obviate new capital and procurement outlays, with prompt disposal of those items no longer required and the rehabilitation of personal property to extend its useful life.

1. Property management.—Covers the cost of acquiring, inspecting, and maintaining materials in the national and supplemental stockpiles and administration of the national industrial equipment reserve. New acquisition of materials by exchange, upgrading, and rotation are not provided in this estimate in accordance with OEP directive. However, handling costs for acquisition by exchange are provided to cover deliveries under prior year contracts.

(a) Strategic and critical materials.—Strategic and critical materials amounting to approximately 40.1 million tons with a market value of $6.8 billion were stored at 136 locations as of June 30, 1970. Distribution of depot storage costs for these materials is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Recurring costs.....	6,456	6,616	6,720
Nonrecurring costs.....	1,091	800	727
Relocation, transportation, and handling.....	69	200	200
Total cost or estimate.....	7,616	7,616	7,647

In addition to direct depot storage operations, this activity provides for inspection and stockpile management services relative to maintaining the national and supplemental stockpiles.

(b) Industrial reserve.—Administration is also provided by this activity of a National Industrial Equipment Reserve inventory of 9,318 tools as of June 30, 1970.

2. Real property disposal.—This activity provides for utilization of excess and disposal of surplus real property, including national industrial reserve properties. The estimate for 1972 provides for utilization transfers of 120 properties, sale of 375 surplus properties, and other surplus disposal (donations, etc.) totaling 370 properties. The selling price of real property and rental revenue in 1972 is estimated at $96 million.

Physical care, handling, protection, maintenance, and repair of certain excess and surplus real properties pending disposal are also provided. In addition, this activity is responsible for the appraisal of excess and surplus real property as well as the coordination of regulations, standards, and methods governing such appraisals. Real property surveys are also conducted to carry out the provisions of Executive Order 11508, dated February 10, 1970.

3. Personal property disposal.—Covers the cost of disposal of personal property items, and management of the Government-wide programs for the utilization, donation, rehabilitation, and sale of surplus and exchange/sale of personal property. This activity embraces the property of all Government agencies, and provides for utilization of excess personal property, thereby reducing new procurement; donation of all surplus personal property for public benefit purposes; sale of surplus and exchange/sale of personal property (except DOD property); and rehabilitation of personal property owned by the Government to extend its useful life. The estimate for 1972 provides for interagency utilization transfers and donations by GSA totaling $1,445 million at acquisition cost and proceeds from sale of surplus and exchange/sale of property totaling $17 million, the same level as 1971. Rehabilitation of personal property will amount to $190 million at replacement cost. This activity also provides for public sale of 3 million rare silver dollars now held in the Treasury, which is expected to yield approximately $57 million in 1972 receipts.

4. Strategic and critical materials disposal.—This activity provides for the disposal of excess strategic and critical materials. Strategic and critical materials sales commitments from the national and supplemental stockpiles are estimated at $315 million and $921 million in 1971 and 1972, respectively. This activity is also responsible for data collection and economic analysis of all factors bearing on stockpile materials such as supply, demand, consumption, prices, etc.

5. Service direction.—General direction over all programs assigned to the Property Management and Disposal Service is provided by the Commissioner and immediate staff, and in the regions by 10 regional directors who are responsible for carrying out program operations in these areas. Serves the entire Property Management and Disposal Service in development of financial plans and operating schedules, budgetary formulation, long-range plans and programs, analysis of problem areas, and evaluation of actual program results in relation to approved plans and objectives. This activity is also responsible for internal Service operations, including personnel, property, space, etc., and also serves as the central point for internal and external reports, and development and coordination of all procedures and regulatory material.

Appraisers, auctioneers, and brokers familiar with local markets are used to accelerate the disposal of surplus real and related personal property. Fees of appraisers, auctioneers, and brokers and costs of advertising and surveying are paid out of receipts from disposals within each year in accordance with 40 U.S.C.A. 485(b). Also paid from such proceeds is the direct expense in connection with utilization of excess real and related personal property (68 Stat. 1051). Properties to be sold by auctioneers are estimated at 10 in 1971 and 1972. Disposal appraisals totaled 495 in 1970 and are estimated to reach 565 in 1971 and 1972.

Guarantees are given on loans made by public or private financing institutions, including Federal Reserve banks, to facilitate performance of defense production contracts. Upon demand of lending institutions, the Government is required to purchase the guaranteed percentage of the loan or the Government may elect to make a voluntary purchase of the guaranteed percentage. Advances from appropriations available for procurement may be made to this fund for its temporary use, although such action has not been necessary to date. Net earnings are retained to meet possible future loan defaults (50 U.S.C. App. 2091).

The Government's maximum contingent liability as guarantor on one loan now in effect is estimated to be $4.9 million at the end of 1972. Retained earnings are estimated to be $0.1 million at the end of 1972.

The Government-owned William Langer Jewel Bearing Plant at Rolla, N. Dak., is the only facility of its kind in the United States which has the capability to produce all types of jewel bearings in quantity. The plant was established by the Department of Defense in 1953 and turned over to GSA in 1957. The Office of Emergency Preparedness has determined that the plant is an essential part of the national mobilization base and that its continued operation as a domestic source of jewel bearings is in the interest of the United States. On January 1, 1970, financing of the operation was placed under a revolving fund. This fund was authorized by Public Law 90-469, approved August 8, 1968.

The plant produces jewel bearings for sale at fixed prices to Government agencies, and their contractors and sub-contractors for national defense purposes, and to GSA for the national stockpile. Mandatory source provisions are contained in the Federal Procurement Regulations and Armed Services Procurement Regulations in support of this operation. These provisions require Government agencies and their contractors to procure and use jewel bearings manufactured at the Langer Jewel Bearing Plant under certain specified conditions.

Any additional funds which may be required for operation of the plant are authorized to be appropriated to the fund. However, the requirement for appropriated capital is not anticipated at this time.

Under the provisions of Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1957, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was abolished as a corporate entity and the remaining functions of the Smaller War Plants Corporation and the World War II assets program were transferred to the General Services Administration for final liquidation.

Operations.—It is anticipated that there will continue during 1972 the servicing of leases and conditional sales agreements covering two facilities, and one other miscellaneous asset. Financial and legal servicing will also be required on one case in the hands of the Department of Justice under the complex food subsidy program. In 1972 administrative expenses in connection with financial and legal services will be absorbed in funds available from regular GSA programs.

Operating results.—Proceeds from liquidation will be paid into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury.

This management fund provides financing of administrative operations services on a centralized and integrated basis for all General Services Administration programs.

1. Administration.—Consisting of accounting and reporting, credit, insurance, and related financial services, budget, personnel administration, management systems, and office services. Overall management of GSA's centralized field duplicating services is provided under this head; however, financing of these services is reflected in the working capital fund.

2. Audits and investigations.—Provides management with an independent and objective review and appraisal of all GSA programs through the medium of contract and internal audits, and investigations.

3. Equal employment opportunity.—Development, implementation, and surveillance of an effective GSA equal employment opportunity program.

4. Legal services.—Covers the fields of real property, personal property, archives and records, transportation and communications, strategic and critical materials stockpiling, and finance and administration; as well as direction, coordination, planning, development, and administration of GSA's contract compliance program.

Central blueprinting, photostating, duplicating, and distribution services are financed by a working capital fund pending reimbursements (40 U.S.C. 293). The Joint Committee on Printing, U.S. Congress, has authorized GSA to establish and operate one departmental printing plant in Washington, D.C., and 13 field printing plants to meet the needs of GSA and other Federal agencies. In addition, GSA operated 11 duplicating plants at the end of 1970.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

The appropriate appropriation or fund available to the General Services Administration shall be credited with (1) cost of operation, protection, maintenance, upkeep, repair, and improvement, included as part of rentals received from Government corporations pursuant to law (40 U.S.C. 129); (2) reimbursements for services performed in respect to bonds and other obligations under the jurisdiction of the General Services Administration, issued by public authorities, States, or other public bodies, and such services in respect to such bonds or obligations as the Administrator deems necessary and in the public interest may, upon the request and at the expense of the issuing agencies, be provided from the appropriate foregoing appropriation; and (3) appropriations or funds available to other agencies, and transferred to the General Services Administration, in connection with property transferred to the General Services Administration pursuant to the Act of July 2, 1948 (50 U.S.C. 451ff), and such appropriations or funds may be so transferred, with the approval of the [Bureau of the Budget] Office of Management and Budget.

Appropriations to the General Services Administration under the heading "Construction, Public Buildings Projects" shall be available, subject to the provisions of the Public Buildings Act of 1959 for (1) acquisition of buildings and sites thereof by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise, including prepayment of purchase contracts, (2) extension or conversion of Government-owned buildings, and (3) construction of new buildings, in addition to those set forth under that appropriation: Provided, That nothing herein shall authorize an expenditure of funds for acquisition, extension or conversion, or construction without the approval of the Committees on Appropriations of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Funds available to the General Services Administration shall be available for the hire of passenger motor vehicles.

No part of any money appropriated by this or any other Act for any agency of the executive branch of the Government shall be used during the current fiscal year for the purchase within the continental limits of the United States of any typewriting machines except in accordance with regulations issued pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended.

Not to exceed 2 per centum of any appropriation made available to the General Services Administration for the current fiscal year by this Act may be transferred to any other such appropriation, but no such appropriation shall be increased thereby more than 2 per centum: Provided, That such transfers shall apply only to operating expenses, and shall not exceed in the aggregate the amount of $2,000,000.

Appropriations available to any department or agency during the current fiscal year for necessary expenses, including maintenance or operating expenses, shall also be available for (a) reimbursement to the General Services Administration for those expenses of renovation and alteration of buildings and facilities which constitute public improvements, performed in accordance with the Public Buildings Act of 1959 (73 Stat. 479) or other applicable law, and (b) transfer or reimbursement to applicable appropriations to said Administration for rents and related expenses, not otherwise provided for, of providing subject to Executive Order [11035, dated July 9, 1962] 11512, dated February 27, 1970, directly or indirectly, suitable general purpose space for any such department or agency, in the District of Columbia or elsewhere.

No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used for the payment of rental on lease agreements for the accommodation of Federal agencies in buildings and improvements which are to be erected by the lessor for such agencies at an estimated cost of construction in excess of $200,000 or for the payment of the salary of any person who executes such a lease agreement: Provided, That the foregoing proviso shall not be applicable to projects for which a prospectus for the lease construction of space has been submitted to the Congress and approval made in the same manner as for the public buildings construction projects pursuant to the Public Buildings Act of 1959. (Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1971.)

² Reimbursements from non-Federal sources are receipts for services performed on Communications Satellite Corporation projects (42 U.S.C. 2473).

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration was established October 1, 1958, pursuant to Public Law 85-568 (72 Stat. 426; 42 U.S.C. 2451); approved July 29, 1958, for the conduct of the nonmilitary space programs of the United States, including the exploration of space and its utilization for peaceful purposes, and to conduct and support advanced research and development related to space and aeronautics in support of both civil and military requirements. This appropriation provides for research and development activities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as follows:

1. Manned space flight.—These estimates provide for all manned space flight missions conducted by the United States. Funding supports the Apollo; Space Flight Operations, including Skylab, space shuttle, and space station studies, and advanced manned mission programs. These programs include the completion of the current Apollo mission schedule; the development of the Skylab orbital workshop, airlock, Apollo telescope mount, and earth orbital science, applications, and technology experiments; the design and initial development effort on a manned space shuttle earth to orbit space vehicle and the study and definition of a semipermanent earth orbit space station and associated experiments; launch and flight operations; and studies and research on future manned space systems.

(a) Apollo.—The Apollo program has conducted seven manned Apollo/Saturn V flights. Five of these flights have journeyed to the moon, and twice astronauts have landed on the lunar surface and then returned to earth. The only Apollo mission in 1970, Apollo 13, was aborted after an oxygen tank ruptured on April 13 while en route to the moon. The three astronauts, however, were able to use the Lunar Module as a "lifeboat" relying on its electrical power, life support, and propulsion systems to return safely to the earth. After an intensive investigation, the probable cause of the rupture was determined and appropriate modifications to Apollo spacecraft to be used in the remaining missions are being made. The next mission, Apollo 14, is scheduled for launch in January 1971, to land at Fra Mauro, the intended site of Apollo 13. Fra Mauro is in the lunar highlands and is believed to feature ejecta deposits from deep within the moon's crust.

The moon affords an unequalled opportunity to study the formative processes of the solar system, without the obliterating consequences of terrestrial erosion, and the Apollo missions to date have provided an initial basis for understanding the moon and its relationship to the earth and the solar system. The lunar material and experiment data that have been collected are undergoing intensive study and analysis to provide a better understanding of the evolutionary history of earth and the dynamic processes that continue to transform it. Beyond Apollo 14, three additional lunar missions are planned in a continuing effort to increase our knowledge of the moon through exploration and the conduct of scientific experiments. These missions will feature Apollo spacecraft with significantly increased capabilities including increased staytime on the surface, astronaut mobility, and experiment diversity and performance.

(b) Space flight operations.—This category consists of this country's post-Apollo manned flight programs and includes Skylab, space shuttle and space station studies. Skylab represents a major progression into manned earth orbital missions directed toward accomplishing life science, astronomy, earth resources, and technology objectives. It will begin with the Saturn V launching of an unmanned Orbital Workshop with its associated experiment systems in early 1973 followed by three manned missions using Saturn IB's to launch Apollo Command and Service Modules to activate and operate the Workshop over a 9-month period. The major scientific focus of Skylab will be directed toward: an extensive study of the sun, especially in those wavelength regions not readily visible from the ground; a study of the application of space in surveying and monitoring the resources and environmental interactions of the earth; and the biomedical study of the effects of long-duration flight on man, as individual astronauts remain in orbit for as long as 2-month periods.

The development of a space shuttle is the key element in future space operations in earth orbit. The earth-to-orbit shuttle will provide a space vehicle for placement and retrieval of satellites, satellite servicing and maintenance, short-duration orbital missions for manned and man-tended experiments, delivery of propulsive stages and payloads for high-energy missions, space station logistics support and rotation of scientific personnel. The operational capabilities of the space shuttle are expected to produce significant savings in the cost of design, development, and manufacture of space payloads. These savings are a consequence of less restrictive design and weight constraints that result from the launch profile and maintenance capability of the shuttle system. The 1972 budget provides for proceeding with detailed design and development of an engine—the longest leadtime component—for a space shuttle. Airframe design is proceeding on an orderly step-by-step basis which may lead to continued detailed design or initiation of development of a specific design depending on the progress in studies now underway.

The space station will be designed to support a wide range of scientific, applications, and technology experiments in the areas of astronomy, physics, chemistry, biology, earth surveys and ecology, meteorology and communications. The space station will be capable of long-duration operations to conduct scientific, applications, and technology experiments. During 1972, effort will focus on the study and definition of the station with particular emphasis on shuttle compatibility and critical subsystems such as information management and life support. Definition tasks on experiments and experiment areas, including experiment modules, will be continued during 1972. This category also includes space life sciences, an integrated medical and biological program for the study and investigation of the support requirements of men in space.

(c) Advanced manned mission studies.—This program examines advanced manned space flight program concepts and develops technical information and other data upon which future program decisions can be based.

2. Scientific investigations in space.—This program utilizes a variety of flight systems and ground-based observations to increase man's knowledge of the universe.

The earth, sun, moon, interplanetary space, solar system, other stars and galaxies and the interaction among these bodies and systems are all objects of these investigations.

(a) Physics and astronomy.—Coordinated research with national and international participation is conducted through this program and directed toward an increase in our knowledge of the space environment, of the earth and the sun, and the relationship of these bodies to each other and to interplanetary space, other stars, galaxies, and nebulae. Laboratory and theoretical research, ground-based observatories, aircraft, balloons, sounding rockets, and explorer and observatory spacecraft all contribute to this knowledge. Experimentation with the improved Orbiting Solar Observatory, OSO-H, will be conducted during 1972 while development effort on a new series of OSO's continues. An Orbiting Astronomical Observatory, OAO-C, with a primary mission of studying interstellar gases will be launched during 1972. Development effort will be initiated on a high energy astronomy observatory to provide identification and observation of gamma ray, X-ray, and cosmic ray sources.

(b) Lunar and planetary exploration.—This program concentrates on exploration of the moon, planets, and other bodies in the solar system, such as asteroids and comets, using both ground-based research and observations from automated spacecraft. The 1972 program encompasses effort which will eventually lead to initial observations of all of the planets from Mercury to Pluto, while continuing to expand earlier knowledge of our closest neighbors, Venus and Mars. In 1972 efforts will be directed over a wide planetary span. The two Mariner 1971 missions to Mars should orbit that planet during 1971, returning information about a variety of Martian characteristics and phenomena. Another Mariner will be in preparation for a 1973 launch to Venus and Mercury, utilizing a gravity assist from the Venus flyby. The Pioneer F mission will be launched to provide the first observations and measurements of the solar system beyond the orbit of Mars. This spacecraft, and the Pioneer G to be launched 1 year later, will fly through the Asteroid belt and continue beyond to the vicinity of Jupiter, providing the first measurements and observations of that planet from space. Work will continue in 1972 on the U.S. experiment to be included on the West German Helios spacecraft. One spacecraft in this series will be launched by the United States in 1974 and one in 1975, to investigate and observe the interplanetary medium two-thirds of the distance into the sun. In 1975, two Viking spacecraft will be launched to Mars. Each spacecraft will include both an Orbiter and a Lander, thus providing additional measurements from Mars orbit as well as making the first direct measurements of the atmosphere and surface features of Mars. During 1972 effort will be directed toward development of an outer planet spacecraft suitable for variety of long-duration single or multiple planetary missions. The initiation of this effort is designed to take advantage of unique opportunities for space observations of the outer planets of the solar system. Four missions are planned, each of which will utilize gravity assist flybys to make a grand tour of three planets. In 1976-77 a spacecraft will be launched to fly by Jupiter, Saturn, and Pluto. In 1979 spacecraft will be launched to fly by Jupiter, Uranus, and Neptune.

(c) Bioscience.—Activities formerly included in this program have been distributed among other program categories beginning in 1972.

(d) Launch vehicle development and support.—This program includes those launch vehicle activities such as range support, launch operations, and maintenance engineering necessary to sustain and improve the performance of existing vehicles, which are not specifically chargeable to automated spacecraft missions.

3. Space applications.—The objective of this activity is to expand the beneficial applications of space flights. Specific applications areas include meteorology, earth resources, geodesy, communication, and navigation. Activity during 1972 in support of this objective includes launch of an Earth Resources Technology Satellite to provide tests of the spacecraft and sensors which may be required for an operational system to survey the earth's resources from space. In meteorology final preparations will be underway for launch of a Synchronous Meteorological Satellite to provide an operational prototype of a geostationary meteorological satellite. In addition, work will proceed toward launch of the next Nimbus spacecraft to provide for flight experiments with advanced meteorological sensors. Effort will continue in preparation for the launch of the Applications Technology Satellite F in 1973 to flight test a space-erectable, parabolic antenna, and a number of scientific and technology experiments. A Canadian Cooperative Applications Satellite will be initiated in 1972 to provide data on use of frequency ranges above 10 GHz.

4. Space research and technology.—Research will be conducted in the area, of materials and structures, power and propulsion, machine intelligence, information sciences, guidance, control and communications. Effort will continue on laser communications and on reliable, long-life and high-speed/density components for space electronics systems. Research effort will also focus on advancing the technology needed to produce large amounts of electric power in space and to develop high specific impulse propulsion systems. Specific technology requirements for near-term objectives, including the space shuttle and planetary flight programs, will continue to be supported in the critical areas of thermal protection, aerothermodynamics, configuration development, entry technology and long-life-time componentry. Nuclear power research will investigate advanced reactor and isotopic power systems. Research will continue on advanced nuclear propulsion concepts offering high performance potential. Work will continue on selected long-leadtime components for the Nuclear Engine for Rocket Vehicle Application (NERVA) flight weight engine.

5. Aeronautical research and technology.—The aims of the aeronautics program are to provide and expand the technological base in aeronautical research to facilitate the development and production of improved civil and military aircraft. A technology program coordinated with other Government agencies is being conducted that will increase aeronautical systems safety, reduce undesirable environmental effects, and contribute to near term civil transportation and military aircraft needs. Research will be continued in aerodynamics, flight dynamics, propulsion, operating systems, vehicle systems, life sciences, electronics, materials and structures, and noise reduction for application to future generations of aeronautical vehicles. Program emphasis in 1972 will be on Short Take-Off and Landing (STOL) and Vertical Take-Off and Landing (VTOL) aircraft systems for short-haul transportation and on improvements for medium- and long-haul jet transports. Work to be undertaken in 1972 includes design and initial fabrication of an experimental research airplane employing the externally blown flap concept. The essential objectives of this program are to validate the predicted performance of powered lift (including engine quietness) and to permit the establishment of realistic criteria for en route and terminal operations (including navigation and flight-path control) and criteria for certification of STOL jet transport type aircraft.

6. Supporting activities.—The programs grouped in this activity provide general support for the attainment of NASA mission objectives.

(a) Tracking and data acquisition.—Operation and equipment of the stations of the NASA tracking and data acquisition networks are provided for here, as well as research and development to increase the capability of the specialized ground equipment.

(b) Sustaining university program.—This program included grants for graduate studies in interdisciplinary space-related fields. No funds are included for either 1971 or 1972.

(c) Technology utilization.—The objective of this program is to accelerate the transfer of new advances in technology generated by NASA and NASA contractors into the economy.

This appropriation provides for contractual services for the design, major rehabilitation, and modification of facilities; the construction of new facilities; the purchase of related equipment and advanced design related to facilities planned for future authorization. The principal projects in the 1972 program are described below:

1. Manned space flight.—This activity includes funds for the modification and provision of facilities for space shuttle technology and engine development.
2. Scientific investigations in space.—This activity will provide funds for Centaur modifications to Titan III launch area, and alterations to launch complex 17 at the John F. Kennedy Space Center, NASA, Kennedy Space Center, Fla.
3. Space applications.—No projects for 1972.
4. Space research and technology.—No projects for 1972.
5. Aeronautical research and technology.—This activity includes funding for the modernization of the 40- by 80-foot wind tunnel at the Ames Research Center, Moffet Field, Calif.
6. Supporting activities.—The estimates for this activity provide for facility planning and design; a transportable ground tracking station site in western Europe, power-plant replacements at the Goldstone Complex, Fort Irwin, Calif. and Santiago, Chile; and for essential rehabilitation of and modifications to facilities (including projects for the prevention, control and abatement of air and water pollution), at NASA installations and Government-owned plants operated by contractors for NASA.

² Reimbursements from non-Federal sources are receipts for services performed on Communications Satellite Corporation projects (42 U.S.C. 2473) and for personal property sold for replacement purposes (40 U.S.C. 481).

This appropriation provides for expenses of research in Government laboratories, management of programs, and other expenses for the operation of NASA installations.

Other locations to which portions of the above activities are assigned include: Flight Research Center, Edwards, Calif.; and the Space Nuclear Systems Office, Germantown, Md.

Aeronautical research and technology work is carried out at the Ames, Flight, Langley, and Lewis Research Centers.

Programwide support and management are provided by NASA Headquarters, Washington, D.C. Support activities for tracking and data acquisition requirements are performed at the Goddard Space Flight Center and Wallops Station.

The Electronics Research Center, Cambridge, Mass., was closed June 30, 1970.

International cooperation.—U.S. dollars are advanced from foreign governments to allow the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to procure, in the United States, nonmilitary space-oriented materials and services on their behalf. Authority for this action is granted by the National Aeronautics and Space Act of 1958 (42 U.S.C. 2451 et seq.).

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Not to exceed 5 per centum of any appropriation made available to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by this Act may be transferred to any other such appropriation.

Not to exceed $35,000 of the appropriation "Research and Program Management" in this Act for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration shall be available for scientific consultations or extraordinary expense, to be expended upon the approval or authority of the Administrator and his determination shall be final and conclusive. (Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1971.)

POSTAL SERVICE

Federal Funds

The Postal Reorganization Act of 1970, Public Law 91-375, converted the Post Office Department into the United States Postal Service, an independent establishment within the executive branch. This agency is charged with providing patrons with reliable mail service at reasonable rates and fees.

The Postal Service is governed by an 11-member Board of Governors, including nine Governors appointed by the President and a Postmaster General and a Deputy Postmaster General who are selected by the Board.

Domestic postage rates, postal services, and classification of mail matter are subject to public notice and administrative hearing procedures under the authority of a five-member Presidentially appointed Postal Rate Commission, which makes recommendations to the Governors. Final determinations on changes in mail rates or classifications are made by the Governors subject to appellate review.

The activities of the Postal Service will be financed from the following sources: (1) mail and services revenue, (2) reimbursements from Federal and non-Federal sources, (3) proceeds from borrowing, (4) interest from U.S. securities and other investments, and (5) appropriations by the Congress.

All receipts and deposits are made to the Postal Service Fund and are available without fiscal year limitation for payment of all expenses incurred, retirement of obligations, investment in capital, and, with appropriate advice or approval by the Secretary of the Treasury, investment in obligations and securities.

The 1972 budget estimates are prepared on the basis that: (1) The equity of the Post Office Department is to be transferred to the Postal Service on June 30, 1971, and (2) the Postal Service will commence operations on July 1, 1971.

The 1972 program for the Postal Service is based on an anticipated mail volume of 89.8 billion pieces, compared to 87.1 billion estimated for 1971 and 84.9 billion in 1970.

³ Paid by Labor Department but not previously appropriated for in Post Office Department.

Program.—The following program activities are included in the budget estimates:

1. Services at small post offices.—The activity provides for services performed at 31,701 smaller post offices. Functions covered are processing of mail; window services; supervisory and administrative costs at these offices; collection of mail, including collection from classified and contract stations and branches associated with these post offices, and city, special, and rural mail delivery services.

2. Window and collection services—large offices.—Window and collection services, including registry, insured, collect-on-delivery, and customs services at the 171 largest post offices and related classified and contract stations and branches are provided for in this activity. Servicing and minor maintenance of stamp vending machines and self-service postal units, and costs of stations and branches operated under contract associated with the larger post offices are included.

3. Delivery services—large offices.—This activity provides for the delivery of all classes of mail to private individuals and businesses in cities and residential areas serviced by the 171 largest post offices, including special delivery services and rural routes associated with such offices.

4. Processing of mail—large offices.—This activity provides for those operations involved in the processing of all classes of incoming and outgoing mail at the 171 largest post offices. Related platform operations and preparation of mail for delivery are included.

5. Transportation.—Included in this activity are local, intercity, and international transportation of mail or mail containers by air, rail, highway, and water.

6. Law enforcement.—This activity provides for the investigative and law enforcement responsibilities of the Postal Inspection Service pertaining to the violation of postal laws, prevention and detection of loss and mistreatment of mails, and losses of Government funds and property. Cooperative efforts in the national program to combat organized crime, activities directed toward crime prevention within the postal service, and administrative functions are included.

7. Research, development, and engineering.—This activity provides for the conduct of in-house and contractual general research, applied research and development, systems planning and design, and industrial engineering programs in the Postal Service. These programs involve application of advanced management sciences and technical skills to the identification and evaluation of new technological capabilities, the improvement of the working environment, and the planning and design of postal facilities and mechanized systems. Related administrative functions are included.

8. Administration.—This activity provides for the overall planning and management of Postal Service programs, related support services, and internal audit functions at headquarters and field offices. Costs of contractual professional and technical services, the Board of Governors, the Postal Service Advisory Council, the Postal Rate Commission and staff, and the Regional Management Selection Boards are included. Administration and operation of management information systems such as the Postal Source Data System, and the training programs of the Postal Service Management Institute, the Oklahoma Postal Training Operation, and the Postal Academy Training Institute are covered in this activity. Contributions to the employees' compensation fund, reimbursement to the Treasury for processing paid money orders, and claims and indemnities are also included.

9. Logistical postal support.—(a) Expenses.—This activity includes the rental, operation, maintenance, and protection of leased facilities, operating supplies and maintenance required for the postal vehicle fleet, and supplies and procurement related to postal operations. Administration and operation of the area supply centers, mail equipment shops, mailbag repair units and depositories, and the stamped envelope agency are also provided for in this activity. Interest on borrowing is included.

(b) Capital investment.—This activity provides for the capital investment program of the Postal Service and includes acquisition of sites, construction of postal facilities, purchase of leased buildings, alteration and improvement of leased and owned facilities, and investments in major mail processing machinery and equipment in large postal facilities designed for such installations. Purchase of vehicles and auxiliary equipment for replacement of worn-out vehicles and for additions to the fleet required by growth in mail volume and delivery area, augmentation of the carrier mechanization program, and law enforcement functions are included in the capital investment program. Customer services equipment, which includes self-service postal units and vending machines, and equipment required for support of postal operations are also included. Debt discount and expense related to borrowing are provided for in this activity.

Revenue and expenses.—Amounts estimated to become available in 1972 include $8,613,066 thousand from revenues and receipts, of which $21,935 thousand is from sale of assets at book value; $250 million from authorized borrowings; and $1,471,722 thousand from the appropriation, "Payment to the Postal Service Fund," of which $56,322 thousand covers POD liability to the Workmen's Compensation Fund. Total cash from these sources is estimated to be $10,334,788 thousand.

Section 2005 of the Postal Reorganization Act authorizes borrowing authority for the Service of $10 billion, with a yearly limitation of $2 billion of which not more than $500 million may be used to cover operating expenses. It will be necessary to borrow only $250 million to cover the expenditures against capital commitments entered into after July 1, 1971, by application of $399 million operating surplus from 1972 results. Capital expenditures for commitments entered into prior to July 1, 1971, will be liquidated by cash made available from the unexpended balance of prior year appropriations to the Post Office Department transferred as of June 30, 1971, to the Postal Service Fund.

Financial condition.—Retained income at end of the first year of operation of the Postal Service is estimated to be $476,500 thousand. These retained funds will serve as safeguards to the Postal Service in meeting obligations and operating emergencies. The end-of-year balances in both accounts receivable and accounts payable reflect normal billing cycles.

At the beginning of 1972 the Postal Service will carry a liability of $368,500 thousand from the former Post Office Department for earned and unused annual leave of postal employees. It is anticipated that this liability will be funded over a period of years through the rate-making process.

With this exception, the 1972 budget provides for full financing and places the Postal Service in a financial position to meet its obligations and commitments in a timely manner.

This supplemental appropriation will provide funds for increased transportation costs occasioned by Public Law 91-258, the Airport and Airway Revenue Act of 1970, enacted on May 21, 1970. This act imposes a 5% tax on domestic air services over U.S. territory for which the Postal Service reimburses the air carriers involved.

[CURRENT AUTHORIZATIONS OUT OF GENERAL FUNDS]

[CONTRIBUTION TO THE POSTAL FUND]

For administration and operation of the Post Office Department and the postal service, there is hereby appropriated the aggregate amount of postal revenues for the current fiscal year, as authorized by law (39 U.S.C. 2201-2202), together with an amount equal to the difference between such revenues and the total of the appropriations hereinafter specified and the sum needed may be advanced to the Post Office Department upon requisition of the Postmaster General, for the following purposes, namely:

[CURRENT AUTHORIZATIONS OUT OF POSTAL FUND]

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Accounts receivable (benefit overpayments collectible from beneficiaries), 1969, $25,184 thousand; 1970, $23,737 thousand; 1971, $23,737 thousand; 1972, $23,737 thousand.

This appropriation provides for the payment of compensation, pensions, and related benefits to veterans and their dependents. In June 1970 there were an estimated 27.6 million living veterans of which 3.2 million, or 11.6%, were receiving benefits under this appropriation. In addition, 2.3 million dependents of deceased veterans were receiving benefits. Major increases in costs were experienced in 1970. Much of this was anticipated and attributed to the full-year effect of two legislative enactments (Public Law 90-493 which increased most disability compensation rates, and Public Law 90-275 which increased certain rates and liberalized other pension benefits). In addition, Public Law 91-96, effective December 1, 1969, added to the dependency and indemnity compensation costs. Normal increases in the Vietnam era veteran compensation roll were greater than anticipated as were the increases in veteran pension rates caused by the extension of election activity whereby "old law" pensioners continue to elect the higher "new law" rates.

These latter unanticipated factors projected into 1971 cause an increase of $88,815 thousand in budgetary requirements. In addition, legislation enacted subsequent to the initial request will add $344,964 thousand as follows:

Public Law 91-219 increased rates of subsistence allowance payable to disabled veterans in training effective Feb. 1, 1970.....	$4,140,000
Public Law 91-262 increased dependency and indemnity compensation rates payable to certain "children alone" effective July 1, 1970.....	3,612,000
Public Law 91-376 increased certain disability compensation rates effective July 1, 1970, and initially entitled certain remarried widows to benefits, effective Jan. 1, 1971.....	222,212,000
Public Law 91-588 increased pension rates for veterans and their survivors and increased income limitations for pension, and for parents receiving dependency and indemnity compensation, effective Jan. 1, 1971.....	115,000,000

Therefore, a supplemental appropriation amounting to $433,779 thousand is required in 1971 as shown under "Proposed for separate transmittal, existing legislation," to meet the increased costs of uncontrollable caseloads, higher average payments, and the new legislation.

1. Compensation.—Compensation is payable to living veterans who have suffered impairment of earning power from service-connected disabilities. Death compensation or dependency and indemnity compensation is payable to the widow and dependents of veterans whose deaths are related to service-connected disabilities.

The increasing trend in veterans average caseload for 1971 and 1972 is due primarily to the surging Vietnam era caseload which continues to exceed the declining caseload trends of the earlier war period categories. The increase in average payment for 1971 is basically attributable to the increased rates provided by Public Law 91-376 effective July 1, 1970. In addition, an increase in the normal payment is projected for 1971 and 1972 caused by a slightly higher average degree of disability, associated with advancing age of certain veterans.

The increase in the average survivors caseload in 1971 and 1972 is largely due to the growth of the Vietnam era rolls. Some new remarried widow cases will be added in 1971 and 1972 as a result of the enactment of Public Law 91-376, which liberalized entitlement requirements for certain widows effective January 1, 1971. Increases in the average payment for 1971 reflect the full-year effect of Public Law 91-96 which restructured the dependency and indemnity compensation rates payable to the widows and their eligible children effective December 1, 1969. In addition, Public Law 91-262, effective July 1, 1970, increased rates of dependency and indemnity compensation payable to "children alone" cases and will cause a minor increase in the average. These higher rates are projected into 1972. Increases in the normal payment are projected in addition, for each of the budget years due to the increasing proportion receiving higher dependency and indemnity compensation rates over those receiving the "old" death compensation rates, and an increasing number of widows receiving the aid and attendance allowance.

2. Pensions.—Benefits are payable to wartime veterans and dependents of deceased veterans for non-service-connected disability and death.

A slight decrease in average veterans caseload is projected for 1971 and 1972 because of the continuing caseload decline in the earlier war period categories where mortality rates are the main factor. Projected increases in annual average payments for 1971 and 1972 are attributable to the increasing number of pensioners drawing the additional benefits allowed for aid and attendance and housebound conditions, an extension of the higher rates elected by "old law" pensioners, and the enactment of Public Law 91-588, effective January 1, 1971, which increased pension rates and income limitation levels of veterans and their survivors.

Based on trends experienced in recent years, a continuing increase in survivors' caseload is projected for 1971 and 1972. In addition, some new cases will become entitled effective January 1, 1971, under Public Law 91-376 which liberalized entitlement requirements for certain remarried widows. The increase in the average payment projected during 1971 and 1972 is based on an increasing number of older widows becoming entitled to the higher aid and attendance benefits.

3. Other.—These miscellaneous benefits cover payments which are not readily combined with any one of the preceding compensation or pension categories.

(a) Retired officers.—Emergency officers of World War I and certain officers of the Regular Establishment who have retired because of service-connected disability are entitled to special benefits. The average caseload is declining steadily (as these officers age) from an actual of 667 in 1970 to an estimated 550 in 1972. The annual average payment in 1970 was $2,906. An average of $3,097 is projected for 1971 and 1972, with total requirements approximately $1,889 thousand in 1971 and $1,703 thousand in 1972.

(b) Adjusted service and dependents pay.—Claims made pursuant to the provisions of the World War Adjusted Compensation Act of 1924, as amended, are payable from this appropriation. If the amount of adjusted service credit was more than $50 the veterans were entitled to receive adjusted service certificates. The payment of adjusted service certificates was heretofore made from an adjusted service certificate fund. Activities of this fund were transferred in 1966 to this appropriation.

During 1970, costs of the combined activity were $32 thousand. It is anticipated that costs will approximate $35 thousand in each of the years 1971 and 1972.

(c) Subsistence allowance.—Payments are made to disabled veterans enrolled in vocational rehabilitation and education programs. These costs are expected to increase significantly in 1971 and 1972 reflecting higher rates provided by Public Law 91-219 effective February 1, 1970. In addition, costs in 1971 and 1972 reflect the increased training loads resulting from Vietnam era activities.

(d) Burial benefits.—The Administrator is currently authorized to: (1) Pay an allowance of $250 (plus transportation charges where death occurs under VA care) to cover the burial and funeral expenses of a deceased veteran, and (2) furnish a flag to drape the casket of each deceased veteran entitled thereto. The increase in costs is mainly related to the estimated increase in veterans' deaths.

(e) Special allowances, dependents.—Under certain conditions, a special allowance (38 U.S.C. 412) is payable to dependents of certain veterans who died after December 31, 1956, but who were not fully and currently insured under the Social Security Act. An average of 525 cases were paid $572,948 in 1970. In addition, 565 cases costing $612 thousand are estimated for 1971 and 615 cases costing $663 thousand for 1972.

(f) Invalid lifts and other devices.—The Administrator may furnish an invalid lift to veterans in receipt of pension under 38 U.S.C. 617 based on the need of regular aid and attendance. The rise in costs to $1,459,708 in 1970 is partially attributable to rental of polio equipment authorized in the latter part of that year. It is estimated such costs will rise to approximately $2,082 thousand in 1971 and $2,117 thousand in 1972.

(g) Tort claim settlements.—Payment of compromises or settlement under 38 U.S.C. 351 resulting from litigation under the Federal Tort Claims Act are made from this appropriation.

During 1970, 11 compromise payments were made at a cost of $172,400. Compromise payments for 1971 and 1972 are estimated at $200 thousand for each year.

(h) Death gratuities.—Public Law 89-214, approved September 29, 1965, authorized a death gratuity not to exceed $5 thousand for payment to the eligible beneficiary of a veteran whose death occurred during the period from January 1, 1957, through September 28, 1965, and was attributed to certain hazards of service. Activities in 1970 reflected savings of $15,534. Any future activity in this program should be negligible as the last date for making application was November 1, 1967.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30, are as follows: Accounts receivable (benefit overpayments collectible from beneficiaries), 1969, $7,747 thousand (1970 adjustment, $29 thousand); 1970, $8,411 thousand; 1971, $8,411 thousand; 1972, $8,411 thousand.

This appropriation provides education and training assistance to veterans of post-Korean military service; educational assistance allowances for eligible dependents of deceased and disabled veterans; and special assistance to disabled veterans in the form of vocational rehabilitation, housing grants, and automobiles or other conveyances.

1. Education and training.—Post-Korean conflict veterans whose education plans were interrupted or impeded by active service in the Armed Forces since February 1, 1955, are provided an educational assistance allowance under the provisions of the Veterans' Readjustment Benefits Act of 1966, as amended.

The number of veterans and servicemen who will seek educational assistance is mainly related to the size of the Armed Forces and the yearly rate of discharge. Participation of post-Korean conflict veterans who further their education or job training continues to increase. There were 285,718 more trainees in 1970 than in 1969. For 1972 it is estimated that 1,757,000 veterans will avail themselves of educational opportunities or on-the-job training. This is an increase of 169,000 over the 1,588,000 projected for 1971, and almost 546,300 over the number (1,210,731) who trained in 1970.

Public Law 91-584, enacted December 24, 1970, authorized educational assistance to dependents of prisoners of war, and revised eligibility criteria for inservice training for servicemen after 180 days of service. Estimated costs will amount to almost $1,762.0 million in 1972, as compared to the $938.8 million expended during 1970. This is an increase of $194.2 million over the estimated $1,567.8 million required for 1971.

Estimated costs of almost $66.4 million in 1972, will provide educational opportunities to 53,500 sons and daughters. This is an increase of 8,109 over the 45,391 individuals trained during 1970, at a cost of approximately $45.3 million, and 1,100 over the 52,400 expected to train during 1971, at a cost of more than $64.7 million.

Public Law 90-631 extended educational assistance to eligible wives and widows in 1969. Since this is a new program it is anticipated that it will continue to grow in 1971 and 1972. Costs of $10.8 million estimated for 1972, will provide training opportunities for an estimated 9,400 wives and widows. This is an increase of 700 over the 8,700 estimated trainees for 1971, at a cost of $9.9 million, an increase of more than $0.9 million over 1971.

The rate increases for education and training authorized by Public Law 91-219 increased costs for all three classes of trainees in 1970 and 1971 and continue to effect the estimates for 1972.

2. Special assistance to disabled veterans.—Disabled veterans requiring vocational rehabilitation receive assistance to cover costs of tuition, books, supplies, and equipment. An increase in the number of trainees is projected for both 1971 and 1972, and is directly related to the casualties associated with the Southeast Asia crisis. The increase also recognizes recent legislation authorizing part-time rehabilitative training.

Grants are provided for specially adapted housing to veterans having suffered the loss of both feet, to certain blind veterans, and to paraplegic veterans. Public Law 91-22 liberalized the eligibility requirements and increased the maximum amount of such grant to $12,500. With the passage of this legislation, 211 previously authorized grantees with escrow money still outstanding in 1970, i.e., part of the original $10,000 grant remaining, availed themselves of the liberalized provisions of the act and thereby received an additional amount of up to $2,500. The number of grants estimated for 1972 are expected to remain at approximately the same level experienced in 1970.

An allowance of $2,800 is provided for disabled veterans and certain persons on active duty toward the purchase price of an automobile or other conveyance. A substantial increase is projected in both 1971 and 1972 as a result of Public Law 91-666, approved January 11, 1971.

The Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation is made up of the former appropriations for Military and naval insurance, applicable to World War I veterans, the National service life insurance, applicable to certain World War II veterans and the Servicemen's indemnities, applicable to Korean conflict veterans. The appropriation also provides supplemental funds for the Service-disabled veterans insurance. Financing is mainly by congressional appropriation, transfers from the surplus funds of the Veterans special life insurance fund and by a small amount of premiums.

1. Military and naval insurance.—Payments are made to the U.S. Government life insurance fund as a reimbursement for claims (1) traceable to extra hazards of military service and (2) for claims while insured was under premium waiver provisions in active military service. Payments are made also to policyholders and beneficiaries for claims on war-risk insurance issued to servicemen and veterans of World War I.

2. National service life insurance.—This appropriation pays certain expenses of the National service life insurance fund and receives premiums and pays claims on nonparticipating insurance policies issued to certain disabled veterans of World War II. Premium receipts are appropriated under 38 U.S.C. 719(b).

(a) Payment to National service life insurance fund.—(1) For a death claim traceable to extra hazards of service an amount is transferred from this appropriation, which, when added to the reserve of the policy, is equal to the actuarial value of the claim. In the event of total disability traceable to extra hazards of service, an amount is transferred from this appropriation sufficient to meet the current payments from the fund.

(2) Gratuitous insurance was issued to aviation cadets and to certain persons who were unable to make application for National service life insurance. Under a court ruling in 1964, gratuitous insurance payments are made to illegitimate children previously denied recognition.

(3) The fund is reimbursed when recovery of erroneous payments or overpayments is waived.

(4) The fund is reimbursed for death claims on policies under waiver of premiums while the insured is on active military duty.

(b) Direct payments to policyholders and beneficiaries.—(1) Payments are made on nonparticipating National service life insurance policies issued to World War II veterans with service-connected disabilities.

(2) Claims may be paid in certain instances in which applicants for insurance were rejected for medical reasons and subsequently died in line of duty.

(3) Claims are paid on death which occurred after application, but before effective date of a National service life insurance policy.

(4) Claims may be paid in certain cases in which insurance was discontinued because the insured was discharged to accept a commission, was absent without leave, or was court-martialed.

(5) The general decline in the policies in force is indicated in the following table:

	June 30, 1969, actual	June 30, 1970, actual	June 30, 1971, estimate	June 30 1972, estimate
Number of policies.....	5,525	5,355	5,190	5,030
Amount of insurance....	$30,346,742	$29,520,402	$28,711,000	$27,872,000

3. Service-disabled veterans insurance.—Payments are made to the Service-disabled veterans insurance fund to supplement the premium and other receipts of the fund in amounts necessary to pay claims on insurance policies issued to veterans with service-connected disabilities. The increase in payments to the fund in 1972 is due to the increase in death claims payments to beneficiaries and an increase in policy loans to the policyholders each year.

Financing.—It is planned to transfer $7 million in 1971 and $8 million in 1972 of surplus retained earnings from the Veterans special life insurance fund to this account.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1969, $39,681 thousand (1970 adjustments, -$920 thousand); 1970, $47,504 thousand; 1971, $47,504 thousand; 1972, $47,504 thousand.

This appropriation provides for the cost of care and treatment of eligible beneficiaries in Veterans Administration hospital, domiciliary and nursing care beds, restoration centers, outpatient clinics, contract care facilities, and State homes.

To be eligible for inpatient care and treatment, a beneficiary must be a veteran of any war with a service-connected disability incurred or aggravated during a period of war, a veteran aged 65 years and older, or, within the limits of Veterans Administration facilities, for any other disability if the veteran is unable to defray the expenses of necessary hospital, nursing home, or domiciliary care. Outpatient medical and dental treatment is provided to veterans with service-connected disabilities by staffs of Veterans Administration outpatient clinics and by physicians and dentists participating in the hometown medical care program; to veterans receiving vocational rehabilitation who require treatment to avoid interruption of training; pensioners of nations allied with the United States in World War I and in World War II; and veterans of the Spanish-American War, Indian wars, Boxer Rebellion, and Philippine Insurrection, and in addition, complete outpatient services for a non-service-connected disability to any war veteran who has a permanent total disability resulting from a service-connected disability. Veterans also are provided examinations in outpatient clinics for purposes of rating for compensation and pension, insurance, and determining their need for hospitalization or domiciliary care.

Medical services may be furnished on an outpatient basis for non-service-connected disabilities to veterans who have been determined to need hospital care and whose admission to a hospital has been scheduled, or who require posthospital treatment to complete hospital care.

Increases in 1972 cover: (a) legislated wage and salary increases and other payroll adjustments including an extra workday, calendar day, and holiday; (b) initial

1. Medical, hospital, and domiciliary administration.—This covers the development, implementation, and administration of policies, plans, and broad objectives, and provides executive direction for all agency medical programs.

2. Postgraduate and inservice training.—This provides for tuition and registration payments, lecturer fees, travel expenses, and training materials incidental to continuing education programs for professional medical and administrative staff. This also serves as a media for disseminating information on medical advances resulting from research efforts.

3. Exchange of medical information.—This provides for entering into agreements with medical schools, hospitals, research centers and individual institutions, and members of the medical-scientific community under which physicians at hospitals not affiliated with medical schools will maintain closer contact with such schools and other primary sources of medical information. (Existing legislation for the Exchange of Medical Information program expires at the end of 1971. Estimates for 1972 are being submitted under the Proposed for separate transmittal, proposed legislation section.)

This appropriation provides for administration of all nonmedical veterans benefits through the Department of Veterans Benefits; operation of advanced data processing and communications systems through the Department of Data Management; and top management direction and support through agency level staff offices.

Funds requested for 1972 total $14.2 million above the 1971 estimate. These additional funds are required to provide the manpower and related resources to handle the growing workloads from expanded veterans benefits for an aging and growing veteran and beneficiary population.

Specifically, the requested increase will fund the effect of an extra paid day, within-grade salary increases, a larger uncontrollable payment to State approval agencies, and increases in employment, and communications resulting from larger workloads.

1. General administration.—This activity contains the executive direction of the agency and several top level supporting offices. In addition, it covers the Board of Veterans Appeals which decides all cases of appeals to the Administrator on claims involving benefits under veterans legislation.

2. Data management.—This activity manages all computer operations and is responsible for research into new computer and communications systems.

3. Veterans benefits.—Veterans' and dependents' claims for compensation, pensions, or other benefits are adjudicated, and guardianship and fiduciary service is furnished helpless or incompetent veterans and minor dependents, as indicated by the following workloads (in thousands):

	1969 actual	1970 actual	1971 estimate	1972 estimate

Loan guaranty operations include issuance of certificates of loan guaranty or insurance, servicing of loans reported in default, payment of claims from lenders on defaulted loans, acquisition, management, and disposal of property when necessary to protect the Government's interest, and providing assistance to specified paraplegic veterans in acquiring specially adapted housing. Key workload forecasts are as follows (in thousands):

These funds provide for the construction of new hospital and domiciliary facilities, replacement and relocation of existing hospitals and domiciliaries, acquisition of sites, modernization and other improvements, alterations and additions for medical research facilities, nursing home beds, supply depots and data processing centers, all of which include construction planning, administration, and related staff activities.

A construction program of $90 million is recommended for 1972 to be financed with budget authority (appropriation). The amount for construction of replacement and relocation hospitals includes financing in the amount of $8,157 thousand to complete the 760-bed hospital at San Antonio, Tex.; and $16,433 thousand for construction of a 460-bed hospital and an addition to the boiler plant at San Francisco, Calif. The amount for modernization and other improvements projects includes $25,541 thousand to continue projects for which design is in progress and $30,675 thousand for new projects which will ultimately cost $46,864 thousand. The amount of $769 thousand is included to continue nursing home care projects for which design is in progress, and the amount of $8,425 thousand is included for planning, administration, design, and construction supervision, construction research and development program, and related staff activities.

1. Hospitals.—(a) Replacement and relocation.—Beds which are housed in temporary, obsolete, or hazardous structures are to be replaced or relocated. The program initiated in 1955, currently includes 28 projects for approximately 18,609 beds. Status of beds to be provided under this title follows:

	1970 actual	1971 estimate	1972 estimate
Under construction beginning of year	4,791	2,849	2,661

Under construction at end of year	2,849	2,661	760
Not under construction at end of year	3,900	3,140	3,140

(b) Modernization.—Existing hospitals are to be brought up to the standards of the new hospitals insofar as practicable. The status of projects in this program, excluding those which were financially completed as of June 30, 1969, follows (dollars in thousands):

	Number of projects	Total estimated cost of projects
Completed as of June 30, 1970	10	$22,622

3. Nursing homes.—This activity provides for the construction necessary to establish VA nursing home facilities. A total of 6,000 nursing home beds has been authorized under this program since it was initiated in 1965. These facilities are being provided by altering existing hospital and domiciliary facilities and by new construction where necessary. Construction of 3,833 beds was completed as of June 30, 1970, and 971 beds are scheduled to be placed under construction in 1971. Funds in the amount of $769 thousand are requested in 1972 to continue nursing home care projects for which design is in process.

This program provides grants to assist the States in the construction of State nursing facilities, and to remodel, modify, or alter existing hospital and domiciliary facilities in State homes for providing care and treatment to war veterans. Grants may not exceed 50% of the estimated cost of construction of each project and may not provide for more than one and one-half beds per thousand veteran population in any State. As of July 31, 1970, funds in excess of $16 million have been obligated to help finance the construction of 2,221 nursing care beds in 15 States.

Grants are made to the Republic of the Philippines for the medical care and treatment at the Veterans Memorial Hospital or at other facilities by contract, of Philippine Commonwealth Army veterans and new Philippine Scouts. Public Law 89-612 extended the program through June 30, 1973. To assist the Republic of the Philippines in replacing and upgrading equipment and in rehabilitating the physical plant and facilities of the Veterans Memorial Hospital, $500 thousand was appropriated for this purpose in 1967, to remain available until expended. A total of $460 thousand and has been expended through 1970, with the remaining $40 thousand available in 1971 or subsequent fiscal years. Also, $100 thousand was authorized for each fiscal year through 1972 for making grants for medical research and training of health service personnel. Comparative average patient census for 1970, 1971, and 1972 are shown below.

The Housing Act of 1964, as amended by the Participation Sales Act of 1966, authorized the pooling of mortgages or other types of obligations of certain Government departments or agencies and the sale by the Federal National Mortgage Association (now the Government National Mortgage Association), as trustee, of beneficial interests, or participations, in such pools. The Participation Sales Act of 1966 provided that the aggregate amount of participations issued for the account of any trustor may not exceed the amount authorized for that trustor in an appropriation act.

The Participation Sales Act of 1966 also authorized the establishment of appropriations to cover payment for insufficiencies in the amounts required to be paid by trustors on account of outstanding participations. These insufficiencies are primarily comprised of the excess of interest payments to holders of participation certificates over the interest payments received from the pooled mortgages or other obligations. For sales authorized in 1967, the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967, established a permanent, indefinite appropriation to cover insufficiencies as may be required on account of those sales. For sales authorized in 1968, the Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1968 through 1971, established annual, definite appropriations for the payment of insufficiencies on account of sales authorized in that act. An appropriation of $5.9 million is proposed for 1972.

The definite insufficiency appropriation is reflected in the Direct loan revolving fund and Loan guaranty revolving fund. The indefinite insufficiency appropriation will not be required in 1972.

Public enterprise funds:

LOAN GUARANTY REVOLVING FUND

During the current fiscal year, the Loan guaranty revolving fund shall be available for expenses, but not to exceed $350,000,000 for property acquisitions and other loan guaranty and insurance operations under Chapter 37, title 38, United States Code, except administrative expenses, as authorized by section 1824 of such title: Provided, That the unobligated balances including retained earnings of the Direct loan revolving fund shall be available, during the current fiscal year, for transfer to the Loan guaranty revolving fund in such amounts as may be necessary to provide for the timely payment of obligations of such fund and the Administrator of Veterans Affairs shall not be required to pay interest on amounts so transferred after the time of such transfer. Note.—The above statement excludes the following exchanges of nonworking capital assets: The settlement of VA-guaranteed or insured loans by the acquisition of real property (1970, $132,182 thousand; 1971, $175,900 thousand; 1972, $203,500 thousand); the settlement of defaulted VA-owned loans by acquisition of real property (1970, $42,083 thousand; 1971, $46,385 thousand; 1972, $42,025 thousand); the acquisition of vendee loans in exchange for real property (1970, $185,593 thousand; 1971, $220,400 thousand; 1972, $226,170 thousand).

To assist eligible veterans to obtain credit for the purchase or construction of homes, the Veterans Administration guarantees loans made by private lenders. The number of guaranteed loans closed is expected to increase from 235,000 in 1971 to 265,000 in 1972 bringing the total amount of guaranteed loans outstanding by the end of 1972 to $39.4 billion. The Veterans Housing Act of 1970, Public Law 91-506, approved October 23, 1970, revived unused expired loan guaranty entitlement of World War II and Korean conflict veterans and made all loan guaranty entitlement available until used whether derived from World War II, Korean conflict, or post-Korean conflict service. The loan guaranty revolving fund provides for expenses and revenues of property and loan transactions resulting from settlement of guaranty claims.

Budget program.—1. Real property acquisitions.—Private lenders who have acquired property as a result of foreclosure on defaulted guaranteed or insured loans may elect to convey that property to the Veterans Administration. The table below reflects this activity and excludes the amount of indebtedness established against the veteran:

Average cost per acquisition.....	$13,573	$14,500	$15,400
Total cost (in thousands).....	$132,421	$165,700	$187,550

2. Property improvements.—After conveyance of the property to the Veterans Administration, capital expenditures are often necessary to place the property in salable condition. The following table summarizes these expenditures:

	1970 actual	1971 estimate	1972 estimate
Number of properties acquired.....	13,835	15,591	15,718
Average cost per property.....	$1,197	$1,325	$1,450
Total cost (in thousands).....	$16,555	$20,660	$22,800

3. Claims paid.—These payments are made to lenders in accordance with the Veterans Administration guaranty contract and represent the difference between the amount owed by the veteran on a defaulted loan and the value of the foreclosed property (as established by Veterans Administration). These payments are in addition to property acquisition costs shown in 1, above. The table below reflects this activity:

	1970 actual	1971 estimate	1972 estimate
Number of claims.....	10, 198	11, 500	12, 310

Total cost (in thousands).....	$11, 875	$13, 800	$16, 000

4. Repurchase of loans sold, net.—Pursuant to Veterans Administration Regulation 4600, dated March 22, 1962, the Administrator may sell with full recourse loans which have been created incident to the sale of Veterans Administration acquired properties. If the loans go into default, the Administrator may repurchase them.

Total cost (in thousands).....	$9, 807	$12, 000	$13, 600

5. Cash advances—Vendee loans.—Cash expenditures are not involved in the establishment of vendee loans or installment contracts. However, it is often necessary to subsequently advance cash on behalf of the borrower in order to protect the interest of the Government.

6. Loans acquired.—Guaranteed or insured loans in a default status may be purchased by the Administrator to avoid foreclosure when temporary forbearance will allow the veteran borrowers to cure the default.

Total cost (in thousands).....	$10, 078	$12, 000	$12, 500

9. Discount on sale of loans.—Represents the discount absorbed by VA incident to the sale of vendee accounts. Discounts occur when the contract rate of interest does not afford yield commensurate with market.

10. Interest expense on participation certificates.—Represents the amount of interest the trustee is required to pay holders of participation certificates in respect to which vendee accounts have been set aside pursuant to 38 U.S.C. 1820(e). To the extent this expense exceeds the amount of interest collections on an equal amount of loans pledged to the trustee, participation sales insufficiencies result.

Financing of participation sales insufficiencies is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Interest accrued on participation certificates for which insufficiencies are authorized.....	46, 778	44, 815	44, 059

Financing.—Normal revenue and receipts consist principally of interest income, cash proceeds from the sale of real property acquired as a result of foreclosure on guaranteed loans, and repayments on mortgages made incident to such sales. It is estimated that $156.2 million in 1971 and $116.0 million in 1972 will be received from these sources. Also an estimated $300.0 million vendee loans will be sold in 1971 and an additional $300.0 million in 1972. In addition, budget authority of $6.1 million and $5.9 million will be required in 1971 and 1972 to meet participation sales insufficiencies.

The Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Act, 1971 (Public Law 91-556) provided that the unobligated balances including retained earnings of the Direct loan revolving fund shall be available for transfer to the Loan guaranty revolving fund. No transfers are expected in 1971 or 1972.

Note: The above statement excludes the following exchanges of nonworking capital assets: The settlement of defaulted veterans loans by foreclosures and conveyances (1970, $5,182 thousand; 1971, $6,651 thousand; 1972, $6,569 thousand); the settlement of vendee loans by foreclosures and conveyances (1970, $884 thousand; 1971, $950 thousand; 1972, $1,075 thousand); the acquisition of vendee loans in exchange for real property (1970, $5,246 thousand; 1971, $7,800 thousand; 1972, $7,600 thousand).

Direct loans are made to veterans to purchase, construct, or improve homes; to purchase farms on which there are farm residences to be occupied by the veterans as their homes; or to construct, alter, repair, or improve farm dwellings to be occupied by the veterans as their homes.

Such loans are made only in rural areas, small cities, and towns where private credit for the making of guaranteed loans is and has been generally unavailable. The maximum term is 30 years and the maximum loan amount is $21 thousand, except in high cost areas where such a limitation is inadequate. In such areas the Administrator is authorized to increase the maximum amount up to $25 thousand. The interest rate is the same as the rate allowable for guaranteed loans. In addition, Public Law 91-506 approved October 23, 1970, expanded the direct loan program to allow the Administrator to make direct loans to veterans who have been approved for specially adapted housing grants regardless of where property is located (38 U.S.C. 1811, as amended).

Budget program.—1. Direct loans to veterans.—Public Law 91-506 removed the terminal date heretofore in effect on the authority to make direct loans. The same law revived the expired unused loan entitlement of World War II and Korean conflict veterans and provided that direct lending authority and veterans' eligibility would be open ended until their entitlement is used. Continued improvement in the availability of private capital for guaranteed loans will obviate the need for direct lending in the budget year. It is anticipated that private capital will be sufficient to cover veterans housing credit needs.

2. Cash advances and repurchases—Vendee loans.—Cash expenditures are not involved in the establishment of vendee loans or installment contracts. However, it is often necessary to subsequently advance cash on behalf of the borrower in order to protect the interest of the Government. These advances are added to the unpaid loan balances. In addition, vendee loans sold with full recourse may be repurchased if they go into default.

3. Property improvements.—Properties are acquired by foreclosure on, or the voluntary conveyance of, title to properties securing loans owned by the Veterans Administration. Capital expenditures are often necessary to put the property in salable condition. The following table summarizes these expenditures:

Number of properties acquired.....	655	890	870
Average per property.....	$699	$775	$825
Total cost (in thousands).....	$458	$690	$720

4. Interest on borrowings.—Interest expense is accrued monthly. These accruals are computed on the interest-bearing capital of the fund and adjusted for the unexpended balance of the fund.

5. Operating expenses, general.—Includes a variety of miscellaneous expenses borne by the Government incident to closing and liquidating loans.

6. Property management expense.—Includes local real estate taxes, services performed by management brokers, and maintenance of the property in a salable condition:

Average number of properties owned....	547	527	493
Average cost per property.....	$459	$525	$550
Total cost (in thousands).....	$251	$280	$270

7. Sales expense.—Includes brokers' fees and advertising costs incident to the sale of property owned by Veterans Administration and averages approximately 5% of selling price.

Number of sales.....	676	940	900
Average cost per sale.....	$441	$450	$475

8. Interest expense on participation certificates.—Represents the amount of interest the trustee is required to pay holders of participation certificates in respect to which direct loans have been set aside pursuant to 38 U.S.C. 1820(e). To the extent this expense exceeds the amount of interest collections on an equal amount of loans pledged to the trustee, participation sales insufficiencies result.

Financing of participation sales insufficiencies is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

	1970 actual	1971 estimate	1972 estimate

Budget authority.....	-----	-----	-----

9. Discount on sale of loans.—Represents the discount absorbed by VA incident to the sale of loans. Discounts occur when the contract rate of interest does not afford yield commensurate with the market.

Financing.—Normal revenue and receipts consist principally of interest income and repayments on direct loans made to veterans. It is estimated that $182.4 million in 1971 and $175.9 million in 1972 will be received from these sources. In addition, it is estimated that $129.0 million will be realized in 1972 from the sale of direct loans within the limitations of current legislation.

The Veterans Canteen Service was established by Congress in 1946 to furnish at reasonable prices merchandise and services necessary to the comfort and well-being of veterans in hospitals and domiciliaries operated by the Veterans Administration (38 U.S.C. 4201-08).

Budget program.—Sales are expected to be $68,379 thousand in 1971 and it is estimated sales will be $69,090 thousand during 1972.

Financing.—No appropriation by the Congress will be required for the operation of the Veterans Canteen Service during 1972. Operations will be financed from current revenues. The Congress originally appropriated a total of $4,965 thousand to establish and operate the service. Funds in excess of the needs of the service totaling $12,068 thousand have been paid to the Treasury as of June 30, 1970.

Operating results and financial condition.—Operating revenue is expected to be sufficient to cover operating expenses. Retained earnings are required for necessary working capital, therefore, no funds are available for payment to the Treasury during 1972.

This fund finances the payment of claims on nonparticipating insurance policies issued to veterans with service-connected disabilities (38 U.S.C. 722). Administrative expenses are paid from the appropriation, General operating expenses.

Budget program.—1. Death claims.—Payments to surviving beneficiaries continue to increase as new deaths occur among the increasing number of policyholders.

2. Cash surrenders and matured endowments.—A policyholder may terminate his insurance by cashing in his policy for its cash value.

4. Policy loans made.—A policyholder may borrow up to 94% of the cash value of his policy. This activity increases with the increased number of policyholders.

The general increase in the activity of this fund is indicated in the following table (dollars in thousands):

Insurance in force.....	$707,818	$849,402	$979,865	$1,092,869

Financing.—Operations are financed from premiums and other receipts. Additional funds are derived from the appropriation Veterans insurance and indemnities, instead of direct appropriations to this fund. It is estimated that the payment will be $7.0 million in 1971 and $8.8 million in 1972.

Operating results and financial condition.—Because premium and other receipts continue to be insufficient to cover operations, the deficit is expected to continue to increase with capital impairment reaching an estimated $67.2 million by June 30, 1972.

The capital of the fund consists of $4.5 million with $1 million transferred from Readjustment benefits appropriation in fiscal year 1954 and $3.5 million appropriated directly in fiscal years 1952, 1956, and 1958.

This fund finances claims arising from the guarantee of premiums due on commercial life insurance policies held by servicemen while they are in service and for 2 years after discharge (72 Stat. 487). The Government guarantees the repayment of any indebtedness not liquidated by the insured himself. Administrative expenses are paid from the appropriation, General operating expenses.

Budget program.—Insurance program.—Claims paid on application for coverage submitted and approved prior to October 6, 1942, are not reimbursable to the fund. Loans receivable are established for any payments made on applications for coverage submitted after that date, since these payments are reimbursable to the fund.

Financing.—Payment of claims against this fund is financed from collections of loans receivable, revenue, and appropriations as needed.

Operating results and financial condition.—The payment of claims has continually resulted in expenses in excess of the small revenue of the fund, thereby steadily increasing the deficit to an estimated $2 million through 1972.

This fund finances payment of claims and administrative costs on nonparticipating insurance policies issued after April 30, 1965, and prior to May 3, 1966, under the three insurance programs—(1) service-disabled standard insurance, (2) service-disabled rated insurance, and (3) non-service-disabled insurance—established by provisions of the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940, as amended (38 U.S.C. 725(b)(c)), to extend a new opportunity for insurance coverage to disabled veterans who no longer were eligible for other Government insurance.

Each program is self-contained and premiums may be adjusted to insure that each is self-sustaining, as required by law. For this purpose, separate accounting and actuarial records are maintained for each program to determine the individual program costs. Payments are made to the General operating expenses appropriation to cover the administrative costs of processing claims, and maintaining the accounts.

Budget program.—1. Death claims.—Payments to surviving beneficiaries will continue to increase as deaths occur among policyholders.

2. Disability claims.—Payments to individuals who have purchased total disability coverage and who subsequently become totally disabled.

4. Cash surrenders.—A policyholder may terminate his insurance by cashing in his policy for its cash value.

5. Payments to General operating expenses appropriation.—Payments to cover the administrative cost of processing claims and maintaining the accounts.

6. Policy loans made.—A policyholder may borrow up to 94% of the cash value of his policy.

The following table reflects the decrease in the number of policies and the amount of insurance in force (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1969 actual	June 30, 1970 actual	June 30, 1971 estimate	June 30, 1972 estimate
Number of policies:
Service-disabled standard insurance	166,019	164,586	163,100	161,600
Service-disabled rated insurance	30,059	29,330	28,600	27,850
Non-service-disabled insurance	537	508	480	450
Total	196,615	194,424	192,180	189,900
Insurance in force:
Service-disabled standard insurance	$1,180,017	$1,169,036	$1,158,742	$1,147,618
Service-disabled rated insurance	191,111	186,601	182,184	177,138
Non-service-disabled insurance	2,470	2,358	2,210	2,049
Total	1,373,598	1,357,995	1,343,136	1,326,805

Financing.—Operations are financed from premiums collected from policyholders and interest on investments.

The average premium rates for the Service-disabled standard insurance program have been reduced by about 18%, effective for the premiums due in October 1970. This reduction is made because of favorable experience in investment income. Premiums will not be reduced on the other two programs because their mortality losses have to this date been insufficiently offset by their interest gains.

This fund finances the payment of claims on nonparticipating insurance policies issued before January 1, 1957, to veterans who served in the Armed Forces subsequent to April 1951 (38 U.S.C., sec. 723). Policyholders were given the right (72 Stat. 1716) to convert to a permanent plan of insurance or to a new form of term insurance which may not be renewed beyond age 50 but which costs less than the unlimited term insurance. Policyholders under all plans of VSLI may purchase total disability income coverage with the payment of an additional premium. Administrative expenses are paid from the appropriation General operating expenses.

Budget program.—1. Death claims.—Payments to surviving beneficiaries continue to increase as deaths occur among policyholders.

2. Disability claims.—Payments to individuals who have purchased total disability coverage and who subsequently become totally disabled began in 1960.

3. Cash surrenders.—A policyholder may terminate his insurance by cashing in his policy for its cash value.

6. Policy loans made.—The policyholders who converted their insurance from term to permanent plan were subsequently entitled to borrow up to 94% of the cash value of the new policy.

The following table reflects the decrease in the number of policies and the amount of insurance in force (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1969 actual	June 30, 1970 actual	June 30, 1971 estimate	June 30, 1972 estimate

Insurance in force.....	$5,480,679	$5,431,536	$5,392,148	$5,350,390

Financing.—Payments from this fund are financed primarily from premium receipts and interest on investments.

Operating results and financial condition.—Favorable mortality experience on insurance written against this fund has kept death claim payments well below the amount of premium and interest receipts, thereby producing an annual increase in the retained earnings of the fund. The retained earnings have been reduced by payments of a special dividend and payments to the Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation and the Veterans reopened insurance fund.

This fund is used to make loans up to $100 to disabled veterans eligible for vocational rehabilitation who are without sufficient funds to meet their expenses (38 U.S.C. 1507). Repayments are used to make new loans.

Increased loan activity in this fund is projected in both 1971 and 1972 which is based on an increase in the number of trainees for both years. The increase also recognizes recent legislation authorizing part-time rehabilitative training.

Administrative expenses are borne by the appropriation, General operating expenses.

This fund finances the payment of group life insurance premiums to private insurance companies under the Servicemen's Group Life Insurance Act of 1965 (38 U.S.C. sec. 765-776) as amended, and any expenses incurred by the Veterans Administration in administration of the act.

Budget program.—1. Premium payments.—The payment of premiums to private insurance companies in 1971 and 1972 is expected to be slightly more than in 1970. This is due to new legislation effective June 25, 1970, providing for a maximum of $15,000 coverage instead of $10,000.

2. Payment to General operating expenses appropriation.—The 1970 administration cost to the Veterans Administration was $330 thousand. Most of this cost is for personal services. The costs of $670 thousand for 1971 is considerably higher. The largest part of this is due to the necessity of having all new applications, certificates, and necessary forms reprinted because of the amended legislation. The costs should reduce in 1972.

Financing.—Premium costs are met by withholding from the salaries of insured members their share of the cost of the insurance and by contributions of amounts representing the extra hazard costs from appropriations of the departments involved. The extra hazards contributions and withholdings from pay will be slightly more in 1971 and 1972 over 1970. This is also due to the recent legislation providing for a monthly premium of $3 instead of $2 for full coverage.

Under the provisions of 38 U.S.C. 5011, the Supply Fund finances on a reimbursable basis the cost of warehouse inventories at depots and field stations and selected items of equipment procured centrally. It also finances, on the same basis, items and services to other Federal agencies who either request or are assigned to the Veterans Administration for support.

Budget program.—The fund provides financial support for: (1) Maintenance of depot and field station inventories; (2) maintenance and operation of two supply depots and one subdepot; (3) a publications depot including printing services to VA installations on a centralized basis; (4) operation of a service and reclamation program operating out of the supply depots; (5) centralized periodical procurement and library cataloging, and (6) a marketing center or central buying office.

The publications and reproduction program provides printing service and distribution of printed matter to VA installations. Printed matter is acquired in accordance with the rules of the Joint Committee on Printing from the Government Printing Office, the General Services Administration, a VA-operated plant, and from commercial sources.

The marketing center is responsible for determining the levels of inventories to be carried at depots and acquiring stock to maintain such levels. It is also responsible for the central contracting of items not available from other Government sources for VA installations and other Government agencies as may be determined economical or advisable.

The Supply Fund does not finance costs for the operation and administration of supply activities at field stations or in central office not directly related to the Supply Fund. These costs are charged directly to applicable appropriations and are not an expense of the Supply Fund.

Financing.—Costs of supplies, equipment, and services acquired through the Supply Fund and Supply Fund operating costs are recovered through reimbursements from the VA appropriations and other Government agencies receiving the goods and services.

Operating results and financial condition.—The fund operated at a $229 thousand loss during 1970. This is less than two-tenths of 1% (0.19%) of the total sales. It is anticipated to operate at a profit in 1971 sufficient to offset the 1970 loss and prior years loss of $16 thousand.

This fund (72 Stat. 1154) was established in 1940 as the financing mechanism for World War II servicemen's and veterans' insurance program authorized by the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940. Over 22 million policies have been issued under this program. Because issuance of new policies ended in 1951, the insurance in force will continue to decline. The general decline in the activity of the fund is indicated in the following table (dollars in millions):

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Not to exceed 5 per centum of any appropriation for the current fiscal year for "Compensation and pensions", "Readjustment benefits", and "Veterans insurance and indemnities" may be transferred to any other of the mentioned appropriations, but not to exceed 10 per centum of the appropriations so augmented.

Appropriations available to the Veterans Administration for the current fiscal year for salaries and expenses shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109.

The appropriation available to the Veterans Administration for the current fiscal year for "Medical care" shall be available for funeral, burial, and other expenses incidental thereto (except burial awards authorized by 38 U.S.C. 902), for beneficiaries of the Veterans Administration receiving care under such appropriations.

No part of the appropriations in this Act for the Veterans Administration (except the appropriation for "Construction of hospital and domiciliary facilities") shall be available for the purchase of any site for or toward the construction of any new hospital or home.

No part of the foregoing appropriations shall be available for hospitalization or examination of any persons except beneficiaries entitled under the laws bestowing such benefits to veterans, unless reimbursement of cost is made to the appropriation at such rates as may be fixed by the Administrator of Veterans Affairs. The Conference, established pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 571, et seq., is authorized on a permanent basis to assist the President, the Congress, the administrative agencies, and executive departments in improving existing administrative procedure. It is responsible for conducting studies of the efficiency, adequacy, and fairness of present procedures by which Federal administrative agencies and executive departments determine the rights, privileges, and obligations of private persons.

Activated in January 1968, the Conference has adopted 22 official recommendations looking to the improvement of agency procedures. A number of these have been implemented, and others are in the process of implementation. The work of the Conference is carried on by a full-time Chairman who is the only paid member of the Conference, a small supporting staff, a 10-man council appointed by the President, representatives of approximately 35 Government agencies, 32 public members selected for their expertise in administrative law fields, and part-time consultants drawn mostly from university law faculties.

The American Battle Monuments Commission is responsible for the construction and maintenance of U.S. monuments and memorials commemorating the achievements in battle of our Armed Forces since April 6, 1917. It is also responsible for controlling erection of monuments and markers by U.S. citizens and organizations in foreign countries, and for the design, construction, and maintenance of permanent military cemetery memorials on foreign soil. Altogether, the Commission maintains on foreign soil 23 military cemetery memorials; 11 monuments and memorials not a part of the cemeteries; and two bronze tablets. In addition, the Commission maintains three large memorials on U.S. soil.

The remains of 30,912 honored dead of World War I, 93,222 of World War II, and 750 of the Mexican War are interred in these cemeteries. In addition, the 91,591 service men and women of World War I, World War II, and the Korean conflict who were missing in action or lost or buried at sea are memorialized at the cemeteries and memorials by the inscription of their names on the "Walls of the Missing." Many American tourists and local citizens visit these cemeteries and memorials every year to pay homage to those interred and commemorated in them.

The Agency advises the President and the Secretary of State on arms control and disarmament policy and its implementation, conducts negotiations with other countries looking toward international agreements to control, reduce, or eliminate arms, and will direct, as appropriate, U.S. participation in such control systems as may be adopted.

The external research and field testing activities are conducted through contracts or grants with nongovernmental research organizations and through reimbursement agreements with other U.S. Government departments and agencies. The proposed 1972 program will be slightly larger and will emphasize the control, limitation, and reduction of strategic offensive and defensive weapons systems in support of the bilateral negotiations on strategic arms limitations.

The Cabinet Committee on Opportunities for Spanish-Speaking People was established by Congress on December 30, 1969, to replace the Inter-Agency Committee on Mexican-American Affairs. The Committee seeks to develop solutions to opportunity problems of Spanish-speaking Americans; assure that Federal programs are reaching the Spanish-speaking and providing the assistance they need; and develop new programs that may be necessary to handle problems that are unique to the Spanish-speaking community.

In 1971 there will be established within the Cabinet Committee an Advisory Council on Spanish-Speaking Americans to be composed of nine members appointed by the President from among individuals who are representative of the Spanish-speaking community. The Advisory Council will be available to advise the Committee on such matters as the Committee Chairman may request.

The Board regulates the economic aspects of air carrier operations, both domestic and international, and participates in the development of international air transportation.

1. Awards of operating authority.—This includes: (a) Processing applications for operating authority or modification of authority; (b) conducting investigations initiated by the Board involving operating authorities; (c) international aviation work involving obtaining, granting, or exchanging of operating authority with foreign countries, and the handling of day-to-day operating problems with foreign governments and airline officials; and (d) the issuance of foreign carrier permits.

2. Regulation of rates and fares.—This includes: (a) Review of passenger and cargo rate tariffs to determine those rates and fares that should be permitted to become effective without investigation, to become effective but at the same time investigated, and to be suspended pending investigation; (b) review of complaints against air carrier rates; (c) conducting formal (hearing process) investigations of those rates, fares, rules, or related tariff provisions that the Board has found may be unlawful or contrary to the public interest; (d) establishment of minimum rates applicable to services performed by the civil air carriers for the Military Airlift Command (MAC); and (e) review of petitions for the establishment or revision of service mail rates.

3. Regulation of agreements and interlocking relationships.—This includes: (a) Review of applications requesting Board approval of acquisitions of control, approval of interlocking directorates, and agreements between air carriers and any other common carrier affecting air transportation; and (b) review of agreements on rates and fares under which U.S. flag carriers participate in the International Air Transport Association (IATA).

4. Subsidy support of air service.—This includes: (a) Processing of subsidy rate cases; (b) necessary studies, forecasts, and analyses; (c) provision of economic assistance to Board components on cases with subsidy implications; (d) making recommendations to the Secretary of Transportation as to the Government guaranty of private loans to air carriers for the purchase of more modern aircraft; and (e) verification of subsidy claims submitted by the air carriers.

5. Regulation of air carrier accounting and reporting.—This includes: (a) Design, prescription, and administration of uniform systems of accounts and reports; (b) substantiation of carrier conformance with prescribed accounting and reporting regulations; (c) preparing special analyses and evaluations of air carrier financial data; (d) field audit of carriers' books, records, and reports; and (e) performance of special financial and accounting fact-finding services in the field.

6. Enforcement and consumer affairs.—This includes: (a) Handling of passenger and shipper complaints; (b) investigation of violations of the economic provisions of the Federal Aviation Act with the regulations, orders, certificates, permits, exemptions, and other requirements issued thereunder; and (c) the taking of enforcement action and the achievement of compliance by informal (nonhearing) enforcement action, formal (hearing) administrative proceedings, and the prosecution of enforcement cases in the courts.

A supplemental appropriation will be requested for 1971 for additional costs associated with the Civil Aeronautics Board's operations.

The Civil Aeronautics Board fixes rates of subsidy compensation to promote the development of air transportation to the extent and of the quality required for the commerce of the United States, the Postal Service, and the national defense. The Board makes subsidy payments to subsidy-eligible certificated air carriers who have demonstrated a statutory need therefor. The 1971 appropriation provides for 2 years of subsidy to the local service carriers.

The following table reflects the estimated program amounts becoming due finally for each year, together with the adjustments between years:

ESTIMATED SUBSIDY EARNINGS AND OBLIGATIONS RELATED TO APPROPRIATIONS

1(a). Recruiting and examining.—The Commission operates a system of open examinations and provides the most qualified candidates to agencies for job consideration through 65 area offices across the country. The Commission conducts a coordinated recruiting program to attract into competition for Federal employment the best quality applicants available to meet the manpower needs of the service.

Workloads are reflected in the following table:

Applications processed.....	1,756,421	2,006,000	1,400,000
Names certified.....	1,251,527	1,460,100	990,000
Inquiries answered.....	5,477,643	5,480,000	5,480,000

1(b). Testing and job information.—To supply information about Federal employment opportunities to all interested citizens and provide ample opportunity to compete for Federal employment, a system of 1,000 testing and job information points operates throughout the country under the supervision of the Commission. These points are staffed with Postal Service personnel and have been funded by appropriations to the Postal Service for public services costs. Beginning in 1972, it is proposed that appropriations be made directly to the Commission for this service.

2. Investigation of character and fitness for employment.—The Commission conducts most of the investigations required for security determinations of persons being employed in sensitive positions, and fitness investigations of all persons entering nonsensitive positions. The Commission also conducts other investigations connected with appeals and the merit system. Included is investigations of U.S. citizens for employment by international organizations required by Executive Order 10422, as amended.

3. Personnel management evaluation.—The Commission evaluates agency personnel operations to insure compliance with civil service laws and regulations and to stimulate improvement in personnel practices. The Commission also conducts classification reviews to insure compliance with classification standards.

4. Federal executive manpower.—The Commission's program is to develop and use the talent and competency existing within and outside the Government to help staff agency executive positions throughout the Federal service within full merit principles. It will meet and work with agencies to develop the most effective top-level organization and position structure related to present and future agency missions.

5. Developing policies and standards.—The Commission develops programs, devises tests, issues standards and regulations, administers pay and leave regulations, and proposes legislation to improve the Federal personnel system for both competitive and noncompetitive positions.

6. Appellate functions.—These consist of hearing and taking action on appeals; reviewing and processing of discrimination complaints under authority of Executive Order 11246; and providing advice to agencies and individuals regarding rights of appeal.

7. Training.—The Commission makes overall and individual agency appraisals of training operations, and coordinates interagency training programs to achieve full utilization and to avoid duplication and, where it is more economical to do so, conducts training programs for agency personnel on a reimbursable basis.

9. Administration of the Voting Rights Act of 1965.—The Commission provides examiners to prepare and maintain lists of eligible voters and to observe election procedures in States or other political subdivisions designated by the Attorney General. The Commission receives complaints, hears and determines challenges, and assists in the defense of challenge cases filed in U.S. circuit courts of appeal as prescribed by the act.

10. Enforcement of restrictions on political activity.—Under chapter 15 and subchapter III of chapter 73 of title 5, U.S.C., and the Civil Service Rules, the Civil Service Commission administers and enforces political activity restrictions as applied to Federal civil service employees, as well as to officers and employees of State or local agencies whose principal employment is in connection with a federally financed activity.

11. Occupational health.—The Commission assists departments and agencies to develop adequate occupational health programs with services provided at work locations, issues standards and guidelines and, in cooperation with the Public Health Service, Department of Labor, and General Services Administration, works toward achieving a modern and comprehensive health program for all Federal employees.

12. Administration of the Intergovernmental Personnel Act of 1970.—The Commission administers a grant-in-aid and training program and provides technical advice and assistance to State and local governments for the improvement of personnel management systems. It coordinates related Federal programs providing personnel management and training assistance to State and local governments and administers the Federal merit standard function.

13. Administration of retirement and insurance programs.—The Commission administers retirement, group life insurance, and health benefits programs for Federal employees. This is done by adjudicating annuity, death, benefit, refund, and deposit claims; making payments to annuitants and other claimants; collecting and accounting for moneys received; maintaining control accounts and systems for the funds; negotiating with private carriers to provide the insurance and health benefits authorized; determining eligibility in certain cases; auditing the records of insurance underwriters; and maintaining the trust funds established for financing the programs.

This proposed supplemental is for the increase in Government contributions for annuitants created by Public Law 91-418, approved September 25, 1970. This law amends the Federal Employees Health Benefits law by providing for increased Government contributions to health benefit premiums beginning in January 1971. The supplemental request of $21,356 thousand represents the increased appropriation requirements for 6 months of 1971.

The new Government share is equal to 40% of the current unweighted average of the high option premiums of six large plans—but not more than 50% of the premium cost for the particular enrollment. Public Law 91-418 also provides for annual adjustments to maintain the Government's share of the cost at the 40% level, whenever any of the six plans revise premium rates.

Section 103 of the Civil Service Retirement Amendments of 1969, approved October 20, 1969, established the basis for requiring Federal contributions to the civil service retirement and disability fund. Among other things, it provides for financing of current year costs of the unfunded liability created since enactment of Public Law 91-93. Any statute which authorizes (1) new or liberalized benefits, (2) extension of retirement coverage, or (3) increases in pay is deemed to authorize appropriations to the fund to finance the unfunded liability created by such statute. Also, the Secretary of the Treasury is required to make annual payments from general revenues into the retirement fund on the basis of a sliding scale of percentages of an amount equivalent to: (1) interest on the unfunded liability, and (2) annuity disbursements attributable to military service. The Civil Service Commission, at the end of each year, beginning in 1971, notifies the Secretary of the Treasury of the amount of payment to be made to the retirement fund and reports such sums to the President and the Congress.

Proposed for separate transmittal, existing legislation:

PAYMENT TO CIVIL SERVICE RETIREMENT AND DISABILITY FUND

This proposed supplemental is for mandatory payment to the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund to finance the unfunded liability created by the recently enacted Postal Reorganization Act. Since Public Law 91-375 was enacted after June 30, 1970, but the postal salary increase of 8% creating additional unfunded liability was effective April 16, 1970, the first appropriation is requested in 1971, and will include the June 30, 1970 payment plus a year's interest as well as the June 30, 1971 payment ($56.8 million × 1.035 + $56.8 million = $115.588 million). Under the provisions of Public Law 91-93, unfunded liability generated by new statutes must be financed with appropriate interest in 30 equal annual installments, beginning with the first payment due as of the end of the year in which each new liberalization, extension of coverage, or increase in pay is effective.

FEDERAL LABOR RELATIONS COUNCIL, SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Executive Order 11491 entitled "Labor-Management Relations in the Federal Service" established the Federal Labor Relations Council as a central authority to administer and interpret the order, decide major policy issues, prescribe regulations, and from time to time report and make recommendations to the President.

The order also establishes the Federal Service Impasses Panel as an agency within the Council. The Panel is authorized to consider impasses resulting from negotiations between labor organizations and agency management and to take whatever action it considers necessary to settle an impasse.

As provided by the order, the Federal Labor Relations Council began functioning January 1, 1970.

Since 1952, under authority of 5 U.S.C. 1304, other laws and executive orders the Civil Service Commission has conducted full field security investigations for other departments and agencies on a reimbursable basis. Beginning on April 5, 1970, pursuant to Public Law 91-189, approved December 30, 1969 (5 U.S.C. 1304(e)), use of the revolving fund was expanded to include reimbursable training activities of the Commission, as well as miscellaneous reimbursable services provided by the Commission to other Federal agencies and to State and local governments.

Budget program.—Because work on some investigations will be started in one year and completed in another and since some training course developmental work will be accomplished in one year with the course being presented in another, work in process is recognized as an asset of the fund.

Effective in 1972 certain Commission functions previously performed for the Post Office Department under the Commission's Salaries and expenses appropriation become a responsibility of the newly created U.S. Postal Service. As requested by the Postal Service, these functions will continue to be performed by the Commission but on a reimbursable basis in 1972. Under the Intergovernmental Personnel Act of 1970 the Commission will, on a cost-shared basis, admit State and local government employees to training courses and will provide technical advice and assistance for the improvement of personnel management systems. These reimbursable services to be financed through the Commission's revolving fund include recruiting and examining, investigations, personnel management evaluation, training and appellate functions and are estimated to total $4.9 million. They are included under the headings Training program and Miscellaneous reimbursements.

Operating results and financial condition.—The appropriated capital of the fund consists of $4 million. Increased volume of reimbursable services require an increase in appropriated capital of $1 million in 1972. Excess earnings, as determined by the Commission, are paid into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury.

The fund finances the cost of health benefits for: (1) Active employees, (2) employees who retired after June 1960, or their survivors (5 U.S.C. 8901-8913), and (3) the related expenses of the Commission in administering the program.

Budget program.—The balance of the fund is available for payments without fiscal year limitation. Numbers of participants on June 30 are as follows:

Active employees	2,200,276	2,180,276	2,157,776
Annuitants	442,724	491,549	542,409
Total	2,643,000	2,671,825	2,700,185

In determining a biweekly subscription rate to cover program costs, 1% is added to the rates developed by health benefit carriers, for administrative expense, and 3% is added for a contingency reserve held by the Commission for each carrier. The Commission is authorized to transfer unused administrative reserve funds to the contingency reserve.

An amendment to the Federal Employees Health Benefits law (Public Law 91-418), approved September 25, 1970, provides for increased Government contributions to health benefits premiums beginning in January 1971. The new Government share is equal to 40% of the current unweighted average of the high-option premiums of six large plans, but not more than 50% of the premiums cost for the particular enrollment. The amendment also provides for annual adjustments, as needed, to maintain the Government's share of the cost at the 40% level, whenever any of the six plans revise premium rates.

Financing.—The fund is financed by: (1) Withholding from active employees and annuitants; (2) agency contributions for active employees, appropriated to agencies; and (3) Government contributions for annuitants appropriated to the Commission.

Operating results.—Funds advanced to carriers but not used to pay claims in the current period are carried forward as special reserves for use in subsequent periods. About $6.9 million unused administrative funds were transferred to the contingency reserve in 1970. The contingency reserves are retained by the Commission and paid to carriers, as necessary, to defray future rate increases or to provide increased benefits.

This fund finances insurance premiums paid to private insurance companies for Federal employees group life insurance (5 U.S.C. 8701-8716) and expenses of the Civil Service Commission in administering the program. Separate cost data is maintained for employees regular group life insurance, an additional $10 thousand authorized in 1967, and insurance for members of former beneficial associations.

Budget program.—The status of the basic (regular and optional) life insurance program on June 30 is as follows:

¹ Excludes equal amount of accidental death and dismemberment insurance.

Financing.—Premium costs for the regular program are met by withholding 27½ cents biweekly from the salaries of employees, for each $1 thousand of life insurance and a 50% matching by employer agencies; for the optional program by withholding from employees' salaries, or retirees' annuities; and for the beneficial association program by direct collection from members. This fund, created by the Retired Federal Employees Health Benefits Act (Public Law 86-724), finances: (1) The cost of health benefits for retired employees and survivors who enroll in the Government-sponsored uniform health benefits plan; (2) the contribution to retired employees and survivors who retain or purchase private health insurance; and (3) expenses of the Civil Service Commission in administering the program.

Budget program.—The fund is available without fiscal year limitation. Amounts contributed by the Government shall be paid into the fund from annual appropriations. Numbers of participants on June 30 are as follows:

Uniform plan.....	76,347	72,950	69,600
Private plans.....	90,428	87,825	85,225
Total.....	166,775	160,775	154,825

Financing.—The fund is financed by contributions from those participants enrolled in the Government-sponsored plan and by Government contributions. The special contingency reserve with the carrier of the uniform plan is currently limited to $5 million at the end of the policy year. Excess income from the program over benefit payments and other expenses is deposited in the U.S. Treasury to the credit of the retired employees health benefits program.

Operating results.—There will be an estimated $36.7 million contingency reserve in the fund at the end of 1972 as compared with an estimated $36.3 million in 1971.

The Corporation for Public Broadcasting is a nonprofit private corporation which was created in 1968 pursuant to the Public Broadcasting Act of 1967 (Public Law 90-129). The purpose of the Corporation is to develop and improve noncommercial educational broadcasting and assist in establishing a public broadcasting service more widely available throughout the Nation.

The Corporation is financed for the most part by Federal grants, but also receives grants and contributions from non-Federal sources. In 1970, contributions from private sources totaled $1.4 million, and an estimated $3.8 million is expected to be contributed in 1971. In 1971, the Corporation estimates it will make operating grants to approximately 130 licensees operating nearly 200 public television stations and to the licensees operating 100 public radio stations. The Corporation also will support the production of quality public television and radio programs through grants to national production centers such as the Children's Television Workshop and the newly organized National Public Radio organization.

The Corporation also makes grants to those stations such as New York, Boston, Washington, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Los Angeles, and San Francisco which have national program production divisions contributing to the supply of programs for national distribution, and to other stations for the production of programs for local or regional use.

One of the essential services provided by the Corporation is the support of a national interconnection system for public broadcasts. Through grants to the Public Broadcasting Service, the Corporation in 1971 will support interconnection of up to 200 local television stations with service averaging 22 hours per week.

Legislation will be proposed to establish improved financing arrangements for the Corporation.

1. General fund loans.—Appropriations for 30-year interest-bearing loans from the U.S. Treasury are made available for financing construction of the general public works program of the District of Columbia, including school construction (72 Stat. 183); for the District of Columbia's construction to the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority for the city's share of construction costs of the rail rapid transit system authorized by the National Capital Transportation Act of 1969 (83 Stat. 320); and for education facilities for the Federal City College and the Washington Technical Institute (80 Stat. 1426). The loans to the general fund through the fiscal year ending June 30, 1971, are appropriated under a borrowing authority which is related to the ability of the District of Columbia to repay. The loans made under this authorization may not cause the general fund debt service to exceed 9% of local revenues and the annual Federal payment to be credited to the fund (81 Stat. 399). The existing law provides for this formula approach until June 30, 1972. The status of general fund borrowing on a cumulative basis is as follows (in millions of dollars):

1. Compliance.—Provides for the investigation, determination of cause, and conciliation of complaints of discrimination filed under title VII. Develops and implements procedures and programs to assure adequate and uniform quality and quantity of investigations, conciliations, and decisions. It is also responsible for providing technical advice and support to the field offices.

2. Affirmative programs.—Develops and implements on a national, local industry or other appropriate level affirmative action programs to assist those subject to the act in complying with the spirit as well as the letter of the law in order to overcome past and present discriminatory practices to provide real employment opportunities for minority groups; carries out the provisions of title VII that authorize cooperative agreements between the Commission and State and local fair employment practice agencies to reduce discrimination in employment; and develops and interprets statistical analyses and other background data to support Commission programs. The 1972 estimate includes $2 million for contracts to State and local fair employment practices agencies: (1) to enable these agencies to join with the Commission in continuing to focus on employment areas offering the greatest potential for improvement; and (2) to increase States' capability to handle complaints which are mandatorily deferred to them by the Commission.

3. Legal program support.—Furnishes legal guidance to Commission staff and the public relative to all aspects of title VII.

4. Administration.—Provides executive direction, staff support in public and congressional relations, and administrative management and housekeeping services for Commission programs.

The Export-Import Bank of the United States was organized in 1934 and its existing programs are authorized under the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945, as amended. The purpose of the Bank is to aid in financing and to facilitate U.S. exports and imports.

The Eximbank continues to play an important part in the administration's export expansion efforts, with the goal of achieving a more favorable U.S. balance of payments. Its proposed 1972 authorizations will support $8.2 billion of U.S. exports, an increase of 50% over the $5.5 billion supported by 1970 authorizations. Legislation will be proposed to raise the statutory ceiling on the Bank's outstanding loans, guarantees, and insurance to $20.0 billion, from the current level of $13.5 billion, and to extend the life of the Bank from June 30, 1973, to June 30, 1976.

New Bank programs initiated during 1970 include:

—Political risk guarantees for equipment.—This program compensates U.S. contractors for losses of their equipment of U.S. origin due to political or related action in other countries.

—Lease guarantee program.—Under this program the Bank will guarantee payment by a foreign lessee under contract to the lessor for the lease of U.S. equipment outside of the United States.

—Relending credit program.—This program assists small- and medium-sized oversea private enterprises in financing purchases of U.S. goods and services.

—Preliminary commitments.—Upon request Eximbank will outline the terms and conditions of the financial assistance it would extend to specific purchasers of U.S. exports of goods and services. Financial and credit information relating to the project must be provided by the applicant.

—Cooperative financing facility.—This program closely parallels the relending credit program. Under this program Eximbank provides 50% of the financed portion of an export sale, when the cooperating overseas financial institution obtains the balance of the funds required for each transaction with a buyer of U.S. machinery, equipment, and related services.

In addition, a reorganization designed to provide increased efficiency and effectiveness in the utilization of the Bank's staff, combined with more streamlined administrative procedures, is expected to result in greatly increased output per man-hour.

The following tables show the proposed 1972 new program activity compared to the actual for 1970 and the estimate for 1971.

Operating results and financial condition.—The Bank is a wholly owned Government corporation. Capital stock of $1 billion was purchased by the U.S. Treasury. In addition, the Bank is authorized to borrow from the Treasury up to $6 billion; the Bank pays interest on such borrowings.

The Bank's net income is estimated to be $117,396 thousand in 1972, compared with $113,031 thousand in 1971 and $110,730 thousand in 1970. From its net income, the Bank paid a $50 million dividend to the Treasury in 1970 and added the remaining balance of $60.7 million to its retained earnings reserve to provide for future contingencies. The Bank expects to follow a similar course in 1971 and 1972. Total investment of the Government in the corporation is estimated to be $5,595 million on June 30, 1972.

The Administration supervises a coordinated agricultural credit system of farm credit banks and associations which make credit available to farmers and their cooperatives.

Assessments based upon estimated administrative expenses are collected from agencies in the farm credit system and are available for administrative expenses. Obligations are incurred within fiscal year limitations on administrative expenses.

Supervision and examination of farm credit banks and associations.—Provision is made for supervision and examination of: 12 Federal land banks; 13 banks for cooperatives; 12 Federal intermediate credit banks; 628 Federal land bank associations; and 446 production credit associations. Also, these credit agencies are furnished such services as assistance in financing and investments, custody of collateral for bonds and debentures, credit analysis, development of appraisal standards and policies, preparation of reports and budgets, and development and distribution of information on farm credit.

SHORT-TERM CREDIT INVESTMENT FUND—Continued

This fund is available to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration as a revolving fund for investment in the class A capital stock of the Federal intermediate credit banks and class A and class C stock of the production credit associations.

Budget program.—On December 31, 1968, the Government's investment in the class A stock of the banks was retired in full, thus making them privately owned. Also, the last of the Government's investment in the production credit associations was repaid. No return of Government capital in any of the banks or associations is anticipated in the near future.

The Corporation was created by Congress for the purpose of protecting bank depositors and to foster sound practices in the Nation's banking system. As of June 30, 1970, the deposit insurance fund amounted to $4.2 billion. The entire fund is considered a reserve for the protection of depositors in insured banks and for the payment of administrative and insurance expenses. Income is accumulated principally from assessments paid by insured banks and interest from its investments in obligations of the U.S. Treasury. The insurance fund is strengthened by an authorization to borrow up to $3 billion from the Treasurer of the United States. No borrowing under this authorization has been made to date and none is anticipated in 1971 and 1972.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was created by Congress to provide protection for bank depositors and to foster sound banking practices. Initially, deposit insurance was limited to $2,500 per depositor. This protection increased to $5 thousand in 1935, to $10 thousand in 1950, $15 thousand in 1966, and finally in 1969 to the present maximum of $20 thousand. In order to accomplish its varied functions in the protection of bank depositors the Corporation is authorized to promulgate and enforce rules and regulations relating to the supervision of insured banks and to perform other regulatory and supervisory duties consistent with its responsibilities as insurer. A basic program for examining State banks which are not members of the Federal Reserve System and liquidation activities attendant to closed insured banks constitute the major portion of the Corporation's operations.

Income of the Corporation is derived principally from insurance assessments paid by insured banks and interest on investments in U.S. Government securities. As of June 30, 1970, the deposit insurance fund amounted to $4.2 billion. The entire fund represents the accumulated net income of the Corporation and is reserved for the protection of depositors in insured banks and for payment of administrative and insurance expenses. No funds derived from taxes or Federal appropriation are allocated to or used by the Corporation in any of its operations.

The insurance fund is supported by an authorization to borrow up to $3 billion from the U.S. Treasurer. No borrowing under this authorization has been made to date and none is anticipated in 1971 and 1972.

The estimates for 1971 and 1972 in these statements make no provision for losses and expenses which might occur by reason of the closing of any bank after October 15, 1970 (the date on which these reports were prepared), because there is no basis for predicting which, if any, insured banks will close in the future.

TITLE IV—CORPORATIONS

The following corporations and agencies, respectively, are hereby authorized to make such expenditures, within the limits of funds and borrowing authority available to each such corporation or agency and in accord with law, and to make such contracts and commitments without regard to fiscal year limitations as provided by section 104 of the Government Corporation Control Act, as amended, as may be necessary in carrying out the programs set forth in the Budget for the current fiscal year for each such corporation or agency except as hereinafter provided. (Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1971.)

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board formulates policies and supervises the operations of the 12 Federal home loan banks, the system of Federal savings and loan associations, and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation; it is also responsible for the examination of all Federal savings and loan associations, and for the examination and supervision of all State-chartered institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The expenditure programs of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation are presented as business-type budgets. Section 2 of Public Law 895, approved July 3, 1948, provides that all expenses of the Division of Examinations, Federal Home Loan Bank Board, shall be considered nonadministrative.

Public Law 87-141, approved August 17, 1961, provides that expenses of any functions of supervision (except of Federal home loan banks) vested in or exercisable by the Board shall be considered as nonadministrative expenses.

The administrative expenses of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board are paid from assessments against the 12 Federal home loan banks and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The expenses of the home office of the Office of Examinations and Supervision are paid from assessments against the 12 Federal home loan banks and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The expenses of the field offices of the Office of Examinations and Supervision are paid from fees charged against and collected from savings and loan institutions examined and from assessments against the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

General and special funds:

INTEREST ADJUSTMENT PAYMENTS

For payments to Federal home loan banks for the purpose of adjusting the effective interest rates charged by such banks, as authorized by section 101 of the Emergency Home Finance Act of 1970, $85,000,000. The Emergency Home Finance Act of 1970, Public Law 91-351, authorized a new program in the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. Under this program, appropriated funds would be used by the 12 Federal home loan banks to adjust the effective interest rate charged by each bank on lending to member savings and loan associations, thereby promoting an orderly flow of funds into residential construction.

Eligible families, those whose incomes are below the median for their area, and who are purchasing a house which is priced below the median for their area, may qualify for a subsidy, reducing their monthly mortgage interest payment. The program will be operated through local savings and loan associations.

The program is being initiated in 1971 with an appropriation of $85 million. An additional $85 million is proposed for 1972.

Budget program.—The Board's budget is based on eight activities.

Examination and supervision of Federal home loan banks.—The board examines and supervises the operations of the Federal home loan banks.

Examination and supervision of Federal and State-chartered institutions.—The financial condition and operations of each insured institution are analyzed and corrective action is instituted when warranted. Supervision of insured institutions operating under State charter is carried on, cooperatively, under arrangements made with the respective State authorities. Supervisory examinations are made of Federal savings and loan associations, State-chartered associations insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and such uninsured member institutions of the Federal home loan bank system as are not examined by the State examiners. Examinations are also made of institutions applying for insurance of accounts and for conversion from a State to a Federal charter when required by the Board.

Chartering and insuring Federal savings and loan associations.—Federal savings and loan associations are chartered and regulated. Applications of State-chartered associations for conversion into Federal savings and loan associations and applications of Federal savings and loan associations for establishment of branch offices are also examined. In addition, an analysis and evaluation is made of the insurance risk in connection with applications submitted by savings and loan associations for insurance of share accounts.

Executive direction and staff services.—This includes formulation of basic policy and the furnishing of staff services common to the Board and the Insurance Corporation.

Analysis of operations.—An analysis is made of the financial condition of member institutions, the flow of savings, the character and volume of mortgage lending, as well as selective review of geographical or community areas and phases of operations and certain analyses of trends in the field of thrift and home mortgage finance, including volume of activity and interest rates of all major types of mortgage lenders.

Administrative services.—These consist of auditing; accounting, budgetary, and financial reporting; internal budget control; and fiscal organization and management. These services also include general housekeeping and operating services, including printing and reproduction work.

Special studies of the savings and loan industry.—The special study of the savings and loan industry authorized by Public Law 89-426, 80 Stat. 141, 142, approved May 13, 1966, was completed in August 1969. Publication of the complete study by the Superintendent of Documents was made in August 1970.

Acquisition and construction of a building in the District of Columbia.—The Board is authorized by Public Law 89-754, 80 Stat. 1255, 1293, approved November 3, 1966, to acquire property and construct a building in the District of Columbia to provide quarters and facilities for the Board. Under the law, the Board is required to prepare and submit an annual budget program for the building as provided in title I of the Government Corporation Control Act.

The amounts shown in the schedules for the above activities include administrative expenses under annual limitation; nonadministrative expenses under a separate limitation; and certain additional expenses not under limitation. Administrative expenses are estimated to increase from $6.9 million in 1971 to $7.9 million in 1972. Nonadministrative expenses covering examination and supervision of savings and loan associations are discussed separately below.

The Office of Examinations and Supervision conducts regular periodic and special supervisory examinations of all Federal savings and loan associations, of insured State-chartered savings and loan associations, other institutions of the savings and loan type insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and of non-insured member institutions of the Federal Home Loan Bank System not subject to State supervision. The Office also examines and analyzes the financial condition of institutions which apply for membership in the System, for insurance of accounts, or for conversion from a State to a Federal charter. The institutions examined bear the costs of examinations.

The Office is also responsible for the supervision of institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. The purpose of such supervision is to prevent the development and/or continuance of unsafe and unsound financial practices in these institutions and to correct such practices where found. In carrying out the supervisory function, the Office reviews and analyzes the examination reports forwarded by the chief examiners of the respective district offices. The authority for examination and supervision of insured savings and loan associations was expanded by the Financial Institutions Supervisory Act of 1966, effective October 16, 1966. The Savings and Loan Holding Company Amendments of 1967, which became effective February 14, 1968, imposed additional examination and supervisory responsibilities on the Office with respect to savings and loan holding companies and their subsidiaries.

The 12 Federal home loan banks stabilize and strengthen the member institutions which own all their capital stock. The banks obtain funds advanced to members primarily from public issuances of consolidated obligations. Authority to borrow from the Treasury was increased from $1 to $4 billion by Public Law 91-151, approved December 23, 1969. No borrowings are anticipated in 1971 or 1972, but funds are available if market conditions so warrant. (Transactions of the banks are shown in the annexed budgets at the end of this document.)

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation is authorized under title IV of the National Housing Act (12 U.S.C. 1724 et seq.) to insure savings in all Federal savings and loan associations and in State-chartered institutions of the savings and loan type which apply and qualify for insurance. The protection thus afforded, which insures savers in member associations against financial loss up to a statutory limit of $20 thousand, may be provided through the prevention of default or the payment of insurance to savings account holders in the event of liquidation. The former course of action, which results in complete protection to each investor regardless of the amount in his account, is accomplished by making contributions or by purchasing all or a part of the association's assets. Also, the Corporation is authorized to make loans to institutions in financial difficulty. Wherever possible, preventive measures are taken to eliminate the necessity of liquidation. However, in the event liquidation is necessary, the Corporation acts as receiver or coreceiver upon request of State authority in cases involving State-chartered institutions. In addition, the Corporation, upon determination by the Board (under legislation effective July 1968, Public Law 90-389) is empowered to act, even retroactively, as sole receiver in cases involving State-chartered institutions.

The Corporation functions under direction of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which provides certain administrative services and conducts the examination and supervision of insured institutions. The expenses of the Board and its staff offices are paid from assessments made on the Corporation and the Federal home loan banks.

1. Administrative expenses subject to limitation.—In carrying out its role of protecting savings in insured savings and loan associations the Corporation has settled 83 cases since its creation 36 years ago. Actual losses sustained and provision for losses to June 30, 1970, have amounted to $112.4 million representing approximately 6% of cumulative gross income. Detailed information with respect to all of the insurance cases is summarized in the following table (dollars in thousands):

Method of settlement	Number	Number of investors protected	Actual losses sustained and provision for losses ¹

2. Payment to Federal Home Loan Bank Board for services and facilities.—The Corporation will pay 25% of the administrative expenses of the Board as a direct charge and 48% of the remaining administrative expenses of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in 1972 in return for services and facilities by the Board and staff offices. The Corporation will also pay 48% of the Washington office expenses and 34% of the District offices expenses of the Office of Examinations and Supervision for supervisory services by that office.

5. Other expenses.—Provides for liquidation and other expenses of the Corporation in connection with the work-out of contribution agreements, the disposition of assets purchased from, and loans to insured institutions to prevent default.

Financing.—The original capital of $100 million has been completely repaid to the Treasury, together with an additional $43 million for the use of the funds.

The Corporation has continuing authority to borrow from the Treasury for insurance purposes, with a limitation of $750 million outstanding at any one time. No borrowings under this authorization have ever been made.

The Corporation has additional authority to assess against each insured institution additional premiums for insurance until the amount of such premiums equals the amount of all losses and expenses of the Corporation, except that the total amount so assessed in any one year against any such institution shall not exceed one-eighth of 1% of the total amount of the accounts of its insured members.

Operating results and financial condition.—The Corporation is entirely self-supporting. Revenues and other receipts have been sufficient to meet all insurance losses, operating expenses, and return on capital stock, and to establish a reserve for contingencies of $2,854 million as of June 30, 1970. Total revenues and other receipts since 1934, of $3,091.6 million, have been applied as follows (in millions of dollars):

	Amount	Percent
Expense	82.6	2.7
Insurance losses sustained and provision for losses	112.4	3.6
Return on capital stock to U.S. Treasury	43.0	1.4
Reserve for contingencies	2,853.6	92.3
Total	3,091.6	100.0

Operating expenses (funded) for 1972 are estimated at $32 million, consisting of administrative expenses of the Corporation of $475 thousand, $11.2 million for services rendered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, $14 million for contributions to insured institutions, and $6.4 million for other expenses.

Net operating income for 1972, which is expected to be $181.3 million, will be retained by the Corporation to meet future contingencies.

Section 404(b) of the National Housing Act, as amended, requires each insured institution to pay a basic insurance premium in an amount equal to one-twelfth of 1% of its savings accounts. Public Law 87-210, which became effective January 1, 1962, as amended, requires annual payment to the Corporation of an additional premium in the nature of a prepayment at a rate equal to 2% of the increase in savings for the previous calendar year, less an amount equal to any requirement for the purchase of Federal home loan bank stock during the period. The law also provides for the crediting of a return on the accumulated prepayments of each insured association at a rate equal to the average realized by the Corporation on its own investment portfolio.

Public Law 87-210 further provides for the establishment of a primary reserve which shall be the general reserve of the Corporation and a secondary reserve to which shall be credited additional premiums. When the sum of these two reserves equals 2% of total savings, the cash payment of the regular premiums and the prepayments cease and the Corporation commences transferring the secondary reserve to the primary reserve by crediting each insured association's accumulated prepayments to its regular premium liability. (This credit is reflected on the analysis of changes in Government equity statement below.) If the aggregate of the two reserves drops to below 1.75%, the prepayments and the cash payment of the regular premium resume and continue until the 2% ratio is again reached. The law requires the Corporation to accumulate a primary reserve (as of the close of any December 31) equal to 2% of the total amount of all accounts of insured members before collection of regular premiums may be discontinued, provided, however, that each insured institution has paid regular premiums for at least 20 years.

Public Law 91-151, approved December 23, 1969, removed references to creditor obligations from the computation of the basic insurance premium and the base on which the required reserve levels are determined. Under this law, the maximum required level of primary and secondary reserves was deemed to have been reached on December 31, 1969. As of the end of 1972 it is anticipated that the primary reserve will reach $1,657.8 million or 1.1% of estimated savings of $154.6 billion and that the primary and secondary reserves will be at a level of $3,094.2 million or 2% of these estimated savings.

Public Law 91-152, approved December 24, 1969, provided that savings losses during 1966 recaptured in later years would not be reflected as savings growth on which the liability for payments to the secondary reserve is based. This measure amended prior law which already extended such treatment to losses occurring in 1967 and later years. Refunds due to this new legislation are reflected as item 4 on the program and financing schedule.

The Federal Maritime Commission administers the shipping statutes which require regulation of the domestic off-shore and international waterborne commerce of the United States. Its paramount objective for 1971 and 1972 is to launch an intensified effort to achieve proper compliance with the statutes through an effective regulatory program. This will entail continuing and comprehensive analysis in depth of the activities of conferences, carriers, and others subject to Commission jurisdiction, as they relate to the following program areas: ocean freight rates; section 15 agreements; malpractices; foreign discriminatory actions; freight forwarders; terminal operators; passenger vessel certification; and oil pollution financial responsibility. The proposed program expansion will require a modest appropriation increase in 1972.

The Service assists labor and management in mediation and prevention of disputes affecting industries engaged in interstate commerce and defense production other than rail and air transportation. It also makes its mediation and conciliation facilities available to Federal agencies and labor organizations in the resolution of negotiation disputes.

1. Mediation and conciliation of labor disputes.—During the last year, dispute notices and other notifications affecting approximately 101,400 employers were received by the Service. Cases totaling 19,769 were assigned for mediation and 19,862 mediation assignments were closed during the year. Cases pending at the end of the fiscal year totaled 5,020.

2. Ad hoc boards, panels, mediators, and consultants.—Provision is made for ad hoc employment of labor relations experts, individually or in panels, in support of the mediation function; and for boards of inquiry appointed by the President in emergency disputes.

Executive Order 11491, signed October 29, 1969, places responsibility in the agency for providing mediation assistance to Federal agencies and labor organizations in the resolution of negotiation disputes. The Service estimates it will be actively engaged in mediation of impasses in about 400 such negotiations each year. Through its preventive mediation program, the Service will also work with both contracting parties to bring about a better understanding of the collective bargaining process, and to improve their day-to-day working relationships.

The Federal Power Commission administers the Federal Power Act and Natural Gas Act, and performs other work relating to Federal electric power developments and associated natural resources. In 1972 the Commission expects to collect $7,683,000 in license fees and other charges.

1. Hydroelectric power regulation.—The Commission licenses non-Federal hydroelectric projects and makes water resources appraisal studies. Under Public Law 90-451, the Commission determines whether projects with expiring licenses should be relicensed or recommended to Congress for Federal takeover.

LICENSED PROJECT DATA

New construction	21	20	20
Unlicensed facilities	144	134	124
Relicensing	50	55	45
Amendments, etc.	221	224	220

2. Electric power industry systems evaluation.—The Commission encourages the interconnection and coordination of the Nation's electric power systems to insure an adequate supply of electric energy.

The Commission studies the electric power industry's problems and prospects to encourage electric utilities to meet the Nation's power requirements by timely installation of adequate generating and transmission facilities with minimum impact on our environment. The Commission is updating the 1964 National Power Survey and a new report is scheduled for completion in 1972.

3. Electric power utilities regulation.—The Commission regulates the wholesale rates and service, the accounts, reporting requirements, depreciation practices, certain security issues, the disposition of property, mergers, and interlocking directorates of interstate electric utilities.

Electric rate filings	2,474	2,805	2,600
Electric cases	35	58	74

4. Natural gas pipeline regulation.—There were 128 natural gas pipeline companies regulated by the Commission in 1970 with assets of $19.2 billion and approximately 40 million customers.

The Commission issues certificates of public convenience and necessity to permit construction of new facilities and extensions by interstate natural gas companies. Filing fees levied on pipeline certificate applications defray the cost of this program, and are expected to bring $1.48 million into the Treasury in 1972.

The Commission also regulates the wholesale rates charged by interstate natural gas pipeline companies, their accounting and reporting requirements, depreciation practices, and abandonment of property.

Rate filings	1,389	1,396	1,426

5. Natural gas producers regulation.—The Commission issues certificates of public convenience and necessity for the sale of gas by independent producers and regulates the rates which producers may charge for natural gas sold in interstate commerce. Some 4,500 natural gas producers are presently regulated by the Commission.

WORKLOAD

Certificate applications	4,051	4,816	4,811
Rate filings	13,740	12,675	13,063
Cases (consolidated dockets)	8	9	10

6. Natural gas industry systems evaluation.—The Commission is initiating a National Gas Survey in 1971, which is expected to complement the National Power Survey in forecasting energy supply and requirements.

7. Services to other agencies and to the public.—The Commission studies industry systems and prepares reports for use of other agencies, the industries and the public.

The Commission assesses and collects annual charges against owners of non-Federal hydroelectric projects which derive benefit from upstream Federal reservoirs.

The Commission participates with other Federal agencies in planning the development of power at water resources projects. For certain Federal projects, it approves the rate for sale of power and allocates the costs to project purposes. It participates in activities of the Water Resources Council and in Federal-State water resources studies.

8. Administration.—Executive, managerial, and administrative support personnel perform the usual support functions.

The Commission has the duty of preserving free competitive enterprise through the prevention and suppression of monopolistic practices and unfair restraints of trade. Additionally, it is responsible for detecting and prosecuting acts and practices which unfairly deceive or victimize the consuming public.

1. Maintaining competition.—All types of monopolistic practices and unfair restraints of trade, including price-fixing conspiracies, boycotts, price discriminations, and illegal mergers and acquisitions are investigated and corrected. Enforcement activities are supplemented principally by economic and financial analyses, trade regulation rules, statements of enforcement policies, industry guides, compliance efforts to secure obedience with cease and desist orders, counseling businessmen, advisory opinions, and other informational and corrective activities. In 1972, the investigation of unfair trade restraints and monopolistic practices will be intensified, with particular emphasis upon unlawful actions extending over large geographic areas and adversely affecting the consuming public. Particular efforts will be made to identify and eliminate illegal business conduct in basic consumer industries and in industries affecting the prices of essential consumer commodities.

2. Consumer protection.—Major emphasis is placed on investigating and correcting unfair or deceptive acts and practices, including false and misleading advertising, that are injurious to the consumer as well as to competition. More particularly, attention is directed to such areas as consumer credit, flammable fabrics, packaging and labeling, food and drug advertising, general advertising, representations made by salesmen and others in the sale of goods and services in interstate commerce, and mislabeled wool, fur, and textile products. Enforcement activities are supplemented by economic analyses, trade regulation rules and industry guides, voluntary trade practice conferences, vigorous consumer education and information programs, scientific advice and assistance, and compliance efforts. In 1972, emphasis will continue on establishing and operating consumer protection coordinating committees and advisory boards. Also, flammable fabric activities will be expanded to include carpets and rugs, children's clothing, bedding, upholstered furniture, and curtains.

3. Executive direction and policy planning.—Overall executive direction, planning and evaluation of the Commission's activities are carried out under this activity, which also includes the formulation and implementation of program policies and the adjudicatory functions of the Commission.

4. Administrative management.—Includes the formulation and implementation of administrative policies and the direction and coordination of all administrative activities, including personnel and training, management analysis, financial management, general services, and data processing.

The Foreign Claims Settlement Commission is responsible for the settlement of claims of U.S. nationals against foreign nations and other claims programs as authorized by law.

Administration and adjudication of claims.—The Commission will administer three claims programs in 1972. Public Laws 88-666 and 90-42 require, respectively, the adjudication of an estimated 7,800 claims of U.S. citizens against the current Cuban regime and approximately 800 against Italy, Bulgaria, and Rumania. Also, Public Law 91-289 requires the adjudication of an undetermined number of prisoner of war claims arising out of the Vietnam conflict.

Review of claims program.—This activity includes research, reports, documentation, and similar functions to meet the needs of the Congress, Federal agencies, foreign governments, and the public on past and pending claims programs.

Funds were appropriated in 1963 pursuant to Public Law 87-616 to cover the payments of awards previously determined by the Philippine War Damage Commission. Amending legislation (Public Law 88-94), enacted August 12, 1963, placed a $25 thousand limitation on payments of any individual claim. Amounts payable beyond the $25 thousand limitation were appropriated to the President in 1966 and 1967 for educational programs in the Philippines.

The American Revolution Bicentennial Commission was established on July 4, 1966, under provisions of Public Law 89-491 (80 Stat. 259). The statute places on the Commission the responsibility of planning, encouraging, developing, and coordinating the commemoration during the bicentennial era.

The Commission presented its initial report to the President on July 4, 1970. The President transmitted it to the Congress on September 11, 1970. This completes initial planning phase for the bicentennial. Additional activity for the celebration of the American Revolution Bicentennial will be covered under an appropriation request which will be transmitted pursuant to new authorizing legislation.

This 26-member Commission consists of representatives of the executive and legislative branches of all levels of government—Federal, State, and local—and the public. It was established in 1959 as an independent, bipartisan body and was given the mission of identifying and analyzing the causes of intergovernmental tensions and conflicts and recommending ways of strengthening and improving the American Federal system.

The policies, administration, and coordination of Federal and State grant and other programs having an intergovernmental impact are examined and emerging problems of Federal-State-local relations are identified and explored.

Federal and State proposals in the field of taxation are developed and reviewed with a view to balance, simplification and reduction of overlap and costs of tax administration.

Technical assistance is provided in the review of proposed legislation to determine its overall effect on the Federal system, and the most desirable allocations of governmental functions, responsibilities, and revenues among the several levels of Government are recommended.

Recommendations and published studies growing out of the Commission's work are submitted to the executive or legislative branches of Federal, State, and local governments.

The Appalachian Regional Development Act assigns the following major responsibilities to the Commission:

(1) Develop, on a continuing basis, comprehensive and coordinated plans and programs and establish priorities thereunder, giving due consideration to other Federal, State, and local planning in the region;

(2) Conduct and sponsor investigations, research, and studies, including an inventory and analysis of the resources of the region, and, in coordination with Federal, State, and local agencies, sponsor demonstration projects designed to foster regional productivity and growth;

(3) Review and study, in cooperation with agency involved, Federal, State, and local public and private programs and, where appropriate, recommend modifications or additions which will increase their effectiveness in the region;

(4) Encourage private investment in industrial, commercial, and recreational projects;

(5) Serve as a focal point and coordinating unit for Appalachian programs.

It is the function of the Federal cochairman of the Commission and his staff to coordinate the Appalachian program with all Federal agencies.

The Appalachian Regional Development Act also provides for a professional Commission staff. Employees of the Commission, under the act, are determined not to be Federal employees but are the joint employees of the Federal and State Governments.

The Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin was created in 1940 by compact among the four States in the basin, the District of Columbia, and the Federal Government for the purpose of water pollution abatement and control. The act was amended and consented to by Congress September 25, 1970 (Public Law 91-407), in order to broaden its purpose to the management of water and associated land resources.

The appropriation for 1972 represents the Federal Government's pro rata share of the expenses of the Commission's broadened operation. Funds are also contributed by the signatory bodies (member States and District of Columbia) and by an Environmental Protection Agency grant. Under the amended law, State shares have been increased substantially, requiring an equivalent increase in the Federal contribution.

The Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, a non-Federal agency, was established pursuant to an interstate compact among Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia. The Authority's primary functions are to plan, develop, finance, and provide for the construction and operation of a rail rapid transit system to serve the National Capital area.

In accordance with the National Capital Transportation Act of 1969 (Public Law 91-143) approved December 9, 1969, the Authority has responsibility for the development of a full regional transit system which will extend from a central distributor system into the participating jurisdictions of Maryland and Virginia. The system includes a total areawide network of approximately 98 miles. Under the authorization, the Federal share is two-thirds of the net project cost.

The program for fiscal year 1972 is designed to overcome the delays encountered in earlier years and to continue the acceleration required to allow completion of construction in 1979. During this period, 26 construction contracts and six stage contracts will be advertised enabling all work in phase I and all structural work in phase II to be underway. Additionally, construction will have commenced in the suburban areas. Other highlights include:

1. Delivery of the initial portion of the first order of rapid transit cars.
2. Installation of all power delivery systems needed for operation of phases I and II of the system (approximately 13 miles).
3. Beginning of the installation of the computerized train control system.

A general acceleration of design effort will occur throughout the Metro System, especially on the Greenbelt Route. The acquisition of rights-of-way and land will continue to keep pace with the construction program.

In order for the Transit Authority to sell its own revenue bonds on a sound planning basis, and to permit the local participating jurisdictions to adequately plan the funding of their annual capital contributions by sale of their bonds, funds for the Federal share of the 1973 program are being requested at this time. With year-in-advance funding of the Federal contributions—as was approved for 1972—financial and system planning can proceed on a more orderly basis.

Revenue bonds of the Authority are planned to be available in 1972 to help finance the transit program. The overall financial plan for the system is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

The Transportation Act of 1958, part V of the Interstate Commerce Act, provided authority for the Commission to guarantee loans made to railroads for capital expenditures and maintenance of property. Pursuant to this authority the Commission guaranteed loans to various railroads.

On March 23, 1970, one of these railroads, the Boston & Maine, went into a reorganization pursuant to section 77 of the Bankruptcy Act. This constituted a default on the guaranteed loans under the terms of the agreements. On June 5, 1970, the financial institutions filed demands for payment by the Government of the outstanding principal of $3,216,668, together with accrued interest on said loans, as provided in the guaranty agreements.

In July and August of 1970, there occurred loan defaults of $16,900 thousand for the Penn Central Railroad; $12,500 thousand of the Trustees of New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad; and $11,285 thousand to the Lehigh Valley Railroad. These loans were guaranteed pursuant to part V of the Interstate Commerce Act. The supplemental appropriation of $40,685 thousand, together with such amounts needed to pay interest, will repay these guaranteed loans.

The National Capital Planning Commission acquires land for the comprehensive development of the park, parkway, and playground system in the District of Columbia and its environs.

1. George Washington Memorial Parkway.—Land is acquired along both shores of the Potomac River, above and below Washington from Great Falls to Mount Vernon. One-half the cost is borne by the local jurisdictions.

2. Stream valley parks.—Land is acquired by public bodies with the aid of a one-third contribution from the National Capital Planning Commission.

3. Park, parkway, and playground system in the District of Columbia.—Land is acquired in the District of Columbia, with all expenditures being repaid over a period of years to the United States by the District of Columbia. Acquisitions are part of the comprehensive plan for the park, parkway, and playground system of the National Capital. Funds were also provided in 1965 for the acquisition of land to provide a parklike setting for the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The insurance fund is to be used to carry out a program of insurance for member accounts in Federal credit unions and State-chartered credit unions which apply and qualify for insurance, authorized by Public Law 91-468, enacted October 19, 1970. Operations are estimated to begin January 4, 1971.

Budget program.—The activities consist of (a) providing member account insurance, (b) formulating standards and requirements for insured credit unions, and (c) providing for liquidation or other disposition of the assets and liabilities of insolvent, insured credit unions.

The extent of the program is estimated as follows:

Item	1970 actual	1971 estimate	1972 estimate
Numbered of insured credit unions..	-----	13,000	19,000
Number of insured member accounts (thousands).....	-----	11,000	16,000
Shares of insured member institutions as of December 31 of the previous calendar year (millions of dollars) ..	-----	8,200	13,300

In the absence of experience, the budget estimates assume claims of $400 thousand in 1971 and $1,200 thousand in 1972, but these are not to be considered a forecast. It is estimated that approximately one-half of the State-chartered credit unions will be enrolled in the insurance program in 1972.

Financing.—Each insured credit union is required to pay a normal premium of one-twelfth of 1% of the total amount of its member accounts. These premiums, estimated at $6 million in 1971 and over $10 million in 1972, will be more than sufficient to cover expected expenses and claims in those years. The balance will be held as an insurance reserve, invested in Government interest-bearing securities. The fund is structured to be self-supporting, with a $100 million borrowing authority from the Treasury for use in unforeseen emergencies. The authority to borrow from the Treasury will probably not be exercised in 1971 or 1972.

Operating results.—It is recommended that the earnings, expected to accumulate to about $14 million by the end of 1972, be retained in the fund.

The purpose of the National Foundation on the Arts and the Humanities is to improve the quality of American life. Two operating units, the Arts Endowment and the Humanities Endowment, promote the arts and humanities through grants, consultative services with public and private agencies, and the stimulation of private philanthropy. The Foundation may receive private gifts, either for specific purposes or unrestricted as to use, which are matched by Federal appropriations.

1. Promotion of the arts.—Grants are made to individual artists, institutions, organizations, and State arts councils. Programs assist individual artists, sustain independent artistic institutions, increase citizen participation and enjoyment of the arts, encourage productions of cultural significance, expand audiences for the arts and further planning and research. Increased funds in 1972 will be used to assist major artistic and cultural institutions, to encourage the artistic activities of youth and ethnic groups and to aid State arts councils.

2. Promotion of the humanities.—Grants support research and publication and strengthen all levels of the educational system with increasing emphasis on support of innovative approaches to humanistic learning in institutions of higher education. Public programs in humanistic education of adults are supported. Fellowships are provided for teachers and scholars. These efforts aim at bringing Americans into contact with humanistic thought and improving the quality of knowledge and teaching in the humanities.

The Board resolves representation disputes in industry and remedies and prevents specified unfair labor practices by employers or labor organizations. It has similar responsibilities for the new Postal Service. Additional funds are requested to enable the agency to effectively cope with a steadily rising caseload in both unfair labor practice and representation cases. Estimates for 1972 reflect an intake increase over 1971 of 7.5% for unfair labor practice cases and 1.0% for representation cases. Postal Service filings are expected to amount to an additional 1,000 unfair practice cases and 500 representation cases.

1. Field investigation.—Charges of unfair labor practice and petitions for elections to resolve representation disputes are investigated by regional office personnel. About 88% of the unfair labor practice cases and about 83% of the representation cases are closed by settlement, dismissal, or withdrawal. The remainder are prepared for public hearing. The agency strives for the voluntary settlement of disputes, and the high incidence of informal settlements achieved thus far is expected to continue in 1972. Voluntary settlement of postal representation questions is expected to await formal hearings and the establishment of unit principles by the Board.

2. Trial examiner hearing.—Trial examiners conduct public hearings in unfair labor practice cases. Their findings and recommendations are set forth in trial examiner decisions. In 1970 there were 1,118 hearings held, 186 proceedings adjusted, and 907 decisions issued. The estimate for 1971 is for 1,181 hearings, 193 adjusted proceedings, and 876 decisions. The 1972 estimate is for 1,288 hearings, 193 adjusted proceedings, and 989 decisions.

3. Board adjudication.—In an unfair labor practice case a trial examiner's decision becomes a Board order if no exceptions are filed. About 30% of these trial examiner decisions become automatic Board orders or are complied with voluntarily. The remainder are referred to the Board for decision, of which the Board issued 719 in 1970. The estimate for 1971 is 774 and the estimate for 1972 is 843. The Board issued 196 decisions in contested representation proceedings in 1970; it is estimated that issuances will be 159 and 272 in 1971 and 1972, respectively. These decisions are inclusive of Postal Service cases as well as those cases in which a request for review of regional directors' decisions has been granted. Regional directors issued 1,789 such decisions in 1970 and the estimate is 1,825 for 1971 and 1,841 in 1972. The Board also ruled on 227 objections and challenge questions in election cases in 1970; it is estimated that 274 and 277 such rulings will be required in 1971 and 1972.

4. Securing compliance with Board orders.—If the parties do not voluntarily comply with the Board's order involving unfair labor practices, the Board must request the appellate courts to enforce its decisions. In 1970 a total of 323 Board decisions of all kinds required such litigation; the estimate for 1971 is 349 and the estimate for 1972 is 337.

2. Voluntary arbitration and emergency disputes.—When mediation fails, the parties are urged to submit their differences to arbitration. If neither mediation nor voluntary arbitration is successful, the President, when notified of disputes which threaten seriously to interrupt service, may appoint an emergency board to investigate and report on the disputes as a basis for agreement. Neutral members of arbitration boards and members of emergency boards are paid from this account. Boards of adjustment established pursuant to provisions of Public Law 89-456 are also financed under this program.

The Board is composed of an equal number of carrier and union representatives compensated by the party or parties he represents. Administrative direction and guidance is provided by the administrative officer and clerical assistants who are compensated by the National Mediation Board. The appropriation also provides for neutral referees to sit with the Board when they are deadlocked.

The National Science Foundation supports a broad range of scientific research, science education, and related programs to increase our understanding of natural phenomena, fundamental life processes, and man himself, and to improve the quality of science and engineering instruction at various levels of education. As approved by the administration and the Congress in 1971, the Foundation effected a significant program redirection in research and science education support programs aimed at broadening the understanding of social and environmental problems to help provide the scientific basis for their solution. A principal objective of this program emphasis is to couple the capabilities of science and technology more directly to the immediate needs of society.

The significant increase in the Foundation's research program activities in 1972 is to: (1) strengthen support for high-quality research, and significant national facilities, including those which are no longer being supported by other agencies because of changes in program emphasis, (2) expand scientific research in areas most closely related to major national problems, and (3) strengthen the basic and applied research efforts which are essential to the advancement of our technology and economic productivity.

Provision has been made within the budgeted amount for the support of the National Magnet Laboratory and the Interdisciplinary Laboratories (IDL's) formerly funded by the Department of Defense. Funds are also included for the transfer of funding responsibility for logistic support for the U.S. Antarctic research program from the Department of Defense to the Foundation.

The Foundation plans to expand its International Cooperative Scientific Activities in 1972 to insure adequate participation of U.S. scientists in international scientific undertakings and to provide additional opportunities for U.S. and foreign scientists to cooperate in joint scientific efforts.

Also included is an increase for the Intergovernmental Science Program, which is designed to improve the ability of State and local governments to utilize science and technology in their efforts to deal more effectively with regional and local problems.

The Foundation will also give emphasis to studies which explore the interactions of science and technology with the environment and society.

1. Scientific research project support.—This program provides support for research aimed at increasing our basic understanding of man and our physical and social environments, through improved knowledge of fundamental processes and phenomena. Since 1971, increased emphasis has been given to the support of research in those areas of science where new knowledge is required to solve some of the critical environmental and social problems facing the Nation.

Number of grants awarded.....	4,053	3,817	3,970	5,427

2. Specialized research facilities and equipment.—Under this program, the Foundation helps colleges, universities, and other institutions obtain major specialized facilities and items of equipment which are needed for the effective conduct of research.

3. National and special research programs.—This program covers major research efforts which involve extensive coordination of planning, funding, and logistic support or are directed at specific problems of national concern. They include the International Biological Program (IBP), Earthquake engineering, the Arctic research program, and others. Under this program, the Foundation is bringing together a number of program elements in a major research effort aimed at stimulating the application of scientific knowledge to the solution of major national problems and advancing the Nation's technology and economic productivity. Increased funds are included for continued U.S. participation in the International Biological Program for ongoing integrated research efforts on biological productivity, on human adaptation to changing environments, and on the driving forces, components, and processes which make ecosystems operate.

4. National research centers.—The Foundation provides support for the development and operation of five national research centers. These centers have been established to meet national needs for research in astronomy and the atmospheric sciences requiring facilities, equipment, staffing and operational support beyond the financial capabilities of individual academic institutions.

5. National sea grant program.—Effective October 3, 1970, the National sea grant program was transferred to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration in accordance with Reorganization Plan No. 4 of 1970.

6. Computing activities in education and research.—This program is to increase the base of computer science knowledge to make possible innovative approaches to the use of computers in education and research, and help computer users evaluate the capabilities and limitations of computers so as to better utilize their potential. A significant part of this program will be devoted to the support of efforts to develop computer assisted instruction.

7. Science information activities.—The Foundation supports efforts designed to improve scientific information services to assist scientists and engineers in the storage and retrieval of the rapidly increasing volume of scientific and engineering information.

8. International cooperative scientific activities.—Support is provided for projects designed to insure the adequate participation of U.S. scientists and scientific organizations in international cooperative scientific activities including joint research efforts by U.S. and foreign scientists.

9. Intergovernmental science program.—Under this program the Foundation supports projects designed to assist State and local governments in efforts to utilize science and technology in their efforts to cope with regional and local environmental and societal problems.

10. Institutional support for science.—The Institutional grants for science (formula grants) are being continued at a slightly reduced rate. The funds previously provided for the other elements of this program are being shifted to the support of high-priority research to better utilize existing science capabilities.

11. Science education support.—The Foundation will continue to support, at about its 1971 level, science education program elements which provide science training opportunities for secondary school teachers and course content improvement for science courses, largely at the precollege and undergraduate levels. The Foundation will initiate additional efforts in 1972 to improve the quality of science education in predominantly black institutions of higher education. Direct science education support for students and other science education programs that are student oriented are being reduced to permit redirection of these funds to the support of research.

12. Planning and policy studies.—Through this program, the Foundation identifies and analyzes programs and science policy issues and helps provide the data base necessary for decisionmaking in the various areas of science.

The Review Commission, established by the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970, is empowered by the act to provide a forum for the adjudication of contested enforcement actions instituted by the Secretary of Labor. The Commission holds factfinding hearings and issues orders affirming, modifying, or vacating the Secretary's enforcement actions. In carrying out its responsibilities the Commission is empowered to exercise the same investigatory powers as the National Labor Relations Board under section 11 of the National Labor Relations Act.

The Board administers the Railroad Retirement Act which provides for the payment of regular annuities for age and disability and benefits for survivors. The Board also participates in the administration of the hospital and medical insurance programs for persons covered by the Railroad Retirement Act for which it is reimbursed in part by the Social Security Administration, the activity of which is reflected in the Advances and reimbursements account.

The Board also administers a program for the payment of supplemental annuities under certain conditions to career railroad workers awarded regular retirement annuities after June 1966. The supplemental annuity paid to employees is in addition to the regular railroad retirement annuity. The administrative expenses of administering this program and the supplemental annuity payments are financed by a tax paid by employers based on the number of man-hours for which they pay compensation.

1. Maintenance of earnings accounts.—Eligibility for retirement and the amount of benefits paid are based on individual records of earnings, and the workload fluctuates according to such factors as level of employment and rate of turnover in the railroad industry. Accounts posted were 854,000 in 1970 and are estimated at 835,000 in 1971 and 820,000 in 1972. The costs are shared on a measured basis with the railroad unemployment insurance program.

2. Processing claims.—This activity includes the work of processing annuity claims and establishing eligibility of persons for health and medical insurance benefits. Claims processed were 257,000 in 1970 and are estimated to be 272,000 in 1971 and 283,000 in 1972.

3. Maintenance of beneficiary rolls.—Benefit payments must be authorized each month for those persons on the rolls who continue to remain eligible. The number of persons on the rolls receiving monthly benefit payments will increase from 973,000 at the end of 1970 to an estimated 980,000 and 984,000 at the end of 1971 and 1972. The number of persons also receiving supplemental annuities will increase from 63,000 at the end of 1970 to 80,000 and 93,000 at the end of 1971 and 1972. The number of persons enrolled for medicare was 830,000 at the end of 1970 and will increase to 837,000 and 840,000 in 1971 and 1972.

4. Actuarial services.—Actuarial studies and estimates of the assets and liabilities of the Railroad retirement account are required by law.

5. Administration.—The cost of administration is shared between the retirement and the railroad unemployment insurance programs on a measured basis.

Under the railroad retirement system, railroad workers and employers pay taxes on wages to finance the payment of annuities for age and disability and benefits for survivors and to finance the cost of hospital insurance benefits. These taxes are deposited in the Railroad retirement account and invested in Government securities. The portion of these taxes which finances hospital insurance benefits is transferred to the Federal hospital insurance trust fund under the financial interchange provisions governing the railroad retirement and social security systems.

The railroad retirement system also provides for the payment of supplemental annuities under certain conditions to career railroad workers awarded regular retirement annuities after June 1966. The supplemental annuity paid to employees is in addition to the regular annuities. This program is financed by a tax paid by employers on each man-hour of paid employment. These taxes are deposited in the Railroad retirement supplemental account and invested in Government securities.

Income.—The income of the Railroad retirement accounts consists of taxes paid by railroad employers and employees; interest on investments; appropriations for military service credits; and payments from the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund and Federal disability insurance trust fund. The railroad retirement system has a reinsurance arrangement of annual financial interchanges with the social security system so as to place that system in the same position in which it would have been if railroad employment had been included in social security coverage.

1. Retirement, disability, and survivor benefit payments.—Payment estimates reflect the continuing growth in the beneficiary rolls and the increases in benefit rates resulting from the 1969 amendments to the Social Security Act and the 1970 amendments to the Railroad Retirement Act. The increases provided by legislation enacted in August 1970 and being paid in 1971 were retroactive to January 1970.

2. Administrative expenses.—Such expenses are subject to annual limitations in appropriation acts (see Limitation on salaries and expenses).

Transfers to and from Railroad unemployment insurance account.—The Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act provides that when the balance in the Railroad unemployment insurance account is insufficient to pay benefits due under that act, necessary amounts are to be borrowed from the Railroad retirement account. When the balance in the Railroad unemployment insurance account permits, borrowed amounts are to be repaid to the Railroad retirement account with interest. At the end of 1970 the fund had $81.3 million in loans outstanding, which was $33.7 million less than the loans outstanding a year ago.

Payment to Federal hospital insurance trust fund.—Portion of taxes which finances hospital insurance benefits is for payment to the Federal hospital insurance trust fund, since payments of hospital benefits for railroad retirement beneficiaries are made from that fund.

3. Payment to Railroad unemployment insurance account.—Under section 10(h) of the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act as amended in 1968, the Board is required to reimburse the unemployment insurance account for certain sickness benefits paid to employees who could otherwise, under specified conditions, have received disability annuities under the Railroad Retirement Act for the same periods.

The Board administers an unemployment and sickness insurance system and an employment service for unemployed railroad workers. Administrative expenses are financed through a permanent authorization of 0.25% of taxable payroll. As of each June 30, the unobligated balance in this fund in excess of $6 million is transferred to the Railroad unemployment insurance account in the unemployment trust fund (45 U.S.C. 361).

The costs are shared on a measured basis with the retirement program. Accounts posted were 854,000 in 1970 and are estimated at 835,000 in 1971 and 820,000 in 1972.

2. Processing of unemployment insurance claims.—Workers' claims for unemployment compensation are filed locally and certified for payment through the headquarters offices. Unemployment claims were 438,000 in 1970 and are estimated to be 500,000 in 1971 and 510,000 in 1972.

3. Processing of sickness claims.—These claims are filed by mail and certified for payment through the headquarters offices of the Board. Sickness claims were 707,000 in 1970 and are estimated to be 680,000 in 1971 and 665,000 in 1972.

4. Claimant placement services.—The Board conducts an employment service for unemployment benefit claimants. This resulted in savings of benefit payments of approximately $900 thousand in 1970 as 5,100 placements were made. Placements are estimated to be the same in 1971 and 1972.

5. Administration.—The costs of administration are shared between this and the retirement program on a measured basis.

The Board conducts renegotiation with contractors and subcontractors to determine and eliminate excessive profits in connection with procurement under defense and space programs. The act provides that a report must be filed with the Board by every contractor or subcontractor having receipts or accruals in a fiscal year which exceed $1 million ($25 thousand in the case of brokers and manufacturers' agents) from contracts or subcontracts subject to the act. Determinations of excessive profits were made by the Board in the amount of $1.03 billion, before adjustment for Federal income and excess profits tax credits, from the date of its establishment through June 30, 1970. Of this total, $33.4 million was determined during 1970.

1. Executive direction.—The Board is responsible for final action in all cases. This includes the screening of contractors' filings and the handling of requests for exemption.

2. Staff operations.—The headquarters staff furnishes technical advice and assistance to the Board and regional organization.

3. Renegotiation operations (field).—The two regional boards conduct renegotiation proceedings and make determinations and recommendations. They are authorized to conclude cases involving $800 thousand or less of renegotiable profits; however, their determinations in such cases may be appealed to the Statutory Board. All determinations in cases involving more than $800 thousand renegotiable profits are subject to approval by the Statutory Board.

The primary purpose of the Commission is to protect the interests of the investing public.

1. Full disclosure.—Issuers of securities for public sale are required to file a registration statement and related prospectus containing significant information about the issuer and the offering with the Commission. This is to insure that investors will be provided with the material facts concerning security offerings. Certain provisions of the Securities Act Amendments enacted August 20, 1964, extend to investors in certain over-the-counter securities the same protections now afforded to those in listed securities; namely, registration of classes of securities; annual and periodic company reporting; regulation of proxy solicitation; and restriction upon "insider" trading.

2. Prevention and suppression of fraud.—Suspected fraud, deceit, and manipulation in the sale and trading of securities is prevented or minimized by prompt investigation. For 1972, the Commission will concentrate on the inspection of broker-dealers for "cause." These inspections include the inspection of non-NASD members. Inspection of investment advisers will continue also on the same basis.

The Selective Service System is responsible for furnishing men to keep the Nation's Military Establishment at authorized strength to the extent that manpower needs are not met by voluntary methods.

As available manpower increasingly exceeds military requirements, the need becomes greater to (a) select equitably those who must be involuntarily inducted for military service, (b) minimize the impact and influence of the draft upon the lives of those who will not be required to serve, and (c) minimize uncertainty caused by the draft. In recent months the System has undergone considerable change to achieve these ends.

The Military Selective Service Act of 1967 was amended to authorize the President to implement a system of random selection for military service. Acting under that authority, the President established such a system. Registrants have been selected for induction in random sequence since January 1, 1970. A drawing is held each year to assign random sequence numbers to registrants who attain their 19th year of age during that calendar year and who may be selected for induction in their sequence during the following calendar year.

The President eliminated future occupational deferments, thereby ending the "channeling" of men into certain occupations, and also eliminated future agricultural and paternity deferments.

The recent Supreme Court decision broadening the definition of conscientious objection places increased burdens and responsibilities upon the System.

In consonance with these principles, actions are being taken at the national level, within our authority under the current law and regulations, to achieve greater equity by elaborating upon and clarifying principles and policies for local boards. Emphasis has been given to local board sensitivity to registrants and efforts to increase public awareness of registrants' rights and responsibilities, especially among draft-age youth. An organizational change has been made within the national headquarters to coordinate more effectively the decentralized operating elements of the System. An inspection service has been instituted to assist State and local board personnel in administering Selective Service uniformly.

Such actions have resulted in many operational changes in the System such as scheduling preinduction physical examinations and inductions by random sequence number instead of by age.

1. National administration.—The overall administration of the act, including planning, training, and records management, is accomplished by the national headquarters and six regional inspection services offices.

2. State administration.—Administration of the act in the States is the responsibility of the 56 State headquarters assisted by six regional service centers and operating under policies stated by national headquarters.

3. Local board operations.—The functions of registration, classification, and induction, affecting millions of registrants, are accomplished by over 48,000 uncompensated citizens assisted by about 7,300 compensated personnel at over 4,100 local boards. The proposed computerized registrant information bank will assist local boards in the performance of these functions and will also quickly generate data needed by management.

4. National Advisory Committee on the Selection of Physicians, Dentists, and Allied Specialists.—This Committee acts in an advisory capacity to the Selective Service System. It is separately administered, but funds are furnished by the Selective Service System.

5. National Selective Service Appeal Board.—This Board acts on the classification of registrants which have been appealed to the President. It is independent of the Selective Service System, but is provided funds by the System for its operation.

The Small Business Administration counsels, assists, and protects the interest of small business, and provides aid to business firms and homeowners who have suffered losses through disasters. These efforts are conducted through the following activities:

1. Procurement and management assistance.—The objectives of this activity are (a) to insure that a fair proportion of Government contracts for purchases of supplies and services, including research and development, and for the sale and disposal of property, be placed with small business enterprises, (b) to provide technical and management assistance through management courses, and counseling on new and improved products and processes, and (c) to provide for greater involvement of the disadvantaged and minority contractors in the Federal procurement program through the use of the authority contained in section 8(a) of the Small Business Act, as amended. This section enables the Agency to act as prime contractor to provide goods and services to other Government agencies and in turn arrange for performance of such contracts by negotiating or otherwise letting subcontracts to small business concerns.

2. Research contracts.—Research studies designed to reveal matters materially affecting the competitive strength of small business and the effect on small business of Federal laws, programs, and regulations are financed under this activity.

3. Economic opportunity management assistance.—As authorized by section 406, title IV of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, enacted in the Economic Opportunity Amendments of 1967, SBA will contract for professional management training and support of small business entrepreneurs in areas with high concentrations of unemployed or low income individuals to (1) establish the management training, counseling, and support needs of firms in target areas, (2) identify business opportunities in these areas, and (3) determine the feasibility and profit potential of proposed business development to be located in such areas.

Funds for the above activities are provided by direct appropriation.

4. Financial assistance.—This activity comprises:

(a) Business loans.—This includes loans and financial counseling to small business concerns, businesses displaced because of federally aided construction, businesses affected by changing economic conditions resulting from increased competition from imported articles, and businesses eligible under title IV of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. The program for 1972 is projected as follows:

	Number	Millions of dollars
Economic opportunity loans.....	6,820	86.0
Displaced business loans.....	340	39.0

(b) Development company loans.—This covers efforts to encourage private institutions to expand their role in the economic development of their respective States and loans to State and local development companies to enable them to provide the long-term capital—equity and loans—to small businesses. It is estimated that 605 loans in the amount of $91 million will be made in 1972.

(c) Disaster loans.—This provides financial assistance on favorable terms to victims of natural disasters for rehabilitation of property damaged or destroyed.

5. Investment company assistance and supervision.—In order to stimulate and supplement the flow of private capital to small business concerns, the Small Business Administration is authorized to (a) license, regulate, and examine small business investment companies, and (b) provide funds to such companies for financing small business firms. The loan level for this program for 1972 is estimated at $78 million.

6. Lease guarantees.—In order to enable small businesses to compete on an equal basis with financially strong businesses in the leasing of facilities in shopping centers and other business properties, the Small Business Administration is empowered to guarantee the payment of rentals under leases of commercial and industrial property entered into by small business concerns.

Funds for the administrative support of the above activities are transferred from the appropriate revolving funds.

Public Law 89-409, approved May 2, 1966, established this fund as of July 1, 1966, to finance all loan programs, other than natural disaster loans, and prime contracting activity performed pursuant to sections 7(a), 7(b)(3), 7(e), and 8(a) of the Small Business Act, as amended, titles III and V of the Small Business Investment Act of 1958, as amended, and title IV of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, as amended. Administrative and other related expenses are also financed from this fund.

While no ceiling on authorized appropriations is specified, a limitation of $3.15 billion has been placed on the amount of loans and commitments (reservations) which may be outstanding at any time. This ceiling is composed of separate limitations on outstanding amounts as follows (in millions of dollars):

Business loans (including a limitation of $300 million on economic opportunity loans)	2,200
Development company loans	500
Investment company loans	450

It is estimated that the limitation on business loans will be reached this year. Thus, legislation will be proposed to increase this limitation.

Capital outlay.—1. Financial assistance.—Business loans (sec. 7(a), Small Business Act).—Funds may be loaned to business concerns which are not dominant in their fields. To such small businesses, loans may be made directly or in participation with banks or other lending institutions, and shall be of such sound value or so secured as reasonably to assure repayment. No loan may be made unless the financial assistance is not otherwise available on reasonable terms. No direct loan may be made unless it is shown that a bank participation is not available and no loan on an immediate participation basis may be made unless it is shown that a guaranteed loan is not available. Under the guaranty plan, the Small Business Administration agrees to purchase the guaranteed portion of the loan only upon default.

The agency's share of an immediate participation or guaranteed loan is limited to 90%. Its maximum outstanding loan and/or commitment to any one borrower is limited by statute to $350 thousand. Business loans, except for the portion for constructing facilities for which the maximum maturity is 15 years, are limited to a maturity of 10 years and, with one exception, bear interest at a maximum rate of 5½% per annum on the agency's share thereof.

From the inception of the lending program (Sept. 29, 1953) through June 30, 1970, 103,498 loans have been approved in a total amount of $4,918.1 million. Participating banks' share of this amount has been $940.6 million. Sixty-seven percent of the total loans approved have been on a participation or guaranteed basis. In 1972, it is estimated that 18,875 loans will be approved, compared with an estimate of 16,950 in 1971.

Business loans (Economic Opportunity Act of 1964).—The Small Business Administration administers a program of financial assistance to small business concerns and to qualified persons seeking to establish such concerns pursuant to authority contained in title IV of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 (78 Stat. 526). Loans may be on a direct, immediate participation, or guaranteed basis for up to $25 thousand, for a maximum term of 15 years. The credit and collateral requirements are more flexible than those applicable to 7(a) business loans and provision for management training is made an integral part of the program. It is estimated that 6,820 loans will be approved in 1972 in comparison with 6,800 loans in 1971.

Displaced business loans.—Pursuant to authority provided in the Housing Act of 1961, loans are made to small firms that suffer substantial economic injury as a result of being forced to move by federally aided urban renewal, highway, and other construction programs. A recent amendment to the Small Business Act (Federal Aid Highway Act of 1968) further expands the list of eligibles by including small businesses which suffer economic crises as a result of being adjacent, or near, a federally aided construction project. The interest rate on the Small Business Administration's share of these loans is determined pursuant to a formula prescribed by legislation. For 1970, the rate was 5½ percent per annum. An interest rate of 5 percent will prevail in 1971.

Through June 30, 1970, a total of 2,088 displaced business loans for $200.4 million had been approved. Approvals during 1970 were 338. It is estimated that 340 loans for $41.8 million will be approved in 1972 compared to 400 loans for $49.8 million in 1971.

Development company loans.—The Small Business Administration lends funds to State and local development companies pursuant to sections 501 and 502 of the Small Business Investment Act, as amended. Funds are made available to State development companies for general use purposes under section 501 and to State and local development companies for plant construction, conversion, or expansion, including the acquisition of land, under section 502. The latter type loans must be so secured as reasonably to assure repayment, may be made directly or in participation with banks or other lending institutions, may be made only when the proceeds are to assist an identifiable small business concern and for a sound business purpose approved by the agency, and are limited to a maximum of $350 thousand for each such identifiable small business concern.

2. Investment company assistance.—A primary function of these companies is to provide a source of needed equity capital for small business concerns. To encourage the formation and growth of such companies, the Small Business Investment Act, as amended, authorizes the Small Business Administration to make loans to any company by purchasing its debentures, directly or in participation with banks or other lending institutions.

Such debentures may be subordinate to any other debenture bonds, promissory notes, or other debts and obligations of such companies, unless the Administration determines otherwise in the exercise of reasonable investment prudence. SBA may purchase such debentures in an amount equal to 200% of paid-in capital and paid-in surplus to a maximum of $7.5 million. Those SBIC's with paid-in capital and paid-in surplus in excess of $1 million, which have invested (or committed) 65% or more of their funds in venture capital, are eligible to draw 200% of the first $1 million and 300% of every dollar over $1 million not to exceed an aggregate maximum of $10 million.

Prior to the Small Business Investment Act Amendments of 1967, financing of SBIC's by SBA was accomplished by means of the purchase of subordinated debentures (considered as a part of "statutory capital" for borrowing purposes) and by means of "direct" loans.

Operating costs.—Interest expense.—Pursuant to section 4(c) of the Small Business Act, interest is payable into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury on outstanding cash disbursements from the fund (excluding disbursements for administrative expenses). The interest rate or rates applicable to each year's gross disbursements are determined at the beginning of the year by the Secretary of the Treasury, taking into consideration the current average yields on outstanding interest-bearing marketable public debt obligations of the United States of comparable maturities. For interest computation purposes, collections of interest and principal on unpledged loans, proceeds of participation sales, and other receipts to the fund are applied against the earliest year's disbursements still outstanding. The rates set by the Secretary of the Treasury for disbursements in 1971 are 7¾% for local development company loans and displaced business loans and 7¼% for 7(a) business loans, economic opportunity loans, State development company loans, and investment company debentures. These same rates have been used in computing interest expense in 1972.

Interest is payable to the holders of participation certificates at specified rates set at the time of sale. Interest collections on pledged loans are remitted to the trustee for the purpose of paying such interest as it comes due. To the extent that the interest rates on certificates exceed the interest rates on pledged loans, the collections of interest on pledged loans will be insufficient to meet the interest payable on the certificates. Appropriations for this insufficiency are authorized, as is discussed in detail below under the heading Participation sales insufficiencies.

Administrative expense.—Expenses for the loan program financed by this revolving fund are financed by transfer of funds to the appropriation, salaries and expenses. Use of these funds for salaries, travel, and related expenses is accordingly reflected in the schedules for that appropriation account.

Financing.—This fund was capitalized by transfer of an applicable portion of the assets, liabilities, and unexpended balance of the Revolving Fund, Small Business Administration on July 1, 1966, and by transfer of the unexpended balance of appropriations previously made for trade adjustment assistance loans. Appropriations are authorized to be made to the fund as additional capital to the extent required to carry out the authorized functions.

In more recent years, additional funds were provided by sale of participation certificates in loan pools. Of the $1.35 billion of participation certificates sold, $1,135.6 million was allocated to this fund, of which $633.4 million remains outstanding at June 30, 1970.

In lieu of participation sales authority, a capital appropriation of $200 million was made in 1971 to cover the deficiency in funds required to finance the planned program levels for that year. A supplemental appropriation for 1971 will be requested and it is estimated that additional funds of $300 million in 1972 will be required to provide sufficient resources to allow the administration to carry out the estimated program levels for those years with a reserve balance. It is proposed that these funds be made available by capital appropriations.

Participation sales insufficiencies.—In respect to participation sales as discussed immediately above, the Participation Sales Act of 1966 authorized appropriations without fiscal year limitation of such sums as may be necessary to permit any trustee agency to pay the trustee such insufficiency as the trustee may require on account of outstanding participations. This authority is not applicable to the 1966 sales in the predecessor fund. An insufficiency results primarily from the fact that the interest rate on participation certificates exceeds the interest rate on the loans pledged in support of the respective participations.

A permanent appropriation in such amount as may prove necessary each year was provided in the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967, in connection with participation sales of $850 million as were authorized by that act. However, for each of the years 1968 through 1971, the Congress provided annual appropriations for any insufficiency arising from the $150 million sales authority provided in the administration's 1968 appropriations. The budget estimate proposes a similar appropriation for 1972, applicable entirely to the Business Loan and Investment Fund.

Operating results.—The fund will continue to operate at a deficit. Interest and fee income will not be sufficient to cover interest, administrative, and other expenses, and a provision for estimated losses. Primarily, this reflects the excess of interest expense rates over interest income rates and the cost of servicing an expanding number of widely scattered loans which are relatively small in size.

Public Law 89-409, approved May 2, 1966, established this fund as of July 1, 1966, to finance disaster loans other than those to displaced businesses, made pursuant to sections 7(b) (1), (2), (4), and (5), and 7(c) (2) of the Small Business Act, as amended. Administrative, interest, and other related expenses are also financed from this fund.

No limitation exists on the amount of loans and commitments (reservations) which may be outstanding at any one time from the fund. Actual and estimated outstanding disaster loans and reservations at the end of each year are as follows (in millions of dollars):

Total, loans and reservations....	456.2	566.1	612.0

Although there are no statutory restrictions on the amount that may be loaned under this program, in order to effectively manage the program, administrative limitations have been established. No restrictions exist on the size of business firm which may be eligible for a loan under section 7(b)(1). The maximum term for a loan is 30 years, and with two exceptions detailed below, the interest rate is set at the statutory maximum of 3% on the Small Business Administration's share of a loan.

Interest on the Small Business Administration's share of coal mine health and safety loans under section 7(b)(5) is set pursuant to a statutory formula, and for 1971 is 5¾%. In addition, the Disaster Relief Act of 1969, Public Law 91-79, passed October 1, 1969, provided for loans under section 7(b)(1) to be made without regard to the availability of financial assistance from other sources. The interest rate on these loans is determined pursuant to a formula prescribed by the legislation, and for 1971 is 6¾%.

Through June 30, 1970, a total of 93,162 disaster loans for $846 million had been approved. Approvals during 1970 were 17,011 for $175.1 million. Recognizing that such loans cannot be predicted, the estimate for new loans is $200 million in 1971 and $100 million in 1972.

Operating costs.—Interest expense.—Pursuant to section 4(c) of the Small Business Act, interest is payable into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury on outstanding cash disbursements from the fund (excluding disbursements for administrative expenses). The interest rate applicable to each year's gross disbursements is determined at the beginning of the year by the Secretary of the Treasury, taking into consideration the current average yields on outstanding interest-bearing marketable public debt obligations of the United States of comparable maturities. For interest computation purposes, collections of interest and principal on unpledged loans, proceeds of participation sales, and other receipts to the fund are applied against the earliest year's disbursements still outstanding. The rate set by the Secretary of the Treasury for disbursements in 1971 is 7¼%. This same rate has been used in computing interest expenses in 1972.

Interest is payable to the holders of participation certificates at specified rates set at the time of sale. Interest collections on pledged loans are remitted to the trustee for purposes of paying such interest as it comes due. To the extent that the interest rates on certificates exceeds the interest rate on pledged loans, the collections of interest on pledged loans will be insufficient to meet the interest payable on the certificates. Appropriations for this insufficiency are authorized, as is discussed in detail below under the head Participation sales insufficiencies.

Administrative expense.—Administrative expenses for this program are financed by transfer of funds from the revolving fund to the appropriation, Salaries and expenses. Use of these funds for salaries, travel, and related expenses is accordingly reflected in the schedules for that appropriation account.

Financing.—This fund was capitalized by transfer of an applicable portion of the assets, liabilities, and unexpended balance of the revolving fund, Small Business Administration, on July 1, 1966. Appropriations are authorized to be made to the fund as capital to the extent required to carry out the authorized functions.

In more recent years, additional funds were provided by sale of participation certificates in loan pools. Of the $1.35 billion of participation certificates sold, $214.4 million was allocated to this fund, of which $148.4 million remains outstanding at June 30, 1970. A supplemental appropriation of $175 million was provided in 1970 due to the devastation caused by Hurricane Camille. A supplemental appropriation for Hurricane Celia was provided for 1971. An appropriation of $100 million is also proposed for 1972.

Participation sales insufficiencies.—In respect to participation sales as discussed immediately above, the Participation Sales Act of 1966 authorized appropriations without fiscal year limitation of such sums as may be necessary to permit any trustee agency to pay the trustee such insufficiency as the trustee may require on account of outstanding participations. This authority is not applicable to the 1966 sales in the predecessor fund. An insufficiency results primarily from the fact that the interest rate on participation certificates exceeds the interest rate on the loans pledged in support of the respective participations.

A permanent appropriation in such amount as may prove necessary each year was provided in the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967, in connection with participation sales of $850 million as were authorized by that act. However, for 1968 through 1971, the Congress has provided annual appropriations for any insufficiency arising from the $150 million sales authority provided in the Agency's 1968 appropriations act as is shown on the Program and financing schedule for those years. This budget estimate proposes a similar appropriation for 1972 applicable entirely to the Business Loan and Investment Fund.

Operating results.—With an interest rate at the statutory maximum of 3%, with two exceptions, interest and other income is not sufficient to cover interest to Treasury at the current rate of 7½% as well as administrative expenses, interest expense on participation certificates, and a provision for estimated losses. In addition, the Disaster Relief Act of 1969 authorized forgiveness credits of up to $1,800 on disaster loans made under major disasters occurring between July 1, 1967, and December 31, 1970. These factors will cause the fund to continue to operate at a deficit.

This fund finances a program of insurance to guarantee payments on leases of small business concerns. It was capitalized by the transfer of $5 million from the Revolving Fund, Small Business Administration, pursuant to Public Law 89-117. In order to make the fund self-sustaining, lessees are to pay an insurance premium of not to exceed 2½% of the lease amount, or a premium based on sound actuarial computation.

It is estimated that 380 commitments for guarantees will be made in 1971. For 1972, the estimate is 500 commitments. It is anticipated that about two-thirds of the projected amount will be written by private insurance companies, with SBA writing approximately one-third of the total volume.

¹ Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1969, $3,468 thousand; 1970, $2,209 thousand; 1971, $1,709 thousand; 1972, $2,209 thousand.

The Smithsonian Institution maintains public exhibits representative of the arts, American history, aeronautics and astronautics, technology, anthropology, geology, and biology including living animal exhibits; preserves for reference and study purposes millions of items of scientific, cultural, and historic importance; conducts research in the natural and physical sciences and in the history of cultures, technology, and the arts; presents performances of American arts and crafts, has education programs at all levels; and participates in the exchange of scientific information.

The Institution is responsible for the operation and maintenance of eight major exhibition buildings; a zoological park; a preservation and storage facility at Silver Hill, Md.; a conference center at Elkridge, Md.; two natural preserves, in Panama and on the Chesapeake Bay; an observatory on Mount Hopkins, Ariz.; and supporting administrative, laboratory, and storage areas.

The Smithsonian will make a strong effort to correct serious deficiencies in the availability of technicians and other supporting staff, equipment, laboratory and work-room supplies and materials, data processing, library materials, and other types of support essential to permit the professional staff to maintain and upgrade the collections in art, history, and science, to perform productive research in these fields, and to display collections for the education of the public. The extensive Joseph H. Hirshhorn art collection will continue to be readied for exhibition in the museum building and sculpture garden now under construction. Extensive equipment and fixtures must be purchased for the building. The Renwick Gallery will be opened. Continued emphasis will be placed on research, information, and education related to environmental sciences problems and on preparations for the Smithsonian's participation in the American Revolution Bicentennial. The National Museum Act authorizing assistance to the Nation's museums will be implemented. One major permanent exhibition in science will be prepared for the public. Efforts in higher and elementary and secondary education will be emphasized drawing upon the Institution's educational resources of staff, collections, exhibits, and laboratories.

The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts was created as a Bureau of the Smithsonian Institution by the act of September 2, 1958, as amended. The Board of Trustees of the Center is authorized to construct and operate a national cultural center in Washington, D.C., on a site provided by the Federal Government. Warrants totaling $15.5 million were issued as the Federal Government's contribution to the costs of constructing the Center to match a like amount contributed by the public prior to June 30, 1965. A Federal loan of $15.4 million was authorized for construction of foundations and underground parking facilities, which is to be repaid from parking receipts. Public Law 91-90, October 17, 1969, amended the statute extending the appropriation authority to $23 million and the authorized Federal loan to $20.4 million. Construction is expected to be completed by September 1971.

The Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars was created by Congress (Public Law 90-637, approved Oct. 24, 1968) as the Nation's official living memorial to the 28th President. The Center was placed in the Smithsonian Institution under the direction of a 15-member, mixed public and private Board of Trustees, appointed by the President.

After an intensive planning period the Board of Trustees determined to open the Center with both international fellowship and guest scholar programs starting in the fall of 1970.

The theme of the fellowship program chosen by the Board is designed to accentuate those aspects of President Wilson's ideals and concerns for which he is perhaps best known a half century after his Presidency—his search for international peace and the imaginative new approaches he used to meet the pressing issues of his day.

A few weeks after the Center opened on October 19, 1970, 25 fellows were undertaking full-time scholarship at the Center. Additional appointment invitations will be issued by the Board as resources permit on March 1, July 1, and December 1 each year. When the fellowship program is fully operational, up to 40 scholars—approximately half from the United States and half from other countries—will be working at the Center at any given time in the calendar year.

The 1972 appropriation request is based on the decision of the Board to sponsor a continuous advanced scholar, international fellowship program throughout the coming year and beyond. The program will continue to be conducted in the interim facilities in the Smithsonian Institution building in 1972. As in the current year each fellow appointed to the Center will be expected to pursue his own areas of scholarly interest on a full-time basis during the period of his appointment. The Center plans to sponsor a series of seminars, dinner discussions, and lectures to which members of the executive and legislative branches, the diplomatic corps, and the public will be invited on a regular basis.

In addition, the Center has a small guest scholar program under which eminent visiting scholars, particularly those expert in the fields being emphasized at the Center, are welcome to work for brief periods of stay in Washington.

When petitions are filed for adjudication, the Board holds formal hearings and determines: (a) whether organizations are Communist-action organizations, Communist-front organizations, or Communist-infiltrated organizations within the terms of the Subversive Activities Control Act; and (b) whether organizations once determined to come within the provisions of the act are no longer of the type so determined, and therefore entitled to relief from the further application of the act to them. The Board's determinations involve the consideration of petitions, motions, answers, and evidence adduced at the hearings. In all proceedings the Board is empowered to hold public hearings, to examine witnesses and receive evidence, and to compel the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documents relevant to the matter under inquiry. In each case the Board issues a report, in writing, setting forth its rulings and findings as to the facts, and issues an appropriate order. The Board maintains current public lists of organizations that reflect final orders of the Board. These orders identify the organizations that come within the provisions of the act.

The major responsibility of the Commission is to assess the impact of foreign trade policies of the United States and of other countries on domestic industries, and to provide the President, the Congress, and the public with reports on these matters. Demands for the Commission's services grew sharply in 1970. The Commission anticipates a further growth in the requirements for public investigations in 1971 and 1972 and plans to improve its capability for responding to requests from the Nation's trade policy planners for technical information and assistance.

Public Law 88-609, approved September 22, 1964, authorized a commission to study the feasibility of constructing a sea-level canal across the American Isthmus to connect the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. The Commission was appointed by the President in April 1965. The law has since been amended to extend the time for the study from June 30, 1968, until December 1, 1970, and to increase the authorization for the study from $17.5 million to $24 million.

The Commission initiated a full investigation and study, including onsite surveys, to determine the feasibility of and the most suitable site for such a canal; the best means of constructing it whether by conventional or nuclear methods, and the estimated cost. The Commission directed five separate studies in order to cover all aspects of the problem. These were the foreign policy study, the defense study, the finance study, the shipping study, and the engineering feasibility study. The Commission presented a report to the President on December 1, 1970, stating its findings, conclusions, and recommendations.

The Aviation Advisory Commission was established by the Airport and Airway Development Act of 1970, Public Law 91-258, approved May 21, 1970. This nine-member Commission will undertake to: (1) formulate recommendations concerning the long-range needs of aviation, including but not limited to future airport requirements and the national airport system plan (described in section 12, part II of the act), and recommendations concerning surrounding land uses, ground access, airways, air service, and aircraft compatible with such plan; and (2) facilitate consideration of other modes of transportation and co-operation with other agencies and communities and industry groups.

The President appointed the nine members of the Aviation Advisory Commission on December 3, 1970. The Commission is charged, by statute, to conduct its work and prepare and submit a final report to the President and to the Congress on or before January 1, 1972, and terminate 60 days thereafter.

A Commission on American Shipbuilding was established to analyze the U.S. shipbuilding industry with a view to determining if the industry can achieve by 1976 a level of productivity that will support a Construction Differential Subsidy (CDS) rate of 35% in that year and succeeding years. The Commission recommends the steps that should be taken by industry and government to improve the competitive position of the industry. If the Commission concludes that the rate cannot be reduced to 35%, it is to recommend alternatives to the proposed program. The Commission will report within 3 years of enactment of the legislation, or within 6 months of notification by the Secretary of Commerce that a contract in excess of the applicable differential has been concluded.

The legislation also provides that commencing in 1972, the Secretary may not enter into a contract requiring a construction differential in excess of the applicable differential unless he has given due consideration to the likelihood that the applicable differential will not be attained and that the construction program, as a consequence, will not be continued. In the event the Secretary does enter into such a contract he must so notify the Chairman of the Commission on American Shipbuilding and the Commission must submit a report within 6 months.

The Commission on Government Procurement was established by Public Law 91-129, on November 26, 1969. The Commission is composed of 12 members, including two Members of the Senate, two Members of the House of Representatives, two employees of the executive branch, the Comptroller General, and five persons not employed by the Federal Government. It is responsible for reviewing and recommending improvements in Federal procurement practices and procedures consistent with the congressional policies contained in Public Law 91-129. The Commission is expected to submit its final report to the Congress, under the current legislation, by November 26, 1971; however, an extension of this date will be requested through additional authorizing legislation. This report will include its findings and recommendations for changes in statutes, regulations, policies, and procedures.

The Commission on Highway Beautification was established by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970 to: (1) Study existing statutes and regulations governing the control of outdoor advertising and junkyards in areas adjacent to the Federal-aid highway system; (2) review the policies and practices of the Federal and State agencies which govern the control of outdoor advertising and junkyards; (3) compile data necessary to understand and determine the requirements for such control now or in the foreseeable future; (4) study problems relating to the control of on-premise outdoor advertising signs, promotional signs, directional signs, and signs providing information that is essential to the motoring public; (5) study methods of financing and possible sources of Federal funds, including use of the Highway trust fund, to carry out the program; and (6) recommend such modifications or additions to existing laws, regulations, policies, and practices to achieve a workable and effective highway beautification program.

The Commission shall, not later than 1 year after receiving appropriations, submit to the President and the Congress its final report. It shall cease to exist 6 months after submission of the report.

A 1971 supplemental appropriation will be requested to organize the Commission and institute work on the necessary studies and analyses so that the Commission's final report will be available for consideration by Congress early in calendar year 1972 along with the Federal-aid highway legislation regularly considered in even-numbered years.

² Selected resources as of June 30 are as follows: Unpaid undelivered orders, 1970, $23 thousand; 1971, $43 thousand; 1972, $23 thousand.

The National Commission on Consumer Finance was created by title IV of the Consumer Credit Protection Act of 1968, Public Law 90-321. The Commission is composed of nine members, of whom three are members of the Senate; three are members of the House of Representatives; and three are appointed by the President.

Pursuant to its statutory assignment to "study and appraise the functioning and structure of the consumer finance industry, as well as consumer credit transactions generally," the Commission staff has undertaken or has planned programs of research and studies which will enable it to report to the President and to the Congress on: (1) The adequacy of existing arrangements to provide consumer credit at reasonable rates; (2) the adequacy of existing supervisory and regulatory mechanisms to protect the public from unfair practices, and insure the informed use of consumer credit; (3) the desirability of Federal chartering of consumer finance companies, or other Federal regulatory measures.

The Commission has already held one public hearing and will hold additional hearings to obtain views of individuals and organizations concerned with the consumer finance area.

Frequent meetings, briefings, and consultations are conducted or participated in by staff members with policy-level members of other Government agencies having consumer finance functions and responsibilities—to discuss matters of joint concern and to avoid duplication of efforts. Close cooperative relationships are maintained with appropriate congressional committees with interests in the area of consumer finance.

The submission date for the Commission's final report of its findings, recommendations, and conclusions was originally January 1, 1971; however, the extent of the study by the Commission and the delays in activation of the Commission made it necessary to extend the submission date to July 1, 1972, which extension was authorized by Public Law 91-344, dated July 20, 1970.

The National Commission on Fire Prevention and Control was authorized by title II of the Fire Research and Safety Act of 1968 (Public Law 90-259). This was in recognition of the growing national concern with the problem of loss of life and property due to fires.

The Commission will investigate the fire problem with a view to formulation of recommendations to reduce the destruction of life and property caused by fire in the cities, suburbs, communities, and elsewhere. The Commission will conduct a comprehensive study and investigation to determine practicable and effective measures for reducing the destructive effects of fire.

The Commission is composed of 20 members as follows: the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and 18 members appointed by the President. Two members of the House of Representatives and two members of the Senate will be advisory members of the Commission. All members of the Commission have been selected. A report will be presented to the President and to Congress within 2 years after the Commission is duly organized.

The report will include (a) a consideration of ways in which fires can be more effectively prevented, (b) an analysis of ways in which existing programs such as Government-assisted housing and urban redevelopment could be strengthened to lessen the danger of destructive fires, (c) an evaluation of fire suppression methods currently used, including personnel recruiting procedures, (d) an evaluation of present and future needs for training and education of fire-service personnel, (e) a consideration of the adequacy of fire communication techniques and suggestions for standardization and improvement of equipment used in controlling fires, (f) an analysis of administrative problems facing local fire departments, and (g) an assessment of local, State, and Federal responsibilities in developing practical and effective solutions for reducing fire losses.

The National Tourism Resources Review Commission, established by Public Law 91-477 will perform the first comprehensive study of the travel and tourism resources of the United States. The 15-member commission is composed of four Government representatives and 11 individuals representing private industry. The Commission is charged by the Congress with (1) determining the domestic travel needs of the people of the United States and of visitors from other countries at the present time and to the year 1980; (2) determining the travel resources of the United States available to satisfy such needs now and to the year 1980; (3) determining policies and programs which will assure that the domestic travel needs of the present and the future are adequately and efficiently met; (4) determining a recommended program of Federal assistance to the States in promoting domestic travel; and (5) determining whether a separate agency of the Government should be established or whether an existing department, agency or instrumentality within the Government should be designated to consolidate and coordinate tourism research, planning and development activities presently performed by different agencies of the Government.

The Commission was established by Public Law 90-515, on September 26, 1968, to review national water resource needs and problems. The Commission is considering ways of conserving and achieving more efficient use of existing water supplies, innovations to encourage the highest economic use of water, pollution reduction and wastewater reuse, desalting and weather modification, and interbasin transfers of water as alternative means of meeting future water requirements.

Work to be accomplished in 1972 will be the completion of the program of studies and initial steps toward establishment of the Commission's position on major policy issues. The Commission must complete its work and submit its report and recommendations to the President and the Congress by September 26, 1973.

The President's Commission on Campus Unrest was created by Executive Order 11536 of June 13, 1970. The duties of the Commission were to (1) identify the principal causes of campus violence; (2) suggest procedures through which grievances can be resolved by means other than force; (3) suggest ways to obtain an education free from improper interference, and preserve the right of peaceful dissent and protest; and (4) propose practical steps which can be taken to minimize dangers attendant upon expressions of dissent.

The Commission has completed its work. It submitted its report and recommendations to the President in September 1970. The Commission terminated 30 days after the presentation of its report.

The Congress created the Tennessee Valley Authority in 1933 for the unified development of a river basin comprising parts of seven States. TVA is a corporation wholly owned by the Federal Government. Its program in 1972 will be financed from three sources: (1) appropriations by the Congress; (2) proceeds available from current power operations and borrowings against future power revenues; and (3) proceeds available from nonpower activities.

Budget program—1. Regional development program.—A major objective of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act is full development and use of all the resources of the Tennessee River Basin. The development of these resources is reflected in regional and national gains in the fields of navigation, flood control, water quality, recreation, and wildlife; in land resources—agriculture, forestry, and minerals; in education and manpower development; in environmental research and development; and in related industrial development.

(a) Water resources development includes continuing development of the all-year 9-foot navigation channel from the mouth of the river at Paducah, Ky., to Knoxville, Tenn., a distance of 650 miles. Traffic and savings to shippers continue to increase. More than 90% of the savings apply on freight originating outside the valley or moving from the valley to outside destinations. Technical studies appraise the opportunities for more extensive use of the waterway. Data supplied to shippers and carriers help solve transportation problems. Advisory work with State and local agencies leads to new or improved public programs by those agencies to help assure full industrial use of the waterway.

Flood control activities are concerned with maintenance and use of storage space in upstream reservoirs for seasonal retention of excessive runoff and the regulation of discharges to rates of flow which can be handled safely by downstream channels and reservoirs. Flood crests are reduced along the Tennessee River and along the tributaries downstream from the reservoirs and along the lower Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. Also, TVA collects and analyzes flood data and studies potential flood control projects and ways to improve operations of the existing system. Technical advice and assistance is given to State and local agencies in finding solutions to localized flood control problems.

Regional water quality management comprises the determination of basic facts about water quality, planning of ways of maintaining or upgrading the quality of the water resources, and monitoring and surveillance to assure that water quality does not deteriorate. This work is conducted in cooperation with appropriate Federal, State, and local agencies and with industrial users of water.

Recreation and wildlife development activities are designed to promote the optimum development of the water and other scenic resources of the region in a way that will improve the physical and cultural environment, stimulate economic development, and conserve natural and historical resources.

The capital outlay program for water resources development includes a total of $14,712 thousand for continuing construction of multipurpose projects: (1) $7,870 thousand for the Tellico project started in 1967; (2) $2,982 thousand for the Bear Creek project also started in 1967; and (3) $3,860 thousand for completion of the Tims Ford project started in 1966. An estimate of $400 thousand provides for additions and improvements at existing multipurpose projects.

The program also includes capital outlays of $2,700 thousand for navigation facilities of which $2,050 thousand is for continuing construction of the Yellow Creek Port project in northeast Mississippi; and $650 thousand is for other facilities. A total of $900 thousand provides for small flood control projects. The estimate for recreation facilities is $226 thousand.

All water resources development facilities are planned, constructed, and operated in cooperation with State and local agencies.

(b) General resources development.—Special attention to selected areas and resources of the Tennessee Valley region, in particularly close cooperation with State and local agencies and with tributary area associations, constitutes an additional phase of TVA's program for the proper use, conservation, and development of the region's resources.

Investigations identify current problems and opportunities for development under conditions of optimum use. Research helps develop and test corrective measures. Cooperative projects with State and local groups apply these measures to regional and special problems.

Land resources projects are in the fields of forestry, agriculture, and minerals. Forestry activities include appraisals of the quality and quantity of the forest resource, research and demonstrations, tree improvement and forest nutrition, promotion of sound forest management, industrial wood use, and studies of the influence of forest development and use on the ecology. The objective is to make full use of the forest resource of the valley and to develop it for maximum sustained economic return, while enhancing the contributions of forests to a quality environment. Research and demonstrations in agriculture have the objectives of assistance to valley farmers in improving their economic situation and attainment of a higher standard of living through efficient use of land resources and improved farm practices and systems. Minerals projects have emphasis on economic geology and preparation, in cooperation with State agencies, of geologic maps essential to the development of the region's minerals.

Environmental quality projects are concerned with: (1) strip mine experiments and demonstrations; (2) regional air quality management; and (3) research on economic disposal of solid wastes in cooperation with the Public Health Service.

Tributary area development is a comprehensive and cooperative approach to resource development in areas of the Tennessee Valley where specific opportunities exist for further development and where local groups have organized to deal with problems of economic advancement and area improvement. Work is in close collaboration with organized groups in the tributary areas, most of which lie wholly or in part in the Appalachia portion of the Tennessee Valley.

Demonstrations in education and manpower development are concerned with bringing into the workforce disadvantaged persons and for improving educational systems in low-income rural areas.

Townlift is a technical assistance activity in which TVA helps State and local agencies to improve existing towns to better fit them to changed demands upon them for service, and to guide the development of new towns where such may be needed in relationship to water resources development projects.

(c) Environmental research and development utilizes TVA resources and Tennessee Valley research opportunities toward meeting pressing needs of the Nation. The program is being designed to deal with the full range of variables which affect environmental quality and utilization of natural resources.

(d) Land Between the Lakes.—Work will continue on the 170,000-acre development area in western Kentucky and Tennessee situated between TVA's Kentucky reservoir and the Corps of Engineers' Barkley Lake. Land Between the Lakes is a demonstration of new ideas in public outdoor recreation and conservation education, and its development is stimulating the lagging economy of the surrounding area by encouraging further private development. The project includes a variety of facilities where an urbanizing population can use part of its increased leisure to renew its acquaintance with the land and gain new understandings of modern concepts of resource use and conservation. Work on new facilities to be added to serve the growing number of visitors calls for capital outlays of $2,000 thousand.

2. Power program.—TVA is the sole supplier of electric power in an area of 80,000 square miles of the Tennessee Valley States. Operations involve generation and transmission of power and sale of energy at wholesale to local distribution systems and directly to a small number of industries and Government agencies requiring large amounts of power. Power is purchased and distributed by 160 local public agencies and one small privately owned utility company. Total energy to be supplied is estimated to be 114.5 billion kilowatt-hours in 1972. This is about 13.2 billion kilowatt-hours greater than the energy supplied to the system in 1970 and about 7.6 billion kilowatt-hours above that estimated to be supplied in 1971. Net income from power operations, after interest charges and depreciation, is estimated to be $133.1 million for 1972, compared with $74.6 million in 1970, and an estimate of $116.1 million in 1971.

Of the $476,002 thousand estimate for power generating facilities, all to be financed from power proceeds and borrowings, $117,580 thousand is for continuing construction of Browns Ferry nuclear units 1-3, $86,464 thousand is for continuing construction of Cumberland steam units 1-2, $153,745 thousand is for Sequoyah nuclear units 1-2, $30,950 thousand is for continuing construction of Raccoon Mountain pumped-storage units 1-4, $2,578 thousand for completion of Allen gas turbine units 1-16, $62,680 thousand for an additional 600 megawatts of gas turbine capacity, $16,240 thousand for the nuclear plant below Watts Bar Dam, $4,765 thousand for additional nuclear capacity for 1977-78, and $1 million is for preliminary work on additional capacity for 1978-79. The three Browns Ferry units are scheduled for commercial operation in April 1972, January 1973, and October 1973; the Cumberland units in July 1972 and April 1973; the Sequoyah units in April 1974 and December 1974; and the Raccoon Mountain units at 3-month intervals beginning November 1974. The Allen gas turbines are scheduled for commercial operation in June 1971, the additional 600-megawatt gas turbine capacity in May 1972, the nuclear units below Watts Bar Dam in the fall of 1976 and summer of 1977, and additional nuclear capacity in the fall of 1977 and summer of 1978. Each increment in this program for power generating capacity additions and the schedule for providing it are essential to meeting rapidly growing power needs of the Tennessee Valley region.

Completion of the units as scheduled will bring the estimated dependable capacity of the system by the winter of 1975-76 to 28.5 million kilowatts, including other plants operated as a part of the TVA system. Total demands in the winter of 1975-76 are estimated at 25.7 million kilowatts, of which 2.1 million kilowatts will be served by capacity owned by others but made available to TVA under interchange arrangements. There will be a reserve of 20.7% over estimated demands of 23.6 million kilowatts served by TVA capacity to allow for loss of capacity because of breakdown of generating equipment and needs for its maintenance, failure of substation equipment and transmission lines, drawdown of reservoirs during dry periods, and other contingencies.

Capital outlay in 1972 for all power system facilities, including transmission system facilities, is estimated at $622,081 thousand.

3. Fertilizer and munitions development program.—Chemical facilities at Muscle Shoals, Ala., are maintained and operated as a national fertilizer development center, but by statute they must also be available for munitions purposes. These facilities are important to the national defense.

Program activities are of two general types: fertilizer research and development, and introduction to the American farmer of new fertilizer materials and improved fertilizer uses.

Fertilizer research and development consists of basic chemical and agronomic research and fertilizer process research and development. TVA works cooperatively with the Department of Agriculture, the land-grant colleges, and with industry to maximize effectiveness of research, hasten use of findings, and to avoid undesirable duplication. Research results on technological developments and on new and improved processes are made available to industry. Knowledge gained in fertilizer research is valuable also in the related field of munitions. Special attention is given to methods for the recovery of sulfur in useful form from stack gases.

Fertilizer introduction is carried on cooperatively with the land-grant colleges and includes carefully controlled small plot demonstrations, tests and demonstrations of fertilizer materials and practices on selected operating farms, and nationwide educational introduction of fertilizers, which is also conducted in cooperation with commercial fertilizer manufacturers, distributors, and dealers. Farmers and the fertilizer industry pay for the fertilizers used, with prices based upon the value of the plant nutrient content as measured by commercial fertilizer prices but discounted to reflect the novelty of the material or practice and the nature of the demonstration. Developmental production of fertilizer materials has these objectives: to demonstrate the technical and commercial feasibility of new or improved processes, thereby encouraging their adoption by industry; to supply materials for widespread educational introduction among farmers; and to supply munitions materials or render other services for national defense.

Capital outlay costs of $6,975 thousand in 1972 for chemical facilities are chiefly for continuing the rehabilitation program begun in 1960. Modernization of the ammonia plant will be completed and construction activity on a demonstration-scale unit for production of urea-ammonium phosphate fertilizers will continue. Each step of the rehabilitation program makes significant contributions toward reduction in emissions of air and water pollutants.

4. General service activities.—Operating costs for general service activities cover valley mapping, bridge maintenance, fallout shelter maintenance, and reimbursable services furnished at the request and expense of other agencies. Capital outlay for additions and replacements of office, transportation, electronic computing equipment, and other facilities used jointly in conducting TVA programs is estimated at $7,078 thousand.

Financing.—Amounts estimated to become available in 1972 are to be derived from: (1) the requested appropriation of $56,600 thousand; (2) unobligated balances brought forward of previous appropriations of $800 thousand; (3) nonpower revenues and receipts of $30,404 thousand; and (4) power revenues and receipts of $719,222 thousand. In addition, the budget program anticipates financing from borrowings of $530 million backed by future revenues. A summary of the application of appropriations follows:

Operating results and financial condition.—Only the power program is intended to be self-supporting; the net expense of nonpower programs is covered largely by appropriations from the Treasury. Payments to the Treasury in 1972 are estimated at $90 million—$70 million as a dividend (return on the appropriation investment in the power program) and $20 million as a reduction in the appropriation investment in the power program.

Total assets are estimated to increase by $578,080 thousand during 1972. The increase is mainly in fixed assets, reflecting expenditures for construction of facilities; $557,145 thousand of the increase in assets is in the power program and $20,935 thousand is in nonpower programs. The estimate of accounts payable and accrued liabilities at June 30, 1972, is $15,900 thousand less than the estimate at June 30, 1971. The decrease reflects liabilities mainly related to construction. Total borrowings from the public for the power program are expected to increase by $530 million during 1972. The total Government equity at June 30, 1972, is estimated to be $64,049 thousand more than that at June 30, 1971. This change largely represents increases in investments in assets financed from sources other than borrowings.

Note.—Excludes $1,472 thousand in 1972 for activities transferred to United States Information Agency. Salaries and expenses (special foreign currency program), 1970, $1,462 thousand; 1971, $1,135 thousand. Includes $210 thousand in 1972 for activities transferred from United States Information Agency. Salaries and expenses (special foreign currency program). 1970, $216 thousand; 1971, $213 thousand.

The United States Information Agency seeks, by means of communication techniques, to influence public attitudes abroad to achieve U.S. foreign policy objectives. The Agency also advises those responsible for formulating and implementing foreign policies and programs as to the probable impact of those policies on foreign opinion.

The increase of $5.6 million in obligations funded from the Salaries and expenses appropriations will fund non-discretionary increases required to maintain the lower program level remaining at the end of 1971. An increase is provided in radio broadcasts to East Europe and the Middle East.

1. Overseas missions.—The program is operative in 112 countries. This Agency operates through 194 posts and supports 125 binational centers. The overseas missions carry out country programs designed to influence local attitudes and actions in support of U.S. foreign policy. Overseas missions prepare materials using local facilities, and use materials provided by the media services in Washington.

2. Media services.—These services provide support for overseas country programs.

(a) Press and publications service maintains communication facilities for the transmission of editorial, news and feature materials for adaptation by overseas missions. It produces two monthly magazines titled "America Illustrated," one for distribution in the Soviet Union and the other in Poland; and a monthly magazine, "Topic," in French and English editions for the African area, and in Arabic for distribution throughout the Arab world. The service also operates three regional printing centers and provides overseas missions with printing supplies and equipment.

(b) Motion picture and television service produces and acquires motion picture and television programs which are then translated into as many as 58 foreign languages. It adapts these programs for specific country or area use, and supports the foreign production, use, and distribution of films and television programs. The service also supplies the missions with equipment for showing motion pictures.

(c) Information center service supports U.S.-operated libraries and reading rooms, and binational centers, providing them with collections of American publications, both in English and in translation, and with English language teaching materials. It assists American publishers in distributing selected products overseas and supports the publication of low-priced books for sale abroad. The service also provides exhibits and visual materials to overseas missions for local display, and provides books and periodicals for presentation to selected individuals and groups.

(d) Broadcasting service produces radio broadcasts in English and in 34 foreign languages. Programs are broadcast from transmitters at five domestic and 10 overseas locations. The service also supplies the overseas missions with recorded radio programs and scripts for placement on foreign stations and with radio supplies and equipment.

3. Program direction and other services.—This activity encompasses Agency managerial staffs and centralized servicing functions. Included are the office of the Director, the office of policy, research and assessment staffs, physical and personnel security functions, legal counsel, central administrative services and emergency planning.

4. Shared administrative support.—Administrative services for the Agency's overseas operations, and certain special support services at headquarters, are obtained through reimbursable arrangements with the Department of State.

Note.—Excludes $456 thousand in 1972 for activities transferred to salaries and expenses, International activities, Department of Commerce; 1970, $465 thousand; 1971, $456 thousand.

The purpose of this program is to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and those of other lands through suitable U.S. exhibitions in international fairs and other demonstrations of American economic, social, industrial, scientific, and cultural attainments.

1. International trade missions sent abroad to further the development of American export markets are proposed to be transferred to international activities of the Department of Commerce in 1972.

2. Labor missions are sent to selected fairs and exhibitions abroad. There were six labor missions in 1970; seven are programmed in 1971, and seven are requested for 1972.

3. Fairs and exhibitions combines the former international trade fair and special purpose exhibition programs. In 1970, eight exhibits were mounted at international fairs, a fourth series exchange exhibit was reshowed in East Europe, and the fifth series of exchange exhibits was shown at six sites in the Soviet Union. In 1971 eight exhibits will be mounted at international fairs, the sixth series of exchange exhibits will begin its showing schedule in the Soviet Union, and a fourth series exchange exhibit will be reshowed in an East European country. The 1972 estimate provides for six trade fair exhibits, reshowings of fourth series exchange exhibits in three East European countries, and completion of the sixth series exhibit schedule in the Soviet Union.

4. Osaka World's Fair—U.S. participation in the Japan World Exposition held in calendar year 1970 is funded at $8,900 thousand or $1,207 thousand less than originally made available for the project in 1968 and 1969 supplemental appropriations. This amount surplus to the fair requirements has been reprogrammed to other special international exhibitions activities.

The Water Resources Planning Act of 1965 (Public Law 89-80, July 22, 1965) established the Water Resources Council. Under title I of the act, the Council assesses national and regional water requirements, coordinates the comprehensive planning programs of the Federal agencies, develops procedures for Federal participation in regional or river basin plans, and reviews plans developed by river basin commissions. Title II of the act authorizes river basin commissions for the development of comprehensive regional water and related land use plans designed to make optimum use of such resources. Title III of the act authorizes financial assistance to the States in developing comprehensive water and related land resources plans. The Water Resources Council coordinates the grant program with related planning assistance programs of other Federal agencies.

Legislation will be proposed to increase the annual Federal payment to the District government and to provide assistance in financing the District's capital outlay program.

1. Payment to the District of Columbia general fund.—Legislation will be submitted in 1972 to raise the Federal payment level to $153 million.

2. Assistance for financing capital outlay program.—Legislation will be proposed to provide financial assistance to the District government by authorizing:

(a) Capital grants for higher education facilities.—The Federal Government would make direct grants, $5 million for 1972, for construction of the physical facilities of the Washington Technical Institute and the Federal City College, the District government would continue to pay for operating expenses out of general revenues of the District of Columbia; and

(b) Support for local D.C. bond expense.—It is proposed that the Federal Government guarantee local taxable bonds to be issued by the District government to finance the city's public works program. (See proposed transition loans to the District of Columbia for capital outlay.) Annual support payments, beginning with $1 million for 1972, would be made to the District government to cover such expenses as interest costs above the average long-term Treasury interest rate, underwriting charges, and other financing costs; and

(c) Stadium financing assistance.—It is proposed that the Federal and District governments initiate a sharing arrangement now to provide for the long-term debt service costs associated with D.C.-R.F.K. Stadium.

Legislation will be proposed to permit the District Government to finance its public works program and capital outlay costs by issuing local District of Columbia bonds rather than borrowing from the Federal Government. The conversion to local D.C. bonds is to be on a phased basis which will not require refinancing of existing outstanding debt of the District government nor adversely affect execution of the city's public works program. In order to provide for an orderly transition period, additional Federal loan authorization will be requested for 1972 for capital outlay costs of the District's general and special funds. When the proposed conversion to local D.C. bonds is completed, the District government's public works financing will be on a basis similar to those of other State and local governments with local capital outlay costs, excluding those for higher education facilities, thus becoming a direct financial responsibility of the District, rather than the Federal Government.

PART II

EXPLANATION OF SCHEDULES OF PERMANENT POSITIONS

Part II contains detailed schedules of permanent positions which are furnished to the Congress, pursuant to section 204 of the Budget and Accounting Act, 1921, as amended (31 U.S.C. 581), and waivers thereunder granted by the Appropriations Committees. These schedules relate to positions established for full-time employment without time limit, and to any others occupied for a year or more. Positions authorized at the end of the year are counted, whether filled or unfilled at that time; positions abolished during the year are not counted.

The first section of the schedule, headed "Grades and ranges," contains a listing of the grades and salary ranges of authorized positions, and the total number in each grade, as illustrated below:

GRADES AND RANGES
Executive level IV, $38,000.....	1	1	1
Executive level V, $36,000.....	5	5	5

Total permanent positions.....	265	280	325
Unfilled positions, June 30.....	-41	-25	-25
Total permanent employ- ment, end of year.....	224	255	300

Grades and their respective salary ranges are reflected in the stub column; the most commonly used grade series, the general schedule grades, is abbreviated "GS-..." The salary ranges shown are the normal ranges of the pay scales which became effective in January 1970 for graded positions, and in March 1969 for executive level grades. Two additional lines provide for deducting the number of unfilled positions to arrive at the total employment in permanent positions at the end of the year. Note that the pay scales shown in this schedule may be exceeded (in the general schedule grades and certain other positions) when pay rates in private enterprise for one or more occupations in one or more areas or locations are substantially above the statutory rates. In such cases, the Civil Service Commission has authority to permit a higher entrance level (not to exceed the maximum pay step prescribed by statute) and add a corresponding number of steps above the stated pay range.

The second section of the schedule lists operating titles of the individual positions under each grade for which the minimum basic annual salary is equal to or greater than that for grade GS-16 ($26,547).

PART III

ANNEXED BUDGETS AND SUPPLEMENTARY

EXPLANATION OF ANNEXED BUDGETS AND SUPPLEMENTARY MATERIAL

Part III presents detailed schedules and explanatory statements on the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, and on six Government-sponsored enterprises which are outside the budget totals. The Government-sponsored enterprises are privately owned. The Federal National Mortgage Association's secondary market operations fund, formerly under mixed-ownership, became a privately owned venture on September 30, 1968. The Federal land bank system, consisting of 12 Federal land banks, is cooperative and is completely farmer-owned. The 12 Federal intermediate credit banks, and the 13 banks for cooperatives, also supervised by the Farm Credit Administration, became wholly privately owned on December 31, 1968. The 12 Federal home loan banks, which are supervised by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, obtain their funds from capital stock owned by member institutions, issuance of their own obligations, and deposits of member institutions. Also appearing under the Federal Home Loan Bank Board is the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, a body established July 24, 1970, to provide a secondary market for residential mortgages.

The annexed budgets are not reviewed by the President, and are presented in the amounts submitted by the agencies. The material on annexed budgets is presented in the general format of similar material for public enterprise and trust revolving funds in Part I. No appropriation language appears because action by Congress is not required.

This part also presents the receipts of the trust funds, organized by agency and fund, and loan disbursements, repayments, and net outlays, also organized by agency and fund.

The Federal National Mortgage Association is a Government-sponsored private corporation. Its purpose is to provide supplementary assistance to the secondary market for home mortgages by providing a degree of liquidity for mortgage investments, thereby improving the distribution of investment capital available for home mortgage financing.

To carry out this purpose, FNMA buys, sells, and otherwise deals in mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the Veterans' Administration, and certain loans insured by the Farmers Home Administration. The Corporation also makes short-term loans on the security of any such loans and mortgages, and sells securities based on its own mortgages set aside for that purpose.

The common stock of the Corporation is owned by the public and is fully transferable and fully traded. Its capitalization is continuously expanded by the statutory requirement that mortgage sellers make capital contributions in the form of subscriptions to common stock equal to not more than 2% nor less than 1% of the mortgages involved. Borrowers from the Corporation are required to make such capital contributions equal to not more than one-half of 1% of the amounts borrowed.

The Federal National Mortgage Association (secondary market operations) was initially capitalized under the Housing Act of 1954 by the issuance of $92.8 million of preferred stock to the Secretary of the Treasury. Additional preferred stock subscriptions by the Secretary of the Treasury were authorized under subsequent acts; the total of such authorizations having aggregated $317.8 million.

The authorizing statute, Public Law 83-560, approved August 2, 1954, originally contemplated that FNMA's secondary market operations would ultimately be completely owned and financed by private participants. On December 1, 1968, pursuant to Public Law 90-448, approved August 1, 1968, FNMA's secondary market operations were converted to a Government-sponsored, privately owned corporation. As a privately owned corporation, FNMA is able to raise money in the private capital markets and support the secondary mortgage market unconstrained by considerations which control the Federal budget.

The Emergency Home Finance Act of 1970 empowers FNMA, with the approval of the Secretary of HUD, to purchase, service, lend on the security of, sell, and otherwise deal in conventional mortgages (those not federally insured or guaranteed). While FNMA recognizes that its primary responsibility is to the FHA and VA mortgage market and while no such activities have as yet been commenced, FNMA has announced a conventional single-family mortgage purchase program to begin in early calendar year 1971. While the aggregate amount of such purchases cannot be predicted, FNMA believes that such conventional mortgages will represent a small percentage of FNMA's total mortgage portfolio. FNMA will act to minimize any additional risk involved in purchasing conventional mortgages by applying strict qualifications in connection with such purchases.

Recently enacted legislation also empowers FNMA to purchase, service, sell, or otherwise deal in any loans made to a public agency under part B of title VI of the Public Health Services Act (primarily loans made for the construction or modernization of hospital facilities), and to receive Federal subsidies designed to bring the yield on federally insured low- and middle-income housing mortgages, purchased by FNMA at prices in excess of market, into line with then current mortgage market conditions. To date, no hospital loans have been purchased by FNMA and no mortgages have been acquired pursuant to the interest subsidy programs for low- and middle-income housing.

The Association has three separate authorities to borrow money from private sources. It may issue subordinated capital debentures in an amount not in excess of twice the net equity. It may in addition borrow amounts not in excess of the sum of net equity and subordinated capital debentures outstanding multiplied by a factor established by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. This factor is currently set at 25. These borrowings usually take the form of debentures, short-term discount notes, or bank loans. Finally, FNMA may issue securities, guaranteed by the Government National Mortgage Association, which are fully backed by pools of mortgages. This last type of borrowing is limited only by the size of FNMA's loan portfolio.

The forecast data contained in this material has been developed based on assumptions consistent with those underlying the President's budget, and should not be construed as an official forecast of the Corporation's position.

The banks for cooperatives, of which there are 13, are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. They finance the operations of farmers' cooperatives. The funds to finance these loans are obtained primarily from sales of debentures to the public and from their own capital funds. The debentures which the banks issue are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest. All of their expenses are paid from their own income and are not included in the budget of the United States. Included in these expenses is the banks' share of the costs of the Farm Credit Administration.

The Farm Credit Act of 1955 provided for eventual ownership of the banks by farmers' cooperatives and the retirement of the U.S. Government's investment. This was accomplished on December 31, 1968, when the remainder of the U.S. Government capital was retired.

The Federal intermediate credit banks, of which there are 12, are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. They serve as banks of discount for agriculture, discounting agricultural and livestock paper for, and making loans to, local financing institutions, such as production credit associations, agricultural credit corporations, livestock loan companies, and commercial banks. They also provide the production credit associations with necessary supervision and services.

The banks' lending funds are obtained primarily from the sale of debentures to the public and from their own capital funds. The debentures are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest. All of their expenses are paid from their own income and are not included in the budget of the United States. Included in these expenses is the credit banks' share of the costs of the Farm Credit Administration.

The banks were originally wholly owned Government corporations set up exclusively as banks of discount; however, pursuant to the Farm Credit Act of 1956, the banks became mixed-ownership corporations and were made responsible for supervising the production credit associations and assisting them to make sound credit available to farmers.

All of the capital stock of the Federal intermediate credit banks from organization in 1923 to December 31, 1956, was held by the U.S. Government. The 1956 act provided a long-range plan for the eventual ownership of the credit banks by the production credit associations and the gradual retirement of the Government's investment in the banks. This retirement was accomplished in full on December 31, 1968.

The Federal land banks, through the 616 Federal land bank associations, which are located at the local level, make long-term real estate loans to farmers and ranchers. These banks and associations are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. The funds to finance these loans are obtained primarily from sale of the banks' bonds to the public and from their own capital funds. These bonds are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest. All of their expenses are paid from their own income and are not included in the budget of the United States.

The last of the Government capital that had been invested in the banks was repaid in 1947.

The 12 Federal home loan banks are chartered and supervised by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board under the authority of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act of 1932. The banks are financial institutions and their main function is to supply their members—principally savings and loan type institutions, and savings banks—with credit to smooth their operations and enhance their service to the public as savings media and home mortgage lenders in their own communities. Each bank operates in a geographic district designated by the Board and together the banks cover all of the United States as well as Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Guam. In 1970 the banks extended credit amounting to $5.8 billion and received repayments of $1.9 billion. Advances outstanding on June 30, 1970, totaled $10.2 billion.

The principal source of funds for the lending operation is the sale of consolidated obligations of the banks to the public. On June 30, 1970, $9.9 billion of these obligations were outstanding. The consolidated obligations are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government as to principal or interest. Other sources of lendable funds include 25% of deposits from members (with total deposits amounting to $1.3 billion on June 30, 1970), and funds paid for the purchase of capital stock by member institutions, amounting to $1.6 billion at the end of 1970. Funds not immediately needed for advances to members are invested in obligations of the United States or agencies thereof.

The capital stock of the Federal home loan banks is owned entirely by their members. Initially the U.S. Government purchased stock of the banks in the amount of $125 million. The banks had repurchased the Government's investment in full by mid-1951, and since that time the banks have been owned entirely by their members.

The entire operating expenses of the banks are paid from their own income and are not included in the budget of the United States. Included in these expenses is the assessment by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to cover a substantial portion of the Board's administrative and other costs.

The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation was established by title III of the Emergency Home Finance Act of 1970 (84 Stat. 451-458), approved July 24, 1970. The Corporation's Board of Directors, by law, is comprised of the members of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

The function of the Corporation is to provide a secondary market for residential mortgages. The operations are confined, so far as practicable, to residential mortgages which generally meet the purchase standards set by private institutional mortgage investors.

The financial data presented in these schedules is based upon a first attempt by the Corporation to project its operations. The recent establishment of the Corporation necessarily makes these estimates somewhat tentative; they are not an official forecast of the Corporation's activities.

The projected financial schedules reflect the primary transactions incurred to date of: (1) Issuance of $100 million of capital, (2) acquisition of $326 million of mortgages, and (3) the issuance of $315 million of mortgage-backed bonds guaranteed by the Government National Mortgage Association.

Pending determination of the accounting practices and procedures regarding deferred costs and revenues, these, along with other working capital requirements, are presented on a net basis. Long-term debt projections are estimated in relation to the activity and requirements indicated by the level of operations in the mortgage market.

Basic legislation.—The Federal Reserve System operates under the provisions of the act of December 23, 1913, known as the Federal Reserve Act (38 Stat. 251), as amended (included in ch. 3, 12 U.S.C.), and other acts of Congress.

Program.—To carry out its responsibilities under the act, the Board determines general monetary, credit, and operating policies for the System as a whole and formulates the rules and regulations necessary to carry out the purposes of the Federal Reserve Act. The Board's principal duties consist of exerting an influence over credit conditions and supervising the Federal Reserve banks and member banks.

Construction program.—Because of a need for additional office space, the Board initiated plans several years ago to construct an annex office building immediately north of its present building. In December 1970, the Board invited competitive bids for construction with completion scheduled for 1973.

Financing.—Under the provisions of section 10 of the Federal Reserve Act, the Board of Governors levies upon the Federal Reserve banks, in proportion to their capital and surplus, an assessment sufficient to pay its estimated expenses. The Board, under the act, determines and prescribes the manner in which its obligations are incurred and its expenses paid. Funds derived from assessments are deposited in the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, and the act provides that such funds "shall not be construed to be Government funds or appropriated moneys." No Government appropriation is required to support operations of the Board.
