This appropriation provides for the programs and activities relating to the promotion of maximum utilization by Federal agencies, and the transfer among Federal agencies of excess real property. It provides for the disposal of surplus real property by sale, exchange, lease, permit, or transfer to authorized organizations as well as the care and handling of surplus property pending its disposition. It provides for the appraisal of excess and surplus property, for the appraisal of leased public buildings, sites, and other related building programs for Government-owned and leased buildings, as well as for the establishment of specifications, standards, and methods governing such appraisals. This appropriation also provides for real property surveys conducted to determine which properties could be put to better Federal use or disposed of as surplus to the Government.

It is estimated that during 1975 GSA will dispose of 624 properties consisting of 100 utilization transfers to other Federal agencies, 234 sales and 290 donations to authorized organizations. The revenue to be derived during 1975 from sales and rentals of surplus properties is estimated to total $85,500 thousand.

Physical care, handling, protection, maintenance, and repair of certain excess and surplus real properties pending disposal are also provided.

These functions were previously financed under appropriations for Property Management and Disposal Service, operating expenses.

Appraisers, auctioneers, and brokers familiar with local markets are used to accelerate the disposal of surplus real and related personal property. Fees of appraisers, auctioneers, and brokers and costs of advertising and surveying are paid out of receipts from disposals within each year in accordance with 40 U.S.C.A. 485(b). Also paid from such proceeds is the direct expense in connection with utilization of excess real and related personal property. Properties to be sold by auctioneers are estimated at five in both 1974 and 1975. Disposal appraisals totaled 561 in 1973 and are estimated to reach 650 in 1974 and 1975.

This fund, established pursuant to the Public Buildings Amendments of 1972, will finance the activities of the Public Buildings Service which provides space and services for Federal agencies in a relationship similar to that of landlord and tenant. This new financing will begin in 1975 when agencies will be assessed commercially equivalent standard level user charges (SLUC) which will permit the furnishing of space and related services.

LIMITATION ON AVAILABILITY OF REVENUE—continued

The Federal buildings fund eliminates the need for the following appropriations and funds: Public Buildings Service, Operating expenses; Repair and improvement of public buildings; Construction, public buildings projects; Sites and expenses, public buildings projects; Payments, public buildings purchase contracts; Expenses, United States court facilities; Additional court facilities; Construction, Federal Office Building No. 7; Buildings management fund; and Construction services fund.

In 1975, SLUC collections are estimated $1, 156 million, covering 266 million net assignable net square feet provided Federal agencies. This includes office space; special purpose space for court, postal, and other activities; storage space; and parking space. Of the total net assignable space provided by GSA, it is estimated that approximately 70% is Government owned and 30% is leased from commercial sources.

The Federal buildings fund program consists of the following activities to be funded by agency payments to GSA of standard level user charges for space and services furnished by GSA.

1. Real property acquisition and repair.—This activity provides for the acquisition of space through direct Federal construction—including extensions to or conversions of existing buildings; purchase contracting for facilities financed through private capital investment; leasing of existing buildings or facilities to be built with private capital for lease to the Government; and other methods such as exchange, condemnation, or donation of existing property. The total 1975 program level for acquisition of new facilities is estimated at $275 million (total project cost), including $25 million by direct Federal construction and $250 million private investment financing for 1975. This activity also provides for repair and alteration of existing facilities as well as overall direction of the acquisition and repair program.

2. Real property management and operation.—This activity provides for operation of Government-owned and leased facilities, planning and management for assignment and utilization of space by Federal agencies, and general program direction for carrying out public buildings operations. In 1975 building operations, the major part of this activity, includes the following estimated program levels (expenses in millions of dollars):

Cleaning.....	146
Maintenance and mechanical operations.....	81
Utilities and fuel.....	84
Protection.....	38
Other operations.....	46

3. Service direction.—This activity provides overall management and direction for all real property operations consisting of (a) long- and short-range planning for acquisition, operation, maintenance, protection, and utilization of buildings and space; and (b) general management and supervision of building design, construction, repair and modernization.

The Federal buildings fund also finances through separate payments: (a) Real property management disposal activities; and (b) special building services and improvements not covered by the standard level user charge but requested by Federal agencies.

This appropriation provides for Government-wide management of supplies and personal property and transportation and public utilities services, operating the world wide supply system and maintaining and disposing of strategic and critical materials.

1. Supply distribution.—Stocks of commercial-type commodities are received, warehoused, and issued on a worldwide basis to Federal agencies through a national supply distribution system consisting of both wholesale and retail distribution facilities. Stores stock sales will decrease from $487 million in 1973 to an estimated $481 million in 1975.

2. Procurement.—Commodities are procured to maintain inventories at stores depots to insure availability in advance of sales orders and for direct delivery to agencies. Term contracts for commercial-type commodities and services are established for large aggregate volume requirements against which agencies place individual orders at uniform price advantages. Total procurement, excluding ADP equipment, was $1,780 million for 1973, is estimated at $1,930 million for 1974 and $2,130 million for 1975.

3. Supply control.—During 1975 supply control will continue to serve as the single contact point for all matters pertaining to supply support. Continued emphasis will be placed on efficient processing and control of requisitions, supply systems development, commodity and data management functions and increased attention and effort to maintain adequate levels of inventory while controlling the capital investment. Inventory available for issue at yearend 1973 was $158.6 million and will be reduced to $143 million in 1974 and 1975.

4. Standards and quality control.—Timely delivery of commodities of specified quality is assured by inspection and surveillance at contractors' plants or supply depots, by laboratory tests and analyses of samples prior to acceptance, and by contract administration assistance on 11,500 contracts covering $870 million worth of items procured. Qualitative requirements of Federal agencies are reflected in Federal specifications, Federal standards, and Federal item identifications which are mandatory for use in procurement. In 1975, the standardization program will consist of the promulgation of 1,070 Federal specifications and standards actions and 300,000 logistics data actions.

5. Transportation, and public utilities, and equipment.—During 1975 continued efforts will be devoted to development of guides, procedures, and educational programs for improving transportation practices and operations in civilian agencies, negotiation of reasonable rates with carriers, and providing procurement assistance, rates, routing and related services to executive agencies. Government-wide policies and procedures will be developed to improve the overall efficiency of the Government-owned motor vehicle fleet and to assist the various Federal agencies with motor equipment management. Negotiations will be conducted with public utilities companies on behalf of executive agencies and technical assistance rendered in connection with regulatory proceedings. In 1975 continued emphasis will be placed on the development and publication of regulations and procedures governing the procurement and management of public utilities services.

6. Interagency support and supply policy.—In 1975, national supply policies and programs activities will continue to place emphasis on agreements between GSA, the Department of Defense, and the civil agencies for the governing of supply management relationships. Studies and recommendations will continue to be made in order to improve the internal supply system of Federal agencies. Greater emphasis will be placed on the customer service officer program to further identify problem areas which need to be resolved by the Federal Supply Service and on a customer market research program to increase the scope of supply and procurement support rendered by the Federal Supply Service.

7. Personal property management and disposal.—Covers the cost of acquiring, inspecting and maintaining materials in the National, Defense Production Act, and supplemental stockpiles. Handling costs for acquisition by exchange are provided to cover deliveries under prior year contracts. This activity covers the property of all Government agencies, and provides for utilization of excess personal property, thereby reducing new procurement; donation of all surplus personal property for public benefit purposes; sale of surplus and exchange/sale of personal property (except DOD property); and rehabilitation of personal property owned by the Government to extend its useful life.

Also covers the cost of disposal of personal property items and excess stockpile materials, and management of the Government-wide programs for the utilization, donation, rehabilitation, solid waste recycling, and sale of surplus and exchange/sale of personal property. In 1973 and 1974 this activity was funded under the appropriation for Property Management and Disposal Service, operating expenses which will no longer exist.

8. Service direction.—The business service centers, funded under this activity in 1973 and 1974, are included for 1975 in General management and agency operations, salaries and expenses.

This fund finances, on a reimbursable basis, a national supply depot system and a system of ordering supplies for direct delivery to agencies. Supplies or services are sold from the fund at cost to other agencies and the District of Columbia. Related operating expenses are provided for under the appropriation, Federal Supply Service, Operating expenses.

Also financed by the fund and reimbursed by using agencies are the operations of interagency motor vehicle pools, the rehabilitation and repair of furniture and equipment, and the redistribution of materials no longer needed overseas.

Budget program.—This estimate provides for sales to both military and civilian agencies. It also provides for the operation of the credit return program.

1. Supply operations.—(a) Stores, regular.—Stocks of common-use commodities are purchased in volume and stored in supply depots for sale to Government agencies. From a total of $487 million in 1973, sales are estimated to remain the same in 1974 and decrease to $481 million in 1975.

(b) Stores, direct delivery.—Orders for stores-type items, if sufficiently large and delivery time is not a factor, are placed with the commercial source of supply for delivery directly to the customer. Sales were $31.6 million in 1973, and are estimated to be $32 million in 1974 and 1975.

(c) Nonstores items.—Definite quantity requirements of commodities which are not susceptible to economical stocking in supply depots are purchased for direct shipment to using agencies. Sales through the fund are expected to increase from $282.7 million in 1973 to $350 million in 1974 and 1975.

2. Export operations.—Stores and nonstores items are shipped to overseas customers. Receipts to the fund covering packing, transportation costs, and other reimbursable services are expected to decrease from $21.3 million in 1973 to $21.2 million in 1974 and increase in 1975 to $25.3 million.

3. Property management, rehabilitation, and disposal.—Furniture and equipment repair services, provided through commercial sources wherever feasible and economical, are expected to increase from $0.5 million in 1973 to $0.7 million in 1974 and $0.9 million in 1975. Receipts to the fund covering redistribution costs of materials no longer required overseas are expected to increase from $1.7 million in 1973 to $2 million in 1974 and $2.7 million in 1975.

4. Motor pools.—Services are provided to agencies through a system of interagency motor pools. Sales are estimated to increase from $77.6 million in 1973 to $84.1 million in 1974 and $101.6 million in 1975.

5. Administrative equipment.—Administrative equipment is purchased and charged on an accrual basis to the using activities. Receipts are estimated to increase from $2 million in 1973 to $2.2 million in 1974 and $2.7 million in 1975.

Other revenue and expense.—Gain or losses on equipment disposals, adjustments between fiscal years, inventory writeoffs, and discounts are applied against operating costs.

Operating results and financial condition.—Investment of the U.S. Government at the end of 1975 is estimated at $425.2 million consisting of $242.7 million direct appropriations, $182.1 million donated assets, and $0.6 million capitalized surplus with $0.2 million deducted for long-term leave liability.

This appropriation provides for basic operations dealing with management of the Government's archives and records, operation of Presidential libraries, and grants for historical publications, and for review of classified records required by Executive Order 11652.

In 1975, records in the National Archives and Federal records centers will total 13.4 million cubic feet which will represent an estimated 47% of the total Federal records. Reference services will total 13.9 million.

1. Records management and centers.—The workload in the 14 regional records centers continues to increase reflecting agency demands for services. In 1975 agencies will transfer 1,300,000 cubic feet of inactive records to the regional centers. The objective for 1975 is to dispose of records in the centers totaling 1,000,000 cubic feet. This is an increase of 145,000 cubic feet over the 1973 program. Reference services will be 12.7 million.

In 1973 the existence and operation of Federal records centers accounted for a Government-wide cost avoidance of $24 million, representing the value of space and equipment released by the transfer of records to centers and the more economic storage of agencies' records received in previous years.

The records management activity helps agencies control their paperwork, which for the entire Federal Government increases by approximately a half billion pages annually. In 1973, GSA's direct assistance to agencies produced a net first year savings of $20 million including over 490 thousand man-days saved or released for other work. In an effort to provide for further reductions in paperwork volume and related costs, a Government-wide clearance program has been established to review and recommend elimination of unnecessary interagency reporting requirements. Another objective with Government-wide impact is the study, scheduled for completion in 1974, aimed at controlling the spiraling costs of office copying machines in the Federal Government.

2. Archives and related services.—Almost half of the workload of the National Archives subactivity is determined by the volume of reference requests received from Government agencies and the public. In 1975, additional funds are requested to (1) meet increased requests for reference services, (2) continue a program begun in 1973 of identifying, preserving, and servicing machine-readable records having permanent value, and (3) provide additional map storage.

3. National Historical Publications Commission.—This activity provides for carrying out the national historical documents program, established by the Act of July 28, 1964, as amended, for grants to State and local agencies and to nonprofit organizations and for allocations to Federal agencies for the purpose of collecting, reproducing, and publishing source materials significant to the history of the United States.

4. Records declassification.—Under this program, begun in 1973, GSA is required by Executive Order 11652 to review for declassification all classified material as it becomes 30 years old. The workload is substantial—210 million pages require review by the end of 1976. Production for 1973 was 30 million pages and is estimated to be 46 million for 1974. A substantial increase in the rate of review—to 67 million pages—is required during the next 2 fiscal years to comply with the Executive order.

This appropriation provides for the direction and coordination of a comprehensive Government-wide program for the management, procurement, and utilization of automatic data processing and communications equipment and services, and the overall management of operations designed to provide specialized services to civilian agencies in each of these fields.

1. Automated data management services.—The overall management, control, and coordination of Government-wide programs and activities relating to the procurement, operation, maintenance, and utilization of ADP equipment and services are provided. The program for 1975 provides for the management of the Federal data processing program financed through the ADP fund whose sales volume will increase from $25.2 million in 1973 to $34.0 million in 1974 to an estimated $40.4 million in 1975.

2. Telecommunications services.—This activity provides for the overall management, control, and coordination of Government-wide programs and activities relating to the procurement, operation, maintenance, and utilization of telecommunications equipment and services. In addition, networks and facilities are designed and engineered for a Federal communications system for general and national emergency use. The program for 1975 provides for the management of the Federal telecommunications system financed through the Federal telecommunications fund whose sales volume will increase from $217 million in 1973 to $251 million in 1974 and to $275 million in 1975.

3. Agency assistance, planning, and policy.—Resources are devoted to the development and coordination of operational policies, procedures, regulations, and publications governing the management of Government-wide ADP and telecommunications activities. Studies are made to determine the economic impact of ADP and telecommunications programs under development. Programs of long-range research are coordinated for equipment and facilities in the fields of ADP and telecommunications; and the Government-wide ADP and telecommunications standardization programs are implemented. This activity also involves regulatory representation consisting of negotiations with the communications industry concerning consumer considerations of the Government and participation in regulatory proceedings on communications cases.

This fund finances, on a reimbursable basis, a telecommunications system for the Federal Government which is operationally compatible with the national communications system. The advanced record system, primarily teletype data operations, is now being re-designed to enlarge its capacity to meet projected increases in traffic. Research in the fields of communications and automatic data processing is a continuing requirement to maintain and improve the Government-wide telecommunications system.

Expenses payable from the fund include personal services, procurement by lease or purchase of equipment and operating facilities (including cryptographic devices), and other costs necessary to operate the system. These expenses are reimbursed from available appropriations and funds of any agency or organization for telecommunications services and facilities made available to them.

Initial capital of $9 million, appropriated in 1963, may be increased by donations of supplies and equipment.

Budget program.—The estimate provides for a continued increase in volume and quality of communications services provided to executive agencies of the Government. Total sales for 1973 were $217.7 million and are estimated at $250.8 million in 1974 and $274.7 million in 1975.

1. Voice program.—Provides for a telephonic system which will enable personnel in each Federal agency office to communicate directly on a machine-to-machine or station-to-station basis with any other agency office in the Nation. The system will provide day-to-day service as well as incorporate features which would be necessary in emergency situations. The program for 1975 contemplates a sales level of $239.1 million, an increase of $25.7 million over 1974, and an anticipated traffic volume of 143 million intercity calls being handled by the Federal telecommunications system.

2. Record program.—Provides common unified records communications system to satisfy record communications requirements of all Federal civil agencies by providing machine-to-machine service for transmission of information by data, teletypewriter, facsimile, and other transmission media while at the same time providing message processing capability required for peak-period traffic loads, time zone differences, machine code and language translation, and processing of multiple address messages. The records program shows a net decrease of $2.1 million in 1975 over 1974. There was a one-time outlay in 1974 of $3.5 million for development of the Social Security Administration data acquisition and recovery system, offset by a projected sales increase of $1.4 million in 1975.

3. Circuit procurement program.—Provides for centralized procurement of circuits for civil agencies to obtain the benefits of multiple tariff offerings of commercial carriers, while at the same time permitting each agency to maintain operational control over its own circuits. Sales are projected at $8.5 million in 1974 and 1975.

4. Special programs.—Provides for an effective communications security program for civil agencies in keeping with objectives of the U.S. communications security plan, and for a consolidated program of procurement and maintenance of equipment to implement such security plans. These programs insure that the Federal telecommunications system will remain operational in the event any portion of the normal system is disabled or destroyed.

Operating results and financial condition.—At the end of 1975, the net investment in the fund is estimated to be $8.7 million, composed of $9 million appropriated, $0.2 million donated assets capitalized, less $0.5 million unfunded leave liability. Following the close of each fiscal year any surplus earnings, after making provision for any prior year losses, are deposited in miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury.

The Automatic data processing fund was authorized by Public Law 89-306, to coordinate and provide for the economic and efficient purchase, lease and maintenance of automatic data processing equipment by Federal agencies.

The fund finances on a reimbursable basis a Government-wide automatic data processing operation, including the procurement by lease, purchase, transfer, or otherwise of ADP equipment, maintenance of equipment, procurement and/or development of software programs with Government-wide application, and operation of service centers and related functions.

Budget program.—The estimate provides for a continued increase in revenue during 1974 and 1975. Sales are estimated to increase from $32,951 thousand in 1973 to $40,414 thousand in 1974 to $52,780 thousand in 1975.

1. Data processing.—Finances the operation of a Federal data processing program which provides ADP services on a Government-wide basis. These ADP services consist of local computer processing; remote computer processing where a single computer serves multiple users simultaneously at various locations through communications links; programmer/analyst; computer performance evaluation and simulation; data conversion, incidental EAM and data control support; equipment operators for use at a GSA site or a user home site; general purpose software; and maintenance support for Government-owned ADP equipment and software. This program also provides for financing of joint use ADP facilities operated by two or more agencies under GSA policy guidance.

It is estimated that revenue from Federal data processing programs and other related operations will increase from $25,180 thousand in 1973 to $33,965 thousand in 1974 and to $40,417 thousand in 1975.

2. Lease program.—This program finances the purchase and multiyear lease of ADP equipment and software from manufacturers for subsequent lease to Federal agencies at costs substantially below commercial annual lease prices. Purchases are made by the fund when special discounts with time limitations and other arrangements become available and agencies are unable to take advantage of these cost reduction opportunities due to budget cycle limitations. In addition to purchases, this program acquires excess Government-owned ADP equipment, where there is a known user or the equipment has a high potential for reutilization, capitalizes it at fair market value and leases it to Federal agencies at a cost substantially below all other least cost alternatives available to the using agency.

It is estimated that revenue from the lease program will increase from $7,771 thousand in 1973 to $12,363 thousand in 1975.

Guarantees are given on loans made by public or private financing institutions, including Federal Reserve banks, to facilitate performance of defense production contracts. Upon demand of lending institutions, the Government is required to purchase the guaranteed percentage of the loan or the Government may elect to make a voluntary purchase of the guaranteed percentage. Advances from appropriations available for procurement may be made to this fund for its temporary use, although such action has not been necessary to date. Net earnings are retained to meet possible future loan defaults.

The Government's maximum contingent liability as guarantor on one loan now in effect is estimated to be $4.9 million at the end of 1975. Retained earnings are estimated to be $0.2 million at the end of 1975.

The Government-owned William Langer Jewel Bearing Plant at Rolla, N. Dak., is the only facility in the United States which has the capability to produce all types of jewel bearings in quantity. The plant was established by the Department of Defense in 1953 and turned over to GSA in 1957 and is part of the national mobilization base. Its continued operation as a domestic source of jewel bearings is in the interest of the United States.

The plant produces jewel bearings for sale at fixed prices to Government agencies, and their contractors and subcontractors for national defense purposes, and to GSA for the national stockpile. Mandatory source provisions are contained in the Government Procurement Regulations which support this operation.

This management fund provides financing of administrative operations services on a centralized and integrated basis for all General Services Administration programs.

1. Administration.—Consists of accounting and reporting, credit, insurance, and related financial services, budget, personnel administration, management systems and office services, investigations, and systems development and design. Overall management of GSA's centralized field duplicating services is provided under this head; however, financing of these duplicating services is reflected in the Working capital fund. In 1975 the audit activity is to be funded under the appropriation for General management and agency operations, salaries and expenses.

2. Legal services.—Covers the fields of real property, personal property, archives and records, transportation and communications, strategic and critical materials stockpiling, and finance and administration.

3. Board of Contract Appeals.—Provides a forum for a fast and economic resolution of disputes between a contractor and GSA over provisions or performance of a contract. In 1973 and 1974 this activity was financed through the Construction Services Fund which will not exist in 1975.

4. Federal Information Centers.—In conjunction with the Civil Service Commission, GSA operates 37 centers across the country to assist people who need a service provided by the Federal Government but do not know which agency or office provides it. In 1973 and 1974 Federal agency reimbursements for this activity were included in the Buildings management fund which will terminate June 30, 1974.

5. Civil rights.—In 1975 this activity is to be funded under the appropriation for General management and agency operations, salaries and expenses.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration was established October 1, 1958, pursuant to Public Law 85-568 (72 Stat. 426; 42 U.S.C. 2451); approved July 29, 1958, for the conduct of the nonmilitary space programs of the United States, including the exploration of space and its utilization for peaceful purposes, and to conduct and support advanced research and development related to space and aeronautics in support of both civil and military requirements. The appropriation provides for research and development activities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as follows:

1. Manned space flight.—These estimates provide for all manned space flight activities conducted by the United States. The activities include the Skylab orbital workshop program in which the final manned mission was launched in November 1973; the Apollo Soyuz Test Project in which an Apollo spacecraft will rendezvous and dock with a Soviet spacecraft in 1975; the space shuttle program providing for design and development of a reusable manned earth-to-orbit shuttle vehicle; U.S. participation in the cooperative program for the European funded development of a spacelab to be carried in the shuttle payload bay; studies, component development, and integration of future orbital payloads; life sciences research and technology; and studies and research on future manned missions.

(a) Space shuttle.—The space shuttle is the key element in a new reusable space transportation system being developed for the 1980's to provide routine access to space. The shuttle will be used to place a wide variety of payloads into low earth orbit, to service them and to retrieve them for refurbishment and reuse. Payloads will include automated satellites; spacelabs to be used to conduct scientific and application missions from the shuttle while it is in earth orbit; and propulsive stages capable of placing satellites into higher orbits or into trajectories for planetary exploration. The shuttle will enhance the operational capabilities of experimentation and will result in major savings in operations and payload development due to the reduced requirements for payload design and reliability stemming from the capability of repairing payloads in orbit or of returning them to earth. The space shuttle will consist of a fully reusable orbiter vehicle, an expendable external propellant tank and twin solid rocket boosters which can be retrieved and reused. The orbiter, which will carry a basic flightcrew of three and an additional four crewmembers or passengers, is comparable in size and weight to a small commercial transport such as the DC-9. The payload bay, which can accommodate up to 29,000 kilograms (65,000 lbs.) of weight, is approximately 18 meters (60 feet) long and has a diameter of 4.5 meters (15 feet). It will take off vertically, with both the orbiter main engines and twin rocket boosters firing simultaneously to propel the orbiter into earth orbit. Upon completion of its mission the orbiter will reenter the atmosphere and land like an airplane. The 1975 activity will include design, development, and testing of major components of shuttle system hardware and software.

(b) Space flight operations.—This activity includes the Skylab program, the Apollo Soyuz Test Project, work on future manned orbital systems and payloads, space life sciences, and the basic operations and engineering activities required to support the manned space flight efforts at manned space flight centers. Skylab represented a major progression into manned long-duration, earth orbital missions directed toward accomplishing life sciences, astronomy, earth resources, materials processing, and technology objectives. Flight operations were completed with the third and last manned mission launched on November 16, 1973. The scientific focus of Skylab has been directed toward study of the application of space in surveying and monitoring the resources and environmental interactions of the earth; an extensive study of the sun, especially in those wavelength regions not readily visible from the ground; and biomedical study of the effects of long-duration flight on man as individual astronauts remained in orbit for periods in excess of 2 months.

The Apollo Soyuz Test Project is a joint U.S.-U.S.S.R. effort to develop and test systems for rendezvous and docking of manned spacecraft. This effort could provide the basis for future international programs in space. The test mission, planned for mid-1975, will be a joint flight experiment to rendezvous and dock a manned Apollo spacecraft with an orbiting manned Soyuz spacecraft. The mission will include testing of a compatible rendezvous system; testing of docking assemblies; verification of techniques for transfer of astronauts and cosmonauts; and the performance of experiments.

The mission systems and integration efforts will continue the definition of design and interface criteria and specification requirements for payloads to insure compatibility with shuttle systems, in the development of approaches for payload handling and operations, and the update of mission planning. To accommodate these payloads on shuttle sortie missions, the United States and nine-member nations of the European Space Research Organization (ESRO) on September 24, 1973, established a cooperative program for the European funded development of a payload carrier called Spacelab. Study efforts will be completed by spring of 1974 and a prime European contractor will be selected near the middle of the year, followed by initiation of design and development. Parallel NASA activities will involve simulations and tests of experiments, subsystems, and external interfaces in support of Spacelab. In addition, NASA and DOD will study requirements for a shuttle initial upper stage to deliver payloads to higher energy orbits not achievable by the shuttle alone, and to further define requirements for a space tug. New and advanced programs will be supported by advanced development tasks which provide for the selection and development of new technology hardware and techniques. Studies will also be conducted to define common use, low-cost equipment for delivery, checkout, capture, service, and/or retrieval of science and applications payloads in lieu of developing specific equipment for each payload or class of payloads.

Space life sciences is a multidisciplinary research and technology program pursued in ground-based laboratories and flight experimentation. Activity will be concentrated on understanding man's physical reaction to space stresses resulting in a better definition of his support needs and his capabilities as a participant in future space missions. Life sciences also provides for the use of the space environment to experimentally develop a better understanding of life processes here on earth.

(c) Advanced manned mission studies.—This program examines advanced manned space flight program concepts and develops technical information and other data upon which future program decisions can be based.

(d) Apollo.—The Apollo lunar missions were completed with the Apollo 17 mission in December 1972. Efforts continue in the scientific analysis of the lunar samples returned by the Apollo crews and of the data received from the experiments left operating on the moon.

2. Scientific investigations in space.—This program utilizes a variety of flight systems and ground-based observations to increase man's knowledge of the universe. The earth, sun, moon, interplanetary space, solar system, other stars and galaxies, and the interaction among these bodies and systems are all objects of these investigations.

(a) Physics and astronomy.—Coordinated research, with national and international participation, is directed toward an increase in our knowledge of the space environment, of the earth and the sun, and the relationship of these bodies to each other and to interplanetary space, other stars, galaxies, and nebulae. Laboratory and theoretical research, ground-based observations, aircraft, balloons, sounding rockets, and explorer and observatory spacecraft all contribute to this quest for knowledge. The stellar astronomy program will continue with the operational OAO-3 (Copernicus) carrying out investigations of the interstellar medium and of celestial X-ray sources. Work will continue on the international ultraviolet explorer (IUE), a cooperative project with the United Kingdom and the European Space Research Organization (ESRO), to be launched in 1976. This spacecraft will carry an advanced ultraviolet spectrometer which will enable it to look further into space and to obtain spectra substantially faster than OAO-3. A major advance in stellar astronomy will come about as a result of being able to use the space shuttle to deploy a large space telescope (LST). The LST will be able to observe galaxies at distances ten times those available to the famous 200-inch telescope at Hale Observatory on Mt. Palomar. Definition work on the LST has been initiated. High energy astrophysics will be pursued with three High Energy Astronomy Observatories (HEAO), which will permit the observation of previously inaccessible sources of celestial X-rays, gamma rays, and cosmic rays. These observations, to begin in 1977, should make a major impact on our understanding of the newly discovered energy processes and the creation and annihilation of matter. Studies of solar/terrestrial relationships will continue with the operational OSO-7, with the analysis of the wealth of data collected by the solar instruments on Skylab (ATM), and with the launch in 1975 of OSO-I. The OSO-I spacecraft will possess a significant increase in capability over previous OSO's and is dedicated to the study of the quiescent sun. Three Atmosphere Explorer (AE) missions, one launched in 1973 and two scheduled for 1975, will undertake the first systematic investigation of the thermosphere at altitudes between 140 and 250 kilometers (85 to 150 miles), the region in which the solar ultraviolet energy is absorbed and the chemical reactions take place. Investigations of the energy transfer from the solar wind into the magnetosphere will be carried out with the International Magnetospheric Explorer (IME) program, a cooperative venture with ESRO, with three spacecraft to be launched in 1977 and 1978. Definition of physics and astronomy payloads will continue in preparation for the advent of the space shuttle which will permit new construction methods and operating procedures aimed at lowering the cost of space investigations.

(b) Lunar and planetary exploration.—This program concentrates on exploration of the moon, the planets, and their satellites, and other bodies in the solar system, such as asteroids and comets, using both ground-based research and observations from automated spacecraft.

The lunar program includes continued scientific analysis of the lunar material returned to earth by the Apollo crews; operation of the five Apollo lunar surface experiment packages functioning on the lunar surface; analysis of the telemetered data; and synthesis of all lunar data into a better understanding of the origin, history and present environment of the moon.

The planetary program encompasses effort leading toward observations of a major portion of the solar system including Mercury, the region near the Sun, the Asteroid Belt, Jupiter, Saturn, and the interplanetary regions, while continuing to expand knowledge of our closest neighbors, Venus and Mars. Mariner 10, launched in November of 1973, will encounter both Venus and Mercury in early 1974, providing the first in situ observations and measurements of Mercury and taking the first closeup pictures of cloud-shrouded Venus. The Pioneer 10 spacecraft reached the vicinity of Jupiter in December 1973, another space "first"; a second mission, Pioneer 11, was launched in April 1973. These Jupiter missions are also providing the first observations and measurements of the interplanetary medium beyond Mars, including the Asteroid Belt. Work is continuing on the U.S. experiments to be launched on the West German Helios spacecraft. One Helios spacecraft will be launched by the United States in late 1974 and one in early 1976 to investigate and observe the interplanetary medium over two-thirds of the way from the earth to the sun. Work will near completion on two Viking spacecraft to be launched to Mars in July/August 1975. Each spacecraft will include both an orbiter and lander, thus providing the capability for measurements from Mars orbit in addition to direct measurements in the atmosphere and on the surface of Mars. Effort will continue on missions to Jupiter and Saturn using Mariner-class spacecraft to be launched in 1977. A new project, Pioneer Venus, will begin the development of atmospheric probes to make a detailed investigation of Venus's atmosphere which scientists believe will provide valuable information applicable to earth meteorology. This project will include both a multiple probe and an orbiter mission, both launched in 1978, to determine atmospheric characteristics on a global scale as well as from cloud tops down to the surface.

(c) Launch vehicle development and support.—This program includes launch vehicle activities such as launch operations, and engineering and maintenance necessary to sustain launch activities. It also includes support for specific reliability and producibility improvements to existing vehicles.

3. Space applications.—This program includes efforts in the application of space technology to the areas of weather and climate, earth resources survey, pollution monitoring, earth and ocean physics, and communications. Viewed together, these efforts provide for a ground-based research and technology program, as well as a flight program.

The major earth resources program activities include continued mission operations for the Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS-1), completion of development and launch of ERTS-B, a supporting program of airborne surveys using sensors similar to those on the satellites, and continued analysis of data obtained by earth resources instruments flown on Skylab. Effort will be undertaken on an applications explorer heat capacity mapping mission to locate and map geothermal sources. In weather-oriented activities, the experimental Nimbus program will continue with the launch of Nimbus-F as a follow-on to the Nimbus-5 meteorological sensor development mission. The Synchronous Meteorological Satellites (SMS) A and B will be launched in 1974 to culminate the developmental work for an operational geostationary weather satellite system providing continuous day and night imagery coverage of short-term weather phenomena. Development will continue on a prototype for the third generation of operational weather satellites. Support will be provided to the Global Atmospheric Research Program Atlantic Tropical Experiment and work will continue on development of synchronous altitude sounding sensors. In pollution monitoring, work will begin in 1974 on the Nimbus-G mission to provide for flight experiments with advanced sensors for air pollution measurements. Nimbus-G advanced sensors will also contribute to ocean dynamics monitoring in earth and ocean physics.

In earth and ocean physics program, work will proceed toward the launch of the GEOS-C mission in 1974 with the objective of demonstrating the feasibility of satellite altimeters for measuring the topography of the ocean's surface. Ocean dynamics forecasting will be further pursued, with the initiation of development of the SEASAT-A satellite. Activities directed toward geodesy and a potential future earthquake prediction capability will include ground-based experiments such as measurements of tectonic plate motion and work on LAGEOS, a high density, laser reflector satellite. In communications activities, the Applications Technology Satellite (ATS-F) will be launched to begin the conduct of user communications experiments for State and Federal agencies and foreign countries such as India. Work also will continue on the Cooperative Applications Satellite (CAS-C), a joint project with the Canadians, which has the objective of developing communications technology in the recently allocated higher frequency band (12 GHz) and several other advanced spacecraft design features. Advanced communications research will continue with emphasis on satisfaction of long-range technology needs and the investigation of the basic problems associated with establishing the feasibility of advanced communications concepts. Efforts will be conducted to improve the definition and integration of ground and spacecraft data information and processing systems. In systems analysis, an area that supports the needs of all applications programs, additional cost-benefit, cost-effectiveness and user-need studies will be conducted.

4. Space and nuclear research and technology.—The space and nuclear program is directed toward providing a technology base for future NASA space missions. Materials and structures research is being conducted to develop highly efficient, low-cost structures for advanced spacecraft, and for propulsion and power systems. The technology is being developed for low-cost, highly reliable, high performance electronic components and systems for guidance and control, and for information gathering, processing, transmission, and reduction. High-performance, long-duration chemical and electric propulsion system technology is being developed. Research is being conducted to develop aerothermodynamic and heat protection technology to improve spacecraft design for earth orbital and planetary missions. The technology is being developed for low-cost, highly reliable, long-life nuclear and nonnuclear power systems for spacecraft. Work will continue on applications of technology to civil energy needs. Efforts to standardize spacecraft components and equipment to decrease mission cost will be continued. Planned activities include a program to define advanced technology experiments and integrate them into payloads to best exploit the opportunity offered by the shuttle and spacelab system.

5. Aeronautical research and technology.—The aeronautics program is directed to improving the performance and reducing the energy requirements and undesirable environmental effects of civil and military aircraft. The fundamental research effort in aerodynamics, propulsion, structures and materials, avionics, and man-vehicle interactions, will be continued. In civil aviation, the program addresses research and technology issues that can contribute to reducing the petroleum energy requirements and/or changing to fuels other than those based on petroleum. A coordinated technology program with other government agencies is being conducted to reduce airport terminal area congestion, noise, fuel consumption, and pollution, and to increase operating safety in the airport environment through the development of improved propulsion systems, avionics, guidance and control systems, and operating procedures. Work is in progress on clean, quiet, efficient propulsion applicable to short take-off and landing (STOL) and conventional take-off and landing (CTOL) aircraft including propulsion systems technology which could be applied to current narrow-body civil jet transports. Technology is being developed to provide superior short-haul, high-density STOL and VTOL (vertical take-off and landing) service in the future. Research and technology activities include continued effort on the application of advanced materials and composites to aircraft, and on the development of a technology base for future supersonic cruise aircraft.

Development of advanced technology suitable for future military aircraft remains a key objective. Planned new activities include development of active controls technology, demonstration of the use of advanced materials in primary aircraft structures and advanced turbine engines, demonstration of highly maneuverable aircraft technology utilizing remotely piloted research vehicles, and development of low-cost avionics for general aviation.

6. Supporting activities.—The programs grouped in this activity provide general support for the attainment of NASA mission objectives.

(a) Tracking and data acquisition.—Operation and equipment of the stations of the NASA tracking and data acquisition networks are provided for here, as well as research and development to increase the capability of the specialized ground equipment.

(b) Sustaining university program.—This program included grants for graduate studies in interdisciplinary space-related fields. Costs incurred reflect use of funds previously appropriated.

(c) Technology utilization.—The objective of this program is to accelerate the transfer into the economy of new advances in technology generated by NASA and NASA contractors.

90 Outlays.....	6,544,234	6,490,702	6,720,200

This appropriation provides for the payment of compensation, pension and related benefits to veterans and their dependents. Of an estimated 29.2 million living veterans in 1975, it is estimated that 3.2 million, or 11.0% will receive benefits under this program. Additionally, an estimated 2.4 million dependents of deceased veterans will receive benefits.

Enactment of Public Law 93-177, effective January 1, 1974, which increased pension rates approximately 10%, and Public Law 93-43, providing higher burial benefits, will require a supplemental of $137.8 million in 1974. Pension reform legislation will be proposed in 1975 at an estimated cost of $250 million. The cost of these benefits, including the proposed legislation, is estimated to be $6,881.2 million, an overall increase of $230.6 million in 1975.

1. Compensation.—Compensation is a monetary benefit payable to a veteran or his dependents because of the veteran's service-connected disability or death. Death compensation or dependency and indemnity compensation is payable to the widow and dependents of veterans whose deaths are related to service-connected disabilities.

A slight decrease is expected in the veteran caseload for 1975 to 2,197,120 cases. This reflects increases in the Vietnam era category, which are estimated to result from a standing Armed Force level of 2.1 million, offset by decreases in the World War II and earlier groups. Survivor caseload is expected to remain relatively stable through 1975.

The average payment for veterans is expected to continue to increase but at a slower pace than experienced in 1974. Survivor payments will also increase as a result of the DIC rate increase authorized by Public Law 93-177.

2. Pensions.—Benefits are payable to wartime veterans and dependents of deceased veterans for non-service-connected disability and death. Veterans may qualify for monthly pensions on the basis of financial need and total disability. Widows and surviving children may also qualify if their income is below levels specified by law.

A decrease in the veterans caseload is expected for 1975 to 1,029,560 cases. This decrease results from the recent rate increases for social security. Since pension payments are based on income from other sources, some potential recipients no longer qualify for Veterans Administration pensions and others are entitled to lower payments. A continued decrease in the World War I caseload is also expected because of the death rate for these recipients.

The recent social security rate increases have also affected the survivors caseload, slowing the increase to 1,310,254 cases in 1975. World War II survivors continue to have the greatest influence on changes in the survivor caseload.

The average payment for veterans and survivors is expected to increase in 1975 as the result of the Public Law 93-177 rate increases and proposed pension reform legislation. This legislation is designed to better relate pensions to need, to recognize recurring changes in the cost of living, and to establish greater equity among beneficiaries.

3. Burial benefits.—Public Law 93-43, approved June 18, 1973, and known as the "National Cemeteries Act of 1973," authorized the payment of a burial allowance up to $800 when a veteran dies as the result of a service-connected disability, the payment of a plot allowance of $150 when an eligible veteran is not buried in a national cemetery or other cemetery under the jurisdiction of the United States, and the furnishing of a headstone or marker for the grave of a veteran. The cost of the latter is to be paid from this appropriation beginning in 1975. Other burial benefits paid from this appropriation include: An allowance of $250 to help the deceased veteran's family pay burial and funeral expenses; transportation costs where death occurs under VA care; and provision of a flag for the casket.

4. All other.—These payments cover miscellaneous benefits which are not readily combined with any of the preceding categories. They include payments to: retired officers, adjusted service and dependents pay, special allowance dependents, invalid lifts and other devices, tort claim settlements, veterans mortgage life insurance, veterans clothing allowance, and death gratuities.

This appropriation finances the education, training, and rehabilitation of veterans and servicemen who served since February 1, 1955 (post-Korean conflict veterans). It also finances educational assistance allowances for eligible dependents of those veterans who died from service-connected causes or have a total and permanent rated service-connected disability, and servicemen who were captured or missing in action.

1. Education and training.—The number of veterans and servicemen in training is expected to decline for the first time under the current GI bill to 1,996,000 in 1975. This decline may be ascribed to a continuing decrease in the yearly Armed Forces discharge rate (from a peak of 1,012,000 in 1970 to only 434,000 in 1975) and also to the statutory delimiting date of May 31, 1974, for those veterans discharged prior to the effective date of the current GI bill (June 1, 1966). A proposed supplemental of $750 million is being requested in 1974 to cover the unbudgeted increase in the number of post-Korean conflict veterans entering training.

To help trainees meet rising costs of living, legislation is proposed to provide an 8% increase in VA GI bill benefits.

The number of sons and daughters receiving educational assistance is expected to continue to increase through 1975 to a level of 63,500. Similarly, the number of wives and widows should climb to 12,500 by 1975.

The following table provides a comparison of trainees and costs for the three types of trainees mentioned above.

2. Special assistance to disabled veterans.—Disabled veterans requiring vocational rehabilitation receive assistance to cover the costs of subsistence, tuition, books, supplies, and equipment. The substantial increase in average cost from 1973 to 1974 is due to the inclusion for the first time of subsistence allowance under the Readjustment benefits appropriation instead of the Compensation and pension appropriation. The number of trainees will continue to decline to 28,000 by 1975.

Specially adapted housing grants are provided to certain severely disabled veterans. The number is expected to remain static in 1974 and 1975.

An allowance is provided to disabled veterans and certain persons on active duty toward the purchase price of new automobiles, adaptive equipment, and the maintenance and replacement of such equipment.

The following table shows a caseload and cost comparison for these beneficiaries.

The Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation is made up of the former appropriations for Military and naval insurance, applicable to World War I veterans, the National service life insurance, applicable to certain World War II veterans and the Servicemen's indemnities, applicable to Korean conflict veterans. The appropriation also provides supplemental funds for the Service-disabled veterans insurance fund and the Soldiers' and sailors' civil relief fund. Financing is mainly by congressional appropriation, transfers from the surplus funds of the Veterans special life insurance fund and by a small amount of premiums. Premium receipts are appropriated under 38 U.S.C. 719(b).

1. Military and naval insurance.—Payments are made to the U.S. Government life insurance fund as a reimbursement for claims traceable to extra hazards of military service. Payments are made also to policyholders and beneficiaries for claims on war-risk insurance issued to servicemen and veterans of World War I.

2. National service life insurance.—Payments are made to the National service life insurance fund as a reimbursement for costs of the following: (a) disability and death claims traceable to the extra hazards of service; (b) gratuitous insurance granted to certain persons who are unable to make application for National service life insurance; and (c) death claims on policies under waiver of premiums while the insured was on active duty.

Payments are made also to policyholders and beneficiaries on nonparticipating National service life insurance policies issued to World War II veterans with service-connected disabilities and on worthy exceptional cases that would not have been covered under the law in effect at the time of death.

The general decline in the policies in force is indicated in the following table:

3. Payment to service-disabled veterans insurance.—Payments are made to the Service-disabled veterans insurance fund to supplement the premium and other receipts of the fund in amounts necessary to pay claims on insurance policies issued to veterans with service-connected disabilities.

Financing.—It is planned to transfer $6 million in 1974 and $6 million in 1975 of the surplus retained earnings from the Veterans special life insurance fund to this account. These transfers eliminate the need for appropriated funds in 1975.

The mission of the medical system of the Veterans Administration is to provide the highest quality of health care to all eligible veterans. In fulfilling that mission, the Veterans Administration operates the country's largest civilian hospital system. Between 1973 and 1975, the system will expand from 169 to 170 hospitals, from 82 to 87 nursing homes, and from 206 to 218 outpatient clinics. Employment will rise by 9,098 permanent positions to 151,775. In 1975, it is anticipated that the VA will provide for treatment of 1,188,920 inpatients in VA and non-VA facilities, an increase of 106,444 over 1973. In the outpatient program it is estimated that there will be 11,907,000 staff and 1,892,000 fee visits in 1975, an increase over 1973 of 2,742,000 and 199,000 respectively.

To help maintain its standards of medical excellence, the VA trains medical students, physicians, and all other categories of health manpower, and conducts an extensive program of medical research (largely financed by the Medical and prosthetic research appropriation). The Medical School Assistance and Health Manpower Training Act authorizes assistance to new State medical schools which will be affiliated with VA hospitals and improvement of medical training at selected VA hospitals and schools already affiliated with VA.

The Veterans Health Care Expansion Act of 1973 increased the flexibility of the VA medical care system by permitting the expanded use of outpatient care programs, direct admission of certain veterans into nursing home care, and provision of care in the private sector of certain dependents and survivors of veterans. Increasing emphasis will be placed on a therapeutic approach which minimizes institutional confinement of veterans and relies upon community living arrangements such as home based care and foster home care.

Specific increases in 1975 cover (a) activation expenses for the hospitals at San Antonio, Tex.; Columbia, Mo.; White River Junction, Vt.; San Francisco, Calif.; and Tampa, Fla.; (b) increased staffing including hospital protective service staff; (c) upgrading of ongoing specialized medical services and initiation of additional specialized medical services; (d) increased outpatient workloads; (e) more beneficiaries treated in non-VA and VA nursing care facilities; (f) expansion of the education and training program including use of medical education centers; (g) increased usage of drugs, utilities, communications, prosthetics, medical and dental supplies, operating supplies and space rental; (h) wage and salary increases and other payroll adjustments; (i) increased cost of operation and maintenance of additional facilities and space; (j) new programs in dentistry, psychiatry and expansion of health care delivery in such areas as emergency care, hypertension screening and treatment and sickle cell screening; and (k) the continued impact of Public Law 93-82 described in the preceding paragraph.

A supplemental appropriation in the amount of $39,535 thousand for 1974 is anticipated principally to provide for nurses premium pay and rising food costs.

This appropriation provides for the administration of nonmedical veterans benefits through the Department of Veterans Benefits; operation and maintenance of 103 national cemeteries by the National Cemetery System; data processing operations and communications systems through the Department of Data Management; and top management direction and support through agency-level staff offices.

Amounts requested for 1975 total $44.0 million above the 1974 estimate. These additional funds are primarily required to support a real property space rental payment to GSA; a further expansion of the outreach effort to encourage and assist Vietnam era veterans in choosing their vocational or educational objectives; the effect of an extra paid day, and increases in communications and program support costs.

These projections are consistent with agency program objectives of improving veteran services through field realignments; increasing the participation of minority veterans in the home loan program from 13% to better than 18%; increasing the participation of disabled and economically disadvantaged veterans in training and educational programs; and planning the development of a regional cemetery system.

1. General administration.—This activity contains the executive direction of the agency and several top level supporting offices. In addition, it covers the Board of Veterans Appeals which decides all cases of appeals to the Administrator on claims involving benefits under veterans legislation.

2. Data management.—This activity provides management, technical support and assistance in computer operations and system development.

3. Veterans benefits.—This activity determines eligibility and adjudicates all claims for compensation, pensions, educational assistance, housing loan assistance, and insurance awards. Program objectives and anticipated workload are summarized as follows:

(c) Veterans assistance.—In 1975 programs for encouraging and assisting Vietnam era veterans will be expanded by adding 247 veterans assistance counselors. This increase will facilitate significant progress toward the major program objectives of employment and vocational rehabilitation counseling; increasing participation of economically disadvantaged veterans in training and education programs; and intensifying the coordination of outreach efforts among Federal, State, and local governments, and other interested organizations. The major workloads are anticipated as follows (in thousands):

	1972 actual	1973 actual	1974 estimate	1975 estimate
Interviews.....	3,050	3,082	3,200	3,500
Telephone actions.....	11,456	13,324	16,920	20,425

(d) Compensation, pension, and education.—The activity of this program is expected to remain high through the budget year. A decrease in estimated training loads is partially offset by rising claim workloads as reflected in the following table (in thousands):

	1972 actual	1973 actual	1974 estimate	1975 estimate
New claims.....	501	447	468	527

Dependency and income claims.....	1,264	1,449	1,455	1,485
Number of trainees.....	1,961	2,223	2,552	2,100

(e) Loan guaranty.—Loan guaranty operations include issuance of certificates of loan guaranty or insurance, servicing and payment of loans reported in default, management of property when necessary to protect the Government's interest, direct loans to veterans in certain areas, and assistance to specified paraplegic veterans in acquiring specially adapted housing. Key workload forecasts are as follows (in thousands):

Guaranteed or insured loans closed.....	344	365	350	350
Loans serviced.....	411	396	381	363
VA property managed.....	15	15	15	15

(f) Insurance.—Life insurance programs administered by VA will have $36 billion of insurance in force during 1975. Servicing workload forecasts are as follows (in thousands):

	1972 actual	1973 actual	1974 estimate	1975 estimate
Insurance death claims awards.....	60	62	64	67
Insurance policy loans made.....	75	86	87	90

4. National cemetery system.—Effective September 1, 1973, the Veterans Administration became responsible for administering the National Cemetery System. Cemetery operations include overall program administration, maintenance of grounds and equipment, and headstone procurement and assignment. Key workload forecasts are as follows (in thousands):

The Housing Act of 1964, as amended by the Participation Sales Act of 1966, authorized the pooling of mortgages or other types of obligations of certain Government departments or agencies and the sale by the Federal National Mortgage Association (now the Government National Mortgage Association), as trustee, of beneficial interests, or participations, in such pools. The Participation Sales Act of 1966 provided that the aggregate amount of participations issued for the account of any trustor may not exceed the amount authorized for that trustor in an appropriation act.

The Participation Sales Act of 1966 also authorized the establishment of appropriations to cover payment for insufficiencies in the amount required to be paid by trustors on account of outstanding participations. These insufficiencies are primarily comprised of the excess of interest payments to holders of participation certificates over the interest payments received from the pooled mortgages or other obligations. For sales authorized in 1968, the respective appropriation acts, 1968 through 1974, established annual, definite appropriations for the payment of insufficiencies on account of sales authorized in that act. An appropriation of $1.8 million is proposed for 1975.

The definite insufficiency appropriation is reflected in the Direct loan revolving fund and Loan guaranty revolving fund.

To assist eligible veterans to obtain credit for the purchase or construction of homes, the Veterans Administration guarantees loans made by private lenders. The total number of guaranteed or insured loans closed is expected to be 346,300 in 1975, bringing the total amount of guaranteed loans outstanding by the end of 1975 to $55.3 billion. The Loan guaranty revolving fund provides for expenses and revenues of property and loan transactions resulting from settlement of guaranty claims.

Budget program.—1. Real property acquisitions.—Private lenders who have acquired property as a result of foreclosure on defaulted guaranteed or insured loans may elect to convey that property to the Veterans Administration. The table below reflects this activity and excludes the amount of indebtedness established against the Veteran:

2. Property improvements.—After conveyance of the property to the Veterans Administration, capital expenditures are often necessary to place the property in salable condition. The following table summarizes these expenditures:

Total cost (in thousands).....	$21,751	$25,400	$25,200

3. Claims processed.—These payments are made to lenders in accordance with the Veterans Administration guaranty contract and represent the difference between the amount owed by the veteran on a defaulted loan and the value of the foreclosed property (as established by Veterans Administration). These payments are in addition to property acquisition costs shown in 1, above. The following table reflects this activity:

Administrator may repurchase them. The following table reflects this activity:

5. Cash advances.—Vendee loans.—Cash expenditures are not involved in the establishment of vendee loans or installment contracts. However, it is often necessary to subsequently advance cash on behalf of the borrower in order to protect the interest of the Government.

6. Loans acquired.—Guaranteed or insured loans in a default status may be purchased by the Administrator to avoid foreclosure when temporary forbearance will allow the veteran borrowers to cure the default. The following table reflects this activity:

Total cost (in thousands).....	$12,712	$15,900	$15,500

9. Discount on sale of loans.—Represents the discount absorbed by Veterans Administration incident to the sale of vendee accounts. Discounts occur when the contract rate of interest does not afford a yield commensurate with market.

10. Interest expense on participation certificates.—Represents the amount of interest the trustee is required to pay holders of participation certificates in respect to which vendee accounts have been set aside pursuant to 38 U.S.C. 1820(e). To the extent this expense exceeds the amount of interest collections on an equal amount of loans pledged to the trustee, participation sales insufficiencies result.

Financing of participation sales insufficiencies is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

	1973 actual	1974 estimate	1975 estimate

Financing.—Normal revenue and receipts consist principally of interest income, cash proceeds from the sale of real property acquired as a result of foreclosure on guaranteed or insured loans, and repayment on mortgages made incident to such sales. It is estimated that $181.5 million in 1974 and $167.1 million in 1975 will be received from these sources. Also an estimated $361.0 million vendee loans will be sold in 1974 and an additional $342.0 million in 1975. In addition, budget authority of $4.4 million and $1.8 million will be required in 1974 and 1975 to meet participation sales insufficiencies.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development; Space, Science, Veterans, and certain other independent agencies Appropriation Act, 1974, provided that the unobligated balances including retained earnings of the Direct loan revolving fund shall be available for transfer to the Loan guaranty revolving fund. No transfers are expected in 1974 or 1975.

Direct loans are made to veterans mainly to purchase, construct, or improve homes. Loans also are authorized for the purchase of farms on which there are farm residences to be occupied by the veterans as their homes; or to construct, alter, repair, or improve farm dwellings to be occupied by the veterans as their homes.

Such loans are made only in rural areas, small cities, and towns where private credit for the making of guaranteed loans is and has been generally unavailable. The maximum term is 30 years and the maximum loan amount is $21 thousand except in high cost areas where such a limitation is inadequate. In such areas the Administrator is authorized to increase the maximum amount up to $25 thousand. The interest rate is the same as the rate allowable for guaranteed loans.

Budget program.—1. Direct loans to veterans.—Under existing legislation, there is no terminal date on the authority to make direct loans. The Veterans Housing Act of 1970 revived the expired unused loan entitlement of World War II and Korean conflict veterans and provided that direct lending authority and veterans eligibility would be open ended until their entitlement is used.

often necessary subsequently to advance cash on behalf of the borrower in order to protect the interest of the Government. These advances are added to unpaid loan balances. In addition, vendee loans sold with full recourse may be repurchased if they go into default.

3. Property improvements.—Properties are acquired by foreclosure on, or the voluntary conveyance of, title to properties securing loans owned by the Veterans Administration. Capital expenditures are often necessary to put the property in salable condition. The following table summarizes these expenditures:

4. Interest on borrowings.—Interest expense is accrued monthly. These accruals are computed on the interest bearing capital of the fund and adjusted for the unexpended balance of the fund.

5. Property management and selling expense.—Property management expense includes local real estate taxes, services performed by management brokers, and maintenance of the property in salable condition; sales expense includes brokers' fees and advertising costs incident to the sale of property owned by the Veterans Administration. This cost averages approximately 5% of the selling price. Operating expenses generally include a variety of miscellaneous expenses paid by the Government incident to closing and liquidating loans:

loans made to veterans. It is estimated that $148.6 million in 1974 and $135.0 million in 1975 will be received from these sources. In addition, it is estimated that $56.0 million will be realized in 1974 from the sale of direct loans, and $48.0 million in 1975.

The Veterans Canteen Service was established by Congress in 1946 to furnish at reasonable prices merchandise and services necessary to the comfort and well-being of veterans in hospitals and domiciliaries operated by the Veterans Administration (38 U.S.C. 4201-08).

Budget program.—Sales are expected to be $90,200 thousand in 1974 and it is estimated sales will be $94,500 thousand in 1975.

Financing.—No appropriation by the Congress will be required for the operation of the Veterans Canteen Service during 1975. Operations will be financed from current revenues. The Congress originally appropriated a total of $4,965 thousand to establish and operate the Service. Funds in excess of the needs of the Service totaling $12,068 thousand have been paid to the Treasury as of June 30, 1973.

Operating results and financial condition.—Operating revenue is expected to be sufficient to cover operating expenses. Retained earnings are required for necessary working capital, therefore, no funds are available for payment to the Treasury during 1975.

This fund finances the payment of claims on non-participating life insurance policies issued and currently open for new issues to veterans having service-connected disabilities. The program provides insurance coverage for service-disabled veterans at standard rates. As a result, premium payments do not cover operating and capital reserve requirements. Annual deficits are met by transfers from the Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation. Administrative expenses are paid from the General operating expenses appropriation.

Budget program.—(1) Death claims.—Represents payments to designated beneficiaries.

2. All other.—This category represents payments to policyholders who; (a) surrenders his policy for its cash value; (b) hold endowment policies which have matured; and (c) has purchased total disability income coverage and subsequently becomes disabled.

3. Policy loans made.—A policyholder may borrow up to 94% of the cash value of his policy. This activity increases with the increased number of policyholders.

The general increase in the activity of this fund is indicated in the following table (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1972 actual	June 30, 1973 actual	June 30, 1974 estimate	June 30, 1975 estimate
Number of policies.....	129,262	144,521	160,500	175,300
Insurance in force.....	$1,161,706	$1,304,053	$1,454,000	$1,594,000

Financing.—Operations are financed from premiums and other receipts. Additional funds are derived from the Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation, instead of direct appropriations to this fund. It is estimated that the payment will be $3.5 million in 1974 and $2.5 million in 1975.

Operating results and financial condition.—Since premium and other receipts are insufficient to cover operations, the fund continues to project total liabilities in excess of assets. The deficit is expected to reach an estimated $93.1 million by June 30, 1975.

This fund finances claims arising from the guarantee of premiums due on commercial life insurance policies held by servicemen while they are in service and for 2 years after discharge (72 Stat. 487). The Government guarantees the repayment of any indebtedness not liquidated by the insured himself. Administrative expenses are paid from the appropriation, General operating expenses.

Budget program.—Insurance program.—Claims paid, on application for coverage submitted and approved prior to October 6, 1942, are not reimbursable to the fund. Loans receivable are established for any payments made on applications for coverage submitted after that date, since these payments are reimbursable to the fund.

Financing.—Payment of claims against this fund has been financed from collections of loans receivable, revenue, and congressional appropriations and appropriation transfers as needed.

Operating results and financial condition.—The payment of claims has continually resulted in expenses in excess of the small revenue of the fund, thereby steadily increasing the deficit to an estimated $2 million through 1975.

This fund pays claims and administrative costs on nonparticipating life insurance policies issued during the period May 1, 1965 through May 2, 1966, under three life insurance programs: (1) service-disabled standard insurance, (2) service-disabled rated insurance, and (3) non-service-disabled insurance—established by the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940, as amended (38 U.S.C. 725(b)(c)), availing disabled World War II and Korean conflict veterans an opportunity to acquire life insurance coverage who were no longer eligible for other Government insurance because of delimiting dates.

Budget program.—1. Death claims.—Represents payments to designated beneficiaries.

2. All other.—This category represents payments to the General operating expense appropriation for the administrative costs of processing claims and maintaining the accounts, and those policyholders who; (a) surrender their policies for cash value; (b) hold endowment policies which have matured; and (c) have purchased total disability income coverage and subsequently becomes disabled.

3. Policy loans made.—A policyholder may borrow up to 94% of the cash value of his policy.

The following table reflects the decrease in the number of policies and the amount of insurance in force (dollars in thousands):

This fund finances the payment of claims on nonparticipating life insurance policies issued before January 31, 1957, to veterans who served in the Armed Forces subsequent to April 1, 1951 (38 U.S.C., sec. 723). No new policies can be issued and the number of policies in force are expected to decline approximately 5,000 each year. Policyholders may elect to purchase total disability income coverage with the payment of additional premiums.

Budget program.—1. Death claims.—Represents payments to designated beneficiaries.

2. All other.—Classified in this category are payments to a policyholder who: (a) surrenders his policy for its cash value; (b) holds an endowment policy which has matured; and (c) has purchased total disability income coverage and subsequently becomes disabled.

3. Policy loans made.—The policyholders who converted their insurance from term to permanent plan were subsequently entitled to borrow up to 94% of the cash value of the new policy.

The following table reflects the decrease in the number of policies and the amounts of insurance in force (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1972 actual	June 30, 1973 actual	June 30, 1974 estimate	June 30, 1975 estimate

Financing.—Payments from this fund are financed primarily from premium receipts and interest on investments.

Operating results and financial condition.—Favorable mortality experience on insurance written against this fund has kept death claim payments well below the amount of premium and interest receipts, thereby producing an annual increase in the retained earnings of the fund. The retained earnings have been reduced by payments of a special dividend and payments to the Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation and the Veterans reopened insurance fund.

This fund is used to make loans up to $200 to disabled veterans eligible for vocational rehabilitation who are without sufficient funds to meet their expenses. Repayments are used to make new loans.

One of the agency's major objectives is the improvement of vocational rehabilitation of disabled Vietnam era veterans. To assist in carrying out this objective, an increase in the loan activity in this fund is projected for both 1974 and 1975. To insure the availability of the necessary funds, an increase is being requested in 1975.

Administrative expenses are borne by the appropriation, General operating expenses.

This fund finances the payment of group life insurance premiums to private insurance companies under the Servicemen's Group Life Insurance Act of 1965 (38 U.S.C. sec. 765-776) as amended, and any expenses incurred by the Veterans Administration in administration of the act.

Budget program.—1. Premium payments.—This item represents the payment of premiums to private insurance companies. The downward projection in the budget year is attributable to the decrease in contributions for extra hazards of service.

2. Payment to General operating expenses appropriation.—Represents payments for administrative costs incident to the program. A downward trend is forecasted for 1974 and 1975.

Under the provisions of 38 U.S.C. 5011, the Supply fund finances on a reimbursable basis the cost of warehouse inventories at depots and field stations and selected items of equipment procured centrally. It also finances, on the same basis, items and services to other Federal agencies who either request or are assigned to the Veterans Administration for support.

Budget program.—The fund provides financial support for: (1) Maintenance of depot and field station inventories; (2) maintenance and operation of two supply depots and one subdepot; (3) a publications depot including printing services to VA installations on a centralized basis; (4) operation of a service and reclamation program operating out of the supply depots; (5) centralized periodical procurement and library cataloging; and (6) a marketing center or central buying office.

The publications and reproduction program provides printing service and distribution of printed matter to VA installations. Printed matter is acquired in accordance with the rules of the Joint Committee on Printing from the Government Printing Office, the General Services Administration, a VA operated plant, and from commercial sources.

The marketing center is responsible for determining the levels of inventories to be carried at depots and acquiring stock to maintain such levels. It is also responsible for the central contracting of items not available from other Government sources for VA installations and other Government agencies as may be determined economical or advisable.

The Supply fund does not finance costs for the operation and administration of supply activities at field stations. These costs are charged directly to applicable appropriations. Starting in 1974, central office staff management of field activities, formerly a part of the Medical and miscellaneous operating expenses appropriation, will be jurisdictionally under the Supply fund.

Financing.—Costs of supplies, equipment, and services acquired through the Supply fund and Supply fund operating costs are recovered through reimbursements from the VA appropriations and other Government agencies receiving the goods and services.

Operating results and financial conditions.—The fund operated at a profit of $39 thousand in 1973 and carried forward a loss of $256 thousand from prior years. During the past 10 years the fund has shown a loss of $108 thousand or less than one-hundredth of 1% of the total ($1.4 billion) cost of goods sold in the same period. Recovery of prior years losses is anticipated in 1974.

This fund (72 Stat. 1154) was established in 1940 as the financing mechanism for World War II servicemen's and veterans' insurance program authorized by the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940. Over 22 million policies have been issued under this program. Since issuance of new policies ended in 1951, the insurance in force is estimated to decrease by $462 million, representing 87,000 policies in 1975. Activity of the fund reflects rising claim and loan workloads, and a decline in the number of policies in force, shown as follows (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1972 actual	June 30, 1973 actual	June 30, 1974 estimate	June 30, 1975 estimate
Number of policies	4,255,615	4,173,421	4,089,000	4,002,000
Insurance in force	$28,039,753	$27,789,406	$27,344,000	$26,882,000

The status of the fund excluding noncash transactions is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Undisbursed balance of fund, end of year	6,475,985	6,755,124	6,963,523	7,177,553

The fund is operated on a commercial basis to the extent possible consistent with law. Administrative expenses are charged to the appropriation General operating expenses.

The income of the fund is derived from premium receipts, interest on investments, and payments which are made to the fund from the Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation for claims (1) resulting from extra hazards of the veterans' service, and (2) arising on certain policies held by personnel on active duty.

Assets of the fund, which are largely invested in special Treasury interest-bearing securities and in policy loans, are expected to increase from $7,698 million as of June 30, 1973 to $8,153 million as of June 30, 1975. The actuarial estimate of policy obligations as of June 30, 1973, totals $7,604 million, leaving a balance of $94 million for contingency reserves.

Legislation is proposed to refine pension benefits. This new approach would: (a) breach the difference between the resources available to a veteran and his dependents and a minimum standard of need. This would be in accord with the supplemental security income provisions under HEW for the aged, blind and disabled, which becomes effective January 1, 1974. The VA pension proposal would guarantee a minimum income of $166 per month for a single person and $249 per month for a person with one dependent; (b) treat veterans and widows equally with regard to income and benefit amount. This compares to the present benefit award of approximately 66% to widows; (c) consider the total family income as a whole as opposed to excluding certain unearned income and the unequal treatment of earned income; (d) make provision for maintaining an equitable payment level for those being paid pensions under this reform proposal by providing cost of living adjustments automatically and simultaneously with increases paid to Social Security beneficiaries; (e) permit current recipients of pension to continue receiving benefits under the present provisions of law with automatic cost of living increases.

Legislation also is proposed which would reduce the Veterans Administration's burial allowance by the amount of any other Federal payment for the same purpose.

These proposed revisions will increase budget authority by $165,000 thousand in 1975 as follows (in thousands of dollars):

OTHER INDEPENDENT AGENCIES

ACTION

Action was established on July 1, 1971, under the authority of the President's Reorganization Plan No. 1. Legislative authority for the agency is provided by the Domestic Volunteer Service Act of 1973. The agency brings together a number of volunteer programs including the Peace Corps, Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA), Foster Grandparents (FGP), Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), and the Senior Corps of Retired Executives and Active Corps of Executives (SCORE/ACE).

Funds for Action are requested in two appropriations: (1) Operating expenses, domestic programs; and (2) operating expenses, international programs (Peace Corps). These appropriations each contain a share of the agency's common support costs. This share is included in the program support activity in each appropriation. Special schedules of agencywide administrative costs are presented following the regular appropriation schedules.

This appropriation finances the Peace Corps, one of the component programs of Action. Major elements which will be funded are the recruitment and training of applicants, volunteer operations overseas, and the management and support staff, both in the United States and abroad, required to support the volunteers.

1. Training and specialized recruitment.—Each volunteer is given intensive training which is designed to develop language abilities, provide a knowledge of the country in which he will work and further develop required job skills. In 1975, all Peace Corps trainees will receive their training in the host countries where they will serve. In addition, several specialized recruiting activities are conducted in this activity.

2. Volunteers.—The 1975 budget is designed to support an increased number of volunteers and trainees in the field. They are engaged in education at all levels, in agricultural development, in business and public management, in health programs, in urban development and in public works projects and a variety of other programs.

3. Program support.—This activity includes salaries, travel, rents, and other costs associated with staff operations in the United States and abroad. It also includes a share of agencywide costs, such as the recruitment, selection, and placement of volunteers.

The 1975 request includes funds for continued emphasis on local innovation and conduct of volunteer programs, and funds for exploring new approaches to improving and expanding volunteer service opportunities for all Americans. The programs included are:

1. Volunteers in service to America.—This full-time volunteer service program is primarily directed toward providing volunteers for local activities to alleviate the effects of poverty. In 1975, efforts to provide VISTA information specialists to identify community resources and volunteer service opportunities, and to encourage a greater degree of community participation in these activities, will be strengthened.

2. Service learning programs.—This activity is directed toward offering students opportunities to enhance their learning experiences in an educational environment by participating in volunteer service activities. In 1975, these coordinated service-learning approaches, such as University Year for Action, will continue to be a unique means of meeting locally identified social needs by utilizing the expertise, resources, and commitment to service of educational institutions and their students.

3. Special volunteer programs.—Efforts of these programs are concentrated on developing and demonstrating innovative means of providing volunteer services, encouraging wider participation in full-time, part-time, or short-term volunteer programs by all Americans and organizations combine to meet a variety of locally defined social service needs. Efforts will be continued in 1975 to encourage local involvement in exploring these volunteer service improvements.

4. Older Americans volunteer programs.—These part-time volunteer programs offer opportunities to individuals age 60 and over to participate in meeting individual and community service needs through grant-funded projects developed, operated and controlled at the local level. In 1975, additional funding for these programs, which include Retired Senior Volunteer, Foster Grandparents, and Older American Community Service programs, will enlarge the varied meaningful service activities available to older persons.

5. Service corps of retired executives and active corps of executives (SCORE/ACE).—This program utilizes both retired and active executives to provide management expertise to small businesses, nonprofit organizations, and individuals living on fixed incomes who are in need of business and financial counseling.

6. Program support.—This activity includes the costs of operating regional offices within the United States, domestic programs staff in Washington, D.C., and a share of Action agencywide costs. In 1975, continued emphasis will be placed on decentralizing program and administrative responsibilities and on assuring effective coordination and integration of domestic volunteer programs.

The Agency advises the President and the Secretary of State on arms control and disarmament policy and its implementation, conducts and assists in negotiations with other countries looking toward international agreements to control, reduce, or eliminate arms, and directs, as appropriate, U.S. participation in such control systems as may be adopted. Most ACDA resources in 1975 will be devoted to support of the second phase of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks with the Soviet Union, negotiations on mutual and balanced force reductions in Europe, further exploration of a possible comprehensive test ban on nuclear weapons, and development of equipment and techniques to prevent proliferation of nuclear weapons under the multilateral Non-Proliferation Treaty.

The external research and field testing activities are conducted through contracts or grants with nongovernmental research organizations and through reimbursement agreements with other U.S. Government departments and agencies.

The Cabinet Committee on Opportunities for the Spanish-Speaking People was established under law on December 31, 1969, by Public Law 91-181 for 5 years to advise Federal agencies on the needs and problems of the Spanish-speaking. The Committee has been a catalyst in regard to furthering equal opportunity for all Spanish-speaking citizens. It has assisted, through the Sixteen Point Program, in bringing more Spanish-speaking persons to the Federal Government. Between 1969 and 1973, despite a decrease in overall Federal employment, the number of Spanish-speaking in Federal service has increased by 6.3%. The function of making Federal agencies aware of the needs of the Spanish-speaking has largely been accomplished. Although responsibility for making Federal programs responsive to community needs, including those of the Spanish-speaking, remains with individual agencies, additional authorizing legislation will be proposed to extend the Committee through June 30, 1975.

The Civil Aeronautics Board fixes rates of subsidy compensation to promote the development of air transportation to the extent and of the quality required for the commerce of the United States, the Postal Service, and the national defense. The Board makes subsidy payments to subsidy-eligible certificated air carriers who have demonstrated a statutory need therefor. Subsidy is provided to cover the carrier's operating loss incurred under honest, economical and efficient management and to provide it an opportunity to earn a fair return (after taxes) on investment used and useful in the air transportation services.

The following table reflects the estimated program amounts becoming due finally for each year, together with the adjustments between years:

1. Assuring a merit work force.—This activity consists of (a) keeping personnel policies current; (b) staffing for Federal employment; (c) assuring fitness and suitability in Federal employment; and (d) improving personnel and management. In 1975 the Commission will centralize and simplify the Federal employee appeals process; intensify efforts to strengthen the capability of Government agencies to provide more in-house training; expand coverage of the executive development programs; and implement an automated system for processing job applications and examinations.

Workloads are reflected in the following table:

2. Providing retirement and insurance benefits.—The Commission administers retirement, group life insurance, and health benefits programs for Federal employees. Principal functions include adjudicating annuity, death, refund, and deposit claims; making payments to annuitants and other claimants; negotiating with private carriers to provide the insurance and health benefits authorized; auditing the records and operations of insurance underwriters; and maintaining the trust funds established for financing the programs. Increased funds are required to process expanding workloads, provide more thorough audit and negotiation procedures and to conduct a study on benefit programs.

3. Strengthening State and local personnel administration.—The purpose of the Intergovernmental Personnel Act of 1970, as administered by the Commission, is to strengthen and improve the personnel resources of State and local governments. The Commission provides grants and technical assistance to develop and encourage personnel administration programs consistent with prescribed merit employment principles. Additional resources are required in 1975 to provide technical assistance in the areas of equal employment opportunity.

The Civil Service Commission provides administrative support to the two Presidential Commissions, and, under provisions of the Voting Rights Act, maintains lists of eligible voters and appoints examiners and election observers at the request of the Attorney General. In 1975, requirements for Administration of the Voting Rights Act are expected to increase for additional observations, and funds are requested in PCPI to allow for an expanded staffing and educational program.

	June 30, 1973	June 30, 1974	June 30, 1975

Funds for this activity have been appropriated before 1974 under the separate appropriation, Annuities under special acts.

The Civil Service Retirement Amendments of 1969 provide for financing of current year's costs of the unfunded liability created since their enactment. Any statute which authorizes (1) new or liberalized benefits, (2) extension of retirement coverage, or (3) increases in pay is deemed to authorize appropriations to the fund to finance the unfunded liability created by such statute. Also, the Secretary of the Treasury is required to make annual payments from general revenues into the retirement fund on the basis of a sliding scale of percentages of an amount equivalent to: (1) Interest on the unfunded liability, and (2) annuity disbursements attributable to military service. The Civil Service Commission, at the end of each year, beginning in 1971, notifies the Secretary of the Treasury of the amount of payment to be made to the retirement fund and reports such sums to the President and the Congress. The required amount is 40% for 1974 and 50% for 1975.

Executive Order 11491 entitled "Labor-Management Relations in the Federal Service" established the Federal Labor Relations Council as a central authority to administer and interpret the order, decide major policy issues, prescribe regulations, and from time to time report and make recommendations to the President.

The order also establishes the Federal Service Impasses Panel as an agency within the Council. The Panel is authorized to consider impasses resulting from negotiations between labor organizations and agency management and to take whatever action it considers necessary to settle an impasse.

Additional resources are required in 1975 to handle the expanded workload which has resulted from the growing interest in labor relations and contract negotiations in the Federal Government.

Under authority of 5 U.S.C. 1304 and other laws and Executive orders, the Civil Service Commission conducts full field security investigations and performs training activities for other departments and agencies and provides certain miscellaneous services for Federal agencies and State and local governments on a reimbursable basis.

Budget program.—Because work on some investigations will be started in one year and completed in another and since some training course developmental work will be accomplished in one year with the course being presented in another, work in process is recognized as an asset of the fund. Under the Intergovernmental Personnel Act of 1970, the Commission admits State and local government employees to reimbursable training courses. Miscellaneous reimbursable services provided to other Federal agencies are part of regular ongoing functions funded under the Commission's salaries and expenses appropriation and are included under that account.

In 1975 workloads are expected to remain relatively stable in both the investigations and the training programs.

Chief workloads of the two major activities are displayed below:

Operating results and financial condition.—The appropriated capital of the fund consists of $5 million. Excess earnings will be applied in 1975 to partially offset increased costs for space rental resulting from the Public Buildings Amendment of 1972 to minimize increases in billing rates.

This fund is used to pay annuities to retired employees or their survivors; to make refunds to former employees for amounts withheld, and to beneficiaries of employees who died before retirement or before the annuities equaled the amount withheld; and to pay administrative expenses of the Commission in administering the program. Annuities paid to persons who were employed on the construction of the Panama Canal, or to their widows, and benefits paid to widows of former employees of the Lighthouse Service are being paid from this fund through the appropriation Payment to the Civil Service retirement and disability fund. These payments were previously made from the separate appropriation Annuities under special acts. The estimated unfunded liability for the civil service retirement system as of June 30, 1973, is $68.7 billion. Pertinent statistics as of June 30 are shown below:

The fund finances the cost of health benefits for: (1) Active employees, (2) employees who retired after June 1960, or their survivors (5 U.S.C. 8901-8913), and (3) the related expenses of the Commission in administering the program.

Budget program.—The balance of the fund is available for payments without fiscal year limitation. Numbers of participants on June 30 are as follows:

	1973 actual	1974 estimate	1975 estimate
Active employees.....	2,198,600	2,264,600	2,332,500

Total .....	2,937,600	3,082,300	3,212,700

In determining a biweekly subscription rate to cover program costs, 1% is added to the rates developed by health benefit carriers, for administrative expense, and 3% is added for a contingency reserve held by the Commission for each carrier. The Commission is authorized to transfer unused administrative reserve funds to the contingency reserve.

For non-Postal Service employees (general schedule and wage board) the Government's contribution to the health benefits premiums is 40% of the current unweighted average of the high option premiums of six large plans, but not more than 50% of the premium cost for the particular enrollment. Effective July 20, 1973 the Government contribution for employees of the Postal Service was increased to 55% and effective July 20, 1974 will be further increased to 65%.

Financing.—The fund is financed by: (1) Withholdings from active employees and annuitants; (2) agency contributions for active employees, appropriated to agencies; and (3) Government contributions for annuitants appropriated to the Commission.

Operating results.—Funds advanced to carriers but not used to pay claims in the current period are carried forward as special reserves for use in subsequent periods. About $11.4 million unused administrative funds were transferred to the contingency reserve in 1973. The contingency reserves are retained by the Commission and paid to carriers, as necessary, to defray future rate increases or to provide increased benefits.

This fund finances insurance premiums paid to private insurance companies for Federal employees group life insurance and expenses of the Civil Service Commission in administering the program. Separate cost data is maintained for employees' regular group life insurance, an additional $10 thousand authorized in 1967, and insurance for members of former beneficial associations.

Budget program.—The status of the basic (regular and optional) life insurance program on June 30 is as follows:

Life insurance in force (in billions of dollars):	1973 actual	1974 estimate	1975 estimate
On active employees <sup>1</sup> .....	40.9	43.2	44.5

Total.....	3,188	3,298	3,339

Financing.—Premium costs for the regular program are met by withholding 27½ cents biweekly from the salaries of employees, for each $1 thousand of life insurance and a 50% matching by employer agencies. Effective July 20, 1974, the Postal Service will contribute 100% of the premium rate of the regular program on behalf of its employees. The optional program is financed by withholding from employees' salaries or retirees' annuities and the beneficial association program is financed by direct collection from members. Most of the difference between receipts and benefit payments under the policy is held in reserve for paying future life insurance claims. The status of reserves on June 30 is as follows (in millions of dollars):

Held in special contingency reserves:	1973 actual	1974 estimate	1975 estimate
By basic program insurer.....	198	150	100
By beneficial associations insurer.....	6	6	6

Total reserves.....	1,447	1,604	1,784

The special contingency reserve with the insurer for the regular and optional insurance program has been limited to $200 million. In 1974 and 1975 contingency reserve funds will be returned to the employees' life insurance fund in annual increments of $50 million. Excess income from the program over benefit payments and other expenses is deposited in the U.S. Treasury to the credit of the Employees' Life Insurance Fund. The operations of the insurer for the regular and optional life insurance program to June 30 each year follow (in millions of dollars):

1. General fund loans.—Appropriations for 30-year interest-bearing loans from the U.S. Treasury are made available for financing construction of the general public works program of the District of Columbia, including school construction; for the District of Columbia's contribution to the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority for the city's share of construction costs of the rapid rail transit system authorized by the National Capital Transportation Act of 1969; and for education facilities for the Federal City College and the Washington Technical Institute. The loans to the general fund through the year ending June 30, 1975, are appropriated under a borrowing authority which is related to the ability of the District of Columbia to repay. The loans made under this authorization may not cause the general debt service to exceed 9% of local revenues, including the Federal payment credited to the fund in 1972. Exception to this ceiling in the amount of $219.7 million is provided for loans for the District of Columbia contribution to the rapid rail system and the limitation of 14% of local revenues provided for by the District of Columbia Self-Government and Governmental Reorganization Act of 1973. The status of general fund borrowing on a cumulative basis is as follows (in millions of dollars):

Public Law 92-70 created an Emergency Loan Guarantee Board composed of the Secretary of the Treasury, as Chairman, the Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, and the Chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission. The Board was given authority to guarantee, or make commitments to guarantee, loans to major business enterprises. The maximum amount for outstanding loans guaranteed shall not exceed $250 million at any time.

In accordance with provisions of section 9(a) of the act, there is established in the Treasury an emergency loan guarantee fund to be administered by the Board. The fund shall be available for the payment of the expenses of the Board and for fulfilling the obligations of the Board under the act. The fund is to be credited with fees prescribed by the Board in connection with each loan guaranteed under the act.

On September 9, 1971 the Guarantee Board found that Lockheed Aircraft Corp. met the requirements of the act and approved a Government guarantee to 24 banks which may lend to Lockheed up to $250 million. The guarantee commitment to Lockheed and its lending banks requires repayment of the guaranteed portion of the borrowings by the end of 1975 unless the Board and the lending banks consent to extend the maturity date as provided for under the act.

The Corporation was created by Congress for the purpose of protecting bank depositors and to foster sound practices in the Nation's banking system. As of June 30, 1973, the deposit insurance fund amounted to $5.4 billion. The entire fund is considered a reserve for the protection of depositors in insured banks and for the payment of administrative and insurance expenses. Income is accumulated principally from assessments paid by insured banks and interest from its investments in obligations of the U.S. Treasury. The insurance fund is strengthened by an authorization to borrow up to $3 billion from the Treasurer of the United States. No borrowing under this authorization has been made to date and none is anticipated in 1974 and 1975.

<sup>1</sup> No provision is made in this report for disbursements which might be made by reason of additional bank closings after June 30, 1972, because there is no sound basis for predicting which insured banks, if any, will close after that date.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was created by the Banking Act of 1933 to provide protection for bank depositors and to foster sound banking practices. Initially deposit insurance was limited to $2,500 per depositor. This protection increased to $5 thousand in 1935, to $10 thousand in 1950 and $15 thousand in 1966. It has been $20 thousand since December 23, 1969. In order to accomplish its varied functions in the protection of bank depositors the Corporation is authorized to promulgate and enforce rules and regulations relating to the supervision of insured banks and to perform other regulatory and supervisory duties consistent with its responsibilities as insurer. A basic program for examining State banks which are not members of the Federal Reserve System and liquidation activities attendant to closed insured banks constitute the major portion of the Corporation's operations.

Income of the Corporation is derived principally from insurance assessments paid by insured banks and interest on investments in U.S. Government securities. As of June 30, 1973, the deposit insurance fund amounted to $5.4 billion. The entire fund represents the accumulated net income of the Corporation and is reserved for the protection of depositors in insured banks and for payment of administrative and insurance expenses. No funds derived from taxes or Federal appropriation are allocated to or used by the Corporation in any of its operations.

The insurance fund is supported by an authorization to borrow up to $3 billion from the U.S. Treasurer. No borrowing under this authorization has been made to date and none is anticipated in 1974 and 1975.

The estimates for 1974 and 1975 in these statements make no provision for losses and expenses which might occur by reason of the closing of any bank after June 30, 1972, because there is no sound basis for predicting which insured banks will close, if any, after that date.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board formulates policies and supervises the operations of the 12 Federal home loan banks, the system of Federal savings and loan associations, and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation; it is also responsible for the examination of all Federal savings and loan associations, and for the examination and supervision of all State-chartered institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The expenditure programs of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation are presented as business-type budgets. Section 2 of Public Law 895, approved July 3, 1948, provides that all expenses of the Division of Examinations, Federal Home Loan Bank Board, shall be considered nonadministrative.

Public Law 87-141, approved August 17, 1961, provides that expenses of any functions of supervision (except of Federal home loan banks) vested in or exercisable by the Board shall be considered as nonadministrative expenses.

The administrative expenses of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board are paid from assessments against the 12 Federal home loan banks and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The expenses of the home office of the Office of Examinations and Supervision are paid from assessments against the 12 Federal home loan banks and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The expenses of the field offices of the Office of Examinations and Supervision are paid from fees charged against and collected from savings and loan institutions examined and from assessments against the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

Title I of the Emergency Home Finance Act of 1970, Public Law 91-351, authorized a new program in the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. Under this program, appropriated funds were used by the 12 Federal home loan banks to adjust the effective interest rate charged by each bank on lending to member savings and loan associations, thereby promoting an orderly flow of funds into residential construction.

The program was initiated in 1971 with an appropriation of $85 million. An additional $62.5 million was appropriated in 1972. The program was phased out in 1973; therefore, no appropriation is shown in 1975.

Budget program.—The Board's budget is based on seven activities.

1. Examination and supervision of Federal home loan banks.—The Board examines and supervises the operations of the Federal home loan banks.

2. Examination and supervision of Federal and State-chartered institutions.—The financial condition and operations of each insured institution are analyzed and corrective action is instituted when warranted. Supervision of insured institutions operating under State charter is carried on, cooperatively, under arrangements made with the respective State authorities. Supervisory examinations are made of Federal savings and loan associations, State-chartered associations insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and such uninsured member institutions of the Federal Home Loan Bank System as are not examined by the State examiners. Examinations are also made of institutions applying for insurance of accounts and for conversion from a State to a Federal charter when required by the Board.

3. Chartering Federal and insuring savings and loan associations.—Federal savings and loan associations are chartered and regulated. Applications of State-chartered associations for conversion into Federal savings and loan associations and applications of Federal savings and loan associations for establishment of branch offices are also examined. In addition, an analysis and evaluation is made of the insurance risk in connection with applications submitted by savings and loan associations for insurance of share accounts.

4. Executive direction and staff services.—This includes formulation of basic policy and the furnishing of staff services common to the Board and the Insurance Corporation.

5. Analysis of operations.—An analysis is made of the financial condition of member institutions, the flow of savings, the character and volume of mortgage lending, as well as selective review of geographical or community areas and phases of operations and certain analyses of trends in the field of thrift and home mortgage finance, including volume of activity and interest rates of all major types of mortgage lenders.

6. Administrative services.—These consist of auditing; accounting, budgetary, and financial reporting; internal budget control; and fiscal organization and management. These services also include general housekeeping and operating services, including printing and reproduction work.

7. Acquisition and construction of a building in the District of Columbia.—The Board is authorized by Public Law 89-754, 80 Stat. 1255, 1293, approved November 3, 1966, to acquire property and construct a building in the District of Columbia to provide quarters and facilities for the Board. Under the law, the Board is required to prepare and submit an annual budget program for the building as provided in title I of the Government Corporation Control Act.

The amounts shown in the schedules for the above activities include administrative expenses under annual limitation; nonadministrative expenses under a separate limitation; and certain additional expenses not under limitation. Administrative expenses are estimated to increase from $9.8 million in 1974 to $10.5 million in 1975. Nonadministrative expenses covering examination and supervision of savings and loan associations are discussed separately below.

The Office of Examinations and Supervision has the major role in fulfilling the Federal Home Loan Bank Board's statutory responsibility for monitoring and regulating the savings and loan industry. This Office examines and, when necessary, supervises and assists all savings and loan associations to assure the American public of a dynamic system of safe insured savings, accessible credit, and economical home ownership.

The Office of Examinations and Supervision is also the primary tool of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation (FSLIC) for protecting its assets against depletion caused by the financial failure of any of the savings and loan associations which it insures. The Office's responsibility extends to all institutions insured by the FSLIC—Federal associations, State-chartered associations, and other institutions of the savings and loan type insured by the FSLIC—as well as noninsured member institutions of the Federal Home Loan Bank System not subject to State examination.

The Office monitors savings and loan associations through continual analysis of operating policies and financial reports submitted by the associations and by public auditors, through regularly scheduled examinations, and through occasional special examinations. The purpose of these monitoring processes is to determine compliance with Federal Home Loan Bank Board regulations and to ascertain the quality of management and the financial soundness of the member associations. If the Office detects actual or potentially unsafe or unsound practices in associations insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, Supervisory Agents from the Federal Home Loan Banks work with the associations to prevent the development or the continuance of poor financial or management performance. The operations of the Office are funded substantially through direct examination charges to savings and loan associations.

The authority for examination and supervision of insured savings and loan associations was expanded by the Financial Institutions Supervisory Act of 1966, and the Savings and Loan Holding Company Amendments of 1967 imposed additional examination and supervisory responsibilities on the Office with respect to savings and loan holding companies and their subsidiaries. The Office also has assumed responsibilities outside the scope of traditional examinations because of new legislation in the areas of consumer credit protection, equal opportunity, and security measures.

The 12 Federal home loan banks stabilize and strengthen the member institutions which own all their capital stock. The banks obtain funds advanced to members primarily from public issuances of consolidated obligations. Authority to borrow from the Treasury was increased from $1 to $4 billion by Public Law 91-151, approved December 23, 1969. No borrowings are anticipated in 1974 or 1975, but funds are available if market conditions so warrant. (Transactions of the banks are shown in the annexed budgets at the end of this document.)

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation is authorized under title IV of the National Housing Act (12 U.S.C. 1724 et seq.) to insure savings in all Federal savings and loan associations and in State-chartered institutions of the savings and loan type which apply and qualify for insurance. The protection thus afforded, which insures savers in member associations against financial loss up to a statutory limit of $20 thousand, may be provided through the prevention of default or the payment of insurance to savings account holders in the event of liquidation. The former course of action, which results in complete protection to each investor regardless of the amount in his account, is accomplished by making contributions or by purchasing all or a part of the association's assets. Also, the Corporation is authorized to make loans to institutions in financial difficulty. Wherever possible, preventive measures are taken to eliminate the necessity of liquidation. However, in the event liquidation is necessary, the Corporation acts as receiver or coreceiver upon request of State authority in cases involving State-chartered institutions. In addition, the Corporation, upon determination by the Board (under legislation effective July 1968, Public Law 90-389) is empowered to act, even retroactively, as sole receiver in cases involving State-chartered institutions.

The Corporation functions under direction of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which provides certain administrative services and conducts the examination and supervision of insured institutions. The expenses of the Board and its staff offices are paid from assessments made on the Corporation and the Federal home loan banks.

1. Administrative expenses subject to limitation.—In carrying out its role of protecting savings in insured savings and loan associations the Corporation has settled 102 cases since its creation 39 years ago. Actual losses sustained and provision for losses to June 30, 1973, have amounted to $180.6 million representing approximately 6.5% of cumulative gross income. Detailed information with respect to all of the insurance cases is summarized in the following table (dollars in thousands):

2. Payment to Federal Home Loan Bank Board for services and facilities.—The Corporation will pay 25% of the administrative expenses of the Board as a direct charge and 49% of the remaining administrative expenses of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in 1975 in return for services and facilities by the Board and staff offices. The Corporation will also pay 49% of the Washington Office expense and 25% of the District offices expenses of the Office of Examinations and Supervision for supervisory services by that office.

5. Other expenses.—Provides for liquidation and other expenses of the Corporation in connection with the work-out of contribution agreements, the disposition of assets purchased from, and loans to insured institutions to prevent default.

Financing.—The original capital of $100 million has been completely repaid to the Treasury, together with an additional $43 million for the use of the funds.

The Corporation has continuing authority to borrow from the Treasury for insurance purposes, with a limitation of $750 million outstanding at any one time. No borrowings under this authorization have ever been made.

The Corporation has additional authority to assess against each insured institution additional premiums for insurance until the amount of such premiums equals the amount of all losses and expenses of the Corporation, except that the total amount so assessed in any one year against any such institution shall not exceed one-eighth of 1% of the total amount of the accounts of its insured members.

Operating results and financial condition.—The Corporation is entirely self-supporting. Revenues and other receipts have been sufficient to meet all insurance losses, operating expenses, and return on capital stock, and to establish a reserve for contingencies of $3,264.7 million as of June 30, 1973. Total revenues and other receipts since 1934, of $3,627.1 million, have been applied as follows (in millions of dollars):

	Amount	Percent
Expense.....	138.8	3.8
Insurance losses sustained and provision for losses.....	180.6	5.0
Return on capital stock to U.S. Treasury.....	43.0	1.2
Reserve for contingencies.....	3,264.7	90.0
Total.....	3,627.1	100.0

Operating expenses (funded) for 1975 are estimated at $40.7 million, consisting of administrative expenses of the Corporation of $776 thousand, $12.9 million for services rendered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, $20 million for contributions to insured institutions, and $7.0 million for other expenses.

Net operating income for 1975, which is expected to be $311.5 million, will be retained by the Corporation to meet future contingencies.

Section 404(b) of the National Housing Act, as amended, requires each insured institution to pay a basic insurance premium in an amount equal to one-twelfth of 1% of its savings accounts. Public Law 87-210, which became effective January 1, 1962, as amended, requires annual payment to the Corporation of an additional premium in the nature of a prepayment at a rate equal to 2% of the increase in savings for the previous calendar year, less an amount equal to any requirement for the purchase of Federal Home Loan Bank stock during the period. The law also provides for the crediting of a return on the accumulated prepayment of each insured association at a rate equal to the average realized by the Corporation on its own investment portfolio.

Public Law 87-210 further provides for the establishment of a primary reserve which shall be the general reserve of the Corporation and a secondary reserve to which shall be credited additional premiums. When the sum of these two reserves equals 2% of total savings, the cash payment of the regular premiums and the prepayments cease and the Corporation commences transferring the secondary reserve to the primary reserve by crediting each insured association's accumulated prepayments to its regular premium liability. (This credit is reflected on the analysis of changes in Government equity statement below.) If the aggregate of the two reserves drops to below 1.25% (changed from 1.60% by Public Law 93-100), the prepayments and the cash payment of the regular premium resume and continue until the 2% ratio is again reached. The law requires the Corporation to accumulate a primary reserve (as of the close of any December 31) equal to 2% of the total amount of all accounts of insured members before collection of regular premiums may be discontinued, provided, however, that each insured institution has paid regular premiums for at least 20 years.

Public Law 91-151, approved December 23, 1969, removed references to creditor obligations from the computation of the basic insurance premium and the base on which the required reserve levels are determined. Under this law, the maximum required level of primary and secondary reserves was deemed to have been reached on December 31, 1969. As of the end of 1975 it is anticipated that the primary reserve will reach $2,479.7 million or 1.0% of estimated savings of $250.3 billion and that the primary and secondary reserves will be at a level of $3,902 million or 1.6% of these estimated savings.

Public Law 91-152, approved December 24, 1969, provided that savings losses during 1966 recaptured in later years would not be reflected as savings growth on which the liability for payments to the secondary reserve is based. This measure amended prior law which already extended such treatment to losses occurring in 1967 and later years. Refunds due to this legislation are reflected as item 4 on the program and financing schedule.

The Federal Maritime Commission administers the shipping statutes which require regulation of the domestic offshore and international waterborne commerce of the United States. Its objective for 1975 is to achieve compliance with the statutes through an effective regulatory program. This will entail continuing and comprehensive analysis of the activities of conferences, carriers, and others subject to Commission jurisdiction, as they relate to the following program areas: ocean freight rates; rate making and other agreements; malpractices; foreign discriminatory actions; freight forwarders; terminal operators; passenger vessel certification; and water pollution responsibility. In addition, the Commission will be actively involved in the development of a program to determine appropriate rate bases for carriage of military cargo; and, participate with other interested agencies in a program to curb crime in transportation. These program activities will require a modest appropriation increase in 1975.

The Service, under title II of the Labor Management Relations Act of 1947, assists labor and management in mediation and prevention of disputes affecting industries engaged in interstate commerce and defense production, other than rail and air transportation, whenever in its judgment such disputes threaten to cause a substantial interruption of commerce. Under the authority of Executive Order 11491 of October 29, 1969, as amended by Executive Order 11616, dated August 26, 1971, the Service also makes its mediation and conciliation facilities available to Federal agencies and organizations representing Federal employees in the resolution of negotiation disputes.

1. Mediation Services.—During 1973, dispute notices and other notifications affecting 117,884 employers were received by the Service. Cases totaling 21,745 were assigned for mediation, and 21,032 mediation assignments were closed during the year. About 89% of the mediation assignments closed which required the services of mediators were settled without work stoppages. A total of 26,973 mediation conferences were conducted by mediators during 1973. The workload shown above includes assignments closed in both the private and public sectors. Cases in process at the end of 1973 totaled 5,449; this is the normal carryover of open cases from month to month, with seasonal fluctuations. The following chart shows a 5-year comparison of workload data:

DISPUTE WORKLOAD DATA

Service function in the Federal sector.—Executive Order 11491 of October 29, 1969, as amended by Executive Order 11616, dated August 26, 1971, places responsibility in the agency for providing mediation assistance to Federal agencies and labor organizations in the resolution of negotiation disputes. The Service was engaged in dispute mediation activities in 230 cases during 1973.

2. Technical services.—The primary functions of this program are preventive mediation, technical assistance, research, education, and training to create greater knowledge and more precise talent in the collective bargaining field to foster industrial peace.

Through its preventive activity program, the Service will continue to work with both contracting parties to bring about a better understanding of the collective bargaining process, and to improve their day-to-day working relationships. The table below shows the preventive activities workload for the past 5 fiscal years:

PREVENTIVE ACTIVITIES WORKLOAD DATA

Preventive cases closed.....	1,321	1,218	851	523	515

Separate preventive conferences conducted.....	5,491	5,510	2,390	1,557	1,630

3. Arbitration services.—The Service provides, through an automated arbitrator selection and reporting system, panels of arbitrators from its roster for the resolution of employee grievances or disputes in the private and public sectors involving the interpretation or application of existing agreements.

In 1973 the Service provided 15,121 panels of arbitrators, an increase of 56.2% over the past 5 years.

4. Management and administrative support.—This program provides for policy planning, evaluation, direction, coordination, management and administrative support for the programs of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

5. Boards and panels.—Provision is made for ad hoc employment of labor relations experts, individually or in panels, in support of the mediation function; and for boards of inquiry appointed by the President in emergency disputes.

The Federal Power Commission administers the Federal Power Act and Natural Gas Act, and performs other work relating to Federal electric power developments and associated natural resources.

1. Hydroelectric power regulation.—The Commission licenses non-Federal hydroelectric projects, makes water resources appraisal studies, determines whether projects with expiring licenses should be relicensed or recommended to Congress for Federal takeover, and assesses the environmental impact of proposed licensed hydroelectric projects.

2. Electric power industry systems evaluation.—The Commission encourages the interconnection and coordination of the Nation's electric power systems to insure an adequate and reliable supply of electric energy.

The Commission studies the electric power industry's problems and prospects to encourage electric utilities to meet the Nation's power requirements by timely installation of adequate generating and transmission facilities with minimum impact on our environment. Continuous surveillance of the changing requirements of the electric power industry is conducted to identify current trends, project load growth, and suggest patterns of generation and transmission to meet future requirements.

3. Electric power utilities regulation.—The Commission regulates the wholesale rates and service, the accounts reporting requirements, depreciation practices, certain security issues, the disposition of property, mergers, and interlocking directorates of interstate electric utilities.

7. Services to other agencies and to the public.—The Commission studies industry systems and prepares reports for use of other agencies, the industries and the public.

It assesses and collects annual charges against owners of non-Federal hydroelectric projects which derive benefit from upstream Federal reservoirs.

The Commission participates with other Federal agencies in planning the development of power at water resources projects. For certain Federal projects, it approves rates for the sale of power and allocates the costs to project purposes.

8. Administration.—Executive, managerial, and administrative support personnel perform the decision-making and support functions.

9. Conservation research.—The purpose of this program is to review energy conservation technology.

The Commission has the mandate to foster and preserve free competitive enterprise through the prevention and elimination of monopolistic practices and unfair methods of competition. Additionally, it is responsible for detecting and proscribing acts and practices which are unfair or deceptive to the consuming public.

1. Executive direction and policy planning.—Covers overall policy and operational planning, management direction, and evaluation of the Commission's programs and activities. In 1975, the focus will be placed on improving the Commission's operational planning and internal control capabilities.

2. Administration and management.—Includes the formulation and implementation of all administrative policies and activities, including: personnel; management analysis; information systems development; financial management, and general services. In 1975, the major emphasis will be on strengthening the Commission's internal management and financial information capabilities.

3. Maintaining competition.—Enforces the statutes prohibiting monopolistic practices and unreasonable restraints of trade, including: price-fixing conspiracies; boycotts; price discrimination; and illegal mergers or acquisitions. In 1975, particular emphasis will be placed on antitrust matters with a high probability of significant economic impact, including continued study of competition in the energy industries. These direct enforcement activities will be supplemented by published statements of enforcement policies and industry guides.

4. Consumer protection.—Investigates and corrects unfair or deceptive acts and practices, including false and misleading advertising. In 1975, programs will continue to emphasize consumer protection from unfair and oppressive aspects of standard product warranties; expand the FTC's influence in areas of unfair practices such as consumer credit; packaging and labeling; advertising; salesmen's representations; mislabeled wool, fur, and textile products; and, increased emphasis on rulemaking as an enforcement tool.

5. Economic activities.—Supports all the Commission's functions, especially litigation and the preparation of various economic reports and surveys. A financial reporting program provides statistics concerning the performance of a variety of industries. In 1975, this program will be substantially strengthened by the proposed addition of line of business reporting. Other major studies will examine the effects of antitrust and the international economy; advertising and information; and continued study of competition in the energy industries.

Public Law 93-179 established the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration as successor to the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission. The activities formerly conducted by the Commission have been transferred to the Administration.

1. General administration.—These funds will assure a coordinated, balanced commemorative program encompassing the three themes of Heritage '76, Festival USA, and Horizons '76, developed and conducted under the aegis of the existing network of State and local Bicentennial commissions, national groups and organizations in the public and private sectors, as well as Federal agencies and foreign governments.

A primary function of the Administration is the preparation of the Master Calendar of events of local, State, and international significance to take place between March 1975 and December 31, 1976, four months of which come within 1975. A computerized Bicentennial Information Network maintaining the calendar, will make the public aware of activities and projects commemorating the 200th anniversary of the United States of America.

The Administration will operate 10 regional offices to assist regional, State, and local committees and commissions. It will lend technical support including prototype exhibits, staging of special events, competitions, and the like.

2. Grants-in-aid.—The Administration will make both matching and nonmatching grants to State Bicentennial Commissions and other appropriate organizations to attain a balanced program.

INTERGOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES

ADVISORY COMMISSION ON INTERGOVERNMENTAL RELATIONS

The Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations is an independent, bipartisan body which attempts to identify and analyze the causes of intergovernmental conflicts, and recommends ways of strengthening and improving the American Federal system. The 26-member Commission includes representatives of the executive and legislative branches at all levels of government—Federal, State, and local—as well as representatives of the public.

The Commission and its staff examine Federal and State programs and policies having an intergovernmental aspect. Proposed legislation is reviewed to determine its potential impact on the Federal system. The Commission also identifies emerging problems of Federal-State-local relations.

The Commission makes recommendations concerning the allocation of responsibilities and revenues among the various levels of government. The recommendations and published studies growing out of the Commission's work are submitted to the executive and legislative branches of Federal, State, and local governments.

Continuing and annual projects of the Commission include monitoring of the Federal revenue sharing effort, coordinating the review procedures established by the Office of Management and Budget circular A-85, surveying State and local finances, and monitoring legislation of State and local governments. Other projects which are nonrecurring include a study of Canada's intergovernmental experience, a profile of regions in the United States, and investigations into alternative sources of Federal State, and local revenue.

Congressional appropriations finance the personnel and personnel-related expenses incurred in the day-to-day operation of the Commission. The 1974 appropriation included $186 thousand for a special study of State taxation of financial institutions. This study is scheduled to be completed by December 1974. A supplemental appropriation is requested to cover the increased civilian pay costs in 1974 resulting from Executive Orders 11691 and 11739.

An increase in the Commission's administrative expenses for 1975 is necessary to cover the General Services Administration's rental charges, as required by the Public Buildings Amendments of 1972.

The Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, a non-Federal agency, was established pursuant to an interstate compact among Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia. The Authority's primary functions are to plan, develop, finance, and provide for the construction and operation of a rail rapid transit system to serve the National Capital area.

In accordance with the National Capital Transportation Act of 1969, the Authority has responsibility for the development of a full-regional transit system which will extend from a central distributor system into the participating jurisdictions of Maryland and Virginia. The system includes a total areawide network of approximately 98 miles. Under the authorization, the Federal share is two-thirds of the net project cost.

The National Capital Transportation Act of 1969 was amended to provide additional funding required by the Authority to meet the costs of severe inflation and delays experienced by the construction industry, and to assure the timely sale of the Authority's revenue bonds. It provides for a Federal guaranty of the Authority's bonds in an amount not to exceed $1.2 billion, conversion of the Authority's bonds from a tax exempt to a taxable security, and payment of an interest subsidy by the Federal Government to the Authority of 25% of the net interest cost. This interest subsidy will be offset by taxes received by the Treasury. It will be sufficient to increase the total amount of bonds sold by $300 million over the $900 million in bonds to be supported by system revenues. As a condition of sale of these additional bonds, the eight participating jurisdictions of Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia will increase their capital contributions by $150 million.

The accelerated pace of construction for the Rapid Rail Transit System will continue in 1975 while design and rights-of-way acquisition obligations will decline. Phase I operation is scheduled to begin at the very close of this period. All of phase II will be under construction and rapidly approaching completion. All structural, finish and stage contracts will be underway for phase III as well as all structural, most finish and stage contracts for phase IV. Most phase V structural contracts will have commenced and most design for phase VI. All of the Rockville route, Huntington route, New Carrollton route, Addison route, and L'Enfant/Pentagon route will be under construction. The 1975 program will involve design contracts covering approximately 2 miles of transit facilities while the construction program will involve approximately 14 miles.

Other accompanying highlights include the following:

1. Rapidly advancing construction toward the goals set for Bicentennial operations.

2. Commencement of construction on the Greenbelt route.

3. Continuing revision of the Authority's design criteria and general specifications to ascertain that both reflect the most up-to-date thinking in the field of rapid transit design and construction.

The 1975 program also provides for the Federal share of providing elevators for the handicapped in the stations which will either be undergoing final design or construction during this fiscal year. Funding for the Federal share in the amount of 80% of total costs not to exceed $65 million was authorized by the Highway Safety Act of 1973, Public Law 93-87 approved August 13, 1973. The total program for 1975 for providing facilities for the handicapped is $24,300 thousand of which the Federal share is $19,400 thousand.

In order to best maintain the construction schedule upon which costs and revenues are based, and to permit the local participating jurisdictions to plan and carry out the sale of their bonds for the period involved, funds for the Federal share of the 1976 program are requested at this time. Although the advance appropriation of these funds is essential to orderly financial and program planning, they will not become available for obligation until 1976.

The overall financial plan of the system is as follows:

The Commission regulates surface transportation in interstate and foreign commerce to the extent that it takes place within the United States.

The increase is requested to: (1) Control the formal proceedings backlog and provide for the processing of rulemaking proceedings which will have broad economic impact; (2) meet the frequency schedule for audits of carrier accounts to obtain more timely information for the financial oversight program; and (3) increase the enforcement and compliance activities in the motor carrier area particularly with respect to consumer complaints and unauthorized motor carrier operations.

The Commission's resources are applied primarily in four major programs.

1. Regulation of carrier rates, practices, operating authorities, and finance.—This activity consists of preparing studies and analyses of operating costs for use in rate proceedings; regulating rates; granting operating authorities; approving applications for abandonments and extensions of railroad lines, financial reorganizations and rate agreements between carriers; reviewing proposed discontinuances of or changes in the operation or service of trains and ferries and formally issuing orders, rules, and regulations.

The insurance fund is used to carry out a program of insurance for member accounts in Federal credit unions and State-chartered credit unions which apply and qualify for insurance, authorized by Public Law No. 91-468, enacted October 19, 1970. Public Law 92-221, enacted December 23, 1971, provided share insurance coverage for 2 years to those Federal credit unions disapproved for share insurance coverage for failure to meet share insurance standards.

Budget program.—The activities consist of: (a) providing member account insurance, (b) formulating standards and requirements for insured credit unions, (c) providing for liquidation or other disposition of the assets and liabilities of insolvent, insured credit unions, and (d) providing supervision and assistance to Federal credit unions covered under Public Law 92-221.

The extent of the program is estimated as follows:

Item	1973 actual	1974 estimate	1975 estimate
Number of insured credit unions.....	14,023	14,700	15,200
Number of insured member accounts (thousands).....	16,600	17,700	19,000
Shares of insured member institutions as of Dec. 31 of the previous calendar year (millions of dollars).....	13,843	16,110	18,780

It is estimated that the fund will assume claims of $3,500 thousand in 1974 and 1975. It is estimated that approximately 2,700 State-chartered credit unions will be enrolled in the program by the end of 1975.

CREDIT UNION SHARE INSURANCE FUND—Continued

Financing.—Each insured credit union is required to pay a normal premium of one-twelfth of 1% of the total amount of its member accounts. These premiums, estimated to be approximately $13 million in 1974 and over $15 million in 1975, will be sufficient to cover expected expenses and claims in those years. The balance will be held as an insurance reserve, invested in Government interest-bearing securities. The fund is structured to be self-supporting with $100 million borrowing authority from the Treasury for use in unforeseen emergencies. The authority to borrow from the Treasury will probably not be exercised in 1974 or 1975.

Operating results.—It is recommended that earnings, expected to accumulate to above $51 million by the end of 1975, be retained in the fund.

The purpose of the National Foundation on the Arts and the Humanities is to improve the quality of American life by promoting the arts and humanities through grants, and the stimulation of private philanthropy. The Foundation, made up of two operating units, the Endowment for the Arts, and the Endowment for the Humanities, may also receive private gifts, either for specific purposes or unrestricted as to use, which are matched by Federal appropriations.

1. Promotion of the arts.—Grants are made to individual artists of exceptional talent, institutions, organizations, and State arts agencies. Programs assist the individual artist, increase citizen participation and enjoyment of the arts, encourage productions of cultural significance, expand audiences for the arts and encourage planning and research. Increased funds in 1975 will be used to assist major artistic and cultural institutions, to encourage the arts of youth and ethnic groups to move in a meaningful way into preservation of our cultural heritage, to aid State arts agencies and to increase support for activities relating to the Bicentennial celebration.

2. Promotion of the humanities.—Grants are made for research, education, and public activity in the humanities, with increasing emphasis on broad public understanding and discussion of ideas and values. Support is provided for State and community groups, for national dissemination through the media, museums, libraries, and other cultural institutions. In 1975, additional emphasis will be placed upon support for Bicentennially related activities. These efforts aim at bringing Americans into contact with humanistic thought and improving the quality of knowledge and teaching in the humanities.

The Board resolves representation disputes in industry and remedies and prevents specified unfair labor practices by employers or labor organizations. Case intake in 1973 was 26,487 unfair labor practice cases and 14,590 representation cases. 1974 and 1975 estimates for unfair labor practice cases are 29,405. Representation case estimates are 15,465 for 1974 and 16,395 for 1975.

1. Field investigation.—Charges of unfair labor practice and petitions for elections to resolve representation disputes are investigated by regional office personnel. About 88 percent of the unfair labor practice cases and about 83 percent of the representation cases are closed by settlement, dismissal, or withdrawal. The remainder are prepared for public hearing. The agency strives for the voluntary settlement of disputes, and the high incidence of informal settlements achieved thus far is expected to continue in 1975.

2. Administrative law judge hearing.—Administrative law judges conduct public hearings in unfair labor practice cases. Their findings and recommendations are set forth in their decisions. In 1973 there were 1,074 hearings closed, 17 proceedings adjusted after close of hearing, and 1,114 decisions issued. The estimate for 1974 is for 1,198 hearings to be closed, 32 adjusted after hearing and 1,156 decisions. The 1975 estimate is for 1,198 hearings closed, 32 adjusted after hearing and 1,156 decisions.

3. Board adjudication.—In an unfair labor practice case a judge's decision becomes a Board order if no exceptions are filed. About 30% of these decisions become automatic Board orders or are complied with voluntarily. The remainder with exceptions filed require contested Board decision. In 1973, 963 such Board decisions issued; the estimate for 1974 is 986 and for 1975, 986. In representation cases regional directors initially decide the issues by Board delegation. In 1973 regional directors issued 2,016 such decisions; and the estimate is 2,283 in 1974 and 2,421 in 1975. The Board itself decides representation issues on referral from regional directors or by granting a request for review of a regional director's decision. In 1973 the Board issued 144 representation decisions; and the estimates for 1974 and 1975 are 189 and 179 respectively. The Board also ruled on 313 objections and challenge questions in election cases in 1973; it is estimated that 295 and 313 such rulings will be required in 1974 and 1975.

4. Securing compliance with Board orders.—If the parties do not voluntarily comply with the Board's order involving unfair labor practices, the Board must request the appellate courts to enforce its decisions. In 1973 a total of 287 Board decisions of all kinds required such litigation; the estimate for 1974 is 329 and the estimate for 1975 is 329.

2. Voluntary arbitration and emergency disputes.—When mediation fails, the parties are urged to submit their differences to arbitration. If neither mediation nor voluntary arbitration is successful, the President, when notified of disputes which threaten seriously to interrupt service, may appoint an emergency board to investigate and report on the disputes.

The divisions of the Board are composed of an equal number of carrier and union representatives compensated by the party or parties he represents. Administrative direction and guidance is provided by the Staff Director-Grievances, compensated by the National Mediation Board. The appropriation also provides for neutral referees to sit with the Board when they are deadlocked. An alternative forum to the National Railroad Adjustment Board is provided by Public Law 89-456, whereby either the carrier or the organization can request the establishment of a Public Law Board to dispose of disputes otherwise referable to the Board.

The National Science Foundation (NSF) initiates and supports basic and applied research, science and technology policy research, science education improvement activities, and related scientific programs to promote the progress of science and advance the Nation's health, prosperity, welfare, and security.

The principal emphasis of the NSF's programs in 1975 will be to: (1) increase significantly support for fundamental research in the science disciplines, engineering, and materials with particular emphasis on basic investigations underpinning the uses of science to strengthen American society and advancing science on a broad front; (2) expand and accelerate research on selected problems of national concern, including energy, environment, and productivity; (3) promote international cooperation, through science; (4) provide for the development of an adequate scientific manpower base to meet the Nation's needs; and (5) analyze major science, technology, and energy R. & D. policy issues—through the NSF Director as science adviser—in order to improve the effectiveness of Federal R. & D. programs.

In 1975, the Foundation will strengthen its already substantial role in energy research and manpower as a part of the Nation's energy R. & D. program. Major efforts will include a balanced program of fundamental research to provide better understanding of all energy systems leading to the development of new materials, techniques, and processes for these systems. Basic and applied studies in solar and geothermal energy will result in the near future in the design and testing of systems for heating and cooling buildings using solar energy and for commercial utilization of geothermal energy. Selected advanced research will be pursued on nonconventional energy sources and alternative energy systems.

In accordance with Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1973, the responsibilities—vested in the Office of Science and Technology—were transferred to the Director of NSF on June 30, 1973 and will be continued in 1975.

The major program activities of the Foundation include:

1. Scientific research project support.—This program provides support for research directed at finding answers to unresolved scientific questions concerning fundamental life processes, processes that influence man's environment, and the forces impacting on man as a member of society and on the behavior of societies. It also involves significant research efforts that have great potential for underpinning future technology development and studies that can make important contributions in understanding and resolving problems faced by our economy and society. New or expanded thrusts will include research on energy, catalysis, biological pest control, plate tectonics, and wind effects on the design and construction of tall buildings.

2. National and special research programs.—These programs include large-scale research efforts to understand the physical environment as a basis for improved environmental management, such as (1) physical processes of the troposphere and atmosphere under the Global Atmospheric Research Program, (2) the ocean environment under the International Decade of Ocean Exploration, (3) the geology below the oceans in the Ocean Sediment Coring Program, and (4) the polar environs in the Arctic and Antarctic research programs. Also, they support the Nation's academic research fleet. In addition there are two research programs, established in 1974, in the areas of science and technology policy and energy research and development policy, which provide support to the NSF Director as Science Adviser to the President.

3. National research centers.—Five NSF-sponsored national research centers support advanced research in astronomy and the atmospheric sciences. These centers provide specialized facilities, equipment, staffing, and operational support which are beyond the capability of single educational or research institutions to provide. The Very Large Array, the most advanced radio astronomy facility in the world now under construction, is a prime example of an expanded national capability to study the nature of the universe and is receiving increased funding.

4. Science information activities.—This program supports research on and ways to improve the dissemination of science information.

5. International cooperative scientific activities.—Support is provided, chiefly for administrative expenses, to permit U.S. scientists and scientific organizations to participate with foreign scientists in international cooperative scientific activities, such as the U.S.-Japan cooperative science program and the U.S.-East Europe cooperative science program. Partial support of exchanges of scientists between the U.S. National Academy of Sciences and the Science and Technology Association of the People's Republic of China is also included.

6. Research applied to national needs (RANN).—This program supports research focused on selected problems of national concern to help provide the scientific knowledge base for their solution. The principal research areas are in advanced technology applications, advanced energy research and technology, social systems and human resources, environmental systems and resources, and exploratory research and problem assessment. In 1975, the thrust of this research will be on energy (solar and geothermal), environment, productivity (industrial and public service), earthquake engineering, and technology assessment. Special efforts are continuing to insure that the results of RANN research are being disseminated and utilized.

7. Intergovernmental science and research utilization program.—This activity supports State and local governments in exploring ways to use science and technology to improve the delivery of services and management of resources. It also assists in the dissemination and utilization of RANN and other research results.

8. Institutional improvement for science.—Competitive grants are awarded to help institutions improve their research management and to provide information which can aid NSF and other Federal agencies to improve their research management practices.

9. Graduate student support.—Support is provided under this program to a limited number of exceptionally talented students on the basis of a national competition.

10. Science education improvement.—Under this program, NSF supports efforts to improve the development of scientific and technical manpower; increase the general scientific literacy of the American people; increase the effectiveness of the educational process by various means, including the development of innovative uses of computers in education; and perform exploratory research and problem assessment.

11. Planning and policy studies.—This program identifies and analyzes science policy and program issues affecting the NSF and helps provide the data base necessary for decisionmaking.

In accordance with the reorganization mandated under the Postal Reorganization Act, the President under section 2009 of title 39, United States Code, has directed that starting with 1974 the operations of the new independent establishment will be excluded from the U.S. budget. This step recognizes the independent status of the new U.S. Postal Service and represents the completion of its budgetary transition from the former Post Office Department. The transactions of the Postal Service fund and the assets and liabilities of the U.S. Postal Service will appear in Part IV of the Appendix under Annexed Budgets and Other Material.

<sup>1</sup> The amount of $596,875 thousand reported as post-closing unexpended cash balance as of June 30, 1973, represents the balance on the audited financial statements of the U.S. Postal Service. It is $7 thousand lower than the unexpended cash balance on the Treasury books. The net difference of $7 thousand is made up of a difference of $11 thousand decreased outlays between what was reported by the Corps of Engineers to the Treasury and to U.S. Postal Service. This was offset by a $4 thousand discrepancy in the amount reported to U.S. Postal Service by Treasury in the Special Agent account.

<sup>2</sup> Workmen's compensation amount reported under current liabilities for 1972 includes liabilities of $33,173 thousand funded in fiscal years 1972 and 1973 through appropriations (for the cost of injuries occurring prior to June 30, 1971). The balance of $7,855 thousand in 1972 and the amount reported for fiscal year 1973 are being funded through the operations process (for post-June 30, 1971, injuries). The amounts reported under the reserves section of the balance sheet reflect the change in policy in financing workmen's compensation to show full accrued cost for injuries in the year in which they occur.

<sup>3</sup> At the beginning of 1972, the Postal Service carried a liability of $372,796 thousand from the former Post Office Department for earned and unused annual leave of postal employees. This liability is being funded over a period of 12 years through the appropriation process. The amount of $388,841 thousand reported in the reserves for 1972 includes a funded amount of $25,669 thousand. The $424,859 thousand for 1973 includes a funded amount of $92,688 thousand.

<sup>4</sup> These items are included in the "Change in selected resources" entries on the program and financing schedule in their entirety.

Railroad workers entering military service may have such service credited toward benefits under the railroad retirement system under certain conditions. The last of 10 yearly installments on the amount due the railroad retirement account for certain creditable military service through June 1963 was appropriated in 1974. The appropriation request of $3,516 thousand for 1975 covers the additional interest due the railroad retirement account because of delays in the enactment of the 10 appropriation installments.

Under the railroad retirement system, railroad workers and employers pay taxes on wages to finance the payment of annuities for age and disability and benefits for survivors and to finance the cost of hospital insurance benefits. These taxes are deposited in the Railroad retirement account and invested in Government securities. The portion of these taxes which finances hospital insurance benefits is transferred to the Federal hospital insurance trust fund under the financial interchange provisions governing the railroad retirement and social security systems.

Supplemental annuities also are paid to certain employees in addition to the regular annuities. This program is financed by a tax paid by employers on each man-hour of paid employment. These taxes are deposited in the Railroad retirement supplemental account and invested in Government securities.

The status of these trust funds is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Income.—The income of the Railroad retirement accounts consists of taxes paid by railroad employers and employees; interest on investments; appropriations for military service credits; and payments from the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund and Federal disability insurance trust fund. The railroad retirement system has a reinsurance arrangement of annual financial interchanges with the social security system so as to place that system in the same position in which it would have been if railroad employment had been included in social security coverage.

Retirement, disability, and survivor benefit payments.—Payment estimates reflect the continuing growth in the beneficiary rolls and the increases in benefit rates provided by law. Three benefit increases enacted in 1970, 1971, and 1972 were temporary—due to expire on December 31, 1974. Legislation requires the railroad industry to recommend a plan for soundly financing these increases on a permanent basis. Accordingly, the temporary increases and the revenue for their financing are shown on separate schedules for later transmission, proposed legislation.

Administrative expenses.—Such expenses are subject to annual limitations in appropriation acts (see Limitation on salaries and expenses).

Transfers to and from Railroad unemployment insurance account.—The Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act provides that when the balance in the Railroad unemployment insurance account is insufficient to pay benefits due under that act, necessary amounts are to be borrowed from the Railroad retirement account. When the balance in the Railroad unemployment insurance account permits, borrowed amounts are to be repaid to the Railroad retirement account with interest. At the end of 1973 the fund had $6 million in loans outstanding, compared to $50 million a year ago.

Payment to Federal hospital insurance trust fund.—Portion of taxes which finances hospital insurance benefits is for payment to the Federal hospital insurance trust fund, since payments of hospital benefits for railroad retirement beneficiaries are made from that fund.

Payment to Railroad unemployment insurance account.—Under section 10(h) of the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act as amended in 1968, the Board is required to reimburse the unemployment insurance account for certain sickness benefits paid to employees who could otherwise, under specified conditions, have received disability annuities under the Railroad Retirement Act for the same periods.

The Board administers an unemployment and sickness insurance system and an employment service for unemployed railroad workers. Administrative expenses are financed through a permanent authorization of 0.25% of taxable payroll. As of each June 30, the unobligated balance in this fund in excess of $6 million is transferred to the Railroad unemployment insurance account in the unemployment trust fund.

1. Maintenance of earnings accounts.—Insurance payments for unemployment and sickness benefits are based on individual records of earnings and daily wage rates; and the workload fluctuates according to such factors as level of employment and rate of turnover in the railroad industry. The costs are shared on a measured basis with the retirement program. Accounts posted are estimated at 697,000 in 1975.

2. Processing of unemployment insurance claims.—Workers' claims for unemployment compensation are filed locally and certified for payment through the headquarters offices. Unemployment claims receipts are estimated to be 490,000 in 1975.

3. Processing of sickness claims.—These claims are filed by mail and certified for payment through the headquarters offices of the Board. Sickness claims receipts are estimated to be 505,000 in 1975.

4. Claimant placement services.—The Board conducts an employment service for unemployment benefit claimants. This resulted in savings of benefit payments of approximately $758 thousand in 1973 as 4,200 placements were made. Placements are estimated to be the same in 1974 and 1975.

5. Administration.—The costs of administration are shared between this and the retirement program on a measured basis.

The Board administers the Railroad Retirement Act which provides a program for the payment of regular annuities for age and disability and benefits for survivors, financed by taxes paid equally by employers and employees. The Board also participates in the administration of the hospital and medical insurance programs for persons covered by the Railroad Retirement Act for which it is reimbursed in part by the Social Security Administration.

The Board also administers a program for the payment of supplemental annuities under certain conditions to career railroad workers awarded regular retirement annuities after June 1966, financed by a tax paid by employers based on the number of man-hours for which they pay compensation. The supplemental annuity paid to employees is in addition to the regular railroad retirement annuity.

1. Maintenance of earnings accounts.—Eligibility for retirement and the amount of benefits paid are based on individual records of earnings, and the workload fluctuates according to such factors as level of employment, and rate of turnover in the railroad industry. Accounts posted are estimated at 697,000 in 1975. The costs are shared on a measured basis with the railroad unemployment insurance program.

2. Processing claims.—This activity includes the work of processing annuity claims and establishing eligibility of persons for health and medical insurance benefits. New applications received are estimated to be 146,000 in 1975.

3. Maintenance of beneficiary rolls.—Benefit payments must be authorized each month for those persons on the rolls who continue to remain eligible. The number of persons on the rolls receiving monthly benefit payments will increase from 987,000 at the end of 1973 to an estimated 1,006,000 at the end of 1975. The number of persons also receiving supplemental annuities will increase to 118,000 at the end of 1975. The number of persons enrolled for Medicare will decrease to 854,000 in 1975.

4. Administration.—The cost of administration is shared between the retirement and the railroad unemployment insurance programs on a measured basis.

The Board conducts renegotiation with contractors and subcontractors to determine and eliminate excessive profits in connection with procurement under defense and space programs. From the date of its establishment through June 30, 1973, the Board made determinations of excessive profits in the amount of $1.16 billion. Of this total, $27.5 million was determined during 1973.

1. Executive direction.—The Statutory Board is responsible for final action in all cases, including the screening of contractors' filings and the handling of requests for exemptions.

2. Staff operations.—The headquarters staff furnishes technical advice and assistance to the Statutory Board and to the regional boards.

3. Renegotiation operations (field).—The two regional boards conduct renegotiation proceedings and make determinations and recommendations. They are authorized to conclude cases involving $800 thousand or less of renegotiable profits; however, their determinations in such cases may be appealed to the Statutory Board.

The primary purpose of the Commission is to protect the interests of the investing public.

1. Full disclosure.—Issuers of securities for public sale are required to file a registration statement and related prospectus containing significant information about the issuer and the offering with the Commission. This is to insure that investors will be provided with the material facts concerning security offerings. Certain provisions of the Securities Act Amendments enacted August 20, 1964 extend to investors in certain over-the-counter securities the same protections afforded to those in listed securities: namely, registration of classes of securities; annual and periodic company reporting; regulation of proxy solicitation; and restriction upon "insider" trading.

3. Supervision and regulation of securities markets.—National securities exchanges and over-the-counter markets are regulated in the interest of maintaining just and equitable principles of trade for the protection of the public investors. One of the purposes of the Securities Acts Amendments of 1964 is, through Commission regulation, to have nonmembers of the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASD) in the same regulatory position as NASD brokers and dealers.

The Selective Service System must be prepared to furnish the men necessary to maintain the Armed Forces at authorized strength to the extent that this cannot be done by voluntary means. This would be accomplished by means of inductions, the magnitude of which would be determined by the Department of Defense. Since March 1972, the order of registrants to be selected for induction has been determined by lottery drawings which assign random sequence numbers in a Uniform National Call method. Under the law the System is required to maintain a readiness, notwithstanding the expiration of the induction authority, to satisfy possible emergency mobilization requirements by registering and classifying young men.

1. Service to registrants.—This activity includes registering, classifying, selecting, inducting when authorized, and providing information. Over 27,000 uncompensated citizens, including the members of local boards and advisors to registrants, help provide service to registrants.

2. Examination services.—Preinduction travel costs are based on fulfillment of the requirements of section 4(a) of the Military Selective Service Act.

<sup>1</sup> Includes for 1974 proposed additional transfer of $3,450 thousand for civilian pay raises and $5,000 thousand additional transfer for disaster loan-making activities.

The Small Business Administration counsels, assists, and protects the interest of small business, and provides aid to business firms and homeowners who have suffered losses through disasters. These efforts are conducted through the following activities:

1. Procurement and management assistance.—The objectives of this activity are (a) to insure that a fair proportion of Government contracts for purchases of supplies and services, including research and development, and for the sale and disposal of property, be placed with small business enterprises, (b) to provide technical and management assistance through management courses, and counseling on new and improved products and processes, and (c) to provide for greater involvement of disadvantaged and minority contractors in the Federal procurement program through the use of the authority contained in section 8(a) of the Small Business Act, as amended. This section enables the agency to act as prime contractor to provide goods and services to other Government agencies and in turn arrange for performance of such contracts by negotiating or otherwise letting subcontracts to small business concerns.

2. Research contracts.—Research studies designed to reveal matters materially affecting the competitive strength of small business and the effect on small business of Federal laws, programs, and regulations are financed under this activity.

3. Economic opportunity management assistance.—As authorized by section 406, title IV, of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, SBA will contract for professional management training and support of small business entrepreneurs in areas with high concentrations of unemployed or low-income individuals to (a) establish the management training, counseling, and support needs of firms in target areas, (b) identify business opportunities in these areas, and (c) determine the feasibility and profit potential of proposed business development to be located in such areas.

Funds for these three activities are provided by direct appropriation.

4. Financial assistance.—The activity comprises:

(a) Business loans.—This includes loans and financial counseling to business concerns, businesses displaced because of federally aided construction, businesses eligible under title IV of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 and those loans to the handicapped or nonprofit organizations hiring the handicapped under new section 7(g) of the Small Business Act. The program for 1975 is projected as follows:

	Number	Millions of dollars
Section 7(a) business loans.....	32,770	2,702.0
Section 7(g) handicap loans.....	300	31.0
Economic opportunity loans.....	7,765	165.0
Displaced business loans.....	417	52.5

(b) Development company loans.—This covers (a) efforts to encourage private lending institutions to expand their role in the economic development of their respective States and (b) loans to State and local development companies to enable them to provide the long-term capital—equity and loans—to small businesses. It is estimated that 930 loans in the amount of $118 million will be made in 1975.

(c) Disaster loans.—This provides financial assistance on favorable terms to victims of natural disasters for rehabilitation of property damaged or destroyed, and loans to small firms to enable them to comply with new health and safety standards (involving changes in equipment, facilities, or methods of operation).

5. Investment company assistance and supervision.—In order to stimulate and supplement the flow of private capital to small business concerns, the Small Business Administration is authorized to (a) license, regulate, and examine small business investment companies, and (b) provide funds to such companies for financing small business firms. The program level for 1975 is estimated at $165 million.

6. Lease and surety bond guarantees.—(a) Lease guarantees.—In order to enable small businesses to compete on an equal basis with financially strong businesses in the leasing of facilities in shopping centers and other business properties the Small Business Administration is empowered to guarantee the payment of rentals under leases of commercial and industrial property entered into by small business concerns. The program level for 1975 is estimated at 400 guarantees for $160 million (aggregate rent).

(b) Surety bond guarantees.—In order to assist small firms, primarily minority owned, to obtain bid, performance, and payment bonds, the Small Business Administration is authorized to guarantee sureties against losses. SBA's guarantee is 90% of the loss under contracts not exceeding $500 thousand in amount. The program level (contracts insured) for 1975 is estimated at 16,000 for $1,040 million.

Public Law 89-409, approved May 2, 1966, established this fund as of July 1, 1966, to finance loan programs and prime contracting activity performed pursuant to sections 7(a), 7(b)(3), 7(e), 7(g), and 8(a) of the Small Business Act, as amended, titles III and V of the Small Business Investment Act of 1958, as amended, and title IV of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, as amended. Administrative, interest, and other related expenses are also financed from this fund.

While no ceiling on authorized appropriations is specified, a limitation of $6.0 billion has been placed on the amount of loans and commitments (reservations) which may be outstanding at any time. This ceiling is composed of separate limitations on outstanding amounts as follows (in millions of dollars):

Business loans (including a limitation of $381.3 million on economic opportunity loans) <sup>1</sup> .....	4,875
Development company loans <sup>1</sup> .....	525

Capital outlay.—1. Financial assistance.—Business loans (sec. 7(a), Small Business Act).—Loans may be made to small businesses directly or in participation with banks or other lending institutions, and are of such sound value or so secured as reasonably to assure repayment. No loan may be made unless the financial assistance is not otherwise available on reasonable terms. No direct loan may be made unless it is shown that a bank participation is not available and no loan on an immediate participation basis may be made unless it is shown that a guaranteed loan is not available. Under the guaranty plan, the Small Business Administration agrees to purchase the guaranteed portion of the loan only upon default.

The agency's share of an immediate participation or guaranteed loan is limited to 90%. Its maximum outstanding loan and/or commitment to any one borrower is limited by statute to $350 thousand. Business loans, except for the portion for construction of facilities for which the maximum is 15 years, are limited to a maturity of 10 years and are made at a rate of 5½% on the agency's share thereof.

From the inception of the lending program (Sept. 29, 1953) through June 30, 1973, 162,352 loans have been approved in a total amount of $9.13 billion. Participating banks' share of this amount has been $1.56 billion. Seventy-seven percent of the total loans approved have been on a participation or guaranteed basis. In 1975, it is estimated that $2,322.0 million in loans will be approved, compared with an estimate of $2,141.4 million in 1974.

Business loans (sec. 7(g), Small Business Act).—The Small Business Investment Act Amendments of 1972, signed into law on October 27, 1972, added a new section 7(g)(1) to the Small Business Act authorizing loans to handicapped persons operating or establishing small business, and to nonprofit organizations hiring the handicapped.

Funds may be loaned to any one borrower up to a maximum of $350 thousand for 15 years.

Business loans (Economic Opportunity Act of 1964).—The Small Business Administration administers a program of financial assistance to small business concerns and to qualified persons seeking to establish such concerns pursuant to authority contained in title IV of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 (78 Stat. 526). Loans may be on a direct, immediate participation, or guaranteed basis for up to $50 thousand, for a maximum term of 15 years. The credit and collateral requirements are more flexible than those applicable to 7(a) business loans and provision for management training is made an integral part of the program. It is estimated that $155.0 million in loans will be approved in 1975 in comparison with $152.6 million in 1974.

Displaced business loans.—Pursuant to authority provided in the Housing Act of 1961, loans are made to small firms that suffer substantial economic injury as a result of being forced to move by federally aided urban renewal, highway, and other construction programs or as a result of being adjacent, or near, a federally aided construction project. The interest rate on the Small Business Administration's share of these loans is determined pursuant to a formula prescribed by legislation. For 1973, the rate was 5% per annum. The rate will be 6% in 1974. Through June 30, 1973, a total of 3,169 displaced business loans for $318.1 million had been approved. Approvals during 1973 were 359. It is estimated that 417 loans for $52.5 million will be approved in 1975 compared to 536 loans for $52.5 million in 1974.

Development company loans.—The Small Business Administration lends funds to State and local development companies pursuant to sections 501 and 502 of the Small Business Investment Act, as amended. Funds are made available to State development companies for general use purposes under section 501 and to State and local development companies for plant construction, conversion, or expansion, including the acquisition of land, under section 502.

2. Investment company assistance.—To encourage the formation and growth of small business investment companies, the Small Business Investment Act, as amended, authorizes the Small Business Administration to purchase, or to guarantee the timely payment of all principal and interest as scheduled on, debentures issued by such companies. The Small Business Investment Act Amendments of 1972, approved October 27, 1972 (Public Law 92-595), authorize in addition the purchase of preferred securities (shares of nonvoting stock or other securities having similar characteristics) from small business investment companies operating under authority of new section 301(d) wherein the investment policy of such companies will be to make investments solely in small concerns owned and operated by disadvantaged persons.

Debentures purchased or guaranteed by the Small Business Administration shall be subordinate to any other debts and obligations of such companies, unless the Administration determines otherwise in the exercise of reasonable investment prudence. The amount of debentures which may be purchased or guaranteed, or preferred securities which may be purchased, and outstanding at any one time from a company depends on the amount of combined private paid-in capital and paid-in surplus of such company, but in no event may exceed $20 million for other than 301(d) companies.

Operating costs.—Interest expense.—Pursuant to section 4(c) of the Small Business Act, interest is payable into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury on outstanding cash disbursements from the fund. The interest rate or rates applicable to each year's disbursements are determined at the beginning of the year by the Secretary of the Treasury. The rates set by the Secretary of the Treasury for disbursements in 1974 are 6¼% for 7(a) business, State development company, and economic opportunity loans, 6⅞% for SBIC loans and/or debentures and 7% for displaced business and local development company loans. These same rates have been used in computing interest expense in 1975.

Administrative expense.—Expenses for the loan program financed by this revolving fund are financed by transfer of funds to the appropriation, Salaries and expenses. Use of these funds for salaries, travel, and related expenses is accordingly reflected in the schedules for that appropriation account.

Financing.—Appropriations are authorized to be made to the fund as additional capital to the extent required to carry out the authorized functions.

In lieu of appropriations, additional capital funds required in the several years prior to 1971 were provided by the sale of participations in loan pools. Of the $1.35 billion of such participation certificates sold, $1,117.2 million was allocated to this fund, of which $354.6 million remained outstanding on June 30, 1973. Beginning in 1971, capital funds required have been provided by appropriations. It is estimated that a capital appropriation of $328 million will be required in 1975 to provide sufficient resources to finance the planned program levels for that year.

Participation sales insufficiencies.—In respect to participation sales as discussed immediately above the Participation Sales Act of 1966, authorized appropriations without fiscal year limitation of such sums as may be necessary to permit trustor agency to pay the trustee such insufficiency as the trustee may require on account of outstanding participations. The authority is not applicable to the 1966 sales in the predecessor fund. An insufficiency results primarily from the fact that the interest rate on participation certificates exceeds the interest rate on the loans pledged in support of the respective participations.

A permanent appropriation in such amount as may prove necessary each year was provided in the Independent Offices Appropriation Act of 1967, in connection with participation sales of $850 million as were authorized by that act. However, for each of the years 1968 through 1974, the Congress provided annual appropriations for any insufficiency arising from the $150 million sales authority provided in the agency's appropriation act.

Operating results.—The fund will continue to operate at a deficit. Interest and fee income will not be sufficient to cover interest, administrative, and other expenses, and a provision for estimated losses. Primarily this reflects the excess of interest expense rates over interest income rates and the cost of servicing an expanding number of widely scattered loans which are relatively small in size.

An additional factor which will further increase the deficit of the fund in 1974 and 1975 is the cost differential on section 8(a) contracts. In expanding the use of the section 8(a) prime contracting authority to bring more minority firms into the Government procurement process, it is anticipated there will be many instances in which the program objectives will justify a payment to the minority subcontractor in excess of an apparent competitive market price to the procuring agency. This differential reflects such things as added startup, labor and/or material costs applicable to the particular firm and circumstances involved.

Public Law 89-409 established this fund to finance disaster loans made pursuant to sections 7(b), 7(f), and 7(g) of the Small Business Act, as amended, other than those to displaced businesses made under section 7(b)(3). Administrative, interest, and other related expenses are also financed from this fund.

No limitation exists on the amount of loans and commitments (reservations) which may be outstanding at any one time from the fund. Actual and estimated outstanding disaster loans and reservations at the end of each year are as follows (in millions of dollars):

	1973 actual	1974 estimate	1975 estimate
Investment in outstanding loans.....	1,271.8	1,474.2	1,623.6
Guaranteed loans disbursed by banks.....	5.2	5.2	5.2

Total loans and reservations.....	1,686.5	1,682.5	1,681.5

The maximum term for a loan is 30 years, and the maximum interest rate is 5% except as detailed below. Interest on loans to small firms likely to suffer economic injury without such loan assistance in complying with new health and safety standards imposed by a number of Federal statutes or State laws enacted in conformity therewith is set annually pursuant to statutory formula and for 1974 is 6 $\frac{1}{8}$ %.

Through June 30, 1973, a total of 458,912 disaster loans for $2,981 million had been approved. Approvals during 1973 were 215,001 loans for $1,523.7 million. The estimate for new loans is $500 million in 1974 and $200 million in 1975.

Interest expense.—Pursuant to section 4(c) of the Small Business Act, interest is payable into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury on outstanding cash disbursements from the fund. The rate set by the Secretary of the Treasury for disbursements in 1974 is 7% for "economic injury" loans, and 6 $\frac{3}{4}$ % for other disaster loans. These rates have also been used in computing interest expense in 1975.

Interest is payable to the holders of participation certificates at specified rates set at the time of sale. Interest collections on pledged loans are remitted to the trustee for purposes of paying such interest as it comes due. To the extent that the interest rates on certificates exceeds the interest rate on pledged loans, the collections of interest on pledged loans will be insufficient to meet the interest payable on the certificates. Appropriations for this insufficiency are authorized, as is discussed in detail below under the head Participation sales insufficiencies.

Administrative expense.—Administrative expenses for this program are financed by transfer of funds from the revolving fund to the appropriation, Salaries and expenses. Use of these funds for salaries, travel, and related expenses is accordingly reflected in the schedules for that appropriation account. The number of disaster loan servicing personnel will increase by 50 in 1975.

Financing.—Appropriations are authorized to be made to the fund as capital to the extent required to carry out the authorized functions. Beginning in 1970, capital funds required have been provided by appropriations. A capital appropriation of $91 million is requested for 1975.

Participation sales insufficiencies.—The Participation Sales Act of 1966 authorized appropriations without fiscal year limitation of such sums as may be necessary to permit any trustor agency to pay the trustee such insufficiency as the trustee may require on account of outstanding participations.

A permanent appropriation in such amount as may prove necessary each year was provided in the Independent Offices Appropriation Act 1967. However, for 1968 through 1974, the Congress has provided annual appropriations for any insufficiency arising from the $150 million sales authority provided in the agency's 1968 appropriations applicable entirely to the Business loan and investment fund.

Operating results.—With interest rates of 1% and 3% on the majority of loans in the portfolio, interest and other income is not sufficient to cover interest to Treasury at the current rate of 7% and 6 $\frac{3}{4}$ % as well as administrative expenses, interest expense on participation certificates, and a provision for estimated losses.

Pursuant to Public Law 89-117, this fund was initially capitalized by the transfer of $5 million from the Revolving fund, Small Business Administration. Public Law 91-609, approved December 31, 1970, authorized a new program of surety bond guarantees also to be financed from this fund. An additional $5 million of capital was authorized for transfer from the Business loan and investment fund.

1. Lease guarantees.—The lease guarantees program is designed to provide prime space for those small business firms which cannot compete with prospective tenants with AAA ratings. In order to make the program self-sustaining, lessees pay an insurance premium based on sound actuarial computations, but not in excess of 2½% of the lease amount. It is estimated that 400 commitments for an aggregate rental guarantee of $160 million will be made in 1975.

2. Surety bond guarantees.—The surety bond guarantees program is designed to assist contractors in obtaining a larger share of municipal, State, Federal, and private contracts. The Small Business Administration will guarantee reimbursement of up to 90% of the losses sustained by a surety company as a result of the issuance of a bid, payment, and/or performance bond to a small business concern on a contract up to $500 thousand.

It is estimated that surety bond guarantees will be made in connection with 16,000 contracts totaling $1,040 million in 1975.

The Smithsonian Institution maintains public exhibits, representative of the arts, American history, aeronautics and astronautics, technology, anthropology, geology, and biology including living animal exhibits; preserves for reference and study purposes millions of items of scientific, cultural, and historic importance; conducts research in the natural and physical sciences and in the history of cultures, technology, and the arts; presents performances of American arts and crafts; has education programs at all levels; and participates in the exchange of scientific information.

The Institution is responsible for the operation and maintenance of 10 major exhibition buildings, including the recently acquired Hillwood estate; a zoological park; a preservation and storage facility at Silver Hill, Md.; a conference center at Elkridge, Md.; 2 natural preserves, in Panama and on the Chesapeake Bay; an observatory on Mount Hopkins, Ariz.; and supporting administrative, laboratory, and storage areas. Visitor attendance to buildings on and off the Mall, including the National Zoological Park, totaled over 20 million in 1973.

Emphasis in 1975 and subsequent years will be given to meeting the following Smithsonian objectives. The Institution is committed to opening the Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden in 1974. Special preparations are being made for the Institution's participation in the Washington, D.C., Bicentennial of the American Revolution effort as well as to commemorative activity across the Nation, and to research, collections restoration, and exhibits preparation pointing toward the opening of the National Air and Space Museum, now under construction, on July 4, 1976. High priority is given to the implementation of the master plan for the National Zoological Park to provide new and improved facilities for the animals and the visiting public.

The Smithsonian will continue to make a strong effort to correct serious deficiencies in the availability of technicians and other supporting staff, equipment, laboratory, and workroom supplies and materials, data processing, library materials, and other types of support to permit the professional staff to perform productive research in art, history, and science.

The acquisition, documentation, and care of the National Collections will be stressed. Key objects will be added to the collections for study and exhibition. Improved collection inventory and data management systems will be developed for research purposes and to answer public inquiries. Objects in the collections will be conserved to avoid deterioration and loss.

General exhibition, education, and outreach programs will be strengthened to keep pace with the rapidly rising numbers of visitors to our museums and art galleries, and to the museum public across the Nation. Special attention will be given to such diverse but related activities as the care and exhibition of the animal collections, exhibits demonstration, music, and publication programs, school tour and education programs, and the preparation of new exhibits and maintenance and upgrading of older exhibits for the pleasure and education of visitors. The Institution will also stress outreach activities such as the development of an exhibits training laboratory for young, inner-city people, its Folklife Festival on the Mall, traveling exhibits, and assistance to other museums through the National Museum Act. Pursuant to this act, funds also are transferred each year to the National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities.

Special research efforts will be undertaken in tropical and temperate zone environmental studies, in astrophysics and radiation biology, and in military history, music, and long neglected aspects of American civilization such as food, clothing, shelter, communication, and transportation.

Central administration and supporting services will be strengthened to give adequate program direction, management, and assistance to a complex organization. More adequate protection, preventive maintenance, and custodial care will be given to buildings and facilities in the face of rising public visitation and use.

In 1975 this account has been expanded to include the Science Information Exchange, formerly funded through a separate appropriation. The Exchange gathers, synthesizes, packages, and delivers information on scientific research being conducted by the Federal Government and the private scientific community. It answers questions from research investigators, directors, and program administrators throughout the national science community regarding who is currently working on what project, where, when, and source of funding.

The Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars is the Nation's living memorial to its 28th President. In its 3 years of operations, the Center has sought to commemorate both the scholarly depth and the public concerns of Woodrow Wilson through a program of advanced research and of communication between the world of ideas and the world of affairs.

Scholarly research has been conducted by 100 fellows from 24 countries—much of it in subject areas specially designated by the 15-man, mixed private-public Board of Trustees: the deterioration of the environment, the limits of economic growth, uses of the ocean, American institutions of government, and the international order in the post-Vietnam period. There have been 34 shorter term guest scholars, and an expansion of these numbers is foreseen.

A new category of public service will involve biweekly evening dialogues and special scholarly visits to Washington designed to focus widely varying scholarly talents on questions of concern to the public sector in Washington. A special international recruitment effort has been sanctioned by the Board to bring new historical and philosophical depth and even greater breadth of representation into the Center's company of fellows.

The Center also proposes to play an increasing role in transmitting to the public a richer appreciation of the unique human and archival resources available in the capital for illuminating man's understanding of his past and emerging problems. One new program for the forthcoming year will bring distinguished historians from abroad to work in Washington on the American Revolution as a world event. Another program will bring representatives from State and local governments from every major region of the country and from abroad to write a series of studies on the problems and future of the American federal system.

The Tariff Act of 1930 empowers the U.S. Tariff Commission to investigate the conditions, causes, and effects of competition between domestic and foreign industry and to provide reports to the President and the Congress on these matters. Within this general responsibility, the Commission is also directed by the Trade Expansion Act of 1962 and other statutes to conduct specific types of investigations and, where appropriate, to make findings and recommendations to the executive or the Congress in cases where: serious injury to industries or firms, or unemployment or underemployment of groups of workers may warrant increases in duties, the imposition of quotas, or the provision of adjustment assistance; imports of goods sold at less than fair value may injure an industry; imports of agricultural products may materially interfere with certain programs of the Department of Agriculture; and unfair methods of competition may occur in the importation or the sale of foreign articles.

The Commission also compiles a summary of actions affecting the customs treatment of imported products and publishes the Tariff Schedules of the United States, Annotated (TSUSA) which includes both tariff provisions relating to all imported articles and the statistical subdivisions to be used in reporting the commodity composition of imports.

The workload of the Commission is expected to continue to grow in 1975. The Commission expects that requirements for comprehensive studies of key trade and tariff issues for the Congress and the President will be high and that congressional committees will continue to request Commission assistance in their consideration of trade and tariff legislation. In addition, the Commission will be called on to provide a growing volume of technical information and expert assistance to U.S. representatives in international trade and tariff negotiations.

Section 17(a)(9)(A) of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act, Public Law 92-203, limits the Federal share of the expenses of the Joint Federal-State Land Use Planning Commission for Alaska to 50 percent. The State of Alaska provides for the remaining 50 percent of Commission expenses through a combination of (1) assignment of State employees to the Commission professional resource staff and (2) cash payments. For 1975 the total State contribution is estimated at $694 thousand. A total of $194 thousand will be provided in-kind through assignment of State employees; the remaining $500 thousand cash contribution is reflected in this account.

The Congress created the Tennessee Valley Authority in 1933 for the unified development of a river basin comprising parts of seven States. TVA is a corporation wholly owned by the Federal Government. Its program in 1975 will be financed from three sources: (1) appropriations by the Congress; (2) proceeds available from current power operations and borrowings against future power revenues; and (3) proceeds available from nonpower activities.

Budget program—1. Regional development program.—A major objective of the TVA Act is full development and use of all the resources of the Tennessee River Basin. The development of these resources is reflected in regional and national gains in the fields of navigation, flood control, water quality, recreation and wildlife; in land resources—agriculture, forestry, and minerals; in education and manpower development; and in related industrial development.

(a) Water resources development includes continuing development of the all-year 9-foot navigation channel from the mouth of the river at Paducah, Ky., to Knoxville, Tenn., a distance of 650 miles. Technical studies appraise the opportunities for more extensive use of the waterway. Data supplied to shippers and carriers help solve transportation problems. Advisory work with State and local agencies leads to new or improved public programs by those agencies to help assure full industrial use of the waterway.

Flood control activities are concerned with maintenance and use of storage space in upstream reservoirs for seasonal retention of excessive runoff and the regulation of discharges to rates of flow which can be handled safely by downstream channels and reservoirs. Flood crests are reduced along the Tennessee River and along the tributaries downstream from the reservoirs and along the lower Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. Also, TVA collects and analyzes flood data and studies potential flood control projects and ways to improve operations of the existing system. Technical advice and assistance is given to State and local agencies in finding solutions to localized flood control problems.

Regional water quality management comprises the determination of basic facts about water quality, planning of ways of maintaining or upgrading the quality of the water resources, and monitoring and surveillance to assure that water quality does not deteriorate. This work is conducted in cooperation with appropriate Federal, State, and local agencies and with industrial users of water.

Recreation, fisheries, and waterfowl resources development activities are designed to promote the optimum development of the water and other scenic resources of the region in a way that will improve the physical and cultural environment, stimulate economic development, and conserve natural and historical resources.

The capital outlay program for water resources development includes a total of $33,147 thousand for continuing construction of multipurpose projects: (1) $13.0 million for the Duck River project started in 1972; (2) $2,997 thousand for the Bear Creek project started in 1967; and (3) $15,620 thousand for the Tellico project also started in 1967.

The program also includes capital outlays of $478 thousand for navigation facilities of which $275 thousand is for continuing alteration of a railway bridge at Decatur, Ala.; and $203 thousand is for other facilities. An amount of $400 thousand is included for partial replenishment of a fund for small flood control projects.

All water resources development facilities are planned, constructed, and operated in cooperation with State and local agencies.

(b) General resources development.—Special attention to selected areas and resources of the Tennessee Valley region, in particularly close cooperation with State and local agencies and with tributary area associations, constitutes an additional phase of TVA's program for the proper use, conservation, and development of the region's resources. Investigations identify current problems and opportunities for development under conditions of optimum use. Research helps develop and test corrective measures. Co-operative projects with State and local groups apply these measures to regional and special problems.

Land resources projects are in the fields of forest and wildland development, agriculture, and minerals. Forest and wildland activities include appraisals of the quality and quantity of the existing resource, research and demonstrations concerning improvement of the resource—promotion of sound forest management and wood utilization practices, development of improved wildlife food and cover plants, and reclamation of strip mine lands. The objective is to make full use of the forest and wildland resources of the Valley and to develop it for maximum sustained economic return, while enhancing contributions of the resource to a quality environment. Research and demonstrations in agriculture have the objectives of assistance to Valley farmers in improving their economic situation and attainment of a higher standard of living through efficient use of land resources and improved farm practices and systems. Minerals projects have emphasis on economic geology and preparation, in cooperation with State agencies, of geologic maps essential to the development of regional minerals.

Environmental quality projects are concerned with (1) demonstrations concerning economic disposal of solid wastes; and (2) regional air quality management.

Tributary area development is a comprehensive and cooperative approach to resource development in areas of the Tennessee Valley where specific opportunities exist for further development and where local groups have organized to deal with problems of economic advancement and social improvement. Work is in close collaboration with organized groups in the tributary areas, most of which lie wholly or in part in the Appalachia portion of the Tennessee Valley.

Demonstrations in education and manpower development are concerned primarily with bringing into the workforce disadvantaged persons and for improving educational systems in low-income rural areas.

Townlift and community improvement is a technical assistance activity in which TVA helps State and local agencies to improve existing towns to better fit them to changed demands upon them for service and to guide the development of new towns where such may be needed in relationship to water resources development projects.

TVA participates in health education and community demonstrations in cooperation with Federal, State, and local groups to upgrade health care in rural areas.

(c) Land Between the Lakes.—Work will continue on development of the 170,000-acre area in western Kentucky and Tennessee situated between TVA's Kentucky reservoir and the Corps of Engineers' Barkley Lake. Land Between the Lakes is a demonstration of new ideas in public outdoor recreation and conservation education and its development is stimulating the lagging economy of the surrounding area by encouraging further private development. The project includes a variety of facilities where an urbanizing population can use part of its increased leisure to renew its acquaintance with the land and gain new understandings of modern concepts of resource use and conservation. Work on facilities to serve visitors calls for capital outlays of $2,041 thousand.

2. Power program.—TVA is the sole supplier of electric power in an area of 80,000 square miles of the Tennessee Valley States. Operations involve generation and transmission of power and sale of energy at wholesale to local distribution systems and directly to a small number of industries and Government agencies requiring large amounts of power. Power is purchased and distributed by 160 local public agencies. Total energy to be supplied in 1975 is estimated to be 138.4 billion kilowatt-hours. Net income from power operations, after interest charges and depreciation, is estimated to be $222,173 thousand for 1975.

Of the $462,864 thousand estimate for power generating facilities, all to be financed from power proceeds and borrowings, $54,019 thousand is for continuing construction of Browns Ferry nuclear units 1-3; $82,673 thousand for continuing Sequoyah nuclear units 1-2; $41,013 thousand for continuing construction of Raccoon Mountain pumped-storage units 1-4; $195,808 thousand for Watts Bar Nuclear Plant units 1-2; $80,040 thousand for Bellefonte Nuclear Plant units 1-2; $8,206 thousand for Hartsville Nuclear Plant units 1-4; and $1,105 thousand for preliminary work on additional capacity needed for the future (nuclear plants 7 and 8 at undetermined locations). Each increment in this program for power generating capacity additions is essential to meeting expected power needs of the Tennessee Valley region.

Capital outlay in 1975 for all power system facilities, including transmission system facilities, is estimated at $711,461 thousand.

3. Fertilizer and munitions development program.—Chemical facilities at Muscle Shoals, Ala., are maintained and operated as a national fertilizer development center. Program activities are of two general types: fertilizer research and development, and introduction to the American farmer of new fertilizer materials and improved fertilizer uses.

Fertilizer research and development consists of basic chemical and agronomic research and fertilizer process research and development. TVA works cooperatively with the Department of Agriculture, the land-grant universities, and with industry to maximize effectiveness of research and to avoid undesirable duplication. Research results on technological developments and on new and improved processes are made available to industry. Knowledge gained in fertilizer research is valuable also in the related field of munitions. Special attention is given to methods for the recovery of sulfur in useful form from stack gases.

Fertilizer introduction is carried on cooperatively with the land-grant universities and the fertilizer industry. It includes carefully controlled small-plot demonstrations, tests and demonstrations of fertilizer materials and practices on selected operating farms, and nationwide educational introduction of fertilizers. Developmental production of fertilizer materials has the objectives of (1) demonstrating the technical and commercial feasibility of new or improved processes and (2) supplying new and improved materials for widespread educational introduction among farmers.

Capital outlay costs of $3,259 thousand for chemical facilities are chiefly for (1) replacement of storage tanks and work on other pollution abatement facilities, (2) completing construction of a demonstration-scale unit for production of sulfur-coated urea, and (3) other small additions and replacements of existing facilities.

4. General service activities.—Operating costs for general service activities cover mapping and remote sensing, bridge maintenance, fallout shelter maintenance, and reimbursable services furnished at the request and expense of other agencies. Capital outlay for Reno Bridge on Great Falls reservoir is estimated at $1,200 thousand and for additions and replacements of office, transportation, electronic computing equipment, and other facilities used jointly in conducting TVA programs an additional $3,317 thousand will be required.

Financing.—Amounts estimated to become available in 1975 are to be derived from (1) the requested appropriation of $74.6 million; (2) nonpower revenues and receipts of $38,339 thousand; and (3) power revenues and receipts of $1,152,283 thousand. In addition, the budget program anticipates financing from borrowings of $480.0 million backed by future revenues. A summary of the application of appropriations follows.

Operating results and financial condition.—Only the power program is intended to be self-supporting; the net expense of nonpower programs is covered largely by appropriations from the Treasury. Payments to the Treasury from power proceeds in 1975 are estimated at $90.0 million—$70.0 million as a dividend (return on the appropriation investment in the power program) and $20.0 million as a reduction in the appropriation investment in the power program. Borrowings from the public for the power program are expected to increase by $480.0 million during 1975.

Total assets are estimated to increase by $635,174 thousand during 1975. The increase is mainly in real property and equipment, reflecting expenditures for construction of facilities; $601,486 thousand of the increase in assets is in the power program and $33,688 thousand is in nonpower programs. The estimate of liabilities at June 30, 1975, is $471,099 thousand more than the estimate at June 30, 1974. This increase reflects the proposed borrowings from the public in 1975. Total Government equity at June 30, 1975, is estimated to be $164,075 thousand more than that at June 30, 1974. This change includes the requested appropriation for 1975 and the net income from power operations, less payments to the Treasury and the net expense of nonpower programs.

Note.—Includes $1,875 thousand in 1975 and $2,050 thousand in 1974 for activities previously financed from: Salaries and expenses (special foreign currency program); 1973, $2,191 thousand.

United States Information Agency operations, which are largely financed from this appropriation and from the related special foreign currency appropriation, are composed of the following major elements:

1. Overseas missions.—The program is operative in 108 countries. The Agency operates through 190 posts and supports 110 binational centers. The overseas missions carry out country programs designed to influence local attitudes and actions in support of U.S. foreign policy. Overseas missions prepare materials using local facilities, and use materials provided by the media services in Washington.

2. Media services.—These services provide support for overseas country programs.

(a) Press and publications service maintains communication facilities for the transmission of editorial, news, and feature materials for adaptation by overseas missions. It produces pamphlets and periodicals in English and foreign language editions for worldwide and special area distribution, including magazines titled, "America Illustrated," for distribution in the Soviet Union and Poland; "Topic," in French and English, for the African area; and "Al Majal," in Arabic, for distribution in the Arab world. The service also operates three regional printing centers and provides overseas missions with printing supplies and equipment.

(b) Motion picture and television service produces and acquires motion picture and television programs which are then translated into as many as 40 foreign languages. It adapts these programs for specific country or area use, and supports the foreign production, use, and distribution of films and television programs.

(c) Information center service supports U.S.-operated libraries, reading rooms, and binational centers, providing them with collections of American publications, both in English and in translation, and with English language teaching materials. It assists American publishers in distributing selected products overseas and supports the publication of low-priced books for sale abroad. The service also provides exhibits and visual materials to overseas missions for local display, and provides books and periodicals for presentation to selected individuals and groups.

(d) Broadcasting service produces radio broadcasts in English and in 35 foreign languages. Programs are broadcast from transmitters at 5 domestic and 10 overseas locations. The service also supplies the overseas missions with recorded radio programs and scripts for placement on foreign stations.

3. Program direction and other services.—This activity encompasses Agency managerial staffs and centralized servicing functions. Included are the Office of the Director, the Office of Policy and Plans, research and assessment functions, physical and personnel security, legal counsel, and central administrative services. Beginning with 1975, payments will be made to the General Services Administration for rental of space and related costs at domestic locations as required by Public Law 92-313.

4. Shared administrative support.—Administrative services for the Agency's overseas operations, and certain special support services at headquarters, are obtained through reimbursable arrangements with the Department of State.

Congressional action in connection with the Agency's 1967 appropriation called for cessation of such guarantees, and no new guarantees have been initiated. However, the revolving fund authority remains in effect.

The Water Resources Council was established to encourage conservation, development and utilization of water and related land resources on a comprehensive and coordinated basis.

1. Administration and coordination.—The Council's activities include directing and coordinating comprehensive regional and river basin planning; recommending to the President needed changes in Federal policies and programs; establishing, for the approval of the President, principles, standards, and procedures for Federal water and related land resources planning; and submitting Council reports on completed plans to the President and the Congress.

2. River basin commissions.—River basin commissions have been established under title II of the act to coordinate Federal, State, and local plans for development of water and related land resources; to prepare comprehensive, coordinated, joint plans to make optimum use of such resources; and to recommend long-range schedules of priorities.

3. Planning grants to States.—Financial assistance on a matching basis is provided to the States to stimulate their participation in water and related land resources planning. Grant funds primarily support personnel in State planning agencies.

4. Comprehensive planning.—The second assessment of national and regional water supplies and requirements is being accomplished through the cooperation of Federal and State agencies.

Regional or river basin plans are prepared under the direction of the Council or of appropriate river basin commissions. Participation of Federal and State agencies in these studies is coordinated through the Council.

Three benefit increases enacted in 1970, 1971, and 1972 were temporary—due to expire on December 31, 1974. Congress directed the railroad industry to recommend a plan for soundly financing these increases on a permanent basis. This plan is to be submitted by April 1, 1974.

This estimate assumes that temporary benefit increases scheduled to expire on December 31, 1974 will be extended by legislation and that adequate financing will be provided.

PART II

SCHEDULES OF PERMANENT POSITIONS

---

EXPLANATION OF SCHEDULES

Part II contains detailed schedules of permanent positions, which are furnished to the Congress pursuant to the Budget and Accounting Act of 1921, as amended, excluding waivers thereunder granted by Appropriations Committees.

Most civilian employees in the Federal Government are included in one of the following pay systems: Executive level, general schedule, or Foreign Service. The salary ranges for the grades in each of these systems are shown in the following tables. Pay rates for wage board positions included in the "ungraded" positions are established on the basis of prevailing rates which vary from area to area. Salary ranges shown for general schedule (GS) and Foreign Service (FS) are those which became effective in October 1973, and for executive levels, those which became effective in March 1969.

In such cases, the Civil Service Commission has authority to permit a higher entrance level (not to exceed the maximum pay step prescribed by statute) and add a corresponding number of steps above the stated pay range.

The following pages display schedules of permanent positions for each of the three branches of Government. The schedules relate to positions established for full-time employment without time limit, and to any others occupied for a year or more. Authorized positions as of the end of the year are counted, whether filled or unfilled at that time; positions abolished during the year are not counted. Each schedule contains a listing of the grades of authorized positions and the total number in each grade, as illustrated below:

Grades are reflected in the stub column; the most commonly used grade series, general schedule, is abbreviated "GS-..." Salary ranges are shown only when the grades are unique to a single agency or bureau (e.g., physicians and nurses schedules within the Department of Medicine and Surgery, Veterans Administration) or where a grade is identified only by title. In the latter case, the title of each grade and the basic salary range is listed. Classification systems with the same salary ranges as the general schedule are so noted. Two additional lines provide for deducting the number of unfilled positions to arrive at the total employment in permanent positions at the end of the year.

PART III

SUPPLEMENTAL PROPOSALS

---

---

EXPLANATION OF PROPOSALS

Part III transmits two types of proposals for consideration by the Congress: Additional appropriation requests for 1974; and recommendations on executive, legislative, and judicial salaries.

Requests for 1974 appropriations take the form of language recommended for inclusion in an appropriation act. In addition, a brief narrative explains the reasons for the request. No schedules appear in Part III, since the relevant amounts are presented in the schedules of Part I. The 1974 appropriation requests generally appear in the regular schedules as proposed supplementals for pay raises or in separate schedules as "Supplementals now requested." In the case of activities now operating under the authority of continuing appropriations provided in the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1974, the separate schedules are shown as "Proposed 1974 budget amendments."

The Postal Revenue and Federal Salary Act of 1967 requires that the President set forth, in the budget next submitted after receipt of a report of the Commission on Executive, Legislative, and Judicial Salaries, his recommendations on the exact rates of pay for Senators, Representatives, Federal judges, cabinet officers, other agency heads, and certain other officials in the executive, legislative, and judicial branches. The President's recommendation on the rates of pay for these positions is included in Part III.

SUPPLEMENTAL AND AMENDMENT PROPOSALS FOR THE CURRENT YEAR

Transmitted herein are proposed supplementals and amendments to the 1974 budget. Of the $10,420.4 million requested, $3,630.6 million is for increased pay costs, resulting primarily from pay raises granted in January and October of 1973 to Federal civilian employees and military personnel. A request of $3,441.7 million for the Department of Defense includes $2,817.9 million to improve levels of readiness, increase airlift capability, and accelerate modernization programs, together with $623.8 million for various mandatory cost increases.

Also included in the requests is $2,168.2 million for payments required under present laws, contracts, and international agreements. Among these required payments are $927.3 million for veterans programs; $571.5 million for food stamp and child nutrition programs; $316.1 million for pay to retired Federal, Foreign service, and Coast Guard personnel; and $236 million in payments to the Postal Service.

The remaining requests—$1,179.8 million—are for other essential programs, among them: $458.6 million for public service and summer job programs, $278.8 million to restore losses to subsidized housing funds, $159.8 million for railroad and mass transit programs, $121.6 million for disaster relief and fire prevention, and $65 million to develop health maintenance organizations.

PROPOSED SUPPLEMENTAL ACTIONS

DETAILS OF PROPOSED SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING JUNE 1974

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the following sums are appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to supply supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1974, and for other purposes, namely:

TITLE I—PROPOSED SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS FOR VARIOUS PROGRAMS (EXCLUDING REQUESTS FOR INCREASED PAY COSTS)

Legislative Branch

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

CONTINGENT EXPENSES OF THE HOUSE

TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE

For an additional amount for "Telegraph and telephone", $1,500,000.

STATIONERY (REVOLVING FUND)

For an additional amount for "Stationery (revolving fund)", $439,000.

These supplemental requests for the Legislative Branch are submitted without change, as required by law.

Department of Agriculture

RURAL DEVELOPMENT SERVICE

RURAL DEVELOPMENT SERVICE

For an additional amount for "Rural Development Service", $170,000.

This proposed supplemental appropriation will provide additional funds for staff support to the Federal Regional Councils to help in coordinating Federal rural development field activities.

AGRICULTURAL MARKETING SERVICE

FUNDS FOR STRENGTHENING MARKETS, INCOME, AND SUPPLY (SECTION 32)

Funds available under section 32 of the Act of August 24, 1935 (7 U.S.C. 612c), shall be available for child feeding programs and nutritional programs authorized by law in the School Lunch Act, as amended, and the Child Nutrition Act, as amended, in the amount of $15,000,000 for the current fiscal year in addition to amounts heretofore provided for such purposes.

This request will finance additional costs of free and reduced-price lunches. It is necessary because sections 3 and 9 of Public Law 93-150 provide higher reimbursement rates for free and reduced-price lunches, semiannual adjustment of these reimbursement rates, and eligibility for reduced-price lunches for children from households with incomes up to 75 percent above the Secretary's poverty guidelines.

FOOD AND NUTRITION SERVICE*CHILD NUTRITION PROGRAMS

For an additional amount to carry out the National School Lunch Act, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1751-1761), and the applicable provisions other than section 3 of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1773-1785), $71,500,000, to remain available until expended.

The requested supplemental funds are for the regular school lunch program and for the breakfast program. The supplemental will fund higher reimbursement rates in sections 2, 3, and 4 of Public Law 93-150 for meals served through these programs. It will also provide for semiannual adjustment of the national average payment rates to reflect changes in the Consumer Price Index for food away from home.

FOOD STAMP PROGRAM

For an additional amount for "Food Stamp Program", $500,000,000, to remain available until expended.

This increase is needed to finance the cost of the food stamp program amendments contained in Public Law 93-86, enacted August 10, 1973. The required adjustment in coupon allotments, effective January 1, 1974, is based on August 1973, food prices. The monthly coupon allotment for a family of four is now $142, an increase of $26 from the July-December, 1973, allotment of $116.

FOREST SERVICE*FOREST PROTECTION AND UTILIZATION

For an additional amount for "Forest protection and utilization, for "Forest land management", $90,800,000.

This proposed supplemental appropriation is for fighting forest fires.

Department of Commerce*GENERAL ADMINISTRATION*SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses", $85,000.

Additional funds are required to cover the costs of salaries, severance pay, and other expenses resulting from the discontinuance of the National Industrial Pollution Control Council.

NATIONAL OCEANIC AND ATMOSPHERIC ADMINISTRATION*ADMINISTRATION OF PRIBILOF ISLANDS

For an additional amount for "Administration of Pribilof Islands", $336,000.

Additional funds are required to meet increased costs of Pribilof Islands operations, including assistance programs for the residents of the Pribilof Islands and operation of the supply vessel, PRIBILOF.

NATIONAL BUREAU OF FIRE PREVENTION*OPERATIONS, RESEARCH, AND ADMINISTRATION

For expenses necessary to carry out the provisions of the Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act, to remain available until expended, $4,000,000. (Authorizing legislation pending.)

Funds are requested to begin implementing the Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act by establishing a comprehensive fire service education and training program and a National Fire Data System.

MARITIME ADMINISTRATION*OPERATING-DIFFERENTIAL SUBSIDIES (LIQUIDATION OF CONTRACT AUTHORITY)

For an additional amount for "Operating-differential subsidies (Liquidation of contract authority)", $23,000,000, to remain available until expended.

Additional funds are required for liquidation of obligations incurred under operating-differential subsidy contracts providing ship operating subsidies to qualified U.S. ship operators as authorized by the Merchant Marine Act, 1936, as amended. The increased requirements are a result of updated data which indicates that foreign operating costs have not escalated as rapidly as previously estimated, thus increasing both the difference between American and foreign operating costs and the consequent subsidy payable.

Department of Defense—Military*MILITARY PERSONNEL*MILITARY PERSONNEL, ARMY

For an additional amount for "Military personnel, Army", $40,200,000.

MILITARY PERSONNEL, NAVY

For an additional amount for "Military personnel, Navy", $26,500,000.

MILITARY PERSONNEL, MARINE CORPS

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR EXECUTIVE, LEGISLATIVE, AND JUDICIAL SALARIES

As required by the Postal Revenue and Federal Salary Act of 1967, Public Law 90-206 (2 U.S.C. 351 et seq.), the Commission on Executive, Legislative, and Judicial Salaries submitted to the President recommendations on salaries for Senators, Representatives, Federal judges, Cabinet officers, and other agency heads, and certain other officials in the executive, legislative, and judicial branches.

The Commission recommended a 25% increase in salaries for levels II, III, IV, and V of the Executive Schedule and equivalent positions in the legislative and judicial branches. For Cabinet Secretaries (level I of the Executive Schedule) and the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, the Commission recommended an increase that would approximately maintain the present dollar relationship of their salaries with other Executive Schedule salaries.

It has been 5 years since any adjustment has been made in the salaries of these positions. During that period, salaries in the private sector surveyed by the Commission, as well as in other categories of Federal employment, have increased by more than 30%. Because of this long period without salary adjustment, and the statutory provision limiting salaries of employees in other pay systems to the lowest level in the Executive Schedule, the maximum salary in the top four grades of the General Schedule and the lowest executive level are all the same. This has serious adverse effects on recruitment, retention, and incentive for advancement throughout the Federal service.

The statute requires that the President, in the budget next submitted by him after receipt of the report of the Commission, set forth his recommendations for adjustment of these salaries. The Commission report has been carefully reviewed and the President has concluded it would be inappropriate at this time—when employees in the private sector are asked to forego large increases—to provide in a single year the amounts recommended by the Commission.

Under the statute, the President's recommendations become effective 30 days following transmittal of the budget, unless in the meantime other rates have been enacted by law or at least one House of Congress has enacted legislation which specifically disapproves all or part of the recommendations.

The statute also provides (sec. 225(i)) that any part of the recommendations of the President may, if expressly stated, be made operative on a date later than that on which such recommendations otherwise would take effect. Accordingly, the President recommends (1) that effective at the beginning of the first pay period which begins after the 30th day following transmittal of these recommendations, salaries for all positions covered by the statute, except those held by the heads of executive departments and the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, be increased by approximately 7.5%; (2) that effective the first day of the first pay period beginning after January 1, 1975, salaries for all positions covered by the statute be increased by approximately 7.5%; and (3) that effective the first day of the first pay period beginning after January 1, 1976, salaries for all positions covered by the statute, except those held by the heads of executive departments and the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, be increased by approximately 7.5%.

On that schedule and in accordance with section 225(h) of Public Law 90-206 (81 Stat. 644), the President recommends the following rates of pay for executive, legislative, and judicial offices and positions within the purview of subparagraphs (A), (B), (C), and (D) of subsection (f) of that section:

	1974	1975	1976
For Offices and positions under the Executive Schedule in subchapter II of chapter 53 of title 5, United States Code, as follows:
Positions at level I <sup>1</sup> ----	$60,000	$64,500	$64,500
Positions at level II-----	45,700	49,100	52,800

Positions at level IV-----	40,900	43,900	47,200
Positions at level V-----	38,700	41,600	44,700
For Senators, Members of the House of Representatives, and the Resident Commissioner from Puerto Rico-----	45,700	49,100	52,800
For other offices and positions in the legislative branch as follows:
Comptroller General of the United States----	45,700	49,100	52,800
Deputy Comptroller General of the United States-----	43,000	46,200	49,700
The Public Printer, Librarian of Congress, Architect of the Capitol, and General Counsel of the General Accounting Office-----	40,900	43,900	47,200
The Deputy Public Printer, Deputy Librarian of Congress, and Assistant Architect of the Capitol----	38,700	41,600	44,700
For Justices, judges, and other personnel in the judicial branch, as follows:
Chief Justice of the United States-----	62,500	67,200	67,200
Associate Justices of the Supreme Court-----	60,000	64,500	64,500
Judges, Circuit Court of Appeals; judges, Court of Claims; judges, Court of Military Appeals; judges, Court of Customs and Patent Appeals-----	45,700	49,100	52,800
Judges, District Courts; judges, Customs Court; judges, Tax Court of the United States; Director of the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts-----	43,000	46,200	49,700
Deputy Director of the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts; Commissioners, Court of Claims; referees in bankruptcy, full time (maximum)-----	38,700	41,600	44,700
Referees in bankruptcy part time (maximum) -	19,400	20,800	22,400

In 1975 the additional payroll cost of the combined 1974 and 1975 recommended increases would be $34 million. Of this amount approximately $3 million would be in the legislative branch, $4 million in the judicial branch, and $27 million in the executive branch. One-eighth of the executive branch cost would be in connection with positions paid at Executive Level salaries and seven-eighths would result from relieving the present salary compression at the top of all other pay systems. The added costs for each of the years 1974, 1975 and 1976 are covered by the allowances included within the budget totals for those years.

EXPLANATION OF ANNEXED BUDGETS AND OTHER MATERIAL

Part IV contains detailed budgets and explanatory statements of certain activities which are not part of the budget totals, but which are made available as auxiliary information. Also included in this part is a comprehensive table of principal disbursements and repayments of direct loans.

ANNEXED BUDGETS OF GOVERNMENT ACTIVITIES

Public Law 93-32 removed the governmental financing of rural electric and telephone systems from the budget totals. The affected programs appear in the schedules shown in Part I for transactions prior to May 11, 1973, and in Part IV after that date.

The Environmental Financing Authority, created by the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972, began operations in 1974. The Authority is authorized to purchase obligations issued by State and local authorities to finance the non-Federal share of certain waste treatment projects.

An Exchange stabilization fund was established by the Gold Reserve Act of 1934 for the purpose of stabilizing the exchange value of the dollar. Since it is not practicable to forecast the transactions of the fund in gold, foreign currencies, and foreign investments, no estimates are provided for 1974 and 1975.

The Export-Import Bank, a wholly owned Government corporation, was removed from the budget totals by the Export Expansion Act of 1971.

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System provides its administrative budget for inclusion without further review. In conformance with its accounting system, the figures for the Board are on a calendar year basis.

The budget presentation of the Postal Service reflects its conversion to independent status consistent with the Postal Reorganization Act of 1970. The activities of the Postal Service for 1974 and 1975, but not the Federal subsidy, are excluded from the budget totals and presented here. The schedules covering 1973 are shown with other independent agencies in Part I.

The Federal Financing Bank was created by the Federal Financing Bank Act of 1973, to assure coordination of Federal and federally assisted borrowing programs with the overall economic and fiscal policies of the Government, to reduce the cost of Federal and federally assisted borrowing from the public and to assure that such borrowings are financed in a manner least disruptive to private financial markets and institutions.

The bank is authorized to make commitments to purchase and sell, and to purchase and sell on terms and conditions determined by the bank, any obligation which is issued, sold, or guaranteed by a Federal agency. A board of directors is presently being appointed and the Federal Financing Bank is expected to become operational in 1974. Due to its current status, no schedule is presented in this budget. Subsequent budgets will contain a detailed description of operations and appropriate financial schedules. After some operating experience, capitalization funds may be requested.

In addition, the new U.S. Railway Association was established by the Rail Reorganization Act of 1973. It is a Government corporation which will prepare the final Midwest and Northeast rail system plan. Administrative expenses of the Association are reflected in Part I. In 1975, it may begin to finance the upgrading of plant and equipment in the system, and in future budgets its program schedules will appear in Part IV.

ANNEXED BUDGETS OF GOVERNMENT-SPONSORED CREDIT AGENCIES

This section includes four systems of privately owned banks, two privately owned corporations in the field of mortgage finance, and a corporation to assist in financing college student loans, all of which are chartered by the Federal Government and supervised by a Government agency. These budgets are not reviewed by the President, and are presented as submitted by the agencies.

OTHER MATERIALS

The table in this section presents disbursements, repayments, and net outlays for direct loans. Loan disbursements are reported net of loans written off and other noncash adjustments to balances outstanding. Loan repayments are collections of principal only; interest is excluded.

Loan guarantees under sec. 306 are in addition to the above amounts.

The Administration conducts two capital investment programs: (1) The rural electrification program, to provide electric service to farms and other rural establishments; and (2) the rural telephone program, to furnish and improve telephone service in rural areas.

Insured electric and telephone loans are financed from the Rural Electrification and Telephone Revolving Fund (RETRF) which was established by Public Law 93-32, approved May 11, 1973. The initial assets of the fund, amounting to about $7.8 billion, consist of all notes, bonds, obligations, liens and mortgages assigned to the Administrator, undisbursed balances of electric and telephone loans, collections of principal and interest since July 1, 1972, and shares of the capital stock of the Rural Telephone Bank, purchased pursuant to section 406(a) of the Act.

1. Rural electrification.—This capital investment program is financed through insured loans and guarantees of loans made by private lenders for the construction and operation of generating plants, electric transmission and distribution lines or systems in rural areas.

Insured loans bear either 2% or 5% interest, in accordance with criteria as specified in the Act, and must be repaid within a period not to exceed 35 years. REA guarantees of loans made by private lending organizations bear interest rates agreed upon by the private lender and the borrower.

REA also has authority to make insured loans or guarantee loans to electrification borrowers, to be reloaned to their consumers for the purpose of financing the wiring of premises and the acquisition and installation of electrical and plumbing appliances and equipment.

The 1975 budget request reflects the availability of supplemental financing from the National Rural Utilities Cooperative Finance Corporation (CFC) and other sources to satisfy a part of the capital requirements of the rural electric systems.

Public Law 92-12, approved May 7, 1971, amended the Rural Electrification Act of 1936, as amended, to establish the Rural Telephone Bank as a supplemental source of financing for the REA telephone program. Public Law 92-324, approved June 30, 1972, amended the act to permit the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase the Bank's debentures. This will minimize the Bank's borrowing costs and help avoid cash-flow problems associated with obtaining funds on the private money market. Public Law 93-32, approved May 11, 1973, further amended the act to increase the Bank's borrowing authority from 8 to 20 times its paid-in capital and retained earnings and to eliminate the required disclaimer of any Government guarantee on debentures issued by the Bank. This act also provided that the Bank charge an interest rate based on the average costs of money to the Bank, currently set by the Governor at 7.0%, in lieu of the former provision which provided for a range of interest rates based on the borrower's ability to pay.

Equity capital of the Bank consists of class A stock purchased by the United States and classes B and C stock purchased by Bank borrowers, organizations eligible to become borrowers and organizations controlled by the borrowers, as well as retained earnings. The maximum budget authority of the Bank is related to its borrowing authority which is limited to 20 times its paid-in capital and retained earnings. The 1974 total budget authority available for the Bank is estimated at $2.009 billion, comprised of $841 million in new budget authority and $1.168 billion in unobligated authority brought forward. In 1975, budget authority is calculated at $2.7 billion, consisting of $876 million in new budget authority and $1.9 billion in authority carried over from prior years.

Public Law 93-32 also excluded budget authority and outlays of the Rural Telephone Bank from the budget totals. As of June 30, 1973, after 1½ years in operation, the Bank had lent over $240 million, and it is estimated that it will loan $150 million in 1974 and $160 million in 1975.

General operations of the Bank are provided on a part-time basis by REA employees and the Office of the General Counsel, without cost to the Bank, as provided for in the enabling legislation. However, there are certain administrative expenses, such as expenses of the elected members of the Board of Directors and postage fees, that must be borne by the Bank. These expenses amounted to $29 thousand in 1973, and are estimated at $50 thousand in 1974 and 1975.

The Environmental Financing Authority was created by section 12 of Public Law 92-500. The Authority is authorized to make commitments to purchase any obligation or participation which is issued by a State or local public body to finance the non-Federal share of the cost of any project for the construction of waste treatment works which the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency has determined to be eligible under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act.

The Authority is authorized, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to issue and have outstanding obligations having such maturities and bearing such rate or rates of interest as may be determined by the Authority. As authorized in appropriation acts, the Secretary of the Treasury may, at his discretion, purchase or agree to purchase any of these obligations issued and to use therefor the proceeds of the sale of any securities issued under the Second Liberty Bond Act. Each purchase of obligations by the Secretary shall be upon terms and conditions as to yield a return at a rate not less than a rate determined by the Secretary taking into consideration the current average yield on outstanding marketable obligations of the United States of comparable maturities. The Secretary may sell any of these obligations acquired by him. All purchases and sales by the Secretary of these obligations will be treated as public debt transactions.

For the purpose of stabilizing the exchange value of the dollar, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to enter into stabilization agreements, and to deal in gold and foreign exchange and other instruments of credit and securities. An exchange stabilization fund, with a capital of $200 million (derived from the increment resulting from the reduction in the weight of the gold dollar which took place in 1934) is authorized by law for this purpose (31

U.S.C. 822a). All earnings and interest accruing are paid into this fund and are available for the purposes thereof, including expenses. Transactions in special drawing rights and U.S. holdings of SDR's are administered by this fund.

The principal sources of the fund's income have been the handling charge imposed on purchases and sales of gold for the account of the fund, profits on foreign exchange transactions, and interest on investments held by the fund. The cumulative income of the fund from the time it began operations has been $365 million and its administrative expenses $99 million, resulting in a net income as of June 30, 1973, of $266 million.

It is not practicable to forecast the transactions of the fund in gold, foreign currencies, foreign investments, and the like. Therefore, no estimates have been furnished for 1974 and 1975.

Liabilities of the fund include $1,712 million advanced to the fund as a result of drawings of foreign currencies by the Secretary from the International Monetary Fund.

The Export-Import Bank of the United States was organized in 1934. Its existing programs are authorized under the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945, as amended. The purpose of the Bank is to aid in financing and to facilitate U.S. exports and imports.

To accomplish its objective, Eximbank authority and resources are used in:

1. Risk-taking, such as sharing commercial risks and assuming political risks that cannot appropriately be taken by the exporter or private banks;
2. Moderating the cost of financing to meet foreign officially sponsored competition;
3. Providing repayment terms needed by the buyer to meet his cash flow projections;
4. Providing financing for large projects for which private institutions may have difficulty marshalling the funds; and
5. Serving as an important supplement to the private market for export financing.

In order to provide the authorizations necessary to continually support our Nation's exporting community, legislation has been proposed which would, among other things, raise the statutory ceiling on the Bank's outstanding loans, guarantees, and insurance to $30 billion from the current level of $20 billion; increase the amount of guarantees and insurance which can be charged against the total commitment ceiling at 25% of the contractual liability from $10 billion to $20 billion; and extend the life of the Bank from June 30, 1974 to June 30, 1978.

The schedules presented herewith reflect the outlays which would have been included in the budget totals if the Bank's activities had not been excluded as of August 17, 1971.

The Federal Reserve System operates under the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act of 1913, as amended, and other acts of Congress.

Program.—To carry out its responsibilities under the act, the Board determines general monetary, credit, and operating policies for the System as a whole and formulates the rules and regulations necessary to carry out the purposes of the Federal Reserve Act. The Board's principal duties consist of exerting an influence over credit conditions and supervising the Federal Reserve banks and member banks.

Capital outlays.—1. Construction program.—a. Annex Office Building.—Because of a need for additional office space, the Board undertook in April 1971 construction of an annex office building immediately north of its present building. The annex is scheduled for completion, furnishing and occupancy in early 1974.

b. Rehabilitation of Board Building.—A study to determine the feasibility of renovating the interior of the present Board Building continued in 1974. Any renovation, if undertaken, would begin late in calendar 1974 or early 1975 and would be designed to update the mechanical and electrical utilities systems and to rearrange interior space layout to accommodate additional staff. During the renovation period, outside office space will be required to house dislocated employees.

2. Computer Acquisition.—In October 1973, the Board decided to purchase rather than continue to rent certain major components of a new computer system at a cost of about $4.1 million, with installation to be made in the Annex Building in April 1974. The Board should realize a savings of about $2.9 million over the five year anticipated life of the equipment. The 1974 effect of purchase in lieu of leasing will result in a net reduction of operating expenses of more than $400,000 in excess of the amortization of the purchase price. Consistent with existing policy, the Board does not charge depreciation as an operating expense.

Financing.—Under the provisions of section 10 of the Federal Reserve Act, the Board of Governors levies upon the Federal Reserve banks, in proportion to their capital and surplus, an assessment sufficient to pay its estimated expenses. The Board, under the act, determines and prescribes the manner in which its obligations are incurred and its expenses paid. Funds derived from assessments are deposited in the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, and the act provides that such funds "shall not be construed to be Government funds or appropriated moneys." No Government appropriation is required to support operations of the Board.

The Postal Reorganization Act of 1970, Public Law 91-375, converted the Post Office Department into the U.S. Postal Service, an independent establishment within the executive branch. The Postal Service commenced operations July 1, 1971. This agency is charged with providing customers with reliable mail service at reasonable rates and fees.

The U.S. Postal Service is governed by an 11-member Board of Governors, including 9 Governors appointed by the President, a Postmaster General who is selected by the Governors, and a Deputy Postmaster General who is selected by the Governors and the Postmaster General.

Domestic postage rates, postal services and classification of mail matter are subject to public notice and administrative hearing procedures under the authority of a five-member presidentially appointed Postal Rate Commission, which makes recommendations to the Governors. Final determinations on changes in mail rates or classifications are made by the Governors subject to appellate review.

The activities of the U.S. Postal Service are financed from the following sources: (1) Mail and services revenue, (2) reimbursements from Federal and non-Federal sources, (3) proceeds from borrowing, (4) interest from U.S. securities and other investments, and (5) appropriations by the Congress. All receipts and deposits are made to the Postal Service fund and are available without fiscal year limitation for payment of all expenses incurred, retirement of obligations, investment in capital, and investment in obligations and securities.

The 1975 program for the U.S. Postal Service is based on an anticipated mail volume of 91.2 billion pieces, compared to 90.5 billion estimated for 1974 and 89.7 billion in 1973.

Starting with 1974, transactions of the Postal Service fund and the assets and liabilities of the U.S. Postal Service will no longer appear within the totals of the U.S. budget. The schedules presented here reflect estimated net expenditures of $948,719 thousand in 1974 and $732,782 thousand in 1975 and summary data on postal operations.

<sup>1</sup> Workmen's compensation amounts reported for 1973 through 1975 are being funded through the operations process (for post-June 30, 1971, injuries). The amounts reported under the reserves section of the balance sheet reflect the change in policy in financing workmen's compensation to show full accrued cost for injuries in the year in which they occur.

<sup>2</sup> At the beginning of 1972, the Postal Service carried a liability of $372,796 thousand from the former Post Office Department for earned and unused annual leave of postal employees. This liability is being funded over a period of 12 years through the appropriation process.

Employees accumulated annual leave in thousands:

	Unfunded	Funded	Total
6/30/71	372,796	-----	372,796
6/30/72	363,172	25,669	388,841

6/30/75	270,171	211,088	481,259

<sup>3</sup> These items are included in the "Change in selected resources" entries on the program and financing schedule in their entirety.

<sup>4</sup> The $31,000 thousand in 1974 and 1975 represents receipts from the appropriation "Payment to the Postal Service Fund" to apply against the liability of the U.S. Government to postal employees for earned and unused annual leave balances as of June 30, 1971.

The transfers and prior year adjustments requested in total in the Analysis of Changes in Government Equity are as follows:

The Student Loan Marketing Association ("Sallie Mae") is a Government-sponsored, private corporation created by a 1972 amendment to part B of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

The purpose of Sallie Mae is to provide liquidity to banks, educational institutions, and other lenders engaged in the Guaranteed student loan program (GSLP) in a manner which will expand funds available for lending under GSLP. Sallie Mae expects to develop such liquidity primarily through secondary market and warehousing activities. Secondary market activities can involve the direct purchase and sale of student loans by Sallie Mae as well as issuance by Sallie Mae of commitments or other undertakings with respect to student loans in order to enhance their marketability by others. Warehousing operations will involve the making of loans to lenders secured by student loans. Proceeds from warehousing loans are required to be invested in additional insured student loans.

Current operations.—The Board of Directors of Sallie Mae has approved an initial Warehousing advance program of up to $500 million to be offered to qualified borrowers. The first phase of the program, involving approximately $100 million, commenced following the sale of a like amount of 182-day notes on October 2, 1973. A second sale of 182-day notes involving an additional $100 million took place on October 30, 1973. Sallie Mae will be prepared to make available the entire amount before the end of the first quarter of 1974.

Financing.—Sallie Mae will obtain funds for its programs primarily from the sale of its securities. The act provides that all stock and obligations issued by Sallie Mae under the act shall be exempt securities within the meaning of laws administered by the Securities and Exchange Commission to the same extent as securities which are direct obligations of, or obligations guaranteed as to principal or interest by, the United States. Additional revenue will be generated by interest and repayments on investments and loans.

Sallie Mae is authorized to issue its $100 par value common stock to those defined as eligible holders under the act, principally financial and educational institutions which are eligible to participate in the GSLP.

No shares of common stock have heretofore been issued, but it is contemplated that an offering of common stock will be made in the near future. It is expected that those participating in the Warehousing advance program and any future programs will be required to make a minimum purchase of common stock. It is expected that the major portion of the net proceeds of the offering will be used in financing Sallie Mae's programs.

Sallie Mae is also authorized to issue, with the approval of the Secretary of HEW, nonvoting preferred stock. No shares of the nonvoting preferred stock have heretofore been issued, and there are no present plans to issue such shares.

Sallie Mae is authorized with the approval of the Secretary of HEW and the Secretary of the Treasury to have outstanding obligations, on such terms and conditions as may be determined by Sallie Mae. The Secretary of HEW is authorized by the act to guarantee such obligations issued prior to July 1, 1982 as to principal and interest. The Attorney General of the United States has rendered his opinion that such guarantees issued prior to July 1, 1982, shall be and remain binding and backed by the full faith and credit of the United States, regardless of maturity date of the underlying obligation.

Management.—The President of the United States has, pursuant to the act, appointed an interim Board of Directors, which is presently in office.

The forecast data contained in this material are based on certain assumptions, including the successful development and implementation of programs now in the planning stages. There is no assurance that such programs will be implemented or, if implemented, that the volume of activity indicated will be realized. Accordingly, such data should not be relied upon as an official forecast of the company's position.

The Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA) is a Government-sponsored private corporation. Its purpose is to provide supplementary assistance to the secondary market for home mortgages by supplying a degree of liquidity for mortgage investments, thereby improving the distribution of investment capital available for home mortgage financing.

To carry out this purpose, FNMA buys mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the Veterans' Administration, conventional mortgages, and certain mortgages insured by the Farmers Home Administration.

The Emergency Home Finance Act of 1970 empowered FNMA, with the approval of the Secretary of HUD, to purchase, service, lend on the security of, and otherwise invest in conventional mortgages. FNMA acts to minimize the possible additional risk involved in purchasing conventional mortgages by applying strict qualifications to such purchases.

The authorizing statute originally contemplated that FNMA's secondary market operations would ultimately be completely owned and financed by private participants. On September 30, 1968, FNMA was converted to a Government-sponsored, privately owned corporation whose expenditures and receipts are not subject to the constraints of the Federal budget.

The common stock of the Corporation is owned by the public and is fully transferable and fully traded. The Corporation may accumulate funds for its capital surplus account from private sources by requiring each mortgage seller to make payments of nonrefundable capital contributions, equal to not more than 2% of the unpaid principal amounts of mortgages purchased or to be purchased by the Corporation from such seller.

The Association has three separate authorities to borrow money from private sources. It may issue subordinated capital debentures in an amount not in excess of twice the net equity. It may, in addition, borrow amounts not in excess of the sum of net equity and subordinated capital debentures outstanding multiplied by a factor established by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. This factor is currently set at 25. These borrowings usually take the form of debentures, short-term discount notes, or bank loans. Finally, FNMA may issue securities, guaranteed by the Government National Mortgage Association, which are fully backed by pools of mortgages. This last type of borrowing is limited only by the size of FNMA's loan portfolio.

The banks for cooperatives, of which there are 13, are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. They finance the operations of farmers' cooperatives. The funds to finance these loans are obtained primarily from sales of bonds to the public and from their own capital funds. The bonds which the banks issue are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest. All of their expenses are paid from their own income and are not included in the budget of the United States. Included in these expenses is the banks' share of the costs of the Farm Credit Administration.

The Farm Credit Act of 1955 provided for eventual ownership of the banks by farmers' cooperatives and the retirement of the U.S. Government's investment. This was accomplished on December 31, 1968, when the remainder of the U.S. Government capital was retired.

The Federal intermediate credit banks, of which there are 12, are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. They serve as banks of discount for agriculture, discounting agricultural and livestock paper for, and making loans to, local financing institutions, such as production credit associations, agricultural credit corporations, livestock loan companies, and commercial banks. They also provide the production credit associations with necessary supervision and services.

The banks' lending funds are obtained primarily from the sale of bonds to the public and from their own capital funds. The bonds are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest. All of their expenses are paid from their own income and are not included in the budget of the United States. Included in these expenses is the credit banks' share of the costs of the Farm Credit Administration.

The banks were originally wholly-owned Government corporations set up exclusively as banks of discount; however, pursuant to the Farm Credit Act of 1956, the banks became mixed-ownership corporations and were made responsible for supervising the production credit associations and assisting them to make sound credit available to farmers.

All of the capital stock of the Federal intermediate credit banks from organization in 1923 to December 31, 1956, was held by the U.S. Government. The 1956 act provided a long-range plan for the eventual ownership of the credit banks by the production credit associations and the gradual retirement of the Government's investment in the banks. This retirement was accomplished in full on December 31, 1968.

The Federal land banks, through the 566 Federal land bank associations, which are located at the local level, make long-term real estate loans to farmers and ranchers. These banks and associations are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. The funds to finance these loans are obtained primarily from sale of the banks' bonds to the public and from their own capital funds. These bonds are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest. All of their expenses are paid from their own income and are not included in the budget of the United States.

The last of the Government capital that had been invested in the banks was repaid in 1947.

The 12 Federal home loan banks are chartered and supervised by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board under the authority of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act of 1932. The banks are financial institutions and their main function is to supply their members—principally savings and loan type institutions, and savings banks—with credit to smooth their operations and enhance their service to the public as savings media and home mortgage lenders. Each bank operates in a geographic district designated by the Board and together the banks cover all of the United States as well as Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Guam. In 1973 the banks extended credit amounting to $8 billion and received repayments of $2.9 billion. Advances outstanding on June 30, 1973, totaled $11.1 billion.

The principal source of funds for the lending operation is the sale of consolidated obligations of the banks to the public. On June 30, 1973, $10.2 billion of these obligations was outstanding. The consolidated obligations are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government as to principal or interest. Other sources of lendable funds include a portion of members' deposits as determined by Board policy (with total deposits amounting to $1.5 billion on June 30, 1973), and funds paid for the purchase of capital stock by member institutions, amounting to $2 billion at the end of 1973. Funds not immediately needed for advances to members are invested in obligations of the United States or agencies thereof.

The capital stock of the Federal home loan banks is owned entirely by their members. Initially the U.S. Government purchased stock of the banks in the amount of $125 million. The banks had repurchased the Government's investment in full by mid-1951, and since that time the banks have been owned entirely by their members.

The entire operating expenses of the banks are paid from their own income and are not included in the budget of the United States. Included in these expenses is the assessment by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to cover a substantial portion of the Board's administrative and other costs.
