The requested appropriation for 1976 of $1,093 million is an increase of $119 million from the appropriation for 1975, and an increase of $219 million compared with the appropriation for 1974. About 54% of the requested appropriation will be applied to 45 major projects in amounts of $5 million or more each. An additional $360 million is requested for the transition period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.

1. Advance engineering and design.—Design studies establish project features and cost estimates required for preparation of contract plans. The funds requested will bring designs and plans for a limited number of high priority projects to the stage where they will be ready for construction, and will permit continuation or initiation of planning on other needed projects.

2. Navigation projects.—This activity includes construction of locks, dams, and canals, and improvement of channels and harbors by dredging and by construction of breakwaters, jetties, and dikes. Provision is also made for construction of small navigation projects not requiring specific congressional authority, and for mitigation of shore damages attributable to navigation projects, authorized by section 111 of the 1968 act.

With the funds requested, work will be continued in 1976 on 14 lock, dam, and canal projects of which one will be completed, and on 32 channel and harbor projects, of which 6 will be completed.

3. Beach erosion control projects.—The Federal Government assists in the construction of works for the restoration and protection against erosion by waves and currents of the shores of the United States and its possessions. Existing law provides for Federal payment of 50% of the cost of beach erosion control works for the protection of non-Federal publicly owned or publicly used shores, and up to 70% of the cost of protection of State and other publicly owned shore parks and conservation areas that meet certain criteria. The construction of small beach erosion control projects not requiring specific congressional authority will be financed from funds appropriated in prior years.

Funds are requested for 8 beach erosion control projects. Six are for continuing construction and two are for reimbursements to local interests.

4. Flood control projects.—This activity includes local protection projects and reservoirs for flood control and other purposes, such as water supply, but without power installations. Local protection projects consist of channel improvements, levees, and floodwalls. Provision is made for small flood control projects not requiring specific congressional authority, and for emergency streambank and shoreline protection. Snagging and clearing work on navigable streams and tributaries, when such work is necessary, will be financed from funds appropriated in prior years.

With the funds requested, work will be continued on 84 local protection projects, of which 9 will be completed with 1976 funds including one reimbursement project; and on 72 reservoir projects, of which 7 will be completed.

5. Multiple-purpose projects, including power.—Work will be continued on 30 multiple-purpose projects with power installations, of which three will be completed with the funds requested.

6. Rehabilitation.—Rehabilitation work is undertaken on existing projects that have deteriorated to the extent that their usefulness has been impaired. Work will be continued on two projects, one navigation project, John Hollis Bankhead Lock and Dam, Ala. (lock replacement), and one multiple-purpose project, Wolf Creek Dam, Lake Cumberland, Ky. and started on one flood control project, Muskingum River Lakes, Ohio.

7. Recreation facilities at completed projects.—A total of $20 million is included: $15 million for projects to be developed under a policy requiring local cost-sharing comparable to that now required for the recreation features of all new projects, and $5 million to remedy sanitary deficiencies. In the transition period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, funds requested will permit maintaining a level program in both categories.

8. Land acquisition fund.—This fund, established in 1971, permits the acquisition of lands required for authorized Federal projects in those cases where delay creates an extreme hardship on owners or causes an unusual escalation of project land costs. This activity will be continued in 1976 with available funds.

9. Small authorized projects.—Activities in 1976 will be financed from funds appropriated in prior years.

10. Streambank erosion control evaluation and demonstration.—Funds were provided in prior years in accordance with section 32 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1974 to conduct for a period of 5 years a national streambank erosion prevention and control demonstration program.

11. Fish and wildlife studies.—This program provides for detailed studies and reports by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to determine the effects on fish and wildlife resources of water-control projects of the Corps of Engineers.

12. Aquatic plant control.—This program is for the control and progressive eradication of water hyacinths, alligator weed, Eurasian watermilfoil, and other obnoxious aquatic plant growths from navigable waters, tributaries, connecting channels, and other allied waters of the United States, in the interest of navigation, flood control, drainage, agriculture, fish and wildlife conservation, public health, and related purposes. The authority includes research to develop the most effective and economic control measures.

The Corps of Engineers—Civil is responsible for the flood control program for the lower Mississippi Valley from Cape Girardeau, Mo., to the Gulf of Mexico, including the main alluvial stream, the basins of the St. Francis and White, lower Arkansas, Yazoo, Tensas, and Atchafalaya Rivers, and Bayou La Fourche, and the alluvial lands around Lake Pontchartrain. The adopted plan calls for raising and strengthening about 1,600 miles of existing levees along the main river, for enlarging or constructing some 1,700 miles of levees on tributaries and in side basins, for channel improvement by bank stabilization from Head of Passes, La., to Cairo, Ill., and by dredging a navigation channel 12 feet deep and 300 feet wide from Baton Rouge, La., to Cairo, Ill., and for five flood detention reservoirs on minor tributaries.

1. General investigations.—Nine studies will be continued, of which one will be completed with 1976 funds. Basic data subsequently used in planning and designing projects are collected.

2. Advance engineering and design.—Funds are requested to continue planning on six features, of which one will be completed.

3. Construction.—The total cost of flood control and related improvements in the lower Mississippi River and its alluvial valley is estimated at $5,100 million, of which $2,163 million has been appropriated through 1975. The funds requested will be applied to continuation of 13 features.

4. Maintenance.—Provision is made for operation and maintenance of major features of the project.

The fund provides for the acquisition, operations and maintenance of plant and equipment used in civil works functions, for temporary financing of services chargeable to civil appropriations and for furnishing facilities and services for military functions of the Department of the Army, other governmental and private persons (67 Stat. 199). These activities will be continued during the transition period, July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.

Budget program—Operating costs.—Operating costs will increase about 10% in 1975 and 5% in 1976. This reflects cost escalation factors in both years.

Land and structures.—The 1976 program includes: $8.71 million for the design, rehabilitation and construction of structures for use by Coastal Engineering Research Center; the Buffalo, Detroit, Philadelphia and San Francisco Districts; the Waterways Experiment Station; and the Cold Regions Research and Engineering Laboratory.

Dredges.—The 1976 program includes: $1.3 million for continuation of conversion of the electrical system on the Comber class hopper dredges, $1.3 million for continuation of repowering and rehabilitation of the hopper dredge Pacific, and $1.85 million for rehabilitation and modification of hopper dredges Essayons, Goethals, Gerig, Biddle, and Markham.

Other floating plant.—The 1976 program includes $9.24 million for the design, rehabilitation, and construction of major items of floating plant for use by the Memphis, Vicksburg, Louisville, Nashville, Philadelphia, and Buffalo Districts.

Land-based equipment.—The 1976 program includes $2.5 million to purchase ADP equipment.

Tools, office furniture and equipment.—The 1976 program includes $3.8 million for a variety of relatively small tools, office furniture and equipment.

Operating results and financial condition.—Unreserved earnings in 1974 amount to $6 million and are expected to increase to about $6.3 million by 1976. Initial capital of the fund was provided by assumption of the assets, liabilities, and obligations of the plant accounts as carried on the records of the Corps of Engineers—Civil at June 30, 1953, and by appropriation from general fund of $100. Capital (Government equity) of the fund amounted to $205.7 million at June 30, 1974, and is limited to $228 million by Public Law 93-393. In 1974, capital was increased by net earnings of $11 million. Increases in 1975 and 1976 are principally due to earnings reserved for plant replacement which are wholly invested in assets. Capital of the fund is expected to reach $223 million at the end of 1975 and $243.3 million at the end of 1976. To permit operation at program levels for those years and into 1977, an increase in authorized capital to $248 million is required.

Consolidated summary of personnel.—The revolving fund is used to initially finance all payrolls of the Corps of Engineers—Civil.

The table which follows shows the distribution of personnel and salary costs to appropriations of the Corps of Engineers and to other accounts.

This provides for the acquisition by purchase, construction or otherwise of capital assets required by the Canal Zone Government. In 1976, the projects for which an appropriation is requested include: (1) miscellaneous requirements under the road and street replacement program; (2) improvements and replacements to educational facilities that include extending the air conditioning system to the corridors at Balboa High School and other various improvements and replacements to school structures; (3) additions and replacements to municipal systems including railroad crossing improvements and other routine additions and replacements; (4) continuation of the sewage pollution control program; (5) improvements and rehabilitations to health facilities that include increasing floor space and rearranging the intensive care unit at Gorgas Hospital and other improvements and rehabilitations; (6) improvements to correct deficiencies at police and fire facilities under the project for improvements and replacements to other civil functions; and (7) the addition and replacement of obsolete and worn-out equipment as well as the other minor routine projects.

The appropriation estimates for the July to September 1976 period provide for a modest continuation of recurring projects in the Canal Zone Government Capital program.

The Panama Canal Company is a wholly owned Government corporation whose primary purpose is maintaining and operating the interoceanic canal at the Isthmus of Panama, together with its essential supporting operations.

The administration of the Company is integrated with that of the Canal Zone Government, an independent agency initially financed by appropriations. The Governor of the Canal Zone is ex officio president of the Company. The Company is expected to be self-sustaining and is required to reimburse the U.S. Treasury for the net cost of the Canal Zone Government, the cost of interest on the net direct investment of the United States in the Company, and for annuity payments made by the United States to the Republic of Panama pursuant to the Treaty of 1903, as amended in 1936.

Financing.—The Company is authorized to obtain appropriations for its capital needs and to cover losses sustained in the conduct of its activities. In addition, the Company may borrow from the Treasury, at interest, amounts not exceeding $40 million outstanding at any time. While the latter authorization is utilized to backstop the Company's obligations, no cash withdrawals against it are planned through the period ending September 30, 1976. With the total borrowing authority utilized as a resource, the Company's unobligated balance at September 30, 1976, is estimated at $33.6 million.

Operating results and financial condition.—The net operating results for 1975 and 1976 are estimated at $240 thousand and $390 thousand, respectively, and $284 thousand for the July–September 1976 period. Estimates contained herein do not provide for a loss of traffic and related revenues due to reopening of the Suez Canal. At June 30, 1975, the Treasury balance is estimated at $37,113 thousand, the June 30, 1976 estimate is $37,113 thousand, and the September 30, 1976 estimate is $37,113 thousand.

Note.—Contingent liabilities and commitments.—The estimated maximum liability, in addition to liabilities taken into the accounts, which could result from pending claims and lawsuits was $5.4 million at June 30, 1974. In the opinion of the Company's Counsel, these suits have little merit and their ultimate settlement will not have a material effect on the financial position of the Company. Commitments under uncompleted construction contracts and unhilled purchase orders amounted to $14.8 million at June 30, 1974.

The Company held as custodian negotiable Government securities in the face amount of $5.3 million at June 30, 1974, to guarantee payment by third parties of their obligations.

Effective May 9, 1969, the Company entered into a 25-year contract with Instituto de Recursos Hidraulicos y Electricificacion, an autonomous agency of the Republic of Panama, for the purchase of electric power to be produced by the agency. Effective Sept. 1, 1972, by mutual agreement, the contract was suspended for a period of 3 years. As of June 30, 1974, the Company's minimum liability over the remaining period of the contract amounted to approximately $32 million.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is charged with the administration and enforcement of consumer protection laws concerning dangerous, misbranded, and adulterated foods, drugs, human biologics, medical devices, cosmetics, and man-made sources of radiation.

1. Foods.—FDA is responsible for ensuring the safety and quality of a major segment of the Nation's food supply, and the safety of the Nation's cosmetic supply. FDA reviews industry petitions and publishes tolerances for the safe use of food additives, conducts intramural and extramural research; develops improved analytical methods to detect and prevent food and cosmetic adulteration; sets standards for classes of food and defines industry good manufacturing and sanitary practices. To ensure cooperation and compliance with the foregoing, FDA inspects food and cosmetic processing plants and marketing establishments, analyzes collected samples to verify that these products are safe and properly labeled and—when necessary—takes regulatory action to obtain compliance with the law.

2. Drugs and devices.—FDA is charged with ensuring that human and animal drugs, human biologics, and medical devices are safe, effective, and properly labeled. FDA reviews research and manufacturing data to support the safety and efficacy of these products prior to marketing, evaluates literature and experience reports submitted by industry and the medical profession, and conducts research. FDA also inspects manufacturing firms, reviews labeling, analyzes samples, and—when necessary—takes regulatory action to enforce the legal requirements.

3. Radiological products.—FDA is responsible for eliminating unnecessary exposure to electronic product radiation through research, surveillance, and voluntary and mandatory performance standards.

4. National Center for Toxicological Research.—FDA conducts research programs to study the biological effects of potentially toxic chemical substances found in man's environment.

5. Buildings and facilities.—This activity provides funds for the planning, construction, repair and improvement of

Health Resources.....	37
Indian health services.....	3,752
Salaries and expenses, FDA.....	164
Assistant Secretary for Health.....	58
Department management.....	136

Comparable amounts for 1974 ($4,147 thousand), 1975 ($4,147 thousand), are included above.

This appropriation includes activities which support the provision of personal health care services directly to Federal beneficiaries, or, indirectly for other population groups through project and formula grants. This is accomplished through the following activities:

1. Community health services.—Community health centers provide primary ambulatory health care and arrange for specialty and inpatient care. In 1976, 1,369,000 people will be served in 109 centers.

The maternal and child health program has as its major goal the provision of comprehensive health care to mothers and children who might otherwise not receive services. Research grants are awarded to improve maternal and child health or crippled children's services and to study the effectiveness of such programs.

In 1976, the family planning program will serve approximately 1,323,000 persons by providing high quality educational, comprehensive medical and social services.

The migrant health program provides access to primary health care services for migrant agricultural laborers and seasonal farmworkers and their families. In 1976, nearly 306,600 persons are expected to receive services.

The Health Maintenance Organization program is designed to demonstrate the feasibility of health maintenance organizations. Loans will be awarded to about 10 projects entering initial operations as HMO's bringing the total number of HMO's brought into operation in 1976 through Federal assistance to about 20.

The National Health Service Corps provides health professionals to communities where a critical health manpower shortage exists. In 1976, the program will support 405 positions in 180 sites. Approximately 450,000 persons will receive services in 1976.

2. Quality assurance.—This program is designed to assure that health care services provided under the Medicare, Medicaid, title V, and other Federal programs are medically necessary and furnished in the most economical manner consistent with recognized professional standards of care.

3. Patient care and special health services.—This program provides direct and contract health care to the 500,000 legal beneficiaries of the Public Health Service. Major beneficiary groups are American seamen, personnel and dependents of the Coast Guard and Public Health Service Commissioned Corps, Federal employees' compensation cases, persons with Hansen's disease, and participants and certain spouses and children of participants in the Public Health Service study of untreated syphilis initiated in 1932. On a reimbursable basis, care is also provided to foreign seamen, beneficiaries of other Federal agencies, and community programs.

4. Emergency medical services.—This program supports demonstrations in the arrangement of personnel, facilities, and equipment for the effective and coordinated delivery of emergency health care services. In 1976, an estimated 75 awards will be made for feasibility studies and planning, 19 awards for the establishment and initial operation of emergency medical services systems, 14 awards for the expansion and improvement of existing systems, and 13 awards will be made available to support research programs in emergency medical techniques, methods, devices, and delivery.

5. Buildings and facilities.—This activity includes all proposed direct construction items of the Health Services Administration except construction of Indian health facilities.

6. Program management.—This activity supports the central staff needed in planning, directing, and administering the programs and activities of the Health Services Administration.

Note.—Year(s) in parentheses represents base year.

1. Indian health service.—(a) Patient care.—This activity consists of the operation of 51 hospitals and their outpatient clinics and the provision of medical care by contracting with non-Federal hospitals, clinics, private physicians, and dentists, as well as contractual arrangements with State and local health organizations.

The 1976 budget includes the staffing and operating cost for newly constructed hospitals at Zuni, N. Mex., Owyhee, Nev., Philadelphia, Miss., and the new Tuba City hospital, which is scheduled to open in 1975.

(b) Field health services.—These include programs in sanitation, dental, health education, nutrition, maternal and child health, school health, tuberculosis and other communicable disease control, medical social services, public health nursing, family planning, and mental health. The services are provided through health centers, clinics, and other field health units operated directly by the Indian health service, as well as through contractual arrangements with State and local health organizations.

The program growth will include preventive health services in ambulatory care and eye care. The mental health program will be expanded as well as programs relating to tribal operations and technical assistance.

2. Construction.—This activity supports a number of construction projects to replace, expand, or modernize facilities, as well as to provide sanitation facilities for Indian homes.

3. Program management.—This activity supports the management of the service programs.

Note.—Excludes $55 thousand in 1975 and $133 thousand in 1976 for activities transferred to: Office of the Director. Comparable amounts for 1974 ($133 thousand) and 1975 ($78 thousand) are included above.

1. Research.—(a) Cause and prevention research.—Research is conducted on ways to reduce the effectiveness of external, cancer-producing agents; to minimize the risk of cancer development in individuals; to prevent the transformation of normal cells to cancer cells; and to prevent the progression of the disease and its spread from primary sites.

(b) Detection and diagnosis research.—Research is conducted to develop the means to detect the presence, extent, and probable course of existing cancers; to assess the risk of developing cancer in groups and individuals; including the development and clinical testing of sensitive detection and diagnostic procedures and epidemiological studies.

(c) Treatment research.—Research is conducted to develop the means to cure cancer patients and to control the progress of cancers utilizing surgery, radiation, chemotherapy, immunotherapy, and combination therapies. Also, research on new sources of chemical agents for use in treating cancer is continuing as is the refinement of patient follow-up to determine the most effective kinds of treatment.

(d) Cancer biology.—Cancer biology studies cover a broad range of basic research in cancer that is not identified with any one of the other research activities.

2. Resource development.—(a) Cancer centers support.—The cancer centers support program consists of two types of grants. Exploratory projects are used to determine the feasibility of establishing cancer centers and to support planning efforts. Core grants support the administration, common services, and collaborative activities of cancer centers. Research conducted at centers is supported from the applicable research efforts in cause and prevention, detection and diagnosis, treatment and cancer biology.

(b) Research manpower development.—This activity supports research training and education in scientific fields related to cancer research.

(c) Construction.—Funds will be used for modernization and renovation of existing space for cancer laboratory and clinical research purposes, as well as new construction in connection with bio-hazard facilities.

3. Cancer control.—This activity is to bridge the gap between discovery of effective research findings and their application in the practice of medicine and public health by supporting specialized demonstration activities, including education and training programs.

1. Heart and vascular diseases.—Research grants and contracts in heart and vascular diseases, encompassing basic research, targeted research, clinical trials, and specialized centers. Research projects supported range from large-scale clinical trials, which focus on the etiology, diagnosis, and management of lipid (blood fat) disorders to research in instrumentation to make it possible to locate microscopic femoral lesions.

2. Lung diseases.—Pulmonary research grant and contract programs include specialized centers and a research and demonstration center.

3. Blood diseases and resources.—Grant and contract programs in blood diseases and resources include sickle cell disease and other blood diseases such as hemophilia, and the conduct of research and demonstrations to improve national systems of blood procurement, management, and distribution.

4. Intramural laboratory and clinical research.—This directed research seeks fundamental knowledge of disease processes, with emphasis on cardiovascular, pulmonary, and blood diseases.

5. Research management and program services.—This activity provides support for overall administrative management and scientific direction of Institute programs.

1. Caries.—The national caries program is an organized research and development effort to develop methods to eliminate caries as a major health problem.

2. Periodontal and soft tissue diseases.—The periodontal and soft tissue diseases program develops new knowledge which may lead to the prevention and eradication of these diseases.

3. Restorative materials.—The restorative materials program fosters the development of improved materials and methods to restore lost oral tissues to normal form and function.

4. Craniofacial anomalies.—The craniofacial anomalies program is focused on improvement and extension of treatment and understanding of the basic mechanisms, as an aim toward prevention of such developmental aberrations in man.

5. Pain control and behavioral studies.—The pain control program stimulates investigations into the nature, etiology, pathophysiology, and treatment of the major pain problems associated with the oral-facial complex.

7. Dental research institutes.—The dental research institutes bring together sources of the parent universities to focus upon the problems of oral health.

8. Intramural laboratory and clinical research.—Intramural laboratory and clinical research is concerned with the causes, treatment, control, and prevention of diseases and disorders of the oral cavity and facial region. Treatment, control, and prevention of oral disorders and diseases are explored through basic and applied research, both in laboratory and clinical facilities.

9. Research management and program services.—This activity provides support for overall administrative management and scientific direction of Institute programs.

Note.—Excludes $65 thousand in 1976 for activities transferred to: Office of the Director. Comparable amounts for 1974 ($65 thousand) and 1975 ($65 thousand) are included above.

1-5. Categorical research programs.—These programs, groups of interrelated diseases and disciplines, support biomedical research and training projects in over 400 non-Federal institutions through the use of grants and contracts. The vast majority of these awards are made to universities and medical schools. Approximately 95% of the funds in these categories are used for grant awards and 5% are used for contracts.

6. Intramural laboratory and clinical research.—The Institute intramural research programs, conducted at NIH and field stations in Arizona, include basic and applied laboratory and clinical research and epidemiological studies of the fundamental biological processes underlying the major diseases within the Institute's purview. Research is conducted in the fields of arthritis, rheumatism, digestive diseases, nutrition, diabetes, and other metabolic disorders, as well as studies in the major disciplines including pharmacology, physiology, biochemistry, chemistry, pathology, endocrinology, physical biology, molecular biology, chemical biology, hematology, and biomathematics.

7. Research management and program services.—This activity provides support for overall administrative management and scientific direction of Institute programs.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF NEUROLOGICAL DISEASES AND STROKE—CON.

1. Communicative disorders.—Research on improving the diagnosis, treatment, and prevention of diseases and disorders which affect the ear, hearing, language, and speech is supported through extramural research and training grants, intramural laboratory research, and contract-supported collaborative, clinical, and applied research. Efforts are directed at improving understanding of the underlying functions involved in hearing, expressing ideas through speech, and in the central neural processing of language.

2. Neurological disorders.—Research is directed toward neurological diseases including epilepsy, brain tumor, muscular disorders, multiple sclerosis, neurological diseases of childhood, minimal brain dysfunction, neurological aspects of learning and behavior, slow virus infections of the central nervous system, and Parkinson's disease. Research emphasis in 1976 will be focused on: Epilepsy including the initiation of a pilot program for the establishment of research and treatment of epilepsy; multiple sclerosis; genetic and developmental disorders; further analysis of data collected from the collaborative perinatal project; and virological and immunological aspects of infectious disorders.

3. Stroke, nervous system trauma.—This research is directed toward cerebrovascular disease and stroke, head injury, spinal cord injury, and nerve growth and regeneration. Support is provided through research grants, clinical research centers, contracts and intramural laboratory research.

4. Fundamental neurosciences.—Support of research in the fundamental neurosciences elucidates the mechanisms responsible for normal functioning of the human nervous system and the nature of its diseases and disorders.

5. Intramural laboratory and clinical research.—Intramural research emphasis will be directed toward genetic diseases, the slow viruses, neuroimmunology, neurootology, and neuropharmacology.

6. Research management and program services.—This activity provides support for overall administrative management and scientific direction of Institute programs.

NOTES

Excludes $16,190 thousand in 1976 for activities transferred to the National Institute on Aging. Comparable amounts for 1974, $16,544 thousand; and 1975, $14,102 thousand, are included above.

Excludes $25 thousand in 1975 and 1976 for activities transferred to the Office of the Director, NIH. Comparable amount for 1974: $25 thousand, is included above.

Excludes $36 thousand in 1976 for activities transferred to the Office of the Director, NIH. Comparable amounts for 1974: $40 thousand, and 1975, $40 thousand, are included above.

1. Population.—Population research includes four major subject areas: (1) the development of improved methods of fertility regulation, including the improvement of contraceptive technology and control of infertility; (2) studies of biologic and genetic implications of contraceptive use; (3) investigations of the social and behavioral aspects of population problems and dynamics; and (4) basic biomedical research in the population sciences.

2. Child health.—The child health program encompasses research on the segment of the life span beginning with the moment of conception and extending through adulthood. Research fields include the health of the mother; the effect of her health on the child both before and after birth; and the survival of the child and the adjustments to the new extrauterine environment. The focus then shifts to the study of factors relating to the kind of adult the infant, child, and adolescent will become.

3. Aging.—The aging program of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development was transferred to the new National Institute on Aging.

5. Intramural laboratory and clinical research.—Laboratories conduct research in population, reproduction, and child health. This activity conducts studies dealing with the incidence, distribution, and control of health problems in certain populations. It collects and analyzes program statistics and executes statistical studies.

6. Research management and program services.—This activity supports administrative management, program planning and evaluation, research information, and scientific and administrative review and administration of grants and contracts.

Note.—Includes $16,190 thousand in 1976 for activities previously financed from the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development: 1974, $16,544 thousand; 1975, $14,102 thousand. Excludes $4 thousand in 1976 for activities transferred to the Office of the Director, NIH.

The Research on Aging Act of 1974, signed on May 31, 1974, provided for the establishment of a National Institute on Aging, and the aging program of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development was transferred to the new National Institute on Aging.

1. Aging.—The extramural aging program of the Institute is responsible for medical, biological, psychological, and social aspects of research relevant to the health of the elderly. The program supports research on biological changes that occur with aging and are major determinants of disease processes, studies of alterations that occur with increasing age, and investigations of societal aspects of aging.

2. Intramural laboratory and clinical research.—This activity, conducted at the Gerontology Research Center in Baltimore, Md., includes research in cellular and molecular biology, biochemistry, physiology, psychological development, and the societal aspects of aging.

3. Research management and program services.—This activity supports administrative management; program planning and evaluation; grant and contract programming, review, and administration; and research information.

1. Retinal and choroidal disease.—The retina program supports research to acquire knowledge of how the retina functions normally as well as studies to advance understanding of how the retina is damaged by disease; applied studies to develop methods of prevention, early detection, and treatment of retinal disease; and development of animal models of various retinal diseases to facilitate laboratory and clinical research.

2. Corneal diseases.—Corneal disease research is aimed at reducing the impact of corneal diseases through improved methods of treatment, prevention, and diagnosis.

3. Cataract.—Cataract research attempts to identify the causes of cataract and develop methods for its prevention and improved treatment.

4. Glaucoma.—Glaucoma research studies the cause of glaucoma, development of techniques for prevention and early detection of glaucomatous disease, and improved methods of treatment.

5. Sensory-motor disorders and rehabilitation.—The sensory-motor program supports laboratory and clinical studies on the development and function of those activities of the brain and the eye muscles that make vision possible. The goal of these efforts is a better understanding of the causes of low vision and blindness which cannot be traced to specific dysfunctions of the eye itself.

6. Intramural laboratory and clinical research.—Laboratory and clinical research is focused on developing new and improved techniques for the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of vision disorders.

7. Research management and program services.—This activity provides support for the overall administrative management and scientific direction of Institute programs.

1. Environmental health sciences centers.—These centers support research in several traditional disciplines to foster application of expertise across disciplinary lines to deal with environmental health problems and with the diverse biological effect on the human organism.

2. Environmental mutagenesis and reproductive toxicology.—This activity supports research to clarify the nature of environmental agents that may affect the genetic makeup or reproductive capability and fidelity of man.

3. Etiology of environmental diseases and disorders.—This activity studies cause and effect relations between physical factors and chemical agents in the environment and the occurrence of human diseases.

4. Environmental pharmacology and toxicology.—This activity supports research to identify factors in the external environment and in the body that act upon chemical agents and alter their toxicity; to determine the modes of absorption and transport within the body and to characterize the nature and sites of molecular, cellular and tissue interactions that lead to functional disorders.

5. Environmental pathogenesis.—This activity supports research to define the molecular and cellular events that culminate in recognizable diseases and disorders, and to clarify the role of environmental agents as contributors to diseases.

6. Intramural laboratory and clinical research.—Research is directed toward the development of a reliable data base for use in establishing standards and devising remedial methods in a variety of populations at risk from exposure to environmental and occupational chemicals and physical factors.

7. Research management and program services.—This program provides for the overall administration, coordination, and direction of the varied programs and activities of the Institute.

The Division of Research Resources supports specialized research settings for use by the grantees and contractors of the NIH categorical programs in their categorical research efforts.

1. Clinical research.—This activity supports general clinical research centers, located in university affiliated hospitals; provides research resources to research groups for the translation of the latest laboratory discoveries into approved treatment and care of patients.

2. Biotechnology resources.—This program provides life scientists access to highly specialized instruments, methodologies and staff expert in their use with emphasis on digital computation, mass spectrometry, nuclear magnetic resonance spectrometry, and high voltage electron microscopy.

3. Laboratory animal sciences and primate research.—Support is provided for animal resources required for biomedical research. Grants are made to institutions for special animal colonies, research related to improving animal health and care, disease diagnosis, and control studies directed to enhancing the usefulness of animal models for research.

5. Minority biomedical support.—This program provides institutional support for biomedical research and research training specifically to increase the numbers of ethnic minority faculty, students, and investigators in the biomedical sciences.

6. Chemical biomedical information handling research.—This program uses the computer as a tool for drug research, in order to facilitate laboratory and clinical investigation concerned with how chemical substances influence life processes.

7. Research management and program services.—This activity provides overall administrative management, scientific direction and coordination of the Division's programs.

2. Direct operations.—This includes the following activities:

a. The Lister Hill National Center for Biomedical Communications.—This research and development center's purpose is to explore the potential application to biomedical communications of the latest relevant technology, including microwave, cable TV, computer-assisted instruction and simulation, and satellite relay networks.

b. National Medical Audiovisual Center.—The Center is responsible for promoting the use of biomedical audio-visuals in furtherance of national health goals.

c. Library operations.—The library acquires and maintains an archival and reference collection of biomedical literature and provides bibliographic and reference services through a network of regional and local medical libraries.

d. Toxicology information program.—This computer-based toxicology information storage and retrieval system relates information concerning the nature of poisons, their detection and treatment and subsequent effects on man and his environment.

e. Research management and program services.—This activity provides overall scientific and administrative direction to the Library's operations.

The NIH Management Fund was established to facilitate the conduct of NIH operations financed by two or more appropriations. Fund activities are financed primarily from advances and reimbursements from the several Institutes. Formulas for determining each Institute's contribution reflect usage of services provided by the fund.

1. Computer services provides a central scientific research and computational resource in support of the NIH programs.

2. Research services provide centralized and collaborative engineering, scientific, and technical support for research activities.

3. Engineering services provides engineering, architectural, craft, and labor services required for all of the Institutes.

4. Clinical services provides facilities and services, other than physician care, for an integrated operation of its 511-bed facility servicing nine Institutes; developing and recommending policies and rules for the protection and welfare of patients; and conducting research in methods and techniques of hospital administration; as well as numerous other medical care services.

5. Grant review and approval provides support services in formulating National Institutes of Health grant and award policies and procedures relating to research and training programs, serves as a resource for central receipt and referral of all applications for Public Health Service research and training grant support; provides for the initial scientific review of research and training grant applications; and administers programs concerned with civil rights, protection of human research subjects, research animal welfare, and laboratory safety.

6. Administrative services include plant and office house-keeping and safety services.

The NIH Service and supply fund provides a single means for consolidated financing and accounting of business-type operations involving the sale of services and commodities to the NIH research institutes and divisions.

1. Administrative services.—These services include the sale of commodities from inventory, printing and reproduction services, and other similar services.

2. Data processing services.—This central facility is expected to provide data systems design and consultation, key punching, EAM processing, computer programming and computer processing services to NIH research components.

3. Instrumentation.—The biomedical instrumentation and engineering branch maintains, repairs and fabricates scientific laboratory apparatus and equipment for use in the research laboratories at NIH.

4. Research animals.—The NIH animal facilities provide small and large research animals to the research laboratories.

1. General mental health.—(a) Research.—This activity includes all of the National Institute of Mental Health's research efforts utilizing grants and contracts or carried on directly by Institute staff in Government-owned facilities on the campuses of the National Institutes of Health and Saint Elizabeths Hospital (intramural research program).

(b) Training.—This activity includes funds to support the Institute's training grant and fellowship programs. Except for postdoctoral research fellowships based upon merit in selected shortage areas, the budget reflects phase-out of the training grant program.

(c) Community programs.—Grants in this activity are for the construction and staffing of community mental health centers (CMHC) and the staffing of facilities which provide specialized treatment to children. This budget reflects the phaseout of Federal support for the CMHC program.

(d) Management and information.—This activity supports the staff and related costs necessary to administer the extramural research and training programs, as well as headquarters staff who direct the community mental health centers program. This activity also supports biometry studies and information activities.

2. Drug abuse.—(a) Research.—New knowledge on the causes, diagnosis, treatment, control, and prevention of drug abuse is obtained extramurally through grant and contract support of basic, clinical, and applied research, and intramurally through research at the National Institute on Drug Abuse's Addiction Research Center.

(b) Training.—Training grants and contracts provide qualified personnel to operate treatment and rehabilitation programs and improve the quality of manpower in the field of drug abuse. The budget reflects a reliance upon postgraduate research fellowship awards, based upon merit, in selected shortage areas and a phaseout of the training grant and contract program.

(c) Community programs.—Community-based drug abuse treatment and rehabilitation, demonstration, and prevention programs receive support through project grants and contracts. Funds are also allocated to States through a formula grant program.

(d) Management and information.—Support is provided for Institute staff to plan, coordinate, and analyze Federal drug abuse programs. The drug abuse information program seeks, on a priority basis, information on the extent of drug abuse and the availability of treatment.

3. Alcoholism.—(a) Research.—This activity includes all of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism's research program, carried on through research grants and contracts, and the intramural research program.

(b) Training.—Included in this activity are the training functions of the Institute which are carried out through the training grant and fellowship mechanisms. The budget reflects a reliance upon postgraduate research fellowship awards, based upon merit, in selected shortage areas and a phaseout of the training grant program.

(c) Community programs.—This activity includes project grant and contract support for demonstration prevention, education and treatment activities at the community level, and the formula grant program which allocates funds to the States for the development of alcoholism prevention, education, and service activities.

(d) Management and information.—This activity supports staff to plan, direct, and execute the program of the Institute, including program administration and program analysis.

4. Buildings and facilities.—This activity includes funds for construction, alterations, repairs, and improvements of buildings and facilities of the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration including Saint Elizabeths Hospital.

5. Program direction.—This activity provides support for the overall direction and management of the agency, as well as rental payments to GSA for buildings occupied by regional office and headquarters staff.

Saint Elizabeths Hospital provides treatment and care for the mentally ill who are either beneficiaries of the Federal Government or residents of the District of Columbia. During the current fiscal year, a proposal will be submitted, transferring program and fiscal control of the hospital from the Federal Government to the District of Columbia. Under the terms of the forthcoming transfer, the District of Columbia would budget for and justify the operation of the hospital under its own appropriation.

The traditional St. Elizabeth's Hospital operating budget (this appropriation) would be discontinued as of June 30, 1975. Appropriations now made directly to the hospital would be reclassified as payments to the District of Columbia for treatment of Federal beneficiaries and partial support of hospital operating costs.

1. Health statistics.—The National Center for Health Statistics develops and maintains reliable, general purpose, health statistical data collection systems. The Center performs studies to improve health survey methods; provides technical advice and assistance on the application of statistical methods in the health and medical fields; and exerts leadership in the continued development of a national cooperative health statistics system with State and local agencies, directed toward producing comparable health data on a wide range of topics for use in the planning and evaluation of health care programs.

The major objective to be pursued during 1976 with the requested funding increase will be to continue a moderate expansion in the number of developmental and implementation contracts pertaining to the cooperative health statistics system. A program will be started to build the capacity of States to conduct vital records follow-back surveys, household interview surveys, and surveys of manpower and facilities. The National Center for Health Statistics will also maintain its current health interview survey of households which allows for regional, State, and large standard metropolitan statistical area estimates to be made. Support is also provided for the expansion of other statistical programs, such as the characteristics and utilization of the Nation's health resources. A program of periodic surveys of health occupations will be established and a survey will be initiated which will produce data relating to the expenditures for medical care.

2. Health planning and resources development.—This program would provide Federal support to States, to area planning bodies and to centers for health planning.

Federal funds will be provided to State agencies in order to conduct statewide health planning reviews and make findings as to the adequacy of proposed and existing health services, and to prepare and administer the State's plan for medical facilities construction and modernization. In addition the State agency will engage in regulatory efforts in the health field and implement Federal initiatives concerned with proposed capital expenditures in the health care industry. These include expanded State efforts in areas of cost control and activities dealing with capital expenditures review as encouraged by section 1122 of the Social Security Act and State certificate of need legislation. Up to three-quarters of the cost of operating the State agencies will be provided by Federal funds. Health Systems Agencies (HSA's) will be designated throughout the country and will be responsible for health planning and resource development in each agency's area, as well as for the implementation of the health systems plan for that area. The Federal Government will provide both planning grants and development funds to qualified HSA's.

Federal funds will be provided for the establishment of centers for health planning to assist State agencies and Health Systems Agencies with the health planning activities.

The request also would provide for Federal support to public and nonprofit private health care facilities to assist them in certain types of modernization and construction. Priority will be given to those facilities which serve large numbers of poor patients and which are unable to obtain financing through the private capital market without Federal assistance. Because the Nation's supply of hospital beds as a whole is generally considered adequate, and in many cases greater than the demand, grants will be directed toward those specific areas which still demonstrate a critical need for medical facilities construction and modernization.

In addition to the above activities, in 1975 Federal funds will be used as necessary to effect the transition from formerly authorized Federal programs (comprehensive health planning, regional medical program, Hill-Burton) to the programs mentioned above.

3. Comprehensive health planning.—In 1976, the activities that would have been supported under this program will be included under health planning and resources development.

4. Regional medical programs.—In 1976, the activities that would have been supported under this program will be included under health planning and resources development.

5. Health services research.—The National Center for Health Services Research conducts research to improve the organization, delivery, quality, and financing of health services.

For 1976, the Center has identified a number of research areas requiring immediate and substantial investigation. Those include: (1) the development of new approaches to increasing productivity and reduce costs in the health sector; (2) planning and regulation methodology; (3) quality of care; (4) nonphysician manpower; and (5) chronic illness.

6. Emergency medical services.—In 1976 this activity is funded through the Health Services Administration.

7. Health manpower.—(a) Health professions.—Support is provided for education in the health professions to promote improved geographic and specialty distribution, training in primary care, minority group participation, improved utilization of personnel, increased supply, and basic financial assistance to health education institutions; and to improve the quality of health delivery systems and to reduce the need for dental services through education in disease prevention and control measures.

The categorical general scholarship and direct loan activities for health professions students will be gradually phased out. However, the National Health Service Scholarship program will be maintained to address the existing problems of obtaining health professionals for Federal health program needs, and medical manpower maldistribution. Support will be provided to students in exchange for a commitment to meet public needs. Students in need of financial assistance to pursue training in the health fields will continue to be eligible for loan assistance from the Office of Education.

Grants and contracts are awarded to improve the dental manpower supply, expedite the prevention and control of dental diseases, and the provision of high quality dental services through the improvement of delivery systems. A major subactivity in this area is the dental training in expanded auxiliary management (TEAM) program, which provides 30 grants for training in innovative dental care techniques to over 1,850 students in 1976.

(b) Nursing.—Support is provided to improve the quality of nursing care and practice by improving the distribution of nursing services. Federal funds attempt to enhance the training capacities of the schools to produce better qualified nurses through educational planning and cooperative efforts, curriculum development and improvement, research, studies and evaluation of nursing needs, and contracts to prepare specialized nurse practitioners for primary and preventive care.

Categorical loans and scholarship activities are being gradually phased out. The postsecondary education student assistance programs operated by the Office of Education are available to nursing students, as is the case with undergraduate students in other fields.

(c) Special manpower programs.—These programs support activities to improve the distribution, supply, quality, utilization, and efficiency of health personnel. Awards are targeted toward the achievement of special national health manpower goals such as linking training efforts with improved distribution of health personnel in the development of Area Health Education Centers (AHEC's). Other activities relate to the educational preparation of primary care providers, the geographic distribution of health care personnel, and the mix of health manpower required for newer delivery modes.

8. Health facilities construction assistance.—In prior years Federal funds were provided in the form of grants and loans to assist States, other public agencies, and non-profit organizations in the construction or modernization of hospitals and other health facilities. In 1976, these activities are included in funds for health planning and resources development.

9. Program management.—This activity supports the staff and operating expenses related to the program direction and management of the several HRA programs.

A loan guarantee and loan fund for medical facilities is established in the Treasury, without fiscal year limitation, to discharge responsibilities under guarantees; for payment of interest on the loans to nonprofit sponsors which are guaranteed; for direct loans to public agencies which are sold and guaranteed; for payment of interest on direct loans which are sold and guaranteed; and for repurchase of direct loans which have been sold and guaranteed.

The fund consists of $50 million which is restricted for use in fulfilling guarantees in event of default; $30 million which serves as a revolving amount from which direct loans are made to public agencies; and funds required to provide for interest subsidy payments on both direct and guaranteed loans.

The request of $10 million for interest subsidies in 1976 is required to honor the interest subsidies for loans already committed and those to be entered into in 1975 under the remaining 1973 authorization.

Title VII, part C of Public Health Service Act established a revolving fund from which health professions schools could borrow in order to provide loans to their students. Public Law 89-751, the Allied Health Professions Personnel Training Act of 1966, amended the Public Health Service Act to authorize the Federal Government to pay the difference between the interest paid by students to the schools and the interest payable by the schools to the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) and the Treasury.

In 1976 provisions are made for the following Federal payments: $129 thousand to GNMA, which represents the difference between the 5.25% interest rate earned by the student loan paper (promissory notes) and the 6.38% rate paid by GNMA on the $11,459 thousand worth of paper (participation certificates) held by the public; $602 thousand to GNMA which represents the 5.25% interest due on $11,459 thousand worth of paper held by the public; $1,162 thousand to the U.S. Treasury on the difference between the U.S. Treasury interest rate and that paid by the schools on $18,597 thousand loaned to the schools.

In addition $391 thousand will be paid to health professions schools for loan cancellations under the Public Health Service Act, section 744(b). These loans are canceled by either the death or permanent and total disability of the borrower or the borrower's willingness to serve in an area designated by the Secretary. Title VIII, part B, of the Public Health Service Act established a revolving fund from which schools of nursing could borrow in order to provide loans to their students. The Allied Health Professions Personnel Training Act of 1966, amended the Public Health Service Act to authorize the Federal Government to pay the difference between the interest paid by students to the schools and the interest payable by the schools to the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) and the Treasury.

In 1976, provision is made for the following Federal payments: $35 thousand to GNMA, which represents the difference between the 5.25% interest rate earned by the student loan paper (promissory notes) and the 6.38% rate paid by the GNMA on the $3,110 thousand worth of paper (participation certificates) held by the public; $163 thousand to GNMA which represents the 5.25% interest due on $3,110 thousand worth of paper (participation certificates) held by the public; $649 thousand to U.S. Treasury on the difference between U.S. Treasury interest rate and that paid by the schools on $10,390 thousand loaned to the schools.

In addition, $869 thousand will be paid to schools of nursing for loan cancellations under the Public Health Service Act, section 827(b). These loans are canceled by either the death or permanent and total disability of the borrower or the borrower's willingness to serve in an area designated by the Secretary. The new budget authority required by insufficiencies is computed as follows (in thousands of dollars):

The scientific activities overseas (special foreign currency) program is supported entirely by foreign currencies owned by the United States abroad. These currencies are available for the Department's use in those countries where the supply of U.S.-owned currency exceeds normal U.S. Government needs for at least 2 years. For 1976, the Treasury Department has designated seven excess currency countries: Burma, Egypt, Guinea, India, Pakistan,

Poland, and Tunisia. Authorization for the activities funded by the health agencies with these currencies is provided by the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, as amended; and, the International Health Research Act of 1960.

This program supports health research in the excess currency countries that helps fulfill program needs of the six health agencies—National Institutes of Health; Health Services Administration; Health Resources Administration; Food and Drug Administration; Center for Disease Control; and Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration—while being of mutual interest to the host country, its institutions, and scientists. The 1976 program will be carried out with funds appropriated, but not used, in prior years.

Comparable amounts for 1975 ($33,700 thousand) are included above.

1. Grants for disadvantaged.—Grants are made to local educational agencies to help them improve their educational programs in order to meet the special educational needs of educationally deprived children. In addition, grants are made to State education agencies for handicapped children, dependent and neglected children and orphans and juvenile delinquents in State institutions and for children of migratory workers. The Education Amendments of 1974 revised the formula for the distribution of title I grants. It is estimated that over 5.5 million children in some 14,000 school districts will receive benefits in 1976. The 1976 funding for this program was appropriated in 1975 to fund school year 1975-76, placing the program on an advance appropriation for the first time. Thus, the current request includes an advance appropriation of $1,900,000 thousand to fund school year 1976-77.

2. Support and innovation.—The Education Amendments of 1974 authorized the consolidation of several categorical programs. The consolidation was authorized to take place in two steps. In the first year, 1975, 50% of the funds remain available for each of the specific categorical purposes; the remaining 50% to be used on a consolidated basis with State and local authorities making determinations on the specific use of the funds. In subsequent years, 1976 and beyond, all of the funds are to be used at the discretion of State and local authorities. In 1975, appropriations were requested and enacted to advance fund the program for 1976. In 1976, appropriations, in the amount of $172,888 thousand, are requested to advance fund school year 1976-77.

The following activities are included in the support and innovation authority:

(a) Consolidation program.—Grants are made to States to strengthen their State education agencies, to support innovative projects, and nutrition and health, and dropout programs.

(b) Strengthening State departments of education.—Grants are made to supplement the leadership resources of State educational agencies.

(c) Supplementary services.—Grants are made to stimulate and assist in the provision of vitally needed educational services including preschool, special education, compensatory education, vocational education, education of the gifted and talented, and dual enrollment programs.

(d) Nutrition and health.—Grants support demonstration projects whose objectives are to improve school nutrition and health services for children from low-income families.

3. Bilingual education.—Grants are made to local educational agencies (1) to enable them to develop and carry out elementary and secondary school programs, including activities at the preschool level, to meet the educational needs of children of limited English-speaking ability, and (2) to demonstrate effective ways of providing such children instruction designed to enable them, while using their native language, to achieve competence in English.

In 1976, school year 1976-77, the program will support the operation of an estimated 284 classroom projects with a total enrollment of almost 200,000 children, provide inservice training for 9,000 teachers, paraprofessionals, and administrators and sponsor scholarships and fellowships to over 1,500 potential teachers in the area of bilingual education, fund program development at some 20 institutions of higher education and develop, evaluate and disseminate curriculum materials for use nationally in bilingual education classrooms. The evaluation study initiated in 1975 will be continued in 1976 with funds appropriated to the National Center for Educational Statistics.

4. Right to read.—The purpose of this program is to provide facilitating services and resources to stimulate educational institutions, governmental agencies, and private organizations to improve and expand their activities related to reading. The right to read program is both an impetus to and a component of a large national reading effort. The goal of this national effort is to eliminate functional illiteracy in this country to the extent that by 1980, 99% of the population 16 years of age, and 90% of the population over 16 years of age will be functionally literate. In 1976 funds requested will support 44 reading improvement projects, 20 special emphasis projects and 50 reading academies and an evaluation project.

5. Follow through.—This is an experimental, compensatory education program designed to develop and test new ways to educate disadvantaged children in the early primary grades. The parents, the community, and the resources at the school are brought together in programs to meet the child's instructional, physical, and psychosocial needs. In school year 1976-77, about 38,000 students in grades 2 and 3 will participate in 169 projects.

6. Educational broadcasting facilities.—This program provides matching grants for acquisition and installation of electronic equipment to be used in noncommercial educational broadcasting stations to serve the educational, cultural and informational needs of Americans in homes and schools. Amounts requested in 1976 will provide for activating 3 new educational TV and 6 new educational radio stations and upgrading and expanding 10 educational television and 7 educational radio stations.

7. Civil rights advisory services.—This program makes grants and contracts to render technical assistance in the preparation, adoption, and implementation of plans for the desegregation of public schools and to provide services and training for people to deal effectively with special educational problems occasioned by desegregation. In 1976, this program is being shown in the Emergency school aid appropriation.

8. Libraries and instructional resources.—The Education Amendments of 1974 authorized the consolidation of several categorical support and innovation programs. The consolidation was authorized to take place in two steps. In the first year, 1975, 50% of the funds remain available for each of the specific categorical purposes; the remaining 50% to be used on a consolidated basis with State and local authorities making determinations on the specific use of the funds. In subsequent years, 1976 and beyond, all of the funds are to be used at the discretion of State and local authorities. In 1975, appropriations in the amount of $137,330 thousand, were requested and enacted to advance fund the program for 1976. In 1976, appropriations are requested to advance fund school year 1976-77.

(a) Consolidated program.—This program, newly authorized by the Education Amendments of 1974, consolidates programs previously carried on under the following activities.

(b) School library resources.—This program, carried out under the Library resources appropriation in 1974 and 1975, is included in the consolidated grants above.

(c) Equipment and minor remodeling.—This program provides grants to States for the purchase of equipment and is included in consolidated programs in 1976.

(d) Guidance and counseling.—Grants are made to support school guidance projects. This activity is included in consolidation.

In 1976, these activities are funded under the Library resources appropriation.

9. Educational TV programing.—Grants are awarded for the development of educational TV programs. The activity is included under the Educational development appropriation in 1974 and under the Innovation and experimental programs appropriation in 1976.

10. Environmental education.—This program provides grants to nonprofit agencies, institutions, or organizations for the support of environmental education pilot and demonstration projects.

1. Payments to local educational agencies.—Grants are made to applicant local education agencies for supplemental elementary and secondary programs to meet the special educational needs of Indian children. In addition to the amount for LEA's, 10% of this amount provided for LEA's is reserved for grants to Indian controlled schools on or near reservations, which are not LEA's. During 1974, grants were awarded to 877 LEA's and non-LEA's. It is anticipated that 1,046 grants will be made in 1975 and a total of 1,250 grants in 1976. An amount of $25 million is requested for payments to LEA's and non-LEA's in 1976.

2. Special programs for Indian children.—In 1976, $12 million is requested for grants to Indian tribes, organizations, and institutions, State and local education agencies, Federal elementary and secondary schools for Indian children, institutions of higher education, and private nonprofit elementary and secondary schools. In 1974, 135 grants were awarded primarily to support innovative pilot and demonstration projects and programs for improving educational opportunities for Indian children. An estimated 140 awards will be made in 1975 and 150 in 1976.

3. Special programs for adult Indians.—An amount of $3 million is requested in 1976 for grants to Indian tribes, institutions, and organizations and State and local education agencies. These grants support pilot, planning, and demonstration projects with particular emphasis in the two critical areas of basic literacy and high school equivalency training. In 1974, 38 grants were awarded. An estimated 40 grants will be made in 1975 and 45 in 1976.

4. Administration.—Funds for this activity support the salaries, travel, and other administrative expenses of the Office of Indian Education and the National Advisory Council on Indian Education as well as planning studies necessary for program support.

1. Maintenance and operations.—Payments are made to assist in the operation of schools in areas where enrollments are affected by Federal activities. Payments are made to local educational agencies on the basis of those children whose parents live and work on Federal property ("a" category) or those whose parents either live or work on Federal property ("b" category). In 1975, payments were made to approximately 4,300 school districts. Nearly 2 million pupils benefited from these payments. One hundred percent of entitlement was provided for 3(a) children who comprised 25% or more of total children in average daily attendance; 90% of entitlement was provided for 3(a) children who comprised less than 25% of total children in average daily attendance; 70% of entitlement was provided for 3(b) children. Full entitlement is provided for payments to other Federal agencies and for special provisions.

2. Construction.—Payments are made to assist in the construction of schools in areas where enrollments are affected by Federal activities. From 1951 through 1975, over $1,470 million has been appropriated for this program aiding in the construction of over 69,200 classrooms to house about 2 million pupils in the 50 States, Puerto Rico, Guam, and Wake Island. In recent years an effort has been made to fund local agencies that have not been funded for several years, that have the most pressing construction needs, and that provide assistance for children residing on Indian lands.

The 1975 and 1976 requests include special a. appropriation language which basically limits Federal support to "Special programs and projects" and "evaluation" authorized under sections 708 and 713 of the Emergency School Aid Act. This approach makes possible the targeting of desegregation assistance on school districts with the greatest need. These activities and other authorized activities for which no funds are requested are described below.

1. Special projects.—(a) Bilingual education projects.—This activity assists local educational agencies and supporting organizations in meeting the needs of minority children who, because they are from an environment in which the dominant language is other than English, may be denied equality of educational opportunity. In 1974, 47 projects were funded.

(b) Educational television.—This activity funds public or private nonprofit organizations to develop and produce children's television programs incorporating integrated children's activities of cognitive and affective educational value. In 1974, 8 new contract awards were made, providing for production of 145 programs with a total viewing time of 74 hours.

(c) Special programs and projects.—This activity assists local educational agencies and supporting public organizations in conducting activities which: (1) are not otherwise authorized by the Emergency School Aid Act, and (2) promise to make substantial progress toward achieving the purposes of the Emergency School Aid Act. In 1974, about 175 projects were supported under this activity. In 1975 and 1976, special appropriation language is requested to target the Emergency School Aid Act desegregation assistance under this project grant authority. This will permit focusing Federal support in the areas with the greatest need. Grants will be made to both public and private nonprofit agencies.

(d) Evaluation.—Grants are awarded to and contracts are made with public and private organizations for evaluations of programs and projects funded under the Emergency School Aid Act. In 1974, three evaluation projects were continued from 1973. These projects were large-scale longitudinal studies of the Emergency School Aid Act pilot programs, basic grants to local educational agencies, and a related study of exemplary desegregated schools. In 1975 and 1976 special appropriation language will be provided to fund the final activities of evaluation projects initiated in 1973.

2. State apportionment.—(a) Pilot programs.—This activity supports promising programs to overcome the adverse effects of minority group isolation by improving the academic achievement of children in one or more minority group isolated schools in districts which enroll at least 15,000 minority group children, or have a minority group enrollment which is more than 50% of the enrollment. In 1974, 141 local educational agencies received grants under this activity.

(b) Special programs and projects.—This activity assists nonprofit organizations in conducting special programs which support local educational agency efforts to develop or implement a plan to meet special problems incident to desegregation, to encourage voluntary integration or to aid school children in overcoming the educational disadvantages of minority group isolation. In 1974, 238 groups were supported by this activity. In 1975 and 1976, special appropriation language is requested to target the Emergency School Aid Act desegregation assistance under this project grant authority. This will permit focusing Federal support in the areas with the greatest need. Grants will be made to both public and private nonprofit agencies.

(c) General grants to local educational agencies.—This activity provides financial assistance to eligible local educational agencies to: (1) meet educational needs incident to elementary and/or secondary school desegregation; (2) encourage voluntary elimination of minority group isolation in elementary and secondary schools; and (3) overcome educational disadvantages which are the result of minority group isolation. In 1974, 570 school districts received funds for basic projects.

3. Training and advisory services (Civil Rights Act).—This activity renders technical assistance in the preparation, adoption and implementation of desegregation plans for public schools, and provides services and training for people to deal effectively with special educational problems occasioned by desegregation. In 1974, 164 projects (including 46 institutes, 26 desegregation assistance centers, 40 State educational agencies, and 52 local educational agencies) were funded. In 1975, this activity was transferred to the Office of Education's Elementary and Secondary Education appropriation. About 201 projects will be supported during 1975. In 1976, this activity will be transferred back to the Emergency School Aid appropriation and is expected to support a total of 221 projects.

1. State assistance.—(a) State grant program.—Grants are made to States to assist in the initiation, expansion, and improvement of programs and projects for education of handicapped children at the preschool, elementary, and secondary school levels. The 1976 funding for this program was appropriated in 1975 to fund school year 1975-76, placing the program on an advance-funded basis for the first time. Thus, the current request includes an advance appropriation of $50,000,000 to fund school year 1976-77.

(b) Deaf-blind centers.—Contracts are awarded to 10 regional centers to provide, through a series of sub-contracts diagnostic, educational, and related services to deaf-blind children and their families. The centers also initiate whatever ancillary services are necessary to assure that these children can achieve their full potential for useful participation in society.

(c) Severely handicapped projects.—Contracts are awarded to establish and expand programs and practices to meet the educational and training needs of severely handicapped children and youth, including deinstitutionalization programs.

2. Innovation and development.—(a) Early childhood education.—Demonstrations are supported to provide educational, diagnostic, and consultative services for preschool handicapped children and their parents. The projects are designed to stimulate and influence the development of additional services for preschool handicapped children.

(b) Specific learning disabilities.—Grants and contracts are awarded to stimulate State and local provision of identification, diagnostic, prescriptive and educational services for learning disabled children through the funding of model programs, technical assistance, research, and training activities.

(c) Regional vocational, adult, and postsecondary programs.—Contracts will be awarded to develop and operate regional centers for deaf and other handicapped persons in the area of vocational, technical, postsecondary or adult education, building on existing resources and facilities currently serving regional needs.

(d) Research and demonstration.—Grants and contracts are awarded for the development of new curricular materials, teaching techniques, and other research and demonstration projects, including those in the field of physical education and recreation research for handicapped children.

1. Grants to States for vocational education.—In 1976, support for this activity previously authorized under the Vocational Education Act is being requested under proposed legislation discussed under the legislative program. The amount of $7,161,455 shown under this activity in 1976 is the permanent appropriation authorized by the Smith Hughes Act which will not be affected by the proposed legislation.

2. Vocational research.—In 1976, support for this activity previously authorized under the Vocational Education Act is being requested under proposed legislation discussed under the legislative program.

3. Adult education.—Formula grants are made to the States and territories for the purpose of eliminating functional illiteracy among the Nation's adults 16 years of age and older who lack a 12th grade level of education. Fifteen percent of each State's allotment is reserved for special projects and teacher training. The 1976 funding for this program was appropriated in 1975 to fund school year 1975-76, placing the program on an advanced funded basis for the first time. Thus, the current request includes an advance appropriation of $67,500 thousand to fund school year 1976-77. It is estimated that 821,000 adults will be enrolled in adult education classes in 1976.

4. Career education.—In 1976, support for this activity is being transferred to the appropriation, Innovative and experimental programs.

5. Education personnel.—(a) Teacher Corps.—This activity is directed toward improving educational opportunities for children of low-income families by improving the quality of programs of teacher education for both certified teachers and inexperienced teacher interns. In 1976, projects will emphasize training and retraining for personnel within a cooperating school.

(b) Other education personnel development.—The activities include teacher training programs concentrating on specific populations and subjects where teacher deficiencies are recognized. The urban-rural school development program is targeted to low-income students. In 1976 funds are requested to provide final support to phase out this 5-year effort involving 31 projects and 3,500 school staff and community members. For educational leadership, grants and contracts will be provided for short-term and long-term training projects to improve the management and planning capabilities of elementary and secondary school principals.

The 1976 budget estimate continues the high priority placed on student assistance for a postsecondary education.

1. Student assistance.—The principal forms of student assistance are basic educational opportunity grants and guaranteed student loans.

The $1,050 million requested for basic educational opportunity grants is expected to provide full entitlement grants averaging $785 for 1,323,600 full- and part-time students. Until the 1975 appropriation, special legislation or appropriation language had limited grants to full-time students. Grants from 1973 funds were limited to first-year students, 1974 funds to first- and second-year, and 1975 funds to three classes. At full funding, an undergraduate postsecondary student will be eligible for a grant of $1,400 less the amount he or his parents are expected to contribute; but the grant may not exceed one-half of his cost of education. Grants will range from $200 to $1,400. The expected family and student contribution is determined by a needs analysis system approved each year by the Congress.

Since basic grants can pay no more than half of a student's expenses, other sources of aid, some of them Federal, will be needed. Therefore, funds are being requested to continue the work-study and the guaranteed loan programs, and to expand the program of incentive grants for State scholarships. For work-study, $250 million is requested in 1976. To subsidize $1.65 billion in new guaranteed student loans, and to pay mandatory expenses on loans made in prior years, $452 million will be needed. These funds are used to pay interest benefits, the special allowance to lenders, and death and disability claims. Funds required to pay claims for defaulted loans are requested under the student loan insurance fund. In 1976, $44 million is requested for incentive grants for State scholarships.

No funds are requested for supplemental opportunity grants or for national direct student loan capital contributions and loans to institutions. However, in academic year 1976-77, student loans amounting to $164 million will be made under the direct loan program out of repayments into institutional revolving funds.

Number of students receiving assistance:	Academic year
	1973-74	1974-75	1975-76	1976-77
Basic opportunity grants.....	220,000	689,000	1,107,600	1,323,600
Supplemental opportunity grants (formerly educational opportunity grants).....	304,000	304,000	347,000	-----
Work-study.....	560,000	560,000	624,000	520,000
Subsidized insured loans.....	938,000	1,000,000	1,100,000	(1)
Direct loans.....	674,000	671,000	728,000	328,000

2. Special programs for the disadvantaged.—In addition to the existing talent search, Upward Bound, and special services programs, educational opportunity centers, geared to serve low-income areas, are being established.

3. Institutional assistance.—The $110 million request for developing institutions, like the 1975 appropriation, includes $58 million for an advanced development program and $52 million for the basic program. The program provides substantial assistance to schools with high percentages of black and other minority students.

For foreign language and area studies, $10 million is requested in 1976, including $1.36 million for training overseas under the Fulbright-Hays program.

The $8 million requested to help postsecondary institutions begin, improve and expand cooperative education programs will support programs in which employers pay students for periods of full-time work which are alternated with periods of full-time study.

Several outmoded, inefficient or marginal programs are proposed for elimination. Legislation has been submitted to repeal the permanent land-grant program (Second Morrill Act) as well as the annual appropriation (Bankhead-Jones). No funds are requested for university community services (HEA-I), State postsecondary education commissions, or veterans cost of instruction programs.

For construction subsidies mandatory payments on prior year commitments can be made from funds appropriated earlier. A new accounting system for the program calls for recording obligations in the year payments will be made.

4. Personnel development.—In 1976, funds under this activity include $1 million to permit veterans to resume college teacher fellowships interrupted by their service, $750,000 for fellowships for the disadvantaged, and $500 thousand for Allen J. Ellender fellowships.

1. Public libraries.—Grants are made to States on a formula basis, with matching funds required. The purpose of this program is to promote the extension and improvement of public library services in areas without such services or with inadequate services; to improve State library services for the physically handicapped, institutionalized and disadvantaged persons; to strengthen State library administrative agencies; and to strengthen metropolitan libraries which serve as regional resource centers. Reduced funding from the 1975 level is requested as a further step in phasing out Federal support for this type of public library aid, while shifting Federal support to proposed new library legislation.

2. School library resources.—In 1974 and 1975, grants were made to States on a formula basis under existing categorical authorities. Beginning with fiscal year 1976, the Education Amendments of 1974 provides for the consolidation of the School library resources program with the Equipment and minor remodeling program (NDEA title III) and the Guidance and Counseling portions of title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. This consolidation and the $137,330 thousand associated with it are shown under the Elementary and secondary education appropriation in 1976. For 1977, an advance appropriation of $137,330 thousand is included under this heading.

3. Undergraduate instructional equipment.—This program authorizes grants to institutions of higher education to assist in the improvement of undergraduate programs through the purchase of instructional equipment (including closed-circuit television) and materials and through minor remodeling. No funds are requested for this program in 1976.

Activities included under this appropriation are authorized by the new Special Projects Act contained in the Education Amendments of 1974. Under this authority, grants and contracts are awarded to experiment with new educational and administrative methods, techniques, and practices; to meet special or unique educational needs or problems; and to place special emphasis on national education priorities. Not less than 50% of the funds are set aside for priorities specified in the law. The remaining funds are for activities carried out at the discretion of the Commissioner of Education. This new authority replaces the Cooperative Research Act which has been repealed. A number of the activities listed below were funded under other appropriations in 1975.

1. Metric projects.—Projects will support activities in educational agencies and institutions to prepare students to use the metric system.

2. Gifted and talented children.—The purpose of this program is to increase the capacity of the States and other administrative systems to initiate, operate, and extend educational opportunities for the gifted and talented.

3. Community schools.—This program will fund projects directed toward providing educational, recreational, cultural, and other related community services in accordance with needs, interests and concerns of the community.

4. Career education.—This program proposes to develop information about the needs for career education of all children, develop State and local plans for implementing career education, provide for the training and retraining of persons for conducting career education programs, promote a national dialog on career education and demonstrate the best of current career education programs and practices. This activity was funded under the Occupational, vocational, and adult education appropriation in 1975.

5. Consumers' education.—This program will fund projects at the elementary and secondary, postsecondary, and adult education levels to promote consumer education through research, demonstration and pilot projects.

6. Women's education equity.—Grants and contracts will be awarded to provide educational equity for women at all levels of education through the improvement and expansion of special and innovative programs.

7. Arts in education.—Grants and contracts will be made to encourage and assist State and local education agencies to establish and conduct programs in which the arts are an integral part of elementary and secondary school education through arrangements with the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

8. Packaging and field testing.—This program is designed to accelerate the replication of successful educational approaches and products developed and demonstrated in Office of Education-supported programs. This activity was funded under the Salaries and expenses appropriation in 1975.

9. Educational television programming.—This program will provide assistance to support the development, production, installation, and utilization of innovative children's educational television programs. These are to demonstrate the ability to help children learn, especially the disadvantaged, in their school or at home. This activity was included under the Elementary and secondary education appropriation in 1975 and the Educational development appropriation in 1974.

1. Program administration.—Funds are provided in this activity to enable the Commissioner to carry out the purpose and duties of the Office of Education. The Office administers grants-in-aid and other direct programs and provides technical assistance to State and local educational agencies, institutions of higher education, libraries, and other organizations to promote the improvement of education throughout the country.

2. Planning and evaluation.—Grants are awarded to and contracts are made with public and private organizations for planning and evaluation studies of programs administered by the Office of Education. In 1975, nine of the studies mandated by Public Law 93-380 were initiated. New awards will be granted in 1976 for studies on higher education, reading improvement programs, vocational education, media, and captioned films.

3. General program dissemination.—Under this activity the results of educational demonstrations are made available to the general public, and the educational community, to promote improvements in the educational process. The packaging and field testing activity is designed to assist educational personnel in helping educationally disadvantaged children increase their achievement levels, particularly in the basic skills of reading and mathematics. This activity is proposed for transfer to the Innovative and experimental appropriation in 1976.

4. Advisory committees.—Funds are provided for the operating expenses of advisory committees specifically authorized by Federal statute or by general authority vested with the Commissioner of Education. In 1976, this activity will provide financial support to the six national advisory committees authorized by the Education Amendments of 1974 and continue the support of the ongoing Presidential and administratively created committees.

5. Data systems improvement.—(a) Educational statistics.—This program provides data on a current and responsive basis for planning, policy, and administrative use by Federal, State, local, and institutional decisionmakers and for use by the general public. In 1975, special emphasis was placed on the changing nature of postsecondary education, financing of public schools, teacher supply and demand and the availability of special education teachers for the handicapped. An estimated 50 new publications were issued, 11,000 data inquiries answered, and 200 data tapes made available.

(b) National achievement study.—This activity, supported through a contract with the Education Commission of the States, collects, analyses, and reports on achievements of a representative national sample of four age groups: 9, 13, 17 year olds and young adults (ages 26–35) in selected areas such as mathematics and science.

All activities of the National Center for Education Statistics were transferred to the Assistant Secretary for Education in 1975 as mandated in Public Law 93–380.

6. Information clearinghouses.—Three information clearinghouses authorized by the Education Amendments of 1974 will collect and disseminate information to the public on education of adults, bilingual education and education of gifted and talented children and youth.

Under the Higher Education Act of 1965 and the National Vocational Student Loan Insurance Act of 1965, the Office of Education received authority to insure loans to students in eligible institutions who do not have reasonable access to State or private nonprofit programs of student loan insurance.

The Higher Education Amendments of 1968 merged the National Vocational Student Loan Insurance Act into the Higher Education Act insured loan program, and in addition to extending the Federal insurance program, authorizes the Office of Education to reinsure loans guaranteed by State and nonprofit private agencies at 80 percent of the amount defaulted by student borrowers. The liability of the fund was further increased by the Education Amendments of 1972 which provides for payment of the unpaid balance of interest as well as principal in the case of the defaulted federally insured loans, made under the provision of the amendments.

Upon default by the student borrowers, the Office of Education will pay to the beneficiary the amount of the loss sustained by the insured upon federally insured loans and 80% of the loss sustained on reinsured loans guaranteed by State and nonprofit private agencies. Data on federally insured loans and guaranteed loans follows:

Operating results.—The fund takes over loans on which it pays insurance claims and seeks to collect on them. Claims which are deemed uncollectable are written off as "loss on insured loans." Loans deemed collectable, after allowing for loss, are as follows: 1974, $77,244 thousand; 1975, $154,044 thousand; and 1976, $238,497 thousand.

Deposits to the fund are derived from insurance premiums earned from direct Federal insurance, which is not to exceed one-fourth of 1% per annum of the unpaid principal amount (excluding interest added to principal), and repayment of collectable loans. Additional accrued income on collectable loans is available when converted to cash. Total deposits to the fund, excluding accrued interest, are as follows: 1974, $10,418 thousand; 1975, $15,523 thousand; and 1976, $34,650 thousand.

In 1974, defaults and other claims totaling $112,176 thousand were submitted to the Fund for payment. It is anticipated that claims will amount to $193,700 thousand in 1975, and $236,437 thousand in 1976. Amounts required for the funds in 1974 consisted of appropriated funds, $88,668 thousand, and the use of indefinite borrowing authority, $20 million. Budget authority in 1975 is estimated at $197,600 thousand (including a supplemental request of $82,600 thousand). In 1976, an appropriation of $201,787 thousand is requested.

Title III of the Higher Education Facilities Act, now subsumed by title VII of the Higher Education Act, authorizes the Commissioner to make loans to institutions of higher education and to higher education building agencies for the construction of academic facilities and to insure loans. Such loans may be made for up to 80 percent of a project's total development cost and must be repaid within 50 years.

The Participation Sales Act of 1966, as amended, established a revolving fund for these loans and loan insurance. Further, the act authorizes the sales of such loans to the private credit market, the proceeds of which are deposited into the fund to be used for new loans to colleges and universities. The Government National Mortgage Association is authorized to serve as trustee for these sales.

During 1970 and through 1973, loans under this program were displaced by the annual interest grant program under the higher education appropriation. However, new loans were made from the fund to the extent that such amounts were made available from withdrawals of earlier commitments. These amounts were used to fund those small institutions of higher education which were unable to obtain private loans necessary to participate in the annual interest grant program.

During 1974, 10 new projects and 2 supplementals totaling $10,183 thousand were supported from funds withdrawn from earlier commitments. It is anticipated that additional funds available from commitments withdrawn prior to June 30, 1975, will support approximately two new projects and two supplementals totaling $2,317 thousand in 1975. Although no new loans are anticipated in 1976, the fund will continue to incur expenses for operating costs.

Interest is payable to the Treasury on the cumulative amount of appropriations paid out for loans under this title or available as capital to the fund less the average undisbursed cash balance in the fund during the year.

The rate certified by the Secretary of the Treasury for payment from the fund during 1974 was 7%.

Appropriations for insufficiencies are used to fund the deficit resulting from the interest rate required to sell the participation and the interest rate paid by higher education institutions on facilities loans. The budget authority required for insufficiencies is computed as follows (in thousands of dollars):

The Commissioner is authorized to furnish transcripts or copies of tables and other records of the Office of Education to, and to make special statistical and compilations and surveys for State or local officials, private organizations, or individuals. Such statistical compilations and surveys shall be made subject to the payment of the actual or estimated cost of such work. In the case of nonprofit organizations or agencies the Commissioner may engage in joint statistical projects, the cost of which shall be shared equitably as determined by the Commissioner, provided that the purposes are otherwise authorized by law.

All moneys received in payment for work or services enumerated under this section shall be deposited in a separate account which may be used to pay directly the costs of such work or services, to repay appropriations which initially bore all or part of such costs, or to refund excess sums when necessary.

Note.—1976 estimates exclude a comparable amount for activities transferred to Office of the Secretary, "Department Management." $113 thousand in 1974 and $1 thousand in 1975 are included above.

The National Institute of Education provides support for research, development, and dissemination activities which seek solutions to problems being experienced by students, teachers, administrators, and decisionmakers at all levels of education. Federal assistance is focused on the following problems, or goal oriented activities:

1. Dissemination.—This program provides information about the results of educational research and development. Grants and contracts are made with State education agencies and other agencies to support the hiring of specialists, the training of education personnel, and other efforts to assure that such results can be implemented in the classroom.

2. Basic skills.—Research is being conducted to discover what reading skills are required for adequate functioning in society, how to overcome barriers to learning such skills by children, and how to improve the teaching of reading.

3. Finance, productivity, and management.—Grants and contracts support studies related to the raising and allocation of funds for education; the more efficient use of educational resources; education based on skills or "performance" rather than traditional hours spent in the classroom; the use of technology in education; and other problems such as declining enrollments and improving organization and management.

4. Education and work.—Programs are being supported to prepare students with the knowledge, information, and skills for choosing and pursuing a career. Special emphasis is placed on providing work experiences as well as improving guidance, counseling, and placement activities for youth at the high school level.

5. Educational equity.—Equality of educational opportunity is denied many students because of their language or ethnic background, sex, or economic status. Grants and contracts support projects such as improving teacher practices and curricular materials for culturally and linguistically different students, and determining how educational programs for high school students can be made sensitive to cultural-linguistic differences in styles of learning and expression.

6. Program direction and administration.—Funds provide for overall administration, coordination, and direction of the programs and activities of the Institute.

The Office of the Assistant Secretary for Education is responsible for the direction and supervision of the Education division.

1. Fund for the improvement of postsecondary education.—Established to encourage reform and innovation at the postsecondary level, this program makes grants to and contracts with institutions of postsecondary education and other public and private educational institutions and agencies.

In 1975, the fund will continue the field-responsive comprehensive and special focus program approaches, the latter supporting competency based education initiatives. In addition, it will sponsor "national projects" which will create forums of practitioners currently responsible for administering outstanding postsecondary education projects in selected areas of concern. These forums will allow assessment of these projects and planning for more effective sharing of their results.

In 1976, these initiatives will be continued, with the national projects competition focusing upon systemic problems—issues such as accreditation and licensing which are external to colleges and universities but which have a great impact upon their educational programs. In addition, the fund will support projects in the area of education and work, and efforts to improve the capability of institutions to educate public service personnel from various levels of government.

2. The national center for education statistics.—The center is charged with the collection of statistics on the condition of education in the United States and abroad, policy-relevant statistical analyses and the provision of assistance to States and local education agencies in their own statistical activities. As of 1976, the center is transferred to the Office of the Assistant Secretary. The three components of the center's program are:

(a) Surveys and special studies.—Special emphasis will be placed in 1976 upon surveys and analyses concerned with the changing nature of postsecondary education, the characteristics of participants in Federal programs of assistance to State and local education agencies, equitable financing of elementary and secondary education relative to the needs of target populations, characteristics and trends in nontraditional education, and teacher supply and demand. Studies specifically requested by the Education Amendments of 1974 and others identified as necessary to meet expressed congressional needs will also be an important part of the work for the center in 1976.

(b) Common core of data.—Statistics collected through a national field test will be used to evaluate the quality of the Federal core of data for elementary/secondary education. Mechanisms will be established to test the availability of postsecondary data and to assure that established data standards have been met; available data will be used to develop a capability profile of postsecondary institutions; and a multifaceted system of technical assistance to the States will be implemented.

(c) National assessment of educational progress.—To continue the work of measuring the educational attainment of students and reporting changes in attainment over regular intervals in 1976, the center will develop data in: education for citizenship; basic mathematics skills; reading ability; basic skills performance by population subgroups; occupational knowledge and attitudes; and background characteristics of study participants.

3. Program direction and support services.—This account provides funds for administrative expenses for carrying out programs within the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Education and for the development and communication of education policy.

Grants to States for public assistance are made for the Federal share of State expenditures for maintenance assistance, medical assistance, social services, State and local training, and child welfare services. Research and evaluation projects are also supported.

Estimates of requirements are based on consideration of: Latest States estimates, impact of Federal management initiatives, and measures aimed at reducing costs through regulatory and administrative actions. The workload data and estimates by program reflect, in addition, the proposed supplemental appropriation for 1975.

1. Maintenance assistance.—Maintenance payments provide needy persons with additional resources to meet the costs of the necessary items of daily living.

Federal matching for aid to families with dependent children averages 55% with each State's percent based on per capita income. The Federal matching rate for State and local administration is 50%.

The primary focus in maintenance assistance is to continue emphasis on quality control over eligibility determination, to improve the Federal quality control system for validating State quality control activities and on the basis of quality control findings, to disallow Federal financial participation for both payments to maintenance assistance ineligible and payment errors.

Regulatory changes are being made to reduce outlays in both 1975 and 1976. Impacting the maintenance assistance activity by an estimated $27 million in 1975 and $73 million in 1976 are changes in incapacity definitions for the purpose of determining eligibility for maintenance assistance.

In addition, legislative changes are proposed to reduce outlays in 1975 by $118 million and in 1976 by $499 million. These proposals include changes in income disregard, the AFDC matching formula, the income accounting period, and absent parent support.

2. Medical assistance.—Federal grants for medical assistance under title XIX of the Social Security Act (medicaid) are made to States having plans approved by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. The purpose of the medicaid program, which became effective in January 1966, is to assist States in providing medical care to their low-income population.

All aid to families with dependent children cash recipients are eligible for medicaid benefits. In 34 States all persons receiving supplemental security income (SSI) payments are covered by medicaid; in the remaining 16 States, medicaid coverage of SSI recipients is limited to those who can meet additional, more restrictive medicaid eligibility criteria, although those persons may deduct their medical expenses from their income to establish eligibility. About 30 States have chosen the option to cover persons eligible for State supplemental payments, subject to certain limitations. In addition, 29 States have elected to cover other medically needy persons.

A number of regulatory and legislative changes are planned for 1975 and 1976. Regulatory changes include new utilization review procedures, special reviews required of high volume medicaid providers and other revisions that are estimated to save $18 million in 1975 and $112 million in 1976. Legislative proposals include changing the Federal matching rate from a floor of 50 to 40%, elimination of Federal medicaid matching for adult dental care and other proposals anticipated to reduce Federal outlays in 1975 by $199 million and $610 million in 1976.

3. Social services.—Grants are made to States, under a $2.5 billion ceiling limitation on Federal matching, to provide social services which will assist eligible persons to attain or maintain capability for self-care and self-support and strengthen family life and foster child development. All current recipients of public assistance are eligible for social services. At the option of the State, eligibility for social services can be extended to certain former and potential recipients of public assistance.

Grants are made to States based on matching rates of 75% for all services except emergency services which are matched at 50% and family planning services which are matched at 90%.

Proposed legislation to reduce Federal outlays in 1976 includes reducing social services Federal matching from 75% to 65% with savings of $448 million anticipated.

The work incentive (WIN) program is designed to encourage and assist individuals receiving support from the aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) program to achieve self-support through a program of employment, work experience and training. Child care and other social services are provided to all who have been called up for certification and all who have been certified who need such care or services to permit them to accept training or employment. State expenditures are matched by Federal participation at the rate of 90%. Training and incentives are administered by the Department of Labor, child care and supportive services by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

1. Training and incentives.—The program includes registration, call-up for appraisal and employability planning, counseling and job development, direct placement, follow-up of all employed participants and adjudication of the work test. Under this activity, individuals are helped to find jobs and prepared for self-supporting employment through on-the-job training, public service employment, work experience and institutional training. Program development, evaluation and administration of the WIN program are included in this activity.

The table below shows workload data for WIN training and incentives:

2. Child care and other supportive services.—This activity provides for child care and other social services necessary to enable WIN participants to accept training or employment. Child care may be provided in the participant's own home, in family day care homes, and in day care centers. Other supportive services which may be provided include family planning, medical examinations, remedial medical services, home management, housing improvement, transportation for access to services, and vocational rehabilitation services.

Child support amendments are not reflected in budget estimates. Legislation is being proposed to modify this legislation. In the interim, to the extent necessary to implement current law, activities will be carried out with available resources.

This appropriation finances the administration of various grant and contract programs associated with the provision of maintenance assistance and services for families with dependent children, medically needy, and other disadvantaged persons nationwide. Also included are monitoring and review activities designed to assure the effective and prudent use of Federal funds by grantees, the conduct of research, the collecting, processing and disseminating of statistical data, and the review of program activities.

ASSISTANCE TO REFUGEES IN THE UNITED STATES—Continued

The Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1962, which provides the current legislative basis for this program, was enacted June 28, 1962, following action by the President to establish a program of assistance to Cuban refugees in the United States who were then entering the country at the rate of 1,700 per week.

The number of Cuban refugees entering the United States annually varied for several years until initiation of the airlift from Cuba to Miami in December 1965, which resulted in a fairly stabilized influx of approximately 48,000 refugees annually until August 1971 when the Cuban Government began a series of interruptions in the airlift, finally ending it in April 1973. Refugees have continued to arrive in the United States by other means, however—primarily under an expanded parole policy in effect for a 1-year period ending October 26, 1974. This policy was adopted by the Justice Department on the recommendation of the Department of State to assist Cuban refugees who had fled to third countries (primarily Spain) as a route to reaching U.S. asylum. Of the some 18,000 refugees entering the United States under the expanded parole policy, the majority are not eligible for assistance under this program. Now that the expanded parole policy has expired, very few additional refugees are expected in the United States.

Between 1961 and June 1974, a total of 456,699 refugees had registered with the Cuban Refugee Center in Miami (4,601 during 1974), of whom 298,965 had been resettled to other localities of the United States.

The services provided by the program for the refugees have begun to diminish substantially in terms of costs and persons served because of the decreased influx and other factors, including the eligibility of refugees for the supplemental security income program for the aged, blind, and disabled (SSI) which began January 1, 1974.

1. Welfare assistance and services.—By the end of 1974, about 34,000 needy refugees were receiving assistance for basic maintenance needs—a drop of almost 50,000 during the fiscal year, a reflection of the major impact of the SSI program on this program. It is estimated some 80,000 refugees continued to be eligible for medical assistance under the program.

2. Education.—Selected training is provided to equip refugees for employment through English and other types of training. Also, provision is made for Federal payments to help meet part of the added cost related to refugee children in the Dade County, Fla., public school system. In addition, needy college students for whom loans have been previously authorized may receive loans from this program to continue their studies.

3. Other services.—This activity provides for Federal direction and day-to-day operation of the program, including a variety of services for newly arriving refugees as well as those already in the United States. There are administrative contracts with voluntary resettlement agencies to help with the reception and planning for newly arriving refugees and with pre- and post-resettlement problems, such as the need for emergency assistance in locating housing, job finding, etc.

A substantial phasedown in Cuban refugee program reimbursements to the States for financial and medical assistance to needy refugees and in assistance to the Dade County Public Schools is planned for 1975 and 1976, with complete termination of the program projected for the end of 1977.

This appropriation provides for payments from Federal funds to the social security trust funds for certain types of benefits and related administrative costs not financed by contributions from workers and employers and for payments to the Federal buildings fund for portions of the standard level user charge on space and services imposed by the General Services Administration. The 1976 appropriation request of $4,175,255 thousand covers the following types of payments:

1. Federal payments for supplementary medical insurance.—An estimated $2,939,000 thousand will be required in 1976 to finance the Government's contribution to the Federal supplementary medical insurance trust fund. The Federal payments, combined with premiums from enrollees and interest earned by the supplementary medical insurance trust fund, must be sufficient to finance the estimated incurred cost of benefits and administration. The standard premium rate for 1976 under current law will be $6.70 per month. Proposed legislation, discussed later, would permit the premium to increase, thereby reducing the requirement for Federal financing.

2. Hospital insurance for the uninsured.—A payment of $622,383 thousand to the Federal hospital insurance trust fund is budgeted for 1976 to cover the costs of hospital and related care for certain individuals aged 65 and over who are not insured under the social security or railroad retirement systems. The uninsured group covered by this provision includes persons who retired before their occupations were covered by social security (such as teachers and State and local employees) and widows whose husbands died prior to earning coverage under social security.

3. Military service credits.—The appropriation includes reimbursement of $295,000 thousand to the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund, the Federal disability insurance trust fund and the Federal hospital insurance trust fund for benefits paid on the basis of noncontributory military service credits of veterans of World War II and certain veterans of the post-World War II period. The basis for the computation of these payments is prescribed in sections 217(g) and 229(b) of the Social Security Act and includes reimbursement for administrative expenses and interest lost to the trust funds.

The payment to each trust fund is (in millions of dollars):

Old-age and survivors insurance.....	157
Disability insurance.....	90
Hospital insurance.....	48
Total.....	295

4. Special payments for certain uninsured persons.—This appropriation provides for a payment of $268,317 thousand to the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund as reimbursement for actual benefit payments made in 1974 to certain uninsured individuals aged 72 and over, related administrative expenses, and interest lost to the trust fund. These benefits were established to afford some protection for certain persons, or their surviving dependents, who retired before the enactment of social security legislation or before their occupations were covered by social security.

Individuals who had less than three-quarters of coverage and who attained age 72 before 1968 were eligible for benefits under this provision in 1974. The benefits were reduced if the recipient also received another governmental pension. The amount of the reduction depended upon the amount of the other governmental pension. In addition, the benefits were withheld if an individual was receiving payments under a federally aided public assistance program.

5. Payment to the Federal buildings fund.—This appropriation provides for a payment of $50,555 thousand to the Federal buildings fund for that portion of the standard level user charge on space and services provided to SSA which is in excess of the actual cost of the space and services to the General Services Administration.

6. Transition period payments.—For the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, an estimated $892,000 thousand will be required to finance the Government's contribution to the Federal supplementary medical insurance trust fund. This payment together with premiums paid by or for aged or disabled individuals is necessary to finance the supplementary medical insurance program on a current basis during the transition period between fiscal years 1976 and 1977. Similarly, $14,000 thousand is required for payment to the Federal Buildings Fund to finance this activity on a current basis for the July-September transition period. On the other hand, the three remaining activities in this appropriation represent payments to reimburse the trust funds for costs chargeable to general revenues. Such reimbursement for the transition period will be included in future appropriation requests, and therefore is not reflected in the current appropriation.

1. Benefit payments.—The Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969 as amended provides for the protection of the health and safety of persons working in the coal mining industry. Title IV of the act provides monthly benefits to living coal miners who are totally disabled from pneumoconiosis resulting from employment in coal mines and to surviving widows. Benefit payments to miners and surviving widows are increased for dependents (a spouse or child). Benefits are payable to orphans, and in certain circumstances, to totally dependent surviving parents, brothers and sisters. The requirements for entitlement and the amounts of the benefits are stated in the law.

Under the law, the jurisdiction for payment of claims from miners filed after June 1973 shifted to the Department of Labor. Also, the responsibility for most survivor claims filed after December 1973 is with the Department of Labor. However, the Social Security Administration will continue to pay benefits and maintain the beneficiary roll for persons who filed during the time that the Social Security Administration had jurisdiction and this will continue for many years into the future. The amount of these benefits and the number of miners, widows and other dependents receiving them at the end of each fiscal year are as follows:

Benefit amount.....	$975,100	$933,000	$987,000

2. Administration.—The administrative costs for 1976 are estimated at $12,778 thousand.

Legislation to limit cost-of-living increases to 5% in 1976 is presented at the end of this chapter.

In addition, life claims and most survivors' claims filed after December 31, 1973, are filed in the district offices of the Social Security Administration and transferred to the Department of Labor. The Social Security Administration is reimbursed for these costs (estimated at $964 thousand in 1975 and $777 thousand in 1976) from funds appropriated to the Department of Labor.

The 3-month transition period in 1976 is caused by the change in the Federal fiscal year under the provisions of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974. Fiscal year 1977 will begin on October 1, 1976.

The Special Benefits for Disabled Coal Miners program administered by the Social Security Administration and funded by this appropriation is expected to continue at approximately the same level as attained at the end of 1976. Under present law, no program expansions or new program initiatives are anticipated during the transition period. Benefit payments are projected at about the June, 1976 level and administrative workloads are expected to decline in the appeals area during the transition period. Estimates of obligations are based on rates in effect at the end of 1976, projected for 3 months and adjusted for mandatory salary and other cost increases.

Title XVI of the Social Security Act established a new Federal supplemental security income (SSI) program for the aged, blind, and disabled. This program, effective January 1, 1974, replaced State administered programs of assistance to the aged, blind, and disabled which were aided by Federal grants from the appropriations to the Social and Rehabilitation Service. The supplemental security income program provides a minimum income of $146 per month for an eligible individual and $219 per month for a couple, both of whom are eligible. Public Law 93-368 enacted August 7, 1974, requires that when social security benefits (Title II of the Social Security Act) are automatically increased based on a cost-of-living computation, supplemental security income benefits will be increased by the same percentage. The appropriation request assumes an 8.7% cost-of-living increase for SSI benefit payments effective July, 1975. Legislation to limit cost-of-living increases in 1976 to 5% is presented at the end of this chapter.

The program is administered by the Federal Government under uniform eligibility requirements and payment support levels applicable in all States. However, to be eligible for Federal matching funds for Medicaid, States are required to supplement the Federal benefit to assure that recipients of benefits under the former State administered programs for the aged, blind, and disabled suffered no loss of income under SSI. The States may make additional supplementary payments if they so desire. They may also enter into agreements with the Federal Government to administer their supplementary payments. Under such an agreement, the administrative costs are paid from Federal funds. In addition, under a "hold harmless" provision the Federal Government makes contributions toward State supplementation to assure that such supplementation of Federal benefits does not involve costs in excess of those incurred by each State in 1972 for assistance payments to the aged, blind, and disabled.

This appropriation request covers: (1) The Federal benefit payments to the aged, blind, and disabled of an estimated $4.795 billion to be paid to 4.51 million Federal program recipients by the end of 1976; (2) the amount of Federal contributions toward State supplementary payments, $190 million in 1976, required to protect States against increased costs under SSI; (3) the cost of vocational rehabilitation services, $54.9 million in 1976, provided by State agencies to blind and disabled SSI beneficiaries who have the potential for becoming more self-sufficient and possibly returning to work; and (4) reimbursement to the social security trust funds for the administration of the program by the Social Security Administration, $498.6 million in 1976. State supplementary payments which are financed by the States and administered by the Federal Government on behalf of the States for those electing Federal administration under the reimbursable program will come to $1.21 billion in 1976.

The 3-month transition period in 1976 is caused by the change in the Federal fiscal year under the provisions of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974.

Average benefit payments remain the same except for the effect of projected cost-of-living increases.

The estimate of obligations for administrative costs during the 3 months is based on the relationship between Federal benefit payments and administrative costs for fiscal year 1976.

Note.—Excludes $4,126 thousand in 1976 for functions transferred to other DHEW appropriations; comparable amounts for 1974, $938 thousand and 1975, $1,831 thousand are included above.

The Social Security Administration is responsible for administering national programs of old-age, survivors, disability, and health insurance and the new supplemental security income program for the needy aged, blind, and disabled which was established by the Social Security Amendments of 1972. The principal costs for administration of these programs are financed by this appropriation; however, there are certain costs of other components of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare and of the Treasury Department which relate to administration of these programs and are shown elsewhere in the budget.

Administrative costs are related to workloads generated by the statutory provisions of social security programs. The size of these loads depends upon objective factors such as population growth, level of employment, economic conditions, income levels, incidence of illness, and mortality rates.

1. Old-age and survivors insurance.—This program provides monthly benefits for retired workers and their dependents, survivors of deceased workers, including disabled widows and widowers age 50 and over, and certain uninsured persons age 72 and over.

The amount of benefit payments increases in 1975 and 1976 because of increases in benefits recently enacted (11% effective June 1974 with 7% of this amount payable for March through May 1974) and for the first automatic benefit increase of 8.7% effective with the July 1975 check. Future automatic benefit increases based on Consumer Price Index changes and automatic changes in the contribution and benefit base are provided for by law.

LIMITATION ON SALARIES AND EXPENSES—Continued

Indicators of workload and program objectives for this activity are:

OASI claims applications received.....	3,745,640	3,846,000	3,905,000
Persons on OASI benefit rolls (average for year).....	27,351,000	28,302,000	29,097,000
OASI benefit payments (in millions)....	$47,849	$54,718	$62,864

The administrative costs budgeted for this program provide for: Making the initial determination of eligibility for old-age and survivors benefits; reevaluating the initial determination when requested by the claimant; making changes in the beneficiary rolls to assure proper and correct payment of benefits; and investigating the beneficiary's continuing entitlement to benefits, including the evaluation of performance of representative payees.

2. Disability insurance.—This program provides monthly disability benefits for disabled workers and their dependents. In addition to normal increases in the number of persons receiving monthly benefits, the higher benefit rates mentioned previously will cause an increase in benefit payments in 1975 and 1976.

Indicators of workload and program objectives for this activity are:

Disability claims applications received...	1,741,857	1,794,000	1,785,000
Persons on disability benefit rolls (average for year).....	3,599,000	3,962,000	4,378,000
Disability benefit payments (in millions)	$6,159	$7,636	$9,083

The administrative costs budgeted for this program cover the costs of processing initial disability determinations and reconsiderations and appeals of denied claims; making investigations and determinations of continuing disability of beneficiaries and servicing the beneficiary rolls; and making all changes due to deaths, changes of address, attainment of age 65, returns to employment and recoveries from disability. Determinations regarding the existence or continuation of a disability are made by State agencies and these costs are included in the budget estimates.

3. Health insurance.—This program includes the hospital insurance and the voluntary supplementary medical insurance programs which were established by the 1965 amendments to the Social Security Act, commonly referred to as Medicare.

(a) Hospital insurance.—The hospital insurance program affords protection to persons age 65 and over and certain disabled persons against the cost of inpatient hospital services, posthospital home health services, and posthospital skilled nursing services. Bills for services are generally submitted by hospitals, skilled nursing facilities, and home health agencies, and are processed by the Blue Cross associations and private insurance companies acting as intermediaries for the Social Security Administration. The individual beneficiary records of utilization of hospital services are maintained in the central office of the Social Security Administration. The growth in beneficiaries and the rise in the utilization of available services causes an increase in the number of claims in both 1975 and 1976.

(b) Supplementary medical insurance.—Almost all persons age 65 and over are eligible to enroll in the supplementary medical insurance program, along with disability beneficiaries who have been eligible for benefits for at least 2 years. Supplementary medical insurance covers the cost of physician services and other medical costs within certain deductible and coinsurance requirements. Enrollees in the program pay a monthly premium and the rest of the program costs are paid for by the Federal Government by appropriations from Federal funds. Claims for services under the medical insurance program may be submitted by the physician or other suppliers of service or by the beneficiary to Blue Shield associations and private insurance companies who are under contract to act for the Social Security Administration in specific geographical areas.

The volume of claims will rise in 1975 and 1976 as a result of the normal growth in population, and the projected increase in utilization of medical services.

Indicators of workload and program objectives for this activity are:

Claims received for services covered by hospital insurance.....	10,196,490	11,177,000	11,763,000
Claims received for services covered by medical insurance.....	80,561,904	94,620,900	102,534,800
Beneficiaries receiving reimbursed services:
Hospital insurance.....	5,258,000	5,486,000	5,657,000
Medical insurance.....	11,613,000	12,724,000	13,278,000
Payments for services (in millions):
Hospital insurance.....	$7,806	$9,901	$11,380
Medical insurance.....	$2,874	$3,551	$4,145

The administrative costs budgeted for this program cover the claim payment functions performed by the contractors, services performed by State agencies in certifying and consulting with providers of services, and all work performed by the Social Security Administration in directing the program, providing services to beneficiaries, maintaining records by individual beneficiary of utilization of hospital and medical services and processing claims to establish entitlement to hospital insurance for persons not insured for cash benefits under either the social security or railroad retirement program.

4. Supplemental security income.—This new Federal program authorized in the Social Security Amendments of 1972 provides monthly benefits from Federal funds to needy aged persons 65 and over, and to the needy blind and totally disabled without regard to age. Mandatory State supplementary payments are required for certain persons who were on State welfare rolls in December 1973 to guarantee that no one will have suffered a loss of income as a result of the new program. In addition, the States can further supplement the Federal payment if they so desire. Because the administration of this program is integrated with that of the social security program, the costs of administration of both programs are carried in the same salaries and expenses appropriation. A separate appropriation from Federal funds provides for the Federal benefits paid under the supplemental security income program, and for repayment to the trust funds for moneys advanced for the administration of the new program.

The program became effective on January 1, 1974 and included about 3 million recipients of the previous State and local administered programs for assistance to the aged, blind and disabled. In addition, more than 1.8 million claims from newly eligible persons were received in 1974. Payments up to $140 per month for an individual and $210 for a couple effective January 1974 were increased to $146 and $219 effective July 1974. These rates are, like the retirement, survivors and disability insurance benefits, scheduled to increase by 8.7 percent in July 1975. Legislation to limit cost-of-living increases in 1976 to 5% is presented at the end of this chapter.

Indicators of workload and program objectives for this activity are:

SSI claims applications received.....	1,826,778	2,210,000	1,915,000
SSI recipients at end of year.....	3,600,000	4,465,000	5,070,000
Basic Federal SSI benefit payments (in millions).....	$1,839	$4,080	$4,795

The administrative costs budgeted for this program provide for: Making initial determinations of eligibility for aged, blind, and disabled benefits; reevaluating the initial determination when requested by the claimant; processing appeals of denied claims; making changes in the recipient rolls to assure proper and correct payment of benefits; and investigating the beneficiary's continuing entitlement to benefits through periodic redeterminations. Determinations regarding the existence or continuation of a disability are made by the State agencies under contract with the Social Security Administration and these costs are included in the budget.

The 3-month transition period in 1976 is caused by the change in the Federal fiscal year under the provisions of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974. Fiscal year 1977 will begin on October 1, 1976.

The programs administered by the Social Security Administration and funded by the Salaries and expenses appropriation are expected to continue at approximately the same level attained at the end of fiscal year 1976. Under present law no program expansions or new program initiatives are anticipated during the transition period. The program workloads, which are mostly uncontrollable, will continue at a normal level for all programs. Estimates of obligations are based on rates in effect at the end of fiscal year 1976 and projected for 3 months adjusted for mandatory salary and other cost increases.

1. Headquarters.—The objective of construction at the headquarters complex in the Baltimore, Md., area is to provide adequate facilities to house personnel and equipment required to administer and support the social security program on a national scale. The Social Security Administration's current plan is to construct two buildings, one in downtown Baltimore and the other at the existing site in Woodlawn, Md. Preliminary design of these buildings is underway. Completion of these facilities will allow, at a minimum, consolidation of dispersed operations now in leased facilities and adequate housing for computer operations. Financing of these facilities will be arranged through the purchase contract method under which payments will begin upon occupancy of the structures. Funds remaining from prior years appropriations will be used in 1975 to build an access road from the headquarters site to Interstate Highway 70, and to purchase land at the headquarters site.

2. District offices.—The objective here is to construct buildings to house Social Security district offices when construction is determined to be more feasible than rental of commercial space or occupancy of existing Federal structures. In 1976, SSA plans to acquire sites and to design 51 additional district offices using funds previously appropriated. Current plans also call for construction of 37 additional offices with 33 of them financed directly by trust funds and the remaining 4 offices through the purchase contract method.

3. Program centers.—The objective of constructing program center facilities is to provide suitable space for large manual and computer processing operations related to reviewing claims and maintaining the beneficiary records for payment of social security benefits. Sites have been acquired, major design completed, and the construction has begun on four new centers in Birmingham, Ala.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Chicago, Ill.; and Richmond, Calif. The center in Birmingham will be built by a private entrepreneur and leased to SSA. Occupancy was scheduled for December 1974.

The other three centers will be financed through the purchase contract method and SSA will begin purchase contract payments when the centers are occupied in 1976. New budget authority of $3,600 thousand was requested in 1975 on the assumption that the centers would be occupied beginning in April 1975. The centers are now scheduled for occupancy in early 1976 and accordingly an additional $6,300 thousand in new budget authority is being sought to pay the 1976 estimated purchase contract payment cost of $9,900 thousand.

4. July 1 to September 30, 1976, transition period.—The requested budget authority of $3,633 thousand is required to make purchase contract payments on four district offices and three program centers scheduled to be completed and occupied in 1976.

Direct program.—The retirement and survivors insurance program protects individuals and families from the risk of economic loss resulting from old-age and death by providing income to retired workers, to their dependents and to their dependent survivors. The program is financed by contributions to the trust fund which are made by workers, employers, and self-employed individuals based on earnings.

In 1973, the contribution rates were 4.3% of taxable earnings each for employees and employers, and 6.205% for self-employed persons. Effective January 1, 1974, as scheduled by law, the rates were changed to 4.375% each for employees and employers, and 6.185% for self-employed persons. These rates are still applicable and are not scheduled to change again under present law until January 1, 1978.

The contribution rates are applied to taxable earnings up to a specified maximum. The maximum was $10,800 in calendar year 1973 and $13,200 in 1974. Beginning with calendar year 1975, the taxable maximum will be increased automatically as wages rise. An automatic increase in the taxable maximum will take effect only after an automatic benefit increase has become effective. The 1975 maximum is $14,100 and the 1976 maximum is expected to be $15,300. Workers who pay more in social security contributions because of increases in the taxable maximum will receive the benefit of more social security protection because the benefit payments are based on average taxable earnings.

1. Benefit payments.—The Social Security Act provides for payment of benefits to retired workers, their dependents and their survivors. The average numbers of persons receiving payments and the benefit amounts, classified by major types of beneficiaries for 1974–76 follow:

Beneficiaries (millions):	1974 actual	1975 estimate	1976 estimate
Retired workers.....	15.7	16.3	17.0
Dependents of retired workers.....	3.4	3.5	3.5
Survivors.....	7.2	7.3	7.4
Total beneficiaries.....	26.3	27.0	27.9
Benefit payments (billions of dollars):
Retired workers.....	31.0	35.8	41.4
Dependents of retired workers.....	3.6	4.0	4.6
Survivors.....	13.2	14.9	16.9
Total benefit payments.....	47.8	54.7	62.9

Normal growth in benefit payments will continue because: (1) the number of beneficiaries will increase as the number of aged persons in the population and the proportion of the aged who are insured rise, and (2) average monthly benefits will increase as general earnings levels continue to rise.

The increase in benefit outlays in 1975 and 1976 exceeds normal growth because it includes the added cost of new legislation. Public Law 93-233 (enacted Dec. 1, 1973) authorized a general benefit increase of 11% effective for June 1974, with 7% of the 11% payable in advance for the period March 1974–May 1974. Under Public Law 93-233, automatic cost-of-living benefit increases will be effective for June of each year beginning with June 1975. The benefit payments projected assume an estimated 8.7% automatic increase effective for June 1975 and first payable in July 1975. Legislation to limit cost-of-living increases in 1976 to 5% is presented at the end of this chapter.

Other provisions of new legislation include a liberalization of the retirement test which raised the annual exempt amount of earnings to $2,400 effective in January 1974, and a provision for automatic adjustment of this amount in future years, e.g. $2,520 in 1975 (Public Law 93-66).

2. Construction.—The costs of site acquisition, design, and construction of office facilities for the Social Security Administration are financed by this and the other social security trust funds.

3. Administration.—This activity reflects administrative expenses of the Social Security Administration that are attributable to the retirement and survivors' insurance program, including those expenses incurred for the Social Security Administration by the Treasury Department and by other components of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

4. Payment to railroad retirement account.—Annual payments are made from the old-age and survivors insurance trust fund to the railroad retirement fund so as to place the old-age and survivors insurance trust fund in the same position in which it would have been if railroad employment after 1936 had been included in social security coverage (45 U.S.C. 228g). Estimates are made of the yearly amounts of additional contributions the Social Security Administration would have collected, the additional benefits it would have paid and the additional administrative costs it would have incurred if railroad employees had been covered under social security. The payment made to the railroad retirement account represents the amount by which the estimated benefit payments and administrative costs exceed the estimated contributions, and includes interest through the date of the transfer. The components of the net transfers for 1974–76 follow (in millions of dollars):

Benefit payments.....	1,317.6	1,449.0	1,602.0
Administrative costs.....	10.6	12.0	13.0
Interest.....	72.3	77.0	81.0
Less contributions.....	-491.9	-578.0	-666.0
Net transfer.....	908.6	960.0	1,030.0

5. Vocational rehabilitation services.—The Social Security Act provides that specified payments may be made from the old-age and survivors insurance and the disability insurance trust funds for the purpose of making rehabilitation services available to individuals who are entitled to social security cash benefits because of a disability. The payments are made in expectation that savings will accrue to the trust funds as a result of rehabilitating disabled beneficiaries. The annual limitation on the amount to be made available for rehabilitation services is 1.5% of total social security benefits certified for payment to disabled beneficiaries in the prior year. The old-age and survivors insurance trust fund bears the cost of rehabilitation services provided to disabled retirement and survivors insurance beneficiaries and the disability insurance trust fund bears the cost of such services provided to disability insurance beneficiaries.

Reimbursable program.—Section 305 of the Social Security Amendments of 1972 authorizes funding from the OASI trust fund for the administrative expenses of the supplemental security income program for the aged, blind and disabled, with full reimbursement to the trust fund (including interest when appropriate). Reimbursement is made from the account of the Supplemental security income program.

The status of the trust fund is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

The disability insurance program protects individuals and families against the risk of economic loss resulting from disability by providing income to severely disabled workers and their dependents. The program is financed by contributions to the trust fund made by workers, employers, and self-employed individuals based on earnings. During calendar year 1973, the contribution rate for financing the disability insurance program was 0.55% of taxable earnings both for employers and employees, and 0.795% for self-employed persons. Since January 1, 1974, the rates have been 0.575% each for employers and employees and 0.815% for self-employed persons. Under present law the rates are not scheduled to change again until calendar year 1978. The contribution rates are applied to earnings up to a maximum level which is the same for the disability insurance program as for the old-age and survivors insurance program.

1. Benefit payments.—The Social Security Act provides for payment of disability insurance benefits to certain disabled individuals and their dependents. The average number of persons receiving payments and the benefit amounts, classified by major type of beneficiaries for 1974-76 follows:

Beneficiaries (millions)
Disabled workers.....	2.0	2.2	2.4
Dependents of disabled workers.....	1.5	1.7	1.8
Total beneficiaries.....	3.6	3.9	4.3
Benefit payments (billions)
Disabled workers.....	$5.0	$6.3	$7.5
Dependents of disabled workers.....	$1.1	$1.3	$1.6
Total benefit payments.....	$6.2	$7.6	$9.1

Normal growth in benefit payments will continue because: (1) the number of beneficiaries will increase as the population insured for disability benefits rises, especially at ages 50-64 where disability incidence rates are highest, and (2) the average monthly benefits will increase as general earnings levels rise. The increase in benefit outlays in 1975 and 1976 exceeds normal growth because it includes the added cost of new legislation. Public Law 93-233 authorized a general benefit increase of 11% effective for June 1974, with 7 of the 11% payable in advance for the period March 1974-May 1974. Under Public Law 93-233, the first automatic cost-of-living benefit increase, based on the level of change in the Consumer Price Index (CPI), will be effective for June 1975.

Legislation to limit cost-of-living increases in 1976 to 5% is presented at the end of this chapter.

2. Construction.—The costs of site acquisition, design, and construction of office facilities for the Social Security Administration are financed by this and the other social security trust funds.

4. Payment to railroad retirement account.—Annual payments are made from the disability insurance trust fund to the railroad retirement fund so as to place the disability insurance trust fund in the same position in which it would have been if railroad employment after 1936 had been included under social security coverage (45 U.S.C. 228g). This payment is computed on the same basis as the payment from the old-age and survivors insurance trust fund. The components of the net transfer for 1974-76 follow (in millions of dollars):

Benefit payments.....	81.7	90.0	98.0
Administrative costs.....	2.9	3.0	3.0
Interest.....	2.2	2.0	1.0
Net transfer.....	22.3	20.0	15.0

5. Vocational rehabilitation services.—The Social Security Act provides that specified payments may be made from the old-age and survivors insurance and the disability insurance trust funds for the purpose of making rehabilitation services available to individuals who are entitled to social security cash benefits because of a disability. The payments are made in expectation that savings will accrue to the trust funds as a result of rehabilitating disabled beneficiaries into productive activity. Each year's limitation is 1.5% of total social security benefits certified for payment to disabled beneficiaries in the prior year. The old-age and survivors insurance trust fund bears the cost of rehabilitation services provided to disabled retirement and survivors insurance beneficiaries and the disability insurance trust fund bears the cost of such services provided to disability insurance beneficiaries.

The hospital insurance program affords protection against the high costs of hospital and related care to most individuals age 65 and over, and to people under age 65 who have been entitled for at least 24 months to monthly social security or railroad retirement benefits because they are disabled. The program also covers treatment of chronic kidney disease for people under age 65 entitled to monthly social security benefits, for insured workers, and for spouses or dependent children of such insured or entitled individuals.

For persons on the social security and railroad retirement rolls, the cost of services covered by the hospital insurance program and administrative costs are financed by contributions from workers, employers, and self-employed individuals based on earnings. The maximum taxable earnings base is the same for the hospital insurance program as for the social security old-age, survivors and disability insurance programs. The contribution rate which was applied to earnings up to this maximum was 1.0% in calendar year 1973 for employers, employees, and self-employed persons. Since January 1, 1974, the rate has been 0.9%, and is scheduled to remain at this level through calendar year 1977. Costs for uninsured persons who attained age 65 in 1974 or earlier and who meet certain transitional insured status requirements are financed from general revenues of the Treasury. Uninsured persons reaching age 65 who cannot be covered under the foregoing provision of law can enroll in the program on a voluntary basis. Enrollees must pay the full cost of the protection, and in 1974 the premium rate was $33 per month. In 1975, the rate is $36, and in 1976 the rate is scheduled to increase to $40 per month.

1. Benefit payments.—The hospital insurance program provides protection against the cost of inpatient hospital services, posthospital home health services, and post-hospital skilled nursing facility services, with specified deductible and coinsurance amounts. The following table shows comparative data on hospital insurance beneficiaries and on benefit payments, classified by type of coverage for 1974 through 1976 (in millions):

Persons with hospital insurance protection (average):
Aged.....	21.2	21.6	22.0
Disabled.....	1.8	1.9	2.0
Beneficiaries receiving reimbursed services:

Benefit payments:
For inpatient hospital services:

Disabled.....	488	870	1,075
Total.....	$7,806	$9,901	$11,380

The growth in benefit payments from 1974 to 1976 results primarily from increases in the size of the covered population and increases in the cost of medical services.

2. Construction.—The costs of site acquisition, design, and construction of office facilities for the Social Security Administration are financed by this and the other social security trust funds.

3. Administration.—This activity reflects administrative expenses of the Social Security Administration that are attributable to the hospital insurance program, including those incurred for the Social Security Administration by the Treasury Department and by other components of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

4. Health insurance experiments and demonstration projects.—The Social Security Administration has authority to contract for experiments and demonstration projects in a number of areas designed to improve the efficiency of the Medicare program. The cost of administering and evaluating the projects will be shared by the programs involved, with the Medicare trust funds financing their proportionate share—approximately 50%.

The supplementary medical insurance program affords protection against the costs of physicians' services and certain other medical and health services. Most individuals age 65 and over are eligible for this protection, and over 95% of those eligible have elected coverage. People under age 65 who have been entitled for at least 24 months to monthly social security or railroad retirement benefits because they are disabled also are eligible for this protection. The program also covers treatment of chronic kidney disease for eligible people under age 65 who elect to enroll.

The costs of services covered by the program and administrative expenses are financed by premium payments from enrollees together with contributions from the general revenues of the Treasury. The Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare is required by law to promulgate by December 31 of each year the standard monthly premium rate to be paid by enrollees in the SMI program during the fiscal year beginning the following July 1. The premium rate is $6.70 during 1975, and due to a technical deficiency in the law will remain at $6.70 during 1976 and later years. However, proposed corrective legislation would permit an increase in the premium rate to $7 effective October 1, 1975.

1. Benefit payments.—Participants in the program are covered for the cost of physicians' services, home health services not covered under the hospital insurance program, outpatient services, and certain other medical costs, within specified deductible and coinsurance amounts. The following table shows comparative data on supplementary medical insurance beneficiaries and benefit payments, classified by type of coverage, for 1974 through 1976 (in millions):

The growth in benefit payments from 1974 to 1976 results primarily from increases in the size of the covered population and in the cost and utilization of covered services.

2. Construction.—The costs of site acquisition, design, and construction of office facilities for the Social Security Administration are financed by this and the other social security trust funds.

1. Educational materials.—The American Printing House supplies educational materials and tangible apparatus for education of blind students of less than college grade. During 1975, 25,809 such pupils will be served. This is based on registration of pupils as of the first Monday in January 1974.

The 1976 budget estimate of $2,328 thousand will provide an estimated increase of 10% in per capita for an estimated 27,309 pupils to be registered and approximately a 3% increase in registration. The 10% increase in per capita is requested in order to supply approximately the same amount of educational material to blind children as provided during 1974.

The 3% increase in the number of children to be registered is in keeping with the usual increase in number of children during the past several years. With continued emphasis on reaching blind children at an early age, young blind children in formally organized nursery schools are being served. It is also expected there will be a greater variety of materials required and many new additional aids as a result of research, evaluation, and production.

2. Advisory committees and field service.—The American Printing House for the Blind has three advisory committees—Publication Committee, Educational Aids Committee, and Educational Research Committee.

These committees advise and approve materials and aids to be manufactured through the Federal appropriation. Also, field representatives for the Printing House travel to State departments of education, schools for the blind and public school classes for the blind and advise teachers on materials and facilities available to blind children. Additionally, the Printing House staff gives assistance to colleges and universities conducting training programs for teachers of the blind.

The National Technical Institute for the Deaf (NTID) is a coeducational residential institution that provides postsecondary technical education for young deaf people to prepare them for successful employment; that prepares professional manpower to serve the Nation's deaf population; that conducts applied research on the economic/employment, educational achievement, communications, personal/social, and instructional aspects of deafness.

1. Increased students.—The number of students served by NTID will move from 700 to 960 in 1976 as NTID proceeds, in a planned progression, to its eventual total population in 1978 of 1,255. In 1976, as NTID moves to fully operational status: approximately 200 graduates will be placed in jobs commensurate with their area of education/training and level of knowledge/skill; methods for incorporating deaf students into an institution for hearing people will continue to be developed; several new curricula will be added; counseling, formal coursework, and informal extracurricula activities in the personal/social/cultural areas so important for successful employment will expand and be continued; and a broad range of communication instruction/therapy (e.g. aural rehabilitation, speechreading, auditory training, language development, and technical English) will continue to be improved.

2. Applied research.—The coordinated and active program of applied research directed toward improving the education/training delivery system and the economic and social assimilation of deaf citizens will continue with the following activities heightened: personal and social development, communication skill development, cognitive processing research, and curriculum development and evaluation.

1. College.—Gallaudet College is a private nonprofit educational institution providing an undergraduate higher education program for the deaf, a preparatory program for deaf students who need such training to qualify for college admission, a graduate school program in fields related to deafness, and a continuing education program for deaf adults. The 1976 budget estimate will provide for major improvement of management services in the areas of program planning, budgeting and evaluation, upgrading of the preventive maintenance program for the physical plant, and operating expenditures for the new food and health service facility. It will also provide for necessary faculty pay increases, contracted service costs, utility costs, student financial aid, expansion of the graduate program, and improved residence hall services.

2. Model Secondary School for the Deaf.—As provided under Public Law 89-694, the Model Secondary School for the Deaf: (a) serves as a laboratory for educational experimentation and development; (b) disseminates working models throughout the field of education of the deaf to programs serving more than 60,000 deaf students and 10,000 educational professionals; (c) prepares deaf adolescents for postsecondary academic and/or vocational pursuits; and (d) provides deaf adolescents with the skills necessary to become well-adjusted, contributing, and effective members of the society. For 1976, the objectives for the Model Secondary School for the Deaf include: the development of a minimum of 90 academic courses in preparation for the increased enrollment expected as a result of the opening of the new facility in 1976; continued development, evaluation and implementation of curricular materials and models; the implementation of several improved management systems; and the implementation of a deaf awareness program.

3. Kendall Demonstration Elementary School.—By an act of Congress, Public Law 91-587, the college has the authority to operate Kendall School as a national demonstration elementary school for the deaf. The school will: (1) develop an exemplary educational program for children from the age of onset of deafness through the age of 15;

(2) develop a diagnostic center; (3) develop a parent education program; and (4) become a source of important research on learning problems of young deaf children. The 1976 operation estimates will provide for the maintenance of faculty salaries along with increases for expansion of the residence program to serve 30 students; the development of a complete medical data file on each child; complete psychological assessment of each child; the expansion of home visits by social workers; and the completion and implementation of a management-by-objectives model.

4. Construction.—The construction funds requested will provide for the following college projects: the planning of the learning center; the connection of eight existing buildings to the central cooling plant; planning and construction associated with removal of food service facilities from the Student Union Building and its conversion for more effective use; planning and construction of streets, roads, and sidewalks called for in the new facilities master plan and removal of architectural barriers; planning of the fieldhouse; and planning of the fifth residence hall.

1. Academic program.—Howard University is a private nonprofit educational institution consisting of an undergraduate college, a graduate school offering the master's degree and the degree of doctor of philosophy (in African studies, anatomy, biochemistry, chemistry, economics, English, genetics and human genetics, history, mathematics, pharmacology, physics, physiology, political science, psychology, sociology/anthropology, speech and zoology) and 15 professional schools. Federal funds provide 62.0% of the total operating costs for the academic program. Funds from non-Federal sources are realized from tuition and fees, gifts, grants, endowments, dormitory rents, cafeteria, bookstore sales and hospital patient fees.

The 1976 estimate will allow the university to meet some of its accreditation deficiencies; continue improvement of library services; provide for faculty salary increases and continue partial support of the retirement program.

In 1976 the university plans to expand its development fund for the purpose of providing additional resources for university activities.

NOTES

Excludes $558 thousand in 1976 for activities transferred to the Assistant Secretary for Health. Comparable amounts for 1974 ($558 thousand), 1975 ($558 thousand), are included above.
1976 includes activities previously funded by the Department of Labor, Manpower Administration, $2,010 thousand. Comparable amounts for 1974 ($1,954 thousand), 1975 ($1,156 thousand) are included in the Department of Labor, Manpower Administration, Program Administration Account.

1. Child development.—The child development program provides for activities and services designed to have a major impact on the development of young children. In 1976, the child development program will continue to focus attention on the improvement and innovation efforts to convert Head Start into a more flexible system for delivering services that are both cost effective and responsive to the real needs of children, and to improve local capacity to plan and manage children's services. The $434,300 thousand requested for Head Start in 1976 represents an increase of $20,000 thousand over the 1975 level. The increase is necessary to provide special services to 38,000 handicapped children enrolled in Head Start. Indirect administrative costs of Head Start grantees previously proposed to be paid by the Office of Human Development in 1975, estimated at $15,700 thousand, will be paid by the Office of Economic Opportunity and its successor, the Community Services Administration. A funding level of $15,700 thousand will provide for research and demonstration programs in 1976 and will assure continuation of funding projects in the priority areas of day care, child development and family life, and programs which serve children with special needs. The $18,928 thousand for child abuse prevention and treatment will continue centers providing a broad range of services to children and their families, evaluation of the centers, the development and conduct of demonstration training programs and other innovative programs and projects showing promise of success.

2. Youth development.—The $5,000 thousand for Youth Development will continue support of projects for runaway youth under title III of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974. Temporary shelter care will be provided as well as services essential to meeting the immediate emotional, psychological, physical, and social needs of runaway youth.

3. Programs for the aging.—Programs for the aging will continue to pursue the national goal of securing and maintaining independence and dignity in a home environment for older persons capable of self-care with appropriate supportive services, and removing individual and social barriers to economic and personal independence for older persons. Pursuant to these goals, the title III State and community programs will be primarily directed toward establishing and enhancing the capability of State and area agencies on aging to launch or strengthen action programs within planning and service areas for coordinating the delivery of existing services for older persons, and for the pooling of untapped resources in order to strengthen existing services or inaugurate new services for the elderly; $96,000 thousand is requested to continue to improve and foster the development of a comprehensive coordinated services delivery system for the elderly. Title IV-B—research and demonstration will continue to focus on the development and validation of substantive information upon which reasoned policy and program decisions may be made. Emphasis will be placed on problems and issues related to achieving the goals of the program and methods of overcoming barriers to realizing these goals; $7,000 thousand is requested for this activity. The title VII nutrition program will serve 200,000 meals per day, 5 days per week. In addition, it will endeavor to improve the capacity of State and local agencies to meet the nutritional and related social needs of the elderly; $99,600 thousand is requested for this activity.

4. Rehabilitation services and facilities.—This activity was formerly funded by the Rehabilitation services appropriation in the Social and Rehabilitation Service. The rehabilitation program provides services to mentally and physically handicapped people to enable them to prepare for and engage in remunerative employment or employment in the home to the extent of their potential. Services include medical and physical restoration, vocational training, counseling, and job placement.

SIGNIFICANT PROGRAM DATA

	1976 estimate
Number served.....	1,660,000
Number rehabilitated.....	332,000

SELECTED DISABILITY CATEGORIES

Mentally ill.....	96,500
Mentally retarded.....	43,000
Blind and visually handicapped.....	30,000
Deaf, hard of hearing and speech impaired.....	19,500
Heart, cancer, and stroke.....	10,000
Orthopedic.....	67,000
Other.....	66,000

SELECTED DISABLED TARGET GROUPS

Public assistance recipients rehabilitated.....	64,900
Severely disabled rehabilitated.....	128,000

A priority goal of the basic State grants program, which constitutes the major portion of the rehabilitation program, is to provide services to the severely handicapped. In addition, the momentum for rehabilitating disabled public assistance recipients will be continued, including efforts through the supplemental security income program. Also, the Social Security Act provides for reimbursement from the Social Security trust funds for the costs of rehabilitation services for selected disability beneficiaries.

Special projects provide the resource for specialized programs, services, studies, and activities over and above those possible under the basic State grants program.

The primary objective of the rehabilitation research program in 1976 is to shift project activities so that they are more relevant to State needs. In addition, emphasis will continue to be placed on projects related to the severely handicapped.

In rehabilitation training, priority emphasis in 1976 will be given to the training of increased numbers of students qualified to provide skilled rehabilitation services to severely handicapped individuals such as the blind, the deaf, the spinal cord injured, and those with end-stage renal disease.

5. Grants for the developmentally disabled.—Federal grants are made to States to assist in developing a program of assistance for persons with mental retardation, epilepsy, cerebral palsy, and other neurological disabling conditions. Approximately 48 thousand individuals will receive services under this program. Through service projects there will be an increased effort in 1976 toward the goal of adequate community-based programs for the care, training, habilitation, and rehabilitation of the developmentally disabled.

6. Public assistance research and training.—The research and training projects formerly included within the Social and Rehabilitation Services appropriation account but authorized under provisions of the Social Security Act have been included in the Public assistance appropriation for 1975 and 1976.

7. Special programs for Native Americans.—The Native American program applies innovative approaches to deal with the special needs of all Native Americans to promote their human and economic development. $32,000 thousand is requested for this effort. It will provide continued funding to grantees which comprise 273 tribes, tribal groupings, Indian communities and Alaskan villages as well as 52 urban organizations which potentially serve about 50% of the eligible population (all Indians and Native Americans).

8. Salaries and expenses.—Provides funds for administrative expenses to carry out programs within the Office of Human Development serving special population groups such as the aged, children and youth, and Native Americans. In addition, funds support the President's Committee on Mental Retardation, the Office for Handicapped Individuals, special offices of manpower, veterans and volunteer programs and the Office of Rural Development. This activity includes development of policy and procedures, nationwide planning, financial management, and providing technical assistance to State and local governments, voluntary agencies, and nonprofit organizations involved in the planning and delivery of human development programs and services. $31,840 thousand to support 992 positions will assure continuation of these efforts in providing national leadership and coordination of programs which serve these special population groups. The requested increase of $3,200 thousand from the 1975 level of funding includes funds to support an additional 8 positions; sections 405 and 502 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973; sections 106, 107, and 306 of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973; mandatory pay cost increases, and annualization of positions filled part-year in 1975.

Funds are not included to support staff transferred to the Office of Human Development. These amounts are included in the 1974-76 appropriations for SRS.

For all programs listed above, $379,278 thousand is requested for the period July 1-September 30, 1976. This will provide funding at the 1976 level for all grantees and contractors due to be funded during the interim budget period. Included in this amount is $7,960 thousand for salaries and expenses, but the amount does not include funds for the Rehabilitation Services Administration transferred to OHD. These amounts are included in the appropriations for SRS.

No new budget authority is requested for this program in 1976. The program will be funded by using unobligated balances carried forward from prior years.

In recent years, a minimal number of international research projects have been funded in countries which have excess foreign currencies; primarily this is due to political unrest in those countries.

Objectives for 1976 include:

1. Developing new technology to serve the needs of the severely disabled, e.g., quadriplegics, by developing rehabilitation engineering centers devoted to research in the development of transportation and other related areas.

2. Determining the feasibility of integrating and coordinating rehabilitation services within existing facilities—schools, hospitals, and other public and private facilities.

3. Determining the feasibility of carrying out an R. & D. project for the deaf-blind in Egypt and adjacent North African countries.

4. Conducting experiments in service integration and service delivery.

5. Conducting collaborative studies in the area of spinal cord injury, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease and other severe disabilities.

6. Studying improved methods of rehabilitating severely disabled for whom a vocational goal is not possible or feasible.

7. Studying, in collaboration with other countries, improved methods of providing rehabilitation services, serving those with the most severe handicaps, under various types of sheltered employment arrangements.

8. Determining new methods for the productive employment of mentally retarded young adults.

The Office for Civil Rights was established in 1966 to direct and coordinate the responsibilities assigned to the Department under title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Subsequently, enforcement responsibilities in the field of civil rights were centralized in the Office for Civil Rights and are largely implemented through the regional offices. The Higher Education Amendments of 1972 widened the Department's civil rights charter adding two major responsibilities. Title VII of the amendments requires review of school districts for compliance with the terms of emergency school aid grants, and title IX prohibits sex discrimination in admission to educational institutions. The Comprehensive Health Manpower and Nurse Training Acts prohibit sex discrimination in admission to health professions schools.

Compliance enforcement.—Responsible for assuring that beneficiaries of approximately 200 major programs receive services on a nondiscriminatory basis. Federal assistance is provided through 250 State agencies and thousands of school districts, nursing homes, hospitals, colleges, and other similar entities.

Contract compliance.—Responsible for insuring compliance with Executive Orders on equal employment opportunity at universities, hospitals, and other institutions holding Government contracts.

Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Public Law 93-112—Sept. 26, 1973).—Responsible for implementation and enforcement of section 504 for the handicapped as defined in section 7(6) of the act. Federal assistance is provided to approximately 25 million persons considered to be in this category.

Excludes $29,260 thousand in 1976 for functions transferred to Policy research. Comparable amounts for 1975 ($29,260 thousand); and 1974 ($18,810 thousand) are included above.

1. Departmental direction.—The departmental direction activity includes those subactivities which are primarily of a policy nature or which provide administrative guidance to the various components of the Department. These subactivities include:

(a) Executive direction.—Broad policy direction is given to the various operating programs of the Department. Staff assistance is provided for the development of the Department's legislative program and for coordination and leadership in all areas of program operation. Staffing is provided for long-range program and policy planning.

(b) Public information.—Overall guidance is given to the Department's relations with the public. Information is provided to the press, various public and private organizations, and to interested individuals.

(c) Financial management.—Staff assistance is provided to the Secretary in formulating policy in all areas of financial management including budget, finance, and grants management.

(d) Administrative management.—Staff assistance is provided to the Secretary for the specific areas of grant and procurement programs, management information systems, and personnel policy. This activity also provides administrative management services for all units of Departmental Management.

(e) Field management.—Supports the offices of the 10 departmental regional directors, who are responsible for the organization, integration, evaluation, and coordination of the Department's field activities, and planning and coordination of programs designed to meet specific State and local needs.

(f) General Counsel.—The Office of the General Counsel acts as legal advisor to, and provides legal services for the Secretary, certain of the operating agencies of the Department, and the staff of the regional offices.

2. Departmental operations.—The departmental operations activity includes those subactivities which provide a service to the various components of the Department or which perform workloads related directly to the public. These subactivities include:

(a) Audit Agency.—The HEW Audit Agency is responsible for the policy and coordination of all Department audit activities, including liaison and coordination with the Defense Contract Audit Agency and other Government agencies. It performs internal and external audits of all Department activities to provide assurance that Federal funds are used for the purposes intended. The Audit Agency is administered on a decentralized basis with the central office in Washington, D.C. responsible for policy, coordination, and overall administration, and a regional staff in each of the HEW regional areas responsible for the performance of all audits within its respective geographical area.

(b) Facilities engineering and property management.—This subactivity provides a single point of contact for all HEW construction support services; standardization of facilities policies and procedures; surveillance of special purpose projects with regard to design, construction, and fund utilization; and administration of standard level user and reimbursable service costs for payment to GSA under Public Law 92-313.

Under the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended, the Secretary: (1) allocates needed surplus personal property to State agencies for educational, public health, and civil defense purposes; (2) transfers surplus real property for educational and public health purposes, including research; (3) protects the rights of the United States under the terms and conditions of such transfers; and (4) promulgates regulations governing the operation of the program, and enforces such regulations.

(c) Long-term care enforcement.—This activity, conducted under the guidance of the regional directors, consolidates long-term care standards enforcement functions previously conducted by three of the Department's agencies. This staff enforces compliance with Medicare and Medicaid standards regulations by approximately 17,400 nursing homes which receive Federal payments.

(d) Legal services.—This subactivity covers the legal workloads of the Food and Drug Administration and the Social Security Administration.

The HEW Working capital fund provides a single means for consolidating financing and accounting of business-type operations involving the sale of services and commodities to customers.

The fund was originally authorized by Public Law 82-452 (66 Stat. 369) to finance central services provided by Departmental Management to itself and to the several operating agencies.

Prior to 1975 there were six program classifications: Data management services; common regional services; personnel data services; payrolling services; administrative services; and Parklawn personnel services. Combined, these activities rendered services or sold commodities to Departmental Management and HEW agencies at a $39,173 thousand level in 1974. It is expected that the level will be $44,885 thousand in 1975 and increase to $53,829 thousand in 1976.

The following activities operate under the fund:

1. Data management services.—Provides data systems design and consultation, key punching, computer programming, and computer processing to HEW operating agencies.

2. Common regional services.—Provides department-wide common regional administrative services, such as financial, personnel, and office services.

3. Personnel data services.—Through the maintenance of a centralized personnel data collection service, this activity provides automated personnel reports and data to all operating agencies and other Federal agencies.

4. Payrolling services.—Provides for centralized payrolling services for all HEW employees, as well as leave and payroll accounting for the Department.

5. Administrative services.—Provides centralized mail and messenger services; procurement and distribution of congressional materials; purchasing, supply and laboring services; reproduction services which consist of offset printing, photographic, visual exhibits, collating and addressograph services, and procurement of printing from the Government Printing Office and other sources.

Operating results.—The fund continued to operate on a sound financial basis, with a working capital ratio of 1.6 to 1. Retained earnings in excess of current needs will be reduced through lower rates in 1975. Advances provided by the operating agencies will be reduced and/or returned.

Saint Elizabeths Hospital provides treatment and care for the mentally ill who are either beneficiaries of the Federal Government or residents of the District of Columbia. This proposal would transfer program and fiscal control of the hospital from the Federal Government to the District of Columbia. Under the terms of this proposal the District of Columbia would budget for and justify the operation of the hospital under its own appropriation.

Funds in this appropriation would be used to reimburse the District of Columbia for treatment and care of Federal beneficiaries who would remain at the hospital, and to pay a subsidy to the District of Columbia. The District of Columbia would assume a gradually increasing share of the costs of operating the hospital. Ultimately, the Federal share of this operation would be limited to reimbursements for the treatment of Federal beneficiaries.

1. Maintenance and operations.—Legislation will be proposed to initiate new funding policies for this program which makes payments to school districts where enrollments are affected by Federal activities. Funding is provided, under this program, to districts for those children whose parents live and work on Federal property ("a" category) and those children who either live or work on Federal property ("b" category). The proposed legislation will make payments as follows: 100% of entitlement for the special provisions; 100% of entitlement for "a" category children who comprise 25% or more of total children in average daily attendance; 90% of entitlement for "a" category children who comprise less than 25% of total children in average daily attendance; 68% of entitlement for "b" category children, less the amounts such agencies would receive for out-of-State "b" category children. Payments will be made on the rates specified above—less 5% of each agency's total current expenditure for the preceding year.

a. Grants to States for vocational programs and services.—Legislation will be proposed to consolidate the present five State grant categorical programs for vocational education into a single basic grant program in order to give each State more flexibility in determining priorities and developing projects that meet the most urgent of its own needs in providing high quality vocational education programs.

b. Innovation.—The legislation will also incorporate into a single category the present innovation, curriculum development, research programs, and the vocational education teacher training component of the Education Professions Development Act. This consolidation will also address populations with special needs.

The 1976 budget proposes to shift Federal assistance substantially from support services to the support of innovative projects which will enable the States to improve their capacity for reforming the vocational educational system. Individual innovative projects would be limited to 3 years duration.

Legislation is proposed which will reduce Federal expenditures for maintenance assistance, medical assistance, and social services programs.

1. Maintenance assistance.—Adopt income disregard provision which allows disregard of the first $60 of monthly earned income plus work related expenses and one-third of the remainder. Eliminate Federal percentage option and require all States to use only the Federal medical assistance percentage matching formula for AFDC. Reverse income accounting and redetermination periods for eligibility. Assist State efforts to collect child support payments from absent fathers of AFDC children.

2. Medical assistance.—Discontinue Federal matching for adult dental services except emergency services. Revise matching formula from 50% to 40% floor. Reduced AFDC eligibility resulting from the enactment of the above related legislation will result in savings in medical care costs. Revise legislation to provide reasonable cost limitations to hospital care. Authorize reimbursements for free standing clinics. Offset impact of medicare cost sharing legislation.

3. Social services.—Reduce the Federal matching share from 75% to 65% for 1976.

4. State and local training.—Propose legislation to restrict types of training subject to Federal financing participation.

PAYMENTS TO THE SOCIAL SECURITY TRUST AND OTHER FUNDS—Continued

There are several legislative proposals which will affect payments to the social security trust funds.

1. The SMI program is financed through enrollee premiums and matching Federal contributions. Due to a technicality in the law, the SMI premium is now frozen at its current level. Since SMI benefit payments per beneficiary are increasing while each enrollee's contribution to the SMI trust fund cannot, the Federal funds must bear an increasingly disproportionate share of the cost of this program. This is contrary to the intent of the cost-sharing provisions of the Medicare law, and the Administration will submit a technical proposal which would permit the premium rate to increase in proportion to social security monthly benefit increases ($25 million).

2. Limits placed on the rates of annual increases in reasonable costs of Medicare providers and modification of Medicare's cost sharing structure will reduce HI benefits for uninsured persons, and thus reduce the reimbursement required from general funds in 1976. A discussion of these proposals appears in the proposed legislation schedule for the Social security trust funds ($85 million).

There are several legislative proposals which affect the social security trust funds.

1. Eliminate certain retroactive payments of actuarially reduced monthly benefits. This proposal, recommended by the 1971 Advisory Council on Social Security, provides that social security benefits not be paid retroactively for months before an application is filed when this would require a permanent reduction in the beneficiary's future monthly benefits. The advisory council recommendation is intended to insure that an OASDI beneficiary's continuing benefit income, on which he has to rely for the remainder of his life, is not reduced. The proposal would make the law more consistent with the objective of providing adequate benefit income for the aged. (Outlay reductions of $45 million in 1975 and $443 million in 1976.)

2. Eliminate the retirement test monthly measure. The retirement test would be modified so that it would no longer include a monthly test except for the first year an individual receives a cash benefit. This proposal would make the retirement test more equitable and less complex thereby increasing public understanding and acceptance, and providing for more efficient administration. (Outlay reductions of $15 million in 1975 and $205 million in 1976.)

3. An amendment to the Social Security Act will be proposed to place a limit of 5% on cost-of-living increases through June 30, 1976, for the old-age, survivors, and disability programs. (Outlay reduction of $2,546 million in 1976.)

4. Modify Medicare's cost-sharing structure to provide the following: (a) Under the Hospital insurance program, a coinsurance equal to 10 percent of charges above the deductible amount on all covered services; (b) under the Supplementary medical insurance program, an annual deductible amount of $70 for calendar year 1976, increasing thereafter in proportion to the percentage increase in monthly social security cash benefits; and a 10% coinsurance on hospital-based physician and home health services; and (c) a limitation on beneficiary liability of $750 per benefit period for hospital insurance and $750 per calendar year for supplementary medical insurance, to be increased thereafter in proportion to increases in social security cash benefits. (Outlay reductions of $255 million in 1975 and $1,279 million in 1976.)

5. Place limits on the rates of yearly increases in provider costs recognized as reasonable by the Medicare program. Such limits will help to assure that the Medicare program does not contribute to or pay for excessive cost inflation. (Outlay reductions of $100 million in 1976.)

6. Unfreeze the SMI premium rate through the correction of a legislative technicality in the law as discussed in the proposed legislation schedule for payments to the Social security trust and other funds. (No outlay reductions.)

Legislation is proposed that would provide funds for demonstration projects to test the concept of integrated service delivery at the local level. This request will assist Governors in developing the capacity in State and local governments, as well as in private nonprofit agencies, to plan integrated human service programs that are more responsive to the needs of individuals and families.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 201. None of the funds appropriated by this title to the Social and Rehabilitation Service for grants-in-aid of State agencies to cover, in whole or in part, the cost of operation of said agencies, including the salaries and expenses of officers and employees of said agencies, shall be withheld from the said agencies of any States which have established by legislative enactment and have in operation a merit system and classification and compensation plan covering the selection, tenure in office, and compensation of their employees, because of any disapproval of their personnel or the manner of their selection by the agencies of the said States, or the rates of pay of said officers or employees.

SEC. 202. The Secretary is authorized to make such transfers of motor vehicles, between bureaus and officers, without transfer of funds, as may be required in carrying out the operations of the Department.

SEC. 203. None of the funds provided herein shall be used to pay any recipient of a grant for the conduct of a research project an amount equal to as much as the entire cost of such project.

SEC. 204. None of the funds contained in this Act shall be used for any activity the purpose of which is to require any recipient of any project grant for research, training, or demonstration made by any officer or employee of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to pay to the United States any portion of any interest or other income earned on payments of such grant made before July 1, 1964; nor shall any of the funds contained in this Act be used for any activity the purpose of which is to require payment to the United States of any portion of any interest or other income earned on payments made before July 1, 1964, to the American Printing House for the Blind.

SEC. 205. Funds appropriated under this title to the American Printing House for the Blind, Howard University, the National Technical Institute for the Deaf, the Model Secondary School for the Deaf, and Gallaudet College shall be awarded to these institutions in the form of lump-sum grants and expenditures made therefrom shall be subject to audit by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

SEC. 206. None of the funds contained in this title shall be available for additional permanent Federal positions in the Washington area if the proportion of additional positions in the Washington area in relation to the total new positions is allowed to exceed the proportion existing at the close of fiscal year 1966.

SEC. 207. Appropriations in this Act for the Health Services Administration, the National Institutes of Health, the Center for Disease Control, the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration, the Health Resources Administration and the Office of the Secretary shall be available for expenses for active commissioned officers in the Public Health Service Reserve Corps and for not to exceed two thousand eight hundred commissioned officers in the Regular Corps; expenses incident to the dissemination of health information in foreign countries through exhibits and other appropriate means; advances of funds for compensation, travel, and subsistence expenses (or per diem in lieu thereof) for persons coming from abroad to participate in health or scientific activities of the Department pursuant to law; expenses of primary and secondary schooling of dependents in foreign countries, of Public Health Service commissioned officers stationed in foreign countries, at costs for any given area not in excess of those of the Department of Defense for the same area, when it is determined by the Secretary that the schools available in the locality are unable to provide adequately for the education of such dependents, and for the transportation of such dependents between such schools and their places of residence when the schools are not accessible to such dependents by regular means of transportation; rental or lease of living quarters (for periods not exceeding 5 years), and provision of heat, fuel, and light, and maintenance, improvement, and repair of such quarters, and advance payments therefor, for civilian officers, and employees of the Public Health Service who are United States citizens and who have a permanent station in a foreign country; purchase, erection, and maintenance of temporary or portable structures; and for the payment of compensation to consultants or individual scientists appointed for limited periods of time pursuant to section 207(f) or section 207(g) of the Public Health Service Act, at rates established by the Assistant Secretary for Health, or the Secretary where such action is required by statute, not to exceed the per diem rate equivalent to the rate for GS-18; not to exceed $9,500 in the current fiscal year and $2,375 in the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, for official reception and representation expenses related to any health agency of the Department when specifically approved by the Assistant Secretary for Health.

SEC. 208. No part of the funds contained in this title may be used to force any school or school district which is desegregated as that term is defined in title IV of the Civil Rights Act of 1974, Public Law 88-352, to take any action to force the busing of students; to force on account of race, creed, or color the abolishment of any school so desegregated; or to force the transfer or assignment of any student attending any elementary or secondary school so desegregated to or from a particular school over the protest of his or her parents or parent.

SEC. 209. (a) No part of the funds contained in this title shall be used to force any school or school district which is desegregated as that term is defined in title IV of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Public Law 88-352, to take any action to force the busing of students; to require the abolishment of any school so desegregated; or to force on account of race, creed, or color the transfer of students to or from a particular school so desegregated as a condition precedent to obtaining Federal funds otherwise available to any State, school district, or school.

(b) No funds appropriated in this Act may be used for the transportation of students or teachers (or for the purchase of equipment for such transportation) in order to overcome racial imbalance in any school or school system, or for the transportation of students or teachers (or for the purchase of equipment for such transportation) in order to carry out a plan of racial desegregation of any school or school system. (Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1975.)

DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

This chapter presents the budget and program estimates for the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Most of the Department's programs are also discussed in part 5 of the budget (the Federal program by function) under one of three headings: "Commerce and Transportation" (mortgage credit and thrift institutions); "Community and Regional Development"; and "Income Security" (public assistance and other income supplements).

The major divisions of this chapter conform to the Department's functional organization for program administration, as set forth below:

1. Housing production and mortgage credit covers the programs and activities of the Federal Housing Administration and the Government National Mortgage Association. These include programs to further homeownership, provide mortgage insurance, and extend the availability of mortgage credit. This heading also covers the lower income housing assistance program authorized by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

2. Housing management includes the Department's consolidated appropriation providing subsidy payments for homeownership assistance, rental housing assistance, rent supplements low-rent public housing, and college housing. The housing management function also includes the servicing of loans and mortgages and the management and disposition of properties acquired by the Federal Government. These activities, which relate to both housing production and management, are reflected in the appropriate schedules under the heading "Housing Production and Mortgage Credit." Other management functions included under this heading are community disposal operations, liquidating programs, and temporary housing activities.

3. Community planning and development covers programs of planning and management assistance as well as the community development grant program authorized by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. This heading also covers the completion of projects under programs such as urban renewal and model cities which are being phased out.

4. Policy development and research includes the programs and activities assigned to the Assistant Secretary for Policy Development and Research. This organization consolidates the policy analysis and program evaluation activities with those of research and technology in order to serve effectively the needs of the entire Department.

Other major divisions within the Department include the New Communities Administration, the Federal Insurance Administration, Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity, and Departmental Management. Descriptions of these activities are found in the narratives under the appropriate headings. Disaster relief activities are included under "Funds Appropriated to the President" rather than in this chapter.

Day-to-day administration, processing, and funding decisions for programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development are carried out in area offices and insuring offices located within the geographical boundaries of 10 regional offices.

Payments for Operation of Low Income Housing Projects. Comparable amounts for 1974 ($319,995 thousand) and 1975 ($450,000 thousand) are included above.

The United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended, authorizes a program of annual contributions to local public housing agencies for the purpose of assisting low-income families in obtaining a decent place to live in units either leased or owned by the agencies.

Section 8 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, in addition to continuing the authority to make annual contributions to public housing agencies to cover debt service on bonds and notes, replaced the leased housing program with the lower income housing assistance program. This new program will increase significantly the role of private owners who participate in that they will own, operate, and maintain units leased to lower income families. Tenants who live in privately owned leased existing housing will have the opportunity to select the unit in which they choose to live and will make rental payments directly to the private landlord.

The Federal Government will provide subsidies equal to the difference between the fair market rents of comparable standard units in each housing market area and the amount of rent paid by eligible families. It is expected that families will pay between 15% and 25% of gross income.

Since initiation of the annual contributions program, and continuing through 1974 and 1975, contracts for annual contributions payments have been authorized in basic legislation without the need for specific appropriation action. Beginning in 1976, it is proposed to require the release of contract authority for this purpose in an appropriation act, although payments will continue to be provided through the Housing payments appropriation.

Budget program.—It is anticipated that the new section 8 program will be used as the primary vehicle for providing housing assistance to lower income families in 1975 and 1976. Authority will be available to process up to 400,000 units in both 1975 and 1976. However, because the program will not be available for the full year during 1975, it is estimated that not more than 200,000 units will actually be processed. The budget requests an additional $662.3 million in contract authority, which, when added to contract authority expected to be available in 1976, will support 400,000 units. The request, however, is subject to change, depending upon actual 1975 activity. Provision for units during the transition period will depend upon actual amounts processed in 1975 and 1976. In addition, bona fide commitments and housing for Indians will continue to be approved under the conventional public housing program. The currently estimated levels of activity are shown in the following table:

In addition to this appropriation, certain housing production activities are financed with the corporate funds of the Federal Housing Administration and the Government National Mortgage Association.

In addition to the amounts reflected in the schedules, an estimated $4,265 thousand will be required for salaries and expenses under this account during the fiscal year transition period beginning July 1, 1976, and ending September 30, 1976.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 authorized two programs of subsidies to reduce mortgage interest rates on behalf of lower income families to as low as 1% in order to assist them in purchasing or renting new or existing housing.

Under the homeownership assistance program, periodic payments are made to mortgagees on behalf of families purchasing their own homes. The homeowner is required to make monthly payments totaling 20% of family income toward mortgage principal, interest, taxes, insurance, and mortgage insurance premiums.

Under the rental housing assistance program, assistance payments to the mortgagee reduce the monthly payment which the owner of a rental or cooperative project is required to pay for principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premiums under the mortgage covering the project. These savings are intended to be passed on to the tenant in the form of reduced rentals. The family in a rental housing assistance project is required to make rental payments amounting to 25% of income.

The budget reflects obligations for commitments made prior to January 5, 1973, and amendments to existing projects. While the production phase is handled by Housing Production and Mortgage Credit, Housing Management administers the making of payments under obligations previously incurred.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (12 U.S.C. 1701s) authorized rent supplement payments to owners of certain private housing on behalf of qualified low-income tenants. Housing owners eligible for contracts with a maximum term of 40 years have been private non-profit groups, cooperative, or limited dividend owners who provide housing financed with federally insured mortgages.

Tenants are required to pay 25% of their income for rent. Rent supplements making up the difference between this amount and full economic rent are paid to the project owner on behalf of the tenant.

The rent supplement program may be used in conjunction with State and locally assisted subsidized housing programs, and up to 40% of the housing under the rental housing assistance program may be occupied by families receiving rent supplement assistance.

The budget reflects obligations for commitments made prior to January 5, 1973, and amendments to existing projects. While the production phase is handled by Housing Production and Mortgage Credit, Housing Management administers the making of payments under obligations previously incurred.

The Low-rent public housing loan fund is used primarily to finance Federal loans for the construction of conventional housing projects owned by local housing authorities (LHA's) prior to permanent or temporary financing in the private market. The loan fund is not available for leased housing under section 8 of the U.S. Housing Act of 1937, as amended. Included as expenses are interest on Treasury borrowings and other miscellaneous fund costs. Appropriations for payments of annual contribution contracts to liquidate the indebtedness of the LHA's, including operating subsidy and modernization requirements, are provided under the housing management section of this chapter.

Financing.—Loan approvals cover the maximum amount of funds the Department may loan under contract to local housing authorities in development or modernizing conventional LHA-owned projects. The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1969 authorizes these loans up to 100% of the total project costs. Experience indicates, however, that only a minor portion of Federal loan approvals will be outstanding at any one time in the form of direct Federal loans because private financing is relied upon as the major source of funds for temporary loans. Accordingly, the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended, allows the ceiling on borrowing authority of $1.5 billion to be applied only to Federal loans which the Secretary estimates will be disbursed and not to the total approvals which are not expected to result in actual outlays. The Secretary has set the maximum Federal loan exposure factor (i.e., the maximum demand for Federal loans at any one time) at 10% of loan approvals outstanding. The following table shows the status of loan approvals:

Unutilized loan approvals, end of year	2,486,943	1,809,779	2,029,688	1,232,566

Direct loans.—Direct Federal loans are made to LHA's to finance the early costs of conventional project development of LHA-owned dwellings, modernization of existing LHA-owned projects, and certain administrative requirements. These loans are made with available working funds and with funds borrowed from the Treasury when necessary.

Borrowings outstanding at any one time from the Treasury may not exceed $1.5 billion. No outstanding borrowings are anticipated on June 30, 1975, or June 30, 1976.

Private loans.—When the Federal direct loans to an LHA accumulate to an amount which is attractive to private investors, the LHA sells short-term temporary notes to the public and utilizes the proceeds to repay the Federal loans and to meet current needs for additional working capital. These notes are secured by the Federal Government's pledge to make Federal loans, if necessary, covering up to 100% of the development or modernization cost of the project. The notes sold at an average interest rate of 5% in 1974.

In 1974, direct Federal loans were repaid through guaranteed loans by private investors in the amount of $586 million. Repayments are estimated at $660 million in 1975 and $635 million in 1976. The temporary notes sold to private investors are issued for short periods averaging 7.1 months, and may be reissued several times and in increasing amounts before the development or modernization costs are permanently financed. As a result, a considerable turnover of short-term notes takes place and the volume of loan activity conducted under the program during any fiscal year greatly exceeds the amount of loans outstanding at the end of that fiscal year.

The following table shows the status of temporary financing and refinancing of production and management loans during 1974 and estimated transactions during 1975 and 1976.

Bonds.—Normally, LHA-owned dwellings are permanently financed at or near completion through the sale of long-term bonds to the public. These are usually 40-year serial bonds and are secured by the Federal Government to meet principal and interest payments. In 1974, bonds sold at an average interest rate of 5.3%. Bond sales totaled $926.4 million in 1974 and sales of $400 million and $800 million are estimated for 1975 and 1976, respectively.

Title IV of the Housing Act of 1950 authorized loans at 3% interest to colleges and eligible hospitals for the construction or acquisition of housing and related facilities such as student centers, dining halls, and infirmaries. The HUD Act of 1968 amended the program to provide an alternate source of assistance by authorizing debt service grants which reduce the cost to colleges and hospitals of borrowing on the private market.

Since 1968 the primary form of assistance has been the debt service program and the loan account has been used on a contingency basis. In those cases where an institution was unable to obtain funds in the private market at a reasonable rate, the Department would ordinarily provide a direct Federal loan. Federal loan disbursements are estimated at $23 million in 1975 and $14 million in 1976.

Budget program.—This program was discontinued effective January 5, 1973. The remaining balance of contract authority for debt service grants was rescinded on December 21, 1974 (Public Law 93-529).

Financing.—Funds for the direct loan program have come primarily through the use of Treasury borrowing authority and from the sale of participation certificates backed by pools of college housing loans held by the Federal Government, as authorized by appropriation acts. The Treasury borrowing authority now totals $3,775 million.

Sales of participation certificates, as provided in the Participation Sales Act of 1966, amounted to $2.2 billion through 1969. In order to pay the interest on the participation certificates, funds are appropriated to match the difference between the interest due on the participation certificates and the interest collections on the college housing bonds underlying the certificates.

The participation insufficiencies are computed as follows:

Because actual deficits or insufficiencies on the outstanding participation certificates have exceeded estimated deficits in the past, there is an unfinanced deficit of approximately $1.7 million at the end of 1974. The budget reflects the funding of this amount in 1975. Budget authority required for estimated insufficiencies and unfinanced deficits is shown in the following table:

During the fiscal year transition period beginning July 1, 1976, and ending September 30, 1976, an estimated $3,750,000 in budget authority will be required for the payment of insufficiencies on the participation certificates which were used to provide financing for the College Housing program in prior years. Of this amount, $3,637,000 will require appropriation action by the Congress and $113,000 will become available without further action by the Congress.

HOUSING FOR THE ELDERLY OR HANDICAPPED FUND—Continued

The direct loan program for housing the elderly or handicapped was established by section 202 of the Housing Act of 1959.

The Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (section 210(d)) amended the program removing receipts and disbursements from the budget of the U.S. Government. The budget schedules presented in this section of the budget reflect activity only through August 31, 1974. The schedules reflecting activity from September 1, 1974, through June 30, 1976, can be found in the "Annexed Budgets and Other Material," Part IV of this Appendix.

Financing.—Funds for loans have been provided by appropriations to a revolving fund. Additional financing has been obtained through issuance of certificates of participation in pools of mortgages from this program as provided by the Participation Sales Act of 1966. The following table shows the financing of the insufficiencies:

The Federal Housing Administration fund was established pursuant to the National Housing Act of 1934, as amended, which created a system of mortgage and loan insurance programs. The objectives of the programs are: (1) to improve home financing practices; (2) to encourage improved housing standards and conditions; (3) to further adequate rental and ownership housing; and (4) to stabilize the mortgage market. These objectives are pursued through the insurance of loans for financing the production, purchase, repair, and improvement of residential properties.

Under the single family insurance program, mortgagors are allowed, at termination of their mortgages, to share in the rebate of premiums paid into the fund which are not required for expenses or losses. The insurance of mortgages on management-type cooperatives and supplementary loans is written under section 213.

The insurance of loans for property repairs and improvements, as well as for basic and special-purpose multi-family housing, including cooperatives, condominiums, and housing for the elderly and loans for land development, group practice medical facilities, and nonprofit hospitals are also covered by the Federal Housing Administration fund.

The special risk insurance programs were created by the Housing Act of 1968 to insure mortgages covering property in older, declining urban areas which would not otherwise be eligible for mortgage insurance. These programs also provide insurance on behalf of high-risk mortgagors who would not be eligible for mortgage insurance but who, with counseling, can become acceptable credit risks; on behalf of mortgagors receiving interest reduction payments; and on mortgages covering experimental housing where strict adherence to State or local building regulations is not observed.

A new coinsurance program was authorized by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. This program will permit the sharing of risks with lenders originating mortgages.

Income from fees, premiums, and investments is credited to each program; expenses and losses connected with foreclosed property and defaulted notes and mortgages are charged to each program. Through June 30, 1974, income had exceeded expenses, losses, and distributive share payments by $612 million, leaving a reserve for the payment of future expenses and losses. This actual reserve compares to estimated reserve requirements of over $3.1 billion.

The status of estimated insurance reserves through 1976 by component funds of the Federal Housing Administration fund is as follows:

[In millions of dollars]

	1974 actual	1975 estimate	1976 estimate
Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund	1,806	1,872	1,941
Cooperative Management Housing Insurance Fund	19	20	22
General Insurance Fund	-552	-878	-1,172
Special Risk Insurance Fund	-661	-941	-1,300
Total FHA Fund	612	73	-509

Steps are being taken to improve and tighten underwriting standards, which are expected to decrease insurance claims on this fund in the coming years. An increased emphasis on "as is" sales should result in a greater number of sales and a consequent increase in sales income, as well as in lower costs for maintenance and repairs on acquired properties. The net result should be an improvement in the financial condition of the fund in future years.

Budget program.—Budget requirements for mortgage and loan insurance operations are embodied in (1) an administrative expense limitation covering administrative management and services expenses of the central office, and (2) a nonadministrative expense limitation covering the operating expenses of both the central office and the field.

Program developments for 1976 are summarized in the following table of program highlights.

Summary of operating expense estimates.—Operating expenses are paid out of operating income. The 1976 estimate is $16.1 million for administrative expenses and $194.0 million for nonadministrative expenses.

Financing.—In 1974, $58.1 million of debentures were issued, and $61.7 million were redeemed. The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 authorized the payment of claims in cash and borrowing from the Treasury as necessary to do so. Home mortgage claims and multifamily housing claims under sections 220, 221, 223, and 235(j) are now being paid in cash. Treasury borrowings amounted to $821 million in 1974 and are estimated at $830 million and $796 million in 1975 and 1976, respectively.

Insurance authority.—The authority for insurance operations for all programs, except Rental housing (sec. 236) and homeownership (sec. 235) assistance, was extended by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, to June 30, 1977. In general, these authorizations are without dollar limitation, except for the credit assistance programs.

Transition period.—During the fiscal year transition period beginning July 1, 1976, and ending September 30, 1976, an estimated $175 million in budget authority will be required. This is in addition to the amount reflected in the schedules.

The Housing Act of 1964, as amended by the Participation Sales Act of 1966, authorizes the pooling of mortgages or other types of obligations of certain Government departments or agencies and the sale by the Government National Mortgage Association, as trustee, of beneficial interests, or participations, in such pools. The Participation Sales Act of 1966 also authorized appropriations to cover the excess of interest payments to holders of participation certificates over the interest payments received from the pooled mortgages or other obligations. A permanent, indefinite appropriation is available to cover insufficiencies for sales authorized in 1967 while those authorized in 1968 require annual appropriations.

In addition to the amounts reflected in this schedule, an estimated $5,291 thousand in definite budget authority will be required for insufficiencies during the fiscal year transition period beginning July 1, 1976, and ending September 30, 1976.

Through September 30, 1968, this fund purchased and sold preferred stock in the secondary market operations of the Federal National Mortgage Association and made loans to it as needed to support its operations involving the purchase of federally insured or guaranteed mortgages. On that date, the Association redeemed all preferred stock and became a private corporation owned by its common stockholders. All authority for investment in preferred stock of the corporation lapsed.

No loans have been made since the first few months of the Association's existence as a private corporation. The authority will be used only in emergency situations.

The Association is authorized pursuant to section 305 of the National Housing Act, to make purchase commitments and to purchase FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgage loans. Funds are currently available to the President to provide special assistance for financing (1) selected types of residential mortgage loans pending establishment of marketability, and (2) residential mortgage loans generally as a means of stabilizing building activities. In addition, the Emergency Home Purchase Assistance Act of 1974, enacted October 18, 1974, authorizes the Association to make commitments to purchase conventionally financed mortgages on new and existing housing to provide buyers, builders and lenders an assured source of financing at favorable interest rates. This program is being administered with the use of processing facilities of the Federal National Mortgage Association and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation.

Budget program.—Special assistance activity is of three principal types: (1) commitments expected to mature into purchase of mortgages to be held in the GNMA portfolio; (2) tandem plan commitments which will be sold to private investors; and (3) conventional mortgage commitments expected to mature into purchase of mortgages which will be resold to private investors. Estimates shown in these schedules reflect only announced activity as of the time of printing. These estimates could be altered by future announcements.

Portfolio mortgage purchase activity.—No commitments to purchase portfolio mortgages are budgeted in 1975 or 1976. Purchases of below-market interest rate mortgages due to prior year commitments are estimated at $28 million in 1975. No portfolio sales are planned for 1975 or 1976.

Tandem plan activity.—The Association will continue to provide support for mortgages with bonafide commitments insured under the subsidized housing programs. In addition, activity will continue under the tandem plans for unassisted federally insured mortgages first announced in September 1973.

Commitments for assisted mortgages are estimated at $830 million in 1975 and $247 million in 1976. Purchases of these mortgages are estimated at $556 million in 1975 and $531 million in 1976. Sales of these mortgages are estimated at $514 million in 1975 and $531 million in 1976.

Under the tandem plans for unassisted federally insured mortgages, commitments are budgeted at $6.6 billion in 1975. Purchases of unassisted mortgages are estimated at $3.9 billion in 1975 and $3.8 billion in 1976. Mortgage sales at auction are budgeted at $900 million in 1975 and $4,019 million in 1976.

Commitments on conventional mortgage are estimated at $5.0 billion in 1975. Purchases of these mortgages are estimated at $600 million in 1975 and $2.0 billion in 1976. Sales at auction are budgeted at $2.0 billion in 1976.

Financing.—Funds for mortgage purchases are obtained from principal liquidations and borrowing from the Treasury. A portion of the mortgage portfolio is financed by participation certificates sales, which amounted to $1.2 billion in prior years and for which there is a remaining liability of $695.8 million offset by $128.0 million on deposit with the trustee in anticipation of scheduled retirements. Funds for operating costs, mainly interest expenses and tandem point allowances, are obtained from mortgage earnings and from appropriations for the difference between the interest expense on participation certificates and the income from related mortgage investment earnings.

Operating results.—Losses of $34.2 million for the special assistance functions have been offset by appropriations for participation certificate interest deficiencies. Other losses from below-market interest rate loans, tandem plan costs, and asset sales amounted to $691 million from 1969 through 1974. Of this amount, $576 million is carried as an impairment of capital.

Because of the continued high tandem plan costs, special assistance operations are expected to result in losses estimated at $390.4 million in 1975 and $513.2 million in 1976.

The conventional mortgage operation will result in expenses exceeding income in 1976 by $198.9 million. Expenses will exceed income by $197.4 million in 1975 and 1976 combined.

Appropriations for insufficiencies under the participation sales fund will cover $9.0 million of 1975 losses and $8.2 million of the 1976 losses.

The following table shows the derivation and financing of the interest insufficiencies on outstanding participation certificates:

The Association is required to manage and liquidate its initial mortgage portfolio and other mortgages, loans, and obligations. Liquidation of the portfolio is accomplished through regular principal repayments according to their amortization schedules, by sales of mortgages to private investors, and as the result of other principal credits arising from prepayments and foreclosures.

The initial mortgage portfolio consisted of mortgages on hand at, or purchased under contracts made before, November 1, 1954. Certain additional mortgages, loans, and other obligations may be acquired for this portfolio from the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and residential housing mortgages may also be acquired from any Federal instrumentality.

Budget program.—It is not expected that any purchase of mortgages will be made under the fund during 1975 or 1976.

Financing.—These functions are financed principally by Treasury borrowings, portfolio liquidations, and sales of participation in mortgage pools. Net repayments to the Treasury are estimated at $3.3 million in 1975 and at $1.0 million in 1976.

Transfers of principal repayments on pooled mortgages to the Participation sales fund for repayment of participation certificates of $48.0 million and $31.0 million are expected in 1975 and 1976 respectively. This program is more fully explained under the Participation sales fund.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 authorized the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) to guarantee the timely payment of principal and interest on trust certificates or other securities issued by any financial institution approved for this purpose, and based on and backed by a trust or pool composed of FHA-insured or VA-guaranteed mortgages.

Budget program.—Program activity is summarized in the following table:

Financing.—In addition to an application fee, guarantee fees and other charges will be assessed issuers of guaranteed securities to cover costs incurred by GNMA in connection with the guarantees and to establish a reserve against possible future payments of claims under the guarantee.

Operating results.—Fee collections and other revenues are expected to exceed expenses by $9.5 million in 1976. This amount will be retained to cover future year expenses and as a reserve against losses.

The National Housing Act, as amended, authorized the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) to create trusts to facilitate the financing of mortgages and other loan obligations owned by Government agencies. Under this authority, the Association sold to private investors participations in the interest and principal collections on pooled loan obligations pledged by various trustor agencies.

Sales of certificates of participation in those pools were shown as borrowings from the public in the budget schedules of the trustor agencies originally owning the loan obligations. Collections on the pooled obligations are transferred to GNMA as trustee and invested by the Participation sales fund until distributed to the holders of participation certificates in accordance with the terms of the trust agreement. At this time, they are redistributed to trustor agencies for payment of interest and retirement of certificates.

Whenever interest collections on pooled obligations together with investment income are insufficient to cover required interest payments and a share of administrative and other costs, the trustor agencies pay to the Association, as trustee, amounts equal to the insufficiencies. The costs of any such insufficiencies are covered by appropriations which appear in the accounts of the trustor agencies or by balances available in those accounts.

In the event the principal collections on pooled loans are not sufficient to meet scheduled retirements of participation certificates, the Association, as trustee, may either borrow from the Treasury or sell additional certificates to redeem those coming due. Alternatively, those trustor accounts with unobligated balances available may repurchase pooled loans to provide the cash required for scheduled redemptions.

The Association carries out fiscally separate functions with one administrative expense limitation and a single budget and staff. Beginning in 1976 the cost of contractual services provided by the Federal National Mortgage Association will no longer be included under the limitation and is included within the individual accounts receiving such services.

The administrative expenses provided by the limitation are disbursed through the Management and liquidating functions fund and are applicable to the following functional accounts:

Appropriation to liquidate contract authority.....

This appropriation provides for payments required by contracts for subsidized housing programs. These include the new lower income housing assistance program authorized by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, which is discussed under the heading for Housing production and mortgage credit. Substantial amounts of payments under this appropriation continue to be made for contracts under other subsidized housing programs: Rent supplement, homeownership assistance (sec. 235), rental housing assistance (sec. 236), low-rent public housing, and college housing.

The following table shows the units eligible for payment for 1974 and estimated for 1975 and 1976:

Units eligible for payment:	1974 actual	1975 estimate	1976 estimate
Rent supplement.....	147,847	180,000	193,000
Homeownership assistance.....	418,905	435,000	447,000
Rental housing assistance.....	293,831	422,000	508,000

College housing facilities eligible for grant payments.....	265	320	420

The cumulative commitments for annual payment reflected below represent an annual limitation on the total payments that may be made in a given year. Most contracts obligate the Federal Government to make annual housing payments up to the contract amount over the life of the project or mortgage. Since payments usually commence near or upon completion of the dwelling, the annual payments do not begin to reach the maximum amounts approved until 1 to 4 years after approval of the contract. The term of the contract also varies among the programs concerned.

Payments for the operation of projects are provided to assist Local Housing Authorities (LHA's) to meet certain deficits in the operation of LHA-owned low-rent public housing dwellings in accordance with the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. In 1974 and 1975, contracts for operating subsidies were authorized in basic legislation without the need for specific appropriations action, with cash requirements funded from the "Housing payments" appropriation. Beginning in 1976, it is proposed to require the release of contract authority for this purpose in an appropriation act together with a separate appropriation for the cash payments.

Operating subsidies have been paid, in recent years, based upon a rigid formula calculation which provided little incentive for improved management. A new system—the performance funding system—based upon a prototype of what it would cost a well-run housing authority to operate, will be implemented beginning April 1, 1975.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES, HOUSING MANAGEMENT PROGRAMS

For necessary administrative expenses of programs of housing management, not otherwise provided for, [$23,400,000] $28,400,000: Provided, That administrative expenses in connection with the Revolving fund (liquidating programs) shall be exclusive of expenses necessary in the case of defaulted obligations to protect the interests of the Government.

For "Salaries and expenses, housing management programs," for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, $7,225,000. (Department of Housing and Urban Development; Space, Science, Veterans, and Certain Other Independent Agencies Appropriation Act, 1975.)

The principal objective of the counseling program is to reduce foreclosures of section 235 properties and claims against the FHA Special Risk Insurance Fund. Through counseling, defaulted mortgagors will be assisted to become current in their mortgage payments.

An appropriation in 1972 is being used primarily to determine the effectiveness of counseling sections 235 and 237 homeowners delinquent or in default on their mortgage payments. Outlays from this appropriation will be completed in 1975.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 authorized the Secretary to establish a revolving fund for the deposit of section 236 rental housing assistance rental charges collected in excess of the basic rents. Use of fund resources would be dependent on the prior commitment of section 236 contract authority. It is anticipated that collections under the fund will cease in 1976 due to a change in calculating excess payments from an individual unit basis to a project basis.

Note.—Includes $3,056 thousand in 1976 for activities previously financed from Public facility loans (Participation sales insufficiencies): 1974, $2,900 thousand; 1975, $3,358 thousand.

The Revolving fund (liquidating programs) was established by the Independent Offices Appropriation Act of 1955 for the more efficient liquidation of assets acquired under a number of housing and urban development programs. In 1971, the public works planning advances, grants to aid advance acquisition of land, and Alaska housing programs were transferred to the fund for liquidation. The Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 provides for the transfer for liquidation of community development programs being replaced by the new block grant program. The grants for basic water and sewer facilities, grants for neighborhood facilities, the open space land programs, and the public facility loan program will be transferred during 1975. The rehabilitation loan fund will be transferred, as provided in the act, subsequent to its termination on August 22, 1975.

Financing.—In the past, certificates of participation in pools of public facility loans have been sold. Funds are appropriated annually to cover the difference between interest due on the participation certificates and interest collections on the public facility loans underlying the certificates.

The budget authority required for insufficiencies will be transferred to the Revolving fund (liquidating programs) after the transfer of the public facility loan program to that account. The authority required for 1976 and the July 1 to September 30, 1976, transition period is computed in the table below (in thousands of dollars):

Under the Disaster Relief Acts of 1970 and 1974, the Department is authorized to use its own funds and resources to respond to Federal Disaster Assistance Administration mission assignments in Presidentially declared disasters. Such mission assignments are normally to provide, manage, and finance temporary housing.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development; Space, Science, Veterans, and Certain Other Independent Agencies Appropriation Act of 1973 authorized the Secretary to establish a fund to finance initially the costs of providing and managing temporary housing. This fund provides such financing prior to obtaining reimbursement from funds appropriated to the President for disaster relief. After the fund has been reimbursed, the contributing accounts will be repaid, although sufficient balances will be retained in the fund to enable the Department to provide emergency housing promptly.

This budget reflects the return of all funds transferred from the Housing for the elderly or handicapped fund. Transfers from the Revolving fund (liquidating programs) and Open space land programs will be made to the fund in 1975 to provide a balance of $50 million which is considered adequate to fund disaster activities.

Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-383) authorizes the Secretary to make grants to units of general local government and States for the funding of local community development programs. The new program provides assistance for a wide range of community development activities, replacing seven categorical, community development programs: urban renewal, model cities, open space land, grants for basic water and sewer facilities, grants for neighborhood facilities, public facility loans, and the rehabilitation loan fund. No grants or loans for new projects may be made under these programs after January 1, 1975, except for the rehabilitation loan program which continues until August 22, 1975. Most types of activities formerly eligible for assistance under these programs are eligible under the new program at the discretion of the grant recipient.

Pursuant to the act, funds are distributed to eligible applicants on the basis of a formula based on population, housing overcrowding, and the extent of poverty (counted twice). Funds must be allocated between communities in metropolitan areas (SMSA's) and those in nonmetropolitan areas. Within SMSA's, "metropolitan cities" and "urban counties" are eligible for entitlement funding based on the criteria of the formula. A metropolitan city is the central city of an SMSA or any city of 50,000 population or more; and an urban county is any county within an SMSA which is authorized to undertake essential community development and housing assistance activities and has an eligible population of 200,000 or more, excluding the population of metropolitan cities.

Communities may be eligible for "hold harmless" assistance, also, based on the extent of their previous participation in the categorical programs being replaced.

Additional special transition (urgent needs) funds are being made available to communities experiencing hardship situations as they make the transition to the new program, or for urgent needs during the transition period which cannot be met out of formula funds. The act also provides that a portion of the funds enacted are available to the Secretary for certain discretionary purposes, such as the support of innovative projects, assistance to new communities, and emergency disaster needs.

Budget program.—The program was implemented on January 1, 1975, following the termination of the former categorical grant and loan programs. In addition to amounts appropriated in the 1975 Supplemental Appropriations Act, uncommitted 1975 appropriations for the model cities and urban renewal programs, remaining as of January 1, are being transferred to the new program.

In 1976, it is expected that assistance will be provided to an estimated 2,500 communities, including an estimated 600 metropolitan cities and urban counties.

Outlays are estimated at $225 million for 1975 and $1.3 billion for 1976. However, actual outlays will be governed by the rate at which communities utilize the amounts which have been made available to them.

Section 701 of the Housing Act of 1954, as amended (40 U.S.C. 461), authorizes grants to supplement State and local programs for the purpose of financing comprehensive planning and management programs concerned with urban and rural development. During both 1975 and 1976, the section 701 program is being administered to encourage increased State capacity to provide leadership and to coordinate substate planning activities which lead to the implementation of coordinated statewide plans.

Budget program.—The 1976 program level of $50 million will be financed with funds deferred in 1975, and no appropriation is required for 1976.

The Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966, as amended (42 U.S.C. 3301), authorized the Secretary to make grants to participating cities for the purpose of planning, developing, and carrying out demonstration programs for improving urban living conditions.

Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-383) terminated this program on January 1, 1975, and no commitments for new grants may be made following that date. However, most activities eligible under the terminated program may be funded at the option of the grant recipient, under the community development grant program authorized by the 1974 act.

Any unused balance from the 1975 appropriation will be transferred to the community development grant program as authorized by the 1975 Supplemental Appropriations Act (Public Law 93-554).

Title VII of the Housing Act of 1961, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1500-1500e), authorized grants to assist public bodies in preserving and creating open space lands.

Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-383) terminated this program on January 1, 1975, and no commitments for new grants may be made following that date. However, activities which were eligible under the terminated program will continue to be eligible, at the discretion of the grant recipients, under the community development grant program authorized by title I.

The budget assumes that the balances remaining available under the open space land program will be transferred to the Revolving fund (liquidating programs) during 1975, pursuant to section 117(b) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. In addition, $27 million of unobligated funds are being transferred to the Disaster assistance fund in 1975 pursuant to section 406 of Public Law 92-383.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 3103) authorized the Secretary to make grants to local public bodies to help finance the cost of multi-purpose neighborhood centers.

Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-383) terminated this program on January 1, 1975, and no commitments for new grants may be made following that date. However, activities which were eligible under the terminated program will continue to be eligible, at the discretion of the grant recipients, under the community development grant program authorized by title I.

The budget assumes that the balances remaining available under the neighborhood facilities program will be transferred to the Revolving fund (liquidating programs) during 1975, pursuant to section 117(b) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, as amended (42 U.S.C. 3102), authorized the Secretary to make grants to local public bodies and agencies for basic water and sewer facilities other than waste treatment works.

Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-383) terminated this program on January 1, 1975, and no commitments for new grants may be made following that date. However, activities which were eligible under the terminated program will continue to be eligible, at the discretion of the grant recipients, under the community development grant program authorized by title I.

The budget assumes that the balances remaining available under the water and sewer grant program will be transferred to the Revolving fund (liquidating programs) during 1975, pursuant to section 117(b) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

Title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1450 et seq.), authorized Federal assistance to local public agencies for rehabilitation and redevelopment of slums and blighted areas.

This program is being terminated pursuant to section 117(b) of title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-383). The 1974 act provides that no commitment for new grants may be entered into under the urban renewal program following January 1, 1975. However, the eligible activities under the terminated program may be funded, at the option of the grant recipient, under the community development grant program authorized by the 1974 act.

Any unused balance from the 1975 appropriation would be transferred to the community development grant program. No new budget authority is requested for 1976. However, a permanent indefinite appropriation to liquidate prior unfunded contracts is available.

Section 312 of the Housing Act of 1964, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1452b), authorizes the Secretary to make loans available for the rehabilitation of residential and business properties. The Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-383) provides for the continuation of this program until August 22, 1975.

The program level of $46,500 thousand in 1975 reflects the full use of carryover balances from 1974 as well as anticipated receipts in 1975. Any unutilized funds carried into 1976 as well as loan repayments received by August 22, 1975, will be available for use up to the date of program termination. The budget assumes that the assets and liabilities available to the Rehabilitation loan fund, as of August 22, 1975, will be transferred to the Revolving fund (liquidating programs) pursuant to section 117(b) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

NOTES

Excludes $3,056 thousand ($2,092 thousand definite, $964 thousand indefinite) of budget authority in 1976 for activities transferred to the Revolving fund (liquidating programs) pursuant to sec. 117(b) of Public Law 93-383. Comparable amounts for 1974 ($2,900 thousand) and 1975 ($3,358 thousand) are included above.

The Housing Amendments of 1955, as amended, authorized the Secretary to help finance public facilities construction with Federal long-term loans, when credit to support such projects was not otherwise available on reasonable terms. Loans were made to municipalities and other political subdivisions (including Indian tribes) having populations under 50,000.

Budget program.—This program is being terminated pursuant to title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The 1974 act provides that no commitments for new loans may be entered into under the public facility loans program following January 1, 1975. Many of the eligible activities under the terminated program may be funded, at the option of the grant recipients, under the community development grant program authorized by the 1974 act.

The budget assumes that the assets and liabilities available under this program will be transferred to the Revolving fund (liquidating programs) during 1975, pursuant to section 117(b) of the 1974 act.

Financing.—The public facility loans program has been funded by a Treasury borrowing authorization totaling $600,000 thousand. In the past, the Secretary has sold certificates of participation in pools of public facility loans, as authorized by Public Law 89-429. Funds are appropriated annually to cover the difference between interest due on the participation certificates and interest collections on the public facility loans underlying the certificates.

The budget authority required for insufficiencies for 1974 and 1975 is shown in the table below. The computation of the budget authority estimate for 1976 is shown in the program and financing schedule for the Revolving fund (liquidating programs).

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, as amended, and title VII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1970, as amended, authorized several programs offering assistance to private and public new community developers. The major area of Federal support is a program of Federal guarantees under which the Secretary is authorized to guarantee the bonds, debentures, notes, and other obligations issued by or on behalf of private and public new community developers to finance land assembly and development costs. Federal guarantees of obligations issued by developers may not exceed $50 million for each new community project.

No new guarantee commitments are anticipated in 1975 and 1976. Additional guarantee commitments for existing approved projects are projected for four in 1975 and three in 1976, for $32 million and $20 million, respectively.

Guarantee commitments of $45 million for two projects were made under title IV authority; all subsequent guarantee commitments are made under the original $500 million title VII authority and the additional $195.5 million provided in Public Law 93-117. The following table shows the use of available title VII guarantee authority (in thousands of dollars):

Budget program.—1. Administrative expenses.—This represents the administrative cost of carrying out this program. Prior to 1975, these administrative expenses were provided out of appropriated funds.

2. Appraisals and consultant fees.—These are costs incurred for analyses and technical services, including land appraisals, for both ongoing new community development projects and new applications.

The budget program assumes that no interest payments on defaulted obligations will be required in 1975 or 1976. Such payments will be made from the fund, should they be necessary.

Financing.—Developers receiving guarantees are charged fees, which are the primary source of income to the fund; they may be used for payments to cover default on guaranteed obligations. Treasury borrowings and appropriations for guarantee payments are authorized, if required.

Operating results.—A net operating loss is estimated at $463 thousand in 1975, while in 1976, a net income of $1,387 thousand is projected.

The National insurance development fund provides the funding source for two Government programs designed to increase availability of property insurance: (1) the FAIR (fair access to insurance requirements) plan/riot reinsurance program, designed to afford reasonable access to property insurance in urban areas and to provide a degree of protection to primary insurers against excess losses from riots or civil disorders; and (2) the Federal crime insurance program, which makes burglary and robbery insurance available at affordable premium rates where such coverage is not available in the private market. The programs are authorized by the Urban Property Protection and Reinsurance Act of 1968, as amended.

The FAIR plan/riot reinsurance program encompasses cooperative action by insurance companies, State governments, and the Federal Government. Private insurers, working together and with the State insurance authority, establish a plan to provide property owners in urban areas with access to property insurance. Each State must enact legislation providing for a sharing of the insured losses resulting from riots and civil disorders. The Federal Government provides an opportunity to spread the risk of riot and civil disorder loss on a nationwide basis through reinsurance of private carriers at premium charges deemed adequate to meet expected losses.

The Federal crime insurance program provides for issuance of direct policies of insurance, through local property insurance agents and brokers, covering losses from burglary, robbery, and similar occurrences. Insurance is written on properties that meet underwriting requirements at premium rates determined to be affordable.

Budget program.—1. Riot reinsurance claims.—The amount which the Federal Government pays under the riot and civil disorder reinsurance is expected to continue at the same level.

2. Crime insurance.—(a) Insurance claims.—Claims reflect the greater claim frequency experienced in the Federal crime insurance program.

(b) Operating expenses.—Expenses are incurred by fiscal agents in issuing policies, settling claims, and maintaining accounting and statistical records.

3. Studies and surveys.—This item includes expenses of continuing reviews of market availability of basic property insurance and of crime insurance, as required by law.

4. Administrative expenses.—This represents the administrative cost to the Government of operating the programs.

Financing.—The Secretary is authorized to borrow up to $250 million from the Treasury to carry out the reinsurance and direct insurance programs. It is estimated that claims and expenses can continue to be paid from premium income and income from holdings of Government securities. Thus no appropriations are recommended.

Operating results.—Premium and investment income are expected to exceed claims and expenses, permitting continued growth in reserves of the fund.

Net losses of the crime insurance program, estimated at $2,377 thousand in 1975 and $2,930 thousand in 1976, will be funded by the reserves of the riot reinsurance program.

The National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, as amended, authorizes a cooperative program by the Federal Government and the private insurance industry to provide flood insurance on a national basis. Coverage is available on residential, business, agricultural, private nonprofit, and local and State government property. Amounts of coverage available for individual properties range from $70 thousand for single-family residential structures to as much as $200 thousand for nonresidential structures. Available flood insurance must be purchased for projects with federally related financing in identified flood-prone areas.

Private insurance companies have formed a pool to sell and service the flood insurance policies written under this program. Companies participating as risk-bearers commit risk capital and share in the operating expenses and profits or losses of the program.

In order to provide insurance coverage at reasonable premium rates on existing property, the Federal Government makes premium equalization payments to the pool to cover a portion of total losses and operating costs. These subsidy payments are based upon the relationship between the estimated full-cost actuarial premium rate and the premium rate actually charged in the regular program, or upon a contractual formula in the emergency program.

As part of the flood insurance program the Government also provides reinsurance coverage to the industry pool.

Under the permanent flood insurance program, studies must be made of differential flood risks in flood-prone areas to establish appropriate premium rates on a sound actuarial basis, and these rates are charged for insurance on new construction. Limited amounts of coverage may be made available on a subsidized basis under an emergency program.

Flood insurance may be sold or continued in force only in communities which enact and enforce appropriate land-use and land-management measures designed to reduce future flood losses. After July 1, 1975, no federally related financing may be made available for acquisition or construction purposes in a flood-prone area unless the community is in the program. The act provides local consultation and appeal procedures.

Budget program.—1. Insurance underwriting expense.—The Government's share of the allowable costs of initiating and maintaining flood insurance policies is estimated at $14,400 thousand in 1976.

2. Loss and adjustment expense.—The Federal Government's share of insured flood losses and associated loss adjustment expenses is estimated at $81,684 thousand in 1976.

3. Interest expense.—Interest is incurred on borrowings from the Treasury needed to defray Federal underwriting and loss expense payments in excess of reinsurance premium income and amounts made available as trust and deposit liabilities.

4. Studies and surveys.—The task of delineating areas of special flood hazard in over 16,000 flood-prone communities will have been completed by the end of the current fiscal year. In 1976, about $70 million is proposed for detailed studies of elevation, used to determine actuarial premium rates. These studies are conducted by other Federal agencies or by private contractors.

5. Administration.—The administrative costs to the Federal Government, including field staff monitoring local flood-plain management activities, are estimated at $5,130 thousand in 1976.

Financing.—The Secretary is authorized to borrow up to $500 million to carry out the program. Borrowings are estimated to total $166,708 thousand by the end of 1976.

The program is also financed through reinsurance receipts and from excess operating surpluses in favorable years. Administrative expenses and costs of studies and surveys are paid from appropriated funds.

Operating results.—Cumulative expenses are expected to exceed revenue and receipts from non-Federal sources by approximately $330 million by the end of 1976. The cumulative deficit will have been financed by cumulative appropriations of $169 million and charges against borrowing authorization of approximately $161 million.

The Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act (15 U.S.C. 1701) provides greater protection to the public in connection with the purchase or lease of subdivision lots. Statements of record must be filed with the Secretary before subdivisions with 50 or more lots may be sold in interstate commerce.

The Secretary is authorized to charge a fee, not exceeding $1 thousand, to be paid by the developer when filing a statement of record. The fee varies based on the size of the development and the nature of the filing statement. During the past year, 5,153 registration statements, exemption advisory opinions and claims of exemption were processed and fees totaling $688 thousand were received. Filings are estimated at 7,300 and 7,500 in 1975 and 1976, producing about $925 thousand and $900 thousand in fees during each of these years. The filing actions, of which initial registrations are the major fee producers, are estimated as follows:

Registration statements filed.....	1,172	1,850	1,800
Amended statements filed.....	3,414	4,800	5,200
Exemption action requested.....	567	650	500
Total number of filings .....	5,153	7,300	7,500

Fees collected may be used by the Secretary to pay all or part of the costs of service under the act. Expenses through 1975 have been financed from fee income and balances in the special fund. However, estimates for 1976 indicate that expenses will exceed income. An appropriation of $2,726 thousand is therefore required to finance the staff and related administrative expenses of the program which are not covered by estimated fee income.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1970 directs the Secretary to undertake programs of research, studies, testing, and demonstrations related to the HUD mission. These functions may be carried out through grants to and contracts with industry, nonprofit research organizations, educational institutions, and through agreements with State and local governments and other Federal agencies.

1. Contracts and grants.—The direct cash assistance program is a priority experiment continuing in 1976 to test the feasibility of providing direct assistance to needy families for making rental or homeownership payments, as opposed to less direct subsidy mechanisms. The program tests how families use their assistance, how the housing market responds, and how a cash assistance program can most effectively be administered.

The overall 1976 program also provides for continuation of: The application and dissemination of techniques to lower or stabilize the cost of housing; a program to analyze the problems of neighborhood decline and evaluate and demonstrate promising approaches toward neighborhood preservation; programs to increase housing safety and security, including lead-based paint hazard elimination; programs for supporting development of activities which will strengthen State and local governments; and, programs for improving the community environment and conserving natural resources, including demonstration of an integrated utility system of greater energy efficiency and less negative environmental impact than conventional systems.

In 1976, ongoing evaluation of HUD programs will continue to support the coordinated development of HUD policy. Continued collection and analysis of economic and financial data essential to HUD policy and program development and evaluation is also planned. The largest single project in this area is the annual housing survey, undertaken to measure changes in housing inventory and to compile data on the physical condition of housing units and the characteristics of the occupants in both urban and rural areas.

Estimates for the July 1 to September 30, 1976, period assume continuation of the program at the same rate as proposed for 1976.

2. Administrative expenses.—Beginning in 1975, administrative expenses for the cost of general planning, supervision, and direction of the research program was established in a separate appropriation for "Salaries and expenses, policy development and research programs," described elsewhere in this section.

The Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended (49 U.S.C. 1601), authorizes grants in support of research, development, and demonstration projects focusing on the relationship of urban transportation systems to the comprehensively planned development of urban areas. Reorganization Plan No. 2 of 1968 transferred all but sections 6, 9, and 11 of the 1964 act from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to the Department of Transportation (DOT). Subsequent to this, both agencies agreed that DOT shall have the responsibility for administering sections 6, 9, and 11 as well. Pursuant to this agreement, the unobligated balances of the 1969 appropriation have been allocated to DOT. 1975 obligations are for a program jointly developed by DOT and HUD.

The Housing Act of 1961, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1436), authorized $15 million in contract authority for grants to develop and demonstrate new or improved means of providing homes for low-income persons and families, including handicapped families. The unobligated contract authority was rescinded by the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1970 (12 U.S.C. 1701z-1 et seq.).

The Working capital fund finances, on a reimbursable basis, administrative services which can be performed more advantageously on a centralized basis. It was authorized by section 7(f) of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 (79 Stat. 670) and was established in June 1968.

Budget program.—The main activities are printing and reproduction, visual arts, central supply, communications, and data processing. The printing and reproduction activity provides centralized services for all departmental printing, reproduction and distribution. The visual arts activity provides Washington controlled photographic and design services along with preparation of visual presentations, displays, exhibits, illustrated visual aids and administrative graphics (charts, maps, diagrams, etc.).

The central supply activity handles all procurement, develops programs for storage of supplies and equipment, maintains teleticketing travel services for all Washington personnel and maintains in-house capability for limited office machine servicing and furniture and equipment repair. The communications activity includes costs of the Federal Telecommunications System, penalty mail and the Washington correspondence, mail and messenger functions. The data processing activity includes complete ADP service to program operations and to such administrative functions as Departmental payroll, personnel, finance and accounting, budgeting, nonexpendable property inventories, and related common services. The increased obligations in the Working capital fund reflect primarily (a) increased penalty mail costs and costs of the Federal Telecommunications System, and (b) increased data processing services. Some field operations are in the process of being automated, resulting in increased obligations for communications and processing facilities.

Financing.—As authorized in the Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1968 (Public Law 90-121), $1,500 thousand was transferred in 1968 from the unobligated balance of the Revolving fund (liquidating programs) to provide capital for the Working capital fund. An appropriation of $4,338 thousand was received in 1970 for replacement of the main large-scale computer then in use, and for related data processing equipment. No appropriations were requested for 1971 through 1975, and none is requested for 1976.

Operating results.—The Working capital fund is operated on a nonprofit basis, with charges for services calculated to return approximately the costs of operation.

The Consolidated working fund has been used for the administration of Integrated grant administration pilot projects for which HUD has been the lead agency. Obligations are based on project approval by Federal Regional Councils and fund commitments by participating agencies. As projects proceed, drawdowns against letters of credit issued from the Consolidated working fund are charged against participating agency funds.

TITLE IV—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 401. Where appropriations in titles I and II of this Act [as] are expendable for travel expenses of employees and no specific limitation has been placed thereon, the expenditures for such travel expenses may not exceed the amounts set forth therefor in the budget estimates submitted for the appropriations: Provided, That this section shall not apply to travel performed by uncompensated officials of local boards and appeal boards of the Selective Service System; to travel performed directly in connection with care and treatment of medical beneficiaries of the Veterans Administration; or to payments to interagency motor pools where separately set forth in the budget schedules.

SEC. 402. Appropriations and funds available for the administrative expenses of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Selective Service System shall be available in the current fiscal year for purchase of uniforms, or allowances [thereof] therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902); hire of passenger motor vehicles; and services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109.

SEC. 403. Funds made available for the Department of Housing and Urban Development under title III of this Act shall be available, without regard to the limitations on administrative expenses, for legal services on a contract or fee basis, and for utilizing and making payment for services and facilities of Federal National Mortgage [Association or] Association, Government National Mortgage Association, Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, Federal Financing Bank, Federal Reserve banks or any member thereof, Federal home loan banks, and any insured bank within the meaning of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Act, as amended (12 U.S.C. 1811-1831).

SEC. 404. None of the funds provided in this Act may be used for payment, through grants or contracts, to recipients that do not share in the cost of conducting research resulting from proposals for projects not specifically solicited by the Government: Provided, That the extent of cost sharing by the recipient shall reflect the mutuality of interest of the grantee or contractor and the Government in the research.

[SEC. 405. No part of any appropriation, funds, or other authority contained in this Act shall be available for paying to the Administrator of the General Services Administration in excess of 90 per centum of the standard level user charge established pursuant to section 210(j) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended, for space and services.]

[SEC. 406. No part of any appropriations contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.] (Department of Housing and Urban Development; Space, Science, Veterans, and Certain Other Independent Agencies Appropriation Act, 1975.)

<sup>3</sup> Transferred from "Salaries and expenses" Office of Coal Research for expansion of Outer Continental Shelf oil and gas leasing program.

1. Resource management, conservation, and protection.—Includes such activities as land and mineral management, range management, forestry, soil and watershed conservation, protection, and recreation and wildlife. These activities provide realty, leasing, and records services as well as related land classification and mineral examination work; utilization of rangelands by livestock to help meet local and regional demands for livestock forage, as well as protection and perpetuation of wild horses and burros; a sustained yield of timber to help meet demands for wood products; management and treatment practices needed to maintain and improve water quality, reduce flood damage, and prevent and control erosion from BLM lands; contract and force account wildfire protection for public land resources; fish and wildlife habitat management and improvement; and recreation management, planning and site investigation on Bureau administered lands.

Proposed increased funding is required to facilitate development of public land energy resources; to provide for OCS baseline studies; to process priority nonenergy minerals cases and applications; to reduce lands casework backlog and respond to energy related applications; to analyze the costs of eliminating or neutralizing sources of Colorado River pollutants, and to provide for the increased costs of employees' compensation.

2. Cadastral survey.—In Alaska, surveys are performed on lands selected by the State for transfer under the Alaska Statehood Act, for Native townsites, for Native allotments, for additional claims resulting from the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act, and for other special purposes. Increases are proposed to facilitate transfer of lands to Alaska and its Native peoples under existing legislation.

MANAGEMENT OF LANDS AND RESOURCES—continued

In other States surveys are performed to obtain positive land identification as a prerequisite to resource management and improvement. Resurveys are often required to reestablish lost corners. Increases will be used to expand cadastral survey capabilities in support of energy programs.

3. Firefighting and rehabilitation.—Provides for the suppression of fires burning on or near the public lands under Bureau protection. Rehabilitation of burned-over areas is accomplished to restore land productivity and preserve watersheds. A supplemental appropriation for 1975 is anticipated for separate transmittal.

4. General administration.—Provides executive direction and general administrative services, such as financial management, personnel management, management analysis, procurement, and property management to support Bureau activities.

The transition period estimate provides for continuing activities at the seasonally adjusted rate equivalent to the fiscal year 1976 program level.

1. Construction.—(a) Buildings.—The necessary buildings and appurtenant facilities, such as office buildings, warehouses, equipment storage buildings, fire stations and lookouts, district yards, parking areas, and housing in isolated areas, are constructed to carry out Bureau programs. The 1976 program provides for: Installing utilities for existing office space in Alaska; office and warehouse improvements and construction in Colorado, Idaho, Montana, and Oregon, construction of radio buildings in Montana and Utah, and Bureau sign shop improvements in Wyoming and Arizona.

(b) Recreation facilities.—Recreation facilities for family camping, picnicking, and other outdoor recreational activities are constructed on public land sites receiving heavy public recreation use. These facilities provide safe camping and picnicking units, potable water, sanitary facilities, and other improvements to assure public health and safety as well as to prevent stream pollution and fire damage to resources. The 1976 program will provide an additional 170 family units and basic sanitary facilities which will accommodate an additional 820 one-time use (OTU) visitations.

2. Maintenance.—(a) Buildings.—Provides for maintenance of physical facilities such as buildings, warehouses, equipment shelters, fire stations, and lookouts. The 1976 program will help the Bureau meet acceptable building maintenance standards by accelerating a corrective maintenance program to repair, replace and/or enlarge inadequate and unsafe electrical and heating systems, and repair and replace leaking roofs, worn or warped floors, and inadequate plumbing. The program also includes funds and manpower for preventive maintenance operations and maintaining facilities to be constructed in 1975.

(b) Recreation facility operation and maintenance.—Provides for the operation and maintenance of developed recreation facilities and the cleanup of litter and trash from undeveloped recreation sites. Increases will provide adequate maintenance schedules on the 201 existing developed sites, excluding western Oregon, receiving increased recreational use, and provide maintenance for 6 sites (105 overnight units) to be constructed under the 1975 program.

(c) Road maintenance.—Provides for preventive and corrective maintenance on the public lands access roads under Bureau jurisdiction. Increases will provide maintenance for newly constructed roads and trails.

The transition period estimate provides for seasonal maintenance requirements, survey and design, and construction supervision at the 1976 program level. No new construction starts are proposed in the transition period.

Twenty-five percent of the revenue from the revested Oregon and California grant lands is made available for three principle activities on the revested lands, and on other Federal lands in the Oregon and California land-grant counties of western Oregon. The budget authority estimate for 1976 is $38,200 thousand. The obligation program for 1976 level is $34,636 thousand. The funds will finance the following activities in western Oregon:

1. Construction and acquisition.—Provides for grading and surfacing of access roads, acquisition of existing connecting roads, easements, and rights-of-way for roads in commercial timber areas for timber production and resource management, and for the development of recreation facilities in western Oregon.

2. Forest development and protection and management.—Provides for the reforestation, stand improvement, mortality salvage, commercial thinnings, forest genetics, timber management, and protection on the forest lands in western Oregon.

3. Operation and maintenance.—Provides for the maintenance of access roads and for the operation and maintenance of recreation facilities in western Oregon.

The Oregon and California act provide that the Oregon and California counties shall receive 75% of the gross revenue from these lands. The appropriation act provides that one-third of the amount which would have been due them from receipts (which is 25% of the gross receipts) should be deposited to the general fund of the Treasury as reimbursement of the amount appropriated under this title.

The transition period program provides for the seasonal requirements of all activities at the 1976 program level. The obligation program level for the transition period is $9.7 million.

This appropriation is derived from receipts from grazing of livestock on public lands and on Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act lands transferred from the Department of Agriculture by various Executive orders. On public lands, the fee from grazing includes a range improvement fee, which is available for range improvements when appropriated (43 U.S.C. 315i). On Bankhead-Jones lands, 25% of the fees from grazing are designated as available for range improvements.

The obligation level in the transition period is $2.2 million.

1. Leasing of grazing lands.—State, county, and privately owned grazing lands that are intermingled with public grazing lands are managed on a leased basis within the limits of receipts from such arrangements (43 U.S.C. 315m).

2. Payments to Coos and Douglas Counties, Oreg., from receipts, Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands.—Out of receipts from the Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands in Oregon, payments in lieu of taxes are made to Coos and Douglas Counties for schools, roads, highways, bridges, and port districts (53 Stat. 753-754).

3. Payments to counties, Oregon and California grant lands.—Fifty percent of the receipts of Oregon and California land-grant funds are paid the counties in which the lands are situated, to be used as other county funds (39 Stat. 218; 50 Stat. 876).

4. Payments to States (proceeds of sales).—The States are paid 5% of the net proceeds from sale of public land and public land products (31 U.S.C. 711; 31 U.S.C. sec. 725c; 48 Stat. 1227).

5. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands outside grazing districts.—The States are paid 50% of the grazing fee receipts from public domain lands outside grazing districts (43 U.S.C. 315i, 315m).

6. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands within grazing districts.—The States are paid 6¼% of grazing fee receipts from grazing district lands within their boundaries (43 U.S.C. 315b, 315i).

7. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands within grazing districts, miscellaneous.—The States are paid specifically determined amounts from grazing fee receipts from miscellaneous lands within grazing districts when payment is not feasible on a percentage basis (43 U.S.C. 315).

8. Payments to States from receipts under Mineral Leasing Act.—Alaska is paid 90% and other States 37½% of the receipts from bonuses, royalties, and rentals resulting from development of mineral resources under the Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 191), and from leases of potash deposits (30 U.S.C. 285), on public lands.

9. Payments to counties, national grasslands.—Of the revenues received from the use of submarginal lands, 25% is paid to the counties in which such land is situated, for school and road purposes (7 U.S.C. 1012).

10. Expenses, Public Land Administration Act.—Public Law 86-649 approved July 14, 1960, permanently appropriated certain moneys to the Secretary of the Interior. Timber purchases or permittees provide bond or deposit to assure fulfillment of contracts. Users of roads under jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management may make deposits for maintenance purposes. Moneys received in forfeiture of such bonds or for road maintenance are available for necessary forest improvement, protection, and rehabilitation and for road maintenance. Moneys collected on Oregon and California grant lands are available for those lands only and amounts in excess of the cost of doing the work are transferred to miscellaneous receipts (74 Stat. 507-508).

The budget authority during the transition period is estimated to be $151.6 million.

1. Contributed funds.—Users of the Federal range contribute funds toward administration and protection of grazing lands. Contributions are also received for making surveys, for maintenance of access roads, for protection of public lands and other activities of the Bureau (43 U.S.C. 315h, 315i, 775; 74 Stat. 506).

2. Expenses, public survey work.—Advances are made by individuals to pay the cost incident to surveys of lands requested by them (31 U.S.C. 711; 43 U.S.C. 759, 761 and 887; 48 Stat. 1224-1236).

3. Trustee funds, Alaska townsites.—Amounts received from sale of Alaska town lots are available for expenses incident to the maintenance and sale of townsites (31 U.S.C. 725s; Comp. Gen. Dec. of Nov. 18, 1935).

BUREAU OF RECLAMATION

The Bureau plans, constructs, and operates facilities to irrigate lands, furnish municipal and industrial or other water supplies, and develop related hydroelectric power and flood control in the 17 Western States and Hawaii.

Appropriations to the Bureau are made from the general fund and special funds. The special funds are (a) the Reclamation fund, largely derived from certain irrigation and power revenue; receipts from the sale, lease, and rental of public lands; and certain oil and mineral revenue; and (b) the Colorado River Dam fund, derived from the revenue of the Boulder Canyon project. The 1976 estimates are summarized by source, as follows (in thousands of dollars):

<sup>1</sup> Includes $17,440 for liquidation of contract authority. The total appropriation request of $598.4 million represents an increase of $81.3 million compared with the current year appropriation which includes proposed supplementals for purchase power and wheeling, civilian pay increases and the Newlands Reclamation project and an increase of $167.2 million compared with the preceding year.

Federal Funds

General and special funds:

For carrying out the functions of the Bureau of Reclamation as provided in the Federal reclamation laws (Act of June 17, 1902, 32 Stat. 388, and Acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto) and other Acts applicable to that Bureau, as follows:

GENERAL INVESTIGATIONS

For engineering and economic investigations of proposed Federal reclamation projects and studies of water conservation and development plans and activities preliminary to the reconstruction, rehabilitation and betterment, financial adjustment, or extension of existing projects, to remain available until expended, [$19,427,000] $20,485,000: Provided, That none of this appropriation shall be used for more than one-half of the cost of an investigation requested by a State, municipality, or other interest: Provided further, That [$400,000] $530,000 of this appropriation shall be transferred to the United States Fish and Wildlife Service for studies, investigations, and reports thereon as required by the Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 563-565) to provide that wildlife conservation shall receive equal consideration and be coordinated with other features of water-resource development programs of the Bureau of Reclamation.

For "General investigations" for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, to remain available until expended, $6,660,000: Provided that $133,000 of this appropriation shall be transferred to the United States Fish and Wildlife Service for studies, investigations and reports thereon as required by the Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 563-565). (Public Works for Water and Power Development and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1975.)

This appropriation provides for the planning of potential developments for the conservation and utilization of water and related land resources and includes plan formulation investigations, geothermal investigations, and general engineering and research activities.

Investigations and surveys are made to determine the feasibility of potential reclamation projects and the need for rehabilitation of existing Federal reclamation projects.

1. Plan formulation investigations.—These include appraisal investigations, feasibility investigations, and special investigations throughout the 17 Western States to formulate resource development plans for basins and specific projects leading to authorization, including studies relating to the rehabilitation, financial adjustment, or water conservation on existing Federal reclamation projects.

2. Geothermal investigation.—The studies are directed toward determination of the feasibility of developing geothermal resources as a usable water source. Initial efforts have been centered in the Imperial Valley of California.

3. General engineering and research.—Studies directed toward improvements in procedures and in engineering methods and materials. Included are studies of atmospheric water resources; of alternative uses and reuse of water and continuing activities in waste water reclamation opportunities in the Western States and electrical energy research and development.

4. Fish and wildlife studies.—These funds are allocated to the Fish and Wildlife Service for studies of the fish and wildlife aspects of reclamation projects in the planning stage.

This appropriation provides for the construction, operation, and maintenance of certain works directed toward the enhancement and protection of the quality of water in the Colorado River for use in the United States and Mexico.

The 1976 appropriation provides for design and construction of features downstream from Imperial Dam consisting of the desalting plant and appurtenant works including the main outlet drain extension and construction of linings on the Coachella Canal. The 1976 appropriation also provides for continued preconstruction activity on four salinity control units of the initial stage of the Colorado River Basin salinity control program under title II of the authorizing legislation.

Construction will be underway in 1976 on 27 projects and 13 units and divisions of the Pick-Sloan Missouri Basin program. The program also includes continuation of rehabilitation and betterment work on 10 projects. The construction completed through 1975 will provide full irrigation service to 4,871,300 acres, a supplemental water supply to 5,293,600 acres, annually provide 3,159,700 acre-feet of municipal and industrial water, and 6,358,000 kilowatts of hydro-electric power. During the year, facilities will be completed to furnish a full water supply to 6,700 acres of land and a supplemental water supply to 97,200 acres of land.

Advance planning work will be underway on 7 projects.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE

For operation and maintenance of reclamation projects or parts thereof and other facilities, as authorized by law; and for a soil and moisture conservation program on lands under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Reclamation, pursuant to law, ~~[$97,000,000]~~ $131,810,000, of which ~~[$80,730,000]~~ $110,110,000 shall be derived from the reclamation fund and ~~[$3,218,000]~~ $3,989,000 shall be derived from the Colorado River Dam fund: Provided, That funds advanced by water users for operation and maintenance of reclamation projects or parts thereof shall be deposited to the credit of this appropriation and may be expended for the same objects and in the same manner as sums appropriated herein may be expended, and ~~the unexpended balances of such advances shall be credited to the appropriation for the next succeeding fiscal year: Provided further~~, That no part of the funds appropriated herein shall be used directly or indirectly for the operation of the Newlands Reclamation project in the State of Nevada such advances shall remain available until expended.

Notwithstanding the last proviso under this head in the Public Works for Water and Power Development and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1975 (Public Law 93-393), the Secretary of the Interior, following the entry of a final order by the United States District Court for the District of Nevada in the case designated as "Truckee-Carson Irrigation District v. Secretary of the Interior", Civil Action No. R-74-34, BRT, filed March 18, 1974, now pending in said court, determining that the Secretary may assume control of the Newlands Reclamation Project, Nevada, may utilize not to exceed $1,000,000 of the funds appropriated under such head for the operation of the Newlands Reclamation Project, Nevada.

For "Operation and maintenance" for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, $33,665,000, of which $27,950,000 shall be derived from the reclamation fund and $978,000 shall be derived from the Colorado River Dam fund. (Public Works for Water and Power Development and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1975; Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1975.)

The Bureau operates and maintains the power-generation and transmission facilities, and generally the storage dams and reservoirs, of completed projects. Where necessary, irrigation works are operated and maintained until the water users are able to undertake the responsibilities. In 1976, a total of 30 projects, project areas or divisions of projects will be operated and maintained for power, municipal and industrial water supplies, irrigation, and other benefits with funds made available under this appropriation. The Fort Peck project revolving fund finances the operation and maintenance of project power facilities physically integrated with the Pick-Sloan Missouri Basin program.

Provision is also made for flood control operations on certain projects, soil and moisture conservation operations on public lands under jurisdiction of the Bureau, the Colorado River front work and levee system program, negotiation and administration of water marketing contracts on Corps of Engineers' projects in California, marketing of power from the Corps of Engineers' powerplants on the Pick-Sloan Missouri Basin program and from the International Boundary and Water Commission's powerplant in Texas, examination of existing structures, and for purchase power and wheeling.

Energy sales resulting from Bureau of Reclamation power operations excluding the Colorado River Storage project and the Colorado River Basin project are as follows:

Year:	[Dollars in thousands]
	Energy sales (millions of kilowatt- hours)	Income from energy sales
1974 (actual).....	43,002	$137,179
1975 (estimate).....	43,992	$128,843
1976 (estimate).....	46,451	$125,510

The above sales data for 1974 includes $6.2 million in revenues associated with 14.8 billion kilowatt-hours of energy from nine reclamation powerplants for which Bonneville Power Administration was the marketing agent. Sales data for the Upper Colorado River storage project and the Colorado River Basin project are provided in the program and performance statements for the two projects.

Commercial power is sold to wholesale customers such as municipalities, Rural Electrification Administration cooperatives, irrigation districts, public utility districts, State and Federal Government agencies, and private utilities. These revenues are deposited in the reclamation fund, the Colorado River Dam fund, the general fund, and the Fort Peck revolving fund.

The program includes $47,732 thousand in 1976 for the purchase of power and wheeling excluding credits for net billing. The establishment in 1961 of a net billing procedure for certain of these power transactions between the Federal Government and non-Federal utilities precludes the need for $7,444 thousand of this amount in 1976.

This fund is derived from revenue of the Boulder Canyon project, and is available for reimbursement to the Upper Colorado River Basin fund for Hoover Dam deficiencies (82 Stat. 899).

SPECIAL FUNDS

Sums herein referred to as being derived from the Reclamation fund, the Colorado River Dam Fund, or the Colorado River development fund, are appropriated from the special funds in the Treasury created by the Act of June 17, 1902 (43 U.S.C. 391), the Act of December 21, 1928 (43 U.S.C. 617a), and the Act of July 19, 1940 (43 U.S.C. 618a) respectively. Such sums shall be transferred, upon request of the Secretary, to be merged with and expended under the heads herein specified; and the unexpended balances of sums transferred for expenditure under the heads "Operation and Maintenance" and "General Administrative Expenses" shall revert and be credited to the special fund from which derived. (Public Works for Water and Power Development and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1975.)

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Appropriations for the Bureau of Reclamation shall be available for purchase of not to exceed [thirty-four] twenty-nine passenger motor vehicles for replacement only; purchase of [one] two aircraft for replacement only; payment of claims for damages to or loss of property, personal injury, or death arising out of activities of the Bureau of Reclamation; payment, except as otherwise provided for, of compensation and expenses of persons on the rolls of the Bureau of Reclamation appointed as authorized by law to represent the United States in the negotiations and administration of interstate compacts without reimbursement or return under the reclamation laws; rewards for information or evidence concerning violations of law involving property under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Reclamation; performance of the functions specified under the head "Operation and Maintenance Administration", Bureau of Reclamation, in the Interior Department Appropriation Act, 1945; preparation and dissemination of useful information including recordings, photographs, and photographic prints; and studies of recreational uses of reservoir areas, and investigation and recovery of archeological and paleontological remains in such areas in the same manner as provided for in the Act of August 21, 1935 (16 U.S.C. 461-467): Provided, That no part of any appropriation made herein shall be available pursuant to the Act of April 19, 1945 (43 U.S.C. 377), for expenses other than those incurred on behalf of specific reclamation projects except "General Administrative Expenses" and amounts provided for reconnaissance, basin surveys, and general engineering and research under the head "General Investigations".

Sums appropriated herein which are expended in the performance of reimbursable functions of the Bureau of Reclamation shall be returnable to the extent and in the manner provided by law.

No part of any appropriation for the Bureau of Reclamation, contained in this Act or in any prior Act, which represents amounts earned under the terms of a contract but remaining unpaid, shall be obligated for any other purpose, regardless of when such amounts are to be paid: Provided, That the incurring of any obligation prohibited by this paragraph shall be deemed a violation of section 3679 of the Revised Statutes, as amended (31 U.S.C. 665).

No funds appropriated to the Bureau of Reclamation for operation and maintenance, except those derived from advances by water users, shall be used for the particular benefits of lands (a) within the boundaries of an irrigation district, (b) of any member of a water users' organization, or (c) of any individual when such district, organization, or individual is in arrears for more than twelve months in the payment of charges due under a contract entered into with the United States pursuant to laws administered by the Bureau of Reclamation.

Not to exceed $225,000 may be expended from the appropriation "Construction and Rehabilitation" for work by force account on any one project or Pick-Sloan Missouri Basin Program unit and then only when such work is unsuitable for contract or no acceptable bid has been received and, other than otherwise provided in this paragraph or as may be necessary to meet local emergencies, not to exceed 12 per centum of the construction allotment for any project from the appropriation "Construction and Rehabilitation" contained in this Act, shall be available for construction work by force account: Provided, That this paragraph shall not apply to work performed under the Rehabilitation and Betterment Act of 1949 (63 Stat. 724). (Public Works for Water and Power Development and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1975.)

ALLOCATIONS RECEIVED FROM OTHER ACCOUNTS

Note.—Obligations incurred under allocations from other accounts are included in the schedules of the parent appropriations, as follows:

Construction costs of the Central Arizona project including the Navajo project participation agreement are financed through appropriations to the Lower Colorado River Basin Development fund. Project revenue and certain other revenues as provided by the act will be credited to the fund and be available without further appropriation for defraying the costs of operation, maintenance, replacements, and emergency expenditures for all facilities of the projects, within such separate limitations as may be included in annual appropriation acts. Revenue in excess of these costs will be utilized to make annual payments to the general fund to return project costs allocated to irrigation, power, and municipal and industrial water.

1. Construction.—The 1976 program provides for continuing construction on the Central Arizona project.

2. Navajo project participation agreement.—The 1976 program provides for the requirements to liquidate contract authority for the prepayment of power generation and power facilities.

3. Operation and maintenance.—The 1976 program provides for Reclamation's share of operation and maintenance costs of the Navajo project participation agreement. Financing will be from project revenue. Energy sales and revenues resulting from the Bureau's portion of power generated at the Navajo Generating station are as follows:

UPPER COLORADO RIVER STORAGE PROJECT—continued

Upper Colorado River Basin fund.—Construction will be underway on 2 units of the Colorado River Storage project and on 7 participating projects. The construction completed through 1975 will provide full irrigation service to 17,400 acres, a supplemental water supply to 215,000 acres, annually provide 360,800 acre-feet of municipal and industrial water, and 1,248,000 kilowatts of hydroelectric power. The impact of the 1976 construction upon Reclamation goals will be felt in subsequent years as facilities are completed and irrigation service provided, municipal and industrial water furnished, and hydroelectric power is generated.

Operation and maintenance program.—In 1976, the Bureau of Reclamation will operate and maintain four units of the Colorado River Storage project with 34,301,000 acre-feet of storage space, 1,248,000 kilowatts of power generation capacity, and 1,883 circuit miles of transmission facilities, including the San Juan Chama and the Seedskaadee participating project power facilities. Financing will be from project revenue. Quality of water and consumptive use studies and flood control studies of the Florida and Paonia participating projects and non-reimbursable operation and maintenance will be financed from operating revenues and repayable debt of the storage project and participating projects will be reduced by this amount.

This fund defrays the expense of operating the power-generation and transmission facilities of the Fort Peck project, Corps of Engineers—Civil, and emergency expenses to insure continuous operation (16 U.S.C. 833).

Budget program.—Funded program costs in 1976 are level with 1975 as a result of continued modernization of the Fort Peck powerplant by the Corps of Engineers.

Operating results.—Net loss of $413 thousand is estimated for 1976, an increased loss of $355 thousand from the current year anticipating continued powerplant modernization. Earnings in excess of current operating needs are retained so as to maintain a continuing emergency fund of $500 thousand. The balance is paid into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts toward amortizing with interest that part of the Government investment allocated to power generation and transmission. Such payments totaled $0.9 million in 1974 and are estimated at $0.4 million in 1975 and $0 in 1976 as a result of the continued extraordinary maintenance repairs.

1. Assistance to States for institutes.—This activity provides annual grants for each of the 50 States and for Puerto Rico, the District of Columbia, the Virgin Islands, and Guam, to assist them in carrying on the work of a competent and qualified water resources research institute at one college or university.

2. Matching grants to institutes.—This activity provides for grants to match, on a dollar-for-dollar basis, funds made available to the State water research institutes by States or other non-Federal sources to meet the necessary expenses of specific water resources research projects which could not otherwise be undertaken.

3. Additional water resources research.—This activity provides for grants to and contracts and matching or other arrangements with educational institutions, private foundations or other institutions, private firms and individuals, and with local, State, and Federal Government agencies, to undertake research directed toward finding solutions to, and mitigating, the most urgent water-related problems of concern to the Department of the Interior and the Nation.

4. Technology development.—This activity provides for grants and contracts to undertake technology development actions directed toward assuring that the findings of original and innovative research are interpreted and developed to the stage where they can be used for practical application in resolving the most urgent and highest priority water and water-related problems.

5. Scientific information center.—This activity provides for the operation of a national water resources scientific information center.

6. Administration.—This activity provides for the administration and management of the water resources research, technology development, and related activities described above.

1. Planning and research.—Funds are provided for: (a) Nationwide outdoor recreation planning to assess the current supply of outdoor recreation resources and to assess relative priorities for allocating available public resources; (b) evaluation of the estimated recreation benefits of proposed Federal water development projects, participation in comprehensive river basin planning studies, and studies of potential wild and scenic rivers, national trails, and wilderness; and (c) review and dissemination of research on factors which influence outdoor recreation demands.

2. Federal coordination.—Effort is made to promote coordination of diverse Federal outdoor recreation and related programs. Reviews are made of transportation and environmental impact statements for projects which affect significant public park and recreation resources.

3. Technical assistance.—Assistance is provided to Federal agencies, States, local governments, and the private sector on a wide variety of outdoor recreation proposals, problems and studies. Surplus Federal lands which are suitable for park and recreation purposes are identified and assistance provided for transfer of such lands for public use.

1. Habitat preservation.—Habitat change and pollution adversely affect the biological resources of fish and wildlife. Biological monitoring of fish, wildlife, and their ecosystems helps to determine the location, nature, and rate of environmental pollution and degradation. Through research, the impact of pesticides, chemicals, heavy metals, oil, and other pollutants is determined. Assessments of natural resource development and other construction projects help planners determine their impact on fish, wildlife, and their habitat. Recommendations are formulated to minimize or prevent losses and enhance resources when feasible. Environmental impact statements are also reviewed. It is estimated that $4,940 thousand will be required in the transition period to carry out these activities.

Wilderness areas, wild or scenic rivers, and unique areas	42	20	10

2. Wildlife resources.—Principal responsibility for management of migratory birds in the United States is prescribed by international treaties. To carry out these and other responsibilities, the Service maintains a refuge system for migratory birds and other forms of wildlife; coordinates national migratory bird programs; enforces Federal game laws; conducts research to improve wildlife management capabilities; provides technical assistance to Federal, State, Indian, and other public or private entities for the control of forms of wildlife which cause damage to human enterprise, and for the enhancement of game species; and supports wildlife research at 20 universities. It is estimated that $11,430 thousand will be required in the transition period to carry out these activities.

3. Fishery resources.—The Service develops, manages, and protects interstate and international fisheries, such as anadromous species, fisheries of the Great Lakes, and fisheries on Federal lands. Fish are produced at 89 hatcheries; development centers and training schools are operated to improve fish cultural technology, to improve natural sport fish productivity, increase hatchery production, determine the effect of pollutants, and develop methods of controlling undesirable fishes; technical assistance is provided at 33 field stations to Indian tribes, and to Federal, State, and other landowners in the management of sport fisheries; and fisheries research is conducted cooperatively at 25 universities. It is estimated that $6,070 thousand will be required in the transition period to carry out these activities.

4. Endangered species.—The goal of this program is to restore species of endangered or threatened animals to the point at which they once again become viable components of their ecosystems. This involves the continual review and updating of the official lists of such species; design and implementation of species recovery plans; coordination of national and international efforts in this field; and monitoring imports and exports of fish and wildlife. It is estimated that $1,781 thousand will be required in the transition period to carry out these activities.

5. Interpretation and recreation.—This activity is to expand understanding of the fish and wildlife resources and their relation to man in the environment. This is accomplished by providing a wide range of educational programs, including: interpretation of the significance of wildlife resources, environmental studies, environmental education, and wildlife-oriented recreation such as bird watching, hunting, and fishing. It is estimated that $1,574 thousand will be required in the transition period to carry out these activities.

1. Construction.—This activity consists of construction of hatchery, refuge, and fish and wildlife research facilities (including pollution abatement systems), which cost more than $60 thousand. Projects proposed for 1976 include construction of new facilities at the Green Lake (Maine) National Fish Hatchery, and at the National Fish and Wildlife Health Laboratory (West Virginia). Storm damage rehabilitation of existing facilities at the Swan Lake (Missouri), and Squaw Creek (Missouri) National Wildlife Refuges will be undertaken and one Great Lakes fishery research vessel will be purchased.

2. Anadromous fish.—State and other non-Federal cooperators are reimbursed up to 66% of the costs of projects to conserve, develop, and enhance the anadromous fishery resources of the Nation. Seventy-six projects in 27 States are proposed for 1976.

It is estimated that $1,060 thousand will be required in the transition period to carry out these programs.

Receipts from the sale of Federal hunting ("Duck") stamps are set aside in the Migratory bird conservation account.

1. Printing and sale of hunting stamps.—The Postal Service is paid the cost of printing, sale, and accounting for the migratory bird hunting stamps.

2. Acquisition of refuges and other areas.—Receipts in excess of Postal Service expenses are available for acquisition of migratory bird refuges and waterfowl production areas (WPA).

It is estimated that $800,000 in Federal hunting stamp receipts will be deposited in the transition period.

1. Federal aid in fish restoration and management.—Assistance is given to States, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands by the appropriation of funds equal to the revenue of the 10% excise tax on sport fishing tackle. States are reimbursed up to 75% of the cost of approved fish restoration and management projects. It is estimated that $4,800 thousand will be made available to finance transition period activities.

2. Federal aid in wildlife restoration.—Assistance is given to States, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands by the appropriation of funds equal to the 11% excise tax on the manufacture of firearms and ammunition. States are reimbursed up to 75% of the cost of approved wildlife restoration projects, and approved hunter safety programs. It is estimated that $13,900 thousand will be made available to finance transition period activities.

3. National wildlife refuge fund.—The Refuge Revenue Sharing Act, as amended, authorized the expenditures of revenues derived from the sale of products from the National Wildlife Refuge System. Part of the net proceeds is paid to counties in which refuges are located for the benefit of public schools and roads. Payment is based on 25% of the proceeds or 0.75% of the value of lands acquired in fee, whichever is larger. The balance of the proceeds is transferred to the Migratory bird conservation fund for land acquisition. It is estimated that $1,380 thousand will be made available to finance transition period activities.

4. Proceeds from sales, water resources development projects.—Receipts collected from the sale of products from refuges on which other agencies have primary jurisdiction are used to cover expenses of producing these products, and for managing wildlife habitat.

1. Park management.—The Service administers 302 park areas comprising about 29.3 million acres of federally owned land located in 47 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. The program of work includes (1) overall management of park areas to accommodate an estimated 226,800,000 visitors in 1976; (2) maintenance of buildings and other facilities to accommodate visitor use as well as to protect the Government's investment; (3) interpretive programs to enhance the visitors' park experience; (4) law enforcement to protect the visitors well-being and reduce vandalism and other destruction to park resources; and (5) resource management for the protection and preservation of the unique natural, cultural and historical features in the Park System.

The following tabulation shows the actual and estimated visits, and general and special fund revenues collected and to be collected by the National Park Service, including recreation fee revenues deposited to a special account under the Land and Water Conservation Fund, which are available for appropriation to the Service.

Year:	Visits	Revenues
Actual:
1972.....	206,441,900	$17,507,065
1973.....	215,051,300	18,242,900
1974.....	209,222,400	16,907,346
Estimate:
1975.....	218,000,000	21,426,340
1976.....	226,800,000	24,940,840

The major program elements comprising this activity are: general management of park areas, concessions management, interpretation, informational publications, safety, protection (of resources and visitors), resources management, and maintenance.

2. Forest fire suppression and rehabilitation of burned areas.—This activity provides for the suppression and emergency presuppression of fires on or endangering lands administered by the Service, and for the rehabilitation of burned areas to conserve resources and the protection of park visitors. The Service administers more than 16.6 million acres of forest, grasslands, tundra and desert shrub.

3. Executive direction.—Provides executive direction of Service programs in the Service's headquarters in Washington, D.C., the National Capital Parks and eight regional offices located throughout the Nation.

The estimate for the transition period beginning July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976 will permit a continuation of operation of the National Park System at the level of the 1976 effort.

1. Buildings, utilities, and other facilities.—The Service carries out a program for the planning, construction, and reconstruction of physical facilities throughout the National Park System. Objectives of this program are to provide additional facilities for many park areas where developments have not kept pace with visitor demands, and to undertake major repair and reconstruction of existing facilities in order to provide safe, usable and adequate facilities for visitors and to protect park resources.

2. Park, recreation, and wilderness planning.—This activity provides for studies, investigations, and planning programs to support the overall direction and management of park activities.

3. Cooperative programs.—Under this activity the Service provides assistance to other Federal agencies, the States, and private institutions, upon request, in general development planning, site planning, consultation or design, construction and operational matters, interpretive planning and guidance in protection and preservation of historical and archeological values on lands involved. The program elements include: Federal agency, State, and private assistance, Indian assistance program, and the study of lands in the State of Alaska.

4. Statutory or contractual aid for other activities.—The Service provides financial or other assistance in the planning, development, or operation of natural, historical, or recreation areas not operated by the National Park Service. This assistance is provided for the following sites as authorized by law or pursuant to agreements between the National Park Service and other Federal agencies, States, or private institutions: (a) Roosevelt Campobello International Park Commission, New Brunswick, Canada; (b) Hampton National Historic Site, Md.; (c) Fort Scott Historic Area, Kans.; and (d) Ice Age National Scientific Reserve, Wis.

The estimate for the transition period beginning July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976 will provide a level of effort necessary to perform essential planning and construction activities.

Roads, trails and parkways.—The 1976 program proposes work on authorized parkways and major road projects such as principal park entrance roads or major park roads having high traffic density. These are to be accomplished for the Service by the Federal Highway Administration. Minor park roads, trails, and parkways projects, including parking areas, overlooks, campground roads, and trails and drainage structures, are carried out through Service facilities. The program provides mainly for the maintenance of existing facilities through such measures as resurfacing and reconstruction and for the development of new roads and trails primarily in recently authorized areas. Program objectives are to prevent a loss of investment in existing road and trail systems, eliminate unsafe sections, and to meet traffic demands.

The estimate for the transition period beginning July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976 will permit a continuation of the 1976 level of effort on road construction.

This appropriation provides for the preservation of additional historic properties throughout the Nation by assisting the States and Territories, the Virgin Islands, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the District of Columbia to conduct Statewide historic surveys, the findings of which are incorporated in the National Register and form the basis of Statewide historic preservation plans, and by matching grants-in-aid to the National Trust for Historic Preservation and the States for planning and for individual preservation projects.

The program is aimed at the recognition of our historic heritage, its meaning and value today. It fosters the retention and use of the viable physical elements surviving from our past, their restoration and rehabilitation. This appropriation provides for work necessary to carry out the following programs:

(a) Grants-in-aid.—To provide for matching grants-in-aid to the National Trust for Historic Preservation and the States for planning and for individual preservation projects;

(b) Maintenance of the National Register.—For maintaining the official schedule and protective inventory of our Nation's historic and cultural structural heritage;

(c) Advisory Council on Historic Preservation.—To provide administrative and financial support to the Council;

(d) Historic sites survey.—For thematic studies undertaken to identify nationally significant historic properties;

(e) Historic American buildings survey.—For documenting the Nation's architectural heritage;

(f) Historic American engineering record.—For identifying and documenting the engineering heritage of the Nation; and

(g) Archeological investigation and salvage.—For conducting such programs primarily in areas threatened by inundation through reservoir construction.

The estimate for the transition period beginning July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, will permit a continuation of the program at the 1976 level of effort.

Recreation facilities.—This appropriation provides for planning, development and operation of recreational facilities, and for enhancement of the fee collection system. Funding for this appropriation is derived from fees collected by the Service and deposited into a special account in the Treasury of the United States, to be administered in conjunction with, but separate from the revenues in the Land and Water Conservation Fund. Fees collected by each agency are earmarked for appropriation for any authorized outdoor recreation purpose. An amount of not to exceed 40 percent of the amount so credited in each fiscal year, for the next 5 years following the enactment, is authorized to be used to enhance fee collection systems.

The estimate for the transition period beginning July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, will permit the continued collection and utilization of fees at a level of effort commensurate with 1976.

General and special funds:

SURVEYS, INVESTIGATIONS, AND RESEARCH

For expenses necessary for the Geological Survey to perform surveys, investigations, and research covering topography, geology, and the mineral and water resources of the United States, its Territories and possessions, and other areas as authorized by law (72 Stat. 837 and 76 Stat. 427); classify lands as to mineral character and water and power resources; give engineering supervision to power permits and Federal Power Commission licenses; enforce departmental regulations applicable to oil, gas, and other mining leases, permits, licenses, and operating contracts; control the interstate shipment of contraband oil as required by law (15 U.S.C. 715); administer the minerals exploration program (30 U.S.C. 641); and publish and disseminate data relative to the foregoing activities; [$203,575,000] $268,259,000, of which [$26,015,000] $26,954,000 shall be available only for cooperation with States or municipalities for water resources investigations: Provided, That no part of this appropriation shall be used to pay more than one-half the cost of any topographic mapping or water resources investigations carried on in cooperation with any State or municipality; Provided further, That the amount appropriated for "Surveys, investigations, and research" in the Special Energy Research and Development Appropriation Act, 1975, shall be merged, without limitation, with this appropriation.

[For expenses related to the energy activities of the Geological Survey, $43,125,000.]

[For an additional amount for "Surveys, Investigations and, Research", $2,600,000, to be derived by transfer from the appropriation for "Salaries and Expenses", Office of Coal Research, fiscal year 1975.]

For "Surveys, investigations, and research," for the period July 1, 1976 through September 30, 1976: $67,200,000, of which $6,740,000 shall be available only for cooperation with States or municipalities for water resources investigations: Provided, That no part of this appropriation shall be used to pay more than one-half of the cost of any topographic mapping or water resources investigations carried on with any State or municipality. (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1975; Special Energy Research and Development Appropriation Act, 1975; Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1975.)

The Geological Survey provides basic scientific data concerning water, land, and mineral resources, and supervises the prospecting, development, and production of minerals and mineral fuels on leased Federal, Indian, and Outer Continental Shelf lands.

1. Alaska pipeline related investigations.—The 1976 program continues engineering geologic and hydrologic investigations that will be needed in the initial operational and monitoring phase of the Alaska pipeline.

2. Topographic surveys and mapping.—The national program for topographic mapping has as its objective the furnishing of fundamental information required to identify, inventory, develop, and manage the Nation's resources by providing maps at various scales which are a visually accurate graphic display of the physical environment. These maps are a basic tool necessary for the identification and development of energy resources; land-use planning; environmental impact studies; economic and industrial studies; location and development of highways; selection of power and communication sites and routes, and dam and reservoir sites; flood plain studies and flood and erosion control; and military and civil defense. By the end of 1975 topographic maps at 1:24,000-scale will be available for about 63 percent of the United States and outlying areas, excluding Alaska. An additional 6% of the United States will be covered with 1:24,000-scale orthophotoquads. In Alaska, 1:63,360-scale maps are the norm. About 83% of Alaska will have published 1:63,360-scale maps by the end of 1975. During 1976 mapping of about 100,000 square miles of previously unsurveyed or inadequately surveyed areas in the United States will be started. About 90,000 square miles of 7.5-minute series revision and about 160 small-scale and special maps will be added by the 1976 program.

3. Geologic and mineral resource surveys and mapping.—The continuing national program of geologic research and investigations produces: (a) New or improved methods, techniques, and instruments for mineral or energy exploration on land and on the submerged continental margins; (b) geologic, geophysical, and geochemical maps and analyses that show the distribution, age, composition, structure, and physical properties of the rocks and mineral deposits at and beneath the surface of the Earth including the Nation's continental shelves and slopes; (c) information on the chemistry and physics of the earth and the geologic processes by which it was formed and is being continually modified; and (d) geologic data that are directly applicable to urban development, land utilization, and the solution of land construction problems. The 1976 program provides for increased efforts for wilderness area mineral investigations; for the development of a decision-oriented minerals information system; for coal resource assessment; for the assessment of geologic hazards in nuclear reactor siting; for oil shale environmental studies; and for the expansion of the energy resources data system.

4. Water resources investigations.—The continuing national program of water resources investigations during 1976 has the objective of seeing that the Nation's water resources are appraised and that the necessary water data to develop and manage them efficiently are available when needed. The program produces data and information relevant to the flow and sediment discharge of rivers, location and quantity of underground waters, chemical quality and temperatures of waters, changes caused by nature and by man, availability and suitability of water supplies for present and future demands—all of which are essential to water planning, water management, energy development, and improvement of the environment. Included in the program is research needed to increase our understanding of fundamental principles of water occurrence, movement, and interaction with its environment, and also to increase the accuracy and usefulness of water data through improvements in technology. Increased funds in 1976 are requested to expand and intensify activities in the oil shale hydrology and nuclear energy hydrology segments of the critical national water problems program.

5. Conservation of lands and minerals.—The 1976 program provides for (a) classification of federally owned lands for the existence and workability of leasable mineral deposits and for sites for development of water resources, (b) evaluation, to determine the fair market value, of all mineral resources offered for lease by competitive bidding, and (c) regulation and supervision of mineral prospecting, development, and production operations on leased Federal, Indian, and Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) lands. Funds for mineral land classification, resource evaluation, and regulation of lessee operations will be increased both onshore and offshore in 1976.

7. Facilities.—The funds included in this activity will finance the operation and maintenance costs, facilities management needs and related special support services necessary for the operation of the national center headquarters complex.

8. Land information and analysis.—The principal mission of this activity will be to more effectively meet the Nation's rapidly increasing need for information required to facilitate land-use decisionmaking and to evaluate the environmental consequences of alternative land uses. Under this activity several multidisciplinary programs, activities, and subactivities are consolidated which were included as separate programs or as parts of other programs in the 1975 budget, including urban area studies (UAS), land resource and analysis (LRA), resource and land investigations (RALI), land use data and analysis (LUDA), energy impact evaluation (EIE), and earth resources observation systems (EROS). Consolidation of these activities under a single point of total program direction will permit more efficient utilization of resources and more effective coordination of interrelated program activities including multidisciplinary land-use and environmental studies for other Federal agencies, and coordinating the scheduling of mutually supportive activities of the Geological Survey that contribute to land-use and environmental analysis missions.

Specific objectives of the land information and analysis activity are: (1) Development and application of multidisciplinary natural science and geographic technology in support of land-use decisionmaking; (2) mapping current land use; (3) accomplishing in-house NEPA-related functions; and (4) collecting, processing, and distributing remote sensing data, and applying other aspects of space technology in support of land-resources and environmental analysis.

Revolving fund.—An unobligated balance of $400 thousand is carried forward each year to pay the expenses of reimbursable work pending collection from cooperating agencies. This advance is not available for obligation.

Reimbursements from non-Federal sources are from States and municipalities for making cooperative topographic and geologic surveys and water resources investigations (44 Stat. 963), proceeds from sale to the public of copies of photographs and records, proceeds from sale of personal property, reimbursements from permittees and licensees of the Federal Power Commission, and reimbursements from friendly countries and international organizations for technical assistance. Reimbursements from other Federal agencies (31 U.S.C. 686) are for special purpose mapping, investigations, and computer services performed at the request of the financing agency, much of which contributes to the basic objectives of the Geological Survey.

Payments from proceeds, sale of water.—When lessees or operators drilling for oil and gas on public lands strike water, water wells may be developed by the Department from proceeds from sale of water from existing wells (30 U.S.C. 221-229). No obligations are anticipated in 1976.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

The amount appropriated for the Geological Survey shall be available for purchase of not to exceed [thirty-two] thirty-one passenger motor vehicles, for replacement only; reimbursement to the General Services Administration for security guard services, contracting for the furnishing of topographic maps and for the making of geophysical or other specialized surveys when it is administratively determined that such procedures are in the public interest; construction and maintenance of necessary buildings and appurtenant facilities; acquisition of lands for gaging stations and observation wells; expenses of the U.S. National Committee on Geology; payment of contributions to the International Federation of Surveyors; and payment of compensation and expenses of persons on the rolls of the Geological Survey appointed, as authorized by law, to represent the United States in the negotiation and administration of interstate compacts.

[ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISION]

["The amount appropriated for the Geological Survey shall be available for the acquisition of one additional aircraft and for contracting for the making of geophysical or other specialized surveys when it is administratively determined that such procedures are in the public interest."] (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1975; Special Energy Research and Development Appropriation Act, 1975.)

1. Coal mine health and safety inspections.—Activities include inspection of coal mines and enforcement of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969, assistance in mine rescue operations, investigations of serious accidents in coal mines and recommendations to reduce working hazards, safeguarding the health of workers, promoting efficiency in the coal industry, and assisting industry in improving conditions of mine health and safety. Development of State health and safety programs is encouraged through a grant program and through technical assistance.

3. Education and training.—Instruction designed to develop greater safety awareness and to make the student a safer worker is provided to employees of the mineral industry. Training covers the causes and prevention of accidents and unhealthy work environments, safe mining practices, first aid, and mine rescue methods. Courses are in the form of classroom instruction, demonstrated lectures, motion pictures, and other instructional media.

4. Technical support.—Under this activity, the Administration provides onsite day-to-day technical services and advice to health and safety field managers, mine inspectors, and State and industry management to assist enforcement or effect improvements in practices relating to ventilation, roof support, use and application of electrical equipment, fire protection, use of explosives, haulage, hoisting, illumination, mine communications, dust collection and abatement and other related safety practices, devices, techniques, and equipment. The Administration also provides analytical data relative to the cause, frequency, and manner of accidents and the events or the practices that contribute to their cause or that may be identified as principal hazards contributing to the frequency of disabling injuries or unhealthy working conditions.

5. Program administration.—Provides for the immediate Office of the Administrator and the key management staff that support the general administrative functions. The balance of the cost for administrative functions is charged to program funds. In addition, this activity provides the necessary funds to reimburse the employee compensation fund for payments made resulting from the injury or death of employees under the jurisdiction of the Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration as required in section 209 of Public Law 86-767.

1. Metallurgy research.—Research is carried out seeking new and improved processes to extract, recover, purify, fabricate, and recycle metallic and nonmetallic minerals for the most efficient resource utilization attainable through increased production, reduced costs, and a minimum waste. Of particular interest is research leading to advanced metallurgy technology, abatement of pollution from metallurgical processes, management of mineral wastes and improvement of mineral materials. Principal emphasis in 1976 will be placed on research to advance metallurgical technology and to remove sulfur oxides from smelter, industrial, and powerplant stack gas. Increased resources are also proposed for construction of a pilot plant to recover alumina from clay and similar materials.

2. Mining research.—Research is conducted to assure a safer environment and working conditions for miners; to reduce health hazards to mine workers; and to develop improved extractive systems through technological advancement of fundamental subsystems elements to increase significantly total mining output at less cost. The current research is designed to increase mining efficiency with full consideration for the health and safety of mine workers, bring marginal mineral deposits into production, maximize recovery of irreplaceable resources, and minimize pollution and damage to the environment. The 1976 program provides for increased emphasis on research on health and safety in coal, metal and nonmetal mines and continuing work on coal mining technology to help supply the increased demand for coal.

3. Data collection and analysis.—Technical and economic data on mineral reserves, production and consumption, and international trade are compiled and analyzed and forecasts undertaken for guidance in the formulation of national mineral and energy policies and to assist Federal, State, and local governments and industry in coping with problems of mineral supply and planning for meeting mineral requirements. Increased resources in 1976 are to acquire indepth knowledge of present and future availabilities of and demand for foreign and domestic minerals under varying conditions.

4. Engineering, evaluation, and demonstration.—Engineering investigations and evaluations are conducted relative to the conservation, development, and utilization of mineral resources and their impact on the environment; appraisal of mineral development and the potential of wilderness and primitive areas as provided under the Wilderness Act; engineering investigations of mineral resources in areas affected by water development or other public works; other inquiries or operations where engineering team or task force attention is required; and the development and review of environmental impact statements as required by the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. Research and demonstration programs are conducted on the restoration of mined land surfaces, control of subsidence caused by mining, control of fires in inactive coal mines, disposal of mine refuse including culm banks, and for inquiries directed to related activities. The Bureau provides grants for the control of drainage in anthracite formations and administers mining-related environmental projects approved by the Appalachian Regional Commission. Increased funds in 1976 are to accelerate investigations of the minerals potential in wilderness areas, offset by a reduction in mined land investigations and demonstrations.

5. Program administration.—Provides funds for executive direction and part of the administrative services for the Bureau of Mines. The balance of the cost of administrative services is charged to program funds appropriated directly or transferred from other agencies.

Energy research activities formerly financed in this appropriation have been transferred and are now financed under "Operating expenses," Energy Research and Development Administration.

Drainage of anthracite mines.....	55	200	200
Solid waste disposal.....	32

1. Drainage of anthracite mines.—Funds appropriated in 1956 (69 Stat. 460) will be expended in 1975 and future years on a matched fund basis with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the conservation of anthracite coal resources and the prevention of flooding and damage to surface lands or structures through flood control and anthracite mine drainage. The act of July 15, 1955, was amended by the act of October 15, 1962 (76 Stat. 934), to further provide for the filling of voids in abandoned coal mines in the interest of public health and safety.

2. Solid waste disposal.—Funds appropriated in previous years will be expended in 1975 to liquidate prior year obligations.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISION

The Secretary is authorized to accept lands, buildings, equipment and other contributions from public and private sources and to prosecute projects in cooperation with other agencies, Federal, State, or private: Provided, That the Bureau of Mines is authorized during the current fiscal year, to sell directly or through any Government agency, including corporations, any metal or mineral product that may be manufactured in pilot plants operated by the Bureau of Mines, and the proceeds of such sales shall be covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

ALLOCATIONS RECEIVED FROM OTHER APPROPRIATION ACCOUNTS

Note.—Obligations incurred under allocations from other accounts are included in the schedules of parent appropriations as follows: Funds appropriated to the President "Appalachian Regional Development Program."

The authorized purposes of the Helium Act Amendments of 1960 are to locate and develop helium reserves and to produce, sell, and distribute supplies of helium, and to conserve a sustained supply of helium that will be sufficient to provide for essential Government activities.

Budget program.—Extraction of helium for production and sales will be conducted only at the Keyes (Okla.) Helium Plant. The Amarillo (Tex.) loading shipping terminal will make shipments in small cylinders, using helium transported to it from the Keyes helium plant.

The market for helium produced by the Bureau of Mines is estimated to be 180 million cubic feet, about a 6% increase over last year. The Bureau supplies approximately 30% of the total domestic market for helium. The Federal agencies and their contractors will purchase approximately 175 million cubic feet directly from the Bureau and from eligible commercial distributors through 30 CFR, part 2 helium distributors. The remainder of the Bureau's sales are to a few commercial companies.

The 179 million cubic feet of helium produced at the Keyes helium plant in excess of the requirements for the current helium market will be conserved by injection into underground storage for future use. Operations at the Exell (Tex.) helium plant will be confined to processing functions required in connection with the operation and control of the underground helium storage reservoir in Cliffside Field. The capital outlay will be replacement equipment required in the production and sale of helium, and new equipment required for processing helium stored underground.

Financing the budget program.—The helium program of production, sales, and helium stored underground is financed from the helium fund. Income from helium sales, services, and rentals of containers are estimated to provide 100% of the needed funding. The funded operating costs are increased by 8% over those for 1975. The increase is due mainly to an increase in expenditures for capital outlay. The major items under capital outlay area for installation and consolidation of processing equipment at the Exell (Tex.) helium plant and for the purchase and/or fabrication of minor plant operating equipment.

Operating results and financial conditions.—The revenues from helium sales and other income are estimated to be $8.3 million, while expenses are estimated to be $6.5 million, leaving a net operating income of $1.8 million. The net income will be retained to fund capital investment projects and operating costs.

As of June 30, 1974, the Government had $510.2 million invested in the helium program. Of this amount $389.9 million is owed to the U.S. Treasury in accordance with the Helium Act Amendments of 1960, leaving a net investment of $120.3 million. The investment of June 30, 1974, was 3% in helium plants and facilities and 97% in helium stored underground.

During 1976, it is proposed to repay $1 million of net worth debt to the U.S. Treasury from accumulated fund balances.

On June 30, 1976, the Government's investment is estimated to be $558.0 million, of which $434.7 million will be owed to the U.S. Treasury, leaving a net investment balance of $123.3 million. The increase of $44.8 million in the amount owed the U.S. Treasury is accrued interest on borrowings and net worth for 1975 and 1976. The estimated increase from June 30, 1974, of $3.0 million in net Government investment (equity) results from an increase in retained earnings accrued during 1975 and 1976.

The Alaska Power Administration operates and maintains the Eklutna project which supplies 30,000 kilowatts and 164 million kilowatt-hours annually to the greater Anchorage, Alaska, area. APA put the first phase of the 70,000-kilowatt Snettisham project into commercial operation on December 1, 1973, supplying wholesale power to utilities in the greater Juneau area. In February 1974, high winds and heavy ice buildup resulted in the collapse of three aluminum towers in the 138 kv transmission line south of Juneau. The Corps of Engineers awarded a contract in April 1974 for a temporary reconstruction of the damaged section. Power deliveries will resume in October.

Intragovernmental funds:

BONNEVILLE POWER ADMINISTRATION FUND

Expenditures from the Bonneville Power Administration Fund, established pursuant to Public Law 93-454, are hereby specifically approved for construction of the following major transmission facilities: (a) transmission lines and related facilities to integrate generation into the main Bonneville Power Administration system from WPPSS No. 3 and No. 5 Nuclear Generating Plants near Satsop, Washington.

For the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, expenditures at a rate not greater than the quarterly rate provided for fiscal year 1976 are hereby approved. (16 U.S.C. 825s; 16 U.S.C. 832-832l; 43 U.S.C. 389, 485a, 485h(c), 485i; 59 Stat. 10, 21-22; Public Law 93-454, October 18, 1974.)

The Bonneville Power Administration constructs, operates, and maintains facilities to market electric power produced at Federal hydroelectric generating plants over its high-voltage transmission grid system to public and private utilities and industrial customers in the Pacific Northwest. It also wheels, exchanges, and purchases power from non-Federal hydroelectric and thermal generating plants.

The estimated amounts of peak generating capacity on the Federal transmission system are as follows (in thousands of kilowatts):

	July 1, 1975	July 1, 1984
Federal projects.....	13,459	22,160
Power wheeled and exchanged for non-Federal utilities.....	8,077	19,415
Total.....	21,536	41,575

The transmission facilities will integrate new generating facilities into the system. By July 1, 1975, 29 Federal hydroelectric generating plants are scheduled to be in operation on the system and two Federal generating plants will be under construction. These new plants, along with additional generating units being installed at six existing Federal projects, will bring the total Federal installed capacity from 13.5 million kilowatts to 22.2 million kilowatts.

Budget program.—The activities of the new BPA fund generally consolidate the activities previously provided for in the BPA appropriation accounts of previous years. Present BPA fund activities include:

System operation and maintenance.—This activity provides for the scheduling and dispatch of power, operation, maintenance, and planning of the system.

Purchase power and wheeling.—This activity includes the acquisition of power from other entities by purchase and exchange, and the use of transmission facilities.

Power contracts and rates.—Provides for the negotiation of power sales and wheeling contracts, billing and servicing these contracts, and the review and establishment of wholesale rates.

Reserve for contingencies.—Provides for purchase of power in low water years, additional contracting, construction and overtime required to deal with natural and man-made emergencies, unavoidable increased costs for the planned construction program due to necessary but unforeseen engineering and design changes and relocations.

Reimbursable programs.—The Bonneville Power Administration constructs, operates, and maintains transmission facilities which are not provided by the Administration under its customer service policy when requested and financed by other entities. These facilities increase efficiency on the system, reduce loads on existing facilities and improve service to customers. Also, facilities of the Administration are relocated as required for highway construction and other purposes under similar arrangements. In addition, trust agreements are developed for the purchase of replacement energy to meet requirements of customers during periods when operating conditions on the Federal system require the Administration to curtail its delivery of interruptible power and nonfirm energy.

Transition period.—The Bonneville Power Administration's transition period activities are expected to continue at approximately the same rate as provided for in the 1976 schedules.

Financing.—Public Law 93-454, the Federal Columbia River Transmission System Act provides for the use by the Bonneville Power Administration of all receipts, collections, and recoveries in cash from all sources, including the sale of bonds, to finance the annual budget programs of the Bonneville Power Administration. These receipts result primarily from the sale of power and wheeling, also, Public Law 93-454 provides for the availability of $1.25 billion in authority to borrow from the U.S. Treasury, at rates comparable to borrowings open market rates for similar issues. Operating revenues are expected to amount to approximately $296 million in 1976.

Operating results.—Estimated retained earnings at the close of the budget year are $108 million. This represents a significant increase over the previous year. Retained earnings are applied to amortization of the Federal investment and to future operations of Bonneville Power Administration.

The program for 1976 is designed to accomplish SWPA's responsibility for operating and maintaining the system.

Of the $6,136 thousand required for the 1976 operation and maintenance program, 49% is for system operation and maintenance; 33% is for purchase power and transmission service charges; 4% is for power contracts and rates; and the remaining 14% is for general administration.

All operation and maintenance activities, with the exception of the expenses for the purchase of power and payment of transmission charges, are financed through direct appropriations. An appropriation for the purchase of power and payment of transmission expenses is necessary to cover monthly expenditures in excess of monthly receipts for each customer furnished non-SWPA thermal power and energy and transmission service.

1. Education.—The Bureau operates Federal school facilities where public schools are not available or cannot meet the special needs of Indian children. Financial assistance is extended to public schools enrolling Indian children where tax-free Indian lands result in financial problems for the local districts and where other special problems exist. Grants are made to Indian students attending college. Federal school plans include: adequate base funding of the Indian education program; improvement in the home living program; and provision for the special needs of local schools and communities. The Bureau

3. Tribal resource development.—This activity is designed to stimulate reservation economics through the development and utilization of tribal resources, and to help Indian people participate fully in the economic life of the community and the Nation.

Business enterprise development is encouraged and assisted through programs of technical and financial aid, with strong emphasis on enterprises owned and operated by Indian individuals and organizations. Indian tribal organizations and individuals are assisted with securing and managing loans for resource and business enterprise development, housing, public utility facilities, education, and other purposes. Individual Indians are assisted in qualifying for, finding, and occupying jobs both on and off the reservation consistent with their needs, capabilities, and desires. Roads are maintained to provide for the movement of people and goods as needed for the well-being of the community. The conservation, development, and utilization of land, water, and related resources is encouraged and assisted.

4. Trust responsibilities.—This activity is designed to carry out the Bureau's trust and legal responsibilities to protect the rights of Indians in their trust property and those rights affecting trust property that are afforded by tribal autonomy; to carry out the authorities vested in the Secretary of the Interior by various laws concerning Indian trust property and to provide Indians the services they need to make decisions required of them in the application of these various laws; and to carry out programs to facilitate the trust.

5. General management and facilities operation.—The programs of the Bureau are operated from approximately 140 offices or installations. Activities are conducted at geographic locations ranging from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Hollywood, Fla., in 27 States. This program provides for the general management functions and for the repair, maintenance, and operation of facilities which support the Bureau's widespread programs. These functions include executive direction; management administrative services; safety management; operation and maintenance of Bureau physical facilities; and provision of GSA-owned or leased facilities. Administrative costs of centralized housekeeping work and general management costs at the local levels are financed on a reimbursable basis from the other program activities served. In 1976, this item includes auditable overhead costs of Indian tribes or organizations associated with contracting for the operation of programs with the Bureau of Indian Affairs. It also includes costs to do audits to establish appropriate overhead rates and those costs related to the displacement of Federal employees as a result of contracting with Indian tribes or organizations, such as severance pay and lump sum leave payments, which represent one-time or initial costs. In the event that estimated funds for this support item need to be revised, the program activities which this item supports will be revised through normal procedures. Funds are included for the transition period to carry out the above activities.

1. Alaska Native Fund.—Payments are made to Natives and Native groups of Alaska for settlement of certain land claims and for other purposes, as authorized by the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act. Revenue is comprised of royalties, rentals and bonuses collected by the State of Alaska and the United States for minerals that are subject to disposition under the Mineral Leasing Act of 1920, as amended and supplemented, in accordance with the provision of section 9 of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act.

2. Claims and treaty obligations.—Payments are made to fulfill treaty obligations with the Senecas of New York (act of February 19, 1831), the Six Nations of New York (act of November 11, 1794), and the Pawnees of Oklahoma (the treaty of September 24, 1857); the benefit claims to the Sioux Indians (acts of March 2, 1889, June 10, 1896, and June 21, 1906).

3. Acquisition of lands and loans to Indians in Oklahoma, act of June 26, 1936.—Revenue derived from mineral deposits underlying certain lands purchased in Oklahoma are used for the acquisition of lands and loans to individual Indians, associations, or corporate groups of Indians residing in Oklahoma.

4. Operation and maintenance, Indian irrigation systems.—Revenues derived from charges for operation and maintenance of Indian irrigation projects are used to defray in part the cost of operating and maintaining these projects (Permanent Appropriation Repeal Act of 1934).

5. Power systems, Indian irrigation projects.—Revenues collected from the sale of electric power by the Colorado River, Flathead, and San Carlos power systems are used to operate and maintain these systems (Permanent Appropriation Repeal Act of 1934). Funds are available in the transition period to carry out the above activities.

This fund and miscellaneous tribal funds provide the only source of direct loan financing for Indians who cannot borrow from other Government credit agencies or from ordinary commercial lenders because of their low economic status, isolated geographic location, lack of bankable security, or for other reasons (Indian Financing Act of 1974). Loans are made to tribes and other Indian organizations for relending to individual members and groups of members, to finance tribal business enterprises; and to help tribes attract industries to operate in localities that will promote the economic development of the Indians. Loans are also made to tribes for use by them in obtaining expert assistance for the preparation and trial of claims pending before the Indian Claims Commission. Direct loans are made to cooperative associations and individual Indians for any purpose that will promote the economic development of the borrower, including loans for educational purposes.

Funds are included for the transition period to carry out the above activities.

The fund was established pursuant to the Indian Financing Act of 1974. The purpose of the fund is to support a loan guaranty and insurance program for guaranteeing or insuring loans made by commercial lending institutions to Indians and to tribes and other Indian organizations for economic development purposes. An interest subsidy will be paid from the fund on loans guaranteed or insured to reduce the Indian borrower's rate of interest to the rate charged on direct loans from the revolving fund for loans. The purpose of this program is to provide an incentive to the private lending sector to make loans to Indians which would not otherwise be made.

Funds are available for the transition period to carry out these activities.

[MISCELLANEOUS] TRUST FUND

In addition to the tribal funds authorized to be expended by existing law, there is hereby appropriated $3,000,000 from tribal funds not otherwise available for expenditure for the benefit of Indians and Indian tribes, including pay and travel expenses of employees; care, tuition, and other assistance to Indian children attending public and private schools (which may be paid in advance or from date of admission); purchase of land and improvements on land, title to which shall be taken in the name of the United States in trust for the tribe for which purchased; lease of lands and water rights; compensation and expenses of attorneys and other persons employed by Indian tribes under approved contracts; pay, travel, and other expenses of tribal officers, councils, and committees thereof, or other tribal organizations, including mileage for use of privately owned automobiles and per diem in lieu of subsistence at rates established administratively but not to exceed those applicable to civilian employees of the Government; relief of Indians, without regard to section 7 of the Act of May 27, 1930 (46 Stat. 391) including cash grants: Provided, That in addition to the amount appropriated herein, tribal funds may be advanced to Indian tribes during the current fiscal year for such purposes as may be designated by the governing body of the particular tribe involved and approved by the Secretary: Provided, however, That no part of this appropriation or other tribal funds shall be used for the acquisition of land or water rights within the States of Nevada and Oregon, either inside or outside the boundaries of existing Indian reservations, if such acquisition results in the property being exempted from local taxation.

For "Trust funds" authorized by existing law to be expended for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, $750,000. (25 U.S.C. 123, 25 U.S.C. 155, Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1975.)

The 1976 budget request for administration of territories finances the costs of operating the office of the Governor, and the judiciary of American Samoa. Also requested are grant funds in the amount of $13.2 million for the operations of the Government of American Samoa. The most significant programs in the budget year include those for education, medical services, and public works.

In addition, the appropriation request includes $1.0 million for economic development as authorized in the Guam Economic Development Act of 1968.

The "Guam Elective Governor Act" which also pertains to the Office of Comptroller for Guam, and the "Virgin Islands Elective Governor Act" which also pertains to the Comptroller for the Virgin Islands, provide that salaries and expenses are to be paid, respectively, from funds which would otherwise be covered into the treasury of Guam and grants which would otherwise be paid to the Virgin Islands. Operations of these offices are reflected under this appropriation for budgetary purposes.

Amounts are provided for the transition period to continue the activities described above.

Under the terms of the Trusteeship Agreement between the United States and the Security Council of the United Nations, the United States exercises full jurisdiction over the territory and is obligated to promote the political, economic, and educational advancement of the inhabitants. These responsibilities are carried out through the Department of the Interior.

The Trust Territory, with a population of about 115,000 persons, comprises 2,141 islands scattered over three million square miles of ocean in three major archipelagos, the Marianas, Caroline, and Marshall Islands. The land area totals 700 square miles.

1. High Commissioner's Office.—This office provides executive direction for the development programs and the administration of all the territory.

2. Judiciary.—Provision is made for the high court of the Trust Territory, the court of appeals, and the lesser courts of the territory.

3. Federal Comptroller's Office.—Public Law 93-111, which provides authorizing legislation for the Trust Territory Government, also provides that the Comptroller for Guam shall audit the operations of the Trust Territory Government. The Comptroller for Guam is under the general supervision of the Secretary of the Interior and is not a part of any executive department of the Trust Territory Government.

4. Grants.—The cost of operating the government of the territory is provided by Federal grant appropriations and local revenue. The main activities funded under the Trust Territory Government are operations and a greatly accelerated capital improvements program.

5. Economic development loan fund.—Federal grant appropriation to the territory to provide a revolving fund to make loans or to guarantee loans to private enterprise in the Trust Territory where financing is otherwise unavailable on reasonable terms and conditions.

6. Categorical assistance programs.—Federal grant appropriations to the Territory are authorized to replace grants from other Federal agencies which may be reduced or eliminated.

Amounts are provided for the transition period to continue the activities described above.

Under title I of the "Micronesian Claims Act of 1971" funds are authorized for the settlement of claims of Micronesian inhabitants of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands who suffered damages arising out of the hostilities of the Second World War. The settlement of claims will be determined by the Micronesian Claims Commission pursuant to the provisions of title I. The $5 million ex gratia contribution of the United States is to be matched by a similar contribution by Japan to the Claims fund as provided in an agreement between the Governments of Japan and the United States on April 18, 1969.

Under title II, the "Micronesian Claims Act of 1971" funds are authorized for the settlement of claims of Micronesian inhabitants of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands who suffered damages between the dates of the securing of the various islands of Micronesia by the U.S. Armed Forces and July 1, 1951. The settlement of claims will be determined by the Micronesian Claims Commission pursuant to the provisions of title I; $20 million has been authorized to be appropriated for settlement of claims under title II.

4. and 7. Grants and Northern Marianas transition.—Legislation is proposed to increase the 1975 annual appropriation authorization for the trust territory by $15 million and to provide $1,500 thousand to prepare for separate administration of the Northern Marianas District. These authorization changes were agreed to, subject to approval by the Congress, in the continuing negotiations concerning the future political relationships between the United States and the trust territory.

8. Bikini ex-gratia payment.—Legislation is proposed to authorize an ex-gratia payment to former residents of Bikini Atoll. A similar ex-gratia payment was made in 1969 to the former residents of Enewetak Atoll.

9. Enewetak rehabilitation.—Legislation is proposed to provide funds to rehabilitate Enewetak Atoll so the former residents may return to it. Funding for the cleanup portion of the program is proposed in the Department of Defense budget.

GENERAL PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

SEC. 101. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency reconstruction, replacement, or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities, or other facilities or equipment damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, storm, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted.

SEC. 102. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer of any appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts included in the budget programs of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of forest or range fires on or threatening lands under jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior [and for the emergency rehabilitation of burned-over lands under its jurisdiction]: Provided, That appropriations made in this title for fire suppression purposes shall be available for the payment of obligations incurred during the preceding fiscal year, and for reimbursement to other Federal agencies for destruction of vehicles, aircraft, or other equipment in connection with their use for fire suppression purposes, such reimbursement to be credited to appropriations currently available at the time of receipt thereof.

SEC. 103. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for operation of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by the Act of June 30, 1932 (31 U.S.C. 686): Provided, That reimbursements for costs of supplies, materials and equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.

SEC. 104. Appropriations made to the Department of the Interior in this title or in the Public Works for Water and Power Development and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, [1975] 1976, shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, when authorized by the Secretary, in total amount not to exceed $300,000; hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; hire of passenger motor vehicles; purchase of reprints; payment for telephone service in private residences in the field, when authorized under regulations approved by the Secretary; and the payment of dues, when authorized by the Secretary, for library membership in societies or associations which issue publications to members only or at a price to members lower than to subscribers who are not members.

SEC. 105. Appropriations available to the Department of the Interior for salaries and expenses shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902 and D.C. Code 4-204).

SEC. 106. In addition to the aircraft specifically authorized under this Act there is hereby authorized for acquisition [four surplus] five aircraft for replacement only, two of which shall be from surplus. Such acquisitions shall be integral to the provision of centralized aircraft services in Alaska.

[SEC. 107. The sum of $261,278,000 appropriated under the head, Office of Coal Research, Salaries and Expenses, in Public Law 93-322, signed June 30, 1974, includes $12,500,000 for a program for magnetohydrodynamics (MHD), of which $5,000,000, as described in Senate Report 93-903 and House Report 93-1123, shall be used in part to initiate design of an MHD engineering test facility, and there shall be undertaken immediately the design and planning of such engineering test facility, to be located in Montana, large enough so as to provide a legitimate engineering basis which when achieved will enable the immediate construction of a commercial scale MHD plant (500 MWe or above) for possible operations in the mid-1980's.]

SEC. 107. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for obligation in connection with contracts issued by the General Services Administration for services or rentals for periods not in excess of twelve months beginning at any time during the fiscal year. (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1975.)

GENERAL PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

[SEC. 101. Appropriations made in this chapter shall be available for operation of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by the Act of June 30, 1932 (31 U.S.C. 686): Provided, That reimbursements for costs of supplies, materials and equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.]

[SEC. 102. Enforcement of antitrust, consumer protection, and kindred laws.—The Antitrust Division administers and enforces the antitrust, consumer protection laws, and related statutes. The principal statutes involved are: (1) Section 1 of the Sherman Act which prohibits combinations and conspiracies among competitors to set prices collusively, or otherwise to restrain trade; (2) section 2 of the Sherman

Act which prohibits combinations and attempts to monopolize and monopolization of interstate trade; (3) section 7 of the Clayton Act which prohibits corporate mergers and acquisitions which tend substantially to lessen competition or tend to monopolization; and (4) various statutory provisions which require Government regulatory agencies to consider the preservation of competition in the determination of public interest factors. This program involves primarily the investigation of suspected violations of the antitrust laws, and the conduct of civil and criminal proceedings in the Federal Courts which are designed to deter and punish violations, and to maintain and restore competitive conditions.

The Government is represented in each of the 94 judicial districts by a U.S. attorney and a U.S. marshal.

1. U.S. attorneys.—The U.S. attorney is responsible for the Government's legal interests in his district.

2. U.S. marshals.—The marshal has custody of all Federal offenders until released by the courts or confined in prison, acts as agent of the court in the service of process, and provides protection services to the courts and to key Government witnesses.

Fees and expenses are paid to witnesses who appear on behalf of the Government and to indigent defendants in cases to which the United States is a party.

1. Fact witnesses.—These witnesses testify as to events or facts about which they have personal knowledge. Fees of physicians and psychiatrists for examining accused persons upon order of the Court to determine their physical or mental competency preparatory to testifying in court are also paid from this fund. Reports and court testimony relating to the examinations are included in these fees.

2. Protection of witnesses.—The Attorney General provides for the security of witnesses and their families who are placed in jeopardy by virtue of being witnesses or intended witnesses. Subsistence costs of protected witnesses are paid from this fund.

3. Expert witnesses.—The testimony of these witnesses is used in trials where technical and scientific expertise is required in prosecution or defense of a case.

4. Commissioners.—Rule 71A(h) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provides for payment of compensation and expenses of Commissioners appointed in condemnation cases. This function has been transferred from "Salaries and expenses, U.S. Attorneys and Marshals".

The Service was established by title X of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, to provide assistance to communities in resolving disputes, disagreements, and difficulties arising from discriminatory practices which disrupt or threaten to disrupt peaceful relations among citizens and where efforts are being made to eliminate disparities between groups, to achieve compliance with the act and to reduce and prevent racial disorders.

By law, the Service assists communities upon request of local citizens or officials, or upon its own motion. Federal court referrals of public accommodations cases arising under title II of the Civil Rights Act are also handled by the Service.

In endeavoring to create a climate of compliance and orderly progress, the Service seeks, encourages, and utilizes the cooperation of appropriate Federal, State, and local agencies, private and public groups or institutions, and individuals working to develop methods and programs for the peaceful resolution of racial disputes.

In carrying out the mandate of Congress, the Service must conduct its activities in confidence and without publicity, and the staff must hold confidential any information so acquired.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, as the principal investigative branch of the Department of Justice, obtains evidence for use in civil litigation and prosecution of criminal violations of Federal law. It has primary responsibility for the internal security of the Nation. It assists other law enforcement agencies through the dissemination of information, location of fugitives, training, and identification and laboratory services.

1. Security and criminal investigations.—This activity includes the Bureau's investigative responsibilities, the coordination and maintenance of the data gathered and the maintenance of the Bureau's communications system. Data are disseminated to other Government agencies having an official interest. The FBI searched 2,186,816 names through its files during 1974. Name check work, most of which is performed for other Government agencies, is expected to continue at a high level.

WORKLOAD VOLUME—CRIMINAL, SECURITY, AND CIVIL CLASSIFICATIONS INVESTIGATIVE MATTERS RECEIVED

Actual:
1970	882,254
1971	828,059
1972	824,252
1973	774,579
1974	745,840
Estimate:
1975	770,000
1976	790,000

2. Identification by fingerprints.—The Identification Division is the national repository of identification data based on fingerprint records. Fingerprints are acquired, classified, preserved, and exchanged with other duly authorized law enforcement agencies. During 1974, a total of 5,518,387 sets of fingerprints was received for handling. Correspondence, forms, and name checks pertaining to fingerprints reached an all-time high of 4,732,163, an increase of 2% over the previous year. The volume of fingerprint work is expected to continue to be heavy. A total of 160,666,661 sets of fingerprints was on file as of October 1, 1974.

3. Criminal and scientific laboratory.—The laboratory provides technical and scientific assistance to the FBI, other Federal agencies and all duly constituted law enforcement agencies which wish to avail themselves of the service. During 1974, scientific examinations totaled 557,454, an all-time high and an increase of 5% over the 1973 volume. The volume of laboratory work is expected to continue its upward trend.

4. Training.—The FBI, in addition to training its own personnel, provides, upon request, a wide range of training for state and local law enforcement agencies.

5. General administration.—This activity encompasses all centralized Bureau functions of an administrative character, including a bureauwide inspectional service and a planning and evaluation staff.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service was created by the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1085).

The Immigration and Naturalization Service is responsible for administering the immigration and naturalization laws relating to the admission, exclusion, deportation, and naturalization of aliens. Specifically, the Service inspects aliens to determine their admissibility into the United States; adjudicates requests of aliens for benefits under the law; prevents illegal entry into the United States; investigates, apprehends, and removes aliens in this country in violation of the law; and examines alien applicants wishing to become citizens.

Through offices in the United States and in other areas around the world, the Service provides information and counsel to those seeking U.S. citizenship.

1. Inspection for admission into the United States.—Control is maintained at border points, seaports and airports over the entry of persons into the United States.

This appropriation will provide for the custody and care of an average of 24,000 prisoners, and for the maintenance and operation of 37 penal institutions, community treatment centers in 14 metropolitan areas and the central office. An average of 7,682 employees will be employed with the funds in this appropriation. The Health Services and Mental Health Administration assists in the provision of medical care for prisoners.

1. Custody, care and treatment of prisoners in Federal institutions.—This covers the direct care costs of all prisoners in the Federal prison system including the costs of all food, clothing, welfare services, medical supplies, and release transportation, and related personal services. The direct care costs are related to the estimated number of prisoners expected to be maintained in 1976 which is 24,000 at an estimated cost per man per day of $2.39. The average daily population for 1974 was 23,332 as compared to 22,294 in 1973.

2. Inmate education.—This covers the cost of the inmate education program including related personal services.

3. Maintenance and operation of institutions.—This activity includes administrative expenses, all utility services, operation of motor vehicles, the repair and maintenance of all buildings and facilities, and equipment replacements. The cost of personal services attributable to these activities is also included.

4. Medical services.—This activity covers the costs of medical, psychiatric, and technical services, including those services provided by the Health Services and Mental Health Administration.

5. Narcotic addict treatment.—This covers the cost of treatment of narcotic addicts while in institutions and provides for aftercare treatment services after the inmate is released.

6. Technical assistance to State and local governments.—The Bureau provides technical consultative services, on request, to non-Federal jurisdictions seeking to improve their correctional system.

The Bureau of Prisons contracts with some 900 approved State and local jails to board Federal prisoners for short periods of time. Such periods occur before and during trial, during commitments for short sentences, and while awaiting transfer to Federal institutions after sentencing. An average of 5,877 prisoners were boarded at an average cost of $10.55 per man-day in 1974.

This is a wholly owned Government corporation. A board of six directors appointed by the President controls its policies. Supervision is by the Director of the Bureau of Prisons who has jurisdiction over all industrial enterprises and vocational training programs in all Federal penal and correctional institutions. Products manufactured by inmates are sold to Federal Prison System institutions and to other Government agencies. Earnings, in excess of operating requirements, are paid as dividends into the U.S. Treasury.

The Corporation is authorized, under the Attorney General, to establish and operate industries in Federal penal and correctional institutions and disciplinary barracks (18 U.S.C. 4121-4128). Its purposes are to provide employment for inmates, establish vocational training for qualified inmates in connection with regular institutional and industrial activities, and operate a placement service to assist released inmates to secure jobs.

Under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, as amended, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration is charged with the responsibility for assisting State and local governments in reducing crime and improving the quality of the criminal justice system. The program includes the following activities:

(1) Grants for development and implementation of comprehensive plans.—Support of State and local planning agencies which prepare, adopt, and implement comprehensive law enforcement and criminal justice plans based on their evaluation of State and local criminal justice system problems.

(2) Matching grants to improve and strengthen law enforcement.—Of the total available, 85% is distributed by formula in the form of block grants for the States and local units to carry out action programs and projects to reduce crime, juvenile delinquency, and improve the operations of their law enforcement and criminal justice systems. Of the total available for such grants, 15% is allocated to States, localities, or private nonprofit organizations for programs or projects of national interest as determined administratively.

(3) Aid for correctional institutions and programs.—Grants are made to State and local units of government for the improvement and construction of correctional facilities and the improvement of correctional programs.

(4) Technical assistance.—These funds provide for technical assistance to States and units of local government, public or private agencies, organizations, institutions, or international agencies in matters relating to the improvement of law enforcement and criminal justice.

(5) Research, evaluation and technology transfer.—Support is provided for research, development, technology transfer and evaluation of techniques, systems, equipment, and devices to reduce crime, strengthen law enforcement, and improve the operations of the law enforcement and criminal justice system.

(6) Educational assistance and special training programs.—Funds for educational development, internships, training in the latest techniques and methods, and grants and loans to law enforcement officers and other criminal justice system personnel enrolled on a full or part-time basis in an approved program leading to a degree are provided in this activity.

(7) Data systems and statistical assistance.—Compiling and publishing information and statistics on the criminal justice system; assisting States and units of local government in the development of statistics and information systems; and assuring the security and privacy of criminal history information collected, stored, or disseminated through support with these funds.

(8) Management and operations.—This activity includes funds for the administrative operations of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The planned distribution of budget authority requested for 1976, as compared with funds appropriated in 1975, is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

The Drug Enforcement Administration is the investigative, intelligence, law enforcement, and regulatory agency responsible for suppression of illicit traffic in narcotics and dangerous drugs. It has sole responsibility to act for the Government in foreign countries in intelligence gathering activities and coordination with foreign government agencies to reduce the supply of illicit drugs entering the United States.

The means by which the DEA performs its mission are summarized by the following activities:

1. Law enforcement.—(a) Criminal enforcement.—This activity encompasses the enforcement of Federal laws regarding narcotics and dangerous drugs; reducing the supply of illicit drugs entering the United States from foreign sources; laboratory analysis of evidence for support of prosecutive cases; training foreign narcotic officers; preparing information necessary to the process of scheduling substances under the Controlled Substances Act. (b) Compliance and regulation.—This activity encompasses the regulation of the legal trade in narcotics and dangerous drugs, and includes establishment of import, export and manufacturing quotas for controlled drugs; registration of manufacturers, handlers and dispensers of controlled drugs; investigations to determine points of diversion into the illicit market. (c) State and local assistance.—This activity encompasses cooperative law enforcement activities with State, county, and local officers; a continuing drug enforcement training program for State, county, and local law enforcement officers; training programs for State and local forensic chemists; laboratory support for State and local enforcement agencies including analysis of evidence and professional testimony in State prosecutive cases; and development and distribution of training aids on controlled substances for local, State, and Federal personnel.

2. Intelligence.—This activity encompasses the acquisition and analysis of drug intelligence and the dissemination of the data. It will support DEA, other Federal, State, local, and foreign efforts to interdict or suppress the illicit international or domestic movement of drugs, through ability to attack the drug traffic in a systematic way, assessment of vulnerabilities of traffickers, and supplying information for policy determination and strategy.

3. Research and development.—This activity encompasses research programs directly related to the DEA law enforcement and regulation functions and includes, but is not limited to, studies designed to compare the deterrent effects of various enforcement strategies; assess and detect accurately the presence of controlled substances in the human body; evaluate the nature and sources of supply of dangerous substances; develop more effective methods to prevent diversion of controlled substances into illicit channels; develop information necessary to carry out functions of section 201, Public Law 91-513, authority and criteria for classification of substances; develop and apply systems and technologies for limiting the supply of illicit drugs in the United States, and to undertake analyses to insure the most effective utilization of these systems.

4. Executive direction.—This activity encompasses the overall direction and management of DEA.

1. State and local programs.—Provides financial assistance by formula to about 400 State and local prime sponsors to design and operate comprehensive manpower services programs to help meet the manpower needs of their areas. Services authorized include institutional and on-the-job training, work experience, summer youth employment, vocational education and counseling, remedial education, job placement services, and transitional public service employment.

This activity also provides added financial assistance for programs of transitional public service employment and training in areas which have a rate of unemployment of 6.5% or more for 3 consecutive months.

2. National programs.—Covers programs and support activities which are administered on the national level.

(a) National training programs.—Provides additional manpower services to special segments of the population. Among groups served are Indians, migrant and seasonal farmworkers, persons of limited English-speaking ability, older workers, criminal offenders, and through the Job Corps, severely disadvantaged youth in a residential setting.

(b) Program support.—This activity provides for technical assistance and training for Federal, State, and local personnel involved in the planning and administration of manpower programs. It also provides a comprehensive system to develop labor market information, research and development, and evaluation.

1. Payments to former Federal personnel.—Funds are allocated to the States for payment of unemployment compensation to eligible former Federal employees, ex-Postal Service employees and ex-servicemen.

2. Trade adjustment assistance.—The Automotive Products Trade Act of 1965 and the Trade Expansion Act of 1962 authorize worker adjustment assistance allowances. The estimate for 1976 is based on recent activity under the Trade Expansion Act as a result of decisions by the International Trade Commission and the President.

3. Unemployment assistance and payments under other Federal unemployment programs.—Funds are allocated to the States for payment of unemployment assistance to workers who are not covered by other unemployment compensation programs but who are affected by adverse economic conditions, as authorized by title II of the Emergency Jobs and Unemployment Assistance Act of 1974. In addition these funds are available, to the extent necessary, to cover possible increases in unemployment compensation payments to others compensated from this appropriation. Additional 1975 appropriation language is proposed in Part III of this volume to assure that amounts made available in 1975 can be used for benefit payments under the Trade Act of 1974.

Transition period.—The amounts proposed for the transition period will support activities and workload at the 1976 level for payments to former Federal personnel and trade adjustment assistance.

Special emphasis is placed on providing services to veterans and disadvantaged applicants. It is estimated that not less than $50 million will be available for services to veterans. Assistance to employers includes analyzing their manpower requirements, solving problems of recruitment and turnover, and developing labor market information. Communities are aided in developing employment opportunities, and employment services are provided to workers and employers in areas where the establishment of full-time offices is not feasible.

This fund, established by the Employment Security Act of 1960, received an original appropriation of $250 million. It made advances without fiscal year limitation to the Employment Security Administration account in the Unemployment trust fund. The purpose of this fund was to finance the Federal and State administrative costs of the employment security programs on a repayable basis from the beginning of the fiscal year until the Federal unemployment tax receipts became available, when advances were repaid with interest. The quarterly tax collections provisions of Public Law 91-53 together with the authority contained in section 901 of the Social Security Act, as amended, which allows the account to maintain balances at the beginning of each fiscal year, provides sufficient resources, thereby making this revolving fund unnecessary.

The financial transactions of the Federal-State and railroad unemployment insurance systems are made through the Unemployment trust fund. In the Federal-State system, benefit payments are made by each State, financed by State payroll taxes. The tax receipts are deposited in the Unemployment trust fund and invested in Government securities until needed for benefit payments. The expenses of State and Federal administration (including those of the Federal-State employment service), are paid from the fund out of revenue from the Federal unemployment tax, assessed on employers, of 0.5% of the first $4,200 of wages.

Both the benefit payments and administrative expenses of the separate unemployment insurance program for railroad employees are paid from the Unemployment trust fund and receipts from the tax on wages of railroad employees are deposited in the fund to meet expenses.

1. Improving and protecting wages.—This program is one of obtaining compliance with the minimum wage, overtime, child labor and other employment standards under the Fair Labor Standards Act, as amended in 1974. The 1974 Fair Labor Standards Act amendments directly affect the standards of employment for over 15 million additional workers and materially increase the enforcement effort required by the act. Included in this program is the enforcement of the labor standards provisions under various Federal procurement acts, under the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act and under the wage garnishment provisions in title III of the Consumer Credit Protection Act. Regulations and interpretative materials are developed for the compliance program and special minimum wage standards are set. About 525,000 workers are expected to be directly aided each year by these efforts. This program also includes determinations of prevailing wage rates and fringe benefits for all Federal and federally assisted contracts for construction subject to the Davis-Bacon and related acts. Prevailing wage rates and fringe benefits determinations are also made to protect service workers under the Service Contracts Act.

2. Elimination of discrimination in employment.—The major effort of this activity is to make equal opportunity an employment standard. Under Executive Order 11246, as amended to include sex discrimination, the Employment Standards Administration is responsible for the direction, coordination, and evaluation of the Government program to insure nondiscrimination in employment on Federal contracts. In various cities in 1976, increased employment opportunities will be provided to minorities in the construction industry through agreements among labor, management and community groups under hometown or where necessary, imposed plans. Through its Women's Bureau, the Employment Standards Administration continues to develop policies and programs to promote the welfare of wage-earning women and to encourage their fuller utilization in the work force. Enforcement of the equal pay provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act and the Age Discrimination in Employment Act are also included in this activity. The latter are expected to become a growing and major effort under this activity based on recent 1974 amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act. Administration of affirmative action provisions of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, to hire and promote physically and mentally handicapped individuals, are also under this activity.

3. Workers' compensation.—Under this income maintenance activity, the Employment Standards Administration administers the Federal Employees' Compensation Act (FECA), Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, their various extensions, and the benefit provisions of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act. These programs insure that eligible injured workers or their survivors receive compensation and medical benefits and a range of services including rehabilitation, supervision of medical care, and technical and advisory counseling to which they are entitled. Starting in 1976, the carriers and self-insurers will be assessed the cost of Federal administration of the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act.

4. Program development and administration.—This activity provides for the direction and coordination of employment standards programs. Program planning, research, evaluation, budget and other administrative activities of the Employment Standards Administration are carried out in a manner that meets predefined objectives insuring effective and efficient program management and execution. A major economic research effort is being undertaken through 1976, to meet requirements for information on the impact of the 1974 amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act, including the efficacy of maintaining the remaining exemptions to the act.

1. Federal Employees' Compensation Act benefits.—Currently, long-term compensation benefits are being paid to 33,000 Federal and eligible civilian employees (or their survivors) under the Federal Employees' Compensation Act and its extensions, who were injured or who died as a result of work-related incidents. Injury reports are checked for compensability and if found compensable, pertinent medical bills are paid. Claims for compensation benefits are filed when the injury causes loss of job time. The 1974 amendments to the FECA change the principle of compensation benefit payments and will impact on the fund. Federal workers suffering noncontroverted traumatic injuries will continue in regular pay status for a period not to exceed 45 days. Under the amendments, Employment Standards Administration district offices retain responsibility for medical payments, controverted claims, claims for occupational disease or nontraumatic injury, and claims for disability extending beyond 45 days.

2. Disabled coal miners' benefits.—Administration of the black lung benefits program, by the Department of Labor began July 1, 1973. Title IV of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969 as amended, provides that compensation benefits and medical treatment costs be paid to those who have been totally disabled due to pneumoconiosis. The Department pays benefits directly when no responsible mine operator can be determined under the insurance provisions of the Act. Both surface and underground miners are covered by the program. Survivors who meet the test for eligibility are entitled to compensation benefits when in the case of a deceased miner, it is shown that the death was attributable to pneumoconiosis. An estimated 15,000 claims will be filed in 1976.

3. Longshore and harbor workers' compensation benefits.—Under the 1972 amendments to the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, the Federal Government pays one-half of the increased benefits provided by the amendments from direct appropriation for persons on the rolls prior to enactment. The remainder is provided from the trust funds which are financed by private employers assessed at the beginning of each calendar year for their proportionate share of these payments.

Transition period.—The amounts proposed for the transition period will support activities and workload at the 1976 level.

The trust funds consist of amounts received from employers for the death of an employee where no person is entitled to compensation for such death, and for fines and penalty payments (33 U.S.C. 908; 31 U.S.C. 725; 33 U.S.C. 944).

These trust funds are available for payments of additional compensation for second injuries. When a second injury results in a permanent partial disability which, combined with a previous disability, results in permanent total disability or death, the employer provides compensation only for the disability caused by the subsequent injury. Compensation to supplement the employer's payment is provided from this fund. Maintenance payments are made to employees undergoing vocational rehabilitation to enable them to return to remunerative occupations. Payments are made in cases where judgment against employers cannot be satisfied by reasons of insolvency or other circumstances precluding payment, and to provide medical, surgical, and other treatment in disability cases where there has been a default by the insolvency of an employer. In addition, provision is made for the costs of necessary rehabilitation services not otherwise available to disabled longshore and harbor workers.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration is responsible for performing the functions assigned to the Secretary of Labor by the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970. The act extends mandatory Federal standards of safety and health protection having general application to over 62 million workers in nearly 5 million places of employment. The act provides for grants to States to assist them in administering and enforcing State programs for occupational safety and health which have been approved by the Secretary, and provides for direct enforcement of Federal standards in States declining to assert jurisdiction.

1. Safety and health standards.—Mandatory standards are promulgated which assure the greatest possible protection of the safety and health of workers. New and revised standards are proposed and promulgated on the basis of criteria recommendations of the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH), special advisory committees appointed by the Secretary, Federal and State agencies with related responsibilities, and other interested parties and organizations. All new standards, except emergency temporary standards, are promulgated under procedures providing opportunity for public comment. Petitions for the promulgation, modification, or revocation of standards, and applications for variances or exemptions from the standards, are evaluated and acted upon in accordance with published rules of practice. Prior to promulgating permanent standards, evaluations are made concerning their possible economic and environmental impact.

2. Enforcement.—Enforcement of the occupational safety and health standards is performed by the physical inspection of plants and facilities. Federal matching grants of up to 50% of total costs are provided so that States may provide for the coverage of one or more occupational safety and health issues under an approved plan with standards and a program of enforcement which have been determined to be as effective as the Federal program. Enforcement program operations are targeted to the investigation of fatal or catastrophic accidents, the investigation of claims of imminent danger and bona fide employee complaints, inspections of establishments or industries engaged in work processes with a high incidence and severity of work-related injuries or illnesses, and inspections of a cross-section of establishments in all industries. The voluntary cooperation of employers and employees is actively encouraged, and technical assistance and advice is offered upon request. State programs are monitored to insure that all elements of their approved plans are implemented effectively and that adequate funds and resources are provided. Federal and State enforcement efforts are integrated to provide a balanced national program of occupational safety and health. By the end of 1975, an estimated 30 States will have approved occupational safety and health plans. It is estimated that 100,000 inspections will be made under the act in 1976 by Federal enforcement personnel and that 200,000 inspections will be made by States with approved programs and full State legislative authority to issue citations and assess proposed penalties.

3. Training, education, and information.—Training courses, educational programs, and information are provided to employers, employees, trade associations, union representatives, State and local safety and health personnel, and other interested members of the public to assist them in an understanding of their rights and responsibilities under the act and of the actions necessary to assure a safe and healthful workplace for workers. Short-term technical and professional training is conducted to increase the number and competence of personnel engaged in the field of occupational safety and health. Federal departments and agencies are provided training and technical assistance in establishing and maintaining agency safety programs which will afford Federal employees protection consistent with that provided private sector employees under the act. In 1976, OSHA training emphasis will shift from direct training to providing curricula packages to be adopted by the existing training delivery systems in the public and private training sector.

4. Safety and health statistics.—Statistics on occupational fatalities, injuries and illnesses are collected and published annually to aid in the identification of occupational safety and health problems and to facilitate improvements in the administration of the act. Studies are conducted to identify circumstances and events associated with injuries and illnesses which may suggest causes and means of prevention.

5. Executive direction and administration.—Executive direction, planning and evaluation, and management support functions are structured to assure responsive administration and effective implementation of the act.

To a very considerable degree, program responsibilities are decentralized to the field with the implementation of these programs as they affect the public performed by a Federal field staff. Two-thirds of the OSHA staff are now located in 10 regional offices of the Department, 66 area and district offices, and 37 field stations.

Transition period.—The amounts proposed for the transition period will support activities and workload at the 1976 level.

4. Productivity and technology.—Analyses are prepared on output per man-hour and unit-labor cost trends for both the entire U.S. economy and for specific industries. Studies are conducted on automation and other technological changes and the adjustments to such changes. Studies are made of labor requirements for selected types of construction. Analyses and international comparisons are made of prices, wages, employment, unemployment, and unit-labor costs. Research is conducted on the effects of international trade on U.S. employment.

5. Economic research.—Long-range projections of U.S. economic growth are prepared. Analytical studies of the impact of economic changes on employment are made. Information, reports, and advisory services for policy and program work are provided on labor conditions in foreign countries. Special economic and social studies are undertaken and special reports prepared for the Commissioner, the Secretary, the Council of Economic Advisers, and other Government agencies.

6. Executive direction and staff services.—Provides leadership in developing plans and policies for the Bureau's economic, statistical, and management programs. Program plans are coordinated and evaluated. Statistical and data processing systems are operated and maintained. Research and report activities are coordinated; publications and releases are planned and edited; and a central inquiry service is maintained.

7. Revision of the Consumer Price Index.—The Consumer Price Index measures average changes in the retail prices of selected goods, rents, and services. A revision to modernize the index is underway to meet the demands for its use in present-day domestic, economic, and industrial planning. The revision program, which was initiated in 1970, has been phased so that a revised index will be completed, tested, and published in 1977.

Reimbursable program.—Funds are advanced from sources outside the Federal Government to finance special statistical studies. During 1976, the Bureau will collect and analyze store inventory prices for the American Retail Federation, conduct surveys on compensation and labor cost studies for the State of New York, and develop an index of cost of operating apartment houses for the city of New York.

Transition period.—The amounts proposed for the transition period will support activities and workload at the 1976 level.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 101. Appropriations in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for supplies, services, and rental of conference space within the District of Columbia, as the Secretary of Labor shall deem necessary for settlement of labor-management disputes. (Department of Labor Appropriation Act, 1975.)

TITLE IV—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 401. Appropriations contained in this Act, available for salaries and expenses, shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109 but at rates for individuals not to exceed the per diem rate equivalent to the rate for GS-18.

SEC. 402. Appropriations contained in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902).

SEC. 403. Appropriations contained in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for expenses of attendance at meetings which are concerned with the functions or activities for which the appropriation is made or which will contribute to improved conduct, supervision, or management of those functions or activities.

SEC. 404. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 405. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used to finance any Civil Service Interagency Board of Examiners.

SEC. 406. No part of the funds appropriated under this Act shall be used to provide a loan, guarantee of a loan, a grant, the salary of or any remuneration whatever to any individual applying for admission, attending, employed by, teaching at, or doing research at an institution of higher education who has engaged in conduct on or after August 1, 1969, which involves the use of (or the assistance to others in the use of) force or the threat of force or the seizure of property under the control of an institution of higher education, to require or prevent the availability of certain curriculum, or to prevent the faculty, administrative officials, or students in such institution from engaging in their duties or pursuing their studies at such institution.

SEC. 407. The Secretary of Labor and the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare are authorized to transfer unexpended balances of prior appropriations to accounts corresponding to current appropriations provided in this Act: Provided, That such transferred balances are used for the same purpose, and for the same periods of time, for which they were originally appropriated.

SEC. [408] 407. Funds contained in this Act used to pay for contract services by profitmaking consultant firms or to support consultant appointments shall not exceed the fiscal year 1973 level: Provided, That obligations made from funds contained in this Act for consultant fees and services to any individual or group of consulting firms on any one project in excess of $25,000 shall be reported to the Senate and House of Representatives at least twice annually.

SEC. [409] 408. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used, other than for normal and recognized executive legislative relationships, for publicity or propaganda purposes, for the preparation, distribution, or use of any kit, pamphlet, booklet, publication, radio, television or film presentation designed to support or defeat legislation pending before the Congress, except in presentation to the Congress itself.

SEC. 410. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be available for paying to the Administrator of the General Services Administration in excess of 90 percent of the standard level user charge established pursuant to section 210(j) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended, for space and services.]

SEC. [411] 409. The Secretary of Labor and the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare are each authorized to make available not to exceed $7,500 in the current fiscal year and $1,875 in the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, from funds available for salaries and expenses under titles I and II, respectively, for official reception and representation expenses.

SEC. [412] 410. None of the funds appropriated by this Act shall be used to pay for any research program or project or any program, project, or course which is of an experimental nature, or any other activity involving human participants, which is determined by the Secretary or a court of competent jurisdiction to present a danger to the physical, mental, or emotional well-being of a participant or subject of such program, project, or course, without the written, informed consent of each participant or subject, or his parents or legal guardian, if such participant or subject is under eighteen years of age. The Secretary shall adopt appropriate regulations respecting this section. (Departments of Labor, and Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1975.)

1. Executive direction and policy formulation.—The Secretary is assisted in the formulation of policy and direction of the Department's activities by appropriate staff officers, specialized offices, and functional bureaus of the Department.

2. Conduct of diplomatic and consular relations with foreign countries.—This includes representation of the United States and its citizens abroad, political and economic negotiations and reporting, consular operations, and overseas administrative services. Major items of increase are for rising prices and local employee wage rates in other countries, increased consular workload overseas, passport modernization, and opening new posts.

3. Conduct of diplomatic relations with international organizations.—In collaboration with other Government agencies, U.S. policy is developed and coordinated on political and security issues and in such specialized fields as world health, education, and labor activities.

4. Domestic public information and liaison.—This program provides for informing the American public on international policies and also keeping the Department informed on American attitudes on foreign policy.

5. Central program services.—These provide personnel and physical security measures, operations of the Foreign Service Institute, and the administration of a global communications system for civilian activities of the Government, including services for other agencies on a reimbursable basis.

6. Administrative and staff activities.—This includes normal domestic administrative activities.

ACQUISITION, OPERATION, AND MAINTENANCE OF BUILDINGS ABROAD (SPECIAL FOREIGN CURRENCY PROGRAM)

For payments in foreign currencies which the Treasury Department determines to be excess to the normal requirements of the United States for the purposes authorized by [section 104(b)(4) of the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1704)] section 4 of the Foreign Service Buildings Act of 1926, as amended (22 U.S.C. 295), to be credited to and expended under the appropriation account for "Acquisition, operation, and maintenance of buildings abroad", to remain available until expended, [$4,870,000] $9,785,000.

For "Acquisition, operation, and maintenance of buildings abroad (special foreign currency program)" for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, $800,000. (Department of State Appropriation Act, 1975; additional authorizing legislation to be proposed for fiscal year 1976, and for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.)

Since 1961 a separate appropriation for payments in excess foreign currencies has been enacted annually to supplement the regular appropriation. These currencies are used to acquire or construct real property and to finance operating and maintenance costs to the greatest extent possible. Countries in which the appropriation is expected to be used in 1976 are the Arab Republic of Egypt, Burma, Guinea, India, Pakistan, Poland, and Tunisia. These funds are credited to and expended under the regular appropriation.

EMERGENCIES IN THE DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR SERVICE

For expenses necessary to enable the Secretary of State to meet unforeseen emergencies arising in the Diplomatic and Consular Service, to be expended pursuant to the requirement of section 291 of the Revised Statutes (31 U.S.C. 107), $2,100,000.

For "Emergencies in the diplomatic and consular service" for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, $1,000,000. (Department of State Appropriation Act, 1975; additional authorizing legislation to be proposed for fiscal year 1976, and for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.)

These funds are used for relief and repatriation loans to U.S. citizens abroad and for other emergencies of the Department. Repayments are deposited to miscellaneous receipts. The outstanding balance of the loans subject to collection by the Department of State amounted to $1,301 thousand on June 30, 1974.

In order to make adequate provision for possible requirements, almost half of the annual amount is requested for July through September 1976.

PAYMENT TO FOREIGN SERVICE RETIREMENT AND DISABILITY FUND

For payment to the Foreign Service Retirement and Disability Fund, as authorized by the Foreign Service Act of 1946, as amended (22 U.S.C. 1105-1106), [$20,535,000] $6,355,000.

For "Payment to Foreign Service retirement and disability fund" for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, $1,590,000. The current appropriation finances, by 30 equal annual installments, the unfunded liability created by new or liberalized benefits, new groups of beneficiaries, or salary increases. The request for 1976 includes $4,935 thousand for continuing installments for salary increases through 1973, and $1,420 thousand for salary increases effective in October 1974. A 1975 supplemental appropriation is requested for the first installment for the 1974 salary increases, as shown below.

Of the amount appropriated in the current fiscal year, $15,600 thousand is for the inclusion in the Foreign Service retirement system of career employees of the Agency for International Development. This amount cannot be used due to lack of authorizing legislation, and is proposed to be transferred to that agency as shown below.

The permanent appropriation provides payments to the fund for increasing shares of the interest on the unfunded liability and annuity disbursements attributable to military service: 40% in 1974, 50% in 1975, and 60% in 1976.

The fund is maintained through (a) contributions by participants, consisting of all Foreign Service officers, Foreign Service information officers, Foreign Service reserve officers with unlimited tenure, and eligible Foreign Service staff officers and employees, of 7% of their salaries; (b) matching Government contributions; (c) special Government contributions from Payment to the Foreign Service retirement and disability fund, above; and (d) interest on investments (22 U.S.C. 1062).

It is estimated that approximately 4,448 annuitants will be paid retirement benefits from this fund at the end of 1976 compared with 3,604 at the end of 1974 and 4,056 at the end of 1975. Gratuities represent payments to Foreign Service officers in classes 4, 5, 6, and 7 who are selected out of the Service.

The United States contributes its assessed share of the budgets of the above listed organizations.

Increases in U.S. contributions are largely attributable to the costs of maintaining prior year levels of organizations' operations, especially due to wage and price increases and currency reevaluations. Other principal increases include: (1) new salary increases and expanded economic and social activities approved by the United Nations; (2) expansion by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization of its education, scientific, communications, human rights and population planning activities; (3) increased World Health Organization health and environmental services; (4) enlarged nuclear and environmental safety activity by the International Atomic Energy Agency; (5) additional Pan American Health Organization emphasis on health manpower development and environmental health; and (6) the newly established International Energy Agency in the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development. Contributions to the International Labor Organization, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, and the International Civil Aviation Organization increase significantly in 1976 in part because sufficient funds were not appropriated in previous years to pay in full U.S. assessments for calendar years 1973 and 1974.

CONTRIBUTIONS FOR INTERNATIONAL PEACEKEEPING ACTIVITIES

This appropriation will provide U.S. contributions for international peacekeeping activities established by the United Nations or by international agreement. Two such activities are included in the budget request for 1976.

1. The International Commission for Control and Supervision.—The Commission was created in 1973 under the terms of the Paris agreement on ending the war and restoring peace in Vietnam to oversee the ceasefire, to investigate and report on alleged violations, and to assist in developing a climate conducive to further reduction of tensions in the area.

2. The United Nations Force in Cyprus.—This force was established by the United Nations in 1964 to help maintain peace in Cyprus. It has been financed by voluntary contributions from foreign assistance appropriations through 1975.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY AND WATER COMMISSION,

1. General administration.—Activities comprise negotiations and supervision of joint projects with Mexico to solve international problems, overall control of the operation of the U.S. section of the Commission, formulation of operating policies and procedures, and financial management to carry out international obligations of the United States, pursuant to treaty and congressional authorization.

2. General engineering.—This provides for (a) supervision of measurement and determination of the national ownership of boundary waters, (b) technical engineering guidance and supervision of the planning, construction and operation and maintenance of international projects (c) studies relating to international problems of a continuing nature, (d) continuation with Mexico and the Environmental Protection Agency of border environmental studies and (e) coordination with Mexico and the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation of wild and scenic river studies of the Rio Grande.

3. Preliminary surveys and investigations.—Preliminary surveys and investigations are made to determine the need for and feasibility of projects for the solution of international problems arising along the boundary. The proposed program for 1976 includes the following investigations: (a) Implementation of the Colorado River salinity agreement with Mexico, (b) international salinity problems, Rio Grande, and (c) division of waters crossing land boundary.

4. Operation and maintenance.—This appropriation finances the U.S. part of the operation and maintenance of the various international projects as follows:

(a) River channel and levee projects.—These projects include Rio Grande canalization and rectification projects, American dam and canal projects, Presidio flood control project in the El Paso area; the Lower Rio Grande flood control project including the Anzalduas and Retamal International Flood Control Diversion Dams in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas; and the Lower Colorado River clearing project.

(b) Dams.—These projects include the Amistad Dam and reservoir, and the Falcon Dam and reservoir, both built with Mexico, and the Falcon powerplant.

(c) Gaging stations.—The international gaging station program involves the operation and maintenance of 102 gaging stations in the United States on the Rio Grande and Colorado River and taking measurements of river flows and diversions to provide the basis for the determination of national ownership of waters.

(d) Water quality control.—These projects include the International Lower Rio Grande water quality improvement project built in Mexico to reduce the salinity of the Rio Grande; the Douglas, Arizona-Agua Prieta, Sonora and the Nogales, Arizona-Nogales, Sonora sanitation plants.

(e) Maintenance of boundary.—These projects include maintenance of the relocated channel, maritime boundary markers, surveys as required by the 1970 Treaty, and establishment and maintenance of intermediate western land boundary markers.

1. Lower Rio Grande flood control improvement program.—Authorized by agreement with Mexico and the act of August 19, 1935 (49 Stat. 660). Work will continue on repairs and improvements of flood control works to protect the cities of Brownsville, Harlingen, Mercedes, Hidalgo, and Weslaco, whose metropolitan areas include a combined population of 125,000 and over 400,000 acres of irrigated land on the U.S. side of the Rio Grande, from river floods such as occurred in September 1967 following Hurricane Beulah.

2. Tijuana River flood control.—Authorized by the act of October 10, 1966 (80 Stat. 884). The initial construction of U.S. improvements required for flood control in the Tijuana River Valley in California and Baja, California, is scheduled to begin in calendar year 1975.

3. Settlement of boundary disputes.—Authorized by the American-Mexican Boundary Treaty Act of 1972, approved October 25, 1972 (Public Law 92-549), to facilitate compliance with the Treaty between the United States of America and the United Mexican States, signed November 23, 1970. Work will continue in relocating the Rio Grande at three locations to effect transfers of land from one country to the other, establishing maritime boundaries, mapping river boundaries, rectification works, acquiring easements, and constructing an international flood control project in the Presidio area.

4. Rio Grande canalization project.—This project was completed in 1943. Recent studies show that modifications are required in the project to safeguard from flood development that has taken place since then.

The 1968 appropriation completed the financing, as authorized by the American-Mexican Chamizal Convention Act of 1964, for compliance with the Chamizal Convention between the United States and Mexico. The transfer of the lands between Mexico and the United States has been accomplished. The relocation of the Rio Grande channel was completed in December 1968.

The outlays represent final payment with respect to levee improvements.

AMERICAN SECTIONS, INTERNATIONAL COMMISSIONS

For expenses necessary to enable the President to perform the obligations of the United States pursuant to treaties between the United States and Great Britain, in respect to Canada, signed January 11, 1909 (36 Stat. 2448), and February 24, 1925 (44 Stat. 2102); and the treaty between the United States and Canada, signed February 27, 1950; including services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109; hire of passenger motor vehicles; [$1,350,000] $1,576,000, to be disbursed under the direction of the Secretary of State and to be available also for additional expenses of the American Sections, International Commissions, as hereinafter set forth:

These funds are used for payment to U.S. share of the expenses of:

1. International Boundary Commission.—This Commission keeps the United States-Canadian boundary line marked in accordance with existing treaties. It also maintains boundary vistas by periodic tree cutting and chemical vegetation control.

2. International Joint Commission.—The Commission, at the request of the Governments of the United States and Canada, investigates and reports on recommendations relevant to boundary waters and other matters of mutual concern to both countries along the border. A major portion of its current activities is related to transboundary water pollution investigations, surveillance and research in the Great Lakes Basin, as provided in the United States-Canada Great Lakes Water Quality Agreement dated 15 April 1972. In cooperation with the U.S. Geological Survey, the Commission gathers streamflow data and acts to ensure appropriate apportionment of international waters; and with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, regulates the operation of a number of river flow control facilities located in boundary waters.

This appropriation provides for the educational and cultural exchange programs of the Department of State.

These programs are designed to strengthen patterns of informal communication among leadership groups and institutions in ways which will favorably influence the environment within which U.S. foreign policy is carried out. They (1) focus on individuals of exceptional talent, promise or influence; (2) emphasize exchanges involving cultural, educational, governmental and other institutions; (3) help achieve other U.S. goals at the same time they improve communication; and (4) seek mutuality of interest, involvement and benefit as the most effective way to develop lasting understanding.

Increases in 1976 will expand and broaden individual and institutional contacts with foreign societies, especially with Latin America, the Middle East, the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe, and the People's Republic of China.

Note.—In 1974, $10 million were transferred from funds available under the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 pursuant to section 2(c) of the Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1962. In 1975, $5 million were similarly transferred from foreign assistance appropriations and $10 million were appropriated for assistance to Palestinian refugees in the continuing resolution.

The Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1962 (22 U.S.C. 2601) authorized assistance to migrants and refugees through international organizations, including assistance for South Asian and Latin American refugees through the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees and for Palestinian refugees through the United Nations Relief and Works Agency and through grants to voluntary agencies for groups of African, Eastern European, and East Asian refugees. Subsequent legislation (Public Law 93-312) authorized an annual contribution of $500,000 to the International Committee of the Red Cross. The transition period includes funds for a contribution in 1976 to the International Committee of the Red Cross and for operational and administrative expenses.

1. General administration.—This activity includes the costs of policy development, central supervisory, and coordinating functions necessary for the overall planning and direction of the Department. It covers the immediate secretarial offices as well as those of the assistant secretaries and the general counsel. Also covered are staff assistance and supervision of general management and administration in the Department and general administrative services provided to the organizations financed from this appropriation.

2. Regional rail reorganization.—This activity provides the necessary expenses to carry out the Secretary's planning, report preparation, and other functions under the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973. For 1976, the funding for the major portion of this activity is in the Federal Railroad Administration.

An appropriation of $9,395 thousand is requested to continue general administration activities for the transition period from July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.

The Department of Transportation Act of 1966 assigns to the Secretary broad responsibilities for the development and coordination of national transportation policies and programs. This appropriation finances those research activities and studies which directly support the Secretary's responsibilities and which can more effectively or appropriately be conducted in the Office of the Secretary than by the operating administrations within the Department. The program is carried out primarily through contracts with other Federal agencies, educational institutions, nonprofit research organizations, and private firms.

1. Transportation policy and planning.—Transportation problems and issues are assessed and policies developed on the basis of empirical and systematic research. The 1976 program will emphasize modernization of transportation regulatory practices, development of transportation energy conservation policies and improvement in the Department's policy information base to yield timely and reliable information for policy decisions.

2. University research.—This research is designed to assure that resources of the higher education community are effectively brought to bear on transportation problems. Another aim is to encourage greater involvement of universities and colleges with the Department, State and local governments, and the transportation industry.

3. Transportation systems development and technology.—In general, projects are designed to complement research and development programs of the operating administrations and to stimulate industry efforts to advance transportation technology. Funds requested in this activity will continue the advanced research and development needed to conserve energy through motor vehicle efficiency and will be used to coordinate research and development departmentwide as well as to promote research and development payoff by sharing study results and other research products with State and local governments and industry.

4. Special programs.—Projects are chiefly to provide technical studies and other data in support of departmental effort in the areas of safety program coordination, hazardous materials and pipeline safety, consumer and environmental affairs, and facilitation of passenger and freight transportation. Emphasis in 1976 will be the development of a larger environmental impact assessment capability.

An appropriation of $8.6 million is requested to continue these activities for the transition period from July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.

The working capital fund finances common administrative services which are centrally performed in the interest of economy and efficiency in the Department.

Services rendered are charged for at rates which return in full all operating expenses, including a normal reserve for accrued annual leave and depreciation of equipment. The fund is reimbursed in advance by the operating administrations and offices being served.

The activities of the working capital fund have been consolidated as follows:

1. Publishing and graphics activities include publishing and graphic program; still photographic services; and visuals services.

2. Support services activities include travel services and imprest fund; central employment information; warehouse management; parking management; chauffeur services, mail and messenger service; management information center; and facilities management planned for centralization in 1976.

3. Library services include information retrieval services.

4. Transportation computer activities include computer time-sharing service; and the Transportation Computer Center.

The fund was established to facilitate the operations of the Transportation Systems Center in Cambridge, Mass. The Center is funded from advances received from the Office of the Secretary and the operating administrations in the Department.

The Transportation Systems Center serves as a technical resource for the Office of the Secretary and the operating administrations. Its planned projects for 1976 are grouped generally along the following lines:

Improve capacity and service.—This area of effort is concentrated in aviation, rail, and urban systems. The air transportation area involves traffic control from the airport landside to wake vortex avoidance. Rail and urban systems stress methods, demonstrations, and innovative service and track improvements.

Reduce costs.—TSC effort in air traffic control automation, security systems, and tunneling comprises this category of effort.

Protect the environment and conserve energy.—The major thrusts in this area are the energy program, noise abatement, and the climatic impact assessment conferences conducted by TSC.

Improve safety.—TSC continues to be the principal source of rail safety research in the Department. Support in alcohol interlocks, crashworthiness, and human factors comprise additional activities in the safety area.

Provide future options.—The satellite effort is the most extensive part of this category.

Improve research and development payoff.—This area is mostly socioeconomic oriented. Such areas as data and statistics, economics research, AVM systems, and the sharing of this information with State and local governments forms this body of effort.

The Coast Guard employs multipurpose vessels, aircraft, and shore units, strategically located along the coasts and inland waterways of the United States and in selected areas overseas to carry out the duties specified in title 14, United States Code.

1. Search and rescue.—Most Coast Guard operating facilities have the capacity for promoting safety on or over the high seas and on waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States. The Coast Guard performs any and all acts necessary to rescue and aid persons and save property placed in jeopardy due to marine and aircraft accidents, floods, and ice conditions. (For domestic icebreaking data, see: 5. Ocean operations.)

2. Aids to navigation.—A network of manned and unmanned aids to navigation is maintained along our coasts and on our inland waterways through the use of tenders and shore facilities to insure the safe passage of the mariner. Loran stations are operated in the United States and abroad to serve the needs of the armed services and marine and air commerce. Administrative control is exercised over the construction, maintenance, and operation of bridges across the navigable waters of the United States to insure that the safe passage of navigation is not unreasonably interfered with.

3. Marine safety.—The Coast Guard insures compliance with Federal statutes and regulations pertaining to the merchant marine industry by reviewing plans and specifications for the construction or alteration of merchant vessels; by periodic inspections; by licensing and by setting standards, procedures, and practices under which merchant marine personnel are licensed and regulated.

4. Marine environmental protection.—Under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, as amended, the National Environmental Policy Act, the Ports and Waterways Safety Act, Deepwater Port Act of 1974 and other laws, international agreements, and conventions, the Coast Guard is charged with the prevention of damage to the marine environment from intentional and unintentional acts and for the enhancement of environmental quality. Under the Ports and Waterways Safety Act, title 14 of the United States Code, the Dangerous Cargo Act, the Tank Vessel Act, Executive Order 10173, as amended, and various other statutes, the Coast Guard must safeguard and secure U.S. ports and waterways against environmental harm, accidental or intentional loss, damage, or injury, and by doing so, to improve the economic utilization of ports and waterways while assuring their availability in time of national emergency.

5. Ocean operations.—The Coast Guard participates in the national marine sciences program, which is coordinated by the Interagency Committee on Marine Science and Engineering. Polar icebreaking is performed by specially constructed icebreakers engaged in operations in support of Coast Guard programs and other agencies. Also included in this program is conduct of the International Ice Patrol and enforcement of international agreements and Federal laws, except for those related to pollution, traffic control, and port and vessel safety.

This appropriation provides for the acquisition, construction, and improvement of vessels, aircraft, shore units, and aids to navigation. Most Coast Guard facilities are multimission facilities listed below under their primary mission area. "Operating expenses" funds are used to defray expenses of minor acquisitions, alterations, additions, renewals, and replacements where estimated costs of a project are $50 thousand or less and where renewals and replacements involve less than 75% of the original facility.

1. Search and rescue.—Under this activity several small search and rescue boats and one replacement harbor tug boat will be constructed. Ten medium range surveillance aircraft will be procured and anticollision strobe lights will be installed on other Coast Guard aircraft. In addition, direction finding (DF) equipment will be installed on several Coast Guard vessels.

This activity will also provide for construction, replacement, or renovation at nine shore sites and facilities.

2. Aids to navigation.—Provision is made under this activity for the procurement of aids to navigation boats, construction of two (2) inland construction tenders, renovation and improvement of several buoy tenders, and the modernization of outdated vessel communications equipment on five (5) cutters.

Additionally, major activities will focus on the establishment of new and the improvement of existing waterways aids to navigation; the continuation of the lighthouse automation and modernization program (LAMP); replacement of outdated electronic equipment for several Loran-C stations; and continuation of the Loran-C program to provide radionavigation service for the west coast and the Gulf of Mexico.

3. Marine environmental protection.—This program provides for the procurement and installation of firefighting equipment on selected boats and construction of an industrial waste disposal and collection system at the Coast Guard Air Base, Elizabeth City, N.C.

Pollution control efforts continue with the alteration of several Coast Guard vessels to eliminate the discharge of oily and nonoily wastes into U.S. waters, and procurement of devices and equipment for control and removal of oily discharges in the Arctic, on the high seas, and other U.S. waters.

Construction of a vessel traffic system at New Orleans, La. (phase II) will be provided for:

4. Ocean operations.—Under this activity, improved communications equipment will be installed on two vessels, and habitability improvements made to selected vessels in the first phase of a program to improve living conditions for enlisted personnel aboard these vessels. In addition, the rehabilitation of the consolidated base at Kodiak, Alaska will continue and the consolidation of Coast Guard facilities at pier 36/37 in Seattle, Wash., completed.

5. General support.—Major effort under this activity will be to provide for the construction and purchase of housing for Coast Guard military personnel and their dependents where living accommodations are inadequate. This activity also provides essential funding for administrative expenses in support of each construction project and for the survey and design of future construction projects.

The Coast Guard Reserve training program's objective is to provide qualified individuals and trained units to be available for active duty in time of war or national emergency, and to augment regular forces in performance of their peacetime missions during domestic emergencies and periods of routine as well as peak operations.

Direct program.—1. Initial training.—This activity encompasses direct costs of initial training for two program categories of nonprior service trainees. Program one involves those who perform 5 to 11 consecutive months initial training comprised of recruit training and attendance at a class A school. The total number of months varies with the length of the class A school. Program two involves training for those reservists whose performance of initial training is split between two consecutive summer periods. The first period, 2½ months, consists of recruit training. The second period, 2½ to 4 months, consists of specialty training and/or on-the-job training with the length of the period varying with the type of training elected.

2. Continuing training.—Direct costs of officer and enlisted drills and annual active duty for training are programed under this activity.

3. Operation and maintenance of training facilities.—All costs for the operation and maintenance of Reserve training facilities are programed under this activity. Included are the costs of a training vessel, the prorated share of the cost of joint usage of Coast Guard and other Armed Forces facilities, the cost of providing stationkeeper support to the organized Reserve training units, and the procurement of training aids and facilities (under $50 thousand).

4. Administration.—This activity encompasses all administrative costs of the Reserve training program.

Reimbursable program—5. Miscellaneous services for other accounts.—The Coast Guard performs functions related to mobilization for the Selective Service System for which reimbursement is received.

1. Search and rescue.—Emphasis will be placed on the development and testing of the prototype medium range surveillance radar and development of the emergency radio beacon homer. Other major projects include continued improvement and testing of the distress alerting and locating system, participation in testing of a marine satellite communications system, and investigation of the necessary operational capabilities for a high-performance surface craft.

2. Aids to navigation.—Program activities are intended to reduce potential for pollution-causing incidents; and to improve the effectiveness, reliability, and position accuracy of existing navigational aids, and to reduce the costs of operating that system. Major efforts include continued development and testing of lightweight, low maintenance, and nonpolluting buoyage system components, and the development of future applications of Loran-C for precision navigation in the harbor and estuary regions.

3. Marine safety.—Commercial vessel safety activities include: (a) continuation of spill risk analysis to identify critical factors which can be altered to reduce the potential for damage from hazardous material spills; (b) analysis and testing of selected cargoes to assess their respective hazards; (c) analysis of cargo systems to improve inspection procedures; and (d) continued development of improved fire safety equipment and techniques.

Boating safety activities include indepth accident investigations for determinations of design deficiencies, research and analysis of boat construction and performance factors, and development of test procedures for evaluating the effectiveness of performance standards.

4. Marine environmental protection.—Major emphasis continues on: (a) the development of remote capability for detection, classification, and quantification of pollutant spills; (b) development of new systems and procedures for the control and cleanup of oil and other hazardous substances in fast-current regions; and (c) development of equipment to handle shipboard waste disposal.

Vessel traffic system development will concentrate on system automation techniques and performance criteria.

Deepwater ports research and development will concentrate on quantifying and increasing engineering safety factors in the construction and operation of the offshore facilities.

5. Ocean operations.—Major program emphasis will be placed on supporting the test and evaluation of new polar class icebreakers.

6. Program support.—This area provides for administrative and project management personnel at Coast Guard Headquarters, and for the operation, maintenance, and personnel costs of the R. & D. laboratory facilities. In addition, specific plans are to continue ongoing work in energy conservation and substitution.

This fund was established under section 311(k) of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, as amended, to insure immediate cleanup of oil or other hazardous polluting substances spilled into the navigable waters of the United States, adjoining shorelines, or waters of the contiguous zone. The fund will be used when a spill occurs and the responsible owner or operator of a vessel, of an onshore facility, or of an offshore facility (whether in the public or private sector) does not accomplish immediate cleanup with his own resources. Expenditures from the fund will later be reimbursed by the responsible owner or operator. In addition, all fines and civil penalties assessed under section 311(k) of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, as amended, will be deposited into the fund.

The Coast Guard supply fund, in accordance with law, finances the procurement of uniform clothing; commissary provisions; general stores; technical material; and fuel for vessels over 200 feet in length. The fund is financed by reimbursements from sale of goods.

Activity of approximately $50 million in this fund in 1976 is divided: 10% for uniform clothing; 50% for commissary provisions; and 40% for general stores, technical material, and fuel.

Higher sales in 1975 and 1976 in clothing, commissary provisions, and fuel are expected as a result of increases in the number of recruits, new enlisted uniform, and increases in price levels.

The Coast Guard cadet fund is utilized by the Superintendent of the Coast Guard Academy to receive, plan, control, and expend personal funds of Coast Guard cadets. By use of the fund each cadet is assured funds to meet personal expenses while at the Academy and an adequate balance in his account at graduation for officer outfits, civilian clothing, and graduation leave expenses. The fund also receives and expends funds of the Coast Guard Academy Athletic Association.

The Coast Guard surcharge collections, sales of commissary stores fund is used to finance expenses incurred in connection with the operation of the Coast Guard commissary stores at Coast Guard Base, Governors Island, N.Y.; Coast Guard Training Center, Petaluma, Calif.; and Coast Guard Base, Kodiak, Alaska. Revenue is derived from a surcharge placed on sales to authorized store patrons (14 U.S.C. 487).

1. Operations.—(a) Operation of traffic control system.—This activity provides for the operation of a national system of air traffic management in the United States and its possessions. With the aid of radar, communications, and other facilities, traffic management personnel at 26 centers monitor and control en route flights of civil and military aircraft conducted under instrument conditions to assure safety and to expedite the flow of traffic. Control towers are operated at 423 major civil airports to guide traffic movements on and in the vicinity of the airports. Some 328 domestic and international flight service stations transmit weather and other information to pilots and relay traffic control data between ground controllers and pilots. The increase in 1976 will provide for increased employment in the controller work force to handle workload growth and to operate newly commissioned air traffic control facilities. The accompanying legislative proposal which would establish landing fees at FAA operated control tower airports provides for a modest reduction in this request.

TRENDS IN VOLUME OF AIR TRAFFIC

Year	Landings and takeoffs at airports with FAA towers (in millions)	Instrument operations at airports with FAA traffic control service (in millions)	Revenue passenger miles (in billions)
1970	56.2	17.5	129.0
1971	54.2	17.5	132.3
1972	53.6	19.4	144.2
1973	53.9	22.6	157.9
1974	56.8	24.1	165.0
1975 (estimate)	61.6	26.2	172.5
1976 (estimate)	66.4	27.6	188.1

(b) Installation and materiel services.—This activity covers procurement, contracting, and materiel management programs; supply support and leased communications services for the traffic control system; and supply support for agency aircraft except for aircraft related to the research and development programs, and lease costs for space. Major increases in 1976 are to provide supply support, leased communications services for air traffic control, and air navigation facilities and space rental.

(c) Maintenance of traffic control system.—This activity covers the direction and engineering services related to the maintenance, improvement, and modification of facilities and equipment in the traffic control system; and technical operation and maintenance of a national network of air navigation and traffic control aids in the United States and its possessions. Major increases in 1976 are for the maintenance of new traffic control and navigation aids planned for commissioning, and additional funding for equipment and special maintenance projects.

(d) Administration of flight standards program.—This activity provides for: (1) Monitoring the accuracy of signals emitted from the air navigation aids; and (2) the establishment and enforcement of the civil air regulations which are designed to assure the high standards of safety in aviation. Inspections are made and certificates issued for aircraft, airmen, aircraft operators, and air agencies which meet safety or competency requirements. This program also provides for the management, operation and maintenance of agency aircraft used in facility flight inspection, development of flight procedures, and inspector flight training. Resources are also included under this activity for the conduct of the Federal Government's air transportation security program.

(e) Administration of medical programs.—This activity covers the development of regulations governing the physical and mental fitness of airmen whose health affects safety in flight; the development and supervision of a health and medical program for agency personnel; the administration of an aviation medical research program.

(f) Development direction.—This activity covers the planning, direction, and evaluation of the engineering and development program and related administrative support, and for the operation of the National Aviation Facilities Experimental Center at Atlantic City, N.J.

(g) Administration of airports program.—This activity provides for the administration of an airport planning grant program, a development assistance program for the improvement of public airports, and an airport certification program as authorized by the Airport and Airway Development Act of 1970, as amended. The accompanying legislative proposal which would eliminate unnecessary Federal involvement in the grant program provides for a reduction in this request.

The request for the July to September transition period provides for continuation of all programs with no increases in positions.

1. Engineering and development.—(a) Aircraft safety.—This subactivity covers the development of regulations for an accident prevention program designed to promote flight safety of civil aircraft by assuring the design, flight performance and airworthiness of aircraft and development of systems and devices to prevent and deter either hijacking or sabotage in the civil air transportation system. (b) Aviation medicine.—This subactivity provides for conducting an aero-medical research and development program to identify and eliminate those physical, physiological, and psychological factors which may jeopardize flight safety. (c) Environment.—Principal efforts provided for under this subactivity are the development of data to support rulemaking and to minimize the undesired environmental effects on the public attributable to the air transportation system.

2. Facilities and equipment.—This activity provides for training equipment used primarily by flight inspectors in keeping abreast of the latest technology in the areas of their responsibility and for the purpose of maintaining proficiency in the performance of their duties. Procurement and modification of nonflight inspection aircraft, and improvement and replacement of navigation and communication equipment are included.

This appropriation finances maintenance, operations, management, and capital outlay costs for equipment and minor facility projects at the federally owned Washington National and Dulles International Airports which serve the national capital area.

The operation of the airports is conducted on a business basis with revenues derived from landing fees, concession activity, and lease arrangements deposited as receipts in the general fund of the Treasury. The direct operating costs and capital outlays are financed by direct appropriation.

Combined revenues are expected to exceed the 1976 appropriation by $7.8 million. The anticipated operating profit for Washington National in 1976 of $7.1 million will exceed the 1975 estimated operating profit by $0.9 million.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, NATIONAL CAPITAL AIRPORTS—CON.

The Dulles International operating profit of $1.1 million for 1976 is anticipated to exceed the 1975 anticipated operating profit by $0.7 million.

The fee schedules and concession contract arrangements are established to recover the operating costs, interest expenses and the Government's capital investment during the useful life of the airports.

The following table reflects increase in activity at the airports:

This appropriation finances construction of major improvements to, and expansion of, facilities at Washington National and Dulles International Airports. Projects are undertaken whenever necessary to insure the capability of these airports to adequately, safely, and efficiently meet air travel needs of the public and to promote development of aviation.

All outlays for physical improvements are added to the airports' capital investment and will be subsequently recovered through fees and charges to the tenants and users of the airports, in accordance with established business practices.

1. Washington National Airport.—Funds are provided to resurface runway 18/36, reconstruct and overlay the main ramp, overlay runway 3/21, reconstruct and widen the holding apron for runway 18, design a pedestrian connection to Metro, design a new emergency equipment station, build a new taxiway, and repair the terminal apron.

2. Dulles International Airport.—Funds are provided to expand the baggage handling area of the terminal building, construct a ramp from Sully Road, expand public parking, design the expansion of the cargo apron, replace airfield pavement panels, construct a mobile lounge parking area, expand existing airfield pavements, and provide passenger weather protection at the terminal.

The fund provides premium aviation war risk hull insurance to U.S. international air carriers. Premium binders are also issued to cover aircraft, persons, and property and would become war risk insurance in wartime and in situations short of war. Administrative costs are out of fee receipts.

Unfunded contingent liability as of October 31, 1974, is estimated at $43.4 billion. This amount includes hull insurance and personal and property liability on approximately 344 aircraft insured under this program.

The Airport and Airway Development Act of 1970, as amended, provides for the transfer from the general fund to the Airport and Airway Trust Fund of revenue derived from the aviation ticket tax and certain other taxes paid by airport and airway users. The Secretary of the Treasury estimates the amounts to be so transferred. Annual appropriations are authorized from this fund to meet expenditures for Federal-aid airports and airways. Proposed legislation will provide for a more equitable distribution of taxes among civil users, will continue trust fund financing of existing capital programs, and will extend trust fund financing to maintenance of airway facilities.

The Airport and Airway Development Act of 1970, as amended, provides authorization for grants for the planning and development of public airports through 1975. The administration, as part of its initiatives to modernize and extend the Airport and Airway Development and Revenue Acts, will propose a substantial restructuring of this program to provide greater local flexibility in the use of these funds and eliminate unnecessary Federal involvement. The proposed legislation will provide for planning and development grants to be obligated from multi-year contract authority which will become available annually.

Under this appropriation, the Federal airway system is improved by the installation of new equipment and the construction and modernization of facilities to keep pace with aeronautical activity. The appropriation also finances major capital investments required by other agency programs such as aircraft for facility flight inspection and training, and experimental facilities for the engineering and development program. The 1976 estimate will carry forward the program to increase the capacity of the airway system and make its operation safer and more efficient. Operating costs of facilities procured under this appropriation are financed under the Operations appropriation.

1. Air route traffic control centers.—(a) Long range radar provides FAA air traffic controllers with information on aircraft positions at distances up to 185 miles, (b) automation equipment covers computers and other devices which aid controllers in handling en route air traffic, (c) other center facilities cover the installation of equipment to provide communications and related services.

2. Airport traffic control towers.—(a) Terminal area radar aids traffic control in the vicinity of airports by displaying aircraft positions at distances up to 60 miles, (b) terminal area automation covers computers and other devices which aid controllers in handling terminal air traffic, (c) other tower facilities cover the establishment, improvement, and relocation of airport traffic control tower facilities.

3. Flight service stations.—(a) Domestic flight service stations and associated facilities provide flight assistance service to pilots, (b) international flight service stations provide long-distance communications for transoceanic flights.

4. Air navigation facilities.—(a) Very high frequency omni-directional radio ranges equipped with tactical air navigation capabilities (VORTAC) are standard short-range navigation aids used to define airways and air routes and to provide distance and direction information to pilots, (b) low and medium frequency facilities include radio beacons and ranges which provide pilots with direction and weather information, (c) instrument landing systems which provide pilots with direction, distance, and glide slope information necessary for making safe approaches to runways under poor visibility conditions, and visual lighting aids which assist the pilot in making final approaches to airport runways, particularly in areas where terrain or other environmental factors cause potential hazards to safe landings.

5. Housing, utilities, and miscellaneous facilities.—This section includes general facility support and requirements for various types of facilities throughout FAA.

6. Aircraft and related equipment.—Provides for facility flight inspection, including aircraft and avionics equipment to inspect the accuracy and other characteristics of navigation and traffic control aids from the air.

7. Development, test and evaluation facilities.—This activity provides for the construction and improvement of plant and facilities at the National Aviation Facilities Experimental Center. It also includes the procurement of capital items of equipment for use in the engineering and development program, including the replacement of obsolete aircraft.

The FAA conducts engineering and development programs to economically improve the national air traffic control system and to progressively increase its capacity to meet air traffic demands of the 1975-85 time period. The effort to increase capacity is based on exploiting current technology and applying system engineering techniques to the development and integration of new equipment into the total system. The agency also administers aviation medical research aimed at increasing the personal effectiveness of traffic controllers.

These programs are conducted under the direction of the agency's technical personnel through contracts with qualified private firms, universities, individuals and other Government agencies.

1. Air traffic control.—This provides for improving the airway system by applying existing technology to air traffic control problems to keep the current system operating safely with maximum efficiency, and by providing system improvements to increase the capacity of the current system. This also provides for a program aimed at increasing the capacity of present and near future airport and airway systems to meet projected aviation requirements. These include the surveillance of aircraft by tracking radars and control center processing of flight information received from pilots, airline dispatchers, flight service stations and the surveillance system through a national communications network. The high-speed, real-time, computerized processing of this data for traffic controllers is the key to increasing system capacity. This traffic control program also provides for increasing the capacity of major airports to safely and efficiently handle larger, faster passenger aircraft. These increases in airport capacity will be achieved by the development of new, computerized airport traffic control systems which will enable more efficient metering and spacing of terminal traffic under all weather conditions.

2. Navigation.—This provides for modernization, expansion and improvement of the common navigation system facilities in the United States and in overseas areas where international agreements require U.S. participation. Work in the field of both short- and long-distance navigation and of landing systems is included. This capability is necessary in order to increase system capacity. It requires the development of new navigation techniques and sophisticated landing systems capable of handling increased air traffic in adverse weather conditions.

3. Aviation weather.—This provides for a program, coordinated with the Departments of Defense and Commerce, to modernize the acquisition, processing, dissemination and display of weather information tailored to the needs of aviation users.

4. Aviation medicine.—This provides for conducting aeromedical research directed toward identifying and eliminating those physiological and psychological factors inimical to personnel engaged in operating the traffic control system.

FEDERAL HIGHWAY ADMINISTRATION

Title 23, U.S.C. ("Highways") and other supporting legislation provide authority for the various programs of the Federal Highway Administration designed to develop national highway systems.

In summary, the 1976 budget estimate contemplates $5.4 billion in obligations and $5.0 billion in outlays.

Obligations incurred provide the best measure of program activity in the various accounts of the Federal Highway Administration. The following table compares 1976 direct obligations with those of prior years:

This appropriation provides for the development and execution of policy and programs for accomplishment of the motor carrier safety mission in accordance with the Department of Transportation Act, the Interstate Commerce Act, and the Explosives and Combustibles Act. An increase of $315,000 is requested in 1976 to provide research funds related to motor carrier activities engaged in interstate transportation of goods and people. In addition, five new positions are required to deal with the increasing hazardous materials activities.

Prior to 1975 this account was contained in the appropriation salaries and expenses.

This appropriation provides funds for projects initiated pursuant to the provisions of the Highway Beautification Act of 1965, together with the Federal-Aid Highway Acts of 1968 and 1970. The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973 provided authorizations for the administration of the program and the Federal-aid Highway Amendments of 1974 provided a program authorization for $75 million for 1975. This new authority will provide sufficient funds for the 1975 program level and approximately $39 million of the 1976 level.

Since the 1976 requested program level together with the anticipated program for the transition period exceeds available authorizations by about $35 million, additional authorizing legislation will be proposed.

The Highway Safety Act of 1970 provided authorizations for grants to States and communities for implementing certain highway-related safety standards. Two-thirds of the funding is to be derived from the highway trust fund with the remaining one-third to come from Federal funds. The contract authority is available 1 year before and 2 years after the year for which authorized. During 1975, the final obligations will be incurred against this authority.

Beginning in 1976, new grants will be funded entirely from the Highway trust fund as provided by the Highway Safety Act of 1973.

The United States, in cooperation with the Republic of Panama and the Government of Colombia, will participate in the construction of approximately 250 miles of highway through the Darien Gap. This highway will connect the Inter-American Highway of Central America with the Pan-American Highway System of South America, creating a single, cohesive network stretching from Alaska to every South American country.

A program level of $14.2 million in 1976 will permit advancement of construction projects in Panama.

The appropriation for the transition period of July 1, 1976, to September 30, 1976, will finance ongoing construction work.

Grants are authorized by 23 USC 215(a) to assist the territorial governments of the Virgin Islands, Guam, and American Samoa in the improvement of their highway systems. Assistance is provided for an arterial highway system, and necessary interisland connectors, as designated by each territorial governor and approved by the Secretary of Transportation.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973 provided additional contract authority for the years 1974, 1975, and 1976; and also provided for participation of the territories in certain highway safety programs. A level of $4.6 million is planned for this program in 1976. In the transition period, the program level will continue at the 1976 rate of obligation.

An appropriation of $1 million is needed for the transition period of July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, to finance the ongoing program.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970 authorizes the Secretary to carry out a demonstration project for the elimination of all public ground-level rail-highway crossings along the route of the high-speed ground transportation link between Washington, D.C., and Boston, Mass., and in the vicinity of Greenwood, S.C. The authorization provides for the appropriation of not to exceed $22 million from general funds and $9 million from the Highway trust fund.

The revised estimate of the Federal share to complete this program is $63.5 million. Additional authorizing legislation of $32.5 million is being proposed, and a new account entitled "Rail Crossings—Demonstration Projects (Trust Fund)" has been established to contain this authority.

The budget authorities and outlays contained in these schedules are the general fund financed portion only. The combination of general and trust funds, including the new authority, will provide for a 1976 program level of $15.0 million. This will use all the remaining authority contained in the 1970 Highway Act.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973 provides that the Secretary of Transportation shall enter into such arrangements as may be necessary to carry out demonstration projects in 12 cities throughout the United States. These demonstration projects involve relocation of railroad lines from the central area of cities, the elimination or protection of public ground level rail-highway crossings, and the construction of overpasses and underpasses. The act authorizes a total of $90 million through 1976, two-thirds of which must come from the Highway trust fund.

The National Mass Transportation Assistance Act of 1974 authorized $14 million for Hammond, Indiana, of which $1.4 million is being requested in 1976.

A new Federal assistance program for construction, reconstruction, and improvement projects on public roads, including bridges, in rural areas was authorized by the Federal-Aid Highway Amendments of 1974.

Funds authorized will be apportioned to the States based on statutory formula and will be distributed amongst the counties on a fair and equitable basis.

The use of funds for this program in 1975 and 1976 will be carried out on a combined basis with obligations for the Federal-aid highways program, totaling $4.6 billion and $5.2 billion in 1975 and 1976 respectively.

Any State will be able at its option to use its share of the total funds for Federal-aid highways projects or for off-systems road projects in any amount, up to the limit of the statutory apportionments. The precise amount of obligations for this program will be determined later by the States in the exercise of this option.

A liquidating cash appropriation is being requested to pay such bills as may arise under this arrangement in 1976 and in the transition period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.

Financial assistance is made available to States for construction and improvements on the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways and for urban and rural transportation programs. The Federal Government pays 90% of the costs for Interstate projects and 70% of the costs of most other Federal-aid projects. The Federal share of project costs is increased in those States with large areas of public domain.

1. Interstate System.—The 1972 cost estimate to complete the Interstate System was $68.3 billion.

As of October 1, 1974, 36,000 miles of the 42,500-mile Interstate System were open to traffic. At State and local option, authorizations for nonessential segments deleted from the System may be utilized for mass transit capital improvements on bus and rail systems.

2. Rural and small urban transportation program.—Provides financial assistance to States for highway construction on the rural primary and secondary systems, the priority primary system in rural and small urban areas, the urban system, urban extension of primary and secondary systems, forest highways and public lands highways, and on other federally aided highway programs in rural and small urban areas (all areas under 50,000 people).

3. Urbanized area transportation program.—Provides financial assistance to States for highway construction on the urban system, urban extensions of primary and secondary systems, the priority primary system in urbanized areas, the urban high density traffic program and on other federally aided highway programs in urbanized areas (above 50,000 people).

4. Construction safety programs.—Provides financial assistance to States for safety improvements to the highway systems. Programs that may be pursued at State and local option are projects for high hazard locations, elimination of roadside obstacles, rail-highway crossings, bridge reconstruction and replacement, pavement marking demonstrations, and Federal-aid safer roads demonstration.

5. Administration and research.—Provides for executive direction and General administrative and research expenses of Federal-aid Highways. These funds are expended under the general operating expenses limitation.

6. Other programs.—Provides for emergency relief and other miscellaneous programs.

A liquidating cash appropriation is being requested for July 1, 1976, to September 30, 1976, to permit the payment of obligations during the transition period.

This limitation, established in 1975, provides for the salaries and expenses of the Federal Highway Administration required to conduct and administer Federal-aid highway programs.

Administrative services for other programs of the Federal Highway Administration, including highway safety, and for road construction programs of other agencies are initially financed from this limitation and reimbursements are collected from those programs. In addition, the appropriation for Highway safety research and development is transferred to and administered through this limitation. The limitation does not cover administrative expenses of Highway beautification, Darien Gap Highway, Territorial highways, and Motor carrier safety, which are provided by separate appropriations.

1. Program direction and coordination.—(a) Provides overall direction and coordination of the highway transportation mission; (b) provides legal services for all programs; (c) develops and administers programs for continuing audit of claims against Federal funds and a thorough investigation of alleged irregularities; (d) plans and directs public affairs programs; and (e) develops policies and standards, and reassures compliance with the civil rights and equal opportunity procedures within the Federal Highway Administration and by recipients of grants-in-aid administered by the Federal Highway Administration.

2. General program support.—(a) Formulates policy, multi-year and long-range plans and goals for highway programs, and develops data and analyses for current and long-range programing; (b) conducts direct and contract research and development relating to traffic operations, new construction techniques, and the social and environmental aspects of highways; (c) provides administrative support services for all elements of the Federal Highway Administration; and (d) provides on-the-job training for employees of the Federal Highway Administration and training opportunities for employees of State and local governments and other individuals. The provision of more training opportunities for highway-related personnel, greater use of computerization, and expansion of the research, development, and demonstration programs are planned for 1976.

3. Highway programs.—(a) Provides engineering guidance to Federal and State agencies and to foreign governments, and conducts a program to encourage use of modern traffic engineering procedures to increase the vehicle-carrying capacity of existing highways and urban streets; (b) assists States, other Federal agencies, and certain foreign countries in right-of-way acquisition and develops procedures for highway location selection and consideration of environmental impacts; and (c) finances construction skill training programs for disadvantaged workers hired by contractors on federally aided highway projects. Intensified highway safety research and development and expanded services for trainees supported by the construction skill training program are proposed for 1976.

4. Field operations.—(a) Provides staff advisory and support services in field offices of the Federal Highway Administration, and (b) provides program and engineering supervision of the several highway programs through 9 regional and 52 division offices.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1968 provided for the establishment of a right-of-way revolving fund to provide interest-free loans for the advance acquisition of rights-of-way by the States and payment of relocation expenses including the State share of the cost. Upon construction of the highway project, the advance for right-of-way acquisition and relocation expenses is repaid to the revolving fund. The act provided for the purchase of such right-of-way 2 to 7 years in advance of construction. The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973 extended the time period for such purchases from 2 to 10 years in advance of actual construction.

Contract authority totaling $300 million was authorized from the highway trust fund. In 1976, additional obligations of $15 million will be incurred from unused contract authority balances.

A liquidating cash appropriation of $5 million is required for the transition period from July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, to support the program level of $8 million for that period.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970 authorized $65 million for reconstruction of the federally owned section of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway to six lanes. Following reconstruction, the highway will be transferred to the State of Maryland and placed on the Federal-aid primary system.

A program level of $2.5 million in 1976 will finance the cost of ongoing work involving appraisals, negotiations, relocation services, and right-of-way purchases.

An appropriation of $625 thousand is required for the transition period from July 1, 1976, to September 30, 1976, to allow timely advancement of this project.
