1. Highway safety—research, demonstration, and training.—Provided $7.5 million in 1974 from the Highway trust fund for the costs of highway safety research, demonstration, and training activities carried out by the Federal Highway Administration pursuant to 23 U.S.C., section 403. This amount reimbursed the appropriation Salaries and expenses under which title the program was then administered. Commencing in 1975, the program was funded as a separate appropriation, Highway safety research and development.

2. Railroad-highway crossing demonstration projects.—Provided $4 million in 1974 for carrying out demonstration projects in 12 cities throughout the United States. These projects involve relocation of railroad lines from the central area of cities, the elimination or protection of public ground level rail-highway crossings, and the construction of overpasses and underpasses. This amount will reimburse the appropriation Railroad-highway crossings demonstration projects which provides for the Federal fund portion of the authorization which is split between general and trust funds. $933,000 is requested which represents the two-thirds trust fund share of the $1.4 million 1976 cost of a Hammond, Ind., project.

3. Rail crossings—demonstration projects.—Provided $4.2 million in 1974 and $1.9 million in 1975 from the Highway trust fund for the elimination of unsafe highway-railroad crossings along the route of the Washington, D.C., to Boston, Mass., high-speed railway, and in the vicinity of Greenwood, S.C. This amount will reimburse the appropriation Rail crossings—demonstration projects, which provides the Federal fund portion of the demonstration program. Legislation is being proposed to fund these projects from a new account, which will be 100% trust funded in 1976.

4. Rural highway public transportation demonstration program.—Provides $13.2 million in 1976 to encourage the development, improvement, and use of highway-related public mass transportation systems in rural areas to enhance access of rural populations to employment, health care, retail centers, education and public services. This amount will reimburse the appropriation "Rural highway public transportation demonstration program" which provides for the Federal fund portion of the authorization which is split between general and trust funds.

5. Highway-related safety grants.—The Highway Safety Act of 1970 provided authorizations for grants to States and communities for implementing certain highway-related safety standards. Two-thirds of the funding is to be derived from the Highway trust fund, with the remaining one-third to come from Federal funds. The contract authority is available 1 year before and 2 years after the year for which authorized. Funds in this account will be used to reimburse the account Highway-related safety grants. During 1975, the final obligations will be incurred in this account. Beginning in 1976, obligations for highway-related safety grants will be incurred against the fully trust-funded authority provided by the Highway Safety Act of 1973.

HIGHWAY SAFETY RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

For necessary expenses in carrying out provisions of title 23, United States Code, including section 206(b) of the "Highway, Safety Act of 1973," to be derived from the Highway Trust Fund, [$9,000,000] $9,135,000, to remain available until expended.

For "Highway safety research and development" for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, to be derived from the Highway Trust Fund, $2,284,000, to remain available until expended. (23 U.S.C. 104, 307 and 403; Highway Safety Act of 1973, 87 Stat. 282; Department of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1975, 88 Stat. 768; additional authorizing legislation to be proposed for $2,284,000 for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.)

This appropriation, established in 1975, has been developed in support of those highway safety standards presently administered by the Federal Highway Administration. The program seeks to correct the most critical elements that contribute to the loss of life, disabling injuries, and property damage on American highways.

For 1976, an appropriation of $9,135 thousand will permit the continuation of a variety of safety-related projects as well as allow research in the safety aspects of increased size and weight of heavy vehicles.

Funds appropriated for this account will be transferred to the general operating expenses limitation where the program will be administered in conjunction with the other research and development programs of the Federal Highway Administration.

An appropriation of $2.3 million for the transition period of July 1, 1976, to September 30, 1976, will allow the continuation of the safety projects at an equivalent of the 1976 level.

The Highway Safety Act of 1973 provided additional authorizations of $25 million, $30 million, and $35 million for 1974, 1975, and 1976, respectively, for grants to States and communities for implementing certain highway-related safety standards. The contract authority is from the highway trust fund and is available 1 year in advance of the year for which authorized and 2 years thereafter.

A total program level of $15 million, including administration, will be provided in grants to assist States and localities in implementing these highway safety standards, which deal with traffic control devices, highway construction and maintenance, accident location surveillance, and highway-related aspects of pedestrian safety. Since related highway safety standards are also administered by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, this amount is a tentative distribution. The final distribution will be determined after the annual program plans of the States for 1975 are submitted and approved by the two agencies.

Legislation is being proposed to provide an additional $32.5 million to fund the rail crossings-demonstration projects between Washington, D.C. and Boston, Mass., and in the vicinity of Greenwood, S.C. The initial authorization was for $31 million, bringing the total estimate of the Federal share of the cost of these projects to $63.5 million.

Of this new authority, $4.15 million is needed in 1976 to advance this high priority safety project.

An appropriation of $4 million is required for the transition period from July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, to finance ongoing work.

1. Motor vehicle program.—This activity encompasses the development, promulgation, and enforcement of safety standards for new and used motor vehicles, tires, and equipment. Compliance evaluations and defects investigations are undertaken to determine safety-related motor vehicle defects. Studies are made to determine the effects on product costs and leadtime for implementation by industry.

2. Traffic safety program.—This activity provides for headquarters and field staff to establish policy, program, and technical guidance to the States in executing highway safety programs, to determine program effectiveness and to assure conformity with governing laws and regulations. Funding is also provided to carry out training and execution programs; and to conduct demonstration projects that will speed the implementation of new safety techniques into practice. The 1976 budget reflects decreasing payments for demonstration projects.

TRAFFIC AND HIGHWAY SAFETY—Continued

3. Research and analysis.—This activity provides for motor vehicle and highway safety research and development, for the collection of data to determine the relationship between motor vehicle or equipment performance characteristics and crashes or the occurrence of death or personal injury as a result of such crashes. 1976 programs provide for more effective data collection and improvement in the accident investigation data base.

4. Motor vehicle consumer information.—Pursuant to the Motor Vehicle Information and Cost Savings Act this activity provides for the development of cost-effective bumper performance standards designed to prevent damage caused by low-speed collisions; consumer information relating to the comparative safety and damageability of passenger cars; establishment of diagnostic inspection demonstration projects; and the establishment of odometer regulations. Reprogramming of funds is contemplated in 1975 to begin work on a special diagnostic inspection demonstration project to promote the use of advanced inspection and diagnostic equipment, as required by recent changes in enabling legislation (Public Law 93-492).

5. Lease of engineering facility.—Provision is made for space rental and the purchase of equipment for a test facility which will allow NHTSA to: (1) perform required tests on motor vehicles, tires, and equipment to verify compliance with Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards; (2) evaluate corrective action taken in motor vehicle recall campaigns; and (3) investigate reports of serious safety defects. Reprogramming of funds is contemplated in 1975 to initiate the facility to cover additional workload expected to result from recent legislation on investigation and remedy of motor vehicle defects.

6. General administration.—This activity provides for the executive direction, coordination and implementation necessary to meet NHTSA's overall policies, programs, and objectives. Basic administrative and support requirements for all safety programs is also provided from this category.

Under the State and community highway safety program, Federal grants are provided to assist the States and their political subdivisions in the establishment and improvement of highway safety programs. A total of $93 million is tentatively planned for NHTSA's highway safety programs in 1976. This is an estimate of NHTSA's share of a total program of $108 million to be jointly administered with the Federal Highway Administration.

Annual program plans as submitted by the States and approved by the two agencies will determine the actual distribution of obligations. The 1975 and 1976 State and community highway safety grant programs contemplate two distinct elements including: basic grants and incentive grants.

1. Basic grants.—$80 million in basic grant funds are provided to the States to carry out safety programs such as driver licensing, motor vehicle registration, traffic records, police traffic services, driver education, school bus driver training, etc., and the administration of grant programs. Individual States are also utilizing this funding to supplement federally funded alcohol safety action projects. The 1976 program will emphasize: (1) Upgrading of the planning and evaluative capabilities of State highway safety agencies, and (2) achievement of program goals through joint Federal/State participation in goals selection and a management by objectives monitoring system.

2. Incentive grants.—In 1976, $13 million for incentive grants will be provided to those States which have achieved significant progress in reducing their traffic fatality rate.

The Federal Railroad Safety Act of 1970 provides that the Secretary of Transportation shall prescribe as necessary, appropriate rules, regulations, orders, and standards for all areas of railroad safety. The principal objective under this program is to further the effective investigation and enforcement of Federal railroad safety rules. The growth of this program in 1976 primarily reflects the testing and operation of new automated track inspection cars, and an increase in data processing activities.

An appropriation of $4,100 thousand is requested for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.

1. Interim operating assistance.—This activity provides for payment to the trustees of railroads in reorganization, as authorized in the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973, so that they may continue to provide essential transportation services during preparation of a final system plan to restructure the Midwest and Northeast rail system. An additional $100 million is provided for this purpose in a 1975 supplemental described in Part III.

2. Rail service continuation subsidies.—This activity provides for payment to a State, or a local or regional transportation authority for the purpose of continuing local rail services, as authorized under title IV of the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973. The Federal payment is restricted to 70% of the deficit on a particular rail line. The aim is to protect the economic viability of ConRail, the new private operating entity, by removing the burden of uneconomic branch lines, without causing undue hardship to communities and shippers.

The Rail Passenger Service Act of 1970, as amended, created the National Railroad Passenger Corporation (Amtrak), as a private, for-profit corporation. Federal assistance to Amtrak has been made in the form of grants to offset operating deficits and 100% loan guarantees for capital improvements.

1. Operating grants.—Amtrak's operating losses have increased from $141.8 million in 1973 to an expected $298.2 million this year. The 1976 estimate of $350 million will provide Amtrak's management with increased resources to meet expected further cost increases. However barring unforeseeable events, it represents the maximum amount which will be sought for 1976. Amtrak will be expected to take whatever steps it considers necessary to operate within this ceiling. Legislation will be introduced in conjunction with this requirement to permit further management flexibility to adjust the level and scope of Amtrak operations.

GRANTS TO THE NATIONAL RAILROAD PASSENGER CORPORATION—CON.

2. Capital grants.—Amtrak will have programed over $860 million in guaranteed loan funds by the end of 1975. It appears very doubtful that these loans can be repaid from Amtrak's operating revenues. To avoid placing additional debt burden on Amtrak and because of the rapidly rising interest charges associated with the loans it is proposed to fund 1976 capital improvements of $110 million with direct grants.

The Emergency Rail Facilities Restoration Act authorized the Secretary of Transportation to make loans for the purpose of restoring or replacing railroad facilities, equipment, or services damaged or destroyed as a result of the natural disasters which occurred during the month of June 1972.

The act provided that no loan application could be approved later than 8 months from the date of its enactment, which was October 27, 1972. Therefore, the program was terminated in 1974.

The Alaska Railroad is operated by the Federal Government under the act of March 12, 1914 (38 Stat. 305), as a bureau of the Federal Railroad Administration.

Budget program.—The major activity of the rail line operation program is transportation service; the principal supporting activities are maintenance of way and structures, maintenance of equipment, and communications system operation and maintenance. Lease of real properties, river boats, and related facilities round out the other operating programs.

Financing.—To the extent possible, programs are financed by revenues earned from freight and passenger services and other services incidental thereto. Local rail car and container freight is expected to increase in 1976 because of the increased activity in the construction of the Trans-Alaska Pipeline. Calendar year 1976 will be the peak year of the planned 3-year construction period for this project.

This fund was established to finance all capital and operating assistance grants, contracts and loan activities authorized by the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended. Under the provisions of the 1973 and 1974 amendments (the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973, and the National Mass Transportation Assistance Act of 1974), additional capital was provided in the form of contract authority, $3.0 and $8.8 billion, respectively, in each act. The capital facilities, relocation, and technical studies activities are financed by the authority to obligate in advance of appropriations. Grants and contracts for the research, development, and demonstration; managerial training, university research and training activities, and administrative expenses are funded through appropriations, with such appropriations being accounted for within the available contract authority.

Capital outlay.—Capital facilities grants.—Pursuant to section 3 of the act, grants are made to State and local public agencies to assist in financing acquisition, construction, reconstruction, and improvement of facilities of mass transportation service in urban areas. In 1976, the activity level will be $1.1 billion in capital grants.

Further, in 1975 and 1976, an estimated additional $200 million in transit projects will be financed each year under the provisions of the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973. When added to the funding planned under this program, Federal assistance solely for mass transit capital investments will amount to $1.25 billion in 1975 and $1.3 billion in 1976.

The $1.3 billion level in 1976 is estimated to create 201 new projects, which will result in a total of 759 active projects. This compares with an activity level of $1.25 billion in 1975 with an estimated 558 active projects, and $1.0 billion in 1974 with 389 active projects. It is anticipated that in 1976, this activity will continue to assist in the acquisition of new bus and rail stock, and continued construction support for new rapid transit systems and extensions.

Formula grants.—Pursuant to section 5 of the act (amended by section 103 of the National Mass Transportation Assistance Act of 1974), grants can be made to urbanized areas or parts thereof on the basis of a formula for the acquisition, construction, and improvement of facilities and equipment, and the payment of operating expenses. In 1976, the activity level will be $0.5 billion. This contrasts with the $0.3 billion planned for use in 1975.

Technical studies grants.—Under this activity—authorized by section 9 of the act—State and local public agencies are assisted in carrying out studies relating to management operations, capital requirements, economic feasibility, and conducting similar activities in preparation for the construction, acquisition, or improved operation of mass transportation systems, facilities and equipment. Regional transportation plans are also developed with these grants.

In 1976, the activity level will be $41.0 million with an estimated 150 new approvals. This activity has a carry-over of 415 and 253 active projects at the end of 1975 and 1974, respectively.

Research, development, and demonstrations, grants and contracts.—This activity—conducted under section 6 of the act—involves projects designed for the development, testing and demonstration of new facilities, equipment techniques (operational and managerial), and methods which assist in reducing urban transportation needs, in improving mass transportation services, or in meeting total urban transportation needs at an effective cost level.

In 1976, the activity level will be $67.3 million with an estimated 155 projects. This compares with $46.5 million in 1975 with an estimated 140 projects, and $66.7 million in 1974 with 105 projects.

Included in the $67.3 million activity level is $10.0 million for transit-related bicentennial activities in the District of Columbia.

Managerial training.—Grants under this activity—authorized in section 10 of the act—are made to public bodies to provide university fellowships for up to one year of advanced training. Fellowship awards are made for the training of personnel employed in managerial, technical, and professional positions in the urban mass transportation field.

In 1976, the activity level will be $0.9 million with an estimated 100 fellowships. This compares with $1.0 million in 1975 and $0.3 million in 1974 with 100 fellowships each year.

University research and training.—Grants under this activity—authorized in section 11 of the act—are awarded to public and private, nonprofit institutions of higher learning. The grants are to assist in establishing or continuing programs which combine professional training in urban transportation and related fields.

In 1976, the activity level will be $2.1 million with an estimated 17 projects, which compares with $2.2 million in 1975 with 14 projects, and $2.2 million in 1974 with 24 projects.

Administrative expenses.—This activity provides for carrying out administrative functions, including executive direction, budgeting, accounting, property management, and personnel management. The administrative expenses activity will be conducted at a $12.9 million level in 1976. This compares to $9.2 million in 1975, and $7.5 million in 1974.

Capital facilities loans.—Under this activity, two types of loans are available. Capital improvement loans are to finance the acquisition, construction, reconstruction, and improvement of facilities and equipment. Loans are also provided for the advance acquisition of real property to be used as a part of planned mass transportation systems. While there are pending applications for loans, this activity has such a low volume of approvals, no effort is made to estimate new loan commitments. Authority available is sufficient to cover any possible loan and an administrative adjustment is made to accommodate this activity.

Financing.—The 1973 and 1974 amendments to the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 provided budget authority of $11.8 million. These amendments of 1973 and 1974 provide an authorization for appropriations to liquidate obligations, and, further, require that all other appropriations be accounted for within this authorization.

For 1976, an appropriation of $973.4 million is being requested, and this compares with $449.6 million and $420.0 million appropriated in 1975 and 1974, respectively, which are charged to the authorization to incur obligations in advance of appropriations, and to the schedule for appropriations. Also, during 1975, an appropriation of $150 million is to be requested to liquidate contract authority used for formula grants. There follows a series of schedules reflecting usage of appropriations (in millions of dollars):

<sup>1</sup> This section was added in the 1970 amendments to the 1964 act, and provided authority to incur obligations in advance of appropriations. Included in a part of this provision is a defined schedule of authorizations for appropriations to liquidate obligations and to provide financing for sections 6, 10, 11, and administrative expenses.
<sup>2</sup> This authorization predates the authority to incur obligations in advance of appropriations and remains available for use, as needed, pursuant to the provisions of the 1970 amendments (section 4(c)).
<sup>3</sup> This section was added in the 1974 amendments (Public Law 93-503) to the 1964 act and provided authority to incur obligations in advance of appropriations. Included in these amendments is a defined schedule of appropriations. The $150 million for 1975 is a supplemental estimate.

The overall goal of the Seaway Corporation is to provide maximum utilization of the present Seaway facilities and to plan additional capacity for the future. The objectives of the Corporation for 1976 are to continue efforts to extend the Seaway's navigation season, encourage increased utilization of the system by Great Lakes shippers and improve our vessel traffic management systems. The Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation's 1976 budget reflects these objectives.

1. Administrative expenses (limitation).—This program provides for executive management and administration of the Corporation, and includes finance, legal, civil rights, procurement, personnel administration, and other related support services.

2. Operations.—This program provides for operation of all facilities and for planning and development activities. Operations are conducted on a 24-hour day, 7-day week basis throughout the navigation season with maintenance functions being performed throughout the year. Some major maintenance items are necessarily deferred to the off-navigation season when both operations and maintenance forces are utilized for their accomplishment.

Capital outlay.—This program includes expenditures for necessary capital improvements such as construction of navigational aids, installation of flow inducers and/or flushing devices at Eisenhower Lock, installation and testing of an ice control system, experimental devices for ice control on lock chamber walls to support the season extension program and required equipment purchases.

The Corporation estimates its revenues for 1976 to reach $7.1 million which it proposes to apply as follows:

1. $4.8 million to pay operating expenses consisting of administrative expenses of $1.0 million (subject to limitation) and $3.8 million for operations.

2. $1.3 million to pay estimated capital outlay costs for season extension projects, expanded vessel traffic control modifications and replacement equipment.

3. $1.0 million for the scheduled redemption of the Corporation's revenue bonds issued to the U.S. Treasury.

The Corporation estimates its revenues for the transitional budget (July 1–Sept. 30, 1976) to reach $2.3 million which it proposes to apply as follows:

1. $1.5 million to pay operating expenses consisting of administrative expenses of $0.3 million (subject to limitation) and $1.2 million for operations.

2. $0.8 million of unobligated balance at September 30, 1976.

No capital impairment has occurred through the end of the past year nor is anticipated in the budget year.

Legislative Program

FEDERAL AVIATION ADMINISTRATION

Legislation is being proposed to provide for funding FAA operating programs associated with maintenance of air navigation facilities from the Airport and airway trust fund. The level of trust fund receipts projected in 1976 will permit the financing of these costs as well as proposed programs for airport development and airway facilities investment and research without drawing on accumulated prior year balances.

The legislation will also provide for reduced Federal involvement in administration of the airport grant program and for adjustment of user taxes to more equitably divide responsibility for civil aviation's share of airport and airway system costs between its commercial and general aviation elements, while generating a small net increase in expected receipts.

Proposed legislation will provide that certain costs of maintaining air navigation facilities, now 100% financed from the General fund, be reimbursed to FAA's Operations appropriation from the Airport and airway trust fund. The programs so funded will be limited to systems maintenance, leased communications, and direct cost of stocks and stores. Additional provisions which will adjust the user tax structure and reduce direct Federal supervision of certain airport development projects will reduce FAA staffing requirements by 304 positions. The associated employment reduction is reflected in FAA's Schedule of permanent positions, Part II of this Budget Appendix.

Proposed legislation will provide for funding maintenance costs of air navigation facilities from the Airport and airway trust fund, relieving the general taxpayer of a small part of the current burden of paying for services provided the aviation community. The expected level of 1976 trust fund receipts will permit payment for these costs as well as the costs of airport development, airway facilities investment, and research programs without drawing on accumulated prior year balances.

Proposed legislation will be transmitted providing that all future authorizations, beginning with 1977, will be available in the year for which authorized thereby deleting the advance feature of this 1977 contract authority. It is not an elimination of the funds but merely a shift in the year of availability. The purpose of the proposed legislation is to bring the authorization year into line with the budget year.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 301. During the current fiscal year and the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, applicable appropriations to the Department of Transportation shall be available for maintenance and operation of aircraft; hire of passenger motor vehicles and aircraft; and uniforms, or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902).

SEC. 302. None of the funds provided in this Act shall be available for administrative expenses in connection with commitments for grants-in-aid for airport development aggregating more than $310,000,000 $350,000,000 in fiscal year [1975] 1976 and $87,500,000 for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.

SEC. 303. None of the funds provided under this Act shall be available for the planning or execution of programs the obligations for which are in excess of $45,000,000 $56,048,000 for "Highway Beautification" in fiscal year [1975] 1976 and $14,012,000 for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.

SEC. 304. None of the funds provided under this Act shall be available for the planning or execution of programs the obligations for which are in excess of $100,000,000 $108,000,000 in fiscal year [1975] 1976 and $25,750,000 for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976 for "State and Community Highway Safety" and "Highway-Related Safety Grants".

SEC. 305. None of the funds provided under this Act shall be available for the planning or execution of programs the obligations for which are in excess of $4,600,000 in fiscal year [1975] 1976 and $1,150,000 for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976 for "Territorial Highways".

SEC. 306. None of the funds provided in this Act shall be available for administrative expenses in connection with commitments for the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, aggregating more than $1,445,250,000 $1,724,100,000 in fiscal year [1975] 1976 and $400,000,000 for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.

SEC. 307. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. [308] 307. None of the funds provided under this Act shall be available for the planning or execution of programs for any further construction of the Miami jetport or of any other air facility in the State of Florida lying south of the Okeechobee Waterway and in the drainage basins contributing water to the Everglades National Park until it has been shown by an appropriate study made jointly by the Department of the Interior and the Department of Transportation that such an airport will not have an adverse environmental effect on the ecology of the Everglades and until any site selected on the basis of such study is approved by the Department of the Interior and the Department of Transportation: Provided, That nothing in this section shall affect the availability of such funds to carry out this study.

SEC. [309] 308. The Governor of the Canal Zone is authorized to employ services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, in an amount not exceeding $150,000.

SEC. [310] 309. Funds appropriated for operating expenses of the Canal Zone Government may be apportioned notwithstanding section 3679 of the Revised Statutes, as amended (31 U.S.C. 665), to the extent necessary to permit payment of such pay increases for officers or employees as may be authorized by administrative action pursuant to law which are not in excess of statutory increases granted for the same period in corresponding rates of compensation for other employees of the Government in comparable positions.

SEC. [311] 310. Funds appropriated under this Act for expenditure by the Federal Aviation Administration [and the Coast Guard] shall be available (1) for expenses of primary and secondary schooling for dependents of Federal Aviation Administration [and Coast Guard] personnel stationed outside the continental United States at costs for any given area not in excess of those of the Department of Defense for the same area, when it is determined by the Secretary that the schools, if any, available in the locality are unable to provide adequately for the education of such dependents and (2) for transportation of said dependents between schools serving the area which they attend and their places of residence when the Secretary, under such regulations as he may prescribe, determines that such schools are not accessible by public means of transportation on a regular basis.

Sec. [312] 311. Appropriations contained in this Act for the Department of Transportation shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, but at rates for individuals not to exceed the per diem rate equivalent to the rate for a GS-18.

[Sec. 313. None of the funds in this Act shall be available for the implementation or execution of a program in the Department of Transportation to collect fees, charges or prices for approvals, tests, authorizations, certificates, permits, registrations, and ratings which are in excess of the levels in effect on January 1, 1973, or which did not exist as of January 1, 1973, until such program is reviewed and approved by the appropriate committees of the Congress.]

[Sec. 314. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be available for paying to the Administrator of the General Services Administration in excess of 90 percent of the standard level user charge established pursuant to section 210(j) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended, for space and services.]

[Sec. 315. None of the funds provided under this Act shall be available for the purchase of passenger rail or subway cars, for the purchase of motor buses or for the construction of related facilities unless such cars, buses and facilities are designed to meet the mass transportation needs of the elderly and the handicapped.] (Department of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1975.)

The Secretary of the Treasury may invest the principal of the Pershing Hall Memorial Fund in interest-bearing U.S. bonds. Earnings are paid to the American Legion for use in the maintenance of Pershing Hall in Paris, France (49 Stat. 426).

There is pending legislation which would transfer the control of Pershing Hall to the Administrator of Veterans Affairs. The proposed legislation would abolish the Pershing Hall Memorial Fund and provide that the Secretary of the Treasury liquidate any nonliquid assets in such fund and cover the proceeds and other fund assets into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

Under Treasury Department Order 229, dated February 1, 1974, the Bureau of Government Financial Operations was established by the merger of the Bureau of Accounts and a major part of the Office of the Treasurer of the United States. The purpose of the reorganization was to bring together closely related operations as the activities of both of the former bureaus were centered on the receipt, custody, and disbursement of money. The consolidation of the bureaus is expected to simplify data handling, eliminate many coordinative mechanisms, shorten communication channels, and reduce overhead. Treasury Department Order 229-1, dated March 17, 1974, further transferred the operations of the Securities Division, excepting the Currency Verification Section, to the Bureau of the Public Debt as well as transferring the Treasurer's position and immediate staff support to the Office of the Secretary.

1. Disbursement and claims.—a. Check issuance.—Payments are made, through 11 regional offices, for civilian Federal agencies, except the U.S. Postal Service, the U.S. Marshals, and certain Government corporations. Savings bonds are also issued for Federal employees under the payroll savings plan.

The total work volume and productivity relating to this function carried out by the Division of Disbursement follows:

2. Governmentwide accounting.—This activity includes the maintenance of the central accounts of appropriations, receipts and expenditures, and the preparation and publication of financial reports on the fiscal operations of the Government as a whole. It also includes accounting for purchases, sales, and redemption of securities, processing of capital stock subscriptions of Government corporations, and investment in interest-bearing securities for certain funds such as the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund, the unemployment trust fund, the Veterans insurance trust fund, and various Government retirement funds.

Another major function of this activity is the maintenance of checking accounts of Government officers who are authorized to issue checks on the U.S. Treasury, including the payment of the checks and the reconciliation of checks paid to check issue data received from the disbursing officers. The electronic data processing equipment used in the check payment operation is also used to process Federal tax deposit forms representing payments of corporation, employment, and excise taxes deposited to the U.S. Treasury. The Federal Reserve banks send the forms to the Treasury for balancing to the amounts credited to the Treasury's account and conversion of the deposit data onto magnetic tape. The tape records are then sent to the Internal Revenue Service for further processing.

The Environmental Financing Authority was established by the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 (Public Law 92-500) and is authorized to make commitments to purchase, and to purchase on terms and conditions determined by the Authority, any obligation or participation therein which is issued by a State or local public body to finance the non-Federal share of the cost of any project for the construction of waste treatment works which the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency has determined to be eligible for Federal financial assistance.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to make annual payments to the Authority in such amounts as are necessary to equal the amount by which the dollar amount of interest expense accrued by the Authority on account of its obligations exceeds the dollar amount of interest income accrued by the Authority on account of obligations purchased by it. The money appropriated to "Salaries and expenses," Bureau of Accounts for subsidy payment to the Environmental Financing Authority has been shown as an unobligated balance lapsing. Subsidy payments will be paid from this account for that purpose.

It is anticipated that the Environmental Financing Authority will expire on June 30, 1975.

CLAIMS, JUDGMENTS, AND RELIEF ACTS

The Check forgery insurance fund was established in 1941 in the amount of $50 thousand (31 U.S.C. 561). Additional appropriations of $50 thousand in 1964, $100 thousand in 1970 and $1,800 thousand in 1973 increased the fund to a total of $2 million. This fund is for use by the U.S. Treasury in making settlement with the payees or special endorsees in case of checks drawn on the U.S. Treasury which have been paid on forged endorsements.

To reduce hardships sustained by payees of Government checks that have been stolen and forged, settlement is made in advance of the receipt of funds from the endorsers of the checks through reclamation procedure by this office. Benefits from these early settlements are shared by claimants and the Government in that the claimants are more quickly restored financially to their proper position and the Government is spared the necessity of much unproductive correspondence. If the U.S. Treasury is unable to recover the funds, this revolving account sustains the loss.

Amendments to the Fishermen's Protective Act of 1967 (Public Law 92-569), created a Fishermen's protective fund to reimburse owners of vessels for the amounts of fines, fees, and other direct charges which were paid by the owners to a foreign country to secure the release of their vessels and crews.

Prior to the creation of the Fishermen's protective fund, the Secretary of State certified the amounts due vessel owners to the Secretary of the Treasury. These certified amounts due vessel owners were held by the Secretary of the Treasury until a request was received for their submission for a supplemental appropriation. These requests were received in the spring and fall of the year. As a result, vessel owners were not reimbursed for the amounts due them until the Congress had passed the supplemental appropriation and the President had signed it. The Fishermen's protective fund greatly reduces the time required to make payment to the vessel owners. The Secretary of the Treasury can now make payment within 48 hours of receipt of the certification from the Secretary of State.

1. National defense conditional gift fund.—The Secretary of the Treasury accepts on behalf of the United States, conditional gifts of money or other intangible property to be used for a particular defense purpose. Intangibles other than money are converted at the best terms available. The moneys held in trust are paid to those appropriation accounts which best effectuate the intent of the donors (68 Stat. 566).

2. Esther Cattell Schmitt gift fund.—Public Law 87-467 (76 Stat. 88) authorized the acceptance of the gift made to the United States by the will of Esther Cattell Schmitt. The income received from the gift to the United States is paid by the Secretary of the Treasury to beneficiaries named in provisions of the will.

4. Investigations and law enforcement.—The Customs agents in the United States and abroad make investigations in the enforcement of the Tariff Act of 1930, the Gold Reserve Act of 1934, the Export Control Act, and other laws affecting the movement of merchandise into and out of the United States. They also secure market value information for Customs import specialists. In 1974, a total of 21,981 investigations were made. The estimates for 1975 and 1976 are 25,000 each.

5. Security and audit.—The security functions evaluate results of full suitability and security field investigations, personnel conduct investigations or irregularities, effective security standards and inspections of security standards, and inspections of security operations. The auditors are responsible for the internal audit of Customs procedures.

6. Executive direction.—The headquarters of the Customs Services directs, coordinates, and controls the activities of the Customs Service.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing designs, manufactures, and supplies most of the major evidences of a financial character issued by the United States. It is the sole source of Federal Reserve notes and U.S. currency, various public debt instruments, as well as most of the minor evidences of a financial character issued by the United States, such as postage and internal revenue stamps. In addition, the Bureau executes certain printings for various territories administered by the United States, particularly postage and revenue stamps.

The anticipated work volume is based on estimates of requirements submitted by agencies served. The program comprises the following activities:

1. Engraving and printing.—(a) Currency.—Total deliveries of currency for 1975 and 1976 are estimated to be 3.2 and 3.3 billion notes, respectively, as compared with 2.3 billion notes delivered in 1974.

To meet long-term increases projected for currency demands, the Bureau has finalized plans for the acquisition of six modern high-speed intaglio printing presses, to be operational in 1976, utilizing a lease-to-ownership method of financing. This method of financing will also be used to acquire six production models in 1976 of the currency overprinting and processing equipment (COPE) which is designed to mechanize certain manual operations currently associated with the production of currency.

(b) Stamps.—This category of work is comprised mainly of postal and internal revenue stamps. The budget estimates for 1975 and 1976 reflect a slight decrease as compared to the quantity delivered in 1974.

Currently, the Bureau is installing two modern postage stamp presses ordered in 1972. When placed in production during 1975, the versatility of these presses will assist in meeting the production schedule for the commemorative stamp program, and the postage stamp coil form stock.

(c) Food coupons.—The balance of this program ($30 and high value family-type booklets) which has been produced in the Bureau will be contracted out to the private sector, beginning in 1976.

(d) Securities.—This program encompasses the production of a wide variety of bonds, notes, and debentures for the Bureau of Public Debt and certain other agencies of the Government. The anticipated requirements for 1975 and 1976 reflect approximately a 15-percent increase over the number of pieces delivered in 1974. From the standpoint of operating costs, this class of work represents only a small portion of the overall engraving and printing program.

(e) Commissions, certificates, etc.—The estimated requirements in the current and budget years indicate a substantial decrease in the number of units to be produced.

2. Operation and maintenance of the incinerator and space utilized by other agencies.—These charges are made to other agencies for use of the incinerator and maintenance services provided for space they occupy in the Bureau's buildings.

3. Other direct charges for miscellaneous services.—Charges for a wide variety of miscellaneous services performed by Bureau personnel are made to the agencies concerned on an actual cost basis.

Bureau operations resulted in a loss of $150 thousand in 1974. This loss will be recovered from any profits accruing in subsequent years, in accordance with the provisions of 31 U.S.C. 181. Beginning in 1975 the Bureau is including a surcharge in the selling price of its products. The surcharge provides for financing capital improvements. The specific amount to be assessed against the various products (currency, postage stamps, etc.) is determined annually and is based on the additional funds required to finance programmed equipment purchases after taking into consideration the amount of cash to be generated internally by normal depreciation of equipment already on hand in the Bureau.

The Bureau of the Mint manufactures coins, receives deposits of gold and silver bullion, safeguards the Government's holdings of monetary metals, and refines gold and silver bullion (see miscellaneous permanent appropriations).

1. Manufacture of coins.—Production of coins is the major Mint activity. Funds requested for 1976 will permit production of approximately 13.9 billion coins.

The appropriation provides funds to acquire suitable sites, design and construction of buildings, furnishings and equipment necessary for operations of the Bureau of the Mint. In 1972 an appropriation of $1,500 thousand was made for the purchase of a suitable site for the Denver Mint. Purchase of this site is in progress. The $2 million appropriated for 1973 covers most of the costs of the design services. Because of delays in obtaining title to the site, no appropriation was requested in 1974 and the appropriation requested in 1975 was deferred to 1976. The $40,600 thousand which is being requested for 1976 covers site development, the remaining design services, procurement of long leadtime items of production equipment, building construction, and construction inspection and supervision.

Note.—Includes $130 thousand in 1974 and $617 thousand in 1975 for activities previously financed from Office of the Treasurer.

This appropriation provides funds for the conduct of all public debt operations and the promotion of the sale of U.S. savings-type securities. It includes the securities functions located in the Office of the Treasurer which were transferred to the Bureau of the Public Debt on March 17, 1974, in the reorganization of the fiscal service.

1. Issuance, servicing, and retirement of savings-type securities.—This activity consists of (a) procuring, receiving, storing, and distributing securities; (b) issuing securities and maintaining records; (c) adjudicating claims for the replacement or payment of lost, stolen or destroyed securities; (d) handling reissues and other transactions incident to servicing outstanding securities; (e) retiring securities; and (f) determining and authorizing semiannual interest payments on series H bonds.

This appropriation provides for the overall planning and direction of the Internal Revenue Service, for management of the Service's support programs and for internal audit and internal security. This 1976 appropriation request provides for maintaining at adequate levels both the Service's support programs and those programs concerned with sound internal procedures and employee integrity.

1. Executive direction.—This activity sets policies and goals; provides the research and planning necessary for orderly and effective accomplishment of the Revenue Service's mission; provides leadership and direction in the execution of plans; and provides for the administrative support of all operations.

2. Internal audit and security.—This activity establishes and verifies maintenance of quality controls in the Revenue Service. It provides a continuing and independent review of all Revenue Service operations, thereby assuring the Commissioner and operational managers that appropriated funds are spent only for authorized purposes, that tax revenues are properly safeguarded, and that public confidence in the integrity of Revenue Service employees is maintained.

This appropriation provides for processing tax returns and related documents, and maintaining accurate, current taxpayer accounts by means of an automated system. It also provides for taxpayer assistance and for collecting delinquent taxes and securing unfiled returns. Statistical reporting responsibilities of the Internal Revenue Service come under this appropriation.

1. Data processing operations.—This activity provides for all actions associated with the mailing out of tax return forms and instructions, receipt of completed returns and payments, deposit of the payments, and verification through an automated master file system of the accuracy of information provided on the tax returns. It provides for payment of refunds, offset of refunds against delinquent accounts, issuance of notices that payments are overdue, identification of possible nonfilers for investigation, and assistance in the selection of tax returns for audit.

2. Collection.—This activity is responsible for collecting unpaid taxes and securing unfiled returns.

3. Taxpayer service.—This activity, which became a separate organization apart from collection in 1975, aids voluntary compliance with Federal tax laws on the part of all taxpayers by informing them of their responsibilities and by providing service which will assist them in meeting their obligations.

4. Statistical reporting.—This activity prepares statistical information on income and on various features of the tax system, performs other statistical research, and forecasts the number of tax returns to be filed by type, size, and geographical area.

The increases requested for 1976 in collection and taxpayer service are to keep pace with workload resulting from growth in population and changes in the economy.

This appropriation provides for detecting and correcting noncompliance with the tax laws and for meeting the Internal Revenue Service's responsibilities in special law enforcement programs.

Additional funds requested for 1976 are necessary to maintain the Service's ability to assure equitable application and adequate enforcement of the tax laws and thus maintain the high rate of voluntary compliance.

1. Audit of tax returns.—This activity provides for selective examination of tax returns to see if taxpayers have properly complied with the internal revenue laws. It corrects errors and explains corrections to the taxpayers.

2. Tax fraud and special investigations.—This activity provides for enforcement of the criminal statutes relating to violations of tax laws. It investigates cases of suspected intent to defraud; recommends prosecution as warranted; and assists in the preparation and trial of criminal tax cases. It is responsible for directing Service participation in the drive against organized crime and against narcotics traffickers.

3. Taxpayer conferences and appeals.—This activity provides for administrative consideration and settlement of taxpayer appeals of audit findings.

4. Technical rulings and services.—This activity develops tax return forms, instructions, and guides; issues rulings and opinions as to application of the tax laws and meets with taxpayer groups to review and resolve special tax problems.

5. Legal services.—This activity comprises the legal counsel and legal assistance needed by the Service to administer and enforce the internal revenue laws.

6. Employee plans.—This activity provides for the review of employee pension plans to determine whether these plans meet the requirement of law.

7. Exempt organizations.—This activity provides for the review of organizations' operations to determine whether they are exempt from taxation.

This revolving fund was established pursuant to section 112(a) of the Federal Tax Lien Act of 1966 (26 U.S.C. 7810) solely to serve as the source of financing the redemption of real property by the United States. In collecting delinquent taxes, situations arise where it is to the Government's advantage to buy property on which it has a lien when the property is sold at a foreclosure sale brought by the holder of a lien which is superior to the Government's. The advantage arises when the property is worth substantially more than the first lien holder's equity, but is being sold for an amount that barely covers that equity, thereby leaving no proceeds to apply against delinquent taxes. Under these circumstances, if the Government buys the property and subsequently puts it up for sale under more advantageous conditions, it is possible to realize sufficient profit on the transaction to fully or partially collect the amount of taxes due. The revolving fund is reimbursed from the proceeds of the sale in an amount equal to the amount expended from the fund for the redemption. The balance of the proceeds are applied against the amount of the tax, interest, penalties, and additions thereto; and for the costs of sale. The remainder, if any, would revert to the parties legally entitled to it.

The Service must provide for the protection of the President of the United States, members of his immediate family, the President-elect, the Vice President and members of his immediate family, or other officer next in the order of succession to the Office of the President, and the Vice-President-elect; protection of the person of a visiting head of a foreign state or foreign government and, at the direction of the President, other distinguished foreign visitors to the United States and official representatives of the United States performing special missions abroad; the protection of persons who are determined to be major presidential or vice presidential candidates unless such protection is declined; the protection of the person of a former President and his wife during his lifetime, the protection of the person of the widow of a former President until her death or remarriage, and minor children of a former President until they reach 16 years of age, unless such protection is declined. The Service is also responsible for investigation of counterfeiting of currency, specie, and securities; forgery and altering of Government checks and bonds; and criminal and noncriminal cases.

The Executive Protective Service protects the Executive Residence and grounds in the District of Columbia; the residence of the Vice President and grounds in the District of Columbia; and any building in which White House offices are located. This operation is clearly allied with the personal protection of the President and his family, and the Vice President and his family, while they are in residence. In addition, the Executive Protective Service protects foreign diplomatic missions in the Washington metropolitan area and such areas in the United States as the President may direct on a case by case basis.

The Treasury Security Force is responsible for safeguarding paper currency and other Government securities and obligations that are contained in the Main Treasury Building and its annex in Washington, D.C.

The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency was created for the purpose of establishing and regulating a national banking system. The National Currency Act of 1863 (12 U.S.C. 1 et seq., 12 Stat. 665) provided for the chartering and supervising functions in this connection. The income of the Comptroller's Office is derived principally from assessments paid by national banks and interest on investments in U.S. Government obligations. In accordance with 12 U.S.C. 481 assessments paid by national banks are not construed to be government funds. No funds derived from taxes or Federal appropriations are allocated to or used by the Comptroller's Office in any of its operations.

The Administrator of National Banks charters new banking institutions only after investigation and due consideration. Supervision of existing national banks is aided by the required submission of periodic reports and detailed, on-site examinations, the latter conducted by a staff of approximately 2,000 national bank examiners. At the present time there are approximately 4,700 national banks with 15,000 operating branches and total assets of $490 billion. As a result of the reports submitted and the examinations conducted, the Office determines the financial condition of individual national banks and the system as a whole, the soundness of operations and compliance with applicable laws and regulations.

In addition, the Comptroller considers applications for mergers in which the resulting bank will be a national bank, and applications from banks to establish branches. The Comptroller of the Currency promulgates rules and regulations for the guidance of national banks, bank directors, etc., and publishes them as manuals so that they are readily available to the interested parties.

This trust fund was established by the State and Local Fiscal Assistance Act of 1972 (86 Stat. 919) to provide general revenue sharing payments to localities for defined high-priority expenditures and payments to States to supplement their revenue sources. Payments to States and localities are made at least quarterly. It is anticipated that the fourth quarter payment for each fiscal year will continue to be paid within the first 5 days of the succeeding fiscal year, as provided by law.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—TREASURY DEPARTMENT

SEC. 101. Appropriations in this Act to the Treasury Department shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-2) including maintenance, repairs, and cleaning; purchase of insurance for official motor vehicles operated in foreign countries; entering into contracts with the Department of State for the furnishing of health and medical services to employees and their dependents serving in foreign countries; and services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109. (Treasury Department Appropriations Act, 1975.)

【GENERAL PROVISION】

Sec. 102. Motor vehicles for police-type use by the Treasury Department may be purchased without regard to the general purchase price limitation for the current fiscal year. (Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1975.)

TITLE V—GENERAL PROVISIONS

THIS ACT

SEC. 501. Where appropriations in this Act are expendable for travel expenses of employees and no specific limitation has been placed thereon, the expenditures for such travel expenses may not exceed the amounts set forth therefor in the budget estimates submitted for the appropriations: Provided, That this section shall not apply to travel performed by uncompensated officials of local boards and appeal boards of the Selective Service System; to travel performed directly in connection with care and treatment of medical beneficiaries of the Veterans Administration; or to payments to interagency motor pools where separately set forth in the budget schedules.

SEC. 502. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be available to pay the salary of any person filling a position, other than a temporary position, formerly held by an employee who has left to enter the Armed Forces of the United States and has satisfactorily completed his period of active military or naval service and has within ninety days after his release from such service or from hospitalization continuing after discharge for a period of not more than one year made application for restoration to his former position and has been certified by the Civil Service Commission as still qualified to perform the duties of his former position and has not been restored thereto.

SEC. 503. No part of any appropriation made available in this Act shall be used for the purchase or sale of real estate or for the purpose of establishing new offices outside the District of Columbia: Provided, That this limitation shall not apply to programs which have been approved by the Congress and appropriations made therefor.

SEC. 【505.】 504. ## ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION

Public Law 93-438 abolished the Atomic Energy Commission effective January 19, 1975. Nuclear regulatory and reactor safety research functions of AEC were transferred to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. The energy research and development and all other functions of AEC were transferred to the Energy Research and Development Administration. The amounts formerly included in this chapter have been distributed to the accounts of the successor agencies as indicated below.

[OPERATING EXPENSES]

【For necessary operating expenses of the Commission in carrying out the purposes of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, including the employment of aliens; services authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109; hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; publication and dissemination of atomic information; purchase, repair and cleaning of uniforms; official entertainment expenses (not to exceed $30,000); reimbursement of the General Services Administration for security guard services; hire of passenger motor vehicles; $1,411,960,000 and any moneys (except sums received from disposal of property under the Atomic Energy Community Act of 1955, as amended (42 U.S.C. 2301)) received by the Commission, notwithstanding the provisions of section 3617 of the Revised Statutes (31 U.S.C. 484), to remain available until expended: Provided, That the amount appropriated for "Operating expenses" in the Special Energy Research and Development Appropriation Act, 1975, shall be merged, without limitation, with this appropriation: Provided further, That from this appropriation transfers of sums may be made to other agencies of the Government for the performance of the work for which this appropriation is made, and in such cases the sums so transferred may be merged with the appropriation to which transferred.】

The Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) is responsible for directing and conducting research and development on domestic sources of energy, for carrying out nuclear energy functions related to national defense and fuel production; and conducting basic research in the physical, biomedical and environmental sciences.

Funding is also required for the transition period (July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976) to provide for the orderly continuation of on-going operating programs at a level of $1,017 million. No new operating programs are planned to be initiated in the transition period.

1. Fossil energy development.—(a) Coal.—The principal objectives of this program are to accelerate the development of the technology for converting coal to environmentally acceptable liquid and gaseous fuels, to improve methods for the direct combustion of coal, and to develop advanced power conversion systems utilizing high efficiency technologies for generating electricity from coal. By major category the program funding is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Category	1974 actual	1975 estimate	1976 estimate
Liquefaction	46,291	94,745	97,562
High-Btu, gasification	33,333	59,805	63,364

During 1976, research and development will continue on coal liquefaction concepts to advance the technology needed for converting coal to low-sulfur, low-ash fuel oil for power generation and for upgrading to transportation fuels. Specific activities are related to the four methods of converting coal to liquids, namely direct catalytic hydrogenation, solvent extraction, pyrolysis and indirect synthesis variations.

The coal gasification program will include research and development efforts directed toward high-Btu and low-Btu gasification processes, both above ground and in situ. The gasification program is aimed at developing technologies for producing a suitable utility fuel, and also a gas of pipeline quality.

Effort will also continue on the direct combustion program to develop boiler systems capable of burning high-sulfur coals of varying quality in an environmentally acceptable manner, and at the same time achieve higher combustion efficiency. Research and development will also continue on advanced power conversion systems for more efficient generation of electricity from coal.

Advanced research and supporting technology will provide support to the liquefaction, gasification, direct combustion, and advanced power system programs in 1976. The principal areas of emphasis include advanced process research, basic coal science, and systems analysis studies.

Pilot plant efforts on a number of processes have proceeded to a point where it is planned to build a clean boiler fuel demonstration plant to convert high-sulfur eastern bituminous coals to an environmentally acceptable lower sulfur boiler fuel. The 1976 program includes conceptual and engineering design phases for the clean boiler fuel demonstration plant, initial efforts in the conceptual design of high-Btu pipeline gas and low-Btu gas demonstration plants, and technical support for all three projects.

(b) Petroleum and natural gas.—The objective of this program is to supplement the efforts of industry in developing new and improved technologies for increasing the recoverable fraction of oil and gas resources. Estimated resources of 290 billion barrels of residual oil, most of which are on shore, will remain after present conventional production operations are completed. There are also approximately 600 trillion cubic feet of noncommercial natural gas residing in deep Rocky Mountain basins.

In 1976, fluid injection and fracturing methods for gas and oil extraction will be used in field demonstration projects. Efforts related to nuclear gas stimulation will be directed primarily toward further testing, analyses, and interpretation of the Rio Blanco nuclear gas stimulation experiment conducted in 1973. Solvent recovery methods for heavy oil and in situ combustion methods for tar sands will also be developed and demonstrated. Other research involves continuation and expansion of projects for improved processing of heavy crude oils and asphalt; recycling of waste lubricating oils as a feed stock; automotive engine studies to permit the use of lower quality gasoline or fuels derived from coal; and the measurement of fundamental physical, chemical, and thermodynamic properties of hydrocarbons.

(c) Oil shale.—Research will be conducted on in situ processing of oil shale in order to expedite development of shale oil and gas directly at its underground location, eliminating some of the environmental problems associated with mining and, concurrently, providing a technology applicable to deposits not accessible by above-ground approaches. This program is also directed toward determining the oil potential and other characteristics of oil shale deposits.

2. Solar, geothermal, and advanced energy systems development.—(a) Solar energy development.—The objective of this program is to establish the technical and economic viability of several important solar applications (e.g., heating and cooling of buildings, wind energy conversion, and bio-conversion to fuels) by the end of this decade. The program in 1976 will include implementation of the Solar Heating and Cooling Demonstration Act, experiments with larger scale wind utilization devices, design of a large solar thermal receiver, research on several promising photovoltaic technologies, and construction of a small plant which converts urban solid wastes into methane.

(b) Geothermal energy development.—The objective of this program is to develop the technology for, and to identify and remove the environmental, legal, and institutional barriers to, the utilization of geothermal energy. The program is closely coordinated with the Interior's leasing and resource assessment programs and is designed to supplement research and development activities underway in the private sector. In 1976, research on both the high risk, hot dry rock resource and the liquid dominated resource will continue. Projects in advanced research and technology will be directed at developing components to overcome technical problems such as scaling and corrosion of pipes.

(c) Advanced energy systems research.—In 1976, investigations will be conducted in magneto-hydrodynamics (MHD), fuel cells, and other technologies which may provide for improved energy conversion efficiencies in electric generating plants.

(d) Physical research.—This program provides support for both theoretical and experimental basic research in the physical sciences. Funds are included for increased high energy physics accelerator utilization, and on research required for the development of new energy sources and for the solution of energy-related problems. By major category, the costs are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

High energy physics.....	125,842	131,500	148,300
Nuclear science.....	64,360	71,700	78,100

Total physical research program.	252,825	281,600	312,500

3. Conservation research and development.—(a) Electric power transmission.—The primary objectives of this program are to reduce the losses, increase the power capability, and improve the reliability and economies of electric power transmission and distribution systems. In 1976, research will continue in underground transmission with a major emphasis on superconducting cable systems, in both a.c. and d.c. overhead transmission, in distribution systems, as well as in system security, control and development. The program includes assessment of environmental impacts.

(b) Advanced automotive power systems.—In 1976, the advanced automotive power systems program will include research and investigations in the development, demonstration, and adoption of alternative powerplants including gas turbines, Rankine, and Stirling engines, as well as research on alternative fuels and on other propulsion system components for use in efficient, low polluting, and quiet transportation systems.

(c) Energy storage systems.—Research will continue on the lithium-sulfur battery concept which shows considerable promise as a candidate for storage of electrical energy for vehicle propulsion and for electrical power systems. Other promising storage technologies for electric utility off-peak storage will be evaluated.

(d) End-use energy conservation research and development.—The objective of this program is to develop new technologies for reducing energy utilization, particularly in commercial and residential buildings. The program in 1976 will include research on more energy-efficient home appliances and the development of techniques for estimating the potential payoff of end-use conservation research.

4. Nuclear energy development.—(a) Fusion power research and development.—The 1976 request for magnetic confinement systems is directed toward completing experiments required prior to creating, heating, and confining a plasma fuel for a sufficient period to obtain a net energy gain; for maintaining scheduled fabrication of two major experimental devices; and for increased research operations on current experimental devices providing further information necessary for the design of power producing experiments.

(b) Fission power reactor development.—This program provides for the development, demonstration, and improvement of advanced nuclear power reactors, together with research and development on reactor technology and nuclear safety.

The development program on liquid metal fast breeder reactors (LMFBR) will be directly oriented to the engineering necessary for achieving highly reliable, safe, and economic breeder powerplants. It also includes continued support for the fast flux test facility (FFTF) and design, development and construction of an LMFBR demonstration plant in the 350 to 400 MWe range. The pace of activity on the LMFBR demonstration plant will significantly accelerate in 1976 due to the initiation of construction including site preparation as well as the continuation of hardware development and procurement activities.

Efforts will be initiated on advanced light water breeder reactor applications. These efforts would be directed toward developing information that will assist U.S. industry in evaluating and applying to existing and future water reactor plants the technology developed and demonstrated in the Light water breeder reactor program.

In 1976, funding of the high temperature gas reactor and thorium utilization program is being increased to accelerate the demonstration of fuel reprocessing and refabrication technology in future prototype pilot facilities. Supporting activities will also be expanded in 1976 for advanced fuel efforts, dry cooling tower development, and special nuclear materials safeguards activities.

(c) Naval reactor development.—During 1976 efforts will continue on development of an advanced reactor core with longer life for application to nuclear powered guided-missile frigates and on the development of advanced reactors for submarines. An increased level of effort will be directed toward the development of a submarine propulsion plant for the Trident submarines.

(d) Space nuclear systems.—The space electric power development category provides nuclear power generators for scheduled flight missions such as the NASA Mariner Jupiter/Saturn missions scheduled for launch in 1977, and to pursue technology advancements for future missions.

(e) Nuclear materials.—This program relates to the production of special nuclear materials primarily for use in nuclear weapons and as fuel for civilian nuclear power reactors and the development of information on the availability of source materials. Production of enriched uranium will continue to increase in 1976 to meet future fuel requirements for civilian power reactors. By major category, the costs are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Production of enriched uranium.....	302,357	416,228	554,360
Production of plutonium and other reactor products.....	167,010	188,827	219,285
Other.....	42,007	41,025	55,295
Total nuclear materials.....	511,374	646,080	828,940

ERDA charges industry for its services in enriching uranium and also sells byproduct steam from one of its production reactors to northwest utilities. The related revenues are included in the receipts from non-Federal sources in the program and financing schedule.

(f) Advanced isotope separation technology.—This program involves the development of new techniques for isotopically enriching materials. The 1976 request provides for a substantial effort in the development of high-power lasers which could lead to reductions in the cost of producing enriched uranium fuel for civilian power reactors.

5. National security.—(a) Weapons.—This program consists of research and development including underground testing of new nuclear weapons and weapons concepts in support of DOD requirements production of nuclear weapons; and maintenance of currently stockpiled weapons. In 1976, increased funds are primarily directed toward completing the detailed design and underground testing of nuclear weapons already approved for development prior to the effective date of the Threshold Test Ban Treaty. By major category the costs are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Production and surveillance.....	374,380	377,220	378,440
Research and development.....	243,097	258,545	284,465
Testing.....	168,397	184,232	210,610
Total weapons.....	785,874	819,997	873,515

(b) Laser fusion.—The objectives of the laser fusion program are: (1) to determine the scientific feasibility of laser and electron beam initiated fusion and (2) to apply laser fusion energy to the modeling and simulation of nuclear weapons and weapons effects and to commercial power production needs.

(c) Nuclear materials security.—This program is directed toward continuing improvements in safeguards procedures and systems for use in both the commercial and public sector to prevent possible diversion of special nuclear material.

6. Environmental and safety research.—(a) Biomedical and environmental research.—The largest portion of this program provides for biomedical and environmental research to assess the risks associated with radiation and other energy related effluents. Activities include such priority areas as the biomedical and environmental effects of plutonium, the biological effects of low doses of radiation, thermal effects, offshore siting, and evaluations of the impact of energy producing systems on a regional, national, or other geographical scale. In addition, increased emphasis will be focused on the health and environmental consequences of pollutants from non-nuclear energy sources, especially fossil fuels.

(b) Waste management activities provide increases for research and development on methods of long-term management of radioactive wastes from commercial and ERDA operations and the development of improved transportation methods and packaging of radioactive materials.

(c) Operational safety includes efforts related to the development of safety guidelines for use in ERDA operations, safety studies, and radiological surveillance activities. Also included is a program to counteract radiation, by removal or other measures, resulting from the previous use of uranium mill tailings for private construction in Grand Junction, Colo.

7. Program support.—This activity provides the necessary support for the activities of ERDA.

(a) Program direction for ERDA is conducted through field offices and the Washington headquarters. Included are the salaries and related costs for employees engaged in executive direction, general management, and technical supervision.

(b) Community operations provides assistance payments to the former AEC communities of Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Los Alamos, N. Mex.; and Richland, Wash., in accordance with the Atomic Energy Community Act of 1955, as amended.

(c) Security investigations are conducted as required by the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, for those persons who require access to restricted data of the atomic energy program.

(d) Information services are provided for the scientific and technical community and the general public.

(e) Equal employment opportunity contract compliance-assigned facilities function to carry out ERDA's responsibility as 1 of 15 compliance agencies designated by the Office of Federal Contract Compliance, Department of Labor.

<sup>2</sup> Includes $661,916 thousand in 1974 and $801,752 thousand in 1975 for activities transferred pursuant to Public Law 93-438 from:

	(In thousands of dollars)
Atomic Energy Commission: "Plant and capital equipment".....	661,819	788,625
Department of the Interior, Office of Coal Research: "Salaries and expenses".....	97	13,087

This appropriation provides for construction of plants and facilities and for acquisition of capital equipment not related to construction required to support the activities of the Energy Research and Development Administration. Of the budget authority of $895 million being requested for 1976, $180 million applies to new construction projects or new modifications of existing facilities to be authorized in 1976 and $483 million to construction projects which were previously authorized by Congress, and $232 million is required for acquisition of capital equipment not related to construction.

The principal projects are described as follows:

1. Fossil energy development.—(a) Coal.—Pilot plant efforts have proceeded to a point where it is now planned to initiate preliminary and final designs of a clean boiler fuel demonstration plant. The long lead-time equipment items required in the construction of this plant, which is scheduled for construction in early 1978, must be ordered sufficiently in advance to assure their availability on schedule.

2. Solar, geothermal, and advanced energy systems development.—(d) Physical research.—This program provides funds for accelerator and reactor improvements and modifications necessary to support the planned research programs at several laboratory locations. Funds are also provided for a continuation of construction of heavy ion research facilities.

4. Nuclear energy development.—(a) Fusion power research and development.—This program provides funds for design and long-lead procurement for a fusion test reactor based on the magnetic confinement Tokamak concept, to be located at the Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory, Plainsboro, N.J.

(b) Fission power reactor development.—The principal projects include modifications to the existing sodium components test installation at the Liquid Metal Engineering Center to upgrade its heat dump capability in order to provide for testing the LMFBR demonstration plant steam generator. Additional funds will also be provided in 1976 for the fast flux test facility (FFTF) which will provide an instrumented environment in a fast flux for testing fuels for the LMFBR and other fast reactor programs.

(e) Nuclear materials.—This program includes funds for projects which will allow for improvement and upgrading of existing gaseous diffusion plants and the development of new centrifuge technology to assist private industry's entry into the uranium enrichment field. Also included in this category are funds for additional waste handling and storage facilities at various ERDA locations.

5. National security.—(a) Weapons.—This program includes funds for the modification of facilities at various locations to provide for efficient and economical production of Trident and Minuteman III weapon systems. Funds are also included for new weapons research and development facilities as well as a new weapons component exchange facility at Charleston, S.C. Funds are also provided to further enhance fire protection, safety, and operating conditions at various locations.

(b) Laser fusion.—This program includes funds for the completion of facilities in support of the laser fusion program at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, Livermore, Calif.

6. Environmental and safety research.—(a) Biomedical and environmental research.—This program provides funds primarily for laboratory facilities at Holifield National Laboratory, Tenn., and the Pacific Northwest Laboratory to support biomedical and environmental research.

(b) Waste management.—Funds are included to provide for a retrievable surface storage facility for commercial high level wastes and for intermediate level waste management facilities at Holifield National Laboratory, Tenn.

8. Construction planning and design.—This activity provides funds for conceptual design of complex construction projects which are under consideration for possible future authorization.

A wide variety of capital equipment is procured to fill the various needs of all operating programs. Such needs range from routine replacement of worn out and obsolete equipment, to the procurement of new research devices. Additions are needed for expanding programs and to keep pace with rapidly changing technology in the energy research and development and the atomic energy production programs.

Funding is also required for the transition period. Of the budget authority $194 million being requested for the transition period, $137 million provides only for on-going phase-funded construction projects and general plant projects, and $57 million for capital equipment not related to construction needed to support the on-going operating programs.

EPA's research and development efforts are conducted through grants, contracts, and agreements with universities, industries, other private commercial firms, non-profit organizations, State and local governments, and Federal agencies as well as through research and development at EPA's laboratories and field locations.

These efforts are oriented toward producing the scientific knowledge and the tools for regulating, preventing, and abating pollution and are specifically directed to the problems of air pollution control, water pollution control, water supply protection, solid and toxic waste management pesticides control, radiation protection, noise abatement, and interdisciplinary studies. Activities encompass research on the effects of pollutants on man, animals, aquatic life, plants, materials, and the general environment; research on the processes, such as dispersion that affects pollution; the development of new and improved sampling and analytical methods and instruments for measuring pollutants; and the development and demonstration of new and improved technology for preventing and controlling pollution and recovery of materials from wastes. Overall management and support is included.

EPA is responsible for major Federal environmental pollution abatement and control programs, including programs in air and water pollution control, water supply and radiation protection, solid and toxic waste management, pesticides control, and noise abatement.

Program efforts entail developing environmental standards; monitoring and surveillance of pollution conditions; grant support for State and local pollution control planning; direct Federal pollution control planning; grant support for State, regional, and local pollution control programs; technical assistance to pollution control agencies and organizations; assistance to Federal agencies in complying with environmental standards and insuring that their activities have minimum environmental impact; and training to increase the supply of and improve the skills of pollution control personnel. Overall management and support is included.

EPA's enforcement responsibilities are in the areas of air pollution control, water pollution control, pesticides control and noise control. Much of the effort is in support of or in cooperation with State and local enforcement programs, such as the enforcement of air quality standards; navigable and interstate water quality standards; and issuance of discharge permits. Enforcement includes such actions as notices of violation, abatement orders, enforcement conferences, civil and criminal court actions, and, in the case of pesticides, recalls and seizures. Overall management and support is included.

This appropriation provides for the programs and activities relating to the promotion of maximum utilization by Federal agencies, and the transfer among agencies of excess real property. It provides for the disposal of surplus real property by sale, exchange, lease permit or transfer to authorized organizations as well as the care and handling of excess and surplus property pending disposition. It provides for the appraisal of excess and surplus property, the appraisal of public building leases, sites, and other related building programs. It also provides for the establishment of specifications, standards, and methods governing such appraisals.

1. Utilization and disposal.—In 1976 it is estimated that the sale of properties no longer required for Federal use will return to the Government $25 million in proceeds. During the transition period property sales are estimated to return to the Government $6 million in proceeds. Utilization transfers should reach 85 properties with an acquisition value of $95 million and other disposal actions are expected to reach 250 properties with an acquisition value of $230 million. During the transition period utilization transfers will total 20 and other disposal actions will reach 65 properties. The number of surveys to identify underutilized properties to be conducted by GSA are estimated at 200 in 1976, and 50 during the transition period, and GSA will participate in approximately 50 surveys to be conducted by DOD in 1976 and 13 during the transition period.

2. Appraisal.—The total number of appraisals in 1976 is made up of 2,000 staff and 450 contract appraisals and during the transition period of 500 staff and 100 contract appraisals.

3. Protection and maintenance.—It is estimated that protection and maintenance costs will reach $1,054 thousand in 1976 and $263 thousand during the transition period.

Appraisers, auctioneers, and brokers familiar with local markets are used to accelerate the disposal of surplus real and related personal property. Fees of appraisers, auctioneers, and brokers and costs of advertising and surveying are paid out of receipts from disposals within each year in accordance with 40 U.S.C.A. 485(b). Also paid from such proceeds is the direct expense in connection with utilization of excess real and related personal property. Disposal appraisals are estimated to be 162 during the transition period.

The Federal buildings fund finances the activities of the Public Buildings Service which provides space and services for Federal agencies in a relationship similar to that of landlord and tenant. The buildings fund covers a total space inventory (leased and Government owned, including outside parking) of 286 million square feet in 1975 and 298 million square feet in 1976. This inventory will house 856,000 employees in 1975 and 905,000 in 1976. The fund, established in 1975, replaces direct appropriations by using income derived from rent assessments (standard level user charges—SLUC) which approximate commercial rates for comparable space and services. SLUC income is estimated at $997 million for 1975 and $1,777 million for 1976. The 1976 amounts are distributed among major executive agencies as follows:

[In millions of dollars]

The Federal buildings fund direct program consists of the following activities:

1. Construction.—This activity provides for space acquisition through direct Federal financed construction of facilities, including the extension and conversion of existing buildings. It finances all costs directly attributable to Federal buildings fund construction projects for site acquisition, design, management and inspection, and construction. The total cost of new commitments for direct Federal financed construction is estimated at $25 million in 1975 and $29 million in 1976.

2. Alterations and major repairs.—This activity provides for alterations and major repairs of public buildings. Overall appearance, state of repair, and operating efficiency are the principal criteria used in establishing priorities of work required with primary consideration given to repairs to prevent deterioration and damage to the buildings, their support systems, and necessary operating equipment.

3. Purchase contract payments.—This activity provides for the acquisition of space through purchase contracting for facilities financed by private investment capital. The periodic payments on the purchase contracts cover principal, interest, taxes, and other requirements. The total project cost of new commitments for buildings financed by purchase contract authority is estimated at $241 million in 1975 and $161 million in 1976. Legislation will be proposed to extend purchase contract financing authority, as authorized in current law, beyond 1975.

4. Rental of space.—This activity provides for the acquisition of space through the leasing of either existing buildings, including space occupied by Federal agencies in U.S. Postal Service facilities, or facilities to be built with private capital for lease to the Government. Rental costs of existing commercial and Postal Service buildings are estimated to provide 89 million square feet in 1975 (including proposed supplemental) and 96 million square feet in 1976. In addition, $21 million is estimated as the total project cost for new commitments in 1976 of facilities to be constructed for lease to the Government. For 1975, supplemental authority is being requested to finance the cost of payments to the U.S. Postal Service for postal space occupied by Federal agencies.

5. Real property operations.—This activity provides for operation of Government-owned and leased facilities, including cleaning, utilities and fuel, protection, maintenance, other miscellaneous services such as moving as a result of space adjustments, moving of agencies into newly acquired space, evaluation of new materials and equipment, and field supervision of the foregoing services. The 1976 direct program provides for a standard level of building services comparable to those furnished in commercial space and compares with the 1975 program as follows (estimated square feet and expenses in millions):

	Square feet	Expenses	Square feet	Expenses
Cleaning.....	168	$132	176	$133
Utilities.....	199	84	207	110
Maintenance and minor repairs.....	171	65	179	75
Protection.....	180	37	185	38
Other operations.....	283	38	293	41
Total.....	---	356	---	397

6. Program direction.—This activity provides for the overall general management, long and short-range planning, and administration of all programs which are the responsibility of the Public Buildings Service. In addition, this activity finances the costs of management and administration of each of the individual direct activities of the Federal buildings fund.

Other programs.—When requested by Federal agencies, the Public Buildings Service provides building services such as tenant alterations, cleaning and other operations, protection, and architectural engineering services which are in excess of those services provided under the standard level user charge. The Public Buildings Service also provides for promotion of maximum utilization of property by Federal agencies; transfer among agencies of excess real property; disposal of surplus real property by sale, exchange, lease permit or donation; appraisal of properties; and identification of sites for public facilities.

Transition period.—Between July 1, 1976, and September 30, 1976, the Federal building fund program will remain at approximately the 1976 level with some slight increases to meet expansion requirements of Federal agencies.

This appropriation provides for Government-wide management of supplies and personal property, transportation and public utilities services, operation of the worldwide supply system, and maintenance and disposal of strategic and critical materials.

1. Supply distribution.—This activity manages and operates a national supply distribution system consisting of wholesale and retail distribution facilities through which commercial-type commodities are received, stored, and issued on a worldwide basis to Federal agencies. Supplies are shipped by wholesale operation to customer agencies from GSA supply distribution facilities located in each of the 10 GSA regions, and a variety of commonly used administrative and office supplies are provided to Federal agencies through self-service retail facilities located wherever there is a concentration of Federal activities. Sales through these distribution facilities will increase from

$585 million in 1975 to an estimated $620 million in 1976 and are estimated at $156 million during the transition period.

2. Procurement.—This activity has the contracting responsibility for commercial-type items required by Federal agencies and other authorized users of the Federal Supply Service system. It is also responsible for the selection of commodities in the stores, nonstores, and Federal supply schedules programs and determines the methods of supply that are most economical and effective. Total procurement volume in 1974 was $2,043 million and is estimated at $2,300 million in 1975, $2,500 million in 1976 and $630 million during the transition period.

3. Supply control.—This activity manages and operates programs for inventory management, processing and control of agency requisitions, commodity management, and logistics data systems. Inventory levels available for issue to customer agencies are projected at $194 million in 1976, an increase of $11 million from 1975 and will continue at that level during the transition period. Line items or agency requisitions processed through the Federal Supply System are estimated to increase from 9.4 million in 1975 to 10.5 million in 1976 and are estimated at 2.6 million during the transition. This increase is a result of the expansion of the automated delivery order system (ADO), which permits agencies to submit requisitions to GSA for placement of orders against Federal supply schedule contracts.

4. Standards and quality control.—Timely delivery of commodities of specified quality is assured by inspection and surveillance at contractor's plants or GSA supply facilities, by laboratory tests and analyses prior to acceptance, and by contract administration assistance. Qualitative requirements of Federal agencies for commodities are reflected in Federal specifications and Federal standards which are mandatory for use in procurement. The standardization program will consist of the promulgation of 1,140 Federal specifications and standards actions in 1976 and 285 during the transition period.

5. Transportation and public utilities.—During 1976 and the transition period continued efforts will be devoted to development of guides, procedures, and assistance to civilian Federal agencies for improving transportation practices and operations, obtaining reasonable rates with carriers, and providing procurement assistance and related transportation services. Government-wide policies and procedures are developed to improve the overall efficiency of the Government-owned motor vehicle fleet and to assist the various Federal agencies with motor equipment management. Negotiations are conducted with public utilities companies on behalf of executive agencies and technical assistance is provided in connection with regulatory proceedings.

6. Interagency support.—Principally externally oriented, the interagency support activity directs and coordinates the development and implementation of logistics programs for Federal agencies to eliminate duplication in the procurement and supply programs of the Federal Government. This activity is responsible for supply relationships with the Department of Defense and civilian agencies in the furtherance of the National Supply System objectives through interagency agreements and cross-servicing arrangements. Also, it monitors FSS supply effectiveness and responsiveness to Federal agency requirements, and through liaison with agencies, provides a channel for early identification of customer agency problems and unusual supply requirements. Greater emphasis will be placed on the customer liaison and customer market research program to increase the scope of supply and procurement support rendered by the Federal Supply Service to other Federal agencies.

7. Property management.—This activity covers the cost of managing the national and supplemental stockpiles of strategic and critical materials required to keep the Nation's mobilization base viable, including costs of receiving, storing, inspecting, and maintaining the material in storage locations. Responsibilities include shipment of material sold when a determination is made that it is no longer critical to the mobilization base.

8. Personal property disposal.—This activity manages and operates a Government-wide excess Federal personal property program including the utilization, donation, rehabilitation and sale of personal property. It provides for the utilization of excess property, donation of surplus personal property for public benefit purposes; sale of surplus and exchange/sale of personal property (except DOD property), and rehabilitation of personal property owned by the Government to extend its useful life.

9. Service direction.—This activity provides management and overall direction of all Federal Supply Service programs, and beginning in 1975, the payment of rental charges to the Federal buildings fund.

This fund finances, on a reimbursable basis, a national supply depot system and a system of ordering supplies for direct delivery to agencies. Supplies or services are sold from the fund at cost to other agencies and the District of Columbia. Related operating expenses are provided for under the appropriation Operating expenses, Federal Supply Service.

Also financed by the fund and reimbursed by using agencies are the operations of interagency motor vehicle pools, the rehabilitation and repair of furniture and equipment, and the redistribution of materials no longer needed overseas.

Budget program.—This estimate provides for sales to both military and civilian agencies. It also provides for the operation of the credit return program.

Supply operations.—(a) Stores, regular.—Stocks of common-use commodities are purchased in volume and stored in supply depots for sale to Government agencies. From a total of $528.9 million in 1974, sales are estimated to increase to $585 million in 1975 and to $620 million in 1976. Sales are estimated at $156 million during the transition period. Administrative equipment is purchased and charged on an accrual basis to the using activities.

(b) Stores, direct delivery.—Orders for stores-type items, if sufficiently large and delivery time is not a factor, are placed with the commercial source of supply for delivery directly to the customer. Sales were $24.8 million in 1974, and are estimated to be $25 million in 1975 and 1976, and $6.3 million during the transition period.

(c) Nonstores items.—Definite quantity requirements of commodities which are not susceptible to economical stocking in supply depots are purchased for direct shipment to using agencies. Sales are estimated at $315 million in 1975 and $317 million in 1976, and $79 million during the transition period.

(d) Schedule contracts.—Beginning in 1975 GSA will implement the automated delivery order (ADO) system under which agency requisitions from vendors will be placed through the General supply fund. Sales are estimated at $50 million in 1975 and $200 million in 1976.

Export operations.—Stores and nonstores items are shipped to overseas customers. Receipts to the fund covering packing, transportation costs, and other reimbursable services are expected to decrease from $18.4 million in 1974 to $18 million in 1975 and 1976 and are estimated at $4.5 million during the transition period.

Property management operations.—Furniture and equipment repair services are provided through commercial sources whenever feasible and economical. Volume is estimated at $0.5 million in both 1975 and 1976 and $0.1 million during the transition period. Receipts to the fund covering redistribution costs of materials no longer required overseas are estimated at $1.3 million in 1975 and 1976 and $0.4 million during the transition period.

Motor pools.—Services are provided to agencies through a system of interagency motor pools. Sales are estimated to increase from $87.1 million in 1974 to $106.3 million in 1975 and $133.8 million in 1976. Sales are estimated at $36.8 million during the transition period.

Other revenue and expense.—Gain or losses on equipment disposals, adjustments between fiscal years, inventory writeoffs, and discounts are applied against operating costs.

Operating results and financial condition.—Investment of the U.S. Government at the end of 1976 is estimated at $430.9 million consisting of $242.8 million direct appropriations, $187.7 million donated assets, and $0.6 million capitalized surplus with $0.2 million deducted for long-term leave liability.

Any operating surplus must be returned to Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

Central blueprinting, photostating, duplicating, and distribution services are financed by a working capital fund pending reimbursements (40 U.S.C. 293). The Joint Committee on Printing, U.S. Congress, has authorized GSA to establish and operate 14 printing plants to meet the needs of GSA and other Government agencies. In addition, GSA operated 11 duplicating plants at the end of 1974.

This appropriation provides for basic operations dealing with management of the Government's archives and records, operation of presidential libraries, and grants for historical publications.

Records in the National Archives and Federal records centers are estimated at 15 million cubic feet in 1976 and 3.8 million cubic feet during the transition period. Reference services will total 17.7 million in 1976 and 4.4 million during the transition period.

1. Records management and centers.—The workload in the regional records centers continues to increase, reflecting agency demands for services. In 1976 agencies will transfer 1.2 million cubic feet of inactive records to the regional centers and 300,000 cubic feet during the transition period. Records disposal from the records centers will total 800,000 cubic feet in 1976 and 200,000 during the transition period. Reference services will be 14 million in 1976 and approximately 3.5 million during the transition.

2. Archives and related services.—Almost half of the workload of the National Archives subactivity is determined by the volume of reference requests received from Government agencies and the public. In 1976 additional funds are requested to (1) meet increased requests for reference services, (2) continue a program begun in 1973 of identifying, preserving, and servicing machine-readable records having permanent value, (3) begin implementation of a Government-wide interchange of audiovisual services, and (4) accelerate the finding aid program of the National Archives.

3. National Historical Publications and Records Commission.—This activity provides for carrying out the national historical documents program, established by the act of July 28, 1964, (Public Law 88-383) as amended, for grants to State and local agencies and to nonprofit organizations and for allocations to Federal agencies in connection with the publication of source materials significant to the history of the United States.

4. Service direction.—This activity provides management and overall direction of all National Archives and Records Service programs, and beginning in 1975 the payment of rental charges to the Federal Buildings Fund.

This appropriation provides for the direction and coordination of a comprehensive Government-wide program for the management, procurement, and utilization of automatic data processing and communications equipment and services, and the overall management of operations designed to provide specialized services to civilian agencies in each of these fields.

1. Automated data management services.—The overall management, control, and coordination of Government-wide programs and activities relating to the procurement of ADP equipment, maintenance, and related supplies and services are provided. The program for 1976 provides for the management of reimbursable programs financed through the ADP fund, whose sales volume will increase from $35.8 million in 1974 to an estimated $56.4 million in 1975, $70.6 million in 1976, and $24.2 million during the transition period.

2. Telecommunications services.—Provides for the overall management, control, and coordination of Government-wide programs and activities relating to the procurement, operation, maintenance, and utilization of telecommunications equipment and services. The program for 1976 provides for the management of reimbursable programs, including the design and engineering of networks and facilities for a Federal communications system for general and national emergency use financed through the Federal telecommunications fund. The Federal telecommunications fund sales volume will increase from $250 million in 1974 to an estimated $292.1 million in 1975, $313.4 million in 1976, and $81.8 million during the transition period.

3. Agency assistance, planning and policy.—Resources are devoted to the development and coordination of operational policies, procedures, regulations, and publications governing the management, operation, and utilization of Government-wide ADP and telecommunications activities. Studies are made to determine the economic impact of ADP and telecommunications programs under development. Programs of long-range research are coordinated for equipment and facilities in the fields of ADP and telecommunications and the Government-wide ADP and telecommunications standardization programs are implemented. This activity is also involved in regulatory representation consisting of negotiations with the communications industry concerning consumer considerations of the Government and participation in regulatory proceedings on communications cases.

This fund was authorized by Public Law 87-847, approved October 23, 1962. It finances, on a reimbursable basis, a telecommunications system for the Federal Government which is operationally compatible with the national communications system. The Advanced Record System, primarily teletype data operations, is now being redesigned to enlarge its capacity to meet projected increases in traffic. Research in the fields of communications and automatic data processing is a continuing requirement to maintain and improve the Government-wide telecommunications system.

Expenses payable from the fund include personal services, procurement by lease or purchase of equipment and operating facilities (including cryptographic devices), and other costs necessary to operate the system. These expenses are reimbursed from available appropriations and funds of any agency or organization for telecommunications services and facilities made available to them.

Initial capital of $9 million, appropriated in 1963, may be increased by donations of supplies and equipment.

Budget program.—The estimate provides for a continued increase in the volume and quality of communications services provided to executive agencies of the Government. Total sales for 1974 were $250 million and are estimated at $292.1 million in 1975, $313.4 million in 1976, and $81.8 million for the transition period.

1. Voice program.—Provides for a telephonic system which will enable personnel in each Federal agency office to communicate directly on a machine-to-machine or station-to-station basis with any other agency office in the Nation. The system provides day-to-day service as well as incorporates features which would be necessary in emergency situations. The program for 1976 contemplates a sales level of $270.9 million, an increase of $22.8 million over 1975 and an anticipated traffic volume of 160 million intercity calls being handled. The program for the transition period anticipates a sales level of $70.5 million and traffic volume of 43.8 million intercity calls.

2. Record program.—Provides common unified records communications system to satisfy record communications requirements of all Federal civil agencies by providing machine-to-machine service for transmission of information by data, teletypewriter, facsimile, and other transmission media while at the same time providing message processing capability required for peak-period traffic loads, time zone differences, machine code and language translation, and processing of multiple address message. Total sales for this program are projected to increase from $22.5 million in 1974 to $26.8 million in 1976, and are estimated at $7.2 million for the transition period.

3. Circuit procurement program.—Provides for centralized procurement of circuits for civil agencies to obtain the benefits of multiple tariff offerings of commercial carriers, while at the same time permitting each agency to maintain operational control over its own circuits. Sales are projected at $9 million in 1975, $9.3 million in 1976, and $2.4 million for the transition period.

4. Special programs.—Provides for an effective communications security program for civil agencies in keeping with objectives of the U.S. communications security plan, and for a consolidated program of procurement and maintenance of equipment to implement such security plans. These programs insure that the Federal telecommunications system will remain operational in the event any portion of the normal system is disabled or destroyed. Sales are estimated at $6.4 million in 1976 and $1.7 million during the transition period.

Operating results and financial condition.—At the end of 1976, the net investment in the fund is estimated to be $8.7 million, composed of $9 million appropriated, $0.2 million donated assets capitalized, less $0.5 million unfunded leave liability. Following the close of each fiscal year any surplus earnings, after making provision for any prior year losses, are deposited in miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury.

The Automatic data processing fund was authorized by Public Law 89-306, to coordinate and provide for the economic and efficient purchase, lease, and maintenance of automatic data processing equipment by Federal agencies.

The fund finances on a reimbursable basis a Government-wide automatic data processing operation, including the procurement by lease, purchase, transfer, or otherwise of ADP equipment, maintenance of equipment, procurement and/or development of software programs with Government-wide application, and operation of service centers and related functions.

Budget program.—The estimate provides for a continued increase in revenue during 1975 and 1976. Sales are estimated to increase from $35,761 thousand in 1974 to $56,382 thousand in 1975, $70,578 thousand in 1976, and $24,225 thousand during the transition period.

1. Data processing.—This activity finances the operation of a Federal data processing program which provides ADP services on a Government-wide basis. These ADP services consist of local and remote computer processing including teleprocessing services contracts; programmer-analyst support; computer performance evaluation and simulation; data conversion support, incidental EAM and data control support; equipment operators for use at a GSA site or a user homesite; general purpose software; and maintenance support for Government-owned ADP equipment and software. This program also provides for financing of joint use ADP facilities operated by two or more agencies under GSA policy guidance.

It is estimated that revenue from Federal data processing programs and other related operations will increase from $29,812 thousand in 1974 to $48,996 thousand in 1975 and $62,822 thousand in 1976. Revenue during the transition period is estimated at $20,243 thousand.

2. Lease program.—This program finances the purchase and multiyear lease of ADP equipment and software from manufacturers for subsequent lease to Federal agencies at costs substantially below commercial annual lease prices. Purchases are made by the fund when special discounts with time limitations and other arrangements become available and agencies are unable to take advantage of these cost reduction opportunities due to budget cycle limitations. In addition to purchases, this program acquires excess Government-owned ADP equipment, where there is a known user or the equipment has a high potential for reutilization, capitalizes it at fair market value, and leases it to Federal agencies at a cost substantially below all other least cost alternatives available to the using agency.

It is estimated that revenue from the lease program will increase from $5,949 thousand in 1974 to $7,386 thousand in 1975 and $7,756 thousand in 1976. Revenue during the transition period is estimated at $3,982 thousand.

The Office of Preparedness advises and assists in the formulation, development and coordination of national civil preparedness policies and fosters State and local participation in preparedness programs. Specific programs include:

1. Civil crisis preparedness.—This activity identifies and evaluates possible threats to the U.S. economy caused by dangerous resource shortages and dependency on other nations and develops policies and programs to accommodate or avoid these dependencies. It provides information and guidance to all levels of Government and certain business, labor, farm, and other organizations and the public on deployment of domestic resources during periods of shortages. Also, it develops and recommends concepts, plans, and systems for managing the Nation's critical resources in a range of civil crisis contingencies.

2. Conflict preparedness.—This activity directs the preparation and implementation of policies, plans, and programs to meet approved objectives for general war and controlled conflict preparedness and provides planning and program guidance to all levels of Government for development, review, and testing of preparedness plans and facilities. It provides policy direction and guidance to the designated Department of Defense agency responsible for maintaining the necessary communications systems essential to the continuity of Government programs; develops and coordinates preparedness measures for contingencies involving the accidental detonation of a nuclear weapon; and develops international programs in support of civil emergency preparedness for general war and controlled conflict contingencies under the general policy guidance of the National Security Council.

3. Stockpile disposal.—In accordance with statutory provisions, this office develops plans and programs to dispose of stockpiled materials no longer required for national security purposes.

Guarantees are given on loans made by public or private financing institutions, including Federal Reserve banks, to facilitate performance of defense production contracts. Upon demand of lending institutions, the Government is required to purchase the guaranteed percentage of the loan or the Government may elect to make a voluntary purchase of the guaranteed percentage. Advances from appropriations available for procurement may be made to this fund for its temporary use, although such action has not been necessary to date. Net earnings are retained to meet possible future loan defaults (50 U.S.C. App. 2091), and are estimated to be $0.2 million at the end of 1976.

The Government-owned William Langer Jewel Bearing Plant at Rolla, N. Dak., is the only facility in the United States which has the capability to produce all types of jewel bearings in quantity. The plant was established by the Department of Defense in 1953 and turned over to GSA in 1957 and is an essential part of the national mobilization program.

The plant produces jewel bearings for sale at fixed prices to Government agencies, and their contractors and subcontractors for national defense purposes, and to GSA for the national stockpile. Mandatory source provisions are contained in the Federal Procurement Regulations and Armed Services Procurement Regulations in support of this operation.

This appropriation provides financing of administrative and staff support services on a centralized and integrated basis for all General Services Administration programs.

1. Administration.—Consists of accounting and reporting, credit, insurance, and related financial services, budget and personnel administration, management systems and office services, investigations, and systems development and design. This activity also provides reimbursable administrative and staff support services to commissions and small agencies.

2. Legal services.—Covers the fields of real property, personal property, archives and records, transportation and communications, strategic and critical materials stockpiling, preparedness policy, and finance and administration.

3. Board of Contract Appeals.—This activity provides a forum for resolution of disputes between a contractor and GSA over provisions or performance of a contract.

4. Federal information centers.—In conjunction with the Civil Service Commission, GSA operates 37 Federal information centers across the country to assist people who need a service provided by the Federal Government but do not know which agency or office provides it. This activity is financed by Federal agency reimbursements to this appropriation.

This account was established in 1975 and replaces the Administrative operations fund which expired June 30, 1974. The Board of Contract Appeals was previously financed under the Construction services fund which expired June 30, 1974.

Legislation will be proposed to increase the pensions for the widows of former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower, Harry S Truman, and Lyndon B. Johnson. The widow's annuity would be set at 55% of the former President's pension. This would increase the widow's pension to a level equivalent to that which may be received by widows of Members of Congress or heads of executive departments.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

SEC. 1. The appropriate appropriation or fund available to the General Services Administration shall be credited with (1) cost of operation, protection, maintenance, upkeep, repair, and improvement, included as part of rentals received from Government corporations pursuant to law (40 U.S.C. 129); and (2) appropriations or funds available to other agencies, and transferred to the General Services Administration, in connection with property transferred to the General Services Administration pursuant to the Act of July 2, 1948 (50 U.S.C. 451ff), and such appropriations or funds may be so transferred, with the approval of the Office of Management and Budget.

SEC. 2. Funds available to the General Services Administration shall be available for the hire of passenger motor vehicles.

SEC. 3. None of the funds available under this Act or under section 111 of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 shall be obligated or expended for the procurement by purchase, lease or any other arrangement, in whole or in part, of any or all the automatic data processing system, data communications network, or related software and services for the joint General Services Administration-Department of Agriculture MCS project 97-72 contained in the Request for Proposal CDPA 74-14, any successor to such project, or any other common user shared facilities authorized under section 111 of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949.

SEC. 4. Not to exceed 2 per centum of any appropriations made available to the General Services Administration, excluding the Federal Buildings Fund, for the current fiscal year and for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, by this Act may be transferred to any other such appropriation, but no such appropriation shall be increased thereby more than 2 per centum: Provided, That such transfers shall apply only to operating expenses, and shall not exceed in the aggregate the amount of $2,000,000. (Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government Appropriation Act, 1975.)

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration conducts the civilian space programs of the United States, and conducts advanced research and development related to space and aeronautics in support of both civil and military requirements. The appropriation provides for research and development activities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as follows:

1. Manned space flight.—All manned space flight activities conducted by the United States are provided for in these estimates. These activities include the space shuttle program which provides for development of a reusable manned earth-to-orbit space vehicle; the Apollo-Soyuz Test Project in which an Apollo spacecraft will rendezvous and dock with a Soviet spacecraft in July 1975; U.S. participation with the European Space Research Organization (ESRO) in a cooperative program for the ESRO funded development of a spacelab to be used in the shuttle; studies, component development and integration of future orbital payloads; life science research and technology; and studies and research on future manned missions.

(a) Space shuttle.—The space shuttle is the key element of a reusable, economical space transportation system designed to carry a variety of domestic and international payloads to and from earth orbit beginning in the 1980's. With its unique advantages of reusability, economy, and versatility, the space shuttle will open up a new era in achieving advances in science and technology and expanding the down-to-earth benefits of space operations.

The reusable space shuttle will offer routine, round trip access to space and will be capable of carrying payloads for private industries, universities, and research organizations, U.S. Government agencies, and national as well as international groups. The shuttle's design features—such as its large cargo-carrying capability and broad operational flexibility—offer substantial savings in the cost of space operations and payloads. These payloads will range from automated satellites and observatories to fully equipped spacelabs where scientists and technicians can conduct experiments from the vantage point of space. Equally important, the shuttle will make it possible to repair payloads in orbit and to bring them back to earth for refurbishment and reuse.

The space shuttle program continues to progress toward the major milestones of the first approach and landing test and the first manned orbital flight. During 1976, development efforts will intensify. Key activities will include virtual completion of the orbiter design; assembly of the first orbiter, configured for the initial approach and landing test; start of fabrication of the second orbiter, configured for the first manned orbital flight; the initial sea level firing of the complete main engine; and start of fabrication of the development solid rocket motors.

(b) Space flight operations.—This activity consists of space life sciences, mission systems and integration efforts, and the basic operational, engineering, technical, and scientific activities required to support the manned space

Space life sciences is a multidisciplinary research and development effort pursued through ground-based laboratories and flight research programs. Major areas include development of instrumentation and advanced technology activities for life support and protective equipment to enhance man's demonstrated capability to work in space. Space life sciences also provide for research and experimental efforts that use the space environment to increase understanding of life processes on Earth.

Mission systems and integration efforts include analyses of integrated mission and payload requirements for the space transportation system to assure compatibility between the payloads and the carriers. This planning and coordination of payload activities between the various elements of the space transportation system, including the space shuttle, space lab, and space tug, and the payload sponsor will enhance the productivity and scope of space operations.

(c) Advanced manned mission studies.—This program examines advanced manned space flight program concepts and develops technical and programmatic data upon which future program planning decisions can be based.

2. Scientific investigations in space.—This program utilizes a variety of automated flight systems and ground-based observations to increase knowledge of the universe. The Earth, Moon, Sun, interplanetary space, solar system, other stars and galaxies, and the interaction among these bodies and systems are all objects of these investigations.

(a) Physics and astronomy.—Coordinated research, with national and international participation, is directed toward knowledge of the space environment, the Earth, and the Sun, and the relationship of these bodies to each other and to interplanetary space and stars, galaxies, and nebulae. Laboratory and theoretical research, ground-based observations, aircraft, balloons, sounding rockets, and explorer and observatory spacecraft all contribute to this quest for knowledge.

Stellar astronomy investigations are being carried out with an Orbiting Astronomical Observatory (OAO-3, Copernicus), launched in 1972, and cooperative satellites with the United Kingdom and the Netherlands which were launched in 1974. In addition, a Small Astronomy Satellite (SAS-C) will be launched in 1975, and an International Ultraviolet Explorer (IUE) in 1976. The IUE will carry an advanced ultraviolet spectrometer which will enable it to look farther into space and to obtain spectra substantially faster than OAO-3.

Solar physics investigations are being carried out with an Orbiting Solar Observatory (OSO-5); another mission in this series (OSO-I) is to be launched in 1975. This program is a scientific undertaking to obtain new knowledge of the Sun, the Earth's atmosphere and Sun-activated terrestrial phenomena not detectable by ground-based observations.

High energy astronomy investigations will be carried out with three high energy astronomy observatories (HEAO) scheduled for launch in 1977, 1978, and 1979, which will permit the observation of previously inaccessible sources of celestial X-rays, gamma rays, and cosmic rays.

Space physics investigations are being conducted in the Explorer program. An Atmosphere Explorer (AE-C) was launched in 1973. Other Explorers launched in 1974 were the Neutral Point Explorer (Hawkeye), and cooperative satellites with Germany, Spain, and Italy. Two additional Atmosphere Explorer missions, as well as the dual air density mission, are scheduled for launch in 1975. The International Sun-Earth Explorers, a cooperative effort with ESRO, will be launched in 1977 and 1978.

Definition studies for various programs will continue, including payload planning for the space shuttle.

(b) Lunar and planetary exploration.—This program concentrates on exploration of the Moon, the planets and their satellites, and other bodies in the solar system such as asteroids and comets, using both ground-based research and observations from automated spacecraft. The program of lunar investigations includes continued scientific analysis of the lunar material returned to earth by the Apollo crews; operation of the five Apollo lunar surface experiment packages functioning on the lunar surface and analysis of the telemetered data; and synthesis of all lunar data into a better understanding of the origin, history, and present environment of the Moon.

The planetary program encompasses effort leading toward observations of a major portion of the solar system, including the region near the Sun, Venus, Mars, the Asteroid Belt, Jupiter, Saturn, and the interplanetary regions. In 1971 and 1972, Mariner 9 carried out extensive mapping of Mars, providing the first detailed maps of that planet. In 1974, Mariner 10 yielded the first close-up views of Venus and accomplished successful scientific observations of Mercury.

Another major scientific milestone was achieved in December 1974 when Pioneer 11 swept past the giant planet Jupiter, successfully surviving intense radiation and relaying valuable data on the planet's characteristics. Pioneer 11 is speeding on to a rendezvous with Saturn in 1979.

In 1976, the automated Viking spacecraft will explore the surface of Mars. In 1977, during a rare alignment of Jupiter and Saturn, two Mariner-class spacecraft will be launched to collect data from these planets so that comparative studies of their systems can be made. Two Pioneer Venus missions, an orbiter and a multiple probe mission, will be launched in 1978 to study the nature and composition of the Venusian atmosphere. The U.S./West German spacecraft Helios was successfully launched in December 1974, culminating 10 years of cooperative effort. Helios will obtain data on the particles and fields of the interplanetary medium close to the sun. A second Helios mission is scheduled for launch in 1976.

(c) Launch vehicle development and support.—This program includes launch vehicle activities such as launch operations and engineering and maintenance necessary to sustain launch activities. It also includes support for specific reliability and production improvements to existing vehicles.

3. Space applications.—The applications program is bringing the benefits of space technology down to Earth in vital areas ranging from Earth resources surveys and weather, climate, and pollution monitoring to Earth and ocean physics and communications.

The major Earth resources activities include continued operations of Earth Resources Technology Satellites, which will provide additional data for experimentation and verification testing necessary to determine more precisely the full range of potential values that can be achieved with remote sensing systems in Earth orbit. These Earth resources activities are complemented by a supporting program of airborne surveys and continued analysis of the data obtained from Skylab. Efforts will also be undertaken in the development of applications demonstration projects using ERTS data. In addition, work will continue on an applications Explorer Heat Capacity Mapping Mission to produce a thermal map of the continental United States for discrimination of rock types and location of mineral resources.

In pollution monitoring, work will continue on Nimbus-G, an experimental air pollution and oceanographic observing satellite. Effort on an applications explorer Stratospheric Aerosol and Gas Experiment mission, designed to measure atmospheric constituents in the higher Earth latitudes, will also be pursued.

In the earth and ocean physics project, analysis of data from the GEOS-C mission will begin. The GEOS-C objective is to demonstrate the use of high precision satellite altimeters for measuring the topography of the ocean's surface. As another major step toward accurate ocean dynamics forecasting on a global basis, development of the SEASAT-A satellite will be continued. In addition, key activities directed toward geodesy and a potential future earthquake prediction capability will include ground-based experiments, such as measurements of tectonic plate motion and work on LAGEOS, a high density, laser reference satellite.

In the communications area, the Applications Technology Satellite (ATS-6), successfully launched in May 1974, will provide for user communications experiments involving not only State and Federal agencies within the United States, but also other countries. Preparations for the flight of the Cooperative Applications Satellite (CAS-C), a joint project with the Canadians, will continue. The objective is to develop communications technology in a higher frequency band (12 GHz) and to investigate several other advanced spacecraft design features. Advanced communications research will continue with emphasis on long-range technology needs and the investigation of the basic problems associated with establishing the feasibility of advanced communications concepts.

Efforts will be conducted to improve the definition and integration of ground and spacecraft data information and processing systems. In systems analysis, an area that supports the needs of all applications programs, additional cost-benefit, cost-effectiveness, and user-need studies will be conducted. Other activities include the development of advanced sensors for potential future flight missions; aircraft flights to provide ground truth for investigations and flight test new sensors; and a supporting research and technology program to develop the basic and applied concepts needed to assure that space-acquired information is readily adaptable to the needs of the user community.

4. Space research and technology.—The objective of this program is to provide the sound technology base necessary to support both current and future space activities. The program concentrates on advancing the technologies used in systems required to transport, protect, power, control, and communicate with the spacecraft and scientific instruments needed to achieve the objectives of currently planned and future NASA space missions. The basic technology developed in the program is applicable to a broad range of terrestrial problems in fields such as energy and communications.

Materials and structures technology is being developed to provide advanced high temperature materials, light weight materials, seals, lubricants, and optical materials for use in spacecraft applications. A propulsion technology effort is aimed at expanding mission capabilities by increasing propulsion system performance and life, and at lowering propulsion system costs. The effort focuses on liquid and solid fuel chemical systems, electric powered thrusters and on the development of nuclear propulsion technology for the future. Power technology is being developed to reduce cost and weight and to increase the power, efficiency, life, and reliability of spacecraft power systems to meet the requirements of future space missions. Energy generation, conversion, storage, transmission, and conservation are all addressed by the effort.

Significant program emphasis is being placed on the development of technology in the areas of fundamental electronics; guidance; control; and information transmission, reception, processing, and storage to help meet the demands of complex space missions at lower cost with increased reliability. Aerothermodynamic technology will be developed to insure the effective design of entry spacecraft for various planetary atmospheres. Work will be done on the development of the space laboratory research facilities and supporting technology to enable NASA and other shuttle and spacelab users to conduct research and technology investigations in space in an economical manner.

5. Aeronautical research and technology.—The objectives are to advance aeronautical technology to meet current and future needs of the air transportation system with emphasis on energy conservation, safety, and economy; to maintain the competitive position of the United States in the international marketplace; and to provide technical support to the military to help maintain the superiority of the Nation's military aircraft.

Fundamental research in the disciplines of materials, structures, avionics, aerodynamics, propulsion, and man-vehicle interactions is continuing and provides the solid technology base that must move forward to meet the future requirements of civil aviation.

The program includes a strong effort aimed at improving terminal area operations and safety through the development of technology to improve avionics, control systems, operating procedures, crashworthiness, and the fire resistance of aircraft interior materials.

Special emphasis will be directed at reducing aircraft energy consumption and the undesirable environmental effects of noise and atmospheric pollution. Effort is directed at providing quiet, clean, and efficient propulsion systems, the application of active control concepts, and advanced materials to aircraft to reduce weight, the reduction of aerodynamic drag and a search for nonpetrochemical aircraft fuels.

Efforts in general aviation will continue to concentrate on the improvement of the stall/spin characteristics of small lightweight aircraft as well as the development of economical avionics systems for improved safety.

These technology efforts are coupled with focused technology efforts to provide advanced long-haul and short-haul air transportation system concepts for the future. The short-haul program addresses short take-off and landing (STOL), vertical take-off and landing (VTOL) and rotorcraft systems; while the long-haul program addresses conventional takeoff and landing (CTOL) subsonic systems with a modest effort aimed at developing supersonic and hypersonic technology for aircraft of the future.

The aeronautics program also supports the military by providing an advanced technology base which is applicable to military aircraft as well as civil aircraft, and by providing technical problem solving support for current military aircraft development.

6. Energy programs.—These programs provide for assistance in insuring the attainment and maintenance of national energy self-sufficiency. The programs consolidate NASA energy activities and maximize support to other agencies in carrying out National energy goals. Major objectives include the definition and implementation of energy activities that require aerospace technology; providing support to other agencies, and State and local governments engaged in research and development activities through the application of aerospace technology; and, the analysis and evaluation of aerospace technology having potential energy applications.

7. Supporting activities.—The programs grouped in this activity provide general support for the attainment of NASA mission objectives.

(a) Tracking and data acquisition.—Systems implementation and operation of the stations of the NASA tracking and data acquisition network are provided for, as well as research and development to increase the capability of the specialized ground systems.

(b) Sustaining university program.—This program included grants for graduate studies in interdisciplinary space-related fields. Costs incurred reflect use of funds previously appropriated.

(c) Technology utilization.—The objective of this program is to accelerate the transfer into the economy of new advances in technology generated by NASA and NASA contractors.

Transition period.—The research, development, and technology programs and activities described above will continue with equal intensity and emphasis during the 3-month transition period between 1976 and 1977.

This appropriation provides for contractual services for the design, major rehabilitation, and modification of facilities; the construction of new facilities; minor construction; the purchase of land and equipment related to construction and modification; advanced design related to facilities planned for future authorization. The principal projects in the 1976 program are described below:

1. Manned space flight.—This activity includes funds for space shuttle facilities at various locations.

2. Scientific investigations in space.—This activity will provide for addition to the lunar sample curatorial facility at the Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center, Houston, Tex.

3. Space applications.—No new projects are included for 1976.

4. Space research and technology.—No new projects are included for 1976.

5. Aeronautical research and technology.—This activity will include modification of 11 by 11-foot transonic wind tunnel at the Ames Research Center, Moffett Field, Calif.; and addition for composite model and metal finishing shops at the Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va.

7. Supporting activities.—The estimates for this activity provide for the rehabilitation and modification of facilities not in excess of $500 thousand per project at various locations and minor construction of new facilities and additions to existing facilities not in excess of $250 thousand per project, at various NASA installations and at Government-owned plants operated by contractors; and facility planning and design. These types of facilities projects will also be performed during the transition period between 1976 and 1977.

RESEARCH AND PROGRAM MANAGEMENT

For necessary expenses of research in Government laboratories, management of programs and other activities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, not otherwise provided for, including uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902); awards; hire, maintenance and operation of administrative aircraft; purchase (not to exceed [sixteen] ten for replacement only) and hire of passenger motor vehicles; and maintenance and repair of real and personal property, and not in excess of [$10,000] $25,000 per project for construction of new facilities and additions to existing facilities, and not in excess of [$25,000] $50,000 per project for rehabilitation and modification of facilities; [$740,000,000] $776,000,000: Provided, That contracts may be entered into under this appropriation for maintenance and operation of facilities, and for other services, to be provided during the next fiscal year: Provided further, That not to exceed $35,000 of the foregoing amount shall be available for scientific consultations or extraordinary expense, to be expended upon the approval or authority of the Administrator and his determination shall be final and conclusive.

For "Research and program management," for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, $213,800,000. (42 U.S.C. 2451, et seq.; Department of Housing and Urban Development; Space, Science, Veterans, and Certain Other Independent Agencies Appropriation Act, 1975; additional authorizing legislation to be proposed for fiscal year 1976, and for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.)

This appropriation provides for research in Government laboratories, management of programs, and other expenses for the operation of NASA installations.

Responsibility for the manned space flight activity is located at the John F. Kennedy Space Center, Kennedy Space Center, Fla.; Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center, Houston, Tex.; Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., and the National Space Technology Laboratories, Bay St. Louis, Miss. The scientific investigations in space and space applications activities are concentrated principally at the Ames Research Center, Moffett Field, Calif.; Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md.; Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va.; Lewis Research Center, Cleveland, Ohio; Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center; Marshall Space Flight Center; National Space Technology

Laboratories; and the Wallops Flight Center, Wallops Island, Va.

The space research and technology activity is conducted at the Ames, Goddard, Langley, Lewis, Johnson, Marshall, and Wallops Centers, as well as the Flight Research Center, Edwards, Calif.

Aeronautical research and technology work is conducted at the Ames, Flight, Langley, and Lewis research centers.

Programwide support and management are provided by NASA Headquarters, Washington, D.C. Support activities for tracking and data acquisition requirements are performed at the Goddard Space Flight Center and Wallops Flight Center. The activities described above will continue during the transition period between 1976 and 1977.

This appropriation provides for the payment of compensation, pension and related benefits to veterans and their dependents. Of an estimated 29.5 million living veterans in 1976, it is estimated that 3.2 million or 10.8% will receive benefits under this program. Additionally, an estimated 2.2 million dependents of deceased veterans will receive benefits.

The cost of these benefits in 1976 is projected to be $7,499.7 million, an increase of $56.5 million over 1975. The projected increase is primarily the result of Public Law 93-527, effective January 1, 1975, which increased veteran and survivor pension rates by 12%.

1. Compensation.—Compensation is a monetary benefit payable to a veteran or his dependents because of the veteran's service-connected disability or death. Death compensation or dependency and indemnity compensation is payable to the widow and dependents of veterans whose deaths are related to service-connected disabilities.

A slight decrease is expected in the veteran caseload for 1976 to 2,211,915 cases. This follows observed trends in the Vietnam era category, reflecting the continued maintenance of the standing Armed Forces level at 2.1 million, offset by decreases in the World War II and earlier groups. Survivors caseload is also expected to decrease due to more deaths of parent beneficiaries.

The average payments for veterans and survivors in 1975 reflect substantial increases due to rate increases provided by Public Law 93-295 which was effective May 1, 1974. This law raised the rates payable to disabled veterans by 15% to 18%. Public Law 93-527, effective January 1, 1975, raised the rates payable to dependent parents by 12%.

2. Pensions.—Benefits are payable to wartime veterans and dependents of deceased veterans for nonservice-connected disability and death. Veterans may qualify for monthly pensions on the basis of financial need and total disability. Widows and surviving children may also qualify if their income is below levels specified by law.

The caseload for this program is projected to decrease in 1976 due primarily to the deaths of World War I beneficiaries.

The average payments for both veterans and survivors are projected to increase substantially during 1976, reflecting the full year effect of Public Law 93-527, which increased rates by 12%.

3. Burial benefits.—Provides for the payment of a burial allowance up to $800 when a veteran dies as the result of a service-connected disability, the payment of a plot allowance of $150 when an eligible veteran is not buried in a national cemetery or other cemetery under the jurisdiction of the United States, and the furnishing of a headstone or marker for the grave of a veteran. Other burial benefits paid from this appropriation include: An allowance of $250 to help the deceased Veteran's family pay burial and funeral expenses; transportation costs where death occurs under VA care; and provision of a flag for a casket.

4. All other.—These payments cover miscellaneous benefits which are not readily combined with any of the preceding categories. They include payments to: retired officers, adjusted service and dependents pay, special allowance dependents, invalid lifts and other devices, tort claim settlements, veterans mortgage life insurance, veterans clothing allowance, death gratuities, and veterans group life insurance.

This appropriation finances the education, training and rehabilitation of veterans and servicemen who served since February 1, 1955 (post-Korean conflict veterans). It also finances educational assistance allowances for eligible dependents of those veterans who died from service connected causes or have a total and permanent rated service connected disability, and servicemen who were captured or missing in action.

1. Education and training.—The number of post-Korean conflict veterans and servicemen in training is expected to continue to increase through 1975 and then decline to 2,072,000 in 1976. This decline is based upon the anticipated enactment of legislation to repeal the delimiting date extension provided by Public Law 93-337.

A proposed supplemental of $638,038 thousand is requested under existing legislation for 1975. Of this amount, $618.0 million is the cost of the delimiting date extension for 1975. The balance reflects the cost of recently enacted legislation which provide for the following: rate increases for certain veterans training under chapter 34 and chapter 31 (U.S.C. Title 38) for $6,700 thousand; increased amount of housing grants for $2,438 thousand; and liberalized eligibility and increased rates for automobiles and adaptive equipment for $10,900 thousand.

Pursuant to the enactment of Public Law 93-508 enacted December 3, 1974, $80.3 million will be transferred from the Readjustment Benefits Appropriation to the newly established Veterans Administration Education Loan Fund in order to finance expected education loans in 1975. An additional $69.1 million will be transferred from the 1976 appropriation.

The number of sons and daughters receiving educational assistance in 1976 is expected to stabilize at the 1975 level of 65,700. Similarly, the number of wives and widows is projected to remain at 14,700 in both years.

2. Special assistance to disabled veterans.—Disabled veterans requiring vocational rehabilitation receive assistance to cover the costs of subsistence, tuition, books, supplies, and equipment. The decreasing trend in trainees will be temporarily reversed in 1975 (with an increase of 10,726 trainees) as the result of Public Law 93-508, approved December 3, 1974, which extended vocational rehabilitation benefits to post-Korean conflict veterans with compensable service-connected disabilities rated less than 30%. Previously, these veterans were eligible only if their disabilities caused a pronounced employment handicap.

Specially adapted housing grants are provided to certain severely disabled veterans. The number is expected to remain static in fiscal years 1975 and 1976.

An allowance is provided to certain severely disabled veterans and certain persons on active duty toward the purchase price of new automobiles, adaptive equipment, and the maintenance and replacement of such equipment.

The following table shows a caseload and cost comparison for these beneficiaries.

The Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation is made up of the former appropriations for military and naval insurance, applicable to World War I veterans, the National service life insurance, applicable to certain World War II veterans and the Servicemen's indemnities, applicable to Korean conflict veterans. The appropriation also provides supplemental funds for the Service-disabled veterans insurance fund and the Soldiers' and sailors' civil relief fund. Financing is mainly by congressional appropriation, and by a small amount of premiums. Premium receipts are appropriated under 38 U.S.C. 719(b).

1. Military and naval insurance.—Payments are made to the U.S. Government life insurance fund as a reimbursement for claims traceable to extra hazards of military service. Payments are made also to policyholders and beneficiaries for claims on war-risk insurance issued to servicemen and veterans of World War I.

2. National service life insurance.—Payments are made to the National service life insurance fund as a reimbursement for costs of the following: (a) disability and death claims traceable to the extra hazards of service; (b) gratuitous insurance granted to certain persons who were unable to make application for National service life insurance; and (c) death claims on policies under waiver of premiums while the insured was on active duty.

Payments are made also to policyholders and beneficiaries on nonparticipating National service life insurance policies issued to World War II veterans with service-connected disabilities and on worthy exceptional cases that would not have been covered under the law in effect at the time of death.

The general decline in the policies in force is indicated in the following table (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1973 actual	June 30, 1974 actual	June 30, 1975 estimate	June 30, 1976 estimate
Number of policies.....	4,944	4,815	4,700	4,585
Amount of insurance.....	$27,156	$26,465	$25,800	$25,200

3. Payment to service-disabled veterans insurance.—Payments are made to the Service-disabled veterans insurance fund to supplement the premium and other receipts of the fund in amounts necessary to pay claims on insurance policies issued to veterans with service-connected disabilities.

4. Soldiers' and sailors' civil relief.—A payment of $10 thousand is to be made to the Soldiers' and sailors' civil relief fund in 1975 to supplement the normal receipts of the fund which have been insufficient to meet obligations. This activity was added for payment from Veterans insurance and indemnities since the Veterans Administration is responsible under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act for paying claims arising from the guarantee of premiums due on commercial life insurance policies. These are policies held by servicemen while they are in service and for 2 years after discharge (72 Stat. 487) which are not liquidated by the insured himself. It is anticipated that the unobligated balance available at the end of 1975 will obviate the need for a transfer in 1976.

5. Capital outlay, funded.—(a) Policy loans made.—The policyholders who converted their insurance from term to permanent plan were subsequently entitled under the new policy to borrow up to 94% of the cash value of the new policy. Any policy loan made shall bear interest accruing daily at the rate of 5% per annum. Interest is due and payable on each policy anniversary date or on an earlier liquidation of the loan. Interest not paid when due shall be added to the loan balance and bear interest at the same rate. The loan indebtedness on the policy at any time shall include accrued interest. Any loan indebtedness on the policy at the time of death of the insured shall be deducted from the proceeds otherwise payable to the designated beneficiary.

(b) Policy liens established.—Shortages in premiums due to the inadvertent submission of a premium in an amount less than that expected will be charged as an indebtedness against the policy. Any policy lien established as a result of delinquency in premiums shall bear interest daily at the rate of 5% per annum. The lien indebtedness at any time shall include accrued interest. Any lien indebtedness at the time of death of the insured shall be deducted from the proceeds otherwise payable to the designated beneficiary.

Financing.—Enactment of Public Law 93-289 on May 24, 1974, made policies under the Veteran's special life insurance fund participating and eligible for dividends. This act caused discontinuance of transferring surplus retained earnings of the Veterans' special life insurance fund to this account which minimized or completely voided the requirement of congressional appropriation.

Program plans for the budget year require a direct Congressional appropriation of $6,600 thousand to augment the anticipated premium receipts and other collections to maintain operations in the fund on a solvent basis.

The mission of the medical system of the Veterans Administration is to provide the highest quality of health care to eligible veterans. In fulfilling that mission, the Veterans Administration operates the country's largest civilian hospital system. Between 1974 and 1976 the system will maintain 171 hospitals, expand from 84 to 89 nursing homes, and from 209 to 229 outpatient clinics. Employment will rise by 19,409 permanent positions to 166,102. In 1976 it is anticipated that the VA will provide for treatment of 1,246,531 inpatients in VA and non-VA facilities, an increase of 105,781 over 1974. In the outpatient medical program it is estimated that there will be 12,771,000 staff and 1,972,000 fee visits in 1976, an increase over 1974 of 2,313,000 and 163,000 respectively.

The VA also trains medical students, physicians, nurses, technicians and other categories of health manpower. As a part of this education effort, the Veterans Administration is continuing to strengthen its relationship through emerging affiliations with medical schools. Enactment of Public Law 92-541, the Veterans' Administration Medical School Assistance and Health Manpower Training Act of 1972 has assisted this effort. The Act authorizes assistance to medical schools affiliated with VA hospitals (financed under the Assistance for Health Manpower Training Institutions appropriation) and also provides for the establishment of regional medical education centers at selected VA hospitals. From 1974 through 1976, the number of VA affiliations with medical schools is expected to increase from 91 to 94 and the number of regional medical education centers from 3 to 5.

The Veterans Administration is continuing to improve medical care delivery systems through expanded use of outpatient and ambulatory care programs and increasing emphasis on use of community living arrangements, such as home based care. Arrangements will be continued and improved to provide for hospital and medical care, in the private sector, for certain dependents and survivors of veterans as authorized by law.

The Veterans Administration is also continuing in an expanding program of demonstrations of new models of health organization and delivery including regionalization of its hospitals, and improvements in design, location, and number of outpatient clinics.

Specific increases in 1976 cover (a) additional activation expenses for the new or replacement hospitals at San Antonio, Tex.; San Francisco, Calif., and Phoenix, Ariz.; (b) increased hospital core staffing; (c) activation of additional specialized medical services, and annualization of partial year 1975 activations; (d) increased outpatient workloads; (e) more beneficiaries treated in VA and non-VA nursing facilities; (f) increased usage of drugs, utilities, communications, prosthetics, medical and dental supplies, operating supplies and space rental; (g) wage and salary increases and other payroll adjustments, including increased cost of Federal employees health benefits and the employee compensation fund; (h) increased cost of operation and maintenance of additional facilities, space, and medical ADP systems; (i) new programs in dentistry, expansion of health care delivery in such areas as hypertension screening and treatment, and sickle cell screening; (j) staffing for problem oriented medical records and fire protection; and (k) increases for maintenance and repairs.

A supplemental appropriation in the amount of $36,239 thousand for 1975 is anticipated to accelerate staff build-ups recommended by VA's recent hospital quality survey and to provide for increased operating costs (see separate supplemental schedule).

In the budget transition period, July 1 to September 30, 1976, the estimates assume a continuation of VA hospital and clinical programs at the improved levels attained in 1976.

*Direct program activities.—1. Maintenance and operation of VA facilities.—(a) VA hospital care.—*This paragraph is a summary of the medical, surgical, and psychiatric bed sections in VA hospitals. Increased cost over 1975 is $241,956 thousand. Estimated operating levels are:

Average daily hospital census.....	15	425	450
Outpatient visits (in thousands).....	4	705	1,485

Capital outlay.—Maintenance and operation of VA facilities.—These capital costs provide for ongoing replacement and improvements in clinical and building services equipment and scheduled improvements of clinical facilities of relatively low cost ($50,000 or less). The slight decline in 1976 costs reflects the impact of one-time procurement actions in 1975.

1. Medical, hospital, and domiciliary administration covers the central office development, implementation, and administration of policies, plans, and broad objectives. It also provides for executive direction of all agency medical programs.

2. Research and development in health services provides for the planning and management of a departmentwide program of research and development of the health services delivery systems for improving the effectiveness and economy of delivery of health services and improving the accessibility of services to veterans. The hospital and clinic programs related to this activity are reflected under the Medical and prosthetic research appropriation.

3. Postgraduate and inservice training provides for tuition and registration payments, lecturer fees, travel expenses, and training materials incidental to continuing education programs for professional medical and administrative staff. This also serves as a media for disseminating information on medical advances resulting from research efforts.

4. Exchange of medical information provides for entering into agreements with medical schools, hospitals, research centers, and individual institutions and members of the medical-scientific community under which physicians at hospitals not affiliated with medical schools will maintain closer contact with such schools and other primary sources of medical information. Existing legislation authorizes appropriations for this program through fiscal year 1975. Additional legislation has been proposed to further extend the program.

This appropriation provides for the administration of nonmedical veterans benefits through the Department of Veterans Benefits; operation and maintenance of 103 national cemeteries by the National Cemetery System; data processing operations and communications systems through the Department of Data Management; and top management direction and support through agency-level staff offices.

Amounts requested for 1976 total $20.4 million above the 1975 estimate. These additional funds are primarily required to support increased ADP services to expanding agency programs; strengthened contract compliance activities; continuation of the program to realign and reorganize the claims processing activities in regional offices; the impact of within-grade salary increases, annualization of the October 13, 1974, pay raise; an extra paid day, and other increases in communications and program support costs.

These projections are consistent with the objectives of providing a higher level of service to veterans and their beneficiaries; to improve job placement and job retention experiences of disabled Vietnam era veterans; to increase the participation of economically disadvantaged veterans in education and training programs; and to further outreach activities of State and local governments and private organizations.

1. General administration.—This activity contains the executive direction of the agency and several top level supporting offices. In addition, it covers the Board of Veterans Appeals which decides all cases of appeals to the Administrator on claims involving benefits under veterans legislation.

2. Data management.—This activity manages all computer operations and provides technical support and assistance in the development of new computer and communications systems.

3. Veterans benefits.—This activity determines eligibility and adjudicates all claims for compensation, pensions, educational assistance, housing loan assistance, and insurance awards. A summary of program objectives and anticipated workload is included in the following paragraphs:

(c) Veterans services.—The mission of this service is to provide information, advice, and assistance concerning the availability and procurement of benefits under the law to all veterans, their dependents, and survivors. To aid veterans pursuing courses of education at the college level and above, action was initiated to recruit and train additional personnel who will bring assistance directly to college campuses. The major workloads are anticipated as follows (in thousands):

	1973 actual	1974 actual	1975 estimate	1976 estimate

GENERAL OPERATING EXPENSES—Continued

(d) Compensation, pension, and education.—This activity provides service to veterans and their dependents related to compensation, pension, and education benefits under the various laws enacted by Congress. Compensation and pension workloads are expected to continue at the 1974 level while the number of trainees is expected to increase through 1975 as reflected in the following table (in thousands):

Number of trainees.....	2,224	2,462	2,548	2,189

(e) Loan guaranty.—This program mission is to provide a viable form of credit assistance whereby housing credit needs of veterans and servicemen may be satisfied by private capital on more liberal terms than generally available to nonveterans. The workload is expected to decrease in most areas except it is expected that GI loans closed will increase in 1975 and 1976 over the 1974 level. Key workloads are listed below (in thousands):

4. Cemeterial operations.—Effective September 1, 1973, the Veterans Administration became responsible for administering the National Cemetery System. Cemeterial operations include overall program administration, maintenance of grounds and equipment, and headstone procurement and assignment. Key workload forecasts are as follows (in thousands):

This program provides grants to assist the States in the construction of State nursing facilities, and to remodel, modify, or alter existing hospital and domiciliary facilities in State homes for providing care and treatment to war veterans. Grants for State nursing facilities may not provide for more than 2½ beds per thousand veteran population in any State. Grants to any one State to remodel, modify or alter existing hospital or domiciliary facilities in State homes may not exceed 20% of the amount appropriated in any one year.

Public Law 93-82, approved August 2, 1973, increased the maximum amount that may be granted from 50% to 65% of the cost of each project. As of August 31, 1974, funds in excess of $34 million have been obligated to help finance the construction of 3,965 nursing care beds in 20 States.

GRANTS TO THE REPUBLIC OF THE PHILIPPINES

For payment to the Republic of the Philippines of grants, as authorized by law (38 U.S.C. 631-634), [$2,050,000] $2,100,000, of which $50,000 for hospital equipment, plant, and facilities rehabilitation grants shall remain available until expended.

For "Grants to the Republic of the Philippines" for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, $525,000, of which $13,000 for hospital equipment, plant, and facilities rehabilitation grants shall remain available until expended. 1. Grants for new State medical schools.—Grants may be awarded to assist in the establishment of new State medical schools if such schools are located in proximity to, and operated in conjunction with, Veterans Administration medical facilities.

2. Other health manpower training institutions.—(a) Grants to affiliated medical schools.—Grants may be awarded to medical schools which have maintained affiliations with the Veterans Administration in order to expand and improve their training capacities and to encourage cooperation with other health manpower training institutions in the improvement and expansion of allied and other health manpower utilization.

(b) Grants to other health manpower institutions.—Grants may be awarded to other health manpower institutions affiliated with the Veterans Administration to assist in the establishment of cooperative arrangements among such institutions in order to coordinate, expand and improve the training of professional and technical allied health and paramedical personnel and to assist in developing and evaluating new health careers, interdisciplinary approaches and career advancement opportunities.

(c) Expansion of Veterans Administration hospital education and training capacity.—Necessary improvements to Veterans Administration buildings and structures may be accomplished to make them suitable for use in health manpower education and training in cooperation with other institutions and organizations. Special funds are provided to Veterans Administration hospitals and other medical facilities for the development or initiation of improved methods of educating and training health personnel.

The Housing Act of 1964, as amended by the Participation Sales Act of 1966, authorized the pooling of mortgages or other types of obligations of certain Government departments or agencies and the sale by the Federal National Mortgage Association (now the Government National Mortgage Association), as trustee, of beneficial interests, or participations, in such pools. The Participation Sales Act of 1966 provided that the aggregate amount of participations issued for the account of any trustor may not exceed the amount authorized for that trustor in an appropriation act.

The Participation Sales Act of 1966 also authorized the establishment of appropriations to cover payment for insufficiencies in the amount required to be paid by trustors on account of outstanding participations. These insufficiencies are primarily comprised of the excess of interest payments to holders of participation certificates over the interest payments received from the pooled mortgages or other obligations. For sales authorized in 1968, the respective appropriation acts, 1968 through 1975, established annual, definite appropriations for the payment of insufficiencies on account of sales authorized in that act. An appropriation of $3.1 million is proposed for 1976.

The definite insufficiency appropriation is reflected in the Direct loan revolving fund and Loan guaranty revolving fund.

To assist eligible veterans to obtain credit for the purchase or construction of homes, the Veterans Administration guarantees loans made by private lenders. The total number of guaranteed or insured loans closed is expected to be 337,250 in 1975 and 365,725 in 1976, bringing the total amount of guaranteed loans outstanding by the end of 1976 to $60.0 billion. The Loan guaranty revolving fund provides for expenses and revenues of property and loan transactions resulting from settlement of guaranty claims. The estimates for 1975 and 1976 reflect the additional cost of the Veterans Housing Act of 1974. This act, among other things, extended the provisions for guaranteeing mobile homes.

Budget program.—1. Real property acquisitions.—Private lenders who have acquired property as a result of foreclosure on defaulted guaranteed or insured loans may elect to convey that property to the Veterans Administration. The table below reflects this activity and excludes the amount of indebtedness established against the veteran:

Number of property acquisitions processed.....	15,510	15,300	15,000
Average cost per acquisition.....	$17,967	$18,935	$20,000
Total cost (in thousands).....	$278,670	$289,700	$300,000

2. Property improvements.—After conveyance of the property to the Veterans Administration, capital expenditures are often necessary to place the property in salable condition. The following table summarizes these expenditures:

Number of improvements to acquired properties.....	17,395	18,000	17,660
Average cost per property.....	$1,482	$1,540	$1,750
Total cost (in thousands).....	$25,781	$27,700	$30,900

3. Claims processed.—These payments are made to lenders in accordance with the Veterans Administration guaranty contract and represent the difference between the amount owed by the veteran on a defaulted loan and the value of the foreclosed property as established by Veterans Administration. These payments are in addition to property acquisition costs shown in 1, above. The following table reflects this activity:

4. Repurchase of loans sold, net.—Pursuant to Veterans Administration Regulation 4600, dated March 22, 1962, the Administrator may sell with full recourse loans which have been created incident to the sale of Veterans Administration acquired property. If the loans go into default, the Administrator may repurchase them. The following table reflects this activity:

Average cost per repurchase.....	$13,767	$15,270	$15,750
Total cost (in thousands).....	$31,114	$41,612	$50,400

5. Cash advances.—Vendee loans.—Cash expenditures are not involved in the establishment of vendee loans or installment contracts. However, it is often necessary to subsequently advance cash on behalf of the borrower in order to protect the interest of the Government.

Total cost (in thousands).....	$1,342	$2,075	$2,690

6. Loans acquired.—Guaranteed or insured loans in a default status may be purchased by the Administrator to avoid foreclosure when temporary forbearance will allow the veteran borrowers to cure the default. The following table reflects this activity:

Number of loans acquired.....	203	300	300
Average cost per acquisition.....	$13,192	$14,000	$14,500

Average cost per sale.....	$902	$950	$950
Total cost (in thousands).....	$15,659	$17,340	$16,650

9. Discount on sale of loans.—Represents the discount absorbed by Veterans Administration incident to the sale of vendee accounts. Discounts occur when the contract rate of interest does not afford a yield commensurate with market.

Total costs (in thousands).....	$4,253	$25,900	$5,747

10. Interest expense on participation certificates.—Represents the amount of interest the trustee is required to pay holders of participation certificates in respect to which vendee accounts have been set aside pursuant to 38 U.S.C. 1820(e). To the extent this expense exceeds the amount of interest collections on an equal amount of loans pledged to the trustee, participation sales insufficiencies result. Financing of participation sales insufficiencies is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Financing.—Normal revenue and receipts consist principally of interest income, cash proceeds from the sale of real property acquired as a result of foreclosure on guaranteed or insured loans, and repayments on mortgages made incident to such sales. It is estimated that $161.1 million in 1975 and $181.0 million in 1976 will be received from these sources. Also an estimated $531.4 million vendee loans will be sold in 1975 and an additional $318.3 million in 1976. In addition, budget authority of $1.8 million and $3.1 million will be required in 1975 and 1976 to meet participation sales insufficiencies.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development; Space, Science, Veterans and certain other independent agencies Appropriation Act, 1975 (Public Law 93-414) provided that the unobligated balances including retained earnings of the Direct loan revolving fund shall be available for transfer to the Loan guaranty revolving fund. No transfers are expected in 1975 or 1976.

Note.—The above statement excludes the following exchanges of nonworking capital assets:

Settlement of defaulted veterans loans by foreclosures and conveyances	1,650	1,797	2,231
Acquisition of vendee loans in exchange for real property	2,310	2,380	2,450

Direct loans are made to veterans to purchase, construct, or improve homes, to purchase farms on which there are farm residences to be occupied by the veterans as their homes; or to construct, alter, repair, or improve farm dwellings to be occupied by the veterans as their homes.

Such loans are made only in rural areas, small cities, and towns where private credit for the making of guaranteed loans is and has been generally unavailable. The maximum term is 30 years and the maximum loan amount is $25 thousand. The interest rate is the same as the rate allowable for guaranteed loans.

Budget program.—1. Direct loans to veterans.—Under existing legislation, there is no terminal date on the authority to make direct loans. The Veterans Housing Act of 1970 revived the expired unused loan entitlement of World War II and Korean conflict veterans and provided that direct lending authority and veterans eligibility would be open-ended until their entitlement is used.

Loans approved:
Number	2,437	2,650	2,650

Average per loan	$16,829	$17,798	$18,796
Amount (in thousands)	$43,890	$47,165	$49,810

2. Cash advances and repurchases, vendee loans.—Cash expenditures are not involved in the establishment of vendee loans or installment contracts. However, it is often necessary subsequently to advance cash on behalf of the borrower in order to protect the interest of the Government. These advances are added to unpaid loan balances.

In addition, vendee loans sold with full recourse may be repurchased if they go into default.

3. Property improvements.—Properties are acquired by foreclosure on, or the voluntary conveyance of, title to properties securing loans owned by the Veterans Administration. Capital expenditures are often necessary to put the property in salable condition. The following table summarizes these expenditures:

Number of improvements to acquired properties	215	240	170
Average cost per property	$716	$675	$675
Total cost (in thousands)	$154	$160	$115

4. Interest on borrowings—Interest expense is accrued monthly. These accruals are computed on the interest bearing capital of the fund and adjusted for the unexpended balance of the fund.

5. Property management and selling expense.—Property management expense includes local real estate taxes, services performed by management brokers, and maintenance of the property in salable condition; sales expense includes brokers' fees and advertising costs incident to the sale of property owned by the Veterans Administration. This cost averages approximately 5% of the selling price. Operating expenses generally include a variety of miscellaneous expenses paid by the Government incident to closing and liquidating loans:

Operating expenses general, total cost (in thousands)	$275	$530	$393

6. Interest expense on participation certificates.—Represents the amount of interest the trustee is required to pay holders of participation certificates in respect to which direct loans have been set aside. To the extent this expense exceeds the amount of interest collections on an equal amount of loans pledged to the trustee, participation sales insufficiencies result.

Financing of participation sales insufficiencies is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Interest accrued on participation certificates for which insufficiencies are authorized	8,551	8,551	8,551

7. Discount on sale of loans.—Represents the discount absorbed by VA incident to the sale of direct loans. Discounts occur when the contract rate of interest does not afford a yield commensurate with the market.

Financing.—Normal revenue and receipts consist principally of interest income and repayments on direct loans made to veterans. It is estimated that $131.3 million in 1975 and $121.5 million in 1976 will be received from these sources. In addition, it is estimated that $36.3 million will be realized in 1975 from the sale of direct loans, and $60.2 million in 1976.

The Veterans Canteen Service was established by Congress in 1946 to furnish, at reasonable prices, merchandise and services necessary to the comfort and well-being of veterans in hospitals and domiciliaries operated by the Veterans Administration (38 U.S.C. 4201-08).

Budget program.—Sales are expected to be $107,500 thousand in 1975 and it is estimated sales will be $112,500 thousand in 1976.

Financing.—No appropriation by the Congress will be required for the operation of the Veterans Canteen Service during 1976. Operations will be financed from current revenues. The Congress originally appropriated a total of $4,965 thousand to establish and operate the Service. Funds in excess of the needs of the Service totaling $12,068 thousand have been paid to the Treasury as of June 30, 1974.

Operating results and financial condition.—Operating revenue is expected to be sufficient to cover operating expenses. Retained earnings are required for necessary working capital; therefore, no funds are available for payment to the Treasury during 1976.

This fund finances the payment of claims on nonparticipating life insurance policies issued and currently open for new issues to veterans having service-connected disabilities. The program provides insurance coverage for service-disabled veterans at standard rates. As a result, premium payments do not cover operating and capital reserve requirements. Annual deficits are met by transfers from the Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation. Administrative expenses are paid from the General operating expenses appropriation.

Budget program.—1. Death claims.—Represents payments to designated beneficiaries.

2. All other.—This category represents payments to policyholders who surrenders his policy for its cash value and hold endowment policies which have matured.

1. Policy loans made.—A policyholder may borrow up to 94% of the cash value of his policy. This activity increases with the increased number of policyholders.

The general increase in the activity of this fund is indicated in the following table (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1973 actual	June 30, 1974 actual	June 30, 1975 estimate	June 30, 1976 estimate
Number of policies.....	144,521	154,619	159,600	161,400
Insurance in force.....	$1,304,053	$1,397,275	$1,443,600	$1,461,200

Financing.—Operations are financed from premiums and other receipts. Additional funds are derived from the Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation, instead of direct appropriations to this fund. It is estimated that the payment will be $6.0 million in 1975 and $3.5 million in 1976.

Operating results and financial conditions.—Since premium and other receipts are insufficient to cover operations, the fund continues to project total liabilities in excess of assets. The deficit is expected to reach an estimated $102.5 million by June 30, 1976.

This fund finances claims arising from the guarantee of premiums due on commercial life insurance policies held by servicemen while they are in service and for 2 years after discharge (72 Stat. 487). The Government guarantees the repayment of any indebtedness not liquidated by the insured himself. Administrative expenses are paid from the appropriation, General operating expenses.

Budget program.—Insurance program.—Claims paid, on application for coverage submitted and approved prior to October 6, 1942, are not reimbursable to the fund. Loans receivable are established for any payments made on applications for coverage submitted after that date, since these payments are reimbursable to the fund.

Financing.—Payment of claims against this fund has been financed from collections of loans receivable, revenue, and congressional appropriations and appropriation transfers as needed.

Operating results and financial condition.—The payment of claims has continually resulted in expenses in excess of the small revenue of the fund, thereby steadily increasing the deficit to an estimated $2 million through 1976.

This fund pays claims and administrative costs on non-participating life insurance policies issued during the period May 1, 1965, through May 2, 1966, under three life insurance programs: (1) service-disabled standard insurance, (2) service-disabled rated insurance, and (3) non-service-disabled insurance—established by the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940, as amended (38 U.S.C. 725 (b), (c)), availing disabled World War II and Korean conflict veterans an opportunity to acquire life insurance coverage who were no longer eligible for other Government insurance because of delimiting dates.

Budget program.—1. Death claims.—Represents payments to designated beneficiaries.

2. All other.—This category represents payments to the General operating expense appropriation for the administrative costs of processing claims and maintaining the accounts, and those policyholders who: (a) surrender their policies for cash value; (b) hold endowment policies which have matured; and (c) have purchased total disability income coverage and subsequently become disabled.

1. Policy loans made.—A policyholder may borrow up to 94% of the cash value of his policy.

The following table reflects the decrease in the number of policies and the amount of insurance in force (dollars in thousands):

This fund is used to provide education loans of up to $600 per school year for certain post-Korean veterans and certain dependents who are without sufficient funds to meet their expenses.

The enactment of Public Law 93-508 on December 3, 1974, set up the Veterans Administration education loan fund as a revolving fund to be available for the making of loans to eligible veterans and dependents training under chapters 34 and 35, title 38, United States Code.

The fund is to be financed by transfer from current and future appropriations for readjustment benefits and from collection of fees, principal, and interest on loans made under Public Law 93-508.

Administrative expenses are borne by the appropriation, General operating expenses.

This fund finances the payment of group life insurance premiums to private insurance companies under the Servicemen's Group Life Insurance Act of 1965 (38 U.S.C. sec. 765-776), as amended and any expenses incurred by the Veterans Administration in administration of the act.

*Budget program.—1. Premium payments.—*This item represents the payment of premiums to private insurance companies. The payments in 1975 and 1976 will be substantially more than in 1974. This is the result of new legislation effective May 24, 1974, which increased the maximum amount of insurance to $20 thousand from $15 thousand and extended full-time coverage to members of the Ready Reserve of a uniformed service.

*2. Payment to General operating expenses appropriation.—*This item represents payment for administrative costs incident to the program. The large increase in 1975 over 1974 is due to the new legislation and will decline slightly in 1976.

Under the provisions of 38 U.S.C. 5011, the Supply fund finances on a reimbursable basis the cost of warehouse inventories at depots and field stations and selected items of equipment procured centrally. It also finances, on the same basis, items and services to other Federal agencies who either request or are assigned to the Veterans Administration for support.

Budget program.—The fund provides financial support for: (1) Maintenance of depot and field station inventories; (2) maintenance and operation of two supply depots and one subdepot; (3) a publications depot including printing services to VA installations on a centralized basis; (4) operation of a service and reclamation program operating out of the supply depots; (5) centralized periodical procurement and library cataloging; and (6) a marketing center or central buying office.

The publications and reproduction program provides printing service and distribution of printed matter to VA installations. Printed matter is acquired in accordance with the rules of the Joint Committee on Printing from the Government Printing Office, the General Services Administration, a VA-operated plant, and from commercial sources.

The marketing center is responsible for determining the levels of inventories to be carried at depots and acquiring stock to maintain such levels. It is also responsible for the central contracting of items not available from other Government sources for VA installations and other Government Agencies as may be determined economical or advisable.

The Supply fund does not finance costs for the operation and administration of supply activities at field stations. These costs are charged directly to applicable appropriations.

Financing.—Costs of supplies, equipment, and services acquired through the Supply fund and Supply fund operating costs are recovered through reimbursements from the VA appropriations and other Government agencies receiving the goods and services.

Operating results and financial conditions.—The fund operated at a loss of $93 thousand in 1974 and carried forward a loss of $218 thousand from prior years. During the past 10 years the fund has shown a profit of $19 thousand on a total of $1.4 billion cost of goods sold in the same period. Recovery of prior years losses is anticipated in 1975.

This fund (72 Stat. 1154) was established in 1940 as the financing mechanism for World War II servicemen's and veterans' insurance program authorized by the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940. Over 22 million policies have been issued under this program. Since issuance of new policies ended in 1951, the insurance in force is estimated to decrease by $578 million, representing 106,000 policies in 1976. Activity of the fund reflects rising claim and loan workloads, and a decline in the number of policies in force, shown as follows (dollars in thousands):

NATIONAL SERVICE LIFE INSURANCE FUND—Continued

The fund is operated on a commercial basis to the extent possible consistent with law. Administrative expenses are charged to the appropriation General operating expenses.

The income of the fund is derived from premium receipts, interest on investments, and payments which are made to the fund from the Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation for claims (1) resulting from extra hazards of the veterans' service, and (2) arising on certain policies held by personnel on active duty.

Assets of the fund, which are largely invested in special Treasury interest-bearing securities and in policy loans, are expected to increase from $7,920 million as of June 30, 1974, to $8,382 million as of June 30, 1976. The actuarial estimate of policy obligations as of June 30, 1974, totals $7,823 million, leaving a balance of $97 million for contingency reserves.

Undisbursed balance of fund, end of year	693,008	653,725	614,558	575,180

The fund is operated on a commercial basis to the extent possible consistent with law. Administrative expenses are charged to the appropriation General operating expenses.

The income of the fund is derived from premium receipts, interest on investments, and payments which are made to the fund from the appropriation Veterans insurance and indemnities for claims (a) resulting from the extra hazards of the veteran's service, and (b) arising on certain policies held by personnel on active military duty.

Assets of the fund, which are largely invested in interest-bearing securities and policy loans, are estimated to decline from $720 million as of June 30, 1974, to $637 million as of June 30, 1976, as an increasing number of policies mature through death or disability. The actuarial evaluation of policy obligations as of June 30, 1974, totals $702 million, leaving a balance of $18 million for contingency reserves.

This fund finances the payment of claims on life insurance policies issued before January 31, 1957, to veterans who served in the Armed Forces subsequent to April 1, 1951 (38 U.S.C., sec. 723). No new policies can be issued and the number of policies in force are expected to decline approximately 5,000 each year. Policyholders may elect to purchase total disability income coverage with the payment of additional premiums.

Budget program.—1. Death claims.—Represents payments to designated beneficiaries.

2. Cash surrenders.—A policyholder may terminate his insurance by cashing in his policy for its cash value.

3. Dividends.—Public Law 93-289, effective May 24, 1974, provides that policyholders will, for the first time, participate in the distribution of annual dividends commencing January 1, 1975.

4. All other.—Classified in this category are payments to policyholders who: (a) hold endowment policies which have matured; (b) has purchased total disability income coverage and subsequently becomes disabled; and (c) are paid interest on dividend credits and deposits.

5. Policy loans made.—The policyholders who converted their insurance from term to permanent plan were subsequently entitled to borrow up to 94% of the cash value of the new policy.

The following table reflects the decrease in the number of policies and the amounts of insurance in force (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1973 actual	June 30, 1974 actual	June 30, 1975 estimate	June 30, 1976 estimate
Number of policies.....	604,406	598,221	592,900	587,700
Insurance in force.....	$5,294,900	$5,238,027	$5,191,000	$5,146,000

Financing.—Payments from this fund are financed primarily from premium receipts and interest on investments.

Operating results and financial condition.—Favorable mortality experience on insurance written against this fund has kept death claim payments well below the amount of premium and interest receipts, thereby producing an annual increase in the retained earnings of the fund. The retained earnings have been reduced by payments of a special dividend and payments to the Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation and the Veterans reopened insurance fund.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Not to exceed 5 per centum of any appropriation for the current fiscal year for "Compensation and pensions", "Readjustment benefits", and "Veterans insurance and indemnities" may be transferred to any other of the mentioned appropriations, but not to exceed 10 per centum of the appropriations so augmented.

Appropriations available to the Veterans Administration for the current fiscal year for salaries and expenses shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109.

No part of the appropriations in this Act for the Veterans Administration (except the appropriations for "Construction, major projects", and "Construction, minor projects") shall be available for the purchase of any site for or toward the construction of any new hospital or home.

No part of the foregoing appropriations shall be available for hospitalization or examination of any persons except beneficiaries entitled under the laws bestowing such benefits to veterans, unless reimbursement of cost is made to the appropriation at such rates as may be fixed by the Administrator of Veterans Affairs. (Department of Housing and Urban Development; Space, Science, Veterans, and Certain Other Independent Agencies Appropriation Act, 1975.)

OTHER INDEPENDENT AGENCIES

ACTION

ACTION, the Federal agency for volunteer service, was established on July 1, 1971. Legislative authority for the agency is provided by the Domestic Volunteer Service Act of 1973. The agency brings together a number of volunteer programs including the Peace Corps, Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA), Foster Grandparents (FGP), Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), University Year for ACTION (UYA), and the Service Corps of Retired Executives and Active Corps of Executives (SCORE/ACE).

Funds for ACTION are requested in two appropriations: (1) Operating expenses, domestic programs; and (2) operating expenses, international programs (Peace Corps). These appropriations each contain a share of the agency's common support costs. This share is included in the program support activity in each appropriation. Special schedules of these common support costs are presented following the regular appropriation schedules.

International programs.—This appropriation finances the Peace Corps. Major elements which will be funded are training, volunteer operations overseas and the management and support staff, in the United States and abroad, required to support the volunteers.

1. Training and specialized recruiting.—Each volunteer is given intensive training which is designed to develop language abilities, provide a knowledge of the country in which he will work, and further develop required job skills. In 1976, trainees will receive an average of 9 weeks pre-service training, and after they have become volunteers, an average of 2 weeks in-service training. In addition, certain specialized recruiting activities are conducted in this activity.

2. Volunteers.—In 1976, volunteers will serve in 68 countries. Volunteer assignments are concentrated in six areas: education at all levels, agricultural development, business and public management, health and nutrition, urban development and public works projects, and conservation. In 1976, program priorities will be agriculture, health and nutrition, and conservation.

3. Program support.—This activity includes salaries, travel, rents, and other costs associated with staff operations in the United States and abroad. It also includes a share of ACTION agencywide costs, such as the recruitment, selection, and placement of volunteers; auditing; accounting; legal counsel; and similar functions.

This appropriation finances the Federal share of volunteer programs within the United States. The 1976 request includes funds for continued reliance on local innovation and conduct of volunteer programs, and funds for exploring new approaches to improving and expanding volunteer service opportunities for all Americans. Programs are:

1. Volunteers in Service to America.—This full-time program is directed primarily toward providing volunteers to low-income communities working on poverty problems. During 1976, VISTA program planning provides for an increased emphasis on projects dealing with the rural poor, migrant workers, and American Indians.

2. Service learning programs.—This activity offers students in an educational environment opportunities to enhance their learning experiences by participating in volunteer service activities. It includes high school and community college students, as well as students enrolled in universities. The 1976 program provides a slight increase over current program levels.

3. Special volunteer programs.—These programs fall into three groups: (a) full-time volunteer programs, (b) volunteer mobilization programs, and (c) special emphasis programs. They are designed to stimulate and initiate improved methods of providing volunteer services, to encourage broader participation in volunteer programs, and to identify population groups which could benefit from volunteer antipoverty efforts.

4. Older Americans volunteer programs.—These programs offer opportunities to individuals age 60 and over to work on individual and community service needs through grant-funded projects developed, operated and controlled at the local level. In 1976 the program will be maintained at its current level.

5. Service Corps of Retired Executives and Active Corps of Executives (SCORE/ACE).—This program utilizes both retired and active executives to provide management expertise to small businesses, nonprofit organizations and individuals living on fixed incomes who are in need of personal counseling on finances and social services. The 1976 effort will continue to provide this support to an expanding clientele.

6. Program support.—This activity represents the costs of operating regional offices within the United States, domestic programs staff in Washington, D.C., and a share of ACTION agencywide costs. In 1976, responsibility and accountability for program operations will continue at the regional level, thereby assuring effective coordination of domestic volunteer programs.

The American Battle Monuments Commission is responsible for the construction and maintenance of U.S. monuments and memorials commemorating the achievements in battle of our Armed Forces since April 6, 1917. It is also responsible for controlling erection of monuments and markers by U.S. citizens and organizations in foreign countries, and for the design, construction, and maintenance of permanent military cemetery memorials on foreign soil.

Altogether, the Commission maintains on foreign soil 23 military cemetery memorials; 11 monuments and memorials not a part of the cemeteries; and 2 bronze tablets. In addition, the Commission maintains three large memorials on United States soil.

The remains of 30,920 honored dead of World War I, 93,227 of World War II and 750 of the Mexican War are interred in these cemeteries. Additionally, the 91,598 servicemen and women of World War I, World War II, and the Korean conflict who were missing in action, or lost or buried at sea are memorialized at the cemeteries and memorials by the inscription of their names on the "Tablets of the Missing."

The program will continue at the same level during the transition period.

1. Purchase of flowers.—Funds are deposited with the Commission by private citizens for the purchase of floral decorations for graves in the World War I and World War II military cemeteries. The donor is advised when the flowers have been placed, and is furnished a color polaroid photograph of the decoration in place.

2. Repair of non-Federal war memorials.—When requested to do so and upon receipt of the necessary funds, the Commission will arrange for and oversee the repair of war memorials to U.S. Forces erected in foreign countries by American citizens, States, municipalities, or associations. Such moneys are accounted for through this fund.

The Agency advises the President and the Secretary of State on arms control and disarmament policy and its implementation, conducts certain negotiations with other countries looking toward international agreements to control, reduce, or eliminate arms, and directs, as appropriate, U.S. participation in such control systems as may be adopted. Most ACDA resources in 1976 will be devoted to support of the second phase of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks with the Soviet Union, negotiations on mutual and balanced force reductions in Europe, further exploration of means to limit the testing of nuclear weapons, and development of equipment and techniques to prevent proliferation of nuclear weapons under the multilateral Non-Proliferation Treaty.

The external research activity is conducted through contracts or grants with nongovernmental research organizations and through reimbursement agreements with other U.S. Government departments and agencies.

The Board regulates the economic aspects of domestic and international air carrier operations.

1. Awards of operating authority.—This includes: (a) processing applications for operating authority or modification of authority; (b) conducting investigations initiated by the Board involving operating authorities; (c) international negotiations involving obtaining, granting, or exchanging of operating authority with foreign countries; and (d) the issuance of foreign carrier permits.

2. Regulation of rates and fares.—This includes: (a) review of passenger and cargo rate tariffs; (b) review of complaints against air carrier rates; (c) conducting formal (hearing process) investigations of those rates, fares, rules, or related tariff provisions that the Board has found may be unlawful or contrary to the public interest; (d) establishment of minimum rates applicable to services performed by the civil air carriers for the Military Airlift Command (MAC); (e) review of petitions for the establishment of revision of service mail rates; and (f) processing of subsidy rate cases and related matters.

3. Regulation of agreements and interlocking relationships.—This includes: (a) review of applications requesting Board approval of acquisitions of control, approval of interlocking directorates, and agreements between air carriers and any other common carrier affecting air transportation; and (b) review of agreements on rates and fares under which U.S.-flag carriers participate in the International Air Transport Association (IATA).

4. Regulation of air carrier accounting and reporting.—This includes: (a) design, prescription, and administration of uniform systems of accounts and reports; (b) substantiation of carrier conformance with prescribed accounting and reporting regulations; (c) preparing special analyses and evaluations of air carrier financial data; and

(d) audit of carriers' books, records, and reports at the carriers' offices.

5. Enforcement and consumer advocacy.—This includes: (a) handling of passenger and shipper complaints; (b) investigation of violations of the economic provisions of the Federal Aviation Act; (c) the taking of enforcement action and the achievement of compliance by informal (nonhearing) enforcement action, formal (hearing) administrative proceedings, and the prosecution of enforcement cases in the courts; and (d) representation of consumer interests in Board proceedings.

The 1976 program includes strengthened activities in the areas of enforcement, international aviation, passenger fares and property rates, subsidy rates, and cargo and charter licensing. Primary efforts will focus on:

(a) Pursuing major enforcement areas of indicated violations such as illegal ticket discounting, on an industry-wide basis;

(b) Instituting and developing positions to meet the growing number, sophistication, and sensitivity of bilateral and multilateral negotiations and consultations stemming from the declining economics of U.S.-flag carriers and discriminatory and preferential treatment exercised by certain foreign governments and carriers; and

(c) Analyzing and processing the growing number and complexity of domestic carrier tariff applications and complaints, international rate agreements, and subsidy rates.

(d) Processing the anticipated upsurge in charter licensing applications as a result of new rules and regulations and increases in public demand.

For the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, the Board will continue to operate its five regulatory programs at the same level as 1976.

The Civil Aeronautics Board fixes rates of subsidy compensation to promote the development of air transportation to the extent and of the quality required for the commerce of the United States, the Postal Service, and the national defense. The Board makes subsidy payments to subsidy-eligible certificated air carriers who have demonstrated a statutory need therefor. Subsidy is provided to cover the carrier's operating loss incurred under honest, economical and efficient management and to provide it an opportunity to earn a fair return (after taxes) on investment used and useful in the air transportation services.

The following table reflects the estimated program amounts becoming due finally for each year, together with the adjustments between years:

1. Assuring a merit work force.—This activity consists of (a) keeping personnel policies current; (b) staffing for Federal employment; (c) assuring fitness and suitability in Federal employment; and (d) improving personnel and management. In 1976 the Commission will conduct a live operational test of the Federal personnel manpower information system; intensify efforts to strengthen the capability of Government agencies to provide more in-house training; and, begin a 5-year effort to revise personnel qualification standards.

Actual and estimated workload classification and demands are as follows:

PRODUCTION COUNT

Applications processed for Federal employment.....	1974 actual	1975 estimate	1976 estimate

	373,350	335,500	335,500

2. Providing retirement and insurance benefits.—The Commission administers retirement, group life insurance, and health benefits programs for Federal employees. Principal functions include adjudicating annuity, death, refund, and deposit claims; making payments to annuitants and other claimants; negotiating with private carriers to provide the insurance and health benefits authorized; auditing the records and operations of insurance underwriters; and maintaining the trust funds established for financing the programs. The Commission will continue to make improvements in the administration of these programs during 1976.

Inquiries answered	562,632	709,600	719,000

3. Strengthening State and local personnel administration.—The purpose of the Intergovernmental Personnel Act of 1970, as administered by the Commission, is to strengthen and improve the personnel resources of State and local governments. The Commission provides grant moneys and technical assistance to develop and encourage personnel administration programs consistent with prescribed merit employment principles. Additional resources are required in 1976 to conduct an evaluation of IPA programs.

Workloads are reflected in the following table:

PRODUCTION COUNT

	1974 actual	1975 estimate	1976 estimate
IPA grant projects started	477	625	625
Number of jurisdictions assisted	750	600	600

4. Other programs.—This activity consists of four functions: (1) Administration of the Voting Rights Act of 1965, as amended; (2) the President's Commission on Personnel Interchange; (3) the President's Commission on White House Fellows; and (4) the Federal employee appeals authority. The Civil Service Commission provides administrative support to the two Presidential Commissions, and, under provisions of the Voting Rights Act, maintains lists of eligible voters and appoints examiners and election observers at the request of the Attorney General. In 1976, employee appeals to the Commission are expected to increase in the first full year of operation under the revised appeals process.

Workloads are reflected in the following table:

The Civil Service Retirement Amendments of 1969 provide for prospective financing of current year's costs of the unfunded liability created since its enactment on October 20, 1969. Any statute which authorizes (1) new or liberalized benefits, (2) extension of retirement coverage, or (3) increases in pay is deemed to authorize appropriations to the fund to finance the unfunded liability created by such statute. Also, for pre-1969 liabilities the Secretary of the Treasury is required to make annual payments from general revenues into the retirement fund on the basis of a sliding scale of percentages of an amount equivalent to: (1) Interest on the unfunded liability, and (2) annuity disbursements attributable to military service. The Civil Service Commission, at the end of each year, beginning in 1971, notifies the Secretary of the Treasury of the amount of payment to be made to the Retirement Fund and reports such sums to the President and the Congress. The required percentage of the total amount for 1975 is 50% and for 1976, 60% of such amount.

Executive Order 11491 entitled "Labor-Management Relations in the Federal Service" established the Federal Labor Relations Council as a central authority to administer and interpret the order, decide major policy issues, prescribe regulations, and from time to time report and make recommendations to the President.

The order also establishes the Federal Service Impasses Panel as an agency within the Council. The Panel is authorized to consider impasses resulting from negotiations between labor organizations and agency management and to take whatever action it considers necessary to settle an impasse.

Additional resources are required in 1976 to handle the expanded workload which has resulted from the growing interest in labor relations and contract negotiations in the Federal Government.

Under authority of 5 U.S.C. 1304 and other laws and Executive orders, the Civil Service Commission conducts full field security investigations for other departments and agencies and performs training activities and miscellaneous services for Federal agencies and State and local governments on a reimbursable basis.

Budget program.—Workload estimates for 1976 are based on forecasts of agency requirements. It is expected that the number of State and local government employees attending commission training programs will increase in 1976.

Workloads for the two major activities are displayed below:

	WORKLOAD COUNT
	1974 actual	1975 estimate	1976 estimate
Full field security investigations processed	22,760	28,400	28,400
Training sessions held	5,831	6,240	6,550
Number of participants in training courses	130,384	147,500	151,600

Operating results and financial condition.—The appropriated capital of the fund consists of $5 million. Excess earnings will be applied in 1975 to partially offset increased costs, plus $300 thousand is estimated to be available for return to the Treasury at year-end. It is expected that programs will operate on a break-even basis by the end of 1976.

EMPLOYEES HEALTH BENEFITS FUND—Continued

The fund finances the cost of health benefits for: (1) active employees, (2) employees who retired after June 1960, or their survivors (5 U.S.C. 8901-8913), and (3) the related expenses of the Commission in administering the program.

Budget program.—The balance of the fund is available for payments without fiscal year limitation. Numbers of participants on June 30 are as follows:

Active employees.....	2,237,900	2,280,600	2,326,300
Annuitants.....	815,000	877,600	941,700
Total.....	3,052,900	3,158,200	3,268,000

In determining a biweekly subscription rate to cover program costs, 1% is added to the rates developed by health benefit carriers, for administrative expense, and 3% is added for a contingency reserve held by the Commission for each carrier. The Commission is authorized to transfer unused administrative reserve funds to the contingency reserve.

For non-Postal Service employees the Government's contribution to the health benefits premiums is now 60% of the current unweighted average of the high option premiums of six large plans.

Financing.—The fund is financed by: (1) Withholdings from active employees and annuitants; (2) agency contributions for active employees, appropriated to agencies; and (3) Government contributions for annuitants appropriated to the Commission.

Operating results.—Funds advanced to carriers but not used to pay claims in the current period are carried forward as special reserves for use in subsequent periods. About $11 million unused administrative funds were transferred to the contingency reserve in 1974. The contingency reserves are retained by the Commission and paid to carriers, as necessary, to defray future rate increases or to provide increased benefits.

This fund finances insurance premiums paid to private insurance companies for Federal employees group life insurance (5 U.S.C. 8701-8716) and expenses of the Civil Service Commission in administering the program.

Separate cost data is maintained for employees regular group life insurance, an additional $10 thousand authorized in 1967, and insurance for members of former beneficial associations.

Budget program.—The status of the basic (regular and optional) life insurance program on June 30 is as follows:

Total .....	3,366	3,410	3,456

Financing.—Premium cost for the regular program has increased from 41.25 cents to 50.25 cents biweekly for each $1 thousand of life insurance coverage. These costs for non-Postal employees are met by withholding from employees' salaries two-thirds of the premium with the Government contributing the remainder. The optional program is financed by withholding from employees' salaries or retirees' annuities, and the beneficial association program is financed by direct collection from members. Most of the difference between receipts and benefit payments under the policy is held in reserve for paying future life insurance claims. The status of reserves on June 30 is as follows (in millions of dollars):

Total reserves .....	1,552	1,782	2,092

In 1975 and 1976, as in 1974, special contingency reserve funds, now held by the carrier, will be returned to the employees' life insurance fund in annual increments of $50 million. The carrier-held contingency reserve will be reduced to $50 million by June 30, 1976, and it is expected to remain at this level in subsequent years. Excess income from the program over benefit payments and other expenses is deposited in the U.S. Treasury to the credit of the Employees' Life Insurance Fund. This fund, created by the Retired Federal Employees Health Benefits Act finances: (1) The cost of health benefits for retired employees and survivors who enroll in the Government-sponsored uniform health benefits plan; (2) the contribution to retired employees and survivors who retain or purchase private health insurance; and (3) expenses of the Civil Service Commission in administering the program.

Budget program.—The fund is available without fiscal year limitation. Amounts contributed by the Government shall be paid into the fund from annual appropriations. Numbers of participants on June 30 are as follows:

Uniform plan.....	61,251	60,455	58,822
Private plans.....	116,136	113,000	106,898
Total.....	177,387	173,455	165,720

Financing.—The fund is financed by contributions from those participants enrolled in the Government-sponsored plan and by Government contributions. The special contingency reserve with the carrier of the uniform plan is currently limited to $250 thousand at the end of the policy year. Excess income from the program over benefit payments and other expenses is deposited in the U.S. Treasury to the credit of the Retired employees health benefits program.

Operating results.—There will be an estimated $9.8 million contingency reserve in the fund at the end of 1976 as compared with an estimated $19.8 million in 1975.

The Commodity Futures Trading Commission administers the Commodity Futures Trading Commission Act of 1974. This Act constitutes a complete overhaul of the Commodity Exchange Act of September 21, 1922, as amended.

The 1974 Act was designed to further the fundamental purpose of the Commodity Exchange Act in insuring fair practice and honest dealing on the commodity exchanges and providing a measure of control over those forms of speculative activity which often demoralize the markets to the injury of producers, consumers, and exchanges themselves. The Act brings under Federal regulation all agricultural and other commodities, goods, and services traded on exchanges and otherwise strengthens the regulation of the Nation's $500 billion commodity futures trading industry. It established a comprehensive regulatory structure to oversee the volatile and esoteric futures trading complex.

The primary objectives of the Act are twofold: (1) to further the economic role of the commodity futures markets—that of pricing and risk-shifting, which facilitate the movement of commodities from producers to consumers, and (2) protecting market users from abusive practices. To secure these primary objectives, the Act is designed to: prevent commodity price manipulation and market corners; curb unwarranted changes in price resulting from excessive speculation by large traders; prevent dissemination of false and misleading crop and market information affecting commodity prices; protect hedgers and other users of the commodity futures markets against cheating, fraud, and other abusive practices; insure the benefits of membership privileges on contract markets to cooperative associations of producers; protect margin moneys and equities of hedgers and other traders and prevent the misuse of such funds by requiring trust fund treatment of such moneys and establishing minimum financial and fitness standards for firms; provide an avenue whereby users of commodity futures markets may obtain reparation for moneys lost because of Act violations; protect market users in their dealings with commodity trading advisors and commodity pool operators; protect market users from broker conflicts of interest; prevent unfit persons from handling customers' accounts; require commodity exchanges to set contract terms and conditions and other rule requirements to conform to the purposes of the act; protect market users from unethical nonmembers of exchanges; provide means of reviewing exchange disciplinary actions; protect persons trading in forward contracts on margin in gold and silver; protect the economy and traders from abusive trading in "puts" and "calls"; permit industry self-regulation via a national futures association supervised by the Commission; conduct studies for the improvement of futures trading and provide information to producers, market users and the public regarding trading operations and markets, both cash and futures.

The original Act of September 21, 1922, designated as the Grain Futures Act, conferred limited authority with respect to futures trading in grains only. By amendment of June 15, 1936, its short-title designation was changed to "Commodity Exchange Act," and its regulatory provisions strengthened and extended to cotton, millfeeds, butter, eggs, potatoes, and rice. By amendment of April 7, 1938, wool tops were added to the commodities subject to the Act; fats and oils, cottonseed, cottonseed meal, peanuts, soybeans, and soybean meal were added by the act of October 9, 1940; wool was added by enactment of Public Law 83-690 of August 28, 1954; and onions were added by enactment of Public Law 84-174 of July 26, 1955. Public Law 85-839 approved August 28, 1958, prohibited futures trading in onions, effective September 27, 1958. Public Law 90-258, which became effective on June 18, 1968, added livestock and livestock products to the commodities subject to the Act; it also established minimum financial requirements for brokerage firms and strengthened and extended other provisions of the Act.

Public Law 90-418, which became effective on July 23, 1968, extended the Commodity Exchange Act to frozen concentrated orange juice. Public Law 93-463, which was approved October 23, 1974, and becomes effective April 21, 1975, completely overhauls the Commodity Exchange Act and extends regulation to all commodities.

These functions carried out under the Act are performed through a Washington, D.C. headquarters office and three regional offices, located in Chicago, Kansas City, and New York City. A suboffice of the Chicago office is located in Minneapolis, and a suboffice of the Kansas City office is located in San Francisco.

Public Law 93-644, the Headstart, Economic Opportunity, and Community Partnership Act of 1974, enacted on January 4, 1975, established the independent Community Services Administration as the successor agency to the Office of Economic Opportunity, effective upon enactment. This act provided for the transfer of all responsibilities and functions of OEO to CSA.

The act authorizes the President to submit to Congress a reorganization plan after March 15, 1975, that would establish a new Community Services Administration in HEW to which would be transferred all the programs of the independent CSA established by the act; with the exception that the community economic development program would be transferred under the reorganization plan to the Department of Commerce and would be operated by a new Community Economic Development Administration.

The reorganization plan is required by the legislation to contain provisions centralizing policymaking functions and establishing the two Directors of these activities to report directly to the respective Secretaries of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare and the Department of Commerce. The legislation further prescribes the form of congressional review, requiring either assent to the plan by silence or the passage of a joint resolution of disapproval within 60 days of submission of such a reorganization plan. The Administration has under development plans to propose a reorganization pursuant to the provisions of the new legislation.

The transfers would complete consolidation of former Office of Economic Opportunity programs and staff within more comprehensive agencies. Prior transfers during 1974 included research, demonstration and evaluation activities to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and to the Departments of Labor and Housing and Urban Development. In addition, major categorical programs concerning health services and native Americans were transferred to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, while the migrants and seasonal farmworkers program was transferred to the Department of Labor.

In 1975, the programs of OEO are currently being funded under the continuing resolution until February 28, 1975. A supplemental request is proposed to provide funding for these programs under the independent Community Services Administration for the rest of 1975.

5. General support.....	4.6	5.0	5.0

1. Research, demonstration, and evaluation.—During 1974 research and demonstration activities were delegated to agencies with statutory responsibility for those areas of prior Office of Economic Opportunity activity, and funds were appropriated to the receiving agencies to continue those activities. Relatively minor obligations were incurred by OEO in 1974 prior to the transfer or necessary to complete demonstration projects for which further funding had not been anticipated. In 1975 the delegation of native American programs was completed with the transfer of several projects and $4 million to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

2. Community action operations.—The estimate to continue funding of local initiative programs in community action agencies in 1975 is $330 million. The Head Start, Economic Opportunity, and Community Partnership Act of 1974 amends the maximum Federal cost of 80% of programs or activities under this category to 70% in 1976, except in the case of community action agencies whose annual operating level is $300 thousand or less such Federal assistance shall not exceed 75% of the total approved cost. The 1976 estimate of $295 million reflects the amended Federal share without disruption to operations of the community action agencies.

Funding of other remaining community action programs will cease at the expiration of the current continuing resolution. State economic opportunity offices and senior opportunities and services programs have been allocated $9 million and $7.5 million respectively, which is sufficient to fund their operations at current monthly levels through March 31, 1975. Administratively phase-out costs are expected to be minimal and no additional funds have been provided. Other discontinued community action programs include the youth recreation and sports program. This program was funded for $3 million in 1974 and operated by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare under a delegation agreement with the Office of Economic Opportunity. Emergency food and medical services was funded for $22 million in 1974. No funds are requested in 1975 or 1976. The total 1976 community action budget request consists of local initiative and the associated direct administrative costs of $24 million, which is the same amount requested in the proposed 1975 supplemental appropriation request, after adjustment for accounting changes in intergovernmental rent transfers.

3. Community economic development.—The community economic development program is directed toward providing significant economic and community development impact in rural and urban areas having concentrations of low-income persons. These efforts have similar objectives as programs funded through the Department of Commerce. Recent legislation authorizes the transfer of this activity to the Department of Commerce and such a reorganization plan is under development by the Administration. The 1975 and 1976 requests of $39 million continues this activity at current levels and will enable a concentration of funding on the more successful community development models and will enable continued research and development.

4. Legal services.—Legislation has been approved establishing an independent corporation to administer this program. This new legislation authorizes the President to appoint, with the advice and consent of the Senate, 11 members to the board of directors. Ninety days following the first meeting of the board of directors, which six members of whom must attend, the assets and such staff as may be determined will be transferred to the Legal Services Corporation from the Community Services Administration. Until the formal transfer is completed according to provisions of the legislation, the Community Services Administration will continue current programs at prior year levels. A supplemental appropriation in 1975 of $71.5 million will be requested, and the same amount for 1976, which are discussed elsewhere in this Appendix.

5. General support.—This activity provides supportive administration for the Community Services Administration described above and continues at prior year levels.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission is a regulatory agency established on October 27, 1972, for the purpose of reducing unreasonable risk of injury associated with consumer products. Its budget is divided into seven activities that support this purpose:

1. Policy development and support.—This activity establishes and directs overall policies and programs.

2. Hazard identification.—This activity develops and disseminates information identifying patterns of injury and hazards associated with consumer products.

3. Hazard analysis and remedy.—This activity analyzes consumer products hazards and formulates appropriate regulatory remedies.

4. Information and education.—This activity develops and disseminates product safety information, develops educational campaigns, and provides for internal training and communication needs.

5. Compliance and enforcement.—This activity monitors the manufacture, distribution, importation, and retail sale of consumer products to assure compliance with regulations promulgated under the Consumer Product Safety Act and other subsumed Acts.

6. Administration.—This activity includes planning budget, finance, contracts, personnel, and other support activities.

7. Administrative law judges.—This activity provides for the adjudicative functions of the Commission involving regulatory matters.

The purposes of the Corporation are to develop and improve noncommercial radio and television broadcasting and to assist in establishing a public broadcasting service more widely available throughout the Nation.

The Corporation is financed mainly by Federal funds, but it also receives grants and contributions from non-Federal sources. In 1974, contributions from private sources totaled $5.5 million; in 1975, they are expected to total $5 million.

By agreement the Corporation directly distributes to the public television stations a fixed percentage of its Federal income. In 1975, the Corporation estimates that it will make such community service grants—some 41% of its Federal funds—to approximately 157 licensees operating 255 public television stations and to licensees operating 173 public radio stations.

The Corporation also makes grants to radio and television stations throughout the country for production of programs for national, regional, and local use. In addition, the Corporation provides financial support to the Station Program Cooperative, which is a market mechanism whereby local public television stations purchase national programs such as "Sesame Street" and the "Electric Company" for local use.

In accordance with the Public Broadcasting Act of 1967, the Corporation provides financial support for national interconnection systems serving television and radio stations. By contract with the Public Broadcasting Service, the Corporation in 1975 will support interconnection of more than 255 television stations. Origination service on this interconnection will average 80 hours per week. By arrangement with National Public Radio, the Corporation in 1975 will provide an interconnection service for more than 170 radio stations with service averaging 45 hours per week.

1. General fund loans.—The District of Columbia Self-Government and Governmental Reorganization Act of 1973 terminated, as of January 2, 1975, authority for the District to borrow from the U.S. Treasury to finance its capital improvements program. The same act authorized the District to issue tax-exempt general obligation bonds to fund capital projects. In addition, it authorized appropriations for interest-bearing loans from the U.S. Treasury to finance capital projects for which funds had been authorized or appropriated before January 2, 1975, and to fund the District's share of the cost of the adopted regional system specified in the National Capital Transportation Act of 1969 (D.C. Code, sec. 1-1441 et seq.). This interim authority for the District to borrow from the U.S. Treasury is intended to prevent undue disruption of the city's capital improvements program during the transition to the bonding program.

A single debt ceiling was established by the D.C. Self-Government and Governmental Reorganization Act to replace existing borrowing limits for the general fund and the special funds. Under the new, unified debt ceiling, annual payments of principal and interest on the District's outstanding debt for a given year may not exceed 14% of the estimated revenues to the District for that year.

For fiscal year 1976, the District of Columbia is requesting general fund loan appropriations from the U.S. Treasury of $229,293 thousand. Together with funds available under previous loan authority, the amount requested for fiscal year 1976 will meet the full cash requirements for ongoing capital projects financed from the general fund. The full amount is being requested to help ensure necessary financing of the capital program in the event that the District is unable to issue bonds for that purpose in a timely manner. Funds for new general fund projects requested for fiscal year 1976 will have to be obtained from bond issues.

2. Special fund loans.—Permanent authority to borrow from the U.S. Treasury for capital improvement projects financed from the special funds was terminated, as of January 2, 1975, by the District of Columbia Self-Government and Governmental Reorganization Act of 1973. That act authorized the District to issue tax-exempt general obligation bonds to finance such projects, which include highway and street repair and construction; expansion and improvement of the water system; construction and maintenance of the sanitary sewage works system; and construction of a sewer line from Dulles International Airport to the District of Columbia. Interim authority for the District to borrow from the U.S. Treasury was authorized for capital projects for which funds had been authorized or appropriated before January 2, 1975.

The District of Columbia Self-Government and Governmental Reorganization Act replaced the separate borrowing limits for the special funds with a single debt ceiling for all District borrowing. Under the new debt ceiling, annual payments of principal and interest on the District's outstanding debt for a given year may not exceed 14% of the estimated revenues to the District for that year.

For 1976, the District of Columbia is requesting loan appropriations from the U.S. Treasury of $15,460 thousand for the highway fund; and $3,400 thousand for the water fund. Together with loan authority previously authorized, those amounts will meet the full cash requirements for ongoing capital projects financed from the special funds. The full amounts are being requested to help insure necessary financing of the capital program in the event that the District is unable to issue bonds for that purpose in a timely manner. Funds for new special fund projects requested for 1976 will have to be obtained from bond issues.

<sup>1</sup> Public Law 93-198 provided that $750,000 be made available to the District of Columbia for use in paying the expenses of the Board of Elections and in otherwise carrying into effect the provisions of the Act.

Temporary advances are made by the U.S. Treasury to the District of Columbia to meet short-term fiscal requirements, resulting from variations in the rate of disbursements and tax collections during the year (53 Stat. 1118). Repayment of these temporary advances will exceed the actual amount received by $25 million during 1975 to eliminate the current outstanding balance. The status of these advances on June 30 is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

EMERGENCY LOAN GUARANTEE FUND—Continued

The Emergency Loan Guarantee Act created an Emergency Loan Guarantee Board composed of the Secretary of the Treasury, as Chairman, the Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, and the Chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission. The Board was given authority to guarantee, or make commitments to guarantee, loans to major business enterprises. The maximum amount for outstanding loans guaranteed shall not exceed $250 million at any time.

In accordance with provisions of section 9(a) of the act, there was established in the Treasury an emergency loan guarantee fund to be administered by the Board. The fund is available for the payment of the expenses of the Board and for fulfilling the obligations of the Board under the act. The fund is to be credited with fees prescribed by the Board in connection with each loan guaranteed under the act.

On September 9, 1971, the Guarantee Board found that Lockheed Aircraft Corp. met the requirements of the act and approved a Government guarantee to 24 banks which may lend to Lockheed up to $250 million. The guarantee commitment to Lockheed and its lending banks requires repayment of the guaranteed portion of the borrowings by the end of 1975 unless the Board and the lending banks consent to extend the maturity date as provided for under the act.

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission carries out the provisions of title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, designed to eliminate discrimination in employment based upon race, color, religion, sex, or national origin, and brings civil actions in Federal district courts to enforce title VII, as amended.

1. Compliance.—Provides for the investigation, determination of cause, and conciliation of complaints of employment discrimination filed under title VII, as amended.

2. Affirmative programs.—Develops and implements on a national, local, industry, or other appropriate level affirmative action programs to assist those subject to the act; carries out the provisions of title VII that authorize cooperative agreements between the Commission and State and local fair employment practices agencies to reduce discrimination in employment; and develops and interprets statistical analyses and other background data to support Commission programs. The 1976 estimate includes $8,000,000 for contracts to State and local fair employment practices agencies.

3. Legal program.—Reviews unsuccessful conciliation attempts for the purpose of recommending and filing law suits against respondents who refuse to voluntarily comply with title VII, as amended; monitors and participates in title VII litigation brought by private parties; and furnishes legal guidance to Commission staff and the public relative to all aspects of title VII, as amended.

4. Administration.—Provides executive direction, staff support in public and congressional relations, and administrative management and housekeeping services.

The Administration supervises a coordinated agricultural credit system of farm credit banks and associations which make credit available to farmers and their cooperatives.

Assessments based upon estimated administrative expenses are collected from agencies in the farm credit system and are available for administrative expenses. Obligations are incurred within fiscal year budgets approved by the Federal Farm Credit Board.

Supervision and examination of farm credit banks and associations.—Provision is made for supervision and examination of: 12 Federal land banks; 13 banks for cooperatives; 12 Federal intermediate credit banks; 553 Federal land bank associations; and 433 production credit associations. Also, these credit agencies are furnished such services as assistance in financing and investments, credit analysis, development of appraisal standards and policies, preparation of reports and budgets, and development and distribution of information on farm credit.

5. Field operations.—Field employees inspect radio stations, administer operator examinations, collect engineering data, monitor the spectrum, and determine the location of lost ships, lost aircraft, and illegal sources of radio emission.

6. Research and planning in communications technology.—The Commission undertakes broad studies designed to improve the utilization of the radio spectrum, approves certain equipment for public use, and licenses experimental radio stations.

7. Cable television.—The Commission regulates and governs the cable systems which receive and amplify the transmission of one or more TV broadcast stations and then redistribute the signals by cable to private homes or places of business of those who subscribe to the service for a fee.

8. Support.—This activity includes the professional management and legal services provided to the Commission as well as all routine administrative services.

For the transitional period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, activities and functions will continue at the same level and scope as is estimated for 1976.

The Corporation was created by Congress for the purpose of protecting bank depositors and to foster sound practices in the Nation's banking system. As of June 30, 1974, the deposit insurance fund amounted to $5.8 billion. The entire fund is considered a reserve for the protection of depositors in insured banks and for the payment of administrative and insurance expenses. Income is accumulated principally from assessments paid by insured banks and interest from its investments in obligations of the U.S. Treasury. The insurance fund is strengthened by an authorization to borrow up to $3 billion from the Treasury of the United States. No borrowing under this authorization has been made to date and none is anticipated in 1975 and 1976.

<sup>1</sup> No provision is made in this report for disbursements which might be made by reason of additional bank closings after November 30, 1974, because there is no sound basis for predicting which insured banks, if any, will close after that date.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was created by the Banking Act of 1933 to provide protection for bank depositors and to foster sound banking practices. Initially deposit insurance was limited to $2,500 per depositor. This protection increased to $5 thousand in 1935, to $10 thousand in 1950, $15 thousand in 1966, and $20 thousand in 1969. It has been $40 thousand since November 27, 1974. In order to accomplish its varied functions in the protection of bank depositors the Corporation is authorized to promulgate and enforce rules and regulations relating to the supervision of insured banks and to perform other regulatory and supervisory duties consistent with its responsibilities as insurer. A basic program for examining State banks which are not members of the Federal Reserve System and liquidation activities attendant to closed insured banks constitutes the major portion of the Corporation's operations.

Income of the Corporation is derived principally from insurance assessments paid by insured banks and interest on investments in U.S. Government securities. As of June 30, 1974, the deposit insurance fund amounted to $5.8 billion. The entire fund represents the accumulated net income of the Corporation and is reserved for the protection of depositors in insured banks and for payment of administrative and insurance expenses. No funds derived from taxes or Federal appropriations are allocated to or used by the Corporation in any of its operations.

The insurance fund is supported by an authorization to borrow up to $3 billion from the U.S. Treasury. No borrowing under this authorization has been made to date and none is anticipated in 1975 and 1976.

As a result of the failure of the Franklin National Bank in October 1974, the Corporation arranged the sale of the deposit liabilities and certain other liabilities and assets of the Bank to another institution, loaned the successor institution $100 million in capital funds, and assumed the remainder—approximately $2.1 billion book value—of Franklin's assets and its indebtedness of approximately $1,723 million to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, the latter to be repaid by October 1977.

Executive Order 11790, "providing for the effectuation of the Federal Energy Administration Act of 1974", was signed by the President on June 25, 1974. As a result, the Federal Energy Administration became official on June 27, 1974.

In conjunction with the Executive order, a determination order effected the necessary transfers to FEA of funds, personnel, records and property of those energy offices and activities in the Department of the Interior which, by virtue of the Federal Energy Administration Act, have been assigned to the FEA.

1. Executive direction and administration.—This activity includes the responsibilities of the Administrator as well as the supporting services necessary to the proper execution of the Administration's responsibilities. This includes legal, financial, personnel, and procurement functions, as well as public affairs, congressional affairs, private grievances and redress, and maintaining relationships with the States on energy matters.

2. Energy policy and analysis.—This activity includes the functions of performing long-range energy policy analysis. It also includes, for example, the development of a national energy plan, short- and long-range supply/demand forecasting, coordination of energy-related programs, policies, and legislation, development of deregulation and decontrol strategies, and provision of all ADP support for the Administration, including such things as energy statistics, allocation data systems, and providing a national energy data clearinghouse.

3. Regulatory programs.—Supports a national energy policy by providing a means of assessing energy supplies current and future, and by providing voluntary allocation management of energy resources as national needs require. Provides analytical and statistical information which is used to accurately evaluate the status of energy resources in order to develop policy and plans to meet the energy needs of the Nation.

4. Energy conservation and environment.—Develops information through economic and policy analysis and promotes efficiencies in the use and development of energy resources. Provides policy analysis on environmental issues and fulfills FEA's responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act. Developing and implementing new governmental programs to reduce energy demand in transportation, building, industrial and utilities areas, developing and conducting public education and multimedia campaigns in support of energy conservation programs, and providing technical and program support on energy conservation to States and localities are among the other major efforts of this activity.

5. Energy resource development.—Develops and implements national policies and programs to increase production and utilization of energy from present domestic sources and to facilitate the development of new domestic energy sources. Develops and implements the total program management of activities leading to the objective of national energy self-sufficiency.

6. International energy affairs.—This activity deals with general policy review and coordination of all FEA international activities, national security council matters, international agreements, multinational energy negotiations, transportation of energy from abroad, and liaison with defense and nuclear energy agencies. This includes the development of policy options for oil sharing, mandatory conservation, emergency supply, and encouraging multinational energy programs, and development and evaluation of U.S. export-import policy options.

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board formulates policies and supervises the operations of the 12 Federal home loan banks, the system of Federal savings and loan associations, and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation; it is also responsible for the examination of all Federal savings and loan associations, and for the examination and supervision of all State-chartered institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The expenditure programs of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation are presented as business-type budgets. Section 2 of Public Law 895, approved July 3, 1948, provides that all expenses of the Division of Examinations, Federal Home Loan Bank Board, shall be considered nonadministrative.

Public Law 87-141, approved August 17, 1961, provides that expenses of any functions of supervision (except of Federal home loan banks) vested in or exercisable by the Board shall be considered as nonadministrative expenses.

The administrative expenses of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board (including the home office of the Office of Examinations and Supervision) are paid from assessments against the 12 Federal home loan banks and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The expenses of the field offices of the Office of Examinations and Supervision are paid from fees charged against and collected from savings and loan institutions examined and from assessments against the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

Title I of the Emergency Home Finance Act of 1970, Public Law 91-351, authorized a new program in the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. Under this program, appropriated funds were used by the 12 Federal home loan banks to adjust the effective interest rate charged by each bank on lending to member savings and loan associations, thereby promoting an orderly flow of funds into residential construction.

The program was initiated in 1971 with an appropriation of $85 million. An additional $62.5 million was appropriated in 1972. The program was phased out in 1973.

Budget program.—The Board's budget is based on eight activities.

1. Examination and supervision of Federal home loan banks.—The Board examines and supervises the operations of the Federal home loan banks.

2. Examination and supervision of Federal and State-chartered institutions.—The financial condition and operations of each insured institution are analyzed and corrective action is instituted when warranted. Supervision of insured institutions operating under State charter is carried on, cooperatively, under arrangements made with the respective State authorities. Supervisory examinations are made of Federal savings and loan associations, State-chartered associations insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and such uninsured member institutions of the Federal Home Loan Bank System as are not examined by the State examiners. Examinations are also made of institutions applying for insurance of accounts and for conversion from a State to a Federal charter when required by the Board.

3. Chartering Federal and insuring savings and loan associations.—Federal savings and loan associations are chartered and regulated. Applications of State-chartered associations for conversion into Federal savings and loan associations and applications of Federal savings and loan associations for establishment of branch offices are also examined. In addition, an analysis and evaluation is made of the insurance risk in connection with applications submitted by savings and loan associations for insurance of share accounts.

4. Executive direction and staff services.—This includes formulation of basic policy and the furnishing of staff services common to the Board and the Insurance Corporation.

5. Analysis of operations.—An analysis is made of the financial condition of member institutions, the flow of savings, the character and volume of mortgage lending, as well as selective review of geographical or community areas and phases of operations and certain analyses of trends in the field of thrift and home mortgage finance, including volume of activity and interest rates of all major types of mortgage lenders.

6. Administrative services.—These consist of auditing; accounting, budgetary, and financial reporting; internal budget control; and fiscal organization and management. These services also include general housekeeping and operating services, including printing and reproduction work.

7. Acquisition and construction of a building in the District of Columbia.—The Board is authorized by Public Law 89-754, 80 Stat. 1255, 1293, approved November 3, 1966, to acquire property and construct a building in the District of Columbia to provide quarters and facilities for the Board. Under the law, the Board is required to prepare and submit an annual budget program for the building as provided in title I of the Government Corporation Control Act.

8. Authority of the Treasury to purchase Federal Home Loan Bank obligations.—The 12 Federal Home Loan Banks stabilize and strengthen the member institutions which own all their Capital stock. The banks obtain funds advanced to members primarily from public issuances of consolidated obligations. Authority to borrow from the Treasury was increased from $4 to $6 billion by Public Law 93-495, approved October 28, 1974. This increased authority will expire on August 10, 1975. No borrowings were made prior to 1975 and none are anticipated in 1976. Borrowings in 1975 are estimated to be repaid within the year.

The amounts shown in the schedules for the above activities include administrative expenses under annual limitation; nonadministrative expenses under a separate limitation; and certain additional expenses not under limitation. Administrative expenses are estimated to increase from $10.7 million in 1975 to $14.8 million in 1976. Nonadministrative expenses covering examination and supervision of savings and loan associations are discussed separately below.

The Office of Examinations and Supervision has the major role in fulfilling the Federal Home Loan Bank Board's statutory responsibility for monitoring and regulating the savings and loan industry. This Office examines and, when necessary, supervises and assists all savings and loan associations to assure the American public of a dynamic system of safe insured savings, accessible credit, and economical home ownership.

The Office of Examinations and Supervision is also the primary tool of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation (FSLIC) for protecting its assets against depletion caused by the financial failure of any of the savings and loan associations which it insures. The Office's responsibility extends to all institutions insured by the FSLIC—Federal associations, State-chartered associations, and other institutions of the savings and loan type insured by the FSLIC—as well as noninsured member institutions of the Federal Home Loan Bank System not subject to State examination.

The Office monitors savings and loan associations through continual analysis of operating policies and financial reports submitted by the associations and by public auditors, through regularly scheduled examinations, and through occasional special examinations. The purpose of these monitoring processes is to determine compliance with Federal Home Loan Bank Board regulations and to ascertain the quality of management and the financial soundness of the member associations. If the Office detects actual or potentially unsafe or unsound practices in associations insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, Supervisory Agents from the Federal Home Loan Banks work with the associations to prevent the development or the continuance of poor financial or management performance. The operations of the Office are funded substantially through direct examination charges to savings and loan associations.

The authority for examination and supervision of insured savings and loan associations was expanded by the Financial Institutions Supervisory Act of 1966, and the Savings and Loan Holding Company Amendments of 1967 imposed additional examination and supervisory responsibilities on the Office with respect to savings and loan holding companies and their subsidiaries. The Office also has assumed responsibilities outside the scope of traditional examinations because of legislation in the areas of consumer credit protection, equal opportunity, and security measures.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation is authorized under title IV of the National Housing Act (12 U.S.C. 1724 et seq.) to insure savings in all Federal savings and loan associations and in State-chartered institutions of the savings and loan type which apply and qualify for insurance. The protection thus afforded, which insures savers in member associations against financial loss up to a statutory limit of $40 thousand, may be provided through the prevention of default or the payment of insurance to savings account holders in the event of liquidation. The former course of action, which results in complete protection to each investor regardless of the amount in his account, is accomplished by making contributions or by purchasing all or a part of the association's assets. Also, the Corporation is authorized to make loans to institutions in financial difficulty. Wherever possible, preventive measures are taken to eliminate the necessity of liquidation. However, in the event liquidation is necessary, the Corporation acts as receiver or coreceiver upon request of State authority in cases involving State-chartered institutions. In addition, the Corporation, upon determination by the Board (under legislation effective July 1968, Public Law 90-389) is empowered to act, even retroactively, as sole receiver in cases involving State-chartered institutions.

The Corporation functions under direction of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which provides certain administrative services and conducts the examination and supervision of insured institutions. The expenses of the Board and its staff offices are paid from assessments made on the Corporation and the Federal home loan banks.

1. Administrative expenses subject to limitation.—In carrying out its role of protecting savings in insured savings and loan associations the Corporation has settled 106 cases since its creation 40 years ago. Actual losses sustained and provision for losses to June 30, 1974, have amounted to $166.4 million representing approximately 5.2% of cumulative gross income. Detailed information with respect to all of the insurance cases is summarized in the following table (dollars in thousands):

2. Payment to Federal Home Loan Bank Board for services and facilities.—The Corporation will pay 21% of the administrative expenses of the Board as a direct charge and 49% of the remaining administrative expenses of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in 1976 in return for services and facilities by the Board and staff offices including the Washington office of the Office of Examinations and Supervision. The Corporation will also pay 34% of the district offices' expenses of the Office of Examinations and Supervision for supervisory services by that office.

5. Other expenses.—Provides for liquidation and other expenses of the Corporation in connection with the work-out of contribution agreements, the disposition of assets purchased from, and loans to insured institutions to prevent default.

Financing.—The original capital of $100 million has been completely repaid to the Treasury, together with an additional $43 million for the use of the funds.

The Corporation has continuing authority to borrow from the Treasury for insurance purposes, with a limitation of $750 million outstanding at any one time. No borrowings under this authorization have ever been made.

The Corporation has additional authority to assess against each insured institution additional premiums for insurance until the amount of such premiums equals the amount of all losses and expenses of the Corporation, except that the total amount so assessed in any one year against any such institution shall not exceed one-eighth of 1% of the total amount of the accounts of its insured members.

Operating results and financial condition.—The Corporation is entirely self-supporting. Revenues and other receipts have been sufficient to meet all insurance losses, operating expenses, and return on capital stock, and to establish a reserve for contingencies of $3,604.2 million as of June 30, 1974. Total revenues and other receipts since 1934, of $3,969.6 million, have been applied as follows (in millions of dollars):

	Amount	Percent
Expense.....	156.0	3.9
Insurance losses sustained and provision for losses.....	166.4	4.2
Return on capital stock to U.S. Treasury.....	43.0	1.1
Reserve for contingencies.....	3,604.2	90.8
Total.....	3,969.6	100.0

Operating expenses (funded) for 1976 are estimated at $114.2 million consisting of administrative expenses of the Corporation of $830.0 thousand, $16.0 million for services rendered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, $19 million for contributions to insured institutions, $73.5 million refund of premium prepayments to insured institutions, and $4.9 million for other expenses.

Net operating income for 1976, which is expected to be $360.8 million, will be retained by the Corporation to meet future contingencies.

Section 404(b) of the National Housing Act, as amended, requires each insured institution to pay a basic insurance premium in an amount equal to one-twelfth of 1% of its savings accounts. Public Law 87-210, which became effective January 1, 1962, as amended, required an annual payment to the Corporation of an additional premium in the nature of a prepayment at a rate equal to 2% of the increase in savings for the previous calendar year, less an amount equal to any requirement for the purchase of Federal Home Loan Bank stock during the period. The law also provides for the crediting of a return on the accumulated prepayment of each insured association at a rate equal to the average realized by the Corporation on its own investment portfolio.

Public Law 87-210 further provided for the establishment of a primary reserve which shall be the general reserve of the Corporation and a secondary reserve to which shall be credited additional premiums. The law also stated that when the sum of these two reserves equals 2% of total savings, the cash payment of the regular premiums and the prepayments would cease and the Corporation would then commence transferring the secondary reserve to the primary reserve by crediting each insured association's accumulated prepayments to its regular premium liability.

Public Law 93-100, approved August 16, 1973, removed the requirement for the Corporation to accept or receive further payments in the nature of prepayments of future premiums and provided that if the aggregate of the two reserves drops to below 1.25% of total savings, the cash payment of the regular premium will resume until the 1.25% ratio is again reached. If the aggregate of the two reserves equals or exceeds 1.25% but the primary reserve does not equal or exceed 2%, the Corporation commences transferring each insured institution's pro-rata share of the secondary reserve, to the extent available, to discharge its regular insurance premium obligation on a basis of not less than 30% nor more than 70%, as the Corporation may determine. (This credit is reflected on the Analysis of Changes in Government Equity statement below.) The law requires the Corporation to accumulate a primary reserve (as of the close of any December 31) equal to 2% of the total amount of all accounts of insured members before collection of regular premiums may be discontinued, provided, however, that each insured institution has paid regular premiums for at least 20 years.

Public Law 93-495, approved October 28, 1974, provides for a phase-out of the secondary reserve over the first 10 minimum net reduction years occurring after December 31, 1973. In May of each year, the Corporation will reduce the amount of each insured institution's pro-rata share of the secondary reserve as of the preceding December 31 by a cash refund of the difference between such pro-rata share and the percentage of its beginning balance on a percentage basis prescribed in the law. Refunds due to this legislation are reflected as item 4 on the program and financing schedule.

The Federal Maritime Commission administers the shipping statutes which require regulation of the domestic offshore and international waterborne commerce of the United States. Its objective for 1976 is to achieve compliance with the statutes through an effective regulatory program. This will entail continuing and comprehensive analysis of the activities of conferences, carriers, and others subject to Commission jurisdiction, as they relate to the following program areas: ocean freight rates; ratemaking and other agreements; malpractices; foreign discriminatory actions; freight forwarders; terminal operators; passenger vessel certification; and water pollution responsibility. In addition, the Commission will be actively involved in the development of a program to determine appropriate rate bases for carriage of military cargo.

The Service, under title II of the Labor Management Relations Act of 1947, assists labor and management in mediation and prevention of disputes affecting industries engaged in interstate commerce other than rail and air transportation, whenever in its judgment such disputes threaten to cause a substantial interruption of commerce.

1. Mediation services.—During 1974, dispute notices and other notifications affecting 125,145 employers were received by the Service. Cases totaling 25,185 were assigned for mediation, and 23,724 mediation assignments were closed during the year. About 85% of the mediation assignments closed which required the services of mediators were settled without work stoppages. A total of 30,265 mediation conferences were conducted by mediators during 1974. The workload shown above includes assignments closed in both the private and public sectors. Cases in process at the end of 1974 totaled 6,910; this is the highest carryover of open cases at the end of a fiscal year in the history of the Service. The following table shows a 5-year comparison of workload data:

DISPUTE WORKLOAD DATA

Cases in process at beginning of year.....	5,113	5,020	4,889	4,736	5,449

Mediation conferences conducted....	30,334	32,293	29,223	26,973	30,265

Service function in the Federal sector.—Executive Order 11491 of October 29, 1969, as amended by Executive Order 11616, dated August 26, 1971, places responsibility in the agency for providing mediation assistance to Federal agencies and labor organizations in the resolution of negotiation disputes. The Service was engaged in dispute mediation activities in 517 cases during 1974.

Service function in the health care industry.—Public Law 93-360 approved July 26, 1974, provides that upon receipt of notice of contract termination or modification or initial contract negotiations, the Service is mandated to contact the parties in an effort to achieve agreement through mediation, with the parties being required to participate in meetings called by the Service. If settlement is not reached, the Director of the Service, after due notice, may establish an impartial board of inquiry to look into the facts of the dispute. Use of the board-of-inquiry procedure does not preclude continued mediation efforts by FMCS during this period.

2. Technical services.—The primary functions of this program are technical assistance, research, education, and training. These functions are used to create programs which will meet the urgent requirement for greater knowledge and more precise talent in the collective bargaining field to foster industrial peace. Through its technical assistance program, the Service has initiated and developed conferences, seminars, and specialized workshops on a wide range of contemporary issues in collective bargaining. This program provides a clearing center for information, approaches, and techniques developed in industrial relations. Through this program the Service will continue to work with both contracting parties to bring about a better understanding of the collective bargaining process, and to improve their day-to-day working relationships.

TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE WORKLOAD DATA

Technical assistance cases closed.....	1,218	851	523	515	642
Joint technical assistance conferences conducted.....	2,048	1,578	1,224	1,361	1,601
Separate technical assistance conferences conducted.....	5,510	2,390	1,557	1,630	1,401

3. Arbitration services.—The Service provides panels of arbitrators from its roster for the resolution of employee grievances or disputes in the private and public sectors involving the interpretation or application of existing agreements.

In 1974 the Service provided 16,952 panels of arbitrators, an increase of 52.3% over the past 5 years.

The Service is responsible for providing boards of inquiry as an impasse resolution procedure for the health care industry. This responsibility is carried out through the assignment of arbitrators who are experienced in conducting factfinding hearings. In addition, the Service administers expedited arbitration for the U.S. Postal Service in major metropolitan areas of the country.

The following table shows the Arbitration Services workload for the past 5 years:

ARBITRATION SERVICES WORKLOAD DATA

	1970	1971	1972	1973	1974
Number of panels issued.....	11,124	13,235	13,842	15,121	16,952

Number of arbitration awards reported.....	2,849	2,840	3,432	3,954	4,349

4. Management and administrative support.—This program provides for policy planning, evaluation, direction, coordination, management, and administrative support for the programs of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

5. Ad hoc boards, panels, mediators, and consultants.—Provision is made for ad hoc employment of labor relations experts, individually or in panels, in support of the mediation function; and for boards of inquiry appointed by the President in emergency disputes.

Public Law 93-360 also amended title II of the Labor Management Relations Act, 1947, by adding a new section 213 which provides that the FMCS may appoint an impartial board of inquiry to look into the facts of a contract dispute involving health care institutions and to publicly report its findings and recommendations to the parties.

Transition period.—The amounts proposed for the transition period will support activities and workload at the 1976 level.

The Federal Power Commission administers the Federal Power Act and Natural Gas Act, and performs other work relating to Federal electric power developments and associated natural resources.

1. Hydroelectric power regulation.—The Commission licenses non-Federal hydroelectric projects and makes water resources appraisal studies. Under Public Law 90-451, the Commission determines whether projects with expiring licenses should be relicensed or recommended to Congress for Federal takeover. The environmental impact of proposed licensed hydroelectric projects is assessed by the Commission pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 and the decision in the Greene County Planning Board v. FPC, on January 17, 1972 (455 F. 2d.).

2. Electric power industry systems evaluation.—The Commission encourages the interconnection and coordination of the Nation's electric power systems to insure an adequate and reliable supply of electric energy.

The Commission studies the electric power industry's problems and prospects to encourage electric utilities to meet the Nation's power requirements by timely installation of adequate generating and transmission facilities with minimum impact on our environment. Continuous surveillance of the changing requirements of the electric power industry is conducted to identify current trends, project load growth, and suggest patterns of generation and transmission to meet future requirements.

3. Electric power utilities regulation.—The Commission regulates the wholesale rates and service, the accounts reporting requirements, depreciation practices, certain security issues, the disposition of property, mergers, and interlocking directorates of interstate electric utilities.

4. Natural gas pipeline regulation.—The Commission issues certificates of public convenience and necessity to permit construction of new facilities and extensions by interstate natural gas companies. The environmental impact of proposed interstate pipeline construction is assessed by the Commission pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

The Commission also regulates the wholesale rates charged by interstate natural gas pipeline companies, their accounting and reporting requirements, depreciation practices, and abandonment of property.

6. Natural gas industry systems evaluation.—The Commission will continue the National Gas Survey to obtain an overview of the gas industry, including various principal elements such as prospective growth of markets; the gas supplies necessary to meet them; industry financing, rates and service conditions; imports and exports; and general operations.

7. Services to other agencies and to the public.—The Commission studies industry systems and prepares reports for use of other agencies, the industries and the public.

The Commission assesses and collects annual charges against owners of non-Federal hydroelectric projects which derive benefit from upstream Federal reservoirs.

The Commission participates with other Federal agencies in planning the development of power at water resources projects. For certain Federal projects, it approves the rate of sale of power and allocates the costs to project purposes. It participates in activities of the Water Resources Council and in Federal-State water resources studies.

8. Energy utilization.—This program analyzes the interacting effects of the Nation's energy supply system and its capital distribution and marketing requirements, and identifies and distributes information on energy conservation programs.

9. Administration.—Executive, managerial, and administrative support personnel perform the decisionmaking and support functions.

The Federal Trade Commission is charged by law with preserving the health of the free enterprise system by ensuring that competition is both free and fair. This is accomplished by enforcement of the antitrust laws and by eliminating practices unfair or deceptive to consumers.

1. Maintaining competition.—The Commission investigates and rectifies monopolistic practices and unreasonable restraints of trade, including price-fixing conspiracies, boycotts, price discrimination, and illegal mergers and acquisitions. Direct enforcement activities are supplemented principally by statements of enforcement policies, industry guides, and compliance efforts to secure adherence with cease-and-desist orders and advisory opinions. In 1976, this mission will focus on industries that are major contributors to the Nation's inflation: energy, food, and health care. The thrust of FTC's antitrust activities is to remove barriers in operating an unfettered free market system that may permit artificial, nonmarket determined price increases.

2. Consumer protection.—The Commission's consumer protection programs will focus on (1) assisting consumers to fight inflation by insuring that product information is available in the market to facilitate value comparisons and permit informed consumer choice and (2) attacking unfair or deceptive practices frequently associated with these inflationary conditions. Programs illustrating this approach include vocational schools, land sales practices, creditors' remedies, idea promotion, and business opportunities. Enforcement will focus on implementing the provisions in title II—FTC Improvements Act by promulgating trade regulation rules susceptible to civil penalty actions and selecting cases involving acts or practices which meet the statutory requirements for granting equitable relief, e.g., refunds of money to consumers.

3. Economic activities.—These activities are concerned with all economic aspects of the Commission's missions, including: Preparing economic reports and surveys; providing economic and statistical assistance in the investigation and adjudication of cases; and carrying on a financial reporting program to collect, analyze, and publish aggregate statistics on the financial characteristics and economic performance of various industries and classes of manufacturing firms. Major 1976 projects include studying the effects of antitrust and the international economy; refining the line-of-business program; concluding a study of the structure, conduct, and performance of the principal U.S. energy-providing industries; and identifying more economically effective consumer protection remedies.

4. Executive direction and policy planning.—This mission includes planning, executive direction, and evaluation of the Commission's activities. In 1976, a new programmatic budget reflecting the Commission's policy planning and evaluation activities will provide an improved basis for directing FTC's activities.

5. Administration and management.—This includes the formulation and implementation of all administrative management policies and functions. In 1976, use of an improved management information system and refinement of operating controls will be stressed.

The Foreign Claims Settlement Commission is responsible for the settlement of claims of U.S. nationals against foreign nations and other claims programs as authorized by law.

1. and 2. Adjudication of claims.—The Commission will administer three claims programs in 1976. The Micronesian Claims Act of 1971 requires the adjudication of over 10,000 claims of citizens of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands for injuries and damages which arose out of hostilities during World War II and the military occupation thereafter. The War Claims Act, as amended, requires the adjudication of prisoners of war and missing in action war claims arising out of the Vietnam conflict. The Commission will continue the adjudication of claims received under the 1973 claims agreement negotiated with Hungary.

3. Executive and advisory function.—This activity includes policy determination, executive direction, program planning and evaluation, congressional liaison, information for the public, and advisory services for the Government at large on past and pending claims programs.

The Harry S Truman Memorial Scholarship Act authorizes up to $30 million to be appropriated to the Harry S Truman Memorial Scholarship Trust Fund, which it establishes in the Treasury of the United States. The act specifies that the Secretary of the Treasury shall invest in full the amounts appropriated in interest-bearing obligations of the United States or obligations guaranteed as to both principal and interest by the United States. Funds for Truman scholarships and operating expenses of the Foundation will come from the interest and earnings on the investments.

The requested $10,000 thousand is anticipated to generate income at a level sufficient to support the first two classes of Truman scholars. If the $10,000 thousand is appropriated by October 1, 1975, it is expected that initial awards will be made for Truman scholars effective at the beginning of the 1976-77 academic year.

In pursuit of a memorable and lasting Bicentennial commemoration, the funds requested will help assure the following:

1. General administration.—These funds support a coordinated, balanced commemorative Bicentennial program encompassing the three themes of Heritage '76, Festival USA, and Horizons '76. It is developed and conducted through the existing network of State and local bicentennial commissions, national groups and organizations in the public and private sectors, as well as Federal agencies and foreign governments.

A primary function of the Administration is the preparation of the Master Calendar of events of local, State, and international significance to take place between March 1975 and December 31, 1976, 12 months of which come within 1976. A computerized Bicentennial Information Network (BINET) maintains the calendar to increase public awareness of and involvement in the activities and events planned to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the United States of America.

The Administration operates 10 regional offices to assist regional, State, and local Bicentennial committees and commissions. It lends technical support, including prototype exhibits, staging of special events, competitions, and similar activities.

2. Grants-in-aid.—The Administration makes both matching and nonmatching grants to State bicentennial commissions and other appropriate organizations to attain a balanced program as authorized under section 9 of Public Law 93-179, which established the Administration.

The Administration makes direct annual operations grants of $25,000 to each of the 55 bicentennial commissions of the States, territories, Puerto Rico, and the District of Columbia. In addition the Administration will make available $200,000 in appropriated matching grants during 1975 and 1976 to each of the 55 entities.

Revenue is generated for deposit into this account from the sale of medal and stamp packages and from bronze and silver solo medals. These items are produced exclusively by the U.S. Mint and the stamps are printed, affixed, and canceled by the U.S. Postal Service. In the Bicentennial year, a special national medallion will also be produced for sale. Additional revenue may be generated through the licensing of commemorative items and use of the national Bicentennial symbol as may be determined by the American Revolution Bicentennial Board.

The Administration utilizes these funds to support Bicentennial programs, and to make grants available to States, cities, counties, et cetera, on a matching basis for worthwhile Bicentennial projects. These funds may also be used for special projects on a nonmatching basis when deemed appropriate by the ARBA Board.

This independent Commission of five members was created to hear and adjudicate claims, existing before August 13, 1946, of American Indian tribes, bands, or other identifiable groups of Indians residing within the territorial limits of the United States. Of the 611 claims docketed, 425 were completed on June 30, 1974. Payments of awards are dependent upon subsequent appropriations made through claims, judgments, and private relief acts appropriations to the Treasury Department.

INTERGOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES

ADVISORY COMMISSION ON INTERGOVERNMENTAL RELATIONS

The Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations is an independent bipartisan body which attempts to identify and analyze the causes of intergovernmental conflicts, and recommends ways of strengthening and improving the American federal system. The 26-member Commission includes representatives of the executive and legislative branches of all levels of government—Federal, State, and local—as well as representatives of the general public.

The Commission and its staff examine Federal and State programs having an intergovernmental aspect. Proposed legislation is reviewed to determine its overall effect on the federal system. The Commission also identifies emerging problems of Federal-State-local relations.

The Commission makes recommendations concerning the allocation of responsibilities and revenues among the various levels of government. These recommendations and published reports growing out of the Commission's work are submitted to the executive and legislative branches of Federal, State, and local governments for appropriate action.

Continuing and annual projects of the Commission include monitoring the general revenue sharing effort, coordinating the review procedures established by the Office of Management and Budget Circular A-85, surveying State and local finances, monitoring the legislation of State and local governments, and supporting the implementation of Commission recommendations at the Federal, State, and local levels.

ADVISORY COMMISSION ON INTERGOVERNMENTAL RELATIONS—CON.

One-time projects now underway include studies of metropolitan transportation, categorical and block grants, taxation of financial depositories, local revenue diversification, property tax exemptions, and fiscal policy coordination.

The consolidated working fund receives funds from other Federal agencies for special projects carried out by the Commission pursuant to contracts with these agencies. Each contract is charged for a share of the Commission's overhead expenses.

Projects scheduled for completion in 1975 include the development of the forums on federalism for the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, a study of metropolitan transportation for the Department of Transportation, the formation of a 50-State water quality model for the National Commission on Water Quality, and the studies on substate regionalism and delivery of services financed in part by the Departments of Housing and Urban Development and Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW).

A new contract with HEW will finance a complete study of the categorical and block grant system during 1975 and 1976.

Contributions from State and local governments are used to strengthen the Commission's clearinghouse, information, and policy implementation services to State and local governments and to improve intergovernmental coordination and relations.

In 1974 the Commission did not seek contributions from State and local governments while attempting to work out a national contribution plan with national interest groups representing State and local governments—National Governors' Conference, Conference of State Legislative Leaders, U.S. Conference of Mayors, National League of Cities, National Association of Counties, and International City Management Association. Efforts to negotiate a national contributions plan are continuing.

The Appalachian Regional Development Act assigns the following major responsibilities to the Commission:

(1) Develop, on a continuing basis, comprehensive and coordinated plans and programs and establish priorities thereunder, giving due consideration to other Federal, State, and local planning in the region;

(2) Conduct and sponsor investigations, research, and studies, including an inventory and analysis of the resources of the region, and, in coordination with Federal, State, and local agencies, sponsor demonstration projects designed to foster regional productivity and growth;

(3) Review and study, in cooperation with agency involved, Federal, State, and local public and private programs and, where appropriate, recommend modifications and additions which will increase their effectiveness in the region;

(4) Encourage private investment in industrial, commercial, and recreational projects, and

(5) Serve as a focal point and coordinating unit for Appalachian programs.

It is the function of the Federal cochairman of the Commission and his staff to coordinate the Appalachian program with all Federal agencies.

The Appalachian Regional Development Act also provides for a professional Commission staff. Employees of the Commission, under the act, are determined not to be Federal employees but are the joint employees of the Federal and State Governments.

As authorized in the Appalachian Regional Development Act, the 13 Appalachian States share with the Federal Government the administrative expenses of the Appalachian Regional Commission. The States will advance funds in the amount of $1,542 thousand to pay their share of these expenses in 1976, and $400 thousand for the July 1 through September 30 transition period.

The Appalachian Regional Commission will provide technical support for the research and local development districts' programs by an advance of funds in the amount of $250 thousand from the "Appalachian regional development programs" appropriation.

The Office of the States' Regional Representative, established by the Appalachian State Governors represents the 13 Appalachian States in the day-to-day operation of the Commission. That Office is supported solely by the States and is not included in these accounts.

This appropriation provides for the Federal share of the annual expenses of the Commission. The compact provides that the amount required to balance the Commission's current expenses budget shall be apportioned equitably among the signatory parties by unanimous vote of the Commission. The amount recommended for the Federal contribution for 1976 is approximately 23% of the regular budget.

Funds for the transition period will allow the activities of the Delaware River Basin Commission to continue at an adequate level.

Contribution to the Commission.—The Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin was created in 1940 by compact among the four States in the basin, the District of Columbia, and the Federal Government for the purpose of water pollution abatement and control. The act was amended and consented to by Congress September 25, 1970 (Public Law 91-407), in order to broaden its purpose to the management of water and associated land resources.

The appropriation represents the Federal Government's share of the expenses of the Commission's broadened operations. Funds also are contributed by the signatory bodies (member States and District of Columbia). The Commission also receives an Environmental Protection Agency program grant under the authority of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, as amended, as do all States and interstate agencies which comply with the qualifying criteria required by the act. Under the amended compact law, State shares have been increased substantially to provide for an expanded program of activities, requiring an equivalent increase in the Federal contribution.

Funds for the transition period will allow the activities of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin to continue at an adequate level.

The Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, a non-Federal agency, was established pursuant to an interstate compact among Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia. The Authority's primary functions are to plan, develop, finance, and provide for the construction and operation of a rail rapid transit system to serve the National Capital area.

In accordance with the National Capital Transportation Act of 1969 (Public Law 91-143) approved December 9, 1969, the Authority has responsibility for the development of a full regional transit system which will extend from a central distributor system into the participating jurisdictions of Maryland and Virginia. The system includes a total areawide network of approximately 98 miles. Under the authorization, the Federal share is two-thirds of the net project cost.

The National Capital Transportation Act of 1969 was amended by Public Law 92-349 dated July 13, 1972, to provide additional funding required by the Authority to meet the costs of severe inflation and delays experienced by the construction industry, and to assure the timely sale of the Authority's revenue bonds. It provides for a Federal guaranty of the Authority's bonds in an amount not to exceed $1.2 billion, conversion of the Authority's bonds from a tax exempt to a taxable security, and payment of an interest subsidy by the Federal Government to the Authority of 25% of the net interest cost. This interest subsidy will be offset by taxes received by the Treasury. It will be sufficient to increase the total amount of bonds sold by $300 million over the $900 million in bonds to be supported by system revenues. As a condition of sale of these additional bonds, the eight participating jurisdictions of Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia will increase their capital contributions by $150 million.

1976 will reflect the peaking of construction work underway for the Rapid Rail Transit System while final design and rights-of-way acquisition will continue at a low level of obligation. Phase II operations will commence during this period in which the Bicentennial celebration of the Nation's founding will also take place. It is expected that a total of 25 stations and 18 miles of transit facilities will be in operation by May 1, 1976 for this occasion with rail travel extending outward from the hub of the system at Metro Center to the National Airport, to the Rhode Island Avenue Station, to Dupont Circle and the Stadium/Armory complex. All of phase IIA will be under construction and rapidly approaching completion. All structural, finish and stage contracts for phases III and IV will be underway as well as all structural and most finish contracts for phase V. Final design for phase VI will be well underway and construction will also have commenced on this phase. The entire length of every route, except the Greenbelt and Branch routes, will be under construction. The 1976 program will involve design contracts covering approximately 12 miles of transit facilities while the construction program will involve approximately 7 miles.

Other accompanying highlights include the following:

1. Rapidly advancing construction toward phase IIA and phase III operations.
2. Commencement of stage contract construction for phase V.
3. Continuing revision of the Authority's design criteria and general specifications to ascertain that both reflect the most up-to-date thinking in the field of rapid transit design and construction.

The 1976 program also provides for the Federal share of providing elevators for the handicapped in the stations which will either be undergoing final design or construction during this fiscal year. Funding for the Federal share in the amount of 80% of total costs not to exceed $65 million was authorized by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973, Public Law 93-87 approved August 13, 1973. The total program for 1976 for providing facilities for the handicapped is $11,900 thousand of which the Federal share is $9,500 thousand.

In order to best maintain the construction schedule upon which costs and revenues are based, and to permit the local participating jurisdictions to plan and carry out the sale of their bonds for the period involved, funds for the Federal share of the 1977 program are requested at this time. Although the advance appropriation of these funds is essential to orderly financial and program planning, they will not become available for obligation until 1977.

The budget estimates for 1976 and 1977 are in accordance with the Authority's financial plan for the Adopted

Regional System approved in 1972. The total program cost, exclusive of costs for debt service during construction was estimated at $2,980,200 thousands.

During the past year, the Authority issued a series of quarterly reports indicating that the persistence of current inflationary pressures and unanticipated delays were generating substantial increases above the estimated system cost. The results of a new net income analysis and capital cost recomputation study, simultaneously underway, have now become available. The resultant reestimate indicates a total system cost of $4,454 million; $1,474 million over the previous estimate.

The currently approved financial plan for the system is as follows:

The Trade Act of 1974 renames the U.S. Tariff Commission the U.S. International Trade Commission and expands some of the Commission's responsibilities. The Tariff Act of 1930 empowers the Commission to investigate and provide reports to the President and Congress on the conditions, causes, and effects of competition between domestic and foreign industry.

Within this general responsibility, the Commission is directed by the Trade Act of 1974, the Trade Expansion Act of 1962, and other statutes to conduct specific types of investigations and, where appropriate, to make findings and recommendations to the executive or the Congress in cases where: Serious injury to industries may warrant increases in duties, the imposition of quotas, or the provision of adjustment assistance; imports of goods sold at less than fair value may injure an industry; imports of agricultural products may materially interfere with certain programs of the Department of Agriculture; unfair methods of competition in the importation or sale of foreign articles may tend to injure an industry in the United States; or foreign governments may have subsidized imports into the United States. The Trade Act of 1974 changes the conditions set by the Trade Expansion Act of 1962 under which industries may qualify for relief and transfers from the Commission the responsibility for investigations dealing with adjustment assistance for individual firms or groups of workers. The new Trade Act provides that the Commission's responsibility regarding unfair import practices be adjudicative and that its determinations thereon be subject to the Administrative Procedures Act.

The Commission provides technical assistance to the U.S. representatives in international trade negotiations. The Commission also publishes the "Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated," which includes both tariff provisions relating to all imported articles and the statistical subdivisions to be used in reporting the commodity composition of imports. The Commission is required by the Trade Act of 1974, in cooperation with other agencies, to study means of making statistics on imports, exports, and production compatible and to participate directly in international efforts to develop a harmonized commodity code suitable for imposition of import duties, the collection of trade data, and documentation of domestic and international transportation. The Trade Act of 1974 also requires the Commission to monitor U.S. trade with nonmarket economy countries and to publish quarterly a detailed summary of the data collected.

In 1976, the United States will be involved in complex multilateral trade negotiations to reduce tariff and non-tariff barriers. Accordingly, the Commission's workload is expected to be heavy. To meet this varying workload, the Commission plans to shift staff assignments and adjust other resources.

The Commission regulates surface transportation in interstate and foreign commerce to the extent that it takes place within the United States.

The Commission has embarked upon an in-depth analysis of its internal operations, practices, and procedures. A select group of highly qualified staff personnel is seeking innovative and streamlined ways in which the Commission can function more efficiently under existing statutes. The group will identify and recommend those procedural and legislative changes it believes would be in the public interest.

The Commission's resources are applied primarily in four major programs.

1. Regulation of carrier rates, practices, operating authorities, and finances.—This program consists of preparing studies and analyses of operating costs for use in rate proceedings; regulating rates; granting operating authorities; approving applications for abandonments and extensions of railroad lines, financial reorganizations, and rate agreements between carriers; reviewing proposed discontinuances of or changes in the operation or service of trains and ferries and formally issuing orders, rules, and regulations. The increase is requested to permit processing of a larger number of rulemaking proceedings and an increasing volume of other noncaseload matters having broad transportation interest and national impact.

3. Supervision and analysis of carrier accounting and statistics.—The Commission is responsible for formulating and policing the uniform systems of accounts; maintaining current inventory and cost records; developing elements of value used in regulating carriers; compiling statistics from carrier reports; and preparing studies of operating, financial and related transportation problems. The increase is requested to increase the frequency schedule for auditing financial records of certain carriers, extend the early warning system to include motor carriers, and operate a financial disclosure program to protect potential investors.

Federal credit unions are privately owned, cooperative associations organized for the purpose of promoting thrift among their members and creating a source of credit for provident or productive purposes, authorized by the Federal Credit Union Act of 1934, as amended.

The Administration finances its activities out of fees for services performed.

The Administration's activities consist of (a) chartering new Federal credit unions, (b) supervising established Federal credit unions, (c) making periodic examinations of their financial condition and operating practices, and (d) providing administrative services. Data relating to activities are shown below.

CREDIT UNION SHARE INSURANCE FUND—Continued

The insurance fund is used to carry out a program of insurance for member accounts in Federal credit unions and State-chartered credit unions which apply and qualify for insurance, authorized by Public Law 91-468, enacted October 19, 1970.

Budget program.—The activities consist of: (a) providing member account insurance, (b) formulating standards and requirements for insured credit unions, and (c) providing for liquidation or other disposition of the assets and liabilities of solvent and insolvent, insured credit unions.

The extent of the program is estimated as follows:

Item	1974 actual	1975 estimate	1976 estimate
Number of insured credit unions.....	14,344	15,225	15,825
Number of insured member accounts (thousands).....	18,496	21,000	24,000
Shares of insured member institutions as of Dec. 31 of the previous calendar year (millions of dollars).....	16,335	19,560	22,840

It is estimated that the fund will assume claims of $3,500 thousand in 1975 and 1976. It is estimated that approximately 2,925 State-chartered credit unions will be enrolled in the program by the end of 1976.

Financing.—Each insured credit union is required to pay a normal premium of one-twelfth of 1% of the total amount of its member accounts. These premiums, estimated approximately 15 million in 1975 and over 17.6 million in 1976 will be sufficient to cover expected expenses and claims in those years. The balance will be held as an insurance reserve, invested in Government interest-bearing securities. The fund is structured to be self-supporting, with $100 million borrowing authority from the Treasury for use in unforeseen emergencies. The authority to borrow from the Treasury will probably not be exercised in 1975 or 1976.

Operating results.—It is recommended that earnings, expected to accumulate to above 59 million by the end of 1976, be retained in the fund.

The purpose of the National Foundation on the Arts and the Humanities is to improve the quality of American life by promoting the arts and humanities through grants and the stimulation of private philanthropy. The Foundation, made up of two operating units, the Endowment for the Arts, and the Endowment for the Humanities, may also receive private gifts which are matched by Federal appropriations.

1. Promotion of the arts.—Grants are made to individuals, institutions, cities, regional groups, and State arts agencies. Programs assist the individual artist, increase citizen participation in the arts, support preservation of our cultural heritage, and expand audiences for the arts. Increased funds will be used to encourage increased giving from private and other sources, to assist major artistic and cultural institutions, to encourage the folk arts, to move into preservation of our cultural heritage, to aid State arts agencies and regional groups, and to increase support for activities relating to the bicentennial celebration.

2. Promotion of the humanities.—Grants are made for research, education, and public activity in the humanities, with emphasis on broad public understanding and discussion of ideas and values. Support is provided for State and community groups, for national dissemination through the media and cultural institutions. In 1976, priority will be given to continuing support for biennially related activities and institutions to carry out needed research and educational reform. These efforts aim at bringing Americans into contact with humanistic thought and improving the quality of knowledge and teaching in the humanities.

The Board resolves representation disputes in industry and remedies and prevents specified unfair labor practices by employers or labor organizations. Case intake in 1974 was 27,726 unfair labor practice cases and 14,647 representation cases. Estimates for unfair labor practice cases in 1975 and 1976 are 30,215 and 32,045, respectively. Representation case estimates are 16,355 for 1975 and 17,195 for 1976.

1. Field investigation.—Charges of unfair labor practice and petitions for elections to resolve representation disputes are investigated by regional office personnel. About 88% of the unfair labor practice cases and about 83% of the representation cases are closed by settlement, dismissal or withdrawal. The remainder are prepared for public hearing. The Agency strives for the voluntary settlement of disputes, and the high incidence of informal settlements achieved thus far is expected to continue in 1976.

2. Administrative law judge hearing.—Administrative law judges conduct public hearings in unfair labor practice cases. Their findings and recommendations are set forth in their decisions. In 1974 there were 1,120 hearings closed, 53 proceedings adjusted after close of hearing, and 1,051 decisions issued. The estimate for 1975 is for 1,200 hearings to be closed, 65 adjusted after hearing and 1,082 decisions. The 1976 estimate is for 1,285 hearings closed, 71 adjusted after hearing and 1,172 decisions.

3. Board adjudication.—In an unfair labor practice case a judge's decision becomes a Board order if no exceptions are filed. About 30% of these decisions become automatic Board orders or are complied with voluntarily. The remainder with exceptions filed require contested Board decision. In 1974, 977 such Board decisions issued; the estimate for 1975 is 977 and for 1976 1,039. In representation cases regional directors initially decide the issues by Board delegation. In 1974 regional directors issued 2,223 such decisions; and the estimate is 2,332 for 1975 and 2,569 in 1976. The Board itself decides representation issues on referral from regional directors or by granting a request for review of a regional director's decision. In 1974 the Board issued 184 representation decisions; and the estimates for 1975 and 1976 are 213 and 270 respectively. The Board also ruled on 359 objections and challenge questions in election cases in 1974; it is estimated that 387 and 414 such rulings will be required in 1975 and 1976.

4. Securing compliance with Board orders.—If the parties do not voluntarily comply with the Board's order involving unfair labor practices, the Board must request the appellate courts to enforce its decisions. In 1974 a total of 269 Board decisions of all kinds required such litigation; the estimate for 1975 is 325 and the estimate for 1976 is 343.

The National Science Foundation (NSF) initiates and supports basic and applied research, science and technology policy research, science education improvement activities, and related scientific programs to promote the progress of science and advance the Nation's health, prosperity, welfare, and security.

The principal emphasis of the NSF's programs in 1976 will be to: (1) strengthen fundamental research in the science disciplines, engineering, and materials with particular emphasis on basic investigations in those areas most likely to contribute to the solution of major domestic problems such as food, minerals, and other nonrenewable resources, and environmental quality; (2) expand and accelerate research on selected problems of national concern, including resources, environment, and productivity; (3) promote international cooperation through science; (4) provide for the development of an adequate scientific manpower base to meet the Nation's needs; and (5) analyze major science, technology, and energy R. & D. policy issues in order to improve the effectiveness of Federal R. & D. programs.

The Foundation transferred lead responsibility for solar and geothermal energy research to ERDA in 1975 in keeping with the concept of the Foundation's program of Research applied to national needs. This program focuses science resources on selected national problems, carrying the research to the point where the projects are ready for major development, demonstration, or utilization by Federal mission agencies, State and local governments, industry and other organizations. The Foundation will maintain an energy research program in 1976 to address special energy research opportunities.

In accordance with Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1973, the responsibilities vested in the Office of Science and Technology were transferred to the Director of NSF on June 30, 1973, and will be continued in 1976.

The major program activities of the Foundation include:

1. Scientific research project support.—This program provides support for research directed at finding answers to unresolved scientific questions concerning fundamental life processes, processes that influence man's environment, and the forces impacting on man as a member of society and on the behavior of societies. It also involves significant research efforts that have great potential for underpinning future technology development and studies that can make important contributions in understanding and resolving problems faced by our economy and society. Expanded thrusts will include energy-related general research, inquiries most likely to have a potential impact on food and materials resources, and support for modern instrumentation.

2. National and special research programs.—These programs include large-scale research efforts to understand the physical environment as a basis for improved environmental management, such as (1) the physical processes of the troposphere and atmosphere, under the Global atmospheric research program; (2) the ocean environment, under the International Decade of Ocean Exploration; (3) the geology below the oceans, in the Ocean sediment coring program; (4) the polar environs, in the Arctic and Antarctic research programs; and (5) global climate processes, under a new Climate dynamics program. Also, they support the Nation's academic research fleet. In 1976, funds are required for the procurement of two ski-equipped aircraft to provide the necessary logistics support to the U.S. Antarctic program. In addition, two special programs, national R. & D. assessment and science information activities, are included.

3. National research centers.—Five NSF-sponsored national research centers support advanced research in astronomy and the atmospheric sciences. These centers provide specialized facilities, equipment, staffing, and operational support which are beyond the capability of single educational or research institutions to provide. The Very Large Array, the most advanced radio astronomy facility in the world, now under construction, is a prime example of an expanded national capability to study the nature of the universe.

4. International cooperative scientific activities.—Support is provided, chiefly for administrative expenses, to permit U.S. scientists and scientific organizations to participate with foreign scientists in international cooperative scientific activities, such as the U.S.-Japan cooperative science program and the U.S.-East Europe cooperative science program. Partial support of exchanges of scientists between the U.S. National Academy of Sciences and the Science and Technology Association of the People's Republic of China is also included.

5. Research applied to national needs (RANN).—This program supports research focused on selected problems of national concern to help provide the scientific knowledge base for their solution. The principal research areas are energy, environment, productivity, resources, and exploratory research and problem assessment. In 1976, the thrust of this research will be on productivity (industrial and public service) and resources including food and materials. Special efforts are continuing to insure that the results of RANN research are being disseminated and utilized.

6. Intergovernmental science and research utilization program.—This activity supports State and local governments in exploring ways to use science and technology to improve the delivery of services and management of resources. It also includes the Experimental R. & D. incentives program to increase understanding of the innovation processes, and supports research utilization efforts to insure the effective use of RANN research results.

7. Institutional improvement for science.—Grants are awarded to provide funds for flexible use by college and university administrators for science needs.

8. Graduate student support.—Support is provided under this program to a limited number of exceptionally talented students on the basis of a national competition, as well as to selected science and engineering graduates and post-doctoral students for training for energy-related work.

9. Science education improvement.—Under this program, NSF supports efforts to improve the development of scientific and technical manpower; increase the general scientific literacy of the American people; increase the effectiveness of the educational process by various means, including the development of innovative uses of computers in education; and perform exploratory research and problem assessment.

10. Planning and policy studies.—This program identifies and analyzes science policy and program issues affecting the NSF and helps provide the data base necessary for decisionmaking.

11. Science advisory activities.—The NSF Director serves as science adviser to the President. Two research programs are carried out in support of the science adviser—science and technology policy studies and energy research and development policy. These activities will be continued in 1976.

The Foundation plans to continue its program activities during the period from July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, essentially at the same level as the corresponding period in 1976. No major new initiatives are planned for the transition period.

The special foreign currency program utilizes U.S.-owned excess currencies in certain foreign countries to support cooperative scientific projects, seminars, and the travel of U.S. and foreign scientists involved in mutually beneficial efforts. In addition, support is provided for the translation, publication, and dissemination of foreign scientific and technical information considered to be of interest to the U.S. scientific community. The Foundation awards grants to both U.S. and foreign institutions and scientists. Payments for this program are made in foreign currencies which the Department of the Treasury determines to be excess to the requirements of the United States.

National and special research programs.—U.S. dollars are advanced from foreign governments as contributions to the cost of the International Phase of Ocean Drilling (IPOD) under the NSF ocean sediment coring program.

Graduate student support.—U.S. dollars are advanced from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) for the NATO fellowships in science program which is administered by NSF at the request of the Department of State. Awards are made to U.S. scientists to study new scientific techniques and developments abroad under this program designed to foster interchange of information among NATO nations. The fellowships enable universities and nonprofit scientific research institutions in the United States to send senior staff members to research and educational institutions in other NATO nations or countries participating in this program. This is designed to strengthen the scientific and research potential of U.S. institutions at advanced levels.

Gifts and donations are used in furtherance of the general purposes of the Foundation.

Authority for these actions is the NSF Act of 1950, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1870).

The National Transportation Safety Board is an independent agency charged with the functions of investigating accidents, conducting special studies, objectively overseeing transportation safety activities, and reviewing on appeal actions against certificates or licenses issued by the Department of Transportation.

1. Aviation accident and safety investigation.—Under this activity the Board investigates all U.S. civil aviation accidents, except for the field phase of investigation which has been delegated to the Federal Aviation Administration for fact-finding purposes; determines accident cause and reports facts and circumstances in all aviation accidents; conducts special studies of aviation safety problems; and develops recommendations to prevent aviation accidents and to promote aviation safety.

2. Surface accident and safety investigation.—Under this activity, which includes highway, marine, railroad, pipeline, and intermodal transportation, the Board investigates selected accidents, determines their probable cause, and reports facts and circumstances of selected surface transportation accidents. The Board also conducts special studies of surface safety problems, and develops recommendations to prevent surface transportation accidents and to promote surface transportation safety.

3. Certificate or license appeal.—Under this activity, the Board reviews on appeal the suspension, amendment, modification, revocation, or denial of any certificate or license that has been issued by the Secretary or an Administrator of the Department of Transportation.

4. Policy and support.—Under this activity is included the formulation and development of policy and program objectives; centralized management, control, and execution of day-to-day operations of the Board's programs; provision of legal advice and assistance to the Board's components; and provision of information concerning the Board's activities.

An appropriation of $2,593 million is required for the period July 1, 1976, to September 30, 1976.

<sup>1</sup> This overall budget structure has been established on a basis which is responsive to the enabling legislation. Since it was to be established before appointment of NRC Commissioners, it should be viewed as temporary and not necessarily reflecting the ultimate budget structure, organizational alignment, or functional placement of activities within NRC.

<sup>2</sup> Includes $77,941 in 1974 and $84,025 in 1975 for activities transferred from Operating Expenses, Atomic Energy Commission, and $4,226 in 1974 and $5,200 in 1975 for activities transferred from Plant and Capital Equipment, Atomic Energy Commission, pursuant to Public Law 93-438.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission was established as an independent agency January 19, 1975, pursuant to the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974 and the first three numbered categories in the above schedule of program by activities correspond to the three principal offices established by that act. The purpose of the Commission program is to carry out its statutory responsibilities for assuring that the possession, use, and disposal of radioactive materials and the construction and operation of nuclear reactors and other nuclear fuel cycle facilities are conducted in a manner consistent with public health and safety and the common defense and security, with proper regard for environmental quality, and in conformance with antitrust statutes. These responsibilities are specified in the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974, the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended; the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA); and the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, as amended by the Water Quality Improvement Act of 1970. This budget also provides funds for the transition period (July 1, 1976-September 30, 1976) for continuation of ongoing NRC programs.

The Commission's program is comprised of nuclear facility and materials licensing and related regulatory functions, inspection and enforcement, standards setting, reactor safety research, and legal and administrative support activities transferred from the predecessor Atomic Energy Commission; and new programs and studies directed by the Energy Reorganization Act. These new activities include confirmatory assessment research involving areas not covered by the reactor safety research program; nuclear material protection (safeguards) analytical research, a security agency study; and an energy center site survey effort. A summary of the transfers from the AEC and the new program is shown below:

Former AEC regulation activities.....	53,921	71,033	88,596
Former AEC reactor safety research program and other transfers.....	50,837	62,674	84,476
New NRC administrative and research activities.....			23,900
Total NRC program.....	104,758	133,707	196,972

1. Nuclear reactor regulation.—This activity covers safety, environmental impact, safeguards, and antitrust licensing activities and related functions pertaining to nuclear powerplants; and for recommending research related thereto. It also includes the NRC standards program and the inspection and enforcement programs for nuclear powerplants as well as all other nuclear fuel cycle facilities such as fuel enrichment, fabrication and reprocessing plants and for nuclear materials.

Private sector participation is a significant adjunct to the NRC standards effort.

The 1976 increase is primarily directed toward the continuing rise in the number of nuclear powerplants in operation or being built; the need to provide increased effort on standard setting and safeguards inspections; and the implementation of recommended improvements throughout the inspection program.

Costs for this activity are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Powerplant licensing.....	24,415	28,453	33,349
Standards setting.....	3,827	6,680	11,142
Inspection and enforcement.....	12,433	16,323	20,788

2. Nuclear materials safety and safeguards.—This activity covers that part of the predecessor AEC's regulatory functions involving nuclear fuels and materials licensing. It also includes the resources for a national energy center site survey and the assessment of the need for and feasibility of a safeguards security agency.

3. Nuclear regulatory research.—This activity includes experimental and analytical programs to provide an improved capability to predict the safety of nuclear reactors, and large experiments designed to proof-test the predictions of reactor safety.

In 1976 primary emphasis will be placed upon obtaining data necessary to understand phenomena to be dealt with in reactor safety analysis, and upon development of independent fast reactor and gas reactor safety assessment programs.

The 1976 effort also includes an expanded safeguards analytical research effort and new evaluative and experimental programs to cover environmental and safety aspects of other nuclear fuel cycle facilities, transportation of special nuclear materials and storage of high-level radioactive wastes.

4. Program direction and administration.—This activity includes the salaries and other costs of the Commissioners, the Office of the Executive Director for Operations, and staff engaged in support of the Commission's policy and executive direction functions. It also covers the staff engaged in a variety of administrative, financial, general management, and housekeeping functions in support of overall NRC operations. Legal services (Office of General Counsel), licensing boards and the Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards are also included in this budget activity.

The Review Commission, established by the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970, is a forum for the adjudication of contested enforcement actions instituted by the Secretary of Labor. The Commission holds fact-finding hearings and issues orders affirming, modifying, or vacating the Secretary's enforcement actions.

The amounts proposed for the transition period will support activities and workload at the 1976 level.

The Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation was established by Public Law 92-578, October 27, 1972 (86 Stat. 1266), to plan for and redevelop the area along the north side of Pennsylvania Avenue between the Capitol and the White House. It is governed by a 15-member Board of Directors, comprised of seven Federal and District Government representatives and eight individuals appointed by the President from private life. The Corporation has completed preparation of a comprehensive plan for the designated area and submitted the plan to Congress for the statutory review period on November 19, 1974.

The annual appropriation for salaries and expenses finances administration and operation of the Corporation itself, its staff, and Board of Directors. The financing includes costs for executive and legal management, detailed project planning and construction supervision, and economic and financial management of development.

In accordance with the reorganization mandated under the Postal Reorganization Act, the President under section 2009 of title 39, United States Code, has directed that starting with 1974 the operations of the U.S. Postal Service will be excluded from the U.S. budget. This step recognizes the independent status of the U.S. Postal Service. The transactions of the U.S. Postal Service will appear in Part IV of the Appendix under Annexed Budgets.

U.S. POSTAL SERVICE APPROPRIATION REQUEST

This appropriation is for the purpose of reimbursing the U.S. Postal Service for public service costs and loss in revenue associated with revenue foregone on free and reduced-rate mail, pursuant to 39 U.S.C. 2401 (b) and (c), and for transitional costs pursuant to 39 U.S.C. 2004. The $58,913 thousand requested for previously unfunded liabilities of the former Post Office Department provides $27,913 thousand to cover payments to the Employees' compensation fund for 1976 for injuries to postal employees which occurred prior to July 1, 1971, and $31 million to cover one-twelfth of the $372,796,423 in earned and unused annual leave balances due postal employees on June 30, 1971, from the former Post Office Department. The $92,500 thousand requested for Public Law 93-328 and the $129,913 thousand requested for regular rate third-class is for revenue foregone before further rate increases. The $42 million associated with Public Law 93-328, the $185,087 thousand associated with regular rate third-class, and the $278,728 thousand associated with all other revenue foregone are requested in compliance with Public Law 91-375 and will provide revenues associated with a proposed postage rate increase in 1976. An amount of $600,398,000 is requested for the transition period from July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.

This appropriation provides for payments from Federal funds to the railroad retirement account for certain costs not financed by contributions from workers and employers. The cost categories are as follows:

1. Military Service credits.—Railroad workers entering military service may have such service credited toward benefits under the railroad retirement system under certain conditions. The last of 10 yearly installments on the amount due the railroad retirement account for certain creditable military service through June 1963 was appropriated in 1974 and $3,516 thousand requested for 1975 to provide for an adjustment of interest due the railroad retirement account. No amount is requested for 1976.

2. Payment for dual benefits.—This is the first request for appropriations authorized by the Railroad Retirement Act of 1974 to cover the cost of the windfall portion of benefits received by persons covered by both the railroad retirement system and the social security system, until the windfall can be phased out.

Because the social security benefit formula heavily favors persons with short periods of service and low earnings, persons acquiring eligibility under both systems generally receive a substantial windfall. Under financial arrangements between the two systems, the excess costs resulting from the windfall have been borne by the railroad retirement system and have been a material factor contributing to its financial problems. The windfall benefits will be phased out starting January 1, 1974. While being phased out, the cost of windfall benefits is to be financed by general fund appropriations to the railroad retirement system.

The Railroad Retirement Act of 1974 authorizes annual appropriations on a level cost basis from 1976 through the year 2000 for costs of phasing out the windfall portion of dual benefits. Actuarial estimates of the gross level annual amount required is $285 million. This amount is for reduction by the level annual gain expected from the new investment policy authorized by that act for the railroad retirement account. This annual gain is estimated at $35 million, which is offset against the $285 million and results in a net first annual appropriation request of $250 million.

REGIONAL RAIL TRANSPORTATION PROTECTIVE ACCOUNT

For payment of benefits under section 509 of the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973, to remain available until expended, including not to exceed $100,000 for payment to the Railroad Retirement Board for administrative expenses, $55,100,000.

For "Regional rail transportation protective account" for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, to remain available until expended, including not to exceed $30,000 for payment to the Railroad Retirement Board for administrative expenses, $10,030,000. (Public Law 93-236.)

The Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973 provides for various benefits to protected employees adversely affected in the establishment of the Midwest and North-east rail system provided by that act. The payment of all allowances, expenses, and costs provided protected employees will be made by the Consolidated Rail Corporation, the United States Railway Association (where applicable), and acquiring railroads, as the case may be. These organizations upon certification to the Railroad Retirement Board of the amounts paid to protected employees then will be reimbursed for such amounts by the Board. The act authorizes appropriations to the Board for this purpose up to the aggregate sum of $250 million. The appropriation requests of $55 million for 1976 and $10 million for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, are to cover the estimated benefits to be paid in those periods. Administrative expenses of the Railroad Retirement Board in handling that function are estimated to be $100 thousand in 1976 and $30 thousand in the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.

Under the railroad retirement system, railroad workers and employers pay taxes on wages to finance the payment of annuities for age and disability and benefits for survivors and to finance the cost of hospital insurance benefits. These taxes are deposited in the Railroad retirement account and invested in Government securities. The portion of these taxes which finances hospital insurance benefits is transferred to the Federal hospital insurance trust fund under the financial interchange provisions governing the railroad retirement and social security systems.

Supplemental annuities also are paid to certain employees in addition to the regular annuities. This program is financed by a tax paid by employers on each man-hour of paid employment. These taxes are deposited in the Railroad retirement supplemental account and invested in Government securities.

The Railroad Retirement Act of 1974 completely restructured the railroad retirement system. The status of these trust funds is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Income.—The income of the Railroad retirement accounts consists of taxes paid by railroad employers and employees; interest on investments; appropriations for military service credits; payments from the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund, the Federal disability insurance trust fund, and the Federal regional rail transportation protective account, and appropriations for dual benefits while they are being phased out under the provision of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1974. The railroad retirement system has a reinsurance arrangement of annual financial interchanges with the social security system so as to place that system in the same position in which it would have been if railroad employment had been included in social security coverage.

Because the social security benefit formula heavily favors persons with short periods of service and low earnings, persons acquiring eligibility under both that system and the railroad retirement system generally receive a substantial windfall in the total benefits they receive. Under financial arrangements between the two systems, the excess costs resulting from the windfall have been borne by the railroad retirement system. The windfall benefits will be phased out starting January 1, 1974. While being phased out, the cost of windfall benefits is to be financed by general fund appropriations to the railroad retirement system.

1. Retirement, disability, and survivor benefit payments.—Payment estimates reflect the increases in benefit rates provided by law and for certain liberalizations in eligibility requirements provided by the Railroad Retirement Act of 1974.

2. Administrative expenses.—Such expenses are subject to annual limitations in appropriation acts (see Limitation on salaries and expenses).

3. Transfers to and from Railroad unemployment insurance account.—The Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act provides that when the balance in the Railroad unemployment insurance account is insufficient to pay benefits due under that act, necessary amounts are to be borrowed from the Railroad retirement account. Full repayment of a small remaining borrowed amount was made to the Railroad retirement account with interest in 1974.

4. Payment to Federal hospital insurance trust fund.—Portion of taxes which finances hospital insurance benefits is for payment to the Federal hospital insurance trust fund, since payments of hospital benefits for railroad retirement beneficiaries are made from that fund.

5. Payment to Railroad unemployment insurance account.—Under section 10(h) of the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act as amended in 1968, the Board is required to reimburse the unemployment insurance account for certain sickness benefits paid to employees who could otherwise, under specified conditions, have received disability annuities under the Railroad Retirement Act for the same periods. This payment was discontinued by the Railroad Retirement Act of 1974.

Period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976.—Receipts for this period are estimated at $480,430 thousand and outlays at $902,430. Receipts for this period are disproportionately low because much of the income of the Railroad retirement account is received on an annual and semiannual basis.

The Board administers an unemployment and sickness insurance system and an employment service for unemployed railroad workers. Administrative expenses are financed through a permanent authorization of 0.25% of taxable payroll. As of each June 30, the unobligated balance in this fund in excess of $6 million is transferred to the Railroad unemployment insurance account in the unemployment trust fund (45 U.S.C. 361).

1. Maintenance of earnings accounts.—Insurance payments for unemployment and sickness benefits are based on individual records of earnings and daily wage rates; and the workload fluctuates according to such factors as level of employment and rate of turnover in the railroad industry. The costs are shared on a measured basis with the retirement program. Accounts posted are estimated at 750,000 in 1976.

2. Processing of unemployment insurance claims.—Workers' claims for unemployment compensation are filed locally and certified for payment through the headquarters offices. Unemployment claims receipts are estimated to be 457,000 in 1976.

3. Processing of sickness claims.—These claims are filed by mail and certified for payment through the headquarters offices of the Board. Sickness claims receipts are estimated to be $518 thousand in 1976.

4. Claimant placement services.—The Board conducts an employment service for unemployment benefit claimants. Savings of benefit payments of approximately $670 thousand are expected in 1976 from the placement of approximately 3,500 claimants in jobs.

5. Administration.—The costs of administration are shared between this and the retirement program on a measured basis.

The Board administers the Railroad Retirement Act which provides a program for the payment of regular annuities for age and disability and benefits for survivors, financed by taxes paid by employers and employees. The Board also participates in the administration of the hospital and medical insurance programs for persons covered by the Railroad Retirement Act for which it is reimbursed in part by the Social Security Administration.

The Board also administers a program for the payment of supplemental annuities under certain conditions to career railroad workers awarded regular retirement annuities after June 1966, financed by a tax paid by employers based on the number of man-hours for which they pay compensation. The supplemental annuity paid to employees is in addition to the regular railroad retirement annuity.

1. Maintenance of earnings accounts.—Eligibility for retirement and the amount of benefits paid are based on individual records of earnings, and the workload fluctuates according to such factors as level of employment, and rate of turnover in the railroad industry. Accounts posted are estimated at 750,000 in 1976. The costs are shared on a measured basis with the railroad unemployment insurance program.

2. Processing claims.—This activity includes the work of processing annuity claims and establishing eligibility of persons for health and medical insurance benefits. New applications are estimated to be 155,000 in 1976 and total claims dispositions, including reopened cases, are estimated to be 280,000.

3. Maintenance of beneficiary rolls.—Benefit payments must be authorized each month for those persons on the rolls who continue to remain eligible. The number of persons on the rolls receiving monthly benefit payments will increase from 985,000 at the end of 1974 to an estimated 1,000,000 at the end of 1976. The number of persons also receiving supplemental annuities will increase from 116,000 at the end of 1974 to 140,000 at the end of 1976.

4. Administration.—The cost of administration is shared between the retirement and the railroad unemployment insurance programs on a measured basis.

The Board conducts renegotiation proceedings with contractors and subcontractors to determine and eliminate excessive profits on defense and space contracts and related subcontracts. Certain contracts are excluded from renegotiation. Among the mandatory exemptions in the act are those exempting contracts and subcontracts for raw materials or agricultural commodities, contracts and subcontracts with common carriers, public utilities, and tax-exempt organizations, competitively bid construction contracts, and prime contracts which the Board determines do not have a direct and immediate connection with the national defense. In addition to mandatory exemptions the Board itself is authorized to exempt certain contracts or subcontracts from renegotiation.

The act provides that a report must be filed with the Board by every contractor or subcontractor having receipts or accruals in a fiscal year which exceed $1 million ($25,000 in the case of brokers and manufacturers' agents) from contracts or subcontracts subject to the act. Contractors whose renegotiable sales are below the $1 million "floor" may file a statement of nonapplicability, if they so desire, but they are not required to do so.

1. General management and support staff.—The Statutory Board is responsible for final action in all cases, including the screening of contractors' filings and the handling of requests for exemptions. It also establishes policy, formulates rules and procedures, issues regulations and provides information material to the public. The support staff provides administrative management, legal, and program analysis and planning services to the Board and to the headquarters and regional staffs.

2. Headquarters operations.—The headquarters operations staff assists the Board in the formulation of policy, gives technical guidance and coordinates the activities of the field organization, and assists the Board in completing certain cases which have been processed in the field. This staff also obtains and examines filings of contractors to determine acceptability, and analyzes filings in the screening process for the purpose of determining which cases can be cleared without assignment to the field.

3. Regional board operations.—The two regional boards conduct renegotiation proceedings and make determinations and recommendations. Each is authorized to conclude cases involving $800 thousand or less of renegotiable profits; however, determinations in such cases may be appealed to the Statutory Board. All determinations in cases involving more than $800 thousand renegotiable profits are subject to approval by the Statutory Board.

The primary purpose of the Commission is to protect the interests of the investing public.

1. Full disclosure.—Issuers of securities for public sale are required to file a registration statement and related prospectus containing significant information about the issuer and the offering with the Commission. This is to insure that investors will be provided with the material facts concerning security offerings. Certain provisions of the Securities Act Amendments enacted August 20, 1964, extend to investors in certain over-the-counter securities the same protections afforded to those in listed securities: namely, registration of classes of securities; annual and periodic company reporting; regulation of proxy solicitation; and restriction upon "insider" trading.

3. Supervision and regulation of securities markets.—National securities exchanges and over-the-counter markets are regulated in the interest of maintaining just and equitable principles of trade for the protection of the public investors. One of the purposes of the Securities Acts Amendments of 1964 is, through Commission regulation, to have nonmembers of the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASD) in the same regulatory position as NASD brokers and dealers.

The 1976 program adjustments include the development of alternate contingency processing procedures designed to increase the System's capability to meet Department of Defense manpower requirements in a major military crisis should existing procedures prove inadequate. Local board operations will be phased down while a new standby system is tested. Under this new system an annual registration will be implemented and evaluated in 1976. Classification activity will be deferred until induction authority is requested by the President. These changes will be designed to permit operating cost savings beginning in the transition period. The savings are offset to some extent by additional funds required to administer the reconciliation service program for returned Vietnam era draft resisters and deserters.

1. Service to registrants.—This activity includes registering, classifying, selecting, inducting when authorized, and providing service to registrants including information. Over 47,000 uncompensated citizens, including the members of local and appeal boards, registrars and advisers to registrants, help provide service to registrants.

2. Examination services.—Funds are provided for the travel expenses of men classified as conscientious objectors and serving in alternate service assignments.

3. General and administrative.—Personnel administration, financial management, logistics, and other administrative services are provided to support the operational programs.

4. Executive direction.—This activity includes top policy-making officials, heads of major divisions at national headquarters, and State directors.

5. Special programs.—Funds are provided for the utilization of 850 Reserve and National Guard officers during their active duty training sessions and scheduled training drills. These officers comprise the Selective Service Reserve Mobilization Force to augment the System should a national emergency arise.

6. Reconciliation service.—Personnel support and travel expenses for persons enrolled in the reconciliation service program are provided by this activity.

The Small Business Administration counsels, assists, and protects the interest of small business, and provides aid to business firms and homeowners who have suffered losses through disasters. These efforts are conducted through the following activities:

1. Procurement and management assistance.—The objectives of this activity are (a) to insure that a fair proportion of Government contracts for purchases of supplies and services, including research and development, and for the sale and disposal of property, be placed with small business enterprises, (b) to provide technical and management assistance through management courses, and counseling on new and improved products and processes, and (c) to provide for greater involvement of disadvantaged and minority contractors in the Federal procurement program through the use of the authority contained in section 8(a) of the Small Business Act, as amended. This section enables the Agency to act as prime contractor to provide goods and services to other Government agencies and in turn arrange for performance of such contracts by negotiating or otherwise letting subcontracts to small business concerns.

2. Research contracts.—Research studies designed to reveal matters materially affecting the competitive strength of small business and the effect on small business of Federal laws, programs, and regulations are financed under this activity.

3. Economic opportunity management assistance.—As authorized by section 7(j) of the Small Business Amendment Act of 1974, SBA will contract for professional management training and support of small business entrepreneurs in areas with high concentrations of unemployed or low income individuals to (1) establish the management training, counseling, and support needs of firms in target areas, (2) identify business opportunities in these areas and (3) determine the feasibility and profit potential of proposed business development to be located in such areas.

Funds for these three activities are provided by direct appropriation.

4. Financial assistance.—The activity comprises:

(a) Business loans.—This includes loans and financial counseling to business concerns, businesses displaced because of federally aided construction, businesses eligible under section 7(i) of the Small Business Act and those loans to the handicapped or nonprofit organizations hiring the handicapped under section 7(h) of the Small Business Act. The program for 1976 is projected as follows:

	Number	Millions of dollars
Section 7(a) business loans.....	18,938	1,503.0
Section 7(h) handicap loans.....	311	38.2
Economic opportunity loans.....	6,319	139.1
Displaced business loans.....	74	10.2

(b) Development company loans.—This covers (a) efforts to encourage private lending institutions to expand their role in the economic development of their respective States and (b) loans to State and local development companies to enable them to provide the long-term capital—equity and loans—to small businesses. It is estimated that 530 loans in the amount of $75.7 million will be made in 1976.

(c) Disaster loans.—This provides financial assistance on favorable terms to victims of natural disasters for rehabilitation of property damaged or destroyed. Also included under this activity are loans to small firms to enable them to comply with new health and safety standards (involving changes in equipment, facilities, or methods of operation) imposed by a number of Federal statutes or State laws enacted in conformity therewith, such as the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969, the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970, the Egg Products Inspection Act, the Wholesome Poultry Products Act, the Wholesome Meat Act of 1967, and the Federal Water Pollution Control Act. Similar loans are also authorized for any small firm likely to suffer substantial economic injury as the result of any international agreement limiting the development of strategic arms or the installation of strategic arms or strategic arms facilities.

5. Investment company assistance and supervision.—In order to stimulate and supplement the flow of private capital to small business concerns, the Small Business Administration is authorized to (a) license, regulate, and examine small business investment companies, and (b) provide funds to such companies for financing small business firms. The program level for 1976 is estimated at $170.0 million.

6. Lease and surety bond guarantees.—(a) Lease guarantees.—In order to enable small businesses to compete on an equal basis with financially strong businesses in the leasing of facilities in shopping centers and other business properties the Small Business Administration is empowered to guarantee the payment of rentals under leases of commercial and industrial property entered into by small business concerns. The program level for 1976 is estimated at 460 guarantees for $180 million (aggregate rent).

(b) Surety bond guarantees.—In order to enable small firms, primarily minority owned, to obtain bid, performance, and payment bonds otherwise denied them through asserted lack of financial and other capability, the Small Business Administration is authorized to guarantee sureties against losses resulting from the breaching of such bonds by small contractors who were furnished bonds by the sureties under the provisions of this program. SBA's guarantee is 90% of the loss under contracts not exceeding $1 million in amount. The program level (contracts insured) for 1976 is estimated at 12,400 for $833 million.

Funds for the administrative support of the above activities are transferred from the appropriate revolving funds.

The transition period estimates for program levels, administrative, and other related expenses and costs have been held to approximately one-quarter of the 1976 estimates. Agencywide for this period, budget authority is estimated at $11 million.

Public Law 89-409, approved May 2, 1966, established this fund as of July 1, 1966, to finance loan programs and prime contracting activity performed pursuant to sections 7(a), 7(b)(3), 7(e), 7(h), 7(i), and 8(a) of the Small Business Act, as amended, and titles III and V of the Small Business Investment Act of 1958, as amended. Administrative, interest, and other related expenses are also financed from this fund.

While no ceiling on authorized appropriations is specified, a limitation of $7.25 billion has been placed on the amount of loans and commitments (reservations) which may be outstanding at any time. This ceiling is composed of separate limitations on outstanding amounts as follows (in millions of dollars):

Business loans (including a limitation of $450 million on economic opportunity loans <sup>1</sup> ).....	6,000
Development company loans.....	525

*Capital outlay.—1. Financial assistance.—Business loans (sec. 7(a), Small Business Act).—*Funds may be loaned to business concerns which are not dominant in their fields. To such small businesses, loans may be made directly or in participation with banks or other lending institutions, and shall be of such sound value or so secured as reasonably to assure repayment. No loan may be made unless the financial assistance is not otherwise available on reasonable terms. No direct loan may be made unless it is shown that a bank participation is not available and no loan on an immediate participation basis may be made unless it is shown that a guaranteed loan is not available. Under the guaranty plan, the Small Business Administration agrees to purchase the guaranteed portion of the loan only upon default.

The agency's share of an immediate participation or guaranteed loan is limited to 90%. Its maximum outstanding loan and/or commitment to any one borrower is limited by statute to $350 thousand.

In addition to the estimated direct loan levels presented for 1976, a further $100 million is expected to be requested for 7(a) direct loans upon enactment of legislation to provide for an interest rate on such loans which will recover the full cost to the Government of the direct loan program.

It is estimated that guaranteed loans for $1.2 billion will be approved in 1976.

*Business loans (sec. 7(h), Small Business Act).—*The Small Business Investment Act Amendments of 1972, signed into law on October 27, 1972, added a section to the Small Business Act authorizing loans to handicapped persons operating or establishing small business, and to nonprofit organizations hiring the handicapped.

Funds may be loaned to any one borrower up to a maximum of $350 thousand for 15 years.

*Business loans (sec. 7(i), Small Business Act).—*The Small Business Administration administers a program of financial assistance to small business concerns and to qualified persons seeking to establish such concerns. Loans may be on a direct, immediate participation, or guaranteed basis for up to $50 thousand, for a maximum term of 15 years.

BUSINESS LOAN AND INVESTMENT FUND—Continued

The credit and collateral requirements are more flexible than those applicable to 7(a) business loans and provision for management training is made an integral part of the program. It is estimated that $129 million in loans will be approved in 1976.

Displaced business loans.—Pursuant to authority provided in the Housing Act of 1961, loans are made to small firms that suffer substantial economic injury as a result of being forced to move by federally aided urban renewal, highway, and other construction programs or as a result of being adjacent, or near, a federally aided construction project.

Through June 30, 1974, a total of 3,478 displaced business loans for $342.3 million had been approved. Approvals during 1974 were 309.

Development company loans.—The Small Business Administration lends funds to State and local development companies pursuant to sections 501 and 502 of the Small Business Investment Act, as amended. Funds are made available to State development companies for general use purposes under section 501 and State and local development companies for plant construction, conversion, or expansion, including the acquisition of land, under section 502.

2. Investment company assistance.—A primary function of small business investment companies is to provide a source of needed equity capital for small concerns. To encourage the formation and growth of such investment companies, the Small Business Investment Act, as amended, authorizes the Small Business Administration to purchase, or to guarantee the timely payment of all principal and interest as scheduled on, debentures issued by such companies. The Small Business Investment Act Amendments of 1972, approved October 27, 1972 (Public Law 92-595), authorize in addition the purchase of preferred securities (shares of nonvoting stock or other securities having similar characteristics) from small business investment companies operating under authority of new section 301(d) wherein the investment policy of such companies will be to make investments solely in small concerns owned and operated by disadvantaged persons.

Debentures purchased or guaranteed by the Small Business Administration shall be subordinate to any other debenture bonds, promissory notes, or other debts and obligations of such companies, unless the Administration determines otherwise in the exercise of reasonable investment prudence. The amount of debentures which may be purchased or guaranteed, or preferred securities which may be purchased, and outstanding at any one time from a company, depends on the amount of combined private paid-in capital and paid-in surplus of such company, but in no event may exceed $20 million for other than 301(d) companies.

Operating costs.—Interest expense.—Pursuant to section 4(c) of the Small Business Act, interest is payable into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury on outstanding cash disbursements from the fund. The interest rate or rates applicable to each year's disbursements are determined at the beginning of the year by the Secretary of the Treasury, taking into consideration of current average yields on outstanding interest-bearing marketable public debt obligations of the United States of comparable maturities. For interest computation purposes, collections of interest and principal on unpledged loans and other receipts to the fund are applied against the earliest year's disbursements still outstanding. The rates set by the Secretary of the Treasury for disbursements in 1975 are 7½% for 7(a) business, State development company and economic opportunity loans, 7½% for SBIC loans and/or debentures, 8½% for displaced business and 8% for local development company loans.

Interest is payable to the holders of participation certificates at specified rates set at the time of sale. Interest collections on pledged loans are remitted to the trustee for the purpose of paying such interest as it comes due. To the extent that the interest rates on certificates exceed the interest rates on pledged loans, the collections of interest on pledged loans will be insufficient to meet the interest payable on the certificates. Appropriations for this insufficiency are authorized, as is discussed in detail below under the heading participation sales insufficiencies.

Administrative expense.—Expenses for the loan program financed by this revolving fund are financed by transfer of funds to the appropriation, salaries and expenses. Use of these funds for salaries, travel, and related expenses is accordingly reflected in the schedules for that appropriation account.

Financing.—This fund was capitalized by transfer of an applicable portion of the assets, liabilities, and unexpended balance of the Revolving fund, Small Business Administration on July 1, 1966, and by transfer of the unexpended balance of appropriations previously made for the trade adjustment assistance loans. Appropriations are authorized to be made to the fund as additional capital to the extent required to carry out the authorized functions.

In lieu of appropriations, additional capital funds required in the several years prior to 1971 were provided by the sale of participations in loan pools. Of the $1.35 billion of such participation certificates sold, $1,117.2 million was allocated to this fund, of which $354.6 million remained outstanding on June 30, 1974. Beginning in 1971, capital funds required have been provided by appropriations. It is estimated that a capital appropriation of $150 million will be required in 1976 to provide sufficient resources to finance the planned program levels for that year.

Participation sales insufficiencies.—In respect to participation sales as discussed immediately above, the Participation Sales Act of 1966, authorized appropriations without fiscal year limitation of such sums as may be necessary to permit trustor agency to pay the trustee such insufficiency as the trustee may require on account of outstanding participations. The authority is not applicable to the 1966 sales in the predecessor fund. An insufficiency results primarily from the fact that the interest rate on participation certificates exceeds the interest rate on the loans pledged in support of the respective participations.

A permanent appropriation in such amount as may prove necessary each year was provided in the Independent Offices Appropriation Act of 1967, in connection with participation sales of $850 million as were authorized by that act. However, for each of the years 1968 through 1975, the Congress provided annual appropriations for any insufficiency arising from the $150 million sales authority provided in the agency's appropriation act.

Operating results.—The fund will continue to operate at a deficit. Interest and fee income will not be sufficient to cover interest, administrative, and other expenses, and a provision for estimated losses. Primarily this reflects the excess of interest expense rates over interest income rates and the cost of servicing an expanding number of widely scattered loans which are relatively small in size.

An additional factor which will further increase the deficit of the fund in 1975 and 1976 is the cost differential on section 8(a) contracts. In expanding the use of the section 8(a) prime contracting authority to bring more minority firms into the Government procurement process, it is anticipated there will be many instances in which the program objectives will justify a payment to the minority subcontractor in excess of an apparent competitive market price to the procuring agency. This differential reflects such things as added startup, labor and/or material costs applicable to the particular firm and circumstances involved.

Public Law 89-409, approved May 2, 1966, established this fund as of July 1, 1966, to finance disaster loans made pursuant to sections 7(b), 7(f), and 7(g) of the Small Business Act, as amended, other than those to displaced businesses made under section 7(b)(3). Administrative, interest, and other related expenses are also financed from this fund.

No limitation exists on the amount of loans and commitments (reservations) which may be outstanding at any one time from the fund. Actual and estimated outstanding disaster loans and reservations at the end of each year are as follows (in millions of dollars):

Guaranteed loans disbursed by banks....	6.3	6.3	6.3

Total loans and reservations .....	1,518.2	1,463.1	1,448.1

The maximum term for a physical disaster loan is 30 years, and the maximum interest rate is 5%. Through June 30, 1974, a total of 509,961 disaster loans for $3,350 million had been approved. Approvals during 1974 were 51,049 loans for $369.9 million.

The estimate for physical disaster loans is $140 million in 1975 and $60 million in 1976. The estimate for non-physical disaster loans is $60 million in 1975. It is expected that $100 million will be requested for nonphysical disaster loans in 1976, upon enactment of legislation to provide for an interest rate on such loans which will recover the full cost to the Government of those loans. This is reflected in the schedule proposed for later transmittal, proposed legislation.

Interest expense.—Pursuant to section 4(c) of the Small Business Act, interest is payable into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury on outstanding cash disbursements from the fund. The rate set by the Secretary of the Treasury for disbursements in 1975 is 8% for nonphysical disaster loans, and 8½% for physical disaster loans.

Interest is payable to the holders of participation certificates at specified rates set at the time of sale. Interest collections on pledged loans are remitted to the trustee for purposes of paying such interest as it comes due. To the extent that the interest rates on certificates exceeds the interest rate on pledged loans, the collections of interest on pledged loans will be insufficient to meet the interest payable on the certificates. Appropriations for this insufficiency are authorized, as is discussed in detail below under the heading "Participation sales insufficiencies."

Administrative expense.—Administrative expenses for this program are financed by transfer of funds from the revolving fund to the appropriation, salaries and expenses. Use of these funds for salaries, travel, and related expenses is accordingly reflected in the schedules for that appropriation account.

Financing.—Appropriations are authorized to be made to the fund as capital to the extent required to carry out the authorized functions. Beginning in 1970, capital funds required have been provided by appropriations. A capital appropriation is not requested for 1976.

Participation sales insufficiencies.—In respect to participation sales as discussed immediately above, the Participation Sales Act of 1966 authorized appropriations without fiscal year limitation of such sums as may be necessary to permit any trustor agency to pay the trustee such insufficiency as the trustee may require on account of outstanding participations. This authority is not applicable to the sales in the predecessor fund. An insufficiency results primarily from the fact that the interest rate on participation certificates exceeds the interest rate on the loans pledged in support of the respective participations.

A permanent appropriation in such amount as may prove necessary each year was provided in the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967, in connection with participation sales of $850 million as were authorized by that act. However, for 1968 through 1975, the Congress has provided annual appropriations for any insufficiency arising from the $150 million sales authority provided in the Agency's 1968 appropriations applicable entirely to the Business loan and investment fund.

Public Law 93-386, the Small Business Amendment Act of 1974, established this fund to finance the lease guarantees program. Administrative and other related expenses are also financed from this fund.

The lease guarantees program is designed to provide prime space for those small business firms which cannot compete with prospective tenants with AAA ratings. In order to make the program self-sustaining, lessees pay an insurance premium based on sound actuarial computations, but not in excess of 2½% of the lease amount.

It is estimated that 450 commitments for an aggregate rental guarantee of $180 million will be made in 1976 as compared to 400 for $160 million in 1975.

Public Law 93-386, the Small Business Amendment Act of 1974, established this fund to finance the Surety bond guarantees program. Administrative and other related expenses are also financed from this fund.

The Surety bond guarantees program is designed to assist contractors in obtaining a larger share of municipal, State, Federal, and private contracts. The Small Business Administration will guarantee reimbursement of up to 90% of the losses sustained by a surety company as a result of the issuance of a bid, payment, and/or performance bond to a small business concern on a contract up to $1 million.

It is estimated that surety bond guarantees will be made in connection with 12,400 contracts totaling $833 million in 1976 compared to 13,000 for $867 million in 1975.

The transition period estimate for the Surety bond guarantees program has been held to approximately one quarter of the 1976 program estimate.

The Smithsonian Institution maintains public exhibits representative of the arts, American history, aeronautics and astronautics, technology, anthropology, geology, and biology including living animal exhibits; acquires and preserves for reference and study purposes millions of items of scientific, cultural, and historic importance; conducts research in the natural and physical sciences and in the history of cultures, technology, and the arts; presents performances of American arts and crafts; has education programs at all levels; and participates in the exchange of scientific information.

The Institution is responsible for the operation and maintenance of 10 major exhibition buildings, including the recently acquired Hillwood estate; a zoological park; a preservation and storage facility at Silver Hill, Md.; a conference center at Elkridge, Md.; 2 natural preserves, in Panama and on the Chesapeake Bay; an observatory on Mount Hopkins, Ariz.; and supporting administrative, laboratory, and storage areas. Visitor attendance to buildings on and off the Mall, including the National Zoological Park, totaled almost 20 million in 1974.

In 1976 major efforts are being made to complete the research, collections restoration and exhibits preparation required for the Institution's participation in the Washington, D.C., bicentennial effort as well as for its contribution to commemorative activity across the Nation. A major element of the Institution's program is the opening of the National Air and Space Museum on July 4, 1976. In addition, high priority is being given to the implementation of the master plan for the National Zoological Park to provide new and improved facilities for the animal collection and the visiting public.

The Smithsonian will continue to make a strong effort to correct serious deficiencies in the availability of technicians and other supporting staff, equipment, laboratory and work room supplies and materials, data processing, library materials, and other types of support to permit the professional staff to perform productive research in art, history, and science.

The acquisition, documentation, and care of the National Collections will be stressed. Key objects will be added to the collections for study and exhibition. Improved collection inventory and data management systems will be developed for research purposes and to answer public inquiries. Objects in the collections will be conserved to avoid deterioration and loss.

General exhibition, education, and outreach programs will be strengthened to keep pace with the rapidly rising numbers of visitors to our museums and art galleries, and to serve the museum public across the Nation. Special attention will be given to such diverse but related activities as the care and exhibition of the animal collections, development of an animal conservation center for use in breeding endangered wildlife species and for associated research and conservation efforts, exhibits demonstration, music, and publication programs, school tour and education programs, and the preparation of new exhibits and maintenance and upgrading of older exhibits for the pleasure and education of visitors. The Institution will also stress outreach activities such as the development of an exhibits training laboratory for young, inner-city people, its Folklife Festival, traveling exhibits, and assistance to other museums through the National Museum Act.

Special research efforts will be undertaken in tropical and temperate zone environmental studies, in astrophysics and radiation biology, and in military history, music, and in aspects of American civilization, technology, and culture.

Central administration and supporting services will be strengthened to give program direction, management, and assistance to a complex organization. More adequate protection, preventive maintenance, and custodial care will be given to buildings and facilities in the face of rising public visitation and use.

During the transition period from July 1 to September 30, 1976, the Institution's special efforts will be directed primarily toward bicentennial-related programs. Major activities during this period will include the opening of the National Air and Space Museum and conduct of the Folklife Festival which is scheduled to extend over the summer.

The Smithsonian Institution will continue the program of awarding grants to American universities, museums, and other institutions of higher learning. These grants support research or excavations in archeology and related disciplines, research on systematic and environmental biology, research in astrophysics and earth sciences, and programs in museum sciences in the foreign currency countries. In some cases, funds are administered through a board consisting of representatives of the United States and the host country or through international organizations of which the United States is a member.

The third of four proposed annual payments will be made to the International Campaign to Save the Monuments of Nubia of the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization for the salvage of archeological sites on the Island of Philae.

The Exchange gathers, synthesizes, packages, and delivers information on scientific research being conducted by the Federal Government and the private scientific community. It answers questions from research investigators, directors, and program administrators throughout the national science community regarding who is currently working on what project, where, when, and source of funding.

In addition to serving the scientific community, the Exchange has expanded its services to Federal, State, and local legislators and their staffs. Input of information on research supported by State and local governments has also increased in recent years. As a result of SSIE's role in a number of programs of key national interest, input on international, ongoing research has been increased in areas such as energy research, cancer research, pesticide research, etc. This information will be utilized by research managers and policymakers concerned with development of national programs and future international, cooperative efforts.

The Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars is the Nation's living memorial to its 28th President. In its 4 years of operations, the Center has sought to commemorate both the scholarly depth and the public concerns of Woodrow Wilson through a program of advanced research and of communication between the world of ideas and the world of affairs.

Scholarly research has been conducted by 135 fellows from 28 countries and by 39 shorter-term guest scholars. The Center's fellowship program is organized in terms of three broadly defined academic divisions: social and political studies, historical and cultural studies, and a third entitled resources, environment and interdependence.

The Center's program of public service, now in its second year, is designed to fill the role Congress defined for the Center in Public Law 90-637 of "strengthening the fruitful relation between the world of learning and the world of public affairs." Through its public service category the Center is able to increase and deepen the dialog between scholars and the public sector, to expand the outreach of the Center's scholarship to the general public and to increase and diversify the uses of the scholarly resources of the Washington area.

During the period July 1, 1976 to September 30, 1976, the programs of the Woodrow Wilson Center will continue at the same quarterly rate as that obtained during 1976.

The National Commission on Electronic Fund Transfers was established by the Depository Institutions Amendments Act of 1974, to conduct a thorough study and investigation and recommend appropriate administrative action and legislation necessary for the possible development of public or private electronic fund transfer systems. The study will take into account the need, among other things, to preserve and promote competition and prevent discriminatory practices among financial institutions and the need to afford maximum user and consumer convenience, confidentiality, and protection of legal rights. The Commission is composed of 12 ex-officio members and 14 others appointed by the President, and has a lifespan of 2 years. The Commission is to make an interim report by October 1975, and a final report by October 1976, of its recommendations and findings to the Congress and the President. It will cease to exist 60 days after submission of the final report.

The Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1975, included $500 thousand for the Commission's expenses in 1975. Additional funds will be requested when the Commission has been organized and has had an opportunity to develop a work plan.

The Commission, a legislative agency, was established by Public Law 92-500, on October 18, 1972. Its purpose is to make a full and complete investigation and study of all of the technological aspects of achieving, and all aspects of the total economic, social, and environmental effects of achieving or not achieving, the effluent limitations and goals set forth in section 301(b)(2) of the act. Studies may be contracted with the National Academy of Sciences and others.

Currently, the Commission intends to submit its final report to the Congress by October 1975. In formulating its report the Commission will work closely with other Federal agencies, River Basin Commission's established under the Water Resources Planning Act, and State, local and private agencies and/or individuals interested in national water pollution control.

An appropriation of $200 thousand was made available in 1973; Public Law 93-135 appropriated $10 million to remain available until June 30, 1975. The appropriation of $4.8 million in 1975 completed the $15.0 million authorized by Public Law 92-500.

Public Law 93-592 provided an additional authorization of $2.0 million. A supplemental appropriation for 1975 is now requested.

The Congress created the Tennessee Valley Authority in 1933 for the unified development of a river basin comprising parts of seven States. TVA is a corporation wholly owned by the Federal Government. Its program in 1976 will be financed from three sources: (1) appropriations by the Congress; (2) proceeds available from current power operations and borrowings against future power revenues; and (3) proceeds available from non-power activities.

Budget program—1. Regional development program.—A major objective of the TVA Act is full development and use of all the resources of the Tennessee River Basin. The development of these resources is reflected in regional and national gains in the fields of navigation, flood control, water quality, recreation, and wildlife; in agriculture, forestry, strip mine reclamation, and minerals; in cooperative training demonstrations; and in related industrial development.

(a) Water resources development includes continuing development of the all-year 9-foot navigation channel from the mouth of the river at Paducah, Ky., to Knoxville, Tenn., a distance of 650 miles.

Flood control activities are concerned with maintenance and use of storage space in upstream reservoirs for seasonal retention of excessive runoff and the regulation of discharges to rates of flow which can be handled safely by downstream channels and reservoirs.

Regional water quality management comprises the determination of basic facts about water quality, planning of ways of maintaining or upgrading the quality of the water resources, and monitoring and surveillance to assure that water quality does not deteriorate. This work is conducted in cooperation with appropriate Federal, State, and local agencies and with industrial users of water.

Recreation, fisheries, and waterfowl resources development activities are designed to promote the optimum development of the water and other scenic resources of the region in a way that will improve the physical and cultural environment, stimulate economic development, and conserve natural and historical resources.

The capital outlay program for water resources development includes a total of $45,069 thousand for continuing construction of multipurpose projects: (1) $10,863 thousand for the Duck River project started in 1972; (2) $8,839 thousand for the Bear Creek project started in 1967; and (3) $25,367 thousand for the Tellico project also started in 1967.

The program also includes capital outlays of $1,250 thousand for navigation facilities of which $650 thousand is for continuing alteration of a railway bridge at Decatur, Ala., and $600 thousand is for other facilities. A total of $901 thousand provides for replenishment of a fund for small flood control projects.

All water resources development facilities are planned, constructed, and operated in cooperation with State and local agencies.

(b) General resources development.—Investigations identify current problems and opportunities for development under conditions of optimum use. Research helps develop and test corrective measures. Cooperative projects with State and local groups apply these measures to regional and special problems.

Forest and wild land activities include appraisals of the quality and quantity of the existing resource, research, and demonstrations concerning improvement of the resource, promotion of sound forest management and wood utilization practices, and development of improved wildlife food and cover plants.

Research and demonstrations are conducted to promote the reclamation of land disturbed by surface mining. Research and demonstrations in agriculture have the objectives of assistance to Valley farmers in improving their economic situation and attainment of a higher standard of living through efficient use of land resources and improved farm practices and systems.

Tributary area development is a comprehensive and cooperative approach to resource development in areas of the Tennessee Valley where specific opportunities exist for further development and where local groups have organized to deal with problems of economic advancement and social improvement.

Townlift and community improvement is a technical assistance activity in which TVA helps State and local agencies to improve existing towns to better fit them to changed demands upon them for service and to guide the development of new towns where such may be needed in relationship to water resources development projects.

(c) Land Between The Lakes.—Work will continue on development of the 170,000-acre area in western Kentucky and Tennessee situated between TVA's Kentucky reservoir and the Corps of Engineers' Barkley Lake. Work on facilities to serve visitors calls for capital outlays of $2,035 thousand.

2. Power program.—TVA is the sole supplier of electric power in an area of 80,000 square miles of the Tennessee Valley States. Net income from power operations, after interest charges and depreciation, is estimated to be $260.7 million for 1976.

Of the $600,923 thousand estimate for major power generating facilities, all to be financed from power proceeds and borrowings, $12,738 thousand is for continuing construction of Cumberland Steam Plant units 1-2; $25,483 thousand is for continuing Browns Ferry nuclear units 1-3; $88,306 thousand for continuing Sequoyah nuclear units 1-2; $38,170 thousand for continuing Raccoon Mountain pumped-storage units 1-4; $178,764 thousand for continuing Watts Bar nuclear units 1-2; $150,216 thousand for continuing Bellefonte nuclear units 1-2; $93,410 thousand for Hartsville nuclear units 1-4; and $13,836 thousand for preliminary work on additional capacity needed for the future. Each increment in this program for power generating capacity additions is essential to meeting expected power needs of the Tennessee Valley region.

Capital outlay for all power supply and use facilities in 1976, including transmission system facilities, is estimated at $977,851 thousand.

3. Fertilizer and munitions development program.—Chemical facilities at Muscle Shoals, Ala., are maintained and operated as a national fertilizer development center. Program activities are of two general types: Fertilizer research and development, and introduction to the American farmer of new fertilizer materials and improved fertilizer uses.

Fertilizer research and development consists of basic chemical and agronomic research and fertilizer process research and development. TVA works cooperatively with the Department of Agriculture, the land-grant universities, and with industry to maximize effectiveness of research and to avoid undesirable duplication.

Fertilizer introduction is carried on cooperatively with the land-grant universities and the fertilizer industry. It includes carefully controlled small-plot demonstrations, tests and demonstrations of fertilizer materials and practices on selected operating farms, and nationwide educational introduction of fertilizers.

Capital outlay costs of $10,039 thousand for chemical facilities are chiefly for (1) completing the replacement of acid storage tanks and work on other pollution abatement facilities, (2) completing construction of a demonstration-scale unit for production of sulfur-coated urea, (3) completing the installation of a unit to concentrate wet-process phosphoric acid, and (4) other small additions and replacements of existing facilities.

4. General service activities.—Operating costs for general service activities include mapping and remote sensing, bridge maintenance, fallout shelter maintenance, biennial activities, and reimbursable services furnished at the request and expense of other agencies. Capital outlay for 1976 is estimated at $5,603 thousand for additions and replacements of office, transportation, electronic computing equipment, other facilities used jointly in conducting TVA programs, and for completion of Reno Bridge on Great Falls Reservoir.

Financing.—Amounts estimated to become available in 1976 are to be derived from (1) the requested appropriation of $87,800 thousand; (2) nonpower revenues and receipts of $88,327 thousand; and (3) power revenues and receipts of $1,668,045 thousand. In addition, the budget program anticipates financing from borrowings of $750 million backed by future revenues. A summary of the application of appropriations follows.

For the transition period, July 1, 1976, to September 30, 1976, an additional appropriation of $27,500 thousand will be required to continue programs and projects included in the 1976 Budget Program. Of this total, estimates for operations are $8,762 thousand and for capital outlay $18,738 thousand. No new projects or programs are proposed for starting during the transition period.

Operating results and financial condition.—Only the power program is intended to be self-supporting; the net expense of nonpower programs is covered largely by appropriations from the Treasury. Payments to the Treasury from power proceeds in 1976 are estimated at $96 million—$76 million as a dividend (return on the appropriation investment in the power program) and $20 million as a reduction in the appropriation investment in the power program. Borrowings for the power program are expected to increase by $750 million during 1976.

Total assets are estimated to increase by $968,143 thousand during 1976. The increase is mainly in real property and equipment, reflecting expenditures for construction of facilities; $915,789 thousand of the increase in assets is in the power program and $52,354 thousand is in nonpower programs. The estimate of liabilities at June 30, 1976, is $753,126 thousand more than the estimate at June 30, 1975. This increase reflects the proposed borrowings in 1976. Total Government equity at June 30, 1976, is estimated to be $215,017 thousand greater than that at June 30, 1975. This change includes the requested appropriation for 1976 and the net income from power operations, less payments to the Treasury and the net expense of nonpower programs.

The United States Information Agency seeks, by means of communication techniques, to influence public attitudes abroad to achieve U.S. foreign policy objectives. The Agency also advises those responsible for formulating and implementing foreign policies and programs of the probable impact of those policies on foreign opinion.

Agency operations, which are financed largely from this appropriation and from the related special foreign currency appropriation, are composed of the following major elements:

1. Overseas missions.—The Agency operates information and cultural programs through 192 posts in 111 countries. The overseas missions carry out country programs designed to influence local attitudes and actions in support of U.S. foreign policy. Overseas missions prepare materials using local facilities and use materials provided by the media services in Washington.

2. Media services.—These services provide support for overseas country programs.

(a) Press and publications service maintains communication facilities for the transmission of editorial, news and feature materials for adaptation by overseas missions. It produces pamphlets and periodicals in English and foreign language editions for worldwide and special area distribution, including magazines titled, "America Illustrated," for distribution in the Soviet Union; "Topic," in French and English, for the African area; "Al Majal," in Arabic, for distribution in the Arab world; and "Horizons, USA," in English, Spanish, Polish, and 15 other languages for circulation worldwide. This service also operates three regional printing centers and provides overseas missions with printing supplies and equipment.

(b) Motion picture and television service produces and acquires motion picture and television programs which are then translated into as many as 40 foreign languages. It adapts these programs for specific country or area use and supports the foreign production, use and distribution of films and television programs.

(c) Information center service supports U.S.-operated libraries, reading rooms, and binational centers, providing them with collections of American publications, both in English and in translation, and with English language teaching materials. It assists American publishers in distributing selected products overseas and supports the publication of low-priced books for sale abroad. The service also develops multi-media programs on important agency themes and provides exhibits and visual materials to overseas missions for local display. It also furnishes books and periodicals for presentation to selected individuals and groups.

(d) Broadcasting service produces radio broadcasts in English and in 34 foreign languages. Programs are broadcast from transmitters at 5 domestic and 10 overseas locations. The service also supplies the overseas missions with recorded radio programs and scripts for placement on foreign stations.

3. Program direction and other services.—This activity encompasses Agency managerial staffs and centralized servicing functions. Included are the Office of the Director, the Office of Policy and Plans, research, physical and personnel security, legal counsel, and central administrative services.

4. Administrative support.—Administrative services for the Agency's overseas operations, and certain special support services at headquarters, are obtained through reimbursable arrangements with the Department of State. Beginning with 1975, this activity also covers payments to the General Services Administration for rental of space and related costs at domestic locations as required by Public Law 92-313.

The purpose of this program is to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and those of other lands through suitable U.S. exhibitions in international fairs and other demonstrations of American economic, social, industrial, scientific, and cultural attainments.

1. Labor missions.—Missions are sent to selected fairs and exhibitions abroad. There were 6 labor missions in 1974, 9 are programed in 1975, and 11 are requested for 1976.

2. Fairs and exhibitions.—Exhibits are shown at major international trade fairs and at special purpose exhibition programs. In 1974, four exhibits were mounted at international fairs, three exchange exhibits were reshowed in Poland, Romania, and Yugoslavia, the seventh series of exchange exhibits finished its exhibition schedule in the Soviet Union, and development of the eighth series was begun. In 1975, five exhibits will be mounted at international fairs, and the first exhibit under the eighth series of exchange exhibits will begin its showing schedule in the U.S.S.R. The 1976 estimate provides for five trade fair exhibits and showings of exchange exhibits in four East European countries. In addition, the first eighth series exhibit will complete its schedule in the Soviet Union and the second exhibit will begin showing there.

3. International Ocean Exposition.—The Second Supplemental Appropriation Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-305) provided $5,600 thousand for U.S. participation in the International Ocean Exposition to be held in Okinawa, Japan in 1976. The fair will run from July 20, 1975, to January 18, 1976.

This fund provides for guarantees to U.S. firms of convertibility of currencies earned in the export of U.S. books, periodicals, films, and other informational media. Congressional action in connection with the Agency's 1967 appropriation called for cessation of such guarantees, and no new guarantees have been initiated. However, the revolving fund authority remains in effect.

The Regional Rail Reorganization Act assigns to the United States Railway Association the task of preparing and implementing a system plan for restructuring and rehabilitating the bankrupt railroads of the Northeast and Midwest. The act authorizes $40 million for the Association's administrative expenses. Appropriations prior to January 1, 1975, totaled $25 million and a 1975 supplemental of $5 million is proposed. The last increment of $10 million will provide for the expenses of the Association until June 30, 1976.

The Association is required to submit a final system plan to the Congress by July 26, 1975. The plan becomes effective unless rejected by either the House or the Senate within 60 days of its submission by the Association. The Association has 90 days after congressional acceptance to submit to a special court created by the act a complete plan for disposition of and compensation for the rail properties of the bankrupt railroads.

As part of the system plan, the Association is expected to design a new operating entity called the Consolidated Rail Corporation. This corporation will start operating the facilities designated to be conveyed to it early in calendar year 1976. The Association will then phase out most of its activity.

The Water Resources Council was established to encourage conservation, development and utilization of water and related land resources on a comprehensive and coordinated basis.

1. Administration and coordination.—The Council's activities include directing and coordinating comprehensive regional and river basin planning; recommending to the President needed changes in Federal policies and programs; establishing, for the approval of the President, principles, standards, and procedures for Federal water and related land resources planning; and submitting Council reports on completed plans to the President and the Congress.

2. River basin commissions.—River basin commissions have been established under title II of the act to coordinate Federal, State, and local plans for development of water and related land resources; to prepare comprehensive, coordinated, joint plans to make optimum use of such resources; and to recommend long-range schedules of priorities.

3. Planning grants to States.—Financial assistance on a matching basis is provided to the States to stimulate their participation in water and related land resources planning. Grant funds primarily support personnel in State planning agencies.

4. Comprehensive planning.—The second assessment of national and regional water supplies and requirements is being accomplished through the cooperation of Federal and State agencies.

Regional or river basin plans are prepared under the direction of the Council or of appropriate river basin commissions. Participation of Federal and State agencies in these studies is coordinated through the Council.

PART II

SCHEDULES OF PERMANENT POSITIONS

---

EXPLANATION OF SCHEDULES

Part II contains detailed schedules of permanent positions, which are furnished to the Congress pursuant to the Budget and Accounting Act of 1921, as amended, excluding waivers thereunder granted by Appropriations Committees.

Most civilian employees in the Federal Government are included in one of the following pay systems: Executive level, general schedule, or Foreign Service. The salary ranges for the grades in each of these systems are shown in the following tables. Pay rates for wage board positions included in the "ungraded" positions are established on the basis of prevailing rates which vary from area to area. Salary ranges shown for general schedule (GS) and Foreign Service (FO, FR or FS) are those which became effective in October 1974, and for executive levels, those which became effective in March 1969.

SALARY RANGES OF THE MOST COMMON CLASSIFICATION SYSTEMS

[In dollars]

I. Executive levels:
Executive level I	60,000
Executive level II	42,500

FS-4	14,628 to 19,020
FS-5	13,114 to 17,047
FS-6	11,758 to 15,288
FS-7	10,541 to 13,700
FS-8	9,450 to 12,285
FS-9	8,473 to 11,011
FS-10	7,596 to 9,873

Note.—In the general schedule grades and certain other positions, the pay scales shown in the schedules may be exceeded when pay rates in the private sector for comparable occupations in one or more areas or locations are substantially above the statutory rates. In such cases, the Civil Service Commission has authority to permit a higher entrance level (not to exceed the maximum pay step prescribed by statute) and add a corresponding number of steps above the stated pay range.

The following pages display schedules of permanent positions for each of the three branches of Government. The schedules relate to positions established for full-time employment without time limit, and to any others occupied for a year or more. Authorized positions as of the end of the year are counted, whether filled or unfilled at that time; positions abolished during the year are not counted. Each schedule contains a listing of the grades of authorized positions and the total number in each grade as illustrated below:

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Total permanent positions	285	322	389
Unfilled positions, June 30	-9	-8	-8
Total permanent employment, end of year	276	314	381

Grades are reflected in the stub column; the most commonly used grade series, general schedule, is abbreviated "GS-..." Salary ranges are shown only when the grades are unique to a single agency or bureau (e.g., physicians and nurses schedules within the Department of Medicine and Surgery, Veterans Administration) or where a grade is identified only by title. In the latter case, the title of each grade and the basic salary range is listed. Classification systems with the same salary ranges as the general schedule are so noted. A subtotal line is shown for executive level positions as well as for each separate series of positions, whenever more than one position is shown in these categories. Two additional lines provide for deducting the number of unfilled positions to arrive at the total employment in permanent positions at the end of the year.

PART III

APPROPRIATION REQUESTS

---

---

EXPLANATION OF REQUESTS

This part contains supplemental and amended appropriation requests for consideration by the Congress.

Requests for supplemental appropriations are made after the regular appropriation for an account has been enacted. Supplemental requests for various program purposes, for increased pay costs, and for general provisions are shown as separate titles, following the usual format of supplemental appropriation acts.

When appropriations requested earlier, generally in the preceding budget, have not yet been considered by the Congress, the amounts requested may be amended. The information included in this part—suggested appropriation language, recapitulations of the history of requests now being amended, and explanations for the requests—is augmented by information included in the schedules in Part I.

For requested program supplementals, separate program and financing schedules titled "Supplemental Now Requested" are shown in Part I. Amended requests are shown in separate program and financing schedules titled "Proposed 1975 Budget Amendments." Requested supplemental amounts for pay raises appear as separate line entries in the regular program and financing schedules in Part I.

SUPPLEMENTAL AND AMENDED PROPOSALS

Transmitted herein are proposed supplementals and amendments to the 1975 budget. Of the $11.3 billion requested, $5 billion is for repayable advances to the Unemployment Trust Fund and other funds. The advanced funds would be used, on a contingency basis, to assure the orderly and timely operation of these funds. The pay raise effective in October 1974 for Federal civilian and military personnel requires $2 billion in supplemental funds and is also the primary impetus for $645.8 million in requests to fund associated salary and benefit increases, primarily those for various Federal civilian and military retirement funds. Funds are requested to cover $1.7 billion in increased public assistance costs in 1975 and to replace 1975 funds advanced to cover 1974 costs.

Also included in the requests are $855.6 million to fund veterans programs, including several for which new or increased benefits have been recently enacted. Aid to railroads and the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority make up $185.3 million of the amounts requested. Appropriations of $112.6 million are sought to fund the newly established Community Services Administration for the remainder of fiscal year 1975. Contributions to support international conferences, negotiations, and peacekeeping operations are proposed in the amount of $46.2 million.

The remaining requests—$703.9 million—are for other programs, among them: $379.9 million for programs (other than those mentioned above) of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare; $110.5 million for fire protection programs of the Departments of Agriculture and Interior; and $56.4 million for the newly established Nuclear Regulatory Commission. Requests for transfers, limitation increases, and advance and deficiency appropriations are also included, but do not affect 1975 budget authority.

PROPOSED SUPPLEMENTAL ACTIONS

DETAILS OF PROPOSED SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING JUNE 1975

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the following sums are appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to supply supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1975, and for other purposes, namely:

TITLE I—PROPOSED SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS FOR VARIOUS PROGRAMS (EXCLUDING REQUESTS FOR INCREASED PAY COSTS)

Legislative Branch

ARCHITECT OF THE CAPITOL

CAPITOL BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS

ACQUISITION OF PROPERTY AS A SITE FOR PARKING FACILITIES FOR THE UNITED STATES SENATE

For an additional amount for "Acquisition of property for a site for parking facilities for the United States Senate", $1,000,000.

CAPITOL POWER PLANT

For an additional amount for "Capitol power plant", $3,100,000.

UNITED STATES TAX COURT*CONSTRUCTION

For necessary expenses to complete the construction of the United States Tax Court Building Project, including a plaza to bridge Interstate Highway 95 between the Tax Court Building and Second Street, N.W., in the District of Columbia, $2,000,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That such sums as are necessary may be transferred to the General Services Administration for execution of the work.

These supplemental requests for the Legislative Branch are submitted without change, as required by law.

Department of Agriculture
FOOD AND NUTRITION SERVICE

CHILD NUTRITION PROGRAMS

For an additional amount to carry out the National School Lunch Act, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1751-1761), and the applicable provisions other than section 3 of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1773-1785), $24,823,000, to remain available until expended.

This proposed supplemental appropriation provides for the higher reimbursement rates prescribed by Public Law 93-150 for meals served through the school lunch program. It will also provide for semiannual adjustment of the national average payment rates to reflect changes in the food-away-from-home component of the Consumer Price Index.

FOREST SERVICE*FOREST PROTECTION AND UTILIZATION

For an additional amount for "Forest protection and utilization", for "Forest land management", $84,000,000.

Department of Commerce
DOMESTIC AND INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS
ADMINISTRATION

OPERATIONS AND ADMINISTRATION

For an additional amount for "Operations and administration", $1,180,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That such sums as may be necessary will be available to carry out the provisions of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended (50 U.S.C. 2061-2166).

Additional funds are necessary to carry out, for the full year, Department of Commerce functions for industrial defense mobilization: administering the priorities and allocation program, the Industry Evaluation Board, and strategic and critical materials stockpiling activities. These functions have previously been funded through reimbursement from the Office of Preparedness, General Services Administration. The 1975 appropriation to the Office of Preparedness provides funding for only the first half of the year.

The proposed supplemental funds will also provide for the foreign investment study required by the Foreign Investment Study Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-479). This study will examine the scope, character, extent, and effects of foreign direct investment in the United States. An interim report is due to the Congress by November 1, 1975, and a final report by May 1, 1976.

NATIONAL OCEANIC AND ATMOSPHERIC

COASTAL ZONE MANAGEMENT

For an additional amount for "Coastal zone management", $3,000,000, to remain available until expended.

Additional funds are required to provide for State coastal zone management program development consistent with the timetables of accelerated Federal plans to lease new offshore areas for oil and gas exploration.

SCIENCE AND TECHNICAL RESEARCH*SCIENTIFIC AND TECHNICAL RESEARCH AND SERVICES

For an additional amount for "Scientific and technical research and services", $1,000,000, to remain available until expended.

This proposed supplemental appropriation will fund a research and development program to establish, for the purpose of energy conservation, energy efficiency standards for home appliances.

Department of Defense—Military*MILITARY PERSONNEL*MILITARY PERSONNEL, ARMY

For an additional amount for "Military personnel, Army", $28,265,000.

MILITARY PERSONNEL, MARINE CORPS

For an additional amount for "Military personnel, Marine Corps", $6,140,000.

MILITARY PERSONNEL, AIR FORCE

For an additional amount for "Military personnel, Air Force", $11,669,000.

RETIRED MILITARY PERSONNEL*RETIRED PAY, DEFENSE

For an additional amount for "Retired pay, Defense", $235,300,000.

This proposed supplemental appropriation will provide for increased retired pay costs which are primarily tied to the Consumer Price Index.

Department of Defense—Civil
DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY
CORPS OF ENGINEERS—CIVIL

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, GENERAL

In addition to the amount made available under this head in the Public Works for Water and Power Development and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1975, there are appropriated such additional sums as the Secretary of the Army determines are necessary for maintenance dredging essential to the needs of commerce, to be derived from the appropriation in that act under the head "Construction, general".

This supplemental request will provide authority to transfer the necessary funds to continue the dredging program at levels authorized by the Congress if presently budgeted funds prove inadequate.

Department of Health, Education, and Welfare
ALCOHOL, DRUG ABUSE AND MENTAL HEALTH

SAINT ELIZABETHS HOSPITAL

For an additional amount for "Saint Elizabeths Hospital", $134,000.

This supplemental appropriation is required to provide for increased costs resulting from the enactment of the Health Benefits Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-246). The act increases the Government share of contributions for Federal employee health benefits.

HEALTH RESOURCES ADMINISTRATION

HEALTH RESOURCES

For an additional amount for "Health resources", $66,500,000: Provided, That, in addition $8,500,000 may be transferred to this appropriation, as authorized by section 201(g) of the Social Security Act from any one or all of the trust funds referred to therein.

Supplemental funds are requested to provide Federal support to States and localities for health planning activities.

HIGHER EDUCATION

For an additional amount for "Higher education", $67,400,000, to remain available until expended.

Additional funds are requested for subsidies on guaranteed student loans. These increased funds are needed primarily to meet higher-than-anticipated interest rates. They are also required to cover interest benefits for an increased number of new loan accounts.

STUDENT LOAN INSURANCE FUND

For an additional amount for "Student Loan Insurance Fund", $82,600,000, to remain available until expended.

This proposed supplemental appropriation provides funds to pay increased 1974 and 1975 defaults on guaranteed student loans.

PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

For an additional amount for "Public assistance", $1,729,743,000.

This proposed supplemental appropriation replaces 1975 funds advanced to cover 1974 costs and provides for the greater-than-anticipated cost of the program.

SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

PAYMENTS TO SOCIAL SECURITY TRUST FUNDS

For an additional amount not to exceed $20,242,000 for payment to the Federal Buildings Fund for portions of the standard level user charges, pursuant to section 210(j) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended.

This proposed supplemental appropriation would reimburse the Social Security Trust Fund for that portion of the standard level user charges paid to the General Services Administration for space and services which are in addition to the actual cost of the space and services furnished. Such amounts cannot be legally charged to the Social Security Trust Fund without the approval of this additional appropriation language.

SPECIAL BENEFITS FOR DISABLED COAL MINERS

For an additional amount for "Special benefits for disabled coal miners", $80,844,000: Provided, That the appointments of administrative law judges for this program shall terminate not later than December 31, 1976.

This supplemental appropriation is requested to finance increased benefit payments and administrative expenses. An estimated $34 million increase in benefits payments is due to the October 1974 increase in the Federal salary scale to which "black lung" benefits rates are tied. In addition, a larger-than-anticipated number of hearings cases were carried into 1975 and current experience indicates that the number of hearings to be filed in 1975 will exceed the original estimate. Consequently, the number of valid claims resulting from the hearings process is expected to exceed the original estimate, raising benefit payments by $33 million. Additional administrative expenses of $13,844,000 are due primarily to higher-than-budgeted hearings workloads.

SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME PROGRAM

For an additional amount for "Supplemental Security Income program", $83,102,000.

Average payment data through October 1974 and program experience indicates the need for additional funds to meet Federal benefit payments and administrative costs. The total increase needed is $208,593,000. Part of this increase is offset by decreases in the estimates for Federal contributions toward State supplementation and for vocational rehabilitation services.

LIMITATION ON SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For an additional amount for "Limitation on salaries and expenses", $78,668,000.

An increase in the limitation is requested to provide for increased administrative costs for the disability insurance program and the supplemental security income program and to fund increased payments to State and local agencies for their assistance in administering the program. The supplemental security income program appropriation will reimburse the Salaries and expenses appropriation for the additional administrative expenses attributable to that program.

SPECIAL INSTITUTIONS*GALLAUDET COLLEGE

For an additional amount for "Gallaudet College", $8,052,000, of which $7,766,000 shall be for construction and shall remain available until expended.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY

For an additional amount for "Howard University", $2,050,000.

These supplemental appropriations are for payments to these institutions so that they may finance employee pay increases comparable to those which Federal employees received pursuant to law and Executive Order No. 11811. Funds are also requested for second-phase construction of the Model Secondary School dormitories at Gallaudet College. These dormitory units will provide housing accommodations for 600 students, instructional areas, personal learning spaces, group activity areas, social/recreational spaces, and learning resource centers.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY*DEPARTMENTAL MANAGEMENT

For an additional amount for "Departmental management", $87,000.

This supplemental appropriation is required to provide for costs resulting from the enactment of the Health Benefits Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-246). The act increases the Government share of contributions for Federal employee health benefits.

Department of the Interior*LAND AND WATER RESOURCES*BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT*MANAGEMENT OF LANDS AND RESOURCES

For an additional amount for "Management of lands and resources", $19,950,000.

Supplemental funds are required for programs to combat forest and range fires and, on an emergency basis, to prevent fires on public lands.

BUREAU OF RECLAMATION*OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE

For an additional amount for "Operation and maintenance", $9,821,000, to be derived from the Reclamation Fund.

A supplemental appropriation is required for (1) unanticipated operation and maintenance costs of the Newlands, Nevada, irrigation project; (2) increased purchase power costs for the Centralia, Washington, thermal project; and (3) purchases of surplus energy for Bureau of Reclamation customers in the upper Missouri area. The appropriation will also cover increased costs for the oil conservation program.

INDIAN AFFAIRS*BUREAU OF INDIAN AFFAIRS*OPERATION OF INDIAN PROGRAMS

For an additional amount for "Operation of Indian programs", $6,500,000.

This supplemental appropriation is required to combat wild-fires; to prevent, on an emergency basis, fires threatening forests and range lands on Indian reservations; and to rehabilitate, on an emergency basis, burned-over areas. It is also required to cover unanticipated cost increases for fuel oil, gas, electricity, supplies, materials, and transportation.

Department of Justice*LEGAL ACTIVITIES AND GENERAL ADMINISTRATION*SALARIES AND EXPENSES, GENERAL LEGAL ACTIVITIES

For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses, General legal activities", $246,000, to be derived by transfer from the appropriation "Salaries and expenses", Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, 1975.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES, ANTITRUST DIVISION

For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses, Antitrust Division", $77,000, to be derived by transfer from the appropriation "Salaries and expenses", Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, 1975.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES, UNITED STATES ATTORNEYS AND MARSHALS

For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses, United States attorneys and marshals", $886,000, of which $586,000 shall be derived by transfer from the appropriation "Salaries and expenses", Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, 1975: Provided, That of the amount herein appropriated not to exceed $500,000 shall be available for payment of compensation and expenses of Commissioners appointed in condemnation cases under Rule 71A(h) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION*SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses", $3,570,000, to be derived by transfer from the appropriation "Salaries and expenses", Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, 1975.

Supplemental authority is required for the legal activities and general administration accounts to transfer, from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, funds to provide for increases in the rates charged for legal transcripts by court reporters in court proceedings and in the rates charged by independent reporters who produce the Department's deposition transcripts. The transfers for these accounts and for the FBI will also cover costs resulting from the enactment of the Health Benefits Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-246). The act provides for an increased Government share of the costs of Federal employee health benefits. Also covered by the transfers are increased costs stemming from the Law Enforcement and Firefighting Personnel Retirement Benefits Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-350) which provides increased retirement benefits for law enforcement personnel. Additional appropriations are requested for salaries and expenses of U.S.

attorneys and marshals. A limitation increase on payments to court-appointed land commissioners in condemnation cases is included in the same request.

Department of Labor MANPOWER ADMINISTRATION

TEMPORARY EMPLOYMENT ASSISTANCE

The $125,000,000 appropriated in the Act of January 3, 1975 (Public Law 93-624), to the Department of Commerce, Economic Development Administration, for "Job opportunities program", is restored to the appropriation in the same Act to the Department of Labor, Manpower Administration, for "Temporary employment assistance".

This supplemental request will provide 14,000 temporary public service jobs. Temporary employment assistance grants were authorized in 1975 for State and local prime sponsors by the Emergency Jobs and Unemployment Assistance Act of 1974.

FEDERAL UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS AND ALLOWANCES

Appropriations available for payments under this head shall also be available for payment of trade adjustment benefit payments and allowances authorized by part I, subchapter B, chapter 2, title II, of the Trade Act of 1974: Provided, That amounts received during the current fiscal year from the Postal Service or recovered from the States pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 8505(d) shall be available for payments during the year.

Authority is requested to use available appropriations to pay displaced-worker benefits established by the Trade Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-618). The appropriation language also permits amounts credited to the appropriation near the end of the fiscal year to be used for the purposes intended by law.

ADVANCES TO THE UNEMPLOYMENT TRUST FUND AND OTHER FUNDS

For repayable advances to the Unemployment Trust Fund, as authorized by Sections 905(d) and 1203 of the Social Security Act, as amended, and for non-repayable advances to the "Federal unemployment benefits and allowances" account, to remain available until September 30, 1977, $5,000,000,000, together with amounts previously made available for fiscal year 1975 for "Advances to the extended unemployment compensation account".

This supplemental appropriation provides for advances to either the Extended unemployment compensation account or the Federal unemployment account of the Unemployment trust fund should the balances prove insufficient due to unemployment insurance claims exceeding funds available from State unemployment taxes or from the Federal unemployment tax. The advances to the Unemployment trust fund would be repaid from subsequent tax collections. The appropriation would also be available to cover payments from the Federal unemployment benefits and allowances account in excess of the recently enacted Urgent Supplemental Appropriations Act (Public Law 93-624).

Department of State ADMINISTRATION OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS

PAYMENT TO FOREIGN SERVICE RETIREMENT AND DISABILITY FUND

For an additional amount for "Payment to Foreign Service retirement and disability fund", $1,420,000.

This proposed supplemental appropriation is the first of thirty annual installments required to finance the unfunded liability resulting from salary increases authorized by Executive Order 11811, effective October 7, 1974.

INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS AND CONFERENCES

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCES AND CONTINGENCIES

For an additional amount for "International conferences and contingencies", $1,000,000, which shall be derived by transfer from the appropriation for "Mutual educational and cultural exchange activities", fiscal year 1975, to remain available until December 31, 1975, of which not to exceed $15,000 may be expended for representation allowances as authorized by section 901 of the Act of August 13, 1946, as amended (22 U.S.C. 1131) and for official entertainment, and, in addition to the amount made available for representation allowances and official entertainment under this heading in the Department of State Appropriation Act, 1975, $20,000 shall be available for such purposes.

Additional funds are required for United States participation in the Middle East Peace Conference, the final phases of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe, and the first review conference on the Non-Proliferation Treaty. The limitation on representation is increased to cover higher costs abroad.

CONTRIBUTIONS FOR INTERNATIONAL PEACEKEEPING ACTIVITIES

For payments to meet the expenses of the International Commission of Control and Supervision in Vietnam, $17,342,000, notwithstanding the limitation in Public Law 92-495 (66 Stat. 550): Provided, That not to exceed $7,000,000 of this amount may be used to reimburse the Agency for International Development in accordance with Section 48, Public Law 93-559: Provided further, That amounts previously appropriated under the heading "International Commission of Control and Supervision" shall be transferred to and merged with this appropriation.

For payments, not otherwise provided for, by the United States to meet expenses of the United Nations Emergency Force and the United Nations Disengagement and Observer Force in the Middle East, $28,837,000, notwithstanding the limitation in Public Law 92-544 (86 Stat. 1109, 1110): Provided, That this appropriation shall be available only upon enactment into law of authorizing legislation.

These supplemental funds are required to provide additional contributions to the International Commission of Control and Supervision in Vietnam for vital logistical operations and to pay United States assessments for the expenses of United Nations peacekeeping forces in the Middle East.

Department of Transportation COAST GUARD

OPERATING EXPENSES

For an additional amount for "Operating expenses", $24,500,000, together with not to exceed $12,500,000 to be derived by transfer from the appropriations for "Acquisition, construction, and improvements" ($10,000,000) and "Research, development, test, and evaluation" ($2,500,000), fiscal year 1975.

Additional funds are required, as a result of continued cost increases, to maintain programs at the levels contemplated in the 1975 budget request and to begin implementation of the Deepwater Port Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-627).

RETIRED PAY

For an additional amount for "Retired pay", $9,605,000.

Additional funds are required in 1975 to cover increased costs of military retired pay effective July 1, 1974, and January 1, 1975, authorized June 7 and December 31, 1974, respectively, under continuing provisions of 10 U.S.C. 1401a. Former members of the Coast Guard receiving retired pay computed on active duty pay scales in effect prior to October 1, 1974, received a 6.4% increase on July 1, 1974, or on the date they first became entitled to retired pay, whichever is later. All former members receiving retired pay on December 31, 1974, received a 7.3% increase effective January 1, 1975.

FEDERAL RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION*RAILROAD SAFETY

For an additional amount for "Railroad safety", $1,900,000, of which $700,000 shall be derived by transfer from the appropriation for "Railroad research and development", fiscal year 1975.

This supplemental request will provide for an additional track inspection program during the latter part of fiscal year 1975.

INTERIM OPERATING ASSISTANCE

For an additional amount for "Interim operating assistance", $100,000,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That this appropriation shall be available only upon the enactment of authorizing legislation.

This proposed supplemental appropriation is requested to cover payments, through March 1976, to railroads in reorganization in order for them to maintain essential transportation services in the Northeastern United States. These payments are authorized by section 213 of the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973 (Public Law 93-236).

GRANTS TO THE NATIONAL RAILROAD PASSENGER CORPORATION

For an additional amount for "Grants to the National Railroad Passenger Corporation", $77,900,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That $62,975,000 of this appropriation shall be available only upon enactment of authorizing legislation.

This proposed supplemental request will provide grants to AMTRAK to cover previously unbudgeted contingency items, such as railroad incentive payments, inflation, and cost of equipment overhaul.

URBAN MASS TRANSPORTATION ADMINISTRATION*URBAN MASS TRANSPORTATION FUND*LIQUIDATION OF CONTRACT AUTHORIZATION

For an additional payment to the Urban mass transportation fund, for liquidation of contractual obligations incurred under authority of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 (49 U.S.C. 1601 et seq., as amended by Public Law 91-463 and Public Law 93-503) and sections 103(e)(4) and 142(c) of title 23, U.S. Code, $150,000,000, to remain available until expended.

This request provides for the liquidation of contract authorization obligations incurred under the National Mass Transportation Assistance Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-503). This act provides for grants to State and local governments to develop urban mass transportation systems.

Department of the Treasury
BUREAU OF THE PUBLIC DEBT*ADMINISTERING THE PUBLIC DEBT

For an additional amount for "Administering the public debt", $7,000,000.

This request will provide for (1) reimbursement of the Federal Reserve Banks for increased costs, incurred as fiscal agents of the Bureau, due to increases in workload and costs of goods and services; (2) increased paying agents' fees caused by an increase in the volume of savings-type securities redeemed; (3) reimbursement to the U.S. Postal Service for increased mailings of securities; and (4) increased volume and costs of printing security stock.

INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE*SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses", $229,000.

ACCOUNTS, COLLECTION AND TAXPAYER SERVICE

For an additional amount for "Accounts, collection and taxpayer service", $1,937,000.

COMPLIANCE

For an additional amount for "Compliance", $4,483,000.

Additional amounts are required in all three accounts to meet increased costs stemming from the recently enacted Employee Retirement Security Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-406).

General Services Administration
FEDERAL BUILDINGS FUND*LIMITATIONS ON AVAILABILITY OF REVENUE

In addition to the aggregate amount made available for real property management and related activities under this heading in the Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government Appropriation Act, 1976, and the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1975, $28,000,000 shall be available for such purposes and the limitation on the amount made available for rental of space is increased to $392,000,000.

This supplemental authority is required to finance the cost of payments to the U.S. Postal Service (USPS) from the General Services Administration (GSA) for space occupied in USPS buildings by Federal agencies for which GSA must provide space.

Veterans Administration

COMPENSATION AND PENSIONS

For an additional amount for "Compensation and pensions", $146,400,000, to remain available until expended.

Supplemental funds are required to implement the Veterans Pension Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-527). This act increases by $400 the income limitation for dependency and indemnity compensation parents and pension recipients. It also provides a 12% cost-of-living increase to certain parent and pensioner beneficiaries and allows children who become ineligible for pensions by reason of marriage to regain eligibility if they are subsequently widowed or divorced and still meet all other eligibility requirements.

READJUSTMENT BENEFITS

For an additional amount for "Readjustment benefits", $638,038,000.

This supplemental appropriation is required to cover the additional cost resulting from the enactment of (1) Public Law 93-337 which extends GI bill eligibility for 2 years, (2) Public Law 93-602 which substitutes a 22.7% rate increase for the 18.2% increase previously provided, (3) Public Law 93-538 which increases the maximum specially-equipped automobile grant for disabled veterans from $2,800 to $3,300 and extends and liberalizes the eligibility for training and adaptive equipment, and (4) Public Law 93-569 which increases the maximum housing grant for certain disabled veterans from $17,500 to $25,000.

MEDICAL CARE

For an additional amount for "Medical care", $36,239,000.

Additional funds are required to meet increased costs for Federal employee health benefits stemming from (1) the enactment of the Health Benefits Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-246) which increases the Government share of the costs and (2) the generally increased insurance rates for these benefits. Funds are also requested to cover (1) a 3% increase in the per-mile cost of reimbursable beneficiary travel; (2) the increased cost of fuel, utilities, and initial correction of clinical care deficiencies identified by the quality of care survey; and (3) driver training for disabled veterans.

CONSTRUCTION, MAJOR PROJECTS

For an additional amount for "Construction, major projects", $27,202,000, to remain available until expended.

CONSTRUCTION, MINOR PROJECTS

For an additional amount for "Construction, minor projects", $7,706,000, to remain available until expended.

Funds are requested to begin correction of structural hazards and other deficiencies identified by the quality of care survey.

Other Independent Agencies
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses", $150,000.

Supplemental funds are requested to enable the Civil Service Commission to administer provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1974 that affect Federal employees.

PAYMENT TO CIVIL SERVICE RETIREMENT AND DISABILITY FUND

For an additional amount for "Payment to Civil service retirement and disability fund", $363,100,000.

The requested funds will be used to make mandatory payments to the Civil service retirement and disability fund to cover the unfunded liability created by increased pay rates and retirement benefits coverage.

COMMUNITY SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

COMMUNITY SERVICES PROGRAM

For the operations of the Community Services Administration for the fiscal year 1975, pursuant to the provisions of Public Law 93-644, $112,600,000.

The proposed funds would enable the Community Services Administration to carry on the activities formerly administered by the Office of Economic Opportunity, as provided by the recently-enacted Headstart, Economic Opportunity, and Community Partnership Act of 1974.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

FEDERAL PAYMENT TO THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA (FEDERAL FUNDS)

For an additional amount for "Federal payment to the District of Columbia", to be paid to the general fund of the District of Columbia, $8,800,000.

This proposed supplemental appropriation represents the balance of the authorized, but unappropriated, annual Federal payment to the District of Columbia.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses", for the fiscal year 1974, $800,000, to defray a deficiency incurred in that year.

This supplemental appropriation request will defray an over-obligation of funds and will pay vendors for goods and services rendered to the Commission. This deficiency was reported to the Congress on December 19, 1974, pursuant to Revised Statutes 3679 (31 U.S.C. 665).

FEDERAL ELECTION COMMISSION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For expenses necessary to carry out the provisions of the Federal Election Campaign Act Amendment of 1974, $500,000.

Initial funding is requested for the commission established by Public Law 93-443 to impose overall limitations on campaign expenditures and political contributions, provide public financing for Presidential primary elections and nominating conventions, and carry out other activities related to Federal elections.

FEDERAL ENERGY ADMINISTRATION*SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses", $15,000,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, that $9,000,000 made available by this appropriation for the insulation program shall be available only upon enactment into law of authorizing legislation.

This proposed supplemental request will provide $5 million to implement a public information and education program to support voluntary energy conservation; $1 million for policy planning for the development of an emergency energy storage system; and $9 million to assist low-income homeowners in insulating their homes.

INTERGOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES*WASHINGTON METROPOLITAN AREA TRANSIT AUTHORITY*FEDERAL CONTRIBUTION

For an additional amount for "Federal contribution" to enable the Department of Transportation to pay the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, for the fiscal year 1975, $679,000, to remain available until expended, toward expenses necessary to design, construct, procure, and install elevators for the handicapped in stations of a rapid rail transit system as authorized by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973 (Public Law 93-87 approved August 13, 1973), and for the fiscal year 1976, $17,145,000, to remain available until expended, toward expenses necessary to design, engineer, construct, and equip a rapid rail transit system as authorized by the National Capital Transportation Act of 1969 (Public Law 91-143) as amended, including acquisition of rights-of-way, land and interest therein.

This supplemental appropriation request provides $679,000 to restore the full Federal matching contribution for 1975 for building facilities for the handicapped in stations of the rapid rail transit system. Also included is a request to restore a $1,845,000 reduction in the advance funding request for 1976. Both of these amounts were eliminated by an across-the-board reduction of 3.5% in the amounts contained in the Department of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1975.

This request also provides for restoration of the Federal contribution of $15,300,000 which was deleted from the 1976 advance capital grant appropriation. These funds are required to meet cost increases in the construction program.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION*SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses", $500,000.

Additional appropriations are required to fund the Rail Services Planning Office for an additional period as a result of the 120-day extension to the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973 (Public Law 93-488).

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION*SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For necessary expenses of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission as authorized by law, including services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, $56,400,000, to remain available until expended.

Funds transferred from programs formerly administered by the Atomic Energy Commission and the appropriations requested above will provide initial funding for this new agency, established by the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-438). In addition to the amounts being transferred, funds are needed to carry out new regulatory responsibilities set forth in the act. Also, funds are required as a result of a change in the handling of receipts from the established practice of the Atomic Energy Commission, for licensee refunds required by a Supreme Court decision, and for obligations outstanding as of June 30, 1975.

RAILROAD RETIREMENT BOARD*LIMITATION ON SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For an additional amount for "Limitation on salaries and expenses", $2,200,000, to be derived from the railroad retirement accounts.

An increase in the limitation on salaries and expenses is requested to provide for the additional administrative costs created by the Railroad Retirement Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-445), which completely restructured the railroad retirement system.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION*SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses", $390,000.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES, NATIONAL GALLERY OF ART

For an additional amount for "Salaries and expenses, National Gallery of Art", $90,000.

These funds would provide for the increased cost of utilities.

TEMPORARY STUDY COMMISSIONS*NATIONAL COMMISSION ON WATER QUALITY*SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For an additional amount, for "Salaries and expenses", $2,000,000 to remain available until expended.

These supplemental funds will enable the Commission to complete its work and submit its report to the Congress.

UNITED STATES RAILWAY ASSOCIATION*ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES

For an additional amount for "Administrative expenses", $5,000,000, to remain available until expended.

This proposed supplemental appropriation will provide for continuing the planning activities of the United States Railway Association during the fourth quarter of fiscal year 1975. Previously-appropriated funds will be exhausted at the end of the third quarter of the fiscal year. The Association is required to prepare and submit to Congress by July 26, 1975, a final system plan for reorganizing rail services in the Northeast and Midwest regions of the Nation.

TITLE II—INCREASED PAY COSTS

This title requests amounts needed to finance the increased costs related to Federal pay raises as follows: (1) civilian pay raises effective in October 1974 under Executive Order 11811 issued pursuant to Public Law 91-656 and comparable raises granted by administrative action, (2) military pay raises effective in October 1974 under Executive Order 11812 issued pursuant to Public Law 90-207, (3) raises, effective in fiscal year 1975, granted under 5 U.S.C. 5341 to wage-board employees, (4) adjustments in the basic pay of certain employees of the Executive Protective Service and the United States Park Police pursuant to Public Law 92-407, and (5) raises authorized under Public Law 207, 82d Congress, for policemen, firemen, and teachers employed by the Canal Zone Government—based on corresponding statutory pay increases for the same or similar work in the District of Columbia (Public Law 93-410).

TITLE III—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. 1. Except where specifically increased or decreased elsewhere in this Act, the restrictions contained within appropriations, or provisions affecting appropriations or other funds, available during the fiscal year 1975, limiting the amounts which may be expended for personal services, or for purposes involving personal services, or amounts which may be transferred between appropriations or authorizations available for or involving such services, are hereby increased to the extent necessary to meet increased pay costs authorized by or pursuant to law.

This general provision, traditionally included in appropriation acts containing funds for increased pay costs, permits the necessary adjustments to various restrictions on the use of appropriated funds. These adjustments are limited to carrying out the increased funding approved for pay costs.

Sec. 2. Unobligated balances of appropriations available to the Department of Defense during fiscal years 1973 and 1974 for operation and maintenance shall be available to reimburse the United States Postal Service for services rendered to the Department of Defense during those fiscal years.

This general provision is needed in order to reimburse the U.S. Postal Service for services already rendered in 1973 and 1974.

PAYMENT TO THE FOREIGN SERVICE RETIREMENT AND DISABILITY FUND

Request pending	-----
Proposed amendment	-----	$16,080,000
Revised request	-----	16,080,000

(Add after the account, "Grants and other programs", the above heading and the following paragraph:)

For payment to the "Foreign Service retirement and disability fund," as authorized by the Foreign Service Act of 1946, as amended (22 U.S.C. 1105-1106), $16,080,000 of which $15,600,000 is to be derived from the appropriation provided to the Department of State under this heading in the Department of State Appropriation Act, 1975, and $480,000 is to be derived by transfer from the appropriation "Functional development assistance program," fiscal year 1975.

This proposed amendment is for the first of thirty annual installments to finance the unfunded liability created by the inclusion in the Foreign Service retirement system of career Foreign Service employees of the Agency for International Development as authorized by section

AMENDMENTS TO PENDING BUDGET REQUESTS—Continued

625(k) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1973 (Public Law 93-189). A total of $15,600,000 was appropriated to the Department of State for this purpose but cannot be used due to the lack of authorizing legislation. Congressional intent has been expressed that this payment should be funded from AID appropriations. This proposed amendment also includes $480,000 for AID's share of the unfunded liability created by the October 1974 Federal pay increase.

PART IV

ANNEXED BUDGETS AND OTHER MATERIAL

---

EXPLANATION OF ANNEXED BUDGETS AND OTHER MATERIAL

Part IV contains detailed budgets and explanatory statements of certain activities which are not part of the budget totals, but which are made available as auxiliary information. Also included in this part is a comprehensive table of principal disbursements and repayments of direct loans and information on advance appropriations.

ANNEXED BUDGETS OF GOVERNMENT ACTIVITIES

Public Law 93-32 removed the governmental financing of rural electric and telephone systems from the budget totals.

The Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 removed another account from the budget totals—Housing for the elderly or handicapped.

A new, wholly owned Government corporation, the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation, was established by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, within the Department of Labor but outside the budget totals.

The Environmental Financing Authority, created by the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972, began operations in 1974. The Authority is authorized to purchase obligations issued by State and local authorities to finance the non-Federal share of certain waste treatment projects.

An Exchange stabilization fund was established by the Gold Reserve Act of 1934 for the purpose of stabilizing the exchange value of the dollar. Since it is not practicable to forecast the transactions of the fund in gold, foreign currencies, and foreign investments, no estimates are provided for 1975 and 1976.

The Export-Import Bank, a wholly owned Government corporation, was removed from the budget totals by the Export Expansion Act of 1971. The Bank will again be included in the budget totals on October 1, 1976, pursuant to Public Law 93-646.

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System provides its administrative budget for inclusion without further review. In conformance with its accounting system, the figures for the Board are on a calendar year basis.

The budget presentation of the Postal Service reflects its conversion to independent status consistent with the Postal Reorganization Act of 1970. The activities of the Postal Service, but not the Federal subsidy, are excluded from the budget totals and presented here.

The Federal Financing Bank was created by the Federal Financing Bank Act of 1973, to assure coordination of Federal and federally assisted borrowing programs with the overall economic and fiscal policies of the Government, to reduce the cost of Federal and federally assisted borrowing from the public, and to assure that such borrowings are financed in a manner least disruptive to private financial markets and institutions.

The bank is authorized to make commitments to purchase and sell, and to purchase and sell on terms and conditions determined by the bank, any obligation which is issued, sold, or guaranteed by a Federal agency.

The U.S. Railway Association was established by the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973. It is a Government corporation which is preparing a final Midwest and Northeast rail system plan. The Association is authorized to make loans to implement the system plan. Administrative expenses of the Association are reflected in Part I.

ANNEXED BUDGETS OF GOVERNMENT-SPONSORED CREDIT AGENCIES

This section includes a corporation to assist in financing college student loans, four systems of privately owned banks, and two privately owned corporations in the field of mortgage finance, all of which are chartered by the Federal Government and supervised by a Government agency. These budgets are not reviewed by the President, and are presented as submitted by the agencies.

OTHER MATERIALS

A table in this section presents disbursements, repayments, and net outlays for direct loans. Loan disbursements are reported net of loans written off and other noncash adjustments to balances outstanding. Loan repayments are collections of principal only; interest is excluded. Also included in this section is information on accounts authorized to receive, in 1976, advance appropriations for 1977. The information is required to be included in the budget by section 601 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

ANNEXED BUDGETS

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Public enterprise funds:

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION ADMINISTRATION

To carry into effect the provisions of the Rural Electrification Act of 1936 as amended (7 U.S.C. 901-950(b)), as follows:

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION AND TELEPHONE REVOLVING FUND LOAN AUTHORIZATIONS

Insured loans pursuant to the authority of section 305 of [Public Law 93-32] the Rural Electrification Act of 1936, as amended (7 U.S.C. 935), shall be made as follows: rural electrification loans, [not less than $700,000,000] $618,000,000, and rural telephone loans, [not less than $200,000,000] $140,000,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That loans made pursuant to section 306 of that Act are in addition to these amounts.

For "Rural Electrification and Telephone Revolving Fund loan authorizations" loans for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1976, pursuant to the authority of section 305 of the Rural Electrification Act of 1936, as amended (7 U.S.C. 935), shall be made as follows: rural electrification loans, $155,000,000, and rural telephone loans, $35,000,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That loans made pursuant to section 306 of that Act are in addition to these amounts. The Rural Electrification Administration conducts two capital investment programs: (1) The rural electrification program, to provide electric service to farms and other rural establishments; and (2) the rural telephone program, to furnish and improve telephone service in rural areas.

Insured electric and telephone loans are financed from the Rural Electrification and Telephone Revolving Fund (RETRF), established by Public Law 93-32, approved May 11, 1973, which amended the Rural Electrification Act of 1936, as amended. Insured loans bear either 2% or 5% interest in accordance with criteria as specified in the act, and must be repaid within a period not to exceed 35 years. REA also guarantees loans made by the Federal Financing Bank (FFB) and other qualified lenders at rates agreed upon by the lender and the borrower.

1. Rural electrification.—This capital investment program is financed through REA insured loans and guarantees of loans made by other qualified lenders for the construction and operation of generating plants, electric transmission and distribution lines or systems in rural areas. REA also has authority to make insured loans or guarantee loans to electrification borrowers to be reloaned to their consumers for the purpose of financing the wiring of premises and the acquisition and installation of electrical and plumbing appliances and equipment.

The 1976 budget request reflects the availability of supplemental financing from the National Rural Utilities Cooperative Finance Corporation (CFC) and other sources to satisfy a part of the capital requirements of the rural electric systems.

The Rural Telephone Bank (RTB) was established by Public Law 92-12, approved May 7, 1971, which amended the Rural Electrification Act of 1936, as amended. The RTB provides a supplemental source of financing for the REA telephone program. Public Law 92-234, approved June 30, 1972, amended the act to permit the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase the Bank's debentures. This has minimized the Bank's borrowing costs. The Bank charges an interest rate based on the average cost of money to the Bank, but not less than 5% per annum. The interest rate was 6.5% for loans made in the first quarter of fiscal year 1974, and 7.0% for loans made in the remainder of that year. During the first quarter of fiscal year 1975, loans were made at 7.5% interest. The Governor of the Bank has determined that the average cost of money is 8.0% beginning October 1, 1974, and that is the rate of interest being charged.

Equity capital of the Bank consists of Class A stock purchased by the United States, Class B and C stock purchased by Bank borrowers, organizations eligible to become borrowers and organizations controlled by borrowers, and retained earnings. The maximum budget authority of the Bank is related to its borrowing authority which by law is limited to 20 times its paid in capital and retained earnings. Fiscal year 1975 total budget authority of the Bank is estimated at $2.7 billion and for fiscal year 1976, it is estimated at $3.3 billion, comprised of $780 million in new budget authority and $2.56 billion in unobligated authority brought forward.

Bank loans totaled $163 million in fiscal year 1974 and after 2½ years in operation, 309 loans have been approved totaling over $397 million. Telephone Bank loans are estimated at $160 million for 1975 and $180 million for 1976.

Administrative support for the general operations of the Bank is provided on a part-time basis by REA employees and the Office of the General Counsel, without cost to the Bank, as provided for in the enabling legislation. Certain administrative expenses, such as expenses of the elected members of the Board of Directors, postage fees and the audit by the General Accounting Office, must be borne by the Bank. These expenses amounted to $34 thousand in 1974 and are estimated at $50 thousand for 1975 and 1976.

Section 202 of the Housing Act of 1959 established a program of housing assistance to lower income persons who are elderly or handicapped. Amendments in the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 removed these transactions from the budget after August, 1974. The Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1975 limited the amount of loans that could be made during 1975 to $100 million, plus the unobligated balance in the fund on December 31, 1974.

The full amount provided will be made available, and reservations are estimated at $34 million in 1975, $175 million in 1976, and $40 million during the transition period.

Title IV of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-406) provides for the establishment of a wholly owned Government Corporation, the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation. This Corporation is within the Department of Labor and administered by a board of directors, the chairman being the Secretary of Labor. The Corporation's mission is to administer insurance programs to prevent the loss of pension benefits to participants if pension plans terminate without sufficient assets to pay the insured benefits, and to provide portability assistance.

Budget program.—The act further provides that the Corporation's budget not be included in the totals of the U.S. budget, however it is subject to the budget and related provisions of the Government Corporation Control Act.

1. Administration.—To administer the basic benefits, employer's contingent liability and nonbasic benefit programs covering single- and multi-employer plans, including executive direction, program development, program operations, legal support, communications, financial and management controls, and administrative support.

2. Benefit payments.—To pay benefits under the basic benefits, employer's contingent liability and nonbasic benefit insurance programs.

Financing.—To carry out its programs, the Corporation will be self-financing and is authorized to borrow up to $100 million from the U.S. Treasury.

Operating results.—The Corporation's main sources of revenue will be insurance premiums from the three programs which it collects, recoveries from employers for liabilities imposed by the act, and earnings on assets of the Corporation.

The borrowings together with the sources of revenue will be used to pay the administrative costs and benefit payments.

The Environmental Financing Authority was created by section 12 of Public Law 92-500. The Authority is authorized to make commitments to purchase any obligation or participation which is issued by a State or local public body to finance the non-Federal share of the cost of any project for the construction of waste treatment works which the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency has determined to be eligible under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act.

The Authority is authorized, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to issue and have outstanding obligations having such maturities and bearing such rate or rates of interest as may be determined by the Authority. As authorized in appropriation acts, the Secretary of the Treasury may, at his discretion, purchase or agree to purchase any of these obligations issued and to use therefor the proceeds of the sale of any securities issued under the Second Liberty Bond Act. Each purchase of obligations by the Secretary shall be upon terms and conditions as to yield a return at a rate not less than a rate determined by the Secretary taking into consideration the current average yield on outstanding marketable obligations of the United States of comparable maturities. The Secretary may sell any of these obligations acquired by him. All purchases and sales by the Secretary of these obligations will be treated as public debt transactions.

The Authority created by the Act expires on June 30, 1975, after which time its functions will be handled, in part, by the Farmers Home Administration.

For the purpose of stabilizing the exchange value of the dollar, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to enter into stabilization agreements, and to deal in gold and foreign exchange and other instruments of credit and securities. An exchange stabilization fund, with a capital of $200 million (derived from the increment resulting from the reduction in the weight of the gold dollar which took place in 1934) is authorized by law for this purpose (31 U.S.C. 822a). All earnings and interest accruing are paid into this fund and are available for the purposes thereof, including expenses. Transactions in special drawing rights and U.S. holdings of SDR's are administered by this fund.

The principal sources of the fund's income have been the handling charge imposed on purchases and sales of gold for the account of the fund, profits on foreign exchange transactions, and interest on investments held by the fund. The cumulative income of the fund from the time it began operations has been $471 million and its administrative expenses $111 million, resulting in a net income as of June 30, 1974, of $360 million.

It is not practicable to forecast the transactions of the fund in gold, foreign currencies, foreign investments, and the like. Therefore, no estimates have been furnished for 1975 and 1976.

Liabilities of the fund include $1,162 million advanced to the fund as a result of drawings of foreign currencies by the Secretary from the International monetary fund.

The Federal Financing Bank Act of 1973 established a Federal Financing Bank to provide for coordinated and more efficient financing of Federal and federally assisted borrowings from the public and for other purposes.

Demands for funds through Federal and federally assisted borrowing programs have been increasing rapidly and such borrowings have not been coordinated with overall Federal fiscal and debt management policies. The purpose of this act is to assure coordination of these programs, and with the overall economic and fiscal policies of the Government, to reduce the costs of Federal and federally assisted borrowings from the public, and to assure that such borrowings are financed in a manner least disruptive of private financial markets and institutions.

The Bank has a Board of Directors consisting of five persons, one of whom is the Secretary of the Treasury as Chairman of the Board and four others appointed by the President.

The Bank makes commitments to purchase and sell, on terms and conditions determined by the Bank, any obligation which is issued, sold, or guaranteed by a Federal agency. Any Federal agency which is authorized to issue, sell, or guarantee any obligation is authorized to issue or sell such obligations directly to the Bank. The Bank is authorized with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue publicly and have outstanding at any one time not in excess of $15 billion, plus such additional amounts as may be borrowed from the Treasury.

The Export-Import Bank of the United States was organized in 1934. Its existing programs are authorized under the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945, as amended. The purpose of the Bank is to aid in financing and to facilitate U.S. exports and imports.

To accomplish its objective, Eximbank authority and resources are used to supplement the private financing market by:

1. Providing financing for large projects for which private institutions may have difficulty marshalling the funds;
2. Providing repayment terms needed by the buyer to meet his cash flow projections;
3. Moderating the cost of financing to meet foreign officially sponsored competition; and
4. Risk-taking, such as sharing commercial risks and assuming political risks that cannot appropriately be taken by the exporter or private banks.

The schedules presented herewith reflect the outlays which would have been included in the budget totals if the Bank's activities had not been excluded by statute as of August 17, 1971. Beginning October 1, 1976, the Bank's receipts and disbursements will again be included in the budget totals.

Operating results and financial condition.—The bank is a wholly owned Government corporation. Capital stock of $1 billion was purchased by the U.S. Treasury. In addition, the Bank is authorized to borrow from the Treasury up to $6 billion; the Bank pays interest on such borrowings.

The Bank's net income is estimated to be $58,451 thousand in 1976, compared with $74,330 thousand in 1975 and $110,311 thousand in 1974. From its net income, the Bank paid a $50.0 million dividend to the Treasury in 1974 and added the remaining balance of $60.3 million to its retained earnings reserve to provide for future contingencies. The Bank expects to follow a similar course in 1975 and 1976. Total investment of the Government in the corporation is estimated to be $2,646 million on June 30, 1976.

LIMITATION ON ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES

Not to exceed $11,416,000 (to be computed on an accrual basis) shall be available during the current fiscal year for administrative expenses, including hire of passenger motor vehicles, services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, and not to exceed $24,000 for entertainment allowances for members of the Board of Directors: Provided, That (1) fees or dues to international organizations of credit institutions engaged in financing foreign trade, (2) necessary expenses (including special services performed on a contract or fee basis, but not including other personal services) in connection with the acquisition, operation, maintenance, improvement, or disposition of any real or personal property belonging to the Bank or in which it has an interest, including expenses of collections of pledged collateral, or the investigation or appraisal of any property in respect to which an application for a loan has been made, and (3) expenses (other than internal expenses of the Bank) incurred in connection with the issuance and servicing of guarantees, insurance, and reinsurance, shall be considered as non-administrative expenses for the purposes hereof.

For "Limitation on administrative expenses" for the period July 1, 1976, through September 30, 1975, not to exceed $2,949,000, of which not to exceed $6,000 shall be for entertainment allowances for members of the Board of Directors.

Note.—The appropriation for this account for 1975 had not been enacted at the time this budget was prepared. A temporary continuing resolution is in effect for the period July 1, 1974, to Feb. 28, 1975. The amounts shown below for 1975 are current estimates based on the limitation on administrative expenses in the 1975 budget.

The Federal Reserve System operates under the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act of 1913, as amended, and other acts of Congress.

Program.—To carry out its responsibilities under the act, the Board determines general monetary, credit, and operating policies for the System as a whole and formulates the rules and regulations necessary to carry out the purposes of the Federal Reserve Act. The Board's principal duties consist of exerting an influence over credit conditions and supervising the Federal Reserve banks and member banks.

Capital outlays.—Construction program.—Annex office building.—Construction of an annex office building and garage immediately north of its present building was virtually completed and the building was occupied in 1974. Certain details of exterior landscaping and interior finishing remain to be completed in early 1975. A $4.3 million share of the cost of the north garage will be recovered from the Department of the Interior over the next 40 years under a 1968 agreement.

2. Renovation of Board Building.—A study to determine the feasibility of renovating the existing Board Building is being completed. The study is directed toward an upgrade of the mechanical and electrical utility systems and more efficient utilization of interior space. The Board will not consider this plan until early 1975. Therefore, the costs shown above are staff estimates only, subject to review and approval by the Board. During any renovation period outside office space may be required to house displaced employees.

Financing.—Under the provisions of section 10 of the Federal Reserve Act, the Board of Governors levies upon the Federal Reserve banks, in proportion to their capital and surplus, an assessment sufficient to pay its estimated expenses. The Board, under the act, determines and prescribes the manner in which its obligations are incurred and its expenses paid. Funds derived from assessments are deposited in the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, and the act provides that such funds "Shall not be construed to be Government funds or appropriated moneys." No Government appropriation is required to support operations of the Board.

Employment.—The Board's 1974 and 1975 estimates are in harmony with the President's announced employment constraints.

The Postal Reorganization Act of 1970, Public Law 91-375, converted the Post Office Department into the U.S. Postal Service, an independent establishment within the executive branch. The Postal Service commenced operations July 1, 1971. This agency is charged with providing customers with reliable mail service at reasonable rates and fees.

The U.S. Postal Service is governed by an 11-member Board of Governors, including nine Governors appointed by the President, a Postmaster General who is selected by the Governors, and a Deputy Postmaster General who is selected by the Governors and the Postmaster General.

Domestic postage rates, postal services and classification of mail matter are subject to public notice and administrative hearing procedures under the authority of a five-member Presidentially appointed Postal Rate Commission, which makes recommendations to the Governors. Final determinations on changes in mail rates or classifications are made by the Governors subject to appellate review.

The activities of the U.S. Postal Service are financed from the following sources: (1) Mail and services revenue, (2) reimbursements from Federal and non-Federal sources, (3) proceeds from borrowing, (4) interest from U.S. securities and other investments, and (5) appropriations by the Congress. All receipts and deposits are made to the Postal Service fund and are available without fiscal year limitation for payment of all expenses incurred, retirement of obligations, investment in capital, and investment in obligations and securities.

The 1976 program for the U.S. Postal Service is based on an anticipated mail volume, before proposed changes in Since 1973, transactions of the Postal Service fund and the assets and liabilities of the U.S. Postal Service no longer appear within the totals of the U.S. budget. The schedules presented here reflect summary data on postal operations.

The following program activities are included in the budget estimates:

1. Postal operations.—This activity provides for services performed in the processing of all classes of incoming and outgoing mail at all postal facilities, window services, supervisory and administration activities, and costs of stations and branches operated under contract.

2. Delivery services.—This activity provides for the delivery of all classes of mail, collection services, special delivery services, and rural mail delivery services.

3. Transportation.—Included in this activity are local, intercity, and international transportation of mail by air, rail, highway, and water.

4. Planning and new development.—This activity provides for long-range planning, general research, applied research and development, and related systems planning and design. Administrative functions are also included.

5. Administration.—This activity provides for the overall planning and management of Postal Service programs and related support services. Costs of contractual professional and technical services, the Board of Governors, the Postal Service Advisory Council, the independent Postal Rate Commission which is financed out of the postal service fund pursuant to 39 U.S.C. 2003 (e), and the regional management selection boards are included.

Administration and operation of management information systems such as the Postal Source Data System and the training programs of the Postal Service Training and Development Institute are covered in this activity. Contributions to the workmen's compensation fund and claims and indemnities are also included. In addition, the budget includes Postal Service reimbursement to the Government beginning in 1974 for unemployment insurance benefits paid former Postal Service employees since July 1, 1971, and for the Postal Service portion of the unfunded liability of the Civil Service retirement and disability fund.

This activity also provides for the investigative and law enforcement responsibilities of the Postal Inspection Service pertaining to the violation of postal laws, prevention and detection of loss and mistreatment of mails, and loss of Government funds and property. Cooperative efforts in the national program to combat organized crime, activities directed toward crime prevention within the Postal Service, security programs for protection of Postal personnel and property, internal audit, and administrative functions at headquarters and field offices are included.

6. Logistical support.—This activity includes rental of facilities, leasing services, costs of fuel, utilities and communications, and supplies and procurement related to postal operations. Administration and operation of the area supply centers, label printing units, the Stamped Envelope Agency, and the mail equipment shops are provided for in this activity.

7. Capital investment.—This activity provides for the capital investment program of the Postal Service and includes acquisition of sites, construction of postal facilities, purchase of leased buildings, alteration and improvement of leased and owned facilities, and investments in major mail processing machinery and equipment in large postal facilities designed for such installations. Purchase of vehicles and auxiliary equipment for replacement of worn-out vehicles and for additions to the fleet required by growth in mail volume and delivery area, augmentation of the carrier motorization program, and law enforcement functions are included in the capital investment program. Customer services equipment, which includes self-service postal units and vending machines, and postal support equipment required for postal operations are also included.

8. Conversion to Government fiscal year.—This activity provides for the costs associated with conversion from a postal fiscal year, which is the basis for all in-service estimating, reporting, and program evaluation, to a Government fiscal year.

9. Revenue and expense.—Amounts estimated to become available in 1976 include $10,555,257 thousand from revenues and receipts; $13,060 thousand from sales of assets at book value, $1,550,000 thousand net from authorized borrowings; and $1,489,685 thousand from the appropriation. Payment to the Postal Service Fund, which includes $27,913 thousand to cover Post Office Department liability to the workmen's compensation fund for injuries prior to July 1, 1971, and $31,000 thousand to cover Post Office Department unfunded liability for employees' earned and unused annual leave. Total cash from these sources is estimated to be $13,608,002 thousand.

Section 2005 of the Postal Reorganization Act authorizes borrowing authority of $10 billion for the Service with a yearly limitation of $2 billion, of which not more than $500 million may be used to cover operating expenses. As of June 30, 1976, it is expected that obligations outstanding will amount to $2,800 million.

The United States Railway Association was created by the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973 to plan and implement a system for restructuring and rehabilitating rail services in the Northeast and Midwest regions of the Nation. The act includes two major loan guarantee financing provisions as follows:

(1) Loans for maintenance and improvement of plant.—Section 215 of the act authorizes $150 million to finance agreements between the Secretary of Transportation and railroads in reorganization that will assist in maintaining and improving railroad facilities and equipment during the planning period. An increase of $150 million in the section 215 authorization is being proposed, which would raise total to $300 million.

(2) Loans related to implementation of the system plan.—Section 210 of the act authorizes the Association to issue obligations in amounts that do not exceed $1,500 million outstanding at any one time, in addition to the section 215 funds mentioned above. These funds are to be used to make loans to the Consolidated Rail Corporation, the National Railroad Passenger Corporation, and other eligible railroads for the purpose of implementing a system plan for restructuring the rail services of the Northeast and Midwest.

The final system plan proposed by the Association is not due to be transmitted to Congress until July 26, 1975. The reorganized operating Corporation will not have control of the rail properties transferred to it until January 1976. The estimates of future activity shown in the Program and Financing schedules have been prepared without the benefit of specific information concerning the structure, operating practices, or rehabilitation program of the entity that will undertake to provide rail services in the region once the existing railroads are reorganized.

The Student Loan Marketing Association (SLMA) is a Government-sponsored, private corporation created by the Education Amendments of 1972.

Its purpose is to expand funds available for student loans by providing liquidity to banks, educational institutions, and other lenders engaged in the Guaranteed Student Loan Program.

SLMA develops liquidity primarily through secondary market and warehousing activities. Secondary market activities can involve the direct purchase and sale of student loans by SLMA as well as issuance by SLMA of commitments or other undertakings with respect to student loans in order to enhance their marketability by others. Warehousing operations involve the making of loans to lenders secured by student loans; proceeds from warehousing loans are required to be invested in additional insured student loans.

Operations.—By mid-October 1974, SLMA had disbursed loans and issued commitments for loans in the approximate amount of $200 million at a variety of interest rates and maturities under its Warehousing advance program. SLMA expects to expand this program to a level of $250 million during 1975 and $450 million during 1976. In September of 1974, SLMA commenced purchases under its Loan purchase program. It is anticipated that this program will expand in 1975 to a level of $40 million and increase further in 1976 to $175 million.

Financing.—SLMA obtains funds for its programs primarily from the sale of its securities. SLMA is authorized with the approval of the Secretary of HEW and the Secretary of the Treasury to issue and to have outstanding debt obligations. The Secretary of HEW is authorized by the Education Amendments of 1972 to guarantee as to principal and interest such obligations issued prior to July 1, 1982. During 1973 and 1974 SLMA obtained its funds from the sale of these guaranteed debt obligations. In June 1974, SLMA sold a guaranteed debt obligation to the Federal Financing Bank, and expects to continue to sell guaranteed obligations to that bank.

Management.—Pursuant to the Education Amendments of 1972, the President of the United States has appointed an interim Board of Directors. The shareholders of SLMA are entitled to elect 14 members to the Board when, in the judgment of the President of the United States, sufficient common stock has been sold. The President will continue to appoint the remaining 7 members of the 21-member Board.

The forecast data contained in this material are based on certain specific assumptions by management, including the continued successful development, implementation and financing of authorized programs. The Board of Directors has not yet reviewed or approved these financial estimates. Accordingly, such data should not be relied upon as an official forecast of the Corporation's future business.

<sup>1</sup> The items for "Change in selected resources" are identified on the financial condition statement.

The Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA) is a Government-sponsored private corporation. Its purpose is to provide supplementary assistance to the secondary market for home mortgages by supplying a degree of liquidity for mortgage investments, thereby improving the distribution of investment capital available for home mortgage financing.

To carry out this purpose, FNMA buys mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the Veterans' Administration, conventional mortgages, and certain mortgages insured by the Farmers Home Administration.

The Emergency Home Finance Act of 1970 empowered FNMA, with the approval of the Secretary of HUD, to purchase, service, lend on the security of, and otherwise invest in conventional mortgages. FNMA acts to minimize the possible additional risk involved in purchasing conventional mortgages by applying strict qualifications to such purchases.

The authorizing statute, the Housing Act of 1954, originally contemplated that FNMA's secondary market operations would ultimately be completely owned and financed by private participants. On September 30, 1968, pursuant to Public Law 90-448, approved August 1, 1968, FNMA was converted to a Government-sponsored, privately owned corporation whose expenditures and receipts are not subject to the constraints of the Federal budget.

The common stock of the Corporation is owned by the public and is fully transferable and fully traded. The Corporation may accumulate funds for its capital surplus account from private sources by requiring each mortgage seller to make payments of nonrefundable capital contributions, equal to not more than 2% of the unpaid principal amounts of mortgages purchased or to be purchased by the Corporation from such seller.

The Association has three separate authorities to borrow money from private sources. It may issue subordinated capital debentures in an amount not in excess of twice the net equity. It may, in addition, borrow amounts not in excess of the sum of net equity and subordinated capital debentures outstanding multiplied by a factor established by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. This factor is currently set at 25. These borrowings usually take the form of debentures, short-term discount notes, or bank loans. Finally, FNMA may issue securities, guaranteed by the Government National Mortgage Association, which are fully backed by pools of mortgages. This last type of borrowing is limited only by the size of FNMA's loan portfolio.

For the years ending June 30, 1973, and June 30, 1974, income and retained earnings are as follows (in millions of dollars):

Gross revenue	1,592	1,934

The banks for cooperatives, of which there are 13, are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. They finance the operations of farmers' cooperatives. The funds to finance these loans are obtained primarily from sales of bonds to the public and from their own capital funds. The bonds which the banks issue are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest. All of their expenses are paid from their own income and are not included in the budget of the United States. Included in these expenses is the banks' share of the costs of the Farm Credit Administration.

The Farm Credit Act of 1955 provided for eventual ownership of the banks by farmers' cooperatives and the retirement of the U.S. Government's investment. This was accomplished on December 31, 1968, when the remainder of the U.S. Government capital was retired.

The banks for cooperatives presently operate under authorities contained in title III of the Farm Credit Act of 1971, Public Law 92-181.

The banks for cooperatives will continue to operate in their normal manner during the budget transition period from June 30 to a September 30 fiscal year.

The Federal intermediate credit banks, of which there are 12, are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. They serve as banks of discount for agriculture, discounting agricultural and livestock paper for, and making loans to, local financing institutions, such as production credit associations, agricultural credit corporations, livestock loan companies, and commercial banks. They also provide the production credit associations with necessary supervision and services.

The banks' lending funds are obtained primarily from the sale of bonds to the public and from their own capital funds. The bonds are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest. All of their expenses are paid from their own income and are not included in the budget of the United States. Included in these expenses is the credit banks' share of the costs of the Farm Credit Administration.

The banks were originally wholly-owned Government corporations set up exclusively as banks of discount; however, pursuant to the Farm Credit Act of 1956, the banks became mixed-ownership corporations and were made responsible for supervising the production credit associations and assisting them to make sound credit available to farmers.

All of the capital stock of the Federal intermediate credit banks from organization in 1923 to December 31, 1956, was held by the U.S. Government. The 1956 act provided a long-range plan for the eventual ownership of the credit banks by the production credit associations and the gradual retirement of the Government's investment in banks. This retirement was accomplished in full on December 31, 1968.

The Federal intermediate credit banks presently operate under authorities contained in title II of the Farm Credit Act of 1971, Public Law 92-181.

The Federal intermediate credit banks will continue to operate in their normal manner during the budget transition period from a June 30 to September 30 fiscal year.

The Federal land banks, through the 553 Federal land bank associations, which are located at the local level, make long-term real estate loans to farmers and ranchers. These banks and associations are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. The funds to finance these loans are obtained primarily from sale of the banks' bonds to the public and from their own capital funds. These bonds are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest. All of their expenses are paid from their income and are not included in the budget of the United States. Included in these expenses is the land banks' share of the costs of the Farm Credit Administration.

The last of the Government capital that had been invested in the banks was repaid in 1947.

The Federal land banks presently operate under authorities contained in title I of the Farm Credit Act of 1971, Public Law 92-181.

The Federal land banks will continue to operate in their normal manner during the budget transition period from a June 30 to September 30 fiscal year.

The 12 Federal home loan banks are chartered and supervised by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board under the authority of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act of 1932. The banks are financial institutions and their main function is to supply their members—principally savings and loan type institutions, and savings banks—with credit to smooth their operations and enhance their service to the public as savings media and home mortgage lenders. Each bank operates in a geographic district designated by the Board and together the banks cover all of the United States as well as Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Guam. In 1974 the banks extended credit amounting to $11.0 billion and received repayments of $4.5 billion. Advances outstanding on June 30, 1974, totaled $17.6 billion.

The principal source of funds for the lending operation is the sale of consolidated obligations of the banks to the public. On June 30, 1974, $16.7 billion of these obligations were outstanding. The consolidated obligations are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government as to principal or interest. Other sources of lendable funds include a portion of members' deposits as determined by Board policy (with total deposits amounting to $2.1 billion on June 30, 1974), and funds paid for the purchase of capital stock by member institutions, amounting to $2.4 billion at the end of 1974. Funds not immediately used for advances to members are invested until such times as needed.

The capital stock of the Federal home loan banks is owned entirely by the members. Initially the U.S. Government purchased stock of the banks in the amount of $125 million. The banks had repurchased the Government's investment in full by mid-1951, and since that time the banks have been owned entirely by their members.

The entire operating expenses of the banks are paid from their own income and are not included in the budget of the United States. Included in these expenses is the assessment by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to cover a substantial portion of the Board's administrative and other costs.

The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (a federally chartered corporation) was organized on July 24, 1970, under the Emergency Home Finance Act of 1970. The act exempts the Corporation from all taxation by the United States or by any State, county, municipality, or local taxing authority, except for real property taxes. The Corporation is under the direction of a Board of Directors composed of the members of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. The Corporation purchases, sells, and otherwise deals in mortgages on residential properties. The Corporation's capital stock was issued, at par, to the Federal home loan banks; the stock is nonvoting and nontransferable, and its ownership is restricted to the Federal home loan banks.

ADVANCE APPROPRIATIONS FOR 1977

Section 601(h) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-344) requires inclusion in the budget of: ". . . information with respect to estimates of appropriations for the next succeeding fiscal year for grants, contracts, or other payments under any program for which there is an authorization of appropriations for such succeeding fiscal year and such appropriations are authorized to be included in an appropriation act for the fiscal year preceding the fiscal year in which the appropriation is to be available for obligation."

In fulfillment of this requirement, the following table lists those accounts authorized to receive, in fiscal year 1976, advance appropriations for fiscal year 1977. The listing is in two parts. Section I shows the amounts of advance 1977 appropriations being requested in the 1976 budget. Section II is a listing of accounts for which no advance 1977 appropriations are requested in the 1976 budget, although such advance appropriations are authorized. Advance appropriations may be authorized for several of the programs contained in a single account. For some accounts (e.g. Elementary and secondary education), advance appropriations may be requested (though not necessarily in the amounts authorized) for some of the account's programs and not requested for others. In such cases, the account is listed in both section I and section II of the following table:
