

APPENDIX

BUDGET OF THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT FISCAL YEAR 1984

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET

THE BUDGET DOCUMENTS

Budget of the United States Government, 1984 contains the Budget Message of the President and presents an overview of the President's budget proposals. It includes explanations of spending programs in terms of national needs, agency missions, and basic programs, and an analysis of estimated receipts, including a discussion of the President's tax program. This document also contains a description of the budget system and various summary tables on the budget as a whole.

United States Budget in Brief, 1984 is designed for use by the general public. It provides a more concise, less technical overview of the 1984 Budget than the above volume. Summary and historical tables on the Federal budget and debt are also provided, together with graphic displays.

Budget of the United States Government, 1984—Appendix contains detailed information on the various appropriations and funds that comprise the budget. The Appendix contains more detailed information than any of the other budget documents. It includes for each agency: the proposed text of appropriation language, budget schedules for each account, new legislative proposals, explanations of the work to be performed and the funds needed, proposed general provisions applicable to the appropriations of entire agencies or groups of agencies, and schedules of permanent positions. Supplementals and rescission proposals for the current year are presented separately. Information is also provided on certain activities whose outlays are not part of the budget-totals.

Special Analyses, Budget of the United States Government, 1984 contains analyses that are designed to highlight specified program areas or provide other significant presentations of Federal budget data. This document includes information about: alternative views of the budget, i.e., current services and national income accounts; economic and financial analyses of the budget covering Government finances and operations as a whole; and Government-wide program and financial information for Federal civil rights and research and development programs.

Instructions for purchasing copies of any of these materials are on the last page of this volume.

GENERAL NOTES

1. All years referred to are fiscal years, unless otherwise noted.
2. Detail in the tables, text, and charts of this volume may not add to the totals because of rounding.

EXPLANATION OF ESTIMATES

Part I contains various tables and certain schedules in support of the budget, including explanatory statements of the work to be performed and the money needed, as well as the text of the language proposed for enactment by Congress on each item for which congressional action in an appropriation bill is required. It also contains the text of general provisions of appropriations acts, proposed for enactment by the Congress, that apply to entire agencies or groups of agencies.

ARRANGEMENT

The chapters of Part I reflect the branches of Government, and the major departments, agencies, and activities of the executive branch. Most of the smaller agencies in the executive branch are grouped in one chapter—"Other independent agencies."

Each chapter is organized by major subordinate organizations within the agency (usually bureaus) or by major program area. For each bureau or major program area, Federal funds, covering the funds that are not set aside in "trust," precede trust funds, covering moneys that are held by the Government in accounts established by law or by trust agreement for specific purposes. Within each fund group, accounts with new budget authority in 1984 generally will precede those without such an entry.

The proposed language for general provisions of appropriations acts that are applicable to the agency in that chapter appear in a separate section at the end of the chapter. General provisions that apply to specified groups of agencies are placed in the chapter covering the first agency that appears in the respective appropriations act. The general provisions that are Government-wide in scope (identified "Departments, Agencies, and Corporations"), normally contained in the Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government Appropriations Act, are placed at the end of the Executive Office of the President chapter.

An explanation of the types of funds included in the budget may be found in Part 7 of—The Budget of the United States Government, 1984.

FORM OF DETAILED MATERIAL

APPROPRIATION LANGUAGE

The language proposed for inclusion in the 1984 appropriation acts is printed following the account title. The language of the 1983 appropriation acts, printed in roman type, is used as a base. Brackets enclose material that is proposed for deletion; italic type indicates proposed new language. At the end of the final language paragraph, and printed in italics within parentheses, are citations to any relevant authorizing legislation and to the appropriation act from which the basic text of the 1984 language is taken. An illustration of proposed appropriation language for 1984 follows:

I-2

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For necessary expenses of the Bureau of Economic Analysis, [$14,279,000] the Office of Federal Statistical Policy and Standards, the Office of Industrial Economics, and the Office of Economic Affairs, $16,875,000. (15 U.S.C. 171, 175, 1512, 1516; 22 U.S.C. 286f, 3101-3108; 31 U.S.C. 18b; Department of Government Appropriation Act, 1983.)

BASIS FOR SCHEDULES

The 1982 column of this budget generally presents the actual transactions and balances for that year, as recorded in agency accounts.

For 1983, the regular schedules include enacted appropriations and also identify the amounts for supplemental appropriations requested to meet the increased costs of statutory and wage-board pay raises. When the annual appropriation has not been enacted, the regular schedules will include the amounts provided under the authority of a continuing resolution. Requests for supplemental appropriations to meet increased 1983 program costs (where costs other than for statutory pay raises are involved), or to finance proposed program expansions in 1983, are included in Part III. Also included in Part III in addition to proposed appropriation language for both pay and program supplemental requests are proposed rescissions.

The 1984 column of the regular schedules includes proposed appropriations for all existing programs, including those that require extension or renewal of expiring laws. Amounts for proposed new legislation, if any, are shown generally in separate schedules, following the regular schedules or in budget sequence in the respective bureau. These schedules are headed "Proposed for later transmittal under proposed legislation." Appropriation language is included with the regular schedules, but not with the separate schedules for proposed legislation. However, when the amount requested in the budget is less than the amount required for the program level mandated in existing authorizing legislation (as in the case of entitlement programs), the reduced amount is reflected in the proposed appropriation language and the regular schedules. The proposed change in the authorizing legislation may be included in the appropriation language transmitted with the budget or in proposed legislation, to be transmitted later.

Obligations refer to orders placed, contracts awarded, loan agreements made, and recurring services (such as rent, utilities, and personal services) received during the year, regardless of the time of payment. They are usually the basis of the schedules and total obligations are always shown. The activities in some schedules may be presented in terms of applied costs where they provide a more meaningful measure of the level of program activity. For operating programs, costs represent the value of resources consumed or used. For procurement and manufacturing programs, costs represent the value of materiel received or produced. For capital investment programs, costs for public works cover the value of work put in place, and costs for loan activities generally represent loan assets acquired.

PROGRAM AND FINANCING SCHEDULE

This schedule consists of three parts.

In the "Program by activities" section, obligations generally are shown for specific activities or projects. The activity structure is developed individually for each appropriation or fund so as to provide a meaningful presentation of information for the program being financed. That structure is tailored to the individual account and is not uniform across the Government. The last entry "total obligations," indicates the amount of budgetary resources that must be available to the appropriation account or fund.

The "Financing" section shows the budgetary resources available or estimated to be available to finance the obligations. The amounts of any offsetting collections authorized to be credited to the account are shown as subtractions from total obligations. For unobligated balances of appropriations of a prior year that have not expired, the start-of-year balances are subtracted from total obligations and the end-of-year balances are added. This shows that, on a net basis, unobligated balances are either used to finance total obligations or increased because part of the budget authority provided for that or a previous year will be carried forward and obligated in a future year. Other adjusting entries may be included. The residual is the budget authority required to finance the program. Where more than one kind of budget authority is provided, that information is shown.

The "Relation of obligations to outlays" section shows the difference between obligations, which may not be liquidated in the same year in which they are incurred, and outlays. The entry "obligations incurred, net," shows the amount of new obligations incurred in the year, less offsetting collections credited to the account. The amount of obligations that were incurred in previous years but not liquidated, are entered as an obligated balance, start of year. Similarly, an end of year obligated balance is entered. Certain adjusting entries may be included. The residual is the net amount of outlays resulting from the liquidation of obligations incurred in that year and previous years.

The account identification code, found at the head of the program and financing schedule, facilitates computer processing of budgetary information. The last three digits of this code represent the functional category to which the account is classified. Functional classification permits presentation of budget authority and outlays in terms of their purpose, rather than the organization administering the program or the account under which these funds are made available. For example, the 376 at the top of the following schedule indicates that the purpose of the program financed by this appropriation is Other advancement of commerce—a subfunction within major function 370, Commerce and housing credit. When the outlays from an account are split between two or more subfunctions within a single major function, the code of the major function is used. In those few cases where the outlays from an account are split between two or more functions, a code of 999 is used. A detailed discussion of how Federal programs are addressed to each identified national need is included in Part 5 of the budget. The individual functional categories are identified with each appropriation or fund account in the Budget Accounts Listing in Part 8 of the budget.

NARRATIVE STATEMENT OF PROGRAM AND PERFORMANCE

Narrative statements present briefly the objectives of the program and the work to be financed primarily for 1984. Measures of expected performance may be included, and the relationship to the financial estimates is described.

SCHEDULE OF OBJECT CLASSIFICATION AND PERSONNEL SUMMARY

There is shown for each account a schedule of obligations, according to the following uniform list of object classifications:

10 PERSONAL SERVICES AND BENEFITS	25 Other services
11 Personnel compensation	26 Supplies and materials
12 Personnel benefits	30 ACQUISITION OF CAPITAL ASSETS

Several of the object classes are divided into sub-classes—personnel compensation, for example, is shown separately for full-time permanent employees, for other than full-time employees, and for certain other payments. Standard level user charges are rental payments assessed by the General Services Administration for space (leased and Government-owned) and building services.

When obligations for personnel compensation are shown in the object classification schedule, a personnel summary will follow the object classification schedule, as illustrated below:

Control of Federal civilian employment is on a full-time equivalent (FTE) or workyear basis generally for the executive branch.

Average grades and salaries are computed arithmetically. Thus, the average salary can fall outside the salary range of the average grade.

BUSINESS-TYPE BUDGET STATEMENTS

Generally, business-type budget statements are presented for activities specifically required by the Government Corporation Control Act or similar legislation and for other revolving and trust revolving funds conducting business with the public. They are not usually presented for funds conducting business within the Government.

Statement of Revenue and Expense

For many revolving funds there is a statement of revenue and expense that shows the resulting net income or loss for the year. This statement usually includes accrued revenue (e.g., revenue earned) and accrued expenditures (e.g., including cost incurred but not yet paid), whether funded or unfunded.

Nonoperating income: Interest from U.S. securities	8,092	9,874	12,791
Net income for the year	28,887	34,124	43,771

Statement of Financial Condition

The statement of Financial Condition shows assets, liabilities, and Government equity for the fund at the close of each fiscal year. In addition to this information, which is similar to commercial balance sheet data, budget needs also require additional information, shown in the equity section. A disclosure is made of obligations incurred that have not yet accrued into liabilities (undelivered orders) and of budgetary resources for which no funding has been received (unfinanced budgetary resources). Unfinanced budgetary resources include orders from Federal customers that have not been filled (unfilled orders), and unfinanced budget authority in the form of authority to borrow for which borrowing has not taken place, and contract authority for which liquidating cash has not been received. Orders received from the public must be accompanied by advance payment.

The last section of the balance sheet is an "Analysis of Changes in Government Equity." This section sets forth for paid-in capital and retained income, as appropriate, the beginning balance, transactions (changes) during the year, and the balance at the end of the year.

FEDERAL CREDIT SCHEDULES

As part of an effort to establish systematic control of the levels of Federal credit during any fiscal year, the budget appendix includes annual limitations on the amount of obligations for direct loans and commitments for loan guarantees in appropriations language for appropriations or funds with credit activity. Schedules for the status of direct loans and the status of guaranteed loans summarize activity for the years shown.

Status of Direct Loans

A direct loan is a disbursement of funds (not in exchange for goods or services) that is contracted to be repaid—with or without interest—or any of the following transactions:

- direct Federal participation in loans privately made or held;
- purchase of private loans through secondary market operations;
- acquisition of guaranteed private loans or collateral in satisfaction of default or other guarantee claims.

A direct loan is counted against the annual limitation when the principal amount is obligated. Gross obligations for direct loans means the amount obligated during a fiscal year, without reductions for such items as repayments, prepayments, sale of loan assets, defaults, or forgiveness.

For each appropriation or fund with direct loan activity, a schedule is displayed immediately following the program and financing schedule as follows:

Status of Guaranteed Loans

A guaranteed loan is an agreement by which the Government pledges to pay part or all of the loan principal and interest to a lender or holder of a security, in the event of default by a third party borrower. For the purposes of credit control, the term includes agreements in the form of loan insurance; i.e., a program to pool risks, pledging the use of insurance premiums, and, under some circumstances, other resources to secure a lender against default by a borrower. The term also includes direct Federal loans that the Government has sold under guarantee or repurchase agreements.

A guaranteed loan is counted against the annual limitation when a firm commitment is made, i.e., when the Government enters into a guarantee agreement to become effective at such time as the lender meets stipulated pre-conditions. A commitment is reported for every guaranteed loan, even though the commitment and the actual guarantee may occur simultaneously. Amounts for limitations and in the schedules are the full principal amounts of loans guaranteed whether guaranteed in full or in part. The amount of the Government's contingent liability is shown as a memorandum entry in the schedule. Gross commitments for guaranteed loans means the amount committed during a fiscal year, without reductions for such items as repayments, prepayments, sale of guaranteed loans, or defaults.

For each appropriation or fund with guaranteed loan activity, a schedule is displayed immediately following the program and financing schedule (or status of direct loans schedule, if there is one) as follows:

Personal services and necessary expenses to provide support for the basic operations of the Library are financed from this appropriation.

1. Purchase of books and library materials.—The Library's collections are acquired through purchase, gift, exchange, copyright deposit, and official deposit. This includes materials in all subjects, except medicine and agriculture, for the general collections of the library and domestic and foreign law materials for the law library.

2. Preparation of books and library materials for use.—Library materials are cataloged for use and are classified for systematic arrangement on the shelves of the collection. Cataloging data is converted to machine-readable form for use by the Library of Congress, other libraries, and cataloging service agencies. The Network Development Office plans and coordinates the exchange of bibliographic information among major library cooperatives and research facilities.

3. Cataloging distribution service.—The Cataloging Distribution Service sells copies of the Library's printed catalog cards, cataloging data in machine-readable form, book catalogs, technical publications, and select bibliographies from the automated data bases.

4. Research and reader services.—Books and other library materials are provided readers in and outside the Library, reference, referral and bibliographic assistance is rendered, and custody of the collections is maintained.

5. Preservation of library materials.—Library materials are preserved in their original format by being bound or rebound, or by a variety of conservation/restoration techniques. Materials are also preserved by converting them to a more durable form through such means as the microfilming of books and newspapers, by conversion of nitrate film to safety base film, and by the conversion of deteriorating sound recordings to polyester tape.

6. Automated systems support.—Central computer support to all operations of the Library is provided by the Automated Systems Office. This support consists of systems analysis, programming, and operation of central computers, minicomputers and communication services.

7. Central support services.—This activity supports the executive staff of the Office of the Librarian; exhibit, information, and publication activities; personnel, budget and finance, procurement, buildings management; and other centralized services. It also includes rental of space off Capitol Hill.

8. American Folklife Center.—Public Law 94-201 established the American Folklife Center in the Library of Congress "to preserve and present American folklife" through field documentation, consultancies, research, publishing, exhibition and dissemination of information.

The Copyright Office is responsible for recording copyright claims, assignments, and renewals, for supplying copyright information to the public, for collecting and accounting for copyright fees, and for printing complete and indexed catalogs for each class of copyright entries. The Office is conducted for the most part on a self-sustaining basis. The amount requested is substantially counterbalanced by fees received for services rendered and the value of books and other library materials deposited in accordance with the Copyright Act and transferred to the Library of Congress. The income and obligations for 1982, and estimates for 1983 and 1984 are as follows:

	1982 actual	1983 estimate	1984 estimate
Income:
Gross receipts.....	$5,360,515	$5,400,000	$5,400,000
Estimated value of materials deposited and transferred to the Library of Congress.....	5,999,390	6,000,000	6,000,000
Total income.....	11,359,905	11,400,000	11,400,000
Obligations.....	$14,336,481	$16,157,000	$16,199,000

The effort described under each of the activities are predicated on an estimated 480,000 copyright registrations during 1984, an estimated 480,000 during 1983, and registrations of 468,000 during 1982.

1. Receiving and accounting for applications, fees, and correspondence.—Materials received by the Copyright Office are assembled and routed; accounts are maintained for all moneys received; records relating to the registration of copyrights are filed; and materials are deposited in accordance with the Copyright Act.

2. Examining copyright applications.—All applications and deposits are examined before issuance of registration certificates or recordings of documents to determine whether the provisions of the Copyright Act have been satisfied.

3. Indexing and cataloging materials received.—The Register of Copyrights is required to print complete and indexed catalogs of all items registered. The catalog entries prepared by the Copyright Office are made available in part to the Library for its general operations. It is estimated that for 1984 the number of items to be cataloged will be 480,000.

4. Reference service.—The Copyright Office makes available to the public information concerning the provisions of the Copyright Act, including procedures, policies, and rulings. Information concerning registrations is furnished on a fee basis. Obtaining compliance with registration requirements is also part of this activity.

5. Printing the catalog of copyright entries and bulletins of decisions.—Catalogs for each class of copyright entries and bulletins of copyright decisions are printed and made available to the public.

6. Records management.—The Records Management Division is responsible for storing and maintaining records related to the copyright registrations process.

7. General supervision and legal services.—The work of the Copyright Office includes legal supervision and research into the present copyright law and international copyright relations. It also involves a study of improvement of the domestic law and our international copyright relations.

8. Licensing Division.—The Licensing Division performs the responsibilities connected with the registration of cable television stations and the licensing of jukeboxes.

1. Policy analysis and research.—The Congressional Research Service provides objective, nonpartisan analytical and consultative services to the Members and committees of Congress, assisting them in the analysis, appraisal, and evaluation of any subject matter of legislative concern, including recommendations submitted to the Congress by the Executive Branch. Research services are also provided to assist Congress with its oversight, representative, and other responsibilities. Support takes the form of background studies, in-depth policy analyses, consultations, briefings, legal research, continuous liaison with committees, assistance with committee hearings, public policy seminars for Members and congressional staff, and related data and materials. Lists of subjects and policy areas that a committee might profitably pursue are periodically made available to each congressional committee. As provided by statute, the Service prepares decennially the Constitution of the United States—Analysis and Interpretation, and supplements at 2-year intervals, prepares compendiums for the annual national high school and college debate topics, and provides assistance to the Congressional Budget Office, the Office of Technology Assessment, and the General Accounting Office.

2. Documentation and status of legislation.—The Service prepares and publishes for distribution to the Congress the Digest of Public General Bills and Resolutions, including summaries of all public bills and resolutions introduced in Congress, the status of bills receiving action, and various pertinent indexes. Upon request, the Service prepares legislative history memorandums on bills for which hearings have been announced, and compiles and makes available to each committee reports on legislatively authorized programs and activities within that committee's jurisdiction that are scheduled to terminate during the current Congress.

3. Information and reference services.—The Congressional Research Service provides extensive information and reference assistance to Members and committees. Reference files containing clippings, pamphlets, and documents and automated information services are maintained for rapid information retrieval. Lists of selected reports, prepared by CRS staff on legislative issues, are regularly distributed to congressional offices. To provide faster responses and in-person services, the Service also maintains reference centers in congressional office buildings and the Congressional Reading Rooms in the Madison and Jefferson Buildings of the Library of Congress.

4. Administration.—Providing overall supervision and administrative support to the entire Congressional Research Service is the responsibility of the administrative personnel.

The Librarian of Congress may use foreign currencies to provide information of technical, scientific, cultural, or educational significance to the United States through the collection of foreign library materials and the distribution of copies thereof to libraries and research centers in the United States. The program is being carried on in two countries in 1983: India and Pakistan. Of the total amount requested in 1984, $3,976,000 will be paid in foreign currencies, while $486,000 will provide U.S. dollar support.

1. Acquisition of books and other library materials.—Based upon the requirements of other Federal agencies and certain research libraries in the United States, publications and other library materials are purchased in multiple copies and distributed to selected libraries and research centers in the United States, including the Library of Congress.

2. Program support (U.S. dollars).—U.S. dollars are required to pay certain expenses which cannot be paid by foreign currencies, such as salaries of the coordinating staff at the Library of Congress, shared administrative support provided by the Department of State, travel in some instances, and equipment and supplies which cannot be procured abroad.

The Office of the Superintendent of Documents operates under a separate appropriation which provides funds for: (1) the mailing for Members of Congress and other Government agencies of certain Government publications, as authorized by law; (2) the distribution of Government publications to designated depository libraries; and (3) the compilation of catalogs and indexes of Government publications. These three functions are related to the publication activity of other agencies and to the demands of the public, Members of Congress, and depository libraries. Consequently, Documents can exercise little control over the volume of work which it may be called upon to perform. A description of these three functions follows:

1. Distribution for other Government agencies and Members of Congress.—The Office of Superintendent of Documents maintains mailing lists and mails, at the request of Government agencies and Members of Congress, certain publications specified by public law.

2. Depository library distribution.—As required, Government publications are supplied to libraries which are designated as depositories for Government publications.

3. Cataloging and indexing.—The Office of Superintendent of Documents is charged with preparing catalogs and indexes of all publications issued by the Federal Government. The principal publication is the "Monthly Catalog of U.S. Government Publications."

The Government Printing Office executes orders for printing, binding, and blankbook work, placed by Congress and the various agencies of the Federal Government, and furnishes on order, blank paper, inks, and similar supplies. The Government Printing Office also sells publications to the public through its sales of publications program.

All such work is financed through the Government Printing Office revolving fund (44 U.S.C. 309). The fund is reimbursed by the customer agencies, receipts from sales of publications to the general public, and, except for the excess of receipts over costs associated with the sale of publications to the public, net operating income is retained for reuse by the fund.

The U.S. Tax Court hears and decides cases involving Federal income, estate and gift tax deficiencies and renders declaratory judgments regarding the qualification or continuing qualification (including revocations of rulings on the exemptions) of retirement plans under the provisions of Public Law 93-406, known as the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974.

The Tax Court has also been given jurisdiction under Public Law 94-455 (Tax Reform Act of 1976) to render declaratory judgments with respect to (1) exempt organization status determinations pursuant to section 501(c)(3), Internal Revenue Code and (2) determinations made pursuant to section 367 (transfers of property from the United States). Under the Revenue Act of 1978, the Court was given jurisdiction to enter declaratory judgments on the tax treatment of interest on proposed issues of Government obligations. In addition, the court has jurisdiction over actions to restrain disclosure and to obtain additional disclosure with respect to public inspection of written determinations issued by the Internal Revenue Service, and actions to compel the disclosure of the identity of third-party contacts relating to written determinations made by the Internal Revenue Service.

For 1984, the court proposes a trial program of 548 weeks consisting of 369 weeks of regular trial sessions and 179 weeks of small tax case sessions. Trials are held in approximately 116 cities throughout the United States.

The actual and estimated work volume of the court is presented in the following tabulation:

The United States Court of International Trade, established under Article III of the Constitution of the United States, was created by the Act of October 10, 1980 (94 Stat. 1727), effective November 1, 1980, as successor to the former United States Customs Court. The court has original and exclusive jurisdiction of civil actions against the United States, its agencies and officers, and certain civil actions brought by the United States, arising out of import transactions and Federal statutes affecting international trade. The court possesses all the powers in law and equity of, or as conferred by statute upon, a district court of the United States, and is authorized to conduct jury trials. The geographical jurisdiction of the court is nationwide and trials before the court may be held at any place within the jurisdiction of the United States. The court also is authorized to hold hearings in foreign countries. The principal statutory provisions pertaining to the court are contained in the following sections of title 28 of the United States Code: Organization, sections 251 to 257; Jurisdiction, sections 1581 to 1585; and Procedures, sections 2631 to 2647.

TITLE VI—GENERAL PROVISIONS

DEPARTMENTS, AGENCIES, AND CORPORATIONS

SEC. 601. Unless otherwise specifically provided the maximum amount allowable during the current fiscal year in accordance with section 16 of the Act of August 2, 1946 (60 Stat. 810), for the purchase of any passenger motor vehicle (exclusive of buses and ambulances), is hereby fixed at $6,000 except station wagons for which the maximum shall be $6,400: Provided, That these limits may be exceeded by not to exceed $1,700 for police-type vehicles, and by not to exceed $3,600 for special heavy-duty vehicles: Provided further, That the limits set forth in this section shall not apply to electric or hybrid vehicles purchased for demonstration under the provisions of the Electric and Hybrid Vehicle Research, Development, and Demonstration Act of 1976.

SEC. 602. Appropriations of the executive departments and independent establishments for the current fiscal year available for expenses of travel or for the expenses of the activity concerned, are hereby made available for quarters allowances and cost-of-living allowances, in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 5922-5924.

SEC. 603. Appropriations available to any department or agency during the current fiscal year for necessary expenses, including maintenance or operating expenses, shall also be available for payment to the General Services Administration for charges for space and services and those expenses of renovation and alteration of buildings and facilities which constitute public improvements, performed in accordance with the Public Buildings Act of 1959 (73 Stat. 749), the Public Buildings Amendments of 1972 (86 Stat. 216), or other applicable law.

SEC. 604. Funds made available by this or any other Act to (1) the General Services Administration, including the fund created by the Public Buildings Amendments of 1972 (86 Stat. 216), and (2) the "Postal Service Fund" (39 U.S.C. 2003), shall be available for employment of guards for all buildings and areas owned or occupied by the United States or the Postal Service and under the charge and control of the General Services Administration or the Postal Service, and such guards shall have, with respect to such property, the powers of special policemen provided by the first section of the Act of June 1, 1948 (62 Stat. 281; 40 U.S.C. 318), and, as to property owned or occupied by the Postal Service, the Postmaster General may take the same actions as the Administrator of General Services may take under the provisions of sections 2 and 3 of the Act of June 1, 1948 (62 Stat. 281; 40 U.S.C. 318a, 318b), attaching thereto penal consequences under the authority and within the limits provided in section 4 of the Act of June 1, 1948 (62 Stat. 281; 40 U.S.C. 318c).

SEC. 605. No part of any appropriation contained in, or funds made available by this or any other Act, shall be available for any agency to pay to the Administrator of the General Services Administration a higher rate per square foot for rental of space and services (established pursuant to section 210(j) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended) than the rate per square foot established for the space and services by the General Services Administration for the current fiscal year and for which appropriations were granted.

SEC. 606. (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no part of any of the funds appropriated for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1984, by this Act or any other Act, may be used to pay any prevailing rate employee described in section 5342(a)(2)(A) of title 5, United States Code, or any employee covered by section 5348 of that title, in an amount—

(1) during the period from October 1, 1983, until the next applicable wage survey adjustment becomes effective, which exceeds the rate which was payable for the applicable grade and step of the applicable wage schedule on September 30, 1983, in accordance with section 107(a) of Public Law 97-377; and

(2) during the period consisting of the remainder of the fiscal year ending September 30, 1984, which exceeds, as a result of a wage survey adjustment, the rate payable under paragraph (1) of this subsection by more than the overall average percentage of the adjustment in the General Schedule during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1984.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 9(b) of Public Law 92-392 or section 704(b) of Public Law 95-454, the provisions of subsection (a) of this section shall apply (in such manner as the Office of Personnel Management shall prescribe) to any prevailing rate employee to whom such section 9(b) applies, except that the provisions of subsection (a) may not apply to any increase in a wage schedule or rate which is required by the terms of a contract entered into before the date of enactment of this Act.

(c) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, including subsection (a) of this section, no part of any of the funds appropriated for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1984, by this Act or any other Act, may be used to pay any prevailing rate employee in the wage area described in section 780 of Public Law 97-114 at a rate of pay higher than the rate of pay for the applicable grade and step contained in the applicable wage schedule in effect on the date of enactment of this Act.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no prevailing rate employee described in paragraph (B) or (C) of section 5342(a)(2) of title 5, United States Code, may be paid during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1984, at a rate which exceeds the rate which was payable for the applicable grade and step of the applicable wage schedule on September 30, 1983, except to the extent a higher rate would be payable under subsection (a) of this section were subsection (a) applicable to wage schedules and rates for prevailing rate employees described in such paragraphs (B) and (C) of section 5342(a)(2).

(e) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 5(c) of the Defense Department Overseas Teachers Pay and Personnel Practices Act, as amended (20 U.S.C. 903(c)), no part of the funds appropriated for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1984, by this Act or any other Act, may be used to pay rates of basic compensation for teachers and teaching positions in the military departments under such section 5(c) at rates which exceed by more than the overall average percentage of the adjustment in the General Schedule during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1984, the rates which were paid for the school year beginning in August 1982.

(f) For the purpose of this section, the rate payable to any employee who is covered by this section and who is paid from a schedule which was not in existence on September 30, 1983, shall be determined under regulations prescribed by the President.

(g) The provisions of this section shall apply only with respect to pay for services performed by any affected employee after the date of enactment of this Act.

(h) For the purpose of administering any provision of law, rule, or regulation which provides premium pay, retirement, life insurance, or any other employee benefit, which requires any deduction or contribution, or which imposes any requirement or limitation, on the basis of a rate of salary or basic pay, the rate of salary or basic pay payable after the application of this section shall be treated as the rate of salary or basic pay.

Federal disaster assistance is a nationwide program operated pursuant to the Disaster Relief Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-288). Supplementary assistance is provided to individuals, and State and local governments in the event of a Presidentially declared emergency or major disaster. Funds may be made available directly to a State or local government, or to other Federal agencies as reimbursement of expenditures in disaster relief work performed under this authority. In addition, a variety of other Federal agency assistance is coordinated under this program.

No appropriation is requested in 1984 because unobligated balances are sufficient to fund anticipated disasters.

The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (World Bank) finances development projects in less developed countries. By applying banking principles to the achievement of development goals, it promotes increased economic productivity and helps developing economies meet more of the basic needs of their peoples. Since its origin in 1945, the Bank has made loan commitments of over $78 billion.

The World Bank's 1982 lending program included 150 loan commitments to 43 countries for a total of $10.3 billion. More than twice this amount was contributed to these projects by recipient countries, commercial lenders, and other multilateral or bilateral agencies. In its years 1983 and 1984, the Bank is expected to lend $11.2 billion and $11.9 billion respectively.

Contributions to the Bank consist of paid-in capital, which leads to budget outlays, and callable capital which would lead to outlays only if required to meet Bank obligations resulting from borrowings in capital markets. There has never been a call on these funds, which are now provided under a program limitation.

The administration's request for 1984 is $109.7 million in budget authority for paid-in capital subscriptions and $1,353.2 million in program limitations for callable capital subscriptions to provide the third of six equal installments for the $8.8 billion U.S. share of the $40.0 billion 1981 General Capital Increase (GCI).

The International Development Association (IDA) is the member of the World Bank Group which provides development financing on highly concessional terms to the world's poorest nations. IDA is the largest source of multilateral lending extended on concessional terms to developing countries. Projects have to meet the same high economic and financial standards as other World Bank projects and there has never been a default on an IDA loan by any borrower.

By June 30, 1982, IDA had extended credits totaling $26.7 billion for development projects in 77 countries. IDA assistance is concentrated overwhelmingly in the poorest countries—mainly those with an annual per capita gross national product of less than $405 in 1981 dollars. The 1983 and 1984 lending programs are presently programmed at $3.3 billion and $3.2 billion.

The Sixth Replenishment of IDA resources, totaling $12 billion, became effective on August 24, 1981, when the United States formally notified the Association of its intention to contribute $3.24 billion and made a first installment of $500 million. An additional $1.4 billion has been provided in 1982 and 1983. The United States has stated its intention to complete its contribution to IDA VI by 1984. To meet this objective, $245 million is being sought in a 1983 supplemental and the balance is sought in 1984.

The Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) promotes the economic and social development of Latin America and the Caribbean through loans and technical assistance. In its 22 years of operation, the Bank has loaned over $20 billion for projects that represent a total investment of more than $80 billion. The 1982 lending level is estimated at $2.7 billion.

The Bank lends money through two channels: (1) The ordinary and inter-regional capital resources which lend at near-market rates; and (2) the Fund for Special Operations (FSO) which makes loans on concessional terms to the region's poorer nations.

The Administration will recommend legislation to authorize an increase in the U.S. subscription to the capital of the IDB and U.S. contributions to the FSO in early 1983.

The 1984 request includes contributions to both the capital and FSO resources in the amount of $172 million with an additional $1,231 million for callable capital provided under a program limitation.

Capital resources.—The 1984 request for budget authority is $58 million with a callable program limitation of $1,231 million.

Fund for special operations.—The 1984 FSO contribution consists of: (1) $39 million for the 1976 replenishment, (2) the $2 million for the 1979 replenishment, and $73 million for the 1983 replenishment.

Inter-American Investment Corporation.—IDB member countries have taken several steps to create an Inter-American Investment Corporation to provide development assistance to the private sector in Latin American and Caribbean countries. Legislation to authorize U.S. participation and to authorize appropriation of the U.S. subscription will be submitted during 1983 as soon as negotiations are completed. The $20 million requested for fiscal year 1984 would provide the initial U.S. subscription to the Corporation.

the Bank at a rate which, together with whatever compensation such Director receives from the United States, is in excess of the rate provided for an individual occupying a position at level IV of the Executive Schedule under section 5315 of title 5, United States Code, or while any alternate United States Director to the Bank is compensated by the Bank in excess of the rate provided for an individual occupying a position at level V of the Executive Schedule under section 5316 of title 5, United States Code.

The Asian Development Bank fosters economic growth and cooperation in the Asian and Pacific region. The Bank lends at near-market rates through its ordinary capital window and on highly concessional terms to the region's poorer nations through the Asian Development Fund (ADF). Since its founding in 1966, the Bank has made loans totaling $10 billion, contributing to a total investment of over $25 billion.

During calendar year 1981, Bank lending totaled $1.7 billion. In 1982, the Bank is expected to lend $1.8 billion with 1983 levels projected to be $2.0 billion.

The administration will recommend legislation to authorize an increase in the U.S. subscription to the capital of the ADB and U.S. contributions to the ADF in early 1983. The 1984 request includes contributions as follows to both the capital and ADF resources:

Ordinary capital.—The 1984 request for budget authority is $7 million with a callable program limitation of $225 million.

Asian Development Fund.—The 1984 request of $147 million would contribute toward three replenishments. The request includes payments of $14 million to ADF II, $3 million to ADF III, and $130 million for the first installment of the U.S. share under ADF IV.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE AFRICAN DEVELOPMENT FUND

For payment to the African Development Fund by the Secretary of the Treasury, $50,000,000, for the United States contribution to the third replenishment of the African Development Fund, to remain available until expended. (Additional authorizing legislation to be proposed.)

The African Development Fund (AFDF), the concessional lending affiliate of the African Development Bank, is designed to channel resources to the poorest African nations. More than 80% of its lending goes to countries with per capita GNP of $400 or less. During 1981, AFDF lending amounted to $338 million.

The 1984 request for the AFDF is $50 million—the second installment of the $150 million U.S. share under the AFDF III replenishment resolution.

The African Development Bank (AFDB) makes loans on near-market terms for the economic and social development of its African members. Membership in the Bank has been restricted to African nations, whose limited resources have severely restricted the Bank's access to the private capital markets. In an effort to broaden its financial base, the Bank has amended its charter to permit nonregional countries to join the institution. The U.S. is in the process of joining the bank.

Authorization for U.S. membership and a U.S. subscription of $360 million was included in 1982 budget reconciliation bill. The first installment of the U.S. subscription was provided in the 1981 supplemental appropriations bill. The 1984 request for the AFDB is $18 million for the second installment of paid-in capital and $54 million in callable capital limitations.

The International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD) was established to mobilize additional resources to be made available on concessional terms for agricultural development in developing member states. The principal distinctive features of the institution are its exclusive focus on the small farmer and the relatively high percentage of contributions by OPEC nations.

During the first 5 years of its operations, the Fund has approved 117 projects totaling about $1.5 billion in Africa, Asia and Latin America. It has also made technical assistance grants in the amount of $62.8 million.

Negotiations for a replenishment of IFAD resources were completed early in 1982 and the United States pledged $180 million. The 1983 continuing resolution (Public Law 97-377) provided $24 million for IFAD within the appropriation for international organizations and programs. The 1984 request will be the second contribution.

The functional development assistance program provides economic resources to developing countries with the aim of bringing the benefits of development to the poor. Loans and grants under this program are concentrated in those areas in which the United States has special expertise and which promise the greatest opportunity for the poor to better their lives.

Funds are provided under six separate activities:

Agriculture, rural development and nutrition.—Supports efforts to increase food production in the developing countries by improving the productivity and income of small farmers, creating greater rural employment opportunities, enhancing rural infrastructure and the environment, improving nutrition and removing impediments to equitable economic growth.

Population planning.—Supports efforts to reduce population growth rates in developing countries and to provide families with effective options in choosing the number and spacing of their children.

Health.—Assists developing countries to increase access to health care, family planning and nutrition services, to make safe water and adequate sanitation more widely available, to reduce the incidence of debilitating tropical diseases, malnutrition, diarrheal infections, measles and other preventable diseases, and to increase governmental capacity to plan and manage their health resources.

Education and human resources development.—Supports the efforts of developing countries to provide basic education for children, improve the fundamental life skills of adults, and improve the management skills and performance of managers of development programs.

Energy, private voluntary organizations and selected development activities.—Provides assistance to developing countries to better contend with national energy problems, to cope with employment and income problems in urban areas, to mitigate the problems of rapid urban migration, and to improve environmental management and resource planning. This activity also facilitates the involvement of U.S. private voluntary organizations in development and helps improve access by developing countries to U.S. scientific and technical expertise.

Science and technology.—Supports new and innovative research on problems of development and assists developing countries in improving their scientific and technological capacities.

Peace Corps operating expenses provide direct and indirect support for nearly 5,000 Americans engaged in voluntary services in over 60 countries worldwide. The volunteers help fill the trained manpower needs of developing countries and encourage self-sustaining development of skilled manpower. The Peace Corps promotes mutual understanding between the peoples of the developing world and the United States and focuses the attention of the American people on the concepts of voluntarism and self-help at the grassroots level. Public Law 97-113 established the Peace Corps as an independent agency within the executive branch, effective December 29, 1981.

1. Volunteer operations.—The financial resources associated with this budget activity provide for the placement, training and direct support of Peace Corps Volunteers overseas. These resources will fund approximately 5,000 volunteer years of service worldwide in 1984.

2. Recruitment and development education.—This activity provides for the domestic program functions of the Peace Corps, primarily volunteer recruitment. In 1984, approximately 2,500 trainees qualified to enter Peace Corps service will be selected.

3. Program development and support.—This activity funds the administrative expenses and general overhead costs associated with Peace Corps program, including reimbursements to the Department of State for administrative support overseas.

The International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1980 established the African Development Foundation to promote nongovernmental small-scale indigenous development projects in Africa as a complement to other U.S. development assistance efforts.

At the time the 1984 Budget was transmitted to the Congress, the Board of Directors of the Foundation had yet to be appointed. Once the Board has been approved and the Foundation becomes operational, a fiscal year 1984 request will be transmitted to the Congress. The Foundation currently has available funds totaling $4.5 million.

As of September 30, 1982, the current dollar value of the U.S. quota denominated in Special Drawing Rights

(SDR), the IMF's unit of account, was $13,520 million reflecting during the year an increase by 50% in the SDR value of the U.S. quota and changes in the dollar value of the SDR.

International negotiations on an increase in IMF quotas are expected to be completed in early 1983. Decisions have not yet been reached on the size and distribution of the quota increase or the target dates that would be established for implementation of the increase in resources. Following completion of the negotiations, legislation would be submitted to the Congress to permit the U.S. to participate in this augmentation of IMF resources. Under established budget procedures, an increase in the U.S. quota in the IMF would require budget authorization and appropriation for the full amount of the increase, but would not result in net budget outlays since the U.S. receives an increase in its international monetary reserves corresponding to any transfer of dollars to the IMF under the U.S. quota subscription.

The purpose of the Supplementary Financing Facility is to augment temporarily the ability of the IMF to assist member countries with balance-of-payments problems, thereby allowing these countries time to implement required policy measures without resort to abrupt and harmful restrictions on trade and payments. The United States and other countries have agreed to make available to the IMF lines of credit totalling 7,784 Special Drawing Rights (about $8.5 billion based on the exchange rate at the end of fiscal year 1982), of which the U.S. commitment is 1,450 million SDR (but not to exceed $1,831 million appropriated) to finance the Facility. Transfers of dollars to the IMF under the U.S. credit line do not result in net budget outlays since the U.S. receives a corresponding increase in its international monetary reserve assets which can be used automatically to meet a balance of payments financing need. During 1982, calls made on the United States under the Supplementary Financing Facility totalled $345.4 million. No repayments were made during the year. The dollar value of U.S. claims under the Supplementary Financing Facility declined by $56.6 million during the year as a consequence of exchange value changes. Any exchange value changes will be realized upon repayment of the loans.

The General Arrangements to Borrow (GAB) were established in 1962 by 10 industrial countries, including the United States, as a means of supplementing the IMF's resources when needed to forestall or cope with an impairment of the international monetary system. Each participant undertakes to provide specific amounts of its currency to help finance drawings from the IMF by another GAB participant. International negotiations are expected to be completed during 1983 on an expansion and revision of the GAB. Any increase in the U.S. commitment would require budget authority and an appropriation but would not result in any net budget outlays since the U.S. receives an increase in its international reserve assets corresponding to any transfer to the IMF under the U.S. credit line.

During 1982, no calls were made on the United States under the GAB; and no loans by the United States remained outstanding at the beginning of the year.

This revolving fund finances the acquisition of defense articles and defense services in anticipation of their transfer to foreign countries and international organizations. The fund enhances the ability of the United States to respond to urgent requirements of allied and friendly governments for military equipment while minimizing the adverse impact on U.S. forces due to diversions from production or U.S. military stocks. The account is capitalized by foreign military sales receipts from the use of United States Government assets and recoupment of nonrecurring research, development, and production costs.

The Agriculture Research Service conducts research to provide the means for a safer, more economical, and more abundant supply of agricultural products for the Nation. The Service uses coordinated, interdisciplinary approaches to perform basic and applied research in the fields of livestock; plants; soil-air-water resources; processing, storage, and distribution; nutrition and food safety; and consumer services research. A new program of postdoctoral research fellowships will be initiated in 1984.

1. Research on animal production.—Research is conducted to improve livestock productivity (including poultry) through improved breeding, feeding, and management practices, and to develop methods for controlling diseases, parasites, and insect pests affecting them. The increase proposed in 1984 is for basic animal genetic engineering research.

2. Research on plant production.—Research is conducted to improve plant productivity through improved varieties of food, feed, fiber, and other plants; develop new crop resources; and improve crop production practices, including methods to control plant diseases, nematodes, insects, and weeds. The increase proposed in 1984 is for basic plant genetic engineering research.

3. Research on the use and improvement of soil, air, and water.—Research is conducted to improve the management of natural resources, including investigations to improve soil and water management, irrigation, and conservation practices; to protect natural resources from harmful effects of soil, air, and water pollutants and to minimize certain agricultural pollution problems; and to determine the relation of soil types and water to plant, animal, and human nutrition.

4. Processing, storage, distribution, food safety, and consumer services research.—Research is conducted to develop new and improved foods, feeds, fabrics, and industrial products and processes for agricultural commodities for domestic and foreign markets, including ways to minimize processing wastes as well as the processing, transportation, storage, wholesaling, and retailing of products.

Research is also conducted on problems of human health and safety, including means to insure the safety of food and feed supplies; control insect pests of man and his belongings; reduce the hazards to human life resulting from pesticide residues and other causes; and on consumer services. Initiatives in 1984 include increased bioregulation to control commodity losses and enhance values of exports and research to improve the quality of export commodities.

5. Research on human nutrition.—Research is conducted on human nutritional requirements, composition and nutritive value of foods, dietary status, monitoring and surveillance and nutrition education and methodology needs of Federal, State, and local agencies administering food and nutrition programs. Increases in 1984 are proposed to strengthen nutritional programs located at the major human nutrition research centers at Boston, Houston, Grand Forks, and San Francisco.

6. Repair and maintenance of facilities.—Funds are used to restore, upgrade, and maintain Federal facilities to meet OSHA and EPA requirements, provide suitable workspace for inhouse research programs, and to retrofit existing structures for better energy utilization.

7. Contingencies.—$1 million will be available to meet urgent needs that develop unexpectedly during the year when such needs cannot be met by redirection of resources from other projects.

8. Construction of facilities.—Amounts reflect obligations from prior balances. There is no funding request for this item.

9. Advances and reimbursements.—Agricultural Research Service performs program research activities and services for other USDA, Federal, and non-Federal agencies. These activities and services are paid for on a reimbursable basis.

1. Payments under the Hatch Act.—Funds under the Hatch Act are allocated to agricultural experiment stations of the land-grant colleges in the 50 States, District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa, and Micronesia, for agricultural research including investigations and experiments to promote a permanent and efficient agricultural industry and improvements in the rural home and rural community.

2. Cooperative forestry research.—These funds are allocated to land-grant colleges or agricultural experiment stations in the 50 States, Puerto Rico, Guam, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa, and Micronesia and other State-supported colleges and universities offering graduate training in the sciences basic to forestry and having a forestry school.

3. Payments to 1890 colleges and Tuskegee Institute.—Funds support planning, coordinating and conducting agricultural research at the 1890 land-grant colleges including Tuskegee Institute. The eligible institutions plan and conduct agricultural research in cooperation with each other and such agencies, institutions, and individuals as may contribute to the solution of agricultural problems.

4. Special research grants.—These funds support basic and applied research in the areas of pesticide clearance, minor use animal drugs, pesticide impact assessment, animal health, germplasm resources, acid precipitation, and tropical and subtropical research.

5. Competitive research grants.—This program emphasizes basic research critical to food production and human nutrition. In 1984 it is proposed that $15.0 million be provided for grants to study serious problems relating to plant science research, $2.0 million be provided for human nutrition research, and $4.5 million be provided for animal science research.

6. Animal health and disease research.—Funds, distributed by legislated formula, support livestock and poultry disease research in colleges of veterinary medicine and in eligible agricultural experiment stations. Research on specified national and regional problems of joint USDA-State concern is conducted as agreed upon between the USDA and specific eligible institutions. No funds are provided for this authority in 1984. Animal health and disease research can be implemented by the States using other formula research funds.

7. Federal administration (direct appropriation).—A research coordinating and review staff is maintained which encourages and assists in the establishment and maintenance of cooperation within and among the States and between the States and their Federal research partners, and which administers research grants and payments to States. Federal administration is funded from a combination of program set-asides from formula and grant programs and from direct appropriation for administration. The 1984 request continues the refocusing of this staff to provide more national leadership and less program oversight with respect to the formula funded programs.

8. 1890 research facilities.—Funds support the purchase of land and the construction, alteration or renovation of buildings necessary for the conduct of food and agricultural research at colleges eligible to receive funds under the Act of August 30, 1890, including Tuskegee Institute.

9. Current research information system.—CRIS is the reporting system for the research activities of the USDA, the State Agricultural Experiment Stations, and other cooperating institutions.

10. Research.—Funds support basic and applied agriculture research cooperatively sponsored with other Federal agencies.

The primary function of the nationwide system of cooperative extension work is out-of-school applied education in agriculture, home economics, community development, 4-H youth programs, and related subjects.

1. Payments to States.—Funds appropriated for payments to States, Puerto Rico, Guam, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa and Micronesia are distributed primarily on the basis of population and on the basis of special problems and needs. Funds are used primarily for the employment of State, area, and county extension workers and paraprofessionals who work with individuals, families, community organizations, marketing concerns, and others by providing advice and assistance in the application of improved methods for production, marketing, nutrition, family living, and community development. Work with youth is accomplished largely through the 4-H program. Most of these funds are matched by the States and provide the Federal share of State retirement and penalty mail costs associated with program activities specifically undertaken with these matched funds.

In fiscal year 1984, some Cooperative Extension Service activities are proposed for reduction. These are in the area of pest management, pesticide clearance, urban gardening, farm safety, renewable resources, and human nutrition. A major portion of these programs, however, remain intact and are carried out from formula funds at levels consistent with the needs that exist in the respective States.

2. Federal administration and coordination.—The Extension Service provides leadership and assistance to States, Puerto Rico, Guam, the Virgin Islands, the District of Columbia, American Samoa, and Micronesia in developing extension programs, improving teaching methods, efficient use of available resources, evaluation of programs, and administrative services. These responsibilities are funded from a combination of program set-asides for administering payments to States and from direct appropriations for the Federal Extension Administration. The 1984 request continues the refocusing of this staff to provide more national leadership and less program oversight with respect to the formula funded programs.

The estimated use of funds requested for 1984 compared with 1983 is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

1. Crop and livestock estimates.—The Service provides the official National and State estimates of acreage, yield, and production of crops, stocks and value of farm commodities, and numbers of inventory values of livestock items. Data on approximately 120 crops and 45 livestock products are covered in some 300 reports issued each year. Data collected and published on prices paid and received by farmers are basic to computation of parity prices.

The work under this activity is conducted through 44 State offices serving the 50 States; most of these offices are operated as joint State and Federal services. Cooperative arrangements with State agencies provide additional State and county data; Federal funds are not available for collection and publication of these additional data.

Major program modifications in 1984 include: An increase of $850,000 to provide improved quality of surveys on grain sorghum, rice, and sunflowers through instituting yield survey procedures and a yield validation survey to verify procedures used for major crops and an increase of $475,000 to develop and implement a plan to allow electronic dissemination of agricultural statistics.

2. Statistical research and service.—The work of the Service under this activity is designed to improve crop and livestock estimating techniques by improving sample survey designs and procedures and by testing new forecasting and estimating techniques, such as the use of satellite data. Also included is the review, coordination and monitoring of surveys conducted by USDA, and review of proposed statistical forms and survey plans prior to submittal to OMB for clearance.

Current research activities include constructing mathematical models for forecasting crop yields from objective counts and measurements of plant characteristics; reducing reporting and other nonsampling errors by improving questionnaire design, devising better field data collection, editing and processing procedures; and testing of alternative sample design techniques. Research under the AgRISTARS program is continuing primarily to improve the accuracy of domestic and foreign crop acreage and land cover estimates, development of an early warning and crop condition assessment capability, and improvement of crop yield forecasting programs. The major program modification in 1984 is an increase of $150,000 for the acquisition of LANDSAT data.

The World Agricultural Outlook Board (WAOB) was established by Secretary's memorandum No. 1920 dated June 3, 1977, as authorized by reorganization plan No. 2 of 1953, to provide a single focal point for the Nation's economic intelligence related to domestic and international food and agriculture.

The objectives of the WAOB are to improve the consistency, objectivity, and reliability of outlook and situation material being disseminated to the public and to integrate and coordinate USDA domestic and international economic information assistance.

The WAOB carries out these objectives through daily market surveillance and special analyses of international and domestic agricultural developments, direct participation in the planning of research programs supporting outlook and situation activities, and coordination of all departmental activities relating to weather and climate and remote sensing.

The 1984 budget includes additional funds for acquisition of LANDSAT remote sensing data and for increased operating costs.

The Foreign Agricultural Service mission is to help American farmers and traders take maximum advantage of increased opportunities to sell U.S. agricultural commodities abroad and to help increase U.S. farm income.

Activities are conducted within four program areas:

1. Foreign agricultural affairs.—The Service maintains agricultural counselors, attachés or trade officers at 74 foreign posts to assist overseas development of markets for U.S. farm commodities. They work closely with numerous U.S. agricultural trade groups and maintain significant contacts with foreign governments and traders to promote market access for U.S. farm products. They also file annually about 4,700 comprehensive reports regarding foreign agricultural production, supply, demand, marketing and trade policy developments to keep U.S. agriculture, industry, and Government currently informed.

Program Statistics

	FY 1982 actual	FY 1983 estimate	FY 1984 estimate
Number of countries covered	112	103	103
Number of trade and Government visitors	26,000	26,000	26,000
Number of posts accessible by telecommunications ..	15	25	30

2. Foreign market information and access.—This program forges a link between the Foreign Agricultural Affairs program and the agency's analytical/informational and market development planning/services functions that serve the U.S. agricultural community and Government decisionmakers. The analysis and timely release of periodicals on world commodity conditions allow U.S. farm and trade groups to have ready access to information that can be used as reliable sources to assess short-term changes in world agricultural supply conditions by commodity.

The analyses of world commodity conditions provide the information necessary to develop export marketing strategies that can be used not only by the Department to gain market access but to enhance the long term market development plans for major U.S. commodities.

Program Statistics

	FY 1982 actual	FY 1983 estimate	FY 1984 estimate
Bilateral trade issues	115	130	140

3. Foreign market development.—This program provides funding support to 52 commodity associations (co-operators), 38 contractors participating in the export incentive program, 4 regional groups (representing 46 State departments of agriculture) and the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture. Under FAS guidance and supervision, these organizations conduct an extensive worldwide market development program on behalf of the U.S. farm sector. In addition, the Service develops and operates a worldwide system of multicommodity promotional programs utilizing product exhibits, trade teams, trade services, market information programs, and trade referral services to expand overseas markets. To increase the effectiveness of USDA export promotion efforts, the Agricultural Trade Act of 1978 authorized the Service to establish agricultural trade offices throughout the world. Currently, the trade offices are located in Hamburg, Bahrain, Singapore, Seoul, Warsaw, London, Caracas, Lagos, Beijing, and Tunis.

Number of trade leads generated	3,200	3,500	3,500

4. LANDSAT data.—This activity supports the foreign crop assessment program. LANDSAT, the earth resources satellite system, provides the collection, ground data handling, and dissemination of satellite data used in the assessment of foreign crop conditions.

5. General sales manager.—This activity formulates policies and administers agricultural commodity export programs including: Public Law 480, which facilitates the sale of agricultural commodities on a long-term credit basis and the donation of agricultural commodities to foreign governments, intergovernmental and voluntary agencies and the world food program; and the CCC export credit program. Effective October 1, 1981, this activity was no longer funded by an allocation from the CCC, Limitation on Administrative Expenses Account. Instead, this activity is being financed on a reimbursable basis from the CCC Capital Fund to the FAS direct appropriation account.

The comparable amount for 1982 ($106 thousand) is included above. Consolidates the Salaries and expenses account and the Consolidated working fund account.

The mission of the Office of International Cooperation and Development (OICD) is to coordinate the execution of Departmental policies and programs which seek to alleviate hunger and malnutrition throughout the world and promote improved agricultural production and rural development.

1. International agricultural development.—OICD analyzes agricultural policy issues related to USDA's international agricultural development efforts and provides support for Cancun Presidential Agricultural Task Forces consulting with developing and middle-income nations on agricultural problems. The Agency also formulates and reviews food aid development activities supported by Public Law 480 Titles I and III agreements.

2. International scientific and technical cooperation.—OICD manages the Department's bilateral exchange programs with foreign governments and institutions in order to strengthen the role of science and technology in the ongoing effort to stabilize world food supplies and to increase the efficiency with which world resources are used. Priorities and criteria for these exchanges are based on domestic research priorities, potential benefits to U.S. agricultural production, and the availability of desired technologies. OICD coordinates USDA's and the U.S. Government's participation in approximately 30 international organizations concerned with food, agriculture and rural development.

3. Caribbean Basin Initiative.—OICD is responsible for the design, implementation and coordination of USDA's development efforts in response to the President's Caribbean Basin Initiative. OICD coordinates intradepartmental efforts to improve animal and plant health and quality, expand agricultural research and training opportunities, and promote agro-industry in the region. An increase of $500 thousand is requested for this activity. While this appears as a new initiative in 1984, USDA has requested a supplemental appropriation of $500 thousand for fiscal year 1983 for this activity.

4. Technical assistance and analysis to aid foreign development.—OICD participates in technical assistance projects, primarily funded by AID, in 50 countries focusing on land and water management, crop and livestock production and marketing, forestry, pest control, resource conservation and other areas. Agriculturists from many USDA agencies, U.S. universities and the private sector work on projects which promote improved agricultural production and policy formulation. The decrease of $913 thousand in this activity for 1984 is a result of anticipated reductions of AID technical assistance requirements.

5. Subsistence, tuitions, and training for foreign nationals in the United States.—OICD offers a comprehensive program of technical and management training opportunities in agriculture and rural development to participants from foreign countries and designees of international organizations. These training activities respond to a steadily growing demand for the increased knowledge and skills essential for sustained economic and social development. These academic and nonacademic training programs represent a long-term investment in economic growth, the establishment of institutional linkages, and collegial relationships that facilitate mutually beneficial agricultural research, trade and agribusiness opportunities. The decrease of $574 thousand in the 1984 budget results from an anticipated reduction of AID and country-funded training requirements.

6. International research.—OICD manages a system of cooperative and collaborative research with U.S. colleges of agriculture, foreign research institutions, and other USDA agencies. Additionally, OICD chairs panels of the U.S.-Japan Conference on the Development and Utilization of Natural Resources and represents the Secretary on the Board of Directors of the U.S.-Israel Binational Agricultural Research and Development Fund.

As authorized by the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954 (Public Law 480), as amended, USDA uses "excess" foreign currencies to support research on problems of mutual interest to the United States and participating foreign countries.

1. Market development research.—Agricultural economics research focusing on farm and market economics and foreign trade. This activity develops markets for U.S. agricultural products and equipment by demonstrating the superior performance of new technology through research. An increase of $235 thousand is requested for this activity for approximately two additional five-year research projects.

2. Agricultural and forestry research.—Focuses on plant and animal production; use and improvement of soil, water, and air; marketing; protection of forests from fires, diseases and insects; methods and procedures for increasing the growth of managed forests; and properties and uses of forest products. The increase of $1,230 thousand for this activity will fund a backlog of research proposals from India and Pakistan and initiate new projects in Burma and Poland.

3. Translation and dissemination of scientific publications.—The increase of $500 thousand will be used for the translation of books and scientific articles reviewing new developments in foreign laboratories for use by U.S. agricultural and veterinary specialists. This activity was previously funded through reimbursements from the National Science Foundation.

While this request shows an increase in 1984, USDA has requested a supplemental appropriation for fiscal year 1983 for $3,172 thousand which will bring the 1983 level to $6,149 thousand.

FOREIGN ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS

Facilities and funds of the Commodity Credit Corporation may by law be used in carrying out programs for exporting agricultural commodities.

Included in this category are the following activities carried out under the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, Public Law 480, 83d Congress, as amended: Financing sales of agricultural commodities for dollars or for convertible foreign currency on credit terms (titles I and III); and supplying agricultural commodities for dispositions abroad (title II).

No agreements to finance sales under the authority of title I or programs of assistance under title II may be entered into after December 31, 1985.

Regarding the new Federal credit control policies instituted with the 1981 budget, existing appropriation language provides for sufficient control of titles I and III credit activities.

1. Financing the sale of agricultural commodities for foreign currencies and for dollars on credit terms (titles I and III).—The Corporation finances all sales made pursuant to agreements concluded under title I, and may serve as the purchasing or shipping agent, or both, if the purchaser so requests. Sales are made to friendly countries—as defined in section 103(d) of the act—and must not displace expected commercial sales for cash dollars (secs. 103 (c) and (n)).

Agreements may not be made under title I in any calendar year which call for an appropriation to reimburse the Corporation in excess of $1.9 billion, plus unused prior years' authorizations.

Whenever practicable, terms of agreements must require payment at time of delivery of not less than 5% of the purchase price in dollars or in currencies convertible to dollars. These initial payments are applied against costs to reduce appropriation requests.

At least 50% of the gross tonnage of commodities shipped under the authority of title I is required to be transported on U.S.-flag vessels in accordance with the Cargo Preference Act. When U.S.-flag vessels are required, the Corporation will finance the differential between U.S.-flag rates and foreign-flag rates. In addition, under a title III food for development program, CCC is authorized to pay freight from U.S. ports to designated ports of entry abroad or to designated points of entry abroad in the case of landlocked countries.

(a) Financing sales of agricultural commodities for foreign currencies (title I).—Agreements for sales of agricultural commodities for foreign currencies have not been authorized since December 31, 1971.

Certain U.S. uses of foreign currencies are subject to the appropriation process. The Corporation is reimbursed for the dollar value of currencies so used. Proceeds from sales of foreign currencies and from dollar repayments of foreign currency loans are applied as a reduction in appropriation requests.

(b) Financing sales of agricultural commodities for dollars or convertible foreign currencies on credit terms (title I).—Agreements are made with friendly countries for delivery in annual installments for not more than 10 years from the date of the agreement subject to the availability of the commodity.

Food aid is allocated to countries meeting the poverty criterion established for International Development Association financing and are to receive not less than 75% of the agreements financed under Title I.

Credit terms are to be no less favorable than those required by sections 122 (a) and (b) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, for loans made under those sections.

Repayments under dollar credit agreements are not more than 20 years with a grace period of not more than 2 years on repayment principal. Convertible foreign currency terms permit repayment of up to 40 years with deferral of principal payments for up to 10 years. As payments are received each year, they are applied against current costs to reduce appropriation requests.

The estimates under title I include the cost of financing sales of commodities for food for development programs under title III of the act. CCC is authorized to furnish credit under title I for the purchase of available commodities to be delivered for periods from 1 to 5 years. Repayment is forgiven by the CCC when a country applies the sales proceeds or dollar equivalent to approved development assistance programs.

Total title I agreements made since inception to September 30, 1982, amount to $12,375 million cost value, including ocean freight for shipment on U.S. ships. Major commodities are wheat, cotton, oils, rice, and feed grains. Payments received during the period amount to $2,795.8 million, of which $1,773.9 million was applied to principal and $1,021.9 million to interest.

2. Commodities supplied in connection with dispositions abroad (title II).—Under title II, agricultural commodities are furnished to developing countries to meet famine or other emergency relief needs, as well as to promote economic and community development and to combat malnutrition. They are furnished through friendly governments, private voluntary agencies, foreign nonprofit voluntary agencies if no such U.S. agency is available, and intergovernmental organizations such as the United Nations World Food Program.

The law provides that a minimum of 1.7 million metric tons of agricultural commodities shall be distributed in fiscal year 1982 and each fiscal year thereafter, of which not less than 1.2 million metric tons for non-emergency programs shall be through nonprofit voluntary agencies and the World Food Program, unless the President determines and so reports to Congress that such quantity cannot be used effectively for intended purposes or that such a quantity is not available.

The Agency for International Development is responsible for administering title II programs.

The Corporation is authorized to pay the costs of acquisition, packaging, processing, enrichment, preservation, fortification, transportation, handling, and other incidental costs incurred up to the time of delivery to U.S. ports. The Corporation also pays ocean freight charges, and pays transportation costs to points of entry other than ports in the case of landlocked countries, where carriers to a specific country are unavailable, where ports cannot be used effectively, or where a substantial saving in costs or time can be obtained, and pays general average contributions arising from ocean transport.

Up to $7.5 million each year may be used to buy foreign currencies accruing under title I of this act to meet costs directed to community and other self-help activities designed to alleviate the causes of the need for such aid. Such costs may not include personnel and administrative costs of cooperating sponsors, distributing agencies and recipient agencies.

Through December 31, 1982, appropriations totaling $13,850 million were authorized. Beginning in 1982, no programs of assistance shall be undertaken under this title during any calendar year which call for an appropriation of more than $1 billion to reimburse the Corporation. This limitation applies to costs incurred, including its investment in commodities (but only on the basis of a price not greater than the export market price of commodities acquired under a price support program), plus any amount by which programs of assistance undertaken under this title in the preceding calendar year have called or will call for appropriations in amounts less than authorized during the preceding year. Any incidental sales proceeds and proceeds from loss, damage, and other claims are applied against costs to reflect a reduction in appropriation requests.

There were no comparable activities in 1982, and none are proposed in 1984.

This account includes funds to cover expenses of programs administered by, and functions assigned to, the Service. The funds consist of direct appropriation, transfers from the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), and miscellaneous advances from other sources. This is a consolidated account for administrative expenses of national, commodity, State, and county offices.

1. Program formulation and appraisal.—The supply adjustment, conservation, and commodity support programs, and the management and merchandising of commodities acquired under the support program, have a tremendous impact on the national and (to a lesser extent) the international economy. This activity provides for constant review of the effectiveness of these programs. It also provides for the analysis of data to formulate more effective programs.

2. Operation of supply adjustment, conservation, and price support programs.—This activity includes all functions dealing with the administration of programs carried out through the farmer committee system, including: (a) developing program regulations and procedures; (b) holding meetings with employees and producers to discuss new programs or changes in existing programs; (c) collecting and compiling basic data for individual farms; (d) establishing individual farm allotments, bases, and yields; (e) notifying producers of established allotments, bases, and yields; (f) determining farm marketing allocations; (g) handling appeals; (h) conducting referendums and certifying results; (i) accepting farmer certifications and checking compliance; (j) developing pooling agreements under which several farmers work jointly to solve a common conservation problem which cannot be solved by individual action; (k) issuing marketing cards so that production from the allotted acreage can be marketed without penalty; (l) processing producer requests for conservation cost-sharing; (m) processing commodity loan and storage facility loan documents and issuing checks; and (n) processing deficiency and diversion payments and issuing checks.

3. Inventory management and merchandising.—This activity includes: (a) overall management of CCC-owned commodities; (b) selling commodities; (c) donating commodities; and (d) accounting for loans and commodities. The total value of all commodities owned by CCC on September 30, 1982, was about $5,103 million.

This experimental Rural Clean Water Program (RCWP), authorized by the Appropriation Acts of 1980 (Public Law 96-108) and 1981 (Public Law 96-528), is a cooperative endeavor among farmers, various USDA agencies and other organizations to develop and test means of controlling agricultural nonpoint source water pollution in rural areas. The RCWP provides long-term financial and technical assistance to landowners and operators to improve water quality and to meet water quality goals.

Recommended project areas were developed by local and State committees and approved by the Secretary of Agriculture in consultation with the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency. Full funding is provided for all approved projects.

Technical assistance is provided by the Soil Conservation Service, Forest Service, Extension Service, and others.

Under the RCWP, participants agree to install and maintain Best Management Practices (BMP's) which reduce or control water pollution, as specified in an approved water quality plan.

The effectiveness of BMP's in reducing identified pollutants entering a stream or lake or leaving their source is evaluated under the ongoing program.

During 1983, the RCWP should provide preliminary results which will be useful in determining policies concerning the cost-effective treatment of the overall problem of agricultural nonpoint source pollution.

The primary objectives of the program are: (1) to help assure a continued supply of food and fiber necessary for a strong and healthy economy and people, (2) to facilitate sound resource management systems through soil and water conservation, (3) to control erosion and sedimentation from agricultural land, (4) to control pollution from animal wastes, (5) to encourage voluntary compliance by agricultural producers with State and Federal requirements to solve point and nonpoint sources of pollution, (6) to improve water quality, (7) to help achieve national priorities in the National Environmental Policy Act, (8) to help achieve national priorities in the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, and (9) to encourage the energy conservation measures specified in the Energy Security Act of 1980.

Beginning in fiscal year 1984, the objectives and unexpended balances of the Emergency Conservation, Forestry Incentives and Water Bank Programs are recommended for consolidation with the Agricultural Conservation Program. These additional objectives provide immediate relief to producers to rehabilitate farmland severely damaged by natural disaster and return it to productive agricultural use; preserve, maintain, and improve wetlands in important waterfowl nesting and breeding areas in the United States; and bring private nonindustrial forestland under intensified management to increase timber production and assure adequate supplies of timber products.

Along with annual agreements, cost sharing is authorized for long-term agreements (the standard 3-10 year agreement, or a shorter term agreement of 3-5 years. On the shorter term agreements, the conservation plan of operation (CPO) applies only to a portion of the farm rather than the entire farm. Annual payments are authorized for 10-year wetland agreements.

The program is administered in each county by the ASC county committee, with review and approval by State ASC committees and the Secretary, and in consultation with other agencies. For the 1983 ACP, county committees, in consultation with the county conservation review group and community committee persons, submitted their proposal for practices (including land, water, and related resource management practices having significant energy conserving effects) and changes from the previous year's program to State committees for review. The State committees, after reviewing county recommendations with the State conservation review group, sent State recommended changes to the national level for review by the Secretary. However, no changes in the national program or practices were provided to the State and county committees for their use in carrying out the 1983 program.

The 1983 program is expected to serve 10.2 million acres. Practices identified specifically to abate soil erosion are expected to prevent approximately 45.5 million tons of erosion. The proposed consolidation of program objectives in fiscal year 1984 will provide maximum flexibility to States and counties to set priorities for and treat the most severe natural resource problems. The proposed language designates funds for sharing the cost of emergency measures to deal with cases of severe damage to farm and ranch lands resulting from natural disasters.

This program carries out the purposes of section 202 of Title II of the Colorado River Basin Salinity Control Act, Public Law 93-320, by providing cost-share assistance, technical assistance, and education and information to landowners and others in the Colorado River Basin. This program consolidates into one account existing salinity control activities currently funded under ASCS, Soil Conservation Service (SCS), and Extension Service (ES). Legislation authorizing the consolidation is being proposed.

The main objective of this program is to enhance the supply and quality of water in the Colorado River for delivery to downstream users in the U.S. and the Republic of Mexico.

Practices will be recommended by the ASC county committees and approved by the State committees and the Secretary of Agriculture. Technical assistance will be provided by SCS, and educational and informational activities will be provided by ES.

The 1984 program will continue progress on the two existing projects, begin implementation of two projects for which planning studies are complete, and provide three additional planning studies.

The objectives of the Water Bank Program are to conserve water; preserve, maintain, and improve the Nation's wetlands; increase waterfowl habitat in migratory waterfowl nesting, breeding, and feeding areas in the United States; and secure recreational and environmental benefits for the Nation. The program was authorized by the Water Bank Act, approved December 19, 1970, as amended by Public Law 96-182, approved January 2, 1980.

The Secretary of Agriculture, through designated ASCS county offices, uses program funds to enter into 10-year agreements with landowners and operators for the conservation of specified wetlands. Provisions exist to renew agreements for additional periods, to make annual payments on agreements, and under certain conditions to increase payment rates in the fifth year of a contract or at the time of renewal.

The 1983 program is expected to bring 47,500 acres under agreement. This would be accomplished through the signing of 530 agreements with landowners. Additionally, payment rates on 79,800 acres would be increased.

It is proposed that in fiscal year 1984 the objectives of the Water Bank Program be carried out under the consolidated Agricultural Conservation Program.

This program was authorized by the Agricultural Credit Act of 1978 (16 U.S.C. 2201-05). The appropriation provides special funds for sharing the cost of emergency measures to deal with cases of severe damage to farms and rangelands resulting from natural disasters.

Assistance is made available to treat new conservation problems which (1) if not treated will impair or endanger the land, (2) materially affect the productive capacity of the land, (3) represent damage which is unusual in character and, except for wind erosion, is not the type which would recur frequently in the same area, and (4) will be so costly to rehabilitate that Federal assistance is or will be required to return the land to productive agricultural use. Also, assistance is available for measures to provide for or conserve water to be used for agricultural purposes during periods of severe drought as determined by the Deputy Administrator, State and County Operations, ASCS.

Under the 1982 program, cost-sharing assistance was provided in 38 States to treat farmlands damaged by floods, tornadoes, hurricanes, and drought.

It is proposed that in fiscal year 1984 the objectives of the Emergency Conservation Program be carried out under the consolidated Agricultural Conservation Program.

Under this program indemnification payments are made to dairy farmers and manufacturers of dairy products.

The Dairy Indemnity Program was authorized under 78 Stat. 508 in 1964, and has been extended through September 30, 1985, by the Agriculture and Food Act of 1981 (Public Law 97-98). Payments are made to farmers who are directed to remove their milk from commercial markets because the milk contains residues of chemicals which have been registered and approved for use by the Federal Government, of other chemicals, of nuclear radiation, or of nuclear fallout. The authority also provides that indemnification may be paid for cows producing such milk.

DAIRY INDEMNITY PROGRAM—Continued

The Agricultural Act of 1970 (84 Stat. 1382) broadened the indemnification authority to include manufacturers of dairy products whose products become contaminated with residues of chemicals which have been registered and approved for use by the Federal Government.

Fiscal year 1983 funds are proposed for deferral, and no funds are requested for fiscal year 1984.

FORESTRY INCENTIVES PROGRAM

[For necessary expenses, not otherwise provided for, to carry out the program of forestry incentives, as authorized in the Cooperative Forestry Assistance Act of 1978 (16 U.S.C. 2101), including technical assistance and related expenses, $12,500,000, to remain available until expended, as authorized by that Act.] (Public Law 97-370, making appropriations for Agriculture, Rural Development, and Related Agencies, 1983.)

¹ Includes only cost sharing in 1982.

This program was authorized by the Cooperative Forestry Assistance Act of 1978 (16 U.S.C. 2101). The objectives of the program are to bring private nonindustrial forest land under intensified management, to increase timber production, to assure adequate supplies of timber products, and to enhance other forest resources.

The Forestry Incentives Program shares up to 65% of the cost of tree planting and timberstand improvement. The percentage cost-shared depends on the rate set in a particular State and county by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, after consulting with the State forester. The program is available in designated counties based on a Forest Service survey of total eligible private timberland available for production of timber products. The program is administered by ASCS with technical assistance from Forest Service.

Under the 1983 program, it is planned to cost-share the expenses of planting trees on 137 thousand acres and improving the timberstand on 70 thousand acres of forest.

It is proposed that in fiscal year 1984 the objectives of the Forestry Incentives Program be carried out under the consolidated Agricultural Conservative Program.

The comparable amount for 1982 ($1,232 thousand) is included above. Also excludes $50 thousand in 1983 for activities transferred to Advisory Committees, Department of Agriculture. There were no comparable activities in 1982, and none are proposed in 1984.

This appropriation finances the administrative and operating expenses of the Corporation to provide funds to establish and maintain rates and coverages for 18,000 county programs in about 3,000 counties and to continue development of sales policies. Crop insurance in force is estimated to increase from $11.0 billion in crop year 1983 to $13.7 billion in crop year 1984, and the estimated number of contracts is expected to increase from 575,000 in crop year 1983 to 716,000 in crop year 1984.

The Corporation's long-term objective is to provide the maximum number of farm producers with crop insurance coverage, on an actuarially sound basis, as protection against essentially all risks and economic losses resulting from uncontrollable natural hazards.

For fiscal year 1984, the appropriation for administrative and operating expenses will enable the Corporation to provide for growth in the expanded crop insurance program to an estimated 37 percent farmers' participation, bringing the program closer to attaining its long-term objective.

The major portion of administrative and operating expenses is to support delivery systems which rely heavily on the private sector as provided by the Federal Crop Insurance Act of 1980 under section 507(c).

The delivery systems are:

1. Reinsured companies which enable insurance companies to provide the insurance marketing, distribution, servicing, training, quality control, and loss adjustment functions. The companies also share with Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, to a limited extent, in both profits and losses. It is estimated that reinsurance companies will handle about 50% of the total premium during crop years 1983 and 1984. For crop year 1983, approximately 40 companies or groups will be writing crop insurance with reinsurance from FCIC.

2. Agency sales and service agreement, also known as the "master marketing agreement." Under this type of agreement, private insurance companies and associations are offered the opportunity to contract with

FCIC to provide insurance sales and services. They are compensated on a commission basis. It is estimated that these agreements will account for about 50% of the total premium for crop years 1983 and 1984. FCIC anticipates that about 65 organizations will be involved in master marketing agreements with a total of about 15,000 agents for crop year 1983; and

3. Individual agents sales and servicing agreements which enable private insurance agents and brokers to sell all-risk crop insurance on a commission basis. This delivery system was used to a very limited extent for the fall sales for crop year 1983. The use of individual agents was completely phased out due to the tremendous volume of paperwork required to be handled by the FCIC offices.

In addition, in areas where an adequate private sales and service force is not available, FCIC may ask other USDA agencies to sell and service all-risk crop insurance through existing county offices.

As the private sector becomes more involved in the all-risk crop insurance program, it is expected that the companies will be able to "risk" more of their funds thus reducing the cost to the Government and at the same time reach the Corporation's goal of providing all-risk crop insurance to as many farm producers as possible.

The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, a wholly owned Government corporation, was created on February 16, 1938 (7 U.S.C. 1501-1520), to carry out the provisions of the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended. The purpose of this act is to promote the national welfare by improving the economic stability of agriculture through a sound system of crop insurance, and to provide the means for the research and experience helpful in devising and establishing such insurance.

Crop insurance offered to agricultural producers by the Corporation provides protection from losses caused by natural hazards, such as insect and wildlife damage, plant diseases, fire, drought, flood, wind, and other weather conditions. It does not indemnify producers for losses resulting from negligence or failure to observe good farming practices.

The crop insurance programs are planned, developed, and monitored by the FCIC headquarters office located in Washington, D.C. and its national operations office located in Kansas City, Missouri. The program is administered in the field through 18 field operations offices and 10 field actuarial offices. Sales and servicing of contracts at the county level are performed primarily by agents operating under agency sales and service agreements (master marketing agreements) and agents of reinsured companies. In those areas where these delivery systems are not in place, other USDA agencies may be used to market and service the program. The adjustment of losses is performed by FCIC employees, adjusters under contract with FCIC, and reinsured companies under contract with FCIC. Also, ASCS will perform some loss adjustment support on a reimbursable basis for the Corporation. Detailed administrative and program accounting and statistical functions, as well as the underwriting and actuarial analysis work, are performed in Kansas City, Mo.

Budget program.—The program for 1984 (crop year 1983) will provide crop insurance protection to farmers amounting to approximately $11 billion on the following commodities: Almonds, apples, barley, beans, citrus, combined crop, corn, cotton, flax, forage production, forage seeding, grain sorghum, grapes, oats, peaches, peanuts, peas, potatoes, raisins, rice, rye, soybeans, sugar beets, sugarcane, sunflowers, sweet corn, tobacco, tomatoes, and wheat.

A premium subsidy is being offered to encourage the broadest possible participation in the new crop insurance program. This appropriation request of $170 million would provide an average Federal subsidy of approximately 25% of the total premium.

The following table compares the scope of the insurance operations planned for 1983 and 1984, as compared with 1982. Amounts in the 1982 column are actual, and pertain to the 1981 crop year. The 1983 column pertains to the 1982 crop year, and the 1984 column pertains to the 1983 crop year.

Financing.—The Corporation is authorized under the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended, to use funds from the issuance of capital stock which provides working capital for the Corporation.

Receipts which are for deposit to this fund come mainly from premiums paid by farmers. The principal payments from this fund are for indemnities to insured farmers, the direct cost of adjusting crop losses and agents' commissions. However, an appropriation will be requested in subsequent years for payments made from premium income used for loss adjustment costs and/or agents' commissions as provided by section 516(a) of the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended. The fiscal year 1984 appropriation request includes $20,251,000 for restoration of funds for agents' commissions and $4,632,000 for restoration of funds for loss adjustment costs.

Premium subsidies are authorized by section 508(b) of the Federal Crop Insurance Act as amended. The purpose of the subsidy is to encourage the broadest possible participation of farm producers in the crop insurance program. Subsidies are paid by the Corporation based upon 30% of each producer's premium (reduced, where applicable, for hail and fire exclusion or State agency subsidy) on any coverage, under the Corporation's policy of insurance of up to a maximum of 65% of the recorded or appraised average yield, as adjusted.

Operating results and financial condition.—As of September 30, 1982, the Corporation reflected a deficit of $36.8 million. This compares with a surplus of $65.7 million at September 30, 1981.

For crop years 1948 through 1981, indemnities ($1,961.7 million) exceeded premium income ($1,786.5 million) by $175.2 million; the loss ratio for the period was 1.10. Indemnity costs exceeded premiums in 16 of the 34 years.

The Corporation was created to stabilize, support, and protect farm income and prices, to help maintain balanced and adequate supplies of agricultural commodities, their products, foods, feeds, and fibers, and to help in their orderly distribution (15 U.S.C. 714-714p). It may make available materials and facilities required in connection with the production and marketing of agricultural commodities and may be used to administer and to temporarily finance numerous special activities.

The Corporation's capital stock of $100 million is held by the United States. Under present law, up to $25 billion may be borrowed from the U.S. Treasury to finance operations.

Budget assumptions.—The following general assumptions form the basis for the Corporation's 1983 and 1984 budget estimates: (a) Production and national income will rise both in 1983 and 1984 from the present level; (b) generally, exports of agricultural commodities in 1984 will be higher than 1983 levels; (c) yields for the 1983 crops are based on recent averages adjusted for trend; (d) acreage allotments and marketing quotas will be in effect for the 1983 crops of ELS cotton and certain kinds of tobacco; (e) poundage quotas will be in effect for peanuts; and (f) continuation, in general, of current statutory provisions authorizing the Corporation's programs.

It is difficult to forecast with accuracy requirements for the year ending September 30, 1984, since the projections are subject to complex and unpredictable factors such as weather, other factors which affect the volume of production of crops not yet planted, feed and food needs here and overseas, and available dollar exchange.

Support and related stabilization programs.—The Corporation conducts programs to support farm income and prices and stabilize the market for agricultural commodities. Price support is provided to producers of agricultural commodities through loans, purchases, payments, and other means. This is done mainly under the Commodity Credit Corporation Charter Act, as amended (15 U.S.C. 714 et seq.), the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1421 et seq.), and the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1281 et seq.).

Support is mandatory for the basic commodities—corn, cotton, wheat, rice, peanuts, and tobacco. The Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, also requires support of the following nonbasic commodities: honey, milk, barley, oats, rye, grain sorghum, sugar, soybeans, and seed cotton. The National Wool Act of 1954, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1781-87), requires support for wool and mohair. Support for other nonbasic commodities is discretionary. The support program may also include operations to remove and dispose of surplus agricultural commodities in order to stabilize prices at levels not in excess of those permissible by law.

The principal methods of providing support are loans to and purchases from producers. With limited exceptions, loans made on commodities are nonrecourse. The commodities serve as collateral for the loan and on maturity the producer may deliver or forfeit such collateral to satisfy his obligation without further payment.

Direct purchases are also made from processors as well as producers, depending on the commodity involved. Also, special purchases are made under various laws for the removal of surpluses; for example, the act of August 19, 1958, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1431 note), and section 416 of the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1431).

Producers may receive deficiency payments in addition to Commodity Credit Corporation loans and purchases for feed grains, rice and wheat; and in addition to loans for upland cotton. Producers of feed grains and wheat must comply with acreage limitation provisions or acreage set-aside provisions, and normal crop acreage (NCA) requirements, if in effect, in order to be eligible for loans, purchases, and payments. Producers of upland cotton and rice must comply with acreage limitation provisions, if in effect, in order to be eligible for loans, purchases, and payments. The total amount of payments, excluding disaster payments, which a person is entitled to receive under one or more of the annual programs for feed grains, wheat, upland cotton, and rice for each of the 1982 through 1985 crops of these commodities shall not exceed $50 thousand. The total amount of disaster payments which a person shall be entitled to receive annually under one or more of the rice, feed grains, upland cotton, and wheat programs for the 1982 through 1985 crops shall not exceed $100 thousand. Disaster payments are not mandatory on those acreages where crop insurance from the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation would be available. Since crop insurance is anticipated to be available in all 3,000 agricultural counties in 1983, no disaster payments are estimated for fiscal year 1984.

The Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, establishes minimum target prices for the 1982 through 1985 crops of the following commodities—wheat, corn, upland cotton, and rice and establishes minimum loan and purchase levels for wheat, feed grains, upland cotton, and rice. Deficiency payments for each of the four commodities are required when the target price for the commodity exceeds the national average market price or the loan rate, whichever is higher. The target prices for grain sorghum and oats and, if designated by the Secretary, barley, are established at a level which is fair and reasonable in relation to the target prices established for corn.

The Agricultural Act of 1949 was amended to provide for a revised dairy price support program. The minimum support price is $13.10 per cwt. for the period beginning October 1, 1982 and ending September 30, 1984. The minimum level of support for the fiscal year beginning October 1, 1984 will be the level of parity that $13.10 represents as of October 1, 1983. In addition, effective for the period October 1, 1982 through September 30, 1985, the Secretary of Agriculture may provide that 50 cents per cwt. be deducted from the proceeds of the sale of all milk marketed commercially by producers, if it is estimated that the net price support purchases for any fiscal year are expected to equal or exceed 5 billion pounds of milk equivalent. If at any time during a fiscal year the Secretary should estimate that such net price support purchases during that fiscal year would be less than 5 billion pounds, the authority for requiring such deduction shall not apply for the balance of the year. The funds will be remitted to the Commodity Credit Corporation to offset the cost of the milk price support program. For the period beginning April 1, 1983 and ending September 30, 1985, an additional 50 cents is authorized to be deducted, if projected net price support purchases for the fiscal year exceed 7.5 billion pounds milk equivalent and if a program has been established to refund the second 50 cents deduction to producers who reduce their marketings by a specified amount.

In support operations, normal trade facilities are used to the maximum extent practicable. Cooperatives and financial institutions are used in lending activities.

Besides the charter act and laws mentioned above, many other laws are applicable to the disposition through sales and donations of commodities acquired under the support program.

For accounting purposes, the Corporation credits to the support program proceeds of commodities sold from its stocks, including those disposed of through special activities.

Commodity export.—The Corporation promotes the export of agricultural commodities and products through sales for dollars or foreign currency, payments, extension of credit, assumption of certain risks, and conduct of other operations with respect to the exportation of commodities. Such commodities and products may be those held in private trade channels as well as those acquired by the Corporation. These programs, including short-term export credit sales and export credit guarantees, are carried out under section 5(f) of the Corporation's charter, and in accordance with specific statutes where applicable.

Storage facilities.—Pursuant to sections 4(h) and 5(b) of the Commodity Credit Corporation Charter Act, the Corporation has authority to make secured loans for the purchase, construction, or remodeling of facilities for storage and care of commodities on the farm.

Supply and foreign purchase.—The Corporation can procure from domestic and foreign sources food, agricultural commodities, and products and related materials to supply the needs of Federal agencies, foreign governments, and private and international relief agencies, under section 5 (b) and (c) of the Commodity Credit Corporation Charter Act.

Set-aside program and acreage limitation program.—The Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, authorizes the Secretary to conduct, through the Corporation, acreage limitation programs on the 1982 through 1985 crops of upland cotton and rice. In addition, the Secretary is authorized to implement a set-aside or acreage limitation program for the 1982-85 crops of wheat and feed grains. The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1982 requires that the Secretary conduct an acreage limitation program for the 1983 crops of wheat and rice. The Secretary also is required to implement either a set-aside or acreage limitation program for the 1983 crop of feed grains.

Land diversion payments.—To assist in adjusting the acreage of commodities to desirable goals, the Secretary is authorized by the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, to make land diversion payments, through the Corporation, to producers of the 1982 through 1985 crops of wheat, feed grains, upland cotton, and rice who devote to approved conservation uses acreages of cropland in addition to those required to be so devoted under the set-aside programs. The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1982 requires that the Secretary implement a land diversion program for the 1983 crops of wheat, feed grains, and rice.

Grain reserves.—A producer-owned food grain reserve program for wheat and rice which provides 3-year extended loans to producers was announced in April 1977. This program was later expanded to include feed grains. Producers receive annual storage payments under the contract. Program provisions establish when interest is charged and a market price level at which storage payments cease and producers may repay their loans. Under the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, a reserve program is required to be made available for wheat and feed grains beginning with the 1982 crops.

Pilot projects guaranteed loans for industrial hydrocarbons.—The Secretary is directed in section 509 of the Rural Development Act of 1972, as amended, to formulate and carry out a program for the production and marketing of industrial hydrocarbons and alcohols from agricultural commodities and forestry products. Commodity Credit Corporation is required to guarantee loans of up to $15 million each for not more than four pilot projects, for up to 20 years. The Secretary is authorized to enter into long-term contracts, not to exceed 5 years, to supply agricultural commodities at mutually agreed upon prices, either from Commodity Credit Corporation stocks or through purchases.

Operating expenses.—The Corporation carries out its functions through utilization of employees and facilities of other Government agencies. Administrative expenses are incurred for the services of: the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, the Agricultural Marketing Service, Foreign Agricultural Service—General Sales Manager, and other agencies of the Department engaged in the Corporation's activities; the General Accounting Office for audit; and the General Services Administration for space. Additional expenses are incurred for ASCS county offices for work related to programs of the Corporation, other ASCS expenses offset by revenue, custodian, and agency expenses of the Federal Reserve banks and lending agencies, and miscellaneous costs.

Expenses are incurred for acquisition, operation, maintenance, improvement, or disposition of property which the Corporation owns or in which it has an interest. These expenses are treated as program expenses. Such program expenses include inspection, classing, and grading work performed on a fee basis by Federal employees or Federal- or State-licensed inspectors; work relating to CCC programs performed on a contract or fee basis by Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service; and special services performed by other Federal agencies within and outside this Department. Most of these general expenses, including storage and handling, transportation, inspection, classing, and grading and producer storage payments, are included in program costs. They are shown in the program and financing schedule in the entries entitled "Storage, transportation, and other costs not included above," and "Producer storage payments."

The Corporation receives reimbursement for grain requisitioned pursuant to Public Law 87-152 (7 U.S.C. 447-449) by the States from Corporation stocks to feed resident wildlife threatened with starvation, through

SPECIAL ACTIVITIES

These activities are carried out under authority of section 5(g) of the Corporation's charter act and specific statutory authorizations or directives with respect thereto which are currently in effect or which may subsequently be enacted.

A summary of such current activities not included under other designated activities is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Item	1984 estimate
	Gross obligations	Outlays (reimbursable)
(1) Sale of agricultural commodities for foreign currencies		—95,000
(2) Financing sales of agricultural commodities for convertible foreign currencies and for dollars on credit terms	872,000	497,000
(3) Commodities supplied in connection with dispositions abroad	650,000	650,000
(4) National Wool Act	89,022	89,022
Total	1,611,022	1,141,022

The Corporation receives appropriations or reimbursement for cost of these activities as described under each.

To the extent that sufficient appropriations are not provided in advance to carry out authorized activities, expenditures under the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, as amended, are made by the Corporation subject to reimbursement from subsequent appropriations authorized for such purpose.

Activities currently being carried out are as follows (see Foreign Assistance programs for details of items (1) and (2):

(1) Financing sales of agricultural commodities for convertible foreign currencies and for dollars on credit terms (titles I and III, Public Law 480).

(2) Commodities supplied in connection with dispositions abroad (title II, Public Law 480).

(3) National Wool Act.—Under the National Wool Act of 1954, as amended, support of prices of wool and mohair is mandatory. The Corporation makes payments to producers in order to bring the national average price received by all producers up to the support price required under the act.

Actual or estimated payments compared with this limitation are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Funds of the Corporation are used to carry on this program. For the purpose of reimbursing the Corporation, section 705 of the act appropriates each fiscal year an amount equal to amounts expended by the Corporation during the preceding year and to amounts expended in prior fiscal years not previously reimbursed, but not to exceed an amount equal to 70% of the gross receipts from duties collected on wool and wool manufactures during the calendar year preceding the fiscal year.

FINANCING

Borrowing authority.—The Corporation has an authorized capital stock of $100 million held by the United States and authority to borrow up to $25 billion.

Funds are borrowed from Treasury and may also be borrowed from private lending agencies and others. The Corporation reserves a sufficient amount of its borrowing authority to purchase at any time all notes and other obligations evidencing loans made by such agencies and others. All bonds, notes, debentures, and similar obligations issued by the Corporation are subject to approval by the Secretary of the Treasury as required by the act of March 8, 1938 (15 U.S.C. 713a-4).

Interest on borrowings from the Treasury (and on capital stock) is paid at a rate based upon the average interest rate of all outstanding marketable obligations (of comparable maturity date) of the United States as of the preceding month. Interest is also paid on other notes and obligations at a rate prescribed by the Commodity Credit Corporation and approved by the Secretary of Treasury.

The Department of Agriculture and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1966, made provision for terminating interest after June 30, 1964 on the portion of the Corporation's borrowings from the Treasury equal to the unreimbursed realized losses recorded on the books of the Corporation after the end of the fiscal year in which such losses are realized.

The computation of the transfer from interest-bearing to non-interest-bearing capital is (in thousands of dollars):

Less appropriations for year.....	7,043,229	15,137,718	10,173,636

Contract authority.—Support and other programs required by statute may result in the Corporation incurring obligations in excess of available funds and borrowing authority. Such obligations are liquidated from subsequent appropriations and other funds which may become available to the Corporation. Any increase in obligations in excess of available fund resources is reported as contract authority in the year involved; a decrease is reported as the application of appropriations and other funds to liquidate the authority.

Appropriations.—Under section 2 of Public Law 87-155 (15 U.S.C. 713a-11), annual appropriations are authorized for each fiscal year to reimburse the Corporation for net realized losses incurred as of the close of each year.

The special activities are financed as indicated in the program descriptions above. In addition to certain reimbursments from other agencies, appropriations are made for the National Wool Act (see above) and for foreign assistance programs.

The office will work as a catalyst to obtain public and private interest group involvement in providing technical assistance to State and local organizations.

The Rural Electrification Administration, under authority of the Rural Electrification Act of 1936, as amended, makes insured loans and guarantees loans made by other qualified lenders to rural electric and telephone borrowers for the purpose of extending and improving electric and telephone service in rural areas. The rural electrification and telephone revolving fund, established by Public Law 93-32, approved May 11, 1973, is the source of financing for the insured loans, while the Federal Financing Bank is the primary source for the guaranteed loan financing. In the electric program most of the insured loans are made concurrently with supplemental financing provided by the National Rural Utilities Cooperative Finance Corporation (CFC) or some other supplemental financing source. In the telephone program supplemental financing is provided primarily through the Rural Telephone Bank. The Bank utilizes the employees and facilities of REA and the Office of the General Counsel on a part-time basis without cost to the Bank. Also, under authorities of the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act, REA will administer loans for community antenna television facilities made from the rural development insurance fund prior to fiscal year 1982.

In addition, in order to protect the Government's loan security on over $53 billion of loans and guarantees made to borrowers, to assure that construction and operation of the electric, telephone and community antenna television systems conform to approved standards, and that the systems continue to provide reliable service at the lowest possible cost to the consumer, REA furnishes business management and technical assistance on a regular basis to its borrowers. This objective is carried out through regulations, personal visits to the borrowers, and by training. REA has personnel in the Washington office and a field staff who have expertise in the electric or telephone industry and who are available to assist borrowers in specialized areas.

The Rural Development Insurance Fund was established on October 1, 1972, pursuant to section 116 of the Rural Development Act of 1972 (Public Law 92-419) approved August 30, 1972, to make community facility and business and industrial loans and guaranteed loans to both profit and nonprofit organizations.

The Rural Communication Development Fund, an account under the Rural Development Insurance Fund authorities, was established pursuant to Secretary's Memorandum No. 1988 approved May 22, 1979. This memorandum transferred certain financing authorities under the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act (7 U.S.C. 1921 et seq.) from the Farmers Home Administration to the Rural Electrification Administration for the purpose of financing and administering community antenna television services or facilities in rural areas. No new loans are proposed in this program for 1984 since sufficient funding is available in the private sector. Funding is required for losses from operation of the program.

Rural rental assistance payments.—The objective of the program is to reduce rents paid by low-income families living in FmHA financed rental projects and farm labor housing projects. Under this program, low-income tenants currently pay 25% of their adjusted monthly income for rent. Legislation is proposed to change this percentage to 30% for new contracts entered into during fiscal year 1984. Payments are made to the project owner to make up the difference between the tenants' rent payments and the approved rental rates for the units.

The fiscal year 1984 appropriation of $62,000,000 will be used to assist 6,000 units. The vast majority of these units are projected to be previously subsidized units that were assisted with 5 year agreements which have exhausted their obligated funds either before or after the end of their 5 year term.

Claims will not be paid until provisions under the builder's warranty have been fully pursued. Requests for compensation for construction defects must be made within 18 months after the date financial assistance was granted. No program level is authorized for 1984.

tions with financing for the acquisition and development of building sites for homes to be constructed by the self-help method.

In 1982, three new loans were obligated which will provide 32 sites. Legislation is being proposed to transfer all assets and liabilities of the fund to the Rural Housing Insurance Fund. No program level is proposed for 1984. Other program assistance is available for site development under the RHIF.

¹ Includes $28,950 thousand of unsubsidized home ownership loans made under the first continuing resolution.

Rural housing insurance fund.—This fund was established in 1965 (Public Law 89-117) pursuant to section 517 of title V of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended. This fund may be used to insure or guarantee rural housing loans for single family homes, rental and cooperative housing, farm labor housing, and rural housing sites. Loan programs are limited to rural areas which include towns, villages, and other places of not more than 10,000 population, which are not part of an urban area. Loans may also be made in areas with a population in excess of 10,000 but less than 20,000, if the area is not included in a standard metropolitan statistical area and has a serious lack of mortgage credit for low- and moderate-income borrowers.

The focus of the housing assistance programs will be directed towards assisting low income individuals and families without other alternatives to find safe and adequate housing. The proposed budget will enable FmHA to make loans and intensify its debt collection and loan servicing activities in an effort to more effectively manage its $25 billion housing loan portfolio and to lessen loan delinquency rates. While these loans will primarily be used for portfolio management, some portion may be used for new borrowers prior to implementation of the new Rural Housing Block Grant Program.

To complement this budget for 1984, a new rural housing block grant program is proposed which will provide an effective mechanism for funding rural housing assistance that would be consistent with resources, planning, and needs of the States and will provide maximum flexibility with minimum Federal intrusion.

Legislation is proposed to change the accounting treatment of certificates of beneficial ownership from sale of an asset to a Federal debt transaction.

The major programs currently funded through the Rural Housing Insurance Fund are:

Very low-income housing repair loans.—Home repair loans for very low-income owner/occupants are made from amounts available in this fund. These loans, which may not exceed $7,500 are made to families and individuals to repair their dwellings in order to make them safe and to remove health hazards to the families and the community. The loans are made at 1% interest for a term of not more than 20 years.

Low to moderate income housing loans.—Individual home ownership loans are made to low and moderate income individuals and families who are unable to obtain home ownership financing from conventional sources on terms they reasonably can be expected to meet. Loans may be made to eligible applicants to construct, improve, alter, repair, or replace dwellings, and may include funds to purchase a house and building site. These loans have a term of up to 33 years and currently bear a note rate based on the cost of Treasury borrowings. However, interest credits may reduce a borrower's effective interest rate to as low as 1%. For 1984, no program is proposed for moderate income housing loans.

Farm labor housing loans.—These loans are made to farm owners, public or private nonprofit organizations of farm workers to provide modest living quarters, basic household furnishings, and related facilities, including the land necessary for an adequate site for domestic farm labor housing. Loans generally bear interest at 1% and in some cases may be made in conjunction with a farm labor housing grant.

Rural rental housing loans.—Rural rental and cooperative housing loans are made to individuals, corporations, partnerships and public bodies with the objective of providing low-rent housing for low to moderate income persons and the elderly. These loans bear a note rate based on the cost of Treasury borrowings and may be subsidized to a rate as low as 1% through interest credits. This subsidy permits rents to be adjusted to a level that lower income families can afford to pay. The Rural Rental Housing Program operates in tandem with the HUD Section 8 Rental Assistance Program and the FmHA Rental Assistance Program which is discussed below.

Rental assistance.—The objective of the rental assistance program is to reduce rents paid by low-income families living in FmHA financed rental projects and farm labor housing projects. Under this program, low-income tenants now pay 25% of their adjusted monthly income for rent. Payments from the fund are made to the project owner to make up the difference between the tenant's payment and the approved rental rate established for the unit. Legislation will be proposed to raise the tenant contribution on new agreements to 30% of the tenant's adjusted monthly income for rent. For 1984, the Budget proposes to establish a separate appropriation account in order to more adequately identify the costs associated with the program. The proposed 1984 budget will allow the renewal of rental assistance contracts which will be expiring during the year.

Rural housing site loans.—Site development loans are made for the purchase and development of land to be subdivided into building sites and sold on a nonprofit basis to low- and moderate-income families or to organizations for rental or cooperative housing. These loans have a term of 2 years and currently bear a note rate based on the cost of Treasury borrowing. No program is proposed in 1984

The following table shows 1982 and estimated 1983 and 1984 program levels and units.

¹ CBO's Held by the FFB at the beginning of 1984 will be reclassified as debt instruments.

Proposed legislation will be transmitted that will affect the Rural Housing Insurance Fund (RHIF) in two ways. The legislation would remove the statutory requirement that the proceeds from Certificates of Beneficial Ownership (CBO's) be treated as a sale of an asset. With this change, CBO transactions will be treated in accordance with generally accepted Federal budget and accounting principles. The issuance of CBO's will be treated as borrowing rather than as income that offsets obligations and outlays. The retirement of CBO's will be treated as redemption of debt rather than as an obligation and outlay. The CBO's outstanding at the beginning of fiscal year 1984 will be reclassified as debt instruments. This reform has been suggested at various times by the Legislative and Executive Branch. The second proposal will transfer the assets, liabilities, and balances of the Self-Help Land Development Fund to the Rural Housing Insurance Fund (RHIF). This action is proposed since there has been little loan activity in the land development fund and it would be more efficient to consolidate it with the RHIF.

The Agricultural credit insurance fund is used to insure or guarantee farm ownership, soil and water, recreation, farm operating, and emergency loans to individuals. Associations are eligible for the following types of loans: irrigation and drainage, Indian land acquisition, watershed protection, flood prevention, and resource conservation and development.

Public Law 92-419, approved August 30, 1972, abolished the Farmers Home Administration Direct loan account and the Emergency credit revolving fund and provided for transfer of the assets and liabilities of, and authorizations applicable to, these accounts to the Agricultural credit insurance fund. It also provided for transfer from the Agricultural credit insurance fund to the Rural development insurance fund of the assets and liabilities of the Agricultural credit insurance fund applicable to loans for water systems and waste disposal facilities.

The fiscal year 1984 farm loan program proposals continue to reflect a shift in funding emphasis from emergency loans to the recurring farm ownership and farm operating loan programs. Under both programs, additional emphasis will be given to assisting beginning young farmers. This shift is consistent with nationwide implementation of the expanded crop insurance program in the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC).

The following loans are financed through this fund:

Farm ownership loans are made to farmers and ranchers for acquiring, enlarging, or improving not larger than family farms, including dwellings and farm buildings; for financing land and water development, use, and conservation; for developing recreational and other nonfarm enterprises; for forestry development; for refinancing indebtedness; and for loan closing costs. Corporate family farmers, farming cooperatives, and partnerships are also eligible. Legislation will be proposed to eliminate recreational uses and facilities as eligible loan purposes. The FmHA and private or cooperative lenders can make loans to the same borrowers on the same security. Loans are made for 40 years or less. Currently, insured principal indebtedness of any borrower may not exceed $200,000 and guaranteed principal indebtedness of any borrower may not exceed $300,000. Legislation will be proposed to increase the insured principal indebtedness to $300,000 and the guaranteed principal indebtedness to $400,000. The current loan limitations are no longer adequate to meet the needs of some present borrowers or properly establish new applicants in farming. The borrower is charged not more than the cost of money interest rate for insured loans except for low-income, limited resource borrowers who currently are charged a lower interest rate. An additional 2% is added to the interest rate if the loan involves the use of prime farm land for nonfarm purposes. Legislation will be proposed to adjust the interest rate in the program so that all borrowers will be charged interest based on the cost of money. The interest rate for guaranteed loans is negotiated by the lender and the borrower.

Soil and water loans are made to owners or operators of farms and ranches for developing and conserving land and water resources. These loans may be made on farms which are larger than family farms. Corporate family farmers, farming cooperatives, and partnerships are also eligible. Loans are made for 40 years or less. Currently, insured principal indebtedness of any borrower may not exceed $200,000 and guaranteed principal indebtedness of any borrower may not exceed $300,000. Legislation will be proposed to increase the insured principal indebtedness to $300,000 and the guaranteed principal indebtedness to $400,000. The current loan limitations are no longer adequate to meet the needs of some soil and water conservation projects. The borrower is charged not more than the cost of money interest rate for insured loans. An additional 2% is added to the interest rate if the loan involves the use of prime farm land for nonfarm purposes. The interest rate for guaranteed loans is negotiated by the lender and the borrower.

Irrigation and drainage loans are made to organizations primarily composed of farmers, ranchers, certain Indian tribes, and other rural residents for projects which include the application or establishment of soil conservation practices; the construction, improvement, or enlargement of facilities for drainage; and the conservation, development, use, or control of water. Typical recipients and projects financed through this program include: farmers and other rural residents constructing community irrigation dams and canals; a soil and water conservation district purchasing heavy earth-moving equipment; and a community improving land drainage. These loans are made at not less than the cost of money interest rate for 40 years or less. No funds were appropriated in fiscal year 1983 and no program is proposed for fiscal year 1984.

Resource conservation and development (RCD) loans are made to local sponsors of RCD projects approved for operation by the Soil Conservation Service. Loans are made to local organizations for conservation measures specified in approved project and works of improvement plans. These loans are repayable in not more than 30 years with a not to exceed 5 year deferment until the benefits from the RCD measure first become available. Loans bear interest at a rate based on the average rate paid by the U.S. Treasury on obligations of similar maturity. No program is proposed for fiscal year 1984.

Watershed protection and flood prevention loans are made to local sponsors of projects approved by the Soil Conservation Service. Loans are made to local organizations for installing, repairing, or improving water storage facilities, purchasing sites or rights-of-way and for related costs. These loans are repayable in not more than 50 years at an interest rate based on the average rate paid by the U.S. Treasury on obligations of similar maturity. Total loans outstanding on any one project may not exceed $10 million. No program is proposed for fiscal year 1984.

Indian tribe land acquisition loans are made to qualified Indian tribes or tribal corporations to acquire land or interest in land within the tribe's reservation or Alaskan Indian community, as determined by the Secretary of the Interior. Loans are made for 40 years or less. The tribe is charged not more than the cost of money interest rate except those tribes that are unable to pay the higher rate currently may be charged a lower interest rate. The budget proposes to adjust the interest rate in the program so that all borrowers will be charged the cost of money interest rate.

Farm operating loans are made to farmers and ranchers for such things as paying costs incident to reorganizing a farming system for more profitable operation; purchasing livestock, poultry, and farm equipment; purchasing feed, seed, fertilizer, and other farm supplies; meeting other essential operating expenses; financing land and water development, use, and conservation; developing recreation and other nonfarm enterprises; providing other farm and home needs; refinancing indebtedness; complying with certain safety standards; financing modest farm and nonfarm projects for rural youths in connection with their participation in 4-H clubs, Future Farmers of America, and similar organizations; and loan closing costs. Legislation will be proposed to eliminate recreational and nonagricultural enterprises as eligible loan purposes.

Operating loans for farming operations are confined to operators of not larger than family farms. Individuals, partnerships, corporations, and cooperatives operating family-size farms may be eligible. Currently, the outstanding principal loan balance for operating loans to a borrower is limited to $100,000 for insured loans and $200,000 for guaranteed loans. Legislation will be proposed to increase the insured principal indebtedness to $150,000 and the guaranteed principal indebtedness to $300,000. The current loan limitations are no longer adequate to meet the needs of some present borrowers or properly establish new applicants in farming. The borrower is charged not more than the cost of money interest rate for insured loans except for low-income, limited resource borrowers who are currently charged a lower interest rate. An additional 2% is added to the interest rate if the loan involves the use of prime farm land for nonfarm purposes. Legislation will be proposed to adjust the interest rate in the program so that all borrowers will be charged interest rates based on the cost of money. The interest rate for guaranteed loans is negotiated by the lender and the borrower. Funds advanced for operating expenses are usually repaid when the crops, livestock, or other farm products are sold. Funds advanced for other purposes may be repaid in 1 to 7 years; and loans may be rescheduled for up to 7 additional years. Loans are secured by crop and chattel liens and, when necessary, by real estate mortgages. It must be clearly established that the loan applicants are unable to obtain sufficient credit elsewhere to finance their needs.

Recreation loans are made to individual farmers and ranchers for converting all or a portion of a farm or ranch to outdoor income-producing recreation enterprises which will supplement or supplant farm or ranch income and permit carrying on sound and successful operations. These loans may be made on farms which are larger than family farms and may include funds for operating purposes. Corporate family farmers, farming cooperatives, and partnerships may also be eligible. Applicants must be engaged in farming when making application in order to be eligible for a loan. Loans are made for 40 years or less. Currently, insured principal indebtedness of any borrower may not exceed $200,000 and guaranteed principal indebtedness of any borrower may not exceed $300,000. The borrower is charged not more than the cost of money interest rate of insured loans and a rate agreed to by the lender and the borrower for guaranteed loans. An additional 2% is added to the interest rate of insured loans if the loan involves the use of prime farm land. No funds were appropriated in fiscal year 1983 since other program assistance is available for these purposes. Legislation will be proposed to eliminate the recreation loan authority.

Emergency loans are made available in designated counties where property damage and/or severe production losses have occurred as a direct result of a natural disaster. Subsequent emergency loans for annual operating expenses are made to established eligible farmers, ranchers, and aquaculture operators at a market rate of interest as established periodically by the Secretary. Effective October 1, 1982, such subsequent annual production loans are available only to those borrowers who were indebted to FmHA for an emergency loan on December 15, 1979, and who have received an initial emergency annual production loan due to a disaster occurring prior to December 15, 1979.

Actual loss loans are made for physical losses to repair, restore, or replace damaged or destroyed farm property, livestock and livestock products, and supplies, and for production losses to compensate for loss of income based on reduced production of crops resulting from the disaster. Repayment terms vary according to the purposes of the loan and the projected repayment ability of the borrower. Loans for actual losses to crops, livestock, supplies, and equipment may be scheduled for repayment for up to 7 years. These loans may be renewed for up to 7 additional years. Under some conditions a longer repayment period may be authorized, but not to exceed 20 years. Generally, real estate will be needed as security when more than 7 years is authorized. Real estate loans will generally be scheduled for repayment within 30 years but may be scheduled for up to 40 years. Annual operating expenses usually will be scheduled for repayment each year when the principal income from the year's operations is received.

An actual loss loan may not exceed $500,000 or the amount of the actual loss caused by the disaster. The interest rate is 8 percent on loans for actual losses caused by disasters on and after October 1, 1981. The interest rate is 5 percent on loans for actual losses caused between September 30, 1978 and October 1, 1981. The Small Business Act of 1980, Public Law 96-302, made credit-worthy borrowers eligible for FmHA emergency disaster actual loss loans at a market rate of interest.

Legislation will be proposed to provide that, at the discretion of the Secretary, when Federal crop insurance is generally available to producers in an area, emergency disaster loans will no longer be available. Enactment of the proposal would provide an incentive for farmers to move toward participation in the crop insurance program rather than rely on the availability of subsidized loans to recover from disaster losses which may threaten their financial ability to remain in farming. The prospect that loans would become available in event of such loss has encouraged some farmers to assume otherwise unacceptable financial risks. More reliance on crop insurance should provide farmers with incentives to reduce their risk of sustaining severe financial loss.

The following table shows 1982 actual and estimated 1983 and 1984 number of loans and program levels. The program levels shown for guaranteed loans in 1982 reflect the actual amount guaranteed by the U.S. Government. Beginning in 1983 the guaranteed program levels reflect the full principal amount of the loan of which part is guaranteed.

MEMORANDUM

2299	U.S. contingent liability for guaranteed loans outstanding, end of year.....	9,339,319	10,131,000	10,546,621
------	------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----------	------------	------------

¹Amounts shown are based on the full principal amounts of loans that are partially guaranteed by the U.S. Government. The comparable amount of limitation enacted on the basis of contingent liability is $550,000 thousand.

The Rural development insurance fund was established on October 1, 1972, pursuant to section 116 of the Rural Development Act of 1972 (Public Law 92-419), approved August 30, 1972, which also provided for transfer of the assets and liabilities of the Agricultural credit insurance fund applicable to loans for water systems and waste disposal facilities to this fund.

The fund is used to insure or guarantee loans for water systems and waste disposal facilities, community facilities, industrial development and alcohol production facilities in rural areas.

The objective of the water and waste disposal loan program is to assist eligible borrowers (communities and others) to provide assistance for basic human amenities, alleviate health hazards and promote the orderly growth of rural areas by meeting the need for financing of new and improved rural water and waste disposal systems and meet National Clean Water Standards and the Safe Drinking Water Act.

Water and waste disposal development loans may be made to organizations including certain Indian tribes, corporations not operated for profit, and public and quasi-public agencies for the development, storage, treatment, purification, or distribution of water and/or the collection, treatment, or disposal of waste in rural areas. Loans are made for facilities which primarily serve farmers, ranchers, farm tenants, farm laborers, and other rural residents in rural areas which shall not include any areas in any city or town having a population in excess of 10,000 inhabitants according to the latest decennial census of the United States. These loans are repayable in terms not to exceed the useful life of the facility or 40 years, whichever is less. These loans bear interest not in excess of the current market yield for comparable term municipal obligations. Those loans made in areas where the median family income falls below the poverty level and the project is needed to meet health or sanitary standards bear interest not in excess of 5%. An intermediate rate, half way between the 5% and the market rate, applies when the median family income of the service area is not more than 85% of the nonmetropolitan median family income of the state.

The objective of the community facility loan program is to assist rural communities in developing or improving essential community facilities.

Community facility loans may be made to organizations including certain Indian tribes, corporations not operated for profit, and public and quasi-public agencies for the purposes of constructing, enlarging, extending, or otherwise improving community facilities providing essential service to rural residents. Such facilities include those providing or supporting overall community development such as fire and rescue services, health care, hydroelectric generation, and community, social, and cultural benefits. Loans are made for facilities which primarily serve farmers, ranchers, farm tenants, farm laborers, and other rural residents in rural areas which shall not include any area in any city or town having a population in excess of 20,000 inhabitants according to the latest decennial census of the United States. These loans are repayable in terms not to exceed the useful life of the facility or 40 years, whichever is less. These loans bear interest not in excess of the current market yield for comparable term municipal obligations. Those made in areas where the median family income falls below the poverty level and the project is needed to meet health or sanitary standards bear interest not in excess of 5%. An intermediate rate, half way between the 5% and the market rate, applies when the median family income of the service area is not more than 85% of the nonmetropolitan median family income of the state. An additional 2% is added to the interest rate for projects built on prime farmland when an optional site is available.

The objective of the guaranteed industrial development loan program is to facilitate the development or improvement of business and industry in rural areas, to stimulate economic growth, to create employment opportunities, and to improve the environmental climate.

Industrial development loans may be made to a cooperative, corporation, partnership, trust, or other legal entity organized and operated on a profit or nonprofit basis; Indian tribe; municipality, county, or other political subdivision of a State; or an individual. Loans are made for the purposes of financing business and industrial acquisition, construction, conversion, enlargement, repair, or modernization; financing the purchase and development of land, easements, rights-of-way, buildings, facilities, machinery, supplies, and materials; and payment of startup costs and supplying working capital.

Industrial development loans may be made in any area that is not within the outer boundary of any city having a population of 50,000 or more and its immediately adjacent urbanized and urbanizing areas with a population density of more than 100 persons per square mile. Special consideration for such loans is given to areas having a population of less than 25,000. These loans, except for public bodies, are repayable in three separate maturities not exceeding 30 years. The interest rate for guaranteed loans is determined by the lender and the borrower. No program is proposed for fiscal year 1984.

The objective of the guaranteed alcohol production facility loan program is to reduce the dependence of the United States on imported petroleum and natural gas by the financing of production facilities for alcohol fuel. FmHA administers the funding authority for the alcohol production facility loan program under the provisions of section 310B of the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act of 1972, as amended, and the industrial development loan program regulations. In 1983, $75 million of the industrial development loan program shall be available for this program. No program is proposed for fiscal year 1984.

The following table shows the number of loans and the program levels for 1982 actual and estimated for 1983 and 1984. The program levels shown for guaranteed loans in 1982 reflect the actual amount guaranteed by the U.S. Government.

1. Technical assistance.—Technical assistance is provided through conservation districts to land users and decisionmakers, including individual landowners and operators, community groups, units of government, Indian tribes, and others for the planning of conservation programs and installation of needed conservation systems on the land, including design, layout, installation, and consultation services.

Combinations of needed soil and water conservation systems are planned in relation to each other to achieve well-balanced conservation programs. Both vegetative and structural measures are installed in harmony with the needs of the land for protection, treatment, and resource improvement. Plans reflect the decisions of the land users, community groups, and units of government concerning the use and treatment of land and water resources.

Technicians of the Soil Conservation Service explain the various soil conditions, develop alternative uses and treatments, help to evaluate the costs and returns of conservation work, and furnish assistance in applying the needed treatments. The technical services provided through conservation operations are instrumental in encouraging farmers, ranchers, and others to establish conservation practices.

Technical assistance is also provided to participants in the agricultural conservation cost-share program in establishing specified enduring practices and measures; to participants in other programs involving land-use adjustments and soil and water conservation; in support of the experimental rural clean water program; in the planning and application of soil and water conservation practices for which loans are made by the Farmers Home Administration; and to rural development committees. Technical assistance on special national soil, water, and related resource problems such as land-use planning, mine spoil restoration, and control of erosion, sedimentation, and agricultural-related pollutants, is also provided.

Beginning in 1981 a program of accelerated technical assistance was initiated in targeted geographical areas with severe erosion, water conservation, and water quality problems. In fiscal year 1982 a total of $6.6 million of the technical assistance funds was designated for this purpose. The targeted geographical areas include the Palouse area of Washington, Oregon, and Idaho; the Corn Belt area of Missouri and Iowa; the Southern Piedmont areas of Alabama and Georgia; West Tennessee; the irrigated areas of the Western States; and other areas with critical soil erosion and/or water resource problems.

2. Inventorying and monitoring.—Inventorying and monitoring provides soil, water, and related resource data for land conservation, use, and development; for guidance of community development to achieve a balanced rural-urban growth; for identification of prime agriculture-producing areas; for evaluating land-use changes and trends; and for use in protecting the quality of the natural resource base.

3. Soil surveys.—Soil surveys and investigations are made of the Nation's soil resources, with interpretations and publications that provide physical land facts needed for program development, resource conservation planning, installation of planned practices, and for use by other Federal, State, and local agencies in making land-use decisions.

4. Snow survey water forecasting.—Water supply forecasts prepared from snow surveys in western States are used in making efficient seasonal use of water for irrigation, flood control, fish and wildlife, recreation, power generation, municipal and industrial water supply, and water quality management.

5. Operation of plant materials centers.—The selection and evaluation of plant materials are made at 20 plant materials centers through field trials to determine their suitability for erosion control, conservation, and other environmental improvements.

6. Resource appraisal and program development.—Resource appraisal and program development is carried out to insure that programs administered by the Secretary of Agriculture for the conservation of soil, water, and related resources shall respond to the Nation's long-term needs. The Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act of 1977 provides for a report to the public and Congress at 5-year intervals beginning January 1980.

1. River basin surveys.—The Department participates in cooperative surveys and investigations in river basins primarily with State water resource agencies, but also with other interested Federal and local entities. Priority is given to studies which: (a) address erosion problems, protect the resource base, and improve water quality; (b) solve nonpoint source pollution problems, including erosion control, salinity, and water quality; (c) protect important farm and wetlands; and (d) improve irrigation efficiencies and conservation of water.

2. Flood plain management assistance.—Through this cooperative program, SCS assists local governments in carrying out flood hazard studies and provides technical assistance for the development of a flood plain management program. These detailed technical studies delineate flood-prone areas and floodways on maps for local use in implementing programs to reduce hazards to life and property from flooding.

3. Interagency coordination and program formulation.—The Department maintains representation on three river basin interagency committees, the Susquehanna and Delaware River Basin Commissions and other regional entities involved in water and related resource planning and coordination. These serve as points of contact in coordinating activities and programs of this Department and other Federal departments and agencies and the States in these basin areas. Department representatives keep concerned parties informed of the activities of the member agencies and facilitate interagency coordination.

The Department makes surveys of proposed small watershed projects, and work plans are prepared in cooperation with local sponsors. These plans outline the soil and water management problems in the watershed, the steps that have been or are authorized to be taken to alleviate these problems, the proposed works of improvement to be installed, the estimated benefits and costs, cost sharing, and operation and maintenance arrangements, and other facts necessary to justify Federal participation in project development. New planning starts in fiscal year 1982 and fiscal year 1983 will be primarily for watershed protection work. There will be no new planning starts in 1984.

This program provides for cooperation between the Federal Government and States and their political subdivisions in installing works of improvement to; reduce damage from floodwater, sediment, and erosion; for the conservation, development, utilization, and disposal of water, and; for the conservation and proper utilization of land. Loans are available through the Agricultural credit insurance fund of the Farmers Home Administration to local organizations to help them finance their share of the costs for certain works of improvement.

Watershed operations authorized by Public Law 534.—The Department cooperates with soil conservation districts and other local organizations in planning and installing works of improvement for flood prevention in 11 watersheds authorized by the Flood Control Act of 1944. The Federal Government shares the cost of works of improvement for flood prevention, agricultural water management, recreation, and fish and wildlife development.

The Department furnishes technical and, in certain instances, financial assistance to landowners to accelerate planning and installation of land treatment measures for runoff retardation, sediment control, and water management. Local sponsoring organizations must furnish all land easements and rights-of-way, water rights, all costs of works of improvement for nonagricultural water management measures (except for those related to fish and wildlife development and recreation) and operate and maintain all completed works of improvement.

Within the 11 authorized projects, 389 subwatershed areas have been identified for planning purposes. Installation progress in these subwatersheds is as follows:

Emergency watershed protection operations.—This program authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to undertake such emergency measures for runoff retardation and soil erosion prevention as may be needed to safeguard life and property from floods and the products of erosion on any watershed whenever natural elements or force causes a sudden impairment of that watershed. An emergency is considered to exist when a watershed is suddenly impaired by flood, fire, wind, earthquake, or other natural cause and consequently life and property are endangered by floodwater, erosion, or sediment discharge. The emergency area need not be declared a national disaster area to be eligible for emergency watershed protection. Emergency watershed protection is applicable to small scale, localized disasters as well as large scale disasters. State environmental, natural resource, fish and game, and other agencies participate in planning and coordinating emergency work.

Emergency operations on non-Federal land are sponsored by State or local organizations. Emergency operations supplement other Federal, State, and local resources committed to alleviate the hazard. Conditions essential to funding assistance are that a watershed impairment must have occurred suddenly as a result of a natural element or force and there exists a threat to life or property from floods or the products of erosion. Sponsoring organizations must provide needed land rights, water rights, and permits and accept responsibility for operation and maintenance, if required, all without cost to the emergency operation funds. The Forest Service does this work on lands it administers and on lands adjacent to Forest Service land which they administer under formal agreement. Funds are made available to the Forest Service from this appropriation.

Small watershed operations authorized by Public Law 566.—The Department provides technical and financial assistance to local organizations to install measures for watershed protection, flood prevention, agricultural water management, recreation, and fish and wildlife enhancement.

Watershed work plans are prepared by sponsoring local organizations with the Department's assistance or through State and local resources. After work plans are approved by the Department or Congress (projects where the estimated Federal contribution will exceed $1 million require congressional approval), technical services and financial assistance are provided for specific works of improvements.

Land treatment and engineering services are provided to approved projects in advance of construction. During the preconstruction state, surveys, and investigations are made and detailed designs, specifications, and engineering cost estimates are prepared for structural measures, land rights areas are identified, and the technical services are furnished for accelerating planning and application of land treatment measures.

On non-Federal lands, local sponsoring organizations must acquire water rights and furnish land, easements, and rights-of-way for all structural measures, except up to 50% of the cost of land rights allocated to public fish and wildlife and recreational developments which may be paid from Public Law 566 funds. Local sponsoring organizations have the option of contracting for construction work or may request SCS to do the contracting for them. Local sponsoring organizations must operate and maintain completed works of improvement and in the case of multiple-purpose structures, bear a share of the construction costs. On Federal lands, Federal agencies do this work on lands they administer with appropriate contributions made by local people who receive benefits.

The following tabulation shows the status of Public Law 566 projects:

Loan services.—Loans are made to local sponsoring organizations to finance the local cost of installing works of improvement in Public Law 534 and approved Public Law 566 watershed projects. Repayment with interest is required within 50 years after the principal benefits of improvements first become available. Loans are made from funds available for this purpose from the Agricultural credit insurance fund of the Farmers Home Administration. Loan services related to processing and making loans are financed from this appropriation.

This program provides cost-share and technical services to participating landowners or operators in the Great Plains area in the development and installation of long-term conservation plans and practices for their land under contracts entered into in prior years. It is a voluntary program which complements other conservation programs of the Department in 519 designated counties of 10 Great Plains States. Contracts with individual landowners range in time from 3 to 10 years.

Conservation plans made for each farm or ranch serve as a basis for cost sharing on approved practices. The fundamental purposes of this program are to achieve needed land use adjustments, conservation treatments, and economic stability of each unit. The planned work is installed under contract according to specific time schedules.

MAIN WORKLOAD FACTORS

Program participants:	1982 actual	1983 estimate	1984 estimate
Number of new contracts during year.....	700	739	300
Number of contracts serviced during year.....	10,254	9,220	7,720
Number of acres under contracts.....	114,787,000	116,326,000	116,951,000

As of September 30, 1982, there were about 8,481 active contracts on hand. Co landowners or operators finance the entire cost of installing recurring management-type practices and pay a specified part of the cost-shared practices installed on their land.

Program regulations provide that cost-share rates offered in any contract shall not exceed 80% of the cost of installing eligible practices within the designated county. The rates vary among States and practices due to differences in conservation and program needs. Cost sharing for irrigation practices in any one contract shall not exceed $10,000 or one-fourth of the total Federal obligation. There is a cost-sharing limitation of $35 thousand for any contract.

Each participant who signs a Great Plains program contract is responsible for implementing his plan of operations; and the Department is committed to furnishing the necessary technical help needed for design, layout, and other services. Co landowners and operators are encouraged to make use of other available assistance under local, State, and Federal programs as a means of further improving their land and water resources.

This program provides for the Department to assist States, local units of government, groups and individuals in developing area plans for resource conservation and development (R.C. & D.).

Resource conservation and development areas are provided technical and financial assistance to help States and local units of government prepare plans for resource development and economic improvement and to plan and install community-type conservation projects or measures. Financial contributions, loans, and other Federal assistance are used to help carry out measures specified in R.C. & D. area plans. Loans were made to qualified local organizations to help finance their share of the costs of installing the measures.

No funds will be available in 1984 to continue the R.C. & D. program.

The following tabulation shows the status of R.C. & D. areas authorized to receive technical and financial assistance.

Note.—Excludes $3,028 thousand in 1983 and 1984 for activities transferred to Standard Level User Charges, Department of Agriculture. Comparable amount for 1982 ($4,939 thousand) included above.

Excludes $47 thousand in 1983 and 1984 for activities transferred to Advisory Committees, Department of Agriculture. Comparable amount for 1982 ($47 thousand) is included above.

The major objectives of the Service are to protect the animal and plant resources of the Nation from destructive pests and diseases.

1. Plant disease and pest control.—Through inspections at ports of entry, insects, plant diseases, nematodes, and animal pests and diseases harmful to agriculture are prevented from entering this country. Cooperative programs with the States are conducted to prevent the spread of and/or to eradicate certain plant pests already established in this country. The 1984 estimates propose increases for agricultural quarantine inspection and international programs, and decreases for biocontrol of plants pests, boll weevil, golden nematode, gypsy moth, imported fire ant, Medfly, noxious weeds, pink bollworm, and witchweed programs. The 1984 estimates propose no funding for grasshopper, Japanese beetle, and range caterpillar programs. Additional user fees will be instituted to make the provision of services uniform. The budget anticipates an increase of $1.8 million in fees for certifying export certificates for plants.

2. Animal disease and pest control.—Programs are conducted to keep communicable diseases of foreign origin from entering this country and to prevent the spread of diseases through interstate shipments of livestock or distribution of impure or impotent veterinary biologics. In cooperation with States, other programs are directed at the control and eradication of livestock diseases present in this country. Foreign animal diseases, should they enter this country, are rapidly diagnosed and outbreaks which are of economic significance and for which the Secretary of Agriculture declares a national emergency are controlled and eradicated. The animal care programs regulate the humane care and handling of approximately 40 million warmblooded commercial (pet) and laboratory animals, restrict animal fighting ventures and prohibit the soring of horses. Part of the program includes the exportation of healthy and sound livestock in a humane manner. The 1984 estimates propose to reduce the brucellosis control program. Increases are proposed for import-export of animals, interstate inspection, and screwworm, and decreases for animal welfare, and poultry disease programs. The 1984 estimates propose elimination of the scabies program. The budget anticipates an increase of $0.4 million in fees so as to recover 100% of the costs associated with quarantining livestock entering the United States through animal quarantine facilities. This change equalizes the fees charged for importing all types of animals into the United States. An additional $1.4 million is anticipated in fees for certifying export certificates for animal semen.

3. Construction of facilities.—In 1981, the Congress appropriated funds under a separate account to APHIS, Buildings and Facilities. The activity reflected shows obligations from prior-year moneys.

4. Contingencies.—Of the total annual amounts provided under this appropriation, $1.0 million has been apportioned for use pursuant to section 3679 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, for the control of outbreaks of insects, plant diseases, and animal diseases to the extent necessary to meet emergency conditions.

The Federal Grain Inspection Service was established on November 20, 1976.

The mission of FGIS is to provide for the establishment of official United States Standards for Grain, to promote the uniform application thereof by official inspection personnel, to provide for an official inspection system for grain, and to regulate the weighing and certification of the weight of grain shipped in interstate or foreign commerce as authorized by the U.S. Grain Standards Act (USGSA), as amended, and the regulations thereof, and the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (AMA).

The USGSA requires that the standardization and compliance activities, the International Monitoring Staff and a Grain Inspection Advisory Committee be financed entirely from appropriations.

【FEDERAL GRAIN INSPECTION SERVICE】 SALARIES AND EXPENSES—
Continued

Standardization activities performed during the year will include: researching, developing or improving methods to ensure the accurate and uniform application of U.S. grain standards; establishing and updating grain standards.

Compliance activities will include reviewing the official performance of State and private inspection agencies; and investigating technical violations.

The International Monitoring Staff will brief foreign buyers, assess foreign inspection and weighing techniques, and respond to foreign quality and quantity complaints.

An advisory committee, consisting of members from the grain industry was established in 1982 to advise the agency regarding efficient and economical implementations of the USGSA and will continue throughout 1983.

The Federal Grain Inspection Service provides a uniform system for the inspection and weighing of grain. Services provided under this system are financed through a fee supported revolving fund.

Fee supported programs include direct services, supervision activities and administrative functions. Direct services include official grain inspection and weighing by FGIS employees at certain export ports as well as the inspection of U.S. grain shipped through Canada. FGIS supervises its own employees and oversees the inspection and weighing of grain by 8 delegated states and 82 designated state and private agencies. FGIS provides a final appeal service of original grain inspections and a registration system for grain firms operating in the export trade. Through support from the Association of American Railroads, and user fees, FGIS conducts a railroad track scale testing program. In addition, the agency provides grading services for rice and grain related products under the authority of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (AMA).

AMS activities assist producers and handlers of agricultural commodities by providing a variety of marketing services. These services continue to become more complex as the volume of agricultural commodities increases, as a greater number of new processed commodities are developed, and as the agricultural market structure undergoes extensive changes. Marketing changes include increased concentration in food retailing, direct buying, decentralization of processing, growth of interregional competition, vertical integration, and contract farming. The individual activities include:

1. Market news service.—Since its inception in 1915, the Market News program has continued to provide the agricultural community with timely, accurate and unbiased information pertaining to the movement of agricultural products. This nationwide service provides daily accounts of the supplies, demands and prices of over 400 commodities throughout the country.

Where possible, market information is collected and disseminated through joint Federal/State effort utilizing both Federal and State personnel and resources. Market News is disseminated by automatic telephone answering devices, newspaper columns, leased wire services, radio and television.

Currently, research is being conducted to the feasibility of transmitting market news data via satellite. Because of the increasing costs of transmitting by the traditional forms of communication, alternatives need to be sought to increase the timeliness and the coverage of the market news service, while maintaining or reducing operational expenses. The volume of work performed is indicated by examples given in the following table:

2. Inspection grading and standardization.—Nationally uniform standards of quality for agricultural products are established and applied to specific lots of products to: promote confidence between buyers and sellers; reduce hazards in marketing due to misunderstandings and disputes arising from the use of nonstandard descriptions; encourage better preparation of uniform quality products for market; and furnish consumers with more definite information on the quality of products they buy. Grading services are provided for cotton, tobacco and naval stores. AMS also provides warehouse examination services for warehouses licensed under the U.S. Warehouse Act and those storing CCC-pledged or owned commodities. By conducting periodic unannounced examinations of warehouses licensed under the U.S. Warehouse Act and warehouses storing CCC-owned or pledged commodities the warehouse examination program provides: protection to farmers and others who warehouse their crops; the confidence in the fiscal soundness of warehouses necessary to insure that warehouse receipts are accepted as documents of title for loan collateral or in facilitating interstate commerce; and, a standard for sound warehouse operations.

Continuous in-plant inspection of all plants manufacturing liquid, frozen or dried egg products is provided with quarterly inspection of egg handlers and hatcheries to ensure the proper disposition of restricted eggs. Imported egg products are controlled to make certain that the inspection systems in exporting countries are equal to United States' standards. Expanded residue detection and control is provided by the development of new analytical techniques and by the strengthening of the Contamination Response System through increased laboratory capability.

A uniform government food specification system is maintained to provide a more efficient Federal food procurement service.

3. Market protection and promotion.—This program consists of: (1) the research and promotion programs which are designed to improve the competitive position and expand markets for cotton, eggs, wheat, wool and mohair, and potatoes; and (2) the administration of the U.S. Warehouse Act for cotton warehouses, Federal Seed Act, Plant Variety Protection Act, and the Export Fruit Acts.

The U.S. Warehouse Act protects producers who store their cotton in public warehouses. AMS licenses public warehouses and conducts unannounced examinations of cotton warehouses. For 1984, cotton warehouse examination is proposed to be funded from user fees.

Federal seed inspectors conduct tests on samples to help assure truthful labeling of agricultural and vegetable seeds sold in interstate commerce. Plant variety protection provides for the issuance of certificates to assure that developers of novel varieties of sexually reproduced plants have exclusive rights to sell, reproduce, import and export such varieties for a period of 17 years. The import authority was transferred to APHIS effective October 1, 1982. The issuance of plant variety certificates is proposed to be user funded beginning in 1984.

The Export Fruit Acts promote U.S. foreign trade of various fruits to protect the reputation of U.S. grown fruit in foreign markets and to prevent deception as to the quality of such products moving in foreign commerce.

The volume of work performed is indicated in the following tables:

License fees are deposited in this special fund and are used to meet the costs of administering the Perishable Agricultural Commodities and the Produce Agency Acts (7 U.S.C. 491-497, 499a-499s). The current annual license fee is set at $180 plus $72 for every branch or business facility above nine, up to a maximum of $1,200.

The acts are intended to assure equitable treatment to farmers and others in the marketing of fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables. Commission merchants, dealers, and brokers handling these products in interstate and foreign commerce are licensed. Complaints of violations are investigated and violations dealt with by (a) informal agreements between the two parties, (b) formal decisions involving payment of reparation awards, and (c) suspension or revocation of license and/or publication of the facts. Payments in connection with formal and informal reparation settlements to producers are estimated to amount to $8 million in 1984.

1. Expenses and refunds, inspection and grading of farm products.—The commodity inspection and grading programs provide grading, examination, and certification services for a wide variety of fresh and processed food commodities using federally approved grade standards and purchase specifications. Commodities graded include poultry, livestock, meat, dairy products, and fresh and processed fruits and vegetables. These programs use official grade standards which reflect the relative quality of a particular food commodity based on laboratory testing and characteristics such as taste, color, weight and physical condition. Producers voluntarily request the grading and certification service and it is provided on a fee for service basis.

As permitted by the Agriculture and Food Act of 1981, AMS received authority to charge a subscription fee for postage, printing, and handling of agricultural food commodity market news reports. The subscription fees went into effect August 2, 1982.

Similar legislative changes that will permit fees to be charged for cotton and tobacco market news reports and plant variety protection service will be submitted to Congress as part of the AMS overall budget proposal for 1984.

2. Expenses and refunds, marketing agreements and orders.—The MA&O program establishes orderly marketing conditions for the sale of milk by setting minimum prices which handlers pay producers, and regulates the quality and quantity of produce sold in commercial channels. For 1984 a change in legislation is being proposed that will permit fees to be charged for administering the marketing agreement and order program.

¹ The administrative fund totals are comprised of 49 separate independent order accounts in 1982. The Marketing Service fund totals are comprised of 36 separate independent order accounts in 1982.

The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended—under certain conditions—to issue Federal milk marketing orders establishing minimum prices which handlers are required to pay for milk purchased from producers.

Market administrators are responsible for carrying out locally the terms of specific marketing orders. Their operating expenses, partly financed by assessments on regulated handlers and partly by deductions from producers, are reported in these schedules. These funds are collected locally, deposited in local banks, and disbursed directly by the market administrator.

Each milk order is administered locally by a market administrator who is appointed by the Secretary. His staff is employed directly by the market administrator.

The expenses of each local office are met from an administrative fund and a marketing service fund which are prescribed in each order. The administrative fund is derived from prorated handler assessments. The marketing service fund of the individual order provides for the expense of disseminating market information to producers who are not members of a qualified cooperative. It also provides for the verification of the weights, sampling, and testing of milk from these producers. The cost of these services is borne by such producers.

The maximum rates for administrative assessment and for marketing services are set forth in each order and adjustments below these rates are made from time to time upon recommendations by the market administrator and upon approval of the Agricultural Marketing Service to provide reserves at about a 6-month operating level. Upon termination of any order, the statute provides for distributing the proceeds from net assets pro rata to contributing handlers or producers as the case may be.

The Secretary is authorized by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1982 (section 201(d)(2) of the Agricultural Act of 1949 as amended) to provide for the deduction of 50 cents per hundredweight from proceeds of the sale of all milk marketed commercially by producers during 1983-85. The market administrators will collect these fees from producers and remit them to the Commodity Credit Corporation to offset a portion of the cost of the dairy price support program.

Milk sold by regulated handlers supplied over 165 million persons in calendar year 1981.

The following table gives an indication of the role of Federal orders on the marketing of milk over the past few years:

The Food Safety and Inspection Service was established on June 17, 1981 by Secretary's Memorandum No. 1000-1 issued pursuant to Reorganization Plan No. 2 of 1953 (7 U.S.C. 2201).

The major objectives of the Agency are to assure that meat and poultry products are wholesome, unadulterated, and properly labeled and packaged, as required by the Federal Meat Inspection Act and the Poultry Products Inspection Act.

The Meat and Poultry Inspection program of the Food Safety and Inspection Service provides continuous inplant inspection of all domestic plants preparing meat or poultry products for sale or distribution; reviews foreign inspection systems and establishments that prepare meat or poultry products for export to the United States; and provides technical and financial assistance to States which maintain meat and poultry inspection programs.

The program was originally designed to encourage the consumption of milk by children in nonprofit schools of high school grade and under, child care centers, summer camps and similar institutions. Public Law 97-35 restricted the special milk program to schools and institutions that do not participate in other federally subsidized meal programs. In 1984, the school lunch and other child nutrition programs will spend about $700 million for milk.

The child nutrition programs are authorized by the National School Lunch Act and the Child Nutrition Act of 1966. Through State agencies, Federal assistance in cash and commodities is provided for use in preparing and serving nutritious meals to children. This assistance is provided through the school lunch, school breakfast, summer food service and child care food programs. Funds are also made available for nutrition studies and State administrative expenses. Proposed legislation will allow wider State discretion in allocating school breakfast, child care feeding, and summer feeding funds.

The Packers and Stockyards Administration was re-established in accordance with Secretary's Memorandum No. 1000-1, of June 17, 1981, issued pursuant to the Reorganization Plan No. 2 of 1953 (7 U.S.C. 2201).

The goal of this program is to assure the integrity of the livestock, meat, and poultry markets and the marketplace in order to protect producers against unfair, deceptive, or discriminatory practices as well as those that are predatory or monopolistic in nature. Consumers and members of the livestock, poultry, and meat industries are also protected against unfair business practices in the marketing of meat and poultry, and from restrictions on competition which could unduly affect meat and poultry prices. Currently, the Agency is reviewing all regulations and policy statements issued under the Packers and Stockyards Act to minimize the regulatory burden on the industry.

The Agricultural Cooperative Service serves as the national focal point and storehouse for information about farmer cooperatives. The major missions of the agency include research on cooperative problems and issues, provisions of technical assistance and advice to existing and newly emerging cooperative associations, collection and dissemination of cooperative statistics, and preparation and distribution of educational materials on cooperation.

The agency's research program includes studies of economic, financial, organizational, managerial, legal, social, and policy related issues that affect cooperatives.

Technical assistance is provided in response to requests, usually from cooperative boards of directors or organizational steering committees who may represent from a small group up to thousands of farmers, and includes feasibility analysis, merger and other organizational studies, strategic assessment and planning, and review of operations and performance of the range of cooperative activities.

Data on numbers of cooperatives, memberships, business volumes, and financial condition are collected and analyzed to detect changes in structure, operations, and growth trends of cooperatives. Educational materials are prepared by ACS to promote the knowledge of cooperative principles and practices as a self-help means to increase family farm income.

In 1984 research and technical assistance work will be reduced in all program areas while a careful analysis is conducted to determine new policies and directions for future work.

The 155 national forests, 19 national grasslands, and 18 land utilization projects located in 44 States, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands are managed under multiple use and sustained yield principles. The natural resources of outdoor recreation, range, timber, watershed, and wildlife are utilized in a planned combination that will best meet the needs of the Nation, without impairing productivity of the land and will be environmentally acceptable. These management and utilization principles are recognized in the Multiple-Use Sustained-Yield Act of June 12, 1960 (74 Stat. 215). Work programs and budget estimates are related to meeting the increased demands for specific National Forest resource needs through 1984 and for long-term objectives for the year 2020. Increases are provided in the budget for further attainment of these program objectives.

1. Land and resource protection.—Provides for the protection and/or maintenance of National Forest System users, resources, lands and facilities, including roads and trails, and for program administration to acquire, through exchange, those lands within National Forest boundaries that meet the criteria for inclusion in the National Forest System.

2. Renewable resource management and utilization.—Provides for the management and utilization of the timber, wildlife and fish, range, recreation, watershed, and soil resources on National Forest System lands.

1. Construction of facilities—(a) Recreation facilities.—To provide facilities necessary to safely meet increased recreation demand without sacrificing environmental values and without unduly impinging upon other resource uses of the National Forests. Emphasis will be in areas of higher populations to assist in the conservation of energy.

(b) Other facilities.—To provide for construction and acquisition of fire, administrative, and other improvements and related facilities necessary to carry out National Forest and State and private forestry programs. Includes fire lookouts, offices, dwellings and barracks for employee housing, service, and storage buildings, insectories, tree nursery buildings, dams, and other forest resource management projects. Efforts to make buildings more energy efficient (retrofit) will be continued. Also includes acquisition of land and interests therein for administrative purposes where buildings are already on site and are the primary reason for acquisition, or when planned as part of a total administrative site development project.

(c) Research construction.—To provide for construction, alteration, and improvement of research laboratories and related facilities, and for procurement and installation of necessary initial equipment needed to put the facility into operating condition. An effort to make research facilities more energy efficient (retrofit) will be undertaken.

2. Road and trail construction.—(a) Road and trail construction.—Roads and trails are essential to the protection and management of the National Forest Systems, as well as providing access to National Forest System areas for recreation and utilization of their resources. Of the revenues received annually from National Forest activities, 10% is being transferred to the General Fund with a comparable amount appropriated to the construction program for road and trail construction activities.

(b) Timber purchaser construction.—Roads may be constructed and/or reconstructed by a timber purchaser who in turn receives credit against timber value as reimbursement. These roads are those required within a timber sale area specifically for the removal of the timber, but which will remain on the National Forest development road system for resource management purposes after the timber sale contract is completed. (16 U.S.C. 535, item (2); section 9 of Public Law 93-378; and section 3(a) of Public Law 93-344.)

Twenty-five percent of the amounts allowed any timber purchaser for the construction of roads are paid to the States under provisions of the acts of May 23, 1908, and March 1, 1911, as amended (16 U.S.C. 500).

The Working capital fund was established by the act of August 3, 1956 (16 U.S.C. 579b), as amended by the act of October 23, 1962 (16 U.S.C. 579b). It is a self-sustaining revolving fund which provides services to national forests, experiment stations, and when necessary, to other Federal agencies, and as provided by law, to State and private agencies and persons who cooperate with the Forest Service in fire control and other authorized programs.

The forestry related supply and support services provided by the Working capital fund in 1981 included:

Equipment service which owns, operates, maintains, replaces, and repairs common use motor driven and similar equipment. This equipment is rented to administrative units, that is, national forests, experiment stations, and other units, and in some cases to the other agencies, at rates which recover the cost of operation, repair and maintenance, management, and depreciation. The rates also include an increment which provides additional cash which, when added to depreciation earnings and the residual value of equipment, provides sufficient funds to replace the equipment.

Aircraft service which operates, maintains, and repairs Forest Service owned aircraft used in fire surveillance and suppression and in other Forest Service programs. The aircraft are rented to national forests, experiment stations, and in some cases to other agencies, at rates which recover the cost of depreciation, operation, maintenance, repair, and improvements in the airworthiness of the aircraft. Aircraft replacement costs are financed from either appropriated funds or the Forest Service Working capital fund, or a combination of both.

Supply service which operates the following common services:

Photo reproduction laboratories which store, reproduce, and supply aerial photographs, aerial maps, and other photographs of national forest lands. The photographic reproductions are sold to national forests, experiment stations, and others at cost.

Sign shops which manufacture and supply special signs for the national forests for use in regulating traffic and as information to the public and other users of the national forests. The signs are sold to national forests and experiment stations at cost.

Subsistence which prepares and serves meals to Forest Service crews working in areas where adequate public restaurant facilities are not available.

Nurseries which operate forest tree nurseries and cold storage facilities for storage of tree and seed stock and a seed extractory. Tree seed is procured, cleaned, bagged, and stored in refrigerated facilities. Tree and seed stock is sold to national forests, States, and other Federal agencies at cost.

This appropriation funds legislatively mandated censuses of economic and demographic areas once or twice each decade and other authorized periodic activities.

1. Economic statistics programs—(a) Economic censuses.—The economic censuses cover manufactures, mineral industries, retail and wholesale trades and service industries, construction, and transportation every fifth year, covering calendar years ending in two and seven.

The 1984 budget provides for the continued activities of the 1982 Economic Censuses. Operations will include computer editing, analytical review, and correction of data; publication of preliminary and final reports of census results; evaluation studies; and data collection activities for the survey of minority-owned businesses and census of manufactures follow-on surveys.

(b) Census of governments.—This census collects State and local government data on taxes, tax valuations, governmental receipts, expenditures, indebtedness, and number of employees. This census is taken every fifth year for calendar years ending in two and seven.

The 1984 budget for the Census of Governments will provide for the final tabulation and publication of public employment data, and major reports from the governmental finance phase of the census. Tabulation of government employment and finance data for SMSAs and production of certain topical reports will begin; and the final report on taxable property values and assessment/sales price ratios will be completed.

(c) Census of agriculture.—This census covers the agricultural sector of the economy. In addition to the regular census program, this activity includes the censuses of irrigation and drainage.

The 1984 budget provides for completion of the tabulation, review, and release of the 3,100 county and State preliminary reports. The final data will be tabulated and released for each State and the United States in Volume 1—Final Reports. Tabulation and analysis of the coverage evaluation survey will be continued as will the linkage program for the food and fiber industry.

2. Demographic statistics programs—(a) Intercensal demographic estimates.—This program provides for updated population and per capita income estimates for approximately 38,500 general purpose governmental units. The data are used for equitable allocation of funds under the General Revenue Sharing Act and for other purposes.

(b) Decennial census.—The decennial census of population and housing involves the enumeration of the total population of the 50 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, Guam, Canal Zone, and other areas of U.S. sovereignty or jurisdiction.

The 1984 budget is the first year of the funding cycle for the 1990 census. This budget marks the beginning of extensive planning, testing, and evaluation activities and investigation of alternative methods that will be performed during the early years of the cycle.

3. Geographic support.—This activity provides for fulfilling the geographic requirements of the various periodic programs and involves accurate identification of both political and statistical areas, preparation of maps, and maintenance of geographic base files.

The 1984 budget includes funding for a new automated system of integrated geographic support.

4. Data processing systems.—This program provides the resources necessary to improve the data processing installation of the Bureau of the Census.

The Bureau of the Census performs statistical work and analysis, at cost, when it is determined to be in the public interest.

On a continuing basis, the Bureau furnishes age and citizenship data to individuals for their use in qualifying for social security, old-age benefits, retirement, passports, court litigation, insurance settlements, and other social services. Special censuses are conducted for States, counties, cities, towns, or other political divisions requiring an up-to-date count of their population. The Bureau conducts international consulting and training and performs statistical work and data analysis for State and local governments, universities, trade associations, and individuals upon request.

1. Economic analysis.—The objective of this activity is to provide a clear picture of the state of the economy through the preparation, development, and interpretation of the economic accounts of the United States. The principal programs are:

(a) National economic accounts.—The national income and product accounts, summarized by the gross national product (GNP), provide an up-to-date overall view of national production, its distribution, and its use as shown by the interrelated receipts and expenditures of producers, consumers, investors, government, and the foreign customers of the United States.

(b) Analysis of business trends.—This work includes surveys of business investment, econometric models of the U.S. economy, a system of business cycle indicators, and analyses of the economic situation.

(c) International economic accounts.—The balance of payments accounts provide a comprehensive and detailed view of economic transactions between the United States and foreign countries. The international investment accounts consist of the preparation, development, and analysis of estimates of U.S. direct investment abroad and foreign direct investment in the United States.

2. Industrial economics.—The objective of this activity is to monitor and analyze developments and trends (both domestic and international) in U.S. industries; provide industrial analytical support for policy development activities in the Department of Commerce and other Federal agencies; evaluate the impact of proposed legislation and regulations; and develop data and conduct research on significant industrial economic issues and analytical methodologies.

3. Policy support.—The objective of this activity is to support the Secretary, Under Secretary for Economic Affairs, and other Government officials in interpreting the state of the economy, and on matters relating to economic policy and automotive industry affairs. The 1984 request provides for an increase of $625 thousand to develop a policy-oriented economic forecasting capability to support the Secretary's participation in the Cabinet Council on Economic Affairs and provide a sector-specific perspective to the Government's macroeconomic forecasts.

4. Productivity, technology, and innovation.—The objective of this activity is to provide assistance for private sector cooperative research and development, facilitate commercial development of innovations, support private sector productivity improvement efforts, and eliminate policy barriers to the competitiveness of U.S. industry. The 1984 request provides for an increase of $943 thousand to expand the quantity and quality of industry assessments conducted by the Office of Competitive Assessment. The 1984 request also provides for an increase of $365 thousand to: (1) support additional evaluation, promotion, and licensing of commercially valuable Government inventions, and (2) support additional foreign patent filings and increasing costs of foreign and U.S. patent prosecution and maintenance.

5. Dissemination of technical information.—The objective of this activity is to collect and distribute scientific, technological, and demographic information generated by the Federal Government.

¹ Adjustments to prior year balances and write-downs of loans sold.² Amounts shown are based on the full principal amounts of loans that are partially guaranteed by the U.S. Government. The comparable amount of limitations enacted on the basis of contingent liability are $150,000 thousand in 1982 and $20,000 thousand in 1983.³ The cumulative balance of outstanding direct and guaranteed loans have been transferred from the Economic Development Assistance Programs.⁴ A limitation that no new guaranteed loan commitments be made in 1983 is proposed; see Part III for additional information.

Interest on loans, principal repayments from loans made under the Area Redevelopment Act and the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965 and proceeds from the sale of collateral are deposited in this fund. Interest payments are made to the Treasury from the fund on the amounts receivable on loans outstanding.

No new loan or guarantee activity is planned for 1983, nor is any such activity proposed for 1984. At the close of 1982, the cumulative balance of guaranteed loans outstanding which had been reported under the appropriation "Economic Development Assistance Programs" was transferred to the Economic Development Revolving Fund. All defaults will be covered by the unobligated balances in the Fund.

MEMORANDUM

2299	U.S. contingent liability for guaranteed loans outstanding, end of year.....	11,610	13,779	11,979
------	------------------------------------------------------------------------------	--------	--------	--------

¹ A limitation in the amount of $600 thousand is proposed for 1983; see Part III for additional information.

² Amounts shown are based on the full principal amount of loans that are partially guaranteed by the U.S. Government. The comparable amount of limitations enacted on the basis of contingent liability is $28,250 thousand in 1982 and 1983.

³ A limitation in the amount of $3,700 thousand is proposed for 1983; see Part III for additional information.

The activities of the International Trade Administration in the Department of Commerce are designed to promote an improved trade posture for U.S. industry in a manner consistent with national security and foreign and economic policy.

1. Trade development.—Provides export market information; facilitates U.S. firms' efforts to penetrate or expand into overseas markets through promotion of trade shows; and assists U.S. firms to compete successfully for major overseas construction projects and major product procurements. Trade Adjustment Assistance to firms is proposed for termination. The unobligated portion of the 1983 appropriation ($20,100 thousand) is proposed for transfer to the "Business Loan Investment Fund," Small Business Administration.

2. International economic policy.—Develops regional and multilateral economic policies; provides marketing services directly and through the Foreign Commercial Service which will assist U.S. industries to expand exports; identifies long range trade and investment problems and develops remedial strategies.

3. Trade administration.—Through administration of the Export Administration Act, assures that export activity is consistent with national security, foreign policy objectives, and U.S. material and commodity requirements; enforces the law against participation in foreign boycotts; assures the availability of industrial resources for national defense and other priority programs under the authority of the Defense Production Act; investigates antidumping and countervailing duty cases to ensure compliance with applicable U.S. statutes; and administers certain other statutory programs relating to imports and foreign trade zones. In 1984, 35 positions and $2,670,000 are requested to stop the illegal transfer of technology and to develop and maintain an up-to-date computerized tracking system for export license applications.

4. U.S. and foreign commercial services.—Counsels U.S. businessmen on exporting through 48 U.S. Commercial Service District Offices in the United States and Foreign Commercial Service Offices in 67 countries overseas. Goals are to increase the number of U.S. firms that export and the number of foreign markets to which they export to provide business with information on U.S. and foreign government procurements through the Commerce Business Daily; and to encourage and sponsor additional involvement by the private sector and the States in export promotion efforts.

In its leadership role of developing private sector market opportunities and coordinating Federal minority business development programs, the Minority Business Development Agency (MBDA) assists minority citizens in becoming involved in the American business system. In 1984, MBDA's goals are designed to make specific progress toward increased minority participation in business ownership through increased minority business enterprise formation, expansion, and reduced failure rates. MBDA will also increase minority business participation through increased cooperation with State and local governments and private sector organizations in support of minority business development. In 1984, MBDA will initiate a cost-sharing program generating $6 million.

1. Enterprise development.—Within this activity is MBDA's primary delivery system—the Minority Business Development Centers (MBDC). The MBDC component is designed to coordinate, within at least 100 Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (SMSA's), all resources available for minority business assistance and to provide client firms with direct management and technical assistance. Incorporated into the MBDC line of services will be a minority export development component which will provide consultant services to minority business enterprise (MBE) clients in generating new export sales. As a complementary part of the Enterprise Development activity, ten (10) Technology Commercialization Centers will provide a specialized link to new technologies, financing and market commercialization for qualified minority firms.

2. Resource development.—MBDA's private sector component assists minority firms in taking advantage of expanded market, capital, and management opportunities available through private corporations. Trade associations provide support to minority firms by facilitating access to information and services. Another component of the Resource Development activity is the public sector program consisting of the following: Offices of Minority Business Enterprise which promote and mobilize State and local government resources in behalf of minority business, Federal coordination through the Interagency Council, and local networks of Minority Business Opportunity Committees. Consequently, this component will provide access to public sector procurement opportunities nationwide for minority business entrepreneurs (MBE's).

3. Advocacy, research, and information.—Within this activity, MBDA provides advocacy efforts, a research program, and information systems for formulating policy decisions and for reducing information barriers to improve the participation rate of minority-owned businesses in the U.S. economy.

1. Ocean and coastal programs.—Provides for the management and development of the marine environment, and its resources, the conservation, rational use, and charting of the Nation's coastal regions; production of aeronautical and nautical charts and geodetic surveys. In 1984 the Coastal Zone Management program is proposed for transfer to the "Operations, Research, and Facilities" appropriation. The 1984 request reflects increases for ocean-atmosphere climate research, coastal zone program management, and geodetic acquisition system support. The administration proposes to increase the price of the aeronautical and nautical maps and charts and the tides and circulatory products to better reflect their market value. Funding is terminated for polymetallic sulfides research and reduced in ocean minerals and energy, ocean services, and geodesy programs. Termination of the Sea Grant program, the undersea research program, the Great Lakes Environmental Research Laboratory, and regional ocean pollution projects are also requested.

2. Marine fishery resource programs.—Provides for the management and conservation of the nation's living marine resources, marine mammals, and endangered species stocks; encourages the increased use of the resources through fishery product quality and safety research and efforts to increase domestic and international markets. Funding is reduced for information collection and analyses and related research; conservation and management operations including environmental impact analysis, regional councils, and Pribilof Island and Columbia River operations; and fishery development and research programs. The aquaculture research, salmon vessel buy back, and anadromous and commercial fisheries grant programs are being terminated.

3. Atmospheric programs.—Provides timely and accurate meteorologic, hydrologic, and oceanographic warnings, forecasts, and planning information to ensure the safety of the population, mitigate property losses, and improve the economic efficiency of the Nation. Conducts research in atmospheric and hydrologic processes and conditions, to improve short-term and long-term predictions of environmental changes. Program savings include decreases in NOAA Weather Wire, research and development on instrumentation, specialized weather services, weather modification matching grants program, Global Atmospheric Research program, and Automation of Field Operations and Services (AFOS)-related communications. Other savings include consolidation of regional headquarters and elimination of non-critical staffing at some weather service offices.

4. Satellite and environmental data and information services.—Provides for the operation of a LANDSAT system, and polar-orbiting and geostationary satellites; provides global environmental data and information products and services to users in commerce, industry, agriculture, science and engineering, the general public and Federal, State, and local agencies. Funding increases in 1984 will provide the needed equipment to operationally use the atmospheric sounder aboard the geostationary satellite and allow for modifications to the NOAA polar orbiting satellites for greater utility in a near-noon orbit. The 1984 decrease eliminates one polar orbiting spacecraft and reduces environmental satellite product and services support. Funding is also reduced as a result of the savings associated with the consolidation of seven satellite field service stations with the colocated weather service forecast offices.

5. Program support.—Provides for the administrative management of NOAA and for the operational and logistics support of ships, marine centers, and aircraft to support NOAA missions. Decreases in 1984 include the reduction of administrative support activities, reduction in the number of ships and days at sea, the substitution of charters for the fisheries research fleet, and the lay up of the NOAA C-130 research aircraft. Funding for the National Advisory Committee on the Oceans and Atmosphere is terminated in 1984.

This appropriation provides for administration, management, beneficial use, protection, and development of the land and water resources of the Nation's coastal zone, by providing the following grants to States for the planning and management of their coastal areas: 1) Program administration grants to support ongoing State and territorial coastal management activities; 2) energy impact formula grants to mitigate impacts of Outer Continental Shelf oil and gas production and coastal transportation energy resources; 3) estuarine sanctuaries grants to acquire, develop and operate estuarine sanctuaries to study processes occurring within coastal estuaries; 4) marine sanctuaries grants to support the designation and management of ocean waters as marine sanctuaries to preserve or restore the sites for conservation, recreational, ecological, or esthetic value; 5) policy coordination provides funding to assist States and territorial governments in developing and implementing coastal zone management programs; to coordinate Federal activities that impact coastal zone management programs; and to develop NOAA policy positions on Outer Continental Shelf oil and gas lease sales, marine transportation, and spills of oil and hazardous materials.

In 1984, the Coastal Zone Management program is proposed to be transferred to the "Operations Research and Facilities" appropriation. Significant performance measures are:

Amendments to the Atlantic Tunas Convention Act, contained in Public Law 96-339 and the American Fisheries Protection Act, Public Law 96-561, established the Foreign Fishing Observer Fund. The Fund is financed through collections from foreign longline vessel owners who fish within the Atlantic U.S. Fishery Conservation Zone. Collections to the Fund are used by the Secretary of Commerce to pay the salaries of observers and program support personnel, and the costs of data management and analysis of the observer program. The observers will collect scientific information on the foreign catch, and monitor compliance with the provisions of the Fishery Conservation and Management Act (FCMA) of 1976.

This program provides for loans to vessel operators who, because of the high risk associated with some commercial fishing, cannot obtain commercial loans at reasonable rates for financing or refinancing the cost of purchasing or constructing, equipping, maintaining, repairing, or operating new or used commercial fishing vessels or gear. Public Law 97-347 extended the expiration of this fund, established under the Fish and Wildlife Act of 1956, to September 30, 1983. The administration is not seeking reauthorization of this program in 1984.

This fund provides for payment to vessel owners and crews to compensate for certain financial losses sustained as a result of foreign seizures of American fishing vessels found within 200 miles of their coasts. Through 1977, funds in this account were derived from Federal appropriations and fees from vessel owners. Beginning in 1978, the basic annual appropriation was discontinued, although appropriated funds can be requested if the fund's balance is depleted.

The Office administers laws governing the granting of patents for inventions and the registration of trademarks.

Public Law 97-247 provides for a portion of Office operating costs to be recovered through user fee revenues. Receipts deposited in the general fund of the Treasury from fees were $28.5 million in 1982. Beginning in 1983, all fees are retained in the PTO appropriation. Collected fees are available along with appropriated funds. Collections are estimated to be $79.1 million in 1983 and $88.5 million in 1984.

Activities of the Office fall into the following areas:

1. Patent process.—Applications are examined to determine inventor entitlements to a patent for the claimed invention. Patent application examination also includes quasi-judicial review in appeal and interference proceedings, and the publication of issued patents.

The 1984 increases support programs to reduce patent application pendency time to 18 months by 1987; to further patent process automation efforts by acquiring work stations and text and image capturing equipment; and to continue the development of special search, interface, and photocomposition software.

Key patent application workload and performance data are:

	1981 actual	1982 actual	1983 estimate	1984 estimate
Applications in Office (start of year)	201,831	205,841	231,824	236,624

Total pendency in Office, all applications (in months)	22.4	24.2	26.6	27.1

2. Trademark process.—Provides for the examination of applications to determine whether the statutory criteria for the Federal registration of the trademark or service mark have been met. When the criteria are met, a registration is printed and issued to the applicant. Examination also includes inter partes proceedings involving oppositions, cancellations, and interferences.

The 1984 increases will reduce pendency and backlog, and provide for automation including workstation and user services, text and image capture, and management services subsystems.

Key trademark application workload and performance data are:

¹Includes inventory adjustment (-183) 1981, (+3,290) 1982.

3. Information dissemination.—Provides materials and services to examiners and the public to assist in examination of patent and trademark applications, and in the transfer of technological information. Included are the maintenance of subject matter search files of prior art documents; maintenance of a scientific library and public search room; preparation of copies of patents, trademark registrations, and official documents, drafting services, assignment of patents and trademark rights; and administration of printing.

The 1984 increases provide for an automated classification data retrieval system and a microfilmed patent and trademark file. Expanded direct computer access of classification data will be provided to the public.

4. Executive direction and administration.—Supports management and administration of the Office. The 1984 increases are to carry out the initiatives identified in the Automation Master Plan.

The National Bureau of Standards (NBS) is responsible for the development and maintenance of a system of measurements required to support the Nation's economy. NBS efforts are organized into the following program activities:

1. Measurement and Engineering Research and Standards.—(a) Measurement research and standards.—This subactivity includes programs in the areas of fundamental physical measurements and standards, radiation measurements and standards, analytical chemical measurements and standards, materials characterization processing and performance, chemical properties and processes, measurement technology transfer, and applied measurement programs. In 1984, the budget for measurement technology transfer reflects conversion of the measurement assurance program to full cost recovery from the direct beneficiaries.

(b) Engineering measurements and standards.—This subactivity includes programs in the areas of building research, signals and systems metrology, chemical engineering metrology, engineering and product standards, and mathematical sciences. In 1984 the building research program will be terminated. Fees will be increased to the maximum extent possible to replace appropriated funds for the national voluntary laboratory accreditation program.

(c) Computer sciences and technology.—This subactivity provides for the establishment of government-wide automated data processing (ADP) standards. This program will be reduced by $7 million in 1984 to reflect a shift to greater reliance on and support to the voluntary standards process.

(d) Core measurement research for new technologies.—This subactivity includes metallurgy programs supportive of metals processing research, semiconductor programs, and the automated manufacturing research program, consisting of automated manufacturing interface standards, mechanical engineering metrology, and an automated manufacturing research facility.

(e) Fire research.—This subactivity provides scientific and technical information used in fire hazard assessment. This program will be terminated in 1984.

2. Competence and Central Technical Support.—(a) Technical competence fund.—This subactivity supports long-term experimental and/or theoretical efforts in science and technology.

(b) Central technical support.—This subactivity includes central planning, the research associate program, computing support, and resources transferred to the working capital fund for purchase of general purpose equipment and production of standard reference materials. Central planning will be supported out of the Working Capital Fund in 1984.

3. National Technical Information Service.—In 1984 this activity is included in the Economic and Statistical Analysis appropriation.

The Working Capital Fund finances research and technical services performed for other government agencies and the public. These activities are funded through advances and reimbursements. The Working Capital Fund is also used to handle the acquisition of equipment and to carry standard reference materials and storeroom inventories until issued or sold. Retained earnings at the end of each year are transferred to Treasury, after such earnings are first applied to restore any prior year impairment of the Fund. Legislation is being proposed which would require the transfer to Treasury of only that amount which exceeds present and reasonable future requirements of the fund. This will enable NBS to finance the replacement costs of products and services.

The National Telecommunications and Information Administration is the principal executive branch adviser to the President on domestic and international communications policy. Additionally, it manages the Federal radio frequency spectrum and performs extensive research in telecommunications sciences.

1. Domestic, Federal and international policies.—(a) Domestic and Federal policies.—In 1984, NTIA will continue to assist the FCC in its implementation of new common carrier legislation and with analysis of new and emerging distribution technologies and issues. NTIA will no longer be involved in the planning and procurement policy of Federal agency telecommunications systems or in efforts to improve the security of nonclassified information transmitted over telecommunications systems. NTIA will continue its efforts in the identification and analysis of issues affecting emergency communications planning.

(b) International policies.—In 1984, NTIA will continue the development and advocacy of policies for the advancement of U.S. interests in the international telecommunications area. In coordination with the Department of State, the agency will continue to discharge the Presidential responsibility for oversight of the Communications Satellite Corporation (COMSAT).

2. Spectrum management.—(a) Spectrum plans and policies.—In 1984, NTIA will continue to prepare for, participate in, and implement the results of international, regional, and national conferences addressing spectrum allocation and utilization. Also, NTIA will formulate, in coordination with the FCC, plans and policies for efficient use of the spectrum.

(b) Spectrum management, analysis and operations.—In 1984, NTIA will continue to authorize frequency assignments, review proposed Federal telecommunications systems, conduct frequency band studies and compliance activities.

3. Telecommunication sciences research.—(a) Spectrum research and analysis.—In 1984, NTIA will conduct applied research and analysis as a basis for improving the efficiency of spectrum use.

(b) Systems and networks research and analysis.—In 1984, NTIA will assess and develop domestic and international technical performance standards to facilitate competition in the provision of enhanced telecommunications products and services. Additionally, analytical methods and automated models will be employed to assist in the development of credible and defensible positions before international conferences and committees.

4. Telecommunications applications.—In 1984, the budget request assumes no tasks will be performed under this activity. The public telecommunications services grant program was terminated at the end of 1982. The Administration continues to support the abolishment of the public telecommunications facilities grant program. Accordingly, no grant funds are requested for 1984.

The public telecommunications facilities program has provided grants for planning and construction of non-commercial telecommunications facilities in areas not previously served by the public television and radio. Since over 95% of the United States currently receives public broadcast programming, funding for this grant program is not requested in 1984.

The Reserve Officers' Training Corps program provides training for reserve and regular officer candidates who have enrolled in the course while attending a college at which an ROTC unit has been established. College graduates who satisfactorily complete the advanced course of the program are commissioned and are ordinarily ordered to active duty for a minimum of 3 years.

The Reserve Officers' Training Corps Vitalization Act of 1964, as amended, authorizes a limited number of scholarships for ROTC students on a competitive basis. Successful candidates for the scholarships generally serve a minimum period of 4 years on active duty upon graduation and appointment as a commissioned officer. A number of scholarship recipients will fulfill their entire obligation in the Reserve components.

The Armed Forces health professions scholarship program provides a source of commissioned officers for the various health professions.

The numbers of commissioned officers graduated from these programs are summarized below:

This appropriation includes funds for the pay of all personnel on the military retired lists for the Department of Defense. Included are the consolidated requirements of the military departments for: (a) payments to retired officers and enlisted personnel of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Air Force; (b) retainer pay of enlisted personnel of the Fleet Reserve of the Navy and Marine Corps; and (c) survivors' benefits. The increases to the retired rolls can be attributed to the greater number of individuals attaining eligibility for retirement after 20 or more years of active military service. The following chart shows the average number of personnel on the rolls during 1982 compared with estimated numbers for 1983 and 1984.

Legislation will be proposed to change the military retirement system in order to remove certain inequitable features and make military retirement consistent with other Federal retirement programs.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE

These appropriations finance the costs of operating and maintaining the Armed Forces, including the Reserve components and related support activities of the Department of Defense, except military personnel costs. Included are amounts for pay of civilians, contract services for maintenance of equipment and facilities, fuel, supplies, and repair parts for weapons and equipment. Financial requirements are influenced by many factors, including the number of aircraft squadrons, Army or Marine Corps divisions, installations, military strength and deployments, rates of operational activity, and quantity and complexity of major equipment (aircraft, ships, missiles, tanks, et cetera) in operation.

[(1) For the purposes of this section, the term "concurrent resolution" means only a resolution introduced in either House of Congress, the matter after the resolving clause of which is as follows: "that the ——— approves the obligation and expenditure of funds appropriated in Public Law ——— for MX missile procurement and full-scale engineering development of a basing mode for the MX missile" the first blank space therein being filled with the name of the resolving House, and the second blank space being filled with the public law number of this statute. It shall not be in order to introduce any such resolution prior to the receipt by the Congress of the report of the President required under subsection (7).]

[(2) A resolution in the Senate shall be referred to the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate. A resolution in the House of Representatives shall be referred to the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives.]

[(3) If the committee to which is referred the first resolution introduced in the Senate or the House, as the case may be, expressing approval of the obligation and expenditure of funds referred to in this subsection has not reported the resolution at the end of 45 calendar days after the introduction of a resolution pursuant to subsection (1) hereof, such committee shall be automatically discharged from further consideration of the resolution and the resolution shall be placed on the calendar of the Senate, in the case of a resolution of the

A motion to reconsider the vote by which the resolution is agreed to or disagreed to is not in order.】

【(B) Motions to postpone and motions to proceed to the consideration of other business shall be decided without debate.】

【(C) Appeals from the decisions of the Chair relating to the application of the rules of the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, to the procedure relating to a resolution shall be decided without debate.】

【(6) Subsections (1) through (5) are enacted by the Congress—】

【(A) as an exercise of the rulemaking power of the Senate and the House of Representatives, respectively, and as such they are deemed a part of the rules of each House, respectively, but applicable only with respect to the procedure to be followed in that House in the case of resolutions described in subsection (1), and they supercede other rules only to the extent that they are inconsistent therewith; and】

【(B) with full recognition of the constitutional right of either House to change the rules (so far as relating to the procedures of that House) at any time, in the same manner and to the same extent as in the case of any other rule of that House.】

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION

The direct military construction programs for the Armed Forces, both Active and Reserve, shown in the individual schedules of this title are summarized in the following table (in thousands of dollars):

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

	1982 actual	1983 estimate	1984 estimate
Active Forces	3,960,545	3,561,884	5,019,600
Reserve Forces	311,371	285,458	254,900
Interservice activities	609,020	639,770	698,400
Total	4,880,936	4,487,112	5,972,900

A major portion of the 1984 military construction resources will support continued modernization, improved living and working conditions, and the introduction of new weapon systems. New weapon systems which are entering the inventory or are planned to enter the inventory include an increased number of naval vessels, the M-1 tank, the Multiple Launch

Rocket system, the Division Air Defense (DIVAD) gun system, and the B-1 bomber. All of these new weapons have different physical and operational characteristics when compared to the systems they are replacing; and, therefore, they require new or modernized facilities to insure that their potential capability for improvement to our national defenses is fully realized.

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE STOCK FUNDS

Department of Defense stock funds finance the purchase of materials for resale to the military services and other authorized customers (10 U.S.C. 2208). These inventories are stocked at various Defense activities. Mobilization reserve materials are also purchased through the stock funds.

Budget program.—Obligations increase in 1984 over 1983 due to the need for increased inventory levels in support of an expanding force structure, efforts to modernize the existing force and other logistics initiatives. Efforts continue to improve the readiness posture of the force through better logistics support.

Financing the budget program.—The budget program is financed primarily from sales to customers. Gross expenditures in 1984 are projected to be higher than in 1983 as a result of increased inventory levels in support of an expanding force structure. Estimated expenditures are shown below (in millions of dollars):

	Gross outlays
	1982 actual	1983 estimate	1984 estimate
Army stock fund.....	6,347	7,387	7,515
Navy stock fund.....	6,211	7,209	7,344

Defense stock fund.....	16,285	15,772	19,852
Total Department of Defense stock funds...	40,556	42,363	46,736

Procurement leadtime for material acquisition is greater than the time required to fill and collect customers' orders. As a result, Department of Defense stock funds are authorized to incur obligations in anticipation of future years' sales (10 U.S.C. 2210(b)). Pursuant to this authority, contract authority of $9,594 million was available at the end of 1982, estimated to remain at $9,594 million in 1983 and 1984.

Operating results and financial conditions.—Revenue and expenses for 1983 and 1984 are projected on a break-even basis. It is estimated that by the end of 1984, investment (equity) of the U.S. Government will be $34,937 million, including $28,231 million in inventory and other assets capitalized, and a cumulative retained income of $6,706 million.

INDUSTRIAL FUNDS

Department of Defense industrial funds finance various Defense activities that perform industrial or commercial type functions on a reimbursable basis (10 U.S.C. 2208). Workload at these activities is generated by orders from various customers who provide reimbursement through progress payments for the full cost of the work performed. This enables the industrial funds to maintain the level of working capital needed for continued operations.

Budget program.—The policy of stabilizing the rates charged to customers will continue. Estimated total costs of goods and services produced in 1984 are projected to increase by over $1,100 million, reflecting an increase in support requirements, costs, and continuing emphasis on reducing maintenance backlog. Yearend totals are shown in the following table (in thousands of dollars):

The Marine Corps industrial fund finances maintenance depots engaged in repairing or overhauling Marine Corps equipment and providing technical engineering support.

The activities financed under the Air Force industrial fund include laundries, depot maintenance activities, real property maintenance facility, and the Military Airlift Command.

The Defense industrial fund finances the Defense Clothing and Textile Center and leased communications procured by the Defense Commercial Communications Office.

The fund provides for the acquisition, operation, and maintenance of plant and equipment used in civil works functions, for temporary financing of services chargeable to civil appropriations, and for furnishing facilities and services for military functions of the Department of the Army, other governmental agencies and private persons (33 U.S.C. 576).

Financial condition.—Capital (Government equity) of the fund amounted to $606.7 million on September 30, 1982. The estimated limitation on the total accrued expenditure of the capital investment program for 1984 is $77.0 million. Capital was increased by net earnings of $26.4 million in 1982. Increases are principally due to earnings reserved for plant replacement which are wholly reinvested in assets.

Consolidated summary of personnel.—The revolving fund is used to initially finance all payrolls of the Corps of Engineers—Civil.

The table which follows shows the distribution of personnel and salary costs to appropriations of the Corps of Engineers and to other accounts:

1. Grants for the disadvantaged—(a) Grants to local educational agencies.—Funds made available under this activity enable local educational agencies to provide supplementary compensatory education services during the 1984-85 school year for disadvantaged elementary and secondary school students. Funds are allocated to local school districts on the basis of a statutory formula.

For 1984, the administration will propose legislation to give State and local educational agencies the option of providing compensatory education services through a voucher mechanism.

(b) State agency grants.—The programs within this activity make financial assistance available to State educational agencies for providing supplementary compensatory education services to migrant children, handicapped children in State operated institutions, and neglected and delinquent children in State institutions. For the State agency migrant program, the administration requests $129,434,000. Allocation of funds is based on a statutory formula. The program will serve approximately 234,000 students. For the State agency handicapped program $104,850,000 is requested. These funds are allocated on a formula basis to the States and are used to provide compensatory education services to children in State operated institutions, as well as to children who have left such institutions and transferred to a local education agency. The program will serve approximately 243,000 children. For the State agency neglected and delinquent program, $21,886,000 is requested. Funds are allocated on a formula basis and are used to provide compensatory education services to neglected and delinquent children under the State's care. The program will serve about 38,000 students.

(c) State administration.—This activity provides funds to State educational agencies to administer the programs authorized under chapter 1 of the Education Consolidation and Improvement Act of 1981.

(d) Evaluation and studies.—Funds provide technical assistance to local school districts and State educational agencies and support activities to evaluate the program.

2. Migrant education.—The High school equivalency program and the College assistance migrant program provide grants to colleges and universities for educational services to migrant students to help them gain a high school diploma or equivalency certificate, and to offer special support services, such as tutoring assistance and counseling, as well as stipends to first year migrant college students.

1. Maintenance and operations.—Direct payments are made to school districts when enrollments and the availability of revenues from local sources have been adversely affected by Federal activities. For 1984, funds are provided to districts under section 3(a) for children who live and whose parents work on Federal property or are on active duty in the uniformed services. Payments will be made to districts with an enrollment of 20 percent or more 3(a) children at 100 percent of entitlement except that payments for children residing in federally-subsidized, low-rent housing will be at 20 percent of entitlement. Payments for 3(a) children in other districts will be made at approximately 50 percent of entitlement except that payments for children residing in federally-subsidized, low-rent housing will be at approximately 10 percent of entitlement. In 1984, payments will be made to about 1,700 school districts for 338,000 children under section 3(a). Certain districts having a partial loss of tax base (section 2) will be funded at $9 million.

2. Disaster assistance.—No new budget authority is requested in 1984 for assistance to school districts that have suffered a major disaster. However, authority is requested to extend the availability of any unused 1983 disaster assistance funds into the budget year.

3. Construction.—Grants are made to school districts for construction of school facilities when enrollments and the availability of revenues from local sources have been adversely affected by Federal activities. For 1984, the objective is to provide funds to construct or replace needed school facilities in districts that serve children residing on Indian lands. In 1984, approximately three projects will be funded.

1. (a) State block grants.—States and outlying areas receive grants on the basis of a statutory formula based on school-age population to improve the quality of elementary and secondary education for children in public and private schools. States and local educational agencies may use block grant funds for basic skills development, educational improvement and support services, and special projects.

Of the total allotted to each State, the State may reserve up to 20 percent for State use, with the remainder distributed to local educational agencies.

(b) Secretary's discretionary funds.—A limited amount of the total appropriated for improving school programs is reserved for use by the Secretary to support specific programs of national or regional significance. In 1984, the Secretary will use these funds to support activities such as inexpensive book distribution, arts in education, alcohol and drug abuse education, the national diffusion network, educational technology activities, and special initiatives.

Contracts are also made with public and private organizations for evaluation studies of the block grant program.

There is a growing shortage of high school science and mathematics teachers. The gap between supply and demand is expected to widen as boards of education and States raise graduation requirements in these subjects. The purpose of this proposed legislation is to help overcome these shortages by providing assistance to States to train individuals to teach science and mathematics.

1. Bilingual education.—This program supports the development of programs in local schools to prepare children of limited English proficiency to enter an all-English-language educational program. Aid is also given to train bilingual education personnel and parents, to build State capacity to improve bilingual education in school districts, and for dissemination, studies, and evaluations.

In 1984, the Administration proposes to change the definition of programs funded to allow greater discretion for school districts to design their own projects, to restructure the basic grants program to focus on capacity building, and to strengthen the role of State education agencies.

For school year 1984-85, the program will support an estimated 300 classroom projects enrolling 131,525 children, including 55 demonstration projects; supply undergraduate or graduate training for about 4,340 potential bilingual teachers and administrators; and support bilingual training programs in about 135 institutions of higher education. In addition, 48 State education agencies will receive awards for technical assistance and statewide coordination of bilingual education activities.

2. Bilingual vocational training.—This activity includes bilingual vocational training, vocational instructor training, and the development of bilingual instructional materials, methods, and techniques. It was funded under the Vocational Education Act in 1982 and 1983. In 1984, the Administration will propose to carry out this program under the authority of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. About 695 students will be served in 8 bilingual vocational education projects, and about 130 instructors will be trained.

1. State grants—(a) State grant program.—This program assists States in providing a free appropriate public education and related services to all handicapped children aged 5 through 17. Handicapped children aged 3 and 4, and 18 through 21 must also be served except when such services would be inconsistent with State law or practice, or the order of any court. To be eligible for grants, each State is required to submit an acceptable State plan which requires the development and use of individualized education programs for each handicapped student, the establishment of procedural safeguards for all handicapped children and their parents, and the training of personnel for these special education programs.

(b) Preschool incentive grants.—Grants are made to those States which support special education and related services for handicapped children aged 3 through 5. Approximately 228,000 handicapped children will participate in school year 1984-85 with a Federal share of $110 per child.

1. Rehabilitation services—(a) Basic State grants.—The basic State grant program provides 80 percent Federal matching to State vocational rehabilitation agencies to assist physically and mentally handicapped individuals to become gainfully employed. A wide range of services is provided including counseling, vocational evaluation, work adjustment, medical and physical restoration, education vocational training, job placement and post employment services. Priority is given to serving those with the most severe disabilities. As indicated in the table below, this statutory priority is expected to produce a higher percentage of rehabilitations of the severely disabled and a slight reduction in the total number of individuals rehabilitated.

Legislation will be proposed to amend the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. In order to encourage States to improve their performance in rehabilitating more severely handicapped individuals, changes will be proposed to the Basic State Grants program. Beginning in fiscal year 1985, a portion of the funds appropriated would be allocated to the States on the basis of their success in rehabilitating and placing more severely handicapped individuals into suitable employment. The proposed legislation will also include changes to take effect in 1984 that will simplify administration of the program and increase State discretion in service delivery.

The legislation would retain authorities for special purpose programs at the Federal level that meet national needs or serve the unique needs of special handicapped populations. Special purpose funds would be used to support service projects, independent living centers, and training programs. Research conducted by the National Institute of Handicapped Research and oversight responsibilities of the National Council on the Handicapped would continue to be Federal functions.

Student financial assistance will continue to provide grants, work study and direct loans to the needy student. In 1984, a new grant program, proposed for later transmittal (see below), will replace Pell grants and will require a self-help effort by the student for eligibility.

1. Work study.—Part time employment is provided to financially needy students as a self-help resource in meeting educational costs. Federal funds contribute 80 percent of the student's wages with 20 percent paid by the employer. Earnings by students under the Work study program may be used to meet the self-help requirement of the new Self-help grant program. In 1984 an expanded Work study program will support jobs for over 1,155,000 students with grants averaging $800.

2. Direct loans.—Payments into the revolving funds from prior loans will provide $550,400,000 for loans to 688,000 students in 1984-85, a resource for low cost loans to financially needy students. No additional Federal capital contribution to institutional revolving funds is proposed in 1984. Increased efforts are being made to reduce outstanding defaults in the Direct Loan program by strengthening institutional due diligence requirements and by intensifying collection activities. Funds requested under the teacher cancellation program will reimburse institutions for their share of cancellation of loans made to borrowers who subsequently undertook specified types of teaching or military service. Legislation is proposed to reimburse only that portion of the loan supported by institutional funds.

3. Pell grants.—No funds are requested for this program in 1984 (see legislation proposed for later transmittal, Self-help grants—below).

Actions taken to reduce grant award errors, begun in cooperation with participating institutions in 1982, will be continued, improved and expanded to all student aid programs in 1983 and 1984.

The chart below illustrates the total aid available to students through the financial aid programs, if the Administration's budget and legislative proposals are adopted.

Funds are requested for a new program of grants to supplement the self-help efforts of needy students. This new program of grants will replace funding formerly found in the Pell, Supplemental and State incentive grant programs. The new Self-help grants will be a part of the Administration's proposal to reorient Federal student aid: to restore the traditional role of the family in meeting educational costs incurred by its children; to require a financial commitment by the student to his own education; and to provide sufficient Federal aid to help overcome remaining financial barriers. The maximum grant will be $3,000.

¹Includes death, disability and bankruptcy claims for all years and adjustment of $1,284,892 thousand to prior year balance of guaranteed loans outstanding in 1982.

Guaranteed student loans.—This program is designed to promote the availability of loans from banks and other lenders to students and their parents to help meet the costs of attending participating universities, colleges and other post-secondary institutions. This is accomplished through the provision of Federal insurance and reinsurance against borrower default as well as through substantial Federal subsidy payments. In general, the program is administered by State and private nonprofit "guarantee agencies" which serve as intermediate loan insurers, defaulted loan collectors, and providers of various services to lenders. In certain special circumstances, the Federal Government does insure loans directly, and, in such cases, is responsible for defaulted loan collection and providing assistance to lenders.

Students can use their loans to meet the basic self-help contribution expected of them before they can qualify for the new Self-help grants. (See Student financial assistance account—proposed for later transmittal). Parents can use their loans to meet the expected family contribution.

The Federal Government is liable for costs related to borrower default, death, disability and bankruptcy. The Federal Government also pays the interest obligation (generally 9 percent) of eligible borrowers while they are in school and during certain grace and deferment periods under the regular loan component of the Guaranteed Student Loan program. Auxiliary (12 percent) loan borrowers—independent undergraduate and graduate students, and parents of dependent undergraduate students—are not eligible for this "interest benefit." However, the Federal Government pays lenders a quarterly "special allowance" throughout the life of each regular and auxiliary loan. By statutory formula, this allowance assures lenders a total yield equal to the current 91-day Treasury bill rate plus 3½ percent.

The Federal Government also pays administrative cost allowances to guarantee agencies, provides them with reserve fund advances and allows them to charge insurance premiums and to retain up to 30 percent of their default collections.

Federal receipts include collections on defaulted accounts, reimbursements from default collections by guarantee agencies, insurance premiums and origination fees charged regular borrowers.

This budget assumes enactment of the following statutory changes effective July 1, 1983:

(1) Extending to all family income levels the current regular loan need analysis requirement for students with family income above $30,000.

(2) Raising the origination fee charged graduate students under the regular loan component from 5 percent to 10 percent.

(3) Requiring guarantee agencies to return unnecessary loan advances. Current statutory provisions creating the potential for less than 100 percent Federal reinsurance would be eliminated.

Under this policy, total loan disbursements are expected to equal $7,198 million in 1984. Of this amount, 96 percent of the regular loan volume is expected to be insured by the guarantee agencies (who then reinsure these loans with the Federal Government) and 4 percent insured directly by the Federal Government.

Costs to the Federal Government related to a particular loan accrue throughout the period the loan is outstanding, which can be extended up to 15 or more years. Federal costs on new regular loans are significantly reduced during the year of disbursement through the origination fees which are used to offset interest subsidy costs for that year.

Increased efforts are being made to collect outstanding defaults and to reduce the incidence of default. These efforts include: expanding collection activities by referring defaulted accounts to private collection agencies, sharing information on defaulted accounts with consumer credit bureaus, computer matches to locate defaulters, increased litigation, and closer monitoring of collection activity. Defaults will increase due to the increase in the number of loans going into repayment each year. Outstanding defaults in fiscal years 1982-84 are as follows:

1. Assistance for the disadvantaged—(a) Institutional aid.—This activity provides support for institutions to further strengthen their fiscal management and their academic and administrative programs needed to achieve self-sufficiency. Part of the funds are targeted on institutions that enroll a disproportionate number of needy students, including many of the Nation's historically black colleges and universities. The remaining funds support matching grants to increase the institutions' self-sufficiency, strengthen higher education resources, and encourage other sources of funding. Grant funds in 1984 for historically black colleges and universities would be maintained at 1983 appropriation levels, including funds in a supplemental now requested, adjusted for estimated price changes.

dents from college. In 1984, the special services for the disadvantaged students program is funded, with eligibility restricted to institutions with predominantly (50% or more) minority enrollments.

(2) Science improvement program.—This program is designed to effect long-range improvement in science education at institutions whose predominantly minority students are underrepresented in science and engineering.

2. Program development—(a) Fund for the improvement of postsecondary education.—This program supports locally-developed projects which have potential for addressing problems and opportunities for improvement in postsecondary education. Legislation will be proposed for 1984 to allow the Secretary to require a matching contribution from grantees.

4. Interest subsidy grants.—Funds will meet mandatory interest subsidy costs of prior year construction loan commitments.

6. Law and education—(c) Law enforcement education.—Increased efforts are being made to collect outstanding defaulted loans. Outstanding defaults in 1982-84 are as follows:

During fiscal year [1983] 1984, no new commitments for loans may be made from this account. (Public Law 97-377, making further continuing appropriations for the fiscal year 1983.)

The Higher education facilities loan program authorizes loans for construction of academic facilities in higher education institutions. Such loans may be made for up to 80 percent of a project's total development cost and must be repaid within 50 years. No new loan commitments have been made since 1981.

Interest is payable to the Treasury on the cumulative amount of appropriations paid out for loans under this title or available as capital, less the average undisbursed cash balance during the year. The rate certified by Treasury for payment from the account decreased from 15 percent in 1982 to 11½ percent in 1983, and is expected to be 11 percent in 1984.

In 1967 and 1968, Congress authorized the sale of participation certificates by the Government National Mortgage Association to the public to raise capital to support loans. The participation certificates outstanding held by this account are estimated to remain level at $108,049 thousand during 1983 and 1984. It is anticipated that $15,717 thousand will be transferred to the Government National Mortgage Association in 1984 to be used for the retirement of outstanding participation certificates.

Insufficiencies appropriations are used to fund the deficit resulting from the interest on participation certificates and the interest rate received from higher education institutions on facilities loans. The budget authority required for insufficiencies is computed as follows (in thousands of dollars):

	1982 actual	1983 est.	1984 est.

A credit management improvement plan, including dollar targets and initiatives for the collection of defaulted loans and delinquent loan payments, was developed and implemented during 1982. A collection program was undertaken and, without affecting the ability of the institutions concerned to continue services in postsecondary education, the dollar collection target was exceeded. A total of $1.2 million was collected from institutions in default during 1982. The collection effort will be continued and enhanced during 1983 and 1984, which should result in a decreasing amount of outstanding defaulted loans.

Title IV of the Housing Act of 1950 authorized loans at 3% interest to colleges and eligible hospitals for the construction or acquisition of housing and related facilities such as student centers, dining halls, and infirmaries. During 1984 no new loan obligations are anticipated. Instead, available resources will be transferred to the Government National Mortgage Association to be used for the retirement of outstanding participation certificates.

Financing.—Funds for the direct loan program have been provided primarily from Treasury borrowing and from the sale of participation certificates which are backed by pools of college housing loans held by the Federal Government. Treasury borrowings totaled $2,687.3 million as of September 30, 1982.

Sales of participation certificates, as provided in the Participation Sales Act of 1966, totaled $2.2 billion through 1969, of which $451.5 million was outstanding as of September 30, 1982.

Budget authority required for estimated insufficiencies and unfinanced deficits is shown in the following table:

Program operations.—The estimated net operating income of $1.7 million in 1984 will decrease the cumulative deficit to $169 million.

The excess of income loan repayments over operating expenses will be used to amortize the outstanding debt on participation certificates. The budget provides $1.5 million to fund loan management, liquidation, and property disposition expenses related to possible loan foreclosure actions in 1983 and 1984.

A credit management improvement plan, including dollar targets and initiatives for the collection of defaulted loans and delinquent loan payments, was developed and implemented during 1982. A collection program was undertaken and, without affecting the ability of the institutions concerned to continue services in postsecondary education, the dollar collection target was exceeded. A total of $4.6 million was collected from institutions in default during 1982. The collection effort will be continued and enhanced during 1983 and 1984, which should result in a decreasing amount of outstanding defaulted loans.

1. National Institute of Education.—Research, development, and dissemination activities aid students, teachers, administrators, and decisionmakers at all levels of education. There are three major programs.

The teaching and learning program attempts to enlarge scientific understanding of human learning and development and knowledge of effective educational practices.

The educational policy and organization program supports research on how the governance and organization of education can be made more effective and equitable and assists practitioners who want to take advantage of what is learned.

The dissemination and improvement of practice program helps translate educational research into forms that are useful to educational policymakers, administrators, and practitioners, and makes it available through national and regional information systems.

2. National Center for Education Statistics.—Statistics are maintained on educational institutions and on individuals to monitor trends in education. A coordinated program of statistical services is supported which provides: (1) assistance to States in developing comparable data bases, (2) analyses of the implications of data, and (3) dissemination of timely information to the public and educational practitioners.

Note.—The activities previously financed in four accounts under Education Activities, Special Institutions—American Printing House for the Blind; National Technical Institute for the Deaf; Gallaudet College; and Howard University—in 1982 and 1983 are presented in these schedules and are proposed to be financed in this account in 1984. Budget authority and outlays are distributed by account above.

This new account consolidates four prior accounts, each of which included a grant to a particular institution.

1. American Printing House for the Blind.—This institution provides educational materials to blind students of less than college grade. Legislation will be proposed for 1984 to require a 10% reimbursement of program costs from non-Federal sources. The legislation will also subsume in the direct appropriation the $10 thousand annual trust fund payment established in 1879.

2. National Technical Institute for the Deaf.—This institution is a national coeducational residential center that provides postsecondary technical education for deaf people to prepare them for successful employment. The budget display shows separately the incremental costs of educating victims of the rubella epidemic of 1964–65.

3. Gallaudet College.—This institution is a private, nonprofit educational institution which provides an undergraduate higher education program for deaf persons, a preparatory program for students who need such training to qualify them for college admission, a graduate program in fields of study related to deafness, and continuing education and public service programs. Gallaudet also conducts basic and applied deafness-related research and provides sign language programs for hearing and deaf persons and an associate of arts degree program in interpreting. The budget display shows separately the incremental costs of educating victims of the rubella epidemic of 1964–65. Gallaudet also operates on campus the Model Secondary School for the Deaf, which serves deaf students of high school age, and the Kendall Demonstration Elementary School for younger children. In connection with their instructional programs, these schools also develop materials and methods for teaching deaf children.

4. Howard University.—This institution is a private, nonprofit educational institution consisting of 17 schools and colleges. Federal funds are used to provide partial support for academic programs as well as for teaching hospital facilities. This support includes funds for both direct operations and construction. Construction funds are requested in 1984 for repair of the Medical Building and continued work on the Freedmen's Hospital renovation project.

The legislation will also subsume the $10 thousand annual trust fund payment, established in 1879, in the direct appropriation.

SEC. 304. No part of the funds contained in this title may be used to force any school or school district which is desegregated as that term is defined in title IV of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Public Law 88-352, to take any action to force the busing of students; to force on account of race, creed, or color the abolishment of any school so desegregated; or to force the transfer or assignment of any student attending any elementary or secondary school so desegregated to or from a particular school over the protest of his or her parents or parent.

1. Naval reactors development.—This program provides for the design, development, and testing of improved naval nuclear propulsion plants and reactor cores having longer fuel life, increased reliability, improved performance, and simplified operating and maintenance requirements. These reactors are necessary to meet a variety of military requirements. During 1984 efforts will continue to improve existing submarine and surface ship reactor cores and plant technology, and to develop new advanced reactor concepts and propulsion plants. This program also continues test facility upgrading, materials facility construction, and provides equipment for ongoing reactor design and testing activities.

2. Weapons activities.—This program provides for the research, development, engineering, testing, and production of all U.S. nuclear weapons; maintenance of reliable weapons for their stockpile life, and retirement and disposal of nuclear weapons from the stockpile. This program also includes the inertial confinement fusion activities, which have applications in the future development of the nuclear weapons program. In 1984 the weapons program will continue to provide new technology to maintain a modern nuclear force, along with the design and development of new weapon systems in response to defense requirements. This program also provides for the certification of safety, reliability, and performance of new weapon systems and surveillance of the existing stockpile. Increases are provided for continued production of weapon systems and for stockpile improvements. In addition, this program provides for facility construction, maintenance, and restoration for the weapons research and development, testing, and production activities. This program also includes inertial confinement fusion construction.

3. Verification and control technology.—This program provides staff and programmatic resources for the conduct of research activities directed toward the advancement of verification technology related to nuclear treaties and arms control measures. In 1984, the program provides for continued technical and scientific efforts to support nuclear test limitation treaties and nuclear arms reduction negotiations. Other activities provide analytical support to export control requirements, non-proliferation policy, and weapon analysis issues. This program also provides capital equipment for nuclear detection technology efforts and analytical support activities.

4. Materials production.—This program provides nuclear materials to meet nearterm national defense and nondefense requirements and sustain a base production program capable of meeting longterm nuclear materials production requirements consistent with the annual Presidential Nuclear Weapons Stockpile Memorandum and the annual Materials Management Plan. In 1984, this program will continue to operate a reactor feed material production complex, four production reactors, chemical processing plants at three major sites, R&D efforts on long-range alternatives for production of nuclear materials, and support facilities integral to the operation of the facilities mentioned above. A fifth production reactor, L Reactor at Savannah River, and a fourth spent fuel processing canyon, the PUREX facility at Richland, will become operational in 1984. Activities will continue to increase production of nuclear materials including producing high purity plutonium for blending with fuel-grade plutonium to produce weapon-grade plutonium, preproduction of fuel cores for conversion of the Savannah River reactors to a more efficient plutonium producing core loading in 1985, and planned productivity improvements to N Reactor. Research and development activities for the Laser Isotope Separation (LIS) Program and the New Production Reactor (NPR) will be continued.

5. Defense waste and byproducts management.—This program provides for safe interim storage of nuclear wastes and utilization of byproducts generated primarily from nuclear materials production and naval propulsion; and for the development of alternative technologies and processes to support final disposal of defense nuclear waste. The 1984 program provides operating funds for continuation of the waste operations program including transfer of wastes to new tanks and continued waste management research and development efforts. Major construction funded activities include completion of the exploratory phase of the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant project near Carlsbad, New Mexico, and initiation of construction of the Defense Waste Processing Facility at the Savannah River facility.

6. Nuclear safeguards and security.—This program provides for the development of measures for the protection of nuclear weapons in the agency's custody, special nuclear materials, classified materials and information, and agency property. It also provides technical support and advice to the development of foreign country nuclear materials security and international agency safeguards. In 1984 this program will continue development of procedures that preclude the unauthorized disclosure, theft, or loss of classified material; management of a research and development program to safeguard nuclear weapons and nuclear materials and protect agency facilities against sabotage; providing for assistance to site managers in designing effective safeguards systems; and support of international safeguards technology.

7. Security investigations.—This activity covers the costs related to performance of security investigations for personnel who, in performance of their official duties, must have access to restricted data, national security information or special nuclear material, or who occupy a designated critical sensitive position.

1. Life sciences and nuclear medicine applications.—The Life Sciences and Nuclear Medicine Applications Activities, previously included in the General Science and Research Appropriation, have been merged with the Biological and Environmental Research Activities within the Energy Supply, Research and Development Appropriation in the 1984 Congressional Budget submission.

2. High energy physics.—Research in this program focuses on the fundamental constituents of matter, the fundamental forces in nature and the transformations between matter and energy at the most elemental level. The program includes experimental and theoretical particle physics research and related advanced accelerator and detector technology R&D. The primary mode of experimental research involves the study of collisions of energetic particles using large particle accelerators or colliding beam facilities by means of advanced multi-particle detector systems and associated electronics. Research in 1984 will continue studies of known fundamental constituents of particles, initiate searches for new particle constituents, and continue to pursue a unified description of the four fundamental forces in nature. A major feature of the program in 1984 will be experiments at Fermilab using the new beam capability of the superconducting magnet Energy Saver accelerator to be completed in 1983. Plant funding is requested in 1984 to continue construction at Fermilab of the Tevatron I project which will provide 1000 GeV x 1000 GeV proton-antiproton colliding beam capabilities, and of the Tevatron-II project which upgrades the existing experimental areas for a full 1000 GeV fixed target research program. The 1984 budget requests funds to initiate construction of the Stanford Linear Collider (SLC) which will demonstrate the feasibility of new techniques for very high energy electron-positron collisions and also give the U.S. high energy physics program early access to information necessary for validating current theory predicting the unification of the electromagnetic and weak nuclear forces.

3. Nuclear physics.—This program strives to attain a deeper understanding of the interactions, properties, and structures of atomic nuclei and nuclear matter at a fundamental level through interdependent experimental and theoretical investigations of atomic nuclei. Research progress depends upon the existence and effective operation of seven national accelerator facilities whose beams are available to all qualified scientists plus four dedicated university accelerator facilities. In 1984, priority will be given to upgrading these facilities to meet evolving research requirements, and to operating these facilities at a utilization level sufficient to meet the needs of the research program. Major research themes in 1984 include the role that quarks play in the makeup and interactions of nuclei, nuclei as proving grounds for understanding the basic strong and electroweak forces of nature, possible existence of new forms of nuclear matter, and, the mechanisms by which colliding nuclei exchange mass, energy, and angular momentum.

The purpose of energy supply research and development is to develop new energy technologies and improve existing energy technologies. Included in this mission are basic research, technology development, and demonstration.

This account provides funds for capital equipment and construction projects for the research and technological development and demonstration of the various energy technologies under examination in the energy supply, research and development mission.

1. Solar energy.—In 1984, the solar energy program will conduct generic technology base research and exploratory development in the areas of photovoltaic, solar thermal, biomass, wind, and solar technology transfer.

2. Geothermal.—In 1984, the geothermal energy program will conduct high-risk, high-payoff research in the areas of hot dry rock, hard rock penetration, magma energy extraction, and hydrothermal technologies in order to build a technology base that can be used for geothermal development by the private sector.

3. Hydropower.—Prior year funds will be used to bring this program to an orderly closeout.

4. Electric energy systems.—The objectives of this program are to foster effective integration of new technologies into utility systems and to conduct research on improved methods of power transmission. In 1984 the program will perform research in the biological and behavioral sciences, high voltage transient and steady state technology, large scale system theory, high frequency data and control networks, load flow and load leveling.

5. Energy storage systems.—This program will continue to support other energy supply and conservation programs through the development of batteries and other storage technologies for a variety of end-use applications.

6. Nuclear fission.—The commercial waste management program includes generic research to develop a geological repository system for civilian waste not destined for low-level waste burial, low-level waste technology development to assist states in establishing regional low-level waste disposal sites and waste treatment technologies for treating high-level and transuranic wastes. Geologic disposal activities which are site specific are budgeted in a proposed special appropriations account entitled the "Nuclear Waste Disposal Fund," which will be financed by fees collected from utilities.

The nuclear fuel cycle program involves two main subprogram activities: the interim spent fuel technology program to work with the private sector to demonstrate alternative spent fuel storage technologies; and the fuel reprocessing program, which includes efforts on advanced fuel reprocessing technology, plutonium conversion and proof-of-breeding in support of the water cooled breeder program.

In the converter reactor systems program, work will continue in regulatory reform initiatives and safety research and development. Efforts at Three Mile Island (TMI) involving reactor evaluation, waste immobilization and data acquisition will continue. Methods for the safe treatment of TMI wastes are being developed. Efforts on the high temperature reactor are discontinued.

In the extended burnup program no funding is required in 1984 to achieve one fuel burnup design of 50,000 Md/t.

The breeder reactor program includes two active subprograms: the liquid metal fast breeder reactor and the water cooled breeder. The liquid metal fast breeder reactor program includes the operation of the Fast Flux Test Facility (FFTF), the design and construction of the Clinch River Breeder Reactor Plant (CRBRP), and research and development in the areas of engineering systems and components, fuels and core design, materials and structures research, safety, and core physics. Site work for the CRBRP was started in 1982 and construction of the nuclear island base mat is scheduled to start in early 1984. The FFTF will be operated to obtain data on fuel and material behavior. Other facilities that either operate or are under construction support the research needs of the breeder program. The water cooled breeder reactor activities will focus on the removal of the fuel from the Shippingport reactor to evaluate the breeding effect of the light water reactor design.

The advanced nuclear systems program continues development work on the space power systems for use on U.S. space missions. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration Galileo Spacecraft and the International Solar Polar Mission Spacecraft are scheduled for launch in 1986. Another major activity will be the continuation of the space nuclear reactor power program (SP-100) in coordination with NASA and DOD. A third major activity is the technology program aimed at demonstrating a new, light weight, radioisotope thermoelectric generation (RTG) design.

The remedial actions program includes efforts to keep radioactively contaminated sites and facilities (Government-owned and designated non-Government) which are no longer required or used from becoming an actual or potential health, safety or environmental hazard. The major program areas are the Formerly Utilized Sites Remedial Action program, the Grand Junction Remedial Action program, the Uranium Mill Tailings Remedial Action program for inactive uranium mill tailings sites, the Surplus Facilities program for contaminated facilities, and a high-level waste solidification demonstration project. Efforts are directed at cleaning up these sites and facilities to release them for alternative productive use with minimum or no restrictions.

7. Environment, safety, and health.—The goals of this program are to develop policies and standards for safety in agency processes and programs, assure public safety and environmental protection at agency facilities, and assure compliance with environment statutes, regulations, and standards. Planned 1984 activities include issuing revised environmental protection, safety and health protection guidance, as required for agency operations, conducting appraisals of ES&H performance at four of the eight Operations Offices; developing training guidance for reactor operators to improve operational safety at agency nuclear facilities; maintaining a viable radiological emergency response capability for agency facilities. Continuation of review of documentation activities in response to Public Law 91-190, the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 is planned. This program will also provide capital equipment for continuation of diverse activities in assessment of environment, safety, and health impacts of Government-owned operational activities.

8. Biological and environmental research.—The goals of this program are to conduct research on the environmental effects of energy technologies and to support development of new medical applications of radiation for the treatment of human disease. Planned 1984 activities include studies of the health and environmental effects of radiation, studies to provide basic information on pollutant-induced damage in biological systems, research on new radionuclides for use in medical applications, and production of highly pure stable isotopes for use in scientific and agricultural research. This program will also conduct comprehensive research on the effects of increased levels of carbon dioxide on climate, and will continue research on the environmental effects of nonnuclear energy technologies.

The Life Sciences and Nuclear Medicine Applications Activities, previously included in the General Science and Research Appropriation, have been merged with the Biological and Environmental Research Activities within the Energy Supply, Research and Development Appropriation in the 1984 Congressional Budget submission.

9. Magnetic fusion.—The 1984 budget provides support for continuing the development of magnetic fusion energy technology to the point where commercial deployment of fusion can begin. Experimental as well as theoretical research on two mainline concepts of confinement, toroidal and mirrors, will continue through the operation of current generation experimental devices. Preparation for achievement of scientific breakeven on the TFTR device at PPPL will continue. A smaller effort will be devoted to investigation of several promising alternate concepts. All of these efforts will be complemented with a program to develop supporting technology needs for components, materials, and reactor systems engineering. Construction on the next generation of mirror fusion experimental devices will continue on the Mirror Fusion Test Facility-B. Capital equipment funds are provided for the necessary support to research and development in the confinement systems, applied plasma physics, development and technology and planning and projects subprograms.

10. Supporting research and technical analysis.—The supporting research programs are focused on areas of fundamental science that have the greatest potential, both for near-term and long-term impact on energy production, on the assessment of technologies that have potentially high payoff in the future, and on the training of future energy professionals.

Basic energy sciences.—This program supports basic research that will result in information that can lead to improvements in new technologies. This research focuses on basic concepts, materials, processes, and techniques for energy production. In 1984, work will continue in materials sciences, chemical sciences, and nuclear sciences. Additional resources will be provided for facility operations, advanced energy projects, biological energy research, and research in engineering systems, mathematics, and geosciences. Research related to high temperature materials, combustion, chemistry of coal, catalysts, photochemistry, nondestructive evaluation and the synthesis of novel materials will be expanded. In 1984, there will be a major new initiative in materials sciences. Construction of a national advanced materials research center at Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory will be initiated and an upgrade of the National Synchrotron Light Source at Brookhaven National Laboratory will begin. The overall goal of the research initiative is to improve linkages among academic, national laboratory, and industry scientists for the future advancement of high technology industries. In addition, in 1984, construction funds are provided for general plant projects, and accelerator improvements and modifications.

University research instrumentation.—This program will support the purchase, by the major research universities, of state-of-the-art, scientific instrumentation used in energy-related research areas such as combustion, materials, catalysis, and radioactive waste management.

University research support.—This program will support energy related research and training programs through the university reactor fuel assistance program, the university laboratory cooperative research program, and the energy manpower development program.

Energy research analysis.—This activity involves the independent assessment of existing or proposed technological initiatives, including examination of the base of research that underlies energy supply and utilization technologies.

11. Multiprogram/facilities.—This program provides construction funds for new common-use projects at multi-program laboratories. These projects will serve purposes common to several programs, typically utilities or general office and laboratory space.

12. In-house energy management.—This program funds energy conservation retrofit projects at department facilities. These projects are designed to improve the efficiency of EAC energy use and set an example for other Federal agencies and the private sector. Surveys are conducted to identify cost-effective candidate projects and projects are then selected on a competitive basis using as the primary criterion the greatest economic return.

13. Technical information services.—The technical information services program is centralized service supporting the dissemination of energy research and development information to agency researchers, engineers, scientists, and to academia and industry.

14. Plant engineering and design.—This program identifies and supports through the advanced funding of Architect-Engineering (A-E) services those proposed construction projects considered critical to timely accomplishment of energy activities. A-E services permit designated non-defense projects to proceed from conceptual design into Preliminary (Title I) and Definitive (Title II) design prior to Congressional authorization.

15. Policy and management.—Provides executive direction, management assistance and administrative support to all programs within energy supply activities.

The objective of this program is to decrease the vulnerability of the United States to disruptions in world petroleum markets by creating an effective stockpile to be used in the event such disruptions occur.

This account includes funds for continued development of the petroleum reserve storage facilities. In 1984, $199,757,000 is provided for storage facility construction and ongoing operations and maintenance activities, $6,250,000 for planning studies, and $10,163,000 for program administration.

Beginning in 1982 and continuing in 1983 and 1984, petroleum acquisition and transportation is funded from the off-budget SPR Petroleum Account pursuant to the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981 (Public Law 97-35).

This program supports energy information activities which are designed to provide timely, accurate and relevant energy information for use by the Administration, the Congress, and the general public.

1. Collection, production and analysis.—These activities design, develop and maintain information systems on oil, natural gas, coal, nuclear, electric, alternate fuel sources, and energy consumption. These programs collect data and ensure its accuracy. They also prepare limited short-term forecasts, and prepare reports associated with these energy sources, and with energy end-use, prices, supply, and demand balances, economic, international, and financial matters.

2. Program services.—The activities funded in program services include the operation of the Energy Information Administration (EIA) computer facility, telecommunications support, customer services, and ADP software support to in-house EIA personnel and others. In addition, the National Energy Information Center (NEIC) disseminates publications, analytic reports, information directives, public use tapes, and responds to public inquiries. Finally, this activity provides survey and statistical design standards, documentation standards, and energy data public-use forms clearance, and burden control services.

3. Policy and management.—This program provides direction to EIA through the Office of the Administrator, provides funding for administrative services, and provides administrative support to EIA program offices in the area of planning, budgeting, contract administration, personnel, and administrative services.

1. Economic regulation.—The Economic Regulatory Administration (ERA) is responsible for pursuing and finalizing any remaining enforcement actions to assure that oil companies complied with petroleum regulations in effect prior to decontrol of oil in January 1981. Naturally, the funding level is reduced from prior years as enforcement cases are completed. In addition, ERA authorizes the import and export of natural gas and export of electricity, and licenses international electricity transmission facilities.

2. Hearings and appeals.—The Office of Hearings and Appeals reviews and issues all final orders of an adjudicatory nature other than those over which the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission has jurisdiction. It decides appeals of such orders and examines exceptions.

3. Emergency preparedness.—This program will provide ongoing capability for the coordination of comprehensive energy emergency preparedness programs designed to reduce the vulnerability of the Nation to energy supply disruptions within a framework of maximum free market operations.

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) is charged with regulating certain interstate aspects of the natural gas, hydroelectric, oil pipeline, and electric industries. Such regulation includes issuing licenses, inspecting dams, and providing other services to regulated businesses. In 1984, these businesses will pay $60 million in fees and charges to cover the Commission's cost of providing licenses, inspections and other services.

1. Natural gas regulation.—The Commission regulates 143 natural gas pipeline companies and approximately 3,500 producers. Responsibilities include issuing certificates of public convenience and necessity for natural gas pipelines, determining rates for the transportation and sale of natural gas, and establishing curtailment provisions. Producer regulation requires the enforcement of appropriate wellhead prices for natural gas sold to pipelines or end users.

2. Hydropower licensing regulation.—The Commission issues permits and licenses for hydroelectric projects, enforces the terms and conditions of the licenses, and performs dam safety inspections. There are currently 820 hydroelectric projects under license representing more than 1,400 hydroelectric developments with an ultimate generating capacity of about 61 million kilowatts. The Commission also performs investigations of headwater benefits and rate approval for all Federal power marketing agencies except TVA.

3. Oil pipeline regulation.—The Commission's responsibilities include the establishment of economical and reasonable transportation rates to provide incentives for increasing domestic oil supplies and insuring that consumers are not adversely affected by unjustifiably high tariffs. A total of 125 oil pipeline companies, including the Trans Alaska Pipeline System (TAPS), are currently under the jurisdiction of the FERC. The valuation of these regulated companies approximates $20 billion. The Commission seeks to encourage fair competition among the oil companies and to foster the development of future oil supplies in the Prudhoe Bay and North Slope by establishing prudent rate tariffs.

4. Electric power regulation.—The Commission is responsible for determining rates for the interstate sale or transmission of wholesale electric energy for 206 electric utilities and for overseeing electric utility corporate transactions and interlocking directorates.

The objectives of the loan guarantee program are: (1) to encourage and assist the private sector in developing geothermal resources by minimizing lenders' financial risk associated with the introduction of new technology; and (2) develop normal borrower-lender relationships that will in time encourage the flow of credit without the need for Federal assistance.

This fund was established pursuant to title VIII of the Energy Security Act, which appropriated amounts for 1981. The purpose of this program was to provide the Strategic Petroleum Reserve program the benefits of domestic price-controlled lower tier oil through participation in the Crude Oil Entitlements program. The Strategic Petroleum Reserve Entitlements program expired on January 28, 1981, subsequent to Executive Order 12287, which removed price and allocation controls on crude oil and refined petroleum products. In 1982, the obligated balance in this account was transferred to the SPR Petroleum Account.

This interim program was established in 1980 for the purpose of expediting the development and production of alternative fuels. A total of $5,518,000 was made available to the Department of Energy to support certain synthetic fuel technologies.

1. Purchase commitments.—This authorizes the commitment to or the entering into purchase agreements for all or part of the production from a synthetic fuel project. A purchase commitment was cancelled during 1982 by the guarantee recipient.

2. Loan guarantees.—This provides for loan guarantees to (a) the Great Plains Gasification Associates for construction of a gasification plant by late 1984, and (b) the Tosco Corporation in addition to the purchase commitment listed above. This guarantee was cancelled by the recipient.

3. Program management.—This provides for costs associated with negotiating and monitoring price and guaranteed loans for alternative fuel projects.

In 1981, a commitment was made to support three synfuels projects using a price guarantee contract and two guaranteed loans. When the Synthetic Fuels Corporation was declared to be operational in 1981, the uncommitted and unobligated funds remaining in the program were transferred to the Energy Security Reserve for use by the Synthetic Fuels Corporation.

For engineering and economic investigations to promote the development and utilization of the water, power, and related resources of Alaska, and for necessary expenses of operation and maintenance of projects in Alaska and of marketing electric power and energy, $3,210,000, to remain available until expended, together with such sums as may be necessary to be available only upon a determination by the Secretary that such amounts are required to ensure continuity of service in the case of an emergency.

Note.—Although a regular appropriation for this account for 1983 had not been enacted at the time this budget was prepared, a continuing resolution (Public Law 97-377) provides funds through September 30, 1983.

The Alaska Power Administration (APA) is responsible for operation, maintenance, and power marketing for the Eklutna and Snettisham hydroelectric projects in accordance with the authorizing legislation for each project. The program objectives include:

Operating and maintaining the two Federal projects to optimize production of power and energy in a manner that ensures integrity of the investment, maximizes reliability and energy production, and minimizes long-term costs. A major objective is scheduling and installing necessary replacements and improvements to project facilities.

Marketing power in accordance with authorizing legislation to achieve widespread benefits at lowest rates consistent with sound business principles and requirements for repayment of Federal investment.

Maximizing public benefits from other uses of project land and water, including visitation, reservoir recreation, and fish and wildlife uses.

The 1984 budget request will permit continuation of all normal operation and maintenance activities plus satisfactory progress on the multiyear program of replacements and project improvements, thus ensuring continued productivity of the investment in the projects.

Expected 1984 revenues are $4,898,000 on energy sales of 330 million kilowatt-hours, representing approximately 9% of the statewide electric utility requirements in Alaska.

Bonneville Power Administration (BPA) is the Federal electric power marketing agency in the Pacific Northwest. BPA markets hydroelectric power from 21 multipurpose water resource projects of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and 9 projects of the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, plus some energy from non-Federal generating projects in the region. These generating resources and BPA's transmission system, which will consist of an estimated 14,001 circuit-miles of high-voltage transmission lines and 377 substations in 1984, are operated as an integrated power system with operating and financial results combined and reported as the Federal Columbia River Power System. BPA markets about one-half of the electric energy produced in the Northwest and provides about four-fifths of the region's electric power transmission capacity.

BPA is responsible for meeting the net firm load growth of the region through a variety of means, including energy conservation programs, acquisition of renewable and other resources, and power exchanges with utilities both in and outside the region.

BPA will continue its operations on the basis of its self-financing authority and the new borrowing authority provided by the Regional Act ¹ for energy conservation and renewable energy resources. BPA requires no appropriations.

Budget programs.—1. Resource planning, acquisition, and oversight.—Provides for the orderly planning, acquisition, and oversight of reliable, cost-effective, environmentally acceptable resources, including resources purchased prior to the Regional Act, needed to serve BPA's portion of the region's forecasted net electric load requirements that cannot be met through cost-effective conservation.

2. Energy conservation.—Provides for funding conservation measures, including home energy efficiency, commercial energy efficiency, street lighting, utility distribution system loss reduction, industrial technological transfers, passive solar energy applications, and conservation measures for new home construction.

3. System planning and construction.—Provides for continuation of construction work on transmission lines, substations, and related facilities initiated in prior years, initiation of construction on system additions, and planning and research and development for a reliable, efficient, and cost-effective regional transmission system. During 1984 BPA plans to construct and energize approximately 310 miles of line and 10 substations.

4. Operation and maintenance.—(a) System operation.—Provides for operating an estimated 14,001 miles of line and 377 substations of the BPA transmission system in 1984.

(b) System maintenance.—Provides for maintaining an estimated 14,001 miles of line and 377 substations of the BPA transmission system in 1984.

(c) Power marketing.—Provides for forecasting regional demand; negotiating power sales and wheeling, billing, and servicing those contracts; reviewing and establishing wholesale power and wheeling rates; and encouraging public participation in the formation of BPA policies and programs.

(d) Power scheduling.—Provides for the scheduling and dispatch of power.

(e) Fish and wildlife.—Provides for protection, mitigation, and enhancement of fish and wildlife of the Columbia River and its tributaries, including related spawning grounds and habitat in accordance with the Regional Act.

(f) Planning Council.—Provides for activities of the Pacific Northwest Electric Power and Conservation Planning Council to perform various tasks as required by the Regional Act, including preparation and adoption of a regional conservation and power plan and adoption of a fish and wildlife program.

5. Interest on borrowings.—Provides for payments to the U.S. Treasury for interest on borrowings to finance BPA's construction and energy conservation programs under $2,500,000,000 borrowing authority provided by the Federal Columbia River Transmission System Act (FCRTSA) as amended by the Regional Act. In 1984 the limitation has been requested to be increased by $1,250,000,000.

6. Associated project costs.—Provides for repayment of the operation and maintenance costs of the 30 U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and U.S. Bureau of Reclamation power generating projects, interest and amortization on the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation capital investment in power generating facilities, and coordination agreement payments to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

7. Reimbursable.—Provides for the purchase of replacement energy from other sources for BPA industrial and utility customers during periods when nonfirm energy is not available from the Federal system, with BPA acting as an agent in acquiring nonfirm energy in their behalf for which each customer provides funds in advance. Also provides for services such as construction, operation, and maintenance of transmission facilities when requested and financed by other entities.

Financing.—The FCRTSA provides for the use by BPA of all receipts, collections, and recoveries in cash from all sources, including the sale of bonds, to finance the annual budget programs of BPA. These receipts result primarily from the sale of power and wheeling. The FCRTSA also provides for authority to borrow from the U.S. Treasury at rates comparable to borrowings at open market rates for similar issues. As amended by the Regional Act, it allows for $2,500,000,000 of borrowing authority to be outstanding at any time. In addition, another $1,250,000,000 of borrowing authority is requested in 1984 to provide continued funding of original FCRTSA programs, as well as financing flexibility provided under the Regional Act. Estimated borrowing authority required for use in 1984 is $324,500,000.

Direct and guaranteed loans.—The limitation on direct loans is $40,000,000 in 1984. Loan guarantees will be for the full loan amount. The limitation on guaranteed loans is $20,000,000 in 1984.

Operating results.—Total revenues and receipts are expected to amount to approximately $2,814,200,000 in 1984. Estimated cumulative retained earnings at the close of the budget year are —$43,500,000, a net decrease of $29,700,000 from 1983.

The Southeastern Power Administration (SEPA) markets power generated at Corps of Engineers Hydroelectric generating plants in a 10-state area of the Southeast. Deliveries are made by means of transmission facilities owned by others. There are 21 projects now in operation. A schedule of kilowatt capacity of projects in operation or under construction follows:

	Installed capacity
Projects in operation.....	2,712,375
Project under construction: Richard B. Russell (initial operation beginning 1984).....	600,000
Additional unit at Hartwell (initial operation beginning 1983).....	80,000
Total.....	3,392,375

SEPA sells power at wholesale primarily to publicly and cooperatively owned electric distribution utilities using wheeling and pooling agreements with the region's large private utilities to provide firm power to its customers. SEPA does not own or operate any transmission facilities. Its long-term contracts provide for periodic electric rate adjustments to insure that the Administration recovers all costs of operation and all capital invested in power with interest in keeping with statutory requirements. The SEPA program includes the following activities:

1. System operation and maintenance.—Provision is made for negotiation and administration of power contracts, collection of revenue, development of wholesale power rates, determination of adequate provisions for the amortization of power investment, investigation and planning of proposed water resources projects, scheduling and dispatching power generation, scheduling storage and release of water, administering contractual operation requirements, and determining methods of operating generating plants individually and in coordination with others to obtain maximum utilization of resources. Miscellaneous receipts deposited in the Treasury were $55,032,312 for 1982, and are estimated to be $60,235,000 for 1983, and $78,413,000 for 1984.

2. Purchase power and wheeling.—Provision is made for the payment of wheeling fees and for the purchase of electricity in connection with disposal of power under contracts with utility companies.
