EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

The revenues for the Post Office Department for the fiscal year 1939 are now estimated at $775,000,000. The fall in postal receipts was checked during the fiscal year 1934, and since January 1934 the trend has continued upward. The receipts for the fiscal year 1937 were $726,201,110, or 9.15 percent over 1936; for 1938 it is estimated that the receipts will reach $752,500,000 or 3.6 percent over 1937; and that for 1939 the receipts will total $775,000,000 or 3 percent over the estimate for 1938. These estimates for 1938 and 1939 are based on the upward trend of postal business sustained since 1934, and the present prospects that such improvements in postal business will continue through 1939.

The estimates of appropriations for the Post Office Department for the fiscal year 1939 aggregate $793,143,409, which, compared with the appropriations for 1938, $784,748,053, shows an increase of $8,395,356. This would represent an increase in expenditures of 1.1 percent, while the increase in receipts is estimated at 3 percent. Comparing estimates of expenditures for 1939, $793,143,000, with estimated receipts, $775,000,000, indicates an excess of $18,143,000 for postal operations to be financed from the general revenues of the Treasury.

An increase in postal revenues reflects an increase in the volume of mail to be handled, which in turn requires additional expenditures for personnel, transportation, office and work space, equipment, supplies, and other facilities. The principal reason for practically every increase in the estimates of appropriations for 1939 over 1938 is the fact that the revenues for 1939 are estimated at $22,500,000 more than for 1938, which reflects an increased volume of mail to be handled with its attendant increase in expenditures. There are a few items hereinafter mentioned for which the increases requested are due in part to other causes.

The estimates contemplate the expansion of the air mail, both foreign and domestic, by the establishment of new or additional routes, the extension of existing routes, and the increase in the frequencies of trips over existing routes.

The other major increases of importance not directly related to the increase in the volume of the mails are those appearing under the appropriation items for operating force and operating supplies for public buildings. The increases in these items are due to the large number of Federal buildings that will be completed during the last half of the fiscal year 1938 and during the year 1939 and turned over to the Post Office Department for administration and operation. The cost of operation of the new buildings is usually considerably more than the savings in rents of the privately owned buildings vacated.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, organized under the act of January 22, 1932 (47 Stat. 5), was created for the purpose of providing emergency loaning facilities for banking and other financial institutions, and for agricultural, commercial, and industrial purposes. The general scope of the Corporation's functions, as authorized by that act, has been extended by subsequent legislation. The act of January 26, 1937 (50 Stat. 5), extended the obligating authority of the Corporation to June 30, 1939. The estimates for the fiscal year 1939, transmitted pursuant to section 7 of the First Deficiency Appropriation Act, fiscal year 1936, are to cover the necessary administrative expenses of the Corporation on a liquidation basis.

The capital stock of the Corporation, $500,000,000, was subscribed and paid by the Secretary of the Treasury from an appropriation made by Congress in accordance with the terms of the original law. Additional funds are provided by an authorization to issue notes, debentures, bonds, and other obligations within limits prescribed by law. The Secretary of the Treasury may purchase the obligations of the Corporation whenever additional funds are needed.

The Corporation operates by two general methods in carrying out its corporate purposes and functions. It renders financial aid directly to eligible applicants by making loans or by purchases of preferred stock. Such transactions are referred to as "direct operations." The Corporation also furnishes funds to other governmental agencies or corporations, such transfers of funds being referred to as "allocations." These financial operations are indicated in the Corporation's Annexed Budget summary shown above.

The direct operations of the Corporation include loans made to banks, railroads, and commercial business; loans made for financing the marketing of agricultural products; purchases of stock in banks, insurance companies, and mortgage corporations; and for all administrative expenses incurred in connection with such transactions. Direct receipts include repayment of principal and interest (see Supporting Statements Nos. 1 and 2).

Allocations make funds available for advances to other Government agencies and corporations, or for subscriptions to capital stock. These funds have been employed to purchase the capital stock of the Disaster Loan Corporation, regional agricultural credit corporations, Home Owners' Loan Corporation, Federal home-loan banks, export-import banks, Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, and the RFC Mortgage Company. Funds have been also supplied to the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, Farm Credit Administration, Federal Housing Administration, Commodity Credit Corporation, Rural Electrification Administration, and for the purchase of securities from the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works and for transfer to the appropriation under the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1935.

Most of the agencies or corporations which have obtained allocations from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation have also had funds from other sources. Some are authorized to sell obligations directly to the public. Others obtain additional capital from private subscriptions to capital stock, by direct loans, or from moneys appropriated by Congress. The receipts, expenditures, and means of financing these corporations, together with the direct receipts and expenditures of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, are shown in detail in the foregoing statements.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

The appropriation requested for the fiscal year 1939 amounts to $40,000,000, plus a contract authorization for the purchase of equipment to be installed in dams and powerhouses of $4,000,000. This provides for the continuation or completion of construction of the dam and reservoir projects provided for by the 1938 Appropriation Act, and for the continuation of other activities.

Previous appropriations of $191,066,270 and a contract authorization of $4,000,000 have provided for construction obligations on the Norris, Wheeler, Pickwick Landing, Guntersville, Chickamauga, and Hiwassee Dams, and a dam on the lower Tennessee near Gilbertsville, Ky.; the conducting of general investigations of water-control problems; the construction, purchase, and operation of electric-transmission facilities; the investigation, manufacture, and testing of plant foods and other activities for the promotion of soil conservation and a balanced agricultural economy; the maintenance of public property and the conducting of investigations for national-defense purposes; and the conducting of studies, investigations, and experiments authorized by sections 22 and 23 of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act.

The request of $40,000,000 for 1939 is $166,270 less than the appropriation for 1938. The total amount available in 1938 for net obligation is $48,083,118, composed of the appropriation, the contract authorization, and a carry-over of an unobligated balance of $3,916,848 from 1937. The estimated total available in 1939 for net new obligation is only $40,000,000, composed of the requested appropriation and the new contract authorization, less the $4,000,000 needed to liquidate the 1938 contract authorization. The estimated net obligations for the navigation, flood-control, and hydroelectric program for 1939 total $36,585,000, which is less by $6,610,000 than the estimated net obligations under this program in 1938. This reduced amount represents the absolute minimum necessary to complete these navigation and flood-control projects on an efficient schedule and to enable the Authority to dispose of the surplus power created thereby.

NAVIGATION, FLOOD-CONTROL, AND HYDROELECTRIC PROGRAM

Cumulative expenditures for the navigation, flood-control, and hydroelectric program through the period covered by this Budget will be approximately $244,000,000 including the appraised value of Wilson Dam as of July 1, 1933, of $31,300,000. To complete the construction projects already started in 1938 will require in addition $117,000,000. These projects are all necessary to provide flood-control benefits and a navigation channel from the mouth of the Tennessee River to Knoxville as authorized by Congress.

In March 1936 the directors of the Authority reported to Congress their recommendations for the unified development of the Tennessee River system, in compliance with section 4j of the Tennessee Valley Act as amended. The program for 1939 shows some alteration from that presented in this report. The principal changes involve postponement of the beginning of construction on the Watts Bar, Coulter Shoals, and Fontana Dams and revision of the priority of these projects. This postponement has been made because budgetary limitations will not permit the heavy construction schedule recommended in the report. The 1939 program endeavors as much as possible to take advantage of a schedule designed to promote efficient and coordinated construction of several projects at the same time. Thus as one feature of the work on one project is completed, plant, equipment, and supervisory personnel employed in the construction of this feature can be transferred to the same type of work at another project. The schedule thus provides for continuation of the work at a steady pace designed to secure the maximum of engineering efficiency, and the greatest possible stability of employment.

General investigations projects: This phase of the program includes, first, continuation of investigations contributing to the integrated development of the river system to achieve the greatest possible navigation and flood-control benefits; second, continuation of investigations prior to construction on the two remaining projects necessary to provide the 9-foot channel to Knoxville; third, studies leading to the improvement of methods for the generation, transmission, distribution, and use of surplus power; and finally, the compilation of planimetric, topographic, land use, and other maps of the Tennessee Valley area. Such maps are essential materials for a unified program of development of resources, and are being prepared in cooperation with the United States Geological Survey. Planimetric maps of the valley on a scale of 1:12,000 have been completed.

Structures and improvements: The estimates under this phase of the program provide for the continuation or completion of construction on dam and reservoir projects already started, continuation of construction of electrical transmission projects, and necessary additions and betterments to dam and reservoir projects in operation.

The amount requested for Wilson Dam provides for needed improvements to the powerhouse and generating equipment. The estimate for Norris Dam, original project, is principally for completion of the resettlement of families displaced by the flooding of the reservoir. Additions and betterments are contemplated for facilities necessary to the maintenance of the reservoir and Norris Town.

The major portion of the estimate for Wheeler Dam provides for completing records and final legal costs on reservoir lands. Additions and betterments are contemplated for completion of the Elk River Fish Hatchery.

Pickwick Dam and Reservoir will be practically completed by the end of the fiscal year 1938. The amount requested for the fiscal year 1939 provides chiefly for finishing touches on the construction of the dam and powerhouse and clean-up and removal of construction plant and equipment.

The Hiwassee project will be approximately one-third completed at the end of the fiscal year 1938. The amount requested for the fiscal year 1939 provides for over another fourth of the work, including provision for initial work on the powerhouse and a 60,000-kilowatt generating unit.

Construction of the Guntersville project was authorized in the fiscal year 1936. By the end of the fiscal year 1938 approximately two-thirds of the work will be completed. The estimate for the fiscal year 1939 provides for virtual completion of the dam and reservoir and includes a large part of the funds required for the installation of three generating units of 24,000-kilowatt capacity each.

Construction of the Chickamauga project was authorized in the fiscal year 1936 and by the end of the fiscal year 1939 will be approximately three-fourths completed. The amount requested for the fiscal year 1939 provides for a substantial portion of the funds required for the installation of three generating units of 27,000-kilowatt capacity each. A large part of the reservoir-clearing, land-purchase, and relocation work will be completed by the end of the year.

The amount requested for the Gilbertsville project for the fiscal year 1939 provides for preliminary construction. It is proposed to continue detailed engineering surveys, studies, and design on all features of the project other than channel improvement, to acquire additional land for the dam site, camp, and other necessary facilities; and to construct the access road, part of the camp, and a portion of the construction plant. This work will enable construction to go forward at full speed in 1940.

The amount for electrical plant and equipment proposes continuation of construction of a transmission system interconnecting all dams and providing an outlet for disposal of surplus power. It also provides for the continuation of a program of rural electrification.

FERTILIZER AND SOIL-CONSERVATION PROGRAM

The estimate for the fertilizer and soil-conservation program provides for continuation of the investigation of equipment, processes, and products and the manufacture of new forms of plant food, testing of these plant foods in cooperation with agricultural agencies, and other work resulting in the prevention of soil erosion and the silting of reservoirs.

Chemical engineering research and experimentation: This project provides for chemical engineering and related research on the development of equipment and processes pertaining to the manufacture of plant foods, chiefly phosphatic compounds produced by electrical processes.

Major plant and demonstration units: This amount provides for improvements in the existing fertilizer plant, for making such changes and improvements as are necessary in Nitrate Plant No. 2, to reduce operating expenses and to better working conditions; for construction of semiworks units to demonstrate the feasibility of fertilizer-producing processes and equipment designed and developed in the research laboratories; for construction and improvement of an experimental blast furnace; and for improving the major equipment of the fertilizer plant.

Phosphate rock production, equipment, supply and leases: This amount provides for net expenditures for additional equipment necessary for handling phosphate rock in the mining area, for prospecting for new rock deposits, and for purchasing phosphate-bearing land. Charges to fertilizer-manufacturing operations on the basis of quantities of ore removed and processed are credited to this account, the entire cost of which will eventually be charged into manufacturing operations.

Manufacturing operations: This amount provides for the costs of manufacture of new plant-food products to be used to demonstrate their agricultural values and to encourage cover crops for purposes of erosion control and watershed protection. It represents net cost to the Authority after crediting payments from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration for fertilizer transferred at cost to that agency at its request.

Controlled soil and fertilizer investigations: This estimate provides for studies of the physical and chemical characteristics and biological relations of the new forms of plant foods and the physical, chemical, and biological characteristics of the various types of soils in the area to discover the relationship between plant-food deficiencies and proper fertilization. These studies are made with plant foods such as triple superphosphate, metacalcium phosphate, and fused phosphate. The methods employed include laboratory and greenhouse investigations; use of experimental plots, pasture and meadow tests, feeding tests, selected pilot farms, and soil-management studies; and classification, description, and mapping of the soils in the area. These studies are performed in cooperation with agricultural experiment stations and the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils.

Farm unit and large scale tests and demonstrations: The farm-unit tests covered by this estimate involve the practical application of the Authority's fertilizer products in cooperaion with farmers and experiment stations both within and without the Tennessee Valley. They include maintenance of records of field results, of efficiency of farm organization, of economy of production, and of increased standards of farm living; encouragement of terracing through soil-conservation associations as an adjunct to improved cover crops; and instruction in the intensive use of cover crops as an aid to soil fertility and erosion control. The large-scale area tests involve the same sort of methods employed under the farm-unit tests, but applied in cooperation with all the farmers in selected areas, such as small watersheds.

Research and development of farm equipment: The estimate for this project provides for the development of farm equipment which is required if the most effective results are to be obtained from the use of the new forms of plant foods. During 1939 projects involving the dehydration and quick freezing of fruits and vegetables will be given particular attention.

Reforestation and erosion control: This project comprises reforestation, forest protection, and related erosion control for the purpose of preventing silting on lands adjacent to and draining into Tennessee Valley Authority reservoirs. This work is performed in cooperation with the Civilian Conservation Corps, agricultural agencies, and farmers. Also included are forest-fire-prevention education, forestation experiments with food crop bearing trees, and valley-wide cooperation in biological readjustment activities with State and local agencies.

NATIONAL-DEFENSE PROGRAM

The estimate for the national-defense program provides for the continued maintenance in a stand-by condition of the nitrate plants and related facilities at Muscle Shoals. It also includes investigations of mineral resources of the area representing valuable national-defense assets. The estimate for 1939 represents a small increase over that for 1938, resulting from the need for rather extensive repairs and maintenance to the housing facilities taken over from the War Department.

The estimate for mineral investigations provides for continuation of chemical engineering studies of processes, products, and equipment utilizing the mineral resources of the area necessary for national-defense purposes. Included are experimentation in the production of manganese, magnesium, coal, alunite, and alumina. In addition to their national-defense aspects, some of these investigations will also provide new uses for surplus power and new fertilizer products.

REGIONAL STUDIES, EXPERIMENTS, AND DEMONSTRATIONS PROGRAM

Sections 22 and 23 of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act authorize surveys and general plans for the valley and adjoining territory in cooperation with local governmental agencies or other organizations for the general purpose of recommending legislation along the lines of flood control, navigation, surplus power, use of marginal lands, reforestation, and otherwise.

Included in this program are studies of the use, conservation, and development of natural resources, including scenic and recreational resources; studies of general transportation facilities as related to river navigation; investigations into the growth of urbanism; research concerning the region's place in the national economy, including the flow of goods, services, and income; plans for utilizing forest resources for protecting the watershed and developing new forest-product industries; studies of the opportunities for cooperative undertakings; general exploration of mineral resources in relation to industrial development, river traffic, and a market for surplus power; the place of governmental agencies in regional development; and the public health of the region as it is related to the activities of the Authority.

OTHER UNDISTRIBUTED EXPENDITURES

These items represent expenditures not allocable to specific programs and projects.

General equipment and inventories: A small increase is requested for this revolving account, through which is handled transportation, office, and similar general equipment and inventories.

Administrative and service expense: It is estimated that this revolving account will be entirely distributed to programs and projects in 1938 and 1939.

Flood relief: The amount shown for 1937 represents the cost of the Authority's assistance in relieving distress in areas which suffered from the great Ohio-Mississippi flood of 1937.

Reserve for contingencies: An amount of $1,000,000 was set up in 1937 in accordance with section 26 of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act as a reserve for emergencies and to insure continuous operation. As no necessity arose for its expenditure, it was carried forward into 1938. The remainder of this amount represents the balance of the 1938 appropriation not yet allocated to programs and projects.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

The financial requirements of the District of Columbia for the fiscal year 1939 are summarized in the preceding statements. It will be noted from the Annexed Budget summary that the estimated revenues (general, special, and trust accounts) of the District for 1939 are expected to total $42,498,000, which, together with the Federal contribution of $5,000,000 and the net total of the estimated unobligated balances (general, special, and trust accounts) of $1,656,069 carried over from the fiscal year 1938, will total $49,154,069. The obligations (general, special, and trust accounts) for 1939 are estimated at $51,263,877. It is expected that there will be a net deficit of $2,109,808 at the close of the fiscal year 1939, made up as follows: General revenue account, deficit of $3,347,819; special accounts, surpluses $93,027 (highway fund, etc., account) and $446,611 (water account); and trust accounts, surplus of $698,373.

In connection with the deficit shown in the general account for 1939 it should be noted that the 1939 general revenue estimate in the summary reflects a marked decline below the 1938 estimate because of the expiration at the close of the fiscal year 1938 of the statutory provisions establishing the $1.75 rate for real estate and tangible personal property and the business privilege tax. This reduction, based as it is on the present status of the District revenue laws, points to a deficit of $3,347,819 at the close of the fiscal year 1939. The District government, however, intends to recommend to the Congress the enactment of new tax legislation which it is contemplated will compensate for the revenue lapsing at the close of the fiscal year 1938 and avert the indicated 1939 deficit.

Revenues of the District of Columbia

Supporting Statement No. 1 shows the revenues of the District estimated for 1939, as allocated to the general, special, and trust accounts. The general account revenues have been touched upon above, but are discussed in more detail immediately below. The estimates under special and trust accounts for 1939 are approximately the same as those for 1938.

It will be observed that, under the general revenue account, by far the largest source of revenue for the District is the tax on real estate, estimated to yield $18,150,000 for 1939. This yield includes both current and back taxes, the levy being based on an assessed valuation of $1,191,500,000 at $1.50 per hundred. This valuation is an increase of $20,169,079 over the valuation for 1938.

The tax on tangible personal property is estimated to yield $1,175,000 including delinquency payments. This estimate is based on an assessment of $81,000,000 at $1.50 per hundred. The assessment is $1,000,000 in excess of the assessment for 1938.

The yield from the tax on intangible personal property is estimated at $2,850,000, based on an assessed valuation of $570,000,000 at $0.50 per hundred. The valuation shows an increase of $20,000,000 in excess of that for 1938.

Other large items in the revenue estimates of the District for 1939 are the tax on public utilities, banks, etc., amounting to $2,600,000; personal-property tax on motor vehicles, $675,000; inheritance and estate taxes, $800,000; penalties and interest on taxes, $325,000; alcoholic beverage taxes and license fees, $2,100,000; miscellaneous revenue items, $3,600,000; highway fund, gasoline tax and motor-vehicle fees, $4,630,000; and water rates, $2,108,000.

Appropriations for the District of Columbia

The appropriations recommended for the District in the fiscal year 1939 under the general and special accounts amount to $47,344,702, excluding trust account appropriations which amount to $1,895,000. This amount exceeds the 1938 District appropriations under the general and special accounts by $954,561. The increases and decreases which account for this net increase are explained below.

GENERAL EXPENSES

Appropriations are made under this heading for the salaries, and in some instances the expenses, of the principal administrative offices of the District government, and certain other municipal agencies, such as the Public Utilities Commission, Minimum Wage Board, Register of Wills, and Recorder of Deeds. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be available for repairing, resurfacing, or newly paving any street, avenue, or roadway by private contract unless the specifications for such work shall be so prepared as to permit of fair and open competition in paving material as well as in price.

In addition to the provision of existing law requiring contractors to keep new pavements in repair for a period of one year from the date of the completion of the work, the Commissioners of the District of Columbia shall further require that where repairs are necessary during the four years following the said one-year period, due to inferior work or defective materials, such repairs shall be made at the expense of the contractor, and the bond furnished by the contractor shall be liable for such expense.

No part of the appropriations contained in this Act shall be used for the operation of a testing laboratory of the highways department for making tests of materials in connection with any activity of the District government (50 Stat. 390–391).
