Mrs. Maurine B. Neuberger was elected in 1960 as the first woman Senator from Oregon. She is the widow of Senator Richard L. Neuberger, and was elected to the remainder of his unexpired term at the same time she was elected to a full 6-year term, ending January 3, 1967. In 1964 the Senator married Dr. Philip Solomon.

In the 87th and 88th Congresses, Senator Neuberger was a member of the Banking and Currency and the Agriculture and Forestry Committees, and the Special Committee on the Aging. For the 89th Congress, the Oregon Senator was named to membership on the Senate Commerce and the Banking and Currency Committees, and the Special Committee on the Aging.

Mrs. Neuberger graduated from the Oregon College of Education, University of Oregon, and did graduate work at U.C.L.A. She taught English and physical education in the Oregon public schools until her marriage to Mr. Neuberger. Shortly thereafter she was elected to the Oregon Legislature, where she served three terms.

As chairman of the House Education Committee in Oregon, she authored several bills setting up pilot programs for retarded and exceptional children, tax deduction provisions for working mothers, and promotion of public savings through school reorganization. During this time she gained national acclaim for her successful crusade to end the ban on colored margarine.

In 1955 Mrs. Neuberger came to Washington when her husband was elected to the Senate. There she edited a monthly newsletter which went to her husband's constituents. With her photographs of Alaska and the Northwest, she assisted him in the preparation of magazine articles depicting that colorful country.

The Senator's legislative program concerns Federal aid to schools, cancer research, grants for handicapped children, extended social security benefits, housing for lower income families and the aged, consumer protection against fraud and deception, conservation measures, maritime adjustment, and congressional reform. She is the author of the book, Smoke Screen: Tobacco and the Public Welfare, published in 1964, and numerous articles in national magazines on consumer affairs, congressional reform, health and welfare, air pollution control, and natural resource conservation.

Senator Neuberger is a member of the National Board of the United Nations Association. She was a delegate to the NATO Conference in London (1959) and Paris (1960), and has served on the Democratic Party's National Committee on Natural Resources and Conservation.

REPRESENTATIVE FRANCES P. BOLTON (R)

Twenty-second Congressional District, Ohio

Mrs. Frances P. Bolton is the only woman from Ohio ever elected to Congress. Elected in February 1940 to finish the unexpired term of her late husband, Chester C. Bolton, she has been reelected each succeeding term. Since January 3, 1963, Mrs. Bolton has been the ranking Republican member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, having served on that committee for 24 years. She was chairman of the Subcommittee on National and International Movements, which issued the report "Strategy Tactics of World Communism."

Mrs. Bolton became the first woman Member of Congress to head an official congressional mission abroad when she led a subcommittee to the Near East in 1947. As top Republican on the Subcommittee on Africa and the Near East, Mrs. Bolton made a 20,000-mile study tour of Africa in 1955, visiting 24 countries south and east of the Sahara Desert. In March of 1957 she was one of four official delegates named by the President to attend the independence ceremonies of Ghana. Representative Bolton was U.S. delegate to the Eighth General Assembly of the United Nations (1953), the first woman to represent the Congress in that body. She was U.S. delegate to the British-American Parliamentary Conference at Hamilton, Bermuda, 1961, and alternate delegate to the seventh annual session of NATO Parliamentarians' Conference, Paris, November 1961. As a member of the Subcommittee on State Department Organization and Foreign Operations, she participated in hearings on the East-West Center, Hawaii, December 1961. In 1964 she served on the Foreign Affairs Subcommittee of the Platform Committee at the Republican National Convention. She is also a member of the Republican Policy Committee.

Mrs. Bolton has sponsored bills for low-rent housing units and for equal pay for women, and legislation making it unlawful to "black market" children across State lines for adoption. She was author of the act which created the Cadet Nurse Corps, and was instrumental not only in equalizing the pay of nurses with that of male officers of similar rank, but also in changing the status of nurses from relative to full commissioned rank as officers in the armed services. She successfully sponsored legislation to commission men nurses as reserve officers in the armed services, thereby giving proper recognition to an important segment of the nursing profession.

Mrs. Bolton's interest in nursing led to her endowment of the Frances P. Bolton School of Nursing at Western Reserve University in Cleveland. During the First World War she helped establish the Army School of Nursing. In the 84th Congress, she introduced legislation to establish a National Commission of Nursing Services and to authorize the Surgeon General to provide traineeships for graduate nurses.

Educated at the Hathaway-Brown School in Cleveland and Miss Spence's School in New York, Mrs. Bolton has also been awarded 14 honorary degrees--and values most highly the doctor of humanities degree given her by Western Reserve University, as she feels she has more nearly earned that than the others. Mrs. Dwyer was chairman of the assembly's Education Committee and a delegate to the 1955 White House Conference on Education. She has gained wide recognition for her legislative work in the field of education. She is author of New Jersey's equal pay for equal work for women law. Prior to her election to the assembly, Mrs. Dwyer achieved broad legislative experience as secretary and parliamentarian to the assembly majority leader and the speaker. After her election she attended Rutgers Law School to further her knowledge of taxation and law, and to increase her effectiveness as a lawmaker.

Mrs. Dwyer was elected to the 85th Congress, defeating a Democratic incumbent, and has won reelection by progressively larger margins.

In Congress she has continued her interest in education, and has worked for a broad range of legislation designed to lift living standards and enlarge opportunities. She has also been active in the field of Federal-State-local relations, and has advocated the strengthening of local and State governments by encouraging them to meet the real needs of the people more effectively. Among her other legislative interests are: establishment of a Foreign Service Academy, an increase in the earnings limit for social security beneficiaries, improvement of labor-management relations, strengthening of metropolitan mass transportation services and meeting other needs of urban areas, housing for the elderly, civil rights protection, control of dangerous drugs, more effective consumer protection, and the creation of more jobs. She cosponsored legislation establishing the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, of which she is one of three House members.

She has been active in such community endeavors as the PTA and Cub Scouts, the Business and Professional Women's Club, and several charitable organizations. REPRESENTATIVE EDNA F. KELLY (D)
Twelfth Congressional District, New York

Mrs. Edna F. Kelly was elected in 1949 to the 2d session of the 81st Congress and has been reelected to date. She is the first woman elected to Congress from Brooklyn, New York.

In 1942 Mrs. Kelly was appointed associate director, and in 1944 director of research for the Democratic delegation in the New York State Legislature. She held this post until her election to the U.S. House of Representatives. Mrs. Kelly is a member of the executive committee of the Democratic Party of Kings County, New York, and of the executive committee of the New York State Democratic Committee, and is also Democratic National Committeewoman for New York State.

Since 1951 Mrs. Kelly has served as a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives, where she is chairman of its Subcommittee on Europe, whose scope includes all European nations, including Greece and Turkey, the Commonwealth nations, territories and protectorates of the European nations, and Russia and the captive nations. In addition, Mrs. Kelly is ranking majority member of the Subcommittee on State Department Organization and Foreign Operations, which has jurisdiction over the entire operation of the State Department, embassy and consular buildings abroad, and the Foreign Service. Mrs. Kelly is chairman of the United States-Canada Interparliamentary Group.

In 1955 Mrs. Kelly was chairman of a nine-member Study Mission to Europe, to investigate matters relating to the Department of State and other departments and agencies engaged primarily in the implementation of foreign policy. In 1957 she was chairman of a five-member Study Mission on Policy Toward the Satellite Nations, to obtain firsthand information on issues relating to the European area that comes within the mutual security program. And in 1959 she was chairman of a Special Study Mission to Europe. In 1962 she made a study of the Soviet economic offensive in Western Europe.

The Kelly Amendment to the Mutual Security Act provided for participation by the United States in the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration. Under this provision more than one million European refugees have been resettled. Another amendment she sponsored provides for requirements regarding off-shore procurement of equipment and materials, specifically the adverse effects of such procurement on the economy of the United States with special reference to labor surplus areas. She successfully sponsored an amendment to the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, defining the words "friendly nations" to prevent grants of surplus United States foods to Russia and satellite countries. She was one of the first sponsors of legislation to allow working widows and widowers to deduct specified expenses of child care from taxable income. This provision was incorporated in the 1954 tax law revision. In the 87th Congress, Mrs. Kelly introduced bills providing equal pay for equal work for women, raising the minimum hourly wage, and allowing income tax deductions for higher educational costs incurred by taxpayers on behalf of dependents. The adoption of the Kelly Amendment to the Mutual Security Act of 1958 has brought more than $1 billion of business to the United States. This amendment has not only paid for a large portion of the foreign aid program; also it has been a major factor in helping to stem the outflow of gold from the United States. In addition, more than 40 percent of these moneys was spent in areas of substantial labor surplus.

One bill Mrs. Kelly introduced in the 88th Congress would amend the Immigration and Nationality Act to permit a greater number of immigrants to enter the United States each year. The 88th Congress unanimously approved Mrs. Kelly's resolution that was intended to strengthen the United Nations by placing it on a sound financial basis.

Also enacted in the 88th Congress was a bill she had introduced for many years which amended the social security law to permit a disabled worker to establish the beginning of his disability, for social security protection, as of the date he became disabled, regardless of the date the application is filed.

By appointment of the late President, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, Mrs. Kelly served as a member of the United States delegation to the 18th General Assembly of the United Nations.

REPRESENTATIVE CHARLOTTE T. REID (R)

Fifteenth District, Illinois

Mrs. Charlotte T. Reid of Aurora, Illinois, is serving her second term as Representative in the 89th Congress of the United States. She was first elected in 1962 by more than a 60-percent majority and was reelected in 1964 by a corresponding majority. Mrs. Reid represents the 15th District of Illinois, which consists of Kane, La Salle, Kendall, Grundy, and DeKalb Counties.

Mrs. Reid, after being graduated from East Aurora High School and attending Illinois College, studied voice in Chicago and for 3 years was the featured vocalist on NBC and Don McNeill's Breakfast Club, singing under the name of "Annette King." In 1938 she married an Aurora attorney, Frank R. Reid, Jr., and worked with him in many local political contests and in his successful primary campaign for Congress prior to his death. Mrs. Reid has four children: Mrs. George Lindner (Patricia), Frank, Edward (Tom), and Susan.

Representative Reid has always had a deep interest in civic and charitable organizations, and has served as cochairman of the Aurora area March of Dimes and as president of the Child Welfare Society. She is a member of the Aurora Women's Republican Club and was a member of its board of directors for 4 years. She has been active in many other civic organizations, such as Girl Scouts and PTA groups.

At present Mrs. Reid holds membership in the Aurora Business and Professional Women's Club, Woman's Club of Aurora, Altrusa Club of Aurora, Illinois Federation of Republican Women, and the U.S. Capitol Historical Society. She holds honorary membership in the Teenage Republican Advisory Committee of the Young Republican National Federation, League of Republican Women of the District of Columbia, and Republican Women of Capitol Hill.

Mrs. Reid is a member of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs and three of its Subcommittees: Mines and Mining, Territorial and Insular Affairs (ranking Republican member), and Indian Affairs; and a member of the Public Works Committee and its Flood Control and Watershed Development Subcommittees. She is one of six congressional members of the board of trustees of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. She was the first secretary of the Republican 88th Congress Club and is secretary to the Illinois Republican Delegation. Further recognition of her service to the Republican Party and in the Congress was given when she was selected to be one of two first-term Members of the House of Representatives to speak at the opening session of the 1964 Republican National Convention in San Francisco.

REPRESENTATIVE LEONOR K. SULLIVAN (D)

Third Congressional District, Missouri

Mrs. Leonor K. Sullivan, now serving her seventh term, is the only woman to have served in Congress from the State of Missouri. She is the widow of Representative John Berchmans Sullivan, who was serving his fourth term in the Congress at the time of his death in 1951.

A native of St. Louis, Mrs. Sullivan represents a district located wholly within the borders of that city. She resigned as training executive for a St. Louis business machines corporation when she married the Congressman in 1941, and later served as his administrative assistant. In 1952, after a special election had filled the vacancy in the 82d Congress caused by her husband's death, Mrs. Sullivan decided to run for his former seat and won election to the 83d Congress. She was subsequently reelected to the 84th, 85th, 86th, 87th, 88th, and 89th Congresses.

Known throughout her career in Congress for her strong interest in consumer issues, Mrs. Sullivan is a senior member of the House Committee on Banking and Currency and chairman of its Subcommittee on Consumer Affairs, with primary legislative responsibility for the "truth in lending" bill which she introduced, and for other consumer issues within the committee's jurisdiction. As a member of the Subcommittee on Housing, she has played a leading role in the preparation of all housing bills passed by the House since 1955--sponsoring improvements particularly in housing for the elderly and chronically ill. She also participated in drafting, and cosponsored, a series of major measures to bolster national economic conditions, including the Area Redevelopment Act, the Small Business Investment Act, the Export Credit Insurance Act, the Mass Transit Act, and the Community Facilities Act. A ranking member also of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, Mrs. Sullivan has served as chairman of its Subcommittee on the Panama Canal since 1957, directing numerous studies into the operational problems and activities of the Panama Canal Company.

Besides her own committee responsibilities, Mrs. Sullivan has actively participated on legislation of consumer interest before other committees, and was instrumental in the passage of the Poultry Products Inspection Act of 1957, establishing for the first time compulsory Federal inspection of poultry in interstate commerce; a series of annual increases in the appropriations for the Food and Drug Administration (Health, Education, and Welfare Department) and of the Meat and Poultry Inspection Divisions (Agriculture Department); the Food Additives Act of 1958, requiring pretesting for safety of all chemical additives used in or on foodstuffs; the anticancer provision--dealing with artificial coloring used in foods, drugs, and cosmetics--of the Color Additives Act of 1960; the Hazardous Substances Labeling Act of 1961; and the farreaching Drug Control Act of 1962, including the major provisions relating to prescription drugs first proposed by her 18 months earlier as part of an omnibus bill to rewrite the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act of 1938. Except for the prescription drug provisions already enacted, she has reintroduced her omnibus bill, H.R. 1235, calling for pretesting for safety of all ingredients in cosmetics; premarketing clearance of all health devices; tighter controls over "pep" pills and barbiturates; a ban on flavored aspirin; stronger factory inspection standards for all products subject to the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; stricter labeling requirements to prevent deceptive and misleading packaging; and many other consumer protections. Separate bills deal with tire safety and industrial hazards.

Congresswoman Sullivan was the author of the food stamp law enacted in 1959 for the distribution of surplus agricultural commodities to needy Americans through regular grocery stores. A modified food stamp plan was instituted by the late President Kennedy. This led to her introduction in the 88th Congress of an administration food stamp bill which was passed by Congress and signed into law on August 31, 1964.

In 1957 Mrs. Sullivan drafted and introduced for the first time the exceptional children educational assistance bill to encourage experienced teachers to take advanced training in the skills of teaching gifted children or those with physical or emotional handicaps. In subsequent Congresses, parts of this program were enacted to establish fellowship programs for teachers of mentally retarded children and those with speech and hearing defects. The 88th Congress finally broadened the program to include teachers of all categories of handicapped children. Mrs. Sullivan cosponsored the Equal Pay Act of 1963, and introduced bills to provide full social security benefits for women retiring at age 62 and deductibility for income tax purposes of all educational expenses.

Educated in public and private schools in St. Louis, Mrs. Sullivan also attended night classes in vocational psychology at Washington University there.

She is a member of the League of Women Voters and of the Auxiliary of the first American Legion Post established in the United States. In the 87th Congress, and again in the present 89th Congress, she was elected secretary of the Democratic Caucus, and became the first woman member of the House to serve on the Democratic Steering Committee.

In July 1964, Speaker McCormack named her among 5 members from the House to the National Commission on Food Marketing to investigate and report to Congress on all aspects of the food marketing industry from farmer to consumer.
