138 Works Progress Administration Flood Rehabilitation Projects in Maine Are Approved

Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said today that 138 projects for rehabilitation of roads, streets, bridges and other public property damaged by March flood waters in the State of Maine have been approved. The total contributions for this work by the Works Progress Administration amounts to $1,412,277.

Mr. Hopkins pointed out that these projects are for the most urgent types of work. He said other applications are being prepared daily as fast as local officials are able to appraise the extent of damage and submit detailed estimates of the repair work necessary.

Funds for these projects are being provided under the $25,000,000 flood relief authorization covering fourteen States approved by the President on March 23.

By the limitations under which the funds were made available, work can be done only on public property. Repairs to roads and streets constitute the greatest number of projects approved thus far, with bridge replacement and repairs to sewer systems also much in evidence.
