Women WPA Workers Provide Thousands of Garments for Flood Victims.

More than 14,000 garments and more than 2,500 pieces of clothing have been turned over to the Red Cross in Tennessee by WPA sewing rooms in Knoxville and Nashville, it was announced today by Mrs. Ellen S. Woodward, Assistant WPA Administrator in charge of women's and professional projects.

Sewing rooms sponsored by Knoxville have turned over to the Red Cross 1,800 pairs of overalls, 1,800 towels, 1,800 pairs of pajamas, and 2,400 dresses. Sewing rooms in Nashville have contributed 2,611 pieces of bed clothing, 3,626 women's garments, 930 men's garments and 2,105 children's garments. All of this material is for use of the Red Cross in ministering to the needy flood refugees in West Tennessee, Nashville and Clarksville.

One hundred additional women workers on the WPA rolls have been assigned to the emergency hospital set up by the Red Cross at Memphis and 11 women have been assigned to the Red Cross emergency kitchen established at Waverly. Fifty women have been assigned to sorting WPA garments turned over to the Red Cross and all secretaries, stenographers and typists on WPA rolls in West Tennessee have been assigned to listing and assigning refugees to shelters.
