Employable widows who have been dropped from the rolls of the Works Progress Administration and who are not receiving Social Security benefits will go back on their WPA jobs at once under a ruling made today by Administrator Harry L. Hopkins.

The order was issued to assure uninterrupted aid for needy widows who may qualify under provisions of the Social Security Act for those with dependent children but who have not as yet received payment of such benefits.

Administrator Hopkins sent the following telegram to all State Works Progress Administrators:

"Effective immediately, persons otherwise qualified whose employment has been terminated because of eligibility under the Dependent Children benefit provisions of the Social Security Program shall be reemployed immediately except in cases where commitments and payments actually have been made to such persons. Hereafter no person employed on the Works Program shall be terminated because of eligibility for Dependent Children benefits until a formal commitment paper granting such benefits has been executed. In carrying out this order only employable persons shall be either reemployed or retained."
