
WPA Issues Final Bulletin In Series of Drought Studies.

A third and last bulletin of the Works Progress Administration, Division of Social Research, in a series on "Relief and Rehabilitation in the Drought Area," is announced by Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator.

The bulletin describes the trend and scope of the Federal relief programs in Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oklahoma and South Dakota, with a detailed description of the drought conditions and the distress that accompanied them.

The series of three is designed to provide widely varied source material to aid agencies and experts planning remedial measures in the stricken areas of the Great Plains.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics and the Resettlement Administration cooperated with WPA in these studies.
