SALES FINANCE COMPANTES

JANUARY 1953

Retail financing-Purchases of retail automotive paper by sales finance companies in January decreased III per cent from the volume of the preceding month, reflecting declines in each type of paper. Financing of new and used passenger cars declined 15 per cent and 9 per cent, respectively, while purchases of new commercial car paper and used commercial car paper declined 9 per cent and 4 per cent, respectively. Despite the decrease in paper acquired, outstanding balances of retail automotive paper continued to increase. Balances at the end of January were 2 per cent above the level of December and approximately 30 per cent above January of last year.

Other retail instalment paper acquired by sales finance companies during January decreased 25 per cent from the preceding month's volume, also reflecting declines in each component. Furniture and television paper decreased 29 per cent, household appliance paper 22 per cent, and repair and modernization paper 25 per cent. Outstanding balances of other retail instalment paper, however, continued to increase. Balances outstanding on January 31 were 1 per cent above the preceding month-end and approximately 36 per cent above the corresponding date of last year.
