BANK DEBITS

Below is given the Federal Reserve Board's weekly statement of debits to individual account, reported through the Federal Reserve banks by over 150 of the country's more important clearing houses. Transactions cover the weekly periods ending Wednesday, January 7, 1920, December 31, 1919, and January 8, 1919.

Aggregate debits to individual account for 148 centers show a total of 10.5 billions for the week, as against 9.3 billions for the week before, each week consisting of but five business days. Larger totals were reported for all important centers, except Pittsburgh, Minneapolis and Kansas City. A comparison with figures for the week ending January 8, 1919, shows for the same 148 centers an increase in debits to individual account of about 1.5 billions, or about 17 per cent. The figures for the most recent week are larger than for the corresponding week a year ago for nearly all the important centers.

The statement closes with a recapitulation giving comparative figures by reserve districts for 148 centers reporting complete data for the two most recent weeks and the week ending January 8, 1919.
