BANK DEBITS

Volume of business, as measured by debits to individual accounts reported to the Federal Reserve Board for banks in 153 important clearing house centers, shows an increase from $6,997,000,000 for the week ending June 1 to $7,837,000,000 for the week ending June 8. In view of the fact that the previous week contained only five business days, a fairer comparison is on the basis of average daily volume of debits. On this basis the most recent week shows a volume of $1,306,000,000, compared with $1,399,000,000 the week before - a decrease of 7 per cent. Smaller figures for the week are shown for all the important centers, with the exception of New Orleans, where May 30 is not observed as a holiday.

As compared with the corresponding week in 1920, debits for the week ending June 8 are smaller by $1,071,000,000, or about 12 per cent, this lag behind last year's figures being much smaller than for the preceding two weeks. Debits for the week under review were smaller than for the corresponding week of last year in all leading centers, with the exception of Los Angeles.
