Federal Reserve Board,
July 29, 1922.

BANK DEBITS.

Volume of business for the week ending July 26 was $8,228,000,000, marking a decrease of $427,000,000, or about 5 per cent, from the total of $8,655,000,000 reported for the preceding week. This decline is in accordance with the customary recession after the mid-month week. All the leading centers reported smaller figures, except Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Milwaukee, the most pronounced decline, amounting to $38,000,000, or 22 per cent, being reported for Philadelphia.

As compared with the week ending July 27, 1921, the volume of business for the week under review shows an increase of $1,343,000,000, or about 19 per cent, larger figures being shown for all the leading centers, except Baltimore, Kansas City and San Francisco. The increase for New York City alone amounted to $972,000,000 or nearly three-fourths of the total increase for all reporting centers.

The volume of business is measured by debits to individual accounts reported to the Federal Reserve Board for banks in leading centers. The total number of centers reporting this week is 244, of which 163 are included in the summary by Federal reserve districts.
