<sup>1/</sup> Neither mortgage nor bond yields take into account servicing costs which are much higher for mortgages than bonds. Generally, bonds pay interest semi-annually; mortgages, monthly. Mortgage yields, if computed as equivalent to a semi-annual interest investment, would be slightly higher than given in the table.

<sup>2</sup> Based on Fila-field-office opinions about average hid prices in the private secondary market for new-home mortigages for immediate delivery. Separate data available for 25-year and—begining July 1051—30-year mortigages with minimum downpayments, "seighted by probable volume of transactions. Niells computed by Fila, assuming prepayment period of 12 years for 25-year mortigages and 15 years for 30-year mortigages. Over the period for which they can be compared, the movement of the two mortigage yield series has been similar. Dashed lines indicate periods of adjustment to changes in contractual interest rates.

<sup>3/</sup> Based on FEA field office opinion on typical interest rates (rounded) on conventional first mortgages prevailing in the market areas of insuring office cities. Beginning with April 1960, rate relates only to nem-home mortgages; prior to that date, rate related to both new as well as existing-home mortgages.
Bashed line indicates this change in the series.
